SPECIAL NOTICES.

CHANGE OF SEASON AND CARE OF HEALTH.
Whatever be the physiological reason, that part of the year in which Winter merges into Spring has always been marked by more or less of indisposition to the healthy and actual sickness to the infirm, the remedical agents usually employed before the discovery of the fluid which will be presently noticed, were purgatives—a class of medicines certainly possessing much efficacy. But all the cathartic substanstances which had come into general use had this drawback, that while they removed present ailment by stimulating the stomach and bowels to unusual effort, they reproduce it by the debility which that effort occasioned. It was a great and unfulfilled desideratum, to have a purgative strong enough to cleanse those organs, yet mild enough not to fatigue them. What Art failed to effect, Nature triumphantly achieved by the production of the Plantagenet Water. People no longer go to apothecaries, shops; they resort to the Plantagenet Water Depot. There is no case in which it does ill, and scarcely any in which it fails to do good. It is alike beneficial to male and females—to the old, the adult and the immature.—It is equally conducive to health and appearance, those who take it feel well and look well. It protects the life of the robust and temperate, and defers the death of the sickly and dissipated. I recommend it to all my patients.

We have much pleasure in recommending the use of DUBARRY'S REVALENTA ARABICA FOOD as an exceedingly valuable and nutritious diet for Infants, Children, and Invalids. Several amongst our own Customers who have made use of it, have personally testified to its great value, in cases where other light articles of food as Sago, Arrow Root, Corn Starch, &c., had been rejected from, or found to disagree with the stomach; and have urged upon us the propriety of giving it our strongest recommendation.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT—VILLAINY AT WORK.—As a precaution against being poisoned by vile counterfeits of these renowned preparations, see that on every leaf of the books of directions enclosing the boxes and pots, the words, "Holloway, New York and London," are impressed in the form of a water-mark, distinguishable when the paper is held up to the light. The aggregate of cures of indigestion, bowel complaint, fever and ague, remittant fever, eruptions, ulcers, contusions, rheumatism, etc., achieved by these preparations during 1857, exceeds by one hundred per cent. that of any former year. The demand in this country has increased enormously during the same period.

THE HYPERIAN FLUID.
(From the Boston Daily Evening Transcript.)
We have at last an article for the hair, not only innocuous and salutary—a fluid which cools the fevered head, imparts a gloss to the hair, and is said to prevent its loss. We have used the preparation of William Bogle, 228 Washing street, called the Hyperion Fluid, and find it the best article ever applied for the first two purposes above designated. As a preservative against the falling off of the hair, we have the good fortune not to need its application, but we are well assured of its efficacy by those who have tested it. It is a purely vegetable composition, which can never rank among the wide world's classification of humbugs. We sincerely believe it to be all that is said of it, and of course a safe application.

INFLAMATORY RHEUMATISM.
MESSRS, PERRY DAVIS & SON—Gents.—I am at a loss to express with words the satisfaction it gives me to inform you of the benefit I have received from the use of your Pain Killer. About one year since, I was attacked with the Inflamatory rheumatism, being unable to walk for eight weeks; besides the confinement to the house, the pain I experienced no tongue can describe. But to return to the object of this letter. On the 27th of December last I had a more severe attack than before, I immediately commenced using the Pain Killer made by you, which to my surprise immediately relieved me of pain, and saved me the necessity of being sonfined to my bed for one day. It is now eleven days since the attack, and the inflamation has entirely subsided. My limbs, which were tremendously swollen, have assumed their natural shape. In short I am entirely well; and feel bound, by the common sympathies of my nature for those who may be thus afflicted, to make the above statement, that all may resort to the Pain Killer, that time, expense, and a world of suffering may be prevented.

THE NEWS.—The "Persia's" Mail came into town last evening. The papers received by this arrival merely add details of small importance to the great leading facts announced by telegraph. These are that the last attempt at English mediation had been accepted by Austria, upon the very eve of the commencement of hostilities by her; but had been rejected by France. The cause of Austria's sudden recalcitration is supposed to have been the discovery of what had up to that time been kept secret, the Russo-Gallic alliance. The precipitancy of Austria was much blamed in England; but at the time the news left, the influence of the publication of the Russian alliance had not begun to be manifested. It is probable that this may create a certain revulsion of feeling towards Austria, though, after the first panic which caused so much mischief on the Stock Exchange, there seems to have grown up a conviction that more importance than really belonged to it had been at first attached to this circumstance. Three politicians had addressed the public on the War—Lord Derby at the Mansion House Dinner of the Lord Mayor, and Lord John Russel and Mr. Bright at the Hustings. All three declared their opinions in favor of neutrality; but each with shades—perhaps important shades—of difference. Mr. Bright was for absolute neutrality; Lord John Russel thought t3at the event of the invasion of Belgium, and that only, would, by her treaty obligations, call on England to take the field; and Lord Derby held that this would be necessary if Austria was attacked in Germany. Of the advance of the Austrians across the Ticino there seems no doubt.

THE POSITION OF ENGLAND IN THE COMING WAR.—Count Walewski is reported to have said recently, at one of the meetings between himself and Lord Cowley, that he did not believe that the people of England would give their sanction to the views which the British Ambassador was urging. There seems to have been an allusion to the pending elections in England, and a statement of the expectation entertained by the French Government, that the success of the opposition party in England would throw the Government into the hands of men who would be more favourable to the plans of France. How far Lord Derby's Government may have proceeded in encouraging Austria in her resistance to the demands made upon her, will probably not be known for some time. But there seems to be a general impression in England in accord with the expression of Walewski, that the tendencies of the Derby Cabinet, and what the Times calls the "gentle sympathies" of the Court of Victoria, have been much more towards the Austrian than to the French side in the dispute. On the other hand the mass of popular opinion in England, with every desire for neutrality, seems to be inclined to Louis Napoleon rather than to his more legitimate Imperial rival. If the personal character of the French Emperor, and the remembrance of the example of his uncle and model did not give rise to a belief in ulterior purposes, and in the extension of his ambitious projects with every new success till he shall, if fortune favour him, become the dictator of Europe, he would have the wish of the large majority of the people of the British Isle for an early and complete victory in his favour. It is not unlikely indeed that it will be held in England that it has been the mismanagement of the British ministry which has isolated her from a movement in which her people would feel a cordial sympathy, and which has thus forced Louis Napoleon upon the Russian alliance, which was necessary for him while in doubt of the course which England might take. Lord John Russel, in his election speech, gave a cautious but not indistinct utterance to this view of the position of England in relation to the other European powers; and Lord Derby at the Mansion House Dinner, probably with the double view of placing his ministry fair with the popular feeling during the crisis of the election, and of promulgating his ideas on foreign policy to the world at large, pronounced a very plain censure on the precipitancy of Austria and to that extent gave support to France. But it cannot be concealed that this comes late in the day, if the Derby ministry have indeed acted as it appears to be generally believed in England that they have done. The effect of the French and Russian alliance seems at present to secure success for the work they have undertaken. England cannot seek to be admitted to participate at the present stage of affairs without a suspicion that she has been alarmed by the game being played by others. On the other hand should she stand entirely aloof she will be cut off from any participation in the councils of the allies.—She will, too, have to fear that the same combination now directed against Austria may hereafter be turned against her, perhaps with Austria as an accessory. On the whole, there is great reason to apprehend that the course of events may force England and Prussia into the quarrel as the allies of Austria, with whose character and cause the British people certainly have no sympathy. No one can judge of the real designs of the parties to the present dispute, nor can they themselves tell what may be their own designs in the course of a few months, so quickly do jealousies creep into such alliances and break them up. No one can tell, therefore, whether any action of the British Government would have averted the threatening danger. But it would seem, in the actual aspect of affairs, that a more generous course towards those nations, who are oppressed by Austrian rule, would have been, in the early stage of the business, a more politic course. With England taking the part that her constitutional position warranted, Austria might, perhaps, have been—though it is hard to believe she would have been—induced to yield. After all, however, speculations can have little sound foundation, and what is most conspicuous is the fact of great personal ambitions being in play, which would hardly have submitted to be thwarted by the wisest or most honest efforts of those uninfluenced by such passions. All that can be hoped for is that in some manner, unseen at present, good may come out of evil. The German Governments have all shamefully betrayed the hopes of their subjects, and it may be that this second example of the lesson given them by the first Napoleon, will at last teach them the necessity of not separating themselves from the nations which they rule.

LOANS TO THE FIGHTING POWERS—EUROPE ON THE BRINK OF BANKRUPTCY.—From the telegraphic news from Europe by way of Quebec, published in Monday's Herald, it appears that Louis Napoleon asks for a loan of 500,000,000f. ($100,000,000) to carry on the campaign in Italy, in which he is to take the command in person. The loan lately put in the market by Russia, now the ally of Napoleon, is $60,000,000. Besides these there are in the market a loan for Austria of $30,000,000, which hitherto she has been unable to sell, but has seized instead the metallic currency of the Austrian banks; a loan for Sardinia of $25,000,000, which she has succeeded in obtaining; a loan for Prussia of $45,000,000, and a loan for England in behalf of India for $30,000,000.

The total amount of new loans in the market is $290,000,000, besides over $10,000,000,000 already due by these governments. The effect of the coming war will be to make them all bankrupt. The annual interest on the debt of England alone is $120,000,000. The annual expense of her army and navy is $157,500,000. Her whole annual expense is $340,000,000. Russia owes $980,000,000, and the annual expense of her army and navy is $73,500,000. France is in a similar predicament. They will not be able to pay the interest, and a crash will take place that will shake all Europe.

CHRIST'S CHURCH CATHEDRAL.—Among the beautiful structures in our City to which we would direct attention, is the new Christ's Church Cathedral now in course of erection. This beautiful edifice is rapidly progressing towards that state in which it may be opened for Divine Service. This very desirable object, we are happy to say, will in all probability be accomplished in the course of the month of October next. It must afford the Congregation and other members of the Church in the Diocese, great satisfaction to know, as we have authority to state, that although no scale of Pew rents has been positively adopted in all its details, yet the general propositions is well understood to be that the highest rent will not exceed that which was paid in the late Cathedral—namely, fifty dollars, and that the lowest will not exceed twelve dollars–

With regard to the disposal of the Pews it is proposed to offer them for sale, at auction, at upset prices, varying from fifteen to fifty pounds, with a fixed rent on each. Of the Pews which may remain unsold, it is proposed to offer a moderate upset rental, on each, to competition at auction, to be adjudged to the highest bidder.

Although there will be free sittings, at all the services, for some 200 people, it is nevertheless oontemplated to make the seats all free at the evening or night service—following the example, in this respect; of St. Paul's Cathedral in London, Westminster Abbey and many Provincial rches in England. This excellent measure, wherever tried, has been attended with very happy consequences, and we do not doubt would be highly beneficial in this City.—Communicated.

POLICE COURT.—Yesterday morning, before Mr. Coursol, J. P., a man, named Patrick Gowan, was charged by Sergeant Wilson, Water Police, for having been drunk and fighting in the vicinity of the wharf.—Mr. Roy, who appeared for the defendant, stated that he pleaded "Guilty."—The Court said that the prisoner might have had his trial brought to a close three days ago; and that by his refusal he had cost the country five dollars more than what might have been necessary.—He was fined £2 10s. including costs, with the alternative of a month's imprisonment.—A man of respectable exterior, named Felix Clarke, was accused of having assaulted a baliff while in the execution of his duty.—The defendant, in palliation, pleaded that he was ignorant of the laws of this country, having been only a short time from Ireland.—The Court, in view of certain extenuating circumstances, fined the defendant only in the sum of 40s., including costs. (Mr. Schiller, Deputy Clerk of the Crown, appeared for the prosecution.)—A man named Pierre Prevost, who appeared in the witness box, with his head bound up, and with such other indications as showed he had not altogether escaped the consequences of some encounter, came forward to charge Pierre La belle and Joseph Labelle, father and son, tavern keepers, with an assault. The complainant said he had been drinking, the previous day, in the tavern of the defendants, when, without any provocation, the younger of them kicked him in the abdomen and then broke a bottle over his head. After the defence had been heard, the Labelles entered a cross-case against Prevost. Both cases were dismissed with costs. Mr. Price appeared for Prevost. Mr. Duhamel for Labelle.

THE GREAT WESTERN INSURANCE COMPANY.—We would invite the attention of our readers to the announcement, which we publish this morning, of the additional powers conferred upon the Local Board and General Agent of this Company, by the parent institution in Philadelphia—powers which are calculated greatly to facilitate the transactions of business with the Company in Canada.

REPORT OF THE CHIEF EMIGRANT AGENT.—We have had on our table for some days the Report of the Chief Emigrant Agent, [Mr. Buchanan] accompanied by those of his assistants, for 1858. The following is a comparative statement of immigration to this country, taken from this Report:—

The causes of the decline in 1858, and other matters in this Report, we purpose to notice hereafter. In the meantime, we may mention that Mr. Cloister [the Norwegian assistant] states that "the amount of money brought by he 2,656 Norwegian emigrants in bills of exehange and Norwegian specie was $57,104; and that the 26,604 Norwegians who have come since 1850 have brought $873,830; or $32,56 per head."

PRESENTATION.—The proceedings connected with the presentation of a testimonial to F. H. Trevithick, Esq., on the occasion of his leaving the Grand Trunk, are unavoidably held over, owing to the pressure on our columns.

PERSONAL.—Sir George Simpson, Governor of the Hudson's Bay Territory, left Lachine for Red River on his regular annual visit on Monday morning. He is accompanied by Earl Fortescue, who has been for some time on a visit to this country.

PROMOTION IN THE ARMY.—The Military Gazette, published in the Times of the 23d ult., contains a copy of a brevet, by which Col. Geo. Bell, C. B., lately employed as Inspecting Feld Officer of a Recruiting District, has been promoted to be Major-General. Gen. Bell is the father-in-law of our fellow-citizen Edward Maitland, Esq., and is well-known in Canada, having formerly served here with the 1st Royal Regiment. The announcement of his promotion will, we are sure, be received with great satisfaction by many old friends.

WASHINGTON IRVING.—A New York letter says—"Washington Irving" who reached the very ripe age of seventy-six on the third of last month, was in town a day or two ago, quite recovered from his late illness. With careful handling, such as he is now practising towards himself, he looks as though he might score as many years as old Sammy Rogers. There is this difference, however, between the two—Rogers breakfasted; Mr Irving dines.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE YESTERDAY, BY JOHN LEEMING.—The Real Estate Lot at the corner of Wellington and Grey Nun streets, sold for £725, to Hugh Thompson, Esq. This property was uncommuted.

The Lot running through from St. Alexis to St. John streets, the premises lately occupied by John Boyd, sold for £910, to J. H. Joseph, Esq.

The Lot in rear of the old English Cathedral, in Little St. James' street, sold for £360, to Mr. Frechette.

The attention of Contractors and others, is specially invited to the Sale of Engines, which takes place to-day, at the Yard of Jas. Logan, Esquire, Common Street, Benning & Barsalou, Auctioneers.

THE "TIMES" ON THE WAR.

(From the Times of Thursday, April 28.)

The event which we yesterday announced is, perhaps, the most important that has been submitted to the present generation of Englishmen. The two great aggressive Powers of the world are united for common objects. Under the pressure of no mutual danger, compelled by no visible necessity, coerced by no antagonist, the Czar Alexander and the Emperor Napoleon III. have united their fleets and their armies. This alliance is marked by none of the causes which combine honest men for protection, but it has all the peculiarities which attach to an union by which strong men confederate to plunder. The declaration of this event is as startling by its suddenness as it is impressive by its importance. We were in the midst of a somewhat unsuccessful attempt to arrange a normal European difficulty. The public opinion of Europe was pressing upon Austria to adopt some moderation of tone and measures in dealing with her Italian provinces. Sardinia was ready to commit the error, so often repented, of calling in an ambitious ally to help her in a quarrel with a disagreeable neighbour. France was thought to be but too ready to obey the call and seize the opportunity. All Europe, and Russia especially, among the earliest and the most active, was engaged in strenuously urging France to restrain her vehement enthusiasm for Transalpine liberty, and to relinquish her suspected desire for Transalpine provinnes. Austria alone, urged perhaps by that presentiment which sometimes seems to to take possession of the doomed, saw no safety in concession, and no hope of peace in diplomacy. She saw that the only hope of escape was to despair of safety, and she challenged the war which she thought it impossible to avoid. The world cried aloud against her,—none so loud as England and Prussia,—except only France. Perhaps we were right. Prehaps Austria was only improving, with a shorted-sighted cunning, an apparent advantage. Perhaps we were wrong, and that Austria at the moment knew what we know. But, if this be so, her strength was in publicity. She has undergone the condemnation of Europe for the sake of keeping an enemy's most precious secret.

This diplomatic masque was in full performance up to the early morning of yesterday. By daylight of that morning all this acting pageant, had faded away. The probability of this alliance had occurred to many, but its realisation was so sudden that the senseof surprise was almost as great as the sense of danger. However, this danger has come upon us, and we must meet it with as much dignity and examine it as calmly as we may.

We believe to that the provisions of the treaties just concluded between France and Russia—we understand there are two—are of this import:—By the first treaty Russia binds herself, in the event of France being at war with Austria, to assist France by the co-operation of her fleets in the Baltic and the Mediterranean, and, moreover, to place an army of observation of not less than 50,000 man on the Austrian frontier. This is the first treaty, and it is obviously directed immediately against England. France can have nothing to fear from the navy of Austria; if she seeks to strengthen herself at sea, it must be against some first-class naval Power; and what other is there than England? this treaty is an agreament between France and Russia to unite the fleets of the two empires, in order to keep the navy of England in check, while one or both of the contracting parties may be engaged in effecting some object hostile to the interests or the security of Great Britain. It is plain that the parties to this compact do not count upon the neutrality of England, and the existence of this precautionary treaty is in itself a proof that the enterprises which are thus to be protected are such as it would be impossible for England to allow to pass unchallenged. The Russian army of observation is no less significant than the unity of the Imperial navies. This corps will, of course, be employed to excite insurrection among the Hungarian and Sclave subjects of Austria, and it requires no great stretch of imagination to foresee how quickly the flames would rise, and how far they would spread. We cannot tell the character nor measure the scope of the secret understanding which has prompted this offensive alliance. Perhaps the great design may rest upon the Rhine on one side, and may comprehend the Principalities, or even lean upon the Bosphorus on the other. It is hard to believe that so small a matter as an Italian war could have rendered necessary such gigantic precautions against the navy of England, or such menacing demonstrations against the Eastern Provinces of Austria. It may have been foreseen that the intentions of the two allied despots must provoke the resistance of all Germany, and render necessary the blockade of the ports upon the Baltic; and it may have been considered that, however peaceable may be the intentions of England, the contemplated impediments upon her Baltic commerce might render her absolute neutrality scarcely possible. The second treaty seems to have been suggested by some knowledge or suspicion of the intended action of Austria, for it provides that, in case Austria should invade Sardinia, Russia shall declare war against her within fifteen days of her violation of the Piedmontese soil. No union can be closer than that which these treaties create. In the event of Austria invading Sardinia, the two fleets will sail together in the Baltic and in the Mediterranean, and the army of observation will occupy Hungary.

These preparations being made and all things being ready, it was not to be expected that Austria would be allowed to retire from the position in which her precipitate summons to Piedmont has placed her. Nor, on the other hand, would Sardinia herself be permitted to abdicate her dangerous and unprofitable position as the advanced guard of the French army and the first victim of the newly developed enterprise. Recent circumstances would appear to argue that Austria was not thoroughly well-informed about the alliance about to be cemented, or that she had not learned the extent or stringency of its provisions. She seems to have started like one who has trodden on a coiled serpent as she put forth her first step towards Piedmont and found these Treaties in her path. She at once agreed to the ultimate proposal of England, and agreed to delay her declaration of war upon the conditions suggested by Lord Malmesbury. But it was too late. The aggressive Powers saw their advantage, and whatever veilof decent hesitation may be thrown over the proceeding, the Powers who have been tempted to declare themselves will unquestionably persevere. Austria feels she must fight, and she has shown no slackness in accepting the necessity. Punctual to the hour she had named, her columns were in motion, and on Tuesday night 120,000 men crossed the Ticino. The French, too, are advancing both by way of Genoa and of Mount Cenis; and Sardinia, we fear, has already begun to feel some of the slights which a small State always suffers from a great Ally. It is said that the language of the French at Turin is already changed in tone, and that the protectors are not choice in their terms of scorn for the means of defence possessed by the protected. Perhaps Count Cavour may now recollect what happened in Lombardy in 1796, and how the fathers of these Frenchmen treated the people they professed to liberate. The forced contributions from Milan and from Modena, the confiscations at Venice, the storm and sack of Pavia, the shooting of the magistrate of the great cities in cold blood and the slaughter of the peasantry by French dragoons, the spoliation of the masterpieces of art—all these things have their records, and now must force themselves upon the memory of those who might have remembered them at an earlier and more useful season. It is now, in all probability, too late. Austria and Sardinia are alike committed. The foolish birds must fight in order that the backers may make their game. If both were wise they would, even at this moment, draw back and settle their own peace, leaving no pretence to the allied Emperors to convulse Europe and make prize during the confusion. This, however, is scarcely to be hoped for. Austria is marching as if to an assured victory, and Sardinia is not yet quite disabused of the hope of obtaining the jackal's share of the expected prey.

These are strange prospects suddenly revealed, and they offer us no very promising future. Still, we adhere to what we have already said,—that so long as the war is confined to Italy, or to the invasion or preservation of Italian territories, we need take no active part in it. If, however, the tide of aggression should roll nearer home, if France and Russia should attack Austria in Germany,—Russia seeking, per chance, her indemnity in the East of Europe,—or if Prussia should be laid under a contribution of territory, then, indeed, the design of these treaties of offence would become no less than a partition of Europe, and the first principle of self-preservation would compel us to consider whether we can better defend ourselves on the continent of Europe or at our homesteads. These are serious topics; but although in England we are all unanimous in desiring to keep clear, if possible, of these continental complications, we are also profoundly convinced that the existence of a great German Power is essential to our own safety.

ENGLISH MEDIATION ACCEPTED BY AUSTRIA AND REJECTED BY FRANCE.

The Times publishes the following telegram from its Vienna correspondent:—

"Vienna, Wednesday, 27th, 11 a. m.—The British Government has offered its mediation between Austria and France, upon the basis of Lord Cowley's proposals. Austria, having accepted this offer, has postponed the declaration of war for a day or two.

"The French troops are now crowding into Sardinia."

The Times is sorry, however, to add, that France has declined the offer made by the British Government.

The following telegram has been received:—

Dresden, Wednesday, 27th.—The Dresden Journal announces that France has not given her consent to England's last proposal to act as mediator.

COLTON'S ATLAS OF THE WORLD.

Mr. Allan, the Agent for this magnificent work, is now in the city, soliciting subscribers, and will begin a canvas of Montreal, to-day. The excellence of this Atlas is so thoroughly known, that any recommendation from us can be of little use. All who have the means should have in their possession a copy of this work. We extract the following complimentary notices from a work which has been placed in our hand:—

The size of the Atlas is that known as Imperial folio, and contains 110 sheets, on which are exhibited 180 Maps and Plans. The work has been a costly one in its preparation, having required an outlay of not less than Sixty Thousand Dollars.

The Maps are beautifully engraved, and the lettering especially is neat and distinct.

In addition to the Maps, the volume contains sheets of letter-press of descriptive matter that appear to have been compiled with care, and present a very large amount of valuable statistical information condensed into a small compass. It also presents six or eight Maps of the World, showing the prominent features of its physical geography.

As to its accuracy, great care appears to have been taken in obtaining the latest and most correct information as to the Eastern Hemisphere. We have seen no American Atlas that can rival it in this department.

As to the Western Hemisphere, and particu- North America, it is decidedly (in our view) superior to anything yet produced. In the department of the United States it is exeeedingly minute and accurate. No pains have been spared to make it so. All former Maps, personal explorations, a very extensive correspondence, a thorough examination of the original Documents, Maps, and Reports in the offices of the General Government, books of travel, etc., have been resorted to, to make the work what it should be.

The result has been the best Atlas of the United States ever yet published, and one which may be safely resorted to by the geographers of the other hemisphere. There will be found county boundaries and towns in all the States of the Confederacy, post towns, railroads completed, projected, and in progress up to this time, and plans of most of the larger cities and towns.

To this part of the work the Committee would particularly refer with pride, as affording evidence of the progress we are making in geographical science, and of artistic skill which our conntry possesses in map engraving and printing.

From BAYARD TAYLOR, Esq., New York.

J. H. COLTON AND CO.:

GENTLEMEN—After an examination of a number of the maps designed for your "American Atlas" and "Atlas of the World," I take great pleasure in testifying to their remarkable accuracy and the elegance of their execution. In these respects they are equal to any maps I have ever seen, not excepting those published at Berlin and Gotha. I am glad to find that recent geographical discoveries—especially in our own Continent, South America, and Africa—have not been neglected, and that you have corrected many errors which have been carelessly allowed to retain their place in ether collections of maps. Your Atlas, when complete, will be the best of its size in existence; and I regard it as an important contribution to one of the most interesting, yet most neglected of all branches of knowledge.

Truly yours,
BAYARD TAYLOR.

THE MURDER OF THE MAIL CARRIER.

ARMSTRONG SENTENCED TO BE HANGED.

From the assize report of Brantford Courier, we copy the following:

THE QUEEN VS. JOSEPH A. ARMSTRONG.

The prisoner was charged as an accomplice in the murder of the Mail Carrier between Paris and Brantford, and pleaded guilty.—When asked why sentence of death should not be passed upon him, he said "I stand before the Judge and Jury in a ticklish position; my witness is from above; I am not the guilty man; I am not guilty of murder; I pleaded for the man's life; when I was arrested my heart was too full to keep the matter from the public; I was with the parties who committed the murder and knew all about it, I could not rest with the weight upon my soul; I care not what becomes of my body; I may swing upon the gallows or I may be sent to the Penitentiary—but I care about my soul; I have done all I could to help the Government and the public, by telling the truth. The unfortunate man was then sentenced to be hanged on Tuesday, 7th June, the same day as his accomplices, Moore and Over, will suffer the penalty of the law.

The English charge for the Canadian line of steamers is 6d.; while by other lines it is 8d., the additional 2d. being American postage. Persons mailing letters in England frequently neglect to mark them "per Canadian steamer" and the consequence is, if the next mail steamer happen not to be Canadian, the letter is treated as underpaid, and fined according to the English regulation. After the 20th of April, the Canadian line would run weekly, and then in all probability, the same thing will not occur, but parties here should advice their friends to use the precaution of adding the words "Canadian steamer."—Toronto Colonist.

TORONTO TO QUEBEC IN TWENTY-FOUR HOURS.—By an arrangement entered into by between the Grand Trunk Company, the Post Office Department and the proprietors of the Ocean Steamship line, a special train will leave Toronto every Friday morning, after the 13th instant, which will arrive in Quebec in time for baggage to be put on board the steamers before leaving at nine o'clock the following morning—thus making the trip from Toronto to Quebec in about 24 hours.—Leader.

A Steamboat leaves Collingwood for Owen Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, on the arrival of the morning Train from Toronto; returning from Owen Sound on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

DALY AND AL VS. THE PROVINCIAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.—This case came before Chief Justice Bowen and a special jury yesterday, and a verdict for £283 1s. 1d., as loss on stock, was rendered against the Company. Mr. Vannovous for plaintiffs. Messrs. Holt and Irvine for defendants.—Quebec Chronicle.
