

CONCILIATION BY EXHAUSTION—J. Stewart Gunn, one of the two federal mediators in the dispute between the CBC and the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians union, tells a reporter during negotiations in Ottawa early Friday: "You've heard of conciliation by exhaustion. Well, that's about the stage we're at."

TV strike hangs

OTTAWA (CP)—Non-stop talks for almost 12 hours today narrowed the areas of disagreement between the CBC and its strike-threatening technicians union.

At 5:35 a.m. EDT, negotiators reported that talks would resume at noon EDT.

Representatives of the CBC and the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians met at 6 p.m. EDT Thursday in an effort to reach a decision on a wage and contract dispute with the help of Bernard Wilson, assistant deputy labor minister.

A breakdown of the talks would trigger a strike by the 1,850 NABET members employed by the CBC. The union had announced a strike for 24 hours after talks failed.

A strike could cripple radio and television broadcasting across the country.

The night-long session followed a four-hour break in the talks Thursday afternoon. They talked for two hours Thursday after 5½ hours of negotiation Wednesday night.

Mr. Wilson entered the talks Wednesday at the request of both parties after they failed to make headway during day-long sessions.

NABET is seeking a 30-per cent wage increase over two years for its members. A conciliation board report, accepted by the CBC, recommended a 30-month contract calling for an increase of 22½ per cent.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Volunteer Negro peace patrols, wearing armbands provided by police, walked the streets of riot-shaken Hunters Point today in an experiment to prevent a racial truce from erupting into renewed violence.

City police confined their augmented patrols to the community's commercial street.

City officials had the co-operation of federal authorities in their move to eliminate what they call the cause of the riots—Negro unemployment.

THANT TO STAY? UNITED NATIONS (CP)—There was growing optimism at the United Nations today that Secretary-General U Thant will succumb to the expressed wishes of nearly all member countries and accept a second five-year term.

The optimism arose in view of Thant's non-committal reaction to a statement of support from the Security Council Thursday. It was based on the fact he didn't use the occasion to reaffirm his intention to retire.

CHINESE SUICIDES HONG KONG (AP)—A former Hong Kong film and opera star jumped to her death and a Canton editor killed himself with poison because of Red Guard persecution, non-Communist newspapers said today.

The papers said the suicides were reported by Chinese arriving from Canton. Numerous arrivals have reported a wave of suicides sweeping China as a result of the terrorism and destruction by the young Red Guards.

UNDISMAYED, Mr. Hellyer had planned to reduce housekeeping personnel, operations and maintenance costs by some $53,000,000 in the current fiscal year.

Along came Thursday's pay increase for the armed forces—13.8 per cent over two years—and most of this saving went out the window.

For the 1967-68 fiscal year starting next April 1, Mr. Hellyer will have to find $83,300,000 more than if pay and allowances had not been changed. The corollary of all this is

City man dies, friends lost in north lake

LA TUQUE, Que. — (CP) — One Sherbrooke, Que., businessman has drowned and two others are missing and presumed to have drowned during a moose-hunting expedition in northern Quebec, it was learned Thursday night.

Police identified the men as Raoul Martineau, 41, whose body has been recovered; Real Lagrandeur, 34, and Marcel Moreau, 32.

The accident is thought to have occurred Wednesday night as the three were heading toward hunting grounds 175 miles northwest of La Tuque, a pulp and paper town in north-central Quebec.

Quebec Provincial Police said a capsized motor boat used by the men was found by searchers.

The hunting party was made up of five men. Two of the men were separated Sunday night. They were Lucien Gagne and Larry Laberec both from Sherbrooke.

Gagne phoned Sherbrooke yesterday afternoon, saying that "something had gone wrong."

It is presumed that the three lost hunters had started to cross the lake, called Gouin Lake, in a boat.

On Wednesday, the two hunters who had remained behind found the body of Raoul Martineau floating in the water. They body was taken to La Tuque morgue.

The La Tuque detachment of the provincial police said last night that the search was being made difficult because of communication difficulties.

There was also talk of sending frog men and helicopters in to Lake Gouin region.

When the men refused to surrender, a gun battle broke out. Police said the men opened fire with machine-guns and rifles and three men were captured, one severely wounded in the face.

Police originally thought the wounded man was Daoust but said later Daoust had escaped despite being shot.

A police dog was brought in to assist searchers today. Police identified two of the arrested men as Victor Vezeau, 26, and Jean-Charles Martel, 26, both of Montreal, but did not release the name of the wounded man who they said had a police record.

Quebec Provincial Police said Daoust, 24, an escaped convict, slipped through their fingers Thursday following a gun battle in which three men were arrested. Daoust also shot his way out of a jam Aug. 19.

Acting on a tip from an informer, police surrounded Daoust and three of his companions who shared a summer cottage near this town 35 miles northwest of Montreal.

In August, Daoust blasted his way out of a police stake-out at La Tuque, 250 miles north of Montreal.

Following the August escape police were ordered to "shoot to kill" in their attempt to capture Daoust.

Nineteen men and a blonde woman playwright, Maria Christina Verrier, believed to be their leader, surrendered to authorities Thursday night after Father Rodolfo Roel convinced them to do so.

Father Roel, accompanied by the Argentine airliner's captain, went to the sodden racetrack where the nationalists forced the plane to land. There, he spoke at length to the nationalists, who at first wanted to hold out for another 24 hours.

The nationalists, members of the right-wing Condor group, seized the plane to give emphasis to Argentina's demand for control of the islands, administered for more than a 100 years by Britain.

EXPECTED TO LEAVE The 26 passengers, who were on board the aircraft with the 29 nationalists, and three of the six-member crew, were expected to leave here Saturday night on the mail ship Darwin, due to arrive for its monthly visit from Montevideo, Uruguay.

There has been no indication so far what action Britain will take against the "invaders", but Argentine President, Gen. Juan Carlos Onganía, a strict disciplinarian, has threatened them with the full penalties of the law.

While reaffirming Argentina's claim to the islands, known in Buenos Aires as the Malvinas, Onganía said the Condor group will face trial.

The passengers and most of the crew were sheltered in the homes of islanders since the plane was seized on a routine flight from Buenos Aires to Rio Gallegos, 1,750 miles to the south.

MAKE APOLOGY The Argentine government apologized to the British ambassador for attacks on the British Consulate in Rosario City and the ambassador's residence in Buenos Aires.

Several shots were fired at the residence as Prince Philip and the British to pull out of week visit to attend the world the Falklands, the Prince practices jumping championships, the Falklands, the Prince practices polo Thursday and later engage in some official functions and play polo.

Cost of living probed

OTTAWA (CP) — The joint Senate-Commons committee investigating the mounting cost of living has collected a mixed bag of fact and opinion about the problem, but no ready-made solution to it.

Its two star witnesses so far have told it, for instance: —Canada's record over the long term has been one of remarkable stability in prices and in the share of national expenditure going into personal incomes; despite the country's burgeoning growth and transformation into an industrialized economy.

—Led by higher food prices, there has been an upswing in consumer living costs recently for which there is no quick end in sight.

—The government has employed all its present powers of persuasion and influence, through tax, spending and tight-money policies, to deter further increases in prices, but will take additional steps with a supplementary budget later this fall.

—Direct price and wage controls are unconstitutional in peacetime, and would only hide inflation without curing it if they could be used.

Prof. Neufeld suggested a system of wage and price increase guidelines, similar to those which proved initially successful in the U.S. He said they should be drawn up on the basis of an independent and expert study of what increases the Canadian economy could stand without precipitating further inflation.

New Democratic Party members of the committee have urged adoption of price controls imposed by Parliament on basic commodities, such as steel and copper. But Prof. Neufeld said he would prefer guidelines of a more flexible nature, backed up by a quasi-judicial review board.

Price controls, he said, usually have three major defects—they don't get rid of inflation but "just hide it for a time," and can lead to black marketing; they distort true relative price structures; and they are an anachronism in any system of free enterprise.

FAVORS FREE MARKET The Saskatchewan-born Toronto economist, who studied at the London School of Economics, testified strongly in favor of economic theories of the free market economy. He preferred a flexible foreign exchange rate for the Canadian dollar, and said housewives' boycotts of consumer goods are futile.

"I can't see boycotts serving any useful purpose," he said. "They can't possibly produce any effect except in encouraging more discussion about prices, which is all to the good."

OTTAWA (CP) — A British delegate struck back sharply Thursday after suggestions at the Commonwealth parliamentary conference that Britain is following a new policy of appeasement on Rhodesia.

"I wonder what experience with war some people have had who advise us to go into war in the modern connotation?" asked Labor MP Charles Pannell, Britain's minister of public works until April.

A few minutes earlier Shri Hanumanthaya of India had linked the Rhodesian case with the failure to halt Mussolini's invasion of Ethiopia and Hitler's invasion of Czechoslovakia.

He said he had "no hesitation in joining in the majority opinion which is that some sort of force must be used to ensure true democracy in Rhodesia."

Argentine 'invaders' give up; apologies for princely shoot up

PORT STANLEY, Falkland Islands (Reuters) — Twenty Argentine nationalists who seized an airliner in an "invasion" of the Falkland Islands Wednesday, were under guard today in a Roman Catholic Church after heeding the advice of the local priest to surrender.

The wounded man was taken to hospital in St. Jerome where his condition was described as satisfactory.

"Daoust got it worse than I did," he was quoted as telling police.

Police discovered a quantity of machine-guns, rifles, revolvers, masks, ammunition and an undisclosed amount of money in the cottage.

In August, Daoust blasted his way out of a police stake-out at La Tuque, 250 miles north of Montreal.

Following the August escape police were ordered to "shoot to kill" in their attempt to capture Daoust.

'Most wanted' Daoust still is LACHUTE, Que. (CP)—Andre Daoust, Quebec's most wanted man who has vowed never to be taken alive, has slipped through a police dragnet again.

ANNOUNCES FORCES PAY RAISE — Defence Minister Hellyer announces pay increases for the armed forces during press conference at Ottawa yesterday. Servicemen will receive a 9.8 per cent increase effective Oct. 1 this year and another four per cent on that date next year.

(CP Wirephoto)

Forces' raise bombs Hellyer thrift

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Hellyer's attempts to bring down housekeeping costs of the armed forces keep getting frustrated.

In the last fiscal year, Mr. Hellyer had cut these costs by a fairly healthy amount until a sudden need arose to pay re-engagement bonuses to encourage trained men to stay in the services. This cost $27,500,000 in the fiscal year which ended March 31, 1966.

Undismayed, Mr. Hellyer had planned to reduce housekeeping personnel, operations and maintenance costs by some $53,000,000 in the current fiscal year.

Along came Thursday's pay increase for the armed forces—13.8 per cent over two years—and most of this saving went out the window.

For the 1967-68 fiscal year starting next April 1, Mr. Hellyer will have to find $83,300,000 more than if pay and allowances had not been changed. The corollary of all this is what is already planned. He didn't elaborate, but this was taken to mean the government won't allow an increase apart from the two per cent permitted annually to cover the defence department's highest cost of living.

Only 15 per cent of last year's defence budget went for new weapons and equipment. The intended proportion this year is 17 per cent. Mr. Hellyer said there will be no postponement or reduction in current weapons programs.

Mr. Hellyer's companion objective—more funds for weapons and equipment—is getting dimmer.

With the pay increase, 80 per cent of this year's $1,572,000,000 defence budget goes on house-keeping. This leaves well under 20 per cent for weapons, because there are other items such as NATO mutual aid and research and development.

Mr. Hellyer said Thursday there will be no increase in the 1967-68 defence budget beyond

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hope's first comedy special of the season Wednesday night seemed to be more a demonstration of show-packing than an exercise in humor.

The NBC hour got off to a star-studded start even if the weak jokes just laid there. Hope's guests were 15 of the 35 actresses who have been his leading ladies during his nearly 30 years in Hollywood. It took considerable ingenuity to give each one her brief moment in the spotlight.

This was accomplished with a dream sequence in which Hope was able to dance and sing a song with Marilyn Maxwell, Rhonda Fleming and Arlene Dahl. Next came a comedy sequence that took care of Virginia Mayo, Janis Paige and Joan Collins. Finally, with nine still to get on, a sketch formal was introduced.

This had Hope planning a musical version of Gone with the Wind, and announcing that his "favorite leading lady" would play Scarlett O'Hara. All nine girls rushed to grab the part, among them Lucille Ball on a chauffeur-driven bicycle. Dorothy Lamour led by an Afghan hound and Signe Hasso in a vinyl trenchcoat looking every inch a spy.

It wasn't a very funny show but you can't expect too many jokes when there are so many celebrities around.

Charged in 'Cliff holdup' Decides on trial by judge

A Bedford man, charged in connection with a holdup at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in Ayer's Cliff Nov. 2, 1962, will be tried by a judge alone.

Originally, Antoine Couture had chosen a jury trial at the next term of the St. Francis Assizes. Yesterday, he changed his total.

A total of $3,974 was taken in the holdup. Sessions Judge Benoit Turmel yesterday heard evidence that was to serve as an alibi for Couture.

The first witness to testify on the whereabouts of Couture on November 5, 1962, was Georges Bourdon, a bookkeeper. According to Bourdon, Couture was in the employ of the Eastern Rebuilders Company at the time of the alleged theft.

TIME CARD

November 5, 1962 Couture's time card was punched at 6:55 a.m. 12:01 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Asked by the Crown whether this time card was the 1962 card Bourdon replied that to be a 100 per cent certain it would be necessary to check through the cards of the years preceding 1962 and following that year.

Bourdon admitted that the president of the firm, Gordon Terrill, had spoken to him about the fact that two employees were punching the time cards of others who arrived late.

The president had said that if the matter was to come up again the two employees would be asked to leave the company.

Asked if the president had stated the names of the two employees, Bourdon said they were Werner Kyling and Antoine Couture.

Mrs. Couture, Karl Kyling's sister, described how her husband was dressed on the fifth of November four years ago. Asked what she wore at the time, she could not remember.

Mrs. Couture stated that her husband never goes out at night, and always comes home for supper at 8 p.m. He leaves in the morning and comes back in the evening. However, later in her testimony she stated that her husband came home for lunch.

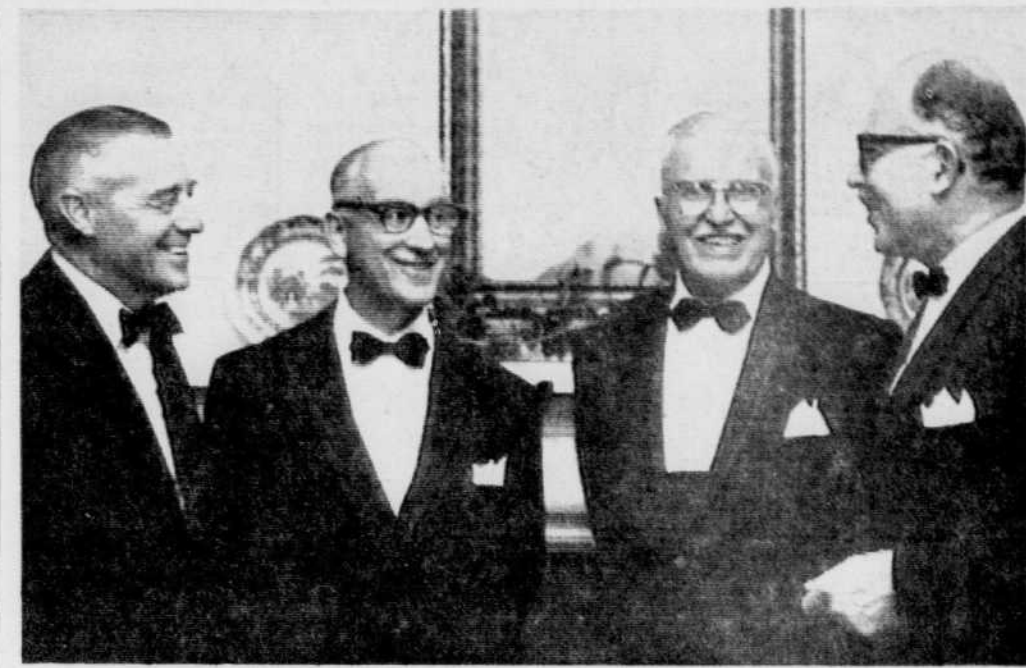

On November 5, 1962 she said her husband got up to do the chores and milk the cows. She made breakfast that day just like every other day and he went off to work alone.

During the day Mrs. Couture did not see anyone at the farm. She did not see a stolen car hidden away; and did not see any masks and Halloween costumes.

She testified that she had met her brother Karl on several occasions in company of police officers.

She highlighted this testimony by stating that QPP officer Gilles Nadeau and Karl Kyling had come to her and Karl had suggested to her to become a stool pigeon.

When she spoke to Karl and asked him why he was willing to help the police Karl allegedly replied that he was sick of it all and would tell everything to the police—"even if his whole family went to jail."

SENATOR HONORED — A reception and banquet was held at the St. George's Club last night to honor the newly-

Urges Canada start developing own communications satellite

Senator Paul Desruisseaux said last night Canada should begin development of its own space communications satellite as soon as possible if it is to keep pace with modern developments in the communications field.

The newly-appointed Senator for the District of Wellington told a St. George's Club gathering in honor of his appointment, that probably within ten years, television transmission will go directly from satellites to receiving sets in the home.

"And," he said, "space is not as wide open as you might think."

He pointed out that the position of communications satellites is of prime importance, and Canada should put in its claim for a share of useable space as soon as possible.

Senator Desruisseaux, chairman of the Board of La Tribune, also told the gathering that while he thought the Canadian constitution could and should be revised, it could only be done when it is possible for all parts of Canada to sit down together and discuss the changes in an atmosphere of understanding and fair play.

He called for the development of a Canadian patriotism that is not provincial and parochial in its application.

"Canada," he said, "is the larger heritage and transcends all others."

Senator Desruisseaux said that while the last senator for the District of Wellington had been English-speaking—he was referring to the late Senator C. B. Howard—it was his intention to represent the points of view of all members of the community, regardless of ethnic origin or mother tongue.

"In me," he said, "the English-speaking residents of this area have a friend."

The senator reiterated remarks he made at the Sherbrooke Social Club the previous evening about the sale of interests in the La Tribune enterprise.

Senator Desruisseaux was introduced by Lt.-Col. A. A. Munster and thanked by Dr. Ogden Glass. Also seated at the banquet table was Brig. John Gautier.

Thieves ransack 4 apartments

Robberies occurred at 600 Jacques Cartier Boulevard North on Wednesday sometime between 1:30 p.m. and 5:00 p.m.

According to police, the thieves forced the front door of the building and entered one apartment where they stole a few dollars.

However, tenants seem to view the incident with a little more seriousness than do the police.

According to one tenant, four apartments were broken into.

A television set and some bed linen were stolen from one apartment, some clothing from another, and money from the other two.

The thieves reportedly opened the doors to the apartment by forcing something between the door jam and the lock.

The thieves did no damage to the apartments, although evidently they made a thorough search, turning out bureau drawers.

Police are still investigating the incident.

Young cyclist is killed

BLACK LAKE — (Staff)—A young boy was killed yesterday when he was struck by a car, while he was riding his bicycle, on Route 49 near Black Lake.

The victim is Andre Hemont, 5, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Hemont, of South Ireland.

The accident happened yesterday at about 10 a.m. when young Andre was on the way to the store for his mother. While he was riding along Route 49 near the home of Edouard Couture, he was struck by a car driven by Guy Choquette of Sherbrooke, owner of the firm Belmont Auto Leasing of Weston, Ontario.

The event was the annual banquet of the Quebec Provincial Plowmen's Association.

The minister told the farmers that the security of the Quebec cultivator was one of the main concerns of his program.

"The farmer deserves the same security as a member of any other labor sector," he said. "That is why we are trying to introduce crop insurance and other security measures," he added.

Yvon Belisle of St. Eustache won the Quebec plowing championship for the third time in three years, in the provincial plowing match yesterday afternoon.

The Quebec Provincial Plowmen's Association held their annual competition at the Lennoxville Experimental Farm this year. Mr. Belisle took the Esso Trophy.

A 16-year-old Sherbrooke boy, Kelly Ross, took the junior championship.

Thirty of the best in the province fought for first prizes under a moody sky. Some of those who had won the Sherbrooke Plowman's Match on Wednesday were represented yesterday at the provincial competition.

Tractors lined up and paraded to the field around 11 a.m. after the contestants drew for land.

The match officially began with the firing of a flare by Paul Sylvestre of the experimental farm around 11:30 a.m.

The match was declared officially closed around 4 p.m. when officials made their way to Sherbrooke City Hall for a civic reception.

Mayor Nadeau, and adjutant Paul Gervais and Felix Thibault played host to the officials of the Quebec Provincial Plowmen's Association and their guests.

Then a plowmen's banquet was held at 6 p.m. at the Gertrude Scott Hall in Lennoxville.

The banquet was the introduction to the handing out of prizes to the winners of the competition.

The other winners were: In the senior class: second, Ange-Aime Leduc of St. Cl. who won the Molson Trophy; third, Roland Bouchard of St. Augustin; fourth, Rene Renaud of St. Eustache; B. F. Reche of St. Gregoire; Donald Goodfellow of Richmond; Romeo Renier of St. Cl.; Gerard Letourneau of Massawippi; Robert Winget of Sherbrooke; Keith Rose of Sherbrooke; Bertrand Vachon of Theford Mines; Gerard Lord of Clarenceville; Valere Patoine of Sherbrooke; Andre Guilmette of Stoke Centre; and Rene Malo of St. Marc.

In the Junior section: Second, Rodney Kent of Hatley; Robert McVey of Lennoxville; Peter Rose of Sherbrooke; Robert Johnston of Hatley; Regean Patoine of Sherbrooke; Michel Beaulac of South Durham.

Inter-provincial action urged to improve agricultural scene

Quebec Agricultural Minister Clement Vincent called for greater efficacy and cooperation in his department and stressed that greater collaboration among Canada's provincial agricultural departments to improve the national and provincial agricultural scene, in a speech in Lennoxville last night.

Mr. Vincent, who has served in his present post since June 16 after the Union Nationale took office, told about 200 farmers that crammed into United Church Hall that agriculture is the most important industry in Quebec, and in Canada.

The event was the annual banquet of the Quebec Provincial Plowmen's Association.

The minister told the farmers that the security of the Quebec cultivator was one of the main concerns of his program.

"The farmer deserves the same security as a member of any other labor sector," he said. "That is why we are trying to introduce crop insurance and other security measures," he added.

He pointed out that Quebec was capable of feeding herself and having enough left over to export to other parts of the country and the world. "There is no need for the import of such staple products as butter," he told the assembly.

To achieve higher production, not only on a provincial but also a national level, Mr. Vincent said that greater collaboration between the provinces was necessary.

Mr. Vincent said that this closer cooperation with the other provinces would help to standardize the quality and the price of farm produce on a national basis.

Speaking of his own department, Mr. Vincent said that he would try to bring greater interdependence among the different offices of administration.

A more cohesive unit is needed, he said, to tackle the problems facing Quebec agriculture, and to improve the department's service to the individual farmer.

He told the annual meeting of the Eastern Townships Forestry Association here that the pulp and paper and lumber industry forms the base of the economy, with annual production valued at more than $1,000,000,000.

Forest resources were limited and wasteful practices could no longer be tolerated.

Mr. Gosselin said "major reforms" designed to encourage the re-forestation of privately-owned tracts of land would be introduced and the development of tree farms or nurseries would be promoted.

The exact time of the accident has not been determined.

After spending some time in Quincy, Mass., visiting his niece, Mrs. F. Kelecourse, and Mr. Kelecourse, Mr. Arthur Jordan has returned home.

The cheque seized by the police was for $98.10.

The clerk in the store kept the man occupied by asking him questions until the owner could call the police. The police arrived just at the moment when the man was leaving the store.

Other cheques from the same robbery could appear in the area and police warn merchants and bankers to watch for them

Information led the police to believe that the culprits were headed in the direction of Sherbrooke. Chief Moreau warned merchants and bankers about the cheques, and police were not surprised to apprehend one of the thieves who tried to cash one of the cheques in a store on King Street West.

BROMPTONVILLE WATER RESTORED AFTER CHECKS

BROMPTONVILLE — (Staff)—Water services have been restored here this morning, following a leak Wednesday which occurred in the new pipeline fed by water from Lake Mount Joie.

A second leak occurred Wednesday night. Maurice and Claude, Windsor contractors, tested the pipeline yesterday for other breaks.

To do so the water had to be shut off and the municipality was without water until late last night.

Water coming out of the village taps had first to be boiled before it could be used.

Today all water is pure and ready for use.

Accused has bail cancelled as judge cites a previous default

Sessions Judge Benoit Turmel cancelled the bail of a Sherbrooke man yesterday because the man had skipped bail on an earlier occasion while awaiting charges.

Armand Lacroix pleaded not guilty to a charge of obtaining under false pretenses a sum of $25.30 by means of a cheque.

The case was to be postponed until Monday for hearing and bail was fixed at $500 cash.

Court adjourned but later re-assembled to hear Judge Turmel nullify the bond he had granted two hours earlier.

Rene Morin, of Sherbrooke, will be sentenced October 27 for obtaining $25 by means of false pretenses.

He had pleaded guilty to the charge several weeks ago and had been on parole until yesterday. Judge Turmel put the youth on parole for another month.

Two youths will be sentenced today in Court of Sessions on charges of breaking entering and theft.

Walter Benjamin and Albert Poulin, of Brompton, both pleaded guilty yesterday before Sessions Judge Benoit Turmel. Stolen was a sewing machine, a record player and an electrical saw totalling $300 in value.

Normand Lauzon, of Richmond, was to be sentenced today by sessions Judge Benoit Turmel in connection with impaired driving charges to which he pleaded guilty and in connection with a charge of stealing a car to which he pleaded guilty; although, the owner of the car was seated next to him during the "heft."

Judge Turmel asked Lauzon why he pleaded guilty to the charge. Replied Lauzon, "I stole the car."

The judge suggested sentencing today.

Claude Provencher is to re-appear October 6 for his preliminary hearing on charges of making a false statement to officials.

Provencher at first pleaded guilty and was to appear October 14 for sentencing. His counsel advised him to change his plea to not guilty. Judge Turmel granted the request.

Two youths were fined $50 and were sentenced to one year in jail and two others were given suspended sentences pending the posting of a $200 bond guaranteeing to keep the peace for a year.

The four, Gaetan Lecours, Andre Duhamel, Normand Duhamel and Rejean Duhamel, pleaded guilty to the theft of four bottles of alcohol valued at $100.

Normand explained that he was in possession of the goods but did not steal anything. Rejean said that although he pleaded guilty he was just in the truck which contained the stolen goods.

Judge Turmel is to render sentence October 12 in connection with a charge of selling liquor contrary to the liquor law.

Fernand Robert, of Hotel Wotton, pleaded guilty to illegally selling liquor to a provincial police constable.

Two officers had entered the Robert establishment and each ordered a beer. Then one

Traffic League urged to ask government help for tourism

The Canadian Industrial Traffic League must prompt the federal provincial and municipal governments to help the tourist industry, the president of the Tourist Council of the province of Quebec said last night.

Gerard Delage spoke last night at the sixth annual Canadian Industrial Traffic League, "Carriers Night" held at the Le Baron motor hotel.

Mr. Delage said that the tourist industry is a nine billion dollar world market; it is a never stationary industry; it always changes but one never knows when these changes occur, the guest speaker told 300 guests.

If one wishes to help the tourist industry, do everything possible, he said. "To help your city become more beautiful make it like the city you would like to visit," he suggested.

Tourists should be cared for, spoken kindly to and treated fairly.

"Love the tourists as much as you would your Traffic League," said the speaker.

Part of the tourist industry is food. Tourists need food and want food; it is one of the main reasons they travel, he said. Millions of dollars are spent annually on food.

A basic part of gastronomy is wine. Wine is a sign of hospitality. Whenever a baby is born, a treaty is signed, a ship launched, a wedding ceremony is performed one raises his cup, stein or glass, he said.

Information led the police to believe that the culprits were headed in the direction of Sherbrooke. Chief Moreau warned merchants and bankers about the cheques, and police were not surprised to apprehend one of the thieves who tried to cash one of the cheques in a store on King Street West.

Labor responsibility plea rejected

Canadian labor has been receiving some rather strong advice during the past few days on social responsibility. It comes not from some representative of management, government or even public bodies but from some of the strongest sympathizers of the trade union movement in this country.

But, despite its source, the advice apparently is unpopular among the more actionist elements within the unions concerned. None can criticize NDP MP David Lewis as being a foe to organized labor. In fact most attacks launched against him come from those who label him a fiery radical.

Tail-gating can be a prelude to pearly-gating.

Premier Bennett treads new ground

If the word "wacky" means doing the unusual or taking previously unheard-of actions, Premier W.A.C. Bennett of British Columbia assuredly deserves the nickname which was an inevitable outcome of his initials. Mr. Bennett has never let such things as precedent and conformity inhibit his decisions and actions in any field under the jurisdiction of his provincial government.

Union leaders are giving lip service to the new ruling, maintaining that it is a logical step to meet the effects of expanding automation as it serves to spread out the available work over a greater number of employees. But according to report from Vancouver, the workers in the industries affected are not so enthusiastic as their leaders appear to be.

Thirty eight members of the Sherbrooke High School graduating class of 1956 were awarded certificates and prizes last night at the annual Commencement Exercises held in the High School gymnasium. Knowlton chaos to end Numberless houses on unnamed streets

At long last a much overdue need for the town is about to be filled. Councilors are to be congratulated on taking up the initiative, and taking over what the apparently defunct Chamber of Commerce once attempted, that is, to erect street names throughout the town. But, before this can take place, there are some changes that are needed to avoid the present chaotic state of confusion in the present haphazard arrangement, whereby our streets are supposedly named.

Council has certainly made the first move; a circular letter has been mailed out to all proprietors explaining the situation, and suggesting names, and in some cases changes of names, and at the same time asking for comments and proposals, within the next three weeks. It is to be hoped that the citizens of this town will show enough interest in their municipal affairs to send in an avalanche of suggestions and proposals, as these will be the names that you will have to live with for the next 100 years or so!

Most of the streets in town have names of a sort, named by inhabitants of past years, but these names have never been official, and there have never been erected street name signs to identify these streets. So, the first step is to receive comments and proposals, then to go ahead with the manufacture and erection of clear neat street names. This, coupled with a possibility of numbering houses, will at the very least assist strangers and tourists to find their way around, and locate homes of friends and relatives.

Amazing attitude of Argentinian

No wonder Arturo Illia lost his job as president of Argentina, his government being overthrown by an army coup. Obviously he was totally unfitted for the position because he refused to utilize one of the greatest resources available to a South American politician. He refused to blame the United States for his or his country's misfortune.

"Our relations with Washington were excellent," he is quoted as saying. "True, they gave us only symbolic support. But what could they do? They were under pressure, too. Besides, it was an internal Argentina affair, and we have only ourselves to blame." How can any man expect to remain as head of any self-respecting Latin American country when he insists on placing the blame for economic troubles on his own people and not on somebody far away in Washington?

Other papers say:

Several questions still unanswered

Despite the release of the Spence report on the Gerda Munsinger inquiry, several pertinent questions relating to this sordid and unfortunate affair remain unanswered. It is essential that they should be. The Government has the responsibility to provide the necessary answers, now that Mr. Justice Wishart Spence has made his findings known. Likewise, the Opposition has a duty to press for this information, if Prime Minister Pearson or Justice Minister Lucien Cardin do not come up with it.

Quebec L'Action — Premier Daniel Johnson has said that "if our young people feel it is not possible to live a full life in keeping with their traditional cultural formation, then Canada will be doomed." In effect, if it is only within the geographic interior of his province that the young Quebecer can develop himself, he will instinctively entrench himself in this shelter and will refuse to recognize that his country can be anything other than Quebec. Consequently, he will begin to ask himself: Why permit a foreign culture to develop among us when our own culture is not fully recognized beyond our boundaries? French- and English-speaking people will never speak the same cultural language in Canada; at best they can reach common terms of understanding, an average standard: biculturalism. But we think of biculturalism in the universal sense of the word, fully recognized everywhere in Canada, and not of a selfish and niggardly biculturalism whose application would be limited to one province, to a few isolated areas where the majority are French-speaking.

Two ex-Nazi leaders end 20-year terms, a broken man and an ambitious architect

BERLIN (Reuters)—After 20 years two former Nazi leaders emerge from Spandau prison at midnight tonight — one to live quietly and nurse his broken health, the other to try to re-establish his career as a major German architect.

Only Rudolph Hess, Hitler's top lieutenant until he flew to Scotland in a lone peace mission in 1941, was to remain in the 600-cell prison run by the four wartime Allied powers—Britain, France, the United States and Russia.

Baldur von Schirach, 59, Hitler youth leader who moulded a generation of fanatical loyalty to the Fuehrer's dictates, is a half-blind and shattered man.

But Albert Speer, 61, the Fuehrer's armaments minister and favorite architect, is eager to get on with his profession and put his Nazi past behind him.

Hess, behind bars longer than the other two men, was reported at 72 to be lonely and withdrawn. His lawyer, Albert Seidl, says Hess is suffering from schizophrenia and is unfit to continue his life sentence.

BUILT THE CHANCELLERY Speer designed the now-destroyed monuments of the "thousand year reich"—Hitler's chancellery in Berlin and the reviewing stand for the Nuernberg rallies.

Germans still generally regard him as the father of the autobahns — Germany's advanced system of highways.

In 1944, Speer recognized that the war was lost for Germany and said so to Hitler's face.

Von Schirach was expected to retire to a small house near Munich where his three sons and daughter hope he will have a restful evening to his life.

He was the youngest of the major war criminals sentenced at Nuernberg.

22 tried for war crime; here is what happened

BERLIN (AP)—The four Allied powers — the United States, Russia, Britain and France—set up an international tribunal in 1946 and tried 22 German leaders on war crimes charges.

This is a rundown of the men's fate, including the release of two tonight:

Acquitted — Franz von Papen, Njalmar Schacht, Karl Fritzsche.

Hanged—Joachim von Ribbentrop, Wilhelm Keitel, Ernst Kaltenbrunner, Alfred Rosenberg, Wilhelm Frick, Sentenced to hang but never found—Martin Bormann.

Imprisoned but later released—Karl Doenitz, Walther Funk, Konstantin von Neurath, Erich Raeder, Baldur von Schirach, Albert Speer. (Funk, Neurath and Raeder are dead).

In prison for life—Rudolf Hess.

Financial report from Greenshields Ltd.

New $5 million fibres plant of Union Carbide Canada Ltd. at Arrprior, Ont., went into production on Sept. 28. It manufactures nylon and employs 200 people. Union Carbide's entry into the synthetic fibres field is a major diversification of the company. The plant will manufacture six million pounds of nylon per year.

Gold continues to retain a magnetic appeal for the world's financial statesmen. The lure of gold was expressed by finance ministers and central bankers, in Washington. Gold is especially prized by the Europeans, who have built up their gold reserves under the present monetary system and who insist that it must be an important part of any new system.

Inter-City Gas Ltd. will call a general meeting of shareholders to consider and, if approved, to confirm a resolution by directors authorizing an application for Supplementary Letters Patent increasing authorized capital of company. This was forecast in the annual report in order to finance the acquisition of North Star Natural Gas Co. and the continued expansion of natural gas distribution systems.

Stock prices slid steadily lower on the New York market yesterday in a continuation of the Tuesday afternoon sell-off. Traders apparently stayed on the sidelines in the absence of inspiring news. The Dow-Jones industrial stock average slipped 13.14 points, its steepest decline this month, and ended at 280.95. This brought the average to within 13.92 points of its August low. Turnover in New York totalled 5,990,000 shares as against 6,300,000 shares. Canadian industrial stocks followed New York market into lower ground. The M.S.E. industrial stock index slipped 0.80 to 143.30 and the corresponding index in Toronto 1.16 points to a new current year low of 143.90. The Toronto composite index was off 1.02 points to a new 1966 low of 137.86. Pulp and Paper stocks were off 1.45 points to 107.77 in their M.S.E. index while the Montreal utility index eased 1.10 points to 129.21, its lowest level this year.

THE QUEBEC SCENE

Claim lockout at food plant

STE. THERESE, Que. (CP)—A union spokesman said Thursday that 100 workers who have set up picket lines at the Coronation Food plant in this town 20 miles north of Montreal are not on strike but have been locked out of the factory.

Jacques Boucher, a Canadian Labor Congress representative from Montreal, said the employees were locked out Friday and were refused entrance to the plant Monday when they tried to return to work.

Mr. Boucher also said that labor violence that broke out on Coronation premises Wednesday was not caused by the plant's union members but by gangsters brought in by the management to break through the picket lines.

Police reported that windows were broken, machinery smashed and barrels of produce overturned by a group of about 50 men. No arrests were made following the incident.

Company officials were unavailable for comment although Donald Kouri, president of Coronation Foods, issued a statement Thursday saying he is going to sell out and establish his business elsewhere because of the turbulent labor situation in Quebec.

RIN opposers 'know nothing'

HULL, Que. (CP) — Pierre Bourquait, president of the separatist Rassemblement pour l'indépendance nationale, said Thursday that leaders of two Quebec labor groups commenting this week on the issue of independence for the province "know nothing" about the subject.

The Quebec Federation of Labor and the Confederation of National Trade Unions, together with the Catholic Farmers' Union, said Wednesday in a joint brief to Quebec Premier Daniel

Boycott inquiry

MONTREAL (CP) — Representatives of St. Lawrence River port locals of the International Longshoremen's Association walked out of a federal inquiry Thursday in protest against a ruling by commissioner Laurent Picard.

Mr. Picard, conducting an inquiry ordered in the federal government's compulsory arbitration settlement which ended the 39-day longshoremen's strike June 16, ruled that working hours guarantees and wages paid in other ports are outside the scope of his mandate.

Attacks silence

MONTREAL (CP) — Henri Joly, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said Thursday if union and business leaders had kept in touch with employees the current wave of labor "unrest and lawlessness" might not have developed.

He told a meeting of the association that if many people believe pay raises of 20 and 30 per cent can be granted without passing the charge along to the consumer, "then we must pass at least some of the blame at our own doors."

Favors Valade

MONTREAL (CP) — Marcel Bourbonnais, a former Progressive Conservative MP for Vaudeville-Soulanges, Que., said Thursday night he and about 60 other party supporters will propose Georges Valade for president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Quebec.

M. Bourbonnais also said the group plans to submit a resolution to a meeting this weekend of Quebec Conservatives supporting Dalton Camp's call for a re-assessment of the party's present national leadership.

Continued from Page 1 something. Mr. McKean said that in present the carriage house is in no danger of demolition. "The government will have to act fast to save it though," he said. "The Sisters have already started construction on their new wing."

The meeting was called by Mr. Allard, who promised to support any decision that the society made. The final resolution asked the government make amends for the destruction of the house and suggested the preservation of the carriage sheds at first alternative.

Mr. Allard said that he would bring the matter up with the minister of northern affairs and national resources, Arthur Laing. "If that fails I will raise it in the house," he said; "it won't bring results but it will get us answers."

Copies of the resolution are to be sent to Mr. Allard, Mr. Laing, Sherbrooke MLA Raymond Frechette, Sherbrooke Mayor Armand L'adeau, Prime Minister Lester Pearson, and Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson.

Mayor Nadeau had been invited to attend the meeting but did not attend. Mr. Parrot said the mayor had said that since he had no longer anything to do with the project, he did not see any necessity to send a representative.

Gilles-Coulombe, lawyer for the Dominican Sisters, the present owners of the property, was also invited. He sent a letter saying that the nuns had stalled their expansion project long enough and saw no reason to prolong it any more.

Braves run roughshod over Thetford Canadiens

SEASON OPENS — Jacques Plante, president of the Quebec Junior "A" Hockey League, is seen just as he drops the puck to get the season

same order, Jamie Kennedy, top play maker, and Pierre Jarry who came up with a four-goal display to pace the attack.

FIRST GOAL — Pierre Jarry of the Braves is seen just after he had drove home the disc for the first goal of the season at the Arena last evening. Sherbrooke Braves won the game 10-2.

Sandy Koufax tames Cards and sets new strikeout record in history, hits 300 mark again

Sandy Koufax, the Dodgers' and set another strikeout record as Los Angeles inched a step closer to its second straight

National League pennant. The Dodgers lead second-place Pittsburgh Pirates by two games, with three to play, and can nail the flag tonight if they beat the Phillies in Philadelphia while the Pirates stumble against the Giants in San Francisco.

Koufax checked the Cardinals on four hits and struck out 13 to become the first pitcher ever to hit the 300-strikeout mark in three different seasons.

The 26-year-old pitcher then dipped his pitching arm in ice — his regular post-game routine — and said he'll be available to pitch with two days rest against the Phillies Sunday if the pennant hasn't been wrapped up by then.

Koufax struck out the first two men he faced in the ninth before Curt Flood, who had led the Cards on the scoreboard with a seventh-inning homer, lashed a double to centre. Manager Walter Alton then told Koufax to walk Orlando Cepeda intentionally, putting the potential winning run on.

It was a wide-open battle the whole way with both sides laying ing on the hickory but nothing serious happened. The remarkable thing which was missing was body checking. Players were rammed into the boards but not one solid check was thrown.

In the line of Jamie Kennedy, Bill Murray and Pierre Jarry the Braves have a good unit. Kennedy is a good playmaker and with his two good wings they will give the opposition plenty of trouble.

The other big trio of Pierre Proulx, Ed Herbert and Yvon Robert looked as though they had been playing together for several years instead of just a few weeks. They should also give the Braves plenty of scoring power.

M. Gingues, Yves Remillard and F. Martel will also be able to hold their own. They are a good checking unit and seem capable of scoring goals and will hold their own.

Coach Plamondon didn't have his top rearguard in uniform, but the others turned in a solid game. Pigneault is a good blocker and carries the puck well while J. Belanger will be a good help also.

The teams met this evening in Thetford and Coach Morrisseau claims it will be a different story. He figures he will have several of his players back who are trying out with Jr. Canadiens.

Both coaches had a great opportunity of seeing just what they need for the coming season. The score didn't mean much as both sides were trying out new players but the Braves held the edge and we think that the Canadiens underrated them. They will certainly have to build if they wish to stay with the Braves as they will no doubt improve with more time.

Hugh Royer leads Open

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hugh Royer of Columbus, Ga., Thursday used a putter that could fall apart on him any time to carve out a three-under-par 68 and the first-round lead in the Canadian open golf championship.

Using a "sort of corroded putter" with great delicacy, he needed only 25 putts to take the lead and surprise most expected Shaughnessy Golf and Country Club's long—6,907 yards —fairways to give the advantage to the big hitters such as Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper.

But Royer, who had not led a previous tournament this year and whose best previous finish was a tie for 13th in the Cleveland Open, didn't think he could have trimmed his score much more.

Truckers rally to nip Carey

Truckers took an 11-8 win over Carey to go into a 2-1 lead in their three-out-of-five finals of the Lennoxville Softball League.

At the end of the two full innings the score stood at 7-4 in Carey's favor. Truckers got one more in their part of the third and Carey went idle in the third.

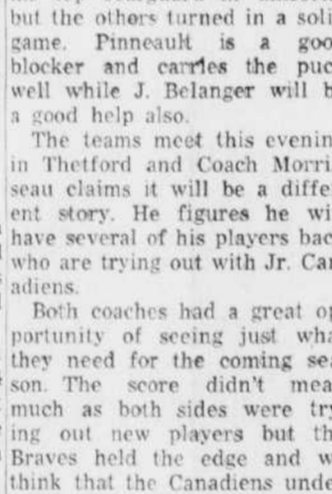

It was nothing across for both teams in the fourth. Three runs for Truckers in the fifth to give them a one run lead and they added three more in the sixth to take the game. Carey squad was held off the score sheet after the second innings. They did manage one run in the seventh. The teams will battle it out again Sunday afternoon.

HIGH — LOW — AND IN BETWEEN
Our Eastern Townships Track Association runner, Brian Laberee, a student at Sherbrooke High School, has again reaped rewards of a seed sown long ago. The seed is practice, cultivated by endurance, and his latest harvest was in the annual Lafontaine Park three-mile run for the juvenile age class, as he was second, just 2.8 seconds behind the winner, Guy Lepine, of Montreal's Palestre Nationale.

Competitors from Quebec and Ontario were present. Brian, with a special source of "running inspiration" is presently the title holder of the Provincial High School Mile Run, and is a likely candidate for the Quebec team in the Canadian Juvenile Mile Run later on.

Wayne Nugent, physical education instructor at Mitchell School, now that he is a papa for the first time, may have a female Athlete of the Year, but possibly only in 1980. His wife, Eileen presented him with a six pound, one ounce bundle, labelled Christina Eileen. Congrats!

In basketball circles, there is presently a proposition in this Province to have high school girls' basketball operating this year under the established boys' rules. The QAPSA has the final decision, as their opinion weighs heavily, since all Protestant high schools are competing for a zone berth in the MacLeod Championship. Feelings at this end of the Province are mixed. . . . There is a rumor the age limits in the Sherbrooke Basketball League, senior and junior divisions, will be increased by one year. This too, if realized, is a wise move, as more high school students will be able to participate in this league.

Bird pictures seen by U.C.W. at Rock Island

ROCK ISLAND — The first of the autumn meetings of the Stanstead South Church U.C.W. held Sept. 29 in the church hall was a most pleasant one.

Percy Fellows, Wethersfield, Conn., and Derby, was a special guest and showed pictures he had taken of birds in the Connecticut Valley, and giving a narration. The films showed the great patience required in study of bird life. Mr. Fellows was introduced by Mrs. Lloyd Selby, program chairman, and thanked by Mrs. C. R. MacLean, U.C.W. president.

Mrs. MacLean, opened the meeting by reading a poem, "The First Autumn," followed by prayer.

The date of Oct. 29 was set for the rummage sale in the church hall. Mrs. C. R. Darby, Mrs. A. S. Judd, and Mrs. Alan Greer will pick up rummage. Others volunteered to work Friday afternoon and Saturday morning of the sale. The date of Nov. 19 was set for the annual Christmas tea and sale to be held in the church hall.

Mrs. Terrace Walsh agreed to be chairman of a project to send gifts to an orphanage in Vietnam. These gifts will be solicited as much as possible and should include clothing for children, ages 2 to 12 years, T-shirts, cotton pants for boys, dresses and underwear for girls, as well as other wearing apparel, toys, school supplies and such items as wash cloths, soap. The orphanage is being assisted by some of the American boys over there. A sum of money was allotted to Mrs. Walsh from the U.C.W. funds towards the project. Anyone having things to contribute should contact Mrs. Walsh or leave them with any of the U.C.W. members.

Mrs. C. R. Darby and Mrs. A. S. Judd will be hostesses at the next meeting on Oct. 19 in the church hall. Another member will be invited to join them as hostess.

After the film showing, the hostesses Mrs. James Thomson and Mrs. Raymond Curtis served buffet refreshments, the table being centered with a bowl of seasonal flowers.

ARCHITECT'S VISION — This is how the architects visualized the new Asbestos city hall. The structure, now completed and housing the city government, is a realization of this vision.

Library, gymnasium, reception hall are all contained in five floors of town hall

The corner of DuRoi Street and Boulevard St. Luc has a new look in Asbestos. The new town hall, built there at a cost of $450,000 was opened for public service this July.

The building is square, 81 feet in length and width, with five floors, including the basement. The building rests on a concrete base, 146 by 106 feet in size.

It was designed by the Sherbrooke firm of architects, Demers and Delorme.

One of the advantages of the building is that it has access to all sections of the town. This is especially important to the fire department which is lodged in the basement.

Also in the basement are the police department headquarters and offices, small cafeteria, jail cells and gymnasium.

There are 14 permanent policemen with a volunteer fire brigade of 24 men.

The municipal library, situated on the first floor has some 1,800 square feet of floor space and contains about 10,000 books in French and English.

Another room consisting of 1,800 square feet has been allocated for the health department.

The tax collection and building registration offices are on the second floor. The third floor has council chambers, a reception hall, and police court offices.

The mayor's office, municipal officials, council and caucus room, social welfare and recreation association quarters are on the fourth floor.

The project was financed with the aid of a $300,000 federal-provincial loan.

The design was decided upon by the Asbestos council after a survey of other city and town halls in the Montreal area.

Ground was broken last fall and work was completed this summer. The construction was done by the firm of Laurier Vachon Ltd. of Asbestos.

CHIEF OFFICIAL — Mayor Maurice Beauchesne of Asbestos has moved into the new city hall which he was instrumental in obtaining for his city.

Asbestos is a fine place to live and do business — it's a community noted for progressive thinking and positive actions!

Macdonald College

Congratulations to Caroline Templeton and Andy Ness who have proved themselves the best Junior judges of cattle in the Province of Quebec. Andy and Caroline representing the Howick Young Farmers Club at the Quebec Fair early this month. Now they are waiting to hear if they go on to Toronto for the annual national 4-H do. Caroline is in her first year teacher's training course at Macdonald College, and says she is loving it. Congratulations also to their coach and leader, Robert Ness, not only for this honour to his judging team but also for the excellent showing his Ayrshires made at Quebec.

By the way, I hear that Ross Oswald, that pillar of 4-H strength in the Lachute area, suffered a broken arm the other day when he fell off a load of hay. Fast recovery, Ross.

Limestone as an addition to corn silage keeps on popping into the news. And right now silos are being filled. I asked Peter Hamilton what the Department of Animal Science thought about the practice.

"For beef cattle," he said, "adding ten pounds of finely ground limestone or calcium carbonate to each ton of corn silage as it goes into the silo is worth trying. But for dairy cattle stay away from it, until we know more about it. There isn't any apparent benefit when fed to milking cows, and you might even decrease milk production."

Apparently, the limestone changes the fermentation pattern in the silo. Twice as much lactic acid is formed, and proportionately less acetic acid. And it is lactic acid, the nutritionists tell us, that is the more easily converted to animal fat in the digestive system. So that is why limestone in the silage is useful for beef, but not for dairy cattle.

Urea is another material that is being blown into the silo along with corn. There is only one reason for using it.

It is a cheap source of protein, compared with soybean oil-meal or even alfalfa hay.

Ten pounds feed-grade Urea very carefully mixed in each ton silage will raise the protein level from 7 p.c. to 8 p.c. on a dry matter basis to 10 p.c. or 12 p.c. This is about the right protein level for fattening beef, and for the dairy herd can make a saving on the protein concentrate bill.

But it won't save you anything if you don't adjust the protein level of your dairy ration to match. As a rule of thumb, you can cut back 2 p.c. — for example, from 16 p.c. dairy ration to 14 p.c. dairy ration.

I can't find any figures how much of the urea added to the silage is lost before it is fed. But this leads to one of the warnings. If the corn is high in moisture, you might have the urea leach down through the silage to the bottom layers. And a heavy dose could be deadly. Ten pounds per ton well distributed through the ensilage is well within safe limits.

I understand that the Cyanamid Company is marketing a mixture of Calcium and Urea as a silage addition under the trade name of Calrea.

Talking of silage, the college put up a stack vacuum-packed in plastic sheets this past week just to try out this New Zealand idea. And up to this point, I am sold on it. The real test will be whether the plastic can stand up to zero weather and what comes out of it next spring.

It was really fascinating to watch a 50-ton, ten-foot high heap of loose chopped second-cut red clover being sucked down to four feet in less than an hour by a milking machine vacuum pump. The stack was firmer than if a tractor had been packing it all afternoon. No spoilage is supposed to take place under the plastic cover.

The kits for these plastic "silos" are being sold in the States. Prices for a 200-ton unit were given as $330 and 60 p.c. of that for the second year to replace the huge 40-foot wide top and bottom plastic sheets.

This works out about one dollar a ton, not much more than the interest charges on a tower silo. But the costs of getting the feed from the silo to the cows must be compared, also.

The annual Angus sale of the Quebec Aberdeen Angus Association brought an average price of $495. for 41 head The top of $1400. was for an open heifer consigned by Irwin Schenk, Petersburg, Ontario. This animal went back to Ontario, into the herd of Senator McCutcheon at Gormley, but most of the rest stayed in Quebec herds.

This is the week of the Sherbrooke Winter Fair open. Junior judging is on Monday, and the Market Cattle Sale on Wednesday, 5th. See you there.

Selecting proper glue assures success

The thought of glue may make you hold your nose but you need not look down at the thought of using one of the many adhesives available.

Gluing is an easy method to mend things. Success depends on proper preparation and the right choice of glue. Modern glues, especially the new epoxies, make glue joints amazingly durable. Even if you are using some other fastener, such as nails or screws, remember that glue will make the joint stronger.

Regardless of the glue you use, you will find that the rules for preparation and application are pretty universal.

—All old glue (if it is old work) must be removed from the surfaces to be joined. Scrape and sand.

—Surfaces must be clean. Remove dirt, dust, grease, oil or any foreign matter.

—Wood surfaces should be sanded smooth.

Apply glue in thin coats. Spread it over the entire surface. If the glue oozes out of the joint, wipe it clean immediately to avoid marring.

Make certain that the parts of the joint are properly aligned, then clamp or fasten in the position in which you wish them to dry. If you are applying a patch, round the corners. Square corners pull loose more easily.

proper preparation. It also will result from the wrong choice of glue and not following the manufacturer's instructions.

Mucilage and paste are used for paper and light fabrics, lightweight, porous materials. Animal and fish glues are still around, though rapidly being replaced by synthetic glues. These also are used for lightweight materials and for wood where there is no great strain and no moisture. Clamp tightly.

Casein glues are used for wood, are strong and do not need tight clamping. They tend to penetrate thin materials such as veneers.

The urea resin glues are moisture-resistant and strong and can be used on wood as well as most porous and semi-porous materials. Clamp pieces and allow time for drying.

For outdoor use look for something specifically marked waterproof (waterproof resorcinol glues). These need mixing and the glued object should dry at room temperature.

Drawbacks Noted

Ready-to-use, white polyvinyl glues that dry clear are convenient, easy to use, and can be used on a wide variety of materials. There is one disadvantage — they will not withstand high heat or soaking.

Cellulose cements are used for china and glass but can be used on wood or other porous materials as well. They have the same disadvantage as polyvinyl glues.

Rubber cements are waterproof, can be used on both porous and nonporous surfaces and should be used where the joint will be bent or flexed.

Epoxy resins are the miracle glues — strongest, resistant to water and heat and can be used on all sorts of materials including unlike materials. They require the most care in applying and are the most expensive. The glue is in two parts, a resin and an activator. Separately they set and dry due to internal heat.

Epoxies come in two tubes. Squeeze out equal strips from each and mix until the color is uniform. Apply a thin coat to each surface and join. Mix in small amounts. It thickens in 30 minutes and sets in about four hours.

YOUR GARDEN HEADQUARTERS

By JOHN BRADSHAW

Kindness can kill your houseplants

There is no such thing as a true house plant. Those we grow in our homes are able to tolerate the extremely poor growing conditions found there a little better than other plants.

A large window facing south is the best situation for flowering plants such as geraniums.

Foliage plants such as rex begonias and rubber plants are able to grow with much less light and can be located in windows facing north, east or west.

HEAT

Except for tropical plants such as African violets, rubber plants, philodendrons etc. the temperature in our modern homes is much too high.

The reason that grandmother had such success with her plants was mainly due to the lower temperatures that prevailed in the homes in her day.

Most house plants will thrive in a temperature range of from 60 to 70 degrees F.

An excellent way of increasing the moisture in the air around your plants is to set them in metal trays containing gravel and water on the window ledges.

Make sure that the bottom of the pot does not come in direct contact with the water or it will be sucked up into the soil by capillary action and your plants will have wet feet.

The best way of supplying fresh air is to open the window from the top a few inches. Make sure that there is no danger of the plants being in a direct draught.

WATERING

In the winter time it is best to do this during the middle of the day.

Incorrect watering is the cause of more house plant troubles than any other factor. Most ladies are far too kind to their plants and think they need to water them every day.

The water used should be at room temperature rather than cold water coming directly from the tap. The best sources of water for house plants are rain or melted snow.

The correct time to water is in the morning right after breakfast so that the soil will not remain in a saturated condition overnight.

All plants dislike dust on their leaves. The best way of removing it is to syringe the plants every day with a fine spray of water at room temperature.

This will keep the breathing pores of the leaves open and also add considerably to the humidity in the air surrounding them.

Broad-leaved plants such as rex begonias, crotons and aspidistras can be cleaned with a soft cloth that has been dipped in water at room temperature.

Soil mixtures are usually blamed for house plants failing to thrive. A suitable soil mixture is necessary for the growth of healthy plants but you don't need special soil for each type.

There are excellent commercial soil mixtures for sale with varied ingredients to suit the majority of plants. As you become more experienced you will probably wish to make up your own mixtures.

For plants with large foliage and a heavy root system such as crotons, rubber plants, aspidistras and palms a soil mixture composed of three parts top soil and one part humus is excellent. For humus the best product to use is one of the new organic composts which are really a concentrated form of well-rotted cow manure. Also excellent would be peat moss, discarded mushroom manure or leaf mold.
