STEAMER GOTHLAND ASHORE ON ROCKS AT SCILLY ISLANDS

S. O. S. Messages Bring Speedy Assistance and All Hands Are Saved.

AT MONTREAL ON 12th

It Is Feared That the Vessel
Will Prove a Total Wreck.

Scilly, Eng., June 23.—The Belgian steamer Gothland, from Montreal for Rotterdam laden with grain, struck Grim Rocks, near Bishop Light-house, off Scilly Islands, in a dense fog this afternoon. Wireless messages for assistance speedily brought to the aid of the Gothland the steamer Lyonesse from Penzance, two life-boats from St. Mary's and the steamers Ascanus and Montezuma from Lizard Head.

The Gothland was badly damaged and all attempts to launch boats proved hazardous, owing to the heavy sea that swept over the reef. The first boat fell from the davits into the sea and was smashed. The occupants of the boat were thrown into the water, but fortunately a St. Mary's lifeboat was nearby and rescued all of them, although a stewardess was nearly drowned.

A second boat was swung out, but with no better success. Eventually all the passengers, numbering 140 emigrants, and 86 of the crew, were safely transferred to the Lyonesse and landed at Hugh Town, St. Mary's Island.

The Gothland, it is feared, will prove a total wreck.

The Gothland belongs to the Red Star line but is under charter to the Canadian line. She left Montreal June 12th.

CITY IS EN FETE TO HONOR ARRIVAL OF HIS EMINENCE

Thousands Throng The Gaily Decorated Streets And Listen To Addresses And Replies—Beautiful Color Effects

His Eminence, Cardinal Begin, the second prelate in Canada to be created a cardinal and the first to have gone to Rome to be there invested with the highest honor that the Supreme Pontiff can bestow upon the clergy of his church, made a triumphal entry into the city of his own people yesterday and his own people received him with the religious enthusiasm and devotion which are typical of the French-Canadians. Quebec, the city which first lit the torch of Christianity in Northern America and sent forth its dauntless priests to spread its light over the continent in the face of unspeakable torture and peril among its barbarian inhabitants, was all en fete. A civic holiday had been proclaimed by Mayor Drouin and when the successor of a long line of distinguished and saintly men put step on the King's Wharf on landing from the Lady Grey, he was greeted by multitudes that thronged every point of vantage on the cliffs of the quaint old town. The long Dufferin Terrace was packed, crowds of eager spectators lined the Ramparts, and stood in serried masses along the route of the procession and in the square between the Cardinal's Palace and the Laval Monument, where the official welcome took place and where a purse of $10,000 was presented by the citizens to His Eminence.

TRAIN ARRIVED LATE

Although the arrival at Levis, the neighboring parish to his birthplace, was supposed to be scheduled for two o'clock it was not until well after three o'clock that the train bearing Cardinal Begin steamed into the gaily decorated platform where an immense throng was waiting. Here the returned Cardinal was greeted by Pro-Mayor Veilleux who read a congratulatory address of welcome, referring to the fact that His Eminence had passed his youth in that neighborhood. After replying, Cardinal Begin, who had been met by a large number of bishops and others of his clergy, was escorted to the government steamer, the Lady Grey, and brought over to Quebec. An interesting feature of the passage was the escort provided by a large number of the yachts and boats of the Quebec Yacht Club.

At the King's Wharf, which had also been handsomely decorated for the occasion, the Cardinal was met by Captain Bullen, A.D.C., the representative of the Governor-General. Captain Bullen read a message of greetings from His Royal Highness who expressed his gladness at the signal honor which had been conferred upon His Eminence. Others there to greet him were the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Francois Langelier, with Captain Pelletier, A.D.C.; Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Hon. C. J. Doherty and some of the Federal members, Premier Gouin and his cabinet, Mr. J. M. Tellier, Leader of the Provincial Opposition, Mayor Drouin and the city aldermen and many other persons of prominence. A noticeable figure was that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

It was not till five o'clock that His Eminence reached the Laval Monument with hands playing and the people cheering and there descended from his carriage and mounted the steps leading to the dais which had been specially prepared for him under the shadow of the monument of the saintly and ascetic Laval, the first Bishop of Canada.

A BEAUTIFUL SCENE

It was an ideal day for the event and the scene around the monument was almost beautiful beyond description. Under the monument a scarlet throne had been erected and to this His Eminence ascended in his scarlet robes and skull cap. He was surrounded by a group of bishops whose purple sashes showed a touch of color to the black-gowned priests nearby. Below him sat the men most prominent in the social and political life of the Dominion. On the steps leading up to the throne were a number of pages dressed in gorgeous cloaks and knee breeches and wearing wigs with handsomely plumed hats.

Lining the passage that was, with difficulty, kept free for the carriages to pass were the smartly uniformed cadets and the Papal Zouaves with their bayonets fixed.

Everywhere there was a riot of color with the papal yellow and white predominating. Bunting brightened the buildings on every side, banners and flags of every description floated from poles that seemed omnipresent, or streamed across the streets. As they swayed this way and that with the breeze, they presented a color effect such as is rarely seen.

Nor was this wealth of color lacking in the crowd. The French-Canadians' love of bright hues were here illustrated to the full. For it was a national fete for the French-Canadians. It was essentially their day, though the rejoicing was general.

Picture of Birthplace

Over the door of the Palace which is close at hand to the monument was a magnificent portrait of His Holiness Pope Pius X. On a balcony on the side which fronts the monument was a handsome portrait of Cardinal Begin himself. What appealed to the on-looker, though it was not so conspicuous as many other pictures, devices and designs, was a portrait of the unpretentious little farm house where the man who is now a Prince of the Roman Catholic Church was born. On the painting were the simple yet eloquent words, "under this humble roof was born our Pastor." As one turned to contrast the subject of the picture with the pomp and ceremony of the reception to this great man of lowly origin which was taking place less than a stone's throw away, it made a striking contrast.

Other pictures were those of the exterior of the Basilica of St. John of Latran, Rome, where Cardinal Begin was first ordained in 1855, and of the Church of St. Joseph de Levis where he was baptised and confirmed.

On the walls were also many expressions of welcome and appreciation of the honor rendered to Catholic Quebec. One of which read, "Behold the Lord Hath Given Him the Union of Princes."

Address of Mayor

For Quebec, essentially French-Canadian and Catholic, was rejoiced to hail in the new Cardinal the illustrious successor of Cardinal Taschereau, whose memory it still keeps green, and as the worthy successor of his work. It was thus that he was welcomed by Mayor Drouin who assured His Eminence that there were gathered together to meet him not only those of his own diocese but also their fellow citizens of all races and religious beliefs, all of whom had learnt to appreciate his many qualities and the results of his work. All recognized, said the Mayor, that this supreme honor was conferred upon the recipient as the well-deserved personal reward of a life-time of devotion to church and country. But, knowing the modesty of His Eminence and his reluctance for honor, they would in accordance with his wishes give a part of the glory to this truly national episcopacy to the Church of Quebec, to its intensely patriotic clergy who had done so much for the foundation, for the development and the progress of their cherished Canada.

As Joan of Arc had said of her standard, "it had known hardship: it was, therefore, fitting that it should know honor," so it might be said of the Canadian Church, of its clergy and all who had been honored in the person of the new Cardinal by the royal act of the supreme Pontiff, that they too, had known hardship and it was right that they should know honor.

Mayor Drouin spoke warmly of the theological learning of the distinguished prelate, of the works which had come from his pen, of his work for the education of French-Canadian youth. At all times his devotion and his sacrifices had been crowned with success and rich with the most consoling blessings. As a bishop he had courageously mounted guard around the Catholic schools, had given a vigorous impulse to ecclesiastical study, stimulated the piety of his clergy and made the desert to blossom with rich parishes.

A Prince of Peace

When industrial troubles had arisen in the Ancient Capital, said Mayor Drouin, he had truly played the evangelical role of "Prince of Peace" with prudence and a spirit of justice that had been universally admired.

"And," said the Mayor, "for us, citizens of Quebec, it is with a peculiar enthusiasm that we address to you the thrilling acclamation that of old was given by the masses to the triumphant warriors in the streets and public squares of ancient Rome, that you have heard resounding to your honor under the sonorous vaults of the Consistory: 'Ad Multos Annos' may you live long for the welfare of the Church and the glory of Canada."

Cardinal's Modest Reply

Humbly and briefly the new Prince of the Church, in French Canada replied to his children. His elevation to the dignity of the cardinalate had, he said, been to him a source of consolation. He was rejoiced at it, not so much for himself as for those under his care. It was, he considered, not only an encouragement given to labors that at times had been hard and painful and a lightening of heavy and at times, disquieting responsibilities, but also the pledge of more abundant blessings for all those of his diocese.

Quebec's Pious Traditions

It was, His Eminence emphasized, the fact that the Holy See in crowning this episcopal city with honor had desired to consecrate its pious traditions afresh. Quebec was the cradle of the French race in Canada. Always, and above all in periods of the greatest peril, it had protected its interests. Its vigorous sons had been the first pioneers to blaze the trail of all legitimate progress. Quebec it was that had been the first to light the torch of faith on the banks of the St. Lawrence, the torch that Cruce Dignus—Epitaph.

In these columns 100 years ago, appeared the following Epitaph to Napoleon Bonaparte, at Elba:
Underneath this dunghill, is all that remains of a mighty conqueror, Napoleon Bonaparte, who with inflexible cruelty of heart, and unexampled depravity of mind, was permitted to scourge the earth, for a time.

"With all the horrors of war, too ignorant, and incapable to do good to mankind, the whole force of his mind was employed to oppressing the weak and plundering the industrious. He was equally detested by all; his enemies he butchered in cold blood; and, fearing to leave incomplete the catalogue of his crimes. His friends, he rewarded with a poisoned chalice. He was an Epitome of all that was vicious in the worst of tyrants. He possessed their cruelty without their talents. Their madness without their genius. The baseness of one, and the imbecility of another. Providence at last, wearied out with his crimes, returned him to the dunghill from which he sprang.

A man for indecent exposure in Du-rocher Park, took a two-months vacation, not having sufficient capital to pay $40 and costs to the City Treasurer.

St. Jean Baptiste.

A magnificent procession and Mass was held in St. Sauveur yesterday, 30 years ago, in honor of the festival of St. Jean Baptiste. Several hundreds of people left by boat yesterday afternoon and by rail last night to take part in the celebration today in Montreal. The Papal Zouaves, in costume, marched to the station last night prior to their departure, headed by the band of the Union Musicale, and carrying torches. They called for Judge Chauveau, president of the Quebec Society, and Ald. Rheume, ex-president, and those gentlemen accompanied them.

Personal.

At this time, thirty years ago, the Shareholder says it is reported that the Hon. Thomas McGreevy, so long and favorably known, not only in Quebec where he represented Quebec West in the House of Commons, he was also several years a member of the City Council, and sat for Stadacona in the Legislative Council, Quebec, from 1867 until 1874. He was known for the great enterprises with which he was connected, notably the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa. If the Shareholder is correct, then the Hon. Thomas McGreevy will be our next Governor of this Province.

BISHOP DUNN RESIGNS FROM QUEBEC DIOCESE

Venerable Prelate Will Retire From Episcopal Seat On Feast of All Saints After Twenty-Two Years of Labor

The impending resignation from the Episcopal seat of Anglican Diocese of Quebec of the Right Rev. Andrew Hunter Dunn, after twenty-two years of labor, was announced by the Lord Bishop himself, yesterday at Bishop's College, Lennoxville, who at the close of his visitation charge to his clergy informed them that he had decided to set aside the cares of his sacred office and retire to private life.

The exact date which His Lordship has selected for his resignation to take effect is the Festival of All Saints Day, November 1st, 1914.

Universal regret will be felt at this announcement for in the score of years during which the reverend prelate toiled in his episcopal office, he earned the love and veneration of all people, and though some may be of different belief, all who met him in any way could not but esteem the prelate for his noble qualities, his simplicity of manner and his deep sincerity of purpose.

The Right Rev. Andrew Hunter Dunn, M.A. (Cambridge), was born at Saffron Walden, Essex, Eng., on the 16th of October, 1839, the son of Hannehal Dunn and Mary Ann, daughter of William Hunter, Alderman Sheriff and Lord Mayor of London.

His Lordship was brought up for business and was a Congregationalist in religion. When eighteen years of age he joined the Church of England, and determined to enter the ministry, much to the opposition of some of his relatives, who felt that a very successful business career opened out before him.

After graduating from Cambridge with the degree of Master of Arts, and studying for the Church, he was ordained and became curate of St. Mark's Notting Hill, where he was a devoted parish priest from 1864 to 1870. He was also curate of Acton from 1870 to 1872, and vicar of All Souls, Acton, from 1872 to 1892.

Consecrated in 1892.

His Lordship came to Canada in 1892, and was consecrated Bishop of Quebec on the 1st of September of that year. He married Miss Alice, eldest daughter of William Hunter, of Parley Lodge, Croydon, Eng., and five sons and two daughters were born of the union.

Bishop's College Degree.

Among the degrees which have been conferred upon His Lordship is that of Honorary D.D., by the University of Bishop's College at Lennoxville, in 1893. He was also given the degree of D.C.L., by the same institution of which he was vice-president from 1892 to 1906, when he was elected president.

A number of publications have come from the pen of His Lordship, including, "Helps by the Way," "Our Church Manual," "Holy Thoughts for Quiet Moments," and "Our Only Hope."

The main subject which the Bishop dealt with in his charge at Lennoxville yesterday, was that of Christian Unity, and in concluding he spoke as follows:

"And now, my reverend brethren, having delivered myself of these thoughts on the subject of Christian Unity and as to how we must earnestly contend for the Faith and maintain unimpaired the precious heritage, which God in His love has bestowed upon us, and having appealed to you all, irrespective of your particular views and opinions, to uphold the honor and traditions of our beloved Diocese, I have one more thing to say to you before I close. The relation of a Father in God to His Sons in the Faith, the Priests of his Diocese, is a very sacred bond, but like every other relationship upon earth, the period of its exercise must draw to a close and I desire that you shall hear from my own lips that I have decided after many earnest prayer and due deliberation to lay aside the cares of my sacred office and to retire into private life for so long as our Heavenly Father shall choose to extend my days upon earth. The exact date which I have chosen for my resignation to take effect is the Holy Festival of All Saints' Day, November 1st, and up to that time I shall be prepared to fulfil according to my power, any appointments or engagements that may be asked for. I have labored in this Diocese, since the time that the Synod did me the honor in God's providence of calling me to be your Bishop, for twenty-two years, and I can truthfully say they have been for the most part very happy years of my life. I have loved my work amongst you, and have been permitted by Almighty God to see the fruits of my labors far beyond my deserts. I shall always treasure in my heart the loyalty and love of you, my Sons in the Faith, as well as of many, who have gone to their happy rest. It will be my earnest prayer, that, when the right time comes to elect my successor, the Synod of this Diocese will be rightly guided

TWO ARRESTS WERE MADE YESTERDAY

PLAIN CLOTHES MEN CAPTURE ALLEGED PICKPOCKETS AT THE PALAIS.

Two individuals, on the charge of being pickpockets, were arrested at the foot of the trestle leading to Palace Hill yesterday afternoon by two plain clothes men, Lacasse and Beaudoin, of the municipal police force, who had been stationed there by Detective Walsh.

The accused thieves were lodged in cells at the Central Police Station and will likely be brought before the Court of Sessions as was another light-fingered individual giving his name as Arthur Williams.

Williams was caught openly endeavoring to pick the pockets of a man boarding an I. C. R. train at Levis by Special I. C. R. Constable Walter Moore.

In the Court of Sessions yesterday afternoon, Williams, who claims to have come from the States, was admitted to $400 bail by Judge Langelier.

by God the Holy Spirit to make a wise choice, and that the abundant blessing of God will rest upon your new leader. No one knows better than myself the immense demands of every kind that are made upon this Bishop by a Diocese of so vast extent as this one; it is God's grace alone that enables man to accomplish what is necessary. It is, therefore, with humble gratitude to the Giver of all good things that I make this announcement of my resignation, for that He will have enabled me His unworthy servant to fulfil my Office as a Bishop of His Holy Church for more than twenty-two years. To Him, therefore, let all the glory be ascribed, through Jesus Christ our Lord."

had proved a shining light of civilization. From the cradle of New France had gone forth the intrepid missionaries to carry the gospel to Acadia, to the regions of the Great Lakes and the West, to Illinois and the whole of the immeasurable valley of the Mississippi. It was the church of Quebec that was the mother of all the churches which today, formed the brightest ornament of their country and sparkled joyously in its crown of glory.

National Righteousness

Taking up the theme that righteousness exalteth a nation, His Eminence laid stress on the fact that only the doctrine of religion based upon the doctrine of the Saviour sowed and maintained in the womb of peoples the germs and guarantees of immortality. If the French-Canadian race in spite of all its struggles and trials had been enabled to increase and flourish, if its influence was spreading more widely over this new continent, it was because it had been impregnated with Catholic piety. There was but one danger to fear. That was that it might weaken in that Christianity which had hitherto been its mainstay and had assured it a glorious past, which had been sown with many brilliant victories.

Cardinal's Programme

"For my part," said Cardinal Begin, "I propose to be more faithful than ever to the programme which I enunciated so recently in the august assembly of the Consistory. The higher the honor which is conferred upon me the more do I understand the duty which devolves upon me; holiness of life, a greater zeal for the salvation of souls, both in the ministrations of souls and in the duty of grave problems or in the accomplishment of various charges relative to the government of the Universal Church."

In conclusion, His Eminence advised his hearers that this particular proof of kindness which had just been given them by their beloved Pontiff must ever be a powerful motive to bind them closer to Rome. They must ever keep their eyes turned towards this everlasting beacon, the only one that no power created could extinguish or obscure.

ARRIVAL AT LEVIS

Text of Addresses Delivered During the Afternoon

His Eminence Cardinal Louis Nazaire Begin, accompanied by Mgr. Lafamme, arrived at Levis from New York shortly after three o'clock yesterday afternoon. At the brilliantly decorated station, he was met by Pro-Mayor Leon Veilleux, the aldermen of Levis, the members of the local and outside clergy, and several thousand eager people. After much hearty handshaking and the presentation of respects, the Cardinal was conducted along an aisle to a handsomely adorned platform, situated on the south end of the wharf, on which a covered throne had been previously erected. The Zouaves of Quebec formed a guard of honor. The Cardinal occupied the throne chair, while to his right sat Mgr. Roy, and to his left, the Pro-Mayor of Levis, Leon Veilleux. About and around sat the members of the clergy and the prominent personages of Levis.

In the absence of Mayor Bernier in Europe, Pro-Mayor Veilleux read the following touching address of welcome to His Eminence:

Address to Cardinal by Mayor of Levis.

Your Eminence.—It is the privilege of the people of Levis, amongst whom you were born, to be the first to welcome you on your return from the Eternal City.

To them, first of all comes the honor of expressing their sincere religious affection and homage.

When the news of your elevation to the rank of Cardinal was first spread abroad, there was no place on the St. Lawrence, nay, nor in the whole world, where there was more sincere joy and rejoicing than in this town of Levis.

Your elevation certainly reflected great honor to the archiepiscopal See of Quebec, but allow me to tell you that Levis could not restrain certain legitimate feelings of pride, when it was announced that one of her beloved sons had been so greatly honored.

There are probably few in this crowd which surges round Your Eminence, and few in this population who remember your early days, but there are many who have followed your career from afar, in history, through your sacerdotal and episcopal careers. They know that on the foundation of the knowledge obtained in the primary schools of Levis and St. Michel, you later followed a course at the Seminary of Quebec, which was crowned with great success.

In 1863, word came of your departure for the Eternal City to study theology at the Gregorian College, and later in June, 1865, came the glad tidings of your consecration as a bishop in the church of St. John Lateran.

On your return to your beloved Quebec in 1868, there flowed from your pen the immortal works, "The Supremacy and Infallibility of the Sovereign Pontiff," "The Holy Scripture and the Rule of Life," "Catholic Worship," and the "Catechism of Controversy," all results of your studies in Rome.

In 1884 Your Eminence was named one of the directors of the Normal School of Quebec, which post you filled during a number of years with wonderful ability.

In 1888, Rome chose you as successor to the much lamented Mgr. Dominic Racine, as second bishop of Chicoutimi. The people of that Diocese will always remember you as an able administrator and devoted pastor.

In 1891, Your Eminence was called to Rome to be the assistant of Cardinal Taschereau, of pious and illustrious memory. From that time and for over a quarter of a century you have watched with wonderful foresight and indefatigable devotion over the progress of the Church in the territory confided to your care.

As a successor to Laval, Plessis, and Taschereau, you filled the post of Archbishop of Quebec with the truest of apostolic qualities; under your care and guidance, Catholic social works of the most useful nature have been started and have flourished. You opened the doors of the diocese to religious communities driven from other lands by persecution.

As the friend of the workman, you have shared his troubles and soothed his sufferings by your paternal interest in his well-being. You have fostered the good-will between the employer and the employed, and have always had their respective interests and obligations at heart.

In clothing you pin the scarlet of the Cardinalate, the Holy See wished to crown a career which both in the priesthood and in the episcopate has been a most wonderful one for the Canadian Church.

The Holy Father also, doubtless, wished to honor the Church of our land, especially the archbishopric of Quebec, from whence, nearly three hundred years ago, missionaries went forth to preach the truth of Christ to the uncivilized regions of the American Continent.

Let us then be permitted to extend to Your Eminence the first welcome and acclamations which are to be yours on this day of your return to your people. With heart and soul we enter into the thoughts of your Auxiliary when he said, speaking of you that: "The Roman purple is casting a new glow of splendor on your career, already so long, and so well accomplished was going to show up in strong relief the merits which your modesty would keep in the dark, and the works which you have done for the welfare of souls and the glory of the Church."

Long life to His Holiness, Pope Pius X. Long life to Your Eminence.

THE CITIZENS OF LEVIS.

At the conclusion of Pro-Mayor Veilleux's address, Cardinal Begin responded the following most befitting terms:

The Cardinal's Reply at Levis

Mr. Mayor, my dear citizens of Levis:—

"You are glad you say in the beautiful address with which you have just presented me, that the town of Levis should be the first to greet me, and congratulate me on the great honor which has just been conferred on me by the Holy Father. I may tell you with equal sincerity that I am rejoiced that it is my native town that is the first to welcome me in my diocese and my country."

"Leaving my personality out of the question the people of Levis have good cause to rejoice on account of the calling of one of their fellows to a seat in the Sacred College of Cardinals, the Supreme Council of the Church. It was a pleasure to me to state before the greatest assembly that there is on this earth in the most solemn moment of my life, that it was the fidelity and attachment of the people of Quebec to the Catholic religion which had drawn the attention of the Holy Father to me and had won me the honor I was about to receive, you may rest assured that my fellow-citizens of Levis were not far from my mind, for as far as religion is concerned you are unsurpassed by any of the faithful of the diocese."

These are the proofs of your piety, these beautiful religious institutions, which crown the heights of Levis; this renowned college which has, for so long furnished the church with illustrious priests and the Canadian nation with well-educated religious citizens, and these beautiful convents which offer hospitality to women who wish to serve God in the perfect life, or to devote themselves to great works of education and charity."

If then, the town of Levis rejoices today because one of her sons has been honored, that son himself rejoices to see the spirit of religious fervor which continues to animate his fellow-men. In the course of the long span of life which the Lord has graciously accorded me the population of Levis has been renovated and there are few here present who were the companions of my childhood and youth.

How many of the friends I had in your midst have left this life for a better world, but, thank God, the Christian spirit, and the high standard of respectability and morals remain immortal in this population.

"And now that I have the opportunity I wish to thank you for the energy you have displayed in the campaign of temperance and social reform which I have started in the diocese, and for which Divine Providence alone will be able to recompense you."

"Our whole country may well rejoice that, despite its comparatively unimportant position in the world, the Holy Father, in his goodness, has for the second time deigned to honor it with a representative in the council which surrounds him and assists him in the governing of the Church. Heaven grant that the Canadian nation may always be a source of consolation to the heart of our Pope."

It is clear that such a signal honor from the Holy See must be responded to by our people with proportional gratitude. Already, on the first day of his proclamation, your new Cardinal made a solemn promise to be faithful to the Church and to the Truth, even, if necessary, to the shedding of blood. It is now Canadian people more than ever your duty to see that the principles of justice and righteousness are instilled into legislation and politics. You, O French-Canadian people, who have hitherto been the faithful children of the Church must forever preserve the traditions of faith and religious practices. It is your duty your beloved diocese of Quebec to justify and maintain your reputation of faithful allegiance to the Holy See, lively faith, charity, zeal for education and devotion to good works."

And as for you, my dear native parish of Levis, I shall drain the depths of my heart if I wish that you may continue to remain, with the grace of God, the pearl of this great diocese, a title which you have rightfully merited by your past history.

Presented With Bouquets

His Eminence was also presented with an address by the scholars present and with two beautiful bouquets of flowers by two pretty little girls. Cardinal Begin, followed by all those present, was then conducted to the C.G.S. Lady Grey, which served to bring the Cardinal across to Quebec.

As the Lady Grey, decorated with multi-colored flags, slowly left the wharf the Zouave band prettily rendered "O Canada" and several other selections. The ship bearing the Cardinal was followed by the brilliantly decorated S. S. Colomb and some fifteen yachts belonging to the members of the Quebec Yacht Club. As the Lady Grey approached the Quebec wharf the whistles of the different boats blew and the different bands rendered beautiful selections, terminating the brilliant reception and welcome to Cardinal Begin at Levis, his birth-place.

Welcomed on King's Wharf

Among those who accompanied His Eminence on the Lady Grey were: The Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Francis Langier, Mgr. Roy, Hons. L. P. Pelletier, Doherty, Nantel, Chief Justice Lemieux and others. On arrival at the King's Wharf, the Cardinal was officially received by the representatives of the Governor-General, Capt. Buller, A.D.C., and His Worship, Mayor Drouin. Among others present were: Mgr. Marois, Vicar-General, Premier Gouin, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Commander Tweedie and Capt. Watson of the H. M. S. Essex, Mr. Chouinard, City Clerk, Mr. Malouin, Assistant City Clerk and Cure Leberge, the secretary of the Archbishop's Palace.

Captain H. C. Buller, A.D.C. to H. R. H. the Governor-General welcomed His Eminence on the King's Wharf in the following words:

"On behalf of H. R. H. the Governor-General I welcome you on your arrival in Quebec and reiterate His Royal Highness's congratulations on the signal honor that has been conferred on you."

IMPOSSIBLE TO RAISE THE WRECKED EMPRESS

Nor Is There Any Likelihood of Being Able to Investigate the Damage Done, Says Salvage Expert

It is now thought that the inquiry into the Empress disaster is not likely to conclude before Friday night or Saturday morning. Several more witnesses must be summoned and some time may have to be conceded to allow counsel for the two parties to sum up their case and present them to the Court.

The most important of the evidence yet to be given will probably be that of the two naval experts who will be placed on the stand by counsel for the Storstad and the Canadian Pacific respectively. It may be quite lengthy and ought to have an important bearing on the outcome of the investigation. The evidence will have to do with construction of watertight compartments and bulkheads in vessels of the Empress' type. Mr. Hillier, the designer of the sunken liner, will testify for the Canadian Pacific, but it is not yet known who will be called upon by the Storstad people to present this aspect of their case.

Mr. Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice, has announced that he will call a few stray witnesses, among whom will possibly be a few passengers, while the C. P. R. will place on the stand several of the stokehold hands who were on duty on the Empress at the time of the collision. Several facts in connection with what actually happened in that part of the sinking ship have to be more fully explained, particularly with reference to the closing of the watertight doors leading into the reserve coal bunkers.

Cannot Raise Liner.

Yesterday's evidence lasted but a short time, but several facts that are considered important were definitely established. It was brought out during the examination of Mr. G. W. Wetherspoon, the diver who has been in charge of the work that has been done on the Empress during the past week, that it will be practically impossible to raise the sunken liner. It was further stated that it will be also practically impossible to investigate the damage done by the Storstad. Wetherspoon told the court that the ship is lying, not altogether on her side, as has been generally thought, but sufficiently upright to allow the water to flow under her starboard side. His theory is that while the vessel in all likelihood sank beneath the surface of the Gulf with her funnels flat on the water, she gradually righted herself as she went down. The righting movement had not been quite completed before the vessel reached the bottom.

Considerable evidence was put in by Mr. Wetherspoon regarding the tidal currents at Father Point and vicinity, where the Empress is now lying. The evidence is looked on as valuable, as it is thought that it will help in bringing to light the cause the Empress was following at the time of the collision.

A strong effort was made during the day's proceedings to show that the system of gratuities in vogue on the ships chartered by the Dominion Coal Company, one of which is the Storstad, is the same as that used by all companies which operate chartered ships. Captain Walsh, Marine Superintendent of the Canadian Pacific, when on the stand, was pressed on this point by Mr. C. S. Haight, counsel for the Storstad, but flatly denied that such a system was unknown to him either during the time he has been connected with the C. P. R. or during the twenty-one years he was employed by the Elder Dempster lines. The only gratuities given by the C. P. R., he said, were in the form of promotions and increased salaries. Mr. Haight endeavored to establish that the method of its river pilots constituted bonuses inasmuch as such payments were not required by law.

More Conflicting Evidence.

The evidence given by Captain Belanger, of the Eureka, the vessel which takes off and puts on the pilots at Father Point, conflicted with the statements he made at the Coroner's inquest held at Rimouski on the Saturday following the disaster, but the point was not emphasized because of the doubt attached to the authenticity of the report of the proceedings at the inquest.

Crazy Letter Sent.

Captain Kendall was questioned as to rules and regulations for the stewards, and as to the statements made in a letter addressed to Lord Mersey, complaining that there were 300 women and children in the second class lounge, and that they could not get out because the door was locked. There were two men there, the letter added, and they could not burst the door. Captain Kendall and Chief Steward Gaade said that no doors were locked.

Both said that the second class lounge could not accommodate more than fifty people. The final witness of the day was James Rankine, engineer, who had been a passenger. He said that when he reached the passageway on which his cabin was situated water was flowing in through an open port.

It was announced by Mr. Newcombe that some witnesses would be called to give evidence of what occurred in the boiler room. After this the Court adjourned, until this morning.

A GREAT CORRESPONDENT GONE.

It is said that under changed conditions in modern warfare there will no longer be any room on the field of battle for the war correspondent. In the Balkan war recently the truth of this statement was exemplified by the treatment correspondents received on all hands of commanders on both sides. While not ordered off and altogether away the representatives of the fourth estate were kept back so far that in most instances they were forced to draw upon their imagination for material, in addition to which their despatches were severely censored.

But to such men as Bennett Burleigh whose death at a ripe old age was announced recently, such restrictions would have only increased zest in the game. This man has been for very many years a most remarkable figure, standing high in the list of great war correspondents that have been.

Had Burleigh chosen to follow the game of war as a combatant, he would without doubt have risen to high rank, for coupled with his close knowledge of the game was a spirit of daring and an element of luck which invariably carried him through seemingly overwhelming difficulties. He began his career, a raw Scotch youth, in the American Confederate army, where he rose to the rank of captain and had many hair-raising experiences. Since then he had been a war correspondent, having gone through every worth-while campaign the world has known during his long life of seventy years.

His was the signal honor of being specially mentioned in official dispatches by a British commander general for conspicuous heroism on an occasion when he forgot that he was a non-combatant and led in a forlorn hope that saved many lives. And as he acted on that occasion so he always acted for his paper, disregarding self altogether so long as he was able to get his "stuff" through.

War correspondents of the Burleigh type are born rather than made, and they are not born very often.

THE DISASTERS WE IGNORE.

All classes and individualities, in the shock of the terrible story of the Empress of Ireland, realize that human life is more sacred than property, more sacred than anything else below the stars. The terror and pity bring something of the habitually buried selves of us all to the surface. We have a stagnant and poignant realization of the mystery and weirdness of existence. The sheer sea-tragedy effects on a sweeping scale, a change that art, theology, and poetry seem to compass but infrequently and partially. Unfortunately, we do not appear to learn the wider lesson, or to take steps to apply it in our daily world. Hosts of men, women and children are being tortured, and steadily driven to doom all the time. Industrialism and the social "system" take more ruthless toll of mind and heart than the sea does of bodies. We are shocked, by disaster, on the sudden, episode; we have not sufficient imagination and sympathy to realize the long-drawn agony and havoc. We are full of pity—and justly and humanly so—for the lives lost afar, or for the dramatic and tragic change we regard as loss. When shall we, with insight, fraternity, and faithful humanity at home? There is a world of looming tragedy that we all can aid in averting. The first essential is a truer realization of the value and dignity of what we call ordinary life. We must come to know and appreciate the worth and depth and possibility of the "common people."

SEPARATION TALK.

The talk of separation of a part of the West from the rest of the Dominion is idle, says the Montreal Gazette. The dwellers in the newer provinces surely see that it is to their advantage to remain in the Confederation. Those of them who have come from Ontario and other eastern provinces have a kindly feeling for older Canada. The newcomers from the United Kingdom must be believers in Canadian unity, whether they be free traders or protectionists. The settlers from the United States naturally are deeply interested in the progress of the land of their adoption, and in union only can progress be made. Emigrants from Europe would hardly favor separation. Altogether it can be said with assurance, that the great majority of Canada's inhabitants, whether they live east, west, north or south, are convinced, through practical as well as sentimental reasons, that it is best for all the people that the Canadian union should be maintained as it is at present. Those who think differently are in the small minority. As for protection and free trade, what the majority want will prevail. Every section sends representatives to Parliament to voice its views and at the polls the citizens show directly what they want. According as the vote goes must the fiscal or other policy be. Those on the losing side are free to speak their minds, and if they convert a sufficient number of people to their way of thinking their ideas will eventually be adopted. If they fail to make converts they can keep on talking. But there can be no separation of one part of Canada from the other.

PRESS COMMENT.

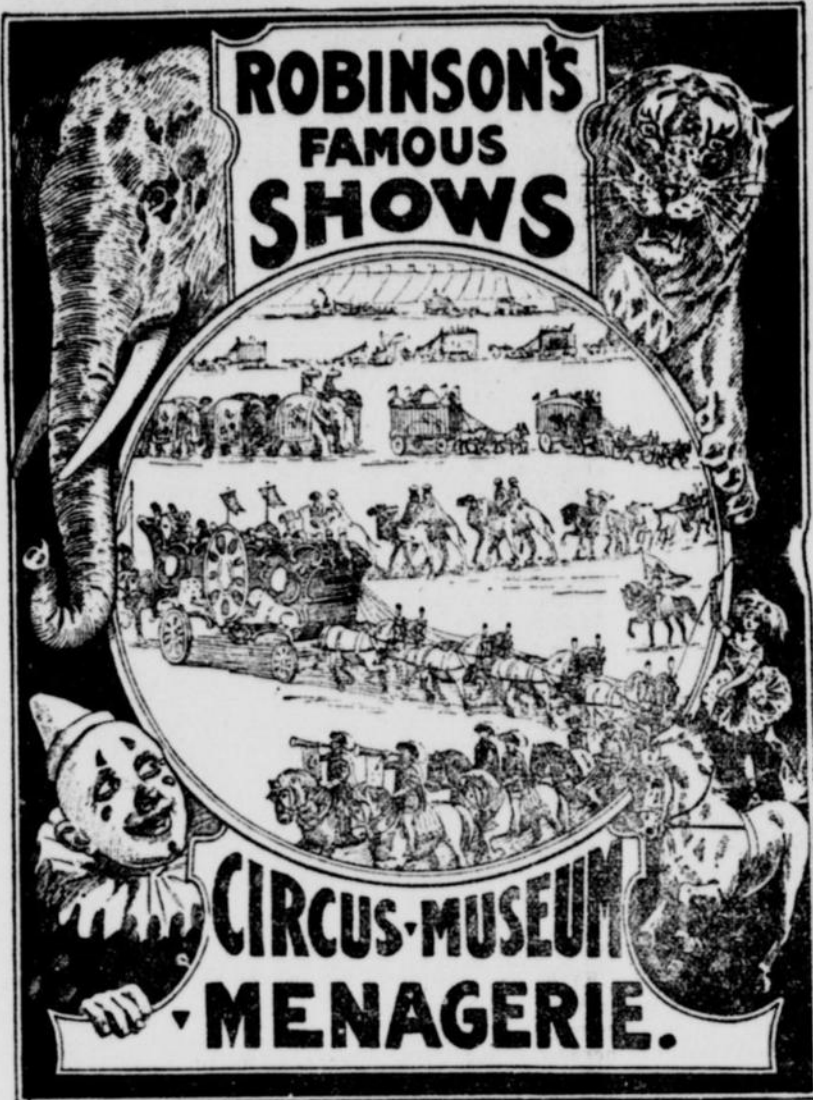

The first fireworks accident of the season has already happened, one boy having been severely burned by a firecracker carelessly thrown at him by a youthful playmate. This premonitory warning should be heeded. It should revive official and private vigilance to insure a safe and sane celebration of Independence Day. That deaths and injuries are not essential to a proper observance of the Fourth of July has been demonstrated. A few years ago Fourth of July casualties were taken as a matter of course. But when the appalling figures of 1913 were made public and it was learned that 466 met death and 3983 were injured through the folly of unrestricted celebrations, a wholesome wave of sentiment swept through the country. While the year 1904 was conspicuous by a list of 215 killed and 5092 injured, it caused another crusade for sanity. Since then the figures have gradually fallen until last year in the entire country there were but thirty-two killed and 1131 injured. During the eleven years for which accurate figures have been available, the deaths totalled 1792 and the number of injured reached 39,488. Wherever there has been an organized effort to preserve sanity there has been a gratifying reduction in casualties. Many large cities have gone through the anniversary with nobody killed and with but few injured. This condition should prevail everywhere, with proper precautions on the part of police and parents. It is a day when fathers should devise methods for amusing young America which are perfectly safe. The youngsters can have more fun out of such methods than they derived from the old. But even if there should be diminution of boisterous sort, the old criminal recklessness should be stamped out.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

It did not require a Sylvia Pankhurst to prove that women are sometimes diabolically as well as divinely pertinacious. Every married man realizes that early in his matrimonial experience, and no husband of sense attempts to baffle his wife after she has fully made up her mind to have her own way. But Mr. Asquith's abject surrender makes the future of man still more gloomy. In domestic matters he has come to accept his inferiority without much complaint. But if he is to be bulldozed politically and publicly as well as in the privacy of the family circle, what part is he to play in the world? His soft and generous nature is no match for feminine intensity and fierce perseverance. Unless he can create dissensions among the new women and get part of them on his side, he stands little chance in coming generations to be anything more than a meek assistant in the world's progress and government. Let us hope that he may be rescued from this humiliation through a split in the ranks of the feminine uplifters.—Baltimore Sun.

Major T. F. Russell, in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, makes the direct statement that typhoid fever is non-existent in the United States Army, and the inference is obvious that if the procedure followed in the case of the military establishment were applied to the population generally, it would be possible to destroy the dread disease throughout the entire country. It is a splendid tribute to modern skill that in the entire force of 90,000 men, scattered in the Philippines, Porto Rico and among other dreaded spots, but one death from typhoid occurred in the Army last year. From the time when man first approximated civilized military methods, the great dread of the soldier has been typhoid. Improper sanitation, impure water and other influences contributed to render this disease the scourge of armies. Now, it seems, we can brave the tropics, and still keep our soldiers free from its malignant effects.—Brooklyn Times.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT IS AT PETAWAWA VERY SAD DEATH OF QUEBEC BRIDE

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS WILL RETURN TO QUEBEC ON THURSDAY

His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, accompanied by Col. Far-quhar, his military secretary, and two Aides de Camp left for Petawawa and will return to Quebec on Thursday.

His Royal Highness did not attend the reception to His Eminence Cardinal Beaudry on his arrival here yesterday afternoon. The Governor-General was officially represented at the Cardinal Beaudry demonstration by Capt. Butler, A.D.C.

T. R. H. the Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia spent a quiet day yesterday after the Duchess's visit, on Monday afternoon to the Female Orphan Asylum. On this visit, Her Royal Highness was accompanied by Miss York, lady-in-waiting and Mr.

THE CHIEN D'OR CAFE.

The attention of Chronicle readers is called to the advertisement of this old established and well-known Cafe and Restaurant, which appears in another column. A Lunch Counter and private Lunch Room have been recently added to the establishment and it is now certainly an up-to-date place of business. Mr. Gagnon, the new proprietor is seemingly the right man in the right place, as he is sparing neither labor nor expense to make it first class in all respects. He will no doubt meet with that success which his enterprise deserves.

MURPHY MACDERMOTT

The marriage was solemnized at St.
Patrick's Church yesterday morning of Mr. James Murphy, son of Mr.
Patrick Murphy to Miss Florence MacDermott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. MacDermott. The ceremony, which was of a quiet nature, the guests consisting only of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties, was performed by the Rev.
Father Healey, C.S.S.R. The bride, who was given away by her father, was very prettily attired in cream-colored silk and wore a hat to match.
The groom was attended by his father. Following the church service the bridal party repaired to the residence of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was partaken of and this afternoon the newly-wedded couple left on a honeymoon trip, which will be spent in visiting Montreal, Toronto and Niagara Falls. The popularity of the happy young couple was testified to in the large number of beautiful and valuable gifts they received.

PONT ROUGE FACTORY DESTROYED BY FIRE

$50,000 Blaze In Julien Manufactory

Fire razed to the ground, yesterday morning, the large agricultural implement factory of Mr. Chas. A.
Julien at Pont Rouge, causing a loss of nearly $50,000. The fire spread so rapidly that many employees narrowly escaped with their lives. As the floors were literally coated with oil and as the different halls contained dry wood, one can easily imagine with what rapidity the fire spread.

OLD AT TWENTY.

Return of Youth With Proper Food.

Many persons who eat plenty never seem to be properly nourished.

That's because the food is not digested and absorbed. Much that is eaten is never taken up by the system as real food, and so the tissues simply starve and the individual may, as in a recent case, look and feel old in what should be the bloom of youth.

"At twenty I was prematurely old.
The health and vigor and brightness of youth had been, as it seemed stolen from me. I went to work in the morning with slow steps and a dull head.

"My work through the day was unsatisfactory, for my breakfast lay in my stomach like a hard lump. I was peevish, and the gas in my stomach was very annoying. After supper I usually went to bed to toss half the night from sheer nervousness.

"This was all from indigestion—
caused by wrong eating.

"Finally I tried Grape-Nuts and I cannot describe the full benefits received from the food. It gave me back my health. It has completely restored good digestion and my ailments have disappeared. I steadily improved and am now strong and in perfect health."

BALAAM'S SWORD.

"Here, sir," said the antique dealer, displaying a huge sword to a clerical looking collector, "ever see anything more interesting than that? That's Balaam's sword."

"But, my good man, that cannot be," said the dominie. "Balaam never had a sword. He only wished for one."

"Quite right, sir," said the dealer. "This is the one he wished for!"—Chicago News.

BEN BEY

MOST men who smoke Ben Bey used to think ten cents too little for a good cigar.

It would be—if Ben Bey's makers didn't know tobacco like a banker knows arithmetic—and if they didn't have a strangle-hold on the particular crops and the particular blend that makes Ben Bey possible. They have been in the business for forty years—and Ben Bey is their leading brand. There has been a particularly big and good Ben Bey crop, and that is why, for the first time, there are now enough Ben Beys to go around to every man.

Ten cents (3 for 25c.) is too little for a good cigar, unless you remember to say "Ben Bey"—then it's a plenty.

NOTICE

Owing to fraud, lies and deception practiced upon the public by certain bottlers, hotels, saloons, and stores, we have adopted a new plan to protect the public and ourselves against the following mean, low, and contemptible antics

YOU, the consumer, ask for TIMMONS' Ginger Ale, Soda Water, Ginger Beer, Cream Soda, etc., and they serve you with cheap trash (but you pay the same price as if you got ours), often served without a label on the bottle.

You remark, "Where is TIMMONS' label on the bottle?" They will tell you it fell off in the ice box, which is false and untrue, as the bottle never had a label on it.

We have adopted the following plan to protect you and ourselves against such fraud. We have at extra cost had all our crown corks embossed with the name TIMMONS, so that it cannot be erased or tampered with, and in future all beverages leaving our factory will be embossed with our name, and any drinks without it are not ours.

Kindly see that you are not duped in future by such individuals, as ours will not cost you more than the inferior kind.

The Official Reception

From the King's Wharf His Eminence who in a four-horse carriage and was accompanied by Mgr. Roy. Mayor Drouin drove up to the Laval Monument where Mayor Drouin read the following address:

Address of the Citizens of Quebec to His Eminence Cardinal Begin.

All Quebec is rejoiced to see you once more on your return from this triumphal voyage where you have gone to pluck a new ray of glory to make it gleam on the brow of the French-Canadian country.

In acclaiming you as Prince of the Church we are happy to register in our civic annals this signal distinction which for the second time falls to the old episcopal see of Quebec; and for us who keep the memory of the most Eminent Cardinal Taschereau, the first Canadian Cardinal, ever green, we hail in you his illustrious successor and the worthy continuer of his work.

In this old Quebec where you have passed almost your whole life you are especially one of our own people. We are doubly proud to welcome you with enthusiasm in this centre which is profoundly sympathetic towards you, and to the bosom where you have conquered all minds and won all hearts.

Also you see us gathered together at this moment to bid you welcome not only the faithful and devoted members of your diocese but also our fellow citizens of every race and religious belief, all of whom appreciate your virtues, your knowledge, your truly paternal solicitude and the evangelical clemency with which without any sacrifice of principle, you have made the most of the teachings of the Catholic Church, preaching to all union, peace and harmony, respect for authority, and the rights of every man.

There is only one voice to recognize that this supreme honor is conferred upon you as the well deserved personal reward of a lifetime of devotion to church and country.

And yet, your Eminence, we know how much your modesty shrinks from this praise, and to agree with your wishes, we give a part of this glory to the Church, one of whose most illustrious children you are, to this truly national episcopacy, to this eminent patriotic clergy, who have done so much for the foundation, for the development and the progress of our dear Canada.

Allow us, Your Eminence, to refer to a souvenir drawn from the annals of France which seems to us most appropriate in the imposing popular demonstration which brings us together today.

It is reported that when Joan of Arc was being tried, when questioned on the place of honor, that her standard which was consecrated to her noble Dauphin held, answered, "It had known hardship. So it was right that it should know honor."

These proud words we permit ourselves to apply at this moment to the Canadian Church, to the Episcopacy, to the clergy, to all who are honored in your person by the royal act of the Supreme Pontiff, the spiritual chief of Christianity.

When our dazzled eyes contemplate upon your shoulders this Roman purple, which we are so proud to see carried by one of our own people, we cannot refrain from proclaiming with a loud voice that we owe his royal honor to the Canadian Church. We owe it in particular, Your Eminence, to your personal merit, to this generosity of mind with which while serving your Church and your country you have done such great works and made so many sacrifices for the glory of God. Skilled equally to soar in the heights of theological science and to solve with certainty the serious problems which the history of the church occasionally brings, you have left us of your learning works where elegance and ease of style, dispute in the solidity of doctrine with the variety of conclusions and depth of reasoning. In the diverse functions which you were called to fulfill whether as director of youth and guide of minds, whether as educator in chief of one of our principal seats of learning, your devotion was at all times crowned with brilliant success and rich with the most consoling blessings.

Raised to the honor of the Episcopacy whither your eminent merits were bound to bring you, it was with regret that you accepted the formidable responsibilities and accomplished with zeal, wisdom and a firmness worthy of all the most golden days of the church, its delicate and manifold duties. We have seen you courageously mount justice that were universally admired the eminently evangelical role of Prince of Peace.

For many years, Your Eminence, you knew hardship; it was but fitting that you should know honor. The Holy See knows your work and your merits. It has wished to bless and crown them solemnly. This honor is reflected upon all of us. We shall be everlastingly grateful to His Holiness Pope Pius X for it.

At this moment, when the world seems to have its eyes upon us and is astonished at our rapid development, your elevation to the rank of Prince of the Church, assumes for us the proportions of a national event, placing Canada among the favored nations of the earth, and it is for us a happy presage of the future greatness of our dear country.

As for us, citizens of Quebec, it is with a peculiar enthusiasm that we address to you the thrilling acclamation that of old was given by the masses to the triumphant warriors in the streets and public squares of ancient Rome, that you have heard resounding to your honor under the sonorous vaults of the Consistory: "Ad Multos Annos." You may live long for the welfare of the Church and the glory of Canada.

His Eminence then replied as follows:

His Eminence Replies to Mayor of Quebec.

Mr. Mayor,—It had pleased the Lord in His omniscient mercy to throw my lot and my life on this earth with the destinies of the City of Quebec, which is consequently, after Rome, the fatherland of our souls, and the place of my childhood, very particularly dear to my heart. The congratulations which you have been kind enough to extend to me are particularly welcome because I recognize therein, couched in appropriate language, the sentiments of the citizens for whom I have the esteem of a sincere friend, and the love of a father.

My elevation to the Cardinalate is a joy to me, not so much for myself, as for you; not only because it is a source of encouragement to me in my labors, and assistance in my responsibilities, but because I have therein for you, as all the children of my diocese, a pledge of abundant blessings.

In crowning this, our episcopal city, the Holy See wished to reiterate its pious traditions, Quebec was the cradle of the French nation in America, and has always, particularly in the hour of danger, protected its interests. It has given it an impetus on the road to legitimate success. It was the Holy See that first lit the light of faith on the shores of the St. Lawrence. It was from Quebec that the missionaries went forth to preach the gospel in Acadia, the district of the Great Lakes, Illinois, and the vast valley of the Mississippi. Our church here in Quebec is the mother of the many which are today scattered throughout our country like so many brilliant stars in its crown of glory.

When Samuel de Champlain came to lay on this chosen corner of the earth, the foundation stones of our city, he wished to lay them in the truth brought into the world by Jesus Christ. He understood that men work in vain on the building if the hand of God is not on the work, and that the sentinels watch in vain at the gates of the city that the Lord guardeth not. Without the aid of Him, who rules the eternal kingdom, man can do no really durable work; the sentiment of religion alone, in accordance with the doctrine of the Saviour, implants and maintains in the bosoms of peoples and institutions the seed of immortality. If the French-Canadian race has, despite so many trials and struggles, succeeded in constantly developing, if it is extending its influence more and more in this part of the new continent, it is only because it has remained imbued with supernatural aid and Catholic piety. The one danger it must combat is that of letting the Christian spirit which has helped it so materially in the past, and promises to help it in the future, die out.

In presenting me your homage and the vows with which your piety inspires you, as also your assurance of attachment to the religion of which I have the honor of being the first representative in your midst, you have, Mr. Mayor, been the interpreter of the sentiments of your fellow-citizens, and the faithful echo of their souls. You all appreciate the devotion which our clergy, our charitable institutions and our educational establishments show in your welfare, and I thank you for it.

For my own part, I am more than ever determined to carry out the programme I outlined at the Consistory. "The higher the honor which is conferred on me, the more I understand the duties relative thereto; saintliness of life, greater zeal for the salvation of souls, and in the ministry to souls and the study of grave problems and in the general administration of the affairs of the Universal Church.

The proof of good-will which has just been conferred on us by Our Holy Father Pope Pius X, ought to be to us all a motive to ally ourselves even more closely to the Holy See of Rome. Let us keep our faces turned to the over-burning lighthouse, which no human power can ever dim or put out, and whose rays are powerful enough to illuminate the whole earth. Let us walk by its light in the path of duty and truth, and let my sincere hope and most earnest desire that Quebec will ever continue to be a credit to our country, the Church, and to Almighty God.

After the Cardinal had made his reply he was conducted to the throne in front of the Basilica where Mgr. Laffamme presented him with a crucifix. He then entered the church where a solemn Te Deum was sung. The Cardinal then gave his benediction to all present and preached a short sermon. He then left the church and proceeded immediately to the Palace.

The Duke of Connaught was not, as erroneously reported, at the service in the Basilica as he was away at Petawawa. He was represented by Captain Buller, A.D.C.

Fireworks At Night

At night a huge crowd gathered to see the fireworks in Montmorency Park near the Palace and to listen to the R. C. G. A. Band which gave a splendid selection and did credit to their capable bandmaster, Lieut. O'Neill. The illuminations on the Palace, the City Hall and the different public buildings were of unusual splendor and the fireworks especially good.

During the evening His Eminence, who was accompanied by the Papal Ablegate and a number of his clergy sat on the throne at the foot of the Laval Monument.

Programme Remaining

The following programme yet remains to be carried out:

Wednesday, June 24—At 9 o'clock in the Cathedral, solemn Low Mass conducted by His Eminence. Chanting of hymns by the choir and the pupils of the Academy of St. Joseph de St. Jean Baptiste de Quebec. At 10 o'clock in the Promotion Hall of Laval University, presentation of an address and a dinner at the Seminary. In the evening at 8 o'clock a banquet by the City to His Eminence.

Thursday, June 25—At 8 o'clock in the evening, reception at the City Hall.

Sunday, June 28—At 10:30 o'clock in the Cathedral, Pontifical Mass will be held, at which His Eminence will assist. Sermon by Abbe Camille Roy of the Quebec Seminary. Chanting of hymns by the choir of St. Louis de France, of Montreal.

Neuralgia of the Heart

This Letter Tells of Wonderful Change Effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. James G. Clark, Fosterville, York County, N.B., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from what the doctors said was neuralgia of the heart. Though I had taken a lot of medicine of one kind and another, I could not get anything to help me until I used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"When I began this treatment I could not rest in bed, except by sitting upright, on account of the dreadful pains about the heart and the quick, loud beating. The change which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has made in my condition is wonderful. It has entirely overcome these symptoms, and is making me strong and well. If this statement will help to relieve the suffering of others, you are at liberty to use it."

Stomach Troubles Due to Acidity

So Says Eminent Specialist.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind and stomach-ache are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acids. Wind distends the stomach, and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the fermenting food. Such fermentation is unnatural, and acid formation is not only unnatural, but may involve most serious consequences if not corrected. To stop or prevent fermentation of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and render it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisulphated magnesia, probably the best and most effective corrector of acid stomach known, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water immediately after eating, or whenever wind or acidity is felt. This stops the fermentation, and neutralizes the acidity in a few minutes. Fermentation, wind and acidity are dangerous and unnecessary. Stop or prevent them by the use of a proper antacid, such as bisulphated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist and thus enable the stomach to do its work properly without being hindered by poisonous gas and dangerous acids.—M. When the Liver Gets Torpid

There is Nothing Like Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to Set it Right.

Mrs. C. L. Cook, 248 Tenth street, Brandon, Man., writes:—"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the last four years for liver trouble, and can say that I have had great satisfaction and help from them. I find that I do not need any doctor if I use them when the liver gets torpid, and believe that they are exactly suited for my case. My husband has used them for kidney trouble with good results, and my daughter in Winnipeg has been helped a great deal by the use of these pills. We say we can't keep house without them, and have cheated the doctors here out of a good many visits. I think Dr. Chase's medicines are just the thing, and have recommended them to many people who have used them with good results."

By keeping the liver active and the bowels regular Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills prevent and cure such disorders as biliousness, constipation, chronic indigestion and headache. One pill a dose, 25c a box, 5 for $1.00; all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

BROOKLYN SIDEWALK CAVES INTO SUBWAY

One Killed and Six Injured.

New York, June 23.—Nearly half a block of sidewalk and superstructure over a new Brooklyn subway caved in today, burying more than twenty workmen, killing one and badly injuring six. A wagon and a team of horses were engulfed and one of the animals was killed. Many tons of debris filled the excavation and firemen and police reserves had to dig out the injured. It was one of the worst cave-ins in the history of New York subway construction.

tin, the eminent naval constructor, said the only way of preventing the recurrence of such catastrophes was the construction of ships with horizontal bulkheads which should go completely round the ship, so that the water on entering at one side should penetrate the other, thus trimming the ship and acting like a water ballast. The compartments should be separated vertically into two parts hermetically closed from each other, so that in the event of the destruction of the bottom compartments the upper part of the ship should remain watertight, and keep afloat a long time. Ships constructed in this manner, he said, would cost slightly more, and in addition, would be very inconvenient for passenger traffic on account of the necessary limitation of the corridors. This was a condition which would militate against the adoption of the design by steamship companies.

HAMEL, THE KING OF BRITISH BIRDMEN

Gustav Hamel, the brilliant aviator who lost his life in the English Channel, was only 24 years old, and was recognized as not only the best man in England, but one of the most daring and expert in the world. This curly-haired youth was the son of a London doctor, and belonged essentially to the middle classes. Yet in a couple of years he became one of the social lions of the day, was invited to meet Royalty, dined formally and informally with dukes and duchesses, and was welcomed to some of the most exclusive homes in England. He was, in fact, accorded the treatment of other geniuses once they make good their claim to the title. Hamel used frequently to dance half the night, and next morning would be flying upside down or looping the loop apparently as fresh as a daisy. No aviator crossed the channel as often as this boy. None other except Pegoud, who showed that it could be done, looped the loop so often or was so fond of flying upside down.

First to Carry Mail.

Hamel had been racing and giving exhibitions since 1911, his first great success coming in May of that year, when he won the handicap race from Brooklands to Brighton, defeating all the crack British aviators. He covered the 40 miles in a little more than 57 minutes. Later in the season he raced in the Gordon Bennett contest and made a good showing against the French experts. In September, 1911, he carried the world's first aerial post from Hendon to Windsor, being the only one of four aviators willing to take the risk in a turbulent wind. He covered the 19 miles at the rate of 105 miles an hour, and delivered a mail bag containing 9,000 letters. The following month he made his first "cross-channel flight," the object being to bring a new Blériot aeroplane from the factory to the flying school at Hendon. On this trip he flew at an altitude of 9,000 feet, about the highest he ever went, and on his return described the journey as having provided great sport in the dodging of thick banks of fog.

Carrying Passengers 'Cross-Channel.

Hamel flew the channel numbers of times, and was the first aviator to make the trip with a passenger. His companion was Miss Eleanor Trewhack Davies, the daughter of a London solicitor, and a lady said to be absolutely without nerves. On her return Miss Davies said that the trip was like going through a kind of transparent cotton wool. "Being unable to speak or see much," she said, "I read most of the time. The book was 'A Sentimental Journey.' With this same passenger Hamel looped the loop, being the first aviator to perform this feat with a passenger. He repeated the stunt with Lady Victoria Percy as passengers, and was quite willing to do it with any passenger who had sufficient nerve to make the request. One of his 'cross-channel flights' with Miss Davies was done in 12 minutes, which constitutes a record. Another record held by Hamel was made in a 'cross-country' race from Hendon to Birmingham, a distance of 100 miles, which was covered in less than 90 minutes.

How the Derby Was Won

Hamel won the great aerial Derby around London, and more than a million people saw him do it. He covered the course of 94 1-2 miles in one hour 15 minutes, and 40 seconds, beating a half-dozen famous French flyers as well as the pick of the British experts. An incident occurred in the course of this race that gives an idea of Hamel's coolness and resourcefulness. While crossing the Thames a screw attaching a petrol cap worked loose and fell out. Hamel saw the accident, but, reaching out, put his finger on the orifice and held it there for the remaining 40 miles of the journey. In crossing the channel he would frequently change his course when a steamer was sighted, and, swooping down, would circle the vessel like some huge hawk, manoeuvring his craft as handily as a rider would put a well-trained horse through its paces.

Had Only One Rival

It is said that in a Blériot machine Hamel had only one rival, and that was the famous Garros. Though he won many races, it was as a trick performer that he was most noted. Not only did he perform feats devised by himself, but he was ready to try anything anyone else had ever accomplished, and seemed to be absolutely without fear when in the air. On one occasion at Hendon he rose to an altitude of 2,000 feet and remained for nearly two minutes almost stationary. Again and again he would rise above the clouds until lost to view by the thousands who were breathlessly watching him, and when it was too windy for any other aviator to risk a flight Hamel could always be counted upon to brave the weather. Hamel received 50 guineas from each passenger who took a flight with him, and made money, very fast. That he was counted upon to add to the scientific knowledge upon the subject of aeronautics is proved by the interest the British Admiralty took in his exploits. His death from some unknown cause when undertaking a journey that he had completed successfully scores of times before is a severe blow to British aviation.

THE RAGGED CONGRESSMAN.

It is a ragged Congressman Who stopped one of three. "Now by my hildom," he saith, "Wilt thou but look at me!"

"One day I wore a high silk hat. And costly tailored clothes; A diamond pin in my cravat, And silk imported hose."

"The daughters of the White House then Were merely being wooed; On Sunday nights a few young men Would silently intrude."

"We Congressmen, grown cold in love, Were blind to what it meant; We saw the smiling moon above With fatuous consent."

"The dread significance of it Thy wit, no doubt, foretells. But listen, friend, a little bit, 'Thou'lt hear the wedding bells."

"For wedding gifts my pay is gone, My raiment and my all; For wedding gifts I live upon Such manna as may fall."

"For brooches and for loving cups My state is sad to view; Tonight, I think, the Congress sups At Hash House No. 2."

"In shame do I harangue the throng, And prate upon my needs; But these assessments come along Just like a string of beads."

It is a ragged Congressman Who quitteth one of three. "Now by my hildom," he saith, "No more of this for me."

NOT ON HIMSELF.

Representative Hobson was talking about the difficulties of the prohibition legislation on which, for many years, he has worked very hard. "Congressmen," said a correspondent, "I should think, in view of the difficulties which beset you, that you'd sometimes feel like committing suicide."

"I do," said the famous sailor grimly. "I do—but not on myself."

CLOSING MARKET LETTER

Received over the private wire of Neville Belleau & Co., Brokers, 93 St. Peter St., Quebec.

New York, N. Y., June 23.—The two important decisions that came down late yesterday very much more than counteracted the one in regard to the Southern Pacific and its oil lands, and it was a general cause of comment that the market did not break at the opening in view of these two adverse rulings. The writer expected to see the London market down from one to two dollars a share and our market to go even lower. Instead, prices opened really steady, if not strong, and it was only in the last half hour that it showed any shading, and then not to any extent. These two decisions were both adverse to a marked degree and must cause at least for a time, losses to our railroads. On the other hand, it is argued that the more the rate making power is concentrated in the Interstate Commerce Commission and taken from State Commissions, the better for all concerned. There is no doubt a good deal in this and accounts, in part at least, for the steadiness of the market. The Pipe Line decision was expected to be adverse and its announcement did not cause

Correspondence

"OFFICIOUS CONSTABLE"

To Editor of The Chronicle.
Sir,—For the information of your readers, I beg to draw your attention to part of your report of "Empire of Ireland Enquiry" in your issue of 23rd instant, called "Officious Constable."

As a matter of fact your information is wrong. The control of the audience belongs wholly to the Commissioners, to whom I lent the room of the Criminal Court with accommodation thereof. However, as there has been since the opening of the proceedings a large public attendance, I secured certain space adjoining the desks of the lawyers in charge of the case, for the exclusive use of the officials, the Quebec lawyers and their friends, specially appointing a constable to properly guard this space.

I did so, because, after all, the lawyers of the Quebec Bar and Court House staff, whose first officer I am, are at least entitled to proper space to conveniently hear the proceedings.

With regard to journalists, I do not think they can either complain or unfavorably remark upon my responsibility in the conduct of the whole matter, as I am sure many of them could vouch that I have done the best possible to accommodate them with special reference to their comfort and satisfaction.

Special quarters were given them, the very best after accommodating the numerous "personnel" of the Commissioners' official staff.

Specially speaking of Mr. James Brown, he is an old constable of the Court House, well known as an unassuming officer who knows his duty and conscientiously performs it.

In this particular instance he has fully carried out his instructions; and upon inquiry, I find he has dealt with the persons complaining of his "over zeal" in the politest possible manner.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your kindness in publishing this letter, I am

Very respectfully yours,
CLEOPHAS BLOUIN,
Sheriff of Quebec.

Perhaps it is not to the knowledge of Mr. Blouin, that Mr. James Brown stated to a representative of this paper that certain seats were solely for the use of lawyers, and when so informed the seat was vacated, but immediately after, five of these seats were given over by this same official Mr. Brown to five men who had never before possibly seen the inside of a court room, but who appeared to be very intimate friends of Constable Brown. We were quite within our rights in commenting on Mr. Brown's officiousness and his subsequent absolute disregard of orders which the Sheriff now intimates he had given him.—Ed. Chronicle.

COMPLAINT AGAINST RAILWAY SERVICE.

To Editor of The Chronicle.
Sir,—Will you kindly grant me space in your valuable columns to make a forcible and just complaint against the management of the Quebec Oriental and the Atlantic Quebec and Western Railways, in connection with the disgraceful accommodation afforded first-class passengers travelling on these lines, between Matapedia and Gaspé, with the hope that the General Manager of the Railways will read these remarks, and give the matter his immediate and close attention, and do his utmost to provide the travelling public, and more especially first-class passengers, with suitable clean and proper cars.

My wife and myself having decided to spend a few weeks at Baker's Hotel, purchased tickets from Quebec to Gaspé, and return, and were informed that the car accommodation was fair and passable. We travelled from Quebec to Matapedia on the Intercolonial, and at the latter place were changed over to the above named railways, and were put into one of the oldest and filthiest "first-class" coaches it is possible to imagine; the floors dirty, the seats filthy and covered with dust, the sanitary arrangements bad, filthy, unhealthy and simply disgusting. The lighting poor, and so dim that one cannot attempt to read by it.

We do not expect Pullman or even finely upholstered coaches, but we certainly did think we would have been given clean, proper and suitable accommodation.

I am not aware, whether there is a Government Inspector of Railways, but if there is, I would ask you, Mr. Editor to urge upon his being sent down with least delay possible to inspect the cars of the above mentioned lines, and I feel certain, he will condemn many of the coaches, and compel the management to give the public, the suitable accommodation they are legally entitled to.

Thanking you for the space so kindly afforded, and hoping your good influence will have the effect of securing better accommodation to seaside visitors.

I subscribe myself,
A SEASIDE VISITOR.
