Levitt found not guilty due to insanity

By GORDON ALEXANDER
(Record Reporter)

SHERBROOKE — "Not guilty by reason of insanity" was the verdict handed down by an all-Anglophone jury of eight men and four women in superior court yesterday in the case of Manuel Levitt accused of murdering his sister, Phyllis, with an axe at a farm on the Dillon Road in Ascot Township January 29 this year.

Levitt, 32, a native of Brooklyn, New York, will be held in custody at the Sherbrooke Hospital where he will undergo extensive psychiatric treatment and later be transferred to the Philippe Pinel Institution in Montreal where he will continue psychiatric care until such time as the Lieut Governor may see fit to release him.

Testimony given at yesterday's trial by Constables Rene Cote and Eugene Bezil of the Provincial Police force along with Virginia Jakutavicus, a nurse with the psychiatric department of the Sherbrooke Hospital, lead the defence and crown to concur with the findings of Dr. Pierre Gagne, Psychiatrist from the CHU Medical Center, and Psychiatrist Dr. Raymond Matte that Manuel Levitt was a paranoid schizophrenic not able to appreciate the nature and quality of his actions.

After hearing testimony from the constables who were first at the scene of the slaying, Dr. Andre Brasseau, from the Legal Medical Institute in Montreal who performed the autopsy on the body of Miss Levitt as well as the testimony from the psychiatric nurses and the two psychiatrists, the defence petitioned Judge William Mitchell to charge the jury to find Levitt not guilty by reason of insanity. Crown prosecutor Michel Pinard concurred with the petition.

After hearing two hours of testimony the judge in turn concurred with the appeal from the defence. "I see no reason to continue with this case as the evidence is clear," Judge Mitchell told the jury. "I can see no other clear verdict but not guilty by reason of insanity. You (the jury), of course, are free to determine the merits of the evidence given and question the testimony given. However, I see no reason why the witnesses testimony should not be believed," he added.

After a half-hour of deliberation the 12 jurors returned to hand down their verdict of acquittal.

Levitt, a slight but well built man, appeared in court clean-shaven wearing a red T-shirt. He appeared unmoved by testimony and the subsequent verdict. He sat with his hands clasped on his knees, tight-lipped and staring straight ahead. His mother and father, aunt and uncle from New York attended yesterday's trial and broke into tears when the verdict was rendered. Also present in the courtroom was Levitt's girlfriend, Sandy Reese, who had a prepared statement of admission which was read to the court by defence attorney Arnold Lechter at the beginning of the trial.

The statement of admission disclosed that she accompanied Manuel and his sister, Phyllis, from New York and were guests at the home of Chuck Nevill on the Dillon Road in Ascot Township. In her statement she said that Manuel's behavior was growing increasingly peculiar during their stay and that he claimed that he was communicating with God and beings from another world.

Testimony given by the investigating provincial police officers revealed that upon investigation of a complaint of a disturbance at 10 p.m. January 29 they found the body of Phyllis Levitt on the kitchen floor covered in blood. At the time they both saw Manuel Levitt in an adjacent room nude moving about restlessly screaming "It's too late, it's too late."

Dr. Pierre Gagne who has been examining Levitt extensively since the incident said that Levitt has been undergoing treatment for a mental disorder for a number of years and has been under medication at his home in Brooklyn, New York. He said that before the incident Levitt had stopped taking his medication. Dr. Gagne's statement revealed that he considered himself to be the Messiah and claimed that he could see auras or halos around people's heads and could tell their state of being by the color of these halos. He said that Levitt had found various passages in the Bible to corroborate his claim to be the Messiah. Levitt also felt he was being persecuted by the FBI, the Russians and a secret society in the United States who knew he was the Messiah and were trying to kill him.

"When he murdered his sister he did not realize that it was his sister he was killing but rather, an enemy who had come to kill him," Dr. Gagne said.

"When Mr. Levitt was acting wildly his sister tried to restrain him and at that time he thought that she was someone else and killed her to protect the person of the Messiah," Dr. Gagne continued.

"Mr. Levitt, a Jew of Russian extraction, believed that Russians were trying to get him and reacted violently to a painting in the Ascot home which showed Jews being persecuted by the Russians," Dr. Gagne said.

Dr. Gagne read a statement by his associate, Dr. Raymond Matte, which concluded that Mr. Levitt was indeed not responsible for his actions as was in their estimation being insane by all legal interpretations of the word.

FOUND NOT GUILTY — A bearded Manuel Levitt is seen as he appeared at his indictment earlier this year. Yesterday he was found not guilty by reason of insanity after being accused of murdering his sister, Phyllis, January 29.

Prisoners end strike

MONTREAL (CP) — The director of nearby Archambault Institute, scene of a 14-hour hostage drama earlier this week, announced Thursday that prisoners at the penitentiary have agreed to end the strike they had been conducting for almost four months.

Warden Jean-Paul Lebrun said the prisoners had decided to end the strike, which began Jan. 15, but "for the good of all the prisoners," both sides were maintaining their positions on the issue of contract visits.

Prisoners now must speak to visitors through a thick plateglass window.

Small companies affected

MONTREAL (CP) — Anti-inflation board member Claude Castonguay said Thursday it was "absolutely out of the question" that the board would extend its powers to cover salary increases of workers in companies with fewer than 500 employees.

In the text of a speech delivered at the Quebec Bar Association's annual conference, Mr. Castonguay said that to extend controls to all companies with fewer than 500 employees "would require an army of bureaucrats."

"Certain economic analysts fear the effects of not extending controls to smaller companies," he said.

Liquor employees walk-out

MONTREAL (CP) — The 1,500 employees of the Quebec Liquor Corp. will walk off the job "sometime next week," a union official said Thursday.

Ronald Asselin, president of the Union of Store and Office Employees, said members employed by the corporation would probably walk out for a 24-hour period.

Contract talks between the union and the corporation broke down Wednesday. The union said in a statement that the corporation had not improved on its latest wage offer, which was rejected by union members by a 90 per cent margin last month.

Italian earthquake leaves 300 dead

VENICE, Italy (AP) — About 300 persons were believed killed in a severe earthquake that jolted northeast Italy Thursday night, devastating dozens of towns and villages in the Tagliamento River valley near the Yugoslav border.

The interior ministry in Rome said rescue workers recovered 138 bodies. The ministry said about 160 more persons were trapped in the rubble and believed dead. More than 1,000 people were reported injured.

A police spokesman said most of the damage was in towns and villages along both sides of the Tagliamento, which flows from the eastern Alps into the Adriatic some 40 miles northeast of Venice.

A few chimneys were knocked down in Venice, and thousands rushed to the Piazza San Marco and other open spaces, seeking safety. But no casualties or major damage was reported here or in other major cities.

The strongest tremors were felt across at least six countries, causing panic among millions in Italy, Yugoslavia, Austria, Czechoslovakia, West Germany and Belgium. Hundreds of Belgians fled from apartment houses. However, no casualties or major damage was reported outside of Italy.

The Italian state radio, in a special report from the disaster area, said 180,000 people spent the night in the open. The army set up 600 large camp tents in soccer fields and other open areas. Engineers worked to restore water supplies to an estimated 60,000 rural residents left without drinking water.

National police headquarters in Rome said the quake levelled Forgaria, a town of 4,000, and destroyed one-half to one-third of the towns of Buia, Osoppo, San Pietro di Ramogna and Colliardo.

A police officer in Forgaria said the situation

there was "catastrophic."

In Buia, a town of 8,000 about seven miles east of Forgaria, a policeman told the news agency Italia there are "many dead, very many."

Police in Maiano, a town of 6,000 about five miles southwest of Buia, said 40 bodies have been recovered from the debris of two blocks of houses and a restaurant.

Interior Minister Francesco Cossiga worked through the night in Rome co-ordinating rescue work. Troops, police, firemen and volunteers were rushed to the disaster area from hundreds of miles away.

Marchand says snoops trailing him

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Elmer MacKay dismissed as ludicrous Thursday allegations by Environment Minister Jean Marchand that private detectives had been hired by political opponents to follow him.

"I feel sorry for Jean Marchand if he feels that paranoid," said Mr. MacKay, who has led his party's attack on alleged irregularities in transport department contract tendering.

Mr. Marchand, former transport minister, said in a French-language radio interview Thursday that he is being followed by people who want to "destroy me politically."

"I have nothing to hide," he said. "But I find it simply odious that I am followed simply to see if they can find something abnormal that can be exploited politically."

In the Commons, Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said he is looking into reports that MPs were being investigated by private detectives hired by "certain political parties or figures."

Mr. MacKay said the Conservative party had hired a former private detective to verify public corporate documents relating to a Sky Shops tender but that was the limit of his work for the party.

"I resent any implication that I've been hiring a bunch of gumshoes."

Conservative Leader Joe Clark said in an interview that he believes "there is some desire on the part of the minister to cast an ugly word on what we have been doing."

The matter was raised in the Commons by Serge Joyal (L—Montreal-Maisonnette-Rosemont), a former assistant to Mr. Marchand.

He did not make specific allegations there, but he said outside the Commons that he had been told a policeman in the Ottawa area had been approached to investigate MPs while off duty.

US border TV stations threaten signal jamming

OTTAWA (CP) — Although U.S. border television stations are threatening to jam their signals entering Canada, the government does not expect any large-scale American retaliation, Communications Minister Jeanne Sauve said Thursday.

She told the Senate banking committee that U.S. broadcasters are exploiting Canadian advertising markets and reaping windfall profits and the U.S. government is not expected to intervene to stop the activity.

She was defending sections of controversial advertising tax legislation which would bar advertisers from claiming 100 per cent income tax deductions for payments to U.S. border television stations.

The same bill would also deny tax deductions for advertisers in foreign magazines retroactive to Jan. 1, a measure that prompted Time magazine to halt publication of its Canadian edition.

Mrs. Sauve said U.S. border television stations draw about $20 million a year in advertising revenue from Canadian sources a small sum by U.S. standards but significant when compared with total after-tax Canadian television profits of $6 million in 1974.

She said authorities on both sides of the border are still considering various long-term solutions to the television dispute. But the U.S. government has never raised any objections to the tax legislation.

Owners of television stations in Buffalo, N.Y. have applied to the U.S. Federal Communications Commission for permission to jam signals going into the lucrative Toronto-Hamilton market but so far the U.S. broadcasting agency has not responded.

Mrs. Sauve said she discussed the problem with newly-appointed U.S. Ambassador Thomas Enders and plans to go to the U.S. soon to make a major speech defending Canada's position.

Walkouts continue

MONTREAL (CP) — Walkouts by Protestant teachers throughout the province Thursday may be extended today, a spokesman for the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers (PAPT) said.

Alan Wright, spokesman for the PAPT Montreal wing, said the walkouts came after negotiations with provincial authorities bogged down on "peripheral clauses."

Under recently-passed Quebec legislation, teachers are banned from strike action until July 1. Unions and individuals violating the law face heavy fines, and the Quebec solicitor-general's office has announced it will prosecute offenders.

About 90 per cent of the PAPT's 6,700 members were off the job Thursday while French-Catholic teachers returned to work after a one-day walkout Wednesday.

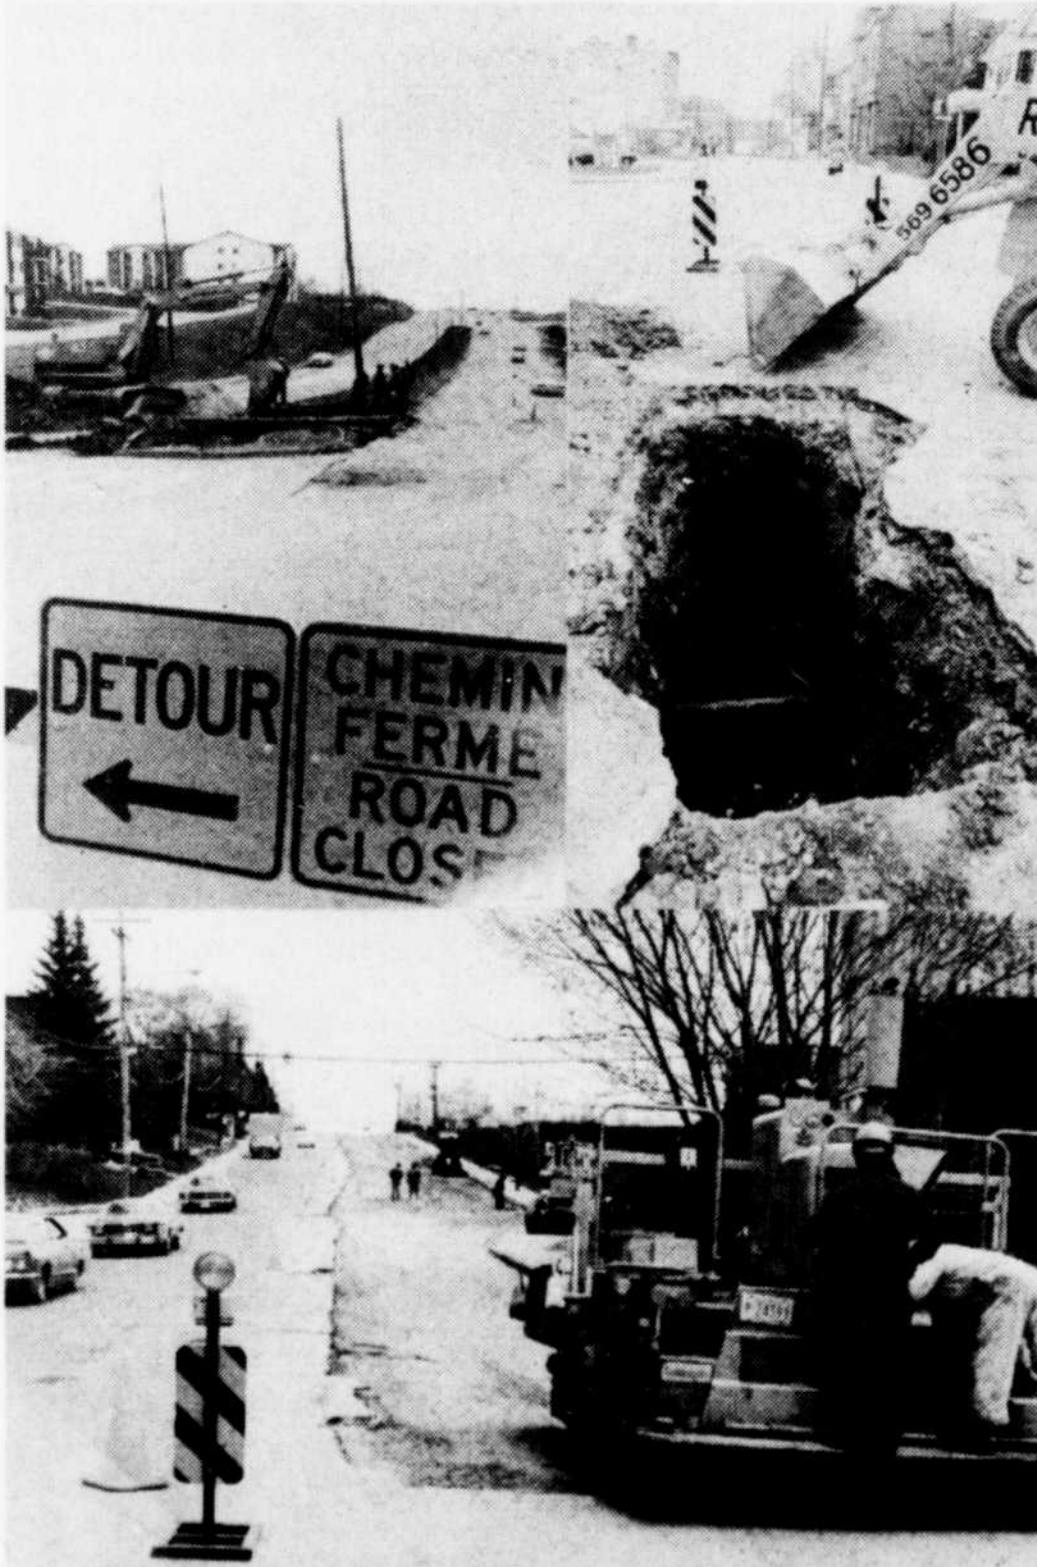

Meanwhile, the Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU) said it is asking private-sector workers to join medical and education workers planned for today.

TO HIT COLLEGES

Quebec's 37 junior colleges will also be the target of teacher walkouts today as the Federation National des Enseignants Catholiques promised work disruptions if Quebec fails to issue another offer.

Meanwhile, Bernard Lachapelle, minister of state for higher education, said he has approved an extended school-year for 28 of the colleges to make up for time lost in teacher and student boycotts.

Teacher unions have already said they will not accept government-imposed extensions of the school year.

DETOUR — ROAD CLOSED seemed to be the phrase for the day as city motorists tried to reach their destinations despite the city's newly erected obstacle course. No less than three of the city's main arteries were closed off this week because of construction work. One side of Portland Blvd. (upper left) was closed off to traffic as city workers proceeded to dig up the drain pipes. Motorists using Dufferin Street, (upper right), were met by the cavity shown here. And workers prepare to pave Terrill Street, (bottom) after repairing the storm drains which earlier this spring caused the street to cave in.

Higher share prices expected

Investors should continue to hold Canadian stocks because higher share prices are expected this year, Babson's Canadian Reports Ltd. says in its current newsletter.

The investment counselling firm predicts a strengthening economy in Canada will parallel the business revival in the United States.

It says external trade is expected to provide a major stimulus in this year's recovery from the recent recession.

"We look for gradually improving performance continuing into 1977 as foreign economies revive."

The newsletter says inflation remains the No. 1 question mark in the success of the revival.

The federal government's anti-inflation policy has "created uncertainties, but it appears to be holding down consumer prices and this trend is expected to produce a lower rate of inflation over the year."

It predicts there should be some moderation in the Bank of Canada's restraining monetary stance and in interest rates, both short- and long-term.

"Loan demand remains buoyant despite prime lending rates in excess of 10 per cent and we may see even higher rates before there is any drop."

Gauthier's confession heard in slaying of paint instructor

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — It is expected the jury may be out as early as Wednesday deciding the fate of Mario Gauthier following developments in his murder trial late yesterday afternoon.

Justice Jean-Louis Pelouin following lengthy arguments on points of law allowed Gauthier's confession signed at the Cowansville Penitentiary April 8, 1975 allowed in evidence as well as testimony from penitentiary guards and instructors.

Two instructors said they saw Gauthier in the paint shop after the slaying of paint shop instructor Georges Nadeau, however, said they had not spoken to him. A keeper said his only words with the accused was when he was asked by Gauthier why he was being transferred from cell block eight to the meditation area when he told him all prisoners in the shop at the time of the Nadeau incident were being segregated. Another custodial officer told the court he told Gauthier to quiet down when he was banging on his cell door in the meditation area. Gauthier's confession was read by Corp. Medard Cyr of the QPF who told the court he and constable Jacques Guerin had interrogated the accused after advising him of his rights and the corporal said no inducements, threats or promises were used to have him confess.

The highlights of the confession are as follows: "I was placed in the shop about a month prior to the incident and I was very nervous that day. Nadeau had insulted me and kicked me. I went to the office and he was on the phone. I took a hammer and hit him eight or 10 times. When I first hit him he said, 'Oh No.' then he collapsed on the floor. I looked at my watch; when I began hitting him it was 10:25 a.m. and I stopped at 10:30 a.m."

The trial was adjourned until 9:30 a.m. Tuesday morning and Crown Prosecutor Claude Noiseux told the court he would have but one or two more witnesses prior to resting his case.

Four inmates were called to the stand Wednesday and Thursday with one refusing to testify. He was then held in contempt of court by Justice Jean Louis Pelouin and his sentence was adjourned to May 18.

The other three all testified they liked Mr. Nadeau, both as a man and as an institutional officer.

Their testimony all indicated they heard a strange scream, then saw Mr. Nadeau lying on the floor in the office of the paint shop. The names of the inmates who testified are being withheld to save them any possible retaliation within various penal institutions.

Another witness, Henri Fleury, another instructor, said he heard kicking on the door leading to the paint shop from his work area and he entered when he saw the battered body of Mr. Nadeau on the floor.

Jacques Marceau, a QPF investigator, identified clothing produced in evidence earlier as coming from Gauthier's cell. "It was in the possession of a penitentiary guard who showed us where he found them and I in turn gave the clothing to Mr. Belanger, a chemist attached to the Medical legal Institute."

USING CAMPAIGN FUNDS — New beds and hospital room furniture such as that seen above have been purchased thanks to funds raised from the 1974 Sherbrooke Hospital fund-raising campaign. This year's campaign begins next week.

Hospital campaign planned

Campaign 1976 to raise funds for the Sherbrooke Hospital begins next week.

In 1974, funds from the campaign of that year made it possible to purchase new beds for the patients. The beds that were in use had been in use since 1951 when the new hospital was built in its present site, after moving from the east ward of Sherbrooke.

The new beds are modern and they are attractive to begin with, and this in itself adds to immediate comfort of a patient upon admission to the hospital.

Remember the old days - everything white, functional, cold and such a sterile atmosphere to say the least? Today, Sherbrooke Hospital has new brown furniture, pleasant comfortable easy chairs and gay colorful curtains plus an extra orange, straight-backed chair in each room.

The new beds eliminate the use of the footstool for getting in and out of bed, because there is a special crank that lowers the entire length of the bed so that it is easy, even for the shortest person, to get in and out of bed without difficulty.

This same crank elevates the entire length of the bed so that it is level with a stretcher if a patient is going to X-ray, Operating Room, or Out-patient Department.

By elevating the entire bed, it saves the nurse's back. She doesn't have to bend to bathe the patient, do preventing many a fall to the floor. Another added feature of these new beds is that the nurse and - or orderly can move the beds more easily. The wheels are right on the beds. In the past, bed wheels were removed so patients could get out of bed. The beds are lighter and not as difficult to move. What an asset in an emergency when a bed has to be moved very fast!

We, the nurses of Sherbrooke Hospital, have a deep appreciation for these new beds and our work load is easier because of them - not to mention time saved.

We are grateful for these new beds and our thanks for them to the Campaign, Hospital Management and the Ministry of Social Affairs who approved the purchase of them.

Patients who are mobile often like one side rail up so they can pull themselves around following surgery. Sometimes up, just to feel safe. They are essential for safety of the aged patients

Among the guests were her only daughter from Cowansville besides several other relatives.

Another celebration was held Sunday, May 2 with a family dinner in St. Bibiane's Church Hall when five generations attended.

Thetford native retires as Montreal port manager

MONTREAL — The vice chairman of National Harbours Board Guy Beaudet is leaving the public service of Canada and retiring on pension after more than 35 years of service including 17 years as port manager for the Port of Montreal.

Born in Thetford Mines, Quebec, and a graduate from Ecole Polytechnique de Montreal, Mr. Beaudet started his career as town engineer in his native town. After having served in the Canadian Army for five years, he became manager of the Montreal branch of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to ultimately join the National Harbours Board as assistant port manager for the Port of Montreal then port manager from 1954 to 1971.

Promoted a member of National Harbours Board in 1971, he became vice-chairman of this crown agency in 1972 with particular responsibilities for ports of the St. Lawrence Region.

During his various tenures with the federal government Mr. Beaudet has been associated with many important projects such as the construction of housing units for the members of the first delegations to the International Civil Aviation Organization, Construction of Grain Elevator number 4 at the Port of Montreal.

Champlain Bridge and the modernization of many port installations to cope with the situation created by the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

It is recalled also that it was Mr. Beaudet who suggested the construction of the site of Expo 1967 on artificial islands in the middle of the St. Lawrence River.

Sweetsburg Court

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — "You were terribly drunk. Had you killed someone you could have been sentenced to 14 years," Judge Bernard Legare told Alton Buchanan, Buchanan, of Fulford, had pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving in the Town of Brome Lake, April 18, when his blood-alcohol level was 220 milligrams. Judge Legare fined Buchanan $200 and costs, in default 30 days, and allowed him two months to pay the fine and costs.

Marilyn Hughes, 22, RR 2, Sutton, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving in the Town of Brome Lake, April 18, when her blood-alcohol level was 190 milligrams. "That's over twice the limit and you are a danger to society," Judge Legare said prior to fining her $200 and costs, in default 30 days. She was allowed 60 days to acquit the fine and costs.

"If women want equality with men they will be treated accordingly," Judge Legare told Ginette Brisebois. Mrs. Brisebois, of Cowansville, had pleaded guilty to a charge of care and control of a motor vehicle in the Town of Brome Lake, April 18, when her blood-alcohol level was 160 milligrams. She was fined $150 and costs, in default 15 days, and was allowed two months to pay the fine and costs.

Gerald, Ronald and Roger Algier, all of Farnham, pleaded guilty to a count of assault on a peace officer in the performance of his functions in Farnham, April 2. "They think they're the Jesse James gang," said Crown prosecutor Claude Noiseux. "I suggest they be fined $200 and costs and placed on three years probation for the protection of Farnham citizens."

Jean Riou, Legal Aid Office, who acted for the brothers, suggested the probation period was too long and requested the fines be lowered as his clients were in a low income bracket.

Judge Legare remarked "I know the family." He then agreed the probation period suggested by the crown was a bit excessive.

"It's for their own protection," Mr. Noiseux said.

The judge then fined them $150 and costs, in default 15 days and bound them over to keep the peace for 18 months. They were allowed two months to acquit the fines and costs.

Sentences in the case of Gaetan Daigle and Marc Marois were adjourned to May 10 pending completion of probation reports. Daigle had pleaded guilty to three counts of breaking and entering and two of theft. Marois pleaded guilty earlier to four counts of breaking and entering and two of theft.

Bench warrants were issued for Jean-Marie Bureau, Jocelyn Bernier, Romeo Charbonneau and Claude Tessier when they failed to appear for arraignment on charges of impaired driving.

Sowing the wind

State Secretary Henry Kissinger has been touring Africa making speeches strongly reminiscent of the late President Woodrow Wilson. All the mythology of Americans being the original revolutionaries is being trotted out in a demeaning attempt to curry favor with people who talk about the inevitability of bloodshed, who organize terrorist forays in which innocents are slaughtered, with leaders whose minds are closed to the true message that America has to impart to the world: the message of compromise, accommodation, co-operation. In his heart of hearts Dr. Kissinger must know that this July 4 type of patriotic oratory will no more win the African sympathies than did the Israeli aid poured into Africa for over a decade. For years Israel had provided the new African states with education, advice in public health, staffed and manned agricultural and industrial projects as well as scores of other services, all in a futile effort to secure the sympathies and United Nations votes of Black Africa. The help was forgotten as soon as Arab oil money began to talk so much louder.

A student of Metternich and Bismarck, Dr. Kissinger knows that ours is a wicked world in which weak reeds bend with the prevailing wind, and the wind generated on the African scene is that of powerful fleets, multiplying naval bases, tanks and rockets and the terrorists' Kalashnikov guns, all bearing the trade mark of the other superpower, the Soviet Union. In an unprecedented display of diplomatic arrogance, Moscow persuaded two important African countries, Ghana and Nigeria, to refuse to receive Dr. Kissinger. Nigeria has a particular reason to be grateful to the United States, since Nigeria's unity was preserved six years ago by the combined British-American-Soviet arms that crushed the Biafra secession — Biafra being the part of Nigeria that is rich in oil. And indeed, during the Arab oil boycott of 1973, it was largely Nigerian oil that kept Western industries running. Now, however, the new Nigerian government sides with Moscow, and in the event of a new boycott the West could no longer count on Nigeria's oil.

Nor was it very comradely of Moscow to time a new onslaught on Washington's Middle East policies to coincide with Dr. Kissinger's African tour. Last week Moscow warned Dr. Kissinger's African hosts that, to assure for itself permanent control of Arab oil, Washington is about to sacrifice the Palestinians — the brother-revolutionaries of the various African liberation movements.

It is not only a question of oil. It is also a question of chromium. Rhodesia and South Africa supply 67 per cent of all United States chromium requirements, and no steel, stainless steel or aluminum can be produced without chromium. Hence the Byrd amendment that overruled the United Nations sanctions against Rhodesia and has allowed the United States importers to buy Rhodesian chromium. The United States has a chromium stockpile that would last for about a year. If the Byrd amendment is repealed, as Dr. Kissinger promised his Zambian hosts, the stockpile would dwindle and America's steel-producing capacity would be severely circumscribed.

Dr. Kissinger's tour is a dangerous exercise in fanning the winds of change into a devastating hurricane. It was The Guardian, the pillar of British liberalism, that last week pointed out how in the much reviled Rhodesia "The Africans may indeed owe their schools, their hospitals, their employment (when they have it) to their own labors, but they owe them also to white enterprise. They know this. And the thing they most enjoy is stability and freedom from factional strife."

As in Angola, the Rhodesian "liberation movements" are hopelessly split, and once the war gets going the two factions will murder and massacre each other — the radicals helped by the Soviet Union while the West, as usual, ready to betray those black nationalists who may yet prefer a workable compromise to indiscriminate slaughter. On Saturday, Dr. Kissinger hastily reassured the press that there was no danger of a massacre of the Rhodesian whites. Dr. Kissinger is whistling in the dark.

Opinion from the French language press

The following is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada:

Ottawa Le Droit: Portugal's future remains undecided. No party won enough seats in Sunday's election to form a government. Mario Soares' Socialist party took the lead, but with fewer seats than he had hoped for.

The euphoria of liberation was gone from the 14-party campaign, because of the excesses of the Communist party. The Portuguese were alarmed by the armed hordes which imposed their will throughout the country. Communist leader Cunhal held his fourth-place position with 14 per cent of the popular vote.

Soares was optimistic throughout the campaign. He did not attain his goal, but he did get an impressive 35 per cent of the popular vote.

During the campaign, he repeatedly said he would prefer opposition to a mediocre coalition. But he has already begun to modify his position.

Soares can count on the friendship of Europe's social democratic countries. His ideology resembles that of Britain's Labor Party.

Although it cannot be said that Wilson and Callaghan have been a brilliant success in Britain, Soares is, like them, sincere in his attempts to better the social conditions of his people while avoiding pressures from the extreme right and left.

The Portuguese people have shown their desire above all for a moderate and stable government, with a sharing of powers rather than a revolution. April in Portugal, like in Canada, is not without its sudden showers, but it is still a forerunner of sunnier days. —Fulgence Charpentier (April 28)

Chicoutimi Le Quotidien: In the wake of the Liberal convention and the executive council meeting of the three major unions, Quebec is on the edge of catastrophe.

On one side, we have the members of the political party which is solidly entrenched in the national assembly with some hundred seats; on the other, an army of unionized workers, 175,000 strong, led by three leaders who encourage their members to defy laws and injunctions.

Premier Robert Bourassa pleaded his supporters by reiterating his determination not to yield to union blackmail, even going so far as to threaten, for the second time, to withdraw the right to strike from hospital workers.

The leaders of the common front answered with vague threats of a general strike. This senseless verbal battle is frightening the public, which knows confrontation is no solution and that defiance of the law can only lead to dictatorship.

How have we arrived at this extreme state of affairs?

The government has been less skilful than in 1972 in countering the common front's propaganda. Today, the public is confused. It is an ideal situation for demagogues and firebrands.

Let us remember that the common front is not the first to defy the law. The police of Montreal handed their city over to jungle law to force their employer's hand not so long ago. Their colleagues, the firemen, let part of the city burn. . . . The government was helpless in the face of these pressures.

The victims of a growing trend towards inhuman methods in the public service are children, the old and the sick. . . .

If Quebec cannot find a new system of negotiating with its employees, it may imitate West Germany, where social peace reigns in a favorable economic context. That country exercises rigorous control on workers in the key sectors of law enforcement and education. Each job applicant is minutely examined. Many German citizens are worried about the potential injustices resulting from this law. . . .

Extremists should savor the great privilege of exercising their liberty in a world shaken by the abuse of power. . . . because exaggerations afford the state of pretext for a witch hunt. —Bertrand Tremblay (April 27)

Montreal Le Devoir: Many observers of the quarrel between the teachers of the metropolitan school board of Toronto and its employees have pointed to the dangers of the decentralized system of contract negotiations used in the education and hospital systems in Ontario.

Centralized negotiations have certain advantages but they are accompanied by serious inconveniences.

The Quebec system provides for 20-odd bargaining tables where the problems of 250,000 workers in the public and parapublic sectors are thrashed out. The law provides for certain issues to be negotiated by individual school boards or institutions. In practice, however, the important decisions are made at the provincial level. . . .

The advantages sought at the outset have been attained. A laboratory technician or teacher, whether in Rimouski or St. Jean, is paid the same wages and guaranteed the same working conditions for equal work and experience. Arbitrary inequality has disappeared.

New problems have arisen, however, and we can honestly ask ourselves whether they are not more serious than those we had set out to remedy. . . .

The absurdity and danger of the current system can be illustrated by two examples. In the education sector, the major problem is defining the work load and the time required of a teacher. Left to individual school boards, there might be many realistic solutions of this problem.

In Ontario, the issue is not even mentioned in regional contracts, since the two parties have left it to each school's authorities. But in Quebec, no flexibility is allowed. . . .

In hospitals and rest homes, mobility is a big issue. How can this be settled in the same way for institutions with several hundred employees and those with merely a few? . . .

The decentralized system used in Ottawa and Toronto avoids the terrible concentration of power the common front unions have displayed in Quebec. . . .

Neither Ottawa nor Ontario has been without serious conflicts. Work stoppages, however, have been limited. This is no doubt because in neither of these capitals has it been suggested that the supposedly advanced system of Quebec should be imitated. —Claude Ryan (May 3)

Montreal La Presse: In his brief speech Tuesday before the chamber of commerce in Montreal, Conservative Leader Joe Clark spoke of two distinctions between his party and the Liberals: different concepts of Parliament and of federal-provincial relations.

He reproached the Trudeau government for secrecy in economic matters and future policy. Parliament's role was thus eroded and, by ricochet, so was that of public opinion. Mr. Clark complained notably about evasive and meaningless answers made by ministers in response to Opposition questions.

Mr. Trudeau, even if he says, as he did on CTV last December, that the parliamentary system is the best way for a government to know the will of the people, treats Parliament as a necessary evil.

Parliament is short-circuited when ministers reserve their significant announcements for the media, to whom it is not against the rules to lie. Members of Parliament must be content with vague and restricted statements.

In all justice, Mr. Trudeau becomes impatient with discussions which last for days, wasting time and becoming "less and less useful."

Why, for example, did Mr. Trudeau choose to announce his anti-inflation policy on national television last October, and to explain it in speeches across the country without ever speaking on the subject in the House? Why did he choose to launch his "new society" debate in other forums than in Parliament, where those who, in his words, are best qualified to make known the will of the country could discuss the fundamental aspects of the question? Is this contempt for the House not a corollary of a certain contempt for public opinion and participation? . . .

Mr. Clark accuses the government of making unilateral decisions which go against the reasonable aspirations and legitimate needs of the provinces.

Examples of this are rife: the unilateral federal decision to renege on its promises in costly health insurance programs into which it dragged the provinces in the first place; the new federal energy policy, developed without the provinces, and Mr. Trudeau's threat to bring the constitution back. Towards two important political problems Mr. Clark has shown a democratic and open attitude. Can this kind of concern make French-speaking Quebecers vibrate politically? Alas, I'm not sure that it can. —Marcel Adam (April 29)

Olympic lodging bureau facing cancellations

MONTREAL (CP) — With little more than 10 weeks before the opening of the Olympic Games, some accommodation booking agents say the major headache in the Olympic lodging situation is the growing number of cancellations from people offering space in private homes.

Many offers are being taken back even after the visitor has been confirmed and his deposit paid into a trust account.

However, Gilles Bergeron, director of the Quebec Lodging Bureau, says cancellation is a serious problem, but not an insurmountable one.

"We have about 30,000 inspected and rated rooms in the Montreal area and of these, between 6,000 and 9,000 are still available," he said in an interview.

"We're still getting calls from people offering us rooms in their homes and we've had to tell them we don't know if we'll need to use them or not."

Mr. Bergeron said there are 28,000 hotel and motel rooms in Montreal, but with 100,000 to 140,000 visitors expected daily, not everyone can get luxury accommodation. The average cost of a room in a private house is set at $8 a person, double occupancy.

About 35 per cent of all major Montreal hotels have been set aside to accommodate Olympic officials, judges and VIP delegations.

MOST ALREADY FULL
Most other hotels filled their space with commitments to airlines, corporations, group-tour and individual clients.

Mr. Bergeron said the lodging bureau has 1,800 furnished houses available at rates ranging between $50 and $90 a day, depending on the number of rooms and location.

There are about 2,000 apartments at rates ranging from $30 to $60 a day, he said. About half of the apartments are already booked.

Rooms in homes inspected by the bureau range from $14 to $24 a day for double occupancy, he said.

US aiding Chilean junta

Jack Anderson's

Washington Merry-go-round

WASHINGTON — In defiance of both Congress and the United Nations, the Ford Administration has gone behind the barn to bolster the military dictatorship of Chile.

The UN, following up on our own reports of repression and torture inside Chile, has condemned the junta for violating human rights. And only last week, the respected Inter-American Human Rights Commission denounced the junta for its torture tactics.

Congress reacted by imposing a $80 million limit on economic aid for Chile this fiscal year. It was the intent of Congress, clearly, that the aid should go directly to needy people. Other nations have also refused to extend credit to the beleaguered dictatorship.

Nevertheless, the Administration has shaken loose hidden money to bail out the junta. Here are the hush-hush developments.

— The Overseas Private Investment Corporation, a quasi-official U.S. institution, has quietly agreed to begin insuring companies that invest in Chile. The State Department, according to our sources, twisted OPIC arms. This should stimulate a flood of investment capital into the country.

— Both the State and Treasury departments have also encouraged 14 U.S. and Canadian banks to loan the military dictatorship $100 million to $125 million. The loan is needed to pay off short-term obligations to other countries. Britain and Italy have refused to reschedule Chilean debt payments because of the regime's human rights violations. New York's First National City Bank will put up most of the money for the junta, with the financial support of the Bank of America, several New York banks and two Canadian banks.

— U.S. advisers have also brought pressure upon the Inter-American Development Bank's President Antonio Ortiz Mena, who has promised that the bank will loan up to $125 million to Chile. The first $20 million already has been approved. — The State Department gave Chile a $55 million housing guarantee that a House subcommittee believes exceeded the $80 million congressional ceiling. "The Administration clearly has sought to evade the spirit, if not the letter, of the congressional aid ceilings to Chile," declared Chairman Don Fraser, D-Calif.

We have been chronicling the Chilean saga since we reported on March 21, 1972, that the Central Intelligence Agency and International Telephone and Telegraph were conspiring together to undermine the Chilean economy. Their objective was to oust President Salvador Allende, an elected Marxist, from power.

The CIA at first denied participating in economic sabotage against the Allende regime but, three years later, was forced to confess our story was true after the Senate Intelligence Committee published the proof.

The former Nixon Administration, meanwhile, phased out economic aid to the Allende regime on the grounds that the Chilean economy was unstable. Under Allende, the inflation rate shot up from 22 per cent in 1971 to 163 per cent in 1972, with a 44 per cent unemployment rate. Since the military junta seized power, the inflation rate has soared to a stratospheric 340 per cent, with a 166 per cent unemployment rate.

We have taken pains to point out, by the way, that the military rulers have oppressed not only the Marxists but the Christian Democrats.

Footnote: A spokesman for First National City Bank confirmed that the bank was studying the Chilean loan. A Bank of America spokesman refused to comment on our story. At the State Department, a spokesman acknowledged only that discussions had been held with OPIC. A Treasury official said the department was careful not to tell banks who should get loans but acknowledged: "They may have been encouraged by what our desk people tell them."

Operation Mudhen: The Central Intelligence Agency, in violation of the law, kept us under physical, photographic and electronic surveillance in 1972. Twenty men were assigned full time to the project, which was known inside the agency as "Project Mudhen."

Nevertheless, we continued to jolt the CIA with a series of stories right out of their files. We reported, for example, that corrupt government officials around the world profited from heroin sales to the U.S. Our story touched off a renewed investigation, since the information had come from classified CIA documents.

The cloak-and-dagger crowd, according to documents intended for their eyes only, suspected a federal narcotics employee had leaked the story. CIA Deputy Director Edward Proctor urged Richard Helms, then the CIA director, to speak with federal narcotics chief John Ingersoll.

"Offer technical assistance in determining who is responsible for passing the classified material to Jack Anderson," Proctor urged. Inside the CIA, "technical assistance" is a polite way of referring to bugging devices, lie detectors and even break-ins.

Proctor now assures us that he had in mind only lie detectors in this case, not the naughtier forms of "technical assistance." Of course any CIA assistance in a domestic investigation is a violation of law. So no matter how it is interpreted, Proctor proposed a crime.

Footnote: Reached in Paris, Ingersoll said he couldn't recall any offer from Helms. But if Helms had suggested wiretapping agents, growled Ingersoll, "I would have thrown him out of my office."

Anglican women hold annual meeting

MANSONVILLE — Mrs. Bruce Armstrong, as Chairman of the Eastern Township Region of the Anglican Women's Division of the Diocese of Montreal, attended the annual meeting on April 29 held in Anglican House at Montreal.

This was a day for all women of the Anglican faith under the Chairmanship of Mrs. Betty Doidge, to which six Regional Chairmen attended.

Many of the parishes brought in beautiful hand-made banners which were carried into the Christ Church Cathedral where Holy Eucharist was celebrated by the Rt. Rev. Reginald Hollis.

Following this service, the ladies went into Fulford Hall and sang hymns and some songs.

After lunch there were several interesting speeches and Sister Marion of Pilgrim House, a retreat that welcomes all faiths, spoke on the work there.

Miss Beryl Morris, who is with World Missions, showed slides of the Eskimos and Indians up North.

Other speakers were Father Carr who is a bilingual clergyman serving the Haitian population at Sunday morning worship, Father Harold Parsons, who is with St. Michael's Mission, Montreal (this mission looks after those who are down and out, the homeless, the alcoholic etc.)

Another speaker was Capt. R. Peddle who is associated with Tyndale House a joint venture of Anglicans and Presbyterians - (a day care center, gardens for senior citizens who enjoy growing their own vegetables and flowers and many other services for those who really need them).

Following the Workshop sessions of four groups, there was a program called Reflections which was a summing up of the discussions held during the workshop.

The day closed with a reception given by the Bishop and his wife.

Mrs. Armstrong said that the Eastern Townships was well represented with ladies and that Mrs. Stella Collier, Lay Reader for St. Paul's at Knowlton, read the Epistle during the Communion Service.

There were approximately 500 women in attendance and the Thank Offering brought in $2,377.

The money, this year, will go to Nesbitt Anglican House at Cowansville, the Church Home and St. Margaret's Home, both in Montreal.

The interesting and rewarding day was on the theme "Let's Celebrate Faith and Life."

A poem composed by the couple's elder daughter, Mrs. Fred (Winnifred) Wright of Hatley was read by her on "This has been your past 45 years."

This tribute of love recalled many memories for the family and those close to them. Photographs of the marriage in 1931 were circulated.

The family gift to Mrs. Middleton was a family stone ring and a matching tie clip to Mr. Middleton featuring the eight birthstones of their children.

Mrs. Alfred Middleton, Mrs. Alger and Mrs. Roy served refreshments. The buffet table was centered with an arrangement of sapphire blue tinted and white carnations, a gift from Thomas Middleton.

The anniversary cake was a gift from William and Sharon Middleton, Richard and Linda Middleton and their families in Ontario. This was a large round cake with two islands, one centered with a silver numeral, 45, the other island with two lighted tapers and tulle bows. Sapphire roses on white with scroll completed the decor. The cake was cut by Mrs. Alfred Middleton after the couple had made the initial cut, then served by Mrs. Wright.

Silver Wedding Anniversary

BEEBE — On the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Rediker were honored at a dinner party in the Bavarian Room, Beebe, on Saturday, April 24.

To the strains of the Anniversary Song they entered the hall with Mr. and Mrs. William Stuart and were taken completely by surprise when greeted by the gathering of friends and relatives.

Miss Dorcas Rediker presented her mother with a corsage of red, white and silver tipped carnations and her dad with a white carnation boutonniere. Leslie and Alice then spent a pleasant hour mingling with the guests and receiving congratulations.

A delicious buffet dinner was served, the tables being decorated with arrangements of red, white and silver tipped carnations. The head table was centered with the anniversary cake, iced in white with silver trim and red roses. The cake was topped with two miniature cakes, one holding lighted silver tapers and the other a miniature silver loving-cup with lily-of-the-valley. Arrangements of red, white and silver carnations completed the decor.

Seated at the head table with the guests of honor were their daughter Dorcas, Norman Lavallee, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Laberee and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Goodsell. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Meyette and Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Rediker were unable to be present as both couples were in Florida.

Jessie (Wilson) Meyette and Reginald Rediker were attendants at the marriage of Leslie and Alice.

Lawrence Goodsell, as master of ceremonies, welcomed the guests and expressed congratulations to the happy couple. He read two letters, supposedly written by Leslie and Alice to their daughter Dorcas while in college. These letters were written in a reminiscing manner as well as being humorous.

In response to the toasts and congratulations Mr. Rediker expressed thanks and appreciation.

The Reverend Beulah (Rediker) Purkiser spoke briefly, expressing tender thoughts and warm congratulations to her brother and sister-in-law as did the Reverend John Kilby, brother-in-law of Mr. Rediker.

Mr. and Mrs. Rediker exchanged rings as gifts of the 25 years. To Alice, Leslie presented a diamond ring, the original solitaire having been re-set with five diamonds, each one representing five years of marriage. To her husband Alice presented a Masonic Signet ring. Receiving these rings on this evening was a surprise to both as their daughter had previously arranged for the rings to be given at this time.

Alice Wilson and Leslie Rediker were united in marriage in Wesley United Church, Beebe, on April 28, 1951. The Reverend Carl Gustafson officiated.

The couple received lovely gifts as well as a silver covered box of congratulatory cards and currency.

Following the dinner, dancing was enjoyed with music provided by Mrs. Peter Beasse and Mrs. Clifford McHarg at the console of the electric organ.

Arrangements for the party were made by Miss Dorcas Rediker, assisted by Mrs. Gordon Laberee and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Beasse. Guests attended from New Britain, Conn., Whitefield, N.H., Essex Junction and Derby, Vt., Pointe Claire, Vaudreuil, Coaticook, North Hatley and the Border communities.

TODAY'S TREASURES

Human pack rats are always saving

By Jean Barnes

Paper is an indispensable ingredient to daily living but we do not seem to be able to handle the mountainous stack that accumulates in our household.

While some of it inevitably finds its way to the trash, at least two or three times a week our collector's conscience prods us to "save that."

Thus we have boxes of old newspapers, file drawers of advertisements and printed matter, stacks of assorted memorabilia and magazines — all awaiting our decision about what to do with it.

Perhaps because we feel burdened by this superabundance we have difficulty empathizing with collectors of paper goods who actually go out of their way to acquire more.

A recent evening spent with Carolyn and Don T. gave us a fresh outlook on the subject and admiration for the two who are building a fascinating collection.

Carolyn explained their collection this way. "Most people collect because it's pretty, or it matches the color scheme, or it has snob appeal — whatever. But paper tells about how people lived!"

For example, she said, the songs they sang (old sheet music), what they read (books, magazines and papers), what they ate (old cookbooks and recipe leaflets), architecture, humor, religion. They describe it as an "anthropology" collection.

Poking through their rather large, bungalow-style home, we found a vintage kitchen cabinet stocked with aged food boxes; an 1880 wedding certificate in a large ornate frame; magazines dating from before 1900 and a wall papered with old sheet music. Carolyn is embarrassed about the music and pointed out that this was a project from the early days of their collecting. "when we didn't know better."

Their paper collection has led them into other areas of collecting — tools, containers and household items. They even have a caned wheelchair and a carved tombstone.

The couple admits to collecting "on a shoestring" and leaving the high priced items for other collectors.

"Half the fun is finding bargains and mentally bragging about them." They find their bargains by arriving early at estate sales; haunting junk shops and bidding on boxes of assorted items at auctions.

Prices on paper goods are going up, but it's still possible to put a really creditable collection together without a large investment. And, as they pointed out, you do reach a saturation place when you begin to be more discriminating in what you bring home because you run out of space.

Bridal Shower

Mrs. Alice George

MANSONVILLE (MB) —

The United Church hall was the scene of a wedding shower in honor of Mrs. Alice George the evening of April 29. She was greeted at the door by the UCW president, Mrs. Bertha Nichols, who presented her with a lovely corsage of tiny wild April flowers, while the UCW secretary, Mrs. Linda Jersey, presented Mrs. George's daughter, Tammy, and foster daughter, Mary, each with the same type corsage. The corsages were made by Mrs. Mary Jewett.

Mrs. Nichols then welcomed the guest of honor, mentioning the money tree with its little lights, held up by an antique jug, and the wishing well with its many gifts. The room was decorated with fancy crepe flowered tangerine streamers which went well with the lovely two piece suit with tangerine print that Mrs. George was wearing.

The decorations, wishing well, and money tree were done by Mrs. Linda Jersey and Mrs. Charlotte Krausser.

Tammy and Mary as well as two of Alice's step-grandchildren, helped her unwrap the gifts and pass them around.

Alice graciously thanked everyone bringing to mind that when she came to the territory she was lonely at first and she had to make new friends and was going to miss them. Now she was going to go through the same process again in Mystic where she will take up residence after her marriage to Mr. Winston Soule on May 8.

The UCW President spoke briefly, saying that Mrs. George, who was the former UCW President, was always willing to give a helping hand, was hostess to the meetings many times, was food convener, Sunday School teacher, and gave of herself faithfully. She then presented to Alice a special gift, a necklace with the praying hands, from the UCW members. There was much handclapping by the 32 adults and five children attending.

The luncheon was hosted by all the members and the beautiful heartshaped cake was made by Mrs. Jean McNeil. Frosted in white with "Best Wishes to Alice" written in yellow frosting, decorated with cerise and yellow rose buds and roses, it was centered with a few artificial daisies.

Mrs. George was honored at a previous evening by the employees she worked with at Butters Center on the night shift. They presented her with a beautiful red globe table lamp and a dual light pole lamp with red tones, also a money gift and a lovely large cake.

Missisquoi County WI annual meeting

By BARBARA HARVEY
(Missisquoi Co. W.I. sec'y)
DUNHAM — Members of the Missisquoi County Women's Institute met in the Stanbridge East Anglican Church Hall, Thursday, April 29.

Mrs. Williams presided, bringing the meeting to order at 10:40 a.m. extending a warm welcome to everyone. The Salute to the Canadian Flag and the United Nations Flag were both repeated in unison.

The roll call showed an attendance of fifty-four. Cowansville-7; Dunham-8; Stanbridge East-22; Fordyce-15 and two visitors.

Mrs. Williams paid tribute to the late Provincial President of the Q.W.I. (the late Mrs. Edyth Westover.)

and to other deceased members, in the following verse:

She scattered flowers as she went her way
Spread loving kindness everyday.

The flowers will bloom, the kind words stay—
Though she from our midst, went away.

To the works of Home and Country, she gave her best
And now in Heaven, finds peaceful rest.

Kind, loving, loyal and true.

She blessed this world by passing through.

The secretary read minutes of the last Annual semi-annual and a special (January) meeting. The report of the auditors was given by Mrs. Bromby.

Mrs. Short, on behalf of Stanbridge East, hostessing branch, gave an address of welcome.

A m o n g t h e acknowledgements of thanks from those who had been ill, or those who had suffered loss of a dear one, the correspondence included a letter of farewell from Mrs. Champion, past Prov. sec'y, informing us that Mrs. James Gamble is the new Prov. secretary, and all correspondence should be addressed to the Q.W.I. Office for her. A letter from Camp Garagona, requesting continued support, was also read.

Although Agriculture Convenor had no report available, all other convenors gave most interesting and full reports, showing a busy and successful year.

A discussion was held re the raising of the dues from 25 cents to $1.00. A motion was made and passed from this County, in agreement to do so.

A motion was made and passed to sponsor one child for a two week period to Camp Garagona, for the Mentally Retarded, Mrs. Tait spoke briefly about the need of having local children for this camp, and asked the members for their co-operation in helping parents of these children come to recognize the need and privileges this camp can offer their child.

The meeting adjourned at noon for a delicious luncheon, served by the ladies of the Stanbridge East group. Mrs. Bidner asked the W.I. Grace.

At 1:30 p.m. the meeting reconvened with Mrs. Williams, on behalf of the members thanking Mrs. Wescott (who had to leave early) for her time in coming to judge the J. & P. Coats Handicrafts.

This followed with the singing of the Opening Ode and O Canada.

Mrs. Fred Knights, Brome County President, was then officially welcomed by Mrs. Williams. Mrs. Knights brought greetings from the members of Brome County and wished all branches of Missisquoi every success in the coming year. A warm welcome was also extended to our second guest, Mrs. Bisailon.

A motion was made and passed to pay all outstanding bills.

Mrs. Williams mentioned how pleased our members of this County are to see the fence around the Cairn completed. It was something that our late Prov. Pres. strived seriously to do, and successfully saw about having done, and the site had been greatly improved.

In the President's address, Mrs. Williams thanked all the members for their help and co-operation during her three year term. She said she "was going out as County Pres. on a happy note, as each branch is doing very well, as the convenors reports had shown." She further said she "was proud of Missisquoi County, as they all work together". She ended with the following poem:

Though I have tried to be a good leader,

No special achievement I claim—

I haven't been searching for glory

And, I haven't been looking for fame.

I've endeavoured to live our Motto,

I've tried to be fair and true—

All I can say, as I stand here today

Is May God Bless Everyone of you.

Mrs. Short, on behalf of all the branches, thanked Mrs. Williams for all her work and help, and further commented on how we could always count on her when we were in need of help or wanted to know something.

The winners of the J. & P. Coats Handicrafts competitions were announced as being Mrs. Clayton Harvey, (first prize); Mrs. Junior Harvey, (second prize); and third prize went to Mrs. S. Griffiths. It hoped (as always) that more entries will be made by this County next year.

Mrs. Clifford Rhicard took the chair and read the list of officers, given her by the nominating committee for the coming year.

Mrs. Mason then introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Bisailon, whose specialty is handicrafts. She had brought several articles of her work which she had on display. One, which she said was her greatest love, was a braided rug. She explained she uses only wool pieces for her rugs, and gave a few tips in making them to "lay right" and sewing them together. She also displayed a coverlet of fine English wool squares, which had been crocheted around with a bright color, and a flower daintily embroidered in each centre, making a beautiful throw. She answered several questions of interest and told the ladies how to make some of the items. She expressed her congratulations to the Stanbridge East ladies for the most delicious luncheon.

Mrs. McCutcheon thanked Mrs. Bisailon and presented her with a plant. She expressed how much she had admired her talents in the field of handicrafts for many years. Mrs. Moore also commented on the pleasure she had in knowing Mrs. Bisailon in some forty years.

Pulitzer

announced

NEW YORK (AP) — Saul Bellow's Humboldt's Gift won the Pulitzer Prize for fiction Monday, while A Chorus Line, directed by Michael Bennett, won the drama award.

Paul Horgan, 72, won his second Pulitzer Prize, taking the history award for his Lamy of Santa Fe — the story of Jean Baptiste Lamy, first Roman Catholic archbishop in the southwestern United States.

The prize for general non-fiction went to Dr. Robert Butler, 49, a research psychiatrist and gerontologist, for his Why Survive? Being Old in America.

A special award was given posthumously to America's "king of ragtime," Scott Joplin, who finally made it to Broadway with his opera Treemonisha last year, almost 60 years after he died in poverty in a New York hospital.

The prize for poetry was awarded to John Lawrence Ashbery, a Brooklyn College English teacher, for Self-Portrait in a Convex Mirror, the latest of his many works published during the last 23 years.

R.W.B. Lewis, professor of English and American studies at Yale University, wrote the prize-winning biography Edith Wharton: A Biography. It is his fourth book.

Composer Ned Rorem, 52, won the prize for music with Air Music, performed for the first time last Dec. 5 by the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra. The work is subtitled Ten Etudes for Orchestra.

On the occasion of the 60th annual Pulitzer awards, Columbia University president William McGill announced a special citation to Prof. John Hohenberg, retiring administrator of the Pulitzer prizes.

ATRIBUTE

I turn back the pages of time tonight,
On the eve of 'Mother's Day'.
As far back as I can remember
I still hear my Mother say,
Always do unto others,
As you would have them do by you,
Be kind to all your playmates,
To the aged, be good and true.
Always remember your blessings,
No matter what betides,
It may not always be thy way,
But in His own way, God will provide.
Years pass, these words are only memories,
The voice we loved is still
They have always lighted my pathway,
Giving me courage and will.
So tomorrow as we all pay tribute,
To the living and the dead,
My roses will be of purest white;
Blessed, the ones who wear the red.

Waterville

REACH FOR THE STARS

Have you ever felt a yearning
That welled up deep inside?
To do great things — attain high goals
Ere you reach the other side.
Have you ever felt frustrated
When things just don't work out right?
When some very special project
Seems to vanish out of sight?

We set high goals and standards
With great glory round the bend
And feel the keen cold cut of sorrow
When they fall through at the end?

Life teaches us many lessons
As our winding path we wend
It's the little things in life we do
That bring pleasure to a friend.

When you call upon someone who's ill
And bring a smile into their day
Or run an errand for the lame
No thought of recompense, or pay.

The more of "us" that we impart
The sooner we'll be light of heart
Brings us one step nearer to our goal
Rewards our hearts, yes times untold.

Reach for the Stars — strive ever on Live each day to the full, and then
Look for Tomorrow, with constant thoughts
There are new worlds to conquer, without end.

When we are called, one after one
To other duties — other shores,
What difference if we've reached the top?
We've done our best — why ask for more?

A HERITAGE OF CANADIAN ART

Art collection mirrors Canadian creativity

A Heritage of Canadian Art, The McMichael Collection, Clarke, Irwin & Co. Ltd., $15.95, 198 pages.

Did someone question the existence of a Canadian culture? If so, this book, A Heritage of Canadian Art, is an eloquent answer, making tangible the creative spirit of the Canadian nation. For here in the McMichael Canadian Collection, reproduced in this book, is seen the particular vibrancy and variety of outlook characterized in Canadian art.

The book is also a beautiful tribute to a unique idea developed by Robert and Signe McMichael who turned over their private collection of Canadian art to the public. In the gallery's wilderness setting at Kleinburg, Ont., is combined the elements of the environment in which the art is shown with the characteristics of the art itself.

The vigor and brilliance of the Canadian paintings is augmented by the design of the rooms in which they are hung as well as by the buildings themselves which are constructed of logs and stone. Set in the midst of a large nature preserve, the gallery is surrounded by woods so that as seasons change so do the forms surrounding the gallery, often echoing the shapes and colors of the landscape paintings standing within.

The book brings the McMichael collection to readers to enjoy the beautiful reproductions on rag paper. The only disappointing note is the preponderance of black and white reproductions which number 1,076 contrasted to the 126 in color. Little more than basic form can be appreciated in viewing a color painting that has been reproduced in black and white.

However, the 126 full color reproductions fully make the book worthwhile. As well, each facet of the collection is described by an expert and 16 individual bio-ographies with portraits of the artists supplement the text.

Outstanding is the collection of Group of Seven paintings. The 19 color illustrations of Tom Thomson's work is particularly breathtaking, with the paintings being of such intensity to lure the reader to view the originals at Kleinburg.

Among other artists apart from the Group of Seven are works by David Milne, Emily Carr and J.W. Morrice. Particularly outstanding, too, are 13 color reproductions of Clarence Gagnon's illustrations for the Quebec classical novel, Maria Chapdelaine. Seventeen pages of excellent Eskimo and West Coast Indian art round out the book.

Stanstead North W.I. annual meeting

By IVY HATCH
(Publicity Convener)
STANSTEAD — Members of the five Branches of Stanstead North Women's Institute gathered at Cen-tenary church, Stanstead, on Thursday, April 29 for the annual meeting. In the afternoon Frank Horton, Port Director of Customs, Derby Line, came to speak on the topic of Drug Abuse.

Mrs. Douglas Johnston, the County president conducted the meeting and after saying how pleased she was to see such a good turnout of members of busy spring days, invited all to join to repeat the Mary Stewart Collect. With Miss Viola Moranville at the piano all sang the Opening Ode. Mrs. Mildred Wheelock on behalf of the hosting Branch, Stanstead North, spoke a warm and gracious welcome to all.

Miss Moranville, the County secretary, submitted the minutes of the 1975 annual meeting and subsequent meetings since. It was noted that the Quebec Women's Institute convention will be held at Macdonald College May 25 thru 28. Mrs. John Johnston, County treasurer gave her annual financial statement, noting a working balance on hand.

Correspondence was read and given attention. Then the annual reports of the conveners were given. Mrs. Archie Moulton, Citizenship, noted all five branches had interesting roll calls. It was National Women's Year and several papers were read and discussed concerning prominent women of the world and about Women's Rights. Remembrance day was observed in various ways. The Hatley branch held a community get-acquainted party which was a tremendous success.

Education, Ms. Margaret Mosher's report was given by Mrs. R. Knight in the convener's absence. She, too, noted several interesting roll calls dealing with this topic, there were distant and local speakers at meetings, group discussions on current affairs relative to education, slides and commentaries, Stanstead North branch entertained the Brookbury Branch W.I. at the historic Mansur school one afternoon.

Two Branches visited the Stanstead Historical Society museum in Beebe where some of the Beebe Branch members were guides. All contributed to the Estella Holmes student scholarship given to a deserving student annually. A sum of $50.00 was given to the McLennan Travelling Library and Stanstead North gave money to assist with the support of the Haskell Fredrick Library at the Boundary. Other monies were given in support of youth sports, the Country and School fair at Ayer's Cliff and scholars support.

Two members from the Beebe Branch spent a day a week at Sunnyside school for seven weeks teaching the hobbies of ceramics and sewing.

Mrs. R. Knight, custodian of the Scholarships committee said she had received an inquiry about the Dr. C. L. Brown Memorial scholarship from the Regional Council of Welfare (C.I.R.) to have this published in a book that sells for $6.00 and concerns assistance to people. She also said she is still open to receive any applications for the scholarships. The Estella Holmes, Quebec Farmers, Ayer's Cliff Branch and so forth.

Home Economics, Miss Moranville, started off her report by reading two items, one about Consumer Protection concerning insecticides from an E.P.A. research, the other about deceptive TV advertising of five free towels for one dollar. She noted all branches had sent gifts and remembrances to the Dixville Home, UNICEF collections. Save the Children's work; Gifts to Maplemount; Christmas cheer and sunshine gifts and cards done by all.

The 60th anniversary celebration of the County W.I. was mentioned. Contributions to the Ayer's Cliff fair tea room, workers for this and the sale table as well as sale table sellable items were given recognition. Proceeds from both go into the County treasury.

Hatley held a May arts and crafts fair, another Branch had a 500 cards marathon, the County treasurer paid for materials that were made up into curtains for the Exhibit room on the Main Hall at the Fair. Several interesting papers and roll calls were heard and given.

There was no report from the Welfare and Health convener, Mrs. V. Naeve. Through a misunderstanding it was not realized she had previously resigned due to her health and had not been replaced.

Publicity, Mrs. Ivy Hatch, noted all events and meetings pertaining to W.I. printed in the papers serving the localities. Miss Moranville made 16 live broadcasts over W.I.K.E. newport radio station. Posters of events were circulated. Some news has appeared in the Macdonald College magazine. Branch reports have been interesting and well covered. There have been speakers and roll calls dealing with the subject of publicity.

To prepare a resolution to come before the Q.W.I. Board and general assembly at the convention a committee was named of Mrs. Nelson Pierce, Lebaron and Mrs. Ivy Hatch. This dealt with a change of policy pertaining to the awarding of the Abbie Pritchard stoles or throws.

The morning session adjourned to the afternoon. The hosting branch served a delicious dinner enjoyed by all and everyone joined to repeat the W.I. Grace. After the dinner, Mrs. Archie Moulton voiced appreciation to Stanstead North Branch committee for the fine repast.

The afternoon session opened by all singing The Hymn of All Nations. The conveners reports continued by Mrs. Warren Soutiere giving the report. Again, roll calls and papers on Agriculture were given by all Branches, garden produce had been donated by many for the Ayer's Cliff Fair W.I. sale table. School Fair gardens inspected by Branches who had contributed prizes to the winners.

Topics of current interest were discussed to include the over-use of insecticides. One Branch had a local florist give a talk and demonstration on flower arranging. The Hoodless roses are now available to be purchased. The school fair was a two days event for the first time in the over 50-year history of the fair. There were 1395 exhibits. The 1976 Fair is scheduled to be September 16-17. The financial statement was not as good and another $350. or more dollars is needed.

About this time, Mr. Horton arrived and was the speaker of the afternoon. His topic concerning drug abuse was based on "The answer is Understanding". He said he was not speaking in his official capacity but as a citizen hopefully to help people understand the drug problem that plagues the countries.

Liquor is the number one drug problem. Prescription drugs are often not used as prescribed and more taken than recommended, there is a tendency for a lack of concern in the dose one is taking. Few regular drug users know what or how much they are taking. "There is no quality control, it's like playing Russian roulette" he said.

In reference to injected drugs into veins, he noted youngsters aged 10-12 and up are experimenting with it. The cry today is legalization of marijuana, but those concerned do not want it legalized. As yet we do not know whether harm or not can come from marijuana and in many cases it seems to lead to hard drug use. Mr. Horton feels that we should know more about it before legislation.

He noted a pound of marijuana can sell for as much as $480. and that is good profit, the losers are our young people and they are our countries' greatest assets, adding "until all the answers are complete we should wait."

Alcohol is associated with 50 percent of crimes and violence and a large percent of highway accidents, thousands of homes and careers are ruined, he said.

But the largest problem is a combination of alcohol and speed drug, preteenagers are experimenting with it and can't handle either.

Mr. Horton noted it is hard to get adults to talk about the subject but drugs are here and our young people know a lot about it. It's a four letter word D O P E and the more we talk about it the better because we need education about it.

These questions he asked: What are we as parents - educators doing about drugs? Are we willing to talk? Do you know where to turn to for help? Children have been known to say "my parents couldn't care less". Have we done everything possible to help? Have we given discipline, a purpose in life to our children? If you found drug or drugs in your home would you recognize it or them? Do you know the signs of a drug user? Mr. Horton named a few signs. He advised you must be firm, respect your child and get them to respect you, talk to them, understand them, carry on discussions, he added "the happiest come from the controlled households."

He made reference to the disastrous results of impure drugs, of combinations of drugs and alcohol that can cause convulsions and may be lethal. He advised a clean-out of medicine chests and cabinets for this is where many young people get a lot of the drug use is loneliness, boredom, rebellion, frustration, defeat, bewilderment and so forth in persons of all ages and this is one reason they resort to drugs.

He said, "As parents we must strive to protect our children and to try for better communications with them." There were several questions from the floor and about the display pertaining to drugs and users.

Mr. Horton was introduced by Mrs. Ivy Hatch and Mrs. Lee Heath thanked him for his challenging address.

After farewells, the business of the W.I. continued with the election of officers. All were the same as last year with the exception of Welfare and Health convener which is now Mrs. R. Knight.

Mrs. Grace Lebaron

presided for the election and installation of officers.

Mrs. Johnston resumed the chair and new business was conducted. It was voted to donate $10.00 to the Sherbrooke Hospital campaign. The roll call of members from the Branches of Ayer's Cliff, Beebe, Hatley, Hatley Center and Stanstead North was recorded.

The August Quarterly meeting will be held at Ayer's Cliff.

The delegate to Q.W.I. Convention in May was instructed to vote in favor of increasing the memberships in the branches from a minimum of 50 to a maximum of $2.00.

The excellent and interesting meeting was brought to a close by a motion of adjournment.

WI meeting

CANTERBURY — The regular meeting of the Canterbury WI was held on May 3rd at the home of Mrs. Luvia Aulis in Gould Station, with her daughter as joint hostess.

The President, Mrs. Gloria Belanger, opened the meeting in the usual manner and the Roll Call "Rural Sounds I like" was answered by 15 members.

The minutes were read and approved and a discussion followed re the Annual Convention to be held in East Clifton.

It was decided that three cars would take the 15 members who wished to go - Mrs. Clara Chapman to be the delegate. A sum of money was voted to cover the expenses of our delegate, Mrs. Helen Groom, to the Provincial Convention at Macdonald College.

The Treasurer, Mrs. Marion Goodwin, reported a substantial balance on hand and a pleasant surprise came in the form of a letter from the former members of the Scotstown WI which stated that they had deposited to our account their "balance on hand" when they disbanded — with the suggestion that it be used towards pins, prizes, loans, etc. given to the Pope Memorial School. The Secretary was to write a letter of thanks for their generosity.

Mrs. Goodwin stated that the pins will be given as usual this year at P.M. School and as it is our custom to donate towards this project, it was left to Mrs.

Goodwin to forward the usual amount or more, should the price have been raised.

"Thank you" notes were read from W.G. MacLeod, Thomas Chapman and Sturris Coates for fruit and juices received when ill. Donations of money were included. A letter was also read from the retiring Provincial Secretary, Mrs. Champion. A bill from the Health and Welfare Convener was presented and paid.

The Home Economics Convener read an article from Consumers' Research on the choice of thermometers used when testing candy jellies, etc. The one made of glass and filled with mercury could be a health hazard if it happened to break while being used.

Sylvia Aulis, Citizenship Convener, read the article "People and Margaret Trudeau" from MacLean's.

Health and Welfare Convener, Mabel Thompson read "What can the average citizen do to help the mentally ill?"

It was moved that we order 1½ doz. Adelaide Hoodless coffee spoons to sell to our members and to send a "Quebec" coffee spoon to the Provincial Convention, as our gift to P.E.I.

A discussion followed re the Respirator which is presently at the St. Paul's Rest Home but is not being used. It was decided to have a joint meeting, with the Exec. of the other W.I.'s involved, in the near future.

Luvia Aulis, Jewel Coates and Sylvia Aulis will visit the Bury Rest Home this month.

A Sugar Cookie Recipe was given out to be used in the contest for June meeting. A sum of money was voted to the Health and Welfare Convener to buy articles for the Ditty Bags.

After adjournment of the meeting, a "seed" contest was conducted by the Agricultural Convener, Mrs. Murdena Coleman. The prize was won by Jessie Herring who recognized the greatest number of seeds.

This was followed by the serving of delicious sweet breads and coffee by the hostesses.

Spring Bazaar

DANVILLE — Members of Maple Leaf Rebekah Lodge sponsored a quite successful Spring Bazaar and Tea on Friday afternoon.

Although the attendance was smaller than usual, the overall total was slightly higher than last year.

As in former years, the home-baking was the main drawing card of the afternoon, and it was on this that the members concentrated their biggest effort.

Other articles were for sale, and the tea tables were well patronized.

Honored on 80th birthday

MELBOURNE — On Sunday, April 18, the relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Lewellyn Booth celebrated his 80th birthday at their home in Upper Melbourne.

Mr. Booth, who is presently convalescing after a brief stay in the Sherbrooke Hospital, was not entirely surprised on this occasion. The preparation by the hostess Mrs. Booth and the many phone calls, made it difficult to maintain secrecy.

A large buffet dinner was served, consisting of salads, turkey, ham and all types of home cooking which had been prepared by his daughters and daughters-in-law. Afterwards a large one-layer birthday cake was presented indicating "Happy Birthday - 80 years." The family presentation of a portable transistor radio as a gift was indeed appreciated. Everybody sang and wished him the usual birthday greetings.

One of Mr. Booth's remarks was "I welcome all of you back in ten years on my 90th birthday." The family assured him and wished good health until then.

At first glance Judy (Mrs. Jim) Jacoby was unhappy with the dummy. Here she was in a conservative six diamonds and it looked as if seven diamonds, seven spades, or six trump would make easily. Then she remembered something she had been stressing for years.

Make sure of your contract before you worry about other contracts. She cashed dummy's ace of diamonds at trick two and was delighted to see that there was a sure diamond loser. How could she protect against a spade loser in the event that spades failed to break?

Her first step was to lead a diamond to her king. Then she ruffed her last club and came back to her hand with the king of hearts. It seemed safe to assume that hearts would not break 8-0.

Then came the key safety play. She led a low spade toward dummy's queen. West couldn't ruff since Judy would play a low spade from dummy. So he discarded. Now Judy cashed the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart and threw West in with the high trump to force him to give her a ruff and discard and a top score.

Note that by leading that spade to the queen Judy guarded against all bad breaks in spades.

Avoid gardening errors

By Allan and Sheila Swenson
NEA Garden Columnists

Millions more families took spade in hand and went gardening last year. Unfortunately, there were problems. And usually, the blame was placed on poor seeds.

Actually, the seeds available today are of better quality, purity and trueness to variety than ever before. There are many other overlooked conditions that generally account for gardening failures. If you had problems, here's how to avoid them this year.

Plant seed at the proper depth. If too deep, seeds don't have strength to push seedlings to the surface. If too shallow, birds may peck them out or a sudden rain may wash seeds away.

Of course, check the date stamped on the seed packet. Packets must include the weight, or approximate count, the year for which they are packed and the estimated germination. Germination tests are conducted by seed producers. When the seeds are sent to stores or in the mail, they will give good results — providing you plant them correctly.

Sometimes it seems easy to put some garden soil in pots indoors and plant seeds. That way it is possible to get a jump on spring, transplanting outdoors later when danger of frost is over. But, there may be disease organisms in average garden soil.

Most common is "damping off" disease. If you see a fuzzy white growth on the soil and dead seedlings, it is most likely damping off doing the dirty work. To avoid it, use sterilized seed starting mix or the handy Jiffy 7 peat pots, or similar starting units.

All reliable gardening guides advise waiting until soil is well warmed in spring before planting most seeds outdoors. There's good reason for this caution. A late frost can kill tender seedlings in one night.

Also, late spring rains may keep soil soggy. That can rot seeds and seedling roots. Plants, like people, enjoy a happy, sunny, warm environment in which to grow.

You can give seedlings and transplants protection the first few days or weeks outdoors. Hotcaps or covers made from gallon plastic milk cartons with bottoms removed are useful. Place these over tender tomatoes, broccoli, peppers, eggplant, squash each evening. Remove in the morning so the sun gets to the plants. That extra protection lets seedlings set strong roots, warm up well and really grow.

These vegetables are pretty besides being good to eat

Here's a good idea for your flower bed or border: try growing vegetables or herbs there. You'll find that, if you carefully select them, they can be as pretty as flowers, besides being tasty.

The best-selling Ortho book, "All About Vegetables," suggests a number of versatile vegetables to add color—and taste—to the home garden.

Try sprucing up that unsightly damp spot under the garden faucet, for example, with spearmint sunk in a pot to the rim. Parsley, chives, and mint also adore those damp, shady spots in your flower garden.

Chives are very attractive when tucked neatly around rocks and in other nooks and crannies in the garden. Lettuce is another dual-purpose plant; it comes in many beautiful varieties and all are effective as borders or around a brick terrace.

Vegetables make wonderful border plants. A bed of curly kale can rival the beauty of a bed of ferns. Or, try a border of beets and carrots along a walk. You can harvest the young beet tops for greens.

Leaves come in colors ranging from slightly orange to dark green and deep red.

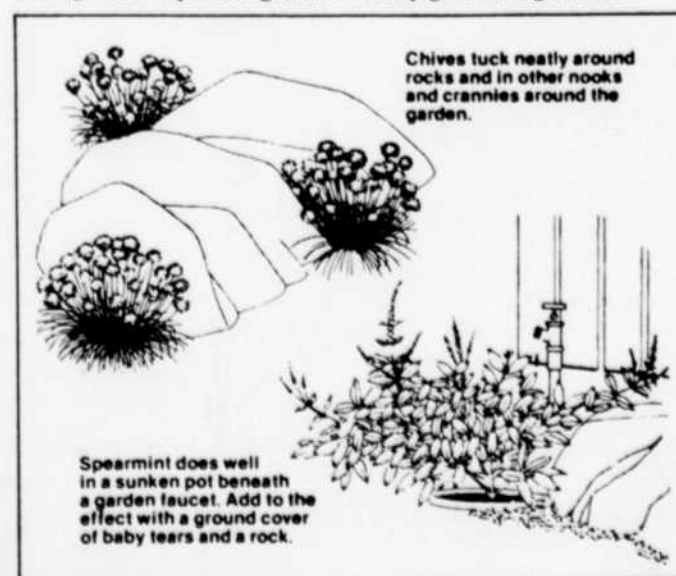

Want a tall, tropical looking plant for a hot, sunny spot? Corn grown in a large container or in the garden looks as tropical as ginger lilies—and it's much easier to grow.

Asparagus is lovely as a ferny foliage plant in back of the flower border or planted to show its delicate tracery against a house wall.

Even lowly cabbage can be a stunning plant in the flower garden. Especially interesting are the crinkled Savoy types and red cabbages. And, don't forget okra. This fascinating, tall plant shows its relation to the hibiscus in its leaves and beautiful flowers.

"All About Vegetables" also has ideas on vegetable groundcovers. It suggests using squash, pumpkins and melons for a groundcover on a grand scale. They are all easy and quick to grow—and are lovely additions to the large garden.

Try a flower garden that's edible as well as beautiful—it's really good enough to eat!

Horticultural society holds events

BORDER (IH) — Two very successful projects for the treasury funds of the Stanstead Horticultural Society were held on the weekend, a card party on Saturday evening and sugar on snow party Sunday, May 1 and 2.

The card party was held in the Ayer's Cliff Elementary School where some 75 people gathered and where progressive 500 was played at 19 tables.

Mrs. Richie Harrison welcomed everyone and explained the regulations of play. Later prizes were presented to the winners: Ladies first, Karen Patterson; consolation Mabel Whipple; Men's, Percy Clarke and Clarence Nutbrown; Skunks, Ladies, Alberta Cutler, Men's, Randy Dustin, John Learmouth won the nine No Trump prize.

Ladies from the society served buffet refreshments and presented door prizes to Raymond Shepard, Mary Kimpton, Doris Keet, Ruby Sloggett, Freida Mosher, Vivian Moulton, Currie Hill, Dorothy Learmouth, Annette Sheldon, Thelma Dustin, Mildred Wheelock, Doris Elliott, Sheila Bolton and Mabel Whipple.

The society will have two more card parties, May 15 and 22, at the school at 8 p.m. All are invited to spend a pleasant evening attending. Sunday morning it rained but by noon skies cleared and two o'clock saw people beginning to gather at Hatley for the Society's sugar on snow party at the sugar house of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Curtis. Mrs. Leslie Webster, society secretary-treasurer, sold the tickets and was kept busy for more than 100 persons came to enjoy the afternoon there.

After the cars were parked they walked a distance through the sugar bush to their destination where the Curtis family and members of the society greeted all. Almost everyone had to take a look in the modern equipped sugar house and watch the golden bubbles as it boiled on the arch under the careful eye of Maple Sugar King Curtis.

About three o'clock all was ready. The buckets of snow had been unwrapped from their plastic covering, removed earlier from its insulation of straw to keep it in condition to receive the golden taffy. There were also containers of pickles everywhere and cups to "cream a little sugar". Although it was a record crowd, there was ample for all.

Many gathered the early wood flowers, mayflowers with their delicate sweet smell, the yellow hibiscus, the yellow and blue violets, and the red Jack-in-the-pulpits, also called "stinking johnnies."

Goodbyes were said and all walked slowly back to their parked cars. It had been another wonderful sugar on snow party attended by people of all ages from a baby of under a year old to some in their 90s.

To many of the "elders" it recalled earlier days of sugaring; to the younger it gave them an insight into those days and for everyone they were much "sweeter" when they left than when they arrived, thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Curtis and the Horticultural Society people.

Well illustrated books on gardening available

TORONTO — The first three volumes in the best-selling Ortho Garden Book Series are now available in 1976 editions at garden centres across Canada. Lavishly illustrated and thoughtfully researched, they tell you all you ever wanted to know about growing things.

First in the Ortho series is "All about Vegetables." In addition to presenting all the basics of growing vegetables — from garden planning, cultivation, insect and disease control, to harvesting and suggestions for table use — this book contains chapters on herb gardening, growing vegetables without a garden and family gardening projects. All are amply supported with diagrams and illustration.

One of the most interesting ideas in this book is that of a vegetable "tree," the "trunk" being a column of soil in which a variety of vegetables can be planted. For example, tomatoes, lettuces and cucumbers that yield fruits summer-long for the salad bowl.

Second in the series is Ortho's "House Plants Indoors/Outdoors", which is all about the mobility of plants. Right now, many recent-comers to indoor gardening are wondering whether their houseplants can be transferred outdoors and, more importantly, whether they can survive spring breezes and summer heat. This book has the answers for all the most popular plants.

An intriguing piece of advice offered in "House Plants Indoors/Outdoors" is that plants sometimes need "haircuts". In a section on good grooming, the procedure for trimming the dried-out brown tips off leaves is described with the assurance that a "haircut" carefully executed, does not in any way harm the health or growth of most plants.

"Container and Hanging Gardens", the third title, must surely rank as one of the most colorful and exciting garden books ever. Like all other books in the Ortho series, the text is supported with an abundance of easy-to-follow diagrams and color-coded charts.

One of the most fascinating sections of the book breaks the old barrier separating vegetable and fruit cultivation from plant and flower gardening. In "Container and Hanging Gardens," readers will learn how to combine plants for beauty with plants for produce in the same containers. In a world where living space grows smaller and smaller, this book tells how to raise a vegetable garden in an apartment or mobile home — where to find new and unusual plants and how to take care of them once you get them home.

Other titles that will be available in Ortho dealers' retail outlets this Spring include "12 Months Harvest", "Gardening Shortcuts", "Garden Construction Know-How," and "Weather-Wise Gardening."

Handle ladybugs with care

VANCOUVER, B.C. — Every home gardener knows he shouldn't harm a ladybug.

They eat aphids and many other noxious insects, and should be kept in the vegetable patch.

It's a popular theory and it's also true — to an extent.

But what about the role of ladybugs on a larger scale — in a 10-acre field of an aphid-susceptible crop?

Bryan Frazer, an insect ecologist at the Agriculture Canada Research Station here, started to answer that question three years ago by studying the pea aphid on one of its many host plants, alfalfa.

He already knew that the rise and fall of that species coincides with a similar cycle in ladybugs.

But would it be practical or possible for a farmer to help along the ladybugs and use them as an inexpensive and efficient means of aphid control?

The early parts of the study would have raised a few eyebrows had they been witnessed by many people. Scientists and technicians clustered around a few alfalfa plants on which they caged aphids and ladybugs. They watched and recorded every movement — time the beetles spent moving around on the plants, time spent hunting aphids, time spent eating them, and time spent resting.

From these observations, a computer program was made which simulated ladybug activity under field conditions. It took into account the fact that ladybugs get hungrier for aphids faster in warm weather than in cool conditions.

The simulation predicted how many aphids should have been eaten. It also showed that a warm spring results in greater ladybug activity, causing them to eat more aphids.

Spotting the hazards

Moving to a new location is usually hard on your plants, particularly if they make the trip in a hot, stuffy, lightless truck. If possible, don't move your plants on the same day that you move your furniture.

Try to leave them with a friend before the actual moving day or bring them to the new house before the move. They can easily be damaged during all the commotion.

While a bright sunny kitchen can look like a good place to keep plants, it can also be filled with hazards and potential death for plants.

Plants don't like gas, stove heat or the extremes of heat from the stove and cold air from a winter window. The conflict is more than most plants can bear. One side dries out from the high stove heat and the other side freezes from contact with a cold window and the inevitable winter drafts. If you keep a window open in the winter to help air circulation in the kitchen, don't put any plants in front of it.

Even if your plant is away from the stove and not too close to a window, be sure not to hang it too high. Heat rises in any room, and in a kitchen there is more heat and less air circulation even with a high ceiling.

Bathrooms, on the other hand, can be wonderful places to keep plants. The high humidity from showers and baths helps create ideal humidity conditions for most plants. Just make sure they get enough light if you have frosted or tinted bathroom windows.

Shutt paces Habs to victory; Leach and Flyers win

MONTREAL (CP) — There was a good deal of relief in the Montreal Canadiens dressing room Thursday night after they finally managed to dispose of New York Islanders to advance to the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup best-of-seven final against Philadelphia Flyers.

"It's good that we don't have to go back to Long Island," said left winger Steve Shutt, who scored two goals in the win which gave the Canadiens the best-of-seven semi-final 4-1.

"If we had lost tonight, I think they would have been pretty tough in Long Island."

Murray Wilson, Serge Savard and Peter Mahovlich scored the other goals for Montreal, who held a 3-23 edge in shots. Garry Howatt and Bobby Nystrom replied for the Islanders.

"For a change we started right in the first period, going out there full speed, hitting," said Shutt. "We started right in the first period and kept on going. It's the first time this series we have really done that."

PLAY FLYERS SUNDAY

Had the Islanders won Thursday, they would have had home ice for the sixth game. But instead of heading to Uniondale, N.Y., the Canadiens will be back here Sunday night for the first game of the finals against the Flyers, who defeated Boston Bruins 6-3 to take their semifinal 4-1.

"I think they are going to play much like the Islanders," said Shutt. "The Islanders have sort of patterned their style after the Flyers."

"It's sort of an advantage for us playing the Islanders. They do play very similar so we will be sort of used to that defensive style Philadelphia plays. It's going to be interesting."

"I'm quite sure it will be very close checking. That's one thing I'm positive it will be. Will it be rougher? I really don't think so. But we will just have to wait and see."

"In the last two years that we've played them, I think we've only had one fight with them, so I think it will be a very good series. What we are going to have to do is skate as hard as we can because that's how we win games."

After a scoreless opening period, the Canadiens outscored New York 3-1 in the second period and had two goals in the final period to the Islanders one.

HAD SCORING CHANCES

Still, the Islanders did have more chances to score, but just could not take advantage of their opportunities, something which hurt them in other games in the series.

"I think at times our lack of experience showed against this club," said Islanders coach Al Arbour.

"We certainly can't deny the effort our guys put forth. We missed too many chances against this team. "We had the opportunities and we kept missing them. Against a club like that, you have to capitalize when you have the chances."

When asked for a prediction on the Flyers-Canadiens final, Arbour said: "They (Montreal) have the best talent in the league. Whether enough of them have enough character, well, that series should show it."

The Canadiens and Flyers finished 1-2 in the over-all NHL standings this season with Montreal winning once and losing twice to the Flyers with their fourth game ending in a tie.

BEAT TOP CLUBS

"We have to consider that we (Philadelphia and Montreal) beat a couple of clubs that are pretty close to the top," said Larry Robinson, a standout on Montreal's defence Thursday.

"It simply comes down to the fact that everyone can't win. Philadelphia and ourselves are very fortunate to be in the finals. Under different circumstances—another year—it's possible the other two teams would be in."

"This year Philadelphia were first in their conference and we were first in ours and we're playing off. When it comes down to the Stanley Cup, the team that wins the Stanley Cup can consider itself the best."

While Montreal coach Scotty Bowman admitted the Canadiens had scouted the Flyers earlier in this spring's playoffs, he added he really had not had that much time to think about them.

KNOW FLYERS

"But we know them pretty well. They know us."

"I'm glad this one is over with. If this team (the Islanders) wins tonight, now you're down to playing in their rink where they have played well all year. In the seventh game, the advantage goes to the home team, but only for a while, especially if the other team has won the last three."

"I think this team realistically believes they can come from behind and that's why they do it."

But the Islanders, who battled back from a two-goal deficit to knock off Buffalo Sabres earlier this spring and made two gallant comebacks last year against Pittsburgh Penguins to win a seven-game quarter final and against the Flyers before losing in the seventh game of their semi-final set, could not do it against the Canadiens, who will be after their 17th Stanley Cup.

"I'm very, very proud of each and every one of my players," said Arbour. "They were gutsy out there. They showed a hell of a lot of character. We can certainly hold our heads up high. We lost to an excellent hockey team."

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — Reggie Leach wasn't thinking about records when he scored five goals in a single game for the first time in his National Hockey League career to help put Philadelphia Flyers in the Stanley Cup final against Montreal Canadiens.

Hayes leads Nelson Open

DALLAS (AP) — Jack Nicklaus got himself an arithmetic lesson Thursday that left him far behind the leaders after the first round of the $200,000 Byron Nelson golf tournament.

While Mark Hayes, a non-winner, was capturing a one-shot lead over three veteran challengers, Nicklaus was trying to shake off his first penalty ever for carrying too many clubs in his bag.

The mistake cost Nicklaus, who is seeking his third Nelson title and the $40,000 top prize, a two-stroke penalty that left him five strokes behind Hayes.

"I guess I will have to go back to school and learn to count," said Nicklaus, who, after a few irate moments, seemed to accept the penalty without undue distress.

Hayes, often a title contender but not yet a champion in four years on the tour, forged a five-under-par 66 and moved into the second round today with a stroke edge over Forrest Fezler, Don Bies and Marty Fleckman.

LASTED UNTIL NINTH

But he survived until the ninth, when Butch Metzger came in to mop things up.

"They all hit fastballs," Spillner said. "I caught myself getting in a rut a few times, they knew what was coming."

Spillner pitched while the temperature dropped steadily from a game-starting high of seven.

The cold weather and Thursday night's National Hockey League playoff game here between Montreal Canadiens and New York Islanders combined to produce one record of sorts for the hapless Expos—only 3,606 fans showed up, a one-game low in the club's eight-year history.

Montreal is struggling with a miserable 7-14 record. Only Atlanta Braves and San Francisco, both 8-15, come even close to the Expos poor showing and the Giants are in town this weekend for a three-game series.

Winfield blasts homer as Padres stop Expos

MONTREAL (CP) — Dave Winfield smashed three hits, including a second-inning homer, to lead San Diego Padres to a 4-1 National League baseball victory over Montreal Expos Thursday night.

In a slump with a sputtering .208 average, Winfield led off the second by parking a Clay Kirby fastball to the opposite field in right. In the fourth, he beat out an infield hit by a step with two out and then stole second. He took third on Hector Torres' infield hit and came home on Fred Kendall's single.

The Padres added a pair of insurance runs in the ninth off Montreal reliever Wayne Granger after the Expo hurler had retired the first two batters.

Kirby, now 0-1, lasted until the fifth when Jerry Turner lined a hard one-hopper off the Montreal starter's left ankle, sending him to the showers nursing a bad bruise.

Don Spillner had better luck. The San Diego starter went eight innings before running out of steam, scattering four Montreal hits and striking out five to earn his first win against four losses. He gave up a first-inning homer to Jerry White and then held his breath on a couple of other long flies later which barely stayed in the park.

Mets stop Reds, Yanks sweep Angels

Two heads, the saying goes, are better than one and Ed Figueroa and Mickey Rivers proved it Thursday night when they came up against Bobby Bonds in an American League baseball game.

That trio was involved in one of last winter's big baseball trades, with Figueroa and Rivers coming East and Bonds going West.

Rivers tripled and singled twice, scored two runs and stole two bases to lead a nine-hit New York attack in support of Figueroa, who combined with Sparky Lyle on a six-hitter as the Yankees beat California 4-2 and completed a three-game sweep of the Angels.

Rain at Detroit prevented Thursday's only other scheduled American League game between the Tigers and Minnesota Twins.

In the National League, New York Mets downed Cincinnati Reds 4-2, Pittsburgh Pirates blanked San Francisco Giants 3-0, St. Louis Cardinals nipped Atlanta Braves 5-4 and San Diego Padres beat Montreal Expos 4-1. A game at Chicago between the Cubs and Los Angeles Dodgers was rained out.

HAPPY TO WIN

"I wanted to make sure everybody knew the Yankees made the right trade," said Figueroa, who allowed four hits and struck out eight in 7 2/3 innings. "I was happy to beat them."

"Rivers and I discussed it earlier today and Mickey told me, 'You pitch as good as you can and I'll hit as good as I can.'"

Rivers singled on the first pitch of the game from Gary Ross, stole second and scored on Roy White's single. Then he started a decisive three-run uprising in the eighth with a triple, a line drive which Bonds misjudged in right field.

At bat, Bonds flied out, grounded out fruitlessly with a runner at third and one out, struck out with two mates aboard and then walked and scored in the eighth.

"I bore down on Bonds a little harder," Figueroa admitted.

The Mets scored three unearned runs off Don Gullett in the first inning. Wayne Garrett led off with a walk and took second on a wild pitch. Felix Millan grounded to short and Dave Concepcion, trying to throw Garrett out at third, dropped the ball for an error.

MISJUDGED FLY

Joe Torre popped out but Dave Kingman singled to score Garrett. With two out, Ed Kranepool lofted a fly ball which centre fielder Cesar Geronimo misjudged for a gift double as two runs scored.

Meanwhile, Craig Swan

and Skip Lockwood held the Reds to seven hits. Lockwood relieved with two out and one out in the eighth. He struck out Johnny Bench—just as he did in a clutch situation Tuesday night—and retired George Foster on a fly ball.

Jim Rooker and reliever Larry Demery combined on a five-hitter as the Pirates won their third in a row and handed the Giants their 10th loss in 11 games and fifth in a row.

Vic Harris' two-run single highlighted a four-run fifth inning as the Cardinals handed the staggering Braves their 10th successive defeat.

The Cards had six singles and a walk in the inning against winless Carl Morton. St. Louis added what proved to be the winning run in the eighth on Willie Crawford's single and Kessinger's double.

San Diego's Dan Spillner scattered four hits in eight innings and Dave Winfield contributed three hits, including a second-inning homer, against the Expos.

Hockey Night in Canada asked for more tape by police on Flyers-Leafs

TORONTO (CP) — Ralph Mellanby, executive producer of Hockey Night in Canada, said Wednesday police have asked his staff to find 180 minutes of videotape footage of a National Hockey League playoff game which lead to charges against three members of Philadelphia Flyers.

He said investigators now "feel they've missed something, so are doing a little backtracking."

The Flyers' Don Saleski, Joe Watson and Mel Bridgman were charged in connection with incidents during a quarter-final game between Toronto Maple Leafs and the visiting Flyers on April 15. They are scheduled to appear June 10 in provincial court.

An earlier published report said Roy McMurtry,

Ontario attorney-general, Robert McGee, assistant Crown attorney for York County, and two investigating officers viewed only one-third of the available film—the 90 minutes of the game, shown on television.

Some Hockey Night officials said Wednesday they were not asked to hand over the 180 minutes of tape showing action the producers decided not to screen.

DENIED REPORT

Earlier Wednesday, Bob Gordon, Toronto producer for Hockey Night in Canada, denied the published report that said 180 minutes of the recording were not turned over to the attorney-general's department and police who investigated the violence during the game.

Canada loses top figure skaters to pros

TORONTO (CP) — All the reigning Canadian figure skating champions are turning professional in Toller Cranston's Theatre on Ice production that will make its debut in Halifax this September.

Details of Cranston's new show were announced at a news conference Wednesday and the lineup includes Canadian women's champion Lynn Nightingale of Ottawa, dance champions Barbara Berezowski of Toronto and Dave Porter of Port Perry, Ont., and pairs champions Candy Jones of Toronto and Don Fraser of Richmond Hill, Ont.

Cranston, the six-time Canadian men's champion from Toronto, has a $3-million, three-year contract with the Hurok Concerts agency of New York to produce the show, which intends to steer away from the usual lavish chorus-line style of other ice shows.

"Artistry will speak for itself," said the 27-year-old Cranston whose artistic style of free skating has long been his main strength in amateur competition.

"There'll be no chorus lines, no props, no scenery as such, or other gimmicks. Eight spotlights will heighten and focus attention on highly expressive skating."

HAS U.S. PAIRS

Others joining Cranston's troupe are United States pairs Colleen O'Connor and Jim Milne and Emily Benenson and Jack Courtney, Cathy Lee Irwin of Toronto, Gord McKellen of Lake Placid, N.Y. and Bob Rubens of Montreal.

O'Connor and Milne were U.S. pairs champions and won the bronze medal at the Olympics in February. Benenson and Courtney were third in the U.S. pairs competition the last two years.

Miss Irwin was a top Canadian amateur who turned professional three years ago. McKellen was the 1975 U.S. men's champ and Rubens was runner-up to Cranston in the 1975 Canadian championships.

Cranston, who has held the Canadian men's title since 1971, won bronze medals in the 1974 world championships and this year's Olympics.

Miss Nightingale, 19, won her third Canadian title this year. Her best showing in the worlds was sixth in 1974.

Jones and Fraser took the Canadian pairs title for the second time this year but failed to break into the top 10 in the world.

Berezowski and Porter placed seventh at the world championships this year after winning their second Canadian title.

PLANS TRAINING CAMP

Cranston said the skaters plan to start training in New England in July. They start an eight-week Canadian-U.S. tour in Halifax in early September. Shows are planned for about 16 Canadian cities, including Toronto in October.

ber, and 15 U.S. centres.

The show then will tour Europe, Russia and the Far East. Ron Clairmont, noted for his work on Broadway and television, is the show's artistic director while Brian Foley will be the choreographer.

The departure of all the Canadian champions throws the women's and pairs amateur divisions up for grabs while Ron Shaver of Cambridge, Ont., looms as the most likely heir to Cranston's title and the Toronto couple of Susan Carscadden and Eric Gillies remains the best in the dance division.
