21-GUN SALUTE FOR QUEEN

Control Of Space Demanded

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Twenty-two countries called on the United Nations Friday to make another try at a disarmament agreement that would control such space travellers as the Russian earth satellite.

They presented a formal resolution asking the UN to reconvene the deadlocked five-power subcommittee on disarmament "as soon as feasible" and give first consideration to western proposals.

There was no mention of Indian or Japanese suggestions for breaking the East-West deadlock, or any Soviet proposals. The 22 countries made plain they are supporting in principle the western proposals advanced in London last August and rejected by the Russians.

RED MOON'S SHADOW

But it is clear that the Soviet satellite now circling the earth cast its shadow on the lengthy consultations that produced the resolution.

One of the main points called for a "joint study of an inspection system designed to ensure that sending of objects through outer space will be exclusively for peaceful and scientific purposes."

The United States has suggested the study of control of outer space objects be taken up immediately without waiting for agreement on other phases of initial steps toward disarmament.

This was not mentioned in the resolution, and there were indications some of the sponsoring powers were approaching this suggestion with caution.

United States sources said Britain, Canada and France still are studying the U.S. suggestion. Those four countries and the Soviet Union make up the disarmament subcommittee.

Britain's position is that science is just arriving at new techniques and discoveries regarding rockets and artificial moons, and because the subject is so technical no one can be sure what action can be taken to control them.

HOPE FOR IMMEDIATE STEPS
The 22-power resolution will be debated at length in the 82-member political committee, which must approve before it can be passed on to the General Assembly.

The resolution expresses belief that "immediate, carefully measured steps can be taken for partial measures of disarmament and that such steps will facilitate further measures of disarmament."

In addition to control of outer space objects, the resolution asks endorsement of suspension of nuclear tests with effective international control, halting of production of fissionable materials for war purposes and reduction of already existing nuclear weapon stockpiles.

The resolution also asks for reduction of "armed forces and armaments through adequate safeguard arrangements." It seeks also "progressive establishment" of air and ground inspection to guard against surprise attacks.

The political committee adjourned its debate on disarmament until Monday, when the full parade of speakers is expected to start.

Hoax Splits Social Credit

OTTAWA —(CP)—Social Credit leader Solon Low Friday described as "despicable" the activities of a naturopathic physician in a political hoax that threatened to split Manitoba Social Credit ranks.

He was referring to a claim by Dr. Howard McGill in Winnipeg Thursday that he had worked his way into a position of power in the Social Credit party simply "as a research project in the power of positive thinking."

Dr. McGill of Grande Prairie, Alta., said that in less than a month he worked his way into the Manitoba Social Credit executive, had taken the key post of provincial organizer and was on the point of even wider powers.

Thursday he announced his withdrawal from Social Credit ranks and said he had always been a Conservative.

THE QUEEN AND PRINCE PHILIP — WELCOME TO CANADA

Visit To Heal Relations

LONDON (AP)—British newspapers today look to the Queen's North American visit to complete the healing of U.S.-British relations and strengthen Western bonds in the face of Russia's scientific challenge.

Editorials on the departure of the Queen and Prince Philip for Ottawa see the damage done to U.S.-British friendship by the Suez crisis as one of the backgrounds of the tour.

But they also deal on the launching of the Soviet satellite and the need for the three English-speaking nations of the West—Britain, the United States and Canada—to unite more closely.

The Times comments: "The background of the whole of this tour is the drawing together of the three great English-speaking nations of the Atlantic community.

"Though the Queen herself must not be involved in any issue of recent controversy, this first royal visit since the great divisions of the Suez crisis will give fresh opportunities for renewal of friendly intercourse between the statesmen of the three countries. . . ."

"AMAZING WEEK"
The Daily Express says the Queen is setting out on her journey "at the end of an amazing week."

"The Queen's visit to Canada and the United States would at any time be a momentous event," it says. "But it comes when, with Russian prestige momentarily enhanced—there is a plain need to strengthen the bonds of the Empire and the association with the United States. . . ."

The Times says one of the great moments of the Queen's tour will be her entry into Jamestown, Va. "the shrine of all the past memories that America and Britain share."

"There is still lingering in the American mind the belief that a crown is the symbol of everything against which the existence of America is a protest; and yet they have come to recognize in successive wearers of the very crown against which their ancestors revolted the virtues and graces they most value in their own homes."

QUEEN IS BULWARK
The Daily Telegraph says that the Queen symbolizes the cultural and historical roots that bind Canadians, French-speaking as well as English-speaking, to the old world. It asserted:

"The crown, and the loyalties it inspires and the values it invokes, is the bulwark against which the tides of 'Americanization' beat in vain.

"The same, paradoxically enough, is true in the United States itself. Deeply and irreversibly republican though the American consciousness is, and implacably opposed to the aristocratic or feudal traditions of Europe, yet the British sovereign does nevertheless strike some deep-seated chord within it."

"The same, paradoxically enough, is true in the United States itself. Deeply and irreversibly republican though the American consciousness is, and implacably opposed to the aristocratic or feudal traditions of Europe, yet the British sovereign does nevertheless strike some deep-seated chord within it."

The gripe and the crisis were not really new, but the world listened for the beeps from Russia's earth satellite, which the Soviets call Sputnik.

Few actually saw the tiny artificial moon as it whirled around the earth. But Canadian scientists managed to plot its orbit. In Alberta, astronomers also photographed either Sputnik or its companion rocket and shell.

Scientists described Sputnik as a victory for Russia, a victory with great propaganda implications. The United States began investigating why it had been left behind.

Communist chief Nikita Khrushchev said the launching would convince "any idiot" that Russia now possesses the intercontinental ballistic missile, the "ultimate" weapon.

The Russians at first were secretive and somewhat modest but later they said the satellite is transmitting valuable messages about temperatures and other information about outer space.

World's Smallest Crisis Ends As Reds Give Up San Marino

SAN MARINO (Reuters)—The smallest crisis in a world full of them Friday seemed to be about over as San Marino's left-wing administration evacuated the Medieval palace of government, ending 12 years of Communist rule.

San Marino's two capitalists—regent—a Communist and a left-wing socialist who shared the duties of premiership—quit their majority in the 60-member Parliament. The Red regime had been elected with socialist help in San Marino's first election after the war.

Professor Federico Bigi, unofficial premier of the provisional government, said elections for a new Parliament will be held in August, 1959—the date set in the San Marino constitution.

The 14,000 citizens of this landlocked republic in east Italy heaved a giant sigh of relief. There has been no violence and it appears Italy soon may lift the blockade it has been enforcing around the borders of the 24-square-mile state.

The crisis arose three weeks ago when the Communists tried unsuccessfully to remain in power after defections cost them their majority in the 60-member Parliament. The Red regime had been elected with socialist help in San Marino's first election after the war.

Professor Federico Bigi, unofficial premier of the provisional government, said elections for a new Parliament will be held in August, 1959—the date set in the San Marino constitution.

Ottawa Greets Couple After Long Flight

OTTAWA —(CP)— Queen Elizabeth starts her second visit to Canada today.

To the booming of a 21-gun salute, she and Prince Philip were due at suburban Uplands airport at 4:25 p.m. EDT after a 13½-hour, 3,400-mile flight from London.

As the royal couple crossed the Atlantic today planes of the RAF and RCAF escorted them at safe distances on various parts of the journey. Below were spaced ships of the Royal Navy and the Royal Canadian Navy.

Meanwhile, the Canadian capital and neighboring Hull, Que., awaited the royal visitors in a blaze of autumn and man-made color.

FIRST SINCE 1951

It was the first visit to Canada of Elizabeth and Philip since 1951. That year they travelled from coast to coast as princess and Duke of Edinburgh. Their four-day Canadian visit this time is limited to the capital.

Elizabeth is the second reigning monarch ever to visit Canada. Her father, the late King George VI, was the first. He and Elizabeth's mother made a national tour in 1939.

The 31-year-old Queen will open the first session of Canada's 23rd Parliament Monday afternoon. It will be the first time a ruling monarch has ever read the speech from the throne to open a Canadian Parliament.

The Queen and Philip are visiting Ottawa and afterwards the United States for five days unaccompanied by their children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne. They remained behind in England.

A clarion fanfare by seven RCAF trumpeters backed by a crescendo on the timpani drum was to greet the Queen and Prince Philip as they emerged from the four-engined British Overseas Airways Corporation plane this afternoon. In the background was the measured thunder of a 21-gun salute. The Royal Ensign flew.

GREET THE QUEEN

As the plane stopped at the entrance of the huge RCAF hangar, Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker and Governor-General Massey were to meet Her Majesty at the foot of the unloading ramp.

After inspecting a 100-man RCAF guard of honor, the Queen and Prince Philip were to drive a 14-mile procession route through the crowded capital streets to Government House, official residence of the Governor-General where they are staying while here.

It would be part of a total of 58 miles they are to travel through capital streets on public view. And for the royal eyes the routes have been decorated with Union Jacks and Canadian Red Ensigns with copies of the Canadian and royal coats of arms, with bunting, ribbons, streamers.

The capital's some 250,000 population was expected to be swelled by more than 100,000 visitors during the royal stay.

Highlight of the visit comes Monday when the Queen will unveil the new Progressive Conservative government's legislative program. It will be outlined in the throne speech, written by the government, which she will read to some 1,000 persons in the Senate for the opening ceremony.

She and Philip will attend a state dinner at Government House and afterwards a state reception on Monday night. The following night they will be guests of the Diefenbakers at a quiet family dinner in the prime minister's residence, 24 Sussex Drive.

The royal couple will meet members of the diplomatic corps, cabinet members, church and other state dignitaries including provincial premiers and lieutenant-governors of the provinces.

School children from out of town have been assigned choice standing room along the routes the Queen and Philip will travel during the visit. A special ceremony at Lansdowne Park Wednesday before the royal couple leaves for Williamsburg, Va., will give 15,000 Ottawa school children a chance for a regal close-up.

Historic Role For Michener

OTTAWA (CP)—It now is virtually certain that Roland Michener, 57-year-old Toronto lawyer and business executive, will be the first Canadian Commons Speaker ever to address the sovereign at the opening of this country's Parliament.

His speech, with historical overtones from the long-gone days of conflict between the British Parliament and the Stuart kings, will assert the traditional Commons claim to free speech and other privileges.

While only the Commons can name a Speaker, Mr. Michener has been acting unofficially for several weeks in this office guiding arrangements for the opening of Parliament Monday by Queen Elizabeth. He also has been assigned to a Commons seat traditionally reserved for the Speaker.

There appears to be no doubt that Prime Minister Diefenbaker will propose Mr. Michener as Speaker at a ceremony in the Commons Monday morning. Mr. Diefenbaker's motion is expected to be seconded by Opposition Leader St. Laurent.

News Of The Week In Review

Sputnik, Khrushchev, Sandys Hold Spotlight

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A Paris newspaper summed up the news with pungent brevity: Grippe, grippe, grippe; crisis, crisis, crisis; beep, beep, beep.

The gripe and the crisis were not really new, but the world listened for the beeps from Russia's earth satellite, which the Soviets call Sputnik.

Few actually saw the tiny artificial moon as it whirled around the earth. But Canadian scientists managed to plot its orbit. In Alberta, astronomers also photographed either Sputnik or its companion rocket and shell.

Scientists described Sputnik as a victory for Russia, a victory with great propaganda implications. The United States began investigating why it had been left behind.

Communist chief Nikita Khrushchev said the launching would convince "any idiot" that Russia now possesses the intercontinental ballistic missile, the "ultimate" weapon.

The Russians at first were secretive and somewhat modest but later they said the satellite is transmitting valuable messages about temperatures and other information about outer space.

SPUTNIK DIPLOMACY
Russia lost no time in cashing in on its propaganda advantage through Sputnik.

The U.S., Khrushchev charged, is trying to push Turkey into an attack against Syria. The U.S. denied this and said it will stand by its obligations to Turkey under NATO.

"When the guns begin to fire, the rockets can begin flying and then it will be too late to think about it," Khrushchev said.

BRITISH PROPOSAL

Defence Minister Duncan Sandys of Britain urged the U.S. "in the light of recent developments" to allow American and British scientists to pool their brains.

He spoke at the Conservative party's annual conference, where speakers blamed lack of Anglo-American co-operation for Russia beating the West in the launching of an earth satellite.

Others said the British government should "take a firm stand with the U.S. and stop pandering to their sense of security. They have had a shock in the last week."

HOFFA HIT

Senator John McClellan said some aspects of Jimmy Hoffa's election as chief of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters were "scandalous."

McClellan, chairman of the Senate committee investigating racketeering in the labor-management field, said Dave Beck enabled Hoffa to win the election at the union convention in Miami. Records of the convention credentials committee "reveal some situations which are just plain scandalous," McClellan said.

His committee was studying charges that delegates had been hand-picked to rig the election for Hoffa as alleged in a court action which sought unsuccessfully to block the election.

Hoffa said the interpretation of the union constitution by Beck, outgoing teamsters president, had been approved by the convention.

FAUBUS CHARGE

Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus raised a ruckus when he charged that federal soldiers in Little Rock had watched schoolgirls as they changed to gymnasium attire in their dressing room.

The charge, part of the continuing controversy over integration of Little Rock Central High School, was angrily denied by a spokesman for President Eisenhower. He described the charge as "vulgar."

Girl students at the school also denied that the soldiers, whose duty is to make sure that no harm comes to Negro students, invaded their privacy.

DIONNE WEDDING

Annette Dionne was married, the first of the famed Dionne quintuplets to wed.

Annette and her bridegroom, Germain Allard, did everything possible to keep the ceremony a quiet affair, in the Roman Catholic Notre-Dame-de-la-Salette Church on Montreal's Bleury Street.

Allard, 24, and Annette, 23, met at Christmas two years ago. He was then a student and now is an employee of a Montreal finance company.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne made one of their rare trips to Montreal for the occasion. The three other quints are single. The other, Emilie, died in 1954.

PROMISE TO CANADA

The U.S. promised Canada it will try "insofar as possible" to dispose of surplus farm products in a way that will not harm Canadian markets.

The assurance came in a joint communique following a conference in Washington of Canadian and U.S. cabinet ministers. Surplus wheat was a major problem at issue.

"Fire-sale" marketing of American surplus wheat has robbed Canada of some traditional markets, the Canadian delegation said.

The U.S. said a revision of policy provides that barter deals must stipulate that sales of American surplus must be in addition to normal imports by a foreign country.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Peter Lawford wonders if this is progress.

Fourteen years ago, he was working on the MGM lot with the famous collie dog Lassie Come Home. Today he's back on the same lot with Asta, the talented wire-haired terrier, in the Thin Man TV series.

Of course, there is a difference. In the Lassie days, he was an up-and-coming young actor working at a minor salary. Even Lassie was getting more than he was.

Today he outranks Asta considerably, being a partner in the TV series. Peter plays Nick Charles, the suave sleuth originated by William Powell in the MGM films of the 30s and 40s. Phyllis Kirk plays the Myrna Loy part in the TV show, which airs on NBC Friday nights.

I dropped by the stage where the Thin Man crew is buzzing along through the first 13 of the chapters—25 more to go.

BEEN FUN
"It has been fun," he said, "hard work but fun. I had a lot easier time doing the Dear Phoebe series. Comedy comes a lot easier to me. This Man in the Fog stuff is much harder to do."

But he does it well, according to the critics, who have termed him and Phyllis a lively combination, though the early scripts were not of the greatest.

"I think we're hitting our stride now," Peter said. "We're aiming more at comedy now and injecting less of the blood and mystery."

That seems like a good notion. There is enough blood spilled out of the home screens this season, and darn little good comedy.

Besides drawing a healthy salary, Peter owns one-quarter of the Thin Man series. He also controls 51 per cent of Dear Phoebe, and is collecting nicely.

Anglican Ladies Hold Sale At Thetford Mines

THETFORD MINES — The St. John's Anglican Church rummage sale was held in the market place with a very large attendance of shoppers. Though the sponsoring groups did not make as large a profit as in other years, this was due chiefly to a scarcity of goods rather than buyers.

Owing to illness, a number of the St. John's ladies were unable to help with the sale, but several women from Catholic clubs kindly came to the rescue and helped out. Mrs. O. H. Adams, president of the Ladies Guild, expressed gratitude to these ladies and also to Mr. B. Potvin of the local radio station, who announced the sale in both English and French over the air.

Among the groups sharing in the work of the sale were the Ladies Guild, the Senior W.A., Women's Club and the Anglican church group from Lower Ireland, which each year holds its sale in conjunction with the ladies of St. John's church here.

mer's tour of Japan, a tour which, by the way, had to be extended to Hawaii and some other important Oriental dance centres.

His new Caribbean Carnival, the first completely Pan-Caribbean show ever assembled, with authentic artists, favorites of all of the islands of the South, with two of Haiti's greatest masters of the jungle drum and a genuine steel band from Trinidad among its features, will be brought here for one performance only, on Tuesday, Oct. 22, at the Granada Theatre.

The many faceted show includes not only the Haitian dance for which Destine is recognized on three continents—and some islands—but all of the dance, music and rhythms of the other Caribbean islands. It includes not only the calypso songs and dances, mainly from Trinidad, which are still on the "Hit Parade" but Afro-Caribbean Voodoo dance and drum rituals, French influenced "meringues" and elegant Colonial-Creole dance from Martinique, in addition to some hot rhythms from Cuba and some languorous ones from Guadeloupe. G. H. Logie To Lunch With Prince Tuesday

One of a group of Canadian executives invited to lunch with Prince Philip this Tuesday at Government House in Ottawa is Lt. Col. George Logie, industrial relations manager at the local Canadian Ingersoll-Rand plant.

Col. Logie said he received the invitation from Governor General Vincent Massey about three weeks ago. He will be one of about 29 Canadians who will attend.

Those invited took part in the Duke of Edinburgh's Commonwealth Study Conference at Oxford in July, 1956. Theme of the development were represented. Some of these were feeling the first clash of new techniques and social groupings against older ways of life, work and belief.

The problem of reconciling the benefits of industrial development with personal needs and the questions of "How can the life of a community assimilate the changes which accompany a technical and economic revolution?" and "Can the new industries within the Commonwealth help each other?" were some of the thoughts behind the conference.

Col. Logie declared there were no conclusions reached in England but since that time two books have been written which lay a great deal of emphasis on harmony and respect between labor and management.

Community Chest Campaign Runs Oct. 14 - Nov. 5

Forrest Keene, organizer of the Sherbrooke and Lennoxville Community Chest Campaign, has announced that the local campaign will run from Oct. 14 to Nov. 5, under the chairmanship of Hap Rice and K. L. Halpeny with an objective of $23,000. Associating for this drive will be the Boy Scouts, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A. and the Sherbrooke and Lennoxville libraries.

All these organizations are landmarks and well-known institutions of the district.

Mr. Keene pointed out that for the past two years the objective was not made and therefore the organization involved have had to carry the burden of a large deficit from year to year. "It is therefore to be hoped that every body will make a special effort this year to see that the objective is reached," he said.

Headquarters for the campaign will be at the Y. M. C. A. on Dufferin Ave., and the office will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday during

"Carmen" On Stage Tuesday

In Carmen, Georges Bizet found a perfect subject for displaying his masterful ability in portraying musically "local color" — an ability that he had previously revealed in The Fishers, and the glowing incidental music to Daudet's drama, L'Arlesienne. Sherbrooke will see the New York Opera Festival production at the Granada Theatre, next Tuesday, Oct. 15.

Carmen was first produced at the Opera Comique, Paris, on March 3, 1875. Its first performance in the United States took place at the Academy of Music, in New York City, on October 23, 1878.

Three months after the opera was first produced, Bizet died, thoroughly under the impression that his work was a failure. He little realized the world-wide success it was to achieve. Through this one opera Bizet has come to be ranked among the greatest of operatic composers.

Carmen is, moreover, one of the few operas that wins universal approval. The man in the street whistles its flowing melodies; the opera-lover thrills to its swift moving scenes, and intensely emotional music; the artist is enthusiastic over its singing and acting possibilities, and the musician respects its masterfully handled musical numbers and thorough musicianship.

This dramatic work, founded on the novel by Prosper Merimee, with opera libretto by Henri Meilhac and Ludovic Halevy, is artfully portrayed with distinction in Bizet's music which clearly reflects every scene and every character.

THE STORY

The action takes place in Spain, about 1820. It is the noon hour and the guard is about to change. Micaela, a peasant girl, appears, seeking a corporal of dragoons, Don Jose. The officer on guard invites her to wait but she refuses. The relief guard appears, among them Don Jose. Crowds of young men await the girls who work in the tobacco factory. The girls enter and the men crowd around Carmen, a gypsy girl, the greatest beauty of them all.

She is piqued at Don Jose's indifference and throws him a rose from her hair. The factory bell sounds its summons to work; the soldiers enter the guard house, and Don Jose is left alone with Micaela, who has returned once more. She bears a letter from Don Jose's mother. Don Jose reads the letter, but is interrupted by excitement in the factory. Carmen has stabbed another girl in a fight. She is brought before Zuniga, captain of dragoons, and arrested. Her hands are tied and Don Jose is left in charge. She charms him and regains her freedom. Don Jose is imprisoned. Carmen and the gypsy girls are having a gay time with the officers at the Tavern of Lillas Pastia. Carmen learns of Don Jose's release. A newcomer, Escamillo, the brave toreador, arrives, and is warmly welcomed by all. Don Jose enters and Carmen pleads with him to join the band of smugglers. Zuniga returns and orders Don Jose to leave. The corporal refuses and a fight ensues. The smugglers return and take Zuniga as their

BISHOP'S BULLETIN BOARD

Bishop's has been entombed for the Thanksgiving weekend. With the influenza epidemic showing no signs of abating, it was decided to close the University a day early, and the bulk of the student body left Thursday.

Although there was not a great surge of sickness, enough people were hit daily that the Deans of Residence were not quite able to cope with the situation adequately. Several invalids have remained at the University for the weekend, riding themselves of the pestilent bug.

SEC President Tony Ketchum, and NFCUS Chairman David Bonyn are in Quebec this weekend, for the annual National Convention of the student federation. Bishop's has always been a strong supporter of the federation, which has tottered quite visibly in the past, and threatens to again, if certain major issues are not decided at this conference.

The major obstacle which NFCUS must surmount is a financial one. According to the latest report of its national committee, the federation is not capable of carrying out its desired projects with the limited funds at hand. Although a sliding scale of fees was introduced last year, many of the larger universities feel that their student governments, and the individual students are being too heavily taxed for the returns gained from NFCUS. This is a somewhat distorted criticism, since the highest membership fee is paid by Bishop's, fifty cents per student.

The delegates will discuss such matters as national and international student affairs as they concern the Canadian student population. Seminars will be held on some of the following topics — Education in Canada, Student Conditions in Canada, Federal and Provincial Aid to Canadian Education, and International Student Affairs.

One of the major functions and goals of NFCUS is to foster cultural activity on the student level, and to this end they have sponsored short story contests and art displays. Much of the discussion will centre around the feasibility of extending the range of cultural activities sponsored and encouraged by NFCUS. With the formation of the Canada Council, the executive feel that an appeal should be made to them for funds to support the projects of NFCUS which are in line with the Council's aims.

The annual World University Service "Treasure Van" was displayed in Sherbrooke this week. Although the final results of the sale are not yet public, it was evident to members of the Com-

New March To Be Played At Change Of Command

The Sherbrooke Regiment March, composed and arranged by S/Sgt. Irving Richards of the Sherbrooke 12th Armoured Regiment, RCAC, will be played publicly for the first time this evening for the Change of Command ceremonies taking place at the William Street Armory. A full military band composition with 41 parts, the march was begun by S/Sgt. Richards in December 1955. It was recently approved by Major Scott, head of Canadian Army Bands, who praised its quality.

When S/Sgt. Richards joined the local unit's band, there were three generations of his family represented, his father and grandfather. Today, Mr. Richards' father, Cpl. Richards and son, Bdm. Richards, play in the band with him.

Ottawa Prepares For Queen's Visit

PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS DRESSED UP FOR ROYALTY

Twenty-five television cameras and 27 radio pickups will be used in bringing the pageantry of the Royal visit to Ottawa into millions of homes across Canada. This sketch map of Ottawa shows the routes the royal party will follow on each day, points of interest, and the positions at which CBC cameras and commentators will be located.

Extensive Radio, TV Coverage

TELEVISION

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12
(4:15 p.m. - 6:15 p.m. EDT approx.)

On arrival at Uplands airport, the royal party will drive along Riverside Drive to Hog's Back, at the junction of the Rideau River and the Rideau Canal. CBC cameras will be located at the airport and at Hog's Back to cover this portion of the drive.

From Hog's Back the party will move on to the Experimental Farm on the Prescott Highway, where thousands of school children will be assembled to greet them. From the Experimental Farm the royal party will drive along the Queen Elizabeth Drive, circle the national war memorial in Confederation Square and then go along Sussex Street to Rideau Hall, residence of the Governor General. CBC television cameras will be located in Lansdowne Park, at the Mackenzie King Bridge, at the Chateau Laurier, on the Toronto General Trust building, at the Royal Canadian Mint, and at the gates and inside the grounds of Rideau Hall.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 13 (10:15 a.m. - 11:00 a.m. EDT)

CBC television cameras at the Chateau Laurier will pick up the royal party as they enter Confederation Square and follow them throughout the ceremony at the national war memorial. At 9:00 p.m. EDT Sunday, Her Majesty will speak to the nation on all CBC radio and television networks. This will be the first time Her Majesty has ever made use of "live" television to speak directly to her people.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 14 (2:15 p.m. - 4:45 p.m. EDT approx.)

On leaving Rideau Hall for Monday's opening of Parliament ceremonies, Her Majesty will drive along Sussex Street and through Confederation Square to the Parliament Buildings. When she arrives at the Parliament Buildings, Her Majesty will be greeted and escorted to the Senate chamber. The Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod will then summon the members of the House of Commons from their chamber and they will walk in procession to the Senate chamber to hear Her Majesty read the Speech from the Throne in both French and English.

After the proceedings in the Parliament Buildings, the television cameras will follow the royal party back along the original route to Rideau Hall. Two CBC television cameras outside the Hull city hall will pick up the arrival of the Royal party while two cameras inside the building will cover their signing of the Golden Book and meeting dignitaries of the city of Hull.

From Hull the royal party will travel to Hurdman's Bridge in south-east Ottawa for a ceremony marking the start of work on the Quebecway, an express highway which will allow through traffic to bypass Ottawa.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 16 (9:25 a.m. - 11:45 a.m. EDT approx.)

On leaving Rideau Hall, the royal party will travel along King Edward Avenue to Laurier Avenue and over the Laurier Bridge to Elgin Street. The royal party will turn in front of the Lord Elgin Hotel and go down Slater Street and along the Queen Elizabeth Drive south to Prescott Circle. The party will drive in front of the grandstand in Lansdowne Park where thousands of school children will be on hand to say goodbye to them. On leaving the park, the party will proceed along the Drive, across Bronson Bridge and along Colonel By Drive to Hog's Back. They will follow Riverside Drive to Uplands airport.

RADIO

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12 (4:15 p.m. to 6:15 p.m. EDT approx.)

Commentators inside and outside the RCAF cantilever hangar at Uplands airport in Ottawa will provide a full description of the royal party's arrival and the reception at the airport. On this and many other occasions during the visit, CBC will have a woman commentator on hand to describe items of feminine interest. As the party leaves the airport for Rideau Hall, CBC radio commentators will describe the procession from various vantage points along the way. Commentators will be located at Hog's Back the Experimental Farm, the Bank Street Bridge, on the roof of the Toronto General Trust building overlooking Confederation Square, at the Royal Canadian Mint, in front of the Prime Minister's residence, and close to the door of Rideau Hall.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 13 (10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. EDT approx.)

On their way to divine service at Christ Church Cathedral (Anglican), the Queen and Prince Philip will stop at the national war memorial to meet Victoria Cross winners and lay a wreath on the Cenotaph. The party will then drive on, via Sparks, Lyon, Queen and Bronson to the Cathedral.

There will be two commentators outside the Cathedral (one will be a woman) and one inside. The service, at which His Royal Highness will read the second lesson, will be broadcast.

On Sunday evening at 8:00 p.m. EDT Her Majesty will address the nation on all CBC radio and television networks.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 14 (2:15 p.m. to 4:45 p.m. EDT approx.)

On Monday, Her Majesty will drive from Rideau Hall for the official opening of Parliament, at which she will read the Speech from the Throne.

There will be a commentator outside the Parliament Buildings to report the royal party's arrival and the royal salute. When Her Majesty and Prince Philip enter the building, commentators inside will take over to describe the ceremony. All commentary on the ceremony in the Senate chamber will come from broadcast booths in the second gallery.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 15 (10:00 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. EDT approx.)

The city of Hull will be visited by the royal couple on Tuesday. Her Majesty will sign the guest at the city hall and meet civic officials.

(11:15 a.m. EDT to noon approx.)

Work on the Queensway, a modern express highway designed to allow through traffic to bypass the city of Ottawa, will be officially started when Her Majesty throws a switch at Hurdman's Bridge in south-east Ottawa. The speech by His Royal Highness, Prince Philip at 1:10 p.m. EDT will be broadcast by CBC radio, in both French and English. His subject will be "Human Problems in Areas of Industrial Expansion."

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 15 (9:25 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. EDT)

On Wednesday, the Queen and Prince Philip will drive to Uplands airport by way of Lansdowne Park where thousands of school children will be assembled to say goodbye.

Burton reported sending two cards from Sunshine to Mrs. Bacon and Mrs. Hubert Meigs. The coming Christmas sale and tea on November 13 was discussed and a Happy Birthday was wished to one of the guests. Mrs. Pettit had a Round Robin for entertainment and the prize was won by Mrs. Pocock. Lunch was served, which included a birthday cake. Mrs. Anne Pessig offered to entertain the next Guild at her home on October 16.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bryan was baptized in St. John's Anglican Church with Rev. C. James Fisk officiating. GOLDEN PLOVERS VISIT MASSAWIPPI VALLEY

A layman among birdwatchers, a Bluenose who returns again and again to his beloved scenic Nova Scotia, this summer visited the Cape Sable area of the Province, one of the few northern breeding grounds of the Willet, which is probably the most striking shorebird of the east. His praise of its beauty and grace was very high. A standing Willet, fourteen to seventeen inches in length, perched high on slender bluish legs, is a dull-looking creature indeed, but anyone who has seen a Willet in flight will join in its praise and treasure the recollection of its strongly-patterned wings in action, each black wing with a long wide band of white running from the forward edge of the body. As a Willet settles it invariably holds its wings aloft for a moment, at a high angle, as if to display with pride its feathered finery. This is its most graceful moment.

The Willet is a bird of the Atlantic coast and long ago bred from Nova Scotia to Florida, choosing marshy coastal areas and sandy islands for its nesting sites. Its eggs were widely sought for the table and in time it became locally extinct throughout New England. In 1925 Forbush, in his "Birds of Massachusetts," expressed the view that unless the most stringent measures for its protection were taken the Willet would disappear as a breeder from the entire Atlantic coast. Protection came, in one way and another, and not the least factor favoring the Willet was the virtual disappearance of "egging" for the table. Today this beautiful and striking bird is thriving in many coastal areas, in Nova Scotia and from New Jersey to Florida. Last April two of us visited the National Wildlife Refuge at Chicoteague, Virginia, arriving just after the Willets, which were busy re-assessing their summer quarters, performing with elegance and close at hand over the short-grass marshes of the area, a beautiful sight. In New Jersey a 30,000 acre marsh has been estimated to support 10,000 pairs of this species.

When word came through the other day that someone thought it possible that forty to fifty Willets had settled around a farm pond at Massawippi we hurried there, with no expectation of seeing Willets, but curious to determine what large shore bird, even possibly confusable with a Willet, might settle in the Massawippi Valley in quantity. The Greater Yellow-legs seemed a possibility. It was late in the afternoon when we arrived. There were no shore birds to be seen. Then, just as we were about to leave, a large flock passed by, settling far off in a recently-seeded field. Arriving at the field, we found many Killdeer, their wing pattern in flight suggestive of that of the Willet, but in with them were at least two larger plovers which we could not identify positively in the failing light. Two days later the Killdeer and the two strangers were in the same field. With ample sunlight and time to study them we could, almost incredulously, make a positive identification of the strangers as partially molted Golden Plovers, which do not seem to have been identified previously in this inland area.

The Golden Plover is a romantic bird, chiefly because of its feats of migration. It breeds along the Arctic coast of North America from Alaska to the longitude of Hudson's Bay. Its northern flight is chiefly through the Mississippi Flyway. Although a few pass south by this same flyway and a few via the Atlantic coast, the majority of these intriguing birds take off from Nova Scotia and fly over the open ocean to South America, continuing on to the pampas of Argentina and to neighboring regions. A Golden Plover, completing its full migration cycle, commonly flies approximately 16,000 miles in a single year, quite apart from local excursions. At Montreal there are occasional fall records of this rare plover, mostly of single birds seen at St. Helen's Island or on the La Prairie shore, while as many as 18 and 19 have been seen at Lake St. Peter in recent years.

One of the most intriguing aspects of bird watching is that one never knows what will turn up next. A botanist may lead you to his favorite patch of blooming orchids, but nesting birds excepted, the birdwatcher can never be sure of leading you to any specific bird and when you follow an interesting lead you may be in for pleasant surprises. So it was with the unlikely Willets that led us to our first local Golden Plovers.

THE VISIT OF QUEEN ELIZABETH

(Tune: Will ye no' come back again?)

On Saturday our Queen will come,
and in Canada be seen;
Then, the people of this land,
Will show how they love their Queen.

(Chorus)
Queen Elizabeth is loved,
In her world-wide Commonwealth;
We are glad God has bestowed
Unto her, wisdom and health.

Visiting our land before,
She, as Princess, won all hearts;
When, as Queen, she comes once more,
Our rejoicing welcome starts.

Ottawa is quite prepared,
to receive Her Majesty,
And her pleasure shall be shared,
By Philip, who will with her be.

Parliamentarians will rejoice,
When our Queen urges the throng,
In her sweet, melodious voice,
To be courteous, wise and strong.

Philip and our Gracious Queen,
Now may hear this warm refrain,
Since our gladness you have seen,
Will you not come back again?

Rev. Archie Penman
Megantic, Quebec.

Ousted MP Can Still Take Seat

OTTAWA (CP) — Aubrey Simmonds, Liberal member of the Commons for the Yukon whose election was declared void Friday by a court decision, still can take his seat in the Commons at the opening of Parliament Monday.

Officials said the seat cannot be declared vacant until the Speaker of the Commons formally receives official notification of the judgment and issues a warrant declaring the vacancy.

Mr. Simmonds can appeal the judgment to the Supreme Court of Canada. If he does, he can retain his seat until a decision from that court confirms the judgment made Friday in Whitehorse.

He could not be reached immediately for comment. Justices J. E. Gibben of the Yukon territorial court and Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson of the Supreme Court of British Columbia voided Mr. Simmonds' election in the voting last June 16 because of controversies of the Election Act.

Urges Suggestions

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The former Anglican bishop of London, Eng., Friday urged Canadian bishops to make public any proposals they had for a possible union of the Anglican Church and the United Church of Canada. The Rt. Rev. J. W. C. Wand said, however, he did not expect the question of union to come up next summer at the Lambeth conference in London when Anglican bishops from all over the world meet to discuss Anglican faith and policy.

Find Body Of Woman

BAIE DU FAIVRE, Que. (CP) — The cut and bruised body of Rolande Lahaie, 36, was discovered Friday in a well, a day after the woman had disappeared in this farming district near Nicolet, Que.

Police said the body bore several cuts and bruises including a seven-inch gash on the back of the head. Reports earlier said the woman apparently had been stabbed.

Police said relatives reported she left a note behind when she vanished.

prisoner. Don Jose becomes a smuggler.

Don Jose, although in love with Carmen, despises the life of a smuggler. Carmen, with her friends Frasquita and Mercedes, is reading her future in the cards when Micela steals into camp in an effort to communicate with Don Jose. She flies when a shot is heard. Escamille, at whom the shot has been fired, enters, and shortly thereafter engages in a duel with Don Jose. Carmen and the smugglers intervene and save the tresspasser's life. Don Jose upbraids Carmen Micela appears and compels Don Jose to leave with her.

The bull fight is about to begin at Seville. Escamille and Carmen appear among the lively and brilliantly dressed throng. Carmen is warned of Don Jose's presence but she seems not to care. The shattered Don Jose pleads with her to return but she seems him. She attempts to rush into the arena but Don Jose, insane with love and jealousy, stabs her to death.

mittee sponsoring the "Treasure Van" that gross sales would be down over last year. The reason for this was partly attributed to the fact that the visit was so far away from Christmas, a major factor in buying things of artistic and unique nature.

SPORT SHORTS

The Gaifers first league game, against the Macdonald Aggies, was cancelled because of sickness on both teams. It was reported that the Aggies had 20 men out, and the Gaifers' sick list was almost as long.

The Intercollegiate Golf Tournament is being played at Bishop's this weekend. College teams from CMR, Sir George Williams, Loyola, and Bishop's will be represented. Playing for Bishop's are Peter Blaikie, John Phillips, Steve Wilgar, and Roger Taylor. Taylor is the only newcomer to the team, and Blaikie was last year's low gross winner. Both Wilgar and Phillips have played steady if not sensational golf this fall, and should round out a contending, if not the winning team.

THIS AND THAT

Wanted:—The Biology Club is having an underwater display of marine life as their annual exhibition. Although the exhibition is several months away, club president, Charles MacInnes, asks anyone who would be willing to lend the club an aquarium for the display to contact him at the University.

Dramatic Society President, Tony Vincent, has announced the dates of the Minor Plays as the 21 to the 23 of November. Two of the plays are standard one-act dramas, "Another Way Out" directed by I. A. Pemberton, and "Master Dudley", to be directed by Mark Pfeiffer. The third selection is Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury", produced by Dick Knapp, with Don Patriquin as musical director. A student orchestra is being planned for the production, and the singers have been hard at work for two weeks now, and should be ready for full rehearsals shortly. P. B.

never seen, even by travelers to the islands, will be on view for the first time in the Carnival. For Destine, ostracized by his own Creole class for pursuing the native dance to the voodoo tonnelles and the market place, is, by now, the recognized authority on all of the song, dance and rhythm of the Caribbean. And his show—with the artists imported from many islands—is something nobody else could put together, according to those who know.

For lithe, handsome Jean-Leon Destine, (pronounced Destiny) is the acknowledged master of these arts at home and abroad. When the Republic of Haiti commemorated the 200th anniversary of the founding of Port-au-Prince with its resplendent Exposition Internationale, it was the (then) schoolboy, Jean-Leon Destine, who was called upon to stage the giant spectacles. Said the President of Haiti, at that time, "It wasn't until Destine transplanted the dance and music from our hills to the stage that most of us began to realize the true beauty of our folklore." Destine now carries his country's highest honor, Chevalier of the Ordre National, Honneur et Merite and he has been named its "Ambassador of the Arts."

Nearly New Shop, Thetford Mines, Forced To Close

THETFORD MINES — The St. John's Women's Club regretfully announces that, due to a lack of available quarters in the downtown area, it has to close the Nearly New Shop.

After two years of carrying on this successful church group project, Mrs. G. F. A. Brink, chairman of the Nearly New Shop committee, struck an optimistic note when she said that interest in the project is still very high.

The group and, although they have no suitable quarters at present, she and others of the committee are still on the lookout for a suitable place.

The Nearly New Shop was organized two years ago and much credit in the beginning was due Mrs. P. Riordon. First chairman of the committee was Mrs. G. Brink, who was assisted by Mrs. R. S. Coleman after Mrs. Riordon found it impossible to carry on. Others who took an active part in the project during its first year were Mrs. Ian Campbell, Mrs. C. G. Bourne, Mrs. W. G. Lynn and Mary Delisle.

During the second year, Mrs. Brink and Mrs. Coleman again headed the committee, assisted by Mrs. C. G. Bourne and Mrs. Gordon Harris. Once a month, food sales were held in conjunction with the Nearly New Shop at which other members of the Women's Club assisted. These monthly food sales will be discontinued with the closing of the shop.

The shop began functioning in the Armouries but later took up quarters in the Asbestos Corporation's old Badminton Club. This space now has been taken over by the company, leaving the Nearly New Shop without premises.

$12.25 FOR JUNIOR RED CROSS The Grade VI and Grade VII classes of Johnson High School held a candy sale, the funds of which were intended for the Junior Red Cross. The sale was in charge of Marilee Hodapp and Diana Normandeau, who cleared $12.25.

The Junior Red Cross hold monthly meetings with the idea of making money for the children in Red Cross hospitals. In addition to the candy sale they plan to do knitting and sell calendars.

Officers of the Junior Red Cross in the Grade VI and VII rooms are: president, James Davidson; vice-president, Yves Ferland; secretary, Margaret Gibbs; treasurer, Donald McCann, and circulation manager, Shirley Donaghy.

LADD—WHITE

The marriage of Miss Shirley Ada White, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. White to Mr. Douglas Brooks Ladd, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Ladd, of Lennoxville, took place at half-past ten o'clock on Saturday, September 14, at Plymouth United Church, Rev. R. C. Tait officiating at the double ring ceremony. Standards of white and red gladioli were used to decorate the church and white satin bows marked the guest pews.

Mr. W. W. Gibson played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. W. W. Gibson in the rendition of "O Promise Me" and of "I'll Walk Beside You" sung during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original model floor length gown of Chantilly lace over tulle and satin. The fitted bodice ending in a V effect at the waistline had a scalloped boat neckline and short scalloped edged sleeves. The bouffant skirt of satin and layers of tulle illusion had a waltz-length overlay of Chantilly lace allowing a ruffle of tulle to show beneath. Her elbow length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a bandeau of white mums and she carried a cascade bouquet of white mums and red Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Robert Patton, sister of the groom, as matron-of-honor, and Miss Elaine White, as bridesmaid for her sister, were in yellow taffeta and organza gowns styled similar to that worn by the bride. Matching taffeta sashes ending in bows at the back accentuated the fitted waists. They wore yellow pleated taffeta bandeaux caught at the side with a single mauve gladioli, the same shaded flowers forming their bouquets.

Little Miss Brenda Loach, niece of the groom, was flower girl and wore a short yellow dress styled identically to those worn by the other attendants. She carried a nosegay of a single mauve gladioli.

Mr. Austin Ladd acted as best man for his brother and the ushers were Mr. Harold White and Mr. Milton White, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. White, the bride's mother, was attired in an afternoon dress of navy blue satin back worsted rayon, with which she wore a small white velvet hat with navy blue trim, and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Ladd chose a navy blue frock of shaggy linen with matching jacket, shell pink hat with navy feather trim and a corsage of frost white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Elmwood Inn, Lennoxville, where red and white gladioli adorned the rooms. The bride's table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom under an arch of roses. Crystal bowls of multi-color petunias and white tapers in silver candelabra completed the arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Ladd left later for a motor trip through the White Mountains and to Boston.

the bride travelling in a Dior blue wool suit with matching feather trimmed hat and black and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink Sweetheart roses. Mr. and Mrs. Ladd have taken up residence at 1118 Elgin Ave.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Downes, of Barrie, Vt., Mr. and Mrs. William Firth, of North Reading, Vt., Mr. and Mrs. William Ladd and son, Mr. Robert Ladd, of Scotland, and Mrs. R. Gage, Kingston, Ont.

WILKINS—TABER

MELBOURNE RIDGE — The marriage of Miss Noreen Isabel Taber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Taber, of Kingsbury, to Mr. Ernest Richard Wilkins, of Kingsbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkins, of Melbourne, took place on Saturday, October 5th, at three o'clock in the Melbourne Ridge United Church. Rev. J. Leslie Dean officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Cecil Johnston and she accompanied the soloist, Mr. Charles Townsley, in the rendition of "I'll Walk Beside You." The church was decorated with baskets of gladioli and the guest pews were marked with white satin bows and white flowers.

Given away by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon chiffon over net and taffeta. The Empire style bodice of imported Italian lace had a Sweetheart neckline trimmed with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, and sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her elbow-length veil of nylon tulle with lace appliques was held in place by a small sequin and pearl crown and she carried a cascade bouquet of red and white carnations. Her only jewellery was a strand of pearls and earrings to match, the gift of the groom.

Miss Hazel Johnston was maid-of-honor and wore a ballerina length strapless gown of pink lace with matching bolero. She wore a small bandeau of flowers and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Miss Diane Taber, as bridesmaid for her sister, wore a ballerina length strapless gown of aqua lace with matching bolero. She wore a small bandeau of flowers and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Douglas Wilkins, brother of the groom, acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Keith Taber, brother of the bride and Mr. Roderick Morrison.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Merrill Taber, chose a street-length gown of dusty rose acetate and silk, with three quarter-length sleeves and tiny knife pleated skirt, small black feather trimmed velvet hat, and matching accessories, and wore a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. John Wilkins, mother of the groom, wore a street-length gown of thru-blue tissue faille, with three quarter-length sleeves, small black velvet hat trimmed with pearls and a small veil, black accessories and a corsage of deep pink carnations.

YANKS' BASEBALL REIGN COMES TO END

The once mighty New York Yankees, who have dominated World Series for the past several years, finally reached the end with fidgety Lew Burdette and the Milwaukee Braves giving the "coup de grace" right in the backyard of the once proud World Champions.

Lew Burdette became the first World Series hurler in 52 years to pitch two shutouts as his 5-0 seven bitter over New York Yankees on Thursday gave the Milwaukee Braves a world championship on their first try. Burdette, an ex-Yankee, touched off a roar that echoed from Yankee Stadium to delicious Wisconsin Avenue in Milwaukee when he retired Bill Skowron, the last Yankee batter, to end the seventh game.

It was estimated that close to 750,000 persons surged and screamed most of the evening in the beer capital of the United States. Pandemonium struck the city just after Burdette retired the side in the ninth and by the time the Braves arrived home it was in full swing and lasted all night.

The Yankee official or player who referred to Milwaukee as "Bushville" when the Yanks pulled in town for the first game certainly must feel like a "plugged nickel." They will never live it down and the Braves' fans will always remember.

The confidence gained in defeating the highly respected Yankees, especially in their own ball park, is immeasurable and to accomplish such a feat a team must be good. The Braves always had the horses but lacked the experience and confidence but they are both now plus a little extra with the knowledge that they are the world champions.

We have always maintained that sports fans were the most fickle minded people in the world and this proves it. It was just four months ago that they hanged Fred Haney in effigy and on Thursday the same red-faced little guy was being eulogized as the greatest manager in baseball.

Even last month some Milwaukee writers had Haney on his way out when his team was wobbling around first place. He kept them right up there despite numerous injuries to key men that would have caused lesser men to quit. Casey Stengel was the first to admit this when he went to the Braves' dressing room to congratulate him.

It was a wonderful series the whole way and everyone honestly believed that the Yanks would win it even after it was deadlocked 3-3. The odds were stacked against the Braves with the final game slated for Yankee Stadium but this failed to dampen Milwaukee's fighting club.

There is no doubt that the hero of the '57 Series is the big rawboned cent from the hill country of West Virginia, Lew Burdette. Besides registering three victories, two via shutouts, to become the first pitcher in 52 years to do so, he held the Yanks scoreless for 24 and 2/3 innings. This in itself is quite a feat.

It was the first time since 1918 that the World Series has gone to a team from outside New York as the westward movement chipped away another hunk of the Big City's baseball prestige. This will go down in baseball as the "Burdette Series." The big right-hander won three while his roommate, Warren Spahn, accounted for the other two. Each winning Brave will get about $9,000 from the player, pool, split 32 ways. The Yanks will take home about $5,710 each, their smallest payday in years. Exact share won't be known until next week. Not bad for a week's work.

Jittery fielding by the Yankees must be blamed for Larsen's downfall. This was unusual as it is generally the other way around with the Yanks' opponents booting the ball. They were charged with six compared to three for the Braves. Quite a difference.

Eleven records were broken and the outstanding one in our mind is the one compiled by the Braves for the lowest team batting average for a World Series winner in a seven-game series — .299. This broke the mark established by the Yanks in 1952.

All that remains now of the Series is for the boys to collect their side-bets and from what we understand there is quite a few. Our good golfing friend, Gabe Cote, came in for a nice hunk from a Quebec doctor while no doubt Gerry Mathieu will be paying for a while.

There should be no doubt that the better team won, and for a club who was supposed to choke up the books for another season and it is time to take up with football and hockey.

The Sand Hill Shotgun Club will open today. It was scheduled for last Saturday but was set back when the Western Trap failed to arrive on time. The executive has been hard at work this week for the members and the shotgun boys can now blast away. We are told that 12-gauge shells will be made available at the range for any member.

It would seem from reading the report of the Gerry Fraser-Yvon Turenne fight in Halifax if ever a "Home-Town" decision was handed out then the one which gave Fraser a unanimous decision over the Montreal Yvonne certainly was one.

Turenne had Fraser bleeding from cuts over both eyes and had pounded his body to a red raw but still this failed to convince the judges and they ruled in favor of the home boy. Ace Foley, Sports Editor of the Halifax Chronicle Herald, figured that Turenne was well out in front as well as the majority of the crowd. In fact most of the fans thought Fraser had taken a rare pounding. Ace had Turenne ahead in six with Fraser winning two and two even. The judges had Fraser 4-3, 6-1 and the referee 5-3. Something funny somewhere. Sure the fans and Ace Foley can't be that wrong. Tough luck Al. Those Maritimes are hard on outsiders.

The Asiatic flu sidelined more runners in Uquhart Pender's marathon than the race itself. Thirteen had signed up for the event but only four showed up but despite this it was run off.

The runners started in Windsor and after climbing the hills finished the race with 40 laps around Joe Sirois' track at St. Francois. Jean-Louis Ducharme was the winner while Rene Gelineau was second with Robert Rousseau and veteran Harry Allen completing the quartet. Promoter Pender wishes to thank Dr. Beaudoin, St. John's Ambulance Corps, Police Chief Beisile and all those who helped the event.

The NHL Players' Association certainly tossed a bombshell at the league with their $3,000,000 suit. It was filed in New York and charges the league with alleged "dictatorship" extended into hiring, firing, trading, buying and selling all players and coaches on termination of their employment in United States and Canada. Quite a mouthful.

We don't think any of the club owners will lose too much sleep over the suit but it certainly will cause plenty of trouble. It is something similar to the famous "baseball reserve clause." President Campbell claims that the league was powerless to act because two of the clubs, Toronto and Montreal, were unable to participate under Canadian laws.

Stafford Smythe of the Leafs doubts that the majority of the players agreed with the action and it might mean the end of the National Hockey League. We don't think so because it is too big an organization and too well operated. It looks like a feeler to us to see what the league will do regarding the Association's request on pension and television benefits.

Most Will Be Back Next Year, Says Casey Stengel But There'll Be Some Changes; Team Leaves For Home

NEW YORK (AP)—"Bushville" on the subway took the world series defeat of the New York Yankees calmly. Business went on as usual Friday. Nobody hung Casey Stengel in effigy.

The Soviet "moon" had page one all to itself. Portable TV sets went back home. It was just another sunny business Friday in October.

A fellow riding into town on a commuter train heard the same refrain over and over.

"Great thing for baseball . . . they deserved it . . . It's not good for anybody to win all the time . . . Those fans earned it . . . What a man, that Lew Burdette."

Burdette captivated New York just as he charmed millions of TV fans. The fun-loving fellow from Nitro, W.Va.—he now lives in Sarasota, Fla.—probably will spend half the winter commuting to New York for TV appearances and profitable endorsements. As the years go past they will remember 1957 in baseball as the year of the "Burdette series" just as they called it the "Christy Mathewson series" in 1905.

Up at Yankee Stadium they were busy converting the base ball field into a football stadium for the New York football Giants.

Some of the Yankees cleared out their lockers immediately after the game. Others returned Friday to pick up their personal belongings.

Even before Thursday's game, Hank Bauer was set to take off for home after the last out. He wasn't going to stay for any party—win or lose.

Bauer left right away. So did Tony Kubek, the only Milwaukee citizen who wasn't celebrating with the Braves. Most will be back next year. But, as Casey said Thursday, "there will be some changes made."

Verdun To Visit Athletics For Sunday QRFU Tilt

Tabbies Expected To Feature Strong Line And Powerful Running Attack; Hold Win Over First Place Lakeshore

The high-riding Verdun Shamcats roar into town this Sunday afternoon looking for their seventh win of the season as they take on the fourth place Sherbrooke Athletics at the local ball park. The Tabbies have a powerful squad and hold a decision over the Lakeshore Flyers, perennial champions of the Q.R.F.U.

The Athletics, only three points in front of the cellar-dwelling Orfuns have only one win under their belt, a 12-10 squeaker over the Trois-Rivières Braves on a muddy, slippery field.

Shamcats, though they are expected to display an awesome ground game, are comparatively weak on defense and the A's are notably stronger on the defense than on offense. This should make for a more reasonable score than when the Flyers visited Sherbrooke and administered a 53-7 shelling to the locals.

Verdun sports a very heavy line this year and it is expected that Sherbrooke boys will skirt to spend most of the time skirting the ends when in possession will be Shamcat coach, Jim Tesson will have quarter Barry Calder starting the game as Don Langley is sidelined with the flu. Filling the halfback positions will be

John Smart, Derek Wyles and Sonny Stone. On the ends are Hank Batten, Ross Weir, Gil Young and Bob Neelson.

Anchoring the line at tackle will be Milo Klack, Georges Fichaud and Bruce Provencher. Other forward wall stalwarts are Garry McLeod, Pete Capouk, Ted Andrews, John Wright, Lou MacDonald, Albert Ryan, Lou Pedecelle and Marcel Gazielle.

Coach "Beef" Ross expects some new faces for the A's this game and it is hoped they will be able to bolster the sagging Athletic attack.

Game time will be at 2:00 p. m. at the local ball park tomorrow afternoon.

Flu Playing Havoc With Western Teams; Esks Face Stampeders Who Are In Top Shape For Weekend Bill

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Edmonton Eskimos may get one of their toughest football tests of the season this weekend.

Opposing them in games Saturday night and Monday will be at least eight cases of influenza and several injuries, as well as Calgary Stampeders — described as a team at the peak of its physical condition.

Eskimos, now atop the Western Interprovincial Football Union standings, meet third-place Stampeders at Edmonton Saturday night and again at Calgary Monday afternoon.

Meanwhile, B.C. Lions — still holding a mathematical chance of making the playoffs — travel to Winnipeg and Regina for games Saturday night against the Blue Bombers and Monday afternoon against Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Stampeders, who need two victories to clinch a berth in playoffs with Bombers and Eskimos, report that the club's physical situation is near — perfect, or at least far better than the league's other five teams.

In addition, coach Otis Douglas is expected to use newcomer Dick Washington from Chicago Bears at the corner line-backer spot.

Douglas also will try to avoid repetition of Stampeders' turn-about performance last weekend. They crushed Saskatchewan 36-9 and set a league offensive record of 653 yards in their first game, then two nights later were humbled 27-1 by the Lions.

Lions, Saturday will be meeting a Winnipeg club that has nearly returned to the backfield strength it boasted earlier in the schedule.

After a siege of injuries, coach Bud Grant will have all but one of his original backs available.

B.C., on the other hand, appears up to par in its backfield but may be short of linemen, with Ken Arkell, Gordie Mitchell and Mike Cais on the bench.

Dr. T. J. Roulston of the Rider medical staff, says this is the worst year he has known for Rider injuries. They have only five able imports.

Minute Flu Bug To Be Instrumental In Big Four Decisions Today; Argos Earn "Spoiler" Moniker For Season

Illness and unexpected performances are making it harder than ever to figure which eastern football teams will be giving thanks come Monday night.

With eight games slated in three leagues, the flu bug likely will continue to leave a big impression on the form sheet.

In the Big Four, where Montreal, Hamilton and Ottawa are tied for the lead, the weekend doubleheaders may untangle matters if some club manages two victories.

The schedule sees Montreal at Ottawa and Toronto at Hamilton today. The clubs reverse grounds for the Thanksgiving Day games Monday.

In the senior Intercollegiate league, Western Mustangs boomed their stock when they whipped McGill Redmen last week and are favored today at London against Queen's. Varsity Blues will try for their second straight in a clash with McGill in Toronto.

The Ontario Rugby Football Union lead is at stake today when London Lords travel to Sarnia. The two clubs are tied three points ahead of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

The Dutchies have what appears to be the easiest task of the weekend when they play at home against winless Toronto Balmy Beach.

SPOILERS

With the Big Four schedule just past the halfway mark, the three leading teams are virtually assured of playoff spots. The last-place Toronto Argonauts have only one win in eight starts. But that victory came last week against the powerful Montreal Alouettes and tabbed the Argos as spoilers over the rest of the schedule.

Coach Hamp Pool of the Argos has to contend with two new flu victims and a couple of injuries while coach Jim Trimble of Hamilton appears to have all hands ready.

Montreal will have four players missing, including centre Tom Hugo for the first time since he moved to the Als from Denver University. Place-kicking tackle Bob Dean also is reported out.

Only one player was definitely out of the Rough Rider lineup—defensive end Lou Bruce who has flu.

Marcel Bonin Finally Signs With Canadiens

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Canadiens announced Friday that Marcel Bonin has signed his contract and will be in uniform tonight against New York Rangers.

Bonin, acquired by Canadiens in the National Hockey League draft last summer from Boston Bruins, has been working out with the club but failed to come to terms until Friday.

Bonin, a winger, played last season with Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League.

None had any immediate comment and only Madison Square Garden in New York definitely was known to have received a writ notifying it of the action against the Rangers.

The suit alleges the defendants have monopolized professional hockey since 1926, violating the United States Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Harvey, an all-star defenceman with Montreal Canadiens, said the action "was taken regretfully after long and serious consideration. We felt we had no other recourse."

He said the players had felt matters could be settled peacefully.

"But since the club owners have remained adamant about meeting with us, we were forced to take this action with full support of our membership," Harvey said.

Smythe said he doubted that the majority of players agreed with the action.

Total assets were shown of $2,260,985, against $2,098,506 at the end of June, 1956. Net fixed assets amounted to $1,403,868 after depreciation of $1,244,007, compared with $1,439,684 after depreciation of $1,168,803.

Touring Russians To Play Seven Games In Canada

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP)—George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, announced Friday the touring Russian hockey team will play seven games in Canada starting Nov. 22 at Toronto.

The Russians are expected to arrive in Canada about Nov. 20. The first game will be played against Whitby Dunlops, Allan Cup champions who will compete in the world championships at Oslo, Norway, next year. Other games have not been announced.

Earlier it was announced the Russians would remain in Canada until Dec. 15 but Dudley says they insist they must be in Stockholm by Dec. 8.

Bald Eagle Wins Two-Year-Old Stake Classic

ASCOT HEATH, England (AP)—American-owned and bred Bald Eagle Friday won the six furlongs Duke of Edinburgh stakes for two-year-olds and was immediately talked about as a probable favorite for next year's English derby.

Bald Eagle, a bay colt by Nasrullah out of Siassa, started as the 6-5 favorite and won by a length in a field of eight runners.

Bald Eagle is owned by H. F. Guggenheim of New York and was ridden by Harry Carr, who is the jockey for Queen Elizabeth.

Players And Owners Have Varied Views On Suit But League Continues; President Campbell Was Surprised

Players' and owners' views on a $3,000,000 suit against the National Hockey League hit opposite extremes Friday.

Doug Harvey, first vice-president of the NHL Players' Association, said the players had "no other recourse."

Stafford Smythe, chairman of Toronto Maple Leafs' seven-man hockey committee, said the action "might mean the end of the NHL."

In between most of the men named in the action had no comment.

The suit was filed in New York Oct. 9 by Milton N. Mound, counsel for the association, and asked $3,000,000 damages and voiding of the standard player's contract.

It was filed against the six teams, the NHL itself, the club owners as individuals and Clarence S. Campbell, NHL president. The defendants have 20 days to file an answer.

Meanwhile the league prepared to go about business as usual. A full schedule of games was listed for Friday night with Boston Bruins making their regular season debut at home against Chicago Black Hawks. The Hawks have split two engagements.

New York Rangers and Montreal Canadiens each sport single wins in their game at Montreal. Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs, each with one loss, tangle in Toronto.

News of the suit, like news of the association's founding last February, caught the owners by surprise.

None had any immediate comment and only Madison Square Garden in New York definitely was known to have received a writ notifying it of the action against the Rangers.

The suit alleges the defendants have monopolized professional hockey since 1926, violating the United States Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Harvey, an all-star defenceman with Montreal Canadiens, said the action "was taken regretfully after long and serious consideration. We felt we had no other recourse."

He said the players had felt matters could be settled peacefully.

"But since the club owners have remained adamant about meeting with us, we were forced to take this action with full support of our membership," Harvey said.

Smythe said he doubted that the majority of players agreed with the action.

Milwaukee's Farm System Finally Paid Off; Club Set For Few Years To Come; Good Players In Minors

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The handwriting is on the wall. In unmistakable language it says there is a new baseball dynasty bearing the name of Milwaukee Braves, newly crowned world champions.

Those associated with the Braves and their National League opponents recognize it.

"When they win the championship," said owner Lou Perini of the Braves some months back, "they will go on for a few years to come."

"There is no reason why we should not keep winning for the next five years," said John Quinn, the club's general manager.

Frank Lane, general manager of St. Louis Cardinals, put it this way:

"This was the year to beat the Braves. Next year I'm afraid they'll be unstoppable." The reason baseball men believe the Braves have supplanted the Dodgers as the class of the National League are twofold: It is a young club—the team on the field in the World Series finale against the Yankees averaged only 26.4 years—and its farm system is one of the most valuable and productive in the game today. Then there's always Perini's bankroll, ready to buy what his farms don't produce.

SUPPLIED PLAYERS
The Braves' relied on their farm system during the pennant drive when one regular after another was injured. And during the World Series Felix Mantilla spelled the injured Red Schoendienst; at second, Frank Torre handled first base for a non-too-strong Joe Adcock and Bob Hazle, the Hurricane, played right field.

He said:

"I cannot believe that players on our team, players I associate with or have associated with, would be a party of any such thing. If they are and if that is their feeling it might mean the end of the NHL."

Campbell said in Detroit that news of the suit surprised him.

He said it looks as though "it is going to be an exhausting affair—in time, resources and patience."

The association had threatened legal action several weeks ago when the league declined to negotiate pension and television benefits. Campbell said Sept. 23 that the league could not act because two of the teams, Toronto and Montreal, were unable to participate under Canadian laws.

Mound said after filing suit the players contend the Canadian clubs are subject to U.S. law because they each play 28 regular schedule games there.

Dublinski Slated To Meet Officials Of Hamilton Ticats

HAMILTON—Officials of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union said Friday they will meet quarterback Tom Dublinski, formerly of Toronto Argonauts, this weekend.

Ticats coach Jim Trimble turned down Dublinski when he first became available to weeks ago but apparently reconsidered because of injuries to Bernie Faloney.

Ticats also are reported interested in talking to Dublinski about next season.

Dublinski starred in 1955, his first season in Canada, but has been hampered since by injuries.

Beebe Home And School To Sponsor Teen Age Dances Again This Year

BEEBE — The general meeting of the Home and School Association was held in the school auditorium following a family style supper at which approximately 150 parents and children, members of the local school board and the teaching staff were guests.

The president, Mrs. A. Little, conducted the business and the treasurer reported a balance of $57.31 on hand.

The teaching staff was introduced by Mr. Gibson, school principal.

It was decided that the children had a door to door canvass again at Halloween for the benefit of U.N.I.C.E.F. This project was tried for the first time last year and proved successful.

It was agreed that the vitamin capsule program be carried out another year and it was also agreed that the teen age dances take place again this winter and chaparrons were named for these affairs.

Following a discussion on more sports equipment for the school it was the feeling of the members that more support should be given this matter and more definite plans will be carried out in the near future.

Twenty-nine families joined the Association and it is hoped that many more will join in the interest of the children.

In the future the meetings will be held on the third Tuesday of the month and not on a Wednesday, as has been the custom.

The school banner was won by Grade 9.

BRIDAL SHOWER

Miss Phyllis Derusha of Newport and formerly of Beebe was pleasantly surprised when taken to the council room in the Town Hall. She was greeted by about 40 friends and relatives gathered to honor her on her approaching marriage to Mr. Guy Lyons of Holland, Vt.

She was seated in a chair decorated in aqua and white and was presented with a corsage of sweet peas by Mrs. Allan Smith.

A basket filled with attractive wrapped gifts was placed before her and she was assisted in opening them by her mother, Mrs. Muriel Derusha, and future mother-in-law, Mrs. Floyd Lyons. The many lovely and useful gifts consisted of linens, dishes, lamps, electric clock and other items. Miss Derusha expressed her appreciation and thanks to her friends.

Room decorations were carried out in aqua and white streamers from the four corners of the room attached to a decorated umbrella, suspended over the table of gifts.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Allan Smith, Mrs. Donald Young and Miss Gloria Lyons. The bride's cake was made in the form of double rings was made by Mrs. William Young and decorated in white.
