West Should Consider Whole German Problem Says W. Berlin Mayor

BERLIN (AP) — The mayor of West Berlin says the West should deal with the whole German problem instead of merely reacting to Soviet schemes to gobble Western Berlin.

Mayor Willy Brandt urged western powers to counter Soviet Premier Khrushchev's plan to neutralize West Berlin in six months with their own broad proposals on German unification.

The West ought to act quickly because the Russians "may put on pressure before the end of the six-month period," he said.

The Socialist mayor of 2,200,000 West Berliners who live 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain made his comments to foreign correspondents on Friday night after receiving firm assurances from many Western leaders of support against the Soviet demand.

WESTERN REJECTION
Diplomatic reports indicate the Western Big Three will reject Khrushchev's ultimatum — which he denies is an ultimatum. NATO foreign ministers meet in Paris Dec. 16-18 and probably will work out the Western reply.

Khrushchev said Thursday that West Berlin could be turned into a "demilitarized free city" with withdrawal of the 9,000 U.S., British and French troops stationed here.

If the West does not accept the Soviet plan, Khrushchev said, Russia will give East Germany control of supply lines to West Berlin. Any military action against East Germany — apparently including any Western effort to force through convoys to Berlin — would be treated as aggression against the entire Communist bloc, he said.

PRAVDA WARNING
The Soviet Union warned today that "fairly unpleasant consequences may arise" if the present occupation status of Berlin is not changed.

In Moscow, the Communist party newspaper Pravda borrowed some of Khrushchev's statements and put them into its lead editorial, broadcast by Moscow Radio. It said Russia has decided "to abolish the occupation status of Berlin and to create such conditions as would contribute to normalization of relations between the great powers."

Pravda said Russia is convinced that six months is sufficient time for negotiations.

As a free city with its own government, West Berlin would "be a kind of centre of peaceful and fruitful contacts between Eastern and Western Germany," Pravda said.

STEP TO UNIFICATION
This, the paper said, would be "a first stage toward their unification, which is actively supported by the (Communist) German Democratic Republic."

Pravda repeated Khrushchev's description of the present West Berlin as a "cancerous tumor" in the body of East Germany.

East Germany supports unification with West Germany only on its own terms, which prohibit free elections. The West refuses to discuss reunification on a basis that would leave a Communist regime intact and give it a voice in the much larger western part of Germany.

May Match Claim Of Russia

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States today may match Russia's claim of possession of an intercontinental ballistic missile.

An Atlas missile raced across the Florida sky like a flaming meteor Friday night and its builders said soon afterward that it traveled the full intercontinental range of 6,325 miles.

The U.S. Air Force was silent after the launching but an official announcement was expected in Washington today.

Russia has announced development of an operational ICBM, the weapon used in launching the Sputniks.

The Atlas blasted off at 9:27 p.m. EST last night. It curved away on its thundering course toward the southeast and was in view four minutes before its fuel burned out and its light vanished high in the sky.

FWL FULL RANGE
A few hours later, in San Diego, Calif., the Convair division of the General Dynamics Corporation—builder of the Atlas—reported that the 160-ton missile flew the intercontinental range.

If so, this was the climax of a test program that started in June, 1957, when the first Atlas blew up soon after launching. The Atlas fired Friday night was the 15th test vehicle in the series.

The first eight used only the twin-chambered booster engine in the tail. Four of these flew successfully over 600-mile ranges. The others exploded in tests of guidance and strength.

ADDED CONTROL
Since then, Atlas missiles have been powered by the booster engine, a sustainer engine and two Vernier engines mounted to the outer shell to control the roll of the 85-foot-long weapon.

The booster and the sustainer engine build up 360,000 pounds of thrust before the Atlas is released from its launching pad.

No Royal Commission To Examine Sale On Montreal Gas Works

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government has decided that a royal commission of inquiry cannot be established to examine circumstances surrounding the sale of Quebec Hydro's Montreal gas-distribution system to the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

Premier Duplessis and Welfare Minister Paul Sauve outlined two reasons.

1. There is nothing in the provincial statutes that would authorize the government to establish such a royal commission. Mr. Duplessis did not elaborate on this point.

2. Libel suits taken by the premier and 15 other government officials against the Montreal Le Devoir, which criticized the transaction, would conflict with the work of a royal commission.

BRISK FLURRY
The decision was made known during a brisk exchange in the legislative assembly resulting from a Liberal opposition motion of amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

The motion, moved by Richard Hyde, Liberal for Westmount-St. George, said the opposition regretted there was nothing in the speech from the throne indicating the government would yield to "public demand" and establish a royal commission of inquiry into the gas transaction.

Mr. Duplessis rose as soon as the motion of amendment was moved and said it was out of order because its discussion would get the assembly involved in matter before the courts as a result of the libel suits.

Also, no one in the assembly except a minister of the crown could make a suggestion that would involve, if followed, the expenditure of public funds.

CAN'T OVERLAP
Welfare Minister Paul Sauve said any lawyer would know that a royal commission and a court of justice could not proceed on one and the same matter.

Liberal House leader Georges Lapalme said what the motion dealt with was not in his opinion a matter before the courts.

The information sought in a royal commission was not whether any illegalities were committed but whether moves contrary to British parliamentary tradition were made, Mr. Lapalme said.

Speaker Maurice Tellier ruled the motion of amendment out of order. His decision was unsuccessfully appealed.

Miss Grey Cup
MONTREAL (CP) — Joan van Boven, 17-year-old Montreal high school student, Friday night was crowned Miss Grey Cup 1958.

She is the second beauty queen from Eastern Canada to win the honor.

Runner-up was Miss Saskatchewan Roughrider, Jane Wentz, 18, of Saskatoon, reigning frosh queen at the University of Saskatchewan.

Sharon Low, 20-year-old daughter of Social Credit Leader Solon Law and Miss Edmonton Eskimo, placed third.

The crowning was the high spot of a Miss Grey Cup ball on the eve of the East-West football classic. Prizes for the winner include a $3,000 sports car, a five-day vacation in Las Vegas, Nev., and television appearances in Hollywood.

The Montreal co-ed, Miss Alouette, will have the place of honor in today's Grey Cup parade and a seat in the Empire Stadium royal box for the game.

Joan won the title over ten other competitors representing teams in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, the Big Four and the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Death Toll At Nineteen In Eastern Blizzard

Snow plastered Eastern Canada and the northeastern United States Friday, causing the deaths of 19 persons in the tangled confusion of slush-covered highways and city streets.

Eight of the victims died in Ontario; 11 in New York state.

The snowfall—it ranged from four to nine inches—paralyzed Toronto, Windsor, Ont., Quebec City, Montreal, Detroit and Buffalo, N.Y.

The storm hit unexpectedly from a disturbance in the southern U.S. the downfall was petering out in southern Ontario Friday night but the snow was moving slowly east, posing grief for Montreal and other Quebec centres.

Toronto police reported 20 traffic accidents and 20 injuries in addition to the pedestrian crosswalk death of a nine-year-old boy struck by a car. The accident figures did not include the city's 12 suburbs.

CAUGHT ON CROSSWALK
The dead boy was Walter Thompson, one of 13 children caught on a crosswalk by an on-rushing car. Crossing guard John Warriner, 67, guided the other 12

As Many Die On Road As Did At Springhill

OTTAWA (AP) — The advent of a week devoted to safe driving emphasizes the fact that every seven days traffic accidents in Canada kill nearly as many people as lost their lives in the Oct. 23 mine disaster at Springhill, N.S.

The underground upheaval at Springhill took 75 lives. The toll was so shocking that people in Canada, the United States and other countries launched an effort to help survivors.

But the loss of an average of 65 lives a week on the country's streets and highways scarcely results in a lifted eyebrow from the general public, except in isolated cases, nothing is done.

BLAME APATHY
Public apathy is perhaps the main reason road deaths are increasing year by year.

The Canadian Highway Safety Conference—a national organization attempting to reduce traffic deaths—says that but for public apathy accidents could be reduced by 95 per cent.

To make Canadians more aware of highway safety, the conference is sponsoring Safe Driving Week starting Monday.

The campaign has the active support of all provinces, municipalities, police forces, public service groups, women's and safety organizations.

Governor-General Massey said in a statement "This special week should serve to stress the vital role of the driver and the walker in reducing mortality and mutilation on our roads."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker in a statement issued by his office said "It is clearly our duty as Canadians to support wholeheartedly any and every effort to save lives and to prevent traffic accidents."

CAN BE REDUCED
The week is designed to demonstrate that it is possible to reduce accidents. Campaign officials hope extra precautions by motorists and pedestrians during the week will be observed in succeeding weeks, bringing down the death toll.

During the 1957 Safe Driving Week there were 45 traffic deaths, compared with 67 in 1956 and 73 in 1955. The conference forecasts the death toll for the 1958 week will be 42.

Canada's overall traffic fatality statistics continue to mount. They have risen from 1,975 in 1950 to 3,216 in 1957, with a toll of 3,400 forecast for this year.

Since 1946 about 32,000 Canadians have died violently on Canadian streets and highways. That's just 12,000 fewer than the 44,910 Canadians who died in the Second World War.

The number of persons injured has shown a similar increase, rising from 78,417 in 1957 to an estimated 80,000 for 1958.

Action Of US Planes Near Russia Questioned

The United States fired off to Moscow the other day a stern note protesting that Soviet fighters had made offensive passes at U.S. planes flying over the Sea of Japan and the Baltic Sea.

The U.S., protesting against "dangerous, offensive and provocative actions," was technically within its rights in taking such a stand since its planes were flying over international waters.

But the proximity of the American planes to the Soviet coast raises the question of what the planes were doing there. This the United States has failed to explain, beyond using the broad term that the aircraft were on "routine navigational flights."

RADAR MISSION
Both planes, six-jet, 600-mile-an-hour models, were only 60 miles from the nearest Soviet territory. This put them about six minutes from the Russian coastline.

It may be significant that the U.S. Air Force later disclosed that the aircraft were reconnaissance machines, carrying cameras and radar reconnaissance gear rather than bombs. Their likely mission was photographing the Soviet coastline.

Technically, such coastal areas are within international air space and the U.S. planes had a right to be there. But, as one Washington newspaper noted editorially, there certainly would be "consternation" within the United States if Soviet military aircraft were to come as close to American shores, even within the confines of international air

Conference To Review Canadian Bill Of Rights

OTTAWA (CP) — A cross-section of Canadians will have their say on the proposed Canadian bill of rights during the national human rights conference here Dec. 8-10.

A panel discussion on the proposed bill is scheduled for the conference wind-up session Dec. 10. The date is the official anniversary of the adoption of the universal declaration of human rights in 1948.

A university professor, a member of Parliament and a labor leader will discuss the Canadian bill, introduced in the Commons in September by Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The legislation has been carried over to the new session starting in mid-January.

Conference officials say this will be the first time the bill has been discussed before a representative group of Canadians. Some 300 people are expected to attend the conference.

Panel members are David Walker, Progressive Conservative MP for Toronto Rosedale; Professor Bora Laskin of the University of Toronto's law faculty and Eamon Park of Toronto, assistant to the national director of the United Steelworkers of America. The chairman will be Professor R. O. MacFarlane of Ottawa's Carleton University.

The three-day conference generally will discuss how Canadian life measures up to the principles outlined in the universal declaration of human rights.

The declaration covers three main areas—civil rights and liberties, economic rights and social rights.

The Ottawa conference is sponsored by 24 national organizations which include labor, women's, education and social welfare associations.

At least two Canadian-born, high-ranking United Nations officials will take part. Conference chairman is Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, director-general of the UN technical assistance administration.

Dr. John Humphrey, former law professor at McGill University, Montreal, and now director of the UN's human rights division, will outline the influence of the universal declaration on the Canadian and international scenes.

Bills Committees To Meet Dec. 3

QUEBEC (CP) — The private and public bills committees of the Quebec legislative assembly will hold their first meetings Dec. 3. From this date to the end of the session the two committees will consider about 140 bills, submitted mainly by municipalities and school commissions wanting additional powers or privileges.

News Of The Week In Review

Sharp Reaction To Red's Berlin Proposals

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev proposed that West Berlin be made a neutralized, demilitarized "free city" and he set a six-month limit on negotiations with the Western powers to get their troops out.

Kn making this proposal Khrushchev renounced Russia's agreement on Berlin with the United States, Britain and France and he said that Soviet authority will be turned over to Communist East Germany.

Reaction was prompt and sharp, especially in West Berlin where officials defied Khrushchev and declared he is trying to put the city's 2,200,000 citizens in the hands of Communists.

Britain announced it intends to keep its troops in Berlin. Some officials said they may use the six-month breathing spell to try for a big four conference on German reunification—the announced goal of the West.

The United States state department said it will not enter any agreement with the Soviet Union that would result in West Berlin sliding under Communist rule.

FRANCO-GERMAN
Khrushchev's action happened to come just after French Premier Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer met in a German town.

They renewed pledges that the four-power status of West Berlin be maintained and, on another subject, pledged their determination to work toward economic and political unity under the six-nation European common market.

Meanwhile, first-round results in France's general elections showed strong pro-Gaullist, anti-Communist trends which are likely to increase in this week-end's final balloting.

De Gaulle explicitly forbade his name to be used by any party in the campaign, but candidates supporting his personal policies won favor by landslide proportions.

Some 500 seats — including Algeria — are involved in the final voting this weekend and it is widely predicted that the new assembly will have a rightist and centrist character. De Gaulle, meanwhile, announced he will pay another visit to Algeria — his fourth since coming to power — in his campaign to restore peace to the war-ravaged territory.

STRIKE AVOIDED
The threat of a transcontinental rail strike in Canada vanished when railway officials and union negotiators for some 130,000 non-operating rail employees signed a two-year contract worth about $50,000,000.

The new contract, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1958, provides for wage increases of about 14 cents an hour plus other benefits for the non-operating workers.

Agreement to call off the strike came 5½ hours after the federal cabinet in Ottawa decided against upsetting a 17-per-cent increase in railway freight rates authorized by the board of transport commissioners.

Eight provinces — all except Quebec and Ontario — had appealed against the rate increase.

LEADER'S JOURNEY
Prime Minister John Diefenbaker — continuing his Commonwealth pilgrimage — moved through exotic Eastern lands, from India to Ceylon to Malaysia.

In Ceylon, birthplace of the Colombo plan, he rode an elephant. He was garlanded with orchids and hailed by Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike as the leader of a country "which has been very generous to us in the assistance she has given with no strings attached."

In Malaya, Diefenbaker was closely questioned by reporters regarding Canada's policy on recognition of Red China. He said Canada does not intend to take any course that would weaken free world opposition to Communism or be construed as a "weakening of our stand."

DOUK TROUBLE
British Columbia's Sons of Freedom Doukhobors were in trouble again.

RCMP tear gas dispersed 400 marchers as they set out on a 53-mile hike to the B.C. government dormitory school for Doukhobor children at New Denver.

Doukhobor spokesmen said they were only celebrating Messiah Day, the 57th birthday of Stefan Sorokin, their spiritual leader who is in Uruguay and has been seeking permission to return to Canada.

After the dispersal, the Free-

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mrs. John Conte finally threw in the towel this week on her effort to revive TV's Matinee Theatre. It was considered foolhardy of her to challenge the whole system of television programming. But there are some who think it was brave and admirable, too. Mrs. Conte swung into action when NBC cancelled Matinee

Theatre, a valiant effort to bring hour-long quality dramas in color to daytime TV. The network said it had lost millions on the series, which was sustained as a promotion for sales of color sets. Mrs. Conte's husband had exceeded the show through its two-year history.

Much to the network's dismay, Mrs. Conte announced formation of a foundation for the preservation of Matinee Theatre. Her goal: Collection of $5,000,000 to return the show to the air.

GIVES UP DRIVE
Her drive drew considerable comment from the press and $312,670 from citizens who were eager to see class programs return to the arid daytime TV scene. But she gave up this week. Why?

"Because I found myself working day and night for the drive and various chairmen throughout the country were doing the same, but we couldn't succeed."

"The reason was that we could not get our message across. We had done a wonderful job on direct mail appeal and door-to-door, but we were unable to buy commercial time to advertise on TV. NBC told us our copy was unacceptable."

So now she is returning all the money, according to her promise. She has calculated that the cost of so doing can amount to $9,000 in postage and handling. Despite the failure, Mrs. Conte is not disheartened.

"Every day I see new indications — in the press and from sponsors — of a growing realization that women like intelligent TV programming," she said.

"I think we've done a lot to promote that feeling."

Seek Grants For Road Extension

Council To Meet With Finance Minister

The Sherbrooke City Council will meet with Finance Minister J. S. Bourque in the near future to discuss demands for provincial grants in widening King St. West and extending Jacques Cartier Blvd. to the Brompton Road, Mayor Nadeau said yesterday during his weekly press conference.

He said he had approached Mr. Bourque last Tuesday in Quebec with a request for an interview for the council. He said the interview will deal especially with the question of the King St. widening and may also include the Jacques Cartier Blvd. extension depending upon the council's wishes.

"Both these needs are very pressing," he noted. "The King St. project will cost nearly $400,000 and the Jacques Cartier extension $500,000."

KING ST.

Earlier this year the province had promised to pay the paving on a 40-foot width for a distance from Jacques Cartier Blvd. to Bourque Blvd.

The city temporarily shelved the project when it was found that not enough money remained in the Roads Department budget to complete the works.

It is expected that the council will ask for a larger grant at the interview.

JACQUES CARTIER

Speaking about the Jacques Cartier Blvd. project, the mayor said it would relieve traffic congestion in the centre of the city. Traffic travelling to and from Bromptonville would circumvent the city completely.

The council is also expected to decide whether or not to seek an interview before the provincial budgetary estimates are prepared.

Campaign Fund Reaches $1,426,702

Gaetan Cote, vice-president of the University of Sherbrooke's $4,000,000 construction fund campaign, announced today that $1,426,702 has been collected over a period dating from October 6 to November 28.

This sum is divided as follows: $628,967 has been obtained from parishes, special names, corporations, clergy, students and municipal corporations throughout the Eastern Townships; the remaining $797,735 comes from special corporations, general corporations and personal gifts outside of the Eastern Townships.

According to Mr. Cote, the camaign up to now has been successful. Many more companies, corporations and private donors in the Eastern Townships and other parts of the country have not yet been solicited, he added. Residents in the Nicolet and St.

Hyacinthe area have not yet been approached because of the many other subscription campaigns held in that area recently.

Mr. Cote said that a letter had been sent out to all parish curates in the city urging them to have their complete returns in by December 3.

Claude Pinard, president of the Students' Association of the University of Sherbrooke announced that 120% of this year's objective has been obtained. He added, "This shows the sincere desire of the university students. They are willing to give as well as receive."

Those wishing to donate to the university campaign construction fund may telephone LO. 9-5369 or give their subscription directly to the university offices situated at 31 King Street West.

BISHOP'S BULLETIN BOARD

After a successful presentation of H.M.S. Pinafore last weekend, Bishop's Dramatic Society remained in the limelight this week with 1) the announcement of this year's major play, and 2) widespread speculation that the society would present another Gilbert and Sullivan Operetta next term.

Fanned by the enthusiasm of the principals of Pinafore, hopes flared at the beginning of the week for the staging of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Ruddigore" in late February, but then grew dim as supporters realized that too many people would be engaged in other activities at that time. Bishop's giant winter carnival, winter sports and preparation for the gleec club concert provide a full schedule for most students.

Supporters pointed out the fact that the Dramatics Society had planned to stage "Ruddigore" before they decided on H.M.S. Pinafore, and that Producer Tony Vincent had worked out most of the staging problems. But those who opposed the plan said that of Gilbert and Sullivan's sparkling storehouse of operettas, Ruddigore was the least successful, and the biggest problem was that the production would conflict with this year's major play.

By the end of the week, enthusiasm was down, and it seemed likely that the melodic strains of Gilbert and Sullivan would be banished from Bishop's stage until such time as the university again has the rare musical combination of director Don Patriquin and Dramatics Society President Tony Vincent, both of whom graduate this year.

ANN FRANK
"The Diary of Ann Frank," first produced in New York in 1955, and just lately released for non-professional production, will be Bishop's choice for the major play to be presented in the last week of March.

Arthur Motyer, assistant professor of English at the university, is mainly responsible for the selection, and he will be responsible for the direction of the play.

Professor Motyer said that he had been wanting to stage the play at Bishop's for two years but that it wasn't available until this year for amateur production. He added that Bishop's presentation will be the first in the Eastern Townships area.

Since its 1955 stage debut the play has received widespread publicity throughout the United States, Canada and Europe. The moving story relates the terror and suffering of a Jewish family, living in a small attic, hiding from the Nazi purge of the Jews in the latter years of the second world war.

The characters will be difficult to cast, says Director Motyer, and there are many technical problems, including a composite set which will make this play one of the most difficult ever staged at Bishop's.

MITRE
Bishop's literary magazine has made its appearance on the campus again amid comments that the magazine has an exceptionally "beat" tone. Edited by Iain MacLean this year, the Michaelmas edition of the Mitre sports a distinctive new cover which encloses the literary utterance of a small group of students.

Editor MacLean has put his magazine together in a tasteful manner and a few of his writers are good, amongst them, the anonymous writer of essay number 1 in a section entitled, "The Unsettled Generation", four anonymous essays which discuss a number of important personal and social problems of this era. Phyllis Parham, last year's assistant editor, and writer of consistently good Mitre material has contributed two of her works to this issue.

The magazine retains the general ideas that Andrew Little began two years ago when he used only purely creative material. Some non-fiction material has infiltrated back into the magazine but this has been necessary due to the lack of good fiction.

MacLean vehemently refutes the remark that the magazine displays a "beat" tone. One or two writers express this mood, he says, but the majority of the writing hits on a tone of optimism.

Compton Member Off To Chicago Exhibition

Claude Gosselin, M.L.A. for Compton County, is leaving today to attend the International Exhibition at Chicago.

First class cattle representative of many of the top herds of purebred beef cattle on the North American continent are on display at this Fair and Mr. Gosselin hopes to study the set-up there with the intention of bringing back new ideas to encourage beef cattle raising. Compton County has more purebred beef cattle herds than any other country in the province.

He will be accompanied by D. J. Macmillan, agronomer for Cookshire, who is secretary of the Quebec Beef Cattle Association.

Mr. Macmillan has coached six of the last 10 Beef Calf Club judging teams which have represented the province of Quebec at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto each year.

New Tenders For Airport Project To Be Called

The federal transport authorities have given their assurance that new contracts will be awarded to complete the preliminary work and for the construction of runways at the Sherbrooke Municipal Airport, Maurice Allard, MP for Sherbrooke, announced yesterday in a press release.

Boost In Borrowing Power

Sherbrooke will seek an increased borrowing power of $300,000 in order to implement the city's master plan effectively, Mayor Nadeau announced yesterday during his weekly press conference.

The mayor said while in Quebec Tuesday he had met with the deputy minister of the Municipal Affairs Department to determine the advisability of asking for the permission.

He said the money would be used to purchase lots in undeveloped neighborhoods which would eventually become parks or other municipal properties.

There was no question of submitting the proposed amendments to the city's charter, he said, but that a date for an interview with the private bills committee would be settled later with Finance Minister J. S. Bourque.

SLUIC CLEARANCE

The newly-appointed members of Sherbrooke's sluic-clearance committee met with three Montreal representatives of the Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation Thursday, the mayor announced.

He said the officials furnished details on what the committee's report on the area to be reconstructed should contain. The area in question is located in Assomption Parish in the East Ward.

The next step the mayor said, is the completion of the committee's report, expected to be done by spring, and then a request for permission from Quebec to amend the city charter.

In order to be able to ex-

This is confirmation of Mr. Allard's announcement last week that he would approach Transport Minister George Hees to discuss the question of the delay in the municipal airport project.

The tender for grubbing and clearing the land at the airport site was awarded to Boutin et Freres, of Montreal, at a bid of $154,120 the lowest offer.

Tenders for the runway construction were originally scheduled for August 25 but a one-month delay was granted when it was found that the preliminary work was not progressing sufficiently. A further delay was later granted.

In the release, Mr. Allard also noted that contracts would be called for drainage and levelling work as well as the completion of the clearing and grubbing.

He said that local work hands would be used at the project and that the work "would continue as long as it was physically possible during the winter."

There was no date set for calling of the new tenders.

L'ville Florist Made FTD Member

DETROIT—The Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association announced today that Vaudry's Flower Shop, Lennoxville, has been accepted as a member of the association.

Mrs. Olive Vaudry and Fred Vaudry are the co-owners of the new FTD shop.

The association with the winged mercury trade mark, now has approximately 11,000 members in the United States and Canada who handle flowers sent by wire. Through Interflora, Vaudry's Flower Shop can have flowers and plants delivered to any point in the civilized world.

This is the first time Lennoxville has had an FTD member to offer this service.

Thetford School Commission Seeks Two-Per-Cent Tax

QUEBEC (CP)—The Thetford Mines school commission has asked the provincial legislative assembly for authority to levy a two-per-cent tax on retail sales. The request was contained in a private bill distributed yesterday. The school commission of neighboring Black Lake is also seeking the right to impose a two-per-cent tax.

Behind The Scenes In Quebec

Hectic Second Week Of Session Sparked By Natural Gas Issue

By BERT TRUDEL (Record Special Correspondent)
QUEBEC — This is only the second week of the session, but there is doubt any other week may be more hectic. Unless, of course, we are in for more of the same.

This has been the week which saw the opening gun and the continuing salvos of the debate on the address in reply to the Throne speech. The opening gun, or rather guns, were fired by the Leader of the House opposition, Georges Lapalme, immediately followed by Premier Duplessis himself.

This was Tuesday afternoon. There followed Wednesday and Thursday a whole series of speeches by Opposition members, some good, some indifferent, and some we might have to class in a lower category. Maybe not for what the speaker meant to say and actually said, but certainly for the manner in which they were delivered.

This will come as no surprise to the Liberals themselves if we say that some of their members are not noted for their proficiency in the oratory art. Incidentally, among the more colorful speakers we must number in the Opposition is Brome Glen P. Brown. House members have not forgotten his first effort when, in his booming voice and highly imaginative style, he suggested, with the help of liberal quotes from Victor Hugo's Les Miserables, that we should make better use of our sewage!

SCORES AGAIN

This year again, Mr. Brown delivered an excellent speech which, once more, stressed the importance of agriculture and naturally, since he is in the Opposition, what he considers the deficiencies of Government policies in this respect.

But this is not what will make the week memorable. The number one topic has been the attempt of the Opposition to discuss the natural gas issue. By their own admission they were trying to remain on grounds not too close to the forbidden territory of what is now being referred to as the courts.

But on several occasions, however, Speaker Maurice Tellier had to rule them had ran afoul of House regulations by actually treading on dangerous grounds, that is discussing points the courts themselves will have to consider.

It all started when Emilien Lafrance (Richmond), without actually mentioning the name gas, made a reference to the Ontario Cabinet Members "forced to resign" he said, "because of a scandal", and to a British Columbia former Cabinet Member sentenced to five years in the penitentiary for administrative corruption. These things, he said, certainly did not happen in Quebec.

A point of order was quickly raised by Premier Duplessis and maintained by the Speaker of the House whose decision was upheld by a vote.

BARE MENTION

It may be interesting to note, however, that natural gas received only a bare mention by Mr. Lapalme and none at all by Premier Duplessis. The Government leader and the man responsible for the slim opposition indicated clearly they intended to keep clear of that controversy.

The climate quickly became cloudy again yesterday, however, when Richard Hyde, of Westmount, St. George, introduced a resolution expressing regret the Speech from the Throne contained no indication the Government intended to establish a Royal Commission of Inquiry to investigate the sale of the Quebec Hydro gas distribution system to the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation and look into the facts connected with that sale.

Mr. Duplessis quickly raised a point of order. The motion, he said, was out of order because it would infringe upon the privilege of the courts and also because a Royal Commission of Inquiry would involve a money expenditure. Only members of the cabinet can move a money bill.

LENGTHY DEBATE

The debate on the point of order was a long and, at times, bitter one, with points of order raised in quick succession by both sides of the House and charges and countercharges being flung across the floor.

The upshot of it was that Speaker Tellier maintained the point of order and his decision, when challenged by the Opposition, upheld once more.

The whole issue probably seems very confused to the casual readers of the daily reports of the legislature debates, and also to the readers of an essay such as this one trying to present it in a simplified manner.

TOUCHY TOPIC
But one fact emerges clearly, however. Some aspects of the

Short Days Add To Hazards

Why next week should be singled out as National Safe-driving Week over the other 51 may seem strange when any week in the year can produce as gruesome a toll of traffic fatalities, injuries and property damage as the next.

December, because it has shorter days, is the worst month. But January and February are not far behind.

A few simple precautions can save lives: When walking at night, wear or carry something white, so that drivers can see you easily.

Obey pedestrian rules and regulations when crossing the street. Cross only at intersections, where crosswalks, signals, and signs are located for your protection.

In the absence of sidewalks, walk facing traffic. Unless you have eyes in the back of your head, it is dangerous to walk with your back to traffic.

When driving at night, keep your eye open for pedestrians. If they are wearing dark clothes, they are difficult to see.

Have your headlights checked to be sure they are in good order.

The Times Looks At Canada

An indication of Canada's importance in Commonwealth and world affairs is given in a 16-page supplement published this week by the Times of London.

In a review of the recent Commonwealth conference, the Times drew a comparison between Canada's position at the time of the 1932 Ottawa conference and today.

"She is a thriving and wealthy middle power," the Times says. "Her voice is heard with respect at the conference tables of the West, and her influence is felt at the United Nations. A young giant astride the American northlands, she now gazes across the Pacific as well as the Atlantic, and it is perhaps to the Orient and to other Asiatic countries that she will look to increase her political and economic stature. She has the advantage of not being identified with "colonialism".

In fact, one suspects that a Canadian passport is an excellent form of life insurance in some lands."

In a penetrating assessment of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, the Times says he has a hold not only on Parliament but on the hearts and minds of Canadians and "has embarked on a career that promises to rank him as one of the great Canadian Prime Ministers."

Two eminent Quebecers are singled out for mention in the supplement, Premier Duplessis — "A Man of Purpose and Strong Methods" — and Rocket Richard. Other articles cover various industries, including the motor industry, wood and fur, defence, polish art treasures, motels, the north-land and the arts.

None So Rare

The appearance of more and zany exotic foods on North American markets is the subject of a large portion of conversation these days, especially in women's circles.

You can, for example, buy diamond back rattlesnake in Sauce Supreme — a real killer of a dish!

Smoked eel livers are supposed to be a great and toothsome delicacy, if you can forget where they come from, we presume.

Alligator soup is beginning to appear on many of the best tables in the land. This sounds as if the alligator purse and suitcase people are diversifying.

Buffalo steak, we hear, can now be had, proving at last that the Indians and early pioneers, contrary to a lot of opinions, ate pretty well.

Kangaroo cuts are supposed to be increasing in popularity. No one, as far as we know has made a survey, but it might also be that the number of touring kangaroo boxers on this continent, is, as a consequence, declining.

Ants smothered in chocolate are, of course, rather commonplace and bourgeois. So, we understand, are friend grasshoppers. And such formerly strange and very "au fait" dishes as bird's nest soup and 500-year-old eggs, are, apparently, just too, too ordinary now for the discerning gourmet.

Two wild and gamey Quebec dishes, however, have yet to take their rightful places among the exotic tidbits. We mean "saucisses Francaises a la Viennoise," and "petit bifec hache prepare a la Parisienne avec petit oignon frite au beurre."

Surely, they deserve a spot in the ranks of the rare and adventurous.

Where else in the world but in "la belle Quebec" does one find such hot-dogs and hamburgers — and by such names?

CUTE COUP SETS SOUTH Here is another defensive hand played by Marshall Mills, sitting West.

He writes, "I opened the deuce of hearts against the five-diamond contract. Declarer won with dummy's ace, led the jack of diamonds and covered with his own king."

"Bill led a third heart. South saw what he thought was a chance to make the hand. He discarded his ten of spades and ruffed in dummy. Now he led the king of spades and discarded a club. I won my ace and led a fourth heart. At this point it did not matter which hand ruffed. South had no way to avoid going down that extra trick and Bill's generosity had paid off."

Bridge hand diagram showing North and South hands with cards and suits.

"I took my ace and led the three of hearts. My partner, Bill Hanna of Los Angeles, won the trick and went into one of his trances."

"He was certain that I held the ace of spades and that a spade lead would beat the hand one trick right away. He also noted that four spades would have been a normal duplicate contract and that most other pairs would be playing the hand there. Four spades would go down one since the defense would take a heart trick, the spade and diamond aces and a diamond ruff. Therefore, Bill wanted to set five diamonds who tricks and finally came up with a play worthy of your Generous George character."

"Bill led a third heart. South saw what he thought was a chance to make the hand. He discarded his ten of spades and ruffed in dummy. Now he led the king of spades and discarded a club. Saturday's Sermon:

Space Travel Coming

By REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

Are you in the mood to go travelling? Space travelling, of course. It's the latest fad just now to dream of, some time, visiting the moon. A strange topic, say you, for Advent Sunday 1958. Well, visiting the moon may be but surely not anticipating and preparing for the SECOND visit of Christ, this time in glory to judge the quick and the dead. For such a visit we need to make ready our hearts, our minds, yea, even washing our souls in His most precious blood.

PREPARE THYSELF NOW. To this visit extraordinary then, the Church directs our attention on the first Sunday of Her new year. Strange, or is it? That we are bidden to meditate on the END of the world on a Sunday which marks the beginning of a new cycle based on the Sun of Righteousness. A moment's reflection, however, convinces us that the Church, in Her concern that each of Her spiritual children should be with, and enjoy, God hereafter, is most anxious that we should not hide our heads, in the sands of Time like the Existentialists but face the facts of Christ's second coming NOW.

Those of us who keep our ears to the ground know that unless people do this, much futility of thinking, tension, and impotent religious living ensues. Wise indeed are all they who plan to keep Advent with its amazing stories of (a) the first coming of Christ to Bethlehem as Saviour and Friend and (b) His second coming as Judge eternal so that we may eventually rise to the life immortal. In embarking on this adventure, we shall really be equipping ourselves to carry to a successful issue this present journey we call LIFE. For mark you, the quality of life we develop here will, at the end of the journey which we call Death, and this the Bible says will be followed by the Judgment (2 Cor. 5:10) determine whether we shall have the Judge commit us to everlasting punishment (Matt. 25:41, 46) or hear only words of praise and welcome (V 34) and will go away into eternal life. Life is THE journey tremendous.

UPWARD. Even Science, with its "upward" accent on travel to the moon, suggests this, a vague, if you will, Jules Verne started with his imaginary rocket trip to the moon and H. G. Wells later helped along with his fantastic stories. And now the astounding accomplishments of modern science leave the average person with the idea that anything can happen. We fly to New York, to London, to Singapore. Why not fly to the moon? Yes, to Venus, to Mars, to Neptune— anywhere.

With the March of Time, Science hath brought it to pass that we who live on this dark planet — this silent planet — the EARTH, must think of other worlds. And in so doing must share in the immediate and urgent "clean-up-process" necessary before this room in the Father's House becomes a worthy associate of God's many mansions (Rev. 12:12). If this then is one of the challenges Advent Sunday confronts you with, it will indeed be an Advent well kept.

SIGNS — THE GOSPEL SIGN. Too often when we think of the Second Coming, we engage in the interpretation of signs or set in motion arguments as to "when" this will take place, forgetful that those who have confidence in God's purposes will have confidence in His time. Our duty is clear. We must, knowing we have but a short time (1 Cor. 7:29) incorporate as much as humanly possible some of the real, patience and heroism of Our Lord and Master, in daily living so that thereby we may hasten the coming of the day of the Lord.

Now there is one sign that has a special interest for me. It is what I call the Gospel sign. The Bible says that before the end cometh, the Gospel will have been preached to every creature. Well, the printed page, the advent of radio and T.V. and of course the indispensable human agent the missionary and those associated with him, all combine towards making actual the fulfilment of this sign. Then, when this sign is fulfilled and others too such as the triumph of good over evil, then, we repeat, cometh the Day of the Lord. The Judgment Day.

For an account of this you have the best possible source of information, the HOLY BIBLE. Read Luke 21: 28-33; Matthew 25, 26, 27, 28; Thess. 4: 16, 18; 1 Cor. 15: 52 and convince thyself that the Lord will, as He said, "come again" (John 14:1) in a physical, personal visible way as when He ascended into heaven (Acts 1: 11) Further—more, it will be unexpected as no man knoweth when BUT the Son of God (Mark 12-32) and sudden, too, for it will occur "in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, when Time will have been replaced by Eternity. EVEN SO, COME, LORD JESUS!

Unfortunately there are those who smile scornfully at this teaching. Surely there are not aware that these words come from the infallible lips of the Son of God, our Redeemer whose Word is truth. Wiser indeed would they be if they would read, mark, learn and inwardly digest this "teaching-with-a-future," at the same time daily endeavouring to work out their salvation with fear and trembling (Phil. 2:12) trusting in the divine promise that "it is God who works in them, both to will and to do His good pleasure (verse 13). These are the ones—the blessed ones who long to hear the voice of their loved Friend and Judge and to see Him face to face. They yearn to share His crown and glory then, as now we share His grace. "Even so, come, Lord Jesus (Rev. 22: 20) they repeat o'er and o'er "Come, Lord, and wipe away the curse, the sin, the stain and make this blighted world of ours, Thine own fair world again!"

To Christ the Judge hath been given the keys of Life and Death. Judgment belongeth to Him. He will decide as to the composition of that long procession of the redeemed who will accompany Him to the Holy City that where He is, they may be also (John 14:3).

DARE YOU BEGIN ANEW. On that triumphant journey — the real SPACE TRAVEL THAT'S COMING — we shall sing the anthem we so oft sung in the Church here below "Thou art the King of Glory, O Christ. Honor and power divine, and blessings more than we can give, be Lord forever Thine." My soul! What the Joy and the glory must be when we reach the home of our souls so dear Heaven, the believers everlasting home of glory, happiness and perfection where God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes! There, Journey's End, there will begin the reign of Christ the King, a reign all blessing and all blest that hath no end. If such a prospect doesn't move thee to work, watch and pray for this visit extraordinary of Christ, what will?

Do Thou, O Church of the Advent, on Advent Sunday, declare unto thy spiritual children this doctrine which the Holy Spirit has graciously revealed so that you and me and all people everywhere might seek the eternal life which Christ hath prepared for ALL sinners and which they must now receive by grace through faith in Christ, the divine Redeemer of the world.

At the same time, do Thou, O Church of the Advent, keep repeating the blessed Gospel tidings that "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life (John 3:16), aware that they who accept this comforting gospel of divine love, will not fear the final judgment. Instead, with joy they will look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall change our vile body that it may be fashioned like unto His glorious body according to the working whereby He is able to subdue ALL things unto Himself (Phil. 3:20-21). For He saith, I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succeeded thee; behold, NOW is the day of salvation (2 Cor. 6:2).

With Alleluia on thy lips and hope in thy heart, I dare you NOW to begin with Christ to live so that with Him you may die and, after the Judgment, reign with Him through eternity. God love and go with thee, my companion of the space travel that is coming! This we do know; the future is in His hands. "Even so, come, Lord Jesus!" Amen

COSMOPOLITAN LONDON

(London Free Press.) Few of us think of London as a cosmopolitan centre. Yet when the International Club held its reception at Waverley representatives of 21 nationalities were present. Many of them are students at Western, but quite a few are working at various jobs in the city.

For a considerable period London was the first stage in the training of the NATO air crew sent to Canada. That operation has concluded.

But the city is still one where many people from other lands have their first glimpse of Canada. It is to be hoped that Londoners will help make it a favorable one.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — A telephone bill of $37 millions a year and going up is one of the lesser costs of our new ability "to defend enough of North America to survive and win a war."

The quotation is the opinion of Lt. Gen. Earle E. Partridge, USAF, the man who has overall control of continental air defences. The phone bill is the cost of the vast network of leased lines constantly ready to carry a warning of the invasion of North American air space to the 69 fighter squadrons and 61 missile bases of the North American Air Defence Command.

In this lovely Rocky Mountain resort city, at the headquarters of this joint Canada-US air defence command called NORAD, I learned more in a day about the state and shape of our air defences than was disclosed in the whole of the last session of Parliament.

Much of what I saw and heard sets at rest — in my mind, at least — certain fears often expressed in Canada. For example, that participation with the Americans in NORAD jeopardizes Canadian sovereignty, and exposes Canada to involvement in a war precipitated by a NORAD mis-cue.

Partridge doesn't pretend that his Canadian and American jet interceptors and his American missiles would knock down all hostile planes should the Russians attack in force. But not enough would get through the NORAD defences, he says, to deliver the knockout blow on which the enemy would be gambling.

It is important to note that this optimistic assessment is only of the state of our defences against fast jet bombers.

walking with his mother up a hill toward his father at the time. The coroner ruled that the death was an accident. For lack of any information indicating otherwise, the verdict is accepted.

The father will carry a heavy load of remorse the rest of his life because of his tragic mistake.

According to Partridge, the Russians are not known to have intercontinental ballistic missiles accurate enough or numerous enough to make a decisive strike. Nor are they known to have submarine-launched missiles as yet. There is plenty of concern about these weapons as future threats. But for the moment at least it would appear that our defensive capability is ahead of the potential enemy's aggressive capability so far as this continent is concerned.

From Ottawa and Washington the NORAD commanders—Partridge and his deputy, Air Marshal Roy Slemmon—have authority to initiate action if Canadian or U.S. air space is invaded. But they are by no means free agents. They are responsible to both the Canadian and U.S. governments for their every action. One or the other is no further from Ottawa and Washington than the few seconds it takes him to reach the nearest phone in his office, home or airplane.

NORAD's role is purely defensive—and deterring. NORAD has no long range weapons with which by some mis-cue it might inadvertently start a war.

Bomarc missiles are in process of being added to NORAD's defensive arsenal, but for a number of reasons, especially their short range and inability to exercise judgment, they will not supplant the manned interceptor. And both Partridge and Slemmon say that piloted interceptors will be needed "for as long as we can see."

More radar stations to be built in Canada will move the zone of interception of enemy aircraft further north, more distant from populated centers. "What we would like," Slemmon said, "are all-weather interceptors of as long range and as high performance as we can get."

The best available in the shortest time—if the Canadian government approves its production—is the Arrow CF-105. It is, Slemmon said, "the highest performance aircraft until the advent of the (American) F-108, which is five or six years away."

BEHIND THE SCENES

touchy and explosive topic can be mentioned or discussed, while others cannot.

This was shown when Frank Hanley, Independent Member for Ste. Anne was allowed to devote a good part of his speech to explain why the sale of the gas distribution system to the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation was "the best possible deal for the taxpayers of the Province." No one, on either side of the House, raised a point of order, although his speech was delivered immediately after that of Mr. Lafrance.

Even Mr. Hyde was allowed to discuss the sale of the system at length up to the point when the House was called upon to decide the fate of the motion.

And the Opposition raised no point of order when Minister of Hydraulic Resources Daniel Johnson (Bogot) evoked the beginning of his speech (to be concluded next Tuesday) to recall the Opposition had voted at all stages in favor of the 1956 bill concerning the establishment of the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

Obviously, the line must be drawn between the facts before the courts and those outside of their jurisdiction. Therein lies the difficulty of bringing up the topic in such a way as not to place the whole Legislative Assembly in contempt of court.

Parliamentary tradition, ruled Speaker Maurice Tellier, has always been not to discuss an issue before the courts.

We can probably take it for granted we have not heard the last of this.

The two Negro nations, with a total population of 6,500,000, agreed as a first step to adopt a union flag and stressed that the move "was not designed in any way to prejudice the present and future relations of Ghana and the Commonwealth or Guinea and the French community."

Favorable Outlook For House Builders

Canadian housebuilders are optimistic about their industry outlook for 1959. Prediction is that over 150,000 new houses will be built. And there will be continued emphasis on low cost housing. If this becomes a reality, just as many Canadians can look forward to moving into their own homes as in 1958. This first forecast for next year is made in a current issue of a building trade magazine. It says conditions in the housebuilding industry next year will be similar to 1958. Government economists recently forecast a record 153,000 new houses will be started this year. This is 11% more than the previous best year, 1955, when 138,276 new houses were built in Canada.

But, the magazine warns that tight money may be a thorn in the 1959 outlook. It suggests that it would be undesirable for builders to look to government for a continuous flow of mortgage funds (more than $700 million came from the capital coffers for mortgage loans this year). It adds that a way to channel more savings into the home mortgages must be found.

Handy Man Finds Maintenance Routines Save Money

BY MR. FIX

Your home is a machine for living and, like any machine, it requires maintenance.

It's obvious that holes in the roof need fixing unless you want to sit in a puddle.

Much less evident but equally necessary is the task of giving your many mechanical servants regular maintenance. Minutes spent in minimal care pay off in dollars saved, over the years.

The amount of maintenance needed is small, but it should be performed regularly.

An oil can, a pair of pliers, a screwdriver, a file, and a wiping cloth are about all the tools and supplies you'll need.

STANDARD PARTS are available at most hardware and electrical stores. Spare bulbs can be purchased most anywhere.

Make a list of the sizes you use in each lamp and fixture, and keep spares on hand.

Check cords on all lamps and appliances regularly. They generally show wear first at the plug or at the end attached to the appliance. Cut out the worn portion and reconnect. Breaks and worn spots elsewhere call for replacement. While splices can be made, they can also be dangerous. Wire is inexpensive, so play safe.

Check plugs to see if they fit securely. Make sure prongs are straight. Again, replace if they're in poor condition.

Plugs on appliances that are connected all the time—refrigerator, lamps, television, radio—should be checked and the prongs cleaned every few months. A fine emery cloth will remove the light coating of oxidation that forms.

Cords should be long enough so that there's no strain on them when plugged in.

Motor-driven appliances should be lubricated at regular intervals. Instructions that come with them will tell you where to Checking belt tension of the furnace's motor-fan unit is but one of many maintenance tasks that takes minutes, saves dollars.

lubricate, and how often. If noise and heat develop, you've waited too long.

Small appliance motors—mixer, sewing machines—need light oil applied very sparingly. Use an oil can that delivers lubricant in drops, or use a medicine dropper.

Don't overoil. This can be nearly as bad for the appliances as not enough lubrication.

Observe the motor as it runs.

H. And S. Assoc. Students Council Meet In Coaticook

COATICOOK — The Coaticook Home and School Association met in the school auditorium under the chairmanship of the vice president, Mr. C. M. Marsden. The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Fred Green.

Mr. George Engelhardt reported that $42.23 had been raised for UNICEF.

French classes held twice weekly at the school for adults and older students are proving of great value and are well attended. Mr. Lawrence reported that the school library needs an encyclopedia and the Association will make the purchase of a set one of its projects.

Full-time supervision for the school rink has been arranged and skating will be allowed evenings during the week from 7 to 9 p.m. and up to 9:30 on Saturday.

Following the business meeting the members sat in on a meeting of the Students' Council and saw how efficiently the pupils conduct a meeting. The president, Miss Joan Grady, presided. Minutes of a previous meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Betty Hauver.

A financial report was given by the treasurer, Douglas Murphy. The students discussed plans for a dance to be held this month, as well as the annual Christmas Dance on December 19th. Committees for refreshments, decorating and prizes were named. The Council members will spend some time on the school library rearranging and listing the books. A few items of gym equipment will be purchased.

Members of both groups then enjoyed refreshments in the lunch room.

STAMP CLUB MEETS

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy declares: "Christians must take up arms against error at home and abroad. Color Co-Ordinated Accessories Dress Up Basic Winter Fashions

By PEGGY MASSIN
PARIS (Reuters) — Beautiful accessories worn with basic fashions is the practical theme established by Paris for this winter.
Millinery trimming suddenly appears on shoes with rigidly wined moss roses or spiky flowers set over the vamp, designed to wiggle and sway in motion. Other versions for evening are fragile flowered silks or printed satins with cut-out trimming handled like applique.
BELTS
Belts walk off with top honors on the hit parade of new accessories. High-waisted corset styles control the width of last season's chemise, with interest centred in front through widened shaping and contrasting fabric trims. There is infinite variety, ranging from the two-to-four-inch-wide styles worn at the natural waistline, to Balenciaga's eight-inch crushed cummerbunds which circle the rib cage.
Belts are made of leather or fabric, including shiny box calf with cracked veining, lambskin and suede; or satin, velvet and ribbon draped on stiffened backing, for dresswear.
Fancifully trimmed belts are newest, with mock closings in front opposed to the actual buckle or fastening at the back. Pierre Cardin favors shaped styles with a wide hatter's bow in front. Other houses endorse draped and knotted effects, fringed sash ends, or tab trimming in contrasting media.

Here's Some Reading Matter For Chair-Bound Husbands

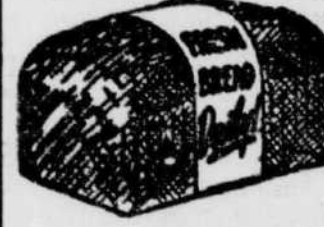

Once a wife has let a husband develop the easy-chair-every-evening habit, it's hard to break him of it.
A wife writes: "My husband works long hours for six days a week, and on Sundays he doesn't like to visit friends or have anyone visit us."
"This I can understand, because he wants to rest and he is also tired of talking and seeing people. What I can't understand is his not wanting to take me out to dinner and the movies at least on our wedding anniversary."
"We went out about three times last year. That included a visit to a friend's house on a Saturday night. I don't think I'm being over-demanding to feel that we should go out one night a week, because a wife comes back from an evening out with a brighter outlook on life."
"As I know, nagging will get me nowhere and I want him to take me out because he wants to. Would you write something in the paper that might help me?"
I don't know any magic words that would make a stay-at-home husband WANT to take his wife out to dinner and to a movie once a week.
But if your husband happens to read this particular column—you can always fold the paper so that he can't miss it — I might be able to persuade him that he SHOULD get you out of the house more than three times a year.
Listen, Mister: A wife whose husband never takes her out for an evening's fun and companionship goes stale on the job. And a marriage that isn't brightened by the companionship of friends, some social life, and by getting out and going places together grows mighty dull, especially for the wife who is at home all day and naturally doesn't want to stay at home every evening, too.
Just because a man works hard all day doesn't mean there's no way for him to relax besides sitting in his easy chair until he falls asleep every night. Recreation is also relaxing.
Why not surprise your wife this evening by saying out of a clear, blue sky, "How about a movie?"
Her pleasure at actually having you suggest it may even warm your heart enough so that next week you'll want to take her out to dinner, too.

The Doctor Says

Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

PAINFUL PLEURISY REQUIRE STRINGENT MEDICAL MEASURES

Pleurisy probably should not be considered as among the really common diseases of mankind. But it is not exactly rare, either. Certainly no one who has ever suffered from pleurisy ever forgets it.

The name comes from "pleura," which is a tissue lining the lungs. The pleura lies not only between the chest wall and the lungs, but also extends between the lobes of the lungs. It is inflammation of this lining and the symptoms which are caused thereby which is called pleurisy.

Acute pleurisy begins with a good deal of pain. Pain may be felt anywhere around the chest, but is most common in front and low down. A dry and painful cough is common. Deep breathing worsens the pain. Fever is generally present.

When the doctors listens over the painful area with his familiar hearing device, called a stethoscope, he can usually hear a rubbing sound made by the inflamed pleura underneath. When this rub is present the diagnosis is established. An X-ray often helps in making the diagnosis and is usually advisable.

Treatment is far from simple. The underlying cause must be searched for and treated, if possible. Bed rest during this acute state is essential. Hot or cold applications and pain-killing drugs may be needed to bring some relief.

One form of treatment is to strap the painful side with a wide piece of adhesive tape. This prevents some of the chest movements which produce the distress. Treatment with antibiotics or drugs may be advisable.

Fluid quite often accumulates in the space between the pleura and the chest wall. This is another difficult condition but may be less painful than the dry variety.

When fluid is present the problem is still more complicated. The fluid may mean that some serious condition such as tuberculosis is present, though this is not always the case. Usually the fluid can be drawn out through a needle. If not caused by tuberculosis, this may be sufficient to bring relief after two or three treatments.

There is also a chronic dry pleurisy and chronic pleurisy with accumulation of fluid. Either of these may start gradually or can follow an acute attack.

The chronic or dry pleurisy is extremely annoying. It may drag on for weeks or months and be accompanied by considerable pain. If it lasts too long there may be some permanent thickening of the lining membrane of the lung and even the lung itself may be damaged.

It should be mentioned also that typical pleuritic pain is often present in association with disease of the lungs. For example, it is quite common, particularly during the early phase, of typical lobar pneumonia.

LEN O'DONNELL'S Sport Shots and Pot Shots

CAN THE EAST COME UP WITH A REPEAT WIN OVER WEST? That $64 question will be answered today when Hamilton Ticats and Winnipeg Blue Bombers clash in the 46th annual meeting of the Grey Cup classic at Vancouver.

The Ticats are the defending champions having won 32-7 over the Blue Bombers in 1957 at Toronto Last West win was Edmonton's victory in 1956 over Montreal Alouettes. Winnipeg has been in eight cup finals and lost them all.

A comparison of season records indicates the Bombers did a better job in most departments. This should give the Grant crew a slight edge but the experts are still picking Ticats to come up with a repeat performance to win their second consecutive Cup final.

CBC will carry the show commencing at 12:30 when the parade will be staged. This will last 90 minutes and the pre-game ceremonies will be on the air at 3:15 right through until 4:00, our time, when the tilt will commence.

It is apparent that the frenzied pitch reached here in 1955 when the Grey Cup game came West for the first time would not be repeated. A little of the excitement has no doubt worn off but we imagine that there will be plenty about.

An all-time attendance record is supposed to be reached with about 42,000 expected to be in Empire Stadium when kick-off time arrives. Ticket sales will total $302,386, a record. Television, radio, movie and radio rights will add another $228,000 to make the total receipts hit $530,000 for an all-out high. Quite a lot of money no matter how you look at it.

Jackie Parker of Edmonton has been voted the outstanding football player in Canada for the second consecutive year. It was the first time a player had been so honored two years in a row by writers in the nine cities of the Big Four and Western Union.

Ron Howell of Hamilton was picked as the top Canadian player while Don Luzzi, two-way tackle for Stampeders, was named lineman of the year. Luzzi was playing his first season in Canada. As for the teams both coaches are confident they will win but Trimble seems to be more determined about it. Grant claims if his Bombers get a few breaks they will be the 1958 Grey Cup champions. The experts have installed the Ticats as favorites to repeat but we think it will be a tough battle and certainly a good one to watch.

They say you should ride along with the defending champions in things like this but with the odds slimming down you wonder. We have seen the Ticats in action and watched the Bombers three times on TV and are of the opinion that the breaks will decide the outcome.

The Bombers have a good line and they certainly will be no pushover like last year. They are in better all-around condition and from where we sit we pick the Blue Bombers for the 1958 Grey Cup.

Curling is beginning to creep into the sports picture as the majority of the clubs have commenced the season's activities, both men and the fair sex. Larry Dwyer and his rink won the opening event at Sherbrooke while another is now in process of being played.

As for the ladies we are told that Mrs. Rich. Richardson and her Lennoxville foursome took part in the Town of Mount Royal Ladies Invitation Bouspiel and although they didn't win a trophy they had a wonderful time. Mrs. Bill Brosseau, Mrs. Ivan Saunders and Mrs. Ed Sims comprised the rink.

See where Walter Houghton, newly elected president of the Canadian Branch of Royal Caledonian Curling Club, attended the official opening of the Greystone Curling Club of Montreal. He was honored when Mrs. Ralph Wexler, president of the ladies branch, pinned a club badge on his lapel. Nice work Walter and congratulations on your new appointment.

Believe it or not but Stan Leonard, top Canadian golf pro, won $40,000 in the first eight months of 1958 playing the game. Quite a feat especially when you take into consideration that Leonard is 43 years old. He gives the low-down on his success in the current edition of Maclean's so golfers pick up a number and polish up on your game.

As what has been expected has happened. Billy Reay has been fired as coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs. Somebody's head had to roll so the natural one is the coach. It is the same in every instance.

Punch Imlach will handle the team in the meantime until someone is picked to try and get the Leafs out of the NHL cellar and that from the look of things will be quite a job. Reay had been criticized on several occasions for Leafs' poor showing and finally the axe dropped and a head rolled.

George Anderson Of Montreal Royals And Miami's Woody Smith Are Tied For Fielding Honors In International

MONTREAL (CP)—Second baseman George Anderson of Montreal and third baseman Forrest (Woody) Smith of Miami tied International League fielding records in 1958, the final averages released Friday revealed.

Anderson had a .988 average. This matched the previous high set by Bobby Young of Rochester in 1948. Anderson committed only 10 errors while handling 841 chances.

Smith, who handled 490 chances, had nine errors for a .982 mark. The veteran Marlins' third baseman tied the standard established in 1957 by Johnny Ligon of Columbus.

The other defensive leaders were first baseman Frank Herrera of Miami, .986; shortstop Mickey Micelotta of Miami, .959;

Fans Jam Store For Grey Cup Tickets Friday

VANCOUVER (CP)—Excited crowds stormed a downtown department store and a ticket agency Friday as 700 Grey Cup tickets went on sale.

More than an hour after the tickets went on sale at 9 a.m. the two ticket bureaus reported almost all their $10 seats had been sold but there were still plenty of $5 tickets for standing room in the end zone.

However, sale of the $10 tickets practically assured a sitting-capacity crowd of 34,191 at the game today. The tickets which went on sale were mostly from other cities when they couldn't be sold.

Tiger-Cats And Blue Bombers All Ready For Classic

Teams Wind Up Training In Fine Shape; Both Coaches Predicting Victories; Record Crowd Expected

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver began shedding its apathy Friday and an air of festive excitement was in the making over today's Grey Cup game.

The influx of fans from east of the Rockies seemed to be the shot in the arm that caused the so-called Grey Cup fever. Nobody wanted to be cured.

There was more life in the hotel lobbies and on the streets. With the meeting of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Winnipeg Blue Bombers less than 24 hours away, the train arrivals started the build-up of merry-making. The explosion point—now more or less taken for granted—was still to come.

SOME TRAINS LATE Some trains were late and more fans were due to come tumbling into the city soon after daylight today. The result of the game itself might bring the pop-off.

Exuberant fans on a special CPR train from Calgary pulled the emergency cord and the sudden stop caused damage to drawbars connecting the cars. The special and two others behind it, from Winnipeg and Edmonton, were delayed more than five hours.

The Dominion, a regular transcontinental CPR train, also was late. It arrived at 1 p.m. PST instead of the scheduled 8 a.m. It was delayed by equipment trouble and by longer stops than usual in adding extra cars en route. A special section of the train came in on time, running only from Winnipeg.

A special CNR train from Edmonton arrived in mid-afternoon. Most of the fans arriving on the Dominion were from Regina—supporters of Saskatchewan Roughriders, here to cheer for the west's Blue Bombers.

WEAR STETSONS The Saskatchewan delegation wore white stetson hats, much like the Californians, but around the hat was a bright green band with white lettering Saskatchewan.

As the fans continued pouring into Vancouver a gala atmosphere began building up. Hotel lobbies, all but deserted Thursday night—in contrast to wild celebrations at the same stage of pre-game festivities here in 1955—began coming to life.

Early-morning arrivals found a rub band ready to greet them. Members of the Vancouver Firemen's Union, dressed in outrageous costumes and faces smeared with paint like clowns, put on a lobby show.

HORSE PROBLEM Lateness of trains posed a problem for Dick Cosgrave, arena director at the Calgary Stampede. Most of his 40 horses are here, said Cosgrave, but 40 saddles and two chuck wagons are on one of the delayed trains.

The horses will make up part of Calgary's section in the annual Grey Cup parade today. The colorful pageant of floats and marchers, bands and high-stepping majorettes gets under way at 9:30 a.m. PST.

Pre-game functions reached their climax Friday night with the annual Grey Cup dinner, a $10-a-plate affair at the Hotel Vancouver, and the naming of Miss Grey Cup.

By JACK SULLIVAN VANCOUVER (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, representing more than five tons of the country's top football talent, clash today for the Grey Cup, a $50 piece of silverware that annually sends nine professional clubs from Montreal to Vancouver into a reckless spending spree.

Climax to a four-month season while losing 12 of their 20 games to date. They are seven points behind fifth-place Chicago Black Hawks.

"It may be that Reay didn't have the horses," said Imlach. "But we don't think he was getting the maximum effort out of the material at hand."

SHAKEUP NECESSARY "A shakeup was necessary and the change in coaches is just the first move. Players will be moved out unless their work improves in the next few games. We can't stand still if we hope to escape from the NHL cellar."

Reay, who succeeded Howie Meeke as coach before the start of last season, said he was not bitter toward the Leafs and he had no immediate plans.

"I still think the smartest guy in the Maple Leaf Gardens is Conn Smythe (president of the Gardens) and former general manager of Leafs). He's the one guy I could see eye to eye with."

"I have been coaching since I was 24, all over the country, working my way up to this job—and then I get undermined."

Imlach said he hadn't had a chance to talk to Reay since the firing but speculation was that Reay would be offered the coaching-manager job of Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League. Americans are jointly operated by Canadians and Leafs and earlier this month Bucko McDonald was fired as Rochester coach.

TORONTO (CP)—Billy Reay was fired as coach of Toronto Maple Leafs Friday after the last-place National Hockey League club managed only two points during a four-game trial period.

Left winger Bert Olmstead, bought from Montreal Canadiens last summer, has been appointed playing coach with George (Punch) Imlach, appointed general manager a week ago, acting behind the bench. This arrangement is temporary, Imlach said.

"Olmstead has agreed to act as playing coach of the team," Imlach said. "He will handle the club during the workouts under my supervision and I will be behind the bench for the games."

"Olmstead will also be in charge in the dressing room and I'm sure sure he can install a lot of fire in this club."

TIME LIMIT Imlach, at the time of his appointment as general manager, gave the team four games to improve or face changes. Leafs, in that four-game trial which began last Saturday, tied twice and lost twice.

"We have no other statements at the moment other than that we will do our best to get this club cracking," Imlach said.

"The move is being made in what we think are the best interests of the hockey club, Reay, a solid hockey man, hasn't been able to get the team rolling."

Hamilton Gets Ready For Shrine All-Star

HAMILTON (CP)—Downtown Hamilton will be transformed into a show ring next Wednesday to boost ticket sales for the fourth annual Shrine all-star football game here Dec. 6.

Stars of the show will be members of the East and West squads competing in the charity game, which will earn funds for Shriner's club hospitals in Winnipeg and Montreal.

A highlight will be a catching duel between Red O'Quinn of Montreal Alouettes and Ken Carpenter of Saskatchewan Roughriders, who will battle for a ball tossed from the 11th floor of a hotel.

A mudless, snowless field for the game was ensured Tuesday when the University of Toronto Athletic Association agreed to allow Shrine game officials use of their $12,000 tarpaulin to protect the Hamilton gridiron.

Hi-Jinks Halt Grey Cup Train

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hi-jinks aboard a special Grey Cup train bound for Vancouver from Calgary have held up to 5 1/2 hours.

Canadian Pacific Railway officials said fans aboard a Calgary special yanked the emergency cord three times and in the sudden stopping drawbars connecting some of the railway cars were broken.

St. Fr. X To Meet Shearwater For Football Title

HALIFAX (CP)—St. Francis Xavier University of Antigonish, N.S., meet Shearwater Flyers here today in the championship game of the Nova Scotia Football League.

St. FX, winners of the regular schedule, went through an eight-game season undefeated before dropping the Canadian Intermediate championship last Saturday to Fort William, Ont., Redskins.

Shearwater won the Canadian title last year, but faltered this season when most of the team's hard-running backfield was transferred away from the navy's Shearwater air station at nearby Eastern Passage.

The Flyers got around Dalhousie Tigers in the league's two game total-point semi-final. St. FX won a bye to go after the Canadian title.

The college team is favored to take the game and the Purdy Cup.

George Sullivan Acquitted On Assault Charge

BOSTON (AP)—New York Ranger forward George Sullivan was acquitted Friday of assaulting a fan last March in a Boston Garden brawl that developed from a televised National Hockey League game between the Rangers and Boston Bruins.

Sullivan had been accused of attacking Stephen Tavila of Arlington. The cases of Lou Fontinato, Ranger defenceman, and Antony Tavila did not come up for hearing Friday because there was no sitting of superior court.

Both had appealed convictions from a lower court. Fontinato had been fined $25 for assault and battery and Tavila $10 for disturbing a public assembly.

Bill Gadsby and Jean Guy Gendron were acquitted of assault charges in the case last spring.

Air Strike Keeps Bonin In Rochester

MONTREAL (CP)—The strike of some United States airlines has prevented Marcel Bonin, Montreal Canadiens player who has been with the Rochester team since Nov. 14, from joining his team in Detroit for the game Sunday night.

The Canadiens said he will stay with the Rochester team for its game against Providence Sunday night, and return to Montreal Monday morning.

Herb Elliott To Go To University

MELBOURNE (AP)—Herb Elliott, Australia's world record miler, has accepted a scholarship from his employer and expects to go to either an English or Australian university.

Elliott, 20, would like to go to either Oxford or Cambridge after the 1960 Rome Olympics but it is doubtful whether he has the scholastic requirements for these famous English institutions.

"He may not have the scholastic qualifications needed for an English university," said T. W. Henderson, managing director of Shell Chemical Company where Herb is employed as a clerk.

Coach Watson Claims Jerry Toppazzini Cursed Him Hence Reason For Tossing Stick; Claims Fan Hit Him In Face

NEW YORK (CP)—Coach Phil Watson of New York Rangers said Friday he threw a hockey stick at Jerry Toppazzini Thursday night because the Boston Bruin wingman cursed at him.

The stick-throwing episode in Boston touched off a fracas that brought four policemen into action to get the Rangers safely into their dressing room.

Watson, giving his side of the story to reporters, added that Toppazzini had better watch himself today when the same two teams tangle in a National Hockey League game here.

The Bruins clinched Thursday night's 3-1 victory by scoring with only 25 seconds to go after Watson had pulled goalie Gump Worsley in favor of an extra forward.

"That's when Toppazzini came over to me and said, 'How do you like that, you ...' Watson said. He really cursed me. That's when I grabbed (Bill) Gadsby's stick and threw it at him."

The stick missed, but Watson's action brought a storm of protest from Bruin fans. As the Rangers left the ice after the game, crowd gathered in the dressing room aisle.

Watson claimed he was punched in the face by one of the crowd.

SAFE-DRIVING WEEK

DECEMBER 1st to 7th

Safe-Driving Week, a national campaign to impress the motorist and pedestrian with his responsibility, as an individual, in preventing traffic accidents, will be sponsored nationally by the Canadian Highway Safety Conference this year from December first to seventh, inclusive.

Safe-Driving Week has been given the support of the Governor General and the Prime Minister. Participating will be the Premiers of all the provinces, safety organizations, police forces, the judiciary, public service groups, women's organizations and many others.

“MAKE AN HONEST EFFORT”

George B. Kenney, chairman of the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, has called on every motorist and pedestrian to co-operate. "Make an honest effort," he asked them, "to get through Safe-Driving Week without a single traffic accident. If you can do it for a week, you can do it for a year. We appeal to every driver and every walker to make Safe-Driving Week 1958 an outstanding success."

Mr. Kenney referred to a recent forecast of 3,400 traffic deaths in Canada in 1958 and added, "More than 90 per cent of those deaths could be prevented if the individual driver and walker realized his responsibility, as an individual, in driving and walking safely."
