World News In Brief

London, Oct. 25.—(P)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada is recovering rapidly from his illness and expects to be up again today, his staff reported.

The 73-year-old statesman yesterday sat for a short time in a chair in his Dorchester Hotel suite. It was the first time he had been out of bed since he was ordered to bed by doctors two weeks ago because of a blood circulation ailment.

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—(C.P.)—Canadian employment has hit another new peak.

In its 12th quarterly survey of the country's labor force, the Bureau of Statistics estimated that 5,042,000 persons were working in the first week of September.

That's the biggest number ever to hold jobs in Canada. It was a boost of 34,000 from a year previously.

Prague, Oct. 25.—(P)—Klement Gottwald, who supplanted the late Eduard Benes as Czechoslovakia's President in the February Communist coup, now is going to replace him on the country's postage stamps. Plans for a new city to be named for Gottwald also have been announced.

Longview, Tex., Oct. 25.—(P)—Fliers Fred Vinmont and Bert Simons passed their 100-hour mark in the air today in their attempt to beat the world's endurance record of 726 hours set in 1939.

They radioed from their specially-equipped plane that they are "just getting into the routine of things."

Chanute Air Base, Ill., Oct. 25.—(P)—Three men were killed last night in a crash here of a C-47 United States air force plane carrying 22 persons.

Nineteen injured, taken to the base hospital, "probably owe their lives to the fact that the plane first hit two empty barracks," Brig-Gen. F. R. Upthegrove, commanding general, said.

Sunchon, Korea, Oct. 25.—(P)—Bloodspattered Sunchon was dark and silent tonight save for an occasional gunshot.

For two days rebels, up from Yosu, ruled the city. An estimated 600 persons were killed in Sunchon's capture by the Communist-led rebels, their two-day rule and its recapture by loyal troops.

Hamburg, Oct. 25.—(P)—A British military court today sentenced Fritz Knoechlein to death for ordering the machine-gun massacre of more than 90 British soldiers captured at Dunkerque in 1940.

Prisoners who feigned death and survived testified against Knoechlein, 37, who commanded a German S. S. (elite guard) company in the war, Knoechlein pleaded innocent.

Steel Nationalization Is Top Issue For UK Commons

London, Oct. 25.—(P)—A bitter fight over the Labor Government's decision to nationalize Britain's iron and steel industry faces the new session of Parliament tomorrow although international relations and defence problems including rearmament and conscription are expected to get major attention.

The new session will be formally opened by the King, who will wear his jeweled crown and ermine robes for the first time in ten years. Most Conservative and Liberal peers will wear ceremonial robes for the colorful opening-day ceremony.

While the formal return to a measure of peacetime pomp reflects the feeling here that Britain finally is winning her post-war struggle for economic recovery, there is behind the pageantry fresh worries for the Attlee Labor Government, entering its fourth year of power.

In the home field, steel nationalization has been Labor's biggest headache. Yesterday, on the eve of the new Parliamentary session, the Labor party issued a pamphlet "Britain's Steel at Britain's Service," outlining the government's case in general terms.

The pamphlet, noting that Britain's steel industry "is not as efficient as it could be," warned that "the battle for steel will be grim." "Steel is now very profitable and so the Tories will try to keep it in private hands. More important still, they want to retain it because, through steel, the privileged

Military Link With Canada And U.S. To Be Discussed By West European Ministers

Conference Expected To Be Held After U.S. Elections

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Oct. 25.—(P)—Invitations to a portentous conference to draft a military alliance between North America and western Europe probably will go out soon after next week's United States Presidential election.

Countries expected to take part in the initial phases are the United States, Canada and Europe's western union powers—Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Several other countries in the non-Communist line-up—namely Italy, Iceland, Norway and Denmark—may join in the talks at some point.

Officials here say it is not yet clear whether the invitations will be issued formally by the five-power western European union or by the United States. Nor has a city for the conference been chosen, although all preliminary work on the pact has been done in Washington.

Robert A. Lovett, undersecretary of state, began conferences early this year with the Ambassadors of Canada and the western European countries on the question: What form should United States military support for Europe take?

This Government's only guide for action—aside from Europe's need—was the United States Senate resolution adopted last spring advocating the association of the United States with countries having common security interests.

Along with the Washington talks, the United States has taken part as an extremely influential observer in the efforts of the western European countries to link their military resources and lay the basis for a huge new United States military aid program.

The proposed North Atlantic alliance. Both President Truman and Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican challenger, have been sketching out in rough outline in the Washington talks. It would commit the United States to greater involvement in the affairs of Europe than it ever before has been pledged in peacetime—although not more deeply than it actually is involved now with occupation armies stationed in Germany and Austria.

The treaty is expected to embrace two major provisions dealing with the problem of aggression—by which the western governments mean an attack by Russia.

The first is that an attack upon one country should be considered an attack upon all. The second is that each government—in accord with its own constitutional processes—should decide the appropriate action to take.

That would not automatically commit the United States to go to war if France, for example, were attacked. But it would pledge the United States Government to consider the attack in the same light as though the United States had been attacked.

Final decision in such a case would rest with the United States Congress, since no treaty can take away the exclusive constitutional authority of Congress to declare public Presidential nominees, have declared themselves in favor of greater European unity and closer ties between the United States and Europe.

State Department managers of the military support program thus far have kept it out of any great public discussion during the campaign, and all negotiations have been handled quietly and informally.

To keep up this protective attitude to the end, United States diplomatic officials have determined that no move toward arranging an actual treaty drafting conference should be made until all campaign controversies are ended.

Establishment of North Atlantic Pact Expected To Be Central Theme of Sessions Which Began in Paris Today.

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
Paris, Oct. 25.—(P)—The Foreign Ministers of the five-power western European union met today, with a possible military alliance with Canada and the United States reported foremost on their agenda.

Authoritative British and American sources said linking of the Brussels Union with the North American powers in a North Atlantic pact will be the central theme of the sessions which began this morning.

Official British sources said the ministers decided soon after today's meeting began that future sessions will be completely restricted. Because of the nature of the talks, these sources said, official spokesmen of the various delegations will not hold briefing meetings with correspondents.

There will be a joint communiqué when the talks end, the sources said.

Informed British sources said last night Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain will give his conditional endorsement to a French-Belgian proposal for a western European Parliament.

The Parliament, to be chosen from among the deputies of the five national legislatures, would have consultative authority. The five nations in the union are Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The Foreign Ministers, sitting at the consultative council of the union, also are to discuss a proposed North Atlantic military alliance which would add Canada and the United States to the forces of the union.

The meeting, which will be held in the French Foreign Ministry under the chairmanship of French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, is expected to last two or three days.

Bevin's support for a western European Parliament is expected to be conditional on a greater amount of co-ordination by the various governments to give the Parliament a more solid foundation.

British sources said, however, that Bevin hopes to make some constructive proposals on western European unity when he delivers his statement.

When the project of an eventual international Parliament was broached by the French last summer, Bevin avoided any commitments, pleading he had to consult with the Commonwealth countries. French circles said the Commonwealth Dominions had given the scheme their blessing at the recent London meetings.

The Foreign Ministers also will

De Tassigny To Command Land Forces

London, Oct. 25.—(Reuters)—A 60-year-old stern disciplinarian who carries scars of 10 battle wounds, is the newly-appointed head of western Europe's land forces.

Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny is the land chief under Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery who heads the defence forces of the five-country western union.

A member of the general's staff described him as "a very great leader of enormous strength and endurance, who often works an 18-hour day."

De Tassigny was born in the little village of Moulleiron-en-Pareiz, in the Vendee, western France, and his 89-year-old father

Troops Are Occupying French Mines

Paris, Oct. 25.—(P)—Interior Minister Jules Moch announced today police have occupied about half the key northern French minefields, strike-bound for three weeks.

He said that, within seven hours after beginning their drive, the police took over some 280 square miles. They made about 15 arrests in the process. The areas occupied lie between the Belgian border and the Douai-Lille road, Moch said, and include the whole Valenciennes group of mines and part of the Douai group.

"We do not come to fight against the strike," Moch said in a radio speech. "We come to prevent the destruction of hundreds of billions of francs of national wealth, endangered by the criminal decision to abandon safety machinery."

The Communist-led strike has already cost the country the loss of 3,000,000 tons of coal.

The government last week ordered police and soldiers to use their firearms when attacked by the strikers. In most cases, pickets are leaving when ordered, without resistance.

Limited sympathy strikes have been ordered by the Communist-led Confederation Generale du Travail.

In the Zube department of northeastern France, 20,000 striking textile and metal workers went back on the job this morning after non-Communist unions signed an agreement for a 10-per-cent pay boost.

Road blocks were reported every three miles in the Douai area and heavy police and troop forces were on the roads.

Some mines have been flooded and weeks may be required to put them back in service after the strike ends.

During the week-end soldiers ousted strikers from seven mines in east-central France. The troops met only slight resistance.

The government sent thousands of troop reinforcements into the strike-bound areas yesterday. No violence was reported.

Reds' Counter-Proposal On Berlin Reported Rejected

Paris, Oct. 25.—(P)—The Big Three western powers were reported today to have rejected a Russian counter-proposal on the plan to end the Berlin deadlock, it was indicated by an authoritative source here.

British, United States, French and neutral delegates considered the Russian plan for an hour at a meeting in the apartment of Juan Artillo Bramuglia, Argentine Foreign Minister and acting president of the Security Council.

After the decision was reached against the Russian plan, Bramuglia went to tell Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, the western answer.

The Security Council meets today to act on a compromise plan offered by the six members of the Council not involved in the Berlin dispute. The meeting originally was set for 9 a.m., but Juan Bramuglia of Argentina, acting president of the Council, said he planned to defer it for two hours to allow more time for a series of behind-the-scenes sessions he is holding with principals in the dispute.

Bramuglia said chances for acceptance of the compromise settlement were "slightly better" today than they were Saturday.

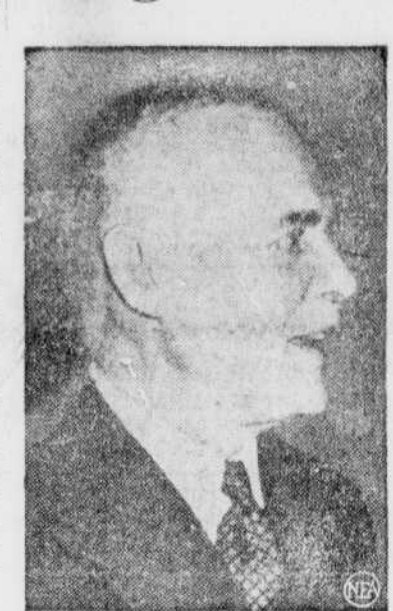

Western sources said they knew of no plan to change the resolution which was aimed at breaking the east-west deadlock without fixing

Immigration Check-Up

Dr. Andre C. E. Bousset, one of four Frenchmen in Canada charged with collaboration with the enemy in France during the Second World War, leaves Montreal immigration headquarters with his family following a routine medical check-up. Bousset was allowed to remain in Canada by a federal cabinet order-in-council after immigration authorities had ordered his deportation for entering the country on a false passport. Shown with Bousset are his wife and four children, Francois, Michel, Marie-Jose and Marie. Marie-Jose is carrying four-month-old Marie in her arms. (CP Photo)

Exercises Planned By Canada-U.S.

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—(P)—The five-power Canadian task force visiting Pearl Harbor is leaving with units of the United States navy and air force for joint exercises in the Pacific, Defence Minister Claxton announced today.

The exercises, under combat conditions, are the "most thorough" by Canadian and American forces since the end of the war, he said. They include defence against submarine torpedo and air attack; bombardment fir-

Montreal, Oct. 25.—(P)—Hon. Louis St. Laurent, showing few signs of weariness despite a 37-hour trip from London, returned to Canada early yesterday morning and told reporters who greeted him at Dorval airport that he is satisfied that the case of four alleged Vichy collaborators now in Canada is closed.

In a brief, 4 a.m. interview with the Sherbrooke Daily Record, Mr. St. Laurent said he had seen reports of the so-called collaboration case in the British newspapers and indicated he felt they had been given considerably more prominence than they deserved.

"I don't want to condemn the press," Mr. St. Laurent said, "I suppose things like that are new. But really, I have been discussing matters of much more importance in London."

The Compton-born acting Prime Minister referred to a recent statement by Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe that the matter is closed as far as the Cabinet is concerned.

"I am quite satisfied with Mr. Howe's statement," he said.

Mr. St. Laurent said he had not seen a report of the press conference French Ambassador Francisque Gay gave in Montreal last week. Mr. Gay, without mentioning the four men in Canada by name, said that if he were accused of collaboration with the Nazis and was innocent he would want to return to France and face trial. Mr. Gay defended French justice, in reply to charges that juries were packed with Communists.

Mr. St. Laurent said he was well-pleased with the results of the Commonwealth discussions in London where he represented Canada in place of the ailing Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The Commonwealth leaders had some differences of opinion on questions of interpretation but had been "very much of one mind on matters of substance."

Before leaving the airport to stay overnight with relatives in Montreal, Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. King, who has been confined to his hotel room in London because of illness, was "getting on very well" and did not expect to have to change his plans to return to Canada at the end of this month.

Today, Mr. St. Laurent is back at his desk in Ottawa and a Canadian Press dispatch said this morning the capital is buzzing anew with guesses as to when he will take over from Prime Minister King. Mr. St. Laurent said that the date is still up to Mr. King.

Before his departure for the United Nations meeting in Paris, Mr. King intimated he would announce his resignation shortly after his return. He has said he definitely will not be Prime Minister when the next session of Parliament starts, probably in January.

Budapest, Hungary, Oct. 25.—(P)—A people's court of justice today sentenced Aurel Varannai, Budapest correspondent for Reuters News Agency, to eight months in prison.

The court convicted him on charges that he sent "repeatedly and deliberately" messages which jeopardized Hungary's international reputation and incited against the democratic order of his country.

Varannai, who claimed that he filed only objective news reports, appealed to Hungary's high court.

Two Federal By-Elections Held Today

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—(P)—This politically-conscious capital awaited with keen interest today the outcome of two Federal by-elections being held in Ontario and Saskatchewan.

The contests are in Algoma East, in northwestern Ontario, and Rosburn, in central Saskatchewan. In both constituencies, the polls opened at 8 a.m. today and will

Palestine Becomes Issue As U.S. Election Draws Near

New York, Oct. 25.—(P)—The United States Presidential campaign hits its stretch drive today as President Truman and his Republican opposition accuse each other of playing politics with Palestine.

Shortly before he set out for Chicago and the first of a final series of big city speeches, Truman last night declared his support of the original United Nations plan to partition the Holy Land, subject only to changes approved by the new Jewish state of Israel.

In a statement which White House press secretary Charles G. Ross said had been "cleared with the State Department," the President also asserted that he has ordered a swift study of Israel's application for a United States loan.

Truman, Democratic candidate for re-election in the Nov. 2 elections, said he had been forced to "reiterate my own position" because Governor Thomas E. Dewey had "seen fit" to speak out on the subject last week.

Dewey, the Republican Presidential nominee who also takes to the road tonight for his campaign windup, offered no immediate rejoinder.

But campaign manager Herbert Brownell, Jr., said Dewey simply had complied with a request that he re-state his support of the Republican platform plank in favor of partition.

Ross' announcement that Truman's statement had been cleared by the State Department followed a period of some uncertainty over how it conformed with State Sec-

Condition Of D. P. Camp Is Improved

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—(P)—The living conditions of displaced persons at Emerson, Man.—described by Federal investigators as "very unsatisfactory"—have been "materially improved," Labor Minister Mitchell said Saturday.

The same improvement has been made in three other D. P. camps in Manitoba, he said in an 800-word statement. Mr. Mitchell also released the reports of five men who inspected the camps following disclosures by a Winnipeg newspaper.

The newspaper said displaced persons at Emerson were living in "squalor, filth and misery" under conditions they felt were in many cases worse than in camps in Germany.

One of the investigators is Fred J. White of Winnipeg, regional superintendent of unemployment insurance. Accommodation at Emerson, he reported, was "what could be termed 'a bare minimum'."

In Winnipeg, Agriculture Minister Campbell of Manitoba said he would not associate himself with the Federal investigators' report. He maintained that investigation by provincial authorities showed conditions at Emerson were "much above the minimum standard."

Mr. White's report said in part: "It appeared to me that there was over-crowding in the dormitories. . . one very serious omission at this camp (Emerson) was the lack of hot water for washing. . . the sanitation facilities were inadequate. There is no staff responsible for the care of the prisoners or dormitories. Each person is expected to look after his own with the result that the condition is demoralizing."

Mr. Mitchell said he believes the "main difficulties" are due to insufficient camp help and "some carelessness on the part of the men themselves."

Baptist Church Is Damaged By Fire

Fire broke out shortly before noon today in the Sherbrooke Baptist Church at the corner of Queen and Portland streets but prompt work by firemen, working under the personal direction of Chief Percy Donahue, confined damage to the basement and the back wall.

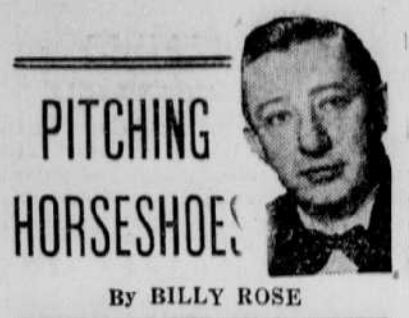

Exact cause of the fire was not determined but it originated around the top of the furnace.

By the time fire reels arrived, flames, which had spread up the back wall, had broken through to the second storey.

There was considerable damage to the walls and basement, caused by fire, smoke and water, but the main body of the church, where services are held, was not affected.

The fire was out within about a half hour after the alarm was sounded.

There was no immediate estimate of monetary loss.

new book, "Wine, Women and Words," and I wonder if you, as a freshman author, realize what you're letting yourself in for.

Years ago, when a fellow wrote a book, he withdrew from his musty garret, with simulated calm, to await the verdict of the literary critics and to cook his ear for the first sounds of the gentle stream that assured him his royalties were starting to trickle in.

But today, the writer who foals a tome is courting disaster. He is at the mercy of his agent, his publisher and his publisher's publicity staff, and to hallyhoo his work he is forced to lend his name to testimonials, attend literary teas, make personal appearances on radio and television programs, and greet his scant public in sundry book and department store basements.

As the author of "Wine, Women and Words," you will be photographed shaving with a YIPPEE, the new plastic razor with no blade that goes with the new shaving cream you don't rub in. Subway placards will show you drinking a LI-CHEE COLA, the new drink made in Chinese vineyards by sanitary coolies who trample the lichees nuts into the cola. Newspaper ads will show you smoking a SWEETIE, the new cigarette with the built-in dessert that saves the busy businessman time at lunch, and colored photos in haberdashery windows will picture you wearing the NO-GRAB undersuit—the underwear preferred by our leading leopards players.

Besides, to prove you are an eccentric man of letters, you will have to strut Fifth Avenue sporting a mustard-hued beret, a white duck innershirt and herringbone necktie, leading a butterfly on a silken leash with a male marmoset riding your clavicle.

One morning you will be asked to rise at 6 to appear on that popular radio program, "Breakfast With Flo and Moe," and there you will tell of your boyhood days—how you were so poor that you had no kite to fly, and on windy days, you could only run up and down the street flying your string. You will mention your early inferiority complex—how you were so self-effacing that when you looked into a mirror you saw nobody. And then, just as you're about to get in a plug for your book, Flo and Moe will interrupt to read fifteen or twenty commercials, there will be a burst of organ music, and you will be out in the hall with the best years of your life left over.

Later, you will be invited to participate in another radio tableau called, "Author Meets His Water-loo," and you will continue your life story—how you wrote the first singing commercial, opened nightclubs to help rich people cope with insomnia, and then turned against alcohol when you found Eleanor Holm in water. You will discuss your activities at the World's Fair, and of course deny that when the Aquadale closed you bottled the water and sold it as seltzer to deaf people who couldn't hear the fizzing. About this time, the moderator and two critics on the panel will start a bitter argument about the decline of the adverb in the Bronx, and by the time order is restored, the program will be off the air and you will be stuck with the four ad libs you had up your sleeve for an emergency.

Television will hustle you next, and you will be seen on that exciting new video charade, "Battle of Books." Here, in an attempt to complete your story, you will tell how you decided to become an author when a waiter at Lindy's scribbled on the back of your check, "The essence of living is the power of appreciation, the savoring of thoughts and things." You will then relate a few anecdotes, quote George Bernard Shaw's priceless retort to the chattering vendor, and toss off a few epigrams such as, "Humor is only a fragrance, a decoration," and "A dead moron takes up as much space as a dead wine."

But as you pick up a copy of "Wine, Women and Words," to let the television audience see the price on the inside cover, the camera will switch to a man demonstrating mothballs, and an announcer will explain that the program is sponsored by Moth-Wick, the perfumed mothball that causes your windbreaker to exude an exotic fragrance while it is smothering the moths in the lining.

This, my dear Billy, is a sample of what you can expect for the next few months, and if I were you, I'd buy up all the copies now on the bookstands and burn them. But if you insist on going ahead and becoming an author, let me wish you luck. I read your book last night and, as the scientist said when he exploded the first atom bomb, I got a big bang out of it. Incidentally, if the Book of the Month Club doesn't accept "Wine, Women and Words," why don't you buy your own month and show them?

Regards,
FRED ALLEN.

MOVIE MUGLS PASS THE WORD: BANISH THOSE CRYING TOWELS

Hollywood—Ah, yes, there's good news in Hollywood tonight. An agreement has been reached in the upper circles of cinema magnates to put away the crying towels for Hollywood. Seems there has been so much popping off about panic in the motion picture industry that the word has spread to the public. People are beginning to feel that nothing much good can come out of an industry which is so uncertain of its own future and this keeps the lines away from the boxoffice.

So the word is out—smile, smile, smile.

John Wayne is suffering from a painful ear infection—the result of all those underwater scenes for "Wake of the Red Witch." Paramount is talking to singer Clark Dennis about a film contract.

Betty Grable is the most avid reader on the Fox lot. In fact, every time you see her, she's behind a racing form. . . . Columbia's proxy, Harry Cohn, is sinking a fortune into the advertising campaign of "Loves of Carmen." He thinks it will be Rita Hayworth's biggest money-maker.

All Tied Up
Eddie Bracken has a funny idea for a baseball picture he's trying to sell to Warner Brothers. It's about eight ball clubs which wind up the season in a tie for first place. They have a playoff for the pennant which also ends in a tie. (How could they ever finish the picture?)

Success in show business isn't always the result of a long struggle. Less than a year ago, Sandy Adler gave Kay Thompson her first job at his El Rancho Vegas Hotel in Las Vegas. Now he wants her back for the opening of his new Cal-Neva club in Reno, but if he is able to make the deal with the Kirkeby Hotels, which have Kay under contract, her fee will be five times the amount Adler first paid her.

Brown Comedown
Whenever football men gather and talk about great games and great players, Johnny Mack Brown's name is always mentioned. His exploits in the Rose Bowl when he played with Alabama will never be forgotten. But lately Johnny is suffering the pangs of mortification. His son, Lachlan, holds the lowly position of water boy on the Beverly Hills high school football team.

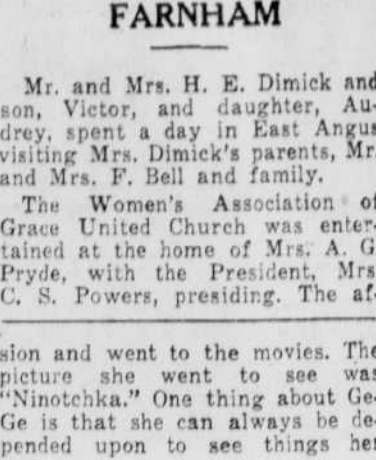

Greta Garbo came out of seclusion the air and you will be stuck with the four ad libs you had up your sleeve for an emergency.

Television will hustle you next, and you will be seen on that exciting new video charade, "Battle of Books." Here, in an attempt to complete your story, you will tell how you decided to become an author when a waiter at Lindy's scribbled on the back of your check, "The essence of living is the power of appreciation, the savoring of thoughts and things." You will then relate a few anecdotes, quote George Bernard Shaw's priceless retort to the chattering vendor, and toss off a few epigrams such as, "Humor is only a fragrance, a decoration," and "A dead moron takes up as much space as a dead wine."

But as you pick up a copy of "Wine, Women and Words," to let the television audience see the price on the inside cover, the camera will switch to a man demonstrating mothballs, and an announcer will explain that the program is sponsored by Moth-Wick, the perfumed mothball that causes your windbreaker to exude an exotic fragrance while it is smothering the moths in the lining.

This, my dear Billy, is a sample of what you can expect for the next few months, and if I were you, I'd buy up all the copies now on the bookstands and burn them. But if you insist on going ahead and becoming an author, let me wish you luck. I read your book last night and, as the scientist said when he exploded the first atom bomb, I got a big bang out of it. Incidentally, if the Book of the Month Club doesn't accept "Wine, Women and Words," why don't you buy your own month and show them?

Regards,
FRED ALLEN.

Success in show business isn't always the result of a long struggle. Less than a year ago, Sandy Adler gave Kay Thompson her first job at his El Rancho Vegas Hotel in Las Vegas. Now he wants her back for the opening of his new Cal-Neva club in Reno, but if he is able to make the deal with the Kirkeby Hotels, which have Kay under contract, her fee will be five times the amount Adler first paid her.

Injured D.P. Found Near East Bolton, Case Probed

A 35-year-old Polish displaced person, found unconscious Saturday morning on a lonely side road half a mile from East Bolton, is in a critical condition in the Montreal Neurological Institute today. The victim is Sarabourak Mykola suffering from a deep head wound. Mykola, who came to Canada last spring, was found in bushes at the side of the road by a search party, instituted when the man was reported missing Friday afternoon from his work on the farm of Clinton Hurbut, at East Bolton, 11 miles southwest of Magog. He was a government supply farm laborer.

Dr. George Wood, of Magog, was called to the scene and ordered the man removed immediately to the Montreal hospital.

The mysterious circumstances have puzzled police. Provincial Police say there are no indications of how the man was injured. The side road is not used by vehicles. One theory was that the man might have been attacked by a bear but reports from the district said that there were no bear tracks in the vicinity of the mishap. The police investigation is continuing.

HISTORIC MEDICAL HIGHLIGHTS—No. 8

THE PLAGUE OF THE SEA

SCURVY—a disease as old as the art of sailing. A disease that brought sore, cankerous gums, teeth that loosened and fell out, hemorrhages and purpled skin . . . And it seemed that this curse was directed especially at sailors. That the lack of fresh vegetables and fruits in their diet was the cause of the disease wasn't known until 1747 when Dr. James Lind discovered that lemons and limes were a remedy for it. Limes were then added to the British Navy's diet and His Majesty's sailors no longer had Scurvy, but ever since they've been called "Limeys."

A name or a reputation can last a long time. We're proud of the reputation we've gained in your community and we'll do our best to keep on deserving it—by the prompt and accurate filling of your prescriptions.

Four Persons Are Injured Here In Week-End Accidents

Three accidents occurred in this city over the week-end and four persons were injured.

Saturday noon, Jacques Jutras, 6, 18 Bowen south, was taken to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital suffering from bruises to the face, sustained when he was hit by a car while crossing the street. The victim was crossing Bowen street when he was struck by a car driven by George Jones, 26, 119 8th avenue.

Constable Leopold Bigoness investigated the accident.

In another accident which occurred on Sunday morning, Gaston Roy, 33, 43 Olivier street, and Raoul Buisiere, 28, Pierreville, were taken to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital suffering from bruises to the face sustained when the car in which they were riding was hit by a truck. The accident occurred at the intersection of Park and Goummod Road.

A truck driven by Camille Pare, 20, of St. Camille, collided with the car driven by Mr. Roy. Constable Guy Cordeau investigated the accident.

Early this morning a car driven by Philbert Vermette, St. Elie d'Orford, smashed into the verandah of the Royal Hotel. The car was headed south on Belvedere when it swerved off the road and hit the verandah. The driver was slightly injured.

St. Patrick's Group Visits Cap Be Established De La Madeleine In Sherbrooke

Members of St. Patrick's Junior Sports Club, accompanied by Rev. Father Lawrence Tierney and Rev. Brother Joseph, principal of St. Patrick's Academy, recently made their annual pilgrimage to Cap de la Madeleine, travelling by chartered bus.

On their arrival they were welcomed by the senior pastor in charge of the Chapel, given an instructive outline of the foundation of the shrine and told of the many reported miracles which have been wrought there.

Mass was then celebrated by Rev. Father Tierney, while the members sang appropriate hymns. Acts of consecration were read by Mrs. Patricia Giroux and Andre Gervais, presidents of the girls' and boys' sections respectively.

After Mass, the members were taken on a sight-seeing tour, until dinner time. In the afternoon they visited various small shrines in the Cap and attended Benediction in the chapel, where Father Tierney gave a short instruction.

The pastor of the Chapel blessed the many souvenirs which the members had bought and expressed the wish that the group would return to the Cap next year.

Before taking the ferry the members had an opportunity to visit Three Rivers, and after their enjoyable trip arrived in Sherbrooke at 10 o'clock, feeling that the day had been a profitable one.

Those attending were Patricia Giroux, Andre Gervais, Barbara Sharpe, treasurer; Theresa Greenland, Constance Yorke, Bridget McDonough, Constance Gervais, June Moore, Frances Timmons, Roberta Begbie, Pauline Lindley, Fleurette Lapierre, Claire Roy, Marion Walker, Theresa Kelly, Doreen Wilson, Beatrice Winslow, Delores Goudout, Kay Thompson, Maureen Audet, Barbara Nolet, Denise Ramsay, Kenneth Hetherington, Pat Timmons, Randy Goyette, Bruce Cline, Billy Cochrane, Dick Ramsay, Frank Cochrane, Ronnie O'Keefe, Horace Lecours, John Lynch, Kenneth Patton, John Hayes, Peter Murray and Hector Hebert.

CANADIAN-UNITED STATES TRADE

Canada's current trading position with the United States underlines the extent to which vigorous demand in that country has, thus far, more than counterbalanced the contraction of our markets elsewhere, the Bank of Montreal states in its latest Business Review which is devoted chiefly to a comparative study of Canada's imports and exports in the first eight months of 1947 and 1948.

The substantial improvement in the Dominion's adverse balance of trade with the United States has been achieved mainly by a thirty-five per cent increase in exports to that country, and has been dependent to a much lesser extent on reduction of imports which are down by only ten per cent in the eight months' comparison.

Principal items listed as contributing to the higher export values have been—in order of importance—lumber, newsprint, wood pulp and pulpwood, base metals, agricultural implements and cattle. On the import side, restrictions have sharply curtailed receipts of fibres and textiles, fresh fruits and vegetables, automobiles, household electric appliances and luxury articles. On the other hand, imports of an essential nature such as coal, petroleum and heavy machinery have been in significantly higher figures, reflecting both price factors and the effects of high levels of industrial activity and new capital expansion in this country.

The outstanding feature of Canada's trade with the United Kingdom in the period under review has been a sixty-five per cent increase, by value, in the movement of British goods to this country. While showing little change in dollar aggregate, Canadian exports to Great Britain have altered significantly, higher prices for meats and base metals having offset reduced shipments of meat, tobacco, oats, apples and potatoes.

Referring to recent discussions between Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer and Ministers of the Canadian Government, the Bank says that, while little is known of the outcome of these conversations, it is clear that efforts will be made to narrow the gap in trade, both by expanding British exports to Canada and by adjusting Britain's import programs. The Review adds that it is generally considered likely that the Dominion Government will soon release to the United Kingdom the unexpended balance of the 1946 loans.

In the light of these trends, while no official statement has been made about Canada's reserves of gold and U. S. dollars since holdings of $742,000,000 were announced as at June 23, it is a "reasonable supposition" that some further improvement has taken place. This supposition is strengthened by the Government's announcement on October 8 that the unused portion of $160,000,000 of the loan of $300,000,000 from the United States Import-Export Bank, arranged late last year, has been cancelled on Canada's initiative. The $140,000,000 previously drawn down, it will be recalled, has been repaid out of the proceeds of borrowing from private sources.

TROUBLE FOR PERON

The intensity with which President Peron of Argentina is clamping down on his critics serves as an indication that he is becoming increasingly vulnerable to criticism. His latest move in muzzling opposition was the seizure of newsprint stocks of two large papers which disliked his regime and held for the democratic way of life. Of course, the seizure is described as "allocation" to relieve a shortage but nobody is deceived by the action which curtailed the size of the two government critics and permitted the subservient press to jump their size and circulation.

The iron laws of economics appear to be cracking Peron's dream of a tightly controlled, self-sufficient autocracy. Under his five-year plan, he sought to build the industrial and military power of the Argentine. At the same time he sought to capitalize on Latin resentments to make himself a figure of a size to extract favors from the United States.

Unfortunately for his dream, the exportable food upon which he depended to pay for his expansion is meeting both declining demand and falling prices. World crops have recovered. The day of five dollar wheat is over. His European customers do not have the dollars with which to buy his products and Marshall plan money is being spent elsewhere. Peron thus seems to face the necessity of abandoning his project to make Argentina a world power, or taking the cost out of the living standards of his countrymen by an austerity program. Either course is likely to deflate his stature as a miracle man.

PERMANENT PLATES

One of the ideas for reduction in government expenditures which is advanced from time to time, especially in the fall of the year, is for the establishment of permanent license plates for automobiles. New York State has announced that it will retain its old plates for another year and there seems little logical reason why the Canadian provinces could not follow this lead, which is especially important in view of the world-wide shortage of tinplate and similar materials.

The technical details of the permanent plates—whether they be part of the body or welded to the body—could be left to experts in this line. The savings in time, money and materials are obvious. Bookkeeping needs would be reduced although it would be necessary to retain some staffs to receive the annual fees provided for the renewal of the registration each year. From the viewpoint of the car owner, permanent plates would simplify his remembering his registration number. The police and law enforcement agents would find their work facilitated as car thieves and other criminals find stolen license plates an important factor in escaping detection. Fewer plates would be switched if welding or cutting were necessary every time the job was done.

European Recovery Now Based On Reviving German Industry

Reconstruction of German industrial production now seems to be the bedrock upon which American policy for European recovery is being built. Cries of alarm over this development are coming not only from the raucous Moscow radio and its parroting followers, British, French, Dutch and other allied governments are equally concerned.

Ambassador Averell Harriman's arbitrary action last month, overruling the European governments' allocation of Marshall Plan money to give Germany $70,000,000 more, was one indicator. Lifting the ban on American investment of blocked marks in German industry was a second step. There are now reports that American firms may soon be permitted to invest dollars in Germany. Economic Co-operation Administrator Paul Hoffman's present effort to negotiate a stop on dismantling of German war plants earmarked for reparations is a third sign pointing up the policy.

Hoffman has named a committee of five U. S. corporation presidents to make a survey of the reparations situation. Its chairman is George M. Humphreys of the Hanna coal, steel and shipping interests, Cleveland. Others are John L. McCaffrey of International Harvester, Gwilym A. Price of Westinghouse, Frederick V. Geier of American Milling Machine Co., Charles E. Wilson of General Motors. Several of these firms had important prewar business tieups with Germany.

THIRD REPARATIONS ALLOCATION SINCE WAR'S END

If a new allocation of German war plants for reparations is made, it will be the third since the end of the war. Under the Potsdam agreement of August, 1945, all reparations deliveries were to be completed within two years after determination of Germany's postwar standard of living and level of industry. That determination was made in February, 1946. It was based on German steel production of 10,700,000 tons a year. It was decided that the Germans should not be allowed to produce aircraft, armaments, ocean shipping, radio transmitters, synthetic ammonia, gasoline or rubber, ball bearings and certain machine tools. Electric power capacity was also cut.

Some 2,000 war plants in the three western zones of Germany were then earmarked for dismantling and distribution to the allied countries on the basis of war damage and contribution to the victory. Russia was to get 25 per cent of these reparations—three-fifths of which were to be in exchange for raw materials.

In May, 1946, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U. S. military governor, stopped allocation of plants in the U. S. zone for reparations. His reason was that the French and the Russians were not co-operating in treatment of Germany as one economic unit, as agreed at Potsdam.

In October, 1947, Clay issued a new list of plants available for reparations. It cut approximately in half the original list of 2,000. It corrected some obvious mistakes.

JOB PROGRESSED SLOWER THAN EXPECTED

General Clay's policy then was to hasten dismantling. He wanted to get these plants out of sight and re-employ labor. But when the Potsdam deadline for completion of reparations rolled around in March, 1948, the job was hardly half done.

Under the October, 1947, list, 914 plants in western Germany were earmarked for reparations. In the U. S. zone were 186 plants, 233 in the French, 495 in the British, which took in the Ruhr. Actually allocated to the Inter-Allied Reparations Agency in Brussels, Belgium, are 135 plants from the U. S. zone, 210 from the British, 64 from the French. The total is 409 out of 914. Many of the plants are small. Forty-nine plants have been allocated to the Russians. Eight were large. One was a power plant, a shipyard, an aircraft plant. Others were largely collections of machine tools under a roof.

Contrary to general opinion, the reparations formula worked out at Potsdam was sound. It just never was carried out. Germany was never considered as a single economic unit. But the agreement did limit the amount of goods to be taken out of Germany. The Russians have repeatedly tried to have these limits revised upwards. The West has refused to consider it. Only counter offer was a tentative statement by Secretary Byrnes that an extra allowance might be made for the cut from the 1946 to the 1947 list.

If, however, the Humphrey committee from ECA is now allowed to make a new determination of reparations limits, the whole question may have to be reopened.

DID SOMEONE SAY THERE'S A FIGHT GOING ON?

Letters To The Editor

CRITICIZES McNAUGHTON LETTER

Dear Sir:—After reading Major McNaughton's letter criticizing the 5th Sherbrooke Troop of Boy Scouts' camping grounds at Lovelock Pond, I, as a past Scoutmaster of this troop, could not let this go by without enquiring as to the accuracy of his statements. I understand that Major McNaughton's charges are incorrect, and I feel the Major should have made certain who was responsible for the "most flagrant exhibition of waste and neglect" before having his letter published.

These boys have made it a habit of camping out every week-end, thus leaving their equipment in order for the following week-end, as Scouts do.

If the camp was found in the condition Major McNaughton claims it was—could it not be possible that hunters have trespassed on these grounds and that they might be responsible for the untidiness?

It seems rather strange to me, that after Major McNaughton took so much trouble to account for every little detail on how the camp was left, that he did not go a bit further and find out if it was the 5th Sherbrooke Troop of Boy Scouts before condemning them so publicly.

R. SMITH,

Former Scoutmaster of the 5th Sherbrooke Troop.

PRESS COMMENTS

JAMES MUIR NAMED VICE-PRESIDENT

Montreal Gazette
His many friends, not only in this community, but throughout Canada, where he has served with distinction on the staff of the Royal Bank of Canada, will congratulate Mr. James Muir on his appointment as Vice-President of this bank.

Mr. Muir comes from a country renowned for its bankers in all parts of the world, for he was born in Scotland, and came here when hardly out of his teens to take up the banking profession. His talents, industry and personal qualities soon led to quick advancement, until he is now second-in-command of one of the largest banks in the world.

He is of that class of men who find time to devote his time and energies to other, and just a few days ago he headed the successful drive of Welfare Federation, which went over the top for the first time in several years.

His personality and social qualities have made for him everywhere a multitude of friends. He is many-sided in his tastes, and like all Scotsmen, prides himself on his game of golf. In his business life he has shown how effectively he can break "par"; we trust that the same will always apply to his golf game.

IDEAL—WORLD GOVERNMENT

London Spectator
Mr. Ramkrishna Dalmia, as revealed at a reception given in his honor, is a remarkable figure. Little known so far outside India, he is one of the richest men in the country, owning a chain of cement factories, an air-line, all sorts of other companies, and what is far more important from the point of view of influence, the Times of India and a whole series of associated papers.

With all this industrial enterprise he combines a studied simplicity of life and the pursuit of one dominating ideal—world-government. That is what he is here for. That is what he is going to America for.

Clad completely in white, with white Gandhi forage-cap, he slightly disconcerted guests who were proposing to shake hands with him by bowing profoundly at each arrival with hands pressed together as though in prayer. Never, I think, have I met so remarkable a combination of business flair with uninhibited idealism. "I am not a politician," said Mr. Dalmia more than once in the course of a speech which was still flowing copiously when I had to leave.

"TO RISE AT EIGHT"

Manchester Guardian

An earnest advocate of early rising—but unfortunately one who was quite unable to follow his own precepts—was Dr. Johnson. In his "Prayers and Meditations" we find many a good resolution to "rise at eight every day." On his fifty-fifth birthday in 1764, he aspired to greater heights: "To rise early. Not later than six if I can, I hope sooner, but as soon as I can." By Easter of the following year this was moderated to "to rise at eight every morning." Twelve months later he is complacent—but truth will out: "Since last New Year's Eve I have risen every morning by eight, at least not after nine."

The intention to rise at eight recurs regularly, but in October, 1766, there is the sad confession, "of all this I have done nothing." By 1772 he had become cautious: "To rise by degrees more early in the morning." As his seventieth birthday approaches he is still busy resolving "to rise at eight, or as early as I can."

FROM THE PEN OF E. I. WRITERS

IN PRAISE OF SUMMER

Was ever friend so welcome,
As when you came in June;
Or ever visit shorter,
Now that you go so soon?
So eager I awaited
Your quickly note to say,
That quickly were you coming,
And at my home would stay.

Then came such sweet announcing:
For music of the bird
And morning star together,
Sang till my heart was stirred:
To gratitude abounding
For winter overpast,
And Spring's shy intimation,
That you were here at last!

Then gladness rose at dawning,
And mirth appeared at night;
From matins into vespers,
My praises went afloat:
For at your coming, daylight,
The longer, brighter grew,
That you might see the clearer
To fashion all things new.

Your hands flung down the sunning,
Your fingers scattered rain,
And where'er you touched the earth,
There beauty bloomed again:
For with the wind and weather
You wove the threads of light,
In tapestries of color,
To visions of delight.

Your love wrought in my garden,
That I might feast my eyes—
Spellbound at all your wonders—
In daily, deep surprise:
For pigments of your painting
I saw in all my bower,
And learned your grace had opened
Each winsome, fragrant flower.

Then far and wide I wandered
Beyond my own demesne,
Where all the land lay smiling,
And where the meads were green,
And there I knew your blessing
Had crowned man's husbandry,
Enriching tilth and pasture,
With full fertility.

Rewarding all their toiling,
Your horn of plenty spilled
On husbandman and herder,
The harvest of the field;
Whose bounty all sufficient,
Supplied for all their needs,
So manifold the reaping,
From every tiny seed.

Thus did your goodness bring me,
In happy, sunny yield,
The beauty of the garden,
The plenty of the field;
So thank I Him who sent thee,
By thee my soul He fed,
And for my wants of body,
By thee He gave me bread.

Thou camest at His bidding
To make my life more fair,
And in walks abroad with thee,
I breathed an ampler air:
Bringing joy intoxicant,
Like wine in courtesing blood,
Till voices sang within me:
"To be alive is good!"

Farewell, then, kindly Summer,
Purveyor of such wealth;
Thousand are the thanks I speak,
For thousand gifts of health;
All too brief your stay with me,
But long my lasting gain,
In riches and remembrance,
Until you come again!

McKENNY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenny, America's Card Authority

MAKING SIX CLUBS—OFF

TWO ACES
When I run across a bridge book that presents a new angle on the game, I like to review it for my readers. One of the greatest short story books is has been my pleasure to read is "Right Through the Pack" by Robert Davies, a Hungarian, Norman de V. Hart and Dr. Paul Stern of England. The book is published by Stuyvesant House in New York City ($3.50).

As the story goes, "Master Robert" fell asleep, the deck of cards came to life, and each card tells a story. I am going to put a few of these stories in my own words for you this week.

This is the story of the deuce of clubs. The poor little deuce mournfully shook his head as he started to tell his story to "Master Robert." It was a hot night, and he was dealt to a fat man. A large, clumsy hand picked him up. He did not like the touch of the fat man's hand, and the fat man, like every one else, cared little for the deuce of clubs, the lowest card of the lowest suit in the deck.

"I was not much interested in the bidding," said the deuce of clubs, "until I heard six clubs. I felt then that I might have a part to play. West ended the ace of hearts and shifted to the deuce of spades. The fat man (South) won this with the ace.

"Why did he not concede down one? He was off the ace of diamonds." But the fat man proceeded to take two rounds of tricks,

	♠ K 4 3
	♥ K Q
	♥ K 10 8 2
	♥ A 9 8 5
♠ Q 10 6 2			♠ J 9 8 7
♥ A 8 5 2			♥ 9 6 4
♣ 6 5 4			♠ A J 9 7
♠ 6 4			3

winning the second in dummy, then he reached over and carefully selected the eight of diamonds.

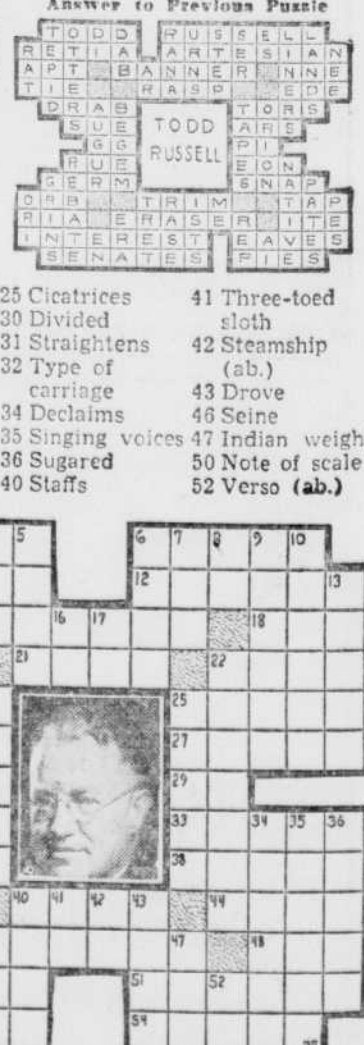

East, of course, had to give some thought to the matter of playing the ace, or not. Whereupon the fat man took the deuce of clubs from his hand. "Remember," said the deuce, "it was a hot night, and the fat man started to fan himself with me. He did not try to show me to the opponent on the right, and I do not think that the opponent looked at me.

"But finally East decided that if he played the ace of diamonds, the fat man would jump it with me. So he played low. The fat man put me back in his hand and won the trick with the queen of diamonds. That, Master Robert, is the way we made six clubs, off two aces."

B.C.S. Downs Ashbury College 14-5 To Retain Bishop's Old Boys' Trophy

Sparked by the spectacular running prowess of Joe Stearns, Bishop's College School outshone Ottawa's Ashbury College to beat them by the score of 14-5, and the honor of holding the Bishop's Old Boys' Cup for another year.

In the first tilt of the two game journey, which was held at Ashbury College some weeks ago, Ashbury defeated Bishop's teamsters 17-8, putting them into a position to collect the trophy after two years of failure. Bishop's squad however came up from behind to tie the game and then in the second game and high the season.

At feature 22-22, Bishop's College School retains the cup however for being last years champions. Quarterback Reapers' field smartness set the Purple and White squad into action and they rolled down the field like a well oiled machine with the help of McGee's educated toe. Bucks by Stearns, end runs by Ashworth and Sperdaks, put the Bishop's squad on the visiting team's touch line. Even though Ashbury's team outwitted the home team by almost ten pounds per man, McCulloch, who filled in for Reaper after the hard working quarterback had broken his nose for the second time this season, crossed the line on a buck for 5 points and Stearns converted to make it 6.

The Ashbury squad started to buckle down with Darby and Price setting shining examples for their teammates. Ross, the red, green and white teams speedy little quarterback, ran a good 40 yards to score and start the team clicking.

Giles, for the purple and white squad, ran 10 yards where he was tackled by Earl, as he passed it to Bishop, who in turn passed to Stearns, who made a 20-yard gain putting them on the Ashbury 15-yard line. Stearns kicked into paydirt territory for a field goal and put Bishop's team ahead by 9 points. Stearns again, on a buck through the line, using his flashing heels and swivel hips, ran 20 yards to tie up the score and win the game.

The last quarter was scoreless with the Ashbury team rallying in a final effort. The purple and white squad would have scored again however had it not been for the kicking ability of Pritchard, and running power of Ross, and Darby.

to Daigault. Quebec drew closer late in the final quarter when they recovered a Rockland fumble on the Dynamiters two-yard stripe and after two tries Macdonnell raced around right end to pay dirt. The convert missed and the game ended seconds later.

Garbaidine and Bobby Morrow played terrific games for the Swimmers, while George Merry and Danny Johnson also were outstanding for Rockland.

Montreal, Oct. 25.—(P)—Montreal Lakeshore whipped Montreal Eastwards 12-1 in a listless Quebec Rugby Football Union Intermediate League game here yesterday.

Neither team showed much in the way of scoring attack in a game that had few thrilling moments.

Wilf O'Hagan and Bubs Parsons collected the Lakeshore touchdowns with Ken Harrison converting the second. Jim Simpson booted a single for Eastwards lone point late in the final quarter.

Spain May Get Place In U. N.

By SIGRID ARNE

for DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

Before the current United Nations session ends in Paris there is an outside chance that the back door will be pushed open for Spain.

Three times since mid-1945 the Franco government has been declared unacceptable as a U.N. member. Then, to back the allied world disapproval, the United States government got out a pamphlet in March, 1946, publishing part of Franco's war-time correspondence with Hitler and Mussolini.

It included several expressions of Franco's willingness to join the Axis provided he got the guns and grain.

Within the last few weeks, however, a number of prominent Americans have come away from visits to Madrid with kind words for Franco.

What has started the trend to forgive and forget?

A United States State Department official says "things have changed." He acknowledges that Spain now is eyed from the military standpoint. He says military men must think of Spain in the allied camp should the Russian-western cold war change to a hot one.

The current move in Paris is led by Latin Americans, with Argentina as the prime mover. They would like to see Spain admitted at least to the U.N. sidelines to such affiliated agencies as the international telecommunications union and the civil aviation organization. And they would like to see U.N. members countries put top-ranking diplomats back into Madrid.

The official American view is described this way: (A) Nothing is gained by cutting Spain out of such arrange-over the line for the convert. Half time score, Athletics 11, Combines 1.

In the third quarter the home team showed signs of improvement and the Jenkins brothers, Joe and Jim, were standouts.

Joe Jenkins completed three passes in a row to brother Jim, which sent the Del's to the A's 20-yard line but the A's line held and no damage was caused.

Charlie Clarke scored his second touchdown of the afternoon when he caught a pass from Larry Gallagher and rumbled over the stripe for a major. Convert failed. Three-quarter time score, Athletics 16, Combines 1.

The Combines unleashed a spectacular aerial attack in the final half but to no avail. The locals, who were weary minus the services of Hovey, Arnold and Drew, used "Beef" Ross in the backfield on several occasions and Ross plunged for substantial gains.

In the final quarter Mac Cartwright intercepted a Combine forward deep in the Del's territory and he ran the leather over the stripe for a major. Gallagher tossed to Clarke standing over the white line for the convert. Final score, Sherbrooke 22, Combines 1.

TEST-AND-THAT: For the A's, Gaston Bergeron, Don Pankovitch, Lorne Campbell and Bill Cote turned in good performance.

Sherbrooke linemen who blocked well up front were: Regimbal, Berwick, Ronaldi, Pinkham and Lessard. Mac Sanders and Noel, first string ends, played well and tackled more than one Combine. Ross Hunting and Roy Nelson were injured during the game and remained on the bench until the end but it is expected that they will be available for action before next Saturday's Q.R.F.U. League game with Rockland.

It seems that in 1939 the Stanter boys had quite a football team and three or four of the home team supporters who were watching their team go down to defeat remarked "You should see us in 1939".

The Combines are coached by Sammy Abbott and with a few more games under their belts should give good competition to other teams in the district.

The line-ups follow: Sherbrooke—Snap, Ross; insides, Ronaldi and Pankovitch; middles, Regimbal and Nelson; ends, Noel and Sanders; quarter, Gallagher; halves, Hunting, Everett, Campbell and Clarke. Alternates: Langudoc, G. Bergeron, B. Bergeron, Cote, Cathcart, Pinkham, Dietz, Strickland and Berwick.

Combines: Snap, Greer; insides, Jean and Carbonneau; middles, Wadleigh and Bedard; ends, Pope and Smith; quarter, Joe Jenkins; halves, Jim Jenkins, Greenleaf, Quillman and Stewart; alternates: Gosselin, Bessett, Laramie, Jovial, Lefond, Theberge, Crawford and Prangley.

Referee, Len Gillam, umpire, Bill Hammond.

FINANCIAL NEWS

By The Canadian Press

Early Trading In Livestock Is Fairly Quiet

Montreal, Oct. 25.—Early trading on the two Montreal livestock markets was fairly quiet. Cattle were slow to start. Prices were estimated to be about steady.

Veals were in good demand and prices were about $1.00 higher while other grades of calves sold at prices estimated to be steady. Good quality veals sold 27-28, common to medium kinds 21-25. Drinkers ranged 17-20 and grassers 12-16.

There were no early sale of hogs. Prices were stronger on lambs. A large lot of lambs were sold from 20-22, according to quality. When sold graded, good ewes and wethers were bringing 22-23. Culls were 14 or better. Sheep 4-8.

Receipts were 2,266 cattle; 1,653 calves; 820 hogs and 2,652 sheep.

Miscellaneous

Shower Given

Miss S. Bell

Fulford, Oct. 25.—A very pleasant afternoon was spent when a
"Miscellaneous Shower" was given in honor of Miss Sylvia Bell, at the home of Mrs. Lucia Fessenden.

Over thirty friends arrived previous to the arrival of the bride-to-be, who with her sister, Mrs. Ellen Fessenden, and family and her mother, Mrs. A. Bell, were possessed on their way to Foster, and called to do an errand for Mrs.
Fessenden, Sr., who urged them to come inside.

As Miss Bell entered the door
a chorus of voices began singing
"Here Comes the Bride," when she was ushered to a chair decorated with pink bows and streamers, in the archway between livingroom and dining-room, and under a white umbrella trimmed with pink and white.

In the center of the dining-room table was a two tiered bridal cake, which was made by the hostess and artistically decorated with white and pink icing and tiny silver balls with the "bride-to-be's" name written on the top of the cake.

Pink and white streamers were suspended from the ceiling to the corners of the table with three silver bells hung on pink streamers directly over the cake.

The rooms were also decorated with large begonias and flowering geraniums. After an interesting kitchen contest was enjoyed, Mrs.
E. Hillock sang "Brimming Apples on a Lillie Tree" with Mrs. H. D.
Wells, of Waterville, playing the accompaniment.

Miss June and Master Luke Fessenden, who were dressed as a little bride and groom, wheeled in a large tea wagon, decorated in pink and white and with the shelf and top piled high with attractively wrapped parcels, and placed it before the bride-to-be, and began handing her the parcels. Just as she began to open the first gift the over-hanging umbrella showered her with confetti which caused much merriment, after which Miss Bell proceeded to finish opening her gifts and starting them on their journey of admiration among the guests. Miss Betty Fessenden then placed them on the table.

The gifts consisted of money,
china, glass, pyrex, aluminum, plastic, bakelite, linen, local and Indian handmade lace doilies, and kitchen utensils. One unique gift was an indexed recipe box containing many black cards, some of which were distributed among the guests with a request to write out one of their favorite cooking recipes and photograph the same and place it in the box. Miss Bell charmingly expressed her thanks to her friends.

After a social period was enjoyed delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her cousin, Mrs. Mildred
Sweet, and Mrs. E. Hillock, of Waterville, and Mrs. S. Marshall, of St. Hubert.

Those from a distance attending the shower were Mrs. Amyd
Simcock, Miss Emma Wilson, Mrs.
Audrey Greer and daughter, and
Mrs. Pearson, of North Haley;
Mrs. H. D. Wells, Mrs. E. Hillock,
Mrs. Leroy Hayes, Mrs. Clara

David Bull, Mrs. Floyd Williams and Mrs. Kenneth Graves and Mrs.
F. Beale, of Fulford; Mrs. Donald Beckus and Mrs. Harold Beckus, of Foster; and Mrs. Minnie Rumsley, of Iron Hill.

The remainder of the afternoon was pleasantly passed in social intercourse and guests expressed their sincere best wishes for a happy future to Miss Bell.

The Doctor Says

PROPER BALANCE OF CALCIUM IS ESSENTIAL TO BODY HEALTH

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

Calcium is one of the most important elements of the body. Chemical combinations of calcium are particularly needed by the teeth and bones, but calcium is required also in other parts of the body. Calcium salts play an important part in the clotting of the blood and in the control of the heart beat.

Calcium taken into the body must be in a form which can be easily absorbed and used. Vitamin D helps in the use of calcium by the body and this is gained from sunlight or it can be obtained in prepared form. A hormone produced by one of the internal glands called the parathyroid is also important. When vitamin D is not present in sufficient quantities, the calcium is not deposited properly and the bones become soft and pliable, producing rickets, bow legs, etc. If the parathyroid glands are removed, the amount of calcium in the blood drops rapidly, regardless of the amount of calcium taken in. This causes a condition called tetany which produces muscular spasms.

Too Much Is Harmful
Too much calcium can be present in the tissues as well as too little. For example, a good deal of the material deposited in the walls of hardened arteries (arteriosclerosis) consists of calcium. As yet, no way has been found to dissolve or remove excess calcium in the arteries nor is there any method of preventing these deposits.

Dairy products supply good quantities of calcium. Consequently infants and growing children, who need calcium for their rapidly growing bones, get most of their calcium from milk. Additional calcium can be supplied in various tablet or capsule forms. However, although calcium tablets may supply the calcium needed, they will not furnish the other nutritional elements present in such excellent foods as milk and cheese.

Q—Could continued use of mineral oil cause pain in the abdomen?

A—Yes. Mineral oil frequently causes waste matter to pass through the intestines too rapidly. It may delay absorption of certain vitamins. If it stimulates the intestines to excessive wave-like motions, crampy pains may appear.

York, and Mr. and Mrs. Hawley, of "Hawleywood Farm," Clarenceville, were guests of their cousin, Mrs. L. K. Fessenden.

Good reading for how many people?

EVERYWHERE today you see signs of a new trend in Canadian reading habits. Now as never before people are discovering that the printed word, with its worlds of information and entertainment, is a priceless aid to fuller, happier living. So they are reading more newspapers, magazines and books every year!

To help meet this increasing demand for reading material, Canada's vast pulp and paper industry is expanding—thanks, in part, to your life insurance. How can this be?

Because part of the money that you and millions of other policyholders pay in to life insurance companies is invested for you in sound Canadian industries—such as the pulp and paper industry.

Other life insurance dollars are put to work, through investments in bonds, to help provide highways, schools, harbours, or other public works.

Thus every life insurance owner protects his family and helps to build a better, more prosperous Canada!

The Loves of Carmen

By SOPHIE KERR

Serialization of screenplay from a novel by Prosper Mérimée Copyright, 1948, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Don Jose, young officer in a fashionable Spanish regiment, falls victim to the charms of the bewitching gypsy, Carmen. He kills his commanding officer in a sword-fight over her and is forced to flee to a mountain hide-out, where he joins the band of gypsy rogues who are Carmen's associates. He becomes a thief, smuggler and murderer with a price on his head. Victim of one his stage-coach robberies is a young dragoon. Sight of the soldier, reminder of his past, enrages him.

CHAPTER XXIV.

A short distance from the hold-up, Carmen rode up silently on her little mule. She dismounted and slyly viewed the proceedings from behind a rock, taking great care that Don Jose might not see her. She watched with a pleased vicious excitement, moving noiselessly toward the group. As she drew near, Don Jose dragged a handsome shawl from a frightened middle-aged woman. He did not see Carmen and she, having escaped his notice, could not help swagging up to a passenger and relieving him of watch and chain.

Pablo said, "We have company."

Don Jose looked up, and his expression changed when he saw Carmen. He walked to her side. She turned away from the passenger, the watch dangling in her hand, as he came up to her.

"What are you doing here?" Don Jose said in a low voice.

Carmen's expression was fretful. "I was bored. I won't sit on my haunches and wait for you, stirring a pot of stew. I've been my own woman too long, my friend."

Jose grabbed her shoulder and spun her aside from the watching passengers. "I told you to leave these matters to me. I want no more of this!"

Carmen flamed with anger. "You told me! You wanted no more! I am not your slave!" She flipped the stolen watch at him. "I am Carmen and nobody tells me what to do. I do as I please!"

He snatched the watch from her hand. "Picking pockets! My wife, a petty thief! You cheapen yourself and you dishonor me!"

"I dishonor Jose de Navarro!" She laughed shrilly, shouting to the wild-eyed passengers. "That is a joke, heh?" Then she turned on him and flayed him with fish-wifery. "If you are ashamed of what I am, find yourself another woman. You and your honor!"

She spat.

Expressionless, Don Jose returned to the passengers. "Get back into the coach — all of you!"

They started to scramble. The dragoon turned to Pablo and, indicating Jose with a nod of his head, he said sarcastically, "Your leader is a very brave man everywhere but at home, it seems."

Pablo laughed aloud. Don Jose hit him, and Pablo fell.

Carmen sat sulkily in front of a natural cave opening, which rapped in the side of the bare, crumbly cliff. She looked up without interest as the men rode in and dismounted. She held her ankles and rocked back and forth, as angrily restless as a caged hawk. She pretended not to notice when Don Jose came onto the scene and stood looking down at her.

After a long moment, he said, "I am sorry, Carmen." She still rocked back and forth, her face black with rage. "I am sorry," Jose repeated.

Although this was probably the first time in her life anyone had ever bothered to apologize to Carmen about anything, she made no response. Jose went on bitterly. "Quarrelling with my wife in front of people. I had forgotten more about being decent than I thought I had."

Carmen suddenly saw her opportunity. She seized upon the new idea of lady-wife. "Yes," she agreed. "It was very humiliating. I think you should ask my pardon."

"I did."

To see how far this device would work, she said, "I think you should ask my pardon several times."

Don Jose said, "You are right. I should."

She slanted a look up at him, feeling that she had him now. "I think you should let me ride out with you again."

His face hardened and he threw out his answer. "Never!"

Her face hardened too, and she rose angrily and turned her back to him.

"Carmen."

She didn't answer.

"Carmen, let's go away," he pleaded. "I want to clear out of this. Come away with me, Carmen. Now."

"Where?" she exploded. "Where can you go with the police in every city at your heels?" With every soldier, every dragoon under orders to shoot you on sight."

He ran his hand across his eyes. "I don't know where we can go. But I know I am sick to death of all this. I have had enough of it."

He took hold of her shoulders gently. "We'll go away — just you and I. To Mexico, perhaps. I want to live like other people without hiding. I'm so hungry for the sight of simple, decent people. I want to sit with plain men and talk about farming." His voice trailed off miserably. "I find myself thinking so often these days of my home in the north."

"They'll hang you there, too," she said, "if you show your face."

He pleaded with her. "We could go to Mexico, couldn't we? It is not like home, but we could live like other people."

She shrugged away from him. "I wasn't born to grow cabbages, Jose. You know that right from the beginning, when you chose to live this kind of life with me."

"I didn't choose," he answered bitterly.

"Ha! So it's my fault! I led you into it! By the nose, I suppose." She jerked out her words. "You killed the colonel — I didn't. You flung yourself into the darkness of the cave and he followed her."

Washington, Oct. 25.—The Republicans say President Truman is losing the firm hold he had on the Negro vote when he started his campaign for re-election.

A Republican national committee spokesman told The Canadian Press its weekly polls among Negroes in northern states had revealed a 15-per-cent Republican gain in the last fortnight.

The change, he said, was due to the fact that in that time Truman has never mentioned civil rights in any of his campaign speeches.

The Negro vote could be important. There are about 13,000,000 Negroes in the United States and more than half of them are of voting age.

Allowing for the heavy concentration in southern states, where in many places it is either impossible or unhealthy for Negroes to go to the polls, there are an estimated 4,000,000 who could vote.

Republican, Democratic and Progressive party headquarters all claim to have the majority support of Negroes. The Republicans back their claim with poll figures.

Valories J. Washington of Chicago, assistant campaign manager for the Republican national committee and head of its Negro vote section, told The Canadian Press that current poll tests in northern cities indicate Governor Thomas Dewey will get at least 55 per cent of the Negro vote in those areas.

He said that three weeks ago Dewey was trailing Truman according to weekly polls taken in the Negro communities in New York, Detroit and Los Angeles. Now the figures were reversed.

"I am sure the reason is that Truman has stopped talking about civil rights," Washington said.

Early this year Truman asked Congress to enact laws ensuring Negroes the same civil rights enjoyed by white people. His demand was rejected by Congress but was written in detail in the Democratic platform.

"Solid" southern states broke away as a result of Democrats of the from the national committee and nominated their own presidential and vice-presidential candidates in opposition to Truman.

"He (Truman) had won a niche in the hearts of the colored people but when the South rebelled he backed away from his civil rights stand," Washington commented.

He expressed a belief that for this reason both Dewey and the Progressive leader, Henry Wallace, would increase their Negro support at Truman's expense. The Republican platform has a civil rights plank worded in general terms.

A Democratic Negro spokesman, Rev. C. Howard Hickerson, D.D., prominent Washington minister and head of the National committee's speakers' bureau, remained confident.

"The Negro will be loyal and support the party that has given him the greatest economic gains in the history of this country — just as they have in the past 16 years," Hickerson said.

He said the party had taken no Negro polls separately and did not have a separate Negro section in the national committee. "We are just all Democrats," he said.

At the Wallace headquarters here, a man who said he had no authority to speak officially nevertheless expressed confidence that the Progressive candidates would get virtually every Negro vote cast.

All three agreed on one point — that the Nov. 2nd election would bring out the largest Negro vote ever recorded. This was because of relaxed barriers against Negroes voting in some of the southern states and the strong appeals being made to them by all parties.

Wallace has made an all-out effort to attract the Negro vote and probably would have but for the fact that Communists play so prominent part in his organization.

Negro-owned newspapers have been lukewarm or downright antagonistic toward Wallace because he has not renounced Communist support.

Career of Domesticity

Women Qualify As Experts In Other Fields
But Neglect Training For Homemaking

One of the strange things about women is that, although they all desire and expect to marry, have children and make homes and, although most of them realize this ambition, few of them think it worth while to prepare themselves for the life work they plan to undertake. They don't look upon domesticity as a career for which they have to fit themselves. They wouldn't dream of taking up any other occupation without being trained for it, but they think that running a family is a sort of jackleg trade that any dumb girl can pull off without any previous knowledge or experience.

This simple fact, that we ignore so completely, goes a long way towards solving many of the problems over which scientists and social economists and moralists puzzle their heads in vain. For it is at the bottom of the restlessness and discontent of women, of family fights, of juvenile delinquency, of divorce, and of the failure of so many men of ability to succeed.

FAIL TO PREPARE
This is a sweeping indictment to bring against women for their failure to prepare themselves for marriage, but it is a just one. For that women are not lacking in brains or industry, or any of the qualities that it takes to make a go of any work, is abundantly proved by the number of women who hold down key positions with big firms, and who have achieved fortune for themselves as lawyers, or doctors, or merchants, or what not.

Women know that they must be experts elsewhere to succeed, but they feel that they can bungle the wife and mother career as much as they like, and still get away with it. So we have multitudes of women who loaf on the job. All of us know dozens of women who never learn how to cook and who feed their families on poisonous food. We know other dozens of women who keep their husbands' noses to the grindstone with their extravagance, and other dozens who are querulous and complaining and who never make the slightest effort to be pleasant companions to the men who support them.

That the failure of women to be good wives causes more divorces than all the sins, is a matter of common knowledge. The ancient wheeze about the bride's soggy pies and burnt roasts isn't funny. It is stark tragedy. Men marry to get comfortable homes, as well as for love, and when the bridegroom discovers that Angel Face doesn't know anything more about how to run a gas range than she does about how to manipulate a Flying Fortress, the honeymoon ends.

And no one can doubt for an instant that it is the delinquent mothers who are responsible for the delinquent children. It is the mothers who complain about being tied down by their babies; who never have time to talk with their children or play with them; who are never at home when their children come from school; who park their children with their neighbors while they go out to amuse themselves; who do not make their homes places of good cheer and comradeship, who bring up the youngsters who fill the police courts and the jails.

Being a wife and mother is the most complicated job on earth. What a pity that women don't often think it is worth while preparing themselves for it!

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

Annual Tea By Sherbrooke Symphony Group

The annual tea sponsored by the Sherbrooke Symphony Concerts bringing together supporters and promoters, of this worthy project was held yesterday afternoon at Rockcliffe, Quebec Street.

Dr. Jacques Olivier, president of the association and Mrs. Olivier, and Miss Mimi Shea, chairman of the dinner committee, received the guests.

The living room was adorned with deep pink chrysanthemums and ferns. The tea table in the dining room, covered with an ecru lace cloth, was centered with a silver bowl of bronze and yellow baby mums and yellow and white candles in silver candelabra. Small bouquets of matching mums in novelty crystal holders, placed in oblique line lent a distinctive note to the table arrangements.

Tea and coffee were poured by Mrs. Jacques Olivier, Mrs. Wesley Bradley, Mrs. George Syvestre and Miss Dorothée Mullins. Assisting in serving were the Misses Ada Cote, Suzanne and Yolande Renaud, Suzanne and Jacqueline Codere, and Hélène Tessier.

Following the tea, Dr. Olivier briefly addressed the gathering, stating the Sherbrooke Symphony Orchestra was starting its tenth season. He thanked the Hon. J. S. Bourque, Minister of Mines and Forests and Hydraulic Resources, for the welcome provincial grant obtained through his interest and influence; His Worship, Mayor Alphonse Trudeau, for the generous grant from the City of Sherbrooke; Hon. Senator and Mrs. C. B. Howard for the gift of instruments; the executive, supporters and canvassers, whose combined efforts had been responsible for the remarkable success of the orchestra, mounting from year to year. Dr. Olivier concluded by expressing the conviction that unprecedented triumph awaited the workers this year.

Mr. Sylvio Lacharrie, director of the Symphony Orchestra, reiterated the thanks of the association, so ably voiced by Dr. Olivier, with a special word of appreciation to the members of the orchestra for their assiduity and patience at rehearsals. Mr. Lacharrie also added that the work accomplished by Mr. Paul Emile Fortier, vice-president, and Mr. Jean Dansereau, treasurer, had been beyond reckoning.

Mr. Lacharrie announced with pride the names of the artists who will perform with the Sherbrooke Symphony Orchestra this season, the first to be Vera Franchesch, pianist, on December 7. On March 8, 1949, the concert will present Nelly Mathot, coloratura soprano, of the Opera Comique de Paris. Gerhard Kander, Canadian violinist, will perform on the program of the last concert to be held in April.

Tickets were then distributed to the canvassers who will start soliciting subscriptions today.

Among the distinguished guests present were Hon. J. S. Bourque and Mrs. Bourque; His Worship Mayor Alphonse Trudeau and Mrs. Trudeau; the Rev. Alphonse Labrecque; Mr. Louis Codere, chairman of the finance committee, and Mrs. Codere; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Emile Fortier; Mr. and Mrs. Jean Dansereau; Miss Lauré Comtois, secretary; Alderman Wesley Bradley, Armand Fletts and Sylvio Rousseau; Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. Fletts and Mrs. Rousseau; Mr. Newman Hunter, president of the Kiwanis Club and Mrs. Hunter; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Lorrain.

The October meeting of Trinity Women's Missionary Society was held on Thursday afternoon, October 21, in the clubroom. Mrs. Markie Fuller, the president, was in the chair and Miss Robina Stevenson at the piano. The meeting opened with the hymn, "O Master of the Waking World," followed by prayer. The secretary's report of the September meeting was read and adopted, as was also the treasurer's report given by Mrs. E. A. Tomkins. It was announced by the president that a self-denial tea would be held at the home of Mrs. W. L. Goddard, Montreal street, on Thursday afternoon, October 28. Miss Stevenson, reporting on the Mission Band, stated the initial meeting of the fall would be held Thursday afternoon, October 28, at 8:30 in Wesley Hall. October being the month for the renewal of subscriptions to the Missionary Monthly, Mrs. Fuller advised that Miss M. Heath would receive the same that day. The worship service was conducted by Mrs. Fred Williams, the theme being "The Word of Truth." A most interesting account was given by Mrs. Mackie Fuller of Miss Isabel Miller's journey to Shanghai, China, en route to West China. It told of her many impressions and of incidents that happened during her stay in Shanghai. A review of the second chapter of the study book, "West of the Gorges," was in charge of Miss Heath, assisted by Mrs. W. E. Hodge, Mrs. Hazle and Miss Stevenson. It depicted the status of women of China in the past as compared with their position today. The meeting closed with prayer.

53RD REGIMENT CHAPTER, I.O.D.E.

The business meeting of the 53rd Regiment Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held on October 14 at I.O.D.E. House, Moore street.

The regent, Mrs. R. M. Loughheed, was in the chair and opened the meeting with the raising of the standard by the standard-bearer, Mrs. T. Wyatt, and the prayer of the Order.

Mrs. T. Loughheed moved that minutes be accepted as read by the secretary, Mrs. P. R. Blick.

The financial statement was presented by the treasurer, Miss F. Knapp. She reported the refreshment booth operated by the Chapter at the Fair had netted the sum of $477. The members were gratified with the splendid results which exceeded those of last year. The report was adopted on the motion of Mrs. T. Crossley.

The child and family welfare committee reported two quarts of milk were being supplied daily to undernourished children.

Mrs. T. Crossley, ex-service-men's convener, reported six visits had been made to patients in the sanatorium. She read correspondence she had received from the provincial ex-service-men's convener regarding ex-service work.

Mrs. T. Wyatt reported on films and read the correspondence from the provincial film convener, concerning a proposed national film fund. This matter was left to the Municipal Chapter for discussion at their meeting.

Mrs. G. O'Keefe, post-war service convener, stated six garments had been turned in at the meeting. She also read letters acknowledging the receipt of three overseas parcels.

At a cost of $22, 50 children's nursery bags were sent to the Queen Elizabeth Hospital, London, England.

On motion of Mrs. A. Simpson, it was decided to send the Chapter's share towards a poppy wreath to the Municipal Chapter to be forwarded to the Legion. The regent asked for volunteers to sell poppies for the Legion.

Gets Surprise

Sherbrooke, Que.,

I got the surprise of my life this week. I bought a package of Red Rose Tea thinking it was just another brand. We were surprised at its delicious goodness! Of course, we tried a package of Red Rose Coffee too, and it has the same rich goodness and flavour that puts Red Rose Tea on top of our list. Try them both today, and you'll never change to any other brand.

The Film "Fred Jones, Kiwanian" Was Enjoyed By Waterloo Kiwanians

Waterloo, Oct. 25.—The weekly evening meeting of the Waterloo Kiwanis Club was held at the Waterloo Hotel with a very good attendance on hand to witness the Kiwanian film, "Fred Jones, Kiwanian." This film, made exclusively for the showing of the fine working of Kiwanism at its best, was thoroughly enjoyed by all who witnessed it.

This film proved that a member of a Kiwanis Club need not be a famous person, but merely one who is willing to do what he can to help others. This is the basis of Kiwanis Clubs the world over, and the only benefit one can expect to derive from joining a club is that he will have the satisfaction of building, not structures as we know them but building the future generation in helping to mould the youth of today into a bigger, stronger person.

A Kiwanian must pledge support of all undertakings that are beneficial to the community, and do all he can to further them.

Several guests were present, including Messrs. Clyde Walker, J. A. Raynes and O. Seguin, all of the Roxton Mill and Chair Mfg. Co. Mr. Frank Allan, of the Bank of Montreal, and a very special guest, Kiwanian Ervin A. Center, of Standish, Me., who is a physician and a past governor of the New England District.

A new member was inducted by Past President Fred St. Denis, Mr. Allan Grainger, general manager of the Carnation Milk Co. of Waterloo. President Ben Marchessault welcomed Mr. Grainger to the club, and asked Kiwanian Ervin Center to present him with his pin, which he did, at the same time congratulating him on his decision to join a service club, and stated that he was sure he would never regret this move.

Next week's meeting was stated as having for the speaker, Mr. Elwood Wilson, of Knowlton, who will speak on "Beautification with Trees," and at the same time show pictures to substantiate his statements.

Final plans were discussed for the coming Kiwanis Concert on Friday, the 22, at the Town Hall, when jobs were allocated to members, and it was announced by the chairman of the committee that everything was seemingly under control, and that a sell-out was expected. However, anyone who has not a ticket in his possession at "Concert" time is asked to come along just the same, as there may be plenty of room inside.

Improvements At The Arena
The work on the covered arena at Waterloo is progressing quite favorably, and it is hoped that it will be entirely completed by the early part of December.

The Agriculture Society for the County of Bedford is attending to the closing of the structure, but the inside of the building is to be finished off by a committee, known officially as the Rink Committee. This committee is made up of representatives from each of the plants in town, members of the town council, plumbers, heating and maintenance of the ice surface. This is in itself quite a large order, and will amount to a considerable amount. To raise these funds, it will be necessary to tap the wealth of all in the vicinity, by means of a general canvass.

This has been arranged for the first part of November, when teams will approach the large companies, the small companies, manufacturers, merchants, business men, citizens, workmen and working women. In other words, this work is to be the responsibility of every one, and it is up to that generosity of all to see that enough money is raised whereby a complete and satisfactory job may be done permanently. When completed, this arena will be one of the nicest of its kind in the vicinity, and will be the pride and joy of Waterloo.

The hockey team, last year, which played in the B. M. S. Hockey League, has this year transferred its franchise to the Eastern Townships Intermediate Hockey League, in which the teams are Windser Mills, Richmond, Drummondville and Granby. The brand of hockey witnessed this winter will be much faster, and it is believed that the Waterloo boys will have what it takes to stay in this kind of company.

However, there is considerable business men in town of forming a second team to take up the franchise in the B. M. S. Hockey League. This could be done, as there are enough players to form both teams, by so doing, this would give the locals much more hockey to go to than ever before. But before this can be done, it will be necessary to finish off the arena, and in order to do this, there will have to be money raised. So the committee in charge hopes that the response to this drive will be a happy one, and a generous one, and if this is the case, then the arena will be a better one.

Board Of Trade Of Richmond And Melbourn Held Opening Dinner

Richmond, Oct. 25.—The first of the fall dinner-business meetings of the Richmond and Melbourn Board of Trade was held at the Brunswick Hotel, under the presidency of J. O. L. Michaud, with an attendance of 43 members and guests. Due to the numerous matters on the agenda for discussion, there was no guest speaker for the evening.

J. P. Brouillette advised the members that all arrangements had been concluded relative to the proposed visit of the Junior and Senior Boards to the plant of the Canadian Johns-Manville Co., at Asbestos, on the 27th instant, and that buses would be available to provide transportation.

The matter of the desirability for an improved telephone service locally was again discussed and it was decided to join with the Junior Board in an endeavour to contact the proper officials with respect to an amelioration in the service.

It was decided to remind the Department of National Defence at Ottawa, of the Board's resolution of 1946, at which the desirability of erecting a suitable armory for Richmond County, at Richmond, was recommended.

H. P. Stone, of the Industrial Committee, advised the meeting that nothing of a definite nature had transpired during the summer months, but that inquiries continued to be received regarding the advantages to be had in Richmond by those interested in the erecting of new industries.

Several other matters of a local nature were discussed prior to adjournment.

Mr. L. McQuarrie, of Lindsay, was a guest at the home of Mrs. Symington and on his return home was accompanied by his wife and little daughter. Mr. and Mrs. McQuarrie will take up residence in Lindsay, Ont.

The bi-monthly meeting of the Guild of St. James Church was held at the home of Mrs. D. J. Reid on the Stanbridge Station Road, with an excellent attendance of members and friends. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Ralph Van Horn, the meeting was opened with prayer, by Mrs. Reid, after which the minutes of the previous meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. Percy Terrill, were read by the secretary, Miss Jessie Blackwood, and were approved as read. The secretary reported that a donation of materials for the making of aprons had been received from the T. Eaton Company, in response to a letter written asking for donations. The chief business before the meeting was the arrangement in connection with the salad tea and sale, which the Guild will hold in the Masonic Hall at the end of November. Mrs. W. B. Bradshaw and Mrs. John Ewing were appointed ticket sellers, while Mrs. Douglas Ross and Mrs. Allan Palmer will solicit food; Mrs. F. E. Draper will be in charge of the tea arrangements assisted by Mrs. C. Deleuze, Mrs. Ross Preston, Mrs. Wilbur Borden and Mrs. Garnet Steel. Mrs. W. J. Baglow will be in charge of the apron table, and Mrs. D. J. Reid will be in charge of the home-cooking table. An invitation was extended by Mrs. Douglas Ross for the members to meet at her home for the next meeting. Following the business meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses who were assisted in serving by Mrs. Harry Jones. Among those present was Mrs. L. Witherspoon, of Grand Bent, Ont.

Miss Audrey Bradshaw, of Montreal, spent the week-end in Bedford with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bradshaw.

Philip Jessup Speaks Softly At U.N. But Voice Is Heard

By S. BURTON HEATH
New York—A Columbia University student of international law, assigned to write a term paper, telephoned to his professor.

"How many footnotes should there be on a page?" he asked.

Without hesitation the professor answered: "Seven, of course."

When the paper came in, every single page had exactly seven footnotes. Because of that it received a very low grade.

The story is told to illustrate several facets of the character of Dr. Philip Caryl Jessup, a little-known American who is carrying much of the burden, in Paris, of battling Russia's vituperative Andrei Vishinsky about the Berlin blockade.

Jessup has been an invaluable member of the U.S. United Nations staff since the summer of 1946. But he never really burst into the public's eyes until the day in Paris, after Vishinsky had delivered one of his bitterest tirades against this country and the rest of the non-Communist world, and Jessup answered him.

It would have been easy for the American to blow his top, as Britain's Bevin did, or to answer in biting terms as Belgium's Spaak did. But Jessup quietly, in measured tones of a full, resonating voice, confined himself to telling Vishinsky that when the shouting was all over, the Berlin issue still would be before the UN for discussion.

At Columbia, until he took leave of absence in early 1947 to devote full time to the United Nations, Jessup was one of those rare professors who can drive their students, demand their utmost, and still be highly popular.

He is pleasant, helpful. Even when he doubted in brass for six months between his classes and the UN, he never was too busy to see any student and help him. He is tolerant, even of ignorance. But stupidity—such, for instance, as that of a student who thinks term papers will be judged by the number of footnotes to the page—can make him boil.

He is known among associates and students as a master at handling work. He can demolish a big pile of mail in a few minutes of dictation. He reaches conclusions quickly, formulates statements easily and understandably, and is hard to shake in a decision.

As a teacher he used the Socratic method of questioning, and was a bug on detail. He expected meticulous performance by students, and, in turn, read their papers so carefully that few errors in spelling or punctuation escaped without marking.

Only the general public was surprised when President Truman appointed Jessup last January as deputy representative to the "Little Assembly," where he presented U.S. proposals for 31 changes in Security Council voting procedure that he had done much of the work of drafting. His ability and achievement had long been known to insiders.

In June the President made him deputy to Ambassador Warren Austin on the Security Council, after Herschel Johnson had been sent as ambassador to Brazil. In September he was named with Marshall, Austin, Mrs. Roosevelt and Dulles as representative to the Paris session of the General Assembly.

Jessup's great-grandfather, William Jessup, presented to the GOP convention of 1890 the platform on which Abraham Lincoln was elected President. His father, Henry, was a professor of law at New York University, author of legal works, a lay leader in the Presbyterian Church. Philip Jessup was born in New York in 1897.

He was graduated from the Ridgefield School in Connecticut, and then got degrees from Hamilton College, the Yale Law School and Columbia. The first, from Hamilton (with Phi Beta Kappa key), was delayed because he took time out to enlist in the New York National Guard, serve in France with the famous Rainbow Division infantry, and briefly—by order of superiors—enroll at West Point.

After two years in the First National Bank at Utica, N. Y., and two more in Washington as an assistant solicitor in the Department of State, he joined the Columbia law faculty and worked his way up to a full professorship in 1935.

In 1929 he was an assistant to Elihu Root at the Conference of Jurists on the Permanent Court of International Justice (the World Court). Out of that close association with the great statesman grew an authoritative two-volume biography of Root.

He lectured for a year at the Academy of International Law at the Hague, and then in 1933 became legal advisor to the U. S. Ambassador to Cuba. In 1941 he visited South America for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. He held important posts in UNRRA under Director Herbert H. Lehman. In 1945 he was an assistant on judicial organization to the American delegation at the San Francisco Conference on International Organization.

He had been giving "spare time" to the United Nations for six months, and keeping up with his Columbia work, when President Truman in April, 1947, made him U. S. representative on the UN committee on the progressive development of international law.

Jessup is an inch over six feet tall, weighs 165 pounds, has hazel eyes and curly brown hair that he parts in the middle. He smokes pipe and cigarettes but not cigars, and likes an occasional cocktail. He dresses conservatively, preferring dark suits and a homburg hat. His appearance has been described as "Lincolnesque." Actually, only his rather sharp features, kindly face and the frequent twinkle in his eye fit into such a picture.

When time used to permit he collected stamps and liked to work in the garden at his Norfolk, Conn. home, and chop wood.

He was married in 1921 to Lois Walcott Kellogg. Their one son is named Philip Caryl, Jr.

Mrs. Jessup is a Quaker. Quite a bit of Jessup's life work has been aimed at promoting peace. But both his fighting record in the First World War and his activities in the United Nations show that he wants peace badly enough to be willing to fight for it. His philosophy seems to be summed up in a remark he voiced at San Francisco: "It is a great mistake to think peace is a kind of ornament to be placed on the mantel and admired. You may find one day it is broken."

MANSONVILLE

Members from Patton, who attended the Farm Forum Rally for Brome County, held in Knowlton High School auditorium, included twelve from Vale Perkins Forum; one from Dunkin Forum; three from North Pottam Forum; four from West Hill Forum; and eleven from Mansonville Forum. A bus was engaged for the occasion. The program for the evening included a "Farm Film," an interesting speech on "Value of Farm Organization" by Charles McInnis, a singing led by Mr. and Mrs. Guy Cousins, of Sweetburg, a discussion on the coming winter's activities, and a lunch served in the school cafeteria.

The evening was enjoyed by all present.

All these men are after one job—the presidency of the United States. Strom Thurmond, the "Dixiecrats" choice, and including many other minor candidates.

Many Enter Race For United States' Presidency, But Their Hopes Soon Fade

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Washington, Oct. 25.—(AP)—

Four candidates in the Nov. 2 presidential election can hope to make an impression on the outcome and one of them will win. But at least eight others want the people's vote.

The also-rans pop up at every election and have their brief flurry of local and sometimes national publicity. In most states their names don't even appear on the ballot because of failure of their party to comply with state election requirements.

President Truman, Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Governor Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Henry Wallace of Iowa and New York are candidates to be reckoned with.

Thurmond, leader of the "States Rights" — Southern Democratic who rebelled against Truman because of his policy of equal treatment for negroes—seems likely to win perhaps 50 votes in electoral college when 266 votes are required to win.

Wallace, leader of the new Progressive Party which has been accused of domination of Communists or "fellow travellers," is not considered likely to capture any electoral college votes but may take about 2,000,000 popular votes away from the Democrats.

The also-rans. Then come the also-rans. They have no hope of anything but the satisfaction of striking a blow for what they feel are the right policies for the good of the country.

Most interesting of the group, and probably with most public support is Norman Thomas, a Socialist who has been running for President for nearly 30 years.

Genial, quiet and urbane, Thomas is a mellow 64 and lately has made considerable headway as a newspaper columnist. He covered the three party conventions in Philadelphia and his stories were widely read and quoted. He was not very anxious to be a candidate this year but his party insisted.

The other also-rans include: Gerald L. K. Smith, whose party, the "Christian Nationalist Crusade," stands for anti-Communist, anti-Zionist, anti-United Nations and anti-Marshall Plan. It wants segregation of negroes, exclusion of Asiatics, Jews and members of all colored races; and aid for Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek of China.

Dr. Claude A. Watson, 63, of Los Angeles, Calif., the prohibition party candidate. He polled 73,768 votes in 1944 and says he will get 24,000,000 this year.

Farrell Dobbs, 41, of Missouri, who leads the "Trotskyite Socialist Workers' Party," an anti-Stalin party which nevertheless wants "mobilization of the masses for a workers' and farmers' government."

Edward A. Teichert, 43, Pennsylvania steel worker, choice of the anti-Stalin "Socialist Labor of America," stands for collective ownership by the people.

John G. Scott, a New York state bee farmer and retired college professor who is candidate for the old "Greenback party" of 1874 which wants to issue paper money based on taxing power.

John Maxwell, 85, the oldest of the also-rans, who is leader of the American Vegetarian Party which would restrict meat production and require farmers to put four-fifths of their efforts into growing grains, vegetables and fruits for the benefit of mankind.

Claude Cunningham, 84, a former Missouri physician, who is running without a party tag. He wants to be President so he can reduce federal employment by 75 per cent and tax bachelors and professional men while reducing income taxes for the rank and file.

Miss Lora Robinson and Mrs. J. C. Soles, of Brome, were calling on Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hastings.

KNOWLTON

Mr. and Mrs. Ian W. Crandall and Mr. Roderick Crandall were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hume and family at Foster.

Mrs. Herbert Devlin and son, Herbert, Jr., of Shawbigan Falls, who were visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Arthur Curling and father, Mr. W. W. Hall, at Fulford, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hoskin, Mr. Norman Hoskin, of Farnham, and Miss Muriel Hoskin, of Farnham, were calling on Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Taylor.

Mr. James Ransom, of Montreal, spent the week-end at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Bockus and daughter, Linda Jill, Mrs. C. E. Crandall and Mrs. J. Lionel d'Artois.

Miss Nellie Wood was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Bryant, at Austin in honor of Mrs. Sarah Stones eighty-ninth birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Bockus spent a day in Montreal.

Mr. Kenneth Wright spent the week-end in Clareville.

Messrs. Peter and Ralph Rogers were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald T. Miltimore, at Waterville.

Mrs. C. E. Crandall is spending a week with Mrs. Lena Hillhouse, at Bondville.

The flowers on the altar at St. Paul's Anglican Church, on Sunday, October 10, were in loving memory of Barbara Jean Page, and were placed there by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Page.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bell and daughter, Beverly, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kairnduff and daughter, Patsy, of Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Inglis, of Sherbrooke, were week-end guests of Mr. Thomas Knowlton.

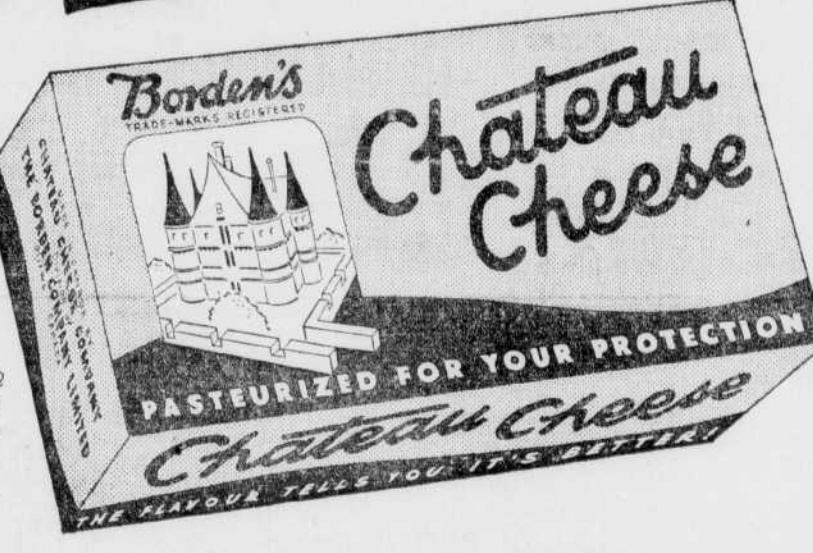

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Taylor have returned from Calumet, where they spent a holiday with their daughter, Mrs. R. Sanderson, Mr. Sanderson and family.

Mrs. A. Hayes, of Waterloo, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Eldridge.

Miss Lora Robinson and Mrs. J. C. Soles, of Brome, were calling on Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Wells, Mrs. Clara Wells and Mr. Leroy Hayes, of Waterloo, were calling on Mr. and Mrs. Wells Martin.

BALLYMENA WINS BRADLEY PERPETUAL MEMORIAL TROPHY

For Champion Hunter Of Show With Question Reserve; Aime Choquette Cops Jumping Stake With Commando

Sherbrooke Seniors Edged Out Boston Olympics 6-5 Saturday

Champion Hunter Of Sherbrooke Horse Show

Ballymena, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. O'Connell's rangy imported Irish chestnut hunter, copped the Dr. F. H. Bradley Perpetual Memorial trophy awarded for the champion hunter of the Sherbrooke Horse Show for the second consecutive time yesterday afternoon when he edged out Question, owned by Meadsbrooke Farm and ridden by Mrs. A. O. MacKay, in the final event of the five-day show. Mrs. MacKay's big chestnut was named Reserve Hunter Champion.

The Eastern Townships Lady's Saddle Horse crown was won by King Peavine, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Dugre's chestnut gelding. Mrs. Frank Gravel put the chestnut through his paces in a perfect manner to edge out the rest of the class.

Aime Choquette copped the E. T. Jumping Stake when he rode M. T. Stenson's bay gelding, Commando, to take the blue ribbon and major share of the $150 Stake. Band'Or, owned by L. Desruisseaux and ridden by Louis Gagne, placed second while Aime Choquette rode his second winner Royal Flush, owned by Dr. G. B. Loomis, to third place and the fourth spot went to Laddie Brown, owned by Mrs. Maurice Audet, Rock Forest, and ridden by Peter Plouffe.

The E.T. Working Hunter title went to Hi-Boy, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bishop's brown gelding, and was ridden to victory by Aime Choquette. Gamin, Aime Choquette's other favorite hunter, copped second spot while Bill Hatley placed third and Commando took the fourth spot.

The Open Hunter Stake was won by Commando when Aime Choquette took the big hunter over the jumps in faultless manner to edge out Bill Hatley, owned by Mrs. F. B. Johnson, North Hatley and ridden by Fern Dufort.

Mrs. A. O. MacKay won the Heavyweight Hunter title when she took Question over the difficult hunter course to edge out Randallstown, one of Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell's Irish hunters. As well as taking the blue ribbon Mrs. MacKay's big chestnut, On Guard, took third place when he was ridden by Joe Guile to edge out Bill Hatley.

In one of the nicest classes seen in the local show ring for many a day was witnessed Saturday night when the hunt teams finished the evening's show with a nice display of showmanship and horse flesh. Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell's two teams made a clean sweep of the class when his three Irish hunters, Ballymena, Inver Lilly and Randallstown, copped the class and Torino and Mike Jr., owned by Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell, teamed up with Shamrock, owned by Mr. and Mrs. B. Parkinson, placed second in the event.

The Single Harness Pony class Mrs. T. Lizotte, Magog, drove her Darkie on Parade to top spot in the class with Mr. DeAngelis' Little Chief placing second. In the Roadster Single $150 Stake Pathfinder was driven to first place by J. C. O'Connell over his stable mate, Margaret Dangler, to make a clean sweep of the class.

The photo shows Mrs. F. H. Bradley presenting the Dr. F. H. Bradley Perpetual Memorial trophy to Mrs. H. J. O'Connell, left, when Ballymena, owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. J. O'Connell, Ste. Genevieve, and ridden by Percy Knott, was judged the best hunter in the local horse show. John Bassett III, who accompanied his grandmother, Mrs. Bradley, is seen on the right of the picture. Ballymena, who won the trophy for the second consecutive year, was placed ahead of Question, owned by Meadsbrooke Farm, and a stable mate, Mike Jr., in the final judging for the hunter trophy. Last year Ballymena was placed ahead of Question in the finals and this year both horses met again to have O'Connell's chestnut Irish hunter get the nod over the Meadsbrooke Farm entry.

Bishop's College Blanked 26-0 By Dawson In Regular League Fixture

Led by triple-threat halfback Carl Totzke, who alone accounted for 20 points, the Dawson College football squad trampled Bishop's University 26-0, in a regular intermediate "B" intercollegiate game played at Bishop's on Saturday. But in losing the Bishop's Gators proved that they were a fighting squad when 20 points down at half time, they came back to fight the Red, White and Blue to a standstill in the closing cantos.

Totzke kicked, passed and ran the pigskin for consistent gains, eating up the yardage on every try. Besides his scoring punch, which included three touchdowns, three converts and two rouges, the swivel-hipped backfielder played a strong defensive game on the secondary.

Highpoint of the afternoon's excitement and Totzke's sterling performance, came on the kick-off for the second half. Jack Simpson's high boot was nicely taken by the Dawson half on his own 25 yard stripe. Reversing his field several times Totzke set off towards the Bishop's goal, snaking his way past a horde of Alligator tacklers he outdistanced the rest to cross the line standing up.

It was at this point that the Purple and White showed up to best advantage. Down 26 points, with only a few minutes over half time played they settled down to sound football in spite of the psychological disadvantage facing them.

During the ensuing two quarters the Alligators, who had been unable to move the yard sticks once during the opening half, notched eight first downs to Dawson's five. On the whole Purple Legion gained yards 13 times to Bishop's 7. Both teams were equally ineffective in the air, completing three passes apiece out of 15 tries for Bishop's and 13 for the visitors. Jerry O'Donahue's boys also intercepted two passes, while the locals managed to catch one of the Dawson forwards.

A strong Dawson drive midway through the first quarter brought the ball down to the Bishop's 3 yard line from where Pintie Lawson gained yards 13 times to Bishop's 7. Both teams were equally ineffective in the air, completing three passes apiece out of 15 tries for Bishop's and 13 for the visitors. Jerry O'Donahue's boys also intercepted two passes, while the locals managed to catch one of the Dawson forwards.

The visitors kept the play in the Bishop's end from the start of the next canto, and after being held for two downs on the Purple and White 15, Totzke kicked a rouge, McGibbon making the tackle.

Shortly after this play the same situation arose and Totzke again scored a point on a boot. This time he kicked out of touch for the score.

Three Alligator forwards failed, giving the Red, White and Blue possession and the latter made most of this opportunity, scoring in three plays, the best of these a Stephen-to-Berwick forward good for 20 yards. In this score Totzke marked up his second touchdown and third convert to end the point making for this half.

The opening kick-off in the second half saw Totzke's scintillating 85 yard run back, which was converted by Lauren. At this point

Manny McIntyre Tallies Twice As Locals Chalk Up Third Consecutive Win In Quebec Senior Hockey Loop

Boston, Oct. 25—The all-negro line of Herbie and Ossie Carnegie and Manny McIntyre sparked Sherbrooke Seniors to a 6-5 victory over Boston Olympics Saturday night before 6,750 fans at the Boston Garden. It was Boston's fourth straight loss in the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

The Seniors were behind 4-2 in the second period when McIntyre scored twice in three minutes to deadlock the count. Gilles Dube of Sherbrooke rifled home another goal to give the Seniors a 5-4 lead but Johnny Chenier notched his second goal of the game for Boston to even the score.

At 13:10 of the third period Ossie Carnegie converted a pass from Herbie Carnegie to give the Seniors their winning margin.

Boston went ahead 3-1 in the first period on goals by Leo Gasparrini, Wayne Service and Chenier while Adji Cote counted for Sherbrooke. After Service notched his second goal early in the middle period, Armand Bourdon counted for Sherbrooke, leaving them behind 4-2 until McIntyre's game-tying effort.

Joe Bernado played his first in the Boston nets, substiting for Fern Porter who suffered a cut eye during a practice session. Bernado made 29 stops to 20 for Sherbrooke's Paul Leclerc.
