Fifty-Third Year

World News In Brief

London, April 27.—(Reuters)—Princess Margaret left London airport this morning in a twin-engine Viking plane on the first stage of her four-week tour of Italy. She was due to land at Naples airport this afternoon.

The Princess' three-room hotel suite had been decorated with choicest pink roses specially chosen by Italian President Luigi Einaudi.

A party of three travelled to Naples with the Princess—Lady Mary Harvey, her lady-in-waiting; Miss Robin Macdonald, her personal maid; and a Scotland Yard detective.

Princess Margaret's plans include a stay in Naples tonight, a visit to the Isle of Capri, and visits to Sorrento, Rome, Florence, Venice and Stresa.

At her own wish she will be treated as a private visitor.

Chicago, April 27.—(AP)—A well-to-do widow was found dead in her blood-spattered bathroom last night. She had six stab wounds in the neck.

Police said the woman, Mrs. Hazel Grinde, 56, had been stabbed with a pair of scissors found nearby. They said her death was "positively a murder."

The woman, police said, suffered a broken nose and a cut on the forehead but expressed belief they were the result of her fall to the bathroom floor.

Mrs. Grinde's body was found by her daughter, Alice, 27, when she returned from an evening visit with a friend. Alice called a neighbor who summoned a mortician to take the body away.

Alice was quoted by police as saying she believed her mother had died of a hemorrhage. The stab wounds were discovered by the mortician after the body was taken from the home.

Chicago, April 27.—(AP)—A wall collapsed today while almost 20 workmen were constructing a sewer tunnel 48 feet underground. No one was injured seriously.

The workers—many of them stunned—made their way to the surface unassisted.

The accident occurred during a change of shift at the 74th Street and Woodlawn Avenue, where the men are constructing a sewer tunnel beneath the Illinois Central Railroad tracks.

Authorities said a sudden release of air pressure in the tunnel apparently caused a wall to collapse.

The sewer tunnel is a Chicago Sanitary district project, on the South Side.

Ottawa, April 27.—(AP)—Informed quarters in touch with the Nova Scotia political situation today that indications are that the Nova Scotia provincial election will be held June 6th, exactly three weeks before the Federal general election.

The British Columbia election is slated for June 15th and it is possible a fourth election—in Manitoba—will be called for the same month.

United States Studies Any Possible Hitches In Red Plan For Lifting Blockade

Chinese Reds Base Policy On Russians

(Harold K. Mills, Associated Press correspondent in Nanking, has returned on leave after 38 months in China. He covered at close range the decisive stages of the conflict in north China which paved the way for the Communist sweep across the Yangtze river last week. As a first-hand observer of the China scenes, Mills analyzes the causes of the Nationalist collapse and the significance of the Communist victory in the accompanying articles.)

By HAROLD K. MILLS

New York, April 27.—(AP)—Recent events in China add up to a conclusion that the Chinese Communists are of the same breed as their Russian cousins.

Some observers have held out hope that the Communists in China were only Agrarian reformers under another name. They are rapidly discarding that hope as the last cause of Nationalist China crumbles under the attack of Red armies.

Rejection by the Chinese Communists of negotiation in favor of conquest has the appearance of being closely timed to the international situation. It is a race to capture, consolidate and reconstruct all China ahead of a possible world conflict.

It is another illustration that these Reds, far from being bent only on reforms within their own borders, are playing their cards skillfully in full support of their Soviet partners.

Developments of the last week in China raise new political and economic problems for the west. In the light of open Communist flaunting of usual diplomatic privileges, as in the case of their invasion of the bedroom of the United States ambassador, J. Leighton Stuart, the question of the whole future of Asia and the western position in it is raised. The serious "loss of face" caused by the Stuart incident and the Communist bombardment of British warships may easily have repercussions in other parts of the Far East.

American officials who have been in China since the defeat of Nationalist China to the summer of 1946 when Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek—against the advice and entreaties of Gen. George C. Marshall, American presidential mediator—permitted his armies to attempt the "liberation" of certain key cities in Communist hands.

This attempt was temporarily successful. Then came a relapse from which neither Chiang nor his armies ever recovered.

Chiang's military machine, with its American arms and its dollar backing, failed to halt the Reds.

A basic cause was his failure to establish more than a semblance of stable government instead of a loosely-bound and always-tottering federation.

Another, probably more important, is the lack in China of national patriotism as we know it here.

Lake Success, N. Y., April 27.—(AP)—The United States was expected to learn today whether there are any hitches in the Russian proposals for lifting the Berlin blockade.

A meeting was tentatively scheduled to be held in New York between Jakob Malik, Russian Deputy Foreign Minister, and Philip C. Jessup, United States ambassador-at-large.

Jessup was reported planning to come from Washington for another in a series of secret, informal meetings which started February 15.

Informed sources said the talks definitely were scheduled for today. Later United States State Department officials said—apparently in an effort to maintain the strict secrecy of the location and time of the conferences—that the next meeting would take place "sometime."

A crucial issue in the talks was expected to be Russia's views on the Western Powers' insistence that the formation of the West German state be continued uninterrupted.

The immediate question the United States wanted to clarify was whether Russia meant exactly what a Tass dispatch from Moscow said yesterday—that Russia would lift the blockade if the Western powers would fix a date for a meeting of the Foreign Ministers of the Big Four to consider the whole German question.

The State Department said in Washington that this appeared to clear the way for a lifting of the blockade, but further talks were needed to make sure there were no strings attached.

The west warned that it would brook no delay in the constitutional work going on at Bonn, Germany, as a condition for Russia's lifting the blockade.

Jessup was the only diplomat in direct contact on the question with the Russian delegate to the United Nations. But British and French delegates revealed they were informed of the proceedings by the United States.

Washington, April 27.—(AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson pleaded with Congress today to approve both the North Atlantic treaty and the proposed $1,450,000,000 arms aid program to bolster "world-wide security."

Acheson appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at the opening of hearings on the pact which was signed here April 4. It requires approval by a two-thirds vote of the Senate before it can be ratified.

The cabinet officers termed the 12-country security treaty and the foreign military assistance program parallel ways of building

Lost Causes Recalled As House Closes

Ottawa, April 27.—(AP)—A familiar requiem was sounded in Parliament by Prime Minister St. Laurent's announcement of week-end dissolution.

It was the annual obituary of those lost causes contained in legislation sponsored by private members of the Commons.

Each year, a batch of these bills dealing with public business starts hopefully on the long road to enactment. And each year, almost invariably, they all die. Only the rare one crashes through to the statutes.

Some are revived from session to session. But this time many will die permanently, for it is not likely all their sponsors will be back after the general election.

This year, as dissolution nears, 32 proposed statutes remain on the Commons order paper. Besides that, there are 44 resolutions calling on the Commons to advise the Government to do everything from deepening a river to getting out of the British Commonwealth.

All of them have been sidetracked, as usual, by the press of Government business. All seem doomed to expire, for this Parliament at least.

Further advanced towards enactment is a bill sponsored by Hon. C. G. Power, former Air Minister, to cut down on election-campaign expenses. It needs only third reading to become law. None of the others has got beyond first reading.

The perennial bill to establish a national flag is sponsored this year by Roland Beaudry (L—Montreal, St. James).

Four C.C.F. members—Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), Claire Gillis (Cape Breton South), Arthur Williams (Ontario) and Alistair Stewart (Winnipeg North)—want amendments to the national labor code.

Barring of the Communist party would be provided in a Criminal Code amendment sponsored by Wilfred Lacroix (L—Quebec Montmagny).

The resolutions—which merely call on the House to express an opinion—cover an ever broader area.

In one of them Gordon Innes (L—Halifax) and Mr. Power want control of national ports decentralized.

Toronto, April 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Grace MacDonald, 25-year-old mother convicted of manslaughter in the paring-knife slaying of her husband, today was sentenced to five years in prison.

As sentence was passed, the young housewife told Mr. Justice A. M. Lebel: "I won't go to jail for five years. I'd rather be dead."

Refugees Flee Before Advancing Communists

Chinese refugees, their carts loaded with their belongings, swarm into Shanghai before the advancing Communist armies. The city faces attack by the Reds, but the refugees, mostly from rural areas, nevertheless head for Shanghai, the Orient's largest city.

Chiang Fears China Tinderbox For Third World War If Communist Armies Succeed

Record Test Sufficient For Fliers

Fullerton, Calif., April 27.—(AP)—Bill Barris and Dick Riedel agree it's wonderful to have and to hold the world endurance flight mark, but:

"We'll never try it again," says Barris.

"Roger!" echoes Riedel.

The weary pair had planned to leave with their wives for a beach hide-out last night after their 1,008-hour aerial ordeal. But friends and well-wishers staged a big party for them.

And the airmen, their legs still wobbly, and partly deaf from listening to "The Sunkist Lady's" six-cylinder motor for six long weeks, couldn't disappoint them.

They postponed their rest until today. Even at that, it will be interrupted. They are booked for several radio appearances this week.

Luckily, both men were declared to be in excellent shape after bringing the little plane down on municipal airport here at 11:45 a.m. PST yesterday. A crowd of 8,000, including their families, greeted them.

It was their fourth try at the endurance record. Nearly 12 days earlier they broke the old record of 726 hours, set 10 years ago by Wes Carroll and Clyde Schlieper of Long Beach, Calif.

Barris, 36, and Riedel, 35, were examined by physicians soon after they landed. Doctors said Riedel was in better condition because he took more exercise.

This consisted of lifting 25-pound cans of gasoline from a spinning jeep during refueling operations.

Chiang Kai-shek today predicted China may become the tinderbox of a terrifying Third World War if the Communists are not defeated.

Breaking a three-month silence since his retirement from the Presidency Jan. 21, Chiang called for support of the government of Acting President Li Tsung-jen. He spoke as Director-General of the Kuomintang (Government) party.

As Chiang's statement was released by the Central News Agency, a battle for Soochow (Wahshien), about 50 miles west of Shanghai, was reported under way. Some sources said the Communists had taken Soochow but the Shanghai garrison insisted the Nationalists still held the important rail junction.

Chiang's statement bore a Chiow dateline, but both Chinese and foreign newspapers in the Generalissimo's was in Shanghai.

Chiang said the Communists were seeking to "enslave the Chinese people to the cause of international Communism by attempting to make all China the military base and source of manpower for the benefit of the Communist plan for world domination."

Chiang promised full support to the government of Li, but pledged to "share the sufferings of my fellow countrymen." Thus he may have chosen this means of coming from retirement to lead China in her battle against Communism.

He called on his people to fight as hard against the Japanese as they did against the Communists in eight years of war. At the same time he admitted some of the shortcomings of his own 22-year rule of the vast country.

The Generalissimo said the Reds, by crossing the Yangtze, had blundered into the same military errors that mired the Japanese in their conquest of China.

The river crossing represented the peak of Communist military "foresight." It will bring the Reds "face to face with the tangled mass of military, political and economic problems which will eventually result in their downfall."

"I am certain," he said, "that so long as we carry on the struggle the Communists can neither enslave nor destroy our country. Within three years the final victory will be ours."

Chiang said his government realized that Communism was a problem of international implications that China also could not settle. If that problem in China could have been settled through peaceful and political means, he felt that it would have established a basis for world peace.

Chiang placed some of the blame for the military and political shortcomings of his regime on the "general misapprehension of Communist intentions among certain sections of the Chinese and the foreign public as well as the inroads made by Communist fifth-column activities in China and abroad."

Chiang charged the Reds have no intention for peace. Recent actions "prove that the ultimate aim of the Chinese Communists is the conquest and final subjugation of China so that this country could be conveniently used as a base for the third world war and the Chinese people its cannon fodder for aggressive world Communism."

"No nation which desires to be free can complacently shun the responsibility which China is now bearing as a result of her tragic struggle."

Sha zhai, April 27.—(AP)—A critical battle for Soochow (Wahshien) raged 50 miles west of Shanghai today.

One unconfirmed report said the Reds had taken the important junction from which they may pivot toward Shanghai or wheel to Hangzhou.

Charity Act Bill Before Convention

Toronto, April 27.—(AP)—Ontario's controversial Charitable Gift Act ranks as a surprise issue in today's voting on a new leader of the Progressive Conservative party in Ontario.

Kelso Roberts, the only one of the four candidates not a member of the Provincial Government, startled the three-day leadership convention last night by urging in his formal nomination speech that a caucus of Progressive Conservative members of the legislature be called to review the bill passed at the last session.

Apparently the "secret weapon" the 50-year-old mining lawyer previously promised to unveil at the convention, the announcement was greeted with mingled applause and boos.

The other three leadership candidates all had a hand in the measure which prohibits charitable foundations from owning more than a 10-per-cent interest in any private business.

It affects the Atkinson Foundation, which owns the Toronto Star and Star Weekly. Hon. Leslie Frost, Provincial Treasurer, introduced the bill. Hon. Leslie Blackwell, Attorney-General, and Hon. Dana Porter, Minister of Education, supported it in the bitter house debate which preceded its passing.

Supporters of Mr. Roberts were only openly confident last night that this new issue would help him win the voting test. Other delegates felt that the situation was unchanged and that Mr. Frost still ruled as favorite with Mr. Blackwell a close second, Mr. Roberts a distant third.

The other side of the coin was that the bill would help him win the voting test. Other delegates felt that the situation was unchanged and that Mr. Frost still ruled as favorite with Mr. Blackwell a close second, Mr. Roberts a distant third.

Political Pulse Speeds Up As House Dissolution Nears

Ottawa, April 27.—(AP)—The political pulse of the nation quickened today with an election in the offing.

All parties stepped up the tempo of organization work across the country as balloting shaped up for June 27.

While Parliament spurred for dissolution by Saturday or even earlier, party organizers were laying down plans for the final series of nomination meetings, campaign tours and assorted forms of political fence-mending that precede a contest.

Indications were than an all-time record number of candidates would turn out for the election. There might be 1,000 or better.

Pointing to a record figure were last year's electoral redistribution which, with the entry of Newfoundland, boosted the number of Commons seats from 245 to 262.

The revitalization of the Progressive Conservative party will find that group contending almost every constituency.

The Liberals, holding 124 seats as dissolution approached, were expected to run candidates in all ridings, though national headquarters of the party was not yet ready to issue definite figures.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said yesterday his party hoped to go after "practically every" seat—including the seven new ones in Newfoundland. The Progressive Conservatives now have 69 members.

The C.C.F., with 32 Commons members now, has indicated it expects to place men in at least 200 ridings. The Social Credit group, now holding 22 seats, plans to run for some 100 constituencies.

That would boost the total to more than 800, and it undoubtedly will be swelled heavily beyond that by the various types of independent.

Campaigning by the parties, already under way for some time on a tentative basis with the election date uncertain, was expected to get into full swing soon after dissolution by the week-end.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, just back from a fortnight's trip as far as the west coast during the Easter recess, was to head into Quebec, the Maritimes and Newfoundland in a fortnight or so.

Mr. Drew, who visited Newfoundland during the recess, was expected to speak in all the remaining provinces before election time. M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, also was to make a cross-country tour.

Entire Crew Is Rescued From Sealer

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

St. John's, April 27.—(AP)—The 26-man crew of the ice-damaged sealer Winmoda took four hours today to walk three miles over a treacherous icepack off Labrador, reaching safety on the deck of the sealing vessel Newfoundland. All hunters were safe and well.

The rescue ship worked its way to within three miles of the hunters, marooned for 30 hours since the 170-ton Winmoda was crushed in the grinding ice off Belle Isle. The tiny island is 20 miles off the southeastern tip of Labrador at the entrance to the Strait of Belle Isle dividing Newfoundland and Labrador.

The Newfoundland worked up the east side of Belle Isle after the Linda May and Terra Nova had failed to crack the icefield from the Western approaches.

Early today, it arrived off the northern end of the island. It could get no farther through the heaving ice and the stranded hunters began the dangerous three-mile trek over the shifting cakes.

They started to walk from the spot where their vessel was grounded under the ice as soon as dawn broke. Four hours later they clambered onto the solid deck of the Newfoundland.

The men reached the rescue ship just before rising winds were due to strike the area. Such winds might have carried the flocks the men were riding out into the open sea.

Early Announcement Likely On Commonwealth Relations

By MICHAEL O'MARA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, April 27.—(AP)—With major difficulties surmounted, delegates to the Commonwealth Conference today planned to meet again to put final touches on a statement outlining their historic reconciliation of Crown and Republic within one family of nations.

The statement was to be released later today simultaneously in the capitals of each of the eight participating countries. It was considered likely that the document would be made public about midnight.

The statement is understood to contain provisions to allow India to remain an integral part of the Commonwealth after she assumes republican status in the near future. India thus will continue to share in the privileges, advantages and responsibilities of Commonwealth membership.

The talks, which started Friday again to put final touches on a statement outlining their historic reconciliation of Crown and Republic within one family of nations.

The changes were expected to be as Prime Minister Nehru, of India, predicted before the conference—a change in "form only."

When India becomes a republic, Prime Minister will act as head of the state in place of the King or his representative. The business of the state will be carried on in the name of the republic, not in the name of the Crown.

In Canada, Britain and the other Dominions the King, or his representative, will continue to act as head of state. Their governments will continue to act on in the name of the Crown.

Delegates were expected to go to Buckingham Palace and advise the King of their decisions before publication of the document.

Richer Ice Cream May Cost Higher

Ottawa, April 27.—(AP)—A government order-in-council increasing the butter-fat content of ice cream has been passed. It was learned authoritatively last night. The result may mean a boost in the price of the dairy product.

Ice cream producers believe adding more butter-fat to their product will mean a total increase in costs of about $250,000 a year. This estimation is based on the

by BILLY ROSE

For my travellers' checks, Rio de Janeiro is right up there with Paris when it comes to knocking your eyes into the centerfield bleachers. It's as primy and preeny a city as FitzPatrick ever traveled, and when I first saw it from the Pan-Am airbuggy on the morning of January 9th, I got the impression that a lot of icing had dripped down from Sugar Loaf Mountain.

During our week's stay in the capital of Coffeland, I got dead stuck on its scenery and citizens—the 21st Century skyscrapers from Oscar Niemeyer's drafting board which throw the light right back at the sun, the hill huts of the gypsies a few random yards away, the ebony-eyed babes who put the SA in S.A., and the dozens of friendly folk who showed us around and wouldn't take thanks for an answer. But over and beyond all this, I shall always remember Rio as the town where, for the first time in ten years of married life, I got a little respect from my missus.

Before I blueprint this achievement, however, let me tell you about a samba session and the reason Eleanor didn't talk to me for 48 hours.

On our second evening in town, we were the guests of Aloysio de Salles at a beautifully run boite called the Vogue which features a samba orchestra. We arrived at 8 that evening and proprietor Max Stukart seated us at a table. A demitasse cup away from the bandstand, and before Eleanor could even look at the menu, a gent who was all muscles and mustache piloted her out to the dance floor where, for the next hour, I watched my girl do her own fantastic version of the light fantastic.

I sat and sizzled but said nothing—after all, a gal in our set doesn't get down Sugar Loaf way very often and this was baby's night to howl.

But four hours and four aspirins later, I had had enough. For one thing, I've been too busy putting on dance shows to learn how to dance and, for another, I've been around liquor too long to have any yen for it. And worst of all, the drum-bonging was driving me nuts—a samba band, as you know, is a triphammer that has given birth to a lot of little triphammers.

But still I said nothing although, by the time 8 a.m. rolled around, I was feeling like the last act of "Emperor Jones." Eleanor was still out on the floor dancing, her eyes as bright as thousand-watt bulbs.

At 5 a.m. I couldn't take it any longer. Sunlight was beginning to filter through the cabaret shutters and my ears had had enough of Tympani Alley.

"What say we go home?" I said to the missus.

My wife looked at me as if I had suggested broiling a child for dinner.

"Killjoy!" she snapped. "Everytime I start having a little fun, you want to go home."

"Be fair," I said. "You've been out."

"Seven thousand miles from home," I said forcefully, "the champagne's on the house, the proprietor does a tambourine dance for me, and the Atom Bomb asks for my autograph. From now on, if I don't get a little respect around the house, I'm going to hit you right on top of your pointy head."

"Yes, Daddy," said Eleanor. (Copyright, 1949, by Billy Rose)

Palm Springs, Calif. — Sunbaked notes from poolside at the Palm Springs Biltmore:

America's foremost desert resort has one of America's most illustrious mayors—big, bronzed, silver-haired Charles Farrell, the screen's lover boy of the early Thirties.

Not to mention the town's honorary mayor, Bob Hope.

"We make a great team," Charley told me at the Racquet Club. "We're both hams and we're always on."

Charley Racquet Club is his life now and he'll continue to spurn all movie offers. He was a star when the town's current crop of bobby-soxers were in diapers, but recently they talked him into arranging a special performance of "Seventh Heaven," his Oscar-winning hit with Janet Gaynor.

They showed the picture one afternoon for nine hours—an hour longer than the longest union day.

"Okay, killjoy," said Eleanor, and we went home. But for the next two days she didn't talk to me and, if I hadn't proved it by living with her, there'd have been no living with her...

But to get back to the last sentence of the second paragraph—the one about getting a little respect from the missus.

During the ten years of our marriage, Eleanor has been about as impressed with me as Joe Louis is impressed by Mickey Rooney. At the office when I holler at the intercom system, strong men spring to attention, but at home, like a million other guys, I'm only the nuisance who mucks up the carpet with cigarette ashes. But, brother, in Rio it was different.

The night before we left for Buenos Aires, I suggested to Ben Sirotsky, a spritely newspaperman-about-town, that I'd like to see something of Rio's seamer and less seemly side—its nickel dancehalls and dives. And so, starting at midnight, Ben took us on a post-graduate Cook's tour that wound up at Nellie's Castle, a spot which, according to the neighbors, was no better than it should be. And when I say "castle," I'm not kidding—it had more turrets and gargoyles than Orson Welles' ever nightmarish, and it was floodlighted like the opening night of a Hollywood service station.

Sirotsky introduced me to Nellie's sweet man, and when he heard my name, his mouth opened like a steam shovel. "We are deeply honored, Mr. Rose," he said, "and the champagne's on the house."

I looked over at Eleanor and I could see that this wov of a welcome had made quite an impression on her.

A few minutes later we were seated in a plushy parlor and a dozen of the top "hostesses" had joined our table.

"I used to play the tambourine for Carmen Miranda," said the proprietor. "Perhaps you would like me to dance for you."

He danced, and again I could see a what's-going-on-here look in Eleanor's eyes.

Then came the capper. The proprietor brought a beautiful little blonde over to the table and said, "The Atom Bomb wants to meet you."

"Could I please have your autograph?" said the lady. "I've been reading your pieces in the Portuguese edition of Readers' Digest."

Well, I would have given it to her in blood if I'd had any handy.

On the way home I turned to Eleanor and stuck both my chins out.

"Seven thousand miles from home," I said forcefully, "the champagne's on the house, the proprietor does a tambourine dance for me, and the Atom Bomb asks for my autograph. From now on, if I don't get a little respect around the house, I'm going to hit you right on top of your pointy head."

"Yes, Daddy," said Eleanor. (Copyright, 1949, by Billy Rose)

PUBLIC NOTICE

By-Law No. 703

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given, that at its regular meeting held on the 19th day of April 1949, the Municipal Council of the City of Sherbrooke has adopted By-Law No. 703, amending By-Law No. 547, concerning private connections to the gas system;

That the original of said By-Law No. 703 is kept at the City Hall, in the municipal archives, where everybody can take communication thereof; ternoon in the town's biggest theater. All the municipal employees talked Mayor Farrell into knocking off work early so they could see the show. All the bobby-soxers and all the matrons came.

Given at Sherbrooke, this 25th day of April, 1949.

Charley blushed as he told me about it.

"I got a lot of small notes from the matrons."

The local newspapers, the Deser Sun, lists the days' temperatures under the title, "The Gay Nineties." That's what they are now, too (98 yesterday), after an off-season of cold, snow flurries and an earthquake which cost the resort hotels a fortune in lost business.

But now the weather is as it should be and the Biltmore has extended its season until May 15.

Too Potent

The Doll House, Palm Springs' oldest and most famous restaurant, is serving a new drink—the "Doll House Special." One drink and anybody's doll looks good. But owner George Strabe says he's thinking of taking it off the menu—too many fellows can't remember which doll they arrived with.

Movie stars are everywhere. Bill Holden and Brenda Marshall at the Shadow Mountain Club, Spencer Tracy and Jimmy Ritz playing tennis at the Racquet Club, the Van Heflins shopping, Cliff Henderson and actress Beverly Hohns, Frank Morgan, Clark Gable, Dick Haymes—I could go on for an hour.

There's another new drink at the Wonder Palms—date flakes, milk and vodka. It's popular with movie producers because the bartender insists it's good for ulcers.

Palm Springs has more land than anything else, but the traffic problem on its one main street, "Main St." as busy as New York's Fifth Avenue almost any hour of the day or night.

Free Parking

Recently the city council installed parking meters. The town screamed that the Sunday "postcard tourists" would be mad. Now they're having a five-week test of free Sunday parking. A traffic problem in the desert—fantastic but true.

But don't get me started about call from the Biltmore to the Shadow Mountain Club, a few miles down the road, becomes a 100-mile long-distance call.

Majority In Valuation Registered Against Magog Improvement Loan Plan

Special to the Record
Magog, April 27.—Although a slight majority of the rate-payers who cast their ballots in yesterday's voting on the proposed by-law to borrow $50,000 for municipal improvements in the Town of Magog were in favor of the expenditure, the two projects, one calling for $35,000 for improvements and renovations to the Town

Hall and market and the other providing $15,000 for a new street sprinkler were defeated by the negative majority of valuation registered.

In all some 188 ballots were cast, the valuation registered amounting to $1,039,300. Of these eighty-nine voted yes, eighty-five voted no and there were nine spoiled ballots. The valuation for aggregated $471,000, the negative valuation amounted to $559,500 and the valuation of the spoiled ballots was $28,800.

Thus the affirmative majority in numbers was for but the negative majority of valuation was $65,500.

Asbestos Council Imposes Curfew To Prevent Spread Of Strike Disorder

Special to the Record
Asbestos, April 27.—A curfew was imposed in this strike-bound mining town today in an effort to end a series of incidents which have resulted in damage to property of non-striking asbestos workers.

The Town Council, at a meeting last evening, ordered the 1 a.m.-5 a.m. curfew after rocks were thrown through windows of homes of nine Canadian Johns-Manville Company employees and sugar was found in the gasoline tanks of cars owned by others. During hours of the curfew persons will be prohibited from leaving their homes without valid reason.

Another resolution designed to prevent disorders in the eleven week-old strike prohibited the holding of all parades except one church parade at three o'clock in the afternoon.

At the outbreak of the strike, the workers occupied the auditorium of the Town Hall and have been using it ever since as a strike headquarters, the premises being kept open day and night as a rendezvous for members of the striking syndicates. In the future they will be open only from noon until 12:30 a.m. and some fifty strikers were ordered out of the building at the close of the Council session. They left the premises without offering any opposition.

Meanwhile, in Quebec conferences are being held to complete the personnel of an arbitration board which might settle the 83-day-old wage strike of 5,000 asbestos workers.

The workers' nominee, Theo Lesperance of Montreal, and Yvan Sabourin of St. John's, Que., company nominee, have been conferred for two days with Labor Department officials to pick a chairman of the board.

Yesterday's conference, which lasted from 10 a.m. until 12:15 p.m., was the second at Labor Department.

plan is carried out.

partment offices. It will be resumed at 3 p.m. but a quick result was not expected.

Monday the Labor Minister, his deputy, Gerard Tremblay, Mr. Lesperance and Mr. Sabourin conferred 4½ hours.

Choice of an arbitration board chairman among the 52 members of Quebec magistrate's court was said to be the only point at issue in the talks.

Lesperance and Sabourin have until Friday, under Quebec labor legislation, to come to agreement on the selection of a magistrate who then would sit with them in an investigation of the asbestos strike which started February 13 and has cost the 5,000 affected workers more than $2,000,000 in lost pay.

Initiative for establishment of the arbitration tribunal which was announced last Friday by the Labor Minister was said to have come from a high Quebec ecclesiastical authority.

Under the Labor Minister's plan when he proposed formation of the board last Friday, Catholic unions to which the striking workers belong would order resumption of work the moment the arbitration tribunal is complete.

The asbestos workers halted work in February to back up demands that included a 15-cent an hour pay increase to bring basic rates from 85 cents to $1 an hour.

The strike was ruled illegal when they refused to submit their case to arbitration. The unions lost their legal status as bargaining agents but this will be restored to them if work is resumed when Mr. Barrette's arbitration plan is carried out.

1 Man Killed, Woman Injured, In Road Accident

One man was killed and a woman slightly injured in a highway accident that took place at 10 o'clock last night near Richmond.

Willie Desloges, 26, of St. Mary's Canadian, was driving a car, in which Alfred Tardif, of Windsor Mills, Mrs. Willie Biron, of St. Claude, and her baby were passengers, when it struck the side of a truck driven by Lionel Lavigne, of Richmond.

Desloges was killed almost instantly. Mrs. Biron suffered cuts about the forehead. None of the other car passengers was injured. Riding in the truck with Lavigne was Miss Jeanne d'Arc Girard, of Richmond. She was not hurt.

The accident happened five miles from Richmond on the Windsor Mills road. The truck was headed toward Richmond, the car toward Windsor Mills.

Gerard Paradis, first witness on the scene, removed Desloges' body from the smashed car. He was taken to Windsor Mills by an ambulance from the Boisvert Ambulance Service of that town.

The car was taken to Lavoie's Garage in Windsor Mills. Mrs. Biron's minor injuries were treated on the spot by Dr. R. Morissette of Windsor Mills.

In charge of accident investigation were Detective M. Normandeau and Constable Gilles Grenier, of the Provincial Police.

Official inquest into the cause of death was conducted in Windsor Mills this morning by Dr. Louis Gagnon, district coroner. Findings are expected to be released tomorrow.

Claims Censorship Took Life Of Noted Canadian Scientific Worker

Rev. F. W. Mitchinson, of Howick, Que., an eyewitness of the fatal plane crash of the Banting party at Gander, told members of the Rotary Club last night that, in his opinion, Sir Frederick Banting would not have died had not severe censorship tied up matters so that rescue squads were advised of the tragedy only three days later.

He said that Sir Frederick lived some 24 hours after the crash, and, although he was badly wounded, finally died of exposure.

All the lakes in Newfoundland are very large, the speaker continued, and it was tragic irony that the ill-fated plane should strike the one protruding rock in the whole vast sheet of ice covering that particular lake. Otherwise, the pilot, who was flying blindly by instruments, would have made a perfect landing.

When first notified by the Department of National Defense that the bomber was missing, Rev. Mr. Mitchinson, accompanied by a constable, set out by dog team to search for the missing men. Arriving at Musgrave Harbour about 2 a.m., he noticed a light in one of the homes, and as this was an unusual hour for Newfoundlanders to be up, he stopped at the house, to find that the pilot, Captain Mackie, was there, and was severely wounded.

The speaker said he wished to make it clear that, contrary to radio and press reports, he was not the first eyewitness, as four Newfoundland trappers, receiving notes from circling planes, were the first to reach the scene of the tragedy.

Mr. Mitchinson described the simple yet impressive funeral service which he conducted for the three victims of the crash, before their bodies were flown back to Gander. Captain Mackie, too badly wounded to be moved, remained in Musgrave Harbour a few days and was later taken to Gander by dog team.

The speaker, who was introduced by John Coyle and thanked by R. L. McCabe, illustrated his talk by films taken at the scene of the tragedy.

President E. W. Gilbey was in the chair and welcomed visiting Rotarian Claude Willard, of Rock Island, and the following guests: W. Bell, Philippe Trudel, of Montreal, J. D. Fraine, of Vancouver, Dean Bishop and Yvon Marchand, of Sherbrooke.

The members enjoyed five minutes in Rotary with H. A. Clark, who gave the year's financial report.

Seated at the head table with the president and speaker were Wright Gibson, J. A. Metivier, Bert Lloyd, John Coyle, R. L. McCabe, H. A. Clark, R. A. Webster, Past Presidents A. A. Munster and E. E. Goodenough.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT

JOHNS-MANVILLE

CONTROL GUIDES GIRDERS GLIDE

Your J-M reporter did a little "sidewalk superintending" on a construction job the other day and was amazed at the smooth operation of a huge hoist as it picked up the long steel girders, swung them around and gently guided them into position.

A J-M engineer explained that this smooth control depends on such materials as Johns-Manville Asbestos Brake Linings and Clutch Facings. These J-M friction materials help control the tremendous power of hoists, bulldozers, steam shovels, cranes and winches. Made of asbestos they withstand the intense heat of friction and the man at the controls can operate his machine almost as smoothly as you drive your car.

For over 60 years, the J-M label has identified the finest in Friction Materials. For complete details, write Johns-Manville — Sun Life Bldg., Montreal — or see your nearest J-M distributor.

New Bridge Plans Are Accepted By City Aldermen

Last evening's council meeting, as a committee of the whole, accepted the plans for a new bridge to be constructed in the near future, which will connect the East and West wards.

Copies of these plans are to be sent to the Board of Transport Commissioners at Ottawa for their approval, as the bridge will pass over the Canadian National Railway.

Gaetan Cote, local engineer, is preparing specifications and will soon make a bid for tenders.

Voting Light In Referendum On City Management

Today is the date which will decide whether or not Sherbrooke is to have a city manager, but reports from the City Hall late this morning were far from encouraging. The voting was extremely slow, with only a small number of citizens exercising their civic rights.

SOMETHING REALLY ORIGINAL

Soviet propagandists, who have laid claim to all those inventions in behalf of their countrymen, have at last invented something themselves. It is an explanation of why so many discoveries have been credited to non-Russians like Edison and the Wright brothers. The Navy publication Red Fleet explains it: "The struggle for priority in capitalist countries merges into a struggle to ascribe as many scientific discoveries as possible to the scientists of one's own nationality and race at the expense of other nationalities and races. The more rapacious and piratic the imperialism of any given country, the more insolent and crude is the 'spiritual expansion' of its historians of science."

There you have it, as neat as a mathematical formula. False claims of achievement for a country's scientists are in direct proportion to the imperialistic ambitions of a country's government. Silly as that sounds, the propagandists must have thought it necessary to come up with some story. For a lot of Russians have probably wondered how it was, even if their own propagandists spoke the truth, that this wrong impression about electric lights and airplanes and such had been so persistent for so many years.

Now it is all clear. The discrepancy fits right in with the west's pattern of "imperialism." Further the western countries had been telling these imperialistic lies for a couple of hundred years. But it may be that a few of the more logical-minded Russians are still worrying as they read the honor roll of their unsung inventors. There was the remarkable Lomonosov, for instance. According to Soviet propaganda, he discovered the secrets of atomic energy and cosmic rays and also made a clockwork model of the helicopter back in the 1750's. It was Ivan Polzunov, not James Watt, who invented the steam engine. Russians gave the world the caterpillar tractor before 1850, and several types of tractor motors in the second half of the nineteenth century. One Ladygin beat Edison to the electric light by six years. A. S. Popov was sending and receiving radio messages before Marconi. And so on.

Reading these claims, and perhaps believing them, the logical-minded Russian must wonder why it was that other countries not only took these discoveries but also developed them. Czarist Russia, he knows, was bad. But how could this scientific progress have flourished in the monarcho-monopoly capitalist countries, which he knows were just as bad? And why is it that none of these wonderful Russian achievements were made after the revolution? Assuming the genius of the Russian scientists, our logical-minded friend may ask why this genius, growing in the ideal soil of communism, has not produced a bumper crop of inventions. Why did not some of his Soviet comrades come forth with such things as radar, synthetic rubber, nylon, the jet plane and the atomic bomb?

Even after all the propagandists' explanations, our Russian might be forgiven for wondering if there is some flaw in their picture of his best of all possible governments surrounded by the worst of all imperialistic aggression.

COOL ON THE RUSSIAN PROPOSALS

Washington reports indicate that Russia's proposal for lifting the Berlin blockade is being received with caution by officials in the United States capital. This wariness is obvious even though the State Department has informally accepted it as clearing the way for ending that particular battle in the cold war.

Some responsible authorities see the Soviet move as being designed to disrupt the fast-moving development of Germany as a separate state. And even those diplomats who hope for an early end to the blockade see little prospect for real east-west agreement on all Germany in the follow-up meeting of the Foreign Ministers of the Big Four.

Officials said that the lifting of the restrictions on commerce and travel between Berlin and the Western zones, under the terms Moscow announced yesterday, would be a substantial gain for world peace. The western air lift would no longer be necessary and the tensions growing out of the struggle for Berlin would disappear. But, according to the Russian proposition, the restoration of normal communications with Berlin would automatically require a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers and this would bring back to the conference table the whole range of issues on which Russia and the Western Powers became deadlocked in the 1947 Foreign Ministers' Conferences in Moscow and London.

These issues arise from the fact that control of all Germany is one of the main objectives of the cold war. It is felt in Washington that if the Russians want such a meeting, and will clear the way for it by lifting the blockade, the Western powers must explore this possibility for reaching an East-West settlement. They must determine whether there has been any basic change in Soviet policy and prove the fact to the world if there has not.

Press Comments

DULL BUT HONEST

LONDON Economist
Sir Stafford Cripps' budget is sound, courageous, realistic—and very dull. This last quality can be forgiven him in view of the other three. Indeed, in all the circumstances it is a positive merit. Not only have there been in recent weeks all the usual rosy speculations, but this is also, for all practical purposes, the pre-election budget, since there can hardly be time next year, even if the present Parliament runs on to the last weeks of the statutory time-limit, to pass more than the simplest of Finance Acts before the election. A lesser man would have found some argument for dressing his electoral window. But not Sir Stafford: "We have to face our economic and financial problems with realism and must not allow ourselves to be carried away by the quite understandable desire to court electoral popularity."

It will be a poor day for Britain when such honesty is not recognized and rewarded. Sir Stafford has once again shown that he knows the meaning of economic statesmanship.

A BEE IN THE BONNET

Edmonton Journal
Since time immemorial men have been seeking the elixir of life, the fountain of perpetual youth and similar aids to a longer stay on this planet. Now scientists are reported looking to the bees for help. They feel that the mysterious "royal jelly" which is fed to queen bees in the hive may hold the secret of prolonging life.

Queen bees live about four times as long as ordinary worker bees. So perhaps if the wonder-working ingredient in the royal jelly can be isolated and fed to human beings, their life span, too, may be increased four times—to 280 years!

This is an exhilarating prospect, but it does raise certain problems. Old age pension payments might not begin until the beneficiary reached the age of 250 or thereabouts.

However, this is mere speculation. We can only hope that the present experiments will have a less tragic result than one recorded in the early chronicles of China—where we learn that the Emperor Shih Huang-ti came to an untimely death "from an overdose of the elixir of immortality."

RED CONTROL

Toronto Financial Post
Those who scoff at the Communist menace in Canada, pooh-pooh the danger abroad, and repeat the parrot cry of "it can't happen here" should ponder the violent attempt to tie up our ocean shipping. They should also ponder the stark fact that shipping is by no means the only vital industry into which Communist labor leaders have penetrated and obtained control.

In the electrical manufacturing field, upon which the country must depend for much of its secret defence apparatus, including radar, organized labor is dominated and led by avowed Communists. The same applies to the chemical and explosives industry, vital for production of munitions and other defence necessities. The labor working our metal mines, including nickel and gold, is held in the same sinister control as well as that supplying most of our forest industry and our shipbuilding.

Tie up any of these industries, as our ocean shipping is tied up now, and Canada not only would be unable to defend itself but would be a liability instead of an asset to its allies.

THIS WORKLESS WORLD

Wall Street Journal
According to a news item, a new vacuum offers intriguing possibilities. Due to some complicated gadget, it runs about the rugs without anyone guiding. It cleans the edges as well as the centre of the rug; it automatically avoids all obstacles such as chairs, tables, and the baby's playthings. And then, when it has performed its duty, it heads right back to its stall in the hall closet. Maybe it does not speak up to a man and say, "Lift your feet!" but it is almost human otherwise.

This is indubitably a progressive step. But it is only a step. Why not build a vacuum system into each room of the house? Then, with sufficient force, all that will be necessary will be to flick a switch and all the dirt and dust of a room will be whisked away.

If life is to be workless, we may as well go the whole way, both in housework and in other lines of human activity.

McKENNY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenny, America's Card Authority

SQUEEZE PLAY WINS THIS SLAM CONTRACT

The late Maurice Maschke of Cleveland, O., who was one of our finest rubber bridge and tournament players, had a pet theory about doubling slam contracts in tournaments. He used to say, "Never double a slam contract unless you have two different ways of beating it. If your opponent makes the contract doubled, you are bound to get a bad score. If you do not double and he makes it, you will get a more normal score."

In today's hand North would never have had the chance to get into seven not trump, which was madeable by a squeeze, if East had had two ways of setting the contract. Seven spades would have been beaten automatically, but seven not trump was made with the following play.

East opened the king of hearts, which declarer won with the ace. The queen of diamonds was cashed, and a small club led to dummy's king. The queen of clubs was cashed, and now declarer took five diamond tricks, discarding three spades and two hearts from his

Old Country News

"CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLE"

Another shaft which has always held both cockney interest and appeal to visitors to London is the so-called Cleopatra's Needle on the Embankment beside the River Thames. It comes up again in the news because it is to be cleaned of its coating of grime and soot for the first time in sixty years. A special cleaning process is hoped to give it the original pink of condition, for it is a pink granite obelisk. Of course, this "needle" cannot vie with the appeal that the little figure of Thos has since attained with all Londoners for Plovidly Circus, but the Cleopatra thing has its own history and one that does intrigue still. The London County Council is the guardian of Cleopatra's Needle and the last bath it had was when the London Fire Brigade washed it with hoses in 1932. That was a mere douse and now there will be a detergent used, a special formula devised by the chemists of the council in their laboratories on the opposite Thames Embankment. The coming great festival of Britain is the inspiration for the new bath for Cleopatra's monument.

Originally there were two of these granite obelisks erected in Alexandria in Egypt long centuries ago before the Great Caesarium. Such things were usually built to embellish the wonderful temples of Egypt and as one of the greatest cities of the older world Alexandria had the most. The one in London was presented to the British government in 1879 but not brought to Britain until 1878. It really does not have anything to do with the Cleopatra we read about and of whom writers and dramatists of great note have done their stuff, even Shakespeare. Cleopatra was always the name of the queen of Egypt. There was one particular glamor girl that we most think about as a Cleopatra. She was the mistress of Julius Caesar and later of Marc Antony. And she was a lady of luxurious profligacy, so the obelisk got to be called Cleopatra's Needle although it dates centuries ahead of the lascivious girl-friend of Romans, other dead warriors and what not. The "needle" was damaged a little or perhaps chipped a bit by an aerial bomb in the First Great War. The carved inscriptions say the obelisk was originally erected by Thothems III, a pharaoh of the 18th dynasty and stood in Heliopolis about B.C. 900.

Perhaps public interest was made when the Cleopatra's relic was brought from Egypt to London. No ship could carry it in one piece in any hold then, so a prominent and skilled engineer designed a cylindrical vessel which picked it up as it were and brought it below its keel. That engineer also built the Forth Bridge and the London Underground railway. He was Sir Benjamin Baker. What he did not reckon on was the Bay of Biscay and on its voyage a storm tore the obelisk from its mooring below the special ship and sank it. It lay in the Bay of Biscay for years until steps were taken to salvage it and then to bring it to Britain. There it was finally set on its pedestal and it still weathers fogs, smut and sunshine as a familiar object of interest for all Londoners and the many visitors to London, who will again look on the ancient hieroglyphics this summer—and others to follow, as the famous Cleopatra's Needle. And that may even be a name given by some cockney wit. The sister twin obelisk is obscured somewhere in New York. That never got the same publicity as its sister shaft in London.

Questions and Answers

Q—What is the meaning of a blue flag, or blue light used by American railroads?

A—It is a traffic signal placed on each end of cars and locomotives undergoing repairs on a siding or work track. It means that the cars are not to be moved for any reason whatever, thus safeguarding men who may be working under them.

Q—At what age do the black spots appear on a Dalmatian dog?

A—The Dalmatian, or coach dog, as this breed is popularly known, arrives in the world pure white and the many black spots with which it is covered do not make their appearance until the pup is many weeks old.

Q—Why do astronomers say the moon turns on its axis, when it always keeps the same face toward the earth?

A—It is because the moon turns on its axis, in the same period (about 27 1/3 days) as that in which it revolves around the earth, that it does keep the same face toward us.

Q—How much money is spent in waiters' tips a day?

A—The American public lays over $1,000,000 a day on restaurant tables as waiters' tips, the Department of Commerce discloses.

Q—How did Gen. U. S. Grant describe the Mexican War?

A—In his personal memoirs, General Grant said that the Mexican War was "one of the most unjust ever waged by a stronger against a weaker nation."

Q—Has any trace ever been found of the missing liner Waratah?

A—The disappearance of the Waratah off the coast of South Africa, presumably on July 28, 1909, is still a mystery. Although travelling within sight of land, no one saw any distress signal and the vessel that searched for weeks failed to find any trace of the missing Waratah.

Q—Who was the first chief justice of the United States?

A—John Jay of New York was appointed by George Washington to be the first Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

The Record Short Story

DREADED DAWN

By LEORA WALTERS

Still slim and handsome after 45 none too happy years, Martha Brill, farmwife, dreaded the Spring dawn that now kindled bright fires above the crest of Furrow Slope. Reluctant to rise from bed and face the ordeals of the day, she looked at the calendar on the wall of her small room, the cheap little calendar presented by Sawyer's store in Oakville. . . . The tenth of May. Twenty-one years since her son Larry had been born. And today he would be leaving home.

It might have been better, Martha thought, if she and her husband had let Larry go his way six months ago, when he had tried. Martha gripped the bed spread and relived that dark day. Dave, her brawny husband—grim and stoical since the untimely death of Andrea, their daughter—had come to the house in the middle of the morning and wanted to know where Larry was, why he wasn't repairing the pasture fence a she had been told to do. Worried, Martha had said that Larry had caught a ride on a pass-livestock truck headed for Oakville; and her silent husband had driven away, fast, in his own old truck. He had brought Larry back, had said to him, "You're going to stay home until you're 21. You're not going to run off and marry that light-caliber, redheaded Sheryl Keating and make a mess of your life!"

Lean, dark and handsome like his mother, Larry had said, "All right, Master. I'll serve out my sentence in this prison camp you call a farm—a sentence imposed for the crime of being born. But when next May 10 drags around, like you've dragged me home, I'll be on my way to marry Sheryl. And don't you try to stop me!"

Six months of bitterness, of gray, oppressive silence at the dinner table. Larry talked to the mother he loved, but never spoke an unnecessary word to his father. Dave Brill spoke less and less to either his wife or his son. He worked hard in the fields. In stormy weather he tinkered around the shop, rather than sit in the house. He drew deeper into the shell that had begun ensnaring him with the death of a bright, 18-year-old daughter whom he had loved. He hadn't talked things over with Martha when, only last week, he had purchased 80 acres of land adjoining the Brill farm, rough, unfertile acres that had recently been inherited by young Steve Gaylord.

"Paying twenty-five hundred for that no-good land!" Larry had said to his mother. "I hope he doesn't think I'm going to drudge for the next few years trying to make that land produce. And never saying a word to you about his crazy deal. Well, I wish I had the windfall that young Steve Gaylord's father left. Boy, won't he be high, wide and handsome around Oakville while the money lasts! But I don't want him entertaining Sheryl. If he does . . . Larry's jaw tightened.

"If Sheryl accepts his entertainment, it won't be Steve's doing entirely, will it?" the mother said. "She is a little flightily, son."

"She's as pretty as a picture. And swell—whatever your lord and master's opinion!"

Martha got up and dressed. She would make corn muffins for breakfast, Larry liked them so. Martha glanced in the door of her son's room. Larry was sleeping soundly, his right hand dangling over the side of the bed and resting on a suitcase. Martha dabbed quick tears away, swallowed the lump in her throat and hurried to the kitchen. She knew why Dave, up at daylight, hadn't called Larry to get up and help with the milking. Dave knew what this was, and that he would be doing the milking from now on.

The muffins were baking when Martha went into the dining room to set the breakfast table. There were some papers in the center of that table, a document, a note; and the weekly paper that Dave had brought back from town yesterday evening.

A moment later Martha ran to her son's room. "Larry!" she cried. "Oh, morning, Mom!" he answered sleepily. "Now, no weeping, Mom! You knew that day was coming and—"

"Look, Larry," Martha said

brokenly. "Your father's deeded you the farm! And look at this newspaper! Sheryl Keating's eloped with Steve Gaylord!"

"What?" Larry sat up in bed and froze in that position. "She— I get it! That twenty-five hundred cash that Dad paid young Gaylord! That did it!"

"Your father was right about her, Larry."

"Yeah, he was—as much as I hate to admit it. But what's this deed to the farm business all about?"

"Your father's left," Martha said shakily. "His note says he wishes us the best-of luck!"

"Has he lost his mind?"

"He thinks he's lost our love, Larry. He knows how much I think of you. He wants you to stay with me. That's why he's cleared out!"

"Aw, zosh, Mom!" Larry's voice clogged. But he cleared it and said, "Get out of here, Mom!" I'm getting dressed and chasing him—like he chased me once!"

The old truck roared away. Blindly Martha put the muffins in the warming oven. Then she stood by the window and waited. At last the old truck hove into sight. Martha emitted a little cry and ran outdoors.

"Caught him, Mom!" Larry shouted.

Dave Brill stepped out of the truck. Martha ran to him and threw her arms about him. She said, "Dave! Oh, Dave! Must we lose everything because we've already lost so much? Has this place become a prison—to you?"

"No, Martha," he said huskily. "I love the old place and my family. I didn't want Larry to mess up his life by marrying that dizzy redhead. I wanted him to have a wife like you. Why else would I have paid young Steve Gaylord twenty-five hundred for his worthless land? I figured Sheryl Keating might marry Steve if he had a little spending money."

"It was a lot to dish out, Dad," said Larry, grinning. "But I'll stick around and try to make it up to you."

"We won't regret that money—son, said Dave Brill. "It was the only easy money I ever made in my life. Tinkering around the shop, I figured out a new kind of post hole digger—and sold the idea to a manufacturer in Chicago for thirty-five hundred dollars."

"Ye gods, Mom!" Larry whooped. "We have an inventor in our family! Maybe we could put a little more with that thousand you've got left and buy us a new tractor, Dad!"

"We'll buy a new tractor, but not with that thousand, boy," said Dave Brill. "Five hundred of it goes to you for a birthday present. The other five hundred goes to my loyal wife who could use a few new clothes." Dave Brill smiled mistily. "If you haven't cooked breakfast yet, Martha, could we have corn muffins?"

"Corn muffins," Larry said. "That's one thing Dave and I always agreed on. How about it, Mom?"

"They're made," Martha Brill said. She smiled bravely through tears and said, "Come on, you guys I love."

Communists Can Gain Base For Further Expansion In Asia

By

DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst.

The steam-roller offensive of the powerful Red armies in China has created a fresh major crisis in the now-not-so-cold-war of the isms.

The western powers had scarcely finished signing the Atlantic pact, to halt the Communist drive across Europe, when Chinese chieftain Mao Tse-Tung forced the line of the mighty Yangtze. Thus almost overnight the west was confronted with another threat. The weight of the attack had been shifted from the front defences to those in the rear.

True, the new thrust in the Orient is much further away than was the drive across Europe. The present danger is less imminent, and in that sense the situation is perhaps not so critical. Time now is with the west, just as it suddenly has turned against the Nationalist forces of China.

It's idle to speculate on how much time may be involved in the Chinese conflict. We know that the Communist resources, both military and economic, are great, while the Nationalist government's resources are terribly weak.

The Nationalists' most powerful defence against the Red forces from the north—the Yangtze—has been smashed. Their capital of Nanking has been occupied by the Reds. More than a million Red troops are ready for the drive southward through China.

What other estimate can be made than that the Nationalist situation is desperate? However, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek is said to have planned a defence by zones as the Reds advance. Many of these zones with their troops are in the hands of warlords and, if they remain loyal to Chiang, the Nationalist defence might give the Communists a surprise. Speculation at this time is idle. We shall have to await developments.

What we can see clearly enough is that the Communists of China would give Communism a powerful base from which to work on all Asia. Neighboring India would be the next great country to come under pressure, and it might be that she would provide a barrier which Communism couldn't surmount. The Hindus and Moslems of the Indian peninsula are intensely religious—and Communism and religion can't be mixed.

In any event, should Communism have a sweeping success in the Orient, the west would be in a Red vise.

Britain finds herself in an uncomfortable position as the result of the Communist drive. She has many interests in China, including her big crown colony of Hong Kong on the south coast. Already a British cruiser, a destroyer and two sloops have been pounded by Communist shore guns with considerable loss of life.

The Admiralty is said to be sending two aircraft carriers and a group of submarines to join the British far eastern fleet. At present there are two cruisers, eight destroyers and four sloops based at Hong Kong but they have no air cover.

This is a normal strengthening of forces under the circumstances and it's safe to take it for granted the British has every intention of keeping out of trouble if she can.

DIAPERS

MADE-IN-CANADA textile goods, ranging from soft cotton diapers to tough industrial fabrics, have helped in the battle to save U.S. dollars. Modernization and expansion of plant capacity in certain key industries in Canada has meant more goods made at home, fewer to be imported. Textiles is one of those key industries.

Dominion Textile, a part of the primary textile industry in Canada, is proud to have had a role to play in this important venture. The modernization of our plants which we have undertaken is part of our natural responsibility of keeping up with the times, of maintaining plants and equipment at a high level of mechanical perfection in order to increase the supply of top quality cotton goods for the consuming public and provide the best and most effective working conditions and opportunities for our employees. It is gratifying to know that following this policy has meant further assistance to the Canadian economy beyond our normal contribution of producing goods and providing jobs.

Track Workouts Raise Hopes For Sherbrooke and McGill Track Meets

The sports program for the final term is a full one with track taking the foreground. This year the turn out for track is one of the biggest in years with the non-resident boys giving their support which has been too often lacking in past seasons. A great number of them, especially in the junior categories, have attended early workouts, and if their quality is anywhere as good as their quantity we have hopes of making a good standing at Sherbrooke at the "Y's Men's" track meet on May 28 and in Montreal at the McGill track-meet a week later.

Girls Plan Calisthenic Demonstration

Because the girls are planning to put on a calisthenic demonstration within the next few weeks, we are doing exercises each day during sports hour and when it rains we use the apparatus in the gym.

"Around the field twice girls!" "Kitty, you can fling your arms higher than that!" "Mary, when you are jumping use your ankles to push you up." These are all familiar expressions these days.

Track has started! Each day will find the girls out on the front campus right after school, "getting into condition." We have some might fine runners this year, but where are the jumping pits? We want a try at them too!

Class Debating Starts

First steps are being taken in preparation for the inter-class debates. This week the teams are to be chosen in each class. The debating is divided into senior and junior sections. The senior comprising grades twelve, eleven, ten and Bagbee; and the junior, grades seven, eight and nine.

On the evening of Friday, May 20 two teams which have won the semi-finals in each section will clash for the Harper and John T. Hackett cups.

Cadet Activities

The Cadet period on Thursday, April 21, was taken up by rifle drill in which the entire corps participated.

The Cadets of the Signalling Class who passed the examinations were each awarded a chevron. They were: Cdt. Major Amaron, Cdt. Sgt. McGilton, Cdt. Sgt. Gross, Cdt. Cpl. Newman, Cdt. Martinson, Cdt. Egley and Cdt. Prangley. It is expected that the certificates and $10 award will arrive from headquarters in the near future.

The final targets have been shot and the entries have been sent in for the Inter-Scholastic Competition, sponsored by the Royal Military College.

It was announced that there would be Cadet Camp again this year, as usual and that any cadets wishing to attend should report to the officials of the Corps.

Student Concert Friday

A concert is being held by the staff and students of the E.T.C.M. at the Haskell Opera House on Friday, April 29, 8:15 p.m.

The program is well planned, varied, and will prove to be interesting. Taking part are the school

Helping Circle Has Meeting In Rock Island

Rock Island, April 27.—The Helping Circle was very pleasantly entertained on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Daisy Pailli, with Mrs. Stewart Taylor as co-hostess. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Fred Putney, who also led the devotion.

The roll call was taken by the secretary and answered by upwards of 25 members. The secretary also submitted the minutes of the previous meeting.

The treasurer submitted her report. Final plans were made for the rummage sale being held in the social rooms on Saturday morning.

It was decided to have the annual mother and daughter banquet on May 9. A committee was appointed to meet the Aid and Club committee to decide on the menu for this event.

Plans were made to entertain the W.M.S., of Sherbrooke, for dinner on May 14, and a committee was appointed to meet the Aid committee to plan the dinner menu.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, thus bringing the evening to a close.

Rock Island Ladies' Aid Meets In Parsonage

Rock Island, April 27.—The Ladies' Aid met at the parsonage on Thursday afternoon, April 21. The hostess was Mrs. H. A. Carson, assisted by Mrs. Raymond Grow and Mrs. Fayne Honey. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Grow and the devotion was led by Mrs. Cecil Whitman, who read St. Luke's Gospel, chapter 15.

The roll call was taken by the secretary, Mrs. H. A. Rice, and answered by 36 members and friends. Mrs. Rice also submitted the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved as read.

Mrs. Demick submitted the treasurer's report. The sum of $75 was voted to be paid into the church budget. Final plans were made for the rummage sale being held on Saturday.

The mother and daughter banquet menu was discussed and it was decided to have it about the same as last year.

Plans were made in regards to entertaining the Presbytery for dinner of May 14, and the committee was appointed to meet with the Circle committee as soon as possible to plan the menu.

The flower committee was asked to buy flowers for the Mother's Day service and it was decided that they would also be used the following night for the banquet.

The meeting adjourned.

The Aid presented Miss Edith Ross with a lovely Cameo brooch as a remembrance from them. Miss Ross has spent the past few winters with her orchestra, band, the senior girls choir consisting of thirty-five girls and Mrs. Gordon Jones who will sing a solo.

RAMBLING ROUND THE BORDER

A stage is being built in the Del Bar, of the Del Monty Hotel, and Rene Monty reports that the plan is to present single acts or short plays there on certain evenings during the summer months as a special feature of an already popular spot. All the details are not settled as yet, but an announcement of the complete plans will be made soon.

It begins to look as though the Canadian Art Theatre will make the Boundary their headquarters again this summer. The only thing holding them up at the present writing is lack of sufficient rooms at a reasonable price. Ten rooms are still needed, and anyone wishing to have a member or more of the CAT as a summer guest should call Rock Island 500.

The new telephone directories show virtually all new numbers for those in Derby Line, and if you are calling anyone there the new directory should be consulted.

The old plan of a "3" preceding each Derby Line number has been dropped in nearly all cases, and all the numbers start now with the figure "9". This, however, is not an extra number but is a part of the regular number. To illustrate, number 5-009R11, has been changed to 903R11.

The second annual concert by the Meridians, Boundary Men's Choir, has been definitely set for May 6th, at the Haskell Opera House. A souvenir program is being prepared under the direction of Bruce Lafoe, and the tickets are already on sale by the choir members. The program will consist of both new and old favorites, and the men promise something to please all tastes.

Earl Heath and James Colpitts have been working at the Customs and Immigration office at Beebe Plain, due to the illness of Ralph Sheehan and Robert Poirier.

Not enough were present for a meeting of the Frontier Swimming Project last Monday, and a new meeting is scheduled for May 9th. The meeting will be held at nice, Mrs. Carson. Her home is in Hawkesbury, Ont. Miss Ross very graciously thanked the ladies for their thoughtfulness, and for having had the opportunity of being connected with the society during the winter season.

A supper was served by the hostesses, assisted by Aid members, Mrs. A. E. Jackson was pleasantly surprised when the gathering sang "Happy Birthday," and presented her with a cake decorated in white and pink with pink candles. Mrs. Jackson was very pleased and thanked them for their thoughtfulness.

According to reports given at their last meeting, the Derby Line Parent-Teachers Club is in a financial condition. The treasurer stated that $493 was in the treasury, over $150 of it being realized from the play, "Me And My Shadow," which the Orleans Community Players presented at the Haskell Opera House recently.

The hot lunch program is taking care of itself at the present time, and the group were warmly commended by a state inspector who visited the school.

The meeting was held at the Derby Line School, and those who were present had the opportunity of talking with the teachers and seeing many fine examples of the work the boys and girls have been doing the past several months.

The display of pictures of Great Britain at the Haskell Library has brought forth a number of complimentary remarks and an increase in the number of visitors.

The large, poster sized pictures are very fine and well worth seeing, and it is hoped that everyone interested will visit the Library Gallery while they are display.

New books have been arriving, and the gift of 75 books from Robert McIntosh, of Toronto, have nearly all been catalogued and placed on the shelves. This very fine gift was gratefully received by the library, and the books are all interesting and important ones.

Richmond And Melbourne Trade Board Heard R. S. White, Of Montreal, On Preservation Of Forests And Wild Life

Richmond, April 27.—The monthly supper meeting of the Richmond and Melbourne Board of Trade, held at the Richmond Hotel on Monday evening, April 18, was well attended, some eighty members, visitors and guests were present at the affair, which was put on chiefly as a "Sportsmen's Night."

Mr. H. P. Stone presided and with him at the head table, besides the guest speaker, Mr. R. S. White, of the Montreal Gazette, president of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Clubs, were Mr. George H. Carpenter, also of Montreal, secretary of the Federation, and a noted writer on rod and gun matters, promagor C. W. Armstrong, and W. A. McGillis (Asbestos), Forrest Keen and Mr. Carey, of Sherbrooke, County Game Warden Conrad LeRoche, of Stoke Centre; Mr. Pare, of Drummondville; and Messrs. George W. Ewing, O. C. Blair, Omer Guimond, Alderman Ross and Rev. George Harrington. Delegations were present from several of the neighboring centres.

The speaker was ably introduced by Mr. George W. Ewing, vice-president of the Federation, who stated that the membership now numbered 30,000, all of whom were pledged to assist in the development of the fish and game preserves in the province and in the conservation of forests, which is so essential in the preservation of wild life. Mr. White, in an interesting and forceful address, took as his theme the expression "You Have Been Robbed," and went on to speak of the various ways in which our national heritage of forest, arable land, streams and the games, which was at one time so abundant, has been abused and wasted to an alarming degree, both by our forefathers and by ourselves, chiefly through extravagance, carelessness and lack of proper knowledge of conservation methods.

Soil erosion, caused partly by preventable floods, as well as pollution of streams, forest fires and slash-hazard methods of cutting timber, etc., are a few of the ways in which we have robbed ourselves of this great and valuable heritage and are continuing to deprive our descendants of its future benefits.

Senators And Caps Size Up As Formidable Foes In Eyes Of Fans

Ottawa, March 27.—(C)—Finding a common denominator for two hockey teams that haven't played within 750 miles of each other all season is an involved task.

However, with Regina Caps and Ottawa Senators—Allan Cup finalists—some sort of comparison can be based on the opinion of veteran sport observers.

Word on the Caps, who arrived here early today for opening of the best-of-seven series Thursday night, is that they are just a shade better than Edmonton Flyers who won the Canadian Senior Championship last year.

The consensus among Ottawa followers is that Senators' problem is a better balanced team than when they lost to the Edmonton club in the hard-fought Allan Cup series a season ago.

Toss in the fact that both clubs are well-seasoned with experienced veterans, and a slight advantage for Ottawa playing on home ice and you have the makings of a nip-and-tuck series.

Currently, Senators rate as slim 6-to-5 favorites around the Capital, but that's before anyone here has seen the Caps in action.

Boston's Sain And New York's Jansen Are Two Biggest Early Season Pitching Flops Of 1949

Boston Braves' Johnny Sain and Larry Jansen of New York Giants are being tabbed as the two biggest early-season pitching flops of 1949.

Counted on to carry their teams this year following superb '48 seasons, both have been terrific disappointments to their respective managers. Each has started three times with nary a victory to show for their efforts.

Both had extremely rough sledging yesterday. Sain, who previously had been beaten by Philadelphia Phils and shelled from the mound by the Giants, managed to go the distance, but he and the Braves were handed a 5-2 shellacking by Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets Field. The big right-hander was tagged for nine hits including home runs by Gene Hermanski and Pee Wee Reese.

Preacher Roe spaced seven hits for his first victory for the Dodgers, half a game in front of idle Pittsburgh and the Giants.

Jansen still hasn't pitched a complete game. He lasted only six innings yesterday as the fightin' Phils came from behind to nip the Giants 12-11 in 11 innings. After the Giants had taken an 11-9 lead in the top of the 11th, the Phils came roaring back with three runs climaxed by Del Ennis' home run with a man on base. The Phils came from behind five times.

Gerry Coleman, rookie infielder filling in for the injured

George Starnweiss at second base, slammed his first major league home run to give New York Yankees a 5-4 victory over Philadelphia Athletics. Coleman's round-tripper came off Alex Kellner in the last half of the eighth with a mate aboard to erase a 4-3 Mackmen margin. Kellner had replaced Phil Marchildon in the first inning. The Canadian right-hander had complained of pain in his right shoulder while serving up to the first batter.

The victory was the American League-leading Yankees' seventh in eight starts. They have yet to lose in the Yankee Stadium where they have played five times.

Detroit Tigers moved into second place, a game and a half from the top, by taking both ends of a doubleheader from the White Sox in Chicago, 6-2 and 7-5. The Tigers had to go 10 innings to win the second game.

Johnny Gorch, Detroit's sensational rookie, doubled home the runs in the extra frame that gave relief pitcher Dizzy Trout the triumph. Gorch also helped in the first game victory with a two-run single. Vic Wertz clinched the opener with a three-run homer off losing pitcher Howard Judson. Virgil Trucks was credited with the victory although he needed help from the rubber-armed Trout.

Manager Lou Boudreau hit his first home run of the season and right-hander Bob Lemon pitched

Cotton Mill Office Wins Big 8 Crown

Special to the Record.
Magog, April 27.—The Cotton Mill office won the championship of the Big 8 Bowling League when they emerged the winner over the Married Veterans by 395 pins, in two-game series.

The champions rolled up a total of 5637 pins to the Vets 5242. The prizes, donated by the local merchants, will be presented at the annual banquet Friday evening at the Union Hotel.

M. Menard, R. Stebin, N. Connor, O. Pouliot and Paul Roy comprise the Cotton Mill entry while J. Trem, G. Louthier, P. Lariviere, C. Goulding and G. Bellavance were with the runner-ups.

The high single average went to R. Stebin with a high of 190 while Norman Connor capped the high three with a pinfall of 462.

Tennis Association To Amend Rules For Clubs

Montreal, April 27.—(C)—An amendment to the constitution which would bar players registered with the Province of Quebec Lawn Tennis Association from playing in tournaments or matches not recognized by the Association is coming up at the P.Q.L.T.A. annual meeting Friday. President Jacques Vadeboncoeur said yesterday.

"Many clubs," Vadeboncoeur said, "which are not members of our Association often take advantage of the name and high calibre playing of the best-ranking players for exhibition matches staged in the sole financial interest of their club."

"It is difficult to understand how these clubs can ignore the fact that all too small revenues of the Association come from the annual dues paid by the member clubs and that a high percentage of this income is, in turn, spent on development of these same players from whom they seek to help on every possible occasion."

The proposed amendment says nothing about exhibition matches where no admission fee is charged.

Bob Lemon, Indians — scattered six safeties in pitching the Indians to a 1-0 shutout victory over St. Louis Browns.

his first shutout as Cleveland Indians nipped St. Louis Browns 1-0. Boudreau's clout came in the fourth and was one of the four hits allowed by Red Embree, a former Indian pitcher. Lemon who paced all the pitchers with ten shutouts last year, scattered six hits in winning his second game, both against the Browns.

The scheduled game between Washington and the Red Sox in Boston and Cincinnati against the Cardinals at St. Louis were postponed by rain. Pittsburgh and Chicago Cubs were not scheduled.

HOCKEY MEETING CALLED FOR TOMORROW NIGHT

"A meeting of all the sporting heads and fans of the City will be called for tomorrow evening at 8:30 in the City Hall to discuss the Arena situation in our town," stated Armand Nadeau yesterday afternoon in an interview.

The main objective in calling the gathering is to put his ideas before the sporting people and explain how and the manner in which he hopes to build an Arena so badly needed in our town.

He has some very good ideas about the proposition and with some help from his mates, and the fans, he should be able to put it over. He claims that it is foolish to try and do anything about the Arena at the Fair Grounds, because as he says, and I quote, "Even if we do spend a sum of money on it we will still have an old rink. I think that our city is big enough to afford a real up to date ice house and that the City should build it just the same as the City of Quebec. It then could be used to help and promote sport in general in the city, without costing the backers every thing. During the winter months it could be used for several things and would more than pay its own way."

Mr. Nadeau is strongly convinced that now is the time to act and not put it off until next fall, because then it will be too late as a decision must be rendered one way or the other before next week. The annual meeting of the Quebec Senior Hockey League will take place in Montreal and a decision must be given to the League officials regarding the future of our team.

Following this I contacted Forest Keene and he told me that the only way that a team could operate in the league, under the restriction law, would be to give the team officials larger grants. Otherwise it would be impossible. And this answer must be given before the annual meeting next week. So folks that is the situation in the hockey circles around town, and if the matter is to be cleaned up it will have to be decided very shortly or otherwise the chances for a senior team in town next year is very slim.

Tommy Gorman's Senators finally wrote him to the Toronto Marlboros and their bid for the Eastern Canadian hockey title, when they blanked them 4-0 to win the series 4-2.

They open up their second Allan Cup bid within two years at home tomorrow evening, and for my money I pick the Senators, as all the games are being played in the Auditorium. I think that the Regina Caps will find, as the other teams have found much to their sorrow, that the Senators are tough and their bid for the Eastern Canadian title, when they blanked them 4-0 to win the series 4-2.

The Senators are still suffering from injuries sustained in their bid for the Senior Group crown, but even without three of their regular men they knocked off the Marlboros. The series was a funny one right from the start, as well as the scores, and at times you wondered what seemed to be wrong with the teams. It looks as though Tommy Gorman gave his boys a little pep talk, and they came through with the title. His methods sure have paid off although they must be a little costly, they bring the results, and as far as T. P. is concerned that is what counts.

"Pack 'em in," should be the motto of the Ottawa team because that is just what they are doing. Here's hoping that you keep the luck in the East this time and good luck to you and your club, T. P.

A meeting of the Eastern Townships Golf Association was held over the week-end and dates for the different Field Days, sponsored by the clubs, were set.

Gerry Milmore, Waterville, 'as elected as president of the group with Hugh Brown, Lennoxville, as the vice-president, while Bart Holt-ham, who has held down the post of the secretary-treasurer since 1924, was again unanimously given the position. Bart, who has handled the affairs of the Association for so long, and done such a fine job both in office, will again be the guiding hand behind the scene.

The E. T. Amateur will take place at the Country Club on the 19 and 20 of August, with the Senior on the 20. The E. T. Mixed will be held September 11 while the Junior event will go to Richmond on September 10. The Southern Canada Power trophy will be played over the Cowansville course this year on August 14.

Granby was the only club that failed to put in an appearance, and Bart has yet to hear from them regarding their date for a field day. As soon as we are notified we will let the golfers know about the complete slate.

One good thing which I think came out of the meeting and that was the system adopted for handicaps. In all club field days this year the contestants will have to have their handicaps verified by their club captain or the club secretary. The clubs all agreed upon this in order to do away with all the trouble experienced during the past, regarding the touchy subject of handicaps, and with the new idea this should be remedied.

Buffalo — Joe Cardinal, 153½, Oshawa, Ont., outpointed Rolly Johns, 147½, Albany, N.Y. (6).
Buffalo — Les Oma, 189½, Detroit, knocked out Fitz Fitzpatrick, 179½, Los Angeles (1).

Brandon Picked By Fans In First Cup Match

Winnipeg, April 27.—(C)—Sport fans and bookmakers here are calling Brandon Wheat Kings to take tomorrow's first game of the best-of-seven Dominion Junior hockey final against Montreal Royals.

Six will get you five if you are betting on the Wheaties, with the odd bookies laying seven-to-five. However, odds on the series vary, with many bookies keeping off until they've had a "look-see" at the unfamiliar Royals.

The general opinion seems to be that Brandon ought to have opposition in the West than Royals did in the East. But there are those who believe the Montreal squad must be good to knock off Barrie Flyers, 1947-48 Eastern champions, in four straight.

Two factors give Brandon an edge in the first game: They've played most of the season on Winnipeg ice; and they won't be weary from the long train ride the Royals had.

For the teams themselves, there's little to choose, with Brandon conceding a slight edge in goal.

Joe Louis Makes Debut As Promoter Tonight

Detroit, April 27.—(C)—Joe Louis tonight makes his debut as a promoter.

The former heavyweight champion will start his new career by staging a boxing show in his home town.

Three 10-rounders, a six-round preliminary and a four-round exhibition featuring the world featherweight champion, Willie Pep of Hartford, Conn., are on the program at Olympia Stadium.

With Louis at ringside will be another former heavyweight champion, Jack Dempsey. Dempsey will second his protégé, Ellis Ask of Finland, who opposes Pep in the exhibition.

Most of the principals on Louis' initial program are "unknowns" to Detroit fans.

In the 10-rounders, Lester Felton, unbeaten Detroit welterweight, takes on Bobby Dykes of San Antonio, Tex.; Luther Burgess, a Detroit featherweight, meets Miguel Acevedo of Cuba, and Luther Rawlings, Chicago lightweight, faces Art Aragon of Los Angeles.

Don Newcombe Hurls Mates To 4-0 Victory

Don Newcombe, the husky negro right-hander, working for Montreal in the International League, pitched his second straight three-hit shutout yesterday.

Newcombe, who at first balked at joining the Royals again for whom he won 17 games including a no-hitter last year, blanked Newark Bears, 4-0. He opened the season by white washing Baltimore Orioles, 5-0.

The hard-throwing Newcombe fanned 13 and walked only three. For seven innings he was involved in a scoreless duel with rookie Joe Valenzuela.

Newcombe then launched a two-run, eighth-inning rally with a single past the mound. He moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on Bob Morgan's double.

Morgan came home on a single by Al Gionfriddo. The Royals picked up their remaining runs in the ninth off Bob Ferris on an error, two walks and a pair of singles.

Jersey City Giants edged Buffalo Bisons 5-4 in a home-run duel. A three-run homer by Wes Westrum in the seventh and one by Hank Thompson with the bases empty in the eighth turned the tide in favor of the Giants.

Cy Block, losing tripler Jake Wade and Conker Triplett homered to account for all of Buffalo's runs. Triplett's blow was a pinch-hit belt in the ninth. Wes Bailey went the distance for Jersey City to hang up his third straight triumph.

Baltimore Orioles nipped Toronto Maple Leafs 8-7 in 10 innings with Al Chiocki breaking up the game with a home run.

Ed Sanicki, who led the League in runs batted in last year, clubbed two homers for Toronto.

Frank Mancuso's two-run homer was the big blow of the Orioles uprisings. Al Widmar, who worked the 10th, was credited with his second victory in three days over the Leafs.

A scheduled game between Rochester Red Wings and Syracuse Chiefs was postponed because of wet grounds.

New Bedford, Mass. — Larry Villeneuve, 193, West Warwick, R.I., stopped Jose Contreras, 158½, Fall River, Mass. (2).

Tony Zale, Admitting Old Age Has Caught Up With Him, Sacrifices $60,000 For Rematch And Retires

Chicago, April 27.—(C)—Tony Zale, with enough gumption to admit that he is over the hill, has retired from the ring after a long, brilliant, rough career.

In making his decision, the "Man of Steel," whose age has made him a bit rusty, surrendered a $60,000 guarantee for a return bout with Marcel Cerdan. The Frenchman won Zale's middleweight boxing crown on a 12th-round technical knockout in Jersey City last Sept. 21.

The two battlers had been rematched at New York's Polo Grounds June 21. Zale, who will be 36 next month, had been assured of at least $60,000 as his share.

The Tournament of Champions promoting firm now plans to give veteran Steve Belloise or possibly the scarred Jake La Mottan chance at Cerdan in either June or September. A bout between Ray Robinson and Kid Gavilan for the welterweight title may be on the same card.

Zale, father of two young daughters, will not hang up his gloves. He will wear them in the role of chief instructor teaching law of Chicago's Catholic Youth Organization how to fight.

Zale used to keep in condition working in the steel mills of his home town of Gary, Ind. He held the middleweight crown from 1940 to 1948 except for a brief time in 1947 when he lost to Graziano in the second of three fierce encounters. He regained his title from Rocky last June 10 at Newark, N.J., flattening him in the third round.

Zale's three battles with Graziano paid him $268,892, a money record for middleweights. Zale extended his earnings to $388,892 by pocketing a $120,000 guarantee for risking his life against Cerdan.

Finland, host to the next Summer Games, originated the proposal which was backed by Avery Brundage of Chicago, United States Olympic head and vice-president of the I.O.C.

The Winter Sports to be added at Oslo in 1952 are curling, dropped since 1936, and the northern ski game of orientation, a Scandinavian suggestion.

Contestants in orientation follow a map showing points they must locate and cross on skis. The one finding all the points and getting home first is the winner.

The "Military Patrol" ski game will be cut from the Winter schedule because it is purely military and not properly Olympic. It will be replaced by a "combined patrol" cross-country ski sport, proposed by Sweden, which involves civilians as the military.

Secret discussions of the last two days regarding a proposal to cut the 1952 program, resulted in the I.O.C. voting it down. Actually, two winter sports were added but otherwise only minor changes of an administrative nature were made, following full study of the Olympic charter and rules.

Otto Mayer, chancellor of the I.O.C. secretariat, said too many countries were opposed to streamlining the 1952 schedule for such a proposal to succeed.

The local squad will consist of the following players, J. Danucey, B. Lochrop, G. Smith, J. Strickland, G. Armstrong, M. Johnson and R. Jovel. The team has been working out regularly and will hold two more practices before leaving for the Capitol City Saturday morning.
