World News In Brief

London, March 16.—(AP)—Generalissimo Stalin resigned last night as chairman of the Soviet Union's Council of Peoples' Commissars and immediately was elected chairman of a newly-established Council of Ministers. As chairman he is premier and head of the government.

The resignation and election, announced by the Moscow Radio in a broadcast recorded here by the Soviet monitor, was a technically brought about by the change of name of the Russian governing body, substituting "Ministers" for "Peoples' Commissars."

Stalin had been chairman of the Council of Peoples' Commissars since May 22, 1941.

Ottawa, March 16.—(AP)—John Diefenbaker (P.C.—Lake Centre) yesterday described on the Commons order paper motions calling for the production of documents referring to the death sentence of S.S. General Kurt Meyer.

Meyer, convicted by a Canadian court martial of allowing his men to shoot Canadian prisoners-of-war during the campaign in northwestern Europe, was sentenced to be shot. The sentence later was commuted to life imprisonment by Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, commander of the Canadian occupation forces.

Mr. Diefenbaker also asked for a transcript of the evidence taken at Meyer's trial.

Ottawa, March 16.—(CP)—Arrest of Fred Rose, Labor Progressive Member of Parliament for Montreal, in connection with the espionage investigation does not directly affect the party to which he belongs, it was stated officially here today.

"Mr. Rose is being prosecuted as an individual," a spokesman said, "not as a member of the Labor-Progressive Party. It might prove embarrassing to some of his colleagues but otherwise the party is not affected."

Asked whether Mr. Rose could resume his seat in the Commons while he is on bail, this official said the government had not considered that point, "but I agree it is an interesting one."

He added that possibly he could resume his seat and if any member objected it would be for Speaker Gaspard Fautoux to decide. It also might be matter for the committee of privileges and elections to consider.

Ottawa, March 16.—(CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier today announced immediate removal of all restrictions on railway travel. With this announcement the Minister coupled a warning that a shortage of special types of equipment might continue for an indefinite period.

Continuing movements of the armed forces and of dependents of members of the forces would probably result in heavy traffic on the railways for some time, he added. Regulations put into effect during the war limited sleeping and parlor car service and the operation of special trains.

Detroit, March 16.—(AP)—The General Motors strike settlement agreement was approved today by the G.M. conference of the United Auto Workers, C.I.O., which, however, left to local unions their own decision as to a return to work.

French-Speaking M.P. Asks Loan To Britain Approval

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa, March 16.—(AP)—A French-speaking member of the Commons—Capt. Fernand Viau (Lib., St. Boniface)—yesterday called on Parliament to give unanimous approval to the recent $1,250,000,000 Canadian loan to Britain.

The world owed the British people a debt that perhaps could not be repaid and it was fitting that Canada, as a member of the Commonwealth and a wartime ally, should approve the loan to assist the United Kingdom in her post-war rehabilitation.

He spoke in moving the adoption of the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, read at the opening of Parliament yesterday. He was seconded by Lt.-Col. R. H. Winters (Lib., Queen's—Lunenburg) who also stressed the importance of the loan and of close co-operation between the Dominion and all the provinces.

The speeches were listened to quietly, with only scatterings of

Goering Says Hague Rules Are Outdated

Argues That in Modern War Everything in Seized Area Can Be Considered Conquerors' Booty.

Nuremberg, March 16.—(AP)—Hermann Goering bluntly told the International Military Tribunal yesterday that he believed the Hague rules of warfare outmoded, and argued that in modern total war everything in seized areas, even manpower, could be considered conquerors' booty.

Then, with a sense of dramatic timing, Goering ended testifying in his own defence with a quotation he attributed to Winston Churchill—"in a struggle for life or death there is no legality."

Goering declared the Hague rules of war were conceived in an era when "the army was remote from the civilian population," but that today "everybody fights, even the child in a bombing raid fight."

Defending the German system of slave labor, he said "the use of manpower is an integral part of total war." At another point he said: "If everyone else in Germany was working, why should not the inmates of concentration camps?"

Earlier Goering had sought to justify the invasion of Yugoslavia without a declaration of war on the grounds such a declaration was "unnecessary since all the Yugoslav leaders knew we were going to attack." He said the Nazis invaded the Low Countries because they learned the French General Staff had received Belgian permission to occupy that country.

He attempted to strike at the Soviet Union repeatedly during his day-long recital.

Referring to the Nazi program he had devised for economic exploitation of conquered Soviet areas, which the prosecution had introduced as evidence, Goering said it was intended to operate "just as the Russians are doing now in areas Russia occupies in Germany, with the exception that we would not have dismantled Russian economy to the last bolt and screw as is now being done."

He admitted a prosecution charge that Russian prisoners were used to man German anti-aircraft batteries, but added they were all volunteers "because many Russians were ready to fight against their own country."

SEVERE SENTENCES IN SOREL ROBBERY

Sorel, Que., March 16.—(C.P.)—Paul A. Berube, 24, and Lawrence Drouin, 31, were sentenced to 14 and 10 years in penitentiary, respectively, by Judge Adolphe Allard following their conviction on charges of armed robbery on the person of S. de la Sorel taxi driver. Both men were also sentenced to 10 lashes each.

The two men took $15 from Nadeau after tying his hands and feet and putting him in the back of his cab. The two men then made off in the cab but lost control of the vehicle. They were arrested shortly afterwards in a Sorel hotel.

LINE-UP FOR CARS

Mayville, Tenn., March 16.—(AP)—Thirty-one persons were standing in line before a motor company here yesterday, 18 hours before the first of the firm's new cars will be sold on a first-come-first-served basis. Only one car will be delivered today. Other persons will get on the delivery list in the order of their places in line.

applause, after Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced to a hushed house that evidence showed that Fred Rose (Lab.-Prog., Montreal-Cartier) was an intermediary in the Russian-directed spy ring in Canada.

The Address, adopted unanimously by both the Senate and the Commons, thanked their Excellencies for the services rendered Canada and bade them a safe journey home. It asked that assurances of Canada's fidelity to the Crown and that the affection for the Canadian people for Their Majesties be conveyed to the Royal Family.

"We hope that in the near future Canada may be honored by a visit of Their Royal Highnesses the Princess Elizabeth and the Princess Margaret," said the address.

All party leaders and Justice Minister St. Laurent joined in paying tribute to the work done by the Governor-General and Princess Alice. Mr. St. Laurent spoke in Iran Minister of War Claims to Have Been Misquoted on Fears of Russian Attack and on Plans for Resisting Any Invasion.

Tehran, March 16.—(AP)—Gen. Ahmed Sapehbad Amir Ahmed, Minister of War, told newspapermen today he "denied categorically" all statements accredited to him by foreign newspapermen following a press conference March 13 in which he was reported to have said the Iranian army would defend the capital "to the last man" if Russian troops moved toward Tehran.

Ahmed and Prince Firouz, Political Undersecretary of State and director of propaganda, who met jointly with newspapermen to make the official denial, charged that the minister's actual responses had been "completely misinterpreted" by a War Department interpreter, who sat in at the March 13 press conference.

Fiروز added that foreign radio reports that Tehran residents fear Russian invasion "are completely false." He handed out a copy of a paper headed "War Minister's Denial," which he asked newspapermen to distribute to "correct false impressions created abroad."

The text of the paper: "The London radio in its daily program Friday, March 15, claims that I have been responsible for the following statement: 'First that the new arrival of the Soviet army in Iran would be taken to the Security Council.'

"Second that every night new Soviet forces arrive in Karaj and if Soviet troops attack Tehran the Iranian army would fight them to the last man."

"I desire to make known that no such statement has been made by me and request that necessary official denial be made by the Propaganda Department."

Earlier, advance units of a Russian column moving south around Lake Urmia near the borders of Turkey and Iraq, were reported 60 miles southeast of Sanjbulagh, seat of the semi-autonomous shahdom of Kurdish Chief Ghazi Mohammed.

The reported movement of Red army troops last night into Bukan, just north of Kurdistan province and 60 miles southeast of Sanjbulagh, apparently tended to support a prevalent theory among Iranian and foreign government officials that Russia favors an independent Kurdistan for the Kurds of Iran, Iraq and Turkey.

The London Daily Express reported from Cairo Thursday that Kurdish tribes in Northeastern Iran had proclaimed an autonomous republic. There was no confirmation from official sources, however.

The semi-autonomous government in the tribal area of Sanjbulagh has been conducted by Ghazi Mohammed since 1941, when Allied forces moved into Iran.

Iranian newspapers said he proclaimed the "independence of all Kurdistan" on his return from the conference in Baku last November, following the rebellion in Zacheraijan province which cut that province off from the rest of Iran.

Churchill Calls On UNO To Tackle Problem Of Red Activity In Iran

Berlin Rocked By Great Explosion

Berlin, March 16.—(AP)—Three explosions of ammunition today shattered the Alexander Kaserne building in midtown Berlin, occupied as a headquarters of Russian military and German civilian police, causing more than 300 casualties.

At least one person, a German policeman, was known to have been killed, and authorities said there probably were more casualties. A police hospital reported that 100 of the casualties were injured seriously.

Many of the casualties were persons living in the neighborhood or traversing the streets. The explosions spread debris over an area of several blocks.

A German policeman said he believed the explosives were in a Red army ammunition dump.

Failure of Soviet Union to Evacuate Their Troops From Iran Said by Former Prime Minister to Be "One of Those Cases for Which the United Nations Security Council Was Especially Devised."

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
New York, March 16.—(AP)—Winston Churchill last night called on the United Nations Security Council to thrash out the failure of the Soviet Union to evacuate their troops from Iran and to take up the Dardanelles question "if Russia persists in putting pressure on Turkey."

"Thus early will come a very great test for the world organization on which so many hopes are founded," he said in an address prepared for a city dinner in his honor.

"We are told that the Soviet government, instead of leaving, are actually sending in more troops," Britain's former Prime Minister declared, adding: "The treaty to evacuate the country by a certain date was signed by the head of the Soviet Government."

"This is one of those cases for which the United Nations Security Council was especially devised," Mr. Churchill said. "By all means let the matter be thrashed out."

Discussing the Dardanelles, he declared "at Potsdam the Ameri-

Severe 'Quake In California Area

Los Angeles, March 16.—(AP)—Earthquake shocks felt over southern and central California yesterday caused earth slides which broke the Los Angeles aqueduct in San Gabriel Canyon, in Owens Valley, the City Bureau of Water and Power reported today.

The bureau reported shocks caused huge boulders to roll down about 10 miles long.

One boulder tore off about 12 feet of the roof of the aqueduct and five feet off the sidewalk, releasing about half the water flow and spilling 100,000 gallons across the state highway.

Aircraft On Mercy Flight To Far North

Eastern Townships Priest Among 12 Oblate Fathers Reported to Be Starving in Isolated Arctic Outposts.

Ottawa, March 16.—(AP)—An R.C.A.F. Dakota aircraft, fitted with long-range fuel tanks, left here today on an Arctic mercy flight to drop supplies at three isolated outposts where 12 Oblate Fathers are reported to be starving.

Flown by Sqdn. Ldr. Del Kenny of Fredericton, N.B., the craft will stop at Churchill, Man., to refuel and then fly 2,700 miles non-stop to drop supplies at Repulse Bay, Igloodik and Pelly Bay, where the missionaries have been isolated since the sinking of their supply boat three years ago.

The aircraft will drop 80 pounds of medicines and 600 pounds of dehydrated and concentrated foods and warm clothing at each of the outposts, the most remote being Pelly Bay on the northeast tip of the Northwest Territories and farther north than the present position of the Muskeg Expedition.

Bishop of the northern diocese, Msgr. M. Lacroix of St. Hyacinthe, Que., left for Pelly Bay by dog sled "under this winter" and "has not been heard from since his departure."

While most of the missionaries are from France and Belgium, four are from Quebec. They are: Rev. A. Thibert, St. Jean; Rev. E. P. Dumas, L'Avenir; Rev. R. Courtemanche, Mont. Laurier; and Rev. F. Pafard, Joliette.

Since the sinking of the missionary supply ship, Marie Therese, and inability of the Muskeg to call at the three missions during recent Arctic trips, no food has reached Pelly Bay for three years, while Igloodik has received no outside supplies for two and a half years and Repulse Bay for two years.

The winter ice has been too thick to fish through and game, limited to a few polar bears, has been reported extremely scarce by Eskimos.

Russia Likely To Enter World Bank

Savannah, March 16.—(AP)—The long-silent Russian observer at the International Monetary Conference today said Russia may enter the World Bank and World Monetary Fund after the meeting closes Monday.

Fedor Petrovich Bystryov said the decision probably would be delayed until after the inaugural meeting of the twin financial agencies on nearby Wilmington Island are closed. He did not say how long after.

Asked whether the decision might be in favor of applying for admission, Bystryov said:

"It may be. I hope so."

The interview was held hours after a Russian message on the radio, quoted $1,000,000,000 Soviet commercial loan was delivered to State Secretary Byrnes in Washington.

He indicated also that Moscow might withhold action until after the international trade conference in coming months, in which multi-nation trade agreements and removal of trade barriers will be discussed. Bystryov said these were "connected" with the Bretton Woods financial agreements being implemented here.

Russian Good Faith Tested By Iran Appeal To Council

Washington, March 16.—(AP)—A decisive test of Russia's willingness to work within the United Nations Organization's framework in the future shaped up today as Iran made known it will ask the Security Council to re-examine its trouble with Moscow.

United States officials, who would not be quoted, expressed themselves pleased that Iran had decided on such action, and left no doubt that the United States would give full support to such an appeal.

It has been reported that the United States is ready to invoke the guarantees of the United Nations charter in an effort to end the tension which recent Russian moves have created in the highly strategic zone of the Middle East.

The tip-off on this intention, diplomatic officials said, was the assurance they asserted has been given both Iran and Turkey that the United States would back them against aggression in fulfillment of the letter of the United Nations Charter.

Prime Minister King Expected to Reveal Further Details of Spy Probe During Course of Statement to Commons Monday.

Ottawa, March 16.—(AP)—The Royal Commission on espionage today turned to study of evidence against the five remaining suspects in Canada's month-old Soviet spy inquiry while Parliamentarians awaited a general statement Prime Minister Mackenzie King has promised to give the Commons Monday.

Thus far, nine persons have been identified as agents in the ring—two men and two women named in the Commission's first interim report two weeks ago, four men named in the second interim report yesterday and a Member of Parliament arrested Thursday night.

The member was Fred Rose, 38-year-old Labor-Progressive member for Montreal-Cartier, who was arraigned in Montreal yesterday on two espionage charges and later released on $10,000 bail.

Arraigned shortly after him in the same court was Dr. Raymond Boyer, of Montreal, assistant chemistry professor at Montreal and key research worker in the development of the super-explosive Rdx, who was named in yesterday's interim report. He also was released on bail of $10,000.

Mr. Rose and Dr. Boyer will reappear in court in Montreal March 22nd.

Echoes of the far-reaching inquiry were heard in the Commons yesterday when M. J. Goldwell, C. C. F. leader, called attention to newspaper reports of Mr. Rose's arrest and protested the failure of the Government to inform the House of the charges against this Russian-born Parliamentarian.

Reporting that Mr. Rose had been arrested on the advice of Commission counsel, Mr. King said the member was "believed to be" the intermediary "Debutz" who was said in the Commission report to have obtained information from Dr. Boyer.

Commission counsel had advised that Mr. Rose's arrest was advisable under the circumstances and that prosecution of Dr. Boyer's case required it. Mr. King added, tabling his letter and another from F. P. Brails, K.C., Crown Prosecutor in the Boyer case, Mr. Brails had written:

"Failure to charge the Member (Mr. Rose) would appear highly inadvisable. The origin of the trouble, the cause of the investigation and downfall of the individual in question (Boyer) arises entirely and exclusively from the actions of the Member."

John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, said the refusal of habeas corpus proceedings, holding of men without charge, bail or counsel was "a serious matter."

Mr. King said he would be the last person "to wish to see the liberty of any individual curtailed in any way at all that it was possible to avoid short of the safety of the state being the main consideration."

He tabled both reports of the Royal Commission and asked members to study them before he spoke on the subject Monday.

The Commission's second report, which had been released by Mr. King earlier in the day, said Dr. Boyer had disclosed to the Soviet enough information about Rdx to enable them to design a plan to produce the explosive in "quantity."

They report that some witnesses in strategic positions had made the "significant statement" under oath that "they had a loyalty which took priority over the loyalty"

Hope King, Queen Will Visit Canada

Ottawa, March 16.—(AP)—Hope that the King and Queen with Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret might soon visit Canada was expressed in a formal address of appreciation by Parliament to the Governor-General and Princess Alice who leave today for Britain.

The Earl of Athlone was asked to express to Their Majesties assurance of Canada's continued loyalty.

Ottawa, March 16.—(AP)—The Senate yesterday gave unanimous support to an address expressing appreciation to the Earl of Athlone for his services as Governor-General and to Princess Alice.

The address was introduced by a motion sponsored by Hon. W. Hart Robertson, Government Senator leader, and seconded by Senator C. C. Ballantyne, acting Progressive Conservative leader.

Inside The Nazi Spy Nest—No 6

Egg Head The Jap Was Nazis' Master Spy; Offered Ring His Own Espionage Network

Stockholm, March 16.—(NEA)

—Of all the intelligence agents at the "Radio Bureau" on Karlavägen 59, there was none more versatile, more highly rated or more daring than the Hon. General Makato Onodera, Japanese Military Attaché in Stockholm, otherwise known as "Eierkopf"—or Egg Head the Jap.

Discovery of the Jap diplomat's identity as the master spy on the Nazi payroll is one of Herr X's real scoops. The information came to him quite by surprise and due to the general's own carelessness.

For some time, X has noticed that there is a strange affinity in the reports filed by two agents known at the Bureau as "Eierkopf" and "Dr. Emonotti." Both men are in the top class drawing large sums of money for their reports which become ever more frequent and daring.

Who are these fellows and why do they so often appear in the same connection? Herr X would very much like to know, but for a long time his cautious inquiries fail to elicit any clues from his colleagues or superiors at the "Radio Bureau."

Then one day the mystery easily solves itself. X's boss, "Pandur"—who, at the time at least, is identical with the assistant air attaché, Major Heinrich Wenzlau—hands him a letter for transmission to Berlin.

THE MYSTERY ENDS

The letter, written in a strange lingo made up of broken German and spy cant, not only confirms X's earlier suspicion that "Eierkopf" and "Dr. Emonotti" are one and the same person. It further reveals, by one of those slips that occur in the best intelligence services, that both are identical with General Onodera, the Jap military attaché.

Indeed, Wenzlau, who has told X that the message is from "Eierkopf," forgets to delete the signature at the bottom of the letter, which begins with "My dear Major" and ends with "Yours very truly—Onodera."

In this letter, Onodera, alias "Eierkopf," reports upon his third alias, "Dr. Emonotti," in the approved manner of the German intelligence service. He describes himself as "very honest," and inspired only by "patriotic motives."

Onodera reveals he previously worked in Ankara, but was forced to leave because of "anti-British activities." He was then transferred to Sofia where he "strengthened his ties of personal friendship" with a special emissary of the O.K.W. (German High Command), namely Klatt, who was in charge of military intelligence in the Near East and India. Next he proceeded to Budapest and finally to Stockholm.

Before parting from his bosom friend Klatt, Emonotti-Onodera promised him to "build up a network from Stockholm to the United States."

In fulfillment of this pledge, the Japanese General Makato Onodera alias "Dr. Emonotti" alias "Eierkopf" or Egg Head was as versatile, daring and highly rated as any intelligence agent in the Nazi spy ring in Sweden. Yet by capitalizing on one of those slips that occur in the best intelligence services, Herr X managed to link up Onodera, the diplomat, with "Dr. Emonotti-Egg Head," the spy.

Jap general informs the Nazi major that he already has at his disposal three tested spies on the Iberian peninsula. They are Herr Ferber in Barcelona (who possesses a radio transmitter); a certain Kamata in Lisbon (who also has a transmitter); and a man named Kovats in Madrid (who lacks similar equipment).

Ferber in Barcelona obviously is the key man in the setup. He not only operates a radio transmitter but also "a lady of Japanese-Mexican stock, who will soon leave for America to work there for Germany."

NAMES SPANISH DIPLOMAT

Onodera's letter also involves a Spanish diplomat, identified only as "Pratt," whom the Jap general first met "officially" in Turkey.

"A German liaison agent always worked with Pratt," he writes, and he, Emonotti, alias Onodera, "assisted Pratt and the German liaison agent in their work against Syria, Palestine and India."

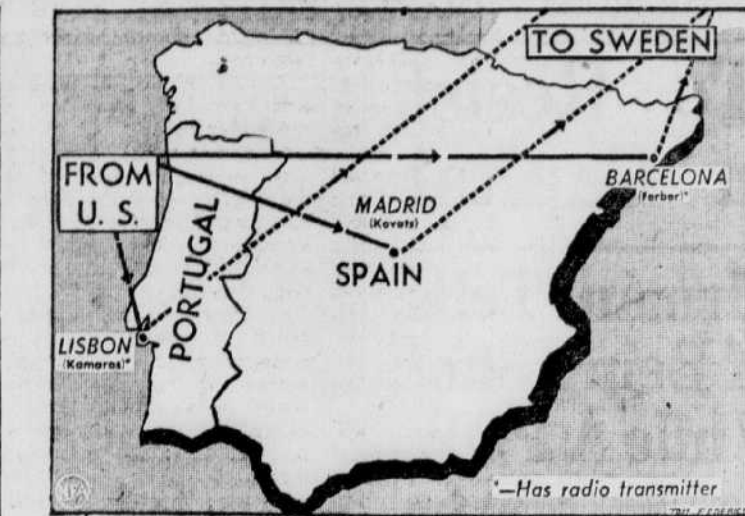

Later, Pratt was transferred to Finland, but went to Stockholm instead—presumably on account of the armistice between Finland and Russia concluded in September 1944. There Onodera "re-establied contact" with him.

If there were any doubt left about "Dr. Emonotti's" real identity, it would be dispelled by two significant references to Japan in the letter.

In one passage, Onodera writes that Emonotti "in reward for his services" in setting up the three-man spy network on the Iberian peninsula "gets all information from Iberia for the Japanese intelligence service." In another, he refers to the "German-Japanese friendship" between Klatt and Emonotti.

When the Jap master spy first turned up in Stockholm, the Germans there were none to pleased. They did not want any competition, not even from their allies, "Pandur" found it advisable to investigate the Japanese thoroughly before dealing with him.

This incident provides the best insight into the setup and working of the German espionage system. One of the teletype reports contains the following notice in reference to Emonotti-Onodera:

This is Egg Head's personal spy network in the Iberian peninsula, which he offered the Nazis in Sweden. Herr Ferber in Barcelona and Kamata in Lisbon have radio transmitters. Kovats in Madrid does not. Egg Head promised the Nazis that he would build up an espionage network to funnel information and reports between Sweden and the United States.

details about E. It would be interesting to know which department the man works for.

Underneath this item, a sort of inter-office memo gave the following explanations:

"Stadtbuero—the office of the S. D. (Gestapo Security Service), Berlin, Friedrichstrasse, House of the German Herald; our representative there—Captain Plague."

It is clear that this Captain Plague acts as liaison officer between the military intelligence service—formerly the "Abwehr"—and the Gestapo's own foreign intelligence section, the S.D. It is also clear from Pandur's question "for which department (dienststelle in German) does Emonotti work?" that as late as January 1945, the old rivalry between the two intelligence outfits still persisted.

Whatever doubts Pandur, Plague, and the other Nazis may have had on Onodera's account, were dispelled when the Jap proved his usefulness. He proved to be a unique expert on, and wholesale dealer in, Allied codes.

A message (392/45) dispatched to Berlin by Pandur is significant in this respect. It reads:

"Can obtain from source Eierkopf the following diplomatic code-books: (a) Turkish (b) Yugoslav (c) Portuguese (d) Brazilian (e) parts of British and American. Please inquire from decoding department whether they are interested. Since the material —part of it in the original, the rest photos is available for a short time only, request that the matter be handled with greatest possible urgency."

Later, "Source Eierkopf" extended his offer to the French codebook as well as the "British Government's telegraph code 1933." It appears from the records that the single transaction of this kind with the "very honest" and "purely patriotic" Jap General relieved the Nazi spy till at Karlavägen of 28,000 Swedish Kronor (about $7,000).

"Eierkopf" makes himself useful in other ways too. For instance, he supplies the Nazis with Russian newspapers, one copy each of Pravda, Izvestia, and War and the Working Class. A special photo department is set up at Karlavägen 59 to make photocopies of these precious papers for distribution to all interested departments in Berlin.

For three short months, the versatile Jap diplomat and general was the ace-in-the-hole of the Nazi spy center in Stockholm. In May, Onodera lost a good job, and in August an even better one.

A few months later, the whole bunch of Jap diplomats in Stockholm—genuine and spurious ones alike—was sent home by the Swedish Government, in conformity with General Douglas MacArthur's request.

RICHMOND HILL

The annual meeting of the Richmond Hill Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Roberts, in Richmond. The meeting opened in the usual way with Mrs. Melver presiding. Ten members and several children were present. Roll call was answered by the payment of dues. The minutes and financial standing were given and approved. After the correspondence was taken care of, Mrs. Melver called for the yearly reports. The home economics report was read by Mrs. Hampton, convener, welfare and health and national and international events were taken care of by Mrs. Leslie Healy. The two former revealing a lot of work done in each department, the latter being rather small due to the fact that county convener's outlines were received to late in the year to be of any value. Several other reports were not on hand as the conveners were absent. This completed the year's work. Mrs. Melver, the retiring president, thanked all the members for their kind help and co-operation during her term of office. Mrs. Healy then asked that a vote of thanks be extended to Mrs. Melver for all her work and especially for her hospitality during the "quilting bees". Mrs. Melver asked Mrs. Viger to take the chair for the election of officers for 1946-1947, which resulted in Mrs. Hampton being elected president; Mrs. W. Viger vice-president; and Mrs. Roberts being returned as secretary-treasurer. The conveners were then chosen. This was followed by suggestions for the new program, and the meetings. The program to be completed by Mrs. Hampton, Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Hawker, in the near future. Plans were completed for the disposal of the "Butterfly Quilt." After all business had been concluded, Mrs. Roberts served a salad tea, which was much enjoyed by all.

Rumor Thibault Will Replace Tremblay In Mayoral Contest

There was a rumor in City Hall circles today that the mayoral election picture may undergo a sudden change, viz., that ex-Alderman Eugene Thibault, instead of Alderman J. D. Tremblay will oppose Alderman Guy Bryant in the contest for the mayoralty March 26.

Mr. Tremblay could not be reached for comment on the report that he would withdraw to permit Mr. Thibault to enter the municipal fight opposite Alderman Bryant, choice of the English-speaking people for their customary term of office.

Mr. Thibault, a former chairman of the finance committee, who quit municipal politics a few years ago and has been rumored as likely successor to Alderman Tremblay's seat, said today that he had not heard the rumor.

Asked if he would be interested in such a proposition he replied, "I would not like to make any statement in that connection."

A somewhat peculiar situation, although it is a perfectly legal one, exists in connection with Alderman Tremblay's nomination as mayoral candidate in that he has filed his papers, made his deposit but has not yet resigned from his aldermanic portfolio. This means no one else can bid for his seat until the nominations are held Tuesday when his council seat will become vacant immediately upon his nomination as mayoral candidate. Also, Mr. Tremblay could very well retire from the contest and continue to sit on the council for another year at least, as his term does not expire until next March.

A review of the municipal election picture, barring any last minute changes before nomination day next Tuesday, shows only one contest, that of the mayoralty, with Alderman Guy Bryant opposing Alderman J. D. Tremblay.

Nominated to fill the vacancy left by Alderman Bryant is Walter Bradley, seat No. 2, North Ward, while Alderman Alphonse Trudeau, South Ward seat No. 2, Alderman O. Deziel, East Ward seat No. 2, and Alderman Armand Fiset, West Ward seat No. 2, are all seeking re-election.

For a time, it seemed that a contest would develop in the East Ward when Alfred Brault was nominated to fill retiring Alderman Deziel's seat. However, when Ald. Deziel accepted nomination for re-election, Mr. Brault withdrew with the statement that he had only accepted nomination with the understanding that Ald. Deziel would not seek a return to the council.

SUMMER SCHOOL FOR TEACHERS AT UNIVERSITY

The annual Bishop's University Summer School for Teachers, scheduled for July 2-August 10, in Lennoxville, will feature a course on the principles and techniques of guidance.

The course designed "for beginners in this new field of education" will be taught by D. J. Wilson, director of guidance, Galt Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, Galt. Mr. Wilson will also teach a second course dealing with the practice of guidance.

Dr. J. S. Asbury, of Montreal, formerly principal of Baron Byng High School, will be the instructor in a course entitled the High School Principal, and intended mainly "for the teacher who holds or wishes to hold the principalship of a small high school."

Others in the staff will be Dr. C. F. Klinek, professor of English and dean of arts, Waterloo College, University of Western Ontario, who will teach Canadian literature, and Dr. J. D. Jeffers, professor of education at Bishop's who will be the instructor in educational psychology.

The courses offered at the Bishop's Summer School form part of the graduate work of the university and credit may be secured towards the degrees of Master of Arts or Master of Education, for which any graduate of a recognized university may register.

According to the announcement, "The school is also intended to serve the needs of teachers not working for a degree who wish to qualify themselves better for some phase of work in the schools or to take 'refresher' courses. Teachers who are not university graduates may, with the approval of the principal and the lecturers concerned, register for such courses as they are able to pursue with profit. Any students who complete one or more courses successfully will be entitled to a certificate from the registrar of the university indicating the work which he has completed. Credit towards a degree, however, can be given to graduate students only."

S.H.S. PUPILS TAKING PART IN PUBLIC TALKS

This week has been Public Speaking Week at the Sherbrooke High School. On Tuesday senior and junior assemblies were held in which representatives from all the grades in the school participated. In the senior section the speakers were Nancy Dorrian, Catherine Mark, Frances Howard, Gwen Hall, Nancy Lawrence, William Bascom, John Neill, Irving Bordeff and Doug, Martin.

From the Junior Department the following were chosen to speak: Esther Billing, Mary Dorrian, Viola Kouri, Gordon Munday, Gordon Bunting, and William Atkinson.

Eight winners in the preliminary contest spoke before the student assembly on Friday morning. Two girls were selected to represent the High School at an inter-scholastic contest which will be sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club on April 8. It is interesting to note that the winners are the Dorrian sisters, Nancy and Mary. The topics of their addresses were "Life in a Mining Town" and "Musk-ox," respectively.

William Bascom, who spoke on the topic, "Mission of Youth," was chosen to be the school's representative at the Public Speaking Contest at the Sherbrooke Rotary Club on March 26. He will compete with boys from Stanstead College, Thetford Mines High School, Lennoxville High School, St. Patrick's Academy and Coaticook High School.

The judges in the contests held at the school were the teachers of English on the staff. Ted Boduch, president of Grade XII, acted as chairman. The speakers were introduced by Isabel Thomas and William Atkinson, and thanked by Dr. W. J. Asbury.

On Friday afternoon the boys of grade eight took part in a debate, the subject of which was, "Resolved that homework should be abolished."

The speakers for the affirmative side were, Stuart Donaldson, John Turnbull and Gordon MacDonald. The negative side of the resolution was upheld by Charles Curphey, John Brown and David MacIntyre. The chairman for the debate was Gordon Bunting, and a vote of thanks to the speakers was expressed by Donald Lyon. Members of the class acted as judges and gave their decision in favor of the affirmative.

WEATHER DATA TO BE GIVEN FROM MONTREAL

The Transport Department has announced details of the new weather forecasting inaugurated in the Montreal meteorological district on the general decentralization of the Canadian service announced earlier this month.

The district is sub-divided into 10 forecasting regions. The announcement gave the following boundaries for the district and its 10 regions:

The district extends from the international boundary to the Hudson Strait and is bounded on the west by Gananque, Chalk River and the eastern coast of Hudson Bay and extends eastward only as far as Father Point and the Labrador-Quebec boundary.

Ottawa region extends from Gananque to Chalk River and along the St. Lawrence River to near Cornwall then extending north, taking in the foothills of the Gatineau range.

Montreal region extends along the international boundary from Cornwall to Farnham and in a broken line northward to Drummond and Shawinigan Falls.

Quebec region extends down the St. Lawrence River from a point midway between Sorel and Three Rivers, east to La Malbaie, taking in both the north and south shores.

Sherbrooke region takes in the remainder of the Eastern Townships bounded by Farnham, Drummond, Megantic and Lake Frontenac.

Baie Comeau region extends northward from Lake Frontenac on the international boundary to the Saguenay River and northeast to the 50th parallel.

Laurentian region is triangularly shaped and extends north of the Ottawa and Montreal regions as far as Lake Kakabonga and as far east as Shawinigan Falls.

St. Maurice region extends north and east of Shawinigan Falls in Quebec City to the head of the St. Maurice River.

Lake St. John region takes in a large territory extending north of Quebec City and Levis to the 50th parallel.

Northern Quebec region extends from the 50th to the 55th parallel.

Ungava region extends northward to the Hudson Strait.

The statement said the Northern Quebec and Ungava regions were not likely to be used except when emergency forecasts were required.

Irishmen Through World Will Honor Patron Saint Tomorrow

Sons of Erin—whether they kissed the Blarney Stone in County Cork or not—will be fluently persuasive in extolling the virtues of their patron saint Patrick on his feast day tomorrow.

New admirers of the Emerald Isle and its great men are found among the troops who spent leave there during the war and while awaiting "that boat." Men with "Canada" on their tunics received a warm welcome there when the border was opened to uniforms again recently. During the war many had visited Eire in civilian dress.

Canadians of Irish descent will be wearing the green, carefully pulling on clay pipes and agreeing on one of the few subjects which they find above controversy—that March 17 should be a day of honor to the fifth century saint. But it was not ever thus.

At one time Irishmen split on the question of the anniversary of the death of St. Patrick at the Abbey Saul in County Down. One group said it was March 9 and another March 8. With a good eye for Hibernian compromise, a Father Mulcahey is said to have cleared up the controversy by adding eight and nine, satisfying both factions.

France, Wales, Scotland and Ireland have been named as St. Patrick's birthplace but it is fairly certain that he was a captive swineherd among the hills of Down at the beginning of the fifth century. Escaping from the Emerald Isle he wandered to Rome where he entered the priesthood and was sent by Pope Celestine to preach in Ireland.

St. Patrick is said to have established 365 churches and baptized more than 12,000 persons in the course of his missionary work. While speaking at Tara he immortalized the shamrock when he held it up as an example of the dogma of Trinity showing the possibility of three in one and one in three.

Some authorities link the shamrock with the legend of the saint's prowess as a banisher of snakes and toads. Pliny in his "Natural History" says the trefoil, similar to the trifoliate emblem of Ireland, prevails against the sting of snakes and scorpions.

Whatever it's powers may be, "himself" and "herself" will be sportin' the shamrock come the top of the mornin'.

Tourist Office Expects Huge Influx Of Americans In 1946

With gas now obtainable in unlimited quantities, it is expected 1946 will see the largest tourist trade ever to hit Canada. Already this year's influx of tourists from across the border has hit Sherbrooke, according to Lucien Robichaud, manager of the Tourist Information Bureau.

In the past week, Sherbrooke has been host to a number of American servicemen, and licence plates from south of the border have started to become commonplace.

With the war ended, and thousands of servicemen returned to their homes, the largest division of trade will be from this group. A survey conducted by the Ottawa Travel Bureau, of which Leo Dolan is in charge, shows that approximately 20,000,000 tourists will invade Canada's many beautiful resorts this year in the largest tourist rush in history.

And Sherbrooke is ready for her share.

The $2,000, four-color tourist map being prepared by the local tourist office is scheduled for release on April 1, it was learned today. This map of the City of Sherbrooke will include information on location of streets, establishments, parks, institutions, and will list pertinent statistics.

Reproductions of the various industries, centres, etc., in Sherbrooke, being drawn by a commercial artist, will enable the tourist to locate at a glance on the map any one of the various points of interest around the city.

Ten thousand copies of the new map will be available for tourists. It replaces one issued four years ago, which has become obsolete.

Red Cross To Start Drive For New Members In April

Launching of a province-wide membership enrolment drive, commencing on April 8, was announced today by officials of the Quebec Provincial Division of the Red Cross Society.

Paul Vaillancourt, newly elected president, in a special message has appealed to all residents of the province to join the Red Cross. "During the war," said Mr. Vaillancourt, "the Red Cross services saved 20,000,000 lives. In hospitals the Red Cross provided life-giving blood plasma and brought comfort and help to the wounded; in prisoner of war camps Red Cross food parcels ensured the health and morale of captured Empire servicemen."

"In peace," continued the president, "your Quebec Provincial Division of the Red Cross stands ready with a positive and vitally necessary program to meet local and humanitarian needs of a world ravaged by war. Faced with the tremendous responsibilities of a world now at peace your Canadian Red Cross needs the support which only the membership of every citizen of the Province of Quebec can give."

In outlining the peace-time program of the Quebec Provincial Division, the president pointed out that it would include seven major undertakings:

1—Aid for veterans to ensure maximum service to, and comforts for the war casualties in hospitals and convalescent homes within the Province, as well as aiding veterans and their dependents in distress.

2—Outpost nursing stations to serve sparsely populated areas in the Magdalen Islands and in the Gaspé Coast area.

3—Blood transfusion service to provide for civil and military hospital needs with the same assured supply of blood that generous donors make possible from the Red Cross during the war.

4—Mobile medical and dental clinics to provide health service in remote areas of the province.

5—Swimming and water safety program to train needy people between the ages of eight and 18 in swimming and water safety.

6—Disaster preparedness to supply medical stores, food, fuel and shelter, and distribute them strategically to be readily available at the scene of any emergency.

7—Junior Red Cross, through its branches in the schools, encourages and supports the training of its young members in the Red Cross tradition of health and unselfish service.

WILFRID SMITH IS HONORED BY RAIL WORKERS

A representative group of Canadian National Railway employees was present at the New Sherbrooke Hotel on Thursday night to honor Wilfrid Smith, former district freight agent at Sherbrooke, on his retirement from active service with the company.

Mr. Smith spent forty-seven years in railway service, and after serving in various capacities on the National System, terminated his service at Sherbrooke with the freight traffic department.

The gathering was presided over by S. E. Leger, division freight agent, Montreal, and a presentation of a purse was made to the guest of honor by P. J. Stock, general freight agent, Montreal, on behalf of those present.

FIVE ELECTED TO STUDENTS' COUNCIL OF B.U.

Charles Bunting, Fred Kelley, Frank Gooch, A. P. "Tony" Lee and Denzil Baird were declared elected to the Students' Executive Council of Bishop's University, following elections, held there yesterday. The announcement was made by William C. MacVean, chief returning officer. In all, fourteen candidates had contested the remaining five seats and this was believed to be a record number.

Charles Bunting, well known for his athletic activities at Sherbrooke High School, was elected president of the Athletic Committee, while Fred G. S. Kelley, of Compton, became the vice-president of Athletics. Frank Gooch, editor in chief of "The Mitre" became the president of the magazine. He had been a member of the staff for the past two years. Tony Lee, an ex-service student, was elected president of the Second Year, while Denzil Baird, of Carleton Place, Ont., captured the presidency of the Literary and Debating Society. Together with John Bagnall, president, Jean A. Martini, secretary-treasurer, Z. H. Posman, vice-president and Ben A. Midgley, president of Dramatics, the five elected yesterday will make up the 1946-47 Students' Executive Council.

The retiring council is as follows: Leonard J. Baird, president; William C. MacVean, secretary-treasurer; Fred Delaney, vice-president; Russell J. Burton, president of dramatics; Ben A. Reports Reviewing Busy Year Tabled By W.I. At Lennoxville

The thirtieth annual meeting of the Lennoxville branch of the Quebec Women's Institutes was held in the club room in the Town Hall on Thursday, Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie, retiring president, opened the meeting with the Salute to the Flag and the Collect for Club Women. In a short address, she thanked the members and officers for their kind co-operation during her term of office and presented Mrs. F. Glass with a small gift, expressing her personal appreciation for the work done by Mrs. Glass as ways and means co-ordinator and her committee, upon whom so much depends in the raising of funds. At this point, Mrs. Abercrombie asked Mrs. H. L. Wallace, first vice-president, to take the chair for the remainder of the meeting.

Several items of correspondence were read, which included a letter from the War-time Prices and Trade Board re butter reduction and maple products, and a letter of thanks from the Girl Guides for the use of the club room for a tea. The Norwegian Red Cross wrote thanking this branch for their assistance in knitting for their branch which is closing its activities in April.

Mrs. E. L. Atto, secretary, then gave a detailed report of the year's work, stating that in the past year the group had seen the end of a terrible war and peace once more, but that in many countries unrest and want were still a great concern. In her report she highlighted the visit of Miss Christmas, British organizer. This report showed the motto "For Home and Country" carried out completely for work done took in a wide scope from local services to aid to those across the sea.

Conveners' reports were then given, showing the work done in each department as follows: Agriculture by Mrs. L. B. Pierce, showing the interest in school fair work, etc.; home economics, by Mrs. S. Pegg, showing demonstrations in the preparation of foods, wartime saving hints, papers and talks; education and better schools by Mrs. R. A. Hill, showing prizes given the local high school, papers on this subject and informative talks; national and international relations by Mrs. M. E. McCurdy, read by Mrs. E. L. Atto; Red Cross and war services by Mrs. H. L. Wallace, which showed members had sewn 2,148 garments and knitted 152 garments for the local Red Cross, filled ditty bags, given cash donations to the V.O.N., Self-Defence Fund, Princess Alice Fund, Legion war memorial, jam for Britain and local Red Cross; welfare and health given by Mrs. Atto, showing donation to the Institute for the Blind and baskets sent to sick and shut-ins, etc.

The treasurer reported 31 members for the past year and the sum of $208.95 raised and $148.25 spent.

Mrs. F. Glass and Mrs. C. Prince acted as auditors.

Mrs. Nutbrown reported on the use of the room by others than the club, the I.O.D.E., Rebekahs and also as a kindergarten room.

Ways and means conveners, Mrs. Glass, reported means of raising funds, such as a food sale, sunshine bags, teas and a card party.

The sunshine committee conveners, Mrs. A. Hall, reported many sick and shut-ins remembered. This concluded the reports how and where the efforts of the members were spent and in all showing a most satisfactory year in spite of rationing, etc.

The conveners of the nomination committee, Mrs. F. Glass, then read the prepared slate of officers for the new year as follows: President, Mrs. Hugh L. Wallace; first vice-president, Mrs. B. A. Hill; second vice-president, Mrs. C. A. Prince; treasurer, Mrs. Lawrence Parker; secretary, Mrs. E. L. Atto.

Conveners: Agriculture, Mrs. L. B. Pierce; home economics, Mrs. S. Pegg; education, Mrs. B. A. Hill; welfare and health, Mrs. C. Nutbrown; Red Cross and war services, Mrs. H. L. Wallace; publicity, Mrs. E. L. Atto.

This slate was accepted as read. Mrs. Wallace thanked the members for their election and asked for their full support to carry on in the new year.

Business included the voting of $3 to send seeds to Britain.

A program committee was named consisting of Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie, Mrs. W. H. Hartley and Mrs. C. A. Prince, and Mrs. B. A. Hill and Mrs. E. L. Atto were named as delegates to the provincial convention to be held at Macdonald College in June.

Five new members were enrolled and twenty members renewed their membership.

Mrs. L. B. Pierce gave a report on the V.O.N. annual meeting held recently in Sherbrooke which she attended.

Mrs. Wallace asked the members to aid in sending clothing to Europe as outlined in a recent broadcast by Ethelyn Hobbes, who made a plea to all Canadian women in answer to a request from Dr. Joy, an observer for U.N.R.R.A., recently returned from the war-ravaged countries.

Hostesses for the afternoon tea were Mrs. A. Hall and Mrs. E. Hunting, acting for Mrs. R. Ray.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

The story of St. Patrick, whose memory those of Irish extraction honor tomorrow, is that of one born in the most humble circumstances who carried on a self-imposed mission with such zeal and sincerity that he established for himself a place in history that will survive as long as Christianity.

Being called in a vision received after his return to his native Scotland following an adventurous, and in many ways unhappy, youth, he cast aside ties and such comforts provided by his homeland to bring the Word to his one-time captors. Such was the success that met his work, that upon his death after sixty years of preaching the entire country was converted to Christianity.

St. Patrick left a message to the world, that of the tremendous possibilities of accomplishment through faith and it is this basic teaching that the Irishmen throughout the world will honor tomorrow.

A SIGNIFICANT STATEMENT.

Perhaps as startling to the average Canadian as the announcement of the discovery of the espionage ring itself was the statement in the second report of the Royal Commission that witnesses holding strategic positions have made "the significant statement under oath that they had a loyalty which took priority over the loyalty owed by them to their own country."

The meaning of this declaration is clear to all who wish to read it. Certain responsible officials in the employ of the Canadian Government or in the employ of companies working in the interests of the Canadian Government felt that certain political beliefs which they embraced were of greater importance to them than loyalty to the country by which they were employed and to which they had accepted allegiance. These beliefs were so strong that they felt justified in betraying matters of vital importance entrusted to them, despite the fact that they had sworn a solemn oath to retain these developments secret.

This places a clear responsibility on the Canadian Government and its investigating officials. A close examination must be made of all persons who are given access to supposedly secret information and their bona fides must be checked to the ultimate degree. This is not only a matter of concern for the safety of the state but it is also required to give justice to that vast majority of persons holding strategic positions who have faithfully observed their trust, often at considerable loss and inconvenience to themselves.

Persons in strategic positions in this country cannot have twin loyalties. Either they must be true supporters of the Canadian Governmental system, with the ideals and associations for which it stands, or they must be deprived of their posts and if guilty of subversive acts, should be punished to the limit of the law.

And having repudiated their Canadian nationality, which they obtained either by birth or adoption, they should be returned to their spiritual home—provided the country in question would receive them.

$10,000,000 FOR ANTI-T.B. WORK.

One of the most important announcements yet made in the age-long fight to improve the general health levels of this Province is the decision by the Government to provide $10,000,000 for the fight against tuberculosis. This disease each year takes a heavy toll across the Dominion but unfortunately the incidence of the disease in this Province is higher than elsewhere, which makes it more vital than ever that whole-hearted public support be provided for the purposes of the bill.

The bill is brief and simple. Under its terms the Government is authorized to adopt any measure it may deem expedient to combat tuberculosis. It may contribute to the cost of erecting sanatoriums, and providing their equipment, bear the cost of hospitalizing indigent consumptives, training specialists and undertaking a campaign of public education. For these various purposes it is authorized to spend the sum of $10,000,000 in the next four years.

The bill also provides for the establishment of an advisory board of five members, three of whom shall be physicians, to assist in the work, while the Cabinet may appoint a director-general to organize the fight against the white plague.

The government move is important in that it recognizes the urgency for greater attention to public health. Tuberculosis is a disease which, if it cannot be wiped out entirely, can be controlled by early diagnosis and proper treatment. There is still much to be learned about the plague, but this much is known to the medical profession: If a case is taken in time it can be cured. Undoubtedly some of this money will be diverted to research work to improve the knowledge of the disease and especially the preventive possibilities. Other portions will go to removing in eliminating those social conditions which breed the disease.

But most important of all is the campaign of public education it is proposed to undertake. As in any other fight against disease, the fight against tuberculosis requires whole-hearted public support, with appreciation of the need for early detection of the disease and the avoidance of those conditions which promote its spread. Without this, the expenditure of large sums is virtually useless.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES REFORM.

At the present time an organization in the mid-Western states is conducting a continent-wide campaign for the adoption of the metric system of measurement in the United States and Canada. It stresses the many obvious advantages of the metric system of weights and measures over the complicated system of inches, feet, rods and miles, and of pints, gallons, bushels and tons, which system is further complicated by the fact that Canada and the United States have two different basic standards for the measurement of gallonage. But desirable as the metric system may be, the difficulties and disadvantages of a change are almost insuperable. The metric system is as simple as the dollar, and certainly we would not change the dollar for the more complex sterling. But the old method of measurement has become so solidly entrenched in every aspect of our economic life that to uproot it would be almost disastrous.

The case of the North American system of weights and measures is somewhat akin to that of the calendar. No one in their right senses would start out to create a calendar which divided the year into twelve months, some of which consisted of thirty-one days, some of thirty, others of twenty-eight and occasionally one of twenty-nine. But still the proposals for calendar reform have made little actual progress. No one denies that a better system could be devised and several have been presented which possess obvious advantages. But the opposition to the change is the period of confusion which will inevitably result before any new plan becomes part of the world thinking, with perhaps a generation elapsing before the idea becomes automatic.

But the difficulties facing a change of the calendar would be nothing alongside the disturbance which would be caused by the changing of the system of weights and measures. Virtually every standard would have to be altered. There would have to be new thinking on the weights of a baby, on the rated capacity of a ship, on the measurement of a city lot and on the speed of an automobile or a train. For the youngsters in pre-school years or even those in the lower grades, the changeover might not be so difficult, but adults who have unconsciously adapted themselves to the present complicated practice would spend the greater part of their own remaining years in translating the new into the old and the old into the new. Tremendous indeed must be the advantages to compensate for this.

ANOTHER ROYAL VISIT.

Canadians who remember the wonderful uplift in the morale of this country caused by the Royal Visit of 1939 will fully appreciate the importance placed on the announcement that King George VI, Queen Elizabeth and the Princesses will make a visit to South Africa during 1947.

The Canadian tour of 1939 marked the first time the reigning members of the British Royal House have visited an overseas Dominion, although they have visited India to be crowned as rulers of that country, and the spontaneous nature of the welcome accorded them here was ample proof of the warm place which they hold in the hearts of the people.

But during the war years, their devotion to duty and the refusal of the King and Queen to leave the Mother Country for the comparative safety of one of the overseas Dominions has strengthened their position in the popular mind. Thus when they visit South Africa, they will be assured of a welcome as warm—warmer, if possible—as that they received in Canada.

It is also to be hoped that the South African trip presages a resumption of the scheme for increasing such Royal Visits and that Canada will be privileged to enjoy another such visit in the not far distant future.

KEEP YOUR EYES ON THE ROAD, MISTER

The Spirit Of St. Patrick

By REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

No Irishman would dare forget to observe St. Patrick's Day, March 17. So widespread and hearty are they in keeping the day that others catching their enthusiasm join in the celebration.

Lives of great men fascinate us, teaching us to make our lives sublime and departing leave behind them, footprints on the sands of time. So, tomorrow we shall think of the Emerald Isle with its castles and caves, rivers and lakes, wild roses and shamrocks and, in recalling the glorious history of "Ireland that was," determine to keep forever green Irish piety embedded in the spirit of St. Patrick.

VISION

Strange as it may seem, St. Patrick was not an Irishman but a Scotsman who became the best Irishman that ever lived! Ireland, indebted to a Scotsman, in return gave to Scotland her apostle St. Columba (521-596), famed for his piety, zeal, and, like St. Patrick, a man of prayer.

Not far from the small town of Dundal, near Glasgow, Scotland, about 1500 years ago there lived a farmer who was also a deacon in the Church named Calpurnius. He had a son named Suat who was also the idol of his father's priestly heart. At an early age Suat—that was Patrick's boyhood name—was carried captive from his Christian father's home and sold as a slave to a chieftain in Northern Ireland, who used him to herd his sheep. There he reflected on his early teaching, and, like the prodigal son, "came to himself." Later he escaped, was retaken, and again escaped. He spent some time in one of the monastic schools of France, and then returning to his father's house he had a night vision like Paul, and heard voices from the Irish coast crying, "We beseech thee, child of God, come and again walk among us."

For this lad there was only one thing to do. Disobedient he could never be to that heavenly vision. Parents could insist, friends persuade, but the path of service was clear. Ireland. All roads led there. So there he went. Vision, you observe, is very real to Youth. And is not vision the crucial need of our world just now? Let Youth keep their visions fine and noble. Our lack need the Vision Splendid which makes their boyhood free and fair, quick to help and brave to dare. Canada expects them to guard themselves from greed, selfishness and shame. For our girls we covet girlhoods that are fair and free, in mirth and love and modesty, preparatory to that day when they will rule as queens in heaven by their vision, and, like the Head, the Silent Listener to every conversation and the Unseen Guest at every meal. With vision, life can be beautiful, full of adventure, thrilling. Let our Youth, from the heights, view life steadily and in totality. It is in the fabric of our social, industrial, political and religious life that "where there is no vision the people perish" (Prov. 29:18). And vision means a seeing of life above the surface of things, a getting at the meanings and values, the thinking and doing, the going out and the coming in, a getting at the heart of human life and destiny. Life without vision is purposeless, aimless, and meaningless. Nor should we forget that a vision has terminal faculties and leads you to a goal. It is vision issuing in action that Youth craves. St. Patrick had this in rich measure.

VENTURE

Ireland, with its paganism, appealed to his adventurous spirit. Many difficulties confronted him there. The pagan chieftains of the Druids opposed his work of widespread and vigorous evangelism. But this did not discourage him. The music of the harp often cheered him; the green of the Emerald Isle inspired him with enthusiasm, vivacity and ardor to devote all his tremendous energy to the cause of Christ. Nothing mattered but Christ. He would do the will of God and glorify Him. Everywhere people gathered around this man with a message and, in the open fields, he preached Christ to them, using, on one occasion, the shamrock to illustrate the doctrine of the Trinity with its three petals and one stem suggesting "One God with Persons Three."

Throughout Canada one suspects that many are walking in the steps of St. Patrick. In the country, in small missions, oft in the waste places of the earth, you will find evangelists who know not the inspiration of great crowds. Only to make Christ real that people say see Him in his ambition. Nothing spectacular accompanies their message, yet Christ is near and dear. Unsung, week in and week out, they perform their ministrations that hearts may find God. No reward they ask save that of the Saviour's heart. With Patrick, in a great chain of prayer across the ages, they re-echo his words: "May Christ be with us, Christ before us, Christ over us. May Thy salvation, O Lord, be always ours this day and for evermore."

Such men are "sermons in shoes." I salute them. That first great missionary to Ireland and immortal patron saint was one of these. For 60 years he proclaimed the "good news" with burning zeal and deep sincerity, coupled with a kindly gentle manner that completely won the hearts of peasant and noble alike. When he died all Ireland was Christian. No wonder, with such a spiritual giant who loved God sincerely and faithfully served his fellow-man. His faith made him great and his life a beautiful commentary on the words "This is the victory that overcometh the world even our faith."

VICTORY

Hundreds of churches built and thousands of converts won for Christ and His Church are only a part of St. Patrick's thrilling ad-

Letters To The Editor

THE SAFETY OF THE ARENA

Dear Sir:—In reply to the recent letter by a hockey fan criticizing the Arena building, we wish to point out that the government inspector and the City of Sherbrooke building inspector have inspected the Arena building and have given their approval on its safety. They also have had the wall reinforced for the time being with instructions to have the part rebuilt in the spring.

We are sorry to say the hockey fan has taken it upon himself to condemn the building before finding out the particulars from the proper parties.

We are just as anxious to have every hockey fan safe while at the games and will do all in our power to live up to that.

ventures. Monastic schools which became centres of learning and devotion made their influence—the influence of St. Patrick—felt throughout the Middle Ages and to distant parts of the world. Altogether Patrick imparted a strong impulse to any other man to Medieval Missions. If we would discover his secret let Patrick in his "Confessions" speak for himself. "I saw him praying in me, and he was as it were within my body, and I heard above me, that is, above the inner man, and there he was praying mightily with groanings. And meanwhile, I was stupefied and astonished, and pondered who it could be that was praying in me. But at the end of the prayer he spoke as if he were the Spirit. And so I awoke and remembered that the Spirit says, 'The Spirit helps the infirmities of our prayers.' For we know not what we should pray, as we ought but the Spirit Himself asketh for us with unspeakable groanings." With John Bunyan, that great evangelist, with his immortal "Pilgrim's Progress," St. Patrick stands. Today we may with profit imitate and absorb the piety, zeal and the life of prayer of St. Patrick, Bishop of Armagh. Across

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenney, America's Card Authority

RESPONSE DEPENDS ON WHO IS PARTNER

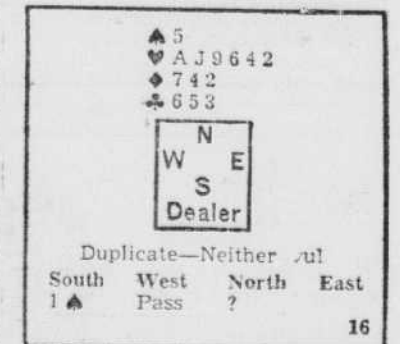

Every couple of weeks I have luncheon at the New York Athletic Club with Bert Lebar and Lee Hazen, treasurer and counsellor, respectively, of the American Contract Bridge League.

Every meeting is interrupted with a bridge hand. The one I am giving you today threatened to wreck the meeting at which it came up.

South bids one spade, West passes. What should North do with the cards shown?

The first thing I asked was, "Who is my partner?" and Lebar said, "Waldemar von Zedtwitz." In that case, I said, I might bid two hearts, but Hazen disagreed, insisting that I would have to bid one no trump because von Zedtwitz is the lightest opening bidder in the world. Hazen said, however, that he would risk a two-heart bid if Lebar were his partner.

We all agreed that if North bids two hearts and South bids two spades, North then should pass.

That is the way the bidding went when the hand was played. East and South then passed, but West doubled. East held all the two hearts, but Hazen disagreed, insisting that I would have to bid one no trump because von Zedtwitz is the lightest opening bidder in the world. Hazen said, however, that he would risk a two-heart bid if Lebar were his partner. We all agreed that if North bids two hearts and South bids two spades, North then should pass.

 Sunday Service: 11 a.m.
 Subject: "Substance."
 Sunday School: 10 a.m.
 Testimonial meeting: Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.
 Reading room open daily from 3 to 5 except Saturday, Sunday and Holidays: Friday, 7.30 to 9 p.m. at His Majesty's Building.

"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 17th, 1946.
 The Golden Text is from Proverbs 22:4, "By humility and the fear of the Lord, are riches and honor and life."
 Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "My son, forget not my laws; but let thine heart keep my commandments; Honor the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase." (Proverbs 3:1, 9).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "As God is substance and man is the divine image and likeness, man should wish for, and in reality has, only the substance of God, the only substance of Spirit, not matter. The belief that man has any other substance, or mind, is not spiritual and breaks the First Commandment, Thou shalt have one God, one Mind." (Page 301).

MIND YOUR MANNERS

The Situation: You want to invite a young man to a dance given by a club of which you are a member, but there is no one you have been dating regularly.

Wrong Way: Ask another member to get you a blind date.
 Right Way: Invite any young man who has recently asked you for a date or who has seemed friendly toward you.

ST. CATHERINE'S BRANCH OF ST. PETER'S W.A.

The annual meeting of the St. Catherine's group was held at the home of Mrs. Lennox Wilson with an attendance of twenty members. Mrs. T. R. Edney opened the meeting with the W.A. prayer.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved. The secretary reported a membership of thirty-six. Mrs. Philip Robins acted as the delegate at the Diocesan annual in Quebec City in May.

The president, Mrs. T. K. Kennedy, represented the group at the Diocesan meeting in St. Peter's church hall in October. Lectures on missions were enjoyed during the year as well as the reading from the study book "West of the Date Line" and "More Than Conquerors" by Mrs. Lennox Wilson, educational secretary.

The Rev. Russel Brown was present at several meetings and gave an informal talk on missions in China and Japan, followed by an open discussion of the subject. Deaconess Bendall attended the December meeting and explained the weaving and plastic work which she is now doing with the Hobby Club. Everyone showed a keen interest in her samples done at Macdonald College and approved a donation for necessary equipment.

The members are now able to join the Blue Cross Hospital plan as a group under the W.A.

In September penny bags were distributed to many church members and the receipts have been very gratifying.

Mrs. S. Knox, Dorcas secretary, reported a bale shipped in October to the Anglican mission at Drayton Valley, Alberta, including an assortment of new books, games and drawing materials for the children.

Three ditty bags were filled and forwarded to the Navy League. Donations were made to the Deaconess Building fund, Orphaned Missions (Europe), Princess Alice Fund and St. Peter's W.A.

The Little Helpers had a very successful year under the convener, Mrs. H. Simm. Many new members were enrolled and calls made.

The annual party was held in October, when the children presented their "mite" boxes at a special church service followed by refreshments served in the hall, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion. Each child received a candy treat.

Mrs. H. A. McFarland reported seven subscriptions to the Living Message and the sale of twenty-three calendars.

Officers for 1946 are: Honorary president, Mrs. Philip Robins; president, Mrs. T. K. Kennedy; first vice-president, Mrs. R. I. McCabe; second vice-president, Mrs. T. R. Edney; secretary, Mrs. Norris Robins; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. Arthur Kerridge; educational secretary, Mrs. Lennox Wilson; Living Message, Mrs. J. Coyle; Little Helpers, Mrs. Bruce Lothrop; (chairman), Mrs. Rockwell, Mrs. T. Kennedy, Mrs. S. Knox, Mrs. R. McCabe, Mrs. T. R. Edney.

The meeting adjourned and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. J. Buckell and Mrs. R. Neville.

Too Tired? Try This Pepper-Up

ARLINE JUDGE: Pep-up tips.

By ALICIA HART

Ever feel that you can hardly lift the mascara on your eyelashes, you're SO TIRED? Sure, and yet you need to keep going for a big date?

Take exercise. As contradictory as it sounds, that's what see entertainers swear by when they need to banish fatigue and go from one show to another with a lift in their voice and a skip in their steps.

Willing to spill secrets is actress Arline Judge, frequently heard on Dave Elman's Radio Auction Show. Her technique is to lie down on the mat after she takes a hot bath and go into her exercise. For that, she brings knees to chest, clasps legs tightly with her hands, and rocks up and down on her back like a self-propelling ski.

Try it and see if you don't want to add this method of pep-transfusion to your repertoire of tricks.

To Be Married In August

Principals in an approaching wedding are pictured here. They are Shirley Laverne MacVicar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John MacVicar, of New Aberdeen, N.S., and Frederick Allan Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Hill, of Lennoxville, Que., whose marriage will take place in August.

TOWEL TACTICS

by Alice Brooks

Sgt. and Mrs. D. I. Dundin, of Halifax, N.S., are spending two weeks in Lennoxville, visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dundin.

Mr. Norrey W. Price, who has been a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital for two weeks, is now convalescing favorably at his home, 74 Mount Pleasant Street.

Mrs. John Carroll has arrived from Montreal, to spend a short time with her young son, John, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Miller Hall, Portland Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. B. I. Fainer, of Outremont, Que., announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Esther Goldie, to Mr. Joseph Middleton, son of Rev. and Mrs. A. S. Middleton.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzgerald announce the engagement of their daughter, Beatrice Annie, to Mr. John Guildford Shaw, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Guildford Shaw, of Magog. The marriage will take place quietly the latter part of the month.

Mrs. Percy Rawlings and Miss Vina Brownlow, acting jointly as hostesses, entertained the members of the Ladies' Guild at the close of the regular meeting in the Plymouth Church parlor. Mrs. W. Rook, president, presided over the business period during which committees were appointed for the coming spring sale to be held on April 13th. A pleasant social hour ensued, the hostesses serving dainty refreshments with Mrs. E. Kennett assisting.

Mrs. P. Angers, Mrs. A. Allard, Mrs. A. Gaudier, Mrs. J. Levesque, Mrs. F. Steben and Miss Ina Cobleigh were hostesses this week for the Ladies' Sherbrooke Curling Club tea. In compliment to St. Patrick's Day the decorations were effectively carried out in green and white, the Club room being en fête for the largely attended and enjoyable tea party. Mrs. J. Mooney and Mrs. R. Gelinas did the honors, presiding at the silver services on either end of the pretty table, on which a golden harp decorated with sprays of shamrock and green ribbons and lighted green candles in silver candlesticks were effectively arranged.

Mrs. F. Cathcart, president of the Women's Auxiliary of Trinity United Church, and the members attending this week's meeting in the Club Room, later adjourned to the tea room to attend the St. Patrick's tea, being given there by the Women's Association. During the meeting the members were privileged in having with them the Reverend Fred Williams, who officiated at the opening devotional exercises, and later addressed the group. Basing his remarks on the story of Mary and Martha, the pastor spoke of the need of preparation in the home, using as an illustration, the aforementioned women entertaining our Lord, and urged more frequent "talks with God," through the medium of prayer, accepting His strength and help at all times, to meet difficult situations. On behalf of the members the president voiced thanks and appreciation to Mr. Williams, whose kindly words of advice to housewives, will most surely bear fruit in many homes.

DOROTHY DIX

Husband's Love Dims

Wife Should Give Up Man Who Doesn't Love Her

DEAR MISS DIX: My brother has been married for three years and is bored to death with domestic life and wants his freedom. He says that he has no fault to find with his wife and that she is everything that a wife should be, but he craves his freedom above everything else.

His wife loves him and is heartbroken. There must be some justice for the woman. Have you any suggestion?

A SISTER.
 ANSWER: There is no justice in affairs of the heart. There can be none in the very nature of things because we cannot control our emotions. We cannot revive love when it is dead. We cannot infuse a thrill into a situation out of which it has evaporated. We cannot of our will create an appetite for that for which we have lost our taste.

Always the innocent must suffer, and the tragedy of it is that there is nothing that can be done about it. Nobody can help it. And so often nobody is really to blame. It just happens.

ARDOR VANISHES

Such seems to be the case of your brother. No doubt when he married his wife he thought he was very much in love with her. Then, presto, his infatuation vanishes into thin air. He knows he doesn't love the woman he has taken for his wife. The fetters of matrimony chafe him at every move. Home is a jail and his every longing is for freedom.

If he is of the butterfly type, he simply flies the coop. But if he is of the stuff of which martyrs are made, he braces himself up and pays the penalty of his mistake by doing his duty as a husband and father. If he is modern he demands a divorce, or if he is of the old school he becomes a philanderer who is never true to his wife.

In any case what can the poor wife do? How can there be any justice for her? She can't make him love her or want her. She can chain his body to her but not his spirit. Nothing she can do will turn him into a devoted husband.

I think that the wisest thing that a woman can do who has a husband who wants to be free of her is just to be a good sport and let him go.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a pleasure-seeking girl and love to go out and have fun, but my mother won't let me go unless she knows the life history of the boys I go with. The result of this is that I have very few dates. I will go crazy if something doesn't happen. Please tell me what to do.

MISERABLE

ANSWER: My advice to you is to listen to your mother and obey her. She is trying to protect you from your own folly. No mother should let her daughter go out with boys unless she knows all about them. And certainly she should know where her daughter goes. Of course, you want to have a good time and you are entitled to just as much innocent pleasure as you can get, but let it be the right sort of fun and the kind that won't leave you sick and sorry with shame for having done things that you will spend your life regretting.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 14. Have been in love with a boy for a long time, but lately he seems to shun me. I guess you think I am young to think of such things, but I am sort of old for my age. My fire of hope is almost extinguished. Please tell me what is best to do.

TINY.
 ANSWER: Well, Tiny, my advice to you is to study and read and improve your mind. Learn to play all sorts of games and to sew. Decide on what career you mean to follow and begin fitting yourself for that. Join the Girl Scouts. The world is so full of a number of things besides boys that no girl of 14 need worry about what a 16-year-old boy thinks of her.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

Try Making Cough Syrup at Home. Quick Relief

Saves You Big Dollars. And It's So Easy! No Cooking.
 No matter what you usually use for coughs due to colds, you'll be more than surprised when you make up this favorite home mixture and give it a trial. You'll wonder why you never used it before. It certainly does its work effectively.
 Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—it's no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired.
 Get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex. Four this into a 16 oz. bottle and fill up with your syrup. This makes 16 ounces—a family supply—and gives you about four times as much for your money. Never spoils—tastes so good that children love it.
 And for quick action, you'll say it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easier, and lets you sleep.
 Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known as a soothing agent for throat and bronchial irritations.
 Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

There were no further reports from two Russian columns which left Tabriz several days ago. One moved into Mianeh, midway between Lake Urmia and the Caspian Sea, while the other was last reported swinging west toward Khor, north of Lake Urmia, toward the Turkish boundary.

British correspondents returning from Karaj, 20 miles northwest of here, quoted residents as saying the Russian garrison there had received four trainloads of supplies and reinforcements in eight days.

DENIED A DIVORCE

Los Angeles, March 16.—(P)—Violinist Erma Rubinstein was denied a divorce yesterday from screen writer George Bruce and was ordered to return an $8,000 dollar ring which she said was an engagement token. Bruce was granted a decree by Judge William S. Baird, who commented: "She disgraced him publicly as a man who beats a woman. He was proved not guilty." Bruce was arrested last July on his wife's complaint and acquitted of assault and battery. Bruce wept at the decision. "I wish it happened to me instead of her," he said.

French Speaking

French on behalf of the French-speaking people of Canada.

Capl. Viau spoke as reports spread that some French-speaking members of the Commons were preparing to oppose the loan on the grounds the terms were too generous.

Col. Winters, a veteran of overseas service with the Royal Canadian Engineers, said he looked on the loan as a business proposition, "intended to give Britain the opportunity of buying Canadian products," and as such it will be enthusiastically endorsed.

"It would be generally recognized as fit and proper for Canada to wish to help England to the greatest possible extent, in the light of her extreme and disproportionate wartime sacrifices," said Col. Winters. "But at the same time, it is well to remember that the loan is greatly to Canada's interest from the point of view of business and post-war trade."

Stressing the need for close co-operation between the provinces and the Dominion, Col. Winters said:

"We must keep in mind that if we are to be a nation we must go forward as one unified country and not as nine separate and loosely co-ordinated provinces with boundaries closely drawn. To the greatest possible extent the same fruits of nationhood should be enjoyed by all citizens regardless of where they happened to be born or dwelt."

"The Government is to be highly commended for its forceful leadership and steps in this direction through the medium of its proposals to the Dominion-Provincial Conference."

He outlined the needs of his province and said that while Nova Scotians did not believe any Dominion-Provincial agreement would provide a cure-all it would be a "great step forward toward understanding."

Clinging Vines

Exciting moment during basketball game in which Idaho's scrappy Vandals beat California Bears, 25 to 23 in Pacific Coast Conference game, as Andy Wolfe (24) tries to take ball from Jack Phoenix of Vandals.

Lortie Reappears In Bout Tonight

Two of last week's winners, lantern-jawed Paul (Lever) Lortie, the lithesome leaper, and legendary Bob (Legs) Langevin, he of the steely scissors, bare their fangs and go to work on each other tonight in the main bout of the weekly rassin' card at the Belvidere Street Armory.

In the semi-final, that notorious character who travels under the name of Jean Pusie, member of the professional ranks of hockey, lacrosse, boxing, wrestling and practically any other sport one could mention outside of the Joekey business, tangles with Bob Lortie, who drew last week with Mike Dimitri, the grunting Greek.

Two other bouts match George Cagney, floored last Saturday by Paul Lortie, against Jack (Laruping) Larouche, and George Brown against Leo St. Francois, who also ran last week.

Leaping Lortie, exponent of the flying mare and junior world heavyweight wrestling titleholder (when), will in all probability be cast in the role of the villain again when he takes on popular Legs Langevin, apparently none the worse for the eye-massage he got last week from dreadful Durocher's taped hand. Who the villains will be in the other bouts has not yet been announced.

About 1,700 witnessed the body-hurling last Saturday, and with no competing hockey game tonight, even a larger crowd is expected. Note to promoter: make an attempt to cancel the long time-lag between bouts.

Randers Take Ice Against Vics In Series Curtain-Raiser Tomorrow

Sherbrooke Randers open their post-season final playoff series against Victoriaville Tigres tomorrow afternoon at the local Arena in what promises to be a ding-dong, up-and-down, back-and-forth, see-saw, best-of-seven struggle—not to mention known-down-drag-out.

It's just two weeks tomorrow since Vics and Randers last hooked up. On that occasion, March 3, Tigres knocked off the local 3-1 in probably the fastest game seen here this season. Since then Victoriaville has been busily engaged getting by St. Hyacinthe in four games and Sherbrooke in epinning Lachine Rapides into the 1945-46 season limbo.

Over the regular season Sherbrooke held a slight advantage on their present opponents, whom they had to push off the top rung before they could pull themselves into that position in the final week of play. In eight scheduled games between the two squads Sherbrooke won four, lost three and tied one. They did better on away ice, winning two and tying one out of four games.

Here is the season's record:

	P.	W.	L.	D.	F.	P.
Sherbrooke	8	4	3	1	30	26
Victoriaville	8	3	4	1	26	30

Forest Keene, one of the directors of the Sherbrooke Club, will make a final plea to the Q.A.H.A. for entry into the Allan Cup playoffs tomorrow night when he will confer with Norman Davies, president of the Association. Randers and the Tigres are both willing to take up the quest of the Allan Cup and the directors of the two clubs feel that loyal fans will be done out of a good deal of hockey if the Q.A.H.A. backs out. After all, they point out, how can any team claim to be champions of the province with the right to enter the Allan Cup playoffs if they don't meet the Provincial League champions?

At a meeting held yesterday afternoon it was decided that the first four playoff games of the final series with Victoriaville will take place in Sherbrooke on Sunday, March 17, Tuesday, March 19, Thursday, March 21, and Sunday, March 24. If the series goes beyond four games, they will also be played at the local Arena due to the fact that Victoriaville has no artificial ice. They will be on Tuesday, March 26, Thursday, March 28, and Sunday, March 31.

"Y" Girls Meet Richmond Tonight

Two ladies' basketball fixtures are on tap for tonight with one taking place at the Y.M.C.A. and the other in Windsor Mills. Osaie Clarke's Circettes will tangle with the Smart Sports of Scotland Dress Co., Montreal, at the "Y.M." while in Windsor Mills, the Y.W.C.A. and Richmond meet in the third game of their best-of-three series.

The winner of tonight's bout in Windsor Mills will meet the league titlist, Circo, for the ladies' championship of the E.T.B.A.

In the first game of the series, which was played in Richmond, the St. Francis College quintette romped to an easy 24-9 win over the "Y" but in the second game, played at the Y.W.C.A., the tables were turned and the "Y" lassies emerged victorious on the long end of a 21-14 count.

In this last do-or-die session, it is understood that both units will come out fighting and in that case, the upholders will be on hand to scoop up the fallen hair after the game.

In the other game scheduled to take prominence this week-end, the Circoettes will meet one of Montreal's top-notch cage squads in the Scotland Dress Co.'s Smart Sports. This team is one of the leading contenders for the Montreal Junior championship and the game is designed to serve as a tune-up for Circo's series with the winner of the Richmond-"Y" go.

These two teams will tee off at 7:30.

THE BLEEKES' STORY

WASH TUBBS

THE BLEEKES HAD NO REASON TO DOUBT THAT JEROME'S BODY WAS IN THE CASKET UNTIL THEY WERE ALONE WITH IT—AND WALK!

WHEN WALK OPENED IT THAT HIDEOUS BRUTE TRIED TO RAISE UP! OH IT WAS HORRIBLE!

THEN THEY TOLD YOU HOW THE SON YOU WERE SO PROUD OF REALLY DIED. MR. BLEEKER... SHOT DOWN AS A KIDNAPER!

YES... THEY HAD PROOF... WARNED THAT UNLESS HE HAD JULIE FOR A WHILE, THEY'D REVEAL JEROME'S DISGRACE!

YOU COULDN'T BEAR THAT... SO HE HELD THE FUNERAL WITH SEATED GUESTS... THEN, KEPT VISITORS FROM YOUR HOME!

An Eye for an Eye, Bud

How questioned Vera for an hour. She told a straight story.

I HAD YOU IN HERE BEFORE AND YOU SAID YOU DIDN'T KNOW A THING. WHY DIDN'T YOU TELL US ABOUT SCAR?

I HAD NO REASON TO SUSPECT HIM OF KILLING JEROME. I WASN'T SUSPICIOUS UNTIL TONIGHT.

WHEN HE ACTED SO STRANGE, I HAD GONE TO BED. HE INSISTED THAT I GET UP AND GO OUT WITH HIM.

WHAT HAPPENED TO YOUR BLACK EYE? SCAR SAID IT WAS YOU, DIDN'T HE?

I WENT OVER IT WITH MAKEUP. ROY PRETENDED TO BE SORRY HE HIT ME. SAID HE GOT JEALOUS WHEN I WENT OUT WITH YOU, BUT I GUESS HE WAS AFRAID TO HAVE ME TALK TO YOU.

I went then to take a look at Scar. I wanted to check on something.

IT'S A BEAUTY, SCAR. YOU LOOK WELL IN BLACK. THAT'S WHY I SHAKED YOU IN THE EYE INSTEAD OF THE CHIN. IT SEEMED LIKE A NICE WAY TO SQUARE THINGS FOR VERA.
