30 years of Touring les Arts

By Ocean Francoeur
Special to The Record

From July 14 to 22, the towns of Sutton, Abercorn, Knowlton, Bolton, Potton and Brome will be immersed in the unique world of art, music and theater. Running for an impressive 30 years, the annual Tour des Arts allows visitors to go behind the scenes where the magic happens, and meet local artists in an intimate and unique way, while simultaneously enjoying the beauty of the region.

The president of the Tour, Almut Ellinghaus, was delighted to have another year of the event start up again.

"You get to come see local artists' studios. You're in their space, you see all their work, their process, what makes them tick. Every year there are new artists on the tour. There's always something new to see, and artists are always taking things in new directions, so it's new even if they're not new," she said. "You can just come by, have fun, drive, stop at B&Bs, restaurants. And the drive is so beautiful through the lovely bucolic landscapes."

According to her, the tour would be impossible without the volunteers that help organize the nine-day festivities.

"The event is almost exclusively volunteer-run by the artists themselves. To be part of the Tour, you have to agree to volunteer. After all these years, we've all grown very close," she said. "It's such a special event, people want to make it work. It's good for the artists and the region too. We bring in around 7 000 tourists into the region with the tour. People see that, and we're recognized as being an economic motor for the area."

Ellinghaus herself is part of the Tour des Arts, as a clay sculptor, and has been since the early 2000s. She speaks from experience when she calls the event "simply fabulous".

John Davidson, from Bolton West, is a ceramics artist. His current work concentrates on Raku, a quick gas fired technique and either pit or barrel firing. It is left to burn for several hours and while the results are random, they are often incredibly beautiful.

CONT'D FROM PAGE 1 "For the artists it's so special. Typically for an exhibit, we have to travel, and we don't always end up in the most beautiful area either," she chuckled. "But during the tour, people come to us, we bring them into our homes. They see who we are, not just the result, and that makes it very special for us."

To celebrate their third decade of festivities, Ellinghaus was happy to announce that this landmark year will be immortalized on film. Local photographer and filmmaker, Tristan Corbeil Lapointe, has been invited to capture the artists and visitors of the tour to construct a special 30th anniversary exhibit: "Le photographe convié", or "The guest photographer". The exhibit will be held at the Theatre Lac Brome on July 8, from 2 to 5 p.m.

"It's going to be a beautiful and intimate view of the life and process of our local artists," said Ellinghaus. "It's very interesting because you get to see artists looking at artists. I suspect it will be a unique view."

Another exhibit will follow the special anniversary one. It will be held on July 12, the day before the Tour officially starts, July 13. This one will feature samples of each artists' work on the Tour and will run from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Arts Sutton Gallery.

"We have quite a variety, and there's a lot to see," continued Ellinghaus. "It's a good preview. You can get an idea of who you want to see in particular, if you don't want to go to each stop."

The Tour des Arts features artists of all kinds exploring tons of different mediums, such as painting, drawing, photography, sculpture, cabinet making, ceramics, jewelry, textiles, glass and mixed media. Visitors are invited, every day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., into the artists' studios, homes, and gardens to chat, observe them at work, or buy their crafts. During the nine days of the event, after the artists close up their workshops, the towns involved in the Tour will be bustling with more activities, including theater, music and poetry.

Tour des Arts

According to Ellinghaus, all artists are locals; it is a requirement to join the tour. Visitors, however, hail from surrounding areas, like Quebec City, Montreal and Vermont. Stanley Lake, Ellinghaus' husband and co-founder of the Tour des Arts, says that at least 60% of the visitors at the event are from out of town.

Lake remembers the humble beginnings of the Tour well. The idea of in-studio tours was one that he at first kept to himself, out of fear that spreading the idea would cut into his own revenues.

"Typically, as an artist, you have to do a lot of self-promotion, so I used to do it alone," he explained. "But then it seemed like a good vehicle to promote both myself and other locals. And my fears were unjustified: I learned a lesson. My revenue multiplied, and I gathered a lot more interest than I would have alone."

The Tour then began thanks to Lake's ideas and Maya Lightbody and Liz Davidson's organizational skills.

"The first year we only had 12 participants, one restaurant on board, and a hand-drawn map of the Tour," reminisced Lake, in comparison to this edition's 35 artists and many local eateries. "You really see the evolution of the event when you look at the huge amount of support we've gathered over the years. That's the entire reason it's been going on for so long: people have adopted it."

"Another thing that has developed a lot are the night events that visitors can enjoy," he added. "I have to be in my studio every day until five, but at least four nights a week I go out and play with some local bands."

Lake has been playing the trumpet since he was four years old, though he's only been playing in the jazz scene for the past 25 years. His role in the art tour, however, is as a potter.

"At university I was studying to become an urban planner, but I took a pottery course, just to see," he said. "As soon as I touched the clay I had like an epiphany. I knew that that was it, that was my passion. I work on it 8 hours a day ever since."

Lake, like his wife, believes that the Tour des Arts provides a unique experience, not only for the visitors, but the artists themselves.

"When me and my wife go on trips we always visit artists' studios. They're so interesting and inspiring. You get to see the ebb and flow of creativity, the environment, tools, visuals that inspire the artist. That's something we don't always see as a society; where the products we consume are made, and how," he said. "For the artist, typically the studio is private, as is the creative process. I can't speak for everyone, but for me it is. It's an exploration, and exploration does not involve conversation, except with yourself. But it's an important process, one that's not easy to put into words. When visitors come, they force you to do that, to break down those processes and explain why you're doing what you're doing, and I think that benefits everyone."

The Tour des Arts also has a charitable side, one that is very important to Lake. The Tour des Arts Fundraiser serves to create and build on art workshops in local youth centers. Artists of the Tour that sport the fundraiser logo pledge to give a percentage of their revenues from the tour to the initiative.

"With the Tour, if young people get anything out of it, I hope that it is that they should follow through with their passion. I hope that they see how it's possible, that they have a window where they can glimpse that possibility," said Lake. "When you do what you love, whether it has to do with computers, art, writing, whatever, it becomes play instead of work. I want to expose children to these processes, give them an opportunity to be in the studio, to be inspired, so they can say: 'Hey, that's something I could do'."

Katka Hubacek, a mixed-media artist, is going to be part of the Tour for the first time, though she's been coming to the event for years. Her mother, Pina Macku, has been part of the tour for 20 years, and she herself calls the Townships home. This year, she found a synchronicity between the event and the direction her art was taking, so she finally decided to get on board.

"I can't speak for all artists, but my work is all about feeling. My studio is where I feel most comfortable, it's a safe place. I like that with the tour I can just sit down and draw, if I'm tired, or awkward. You can focus on something besides just the sale," she explained.

"My art is a lot of self-discovery, I'm still figuring it out. My more personal pieces explore vulnerability, facades, showing feeling, the comfortable and the uncomfortable. I've been looking a lot at the relationships between the home and the heart," she said. "Sutton is a huge part of my life, and I want it to be for my kids too. In the Townships, I feel such a sense of home. It just felt like a natural way to gravitate. And it's so beautiful here too. There's so much beauty to explore, both within the artists homes, and between them."

Alessia Cara among early round of confirmed performers for iHeartRadio MMVAs

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian pop singer Alessia Cara is headed back to the iHeartRadio MMVAs.

The Grammy winner is among the first round of performers confirmed for the massive Toronto street party, which unfolds this year in August.

Cara is no stranger to the MMVAs event, having co-hosted last year's show alongside Joe Jonas when it was called the iHeartRadio Much Music Video Awards.

But this year she returns carrying some major clout: she took home the Grammy Award for best new artist in January.

Cara, who hails from Brampton, Ont., is also putting the finishing touches on her second album, "The Pains of Growing," which includes the new single "Growing Pains."

Two other acts were announced for the MMVAs - Halsey and masked electronic producer Marshmello, who takes the stage with British singer Anne-Marie for their radio hit "Friends."

The iHeartRadio MMVAs are undergoing a two major changes this year led by its owner Bell Media.

The broadcaster chose to officially abbreviate the event's name and remove a reference to the "Much Music Video Awards," the title it adopted in the mid-1990s when it aired primarily on the Canadian music video channel. It added iHeartRadio to its name in 2016 as part of a corporate partnership.

The awards show, which broadcast in mid-June for 15 years, is also returning to its roots as a late-summer shindig timed for the back-to-school season. The show will air on CTV, Much and stream through the iHeartRadio app on Aug. 26.

ShazamFest coming up July 12-15 in Barnston West

Lucky 13th edition highlights emerging talent & international guests

Record Staff

ShazamFest Founder and Director, Ziv Przytyk, is thrilled to invite the public to Quebec's most eclectic outdoor celebration of whimsical talent in the pristine setting of his Eastern Townships organic family farm, from July 12 to 15.

For its 13th edition, the festival is eager to announce a few new features that range from added stages to charitable partnerships, in addition to lively musical performances, fearless circus acts, upbeat burlesque showcases, thrilling theatrical presentations, spectacular displays of athletics, fun-filled workshops, free camping, locally-sourced organic food, and so much more!

Lucky lineup 13

On the constant hunt for emerging local talent, and by upholding its ongoing commitment to the federal government's Canadian Heritage program for community building and arts & culture initiatives in rural areas, ShazamFest's 13th edition will showcase up-and-coming acts from the region more than ever this year! Having held 2 editions of the Shazam Battle of the Bands in the Townships this past spring, both winners—teen soul-jazz phenomenon Echo Funk, alt-pop rockers Leave the City—and Sherbrooke's freshest indie theatre collective Occult Burlesque (set to mystify festival-goers with their special Friday the 13th production Devil In My Cup) will share the main stage with notable names from across the province and a select few international acts!

Homegrown headliners include Mickey Dangerous with his versatile vocals and enchanting reggae rhythms, rockabilly blues champion Bloodshot Bill, and the rock-opera steampunk stylings of Jardin Mécanique, alongside international guests RTRXN (a.k.a. Retro Porno), organic electro trailblazers from Mexico, and the one-man band extravaganza Bob Log III, who returns for his second ShazamFest appearance, this time fired-up with pyrotechnic displays by Quebecois special effects set masters the Blood Brothers!

The larger lineup will capture crowds over 4 days with Old Time Honey's antique Cajun jugfolk jive, NOIA's cinematic electro-indie impulses, funky jazz by Théâtre Saint-Denis house band The Firing Squad, the alt-country space folk twang of Graven & The New Band, MOOCH's groovy grunge psychedelia, and the cumbia-fused ska spirit of Los Pacos, as well as a rag-tag display of classic carny antics by the Blue Mushroom Sirkus Psyshow, the intergalactic fair-play femme power of EarthBound Wrestling, and titillating performances by Ottawa burlesque beauties Capital Tease, among others!

Culture with heart

The festival is also proud to help make arts & culture available to folks from all walks of life by celebrating a newly-formed partnership with Cultures du Coeur, Sherbrooke's premiere charity fighting social marginalization. ShazamFest has donated over two dozen weekend passes to the non-profit organization, which will ensure that those most in need can partake in this year's festivities. In addition to various strategies already in place—free camping, free admission for children under the age of 12, free general entry on Sunday (July 15)—this latest initiative will help to further ensure that no one is left behind!

New creative space: trinity's stage

An added section of the ShazamFest site has been converted to accommodate heightened happenings of the creative kind: the brand new Trinity Stage! A community project spearheaded by Judith Ruel (a.k.a the Townships' Alchemist of Love), Trinity was brought to fruition by dedicated ShazamFam collaborators who worked with holistic construction methods and their own bare hands. With a micro-lineup of events, this additional gathering space will feature a wide range of collaborative and interactive performances including music, dance, storytelling, and an on-site open call to artists.

Tried, tested & true

Back by popular demand are the Académie de Lutte Estrienne's ringside wrestling spectacles and the pro-skating tricks of the Valoiz Boyz West Island skateboard crew! On-site camping remains free and ShazamFest mainstays return to round out this year's festivities: the Skateboarding Competition, the Canadian Redneck Beard & Moustache Contest, workshops by Clowns Without Borders, riverside yoga and massage, the kids' corner, an artisan market, and local organic food vendors.

The festival's fundamental eco-friendly commitment also carries on with creative green initiatives, zero-waste champion challenges and discounts to festival-goers arriving on foot or by bicycle.

AGO to unveil cross cultural Indigenous and Canadian art centre

THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Art Gallery of Ontario is set to reopen the J. S. McLean Centre for Indigenous & Canadian Art on Sunday after a months-long overhaul that curators say signals a creative cultural shift for the Toronto institution.

The co-curators of the centre say it will present works by contemporary Indigenous artists and Canadian legends in a way the gallery has never seen before: in conversation with one another.

According to numbers provided by the gallery, more than 40 per cent of the 132 works on display were created by Indigenous artists.

Indigenous art curator Wanda Nanibush says the collection has been arranged thematically rather than chronologically to foster a cross-cultural conversation between Indigenous and Canadian art across generations.

Curator of Canadian art Georgiana Uhlyarik says each work will be accompanied by texts in three languages - English, French and either Anishinaabemowin or Inuktitut - and will recognize the Indigenous names of treaty territories and disputed lands.

Nanibush says some spaces will exclusively display works by Indigenous artists, while one gallery will feature a rotation of solo exhibitions largely showcasing artists of colour.

Uhlyarik says some art buffs may notice that several Canadian "icons" are missing from the revamped McLean Centre, with some paintings by Group of Seven-adjacent artists Emily Carr and Tom Thomson having found a new home on another floor, while other pieces were tucked away into storage.
