

SHERBROOKE VISIT — Parti Creditiste leader Yvon Dupuis stormed into Sherbrooke last night, addressing an overflow crowd of 900 at the St-Francois school. Mr. Dupuis delivered a lengthy but humorous tirade against the Bourassa government and dismissed the Parti Quebecois budget as "a dream in color."

to a person who buys a lottery ticket with the conviction of winning — he has all kinds of dreams up until the date of the draw — only to be shocked into reality when he does not win. Mr. Dupuis accused the Liberals of being cowards by not calling by-elections in vacant seats. He asserted that Premier Robert

Bourassa was afraid that the Creditiste chief would win and take a seat in the National Assembly and thus be a nuisance to the ruling Liberals. During his tirade against Mr. Bourassa, the Creditiste leader claimed that the present government was the weakest of any in Quebec history. Mr. Dupuis declared that even the Anglophones were no longer willing to vote for the Liberals. Mr. Dupuis also spoke of the warm reception he has received the past week campaigning throughout the province. He predicted that his party would form the next government.

Cloudy with a few sunny breaks and chance of showers over hilly terrains today and Tuesday. Windy. Highs today 55 to 60. Low tonight near 40. Highs Tuesday near 55.

Fallen power line kills cows

MILBY (JB-AR) — High winds Sunday morning sent a 6900 volt power line crashing to the ground, electrocuting 11 Holstein cows owned by George and Bob McVety. George McVety was leading the herd to pasture when the mishap occurred. He was walking ten feet ahead of the cows and was fortunate to escape with his life. "When I saw the sparks flying I jumped over the fence," he told the Record. Mr. McVety then watched as his cows were killed. "It only took about five seconds," he recalled. "I hope I never see another sight like that again." The rest of the cows broke the fence and escaped from the live wire. The McVety's had 38 cows prior to the accident, which wiped out almost one-third of their herd. George McVety estimated that the cattle was worth $8000. Nine of the dead cows were three to four-year-old heifers in their prime. They were part of a breeding herd and are therefore irreplaceable. Mr. McVety pointed out that the power line was in poor condition and it was aggravated by Saturday night's storm. He suggested that Sherbrooke Hydro was partially to blame because of the poor maintenance. The McVety's had no insurance on their herd.

Raging blaze leaves homeless

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP) — A fire that raced across 20 blocks of wooden tenements and small businesses has left 1,100 persons homeless in this rundown Boston suburb. Five firemen injured fighting the blaze were taken to hospital. No deaths were reported. About 500 National Guard troops roped off the charred expanse of the oldest section of the city Sunday. The homeless, most of them Spanish-speaking, blacks and elderly Jews, sought shelter with relatives and in a makeshift dormitory in an armory. "I have lost everything!" said Henry Wogciechowski, 49. "It's a crying shame." "All the people who live in the stricken area are poor people. Just look at all these people standing around crying! They have no place to go from here." Residents of the estimated 60 dwelling places destroyed rushed through the streets ahead of the blaze, carrying plastic bags and suitcases stuffed with belongings. At the height of the blaze, which officials said apparently started in an abandoned rag storage building, 3,000 to 4,000 persons were evacuated from their homes. Sparks leaped from building to building as gusts up to 50 miles an hour swept across Boston harbor. "This is a conflagration of epic proportions," said Fire Chief Herbert Fothergill. "A conflagration such as this one creates its own winds of hurricane force." The fire cut a path a half mile wide through the decaying industrial section of the community of 32,000, two miles north of downtown Boston. Many of the industries were small businesses that reclaimed scrap metal, rags and tires. Much of the area had been scheduled for demolition through urban renewal. About half of the 20-block area was levelled. The rest was a jumble of stark building skeletons and smouldering utility poles. The fire, which broke out about 4 p.m. EDT, Sunday, was contained at a railway right of way about five hours later. But it continued to burn today. Policemen with dogs roamed the area to guard against looters. Firemen doused buildings in the path of the wind-pushed blaze, but gave up on them as soon as they ignited. "One minute you'd see a shop on fire," said one witness. "Then the next thing you knew, four or five tenements were gone." "It was incredible." Gov. Francis Sargent declared Chelsea a disaster area, and Senator Edward Kennedy said he will ask the federal government to do the same.

From AP-REUTER Egyptian tanks launched a broad, day-long attack Sunday on Israel's Sinai defence line. In Syria, the advance of Israeli armor in the direction of Damascus was reported slowed by heavy Syrian artillery fire. Israeli tanks were said to have moved within 21 miles of Damascus. Israeli officers had reported Saturday advance armor being about 16 miles from the Syrian capital. The Arab and Israeli commands issued conflicting reports on the two-front war, with each side saying it inflicted heavy losses. Defence Minister Moshe Dayan of Israel said in a televised speech "this is not like previous wars. This one is difficult and there are hard battles. It is a war of many days and much blood." The Cairo command said its armored columns seized unspecified "new areas" of land in the Sinai peninsula and knocked out 150 Israeli tanks while its air force destroyed "a big portion" of Israeli anti-tank missiles. The Israeli command said its forces beat back the Egyptians to a line three or four miles from the Suez canal and that the Egyptians lost more than 200 tanks. Syria said it had repulsed an Israeli attack in the northern sector of the front and destroyed 50 tanks. A military spokesman said Israeli forces were beaten back after attacking advance posts in the area. In the southern and central sectors of the front, Syrian armored units carried out limited attacks on Israeli posts and destroyed more than 15 tanks and several anti-tank batteries, it was reported. The command in Tel Aviv said that 656 Israeli soldiers were killed in the first eight days of Middle East fighting, including Maj.-Gen. Abraham Mendler, the commander of the Israeli tank forces in the Sinai. The new conflict, the fourth Arab-Israeli war since 1948, broke out Oct. 6. Some diplomatic sources in Cairo viewed the new Egyptian offensive in the Sinai as an attempt to divert Israeli energy from Arab forces in Syria. The Israeli tanks in Syria were said to be approaching the town of Sasa about 21 miles southwest of Damascus. The Tel Aviv command said its advance artillery was shelling the suburbs of the Syrian capital. Officers told reporters some spearhead units had moved to within 16 miles of Damascus Saturday. But one correspondent said the main Israeli column trying to seize control of Sasa ran into tough resistance from Syrian snipers. Another said the advance also was slowed by the Syrian shelling. Residents of the Syrian capital said in telephone calls to Beirut, Lebanon, that they heard no explosions near the city. A Syrian government newspaper published a special edition to deny the statement of Israeli shelling. There was no word from the Syrians of troops from Jordan, which announced its entry into the war Saturday. But a spokesman in Damascus reported the Syrian lines were joined by Iraqis and Moroccans and called the defences "good and strong." A statement broadcast by Saudi Arabia said Saudi Arabian troops also were at the Syrian front. Communiques from Damascus said Israeli jets were attacking air fields in Syria and reported shooting down several of them. The Egyptian military command said 24 Israeli planes were shot down in dogfights swirling over the Sinai tank battles.

STRIKE AT DAWN Cairo said its armor struck out against the Israelis at dawn and seized more of the occupied peninsula behind Egyptian planes bombing Israeli positions all along the front. "Fighting is still raging with heavy violence and savagery all along the front inside Sinai between our armored and mechanized forces advancing east and the enemy forces trying to stop them," an Egyptian communique said. Tel Aviv said its jets and tanks "are inflicting heavy losses on the enemy and his armored forces." Israeli spokesmen said the Egyptian advance was stopped short and the Egyptian tanks were forced to return to their lines. "In the south we have entered into a critical phase of the war," said retired Gen. Haim Herzog, the Israeli state radio's top war commentator. "But it is not yet clear whether this is Egypt's major offensive." Israel protested to France that French-built Mirage jets were being used in Egyptian attacks on Israeli targets. Cairo's air arsenal was authoritatively reported to contain no Mirages before the fighting began.

PQ budget steals attention

MONTREAL (CP) — The Parti Quebecois' proposed budget for an independent Quebec remains the main object of debate in campaigning for the Oct. 29 provincial election. Liberal Finance Minister Raymond Garneau and Jacques Parizeau, the Parti Quebecois economist and candidate in Montreal Cremazie, were the main combatants on the issue in weekend campaigning. Meanwhile, Creditiste Leader Yvon Dupuis and Gabriel Loubier, Union Nationale leader, both attacked the press. Mr. Parizeau said only a "violent inflation" caused by a government which cut taxes by 50 per cent while increasing spending by 50 per cent would cause devaluation of an independent Quebec currency. The prototype budget he released last week had included no measures so imprudent. Mr. Parizeau, accompanied by Parti Quebecois Leader Rene Levesque at a meeting at Joliette, 40 miles northeast of Montreal, said Premier Robert Bourassa has not really criticized the budget. "All he's been able to do is trot out the two old battle horses he defended in the 1970 election campaign, that is, devaluation of a Quebec currency and the flight of capital." REPEATS CHARGE Mr. Garneau repeated his charge of last week that the Parti Quebecois budget blows up estimated revenues by $1 billion when it calculates 1975-76 government revenues at $11.675 billion. In a statement, the finance minister charged that the budget would increase personal income taxes by $300 million and drive industry to Ontario and New Brunswick by increasing corporation taxes by $130 million. In St. Joseph de Beauce, about 40 miles south of Quebec City, Mr. Loubier told about 220 persons that reporters covering the Oct. 29 election campaign have shown a "lack of intellectual honesty." Mr. Dupuis stopped a television news cameraman's work in Sherbrooke as the man swung his film camera from the Creditiste leader to a group of Parti Quebecois supporters who were booing him from the audience of about 800. "Hold on," Mr. Dupuis said to the cameraman. "Don't get nervous. We're not going to forget the magnificent crowd we have here this evening for about 50 Pequistes." Mr. Loubier complained reporters were not truly describing what goes on in meetings, and are in particular underestimating the size of crowds. Mr. Bourassa told a Chicoutimi news conference he had never promised that he would not alter controversial 1969 legislation giving all Quebecers the right to choose English or French schools for their children. Nationalists say the law will eventually lead to French becoming a minority in Quebec, because almost all immigrants choose English. The Parti Quebecois and Union Nationale would require immigrants to send their children to French schools, although the PQ would exempt those from Anglophone countries. The Creditistes say immigrants should send their children to French schools until they become Canadian citizens.

Farm agreement signed

QUEBEC (CP) — An agreement has been signed with the federal agriculture department on a small-farms development program that will cost Ottawa $30 million over the next five years, Normand Toupin, provincial agriculture minister, has announced.

Mr. Toupin told a news conference Wednesday the agreement had been signed after a year of negotiations.

The agreement gives the provincial government sole responsibility for counselling farmers as to whether or not they should avail themselves of the federal program.

It also permits the provincial government, rather than the federal government, to build up a land bank of small farms in the province. The federal government can purchase land only if it has the provincial government's authorization.

The Quebec farm credit union can participate in the program on an equal footing with the federal farm credit union.

Once the land has been bought by the federal government it must be sold to the provincial government for 50 per cent of the purchase price if a buyer is not found within 18 months.

Non farming land purchased by the federal government must be resold immediately to the provincial government for 25 per cent of the cost.

If Quebec resells or rents out land purchased from the federal government, it must reimburse Ottawa with 75 per cent of the sale price or rental paid on the land.

Mr. Toupin said he expects the farm program will cost Quebec about $3 million over the next five years.

...Outline of Canada-Quebec farm development program agreement

The program consists of a land transfer plan and information services.

The land transfer program consists of:
Special credit for prospective purchasers;
Assistance grants for prospective vendors;
A listing service to bring buyers and sellers together; and Facility for outright purchase and resale of farm property.

The information service consists of:
A rural development service to help the farmer and his family get the information required to make the basic decision to develop within agriculture or to take advantage of other opportunities in the local community or the region;

A farm management service to help the individual farmer develop a commercially viable farm business; and
An information system to explain the details of the program.

OPERATIONAL
The Small Farm Development Program in Quebec will be coordinated by a joint Canada-Quebec Small Farm Development Advisory Committee.

The Farm Credit Corporation will handle the land transfer plan, and the rural counselling and farm management services will be the responsibility of Quebec.

LAND TRANSFER PLAN
The eligibility criteria and the benefits to buyers and sellers of small farms are outlined below.

Eligibility Criteria for Special Credit
To be eligible for the special credit, the purchaser must be a Canadian citizen or a landed immigrant who, at the time of application:

is the owner of a farm or purchaser under agreement of sale or tenant for a period of not less than three years;

is principally occupied in the operation of a farm;

has assets not exceeding $60,000 as determined by the FCC;

is prepared to purchase additional land so that the consolidated farm unit will, in the opinion of the FCC, have sufficient land, labor and capital to become economically viable.

Development Assistance For Purchasers
In addition to the normal loan provisions of the Farm Credit Act, the FCC will offer the opportunity for eligible farmers to purchase farms on agreement of sale. Under the agreement of sale features of the program, the FCC may purchase the land from an eligible vendor at a fair market value and resell it to an eligible purchaser at cost.

SHERBROOKE — The Ladies Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church met on Oct. 3 at the home of Mrs. Maise Hopcraft with the president Mrs. Dorothy Wright presiding, with a good number of members in attendance.

Several sick visits were reported being made during the summer months.

Mrs. Dorothy Mills conducted the devotional period. During the business session, dates for the upcoming events were decided on.

A rummage sale to be held on Oct. 19 and a Christmas salad bar tea to be held on Dec. 5.

Sales tables of home cooking and Christmas articles will be on display. The next meeting will be held on Oct. 17, at 1 p.m. at the church.

Following the benediction refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. Maise Hopcraft assisted by Mrs. Henry Leech.

Reception for Reverend

SHERBROOKE — Members and friends of First Baptist and North Hatley Baptist churches on Sept. 30 held a reception for Rev. and Mrs. Murray Richardson and their family.

The service commenced at 7.30 p.m. with C.G. Blake, Chairman of the Board of Deacons, presiding.

The Scripture was read by Rev. E. Catto of Coaticook. Miss Thelma Crawford from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church rendered a solo, "Think On Me," with Mrs. Dorothy Wright at the organ. Rev. J. Gibson led in prayer.

Guest speaker for this occasion was Rev. Alfred Barker, Moderator of the Quebec Association. Rev. Barker in his message, "Let The Word Of Christ dwell in you Richly" challenged the pastor and congregation to accept their respective tasks and to go forward together to do God's will. Rev. Richardson pronounced the benediction.

Due to the illness of Mr. Wesley Sharman of North Hatley, Mr. Edward Mills Chairman of the Executive Board, presided over the social hour which followed.

Mr. Mills read greetings from First Baptist Church, Montreal Westmount Baptist Church, Montreal and Quebec Baptist Church, Rev. Donald Campbell, chairman of the ministerial association brought greetings from the Association and St.

Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The local Baptist Churches were well represented. Rev. H. Gardner of Dixville brought greetings from the Dixville Baptist Church.

The Ladies Auxiliary served refreshments. Mr. Norman Bradley said grace and Mr. Henry Leech Jr. thanked the ladies both of Sherbrooke and North Hatley.

Rev. Murray Richardson replied to the many greetings and pronounced the benediction.

Parti Quebecois

Sabourin: Independence is the goal

By MICHAEL ISAACS
Record Reporter

ST-FRANCOIS — Robert Sabourin, Parti Quebecois candidate in St-Francois, talks with distinct pride about Quebec and her people. He extends his image of Quebec to a situation in which the province would be a sovereign country.

Sabourin contends that Quebec has "everything a country needs: natural and human resources and administrators to employ these resources."

He feels that one of the major elements which his party, if elected, would safeguard is that of response to regions through effective methods of communication.

Above all, however, the party would bring about a sovereign nation comprising the land of the largest single area of minority population in North America.

Sabourin is clear, nevertheless, in his attitude towards the province's minority English population — he sees no reason for eliminating the existing structures, such as schools, nor for making survival difficult for the Anglophones.

"When men are independent," he says, "they are not aggressive. That is the basis for Anglophone belief in the good faith of our party."

He talks about his travels in Canada and about his always-good relations with English-speaking Canadians, then adds,

"I don't feel at home in Canada. I like Canada the way it is, but it is not my country."

He asserts that Anglophones wishing to participate in decision-making will have to speak French, since French would be the language of the majority in an independent Quebec. Nevertheless, English-speaking Quebecers would form part of the decision-makers and would be treated with respect equal to that accorded any citizen.

"The real question in this election is that of independence," says Sabourin. "If a Parti Quebecois government is elected then it would proceed immediately towards preparing a constitution for an independent Quebec."

Sabourin believes that if the Parti Quebecois gains a plurality victory the explanation will lie in the fact that "many persons who voted for other parties will not have understood completely the alternatives."

"The question on election day will be simply and fundamentally independence or federalism?" Further, he declares, the party will proceed to preparation of the constitution.

Sabourin alleges that the 1970 election was marred by voter fear and that the result of that shadow was decreased vote for the Parti Quebecois and for independence.

He cautions that "If the upcoming election does not bring satisfaction to supporters of the Parti Quebecois and prevents independence, then there will be frustration on the part of the supporters and, as a consequence, a far more frightening situation for the province's Anglophones."

Sabourin contends that the impression that the Parti Quebecois is in favor of the implementation of socialism is false.

"The party does not intend to nationalize companies and industries," he claims. "It wants to ensure that the people of Quebec will not have their resources drained without limitation."

He also indicates that the party would not equalize salaries, though he does say that there would be an effort made to narrow the gap between personal incomes.

Under a Parti Quebecois government, Sabourin asserts, Quebec's people "would have a monopoly on the allocation of Quebec's resources. There would be a single income tax assessment and there would be a political situation with a single governing body as opposed to the present two."

He says that Quebec independence would not preclude interdependence between Quebec, Canada and the United States.

The Parti Quebecois would also move to decentralize the administration in such areas as education, health care and youth programs, Sabourin contends.

Regional governments would be established with limited membership from members of the national assembly — the remaining members would be drawn primarily from corporations, cooperatives, syndicates and other similar organizations, he suggests.

Sabourin has been director-general of the College de Sherbrooke since 1968. Before that year he served for the department of education as director for the organization of CEGEPs.

In 1968-69, he was director of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce. Between 1969 and 1972 he was on the executive of the Regional Development Council of the Eastern Townships. He was also vice-president of the federation of CEGEPs from 1969-1971.

Sabourin asserts that he joined the Parti Quebecois because he "found most of the things I believe as citizen, administrator and Quebecer in the party program."

He asserts that he was particularly impressed by the democratic outlook of the party and will run a campaign which "will explain positively and clearly the alternatives to persons in order to persuade them that independence is feasible and not dangerous."

Parti Creditiste

Leboeuf: Creditiste chances excellent

By GEOFF HOWARD
Record Reporter

ST-FRANCOIS — Leo Leboeuf, Creditiste candidate for St-Francois county, does anything but agree with reports that his party is weak everywhere in Quebec.

He feels St-Francois is only one of seven assured seats for the Creditistes in the Eastern Townships.

"There's nothing to lose," he said. "Quebec needs a change and the Parti Quebecois is not the answer."

He asserted that the English population will not vote for a political party that is nearly eliminated, referring to the UN.

In the riding as a whole, however, the Parti Quebecois are the ones to beat, he said. The decisive factor will be the votes of students of the University of Sherbrooke and the Sherbrooke CEGEP.

After 17 years as a teacher at the Immaculate Conception School in Sherbrooke, he expects strong support from ex-students and their parents because "They know and are on good terms with me."

Last year a majority of Sherbrooke East residents voted Creditiste. Mr. Leboeuf feels now that the party is more organized and supporters who were reluctant to vote Creditiste in 1970 will help give him an edge.

Meanwhile, Mr. Leboeuf said all his battles are being fought for him. The Union Nationale thinks the Liberals are their greatest threat and are campaigning against them.

The Liberals think the Parti Quebecois are the strongest

Another reason Mr. Leboeuf feels he is assured of his seat is that in the last elections in 1970, there was not a large difference in votes cast for the Liberals and the Creditistes. The decisive blow against them came from Sherbrooke North at the time, he said.

Another point in favor of the Liberals in 1970 was that the Creditiste candidate was campaigning from his intensive care hospital room.

Mr. Leboeuf did not clarify why he was chosen as a candidate for his party, but said a lot rested on the fact that he taught school and was therefore familiar with education, one branch of government that needs a lot of work.

He is well known in the community and said this could also have been a plus for him.

The minimum salary scheme offered by the Creditiste party is the strongest political issue in their program, Mr. Leboeuf said. A great number of the working class population will vote Creditiste because of this, he feels.

Many of the major tenets of the Creditiste platform over the years have been implemented by the other parties, he claimed.

The Parti Quebecois, he alleged, promises the same opponents in the area and are directing all their efforts to draw attention away from the PQ, he said.

"I will fight if I have to," he added.

The Liberal party has a lot of money and can do a lot with it, he said.

Claude Dubois

Frustrating exercise

By INGRID BEKHOR
Record Reporter

SHERBROOKE — Where just a few nights before Sherbrooke University's Cultural Centre ringed with the mythical rhythms of South American folklore, Saturday night it resounded to the sporadic rock 'n' roll of Claude Dubois.

Dubois, a young Montreal composer and musician was back in Quebec full of renewed aspiration. Fresh from his overseas voyages, he sports a new motto — "Touchez Dubois," touch wood.

It was therefore unfortunate that Dubois 'the Adventurer,' Dubois 'Oh, Lucky Man' simply failed in his opening numbers to release all that fabulous energy.

No matter how much water he pumped down his throat, 'Femme de Reve,' his most acclaimed composition, just fizzled out.

Nevertheless 'Comme Un Million de Gens' proved to be a turning point in the performance; both star and musicians overcame their initial difficulties and performed to their full capacity.

This latter part of the show was highlighted by several other fine musical achievements including 'Come La Chine,' 'Tu L'c'est Tu?' 'Douce'...

The excellent back-up group to Claude Dubois was part of the vast Ville-Emard Blues Band whose members play for some of the major vocalists in Quebec, Charlebois, Renee Claude, Veronique Samson.

Special tribute must be given to one member, Pierre Senecal, for his mastery of some half a dozen instruments ranging from the Grand Piano to the saxophone.

It is strange that the Dubois concert with all of its eager potential should have provoked a similar reaction as the current film hit 'Oh, Lucky Man.'

A portrait of contained frustration, the audience remained stubbornly unresponsive to all of his efforts.

Mackasey to address women

LENNOXVILLE — The Women's Canadian Club of the Eastern Townships will hold their first dinner meeting of the season on Wednesday, October 17 at Bishop's University, Dewhurst Hall, 7:30 p.m.

Bryce Stuart Mackasey's address will be "The Quality of Life Today - Myths and Realities."

Bryce Mackasey was born in Quebec City and received his formal education in Commerce at McGill University and Sir George Williams.

He was first elected to the House of Commons in 1962, representing the constituency of Verdun, Quebec and was re-elected in the four following general elections.

In 1965, he was appointed Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of National Health and Welfare and, six months later, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Labour.

In 1968, Bryce Mackasey was appointed to the Federal Cabinet as Minister without Portfolio and, later that year, became Minister of Labour. As such, he has represented Canada on a number of occasions overseas, including conferences in Geneva with the International Labour Organization.

Four years later he was appointed Minister of Manpower and Immigration, being responsible for the Unemployment Insurance Commission as well as implementing recommendations for the Royal Commission on the Status of Women.

Bryce Mackasey resigned from the Federal Cabinet in 1972 but retained his seat in the House of Commons representing Verdun.

Admission is by membership card only.

Control of energy

Shell Canada has been making important energy news recently — first in joining those companies who have contracted to sell Mackenzie delta gas to the United States, and now in proposing to construct a plant to produce oil from the Athabasca tar sands. Imperial Oil and Gulf Oil are of course already involved in both these areas. Shell's proposals make clear the intense desire of Canada's foreign-controlled oil companies to increase the production of our energy resources for export purposes.

Increased production will require increased investment. Shell's tar sands plant alone may run over one billion dollars, once a townsite and transportation facilities are included. This capital investment would add about 35 million barrels of oil per year to our present production of over 600 million barrels.

Investment means jobs, so its advocates tell us. Shell's new plant would require about 1,000 workers — so the capital cost per job created is a mere million dollars. Is this the most economical way of assisting Canada's chronically underemployed economy?

And investment means exports. But will more oil and gas sold abroad add to our total exports — or will our customers keep their balance-of-payments problems and in mind and cut back on Canadian manufactured goods, when they take more of our natural resources? We need to shift the balance of our exports in the direction of job-creating secondary industry, not in the direction of still more primary goods.

Shell, Imperial, Gulf and other oil companies are eager to invest big money in Canada. If this big money is foreign money, it drives up the value of our dollar — and makes our other exports more expensive abroad. Whether it is foreign money or our own money, it will be controlled by foreign-owned companies. The profits will either be exported, or reinvested to increase foreign holdings in the Canadian economy, so that the money which the oil companies make from selling our natural resources, they use to purchase control of even more of our economy.

The C.I.C. recognizes that foreign-controlled investment can sometimes provide benefits to Canada which offset its heavy costs. But investment in developing our resources for export simply provides more costs. It is time for Canada to announce a national energy policy which will ensure that our gas and oil resources are developed for use by Canadians, under the control of Canadians. Until we have such a policy, the tar sands and the Mackenzie delta should be left alone.

DAVID GAUTHIER, CHAIRMAN
COMMITTEE FOR AN INDEPENDENT CANADA
ENERGY TASK FORCE

Jules Leger

When a relatively young career diplomat of great distinction assumes office as Canada's governor-general next January, the stage may be set for further evolution of a post that has been changing steadily during this century.

Jules Leger, at sixty, has already spent most of his working life in the service of the country, and there is no reason to suppose that he contemplates at this stage a personal retirement — even to the immensely strenuous ceremonial duties of the governor-general's office as now construed.

Mr. Leger's name is by no means a household word to Canadians outside the ranks of those who study government. But his record as a career diplomat and deputy minister is impeccable in terms both of its intellectual values and its dedication to national service.

There is every reason to suppose that he is possessed of the qualities needed to serve superbly as the Queen's representative in Canada.

But if Mr. Leger's qualities are obvious, the plans for the job held by Prime Minister Trudeau are only partially so. Appointment of a man of Mr. Leger's background and energies cannot help but foment speculation to the effect that Mr. Trudeau wishes to see further "Canadianization" of the post.

During the course of Canadian history the governor-general has changed remarkably. Once his authority over the government of the day was vast. That ended with the King-Byng crisis of the mid-Twenties.

The appointees once came almost exclusively from the ranks of British nobility. That ended with the post war appointment of the first Canadian, Vincent Massey. Occasional boomlets for a member of the royal family notwithstanding, it is difficult to envision anyone other than a Canadian holding the post again.

Group effort needed for R & D

OTTAWA (CP) — If you leave science research up to individual scientists, they may devote much time and money to subjects of particular personal interest while subjects in the public interest are missed.

Sometimes this is because public issues are too complex for one or two individuals to pursue. A team approach, bringing in several scientists from various disciplines, is needed.

Sometimes it is because public issues have not been recognized by university academics. For example, the federal government has had to announce a "national oceans policy," saying in essence that oceans need top priority in research and development.

Despite the fact that Canada is bordered on three sides by oceans, only one university has an oceanography studies program.

Those are the main reasons why the federal science ministry is working on a research policy that will deal with:

1. The financing of university and individual research in a general way.

2. The reorganization of granting councils to provide the money.

3. A set of national goals or objectives, such as the oceans policy and a forthcoming space policy, toward which a major portion of federal research funds will be directed.

POLICY CHANGED

Obviously, the three policies are closely related. They also are tied with the policy announced last August that called for more of the research now done by government departments and agencies to be contracted out to individuals and private enterprise.

As well, the science ministry was given the task of co-ordinating all research and development programs of the various departments. The Senate special committee on science policy has advocated an even stronger role — enforcing co-ordination by ministerial control of research purse strings.

The ministry already has set up a program and assessment branch, which will do the co-ordinating job for government departments. This branch also may get the job of overseeing the new research policy.

The federal government provides about $1.3 billion for scientific expenditures, roughly nine per cent of the federal budget. About $185 million of that goes to universities through direct-support programs and $150 million goes to them through fiscal transfer arrangements with the provinces.

LACKS AUTHORITY

However, as Dr. Aurele Beaulnes, science ministry secretary, has said, the government lacks the authority to direct the universities into programs in line with national goals, such as urban or environmental problems.

And sometimes there is difficulty in convincing the research-granting councils that such new kinds of research are important.

There are three research-granting councils, the National Research Council, which gives $74 million for pure sciences such as chemistry and physics; the Medial

Research Council, which awards $37 million for the health sciences, and the Canada Council, which gives $20 million for humanities and social sciences exclusive of the pure arts.

POLICY CRITICIZED

Dr. Beaulnes said criticism has centred on disparities in budgets and inadequate co-ordination among the three.

He predicted a stronger mechanism for co-ordination but the final structure is not known. One proposal calls for setting up five granting councils — for life sciences, natural sciences, social sciences, engineering sciences and arts — which would have budgets determined by the ministry but administered through various departments.

Another proposal calls for all the granting to be done by one super-council. A third proposal is that the granting councils — three, four or five of them — would be under one administrative co-ordinating body.

Dr. Beaulnes has talked of a "shift toward research in societal problems and away from ivory-tower research."

"The provinces and the universities are beginning to move in a direction of greater relevance to the needs of society and we in the (federal) government intend to assist in that changing environment."

Nuclear energy may not be answer

OTTAWA (CP) — A United States scientist says the government's recent publication, An Energy Policy for Canada is shortsighted in assuming nuclear fission will be the primary supplement and replacement for hydro and fossil fuels as an energy source.

The Ottawa energy report also is misguided in assuming Canada's energy requirements can be planned independently of the United States, and for downplaying the importance of wind and solar energy. Roger Aikin of the University of Minnesota says in the October issue of Science Forum magazine.

Canada's nuclear reactor program is forging ahead although the research program for longterm safe disposal of radioactive wastes has only just begun, says Mr. Aikin.

The Atomic Energy Commission's proposed concrete blockhouses to store these wastes were not foolproof because they could be ruptured by earthquakes, destroyed by bombing or entered by saboteurs.

Mr. Aikin, a former federal government employee in Ottawa now doing research in solar energy, says federal and provincial governments have not given enough support to studies of the sun and wind as inexpensive and pollution-free energy sources.

Dr. O. J. C. Runnalls, a senior nuclear energy adviser in the energy department, said in an interview Thursday that Mr. Aikin's concerns about radioactive wastes are unrealistic.

Because the radioactive wastes are about 10 times as dense as water, a saboteur or madman "couldn't just walk into a blockhouse with a briefcase and collect the stuff."

The zirconium-alloy containers of radioactive wastes are so heavy they would require cranes and heavy machinery to store them in the blockhouses, said Dr. Runnalls. And if one of the proposed blockhouses was to rupture, the radioactive cloud emitted likely would be almost undetectable.

The uranium oxide, containing the unused radioactive wastes, was so dense it would remain on the site.

At present, radioactive wastes from the nuclear reactor near Pickering, Ont., are stored underwater in corrosion-resistant zirconium-alloy containers.

The wastes must be kept in perpetuity, although they lose most of their radioactivity within 25 years, so the Atomic Energy Commission proposed to build large concrete blockhouses to store them.

Dr. D. J. Dewar, chief scientific adviser for the Atomic Energy Control Board, said Thursday it is safer to store the wastes than to process out the radioactivity.

Dr. Dewar also defended the energy policy report, saying nuclear fission is the only attractive energy source that is ready as an alternative to fossil fuels — oil, gas and coal.

Experiments with wind, tidal and solar energy had not produced an economical energy source.

In his article, Mr. Aikin says wind energy has great potential for northern Canada, and should be considered for isolated communities.

Pearson memoirs

OTTAWA (CP) — In the Middle East war of 1956, the United Nations, partly through the efforts of Canada, managed to stop hostilities through the dispatch of a multinational peace force to the area.

With Middle East War No. 4 in progress, the story of that dramatic and exhausting Canadian effort is about to be related in the second volume of Mike, the memoirs of Lester B. Pearson.

The volume, to be released shortly by University of Toronto Press, deals with the days when Pearson was under-secretary of state for external affairs, external affairs minister and leader of the Liberal party.

Two chapters of the volume start from the creation of Israel in 1948 to the days when Pearson, Liberal Opposition leader in the Diefenbaker Parliament, won the Nobel Prize for his Middle East work.

Readers are taken from the cautious Canadian attitude over the creation of Israel, through the strong opposition of the government of Louis St. Laurent to the British-French landing in Suez — which Pearson regarded as a blunder — and to November, 1956, when Pearson fought through the idea of the UN force to bring peace to the area and help extricate Britain and France.

Pearson died last December before he could complete his memoirs.

The editors of Volume II said some was written by Pearson, but much, including two chapters on the Middle East, was drawn from an array of firstperson material.

Mike is written in the first person and the editors say the only material they inserted was that necessary to act as a bridge between Pearson's remarks.

They said a decision will be made by the end of the year whether to go ahead with Volume III. When the former prime minister knew he was dying, they said, he stopped work on Volume II, which he knew his collaborators could finish, and started on the next volume.

When he died he left 200 handwritten pages.

Pearson explains the Liberal government's reasoning in opposing the British-French Suez action in 1956, an opposition that brought a storm of criticism from Conservatives.

Perhaps two of the most interesting points raised by Pearson deal with the attitude of Egyptian President Nasser to the UN Emergency Force and in particular the Canadians, virtually the creators of the force.

Pearson tells of how Dag Hammarskjöld, then UN secretary-general, was told by Nasser that the UNEF would leave Egyptian soil whenever the Egyptians decided its work was accomplished.

Pearson reacted strongly to this news but Hammarskjöld told the Canadian not to worry about it and that Nasser was told this was unacceptable.

Eleven years later Nasser ordered the UNEF to leave and the then secretary-general, U Thant, complied. Shortly thereafter the 1967 six-day war broke out.

Pearson tells how Nasser attempted to keep Canadians out of the UNEF, allegedly because the Canadian contribution was to have been the Queens Own Rifles, a regiment bearing the same name as a British outfit then sitting between Israel and Egyptian forces in the Suez area.

Canada, suspecting that Nasser was attempting to create a UN force made up of countries Egypt could control reacted indignantly.

Maj-Gen E. L. M. Burns, Canadian head of UNEF, came to the conclusion that the best role Canadians could fill in the force was that of support rather than infantry.

Mid-east war worries diplomats

BRUSSELS (CP) — Diplomats concerned with vital East-West negotiations in Europe are keeping a worried eye on the war in the Middle East.

The longer the war goes on, the greater is the danger and that the United States and Russia will be drawn further into the conflict — to the point where their much-vaunted detente is badly undermined.

Without a continuation of that detente, it will be hard to sustain efforts towards East-West harmony currently being made at the European security talks in Geneva.

The same is true of the negotiations about mutual force reductions, which will resume in Vienna Oct. 30. At NATO headquarters in Brussels, it is made abundantly clear that the North Atlantic alliance sees itself as having no business becoming involved in the Middle East struggle.

But there is a NATO interest in the adjacent Eastern Mediterranean area, even though there is no sign yet that the Arab-Israeli war might affect the territories of NATO member states like Turkey or Greece.

ARMS A FACTOR

The main worry, however, is centred on the pressures which might intensify the degree of arms aid given the opposing sides in the Middle East by the U.S. and Russia.

For their part, the Russians will be under heavy pressure from their Arab "clients" to step up the extent to which they are willing to replace military supplies lost or expended in the struggle against Israel.

The Russians are eager to preserve the privileged position they have long cultivated in the Arab world.

The Americans, on the other hand, are being urged with loud calls from pro-Israeli groups at home to maintain a vigorous program of aiding the Zionist homeland's military strength in the face of the surprisingly formidable Arab challenge.

COUNTERING POINT

Countering the move towards a renewal of strident big-power antagonism which all this would involve is the material advantage which both Washington and Moscow still see in a mutual mellowing of their relations.

The politically hard-pressed President Nixon has staked much on the fulfillment of his promise of a "generation of peace" for a country sickened and soured by the conflict in Vietnam.

The Russians, with China posing an awesome challenge, want diplomatic rapprochement with America as a prelude to obtaining new injections of badly-needed U.S. technology and capital for their economy.

Thus each of the great powers has somehow to reconcile one set of crucial interests with another in the conduct of its Middle East policy.

Definite evidence of stepped-up military aid to the Arabs and Israelis by the Russians and Americans respectively has prompted fears in Europe that the great-power detente may be on the razor's edge — an anxious situation which can only become more worrisome as continuation of the costly war makes weapon replacements all the more urgent for the combatants.

DETENTE ENDANGERED

This endangering of the all-important Russian-American detente comes at a particularly delicate time.

With the detente as the very prerequisite for the discussions, the hard-slogging and vital committee stage of the European security conference — with Canada as a prominent participant — is grappling with such fundamental topics as easing the obstacles to human contacts across the ideological barrier which keeps Europe divided.

The coming Vienna talks about arms reductions in Central Europe, again with Canada as a participant, follow preliminary discussions which dragged on tortuously for months.

The prospects in Vienna are for many more months of grueling negotiations. But it would hardly be possible to hope for any success at all if the American-Russian desire for an end to cold-war friction degenerates into a new series of slanging matches, or worse forms of dispute, over the Middle East issue.

Stanstead College opens pool

STANSTEAD — The weekend marked a big event in the life of the Stanstead College community. This was the official opening of the Ralph B. Hood swimming pool on Friday evening and again on Saturday when the laying of the corner stone and dedication ceremony took place.

Friday evening, Mr. Hood was guest of honor at a reception held in the Le Baron hall reception room and was attended by staff members and their families. Edgar Gordon, who graduated from the college in 1916, William Ketchum, also a graduate from the college who came from New Brunswick for this event, and Donald Ross, Montreal, chairman of the Executive Board.

At 6:30 p.m. with all students gathered in the dining hall, staff and families, Mr. Hood was escorted by Headboy Po Shu Wong and the prefect students to the Headmaster's table. The arrival of the party was heralded by hearty applause.

A delicious thanksgiving dinner was served complete with roast turkey, vegetables and later, fruits of the harvest, pumpkin and apple pies.

Just as the dinner was terminated two of the students brought in a special cake, it was a replica of the Swimming pool and squash courts building. This was presented to Mr. Hood who made the initial cut as the student body gave the school cheers. Red, White, Coffee was afterwards served in the reception room and the cake cut and served to the guests and staff members.

From the reception room all assembled in the Ralph B. Hood building where a big 'splash' was one of the features.

Headmaster Thomas Russell spoke briefly then turned the mike over to Po Shu Wong. Mr. Wong, speaking for the entire student body and staff, thanked Mr. Hood for his magnificent gift that enabled the college people to enjoy this beautiful semi-olympic pool and the squash courts.

Greg Brown, Head Boy in 1972-73 presently at Bishop's University, was among the guests. At this time Mr. Hood had the fun of pushing Greg into the pool, this was followed by a good number of the students jumping and diving in together to make a big splash.

Mr. Hood, as well as others had the enjoyment of watching the boys dive from the high and the lower boards and having fun in the water.

Saturday morning there were games, many parents had come for the events and there were members of the boards present as well as other guests.

The Varsity football team and Bishop's played a game that was exciting throughout. The game could have gone either way, but ended with Stanstead scoring 19 points to Bishop's 14. Bill Brock will have the complete story.

After the games and in perfect autumn glory provided by the weatherman, the laying of the corner stone took place.

Remarks were spoken by Headmaster Thomas Russell.

George Vaillancourt, Minister of Municipal Affairs, Quebec; Eric Webster, Chairman of the College Board of Trustees, Tom Burdon, representing the students, and Alfred Garbarino, representing the Alumni.

The metal sealed box was placed in the opening and covered with an appropriately cut granite stone marking the Ralph B. Hood Building and date. Rev. R.W. Peirce, school chaplain, officiated for the dedication.

Mr. Wong presented Mr. Hood with a silver engraved trowel in commemoration of this red letter day. The stone was cemented into its permanent place by Ivan Wood, a stone mason from Marlinton.

A buffet lunch was served from 11:30 a.m. on in the Le Baron Hall dining hall. Students left immediately after to spend the holiday weekend away from the school returning Monday evening to start classes again Tuesday morning.

A reception was held in the Reception room for the Board of Trustees where Mr. Hood was a special guest of honor. The annual meeting of the Board followed.

Alfred Garbarino, a member of the College Alumni Board, presented three large life preservers for use at the pool.

This beautiful building, the pool and courts was made possible for Stanstead College through the generosity of Mr. Hood who last autumn presented the School with a cheque for $400,000 to construct the building.

GETS OFF ON RIGHT FOOT — Stanstead College officially opened the Ralph B. Hood swimming pool on the weekend. Seen here is

Bruhmuller-Beaulieu wed

The marriage of Joanne Florence, twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kenneth Bruhmuller of Cowansville to Mr. Aime Ephrem Beaulieu, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Ephrem Beaulieu of Coventry, Vt., took place on Saturday afternoon at 3 p.m. in Trinity Church. Rev. John Peacock officiated at the double-ring ceremony, assisted by Father Labrecque.

Miss Elizabeth Watson, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied Miss Laura Thompson, a friend of the bride, who sang Oh Perfect Love during the signing of the register.

The church was decorated with large white baskets of fall flowers with shades of gold and rust predominating. The guest pews were marked with white satin bows and yellow marigolds. Four vases on the altar held flowers of rust and gold.

The bride who was escorted down the aisle on the arm of her father looked radiant in a gown of white peau de soie with French alencon lace appliques trimming the empire bodice and the Victorian styled neckline. French alencon lace also trimmed the bell cuffs of the long fitted sleeves and the long bell-sleeved skirt. Her cathedral-length veil of tulle illusion was edged with French alencon lace, and fell from a small cap of the same matching lace. She carried a bouquet of white, rust and gold daisy mums. Her only jewellery was a gold cross, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Paul White, sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor. She wore a long gown of gold nylon silk with an overskirt of flowered nylon sheer in shades of rust and gold and tied in back with a sash of nylon sheer. Long full sleeves were gathered to wide cuffs. The bodice featured a round neckline. A band of nylon sheer trimmed her large white picture hat.

Miss Judy Bruhmuller acted as bridesmaid for her twin sister and assisted her during the ceremony. She wore a gown of rust colored nylon silk with overskirt of flowered nylon sheer, the style matching that of the matron of honour. She also wore a large picture hat and both attendants carried bouquets of white daisy mums. The attendants' gowns were made by Miss Judy Bruhmuller.

The bride's mother chose a full-length gown of blue flowered nylon sheer with matching blue accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother wore a full-length gown of rose crepe with black accessories and a corsage of white roses.

The bride presented a corsage to each of the three grandmothers attending the wedding. Mrs. John Boucher, maternal grandmother of the bride and Mrs. Charles Whitcomb, paternal grandmother of the bride and Mrs. Fugere, maternal grandmother of the groom.

Mr. Robert Kerouack Jr., cousin of the groom was the best man. Mr. John Bruhmuller brother of the bride was usher.

The gentlemen in the wedding party wore black trousers white jackets trimmed with black, black bow ties and rust coloured boutonnières. The groom wore a white shirt with pleated front while the remaining male attendants wore gold coloured shirts.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the Maurice Hotel where a turkey dinner was served to approximately 60 guests. Baskets of fall flowers decorated the dining room.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with small white daisies and topped with a nosegay of fresh daisies, mums and a white taper. The wedding cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Irene Williams. Crystal candelabra with white candles were placed on either side of the cake. The bride's bouquet and those of the attendants completed the floral arrangements.

Following the reception, the bride and groom left for their honeymoon trip to Prince Edward Island. To travel, the bride chose a dress of brown silk jersey with white polka dots and large white collar and cuffs. She wore white accessories and a corsage of apricot and yellow flowers.

Guests were from Stanstead, Newport, Coventry, Hatley, Island Pond, Vt., Rock Island, Canada, Vt., Arisburg, Vt., Sherbrooke, Montreal, Farnham, Bromont, Proctor, Vt., St. Johnsbury, Vt. and Cowansville.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Beaulieu will reside in Boston, Mass.

Taylor's fete 35th

The Legion Hall in Richmond was the scene of a very pleasant surprise party on Saturday, Sept. 15, when George and Doris Taylor were feted on the occasion of their 35th wedding anniversary.

On arrival at the hall they were met at the door by their daughter Wanda who pinned a white carnation corsage on her mother and Wendy Thomas, a niece from Woolwich, Maine, pinned a white carnation boutonniere on her uncle. The celebrants were then escorted to the front of the hall where the receiving line was formed.

Mrs. Lillian Thomas was presented with a white carnation corsage, she was replacing Mrs. Leila Fleming, who was unable to attend. Colin Andrews, best man, was presented with a white carnation boutonniere.

The hall was trimmed with green garlands, green bells and numerals of 35. The table was covered with a white linen cloth, the front of which was trimmed with emerald green streamers which were fastened at the centre with a 35 numeral.

A cake in white topped with a bride and groom centred the table, flanked by green candles in silver holders. The cake was made by Sandra Pariseau and decorated by Shirley Borden.

The buffet luncheon was in the same decor. The guest book was looked after by a grandson Michael Pariseau and Scott Gagnon, a cousin from Derby, Vt.

Dancing was enjoyed afterwards to the music of Herbie Stevens' Orchestra. Lyle Brooks presented gifts and money to the couple at lunch hour.

A console table had been ordered but had not arrived, for which the money is to be used.

George and Doris expressed thanks to their children, relatives and friends for arranging the pleasant event, to all those who came from far and near and for the gifts and lovely remembrances which made the evening a time not to be forgotten.

George W. Taylor and Doris A. Davidson were married at the Melbourne Ridge United Church. They are the parents of one daughter Wanda and a foster son Bobby J. Pariseau of Denison Mills.

Guests who attended the anniversary celebration were from: Maine, Vermont, Warden, Melbourne, Danville, Denison Mills, Richmond and vicinity.

Maple Chapter IODE

LENNOXVILLE - The first fall meeting of Maple Cope Chapter was a busy one with a good attendance.

The Regent, Mrs. John French, presided, welcoming the speaker, Mrs. A.E. Roodhouse of Montreal, who attended the IODE National Annual meetings in Charlottetown at the end of May as Chapter delegate.

In her report, Mrs. Roodhouse commented on the unexpectedly large number attending the National meetings which rather overwhelmed the Prince Edward Island facilities.

Touching on the various subjects discussed, Mrs. Roodhouse noted that a new project is being taken up to replace Korean assistance which is no longer needed. This will be known as 'Northern Lights' and is to supply mobile microphones for use in schools in the North West Territories, by native children experiencing hearing difficulties.

Also mentioned particularly was 'Commonwealth Relations' from which fund six annual bursaries are made available to commonwealth students for study in their own countries in the field of medicine. This fund continues and contributions are requested.

Mrs. French thanked our delegate for an interesting report and Mrs. Roodhouse expressed her thanks for the privilege of representing the chapter.

Correspondence included a letter from the provincial president Mrs. J.H. Gibbs, to inform chapters that the Provincial Bursary Fund will in future be known as the 'Ruth Winters Memorial Bursary Fund' in memory of Mrs.

G.A. Winters who had been greatly interested in educational work, acted as Provincial Education secretary, and held office as 1st Vice President and President of provincial chapter.

Mrs. D. Barnett, education, read a letter from the elementary school's secretary, accounting for the expenditure of the $125.00 contributed to the school by the chapter, and thanking the members in the name of the principal, staff and students.

Mrs. Barnett had IODE calendars on hand and suggested that each member sell three of these, the price this year being 55 cents.

The services secretary, Mrs. G.M. Sutherland, had been notified that articles of clothing turned in to her could be given out locally, rather than being sent to the services department in Montreal.

A contribution was voted for lunches at the regional school, also to the northern project, 'Northern Lights'.

It was suggested that a short account of the chapter's welfare work be sent to 'Echoes' and Miss Molony agreed to attempt to prepare an article for this purpose. Members had been asked by the regent to produce $5.00 'Talent Money' during the summer and this was handed to the treasurer after the meeting.

The meeting closed with the salute to Queen and Country and tea was served by Mrs. C.T. Herring and Mrs. G.M. Sutherland.

Hostesses volunteering for the November meeting were Mrs. Darcy Bennett and Mrs. P.E. Staples.

IODE receives support

By IVY HATCH
STANSTEAD - The Oct. 1 meeting of Stanstead Chapter IODE held in LeBaron hall of Stanstead College was mostly ideas and reports from the Sept. 29 bazaar.

From the financial angle it looks as if the receipts will be over $1,300. Support had come from many people outside of the chapter which is gratifying to the members who work to make this a success.

The money is used in many ways to benefit other people. Suggestions were made to make the 1974 bazaar even bigger.

Mrs. J.S. McCannell, the Regent, said she appreciated the afternoon attendance of 15 members after the bazaar work. She reminded the members of the Provincial semi-annual meeting to be held Oct. 17-18 at the Clarendon hotel in Quebec. Mrs. Agnes Myers, Chapter Vice-regent will be attending as official delegate, with Mrs. McCannell the alternate.

There was discussion about the Chapter's participation in the provincial 50th anniversary, however, no decision was reached on this matter.

A communication was read from Mrs. Alice Gibbs, Provincial Regent, stating the Provincial Bursary has been renamed to the Ruth Winters Memorial bursary fund, for Mrs. C.A. Winter.

An invitation was received from the Sherbrooke municipal chapters asking members to attend a social afternoon on Oct. 13.

Mrs. C.E. Reynolds has been elected as Provincial secretary to replace the former person who resigned because she was moving to reside in another location.

The 1974 IODE calendars are now being sold through the Education secretary, Mrs. George Carruthers.

Miss Vicki Cox of Rock Island, a student at the John Abbott College for Nursing, Ste-Anne de Bellevue, has been chosen to receive the Nursing Assistance bursary and the cheque forwarded to her.

Mrs. Frances Finlayson, Echoes secretary brought attention to editorials in the magazine.

Mrs. Howard Aikman, secretary of services said she and Mr. Aikman had taken a load of things to the Butters Memorial Home in Austin and another box is in the making.

A sum of $50.00 was approved to be donated to the Girl Guide Company being formed in the Villages.

A sum of $15.00 was authorized to be sent to Arnold Nugent, Sunnyside principal in appreciation of the school for the bazaar.

Mrs. W.T. Greer, co-convenor of the bazaar thanked everyone who had worked to make and create the lovely handicrafts, the foods and other items for the sale tables, as well as all who had participated and worked for the successful project.

The program of the afternoon was a trip via films to San Francisco and along the California coast, shown by Mrs. C.R. MacLean of Derby Line of her recent trip. Mrs. MacLean's commentary added to the delightful films.

Mrs. Greer announced it is tentative the film Peace Garden will be shown at the next meeting on November 5.

It was noted all Provincial and primary chapters are advised there is need of aid to the Northern Lights, in the far Quebec North, just now of diapers and ditty bags. More information is to come from headquarters about this.

Although the junior IODE Chapters do not have need of the used postage stamps, the members are urged to continue to collect them to be sent to headquarters, there is also a need of these by the Junior Red Cross.

A cup of tea and squares were enjoyed to terminate the afternoon.

Rally day service

WINDSOR - On Sunday, Sept. 30 a rally day service was held at St. Andrew's United Church. Several children's hymns were rendered with Mr. Daniel Morel as organist.

Rev. P. Gaudine conducted the special Sunday school service and had words of encouragement for the pupils and teachers.

Mrs. Henry Dubuc, superintendent, expressed high praise to the children for their splendid effort in coming to the weekly classes.

Certificates of promotion were awarded to the following: Promoted from kindergarten to primary: Rory Doyle, Kevin Morey, Primary to Junior: Deirdre Doyle, Donna McCourt, Brian Smeltzer.

Junior to Intermediate: Nancy Devries, Michael Doyle, Karen Morey, Karen McCourt, Brenda Smeltzer, Brenda McCourt, Debra Watson.

Perfect attendance awards, pins, wreaths or bars, were received by the following pupils who have had perfect attendance for a certain number of years.

In the kindergarten class, the following received awards: Peter Mackey - 1 yr.; Ricky Watson - 2 yr.; Rory Doyle - 2 yr.; Kevin Morey - 3 yr.

Clinic disappointing:

25 help and 29 show up

DERBY LINE (IH) - A blood donor clinic was held on Thursday afternoon, October 4 at St. Edward's parish hall in Derby Line under the direction of the Vermont - New Hampshire Unit from Burlington.

The clinic was a little disappointing to the personnel who had worked so hard to have it a success. Only 31 persons showed up to donate and two of these were rejected. They had 29 bottles to take from here.

Surely the need is known to everyone.

The clinic was under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Paul Curtis. She was assisted by Mrs. Jane Scott, Mrs. Betty Cass, Mrs. Jean Lague, Mrs. Mary Jenne and Mrs. Cecile Wheeler, all registered nurses; by Mrs. Maxine Austin, O.P.N., and Mrs. Shirley Rivard, N.A.

Registrars were Mrs. Calvin Day and Mrs. William Jonis. Mrs. Evelyn Petelle assisted by Mrs. Rachel Blais looked after the plastic bags of blood.

Assisting in the donor room were Mrs. George Daigneault, Mrs. Harvey Gardyne, and Mrs. George Simoneau. The typist was Mrs. Laurette Fortin.

Hot home made soup, sandwiches, donuts and coffee was served by all donors by members of St. Edward's Altar Society. The kitchen was manned by Mrs. Henry Roy, Mrs. Paul Lussier, Mrs. Gerard Roy, Mrs. A. Moss.

Dr. Gilles Bouchard was on call to the clinic. The Red Cross equipment was unloaded by Daniel Fortin and Leo Ducharme and loaded after the clinic by Benoit and Antonio Blais.

The women do appreciate the efforts of those who did come to donate blood.

Extension club

DERBY LINE (IH) - The South of the Border Extension Club met the evening of September 24 at the home of the president, Mrs. Denise Benoit in Derby Line.

There were nine members and two new members present. The new members welcomed were Mrs. Therese Carter and Mrs. Linda Bianchi.

The usual reports were heard and accepted.

The business meeting that followed provided many topics for discussion.

The members voted to favor the point system. Dues are to remain the same as last year.

Members agreed to bring gifts for "Operation Gift Lift" for the Waterbury State Hospital. The gifts are to be brought to the October meeting.

The group agreed to purchase an afghan made by Mrs. Miriam Kelley and to sell it by tickets, winner to be drawn for at the November meeting.

Plans to go to the county council meeting was discussed. It is hoped that most members will attend. Mrs. Therese Carter was elected secretary to replace Mrs. Mildred Lawton who has resigned due to her health.

The topic of the meeting was program planning and this was carried out by giving each present a program to be filled in for the coming year. After this was completed refreshments

Dufferin Heights Country Club Golf Championship

DUFFERIN HEIGHTS — As a climax to a successful season of golfing and social activity at Dufferin Heights Country Golf club, a banquet and dance held on Saturday evening, September 29 was another success.

This last big event of the season was attended by some 125 members and guests. The tables were effectively decorated with autumn flowers with the head table centred with a low bowl of yellow and bronze mums with smaller arrangements of yellow mums at each end.

President Douglas Henderson spoke remarks of welcome. Others to speak were vice president Louis Barber, also chairman of the house committee and Norman Wintle, chairman of the match committee. In their remarks they voiced appreciation to everyone who had contributed in the many ways to make it a successful and profitable season.

Miss Arlene Probyn, president of the ladies club and Miss Charity Greenwood, chairman of the match committee presented the following trophies.

The Marion Morrill trophy for the winner of the Afternoon League went to Mrs. Rachel Pellerin; The Mary Flint Memorial to Miss Mary Loiselle, for handicap and the Mary Flint trophy to Miss Charity Greenwood and Mrs. Nancy Denney.

Runner up in the handicap: Mrs. Cecile Joyal Class A winner, Mrs. Ruby Banks, runner-up Mrs. Bea Bishop; Class B winner, Mrs. Muriel Martin, runner up Miss Arlene Probyn; Class C Winner, Mrs. Judy Philip and runner up, Mrs. Cecile Joyal.

In the junior section, Miss Charity Greenwood, the instructor, and the Men's Match committee, Norm Wintle and Ron Smith presented their trophies. Monday League winners, Chip Wilson, winner, and Brian Stuart, runner-up.

Chip Wilson was club champion and Michel Masse, the runnerup, John Fregeau received a prize for most improved golfer of the season.

A vote of thanks was given to Honorary member Lee Buckland who donates the money for the junior prizes.

The Club Men's Champions this season are, Michael Gaudreau and runner-up George Corbiere. The Women's are, Miss Charity Greenwood and runner-up, Mrs. Helen Edgar. These four were presented the beautiful trophies by the Match committee and the presidents.

The first match of the season is the Presidents and Vice-Presidents. The trophy of this tournament went to King Bull, Louis Barber and is a gold color steer upon a pedestal.

John Cox and Jim Parrish were in charge of the season W.A.G. Weekly games in the Men's Club. Winner to receive trophies were ringer board, a four way tie, each a trophy to Wally Browning, George Corbiere, Geoff Denney and Doug Henderson, all Class A. In Class B, with a three way tie trophies were presented to Louis Barber, Ron Smith and Wayne Smith; and in Class C to Ross Barber and Larry Clowery.

The trophy for most individual points went to Geoff Denney. The Jed Clampett trophy to the Senior with most points went to William Black.

W.A.G. winners were: John Lees, Mark Farrow, Andy Joyal and Ross Barber. The runner-up to Wayne Smith, Doc Stewart, Albert Bullock and Bill Brock. Craig Grieve as ringer board spare was presented a reward.

Fred Lilley presented the four ball championship to Arnold McVeay and Max Grainger, runner-up to Leo Masse and Tom Bowen, and consolation to John Cox and Paul Gaudreau.

Mixed two ball winner prizes to Michael Gaudreau and Miss Mary Loiselle, the champions. The Handicap championship trophy to Conrad Haselton and runner-up to Doc Stewart.

Hole in One O'Keefe trophies to four golfers of the season: Robert Alger, Calvin Day, Bill Stuart and Dave Little.

Senior Champion: C.W. Mutchler, winner, and Rene Gaudreau, runner-up.

Louis Barber, speaking for the entire club spoke words of appreciation to President, Doug Henderson, for the dedication and work in his year of leadership.

The annual meeting and election of the board were held at the Club House on Oct. 12 at 8:00 p.m.

Johnny Sicotte and his Tri-plus One arrived, and as soon as the tables were cleared everyone had a wonderful time dancing and singing the old songs. Although some chose at the dinner to leave for their homes, others came to replace them.

The dinner of roast beef with all the trimmings and pies for dessert was prepared by Chef Bob Distefano and his staff to whom appreciation was given.

Another very desirable trophy, the Sanford Carter Shield, given annually to the member of the club for his contribution each season, was chosen this year to go to Mitch Thomson, who is always on hand when there is a tournament or match to assist. This announcement was followed by hearty applause.

Emotional stress physical sickness

Dear Ann Landers: Since you frequently remind your readers that emotional problems can create physical problems, I am sending the findings of Dr. Thomas H. Holmes, a psychiatrist at the University of Washington School of Medicine in Seattle.

Dr. Holmes' theory is that any change, pleasant or unpleasant, can create susceptibility to illness. He advises against making several consecutive changes in living patterns when one has a choice. Such changes, he said, should be postponed or cancelled. Here is the list and scale of impact:

| EVENTS                                    | SCALE OF IMPACT |
|---|-----------------|
| Death of spouse                           | 100             |
| Divorce                                   | 73              |
| Marital separation                        | 65              |
| Jail term                                 | 63              |
| Death of close family member              | 63              |
| Personal injury or illness                | 53              |
| Marriage                                  | 50              |

North Hatley town council meeting

NORTH HATLEY (RM) — The regular council meeting was held October 1 with all councillors present, Mayor G. St. Pierre presiding.

Mr. G. Taylor, fire chief, asked to have a telephone installed at the fire station. Council agreed that a phone was needed and that the installation be made so that it can be used by both the fire and municipal departments.

Building permits were approved for R. Kent to build a garage and carport and for Mrs. O. Glass to install a swimming pool.

It was reported that a notice to publish on the municipal bulletin board had been received pertaining to a liquor permit for Mr. J. Laberge for a dining room and three bars.

It is hoped that a joint fire committee will be established consisting of two councillors from the North Hatley municipality and two from the Township of Hatley.

The deed has been received for the lot purchased for the sewage disposal site.

It was moved that bylaw No. 103, concerning dogs, be rescinded and replaced by a new bylaw which will be published in the newspapers.

Councillor Bergeron presented estimates on new tractors and also rental offers. Council decided to purchase a new tractor with shovel needed to clean the streets this winter as they will continue to do their own winter maintenance.

It was reported that a road on the west side adjacent to LeBaron street will be prepared for paving. Some of the other town work outlined was to construct a new entrance at the pump house on Lake Road and to get a supply of salt and sand.

Mr. C. Powers and Mrs. E. Woodward were appointed to revise the valuation roll.

It was noted that the terms of office of the mayor and councillors A. Greer, C. Ladouceur and B. Bishop are expiring.

Nominations will be held on Sunday, October 28 from noon until 2 p.m. Voting, if necessary will take place on Sunday, November 4.

District governor visits Rotary

SHERBROOKE — One of the recent highlights of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club was the official visit of the district governor, Mr. Alonzo Malouin, of Drummondville. An innovation was the presence of the wives of the Rotarians known as Rotary Annes.

Prior to his recent appointment Mr. Malouin was an active Rotarian in Drummondville, becoming president of that club in 1968. His appointment covers 34 clubs in District No. 785 located in New Hampshire, Vermont and the southern part of Quebec.

He had visited 30 clubs before coming to Sherbrooke and stated that the local club rated high in his evaluation of these visits.

A dinner was held at the LeBaron Motel where the governor spoke on the theme for the year of the president of Rotary International entitled "Time for Action", outlining the principles of Rotary and the responsibilities and privileges attached to Rotary membership in a community.

He was introduced by past president Clarence Blake and thanked by past international director Douglas Stevenson.

Dr. Gordon Loomis, president of the Sherbrooke club, presided. Following the dinner a club assembly was held where various club and committee reports were presented and the governor dealt with relevant questions of the members.

The ladies also were invited to attend and thus become better acquainted with the activities of their husbands at Rotary events. The reports indicated an active season and prospects of greater involvement in service to the community's needs as well as in the international sphere.

Weekly dinner meetings are held by the Sherbrooke club at 6:15 p.m. on Tuesdays at the Hotel Wellington. Programs include timely addresses on subjects of general interest.

In addition Rotarians devote much time and effort to assisting those in need and the beneficial development of worthwhile projects.

East Hereford

The people of this community were saddened by the report of the death of Rev. Cecil Ward of Port Stanley, Ont. who was a minister for All Saints' Church here, for several years. The sympathy of all is extended to Mrs. Ward and family in their bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Howe have returned to their home in Burlington, Ont. after spending a two week's vacation with Mrs. Gladys Owen and Mr. Waldo Owen.

A dinner to celebrate the birthday of Mr. Leonard Gray on Sept. 16 was given by Mr. and Mrs. Al Carpenter and family. The guests present included Mrs. Elva Speck, Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Owen, Bill Owen, Mike and Fern. The table was centred by a lovely birthday cake made by Mrs. Carpenter and enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. E.W. Owen, Wanda and Wendy, have gone to Moose Jaw, Sask. to attend the marriage of their son David and Miss Edith Morgan.

Mrs. Richard Fowler and children, Moe's River, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Bolton.

On Monday, Oct. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wright, Mr. Ewart Glass and Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Owen were guests of Mr. and Mrs. D.S. Melrose and called on other friends in the vicinity.

Golden Agers entertain

MANSONVILLE — A rousing welcome by the 50-Plus Club of Mansonville was given to a large bus load of ladies and gentlemen, some of them senior citizens and two of them disabled, all boarders from the Granby Villa Bonheur (equivalent English version - Happy Town).

The event was held in the town hall the afternoon of Oct. 2 where the guests were entertained with various games followed by a most pleasing luncheon, served to the approximately 90 persons present. Lovely fresh fall flowers brought in by Mrs. Betty Klopfer and Mrs. R. Tomuschat, decorated the hall.

At the downstairs door the Granby people were greeted by Mrs. Gabriel McDuff and Mrs. Anna Gardner, and a further greeting extended at the upstairs door by Mrs. Yvonne Robin and Miss Marion Atwell. Some souvenir snapshots were taken at various times.

The highlight of the afternoon, was the presence of a former resident for many years, Mrs. Fred Ducharme, who celebrated a birthday the day before, and was so very happy to hear the hall echo with the song of Happy Birthday, sung by the large gathering, and for the chance to renew old acquaintances. It was her idea put forth to the amusement committee of Happy Town, Mrs. L. Brisson, President, and Miss Laura Robert, Vice-President, for this outing to visit Mansonville's Golden Agers this particular afternoon.

Door prizes were won by Messrs Narcisse St. Pierre, Wilfrid Brodeur and Hubert Hillman.

Mrs. Yvonne Robin was in charge of the guest book.

It touched the hearts of many to see the happiness that was brought about for everyone at this long-to-be-remembered joyful afternoon.

Cowansville

Mrs. Ross Freemantle has just recently returned from a three-week vacation at Amarillo, Texas. She accompanied her sister-in-law, Miss Madeleine Freemantle there by bus. While there, she visited Mr. and Mrs. Neil McEwen and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stevenson of Amarillo.

W.I. meetings

AYER'S CLIFF - The Women's Institute met in the Church Hall for their October meeting. Eleven members answered the roll-call by reading poems, household hints or telling a joke. There was one guest, Mrs. James Walker, who later joined the organization.

Mrs. R. Waite, 1st Vice President, conducted the meeting which opened by repeating the Creed and singing the Hymn of all Nations. Reports were read by the Sec'y including several thank-you notes. The treasurer gave a detailed report of the School Fair projects, namely the booth and dinner which showed them to be very successful. A gift of money was voted to the young people who assisted in the booth and to the church for the use of the hall for the dinner.

Convenors reports were given and Mrs. Mitson for citizenship read an article on UNICEF. She will assist in the UNICEF Collections and the usual donation was noted from the W.I. to this worthy cause.

Mrs. Holmes for Welfare and Health commented on article on medications.

Mrs. McFaul for Education explained more fully the project of getting books through the McLennan Book Mobile for the School Library and an additional fifteen dollars was voted to this project making a total of twenty-five dollars. Members offered to assist certain hours at the library in the loaning and repairing of books. It was also voted to buy the usual Cross from the Canadian Legion for Armistice.

The business meeting was adjourned and Mrs. L. McFaul introduced the guest speaker, Mr. W. Walls, School Principal.

TAILOR
For ladies and gentlemen General Repairs F. COLLETTE 84 King St. West, (In basement) Tel. 562-4334 - Sherbrooke

Mr. Walls gave an interesting and informative talk about the forms of education explaining what is being done in our own local school and ways of helping. This was followed by a question and answer period. The speaker was thanked by Miss A. Webster in her usual pleasant way.

A basket lunch was served by the executive who were hostesses for the meeting and a pleasant social period was enjoyed.

GORE - The October meeting of the Gore Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. R. Duffy on Oct. 4 with Mrs. D. Hughes as assistant hostess.

Mrs. N. Mountain was in the chair and opened the meeting with the Collect for Club Women. Ten members answered the roll call by naming a common weed or plant which is poisonous.

The secretary, Miss M. Watt, read the minutes and reported the acknowledgment of 18 Handbags sent to the Canadian Save the Children Fund. The C.A.C. bulletin was on hand.

Mrs. M. Hughes, treasurer, gave the financial report and said that a satisfactory sum had been realized from the project of serving dinners at the recent local plowing match. Several more Kwik Kut food choppers have been sold.

Delegates appointed to attend the county meeting on Oct. 13 were Miss Watt, Mrs. Gee, Mrs. Husk, Mrs. Mountain and Mrs. Duffy.

Convener of agriculture, Mrs. R. Duffy asked if anyone would be interested in attending a Farm Day at Macdonald College on Oct. 11. No one felt she could go.

She read an article entitled "Writer tells urban wives, 'You make me sick'".

The drawing donated by Mrs. M. Hughes was won by Mrs. E. Johnston.

A white elephant sale, auctioned by Mrs. R. Duffy, added $3.30 to the funds. A donation of $5 was made to UNICEF.

The business being completed, Mrs. R. Duffy introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. D'Arcy Ryan, who gave an amusing discourse on her experiences and impressions as a city-born homemaker who has come to a rural community to live. The speaker was thanked by Mrs. S. Husk.

The next meeting will be Nov. 3 at the home of Mrs. G. Cote.

Lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. M. Hughes.

WATERLOO-WARDEN - The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. W. Copping on Thursday, October 4. This being 2nd Vice-president's meeting, Mrs. W. Ramsay presided and welcomed the members and one guest, then led the singing of the Ode and recitation of the Collect. Each member answered the roll call by handing in a stamped envelope and card to be sent to a shut-in.

Minutes of the September meeting were read, also correspondence, which included letters of thanks for cards, a gift of fruit and for scrap books sent to a home for sick children.

A letter from Mrs. Westover was read which contained the minutes of the conference held at Banff, Alta., this Summer, she also gave details of items to be made up for the 1974 handicrafts competitions.

The treasurer, Mrs. M. Sicard, read her report, and payment of outstanding accounts was authorized. A donation for our work was received from a member who now lives out of town.

Mrs. H. Smith and our guest, Miss C. Mountford, who had recently celebrated their birthdays, paid into the Thank-You box, which was then passed around to the other members. Pennies for Friendship were collected, and the CARE parcel, donated by Mrs. Copping, was won by Mrs. R. Benoit.

Accommodations was arranged to drive the ten members to attend the meeting of the Brompton Road W.I. on October 9.

A report was read on the four County W.I. members conference held at Cowansville on Sept. 15. Plans were finalized for the card party which will be held on the evening of Oct. 19 at the Waterloo Elementary School.

Mrs. A. Bazinet, Agriculture Convener, read an article entitled Cap it All.

Home Economics Convener, Mrs. H. Smith read an item questioning the value of guarantees and warranties.

Mrs. Ramsay thanked Mrs. Copping for her hospitality and the meeting was adjourned.

The hostesses, Mrs. M. Hilliker and Mrs. W. Ramsay served refreshments.

The November meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. M. Sicard in Warden.

An eligible vendor will be entitled to receive a grant of $1,500 plus 10 per cent of the actual sale price of his farm if it sells for up to $20,000. The maximum total amount of the grant, i.e. the sum of the fixed and variable parts will be $3,500.

In cases where the FCC is purchasing the farm without concurrent resale and at not more than 90 per cent of its estimate of market value, or where an appraisal of the land being sold indicates that the reported sale price is substantially above the estimated market value, the grant shall be $1,500 plus 10 per cent of the FCC's estimate of market value to a maximum of $3,500.

Vendors are eligible for these grants whether the sales of their farms are financed by Canada, Quebec or private sources.

Assistance grants may be paid out in a lump sum or may be used together with all or part of the vendor's equity in the farm to purchase an annuity to provide for the future income requirements of the vendor's needs.

Eligibility for an assistance grant will not apply under the following circumstances:

- the purchaser intends to continue to operate the farm as a separate and uneconomic farm unit.
- the purchaser is not a Canadian citizen, or landed immigrant; or the purchaser is a corporation which in the judgment of the FCC is not controlled by shareholders who are Canadian citizens or landed immigrants.
- the purchaser is buying a number of small farms for non-farm use, if that use is contrary to provincial plans for the development of the area;
- the vendor receives a subsidy in addition to and in relation to the sale price of his farm from another government-sponsored program.

SPECIAL FEATURES OF THE LAND TRANSFER PLAN
Purchase of Land for Removal from Agriculture

A limited amount of resources of the program may be used to purchase land for removal from agriculture under the following conditions:

- the farm has been accepted by the province as fitting into its own plan of conversion of land from agricultural use to other uses such as forest or recreation;
- the purchase price will be negotiated between the farmer and the FCC;
- all farms previously accepted by the province and bought by the FCC for removal from agriculture to become part of the Public Domain will be transferred to the province at 25 per cent of the purchase cost. If any such land is thereafter sold or rented in the next 10 years, 75 per cent of the proceeds from the sale or rent, less permanent improvement and administration costs, will be returned to the federal government;
- the number of farms purchased for removal of land from agriculture will not at any time exceed 25 per cent of the total number of farms sold in Quebec under the program until that time.

Use of the Farm Home

An eligible seller may make arrangements with the purchaser for continued use of the farm home by himself and his spouse, including a suitable surrounding area and the right of access, and still be eligible for the assistance grants.

These arrangements may involve retaining title to the house and small acreage, or some kind of lease arrangement.

Annuitants

Where the sale of the farm is financed by FCC funds, eligible vendors will have the option of taking all or part of their assistance grants and their equity in a lump sum or in the form of a fixed term interest bearing annuity. Upon death, the balance of the annuity will be paid to the succession or designated beneficiary.

Where the sale of the farm has been financed by another agency, if the seller wishes to receive his grant in the form of an annuity, he will be provided with information and advice of the various commercial sources from which he may purchase an annuity.

INFORMATION AND CONSULTING SERVICES
Rural Development and Farm Management Services

The province of Quebec will exclusively provide rural counselling and farm management services in the implementation of the Small Farm Development Program in the province.

Information Services

The federal government in collaboration with Quebec will establish an Information Service to provide basic data, reference manuals and other necessary information materials for the Small Farm Development Program.

UCW meeting

MANSONVILLE - The UCW held the first meeting of the fall season on Thurs., Sept. 20 in the United Church hall with an attendance of ten because many members are still away. The Pres., Mrs. Alice George, presided.

Worship service, led by Mrs. Jean McNeil, was taken from Luke 12: 13-35, on the theme "Come Alive, It's a New Day."

During the short business session a report was given of the July auction which was reported a great success thanks to the whole community; the Pres. also gave thanks to the workers at the time of the Farewell party for Rev. and Mrs. C. Gustafson and at the induction service followed by lunch for the Rev. Ron Coughlin; it was also mentioned that thanks were received from Mr. Keith Bradley after the funeral of his father, the late Ernest Bradley, for the luncheon served in the church hall by the UCW ladies.

An interesting report was given by Mrs. Ruth Fullerton (who had attended along with Mrs. George) on the Fall Rally held in Cowansville on Sept. 18. A poem, "A Perfect Church" was read by the Pres., and another by the Sec., Mrs. Maude Clark, composed by the late Mrs. Edith Cowan, titled "The Mansonville WA."

The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction and the ladies gathered around the luncheon table to enjoy chatting and afternoon tea. They were joined by Mr. Coughlin, who took the opportunity to get acquainted with the group. Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Kathleen Barnett, Mrs. Roseleen George and Mrs. Alice George.

DOJARS & GOOD SENSE
by WILLIAM J. MARTIN
Special Consultant to Auto Financial Services

With the new car models either in, or on their way into, showrooms across the country, it's natural to think about trading in your old buggy. Many factors should be considered, but two very important items are often overlooked.

Warranty service and financing should be given at least as much thought as which make and model you select.

Most new car warranties cover all parts, except for tires and batteries - which are covered under their own guarantees - for a period of 12,000 miles or 12 months, whichever comes first. You may think that all warranties are alike, but that isn't necessarily so.

Take a close look at the exceptions and restrictions to the warranty. Are normal maintenance items covered - do you have to have certain dealer service performed? What is the dealer's ability and desire to honor warranty terms?

Then before you sign the purchase agreement, do some comparative shopping for financing. All contracts are not alike, and the terms a dealer offers may not be the best available.

So remember to consider warranty service and financing when you shop for another car. Both are important.

Rebekah Lodge no. 28

The ceremony of installation of officers for Myrtle Rebekah Lodge No. 28, Lennoxville, was held in the Masonic Temple. Sister Margaret Currier, District Deputy President of District No. 6 and Sister Gwen True, Deputy Marshal, performed the installation assisted by their staff of officers.

The elective officers were: Sister Audrey Hyatt, Noble Grand; Sister Patricia Robinson, Vice-Grand; Sister Luella Brady, PP recording secretary; Sister Mickie Povey, financial secretary; Sister Abbie Parker, PDDP Treasurer.

The appointed officers were: Sister Helen McElrea, Warden; Sister Thelma Picken, Conductor; Sister Dorothy Geddes, Chaplain; Sister Ada Neely, PDDP, Musician; Sister Christine Walker, Color Bearer; Sister Irene Hadlock, PDDP, Right Supporter of the Noble Grand; Sister ALTHEA Hansford, PNG Left Supporter of the Noble Grand; Sister Gertrude Beattie, PNG Right Supporter of the Vice-Grand; Sister Leslie McLeod, PNG, Left Supporter of the Vice-Grand; Sister Doris Elson, Inside Guardian; Sister Grace Gregoire, PDDP, Outside Guardian; Sister Marsha Ross, Right Altar Support; Sister Donna Willison, PNG Left Altar Support.

Sister Jessie Pursell, retiring Noble Grand expressed her appreciation to the members for their cooperation during the past year and said that she considered it an honor and a privilege to have been Noble Grand. Sister Margaret Currier, District Deputy President then invested her with the regalia of her office. Sister Pursell was then installed as Acting Past Noble Grand, her charge being read by Sister Gertrude Beattie.

Correspondence included thank-you notes for gifts received, an invitation from Alexandra Rebekah Lodge to attend the District Meeting there on Oct. 20 and requests from Fidelity and Protector Rebekah Lodges to initiate new members on Nov. 7. Several applications for membership were also read.

After the installation Sister Margaret Currier, was escorted to the dais where Sister Audrey Hyatt, Noble Grand presented her with a corsage of red, yellow and pink roses, the leaves of which were formed of currency. In well chosen words Sister Currier thanked the members for the gift. She also expressed her pleasure at being present and spoke of her former associations with Myrtle Rebekah Lodge.

Sister Audrey Hyatt named her committees, thanked the members for electing her to the office of Noble Grand and read a poem which expressed her belief that the coming year would be a successful one. Sister Hyatt was also presented with a personal gift by her aunt, Sister Hilda Hyatt, PDDP.

Following the meeting the members assembled in the Lower Hall where delicious refreshments were served by the Brothers to a large gathering of members and guests. Sister Margaret Currier, DDP thanked the Brothers for their hospitality. A pleasant feature of the social hour came when Sister Jessie Pursell, PNG presented Brother John Cowan and Mrs. Cowans with a wedding gift from the lodge. Brother Cowan thanked the members for their thoughtfulness in remembering them.

Peerless HEATER

HEAT WHERE AND WHEN YOU WANT IT

Make any room in the house, or even your garage, as comfortable as you want them to be, by installing a PEERLESS New-Vent Gas Wall Heater.

Economical, efficient and convenient, it requires no chimney, flue or electricity. It can be quickly installed on any outside wall. The unit is hermetically sealed and vented from the outside so that there is no danger of fumes or combustion products entering the room where it is installed.

Amazin' Mets pull out zany victory

OAKLAND (AP) — Three elements gave New York Mets fans Sunday—the sun, umpire Augie Donatelli and Oakland Athletics. But the National League champions pulled out a zany 10-7 victory in 12 innings to even the World Series at one game each. Oakland won 2-1 Saturday.

"I think we'll look better in New York," said Don Hahn, one of the Met outfielders who had to deal with the treacherous sun in the Oakland Coliseum during the weekend. "The Coliseum was an awfully tough park to field in one of the toughest I've ever been in."

Cleon Jones verified Hahn's report. The Met left fielder lost a ball in the sun in the first inning, giving Joe Rudi a gift double in a two-run Oakland uprising.

"It was the worst," said Jones, "the absolute worst. I've never played in a major league ball park where the sun is that bad."

The Mets didn't think much of the umpiring either. They had a ripe opportunity to break a 6-6 tie in the 10th inning with runners at first and third and one out. Felix Millan lifted a fly ball to Rudi in short left and Bud Harrelson attempted to tag up and score from third.

HARRELSON CAUGHT
But Donatelli called him out on a play at home. Harrelson complained that Oakland catcher Ray Fosse "never touched me."

Donatelli's decision brought several Mets storming from the dugout. Willie Mays, the on-deck batter, was literally down on his knees pleading with the umpire. "There's no question in my mind that I was safe," Harrelson said after the storm had died down and the Mets had locked up the game, "but there was a question in Donatelli's mind."

The Mets scored four runs in a whacky 12th inning to break the deadlock. Then, relief pitcher George Stone came into the tense game and nailed it down for New York after Tug McGraw gave up Oakland's final run.

"We felt like we would never give up," said McGraw, who pitched six fine innings of relief before needing help himself.

Trailing 3-2, the Mets scored four times in the sixth inning before 49,151 fans after a walk to Cleon Jones, a single by John Milner and a hit batsman that loaded the bases. Hahn beat out an infield single for one run. Harrelson singled to right for another and then Jerry Grote and Hahn both scored on an infield error.

After the American League champs scored their fourth run on a double by Reggie Jackson in the seventh and tied the score at 6-6 with a two-run rally in the ninth, the Mets took command.

Denied earlier opportunities to score, they finally put it out of reach in the 12th as Mays singled home the go-ahead run and the Mets pushed across three more tallies on two errors by second baseman Mike Andrews. It was one of five errors made by Oakland.

"I honestly don't know what happened," Andrews said about the ball that shot through his legs in the decisive 12th. "I thought it was right in my glove."

Erratic fielding produced six errors in the game, which at times looked like a sandlot affair. It went four hours and 13 minutes, a record for the World Series. Also a total of 11 pitchers was used by both sides, and that tied a World Series record.

"It reminded me of an early exhibition game," said Oakland third baseman Sal Bando. "Things can get sloppy this time of year. Guys get tired, conditions are tough and it's a shame things like this have to happen in a World Series."

RESUMES TUESDAY
The series resumes Tuesday night in New York's Shea Stadium.

Tom Seaver will pitch for the Mets and Jim (Catfish) Hunter for Oakland in a battle of right-handed aces. The game will start at 8:30 p.m. EDT and be televised on CBC.

Saturday, Oakland pitcher Ken Holtzman, who didn't have an official at-bat all season, because of the American League designated-hitter rule, socked a double and with the aid of Millan's error scored the Athletics' first run.

Holtzman pitched only five innings but earned the victory with shutout relief from Rolfe Fingers and Darold Knowles.

The Athletics scored both their unearned runs with two out in the third inning against Jon Matlack, who allowed only three hits, all of them in that inning.

Bert Campaneris scored Oakland's other run following a single by Joe Rudi. The Mets got one in the fourth when Jones doubled and came in on John Milner's single.

Canucks break road jinx

By GLENN COLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Vancouver Canucks have had little success on the road since they entered the National Hockey League in 1970-71.

Going into this season, the Canucks' away record was 18 wins, 87 losses and 12 ties in 117 games.

The Canucks opened their 1973-74 schedule with a four-game trip to Boston, Montreal, Buffalo and Chicago, dropping its first two games.

Sunday night, the Canucks won their first game of the season and their first game in Buffalo in two seasons by defeating the Sabres 3-1.

In other action, Chicago Black Hawks and Minnesota North Stars and Los Angeles Kings and New York Rangers battled to 1-1 ties. Boston Bruins nipped New York Islanders 3-2, and Philadelphia Flyers slammed Detroit Red Wings 5-2.

The Canucks dropped a 4-3 decision to the Canadiens in Montreal Saturday. Toronto Maple Leafs dumped Los Angeles 6-3. Atlanta Flames nipped St. Louis Blues 1-0, the Rangers clubbed Pittsburgh Penguins 8-2, Boston trampled Detroit 9-4 and Philadelphia blanked the Islanders 6-0.

Defenceman Jocelyn Guevremont says the Canucks "have improved 500 per cent with Gary Smith as our No. 1 goaltender."

Smith stopped 27 of Buffalo's 28 shots in Sunday's game but the Vancouver hero was Orland Kurtenbach who scored twice in the third period to provide the margin of victory.

Ken Hodge slammed home Bobby Orr's rebound during a power play to give the Bruins their third straight win of the season and the lead in the NHL's East Division. It was the fourth goal for the Boston right winger, who also has seven assists.

At Philadelphia, the Flyers ran their record to 3-0 by handing Detroit their third straight loss. For the second night in a row, Philadelphia scored two short-handed goals, with the first, a backhand shot by Don Saleski, tying the game at 2-2 at 9:37 of the second period.

The Flyers, who trailed 2-0 in the first period, forged into the lead at 13:34 of the second when Dave Schultz batted in a rebound after a set up by Orest Kindrachuk.

Philadelphia clinched it in the final period when Rick MacLeish scored at 10:48 after a pass from Terry Crisp while Bill Flett was serving a tripping minor.

Earlier in the period, Detroit's Larry Johnston was ejected from the game by referee Art Skov after he became involved in a verbal battle with the official following a fight between Schultz and Tom Mellor of the Wings.

At New York, ex-Ranger Bob Nevin scored on a breakaway at 15:10 to give the Kings their tie with the Rangers. Nevin took a pass from Butch Goring at the New York blueline and faked goaltender Ed Giacomin to the ice before slipping the puck in.

Cleveland Crusaders, one of three teams still undefeated in the World Hockey Association, believe goaltending is the key to success.

"You've got to have good goaltending in this league, and we've got it," said centre Skip Krake after the Crusaders defeated Chicago Cougars 3-2 in overtime Sunday.

It was their second win in three starts, but it left the Crusaders one point behind New England Whalers in the East Division. The Whalers nipped New York Golden Blades 2-1 in overtime Sunday for their third in four games.

In other Sunday games, Edmonton Oilers defeated Houston Aeros 5-2, Winnipeg Jets beat Vancouver Blazers 6-3 and Minnesota Fighting Saints downed Toronto Toros 5-2.

Saturday, the Aeros beat Los Angeles Sharks 4-3, New England beat Chicago 6-4 and Cleveland topped Quebec Nordiques 6-3.

Bob Whidden of Sudbury, Ont., and the Crusaders' No. 2 goaltender, made his first start against the Cougars and stopped 35 shots, 12 in the third period.

Whidden said his "arms were hanging out there, especially in the third period."

"I thought for a while I was going to have to tie them up to keep them up."

Cleveland was helped by a controversial call by referee Bill

Friday in the overtime period, Chicago's Joe Hardy fell on the puck to freeze it after breaking his stick, and Friday sent him to the penalty box for delaying the game. A short time later, Ron Buchanan beat goalie Andre Gill for the winning score.

Chicago's Rosie Paiement, who tried unsuccessfully to get the puck away from Hardy, argued the call.

"I told him I gave him enough time," Friday said. "It was a tough penalty to call."

The Oilers and Saints are both undefeated in the West Division and lead with four points.

Edmonton scored four goals in the first period, two of them within 36 seconds of the opening faceoff, to defeat Houston. Ron Climie paced the Oilers with two goals and Frank Hughes scored twice for the Aeros.

Gordie Howe, who set up two Houston goals Saturday including the winner by Gordon Labossiere with 2½ minutes remaining in the third period, assisted on one of Hughes's goals.

Beavers thumped

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Another brawl and a five-goal effort by Richard Nantais were the highlights Sunday in the Quebec Major Junior A Hockey League.

The brawling occurred in Trois-Rivieres Draveurs game in Shawinigan against the Dynamos, won by Shawinigan 8-4. Nantais's effort came against Sherbrooke Beavers as the Remparts crushed them 10-1 in Quebec City.

Elsewhere, Montreal Juniors toppled Cornwall Royals 6-4, Sorel Black Hawks nipped Drummondville Rangers 5-4 and Chicoutimi Saguenéens nipped Hull Festivals 3-2.

At Shawinigan, two fights broke out within five minutes in the third period. In the first, two players from each side were handed five-minute majors. In the second, three players from each side were penalized and Joe Simeone of Trois-Rivieres was ejected. There were 150 minutes in penalties.

In Shawinigan, four of Nantais's goals came in the third period as the Remparts scored seven times to break open what had been a tight game. Michel Lachance, Guy Chouinard, Florent Fortier, Charles Constantin and Real Cloutier got the other Quebec goals. Fernand Leblanc scored for Sherbrooke.

The Beavers' Pierre St. Cyr was given a penalty shot late in the second period by referee Gaston Caouette, but was foiled by Quebec goalie Mike Corcoran.

The Remparts, who led 3-1 going into the final period, had a 36-16 edge in shots.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The duplicate game was over and for once the unlucky expert had won. Even more remarkable was the fact that he had been playing with his wife.

"It was all due to the Jacoby transfer," he explained. "There were three hands where I opened no-trump and was able to play in my wife's major suit, but the real clincher was board seven."

We looked at board seven. Four spades down one, played by either North or South, was the final contract at every table but the one where Mrs. Unlucky Expert had played and made three no-trump.

For once we were interested. "Please explain," we asked.

He was all too happy to oblige. "She opened one no-trump. We were playing Jacoby by transfer and there was no way that I could get to play the hand in spades. She really mangles suit contracts and since four spades appeared to be a normal contract I decided to put her in an abnormal three no-trump. Maybe something good would happen to me for once."

It certainly did this time. In spite of the 6-4 spade fit there are exactly nine tricks for declarer at either spades or no-trump. We can't recommend our friend's bidding for everyday practice but it certainly worked this time.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB CAN HE BE HELPED Hypoglycemic feels down

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Could you please write an article on hypoglycemia — low blood sugar? A friend of mine has had it for over a year and even though he is on a sugar free, high protein diet, he feels no better. He sleeps only three or four hours a night and feels so drained of energy he can hardly move. Do you publish any material on it? Is there any hope for his recovery at all? He is ready to try anything. He cannot go on much longer feeling so bad.

Dear Reader — Yes, I have written several columns on this subject. Perhaps it will be helpful to point out that there are many other factors that cause low blood sugar (glucose) besides the diet. The blood glucose level is kept within narrow ranges by the action of the liver, which is a kind of blood glucose thermostat. Whenever the blood glucose gets too low the stores of animal starch (glycogen), or even body protein from muscles and other cells, are simply processed to form more blood glucose. That is why a person in a starvation situation doesn't collapse or die immediately from low blood sugar.

Through the action of the liver and fat cells excess amounts of blood glucose are converted to fat. If the build-up or absorption of sugar is faster than the body can process, the excess is eliminated through the kidneys. All of these mechanisms are then controlled by other glands in the body.

Whenever the liver is damaged there may be a low blood glucose level. Simply put, the liver loses its ability to release glucose into the blood. Any factor that causes liver damage can be responsible for this.

Other people have true hyperinsulinism where the pancreas regularly forms excess insulin unrelated to the food they eat. Rare individuals with disease of the adrenal glands, sometimes called Addison's disease, also have a tendency to low blood sugar.

Add to that the point that fatigue is a symptom of many things, not a diagnosis of low blood sugar. It can be caused by anemia, tuberculosis, and a host of medical problems as well as being caused by psychological factors. Because many of the symptoms of low blood sugar are the same as those caused by anxiety reactions, many individuals with psychological problems end up being told they have low blood sugar or thinking that is their problem when they really need help in the psychological area.

You can see why I can't really tell you what to expect for your friend. If he has faithfully followed a proper diet — which may include more than avoiding sugar — then it is hard to see how his problem could be a diet related one. If he is still eating lots of starches (breads, rolls, potatoes) he should stop these and limit his carbohydrates to bulky vegetables and use tomatoes to replace citrus fruit. He could also try eating small meals at more frequent intervals.

To this I would add eliminating tobacco, coffee, alcohol, and developing a good fitness program. That could help him — unless he has some problem more complicated than simple low blood sugar related to diet.

Tuesday, October 16
The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): There are no easy answers, but plenty of difficult questions. Be comforted in knowing that things will work out.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): A quest for pleasure may lead to new friendship, possibly romance if you are among the eligible.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Don't sit around waiting for someone else to take the initiative. Seek hidden advantages. Success is up to you.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Your interests today will be in things less material than in the financial side of life. (But only temporarily!)

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): It may pay to talk things over with highly successful individuals. You may be able to adapt his methods.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): If you show more affection, you will receive more in return. Virgo natives tend to be unromantic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): You may be a little late, but fretting about it won't help matters. Plunge right in and make up for lost time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Better sign off early tonight as outlook is negative for personal relationships, safety and health in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Benefic rays set off an auspicious chain of circumstances which could lead to many things, particularly cash!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Make every minute count. Put your assets, which are many to the best possible use for future security.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Far-ranging interests call for a thesis study of pertinent data on subject of vital importance to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): An unprecedented combination of benefic configurations should go a long way toward canceling out small negative aspects.

In Kenya

Time running out for non-native residents

By ARCH MacKENZIE
 NAIROBI, Kenya (CP) — Time is running out for East Africa's non-native residents.

"The writing is on the wall," says a European businessman here for nine years and now pondering a move that he feels certain he will have to make in time. But where? Rhodesia or South Africa? Canada, Australia or back to Europe? Few other countries offer the easy, relaxed prosperous good life he has known here.

But for East African Asians, the timetable seems much more urgent as Tanzania and Kenya tighten pressures that have the same target as Gen. Idi Amin of neighboring Uganda, who abruptly ousted all but a handful of the estimated 40,000 Asians, mainly of East India origin, last year.

Monday mornings, there may be 100 prospective immigrants lined up at the Canadian manpower and immigration office established by Al Lukie when he arrived from Ottawa Jan. 8.

He started from scratch. He and his two officers, plus staff including medical officer, may deal with 300 or 400 cases a week—tentative queries and actual applications. There's another 300 to 400 pieces of mail to process and Lukie would like more staff, if he had more space.

MAY AFFECT WHITES

No great change in the pressure on Asians to move out is expected by observers here until President Jomo Kenyatta is gone. Since he is in his late 70s or early 80s, that could come any time and there is anticipation that the Asian group will become a hot political issue. They have been the businessmen, merchants, the money people.

Such an atmosphere might also cut deeply into the white business sector, although it is the common view that Kenya is anxious to avoid ousting technical expertise or damaging its capacity to expand earnings of foreign exchange.

Few of the Asians asking about Canada have detailed knowledge of the country and some have trouble finding it on the map. But they do assume, from last year's Ugandan airlift, that Canada offers the best chance if applicants can muster the 50 points assessed here on the basis of age, education, health, outlook and other aspects including money.

Being under 35 is worth 10 points, for example.

MONEY HELPS

Having money helps because immigrants have to be able to support themselves once in the country. There is some big money involved, assets exceeding $1 million in some cases.

But a $10,000 bankroll for a man wanting to establish a small shop, for example, is no guarantee of a visa because $10,000 is not that much in the Canadian economic context.

Canada is not recruiting here, officials emphasize. It does not advertising and the interest in Canada is largely word of mouth. The office here has been established to deal with popular demand.

When Amin moved against the Ugandan Asians, Canada eventually took about 7,000 in a crash program and plans were accelerated to open up an immigration office for eastern and central Africa. Before that, applications had to go all the way to Beirut, Lebanon.

Lukie, a big, strong, personable product of Ukrainian emigration to the Dauphin, Man., area, won't estimate how many cases are actually processed a week. A "case" may be an individual or head of family and the output of the Nairobi office will emerge next year as part of the annual report on actual totals of arrivals from all countries.

COVER WIDE AREA

He and his two officers travel heavily—to Dar-Es-Salaam monthly to process Tanzanian applications, to Zambia every two months, to Mauritius every three months or so, and to Ethiopia and Somalia.

The backlog is building up and it takes about six months to process a case for a Kenya resident. The Kenyan government so far this year has issued "quit" notices to 1,600 non-citizen businessmen. That's about four times the previous annual rate.

Kenya says there are 150,000 Asians in this most prosperous part of old British East Africa but Lukie says it is difficult to provide an accurate figure and it may be only 100,000 or 120,000. Zambia has about 12,000 and there are perhaps 70,000 in Tanzania, a Socialist state where the pressure is more acute on a group that has formed the business and financial community.

They are giving good service," Lukie says. "We're getting very good immigrants—lots of young people. We also are getting lots of business people."

MANY TURNED DOWN

But many can't make the 50-point entry level—and telling an applicant so is the hardest part of his job.

Many are screened out by mail before the interview stage. But if an applicant can muster about 45 points and seems likely to be able to survive in Canada, approval usually is given.

Britain remains the largest outlet for East African Asians who hold British passports and some are going to India and perhaps a few others to Australia or the U.S. But the U.S. has a quota system and Britain has a big backlog.

Canadian processing is complete by the time the successful applicant leaves. An extensive education program ensures that applicants know what kind of a country they seek to enter.

Lukie says the 7,000 Asians reaching Canada last year have begun sponsoring relatives here and that is a factor in the traffic. It also reflects the fact most Asians in Canada have landed on their feet.

Lukie recalls tackling about 200 applications by himself in two weeks in Dar-es-Salaam shortly after he arrived. It takes concentration to make sure that all an applicant's qualifications emerge.

Transfer of assets from East Africa is one problem for emigrants that falls outside the responsibilities of the immigration service and Lukie won't discuss what some of the problems can be.

But both Kenya and Tanzania, like other developing nations, want to build up holdings of foreign exchange such as U.S. dollars, German marks or Canadian dollars—not lose them.

Sources here say that the black market is one way that the assets of immigrants can leave the country despite tough precautions against such leakage.

Some applicants for Canadian citizenship talk of assets of $1 million or more. Many already have them outside the country, the result of precautions taken when the first signs appeared several years ago of growing government desire to "Africanize" the economy.

Yet most dynamic

Island economy said precarious

TOKYO (CP) — "Japan has the most dynamic and the most fragile economy in the world."

This observation by Ross Campbell, Canadian ambassador to Japan, is a commentary on the precariousness of an island economy geared to an international trading system.

The country would come to a stop in about a month if its supply of oil were cut off, because virtually all of this basic energy source is imported and storage facilities are limited.

The current drift of world politics opens the possibility that Japan may become increasingly tied to North America for its fuel supplies. Kazuo Nukazawa put the Japanese situation on resource supplies in perspective as he breezily pulled up a chair in the Keidanren dining room and talked over a lunch made up mainly of imported foods.

"What are you doing here?" he said, referring to Canada. "You don't need GATT."

WANTS BARS REMOVED

The formal opening in Tokyo of a new round of trade negotiations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) had just been completed and the Canadian delegation had been promoting "upgrading of resources." Most countries import raw materials duty-free but have tariffs on more processed materials. Canada wants penalties to domestic processing removed.

"Canada doesn't need GATT, you can just say what you want and other countries will have to provide that."

said Nukazawa, a staff economist with Keidanren.

Keidanren—Federation of Economic Organizations—is a powerful organization representing Japanese business and it does much of the research work on business policy matters.

"God didn't give us minerals as in Canada," Nukazawa said. "God didn't give us oil as in Arabia, so we have to work hard."

More than four-fifths of Japan's oil supplies come from the Middle East and oil has become a political commodity. It appears that Japan and other countries will be under increasing pressure from Arab suppliers. The Arabs will provide oil to their friends and their friends are likely to be countries that do not support the United States position of giving military aid to Israel.

SEEK U.S. AID

Nukazawa said Japan has no choice but to do what the Arab states want unless the U.S. can assure an alternative source of supply.

The U.S. position likely will become clearer as Secretary of State Henry Kissinger gives more details on his proposal for a "new North Atlantic Charter."

The interpretation in Japan is that the key issue will be defence arrangements. A possible U.S. proposal, Nukazawa said, would be for Japan to aid other Southeast Asia nations and this aid would take the form of defence installations.

Such a program might be a political liability in Japan, where the constitution written by U.S. authorities after the Second World War prohibits any offensive military weapons. The legality of Japan's Self-Defence Force is being tested in court.

OIL SUPPLY VITAL

Japanese participation in a new alliance with the U.S. and Europe likely would involve guaranteeing energy supplies.

"We are not in love with Arab oil, we are just in love with oil," Nukazawa said.

U.S. authorities have so far discounted suggestions that oil from the North Slope of Alaska would go to Japan but if a pipeline is built to the Alaskan south coast it is only a short tanker trip from there to Japan.

When Kissinger first talked about his ideas for a new alliance in a speech earlier this year, he included both Japan and Canada.

If the Japanese business interpretation is correct, an energy-sharing agreement would be part of the alliance and this might involve any oil found in the Arctic or the Atlantic.

Oil is the major fuel for the relative short-term picture. The atomic energy commission of Japan is confident that nuclear fuels will eventually replace it.

"Nuclear fusion is the possible answer to the world energy supply difficulties, providing clean power on a semi-permanent basis," the commission says in its general review of the country's long-term program for development of atomic energy.

SEE EARLY SOLUTION

The review says it is expected that nuclear fusion technology "will be successfully created somewhere in the world" during the latter half of this decade.

Japan appears to favor the U.S. program for development of conventional nuclear reactors. The two countries signed a long-term supply agreement last year for 26 nuclear generators to be built in Japan beginning this year.

The U.S. nuclear program uses reactors fuelled with enriched uranium while in Canada the reactors being built use natural uranium and heavy water.

The Power Reactor and Nuclear Fuel Development Corp. of Japan and the Canadian Atomic Energy Corp. have signed an agreement for technological exchanges in development of a heavy hydrogen reactor.

Nagatoshi Isshiki, research director for the Atomic Energy Bureau of the ministry of science and technology, said there is interest in Japan in reactors being developed in Canada.

Isshiki said atomic energy becomes a more attractive fuel, at current prices, when the cost of crude oil goes beyond $5 a barrel. Current prices of crude oil delivered to Japan range between $4 and $5 a barrel, depending on shipping costs, which are at an all-time high.

Isshiki said geothermal energy—using heat from the earth's core to run steam turbines—is not at present considered a potential major energy source.

Jonas leads Bombers over Saskatchewan

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Blue Bombers quarterback Don Jonas directed a 60-yard march that led to the winning field goal by Walt McKee in an 18-17 triumph Sunday over Saskatchewan Roughriders.

The two points moved the Bombers within range of third place and the final playoff berth in the Western Football Conference.

The Bombers, first-place finishers last season, jumped two points ahead of the cellar-dwelling British Columbia Lions and trail Calgary Stampeders by only one point.

The third-place Stampeders lost 32-8 to Ottawa Roughriders Sunday in a Canadian Football League interlocking game in Calgary.

B.C., injury-riddled most of the season, took a 27-13 whipping from Edmonton Eskimos in Vancouver Saturday night.

EDMONTON IS FIRST

After the weekend struggles, Edmonton was in first place, one point ahead of Saskatchewan. Calgary was six points behind the second-place Roughriders.

Each western club has three games remaining.

McKee's winning field goal, an 18-yarder, followed four earlier misses. He collected three in seven attempts and got singles on two attempts that missed.

In addition, he converted the only Winnipeg touchdown, a one-yard charge by Jim Calip in the first quarter.

Calip's touchdown followed a fumbled punt by Saskatchewan's Terry Bulych.

Roughriders fullback George Reed, held to 46 yards rushing in the game, scored touchdowns on runs of five and two yards. Jack Abendschan contributed two converts and a single on a wide field goal attempt as the Roughriders led 17-15 with four minutes remaining, setting up the late Bomber march into playoff contention.

TIES CFL RECORD

Dave Cutler produced two field goals, tying a CFL record, as Edmonton bounced the Lions. Cutler now has 30 three-pointers, equalling the record set by Ted Gerela of B.C. in 1968.

Roy Bell, the leading ground-gainer in Canada, exploded for a 76-yard scoring run to put the Eskimos' victory in safekeeping. He gained 185 yards on 26 carries to become the first back to surpass 1,000 yards this season.

Flanker George McGowan took a four-yard pass and tight end Tyrone Walls a 13-yard pass for touchdowns from Bruce Lemmerman. Cutler converted two of the three scores and added a single.

Mike Wilson scored the only B.C. touchdown, rambling 28 yards with an interception of a Lemmerman pass. Ivan MacMillan kicked two of three field goals attempted and converted Wilson's major.

The Lions were without halfback Monroe Eley and fullback Johnny Musso who was handicapped by stretched knee ligaments. B.C.'s offensive team has scored only one touchdown in the last three games.

DRIVES FALTERED

Ottawa stopped Calgary with only 24 yards along the ground and opened a 25-1 halftime lead that was seldom in danger. Peter Liske of Calgary completed 29 of 45 passes for 387 yards but couldn't keep drives moving consistently.

Liske watched Rod Woodward streak 62 yards after intercepting a pass to score Ottawa's final touchdown late in the game. An interception by Jerry Campbell also set up a 29-yard touchdown pass to flanker Hugh Oldham from Jerry Keeling, former Calgary quarterback.

Evenson scored twice on one-yard plunges and Gerry Organ completed scoring on a field goal, a single and four converts.

Calgary's scoring was confined to a one-yard touchdown plunge by Dick Wesolowski and four points by Larry Robinson on a 43-yard field goal and a convert.

One Calgary march failed on the Ottawa one-yard line when Bob Wyatt's fumble was recovered by Ottawa tackle Jim Piaskoski. He trundled 84 yards deep into Calgary territory and Evenson scored almost immediately.

Winnipeg has a chance to take sole possession of third place Saturday in an interlocking game with the Alouettes at Montreal. B.C. visits Edmonton for a WFC contest Saturday night.

Ticats upset Argos, move in on Montreal

TORONTO (CP) — Centre Paul Desjardins of Toronto Argonauts summed it up: "We knew what we had to do, but we didn't ask me why we didn't do it."

Coach Jerry Williams of Hamilton Tiger-Cats said: "What the hell! We won, didn't we? Perhaps both teams have played better games."

Neither team was impressive, but the Ticats surprised their hosts 16-11 Sunday to tighten the Eastern Football Conference race. The fourth-place Tiger-Cats now have 12 points, one less than Montreal Alouettes, and two behind the Argos and Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Rough Riders moved into a share of first when they whipped Calgary Stampeders 32-8 Sunday in a Canadian Football League interlocking game in the western city.

SUNTER LEADS ATTACK

Quarterback Chuck Ealey didn't throw for any touchdowns, but he moved the Ticats close enough for four field goals and a single by place kicker Ian Sunter and another single by punter Alec Lockington.

Ealey, who completed 11 of 16 pass attempts for 122 yards, also picked up 117 yards rushing on 19 carries. The Argos got 85 yards rushing and 99 on passes.

"I didn't want to throw long. I was scared of the strong wind," said Ealey. "You couldn't fool around with that."

"They left big gaps. It was not my intention to run. They gave me the openings and I did my best to take advantage."

Hamilton got its other two points when Toronto kicker Zeeon Andrusyshyn was tackled in his end zone for a safety touch.

THEISMANN HAS OFF DAY

Quarterback Joe Theismann of the Argos, outstanding in Toronto's 37-10 victory over Calgary last week, had one of his worst games against the Ticats, although he scored a touchdown. He completed only six of 13 attempts and picked up only 27 yards on five scrambles. Andrusyshyn converted the touchdown and added a field goal and single.

Coach John Rauch of the Argos said: "Hamilton played well enough to win. We knew what we were up against, we knew all we had to do was to win to knock them out, but we didn't do it."

Esks down Vancouver

By PAUL CARBRAY

VANCOUVER (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos completely shut down British Columbia Lions' crippled offence and handed the Lions a 27-13 defeat in a Western Football Conference game Saturday night.

The Eskimos started quickly with two touchdowns in the opening 15 minutes, both on passes by starting quarterback Bruce Lemmerman, added four points in the second quarter, three in the third and seven more in the final 15 minutes.

The issue was never in doubt as the Lions, operating with injured backfielders and behind quarterback Don Moorhead, sub-par physically, were never able to mount a consistent offence.

Flanker George McGowan, on a four-yard pass, tight end Tyrone Walls, on a 13-yard pass, and running back Roy Bell, on a 76-yard burst around left end, scored the Edmonton touchdowns.

Dave Cutler got two field goals, a single on a wide field goal and two of three converts to wind up the Edmonton scoring.

EQUALS RECORD

Cutler's pair of field goals brought his total for the season to 30, equalling the Canadian Football League record for the most field goals in a single season established by Ted Gerela of B.C. Lions in 1968.

Gaiters drop 31-21 decision to McGill

By BRUCE PORTER

Record Reporter

MONTREAL — The only improvement for the Bishop's Gaiters in their rematch Saturday against the McGill Redmen was the weather, as the BU squad dropped a 31-21 decision.

Although the Gaiters started out the game on the right foot felling a McGill player in the end zone off the opening kick for a single point it was the only bright spot for them until they showed spark in the final stanza.

It took the Redmen just over nine minutes to notch their first touchdown, an eight-yard pass to Frank Dunn which Ron Kelly converted.

The Redmen took a 14-1 lead on a 33-yard Udis Auders TD pass to Ross Brooks, Kelly converting again as he did for all four TDs.

With only 35 seconds gone in the second quarter, Bishop's quarterback Mike Munzar was intercepted by McGill and Steve Etcheverry was shaken up on the same play.

Gary Chown was decked two minutes later and stood on the sidelines for the remainder of the contest. He rehurt knee ligaments still tender from an injury in pre-season play.

McGill's Kelly booted a field goal at 3:58 before Bishop's registered their first major.

Pat Commander made a fantastic mid-air catch deep in the end-zone on a Munzar pass to give the Gaiters a glimmer of hope at 7:41.

John Scrim made a last ditch effort tackle on McGill's Don

Bengals surprise Steelers

Four field goals by Horst Muhlmann and the running of rookie Charles Clark helped Cincinnati Bengals knock Pittsburgh Steelers from the ranks of the National Football League's unbeaten teams Sunday with a 19-7 victory.

The NFL's other undefeated clubs, Los Angeles Rams and Minnesota Vikings, both won their fifth games of the season.

John Hadl teamed with speedy Harold Jackson on four first-half touchdown passes— from 63, 16, 67 and 36 yards—as the Rams built a 34-14 half-time lead, then held off a late charge by the Cowboys to win 37-31.

The Vikings beat San Francisco 49ers 17-13, with safety Paul Krause picking off two passes late in the fourth quarter to preserve the triumph.

A 12-yard pass from Fran Tarkenton to John Gilliam, a one-yard plunge by rookie Chuck Foreman and a Fred Cox field goal produced the Vikings' points. The Rams and Vikings will meet in Minnesota in two weeks.

In other games, Buffalo Bills beat Baltimore Colts 31-13. Washington Redskins defeated New York Giants 21-3. Atlanta Falcons routed Chicago Bears 46-6. New York Jets edged New England Patriots 9-7. New Orleans Saints upset Detroit Lions 20-13. Kansas City Chiefs and Green Bay Packers fought to a 10-10 tie. Denver Broncos topped Houston Oilers 48-20. Philadelphia Eagles came from behind to beat St. Louis Cardinals 27-24 and Oakland Raiders defeated San Diego Chargers 27-17.

Tonight, Miami Dolphins travel to Cleveland to face the Browns.

An aroused Bengal defence shut out the Steelers, who came into the game scoring at a rate of nearly 33 points a game, until the final eight minutes, by which time the outcome had been decided.

Muhlmann booted first-half field goals from 20, 19 and 20 yards out, giving Cincinnati a 9-0 lead. The Bengals broke the game open in the third period, driving 93 yards for a touchdown, with Clark scoring on a three-yard run. That 18-play drive took 10½ minutes.

Stewart said Jody Scheckter, 23-year-old South African, would fill the spot left by his retirement. Scheckter has been driving for the McLaren factory team.

Stewart, the most famous and probably the richest racing driver in the world, said he would be working in the future as a consultant for the Ford Motor Co. of Europe on special projects and production development.

He added that he would not be leaving motor racing entirely, as he hoped to get involved in the administrative side as well as continuing his involvement in safety aspects of the sport.

Cowie shortly after to save a sure touchdown.

But Cowie, not to be denied, came back at 13:58 to score one one-yard plunge for his only major of the day.

Bishop's Greg Brown failed at a field goal attempt on the last play of the half, leaving the Redmen with a 24-8 half-time edge.

Commander gathered up a McGill fumble midway through the third stanza but the Gaiters' offence was foiled again.

Al Ansell recovered a fumbled punt at 9:38 in the third but again to no avail for the Gaiters.

Finally, Steve Etcheverry connected for the second Bishop's major at 11:43 off a Munzar pass.

The fourth period started off badly for BU as Auders sent Brooks out again for a pass and connected for what turned out to be an 83-yard TD play.

With about two minutes to play in the game Mike Bookalam charged across the goal line from four yards out to bring Bishop's within 10 points of McGill.

Munzar hit Commander again for an important first down with less than two minutes left, to bring the excitement to a climax.

The Gaiters came within one foot of a first down on the McGill 22-yard line but did not make it and forfeited the ball to the Redmen.

Brooks totalled 116 yards in completions, while Kelly picked up 63 yards in the air. Cowie rushed for 83 yards in the contest.

Bookalam was top rusher for Bishop's with 76 yards gained while Commander chalked up 105 yards in the air. Bookalam and Etcheverry totalled 69 and 46 yards respectively in passes.

McGill had 191 total yards rushing to Bishop's 84, while the Gaiters out-passed their opponents 295-223. Some 2,300 spectators were on hand for the McGill homecoming tilt.

Bishop's coach Bruce Coulter was pleased in many ways with the team, especially in the fashion with which they fought back in the fourth quarter.

Bob Gillies was not as effective as he could have been because of his injured ankle, and both Chown and Doug Murray were reinjured during the battle. "We can't afford injuries to people of that calibre," stated Coulter. "We also played some dumb football and took silly penalties."

He noted that Bookalam had the pigskin tip off his fingers on a third down play at the Redmen goal line, which could have been the turning point if it had connected.

"I think this league has the best football around, with several teams making the going very tough," concluded Coulter.

SPECTACULAR CATCH — Bishop's receiver Pat Commander, 21, is hit immediately after making a spectacular leaping catch in the McGill end zone. The Gaiters, however, were unable to capitalize on their chances and bowed 31-21 to the Redmen. (Record photo: Bruce Porter)

Stewart retires

LONDON (CP) — Three-time world auto racing champion Jackie Stewart of Scotland, who has won more Grand Prix races than any other driver, announced Sunday that he will quit racing.

The jaunty 34-year-old king of Formula One racing announced his decision only eight days after his team-mate Francois Cevert of France, was killed while practising for the U.S. Grand Prix at Watkins Glen, N.Y.

There had been speculation that Stewart might retire ever since he clinched his third world crown after the Italian Grand Prix last month.

Stewart has competed in 99 Grand Prix races, scoring an all-time record 27 victories—two more than his idol and fellow Scot, the late Jimmy Clark, who was killed on the track in 1968.

In the nine years he has been a Grand Prix driver, nine of Stewart's closest friends have died in motor racing. Reported a millionaire through his motor racing earnings, Stewart lives with his wife, Helen, and their sons, Mark and Paul, in Switzerland.

His decision to quit, coupled with the Cevert tragedy, means that the crack Tyrrell-Ford team is left without an established driver for 1974.

Stewart said Jody Scheckter, 23-year-old South African, would fill the spot left by his retirement. Scheckter has been driving for the McLaren factory team.

Stewart, the most famous and probably the richest racing driver in the world, said he would be working in the future as a consultant for the Ford Motor Co. of Europe on special projects and production development.

He added that he would not be leaving motor racing entirely, as he hoped to get involved in the administrative side as well as continuing his involvement in safety aspects of the sport.
