A. BRESLER, AGAIN!

AIR,—"The Meeting of the Waters."

There is not, in this city, a Store half so neat
As that Store, whose interior is grand and unique.
Oh! the Hats and the Caps which A. Bresler keeps there,
Are the best and the cheapest you'll buy anywhere.
Yet, it is not his maxim to run others down,
Still his Hats and his Furs are the best in the town;
'Tis not his delight to persuade 'gainst the will,
Oh! no, yet his Goods are the very best still.
Ah! his friends all well know that he never sells dear
(This fact to his enemies seems rather queer),
And they all, too, have felt how their features improve,
When their old-fashioned Hats have been by him renewed.
Cheap Store of A. Bresler! how dearly I'm blest,
'Neath the shade of your Hats, with the friends I love best
Where I go now for pleasure, I do so with ease,
And the taste most fastidious A. Bresler can please.

A. BRESLER,
Hatter and Furrier,

ANOTHER TRIUMPH OF RICH'S SALAMANDERS. (WILDER'S PATENT.)

THE OGDENSBURGH GREAT FIRE

OGDENSBURGH, N.Y., Oct. 21, 1852.
MESSRS. STEARNS & MARVIN, SUCCESSORS TO RICH & CO, 146 WATER STREET, NEW YORK:

GENTLEMEN,—On Tuesday morning last we were visited by one of the most destructive fires which has ever occurred in this section of the State. Your Safe was in the second story of the building, owned by Edwin Clark, Esq. During the destruction of the building, the Safe fell through the two stories into the cellar, where it remained in the burning ruins twenty-four hours after the fire, and was subjected to an intense heat during the whole time. After taking it from the ruins, it was opened in front of our store, in presence of a number of our citizens.—A quantity of valuable documents, papers, &c., were in the Safe, all of which were perfectly legible, and only colored from the steam of the Salamander. The wood work inside was not even charred, but as sound and perfect as when placed there. The Safe now stands on our sidewalk, where it will remain as palpable reference of their security.

We are yours, truly,
ASHLEY, BROTHERS.

No Book, Paper, or Document of any description, has ever been injured by fire in one of Wilder's Safes. An assortment of Safes on hand at the Store of the Subscriber, St. Helen Street.

JAMES HUTTON,
Agent for Messrs. STEARNS & MARVIN—the only makers in the United States of WILDER'S PATENT SALAMANDER SAFES, with RICH'S Improvement.

To Parties wishing to Purchase Building Lots.

THE Undersigned will dispose of his ORCHARD, situated in front of the residence of Philip Holland, Esq., (late Col. Wetherall's) off Sherbrooke Street, West, in Lots suitable for Villa Residences. These Lots are unsurpassed for beauty of situation, and convenient access, and being commuted are free from all seigniorial Burdens. They are one-half larger in size, than the McGill College Lots, lately offered for sale, and will be sold for £250 each.

JAMES H. SPRINGLE,
36 Great St. James Street.
NB.—Terms of payment very easy.

SELF-HEATING IRONS.
PATENTED, QUEBEC, AUGUST, 1852.
FOR SALE BY THE SUBSCRIBERS.

LADIES are invited to call and examine the IRONS. Those who have tried them acknowledge their superiority over every other description of Smoothing Iron, for all laundry purposes.

The large amount of fuel consumed in heating the common Iron causes an uncomfortable heat, and an extravagant expense, both of which are avoided by using the SELF-HEATING IRON. With this Iron, three bushels of charcoal are sufficient to do the ironing of a common family twelve months. Once filled, you can use the Iron five hours without replenishing. While using it you do not require to suffer the annoyance of a heated stove or fire place. You need not labour so hard pressing with it as you do with the common iron. The Irons being finely finished, they are easily kept bright and clean, and cannot possibly soil the finest linen.

Manufactured in Canada East only at the Montreal Foundry and City Works.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE

CORONER'S INQUEST

ON THE

BODIES OF THE VICTIMS

OF THE

Gavazzi Tragedy.

Eighth Day—Monday, 20th June.

The Inquest was resumed to-day at half-past P.M.

W. Murray was again placed in the Witness-box and deponed further—If the Mayor did not hear Col. Hogarth state that he (the Mayor) had given the order to to fire, he might have done so, from the position in which he stood. I did not hear any glass broken in the windows of the Church.

Peter Hanlon, clerk in the Royal Engineer Department, gave evidence as to the death of James Macrae. He heard the lower division of troops discharge their muskets, and immediately afterwards saw persons lying on the ground, whom he supposed to have been wounded by the discharge. One was lying in a line with the centre of the division, near Craig-street, and another at the corner of Craig-street leading to St. Antoine-street. The latter he got placed in a cab, and sent to the direction he gave—the Main street, St. Lawrence Suburbs. He said his leg was broken and the ball had entered his body. He had afterwards heard that the name of the person whom he put into a cab was Macrae. There was no tumult or quarrelling in the space between the troops and where these parties fell, nor in a straight line directly beyond them, when the troops fired. Witness was about 10 paces in advance of the lower division of troops, and distinctly heard the word "Fire!" immediately before the firing took place. He had not the slightest idea from whom the word proceeded. It came from the opposite end of the line from that where witness was standing. It must have been uttered in a loud voice from the fact of his having heard it in the position where he was. Immediately after the firing, he heard the words "cease firing," and the bugle sounded. The words "cease firing," he presumed, proceeded from the Commanding Officer. Witness thought there was an officer at the end of the line from which the word "Fire!" proceeded—the end furthest from the houses. Before the word "Fire" was given, he saw a low-sized, stout individual, dressed in black, with a paper in his hand, in a very excited state, at the end of the lower division furthest from the houses. Witness was then standing at that side of the line. The stout individual read the paper in his hand, which he understood to be the Riot Act, the only words he heard being "Our Sovereign Lady the Queen." Immediately after the paper was read, witness crossed over in front of the troops, and had scarcely reached the other side of the street, when the word "Fire!" was given. He had only time to walk slowly across the front of the line between hearing the words "Our Sovereign Lady the Queen" and the word "Fire." It was those words which put him on the alert. He did not observe that document read by any other individual.

John Leggat, a Cabman, having been identified by the previous witness, as the party into whose cab he placed the wounded man, who fell after the discharge of musketry, gave evidence as to conveying him to a house—he believed, either in Vitre Street or Lagauchetiere Street.

Stephen Jones Lyman, Chemist and Druggist: —Saw three men fall immediately after the firing of the lower division. Went up to these men, who by that time had crawled to the corner of Radegonde and Craig Streets. One of them told me his name was O'Neil, and said he was wounded in the leg. I left him in charge of Dr. Howard. I turned, and found another individual wounded, who said his name was Macrae, and that he was an apprentice to Mr. Thompson, blacksmith, St. Lawrence Main Street. Macrae said he was badly wounded. Shortly afterwards, I saw Mr. Hanlon take charge of him. The third person who was wounded crawled into a tavern at the corner. Immediately before the firing of the troops, I saw two movements of the soldiers' arms, which I supposed followed regular words of command. I was looking towards the American Church, and my attention was attracted by the rattling of the guns. These movements were performed in a military manner, but not with the regularity with which I have seen such movements performed—not with the regularity that I have seen on the parade. I saw a man on the hill armed with a fowling-piece—a short man, with dark frock coat, his collar turned down, a light-colored cravat, and dark hair—so far as I remember. [Some amusement was excited in Court by the above answer, which was an exact description of the barrister, who put the question, so far as it went.] There was no row immediately in front of the lower division, when they fired. Women and men were running from the direction of Great St. James Street towards St. Antoine Street and towards the soldiers. The parties I saw shot were crossing the foot of Radegonde Street, towards that part of Craig Street which runs into St. Antoine Street, when I saw them drop.

John Thompson, Blacksmith, gave evideace as to Macrae, who was an apprentice in his employment, being brought to his house in a cab, wounded, on the night of the 9th June. Shortly afterwards he was removed to the Hospital, where he died. The only word he said to me, when I was quarrelling him for being out, was "Oh! Mr. Thompson, I was only crossing the street."

Adjutant Wallace was sworn for the third time, and gave in a list which he had been ordered to furnish by Colonel Hemphill, of the names of the non-commissioned officers and privates who were supposed to have discharged their muskets on the night of the 9th June, and also a list of those present on that night who were supposed not to have done so. [See the correspondence between the Coroner and Colonel Hemphill, in reference to this list, in another column.]

Mr. Mack, on behalf of the private soldiers, objected to these lists being received, but his objection was overruled.

Mr. Mulholland:—Was this result ascertained before the soldiers left the ground? [Mr. Mulholland explained that his reason for asking the question was this—It had been stated by the officers themselves that there had been a gross breach of discipline on the part of the troops, and it was his object to learn whether an attempt had been made to ascertain before leaving the ground, how many and which of the men had been guilty of that breach of discipline.]

The Witness replied—It was not.

Question—How were the lists prepared?

Witness—I called for returns, from the orderly sergeants of the different divisions, of the ammunition deficient in the pouches of the men who were out on the night of the 9th June, and how the different deficiencies were accounted for. From those returns I made up the lists now furnished.

Mr. Mulholland—When was the list prepared.

Witness—It was some day last week that I was asked in this Court for the list, and it is since then that I have prepared it.

Question—Were any steps taken before then by the military authorities to ascertain who had fired and who had not?

Witness—The day after the occurrence, Colonel Hemphill, along with other officers, went round and looked at the state of the ammunition in the men's pouches. The Colonel was quite satisfied with the way in which it had been distributed.

Mr. Evans—After such a gross breach of discipline, was there nothing done to ascertain as exactly as possible, who were guilty or who were innocent?

Witness—I believe that, as soon as these proceedings are ended, it is the intention of the Lieut.-General commanding, to make a strict enquiry into the matter.

David Smith, Joiner, residing in St. Alexander Street, deponed:—I was in the Haymarket Square on the night of the 9th June. There was no riot after the troops were drawn up. When the troops fired I was in a line with the lower division of troops, within 15 or 20 yards of the Mayor, who was standing at the end of the line of troops. Previous to the troops firing, I passed between the two lines, and when about the centre, four or five yards from Mr. Wilson, he was unfolding a paper, which he told us was the Riot Act, and if the mob would not disperse, he would fire. I did not hear him speak again until I was within a distance of 15 or 20 yards from him. Then I distinctly heard the word "Fire!" from Mr. Wilson. I know him perfectly well, and knew him to be the same person who told us he would fire, if we did not disperse. Immediately after the word "Fire!" was given, the soldiers fired. I heard an officer call "cease firing." Before the firing, I heard no order given by the officers. If any such had been given, from my position I must have heard it. From the appearance of the flash, and hearing the repor, I considered that the first soldier, nearest Mr. Wilson, commenced the fire. The word "Fire!" was in a louder tone than that in which he said to us that he would fire. I distinctly heard the Mayor pronounce the word. The Mayor was excited when he told us he was to read the Riot Act, and seemed to be backward in giving utterance to his words. It was positively the voice of the Mayor that I heard, when he said "Fire!" I did not see him when he said so. I do not think the order was loud enough to be heard by the upper division. Before the troops fired, I heard the rattle of their guns. If the officer in command of the lower division was at that end of his men, he must have been within a yard of the Mayor. I saw no persons coming out of Zion Church armed, but before the military came up I saw firing within the gate. I cannot say how many shots. There was firing on both sides—both inside and outside the gate. There were two parties attacking each other, and shots proceeded from both. To the best of my belief, the deceased, James Walsh, was shot, before any shots were fired from the church. The shots fired from inside the gate, seemed to be from people resisting an attack made by those from without. The shots fired at the Engine House, and those up towards the Unitarian Church, before the firing of the soldiers, were, I thought, fired in the air, and not at the troops. I saw the flashes go up. I saw a man whose name was said to be Walsh, lying wounded in the gate of the Weigh-house, before the troops came on the ground, and I assisted in carrying him half-way to Dr. M'Donnell's. There was not a solitary soul speaking near me, when the Mayor gave the word to Fire. The reason why I did not see him was, that there were three or four men standing directly between me and the Mayor, when he gave the order.

Walter Macfarlan, Merchant in Montreal, deponed—When the soldiers discharged their muskets, the only word of command that I heard proceeded from the Mayor. "Fire! Fire!" He first said "Fire!" and after a short interval repeated "Fire!" in a peremptory tone of voice.— The firing then took place immediately. I saw many of the men take a most deliberate aim at the objects they were firing at. I allude to both divisions, but more particularly to the upper one, to which I was nearest. Mr. Baillie, a previous witness, was with me at the time, and I remarked to him that that must have been the Riot Act the Mayor was reading previous to giving the command "Fire! Fire!" I had heard a mumbling of some sort. He replied "Oh! it's only blank cartridge, to frighten the people." I could not have been more than ten or fifteen yards from the Mayor, when I heard him give the words "Fire! Fire!" I was facing the Unitarian Church, and the Mayor was somewhere in the crowd towards my right. I was then between the lines of troops. I have known the Mayor for several years, and think I could not have been mistaken in the sound of his voice. I have no moral doubt upon the subject. I was about 15 feet from the upper division when the firing took place. There were two motions by the military before they fired—very quick.— They seemed to raise their muskets from one hand to the other, and then present. I think the upper division might have heard the order to fire from the Mayor. I am sure they could, if they had been attending. I was standing rather nearer the upper division than the lower. The distance between the two divisions might have been 40 or 50 yards.

Several questions were put to the witness, with the view of giving him an opportunity of correcting certain discrepancies in his statement as to the distances, but he adhered to his former statements.

The Inquest was then adjourned till this day (Tuesday.)

THE MONTREAL HERALD.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 21, 1853.

The Military and the 9th of June.—We hear that several of the privates will give evidence today, to the effect that they received regular commands to fire from their own officers, and it is worthy of remark that more than one witness has already spoken to observing regular military movements executed by the troops, immediately before the firing.

It will be remembered that on Saturday, Adjutant Wallace stated at the Inquest, that he had been ordered by Colonel Hemphill, acting on the advice of the legal adviser of the soldiers, not to furnish a return of the ammunition expended on the night of the 9th June. Yesterday morning the acting Coroner, Mr. Jones, addressed the following letter, on this subject, to Colonel Hemphill :—

Coroner's Office, Montreal, June 20, 1853.

Sir,—I have the honor to request that you will be pleased to furnish me a list of the names of the soldiers who discharged their muskets during a riot, which took place on the Haymarket Square, in the City of Montreal, on the evening of the 9th day of June instant.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Your obedient humble servant,
Joseph Jones,
Coroner.

Lieut. Col. Hemphill,
Commanding 26th Cameronians, Montreal.

The following reply was handed in by Adjutant Wallace, when sworn yesterday :—

Montreal, 20th June, 1853.

Sir,—I have the honor to forward a list of the non-commissioned officers and men of the 26th Regiment, who are supposed to have discharged their muskets on the night of the 9th June, 1853, together with a list of those who are supposed not to have done so. This conclusion has been arrived at, from the examination of the ammunition in the men's pouches, and Lieutenant and Adjutant Wallace will afford you any information in his power on the subject.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Your most obed't. servant,
A. S. Hemphill,
Lieut. Col. Commanding 26th Cameronians

Josep Jones, Esq.,
Coroner, Montreal.

From the lists furnished yesterday by the Adjutant, it appears that 43 of the non-commissioned officers and privates in the upper division are supposed to have discharged their muskets, and 47 of those in the lower division; 15 are supposed not to have discharged their muskets.

We observe, by the Toronto Mirror, that Dr. Charbonnel, the Roman Catholic Bishop of that diocese, has addressed a "circular" to his clergy, in consequence of "The deplorable events of Quebec and Montreal." His Lordship, in this circular, quotes largely from the New Testament, inculcations of peace, meekness, and forbearance under provocation, and concludes with the following well-timed announcement :—

Were any Catholic of our Diocese to forget those principles of true Christianity, and cause any disturbance on the occasion of the 12th of July, he shall be deprived of receiving the Holy Communion for a length of time, according to the degree of the scandal: and if he dies a victim of his disobedience to this present ordinance, his corpse shall be deprived of the Ecclesiastical burial.

Having published the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser's remarks, mentioned below, we add, from his columns of Friday last, the following :—

The Case of Ann M'Elroy.—It will be remembered that in commenting upon this case, some days ago, we alluded to the very inefficient manner in which the coroner of Williamsburgh had performed his part of the investigation. That gentleman has sent the following communication to the Williamsburgh Independent Press, which had copied our remarks. We voluntarily give it a place in our columns, forbearing comment. We have nothing to retract, but are quite willing that the coroner be heard as well as ourselves.

The Inquest on Miss M'Elroy.

The statements copied from the Commercial Advertiser, and published in your paper last evening, are far from the truth, as was presented to me at the time the body was first placed under my charge.—The facts are these:—On Sunday night, June 5, a report came to me that a woman had been found dead in the water at the foot of North Second street. On going to the place, I had the body taken out of the water and ordered a coffin to put it in; and it was put in as secure a place as the time of night and circumstances would permit, it being 11 o'clock.

The appearance of the body at the time it was taken out of the water, was such as I have seen before in cases of the same kind, except that the left eye was black, as if it had been bruised. The body was very much swollen. The extremities presented no lacerations or abrasions which would lead any man to suppose, at the time of my examination, that any violence had been committed upon her person; her clothes were not torn, the collar about the neck remained whole up to the time of the inquest; the bowels presented no appearance of marks of abrasion, they were very much swollen, the labias were swelled, but not lacerated, and presented no signs of having been violated. Such was the appearance at the time of being taken out of the water.

She was then placed in a coffin, which was put in a steam box first, (for it must be known that the city of Williamsburgh has no place set apart for the reception of bodies found dead in or out of the water,) therefore I was obliged to select the best place that presented, and there I left the body. During the following day I was informed by two gentlemen of this city, that a German woman had left her home, laboring under mental derangement, and fears were entertained of her safety. I made every exertion to find her supposed husband, believing she was the person inquired for, as it corresponded with the time I supposed she had been in the water.

A description was left at the office of the German paper of this city, and every publicity given in the case. Our city papers published the fact, and the neighboring city papers published the same, notwithstanding the remarks made by the above named paper.—The inquest was delayed to give the friends an opportunity to recognize the body; and while keeping it, several complaints were made against my so doing, wishing immediate burial. Notwithstanding, I should have kept it much longer, had there been a place provided by the city.

On Monday afternoon about six o'clock the inquest was held. I endeavored to get some place to take the body from public gaze, to make an examination of it, but did not succeed, consequently was obliged to hold it in the street. On opening the coffin there was a most intolerable smell arising from the body; the face and neck had become black down to the clothes about the upper part of the breast, which I accounted for from the fact that the sun had shone all the afternoon on the head of the coffin—the body presented the usual appearance of a person drowned—and as for the tongue, I have the same authority for saying that the tongue was not as described by the paper—and I would further remark that information has reached me, since the inquest, that she was subject to slight mental derangement, at certain periods, which may account for her sudden disappearance. And now allow me to say in conclusion, that every care and attention was given to the case, as was deemed necessary at the time. And as for the burial I have nothing to do with it any more than to give a certificate. Respectfully yours,
J. Dickinson, Coroner.

"As others see us".

(Abridged from the New York Commercial Advertiser, 17th June.)

Gavazzi, and Free Speech.—Now that the excitement has somewhat subsided, we may profitably direct attention to the great principle involved in the fatal affair at Montreal, and to some of the circumstances antecedent and subsequent to the brutal attack upon Mr. Gavazzi. Some of our contemporaries have drawn comparisons between the citizens of Montreal and New York, in which we cannot entirely coincide. The New York Sun of Saturday last, for instance, thus puts the case :—

"Canadian journalists are quick to seize upon occurences in the United States discreditable to our social character, or which may be used to the prejudice of our institutions. The failings of their own people should teach them charity.— Here, we sustain free speech and fair play, but from the reception given to the ex-monk, Gavazzi, in Quebec and Montreal, it is plain that tolerance is not a virtue yet fully established in those two cities. The spirit which led to the riot in Quebec, is that which sustains despotism everywhere. it is not the spirit of religion, but the ferocious passion of unreasoning and grossly ignorant men."

We fear New York is scarcely entitled to take so much credit to itself in the matter of "sustaining free speech and fair play." The Macready affair cannot yet be forgotten, or the forcible and riotous breaking up of the meetings of the abolitionists. The truth is, that every large city is liable to some such occasional outbreak of tyrannical temper, arising from a combination of circumstances against which no power of recognized principles is a sufficient protection. Let there be but an adequate exciting cause, and the passions of the populace may in a moment burst out into violence, either at New York or Montreal, Boston or Quebec. We have some knowledge of the Canadian people, especially of the residents of Quebec and Montreal, and not do think they are in any degree a less orderly, law-abiding people than our own citizens, or a whit less ardent and fixed in their attachment to the right or free speech and free discussion. Indeed, the tone of their presses and their public meetings, both Protestant and Romanist, does honor to their love of liberty, in that phase of it especially. And if Canadian journalists do eagerly seize upon anything that causes the people of the United States to appear to disadvantage, let us have the honor of setting them a better example.

The Montreal riot might have occurred anywhere else, and was no more the act of the "people of Montreal" than the riot at the Astor Place Opera House was the act of the "people of the city of New York." In each case the instigators of the riot were few, and if a thorough investigation is made it will probably be found that those who provoked the riot in Montreal were as notoriously lawless and characterless as those who abetted the rioters in New York. Making these admissions, as in justice we are bound to do, the painful fact nevertheless remains that a public lecturer has been violently silenced at Quebec and at Montreal; liberty of speech, the freeman's birthright, has been trampled under foot by a ruthless mob, who for the time took the law into their own hands, and this has been done under circumstances of peculiar aggravation. The assailants of Gavazzi were Roman Catholics; their only provocation was an attack upon the system of Romanism by the speaker. Yet it is a fact that not very long ago another lecturer, Mr. Brownson, in that self same city, as publicly denounced Protestantism as "inconsistent with civil liberty and national prosperity, odious to God and injurious to man," without receiving the slightest molestation from a single member of the Protestant community.

There is no getting over this fact. It is in vain for the Roman Catholics of Quebec and Montreal to deny the fact or prevent the world from drawing the very natural inference, that the genius of Protestantism is more tolerant than the genius of Romanism. We are quite willing to concede that Gavazzi appeals more to the passions than does Mr. Brownson; that he is about equally dogmatic, or more harsh, impetuous and indiscreet, and evinces as little of the spirit of catholicity and charity. But these admissions do not place the conduct of the Quebec and Montreal rioters in any more favorable light; and they still remain convicted of a brutish intolerance and violence which was not evinced by their Protestant fellow-citizens under similar provocation.

One redeeming feature in the whole unpleasant business is the unanimity with which the city authorities of Montreal, and the people thereof, without distinction of creed, and the Canadian press without an exception, so far as we know, have deprecated this interference with the liberty of speech. And by the way, there is an almost equal agreement in the estimate of Gavazzi and his mission. We have more than once expressed doubts of the utility of that class of agitation of which he is the type. We much doubt its Christianity, for the good reason that it evinces very little Christian temper. In the case of Gavazzi this is particularly evident. Nor can we conceive why a gentleman, so thoroughly disgusted, as he professes to be, with the genius and institutions and practices of Popery, should still cling with such fondness to its titles, and to its robes, when he appears as the anti-Popery lecturer, unless he is prompted by a morbid desire to produce effect. We met the gentleman the other day in a daguerreotype gallery, attired in a layman's ordinary dress—but let that pass. Nor can we estimate Mr. Gavazzi so high as some do as an orator.—That he is a good actor, or rather would be, were not the acting so very apparent, we freely admit.—We acknowledge that he is a great actor, but we cannot call him a great orator. Nor, judging from the high eulogiums passed upon him by the English papers, do we think that the American people have been quite so much beguilled by his pretensions declamation as English audiences were.

We have received the following letter from the Editor of the True Witness :—

To the Editor of the Montreal Herald.

Monday, June 20, 1853.

Sir,—In your paper of this morning, you tax the True Witness with affirming "that all Protestant wives were nothing more than concubines;" and as this accusation is false,—as the True Witness never said, or insinuated, any such thing—I trust to your sense of fair play, that you will allow its Editor to make this formal contradiction, through your columns.

The words of the True Witness, speaking of Dr. Rolph's Marriage Bill, were these :

"Neither does the Church refuse to acknowledge the validity of the unions of any baptised persons, when no impediments exist, and whose mutual consent to the matrimonial union, is fully, and in good faith, inwardly given, and outwardly, intelligibly expressed. Such unions—though contracted by Protestants—the Church looks upon as valid and chaste unions, and, therefore, as indissoluble—wanting, indeed, in many of those special graces which her prayers and benedictions draw down upon the unions of her children, but still as valid marriages, so long as not wanting in the two essential conditions—the presence of the mutual consent of the contracting parties, and the absence of any impediments to their union; for where the former is not, or where the latter are no true marriage can be contracted."—True Witness, April 1st, 1853.

If, in the above language, the Editor of the Montreal Herald can detect one expression calculated to wound the feelings of any person, the Editor of the True Witness will be most happy to modify it. He cannot, however, alter the doctrine of the Church, which is,—that marriages, contracted by Protestants, are as valid, and, therefore, as indissoluble, unions, as if contracted by Catholics, and solemnized in the presence of the Sovereign Pontiff. The True Witness has contended for the indissolubility of all matrimonial unions, and has never intended to say one word impugning their validity or purity, whether contracted by Protestants or Catholics.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Your most obd't servant,
George E. Clerk,
Editor of True Witness.

We now give the passage, in the article from the True Witness, to which we referred :

"Catholics cannot be expected to look favorably upon such a project of law. With Catholics, marriage is not, and no amount of human legislation can ever make it, a mere civil contract.— They know that Christian marriage—in which alone, among baptised persons, the union of the sexes is chaste and holy—is a sacramental union; that it is this that constitutes the essential difference between a conjugal union and mere sexual intercourse; betwixt the marriage bed, pure and undefiled, and the harlot's couch; betwixt the holy state of matrimony and a state of beastly lust and filthy concubinage."

Now we had not the slightest intention of doing injustice to the Editor of the True Witness. Our words were these :

"We may, perhaps, be told that Mr. Brownson only used these epithets in a constructive, or philosophical sense; but if this excuse for most insulting expressions is to avail him, we must give the benefit of the same justification to his disciple on the other side of the question. We presume even the Editor of the True Witness does not understand Gavazzi to have alleged that the Catholic Priests were literally manslayers, when he spoke of them as murderers. He meant it, we presume, in a sense Pickwickian or theological—which, perhaps, is much the same thing, as theology now goes—exactly as Mr. Brownson and our cotemporary do when they speak of Protestant ladies in the way we have described. The offence is not that they bring false charges of substantive crimes, but that they allow their abstract principles to lead them to calling most offensive names."

When our contemporary alleges that marriage is a sacramental union, and that this constitutes the difference between the conjugal and other improper connexions, we believe that he means to say that all marriages contracted with proper intentions between the parties are sacraments, though there be no intervention of the priest, and that, therefore, even a Quaker marriage is a sacrament, if undertaken by the conjoints in a right spirit. But to Protestant ears not used to this subtle distinction the impression conveyed is this: In our Church marriage is a sacrament; you have no priests capable of performing a true sacrament; you have, in fact, no sacraments; hence, your marriage is—what we need not repeat. We thoroughly acquit our contemporary of any intention to make an imputation of substantive immorality; nay, we may perhaps think his doctrine of the indissolubility of the marriage tie more favorable to women generally than the doctrine which permits of divorce; but we know, that this way of stating the case has been understood in an offensive sense; and indeed we cannot see how it could be otherwise, without the metaphysical distinction which we gave him credit for; but which, we are convinced, would escape most readers.

Grand Trunk Telegraph Line.—This new line of telegraph seems to be carried on with much energy. Four hundred and forty-five miles of it already in operation, and connecting with side lines that are now doing business, from Port Hope to Peterboro', Toronto to Barrie, Hamilton to Brantford, and London, and also to Simcoe and Port Dover.

The stock is limited in each locality to the business men; Hamilton, Toronto, Kingston, and Quebec, have agreed to take their portion.

We understand that P. Low, Esq., the President, and C. Mortimer, Esq., the Secretary, are now in this city, to receive applications for the limited amount of stock allotted to Montreal. On Saturday, several of our largest business houses placed their names to the stock. The list will be closed on Thursday.

Coroner's Inquests.—On Saturday, at noon, a man named Lawrence Carrigan fell from the gable of a new factory which is in course of being erected at the Canal. The unfortunate man died in a few hours afterwards, leaving a wife and several children to deplore his loss.

On Sunday morning, a man named Solomon Weiss, a member of the Jewish persuasion, from Frankfort on the Maine, while bathing near the Windmill Point, got beyond his depth, and was drowned, being unfortunately unable to swim.—

Inquests have been held on both bodies, and verdicts returned in accordance with the facts above stated.

Theatre Royal.—As will be seen by the advertisement, the performances this evening are for the benefit of that interesting little saltatarious young lady, La Petite Winther, whose dancing, on Saturday night, was received with applause. The programme promises an excellent entertainment.

Early Closing Association.—It will be observed by the advertisement, that a meeting of the association will be held this evening, in the St. George's Hall. We regret to hear that some are declining from the principle advocated by the association, and trust they "will think better of it."

New Music.—We have to acknowledge the receipt of a New Ballad from Mr. H. Prince of the London Music Store, entitled Oh! ever think of me. It is a Swiss melody in B. flat, very effectively arranged, and cannot fail to become a great favourite.—See Mr. Prince's advertisement.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the Montreal Herald.

Sir,—I have read the strictures in your paper of the 18th, on the "Gold Diggings" of the Times, as rather too inflated. I have corresponded with that very able geologist, Mr. Logan, and agree with him, that it will not pay the agriculturist to search for gold superficially. I have just returned from exploring the Township of Stoke, in which I possess considerable property, and of very excellent quality of soil, far superior to many of the sandy and rocky tracts on the Magog. In the sands of the St. Francis, and in several of the tributary brooks, I frequently found pepites, or minute spangles of gold, and other metallic substances, which proves there must be a matrix somewhere in the Stoke Mountains, which assimilates to those of Virginia, Carolina, and Mexico, and on the same family range. The St. Francis is like the Pactolus of Lydia, the auriferous Phasis of Colchis (the golden fleece of the Argonautic expedition), or the Tagus of Portugal—rolling golden sands.— The rocks have evidently got rotten by age, and these pepites appear mixed with chromic iron, and tourmeline or titaniferous schorl and quartz and sienite or elvan (which the Devonshire people call wood stone, a trap rock), and the gold has got out of them down the ravines and brooks in minute particles.

The Californian diggers will, no doubt, find the matrix when they come out.

I am, Sir,
Yours respectfully,
W. P. Shortt,
Of Exeter, England, and Stoke, St. Joseph and Mingan, Canada.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

SUPERIOR COURT—WEEKLY SITTINGS.

Tuesday, 14th June, 1853.

Present :—Mr. Justice Day,
Mr. " Smith,
Mr. " Mondelet.

Mr. Justice Day gave judgment in—

Exparte McCarthy, do Crookshanks, do Gilbert Rose, and Landry.—Applications for Writs of Certiorari granted.

Rolland vs. Hamel, and Deseve, Opposant.— The question for consideration in this case, was against whom costs should be charged on an Opposition afin de distraire. The Court decided upon maintaining the opposition, with costs— against the Plaintiff.

Platt vs. Platt, et al.—Action dismissed on demurrer sauf a se pourvoir.

Aikin vs. Dease.—Action against the assignor of a debt, for payment. The claim was contested on the ground that no demand had been made of the heirs of the original debtor. The Court thought there had, and gave judgment for Plaintiff.

Partenais vs. Perrault.—Appeal from the Circuit Court. The question involved in this case was whether the wife of the Plaintiff had received the debt on his behalf, and granted a receipt. That, the Court held, had been proved in the affirmative. The point as to whether a receipt by a wife was, or was not valid, did not here arise,— as the husband had admitted that she was in the habit of acting as his agent, and granting receipts in his name. That was sufficient in the opinion of the Court, under the present circumstances, to make the wife's receipt valid as against her husband. Judgment of Court below affirmed.

Exparte Doray, et al.—The order taken upon the proceedings of the Road Surveyor,—in this case complained of, was quashed, because he had proceeded on the application of two persons only, instead of two-thirds of the residents, as required by law. The judgment was given without costs, on the ground of the extreme irregularity of the proceedings.

Burroughs vs. DeChantel.—On a motion to reject a pleading of the defendants setting up the defendants interdiction, and that therefore he could not be sued other than in conjunction with his Counsel. The plaintiff's ground for rejection was that this was a preliminary plea, and could not be pleaded along with the other pleas to the merits as had been done. The Court held a different opinion. The plea was of the nature of a fin de non recevoir, and could be fyled with the pleas to the merits.

Motion rejected.

Dorion vs. Vendette and Vendette, Opposant. —Issue in law on an opposition. The defendant had opposed to the seizure by plaintiff, setting up that the procès verbal of seizure had been made on a writ issued by the Sheriff, and not on a writ issued by the Court. The Court held that this was no ground of objection. The Court issued the writ of execution, and the Sheriff thereon issued a writ commanding a Bailiff to make the seizure, on which the return was made. To make his ground tenable the opposant should have went further, and alleged that no-writ had been issued in the first place by the Court to the Sheriff.

Opposition dismissed.

Ryan vs. Halpin.—Motion by defendant,—1st. Asking to be permitted to inscribe en faux.—2d. That the plaintiff be held to declare within three days whether he intended to make use of the exhibit complained of; and thirdly, that if he did not, the said exhibit be rejected. All these applications had been joined together in one motion, which the Court held was informal. The mover should have first asked for leave to inscribe en faux; and if that was granted, and the opposite party did not state within the prescribed delay whether or not he intended to make use of the document complained of—then, and not till then, could he move that it be rejected.

Strang vs. Torrance and Al.—Question of contradictory pleading. The Plaintiff had sued the Defendants as co-partners of the steamer Ottawa, for damages and loss of furniture shipped by him on board of that steamer. The Defendants met the claim with cautiously drawn-up exceptions, denying the partnership, the alleged quantity of the furniture, and the alleged damage,—and then concluded by saying, that the damage, if any suffered, arose from a collision with the steamer Reindeer, for which the Defendants were not liable. With these exceptions a defense au fonds en fait was fyled.

The Plaintiff, thereupon, moved that the latter be rejected as contradictory to the former, and seemed to rely on a previous decision of the Court. On looking into the case alluded to, the Court found it different to the present one. Now compensation admitted the debt, and could not be fyled with a plea denying it. But here there were no admissions. The Defendants admitted receiving the furniture on board the steamboat, but they admitted none of the grounds of complaint for which the Plaintiff claimed damages, but attributed the alleged loss to a force majeure. There was, therefore, no contradiction here. The The pleas denies all the grounds of action.— Motion rejected.

Smith, J. observed that according to his opinion, there could be no contradiction in the joinder of any kind of pleas, except in a case where a plea of tender was fyled with a plea denying the debt.

Mr. Justice Smith, gave judgement in :—

Banque du Peuple vs Roy.—Judgment on a demurrer. The grounds of a demurrer were two. 1st. That in the declaration the Plaintiff did not state that Mr. Viger, the President of the Bank, was duly authorized by the bank to accept the obligation on which the action was now brought.

The Court said, that was unnecessary to state. A Notary could accept on behalf of his creditor; and the President of a Bank must be presumed to be duly authorized to accept on behalf of the Bank. If he was not, it was ground for an exception, and not for a demurrer.

2nd. The second ground was, that the obligation, on the face of it, was given for a loan of money which was secured by a mortgage on real estate, and that the Bank by its Charter had no authority to loan money on Real Estate. The Court said, that that objection did not appear on the face of the obligation. It may have been given as security for a debt previously due to the Bank.—Demurrer dismissed.

UNITED STATES.

The Crops.—We continue to notice complaints in the Western papers of the ravages of the fly on the wheat. The destruction seems to have been very great in Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Ohio.

In New York, Illinois, and Michigan, there is a promise of very abundant crops, and in Alabama the farmers are harvesting larger crops than for many years.

The Southern papers very generally complain of the backwardness of the cotton crops, owing to the unfavorable weather and the drought.

Anti-Rent Cruelty.—The N. Y. Journal of Commerce mentions some of the particulars of another diabolical outrage committed by the anti-renters in the town of Berne, N. Y., on the person of an unarmed sheriff A man by the name of Dietz, it seems, had successfully resisted all attempts to serve a writ on him for years. At length a Mr. Laurence from a neighboring county —all the magistrates and officers in that county being combined against the rent law—succeeded in presenting to Dietz a law paper, which the progress of a suit makes necessary, and turned to leave. Dietz, however, seized him, blew a horn and called to his aid five men armed with rifles and disguised as Indians. These demons first beat the sheriff until he was one bruise over his back, arms and shoulders, then they filled his clothes, boots and hat with tar, and completed their demoniacal work by shaving his tarred head with a jack-knife. After thus torturing the poor man as long as they thought it safe to do so, consistently with saving his life, they let him go, with his hands bound. All this in a State professing to be governed by law! by a people professing to be civilized!

Speed on the Hudson River Railroad.—A party of gentlemen connected with the Hudson River railroad, passed over twenty-three miles of that road last week, in twenty-one minutes! or at the rate of nearly sixty-six miles an hour! And the purpose is said to be seriously entertained of running through from New York city to Albany in two hours, after taking out of the road some of the bad curves, which ought never to have been made in such a road. The road is almost without grades, and flag men are stationed all along the road to examine the track, and give suitable warning of approaching danger. The Hudson River Company, it is said, are about to introduce upon their cars a contrivance for excluding dust and noise, those two great nuisances in railroad travelling. The only road in this vicinity which is absolutely free from the dust nuisance is the Eastern, between Boston and Salem.—Boston Traveller.

Cornelious Vanderbilt and Henry Grinnell. —These are the names of two New York self-made millionaires. One of them bilds, fits out and sails a ship across the Atlanti and in the seas of Europe, at an expense of a ound million. The other builds, fits out and sendsa ship to the Arctic seas, at a very great expens, though probably not so great as that which i incurred by the other. The one does it for prvate ostentation and pleasure, to make perhapsthe judicious grieve and the vulgar stare. Theother does it, not only to promote useful discovey—but to aid in the heaven-born work of resciing from the jaws of death, if that yet be possille, one of the noblest of a noble class of men—miritime discoverers.—Rochester American.

New York, June 20.

Advices from Porto Cabello, of June 1st, represent the country of Venezuela to be in a very critical condition.

The Government of Monagas has been, for a very long time, very unpopular, and efforts are being made to overturn it in favor of General Paez.

Generals Marino and Castellas were in the interior in open rebellion, with 2,000 troops.

Government was busy in raising an army, and had appointed the President's brother to the command of 20,000 troops.

A part of the military sent into the interior returned discomfited.

The treasury was completely exhausted, and the troops unpaid.

To add to the discontent, Monages had silenced the press at Coracca, and imprisoned some of the editors.

THE above work has been used for Interest only, until about one year since, when it was discovered that, in connection with a small work entitled Brooks' Average Table (improved by J. W. Worthen), to be the most complete affair for the Equation of Payments in the world, operating equally as well upon pounds as dollars, without changing them, and requiring less than one-fourth the time or figures used by any other method. Mr. B. W. Foster, the well known Author and Teacher of Book-Keeping in the United States, says :—"I have examined Brooks' Method of Equation, improved by J. W. Worthen, and find it correct in its results, and possessing great advantage over all others in use. It is short and so simple, that any person who can add and divide, can equate correctly." Teacher Janes, of N. Y. City, also refers to it, in his new method of Book-Keeping, as the best extant.

Mr. W. is now in this city, and will satisfy any person of its advantage, who will spend ten minutes to examine it, which is sufficient to understand it perfectly. Some have already done so and purchased, among others Messrs. Frothingham & Workman, Ferrier & Co., Seymour & Whitney, Samuel Peck & Co., Chamberlin & Thomson, T. McKenzie, Kingan & Kinloch, J. H. Evans, T. M. Bryson, Stewart & Kerr, Baxter & Kingston, D. Stewart & Son; Benjamin, Brothers & Co., Green & Sons, to whom we take the liberty to refer. Mr. W. and his brother have sold to nearly all the houses of any importance in Toronto, Kingston and Quebec, who declare it to be invaluable to them. By leaving your card or address at the Eagle Hotel, or drop a letter in the Post Office, Mr. W. will call at your place of business, average any account current, or make up any account current you will present, and if it is not all it is recommended, he will ask nothing, and consider you under no obligation whatever to patronize him. Price for both works only 8s 9d, or $1,75, invariable.

CLARENDON.

(LATE PHELPS HOUSE.)

THE SUBSCRIBER having Leased this well known House for a term of years, would announce to the Public, that it has undergone extensive improvements and repairs—has been re-furnished in the highest style of modern elegance, and is now prepared in all respects for the reception and convenience of guests.

The location of this House is central, and commanding—being in the very heart of the city, upon the principal street, contiguous to each Railroad Depot, Lake Erie, &c.,—and affording the finest view of Buffalo and the adjacent country, that can be had in the city.

It will ever be the purpose of the Proprietor to provide the comforts of a pleasant home, in behalf of all who may favor him with their patronage. He trusts that the same generosity which was accorded him as commander of the Steamers London, Canada, May Flower and Empire State, may also be extended to him in his new vocation.

ROSWELL CORSE,

Survivor of the late Firm of R. & H. Corse, of Montreal,

FEELS truly thankful for the liberal support received from the customers of the said firm; and solicits their continued support for his nephew, NORTON B. CORSE, and SAML. H. MAY, who intend to continue, in the same building, the same business as that carried on by the late firm. They have been in the employment of the firm, the former 29, and the latter 20 years; and for a number of years had the principal charge of the business of the firm, and, consequently, are well known to the late customers thereof.

By the death of the late Henry Corse, Esquire, the partnership of R. & H. Corse has ceased, except in so far as is necessary to settle the affairs of the concern.

An early settlement of the accounts of, and payments of debts now due to the firm is required, and it is hoped will be early attended to. Settlement may be made with, and payment to, either R. Corse, N. B. Corse, or S. H. May, at the late place of business of the firm.
Montreal, May 30, 1853. 80

WITH reference to the above the undersigned beg to inform the public that they formed a Co-Partnership on the 19th instant, under the name and Firm of CORSE & MAY, and are now receiving ex Pearl, from London, a general assortment of PAINTS, &c., &c., which they will sell low for Cash or approved credit.

NOTICE.

THE great attention which Messrs. Dinet, Peuvrel & Fils, of Avize, have devoted to furnishing their Agent in New York with Superior CHAMPAGNES, and the celebrity which their Wines have attained thereby, especially the "BOUZY," 1846, has (as is always the case) given rise to counterfeits. The Subscriber, therefore, begs to warn the Public generally, that none are genuine, unless the "Bouzy" and "Sillery" have on the labels "Dinet, Peuvrel & Fils (à Avize)," and the Grand Vin d'Ay "Paul Dinet (à Reims.")
