OTTAWA REPORTS NO DEVELOPMENTS

Gossip, However, Still Assigns
Borden's Mantle to White or Meighen

Ottawa, July 4.—(By Canadian Press.)—The flood of letters and telegrams, announcing the feeling of members and senators as to who should be chosen to succeed Sir Robert Borden, as Premier, and leader of the new national liberal and conservative party has almost ended. It was expected that Saturday night would see almost the last of these in the hands of the Prime Minister after which it will probably be a matter of a day or two until he has gone over the situation and decided who is to inherit the mantle.

No information was available over the week-end as to whom the choice would fall upon. A few members of parliament still waited in the city, some of them wishing to hear definitely as to leadership before returning to their homes. Among those there was no certainty as to who was the likely successor.

The choice, according to some of the members, seems to be almost narrowed down to two persons, Mr. Arthur Meighen, and Sir Thomas White and there is still a question whether or not the latter would accept in view of the fact that he was not a candidate for the honor.

Most of the ministers were also, out of town over the week-end, so there has been little but gossip from the political mind since the Premier's statement of Thursday night. While there is no material change in the political situation, if anything, gossip adds to the belief that the final choice of leadership will lie between Sir Thomas White and Hon. Arthur Meighen. It is known that the former is favored by many Government supporters, including quite a number from the West. On the other hand supporters of Mr. Meighen point to the fact that he is possessed of what they call the necessary youth and vigor to carry the party through the trying time which is bound to come with the reorganization of the Cabinet and organization work preparatory to an appeal to the country.

No Significance
Toronto, July 4.—Hon. N. W. Rowell, President of the Privy Council, when seen here yesterday, denied that his visit had any political significance. At present he said, he would make no statement as to his intentions, in regard to his resignation from the Cabinet, which he submitted and temporarily withdrew at the request of the National party caucus. He said he expected there would be four groups in the House from now on.—Unionist, Liberal, Labor and Farmers. Respecting the Alberta liquor import decision Mr. Rowell said that this inter-provincial trade in liquor was a temporary issue.

EVIDENCE WAS SENSATIONAL

Witness Tells of Letter Written by Accused Murderess
To Russian

Sydney, N.S., July 4.—Evidence of a sensational nature given by Stephen Stepiak regarding a letter written by the accused murderess Mrs. Marinelli to the young Russian Mike Kovak, who was originally charged with the murder of the accused woman's husband, and was acquitted of the charge and subsequently arrested on a charge of perjury, was the reigning feature of the Saturday afternoon session of the Maritime Federation. The trial after the examination of several witnesses was adjourned until ten o'clock Monday morning. It is probable that the whole of the evidence in the case will be in at noon Monday and that the jury will be ready to retire about 3 o'clock that afternoon. Stepiak was called to the stand about 3 o'clock. He said that on the day preceding the murder a letter had been given to him by the Marinelli woman who asked him to read it to Kovak.

After the completion of Stepiak's evidence Kovak was called to the stand. He denied ever having received the letter spoken of by Stepiak.

SIX PERSONS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Montreal, July 4.—Six persons were injured in an automobile accident yesterday afternoon when their machine overturned into a ditch near Longueuil after a collision with another automobile travelling in the same direction.

Antonio Labelle, 35 years of age, of 328 Front Street, St. Lambert, suffered a fractured leg. He was taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital for treatment. His wife and two children suffered minor cuts, and were treated on the spot being able to return home. Henry Labelle, brother of Antonio, of 330 Front Street, St. Lambert, suffered cuts and bruises. His wife and two children also suffered cuts, and were treated on the scene of the accident and taken home.

SIAMROCK HAD BRIEF WORKOUT

Sandy Hook, N.J., July 4.—Sir Thomas Lipton's cup challenger Shamrock IV had a brief workout today in a brisk northwest breeze manned by a crew picked with a view to increasing the speed in handling of sails. A number of men were shifted to the challenger from the 23 meter, Shamrock which remained at her anchorage. Captain Burton, amateur master of the cup yacht, plans to select the more skillful workers of the two Shamrocks for his crew. A trial race between the two yachts is expected to-morrow as Sir Thomas has invited numerous friends to accompany him on board his steam yacht Victoria.

ITALIAN SHIP HOISTS RED FLAG

Sets Up Communist Rule On High Seas—Is Acclaimed
at Buenos Aires

Buenos Aires, July 4.—The Italian steamer Belluno arrived here from Genoa yesterday flying the red flag of communism aloft and the Italian flag at her stern. The vessel is manned by a Communist crew who operate the ship on a basis of equality from captain to cabin boy. With the exception that powers have been delegated to a few of their number as officers to maintain discipline. All receive the same salary excepting those with additional responsibility who get additional pay for "special expenses". The Belluno brought a cargo from the Genoa Cooperative Society, which Captain Timiletti of the Belluno directs and of which the crew are members. The steamer entered the port with the crew manning the main and waving red flags. She was greeted with tooting of whistles, by harbor tugs, many of which hung out red flags and escorted the Belluno to her pier, where great demonstrations were staged by 5,000 port workers of the Buenos Aires Maritime Federation.

MANY DEATHS IN CAR COLLISION

Nineteen Dead, Thirty-Five Seriously Injured When the Lightning Struck Pole

Scranton, Pa., July 4.—In a collision between three cars on the Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley Railroad near South Pittston Station at 7:30 o'clock last night 19 people were killed and 35 seriously injured. The accident occurred near South Pittston when lightning struck a telegraph pole along the line of the track and the pole fell over on the tracks in front of a car bound for Scranton. A moment later a limited car crashed into the rear of the car that struck the pole, and a third car telescoped the second. All three cars were piled in a heap. Many of those killed and injured had attended the annual games of the Caledonian clubs of Scranton and Pittston at Valley View Park yesterday afternoon.

FORM FEDERATION OF IRISH TRADES UNIONS

Dublin, July 4.—Delegates representing 26,000 trades unionists in conference here today resolve to form a federation of Irish trades unions on a national basis. John Mooney, Chairman of the conference, charged that an army of occupation was trying to break down their lines and that on their flank the British Trades Unionists, under the guise of friendship, were helping to feed the furnaces for their destruction.

CONVENTION IS AT A DEADLOCK

Democrats Make A Fruitless
Search For Dark Horse After
22 Ballots

San Francisco, Calif., July 4.—The day of rest brought to the Democratic National Convention no release from its 22 ballot deadlock and no promise of relief to-morrow. Fruitless search for a dark horse who could win, left the tired, muddled and even exasperated forces with nothing more tangible than likelihood of a straight-out fight between Cox and McAdoo and growing hopes that a Moses would spring up from somewhere to lead them out of their wilderness.

All ears were cocked toward the White House for the magic word. For the first time in 24 years a Democratic convention was working without the guiding hand of Bryan and for seven years without the word of Wilson.

The growing impatience of the delegates with repeated casting of solid blocks for candidates who showed no promise of becoming successful dark horses is expected to show itself to-morrow.

Late Saturday night there was increasing evidence of temper against the attitude of those who would not release their votes. The apparent stubbornness was that they lost control by abandoning the unit route. Their position was greeted Saturday night with shouts of "come out of it," "hire a hall" and the like.

With the three leaders knocking their heads together, friends of the candidates of lesser strength showed, renewed determination to keep their favorites in the running. The attitude of the dark horse backers who on the last ballot of Saturday night held a combined voting strength of one-tenth of the Convention, helped to lock the situation tighter. For the present the task of putting over any one of the big three without breaking into that block of votes seemed to be a remote one.

The list of dark horses for whom movements seemed to be on foot still included John W. Davis, West Virginia; Senator Glass, Virginia; Senator Owen, Oklahoma; Homer S. Cummings, Connecticut; and Bainbridge Colby.

Of the four heading the lesser group, Ambassador Davis had the greatest strength. But all efforts to start a serious break in his direction have been unavailing and after conferences, his friends to-night were claiming more strength for him but nothing like a stampede at the start to-morrow.

After twenty-two fruitless ballots the Democratic National Convention just before mid-night gave up hopes of selecting a presidential nominee within the first week of its session and adjourned until ten o'clock Monday morning.

Repeated attempts to adjourn were defeated throughout the early part of the night, but as mid-night approached and it was about to become Sunday, the tradition that a Democratic national convention never works on a Sunday, coupled with the fact that the Convention was tired, worn and frazzled had its effect and the final motion to adjourn was unopposed.

When the Convention stopped Cox was leading with four hundred and thirty. McAdoo came next with three hundred and seventy-two and a half. Palmer was down to a hundred and sixty-six and a half. The final ballots of the night were full of McAdoo movement but it failed to make much headway. Georgia, his home state, pledged to Palmer, swung over with her 23 votes in a block for one ballot to see if it would start her native son toward victory but it failed to do so and she swung back to the Attorney General.

No dark horse appeared during the night's balloting to carry off the honors and the Convention adjourned just as much in need of somebody to rally about as it was when it began the balloting. It was in a deadlock with nobody in sight to break it. Today was devoted to efforts to find somebody to whom the Convention can swing.

Barchall, K.C., at the suit of the Halifax Shipyards Limited, against certain of the Company's employees who are on strike, Mr. Justice Chisholm granted an order of returnable at Supreme Court chambers Tuesday, July 13th, at 11 a. m. day-light saving time, for a hearing on an application on behalf of the plaintiffs that an injunction to prevent picketing of the Company's property be granted pending trial of the action and final determination thereof, the plaintiff undertaking to pay defendants any damage that the latter might suffer by reason of the order.

IRISH SOLDIERS MUTINY IN INDIA

Connaught Rangers and Others
Rebel When Told of Recent Events at Home

London, July 4.—Three fourths of a battalion of Irish Connaught Rangers stationed at Jullundur, in the Punjab, India, mutinied, following the arrival of news of recent events in Ireland, according to a dispatch from Simla under date of July 2 to Reuters Ltd.

Upon receipt of the same news at Solan, in the Simla hills, another detachment is reported to have attempted to seize arms and ammunition. The dispatch says, adding that guards killed two of the men and wounded one.

The dispatch says that when the last mail reached the troops they became greatly excited and the decision to lay down their arms soon was reached, one fourth of the men remaining loyal to the colors.

The troops expressed regret that they were unable to serve any longer and gave up their arms and ammunition. Although remaining entirely respectful to their officers, the men explained their sympathies with their friends in Ireland. The troops now are separated in camp under the strict guard of a British regiment.

TURKS REPULSE LANDING PARTY

Marines From British Warships
Beaten Off By Rapid Fire Guns

Constantinople, July 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—British warships attempted to land marines Friday at Mudania, on the Sea of Marmora, but they were repulsed by rapid fire guns widely scattered along the coast. Evidently the guns were placed since the British landing on June 26.

The Greeks claim that the Turks lost 2500 men, including 1500 prisoners in the fighting preceding the capture of the Patiskeskri, about 100 miles northeast of Smyrna, where the Greeks say the Turkish population welcomed them.

Apparently the Turkish Nationalists are much discouraged by the speedy advance of the Greeks. There are indications that the Turks are withdrawing in the best possible order toward the line from Brusa to the hills and mountains whence bandit gangs harries the enemy's advance toward the Bagdad railway. It is believed the Nationalists lack artillery and will rely on guerrilla warfare.

GREEK OFFENSIVE

Athens, July 4.—The Greek offensive against Mustafa Kemal Pasha's Turkish Nationalist forces which began June 22, ended July 2 with the junction at Omerkei north of Balikeskri, of the Greeks from the south with those which landed Friday at Panderza on the Sea of Marmora.

These operations which it was estimated would require 15 days were completed successfully in 11 days, the opposing Nationalist forces being crushed.

MAJ.-GEN. GORGAS PASSES AWAY

IN ENGLAND

Was On His Way to South
Africa to Investigate Sanitary Conditions

NOTED AUTHORITY

On Military Surgery—Gave
Death Blows to Malaria.
Yellow Fever and Mosquito

London, Sunday July 4.—Major General William C. Gorgas, former surgeon general of the United States army, died at an early hour this morning. He body will be sent to the United States on a government transport sailing either July 14 or 16.

General Gorgas had been in a critical condition for the past three weeks, although at intervals he showed improvement, and quite recently it was announced that he might be able to return home. He went to London preparatory to a mission to South Africa in behalf of the British government to investigate sanitary conditions, but suffered a stroke of apoplexy and was sent to a hospital for treatment.

Major General William C. Gorgas was considered the world's foremost authority on military medicine and surgery. He fought and defeated the malarial mosquito in Panama and thus made possible the building of that great waterway. He dislodged yellow fever from its century-old stronghold in Havana and under the direction of the United States government and the Rockefeller Foundation supervised campaigns against that dread disease in Central America, Peru and Ecuador.

At the invitation of the British government he went to South Africa in 1913 to establish sanitary conditions in the Rand, as a result of which he received high honors from the medical profession in London and Oxford University conferred a degree upon him.

In the last ten years his service were sought to give battle to plagues in many parts of the world. When the typhus epidemic began in Serbia in the war an effort was made to have him undertake the campaign against it but at that time he was needed to direct the medical and surgical work for the American Army in France.

He was decorated by the French government and made a commander of the Legion of Honor and knighted by King George of England, the latter for, as the King expressed it to him, making possible the construction of the great canal.

In the days of the old French company which attempted to build the canal, tropical diseases annually claimed one-fourth of all its workers. The French were powerless before this pestilence.

When General Gorgas became general sanitary officer of the Canal Commission, the annual death toll had been reduced but it was still difficult to obtain the vast army of workmen necessary and to care for those disabled by malaria, yellow fever and dysentery.

In nine years by a systematic campaign for the destruction of the mosquito, General Gorgas virtually drove these diseases from the Isthmus. When he gave up the work to accept the post of Surgeon-General in the army in 1914, deaths among the canal workers had been reduced to 5 per thousand annually. Congress, in recognition of his achievement made him a Major-General and the word hailed him as one of the great men of medical science.

In recognition of his services he was made a member of the Isthmian Commission and served as such until he was made Surgeon-General. His work in combating yellow fever in Havana began when he went to Cuba with the rank of Major in the Spanish War. When the war ended he remained as sanitary officer of the Island. Havana had been for more than a century the focus of yellow fever infection for all of the Northern Hemisphere. When he left Cuba in 1902 the island had been cleaned up and Havana, where previously from 200 to 1,200 had annually succumbed to yellow fever, since has been virtually free from the disease.

While in the Canal Zone, General Gorgas visited Guayaquil and mapped out a plan to rid that city, long known as the "pesthole of the Pacific", from the yellow fever scourge and his plan was in process of execution when the great war began. Soon after the United States entered the world war General Gorgas announced the organization for the "reconstruction" for soldiers crippled in the war which included the establishment of orthopedic hospitals behind the firing lines in France, reconstruction hospitals in the great centers of America and the retraining of crippled men and preparation for resuming their vocations or learning new ones.

REPAIR DEPARTMENT

This is the month to examine the household Table-ware, Spoons, Forks and all silver plated articles.

Collect the worn and damaged pieces and send them to us to be repaired, replated and refinished.

The work will be done carefully and thoroughly during the summer months, and the goods returned to the owners in first class order in September.

For July and August we make a special display of Antique Jewels to interest Tourists. This exhibition of old fashioned jewelry has developed until, today, it is a feature of our business in the summer time. The demand is for old Jewels in solid gold, old solid silver wares, diamonds in antique settings, more especially solitaires.

We again submit our advice on accidents to watches during the boating, bathing and fishing season.

If during your vacation your watch should fall into water, open up the case and immerse the whole watch in coal oil, sweet oil, or any oil obtainable, do not delay; watch materials are excessively expensive at present and often difficult to procure, the oil will prevent rust.

Mail the watch to us as quickly as possible.

SHOE REPAIRING PROFITS REVEALED

Boston Dealers Make $1.25 a Pair on "Full Sole and Heel" Job.

Boston, July 3.—Complaints of profiteering in shoe repairing were heard before the State Commission on the Necessaries of Life at the State House yesterday. Those summoned included representatives of shoe repairing machinery manufacturers, repairers belonging to an organization to further their interests, independent repairers, and partners of leading retail shoe stores which either do repairing or hire it done.

Frank F. Stodder, of Coes & Stodder, shoe dealers on School Street, in reply to questions by Charles H. Adams, chairman of the commission, testified that his firm sent shoe repairing jobs to a nearby repairing shop.

"We charge our customers $4 for a full sole and heel job," Mr. Stodder said. "We pay the shoe repair concern $2.75 for the job, where the heel is of leather, and $2.80 for rubber heel jobs. On account of the large volume of business that we give to the repair concern, their price to us is lower than their price to the general public."

Profit of $1.25 a Pair.

"Then you get a profit of $1.25 per pair without doing any of the work?" Mr. Adams asked. "Isn't that a pretty large profit considering what you do?"

"No, I don't think so," replied Mr. Stodder. "The customer looks to us to see that he gets a first-class job. He is willing to pay for elegant workmanship, the guaranty of good treatment and fine service."

"You mean for the general satisfaction of doing business with you," said Mr. Adams. "Exactly," was the reply.

"Are you going to advance your prices?" he was asked.

"Well, if the association of shoe repairers advance their prices, we certainly shall advance ours," Mr. Stodder said.

C. W. Pollock, McNeil & Co., said his concern did shoe repairing on its premises. A full sole and heel job cost $2.75," said Mr. Pollock, "and the price charged the customer is $4.00."

"We have not put in all of our overhead costs, however, in determining what the work costs us," he said. In answer to a question regarding wages of men, he said his firm paid its shoe repairers from $30 to $38 a week. "The service end of our shoe repair business is quite expensive," said Mr. Pollock. "We send shoes to all parts of the country, and even to Canada, and this costs money."

A witness connected with the shoe department of William Filene's Sons Company said that the shoe repair department, which he said, had been operated at a loss of $10,000 in one year.

The testimony of Mr. Stodder and Mr. Pollock was the outstanding feature of evidence obtained during the hearing, which for the most part was given by persons whose responses indicated that they exacted comparatively nominal charges, for costs and actual labor.

Five Profits Made.

J. W. Meloon, a representative of the United Shoe Machinery Company, testified that the equipment of machinery used for the repair of shoes was such that a fair charge for the cost of the machinery used in the work would be three cents a pair.

M. F. Constantine, for a leather firm, said that different qualities of leather were sold to repairing concerns for soles, half soles and heels, by sample, by the pound, and by the pair. Whole soles sell from 35 cents to $1.25 a pair. One dollar is a fair average price, he said. There are at least five profits before the job gets to the wearer. The last profit made is from 10 to 15 per cent, he testified. Heels are made up to be sold for 90 cents a dozen up to $1.35 a dozen for women's styles. There may be six profits on heels, he said. Rubber heels are charged at from $1.75 to $3.60 per dozen. There are from two to four profits before they get to the consumer. Harry S. Gordon, also a leather dealer, gave similar testimony.

After J. W. Boynton, for the Good-year Tire & Rubber Company, quoted $2.75 and $3.60 a dozen as the price received from repairers by his company for half and full rubber heels respectively, repairers were heard. Carmen Collaruso, for the Broad Shoe Hospital, Boston, said that he pays 65 to 70 cents for soles, three cents for machinery, and it takes from 30 to 45 minutes to repair a pair of shoes. He pays $29 to $30 per week for labor, working nine hours a day, or less than 60 cents an hour. He admitted that he charged $2 for what cost him $1.45. His price has remained at $2 for two years for a full sole and heel. Samuel Stern, for the Good-year Repair Shop, 227 Friend street, charges $2.50 for leather sole and heel. Repairers in his employ get $49 per week and stitchers $45. William M. Edmonston of Quincy testified that he charged $3 for full sole and heel, and said his price would be $3.50 after July 1.

Gifts to Women Who Use Jiffy-Jell

Jiffy-Jell users should write to the makers for a list of aluminum molds. Molds, spoons and measuring cups are supplied to users free.

Jiffy-Jell is the one dessert which has the fruit flavors in vials. A bottle of condensed fruit-juice essence comes in the package. So a Jiffy-Jell dessert is a real-fruit dairy. The flavor is not artificial. The sweetening is sugar, not saccharine. Women who once try it will always get it. Your grocer has the flavors. Try pineapple and strawberry first.

A SUMMER PARTY FROCK.

By Gertrude Beresford.

This quaint little frock is made of white Swiss combined with white organdie. The skirt is fashioned from two deep flounces of the Swiss, which show a touch of color in the small blue dots with which it is embroidered. The long-waisted blouse is prettily trimmed with fine val lace. Of course if you should duplicate this frock you might use taffeta for the upper part, for that is one of the whims of Dame Fashion. A pale blue would make quite a lovely dress, and in place of the lace you might substitute tiny ruffles of Swiss.

NEW NOTES FOR OLD FROCKS.

By Rita Stuyvesant.

Who does not feel Spring in the air these lovely days, and who does not think of a new frock or two to freshen up the Winter wardrobe? But many women feel that it is yet a bit too early to purchase the Spring outfit, and in this case the frock that has given good use during Winter days may be given a new Spring note and look quite presentable for immediate wear.

The newest accessories are really charming, and often one needs only a new bit of finery at the throat to give the desired crisp effect, and often a gay vestee will completely transform a frock. But it is of the frock itself that needs a change that I am going to tell you today and just what can be accomplished with little trouble and less expense.

The chemise frock of tricotine that was so popular last Fall will make a splendid foundation for the Spring wardrobe, but will need to be changed a bit if one desires to appear smart. This model in navy blue is likely to be found in nearly every wardrobe in either navy or tan tricotine.

To relieve the sombre effect of the collarless neck, you might cut the neck much lower, shaping it in a graceful slope. Fill in a vestee of beige colored, georgette, closely shirred and add a tiny collar of the same. A narrow edging of fine fillet will be a pleasing finish. Now "lace" the lower part of the cavity together with a slim black silk cord tasseled at the ends. When you cuff the long sleeves with georgette and fillet, the upper part of your frock is rejuvenated.

To give a new note to the lower part of a chemise frock, cut it off at hip-length and set it back on the material slightly gathered on a covered cord. To do this you will have to take in the upper just a little to make it fit more closely. Small slit pockets and a narrow belt of tan suede will lend chic and complete an unusually smart street dress. This model is excellent for remodeling the frock that is embroidered so heavily in a deep border at the bottom.

Or if you do not care for the tan georgette in combination with the navy tricotine, you might try the new parrot green shade that promises to be so popular when the warm days come. Of course then one would choose a tiny green leather or suede belt to confine the fullness of the waist. Little belts of this kind sell for fifty cents.

Robin's egg blue combines wonderfully well with tan, and this is a good suggestion to keep in mind if you plan to do over your tan tricotine dress. All the shades of brown are good, too, with tan, and so are those lovely tones of raspberry and dull red.

HIGH-HANDED JAPAN

Chinese Complaint of the Conditions in Manchuria.

Reports reaching Peking indicate that the Japanese are carrying things with a high hand in Manchuria now that the other Allied troops are virtually out of the country. The Peking and Tientsin Times has received from its correspondents reports which it presents under the heading "Reign of Terror in Manchuria." It says that at Inanpo two Russian workmen who had made some disparaging remarks about the Japanese Emperor in talking to a Japanese soldier in the Russian Railway hospital was seized by Japanese soldiers and "summarily shot on the spot." At Harbin, the paper says, Japanese sentries stationed on a bridge threw one Russian off the bridge, breaking his collar-bone and stabbed another in the face with a bayonet when the Russians insisted upon crossing the bridge.

The Japanese are reported by the newspaper to have taken full possession of Harbin, and arrested there 11 Russian workers and handed them over to the representatives of General Semenov, and the Times adds that by this time, "no doubt they have been shot by Baron Unger Steinberg."

The Japanese are declared to have brought to Harbin and armed 500 Semenov troops, who are reported to be actively assisting the Japanese and helping to terrorize the local population. The Times predicts that similar incidents are likely to increase as the Japanese hold of the Russian Far East becomes more intense, and states that the Japanese garrison at Harbin is to be increased by 1,000 more men. This reinforcement is declared by the paper to be absolutely unnecessary, "as the Chinese Troops stationed there are sufficient to maintain order."

The situation along the Chinese Eastern Railway characterized by the Times correspondent as very critical. He stated that the Japanese military authorities had decided to place their own guards and sentries along the whole stretch of the railway which crosses the Upper Manchuria, because they were about to send troop trains and military supplies along the railway and were afraid the Russian railway workers who were opposed to Japanese intervention might try to stop the Japanese from carrying out their plans.

"The Japanese seem bent upon brewing trouble among the Russian population residing inside the railway area by giving them a series of pin pricks so as to bring about open strife which will give them an excuse to take determined action even to the seizing and working of the Chinese Eastern," wrote the correspondent.

The correspondent admitted that the Japanese had the right to send troops over the railway to protect the frontiers against invasion, but that this did not confer the right to occupy settlements along the line, or interfere with the rights of local population. He declared that the purpose of the Japanese to seize control of the railway called for an immediate protest on the part of the Allies.

In Nikolai, he reported, the railway workers having gone on strike Japanese soldiers were rounding them up and forcing them at the point of the bayonet to do the work of laborers.

Since the foregoing situation was described, information has been made public in Moscow that Chinese and Russian military commissioners in conference at Verkhne-Udinsk, Trans-Baikala, have reached an agreement under which "inherent rights of the Russian Government in the Eastern Manchurian Railway were recognized and the Chinese guaranteed to withdraw their troops along the railway line." It was pointed out that China's possession of its road deprived the Japanese of one of their best excuses for keeping troops on it.

THE NEXT STEP
IN LABRIE CASEAppeal Incribed Against the Judgment Rendered by Mr.
Justice Ducloux

Montreal, July 4.—The next step in the Labrie brothers litigation was taken on Saturday when an appeal was inscribed in the Court of King's Bench against the judgment rendered by Mr. Justice Ducloux in the Superior Court on June 14 last maintaining two writs of habeas corpus and ordering G. S. Malepart, warden of the St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary to liberate Emile and Joseph Labrie, now imprisoned, the one for life and the other for 25 years, for manslaughter.

The ground submitted for appeal is that a judge of the Superior Court has no jurisdiction to maintain a writ of habeas corpus and order the liberation of any prisoner who has been sentenced for a criminal offense.

The appeal against the judgment that upholds the writs takes the case to a higher court and will lead to a judgment that will finally settle all controversy on the issue raised.

LOADED BOMB

NEAR WATERBURY
Waterbury, Conn., July 4.—A loaded bomb two feet long and a foot in diameter was found last night in a patch of woods near a residential section of this city. It was attached to a fuse eight feet long.

The elder Larkin is President of the Waterbury Clock Company where a strike is on as in the case at the brass company plant. CROP REPORT OF
THE PROVINCESBank of Montreal Issues a Statement of Crop Conditions

Montreal, July 4.—Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the Head Office of the Bank of Montreal from its Branches. The Branch Managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation and are in close touch with crop conditions in all sections of the districts shown.

Prairie Provinces.
Edmonton District.—Excellent growing conditions favor heavy yield of grain, although wheat a little late. Pasture excellent. Calgary District.—Conditions good generally. Season late. Lethbridge District.—All crops late but making good progress, but worms and wind have reduced prospects to from one-half to one-third average crop in Medicine Hat, Bow Island and Macleod localities. Fair prospects north and east. Hay fair. Pasture excellent. Saskatoon District.—Conditions indicate average yield. Crops backward at Outlook. Rain needed. Regina District.—All reports encouraging. In general moisture is plentiful and but little damage by grasshoppers. Excellent conditions Swift Current and other places where crop failures in previous years. Winnipeg District.—Optimistic report from every locality. Grain late but making wonderful growth. Early wheat in shot blade. Little damage anywhere. Pasture and hay good.

Province of Ontario.
Recent rains have improved prospects. Average yields are expected. Farmers generally well pleased with outlook. Fruits will be above the average yield. Root crops, large acreage conditions generally satisfactory. Hay and pasture only fair. All grain crops promise well. Large acreage of tobacco but too early to predict outcome.

Province of Quebec.

Hayings started next week in some sections of the Eastern Townships. The yield here and in Province generally promises to be lighter than last year, although in places local rains have ensured good crops. Grain crops late. Acreage seeded larger than last year and prospects are for a good average yield providing there is sufficient rainfall. Roots backward, but promising.

Maritime Provinces.
Crops in general are in need of rain and warm weather. Hays crops will probably be below average in both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. Average acreage sown to grain and roots in both provinces with favorable seeding conditions. Prospects for the apple crop in Nova Scotia are good, but the fruit crop in New Brunswick will probably be light.

British Columbia.
Weather conditions now generally favorable. Hay crop light. Root crops a fair acreage. The yield of apples will probably be 25 percent less than last year with larger percentage of higher grades. Hops heavy Grain fair.

AVLONA NOW IN
ALBANIAN HANDSMajority of Italian Garrison
Taken Off by Warships,
Belgrade Hears

Berne, July 4.—An official dispatch from Belgrade today says it is confirmed that Avlona, is entirely in Albanian hands. The majority of the Italian garrison was taken off by warships, the dispatch adds and a small contingent retreated to Saens Island, in the Bay of Avlona, where its situation is critical. Aided by a bombardment by the fleet attempted unsuccessfully to retake the city. The Italians are reported to have lost 455 killed. Many were wounded and 36 Italian officers, including four colonels, were made prisoners. The Albanians captured seven big guns. Several thousand rifles and much material, the dispatches state and the fighting is continuing.

A dispatch received in Belgrade June 29 reported that Avlona had been captured from the Italians by Albanian insurgents, after desperate fighting.

A Rome dispatch of July 1, however, stated that the occupation of Avlona by the Albanians was denied by the semi-official Stefani News Agency.

FIRST DIRECT
NEGOTIATIONSBetween Allied and German
Prime Ministers Since the Versailles Treaty

Spa, Belgium, July 4.—(By the Associated Press).—The Allied and German prime ministers are here to meet each other for direct negotiations for the first time since the Versailles treaty was signed. The probability of reaching an agreement on the total sum of reparations Germany is to pay appears slight. The Allied premiers will communicate their collective decisions to Constantin Fehrenbach, the German Chancellor. He and his associates affirm they are prepared to refuse demands which they consider beyond Germany's strength to meet.

Premier's Accord

Brussels, July 4.—An agreement has virtually been reached by the Allied premiers in conference here with regard to the division of German reparations on the basis of 52 percent to France, 22 percent to Great Britain, 10 percent to Italy, 8 percent to Belgium and five percent to Serbia. It is stated, the remaining three percent will be divided among the other allies, including Roumania, Portugal and Japan. Italy also will receive certain economic and financial advantages.

This tentative settlement was declared to have been arrived at in a conference of the French, British Italian and Belgian delegates.

WAGE OF REDUCED
PRICES IN FRANCEEverywhere There is Now Experienced Notable Fall in Cost of Commodities

Paris, July 4.—There are many signs that the long expected reduction in the high cost of living which has been spoken of is at last in way of realization. It follows, indeed, inevitably upon the amelioration of the rate of exchange.

How the poorer people have managed to live in France during the past 12 months is indeed a mystery, for though it is true that wages have risen considerably, the price of commodities has always risen still more swiftly and in much higher proportion. Families that found it difficult to make ends meet before have been in deep distress and the middle classes, who have had little or no increase of income, have been particularly badly hit by the vice chere. It is not really surprising that there have been constant strikes and wild talk of revolution; what is surprising is that France has escaped any serious troubles in consequence of the excessive dearth of almost every class of article—a dearth that has been intensified during the last few months.

The causes of the rise are clear enough—at least some of them. There is the lack of production and the cost of exchange which compelled France to pay more for goods bought in other countries, and the undoubted speculation that existed to an extent which is without parallel.

Everywhere in France there is now experienced a notable fall in the cost of commodities, and although it will be a long time before normal conditions return it is exceedingly satisfactory to notice for the first time for six years a steady diminution. Production is becoming more intense, the craze for spending that seemed to seize certain classes of the community is disappearing, the willingness to work which had been in abeyance is coming back, and more prosperous days are at last in sight.

At Roubaix and Tourcoing, the great centers of the French wool industry, manufacturers are offering their wares at surprisingly reduced prices. Raw material of all sorts are being offered to the manufacturers on better terms and the manufacturers in their turn are selling at lower figures. Even agricultural products have cheapened considerably, while meat, which had soared to impossible heights, has come down heavily.

The full effect of the new conditions will not be felt by the public at once. Doubtless those who have laid in large stocks to sell at a big profit will attempt to keep up prices as long as possible and will only allow their stocks to be exhausted slowly. A curious pressure is being exercised by the public who have got wind of this attempt. The public is refusing to buy or is buying in the smallest possible quantities. The effect of this boycott, sooner or later, will be that the merchants will be obliged to throw their goods on the market to obtain what they can. It is singular to observe how this movement of the public began spontaneously without the smallest campaign or propaganda. Instinctively, at a given moment, and with a strange unanimity, the public, which had endured all sorts of imposition for years almost without protest, decided to insist on fair prices.

The period is at hand also when new stocks will be available, at any rate of those products which come from the soil, and the release of old stocks is therefore obligatory.

Leather, which has been particularly high, is noticeably weakening. It is not to be expected that boots and shoes will immediately come down, but the interval should be very short.

The association of merchants who deal in tissues and textile goods, speaking through one of its officers, declares that the fall in raw material cannot change at once the price of tissues for the public. The bargains that were made between manufacturers and sellers some time ago at the prices then in operation will be executed on the terms then fixed. It will not, therefore, be until these have been exhausted that the public will reap the full benefit. In any case it may be accepted as certain that tissues have reached their maximum and in future cannot be increased. The tendency must be steadily downward.

With regard to cotton the drop has been as much as 250 francs on 50 kilos. As there are no very important stocks in hand and as the spinners are in general behind in their production the period when the new prices come into operation should not be long. A veritable wave of reduced prices is sweeping over the country. Until recently shopkeepers urged their clients to buy as much as possible, because it was certain that when they wished to renew their purchases the cost would be even higher. This was true, though it was made true partly by the fact that the purchasers obeyed this injunction. There was a desire to buy, because it was realized that any postponement of purchase would be to the disadvantage of the consumer. This rush of course made commodities still scarcer, and helped to force up prices.

Now the process is exactly the reverse. Everybody knows that prices must go down. Everybody is waiting for a more favorable moment. The result is to accelerate the downward pace, and there is the cheerful prospect at a no distant date of living radically cheaper than it has been for years.

PROPORTIONAL
REPRESENTATIONHas Proved An Unqualified
Success in Connection with Winnipeg Elections

Winnipeg, Man., July 4.—(By Can. Press).—Proportional representation in connection with the election of Winnipeg members to the Legislature has proved an unqualified success, declared Ronald Hooper, Honorary Secretary for the Proportional Representation League of Canada, who has supervised the court here.

The success of the scheme in Winnipeg, he said, ought to eliminate many of the objections raised against the adoption of the system, which had proved perfectly practicable. Mr. Hooper has cabled Earl Grey in the House of Lords, who requested information as to the practicable working of the new system. A debate is going on in the House of Lords, at the present time on this system.

Final Standing
The following is given as an unofficial final standing of parties in the new Provincial Legislature: Government 21; Labor 11; Farmers and Independents 11; Conservatives 10; deferred 2.

This makes a total of 55 which constitutes the membership of the Legislature.

Labor's Claim

Claiming that the big poll for labor throughout the Province last Tuesday is a clear protest against continued incarceration of the convicted Winnipeg strike leaders, a resolution unanimously passed this afternoon at a meeting of the Dominion Labor Party requesting that the men be released at the earliest possible moment. A copy of the resolution will be wired to Ottawa.

VALUABLE MANUSCRIPT

HAS BEEN TURNED OVER

Vienna, July 4.—The original manuscript of Tasso's "Jerusalem Delivered" is among a vast quantity of art objects and other treasures just turned over to the Italians under the treaty terms. It is said to have been plundered of early wars.

Torquato Tasso author of "Jerusalem Delivered" was a celebrated Italian poet of the latter part of the 16th century and a protégé of Cardinal Luigi d'Este. The poem was published first at Venice and subsequently at Parma. It was translated into many languages.

Tasso became insane and for many years was kept in more or less seclusion but, partly recovering, was summoned by Pop. Clement to Rome to be crowned at poet laureate but he died in that city in 1595 before the ceremony was performed.

SEAGULL HYDRO-PLANE

MET SLIGHT ACCIDENT

Montreal, July 4.—At the annual Grand Trunk regatta held here Saturday a curcas seagull hydro-plane, travelling from Atlantic City to Cleveland, had a trial flight and side-slipped into shallow water. Except for a few bruises its occupants were unhurt. The machine is being dismantled at the club's grounds.

THEATRE BLOWN UP

Berlin, July 4.—The newspapers today publish a dispatch from Sofia, saying that the Odeon Theatre at Philippopolis, Bulgaria, was blown up by a bomb and that about 150 bodies were buried under the debris.

ISLANDS UNDER
AUSTRALIAN RULESituating in the Torres Straits, Progress is Assured When Resources Developed

London, July 4.—The islands of the north of Australia, in the Torres Straits have recently come to the fore through the publication of the investigations made by Dr. Brooke Nicholls, who was a member of an ornithological expedition sent to the islands by H. L. White of New South Wales. Dr. Nicholls subsequently left Australia to visit America, but the results of his trip were made available by Mr. T. Dunbarton. The State of Queensland annexed the Torres Straits Islands in 1879, and they consequently form part of the territory of that portion of the Commonwealth.

The composition of these islands is interesting, and excepting a few ledges of coral origin they are of a rocky nature including granite and basalt. The range of submarine mountains known as the Andes of Australia, running north and south for 3000 miles, are responsible for these rocky islands, which are in reality the peaks of the range appearing above the sea level. Mabaduni, a hill of granite, once formed the northern link of this chain of mountains, but the alluvial deposits of the Fly River delta has connected this peak with the New Guinea mainland. The Torres Straits Islands are situated in the stretch of sea which lies between the Australian mainland and Papua. This sea is shallow and embraces an area of 20,000 square miles.

Three Groups of Islands

The islands comprise three groups. The Thursday Islands or western group contains the largest islands in the straits including the island of Melanesian extraction. The central group, situated between Cape York on the mainland and New Guinea, is composed of small islands and reefs of coral origin. The vegetation of these islands is grown from the seeds carried there by wind, sea and by birds. The third group, which comprises the eastern group, is composed of ash and lava, being the result of volcanic action. The second largest island of the western group is known as Moa or Banks Island and lies 30 miles from Thursday Island. The inhabitants of the former are entirely natives, with the exception of the missionary and his family, who live at the village of St. Paul. These natives are quite distinct in race from the aborigines of the mainland, and would appear to be of Melanesian extraction.

Though this island, like the others of Torres Straits is under the jurisdiction of the government, as British territory, it is left much to itself in the matter of government, although the government resident at Thursday Island is the authority to whom, if necessary, and debateable point is referred and who exercises general supervision. Local government is vested in the persons of three native councilors, who go about proudly arrayed in the insignia of their office. This insignia consists of a red-and-black cap and a red garment emblazoned with the word "Councilor." The position, as is natural, appeals much to the native mind, and the competition to secure the appointments is keen.

Model of Industrious Effort.

The most noticeable feature of Moa is a range of hills of granite, which is almost entirely unworked, being designated as mountains, as they peak over their heads to heights of over 1,000 feet. Moa possesses, as being native to that island, a porcupine or echidna, and also a large species of rat. Of snakes there is one of a very dark brown or black variety and one whose color is a light fawn. The extraordinary industry of the which cannot or termite may also be mentioned. This species is very plentiful as it is in the northern part of Australia. The hills created by this active little insect sometimes attain height of no less than 15 feet. The ant has on more than one occasion been held up as an outstanding instance of industry of the which cannot or termite would do well to emulate, and the species found in these islands are certainly worthy to be held up as examples in this respect.

An interesting instance of adaptation may also be quoted. The trapdoor spider instead of making its home in the ground, as its kind do elsewhere, lives in the bark of the tree. So cunningly is its home constructed in the bark that it is very difficult to discover. When the spider is at home in the tree it holds its trapdoor closed, in the same way as trapdoor spiders do everywhere, by holding it with one of its legs. The reason apparently why the trapdoor spider of these islands chooses to make its home in the trees instead of in the ground is explained by the heavy rainfall which would inevitably wash away all the little homesteads if they were situated in the usual way. Of course the fact that they are in the tree preserves them from destruction.

The rainfall in Moa is very heavy indeed. For instance, in February, 1914, no less than two feet of rain fell on this island. Again in the year 1916 the rainfall was extraordinary totaling nine feet. To appreciate what the rainy season means in these islands it should be realized that the wet season, only lasts about four months, so that most of the fall is concentrated within that period. These islands are still very little known and their resources almost undeveloped, but it may be predicted with some confidence, that when more attention is devoted to them, their progress and consequent prosperity will be assured.

DESTRUCTION
BARELY AVERTEDSt. John's, Nfld., Was Almost
Swept Over by Forest Fires
On Saturday

St. John's, Nfld., July 4.—The destruction of St. John's city by forest fires was barely averted yesterday by energetic action on the part of the authorities, supplemented by a heavy downpour of rain. Burning in the hot, dry weather of the last week, forest fire have been reported from many sections of the country and have done much damage.

At Lamanche, several houses were destroyed as well as a big fox farm operated by the Reids, twenty five valuable animals were barely rescued.

New Chelsea, a fishing town in Trinity district, was practically wiped out, and scores of residents were rendered homeless in the vicinity of the Jensen camps for the treatment of tuberculosis patients, as well as in the neighborhood of Big Northern Pond and Virginia, there was intense apprehension had the Jensen camps caught, nothing could have saved the many residents at the head of Munday's Pond. The fire which threatened the Jensen camps started near Gaults. It is suspected this fire was incendiary.

Dr. Campbell, Minister of Agriculture, and Mines, took charge of the fire fighting arrangements personally.

The fire at Great Northern Pond has been burning since Tuesday and police and civilians have been at work there continuously.

It is believed the fires at Black Marsh and Virginia were also of incendiary origin, a large quantity of valuable standing timber has been destroyed. On Wednesday and Thursday, there was one of the most intense rainstorms for many years between Port aux Basques and Bay of Islands, causing washouts between Port aux Basques and Little River. The incoming express was delayed thereby for eleven hours while repairs were being made.

ISMID EVACUATED

Paris, July 5.—The Turkish Nationalists have evacuated Ismid, about sixty miles to the southeast of Constantinople, according to a dispatch from the Turkish Capital today.

GERMAN FILMS IN BRAZIL

Rio de Janeiro, July 4.—North American moving pictures, which during the war period enjoyed a virtual monopoly in the Brazilian market, are now encountering competition of German-made films. For the first time since 1914, German films are being used in local theatres.

CLEMENTEAU SHOWN

AT FRONT IN STATUE.

Paris, July 4.—Clementeau is shown at the front, standing at the edge of a trench, with his friends the French poilus below and about him, in the monument to be erected in his native country, the Vendee, early next year.

Francois Sicard, the sculptor, is chiselling the group work out of hard burgundian stone. Unfinished, the work is already said to visualize with great character, the scene so often pictured of the old "Tiger," mentally and almost physically, fighting for France.

The Premier's figure stands eight feet high. He is, as always, in the war days, wearing the long, loose overcoat and the soft, slothfully crumpled hat, leaning on a cane. His face toward the enemy, his eyes watching the horizon, following indications given him by a seated officer with maps, beside him. On his right are grouped soldiers and in the trench below are more of the men in the ranks, looking with mingled astonishment and admiration at their Minister of War.

The scene is said by critics to be vividly natural, rough and muddy but heroic and full of the color and character of war days.

NEW CHAIRMAN OF COMMERCE BOARDCapt. Wm. White, Secretary of Board, is Appointed To Replace Judge Robson

Ottawa, Ont., July 4.—Captain William White, K.C., who was yesterday appointed Chairman of the Board of Commerce, by order-in-council, in succession to Judge Robson, has in addition to his experience with the Board of Commerce as Secretary, had considerable legal and military experience chiefly in the West. He was born in Hamilton, Ont. He was called to the Bar in 1882 and practiced for fifteen years in the Northwest territories (now Saskatchewan) he practiced law two years in British Columbia and five years in the Yukon. He was made a Queen's Counsel in 1890. He was Crown Prosecutor for Eastern Assiniboia from 1887 to 1897. In politics Captain White represented Regina in the Northwest Council from 1883 to 1886. He contested the Revelstoke B.C. riding in the Federal election of 1898. Captain White served through the rebellion of 1885 against Louis Riel, when he held rank as major. He lived in Vancouver B.C. for some years previous to taking up the secretaryship of the Board of Commerce at its inception last July which post he has filled since that time.

KINGSTON PROTESTING

AGAINST PROHIBITION.

Kingston, Jamaica, July 4.—Thousands of residents of this island, the home of Jamaica rum, have united in a protest to the Government and Legislative Council against prohibition. State control of the liquor trade or alteration of the present licensing system.

A measure has been introduced in the Legislature by the Government providing for State control of the trade after the Legislative Council had been asked to consider also the question of prohibition and licensing. Those opposed argued in a memorial to the Government that the manufacture of rum, as a by-product of sugar, had been carried on in the island for hundreds of years and formed a very important industry which would be seriously affected if prohibition were imposed. They objected also to State control chiefly on the ground of expense and risk involved.

EFFECTS OF WAR

AGAINST HOOKWORM

Kingston, Jamaica, July 4.—Effects of the campaign against the hookworm conducted by the government and an expert for the Rockefeller Foundation already are felt. In Vere, one of the largest sugar centers of the colony the laborers now work six days a week whereas formerly they were able to work but three.

On account of their improved physical condition large numbers of these workers are leaving Jamaica to work in the cane fields in Cuba. Governor Probyn is sanguine that with the assistance of the Rockefeller Commission the hookworm will be eradicated from the island.

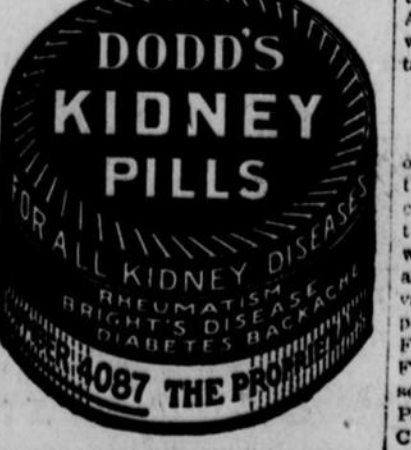

CORN FLOUR NOT LIKED

It is practically impossible to popularize corn flour in Greece, says Consul General Alexander W. Weddell of Athens, partly owing to the fact that the bakers produce all the bread that is eaten in the country, even baking that which is kneaded and prepared at home by the housewives.

Little Julian has already decided that he will be a doctor. In talking over the matter one day his father rather facetiously asked whether Julian intended to adopt a special line, inasmuch as that was the way to make a lot of money in medicine. "I think I shall," replied Julian quite gravely. "What do you think of specializing in airplane accidents, dad? There ought to be a great future in that line."

USELESS COAL.

The Maritime Merchant of Halifax in a recent issue indulges in a little pardonable enthusiasm over the extent of Nova Scotia's coal deposits. It narrates the conversation exchanged in a train with some traveller from the Western States, who was casually enquiring as to the natural resources of the Province. When the question of coal came up, appeal was made to the Honorable E. H. Armstrong, Provincial Commissioner of Public Works and Mines, who happened to be in the same car and said: "Well, I suppose there is a certain amount of guesswork about it, but some geologists estimate that with our coal area extensions into the Gulf of St. Lawrence along the Cape Breton coast, we have about 9,000,000,000 tons; others more moderate say we have 5,500,000,000 tons."

"Six billion, five hundred million tons! Think of it!" exclaimed the American. Even the lower estimate seemed to take his breath away. "Six billion, five hundred million tons!" he exclaimed again. "About enough to pay off the world's war debt if turned into cash at present day values."

The visitor was very much impressed," continues the Maritime Merchant. "And so he should have been. With such enormous coal deposits as these there is nothing in the world that can stop the industrial expansion and increase of wealth of the Province of Nova Scotia. It is not only what this coal means to her in direct sales but what it promises indirectly, that is of significance."

"It was cheap coal to some extent that made the old country the trading centre of the world. She sent out coal and exchanged it for the goods of foreign countries. It was coal that gave her the outward cargo for her ships. And so the time is not far distant when the thing that England did, we should be doing."

"Six billion, five hundred million tons of coal will stand a lot of digging, and if labor is only disposed to be half decent with capital, the development of the Nova Scotia coal fields ought to be one of the world's big industrial successes during the next fifty years. Oh, yes, indeed! we have some coal in Nova Scotia. Not very much, only seven or eleven billion tons!"

Our sister Province is indeed fortunate but such boasting as the above prompt the instant query, "what is the good of it all?" With such a vast fuel supply on the Atlantic—to say nothing of the deposits of the West—it is a disgrace to Canadian enterprise and Canadian energy that we should be importing coal in wholesale quantities from the United States at famine prices; that we should permit ourselves to continue virtually dependent on a supply that may be cut off at any moment or may be used for blackmailing purposes in the manner suggested by the Underwood Resolution.

Only a comparatively short time ago people in Canada did not know that the Dominion possessed any coal worth speaking of or, if they did know, were led to believe that it was of little commercial value. It is therefore something that we should realize the truth thus heralded by the Maritime Merchant but it will not be enough unless we take the further step of exploiting the resources with which Nature has blessed us. Latent assets have only a latent value and the real value of Canadian coal has still to be created by Canadians themselves.

In the meantime, although we may be dependent upon American mines for fuel supply there is no need that we should pay more for it than is absolutely necessary. If it can be laid down in local cellars at a saving of two or three dollars a ton by eliminating the dealer's profits, that is a saving to be adopted by all means. The opportunity exists and it merely requires a little effort to enable the consumer in this city to benefit by it in the manner outlined in Saturday's Chronicle.

DR. DRUMMOND'S POETRY.

An address recently delivered before the Royal Colonial Institute upon the subject of Canadian literature in which the lecturer as an example of the distinctive flavor of his humor—which he classifies as sentimental rather than satirical—takes the verse of the late William Drummond, "that poet so originally Canadian who wrote in the quaint patois of the French-Canadian habitant," moves Le Soleil to voice an attitude towards the celebrated author which is a never-failing source of astonishment to English-speaking readers who admire his works profoundly.

It must be admitted that there is a general feeling of dislike on the part of French-Canadians for Drummond's "habitant" verse, and on reflection it is easy to see why this should be so, even although we may believe that the prejudice is based upon a misunderstanding. Canadians as a whole for many years entertained the same disrelish for Kipling's "Our Lady of the Snows" and for very similar reasons. In both cases there has been the apprehension that the country and the people written about will be presented to strangers in a misleading and disadvantageous light.

Thus Le Soleil catches up the lecturer of the Royal Colonial Institute on his use of the word "patois" as quoted above, evidently believing that he desired to convey the impression that the French-Canadian language was that of Dr Drummond, which is again a very natural impression. The trouble is that, although his hearers probably understood the lecturer's meaning quite correctly, there is no word or direct phrase in the English tongue which would define the poetry in question with greater accuracy. To do so it would be necessary to embark upon a very round about and cumbersome explanation, as for instance, that Drummond wrote in the quaint dialect which some French Canadians, who are not perfectly conversant with English, employ when expressing themselves in that language to English-speaking persons who do not understand French.

At one time Drummond's writings may have led people in other countries who had never visited Quebec to believe that French-Canadians spoke only as he wrote, although the "patois" myth ante-dates them considerably; there may even be a few people who still harbor this delusion, just as there are some people firmly convinced that the Englishman portrayed in the comic papers is a faithful likeness and not a caricature, but the only way to deal with the foolish and simple is to suffer them as gladly as possible. Today, however, we venture to say that very few, if any of Drummond's readers think that all French-Canadians speak English as he makes them, or that the dialect, patois, or whatever you like to call it, constitutes their habitual or normal manner of speech. On the contrary, it is thoroughly understood that this represents merely the efforts of those who have not fully mastered English to converse with English people who cannot speak French, as already stated.

We have tried to establish the real facts in connection with Drummond as clearly as possible because it has always seemed a highly regrettable thing that an Anglo—or rather a Scotch—Canadian, who perhaps loved the French-Canadian habitant more dearly than any other and who sought to make his writings a tribute of that affection, should be so misunderstood by French-Canadians.

As the lecturer observed, Canadian humor is sentimental and not satirical; the last thing that would have entered the poet's head would have been to mock or poke fun at those with whom he lived on terms of intimacy. His phrases may sound like burlesque to French-Canadian ears but to English-speaking persons they have all the charm of folk-lore.

The fairest test of this poetry is the impression of French-Canadian character that it creates and this is invariably favorable. Thousands of people in Great Britain and the United States have made their first, if not their only acquaintance with those who inhabit the farms and forests of this Province from the pages of Drummond; and it would be hard indeed to find a more kindly or sympathetic interpreter of their piety, their patient courage, their love of family and their native humor.

It is not too much to say that the habitant poems form one of the best advertisements, in the sense of engendering respect and esteem on the part of strangers, that the Province of Quebec has ever had and in justice to a gifted, warm-hearted genius we trust that he may yet come into his own among French-Canadians as he has assuredly done everywhere else he is read.

HEALING BY FAITH.

L'Action Catholique took occasion a few days ago to comment rather unkindly upon the activities of Mr. Hickson, an English "faith-healer" which have been arousing deep interest in Anglican Church circles in other Canadian cities of late; indeed if any Protestant church paper were to attempt to discuss cures wrought at Ste. Anne de Beaupre or Notre Dame de Lourdes in the same spirit it would undoubtedly be filled with very justifiable indignation.

We do not desire, however, to discuss this aspect of the case but rather to remove a misapprehension that is most unfair to Mr. Hickson, namely, that healing is made conditional upon the sick person's faith in his own powers. How this impression was received is not very clear but, at all events, it is absolutely unfounded so far as we have been able to learn. The Church of England, which is probably the most conservative of all Protestant denominations, would be the last to throw open its doors and lend its co-operation to an obvious charlatan claiming supernatural powers for himself.

Mr. Hickson does indeed insist upon the necessity of faith, but press reports in Toronto, Ottawa, and elsewhere establish that it is faith, not in himself, but in the healing power of God. He does not claim to supplant the work of the Church or to have any spiritual mission but merely to work in co-operation with the Church for the healing of sickness. He tells those to whom he ministers plainly that they can only be cured by God, to whom they must yield absolute faith; all that he can do is to stimulate and reinforce their faith by his own.

L'Action Catholique suggests that the healer leaves himself a conveniently large loop-hole of escape in case of failure by attributing it to the patient's insufficient faith but we should be more ready to suspect quackery if Mr. Hickson were to profess healing power whether the patient had any faith or not. We are also told that he accomplished no immediate cures in Toronto but, however this may have been, it is only fair to say that he has been credited with remarkable results, even upon medical testimony. Thus for instance a blind girl is said to have recovered her sight after years of darkness through his ministrations.

Many people will regard it as a rather radical departure to see representatives of the Anglican Church associating themselves with a faith-healer in this way and there will be differences of opinion as to his ability to affect genuine cures. On the other hand, it is evident that he is accepted seriously by responsible clergymen, nor is there any apparent reason for doubting the sincerity of his professions.

There seems to be much in common between the teachings of Christian Science and those of Mr. Hickson, and even those who are sceptical as to the power of the strongest faith over broken bones or organic disease, are willing to admit that it may do much in the case of nervous disorders and that, at least, the mental attitude of a sick person will hasten or retard his cure. Certainly it would be a rash thing to place a limitation upon the power of Omnipotence: as Shakespeare says, there are more things in Heaven and earth than are dreamt of in human philosophy, and it does not necessarily imply a contradiction with the belief that God works through natural law to say that he will cure disease by the medium of faith in Him.

Whether Mr. Hickson really possesses the helping influence that he believes to be his or not, the fact remains that his ministrations must tend to stimulate the spiritual consciousness of those who come to him; that what he does is done in the name of the God in whom all Christians believe; therefore we suggest that he is entitled to respect at least, and does not deserve to be made the butt of ungenerous ridicule.

NOT DEAD BUT SLEEPING.
(Louisville Courier Journal)

Is patriotism dead? No; not dead, but dormant. Our patriotism reached the heights during the war—unprecedented heights perhaps, as the stimulus was unprecedented. But it is a rule of the spirit as well as of physics that what goes up must come down. Our patriotism went up very high in 1917-18; it has fallen correspondingly low in 1920. It will rise again when extraordinary stimulus comes. Meanwhile we shall go on being patriotic in the routine way, loving our country in war time, and ourselves between war times, just as so many of us love our church on Sundays and ourselves on week days. The great difficulty in being consistently patriotic is that it is so much easier to die for one's country in the stress of war than it is to live for it in the humdrum of peace.

Capital and Labor are willing to do team work, but each wants to be the lead horse.

You Can Get All the Mileage which is Built into Goodyear Tires

OBVIOUSLY, the maker cannot guard an automobile tire against all the accidents incident to a strenuous career.

But Goodyear has produced Tire Savers and Service Stations to cure or prevent things which shorten tire life.

The Goodyear Tire Reliner is one of these Tire Savers—a complete new lining for tires weakened by injuries or hard driving—the cure for fabric breaks, the prevention of premature blowouts.

This reinforcement, given the tire as soon as weakness shows in the fabric, should add a thousand or more miles to the service you usually get.

Goodyear Service Station Dealers recommend and use Goodyear Tire Reliners and other Goodyear Tire Savers solely for one purpose—to make Goodyear Tires go farther, and thus build up their sales.

These same Service Stations do many other things for their customers—watch wheels for alignment, warn against under-inflation, give advice on tire care.

All of which is part of a Goodyear policy—to help users get all the generous mileage which is built into Goodyear Tires—a policy which has built the largest sale of any tire in the world.

You can benefit directly by going to a Goodyear Service Station for tires and tubes, and by writing us at Toronto for our free Tire Conservation Course.

GOOD YEAR

KIPLING ON CANADIANS.

Rudyard Kipling, in his latest book, "Letters of Travel," says Canadians greet visiting Englishmen with "a new contempt."

"One understands," he says, "and accepts the bitter scorn of the Dutch, and the hopeless anger of one's own race in South Africa is also part of the burden, but the Canadians' profound—sometimes humorous, always polite—contempt of England of today cuts a little."

He holds that Canadians resented the gift of freedom to South Africa, where so many Canadians died for no conceivable advantage. Kipling speaks of Canadians who seriously speculate whether England will ultimately succumb from the British Empire to save expense, possibly by politically sending her children one by one to the nearest power which threatened her comfort. If England deserted her Canada might just pull through as a nation if England did not help others to hammer her. That is what some Canadians think, according to Kipling. He says of them, "The duty of developing their country is always present, but when it comes to taking better thought for their defence they find refuge behind loose words and childish anticipations of miracles quite in the best Imperial manner. By reason of their closeness to the United States," he says in another passage, "they have caught the contagion of foul-mouthedness and accusations of bribery, corruption and evil-living are many."

Is this the reason? When Kipling was last in Canada the accommodation at a certain hotel where he put up did not suit the poet, and he soundly berated the landlord. When he received his bill on leaving he found an item which read: "To impudence, $2."

HONOR MEMORY OF THE DEPARTED

Oddfellows Decorate Graves of Deceased Brethren and Hold Memorial Service

The members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, in this city held a Memorial Service in Mount Hermon Cemetery yesterday afternoon and notwithstanding the inclement weather, there was a good attendance of the Brethren.

In the morning a Committee composed of members of the different Lodges proceeded to the Cemetery and decorated the graves of their former Brethren who are laid to rest in this beautiful spot fringing the mighty St. Lawrence. Among those who were thus remembered was the late Past Grand Master E. H. Walling, on whose grave a wreath was laid on behalf of the Grand Lodge of Quebec.

In the afternoon, the members of Albin No. 2, Britannia, No. 4, Mercantile Lodge, No. 37, and Maple Leaf Encampment, No. 6, assembled at the entrance to the cemetery and having formed in procession, the members of the Oddfellows' plot, where the Memorial Service was conducted by the Rev. J. H. Barnes, Rector of Trinity Church, and who also delivered a short address, taking as his text "Be Ye Steadfast." The Rev. Gentleman dwelt on the good the Order was accomplishing in looking after the widows and orphans, as well as sick Brethren, and exhorted them to be steadfast in following the principles of the Order.

Bro. T. Lane, P.G., in the unavoidable absence of the District Deputy Grand Master, Bro. James Norton, performed the usual ceremonies of reading out the names of the deceased members. During the service several hymns were being rendered by the Brethren. The ceremony being brought to a close by the pronouncing of the Benediction by the Rev. Mr. Barnes. Among those who attended the service were, Past Grand Master A. P. Doddridge and Past Chief Patriarchs A. Elliot and S. J. Lower.

SILVER JUBILEE WELL CELEBRATED

Inclement Weather Did Not Prevent Garde Champlain From Going Ahead

The Garde Independante Champlain of Quebec celebrated their silver jubilee yesterday with an open-air Mass at the Exhibition Grounds, which was one of the most gorgeous things ever seen in the city.

The Curé of St. Roch's parish, the Rev. Abbé Lagueux, celebrated the Mass, and the two servers were members of the Jacques Cartier Guard. Before the Mass started, a note was read from His Eminence Cardinal Bégin, regretting that he was unable to be present.

The huge grand stand was filled to capacity, and it is estimated that at least five thousand people attended the service.

The majority of the various Guards arrived in town on Saturday, and slept at the Exhibition Grounds, where they had special accommodation.

After the Mass yesterday, a grand pageant was on the schedule, but was deferred until a later date, owing to the inclement weather, as also was a smoking concert, supposed to have been held last evening.

It is probable that these events will take place some time during the present week.
The following Guards were represented from out of town, in addition to all the local organizations: Garde Nationale, Montreal; Garde Lachine, Lachine; Garde St. George, St. Henri, Montreal; Garde Ville Marie, Montreal; Garde Salaberry, Montreal; Garde Dollard, Montreal; Garde St. John Baptiste, Montreal; Garde Carignan-Salieres, Montreal; La Garde du Sacre Coeur, Grand'Mere, and the Garde du Sacre Coeur, Riviere du Loup.

The program for today is as follows: Breakfast in camp, church parade, funeral service in St. Roch's church for the repose of the souls of the departed members of the Garde Champlain, presentation of homage of the Garde to His Eminence Cardinal Bégin, homage to His Worship Mayor Samson; return to camp, and dinner at camp; reception at Spencer Wood by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick; return to camp via the principal streets of the city; supper at camp and the departure of the visitors.

FREE ATTRACTIONS AT EXHIBITION

Commission Will Stage Two Performances Each Night This Week

Every night this week, weather permitting the Exhibition Commission will stage two free attractions. These will be the Pickard Brothers, acrobats and Oriental bar performers, who were engaged yesterday in New York, and Sherwood, an aerial artist, in his "Leap For Life."

There will be two performances nightly, and as the thing is free, tremendous crowds ought to take in the vaudeville performances.
It is the intention of the Exhibition Commission to continue the vaudeville at the Exhibition Grounds during the idle weeks of the summer, with the object of attracting people to the park to spend a pleasant summer's evening.

Both of the acts that have been booked are of more than ordinary calibre, and from all accounts, they result in tremendous crowds visiting the grounds.

There will also be three days of the pageant that was to have been held yesterday, at the Exhibition Grounds this week, so that Quebecers will have plenty of things to amuse and instruct them.

STRIKE AT LORETEVILLE

The employees of "Colonial" and "Adanac" glove factories at Loreteville, have gone on strike for higher wages.

It is stated that the employees will not return to work unless their demands are acceded to, and if no agreement is reached shortly the factories will be closed for some time.

JOSEPH FALARDEAU'S BODY RECOVERED

The body of the young man Joseph Falardeau, who was accidentally drowned in the 10th May last in the Jacques River, above Tewkesbury, was recovered on Friday night.

The unfortunate young man, who was the son of Mrs. Francois Falardeau, lost his life whilst engaged in lumber operations along the river.

TOURIST TRAFFIC BECOMING BRISK

From This Week to End of Season Large Numbers Expected in Ancient Capital

Up to the present the tourist traffic this summer has not been as good as had been expected but there is every reason to believe that from the present week until the end of the season a large influx of visitors may be expected especially automobiles.

Last evening the Chateau Frontenac was taxed to its utmost capacity, this being partly due to the arrival of a party of over a hundred American Chemical Engineers who reached here after a trip on the Saguenay, and who have stopped over in Quebec in order to view the sights. The party which is in charge of Dr. J. C. Olsen of Brooklyn, N.Y., leaves for home this evening.

Another party, the Swiss Economic Tour, consisting of some thirty people will be here today, and will also stay at the Chateau awaiting the departure of the Victorian.

Owing to both the C.P.R. liners, the Empress of France and the Victorian arriving here this week, the hotel accommodation is bound to be taxed considerably, for their steamers as a rule generally land a number of European passengers who make a tour of the country, commencing at Quebec, and consequently stay here for a day or two looking over the historic grounds, as well as taking in the other attractions of the City and District.

July and August have always proved good months for tourist traffic to this city and there is every indication that this year will not be any exception to the rule. At all events all the leading hotels have made every arrangement possible to accommodate the expected visitors and the Chateau in anticipation of heavy business has taken the necessary steps to provide as far as possible for any overflow.

THE POOR TAX

$45,000 Realized From This Source During Civic Fiscal Year Just Concluded

According to Mr. Nelson Verge, City Treasurer, who has completed his report for the Civic fiscal year, ending 30th June the amount of $45,000 has been received from the Poor Tax paid by patrons of the different places of amusement in the city.

The amount collected for the fiscal year just ended is a considerable increase on that of last year, and the different charities throughout the city will benefit accordingly.
A noticeable feature in connection with the Poor Tax is that the expenses of administration have appreciably diminished, while on the other hand the collection have considerably increased.

HEAR SIR R. WINFRAY
English M.P., Investigating Settlement of Returned Soldiers Delivered Address

Montreal, July 4. — Sir Richard Winfrey, Liberal M.P. for West Norfolk, in the British House of Commons, and who for a time acted as parliamentary secretary of the British Board of Agriculture, addressed the congregation in the First Baptist Church here this morning.

Sir Richard, who has just returned from a tour of Canada as far as Vancouver Island, has been investigating agricultural settlements of returned soldiers under the auspices of the Dominion government. He regards the work being done here as very satisfactory.

He is also in Canada to further the brotherhood federation movement preparatory to the second great world conference to be held in Washington in October next.

LOSS IN LIVESTOCK
Calgary, Alta., July 4.—The total loss in livestock in the province during the past winter and spring has been estimated by the department of agriculture to be not more than eight percent, according to a statement made by H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture.

The government has issued an official statement, said Mr. Craig, fixing the average loss in cattle at not more than eight percent. The loss was much greater than this in some districts, but the average over the whole province was not more than that. It is estimated that about 90,000 head were lost, which makes the loss a little more than one head for every farmer in Alberta, as it is estimated there are 60,000 farmers in the province. Some districts lost as high as 25 percent.

"PLEASE" EXPENSIVE

Careful estimates by the United States postal authorities show that the insertion of the word "please" in telegrams costs the American people $10,000,000 annually.

Tarvia

Preserves Roads Prevents Dust—Better Roads for Less Money
Many Dominion communities are turning to Tarvia to solve their road problems. Tarvia offers better roads for less money because it preserves the road surface and reduces the annual upkeep expense to such an extent that it more than pays for itself.

A Tarvia road is waterproof all the year 'round. No mud or ruts in the winter or spring! No dust in the summer! And it is also automobile-proof, for the Tarvia gives the road a very tough, slightly plastic surface that is admirably suited to stand up under heavy automobile traffic.

Illustrated booklets telling about the various Tarvia treatments, free on request.

GOOD SCRAPS AT
KENT HOUSE TONIGHT

LATEST IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

GRIER WON GOLF
CHAMPIONSHIPGREAT CARD OF SCRAPS AT KENT HOUSE THIS EVENING
WRESTLING MATCH ON BILL

Three Boxing Bouts, Totalling Twenty-Six Rounds, Comprise Attraction. Combined With Grappling Affair—Bumper House Expected To Take in Events—Special Trains

The card that is to be served up to the local fight fans at the Rustic Theatre, Kent House tonight ought to attract a tremendous crowd. There are three good boxing bouts and a wrestling match on the bill, and as the fans in the Ancient Capital are fight hungry, an overflow house ought to result.

In the first bout, which is scheduled to last over the six-round distance, G. Corrigan and Menard will mix it up. Menard is known as the Charlie Chaplin of the ring, and his antics have the crowd in an uproar from start to finish. Both men are local, and will no doubt scrap from the first bell till the last.

The semi-final will see Charlie White, the local bantamweight, and Ray Collins, of Boston, battle over ten rounds. This ought to be a very interesting battle, for Charlie White is well known locally, and is a lad who scraps from the first gong until the conclusion of the final round. His opponent, Collins, while not known locally, has got a great name from the fight promoters across the border, and is known as one of the best little men in his class in the States. He has fought many good boys, and holds a record that speaks for itself. White's most recent local achievement was holding Harry Coulin, of Buffalo, to a draw over the ten-round route, although he went to Montreal and defeated Young Russell in a bout that lasted six sessions last Thursday. Both men are in the best of trim, and White has been training faithfully for this bout, so that a whirlwind battle from start to finish will be the order of the fight.

Spike Sullivan, the local light-heavyweight, will stage a come-back in a Quebec ring, when he tackles Dave Marshall, from Montreal. Sullivan has not put on the gloves in a local ring for the last couple of years but has been training for the last six weeks in order to be in the very best of condition when he steps into the squared circle preparatory to meeting Marshall, who is known in Montreal as being one bad mad to tangle.

Marshall carries an enviable record in the Metropolis, and has fought the best of them that ever stepped the big town. He is reputed to have a sleep-producer in each mitt, although "Spike" is also known to have what is commonly known as a "mule" kick in both his gloves.

But should be the most fiercely contested of the evening, for with the big men in action, things are sure to start humming right from the start of the fracas, and when they get started, there will be no holding either of them.

Battling Lantaigne and Dan Harris, both of Quebec, will demonstrate the noble art of catch-as-catch-can to the public in two fifteen-minute sessions before the preliminary bout. Both of the men are said to be good grapplers, and exhibitions of the toe hold, the hammerlock, body scissors, etc., will be given, no doubt, through the bout.

Alfie Lynch will probably act as third man in the ring during the boxing bouts, while Art Audette will act as referee in the wrestling match. The first event on the card, which is the wrestling, will start sharp at 8:30.

There will be a special rate for the Czech-Slovak soldiers who wish to take in the bouts, while seats will be on sale at the station. A special train will leave Quebec at 8:10, consisting of four or five cars.

MAGDALEN COLLEGE WON GRAND CHALLENGE CUP. Henley-on-Thames, Eng., July 3.—Magdalen College, Oxford, defeated the Leander eight-oared crew in the final race for the Grand Challenge Cup here this morning.

Magdalen won by two lengths, the crew making the distance in 7 minutes and 24 seconds.

The final in the Diamond Sculls was won by J. Beresford, Jr., who defeated D. H. L. Gollan. Beresford took the lead by a half length at the quarter-mile and gradually extended the margin to the finish, winning by three lengths. The time was 5 minutes, 57 seconds.

The Thames Challenge Cup was won by the crew of the Thames Rowing Club, which defeated the eight of Caius College, by a length. The time was 7 minutes, 43 seconds.

NEW BASEBALL RECORD CREATED. Toronto Player Hit Safely Six Times—Second Time This Season

Toronto, July 4.—Frank O'Rourke, shortstop of the Toronto Club, probably created a new baseball record on Saturday in the game between the Toronto Club and Rochester, of the International League, when for the second time this season, he hit safely six times in six trips to the plate. In Saturday's game he had two home runs, a double and three singles, or six hits for a total of thirteen bases. His previous performance of this kind was on April 22nd of this year, in the opening game at Reading, Pa. Between Reading and Toronto, in that game he had three doubles and three singles in six times at bat, or a total of nine bases on six opportunities.

The Toronto Baseball Club has purchased Pitcher "Bunny" Hearn from the Boston Nationals.

GRIER WON GOLF
CHAMPIONSHIP

The Montreal Player Defeated Gillespie of Calgary, Five Up In Final Saturday

Beaconsfield, Que., July 4.—(By Canadian Press.) C. B. Grier, of the Royal Montreal Club, on Saturday afternoon won the amateur golf championship of Canada by defeating T. Gillespie, of Calgary, by five up and four in the final of the series which was played on the links here during last week. Mr. Grier established a lead of eight up in the eighteen holes played in the morning. Mr. Gillespie was completely off his form and did practically everything that a good golfer should not do. He found bunkers with the greatest of regularity, drove into the rough and frequently overran the holes in his green play. Probably the fact that he is used to playing on the dry western turf whereas the links on Saturday were like putty after a heavy rainfall may be an explanation of his failure. Mr. Grier, on the other hand, appeared perfectly at his ease and made the round in 76 to his opponent's 85.

In the play in the second eighteen holes in the afternoon Mr. Gillespie was a changed man. He went out in 36 to Mr. Grier's 41 and reduced the handicap of eight with which he started to five. On the first nine holes the Westerner won five and the Montrealer two and of the remaining five each took one and three were halved. The loser negotiated the fourteen holes in 40, three strokes better than Mr. Grier. The Montrealer must be credited with the most sensational putt of the series. At the tenth he drove off the fairway behind a hedge. He went on to the edge of the green safely and then holed out a thirty-foot putt. Gillespie also got into trouble at this hole and recovered splendidly, but he missed a long putt by an inch.

In the morning Grier met disaster right at the outset. He drove off finely, but put his second into a sand trap. He fouled his next, was short on his approach and over-ran the hole with his putt. Grier drove near the boundary, but got into the fairway nicely with his second and by fine putting holed out in five, taking the hole. Gillespie was in the rough off his drive and Grier got on the green. Gillespie made a poor approach and Grier in a par score took the hole, making him two up.

The third and fourth were halved, though Grier had a chance to take the fourth, missing the cup with his perfectly and put his second on the green. Gillespie got onto the face of the hill with his second and made a poor third. Grier took the hole in four. Grier was thus three up.

The afternoon cards were: Grier—Out: 6 4 3 5 5 3 5 5 5; In: 4 1 5 3 5 5 5. Match total, 117. Gillespie—Out: 5 2 4 3 4 4 4 4; In: 6 5 4 3 5 5. Match total, 121.

Following the Cornwall And Shamrock Game Saturday Cornwall Beat Shamrocks

Montreal, July 4.—After the Shamrock-Cornwall lacrosse match here Saturday when Cornwall defeated Shamrocks 5-3, a meeting of the representatives of the different clubs in the National Lacrosse Union was held at which it was unanimously decided that owing to lack of public support the games be discontinued and that the National Lacrosse Union be suspended for the season.

As a result of the disruption, Shamrocks and Cornwall will make application for membership in the Amateur Lacrosse Association.

The Shamrock-Cornwall match was well fought out and the result was in doubt to the end.

Sporting Notes

Charlie Querrie, the manager of the Arena Gardens in Toronto, has thrown up his job in the Queen City.

There was no sport at all, locally, over the week-end. Both lacrosse and baseball matches were called off, owing to the activities of Jupiter Pluvius.

Vernon Spencer, the centre fielder of the Toronto Leafs, in the International League, has been traded to the New York Giants, in exchange for Benny Kauff and Pitcher Hubbell.

All roads will lead to the Kent House tonight, where great scraps are billed. Three good bouts and a wrestling match are on the card, and every event ought to be a hummer.

The Corinthians and the Victorian football teams are due to meet in a league football game tonight at 6:30 at the Exhibition Grounds.

The R. C. G. A. football team are going to play an exhibition game with the Czech-Slovak team at the Exhibition Grounds some day this week, while they will later pay a visit to Vanceltair to play a return game.

Benny Leonard and Charley White will meet this afternoon at Benton Harbor, Michigan, in a ten-round battle for the lightweight championship of the world.

The Olympic shooting matches will start on July 24 and will run right through to July 31. Sixteen countries have entered, as follows: Canada, Great Britain, Belgium, Brazil, Denmark, Spain, Italy, Norway, Finland, Holland, United States, Portugal, South Africa, Sweden, Switzerland and Czechoslovakia.

There will be no more races between the two Shamrocks, according to Sir Thomas Lipton. He declares that so much time has been wasted in experimenting that there will hardly be time to train the crew that will handle his America Cup challenger for the races on July 15.

The team to represent the Corinthians tonight is as follows: Goal, Whitman; Backs, Joyce and Roberts; Half-backs, Shell, J. Bartlett and Mills; Forwards, Arnold, Ross, McQueen, Theobald and H. Bartlett.

MORE CANADIAN
RECORDS BROKEN

Vernot, Fisk and Miss Kessler Established New Marks in Olympic Trials

Montreal, July 4.—The feature of the second day of the Olympic swimming trials held here under the auspices of the Quebec Branch of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association on Saturday afternoon was the brilliant exhibition of George Vernot, of Montreal, who earned the right to represent Canada at the Olympic games, together with the title of Dominion champion. Vernot lowered the previous mark in the 220 yards event, established by R. N. Ritter, of the New York Athletic Club. This was 3:04 1-5, and Vernot brought it down to 2:39, a difference of 25 1-5 seconds.

Another mark lowered was that by G. H. Fisk, of Montreal, in the 100 yards back stroke which was brought down from 1:26 1-5, held by R. M. Ritter, of New York, to 1:23 2-5. Yet a third new record was established by Miss Kessler, of Winnipeg, in the 220 yards, who swam the distance in 3:33 1-5.

Since the trials also count as Canadian championships, five championships are now held by Montrealers—four by George Vernot, and one by Fisk. Members of the Quebec Branch thus hold the undisputed right to represent Canada at the coming Olympic meet at Antwerp.

SERGE SUITS INCLUDED IN SEMI-READY SALE

Also Suits for stout men who weigh 200 pounds and over—specially designed and tailored for them.

The Semi-ready Summer Sale this year starts a month ahead of the usual time, and for the first time on record, fine staple serges and chevrons are to be included in the "sweep of bargains" advertised by Messrs. George Morissette and Jules Gauvin.

Both stores are announcing special features, and the sale is to be one absolutely without reserve.

Emphasis is placed on the suits for stout men—Type F Suits—which are specially designed to fit perfectly and comfortably the men who have grown stout.

Savings of from $7 to $15 are being offered, on all suits and this despite the fact that suits for fall promise to be higher in price.

In the case of a $5 suit, for instance, which is advertised for $44 during the sale, the purchaser not only saves $11 net on the label price, but saves a further tax of 15 per cent on the $10 which would be taxed in view of the price being above the tax-exempt value.

"We are going to make this first all-sweep sale, with generous reductions on the best clothes, including the navy blue and black serges and chevrons," said George Morissette.

Mr. Morissette has the exclusive sale of Semi-ready Tailoring for Upper Town.

Jules Gauvin, who has the larger store on St. Joseph street, has a splendidly equipped Semi-ready clothing department on the second floor of his store at No. 183 St. Joseph.

CROWN SLIPPING FROM TY COBB

Detroit Star On Down Grade—Ruth Greatest All-Round Ball Player

New York, July 4.—The Cobb sun that has been lighting the ways of baseball for fifteen years seems to be setting behind the clouds. Slow of late years in getting started on his annual achievement of the greatest in the national pastime, the Detroit star has been so tardy in getting under way this season that baseball is listening for his valedictory.

Cobb has justly been considered the greatest of all players. His feats have so far overshadowed his nearest rivals that fandom despaired of ever seeing a youngster from the new school rise up and take his place.

"Who will fill the shoes of Cobb when he steps out?" has been the makings of an argument for years. The question has gone without answer until this year.

Put the query to any fan today and he'll answer "Babe Ruth" without hesitation.

Filling the shoes of the great Ty is a herculean assignment, but the Yankees Babe not only promises to do that but threatens to make a record that will stamp Cobb as the No. 2 of all time.

Cobb has batted over .300 in 14 of his 15 years' career. He has been the leading hitter of the American League in 12 out of 13 seasons. The peak of his greatness was achieved in 1912 when he batted .420, his lowest mark was in 1906 when he finished with an average of .320.

In 1,927 games of 14 seasons he has stolen 768 bases. His speed, skill and daring on the bases was a big factor in earning his sobriquet as "The Great". The same fleetness of foot made him the star fielder of the league.

A great record he has made, but the Babe has a record himself. Considering Ruth not as the greatest homer hitter of all times, not as the greatest attraction in the history of the game and the highest priced bit of baseball flesh in the major league, he is almost the greatest ball player, and he is almost the greatest.

Babe Ruth is a first class pitcher. Given a regular turn in the box there is little doubt that he would be the best southpaw in the league. Memory still lingers of his 1-0 victory over Jim Vaughn in the first game of the 1918 world's series when he let the Cubs down with six hits.

This season when Manager Huggins was in a bad way for pitchers, Ruth volunteered for box duty with just a brief warming up and went in and won his game. He can still pitch.

He is a first class baseman. He has proved his ability on the first corner and keeps brushed up on the infield game by working out almost daily on the initial sack during batting practice.

Babe Ruth is a first class pitcher, fielder, also. He's fast on his feet, has excellent judgment, fine wing and a wise head. He will rank close to the best right fielders in the league with the exception of coming in for "shoe string" catches.

As a batter he shines the greatest of course. Cobb scored countless hits by his fleetness in beating out infield rollers. Ruth smacks his "where they ain't." His hits are all clean.

By a terrific swing of football shoulders, Ruth set a high mark last season with 29 homers. This season he promises to run the number to between 40 and 50.

His slugging tendency was a handicap early in the season in one way. He either knocked the ball out of the lot or struck out. In one of the early games he struck at a ball with such force that he strained his back and was out for several days.

He has been less vicious since and connects consistently with the ball. Singles, doubles and triples have been added to his collection until he promises to become a more valuable batter than Cobb.

In addition, Ruth is a good base runner in spite of his rather ponderous size. He's fast a skilful slider and carries enough weight behind him to get the way from the majority of basemen. He has stolen six bases this year and Cobb five.

In his palmy days, Cobb was considered the game's greatest drawing card but Ruth has played to more fame in one-third of a season this year than Cobb ever did in any one of his great years.

He is batting .345 this year, and in four of his past five years he has been in the .300 class.

New York fans herald Babe as the greatest all-round ball player of all times. The records may bear them out.

MORE RECORDS
New York, July 4.—The world's outdoor swimming record for women for 500 yards, with four turns, was broken here Saturday by Miss Ethel Bleibrey, Brooklyn, a probable contestant in the Olympic games. Her time was 7 minutes, 22 2-5 seconds.

The former world's record was made by Claire Galligan, New Rochelle, N.Y. in Los Angeles in 1915 whose time was 7 minutes, 32 2-5 seconds.

SENATORS LEADING
E. A. LACROSSE ASS'N
Ottawa, Ont., July 4.—The Ottawa Lacrosse Club is now leading in the championship race of the newly organized Eastern Amateur Lacrosse Association. The Senators fought their way to the top of the ladder Saturday afternoon when they defeated the M. A. A. twelve at Lansdowne Park by a score of 11 and 6. The result gives them one game margin over the M. A. A. who have already answered one game away from home their chances of bringing home the title appear bright. The locals had the better of the play by a wide margin. There was a large attendance.

PRIMARY COTTON GOODS HESITATE

Indications Point to Contraction of Output Unless the Market Improve

New Bedford, Mass., July 4.—Business in the primary cotton goods markets showed signs of great hesitation throughout last week and the total volume of trading reported from the mills was decidedly limited. Resales of goods at prices materially lower than producers could or would consider continued, although not in the volume that had been seen previously last month. Offerings were sufficient, however, to take care of the demands of buyers, or at least to bring about such unsettlement of values as to preclude buying from the mills on any large scale.

With heavy curtailment already in operation in the silk and the woolen mills, indications point to a contraction of output in some of the cotton mills unless market conditions speedily improve. In fact, one New Bedford mill closed down its yarn department last week and gave notice that this schedule would continue until further notice, whereas the weave room, which was behind on account of the recent loomfixers' strike, was run the entire week. A number of other New Bedford mills have similar action under consideration.

Manufacturing Costs Are High.
Manufacturers claim that production costs of goods have not been reduced a particle, that raw cotton is fully as high, and that there is not profit margin enough left to absorb the decline in prices that has taken place, if current second-hand quotations are to be taken as the ruling market level. Cancellations have reduced to a considerable degree the amount of business on the books, but there are still enough orders left to keep the mills running for some weeks to come. In many cases, however, customers have requested the postponement of deliveries and the goods are being stored in mill warehouses to await the shipment dates.

The print cloth division was probably the strongest section of the market, and although business was very irregular and buying was in small lots, for the most part, the total volume of trading was said to have been greater than in the previous week. Prices were fairly well maintained with a few exceptions.

Early deliveries were the most in demand but the print cloth mills are more closely sold for the immediate future than for the fine goods plants and it is very difficult to obtain spot or very early goods. In second hands contracts deliverable two or three months ahead were offered at considerably lower levels than would be considered for spots but buyers are very cautious and prefer to pay slightly higher prices later rather than extend their commitments over any considerable period just at present. Fall River reported sales for the week of 50,000 to 60,000 pieces.

Fine goods manufacturers, while confident of a much better demand later in the summer, are not unaware of the possibility of a complete change in the general type of goods that will prove popular, and cannot at present prices afford to make up unsold yarn or cloth that may prove wholly unsuited to the styles of the coming season. Considerable inquiry has been made for fancy or novelty goods, but the prices that have been quoted have been such as to scare off the buyers, although mill men declare they are fully warranted in them under present conditions of labor and raw material.

Increasingly large imports of English goods are beginning to worry manufacturers, since the difference in exchange enables such goods to be sold considerably lower than those of home manufacture.

Yarns continue to move very slowly. Prices on some combed numbers have dropped fully 25 percent from the high point reached during the spring, but, even at such levels, yarn consumers are unwilling to buy more than enough to fill their most pressing needs, lest a still further decline may take place. Carded yarns are exceedingly dull and although there has been some activity in combed yarns, the dealing has not been sufficiently large to get a real line in prices. In general, both combed and carded numbers can be said to be easier, for although mills are not offering concessions freely, they are extremely susceptible to firm offers and are unusually willing to shade their first quotation if such action will close the business.

HORNSBY AND SISLER ARE LEAGUE LEADERS
"Babe" Ruth Climbing Up in American League—Five Below Home-Run Record

Chicago, July 3.—Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis star, banged out his 100th hit of the season in Wednesday's game against Cincinnati, the first player in the National League to touch the century mark. Hornsby slipped slightly in his batting, but continues to hold a comfortable lead among the regulars who have participated in 35 or more games, according to averages released today and which includes games of Wednesday. The St. Louis crack is topping the hitters with an average of .386, which was made in 65 games in which he was at bat 263 times. His total mark of 187, is the highest in the league and includes nineteen doubles, ten triples and six home runs. In addition to this record the St. Louis favorite is sharing run-scoring honors with Max Plack of Chicago. Each has registered 46 runs.

Cy Williams, the Philadelphia Striker, outfielder slammed out another homer which gave him eight, and Robertson, Chicago, who was sharing honors with Hornsby last week as runner-up to the elongated outfielder, also belted a circuit drive, breaking the tie with the St. Louisian and placing himself one behind Williams.

Other leading batters are: Williams, Phila., 325; Cruise, Boston, 322; Rousch, Cincinnati, 322. The batting of "Babe" Ruth the home-run king of the New York club continues to be the chief topic in the American League. The big southpaw slugger bagged a brace of homers in the double header with Philadelphia last Wednesday which gave a total of 24, five below last season's record. In addition to cracking out home runs, Ruth is steadily climbing to the top among the batters of the league who have participated in 35 or more games. The big fellow is hitting .374, just twenty points behind Tris Speaker of Cleveland and Joe Jackson of Chicago, who are sharing the honor of runner-up to George Sisler, the St. Louis star, who is batting .413.

Other batters: Rice, Washington, .350; Peich, Chicago, .339; Judge, Washington, .332.

CLOSING LETTERS BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

(By Canadian Press)

Montreal, July 4.—Saturday's market on the local stock exchange was featured by the fact that no one issue monopolized dealings but the market was distributed between four major stocks. These were Breweries, Brompton, and the Spanish River issues. Each moved to higher levels, except Breweries, which opened at Friday's closing prices and eased to lower levels at 65 1/2-66 1/2, a net loss of 1 1/2 points.

Brompton moved up to the previous high record level at 142 and finished the morning at the best, a gain of a point. Spanish River common got as far as 106 and finished at a net gain of 1 1/2 points at 105 1/2, while the preferred made a maximum of 76 points to 113 1-3 retaining 6 points at the close at 112.

Wayagmack was again prominent, moving up 3 1/2 to its previous high mark of 130. Abitibi gained 2 points at 78 and Howard Smith lost 2 points at 133. Laurentide gained 1 1/2 points at 108 1/2.

Atlantic Sugar was strong up 1 1/2 points at 134 1/2; Canada Steamship jumped a point to 75 with 74 bid and a rather wide rise to 80 asked. Iron again sold at 66 and Steel of Canada lost a fraction at 75.

Penman's and Textile both rose 2 points to 131 and 132 respectively. Total trading: Listed, 14,126 shares; Bonds, $3,600.

THE CHICAGO

PRODUCE MARKET

Chicago, July 4.—Close.

Corn, December 151 3-4.

Oats, December 78 3-4.

Pork, September $20.60.

Lard, September $20.00.

Ribs, September $17.85.

There were 25 business days last month, four of them of two hours' duration. The average number of shares turned over hourly in June in 118 hours of trading was $6,355, which contracts with $57,000 an hour in May, $54,800 in April, $37,600 in March, $12,300 in February, and $8,700 shares an hour in January.

Shiftings of Funds

One of the year's periodical climaxes in the money market was reached on Thursday, with the large shiftings of funds and credit balances attendant on July 1 redemptions and disbursements. It makes a technically busy occasion for reserve banks and member banks, but a considerable part of the operations revolves itself into bookkeeping, especially in connection with government financing.

The passing of the July interest and dividend disbursements for which banks and corporations have been making preparations for some time, should result shortly in somewhat more comfortable conditions as the immediate effects wear off and as through various channels the disbursements again reach the banks and corporations to build up their balances.

A London special cable to the Journal of Commerce says that about 45 per cent of the New South Wales 1-1/2 per cent £2,500,000 loan has been publicly subscribed, which underwriters consider satisfactory.

AFFAIRS IN THE FINANCIAL WORLD

Period of Extreme Quietude
In the Securities Market in
New York

(Christian Science Monitor)

The intensely quiet period now being experienced in the securities markets is somewhat disconcerting to the holders of stocks, particularly to those who bought stocks for speculative purposes. The big fellows apparently are out of the market, but there is a vast army of speculators, men who have bought stocks on margin for the first time. They are now "holding the bag," so to speak. Prices have receded since they bought, and, not wishing to take a loss, they are holding on with the hope that the market may eventually advance sufficiently at least to let them out without a loss.

It is just the same old story. Repeated warnings were given months ago of just what has occurred, but few newcomers heeded it. The old-timers who had been through the mill many times got out long ago. Now they either stay out or only get in after a break in prices, or perhaps sell short on the advance. From the appearance of the New York market, however, the big dealers are leaving the field severely alone. When it is remembered that there has been an enormous addition of newly listed securities on the New York Stock Exchange within the last few years, the extremely small business that has been transacted daily for some time past is the more remarkable.

Meaning of Quietude

It is generally known that the big traders who have made fortunes in Wall Street have become actively engaged in trading only at intervals of three or four years. That is to say they go in for the long swings only. They get into the market only when prices have had a long and drastic decline and when every one is selling, and they get out near the top when every one is buying stocks. Then they stay out until the next long swing, or sell short at the top and do not cover until after a decline, when they buy to cover their commitments and perhaps lay in a long line of stocks for the next upward swing. They are not tempted by the day-to-day movements of the market. A very small percentage of those who "scalp" the market ever get anywhere, so far as big profits are concerned, and thousands lose their all. Then it often happens that those who become embittered at "Wall Street" and are largely responsible for the unsavory reputation the financial district sometimes has, although probably in most cases their own greed, and a refusal to heed warnings.

The stringent credit situation alone would be sufficient to suppress trading on the long side of the market, but there is another reason and that is that many people believe that liquidation has not yet run its course, and that prices of all kinds of commodities and securities must drop further before an equilibrium has been reached. Stocks usually sell far below the level warranted by their intrinsic value before coming back to that level. They also generally advance in a bull market far above the point of real value before they again begin to decline.

The Markets in June

The stock market in June was duller than in any other month since September, 1918. Last month total sales in New York amounted to 16,962,300 shares in May and 32,820,000 shares in June, 1919. In the month just ended the market ran at less than one-third of the June volume last year. It was the smallest June since 1914. There were no million-share days last month, while a year ago there were 19, and one of these registered more than 2,000,000 shares. A year ago the market was boiling, today it is barely lukewarm. The best day in June this year was the 11th, with 631,000 shares. The smallest five-hour session was on the 25th, when only 287,300 shares were turned over. That was the smallest five-hour session since September 26, 1918, when the turnover amounted to 254,000 shares.

There were 25 business days last month, four of them of two hours' duration. The average number of shares turned over hourly in June in 118 hours of trading was $6,355, which contracts with $57,000 an hour in May, $54,800 in April, $37,600 in March, $12,300 in February, and $8,700 shares an hour in January.

Values have declined somewhat since last week, in consequence of a re-action on the Yokohama market, and prices are irregular."

LEVERHULME RAPS LEVY ON CAPITAL

He Thinks Revolution Sure if
Business is Robbed of Surplus Profits

London, July 2.—As the result of the system of taxing industry now being rigorously enforced by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Austen Chamberlain, England is confronted with a greater danger than that arising from her war-indebtedness: It is the danger of an inevitable revolution, which will come to the British Isles swift as a lightning flash when multitudinous unemployment stalks through the crowded streets of our manufacturing cities.

This is the spectre I should like to see haunting the Treasury; not the spectre of a debt which is nothing to the resources of the British Empire.

Chamberlain Kills Prospects?

Our population is constantly growing, and five years hence, when employment must be found for 2,000,000 more people, it will be seen by every theorist in the land that Mr. Chamberlain killed their prospects of employment as effectually as if he had taken hammer and nails and fastened up the doors of our factories.

After all what is this incubus of national debt which so intimidates Mr. Chamberlain? We will call it $2,500,000,000. Is it so very terrible a sum? At the end of the Napoleonic wars our debt was $4,000,000,000. But our Empire today is not merely ten times as rich, nor is it merely a hundred times as rich, literally thanks to modern science it is a thousand times as rich. Why, then, this panic haste to repay?

America's Swift Recovery.

Then take America. At the end of the Civil War the debt of the United States was $2,500,000,000. The first step of peace was not to repay this debt, but to restore the economic future of the people; a step which cost $1,500,000,000. The debt then became $4,000,000,000. What followed was the most rapid recovery and extinction of debt that the world has ever known.

With the resources of our vast Empire, and the ample capital at the disposal of enterprising trade and commerce, we can produce wealth available for the Chancellor of the Exchequer in income tax and super tax to repay, when once we are fairly started, a national debt very much greater than that with which we are burdened to-day.

Without capital, the British Empire consists of unknown forests, undug minerals, unplowed prairies, and rivers running to waste. Aided by capital strengthened by confidence and practicing the thrift of our fathers, the British race can win all this enormous wealth for the advantage of the whole community. We can improve the level of general comfort and gradually extinguish our debt.

With the destinies of her people in the hands of a wise statesmanship, I can foresee the dawn of such a prosperity for the British Empire as was never dreamed of by its founders. But ruin awaits us all when the commanding aim of our high finance ceases to be the durable enlargement of our productive power.

It is the surplus profits of her business that have made England the predominant figure in the commerce of the whole world. Without those profits, all the courage of her industrialists, all the wisdom of her statesmen, all the advantages of her geographical situation would have been in vain.

What Logic Argues

When my income was $250,000 a year I lived in a house that cost me $175. Every penny I could spare went into my business. By the re-employment of my surplus capital my business was expanded. That is the way all business expands. And if the State takes that surplus in taxation, there can be no expansion.

Deflation, too, is a will-o'-the-wisp. People cry out, Deflate capital, deflate prices; let us get back to the pre-war standards. But why? If we can deflate capital and prices, why stop at what may be called the Victorian age? Why not go back to the Plantagenets? An artisan now earns $5 a day in Great Britain. In Victorian times he earned $2. But in Plantagenet times this fine fellow, who built up monasteries, our churches and our castles, earned only 12 cents a day. Now, if $5 a day is bad and $2 a day is good, manifestly 12 cents a day is better still.

In my opinion, wages will not come down. That being so, we must have only one concernment—to multiply our products. More ships, more factories, better organization and better government. If the individual is to find life easier and happier, production must increase. We ought to care very little whether wages are $5 or $10 a day, and care a great deal whether our systems or organization and production are the absolute best that science and experience can accomplish. We must expand or perish.

LEGITIMATE PREY.

One day a little old woman appeared at the parsonage to be married to an old man. The woman was bent over so much one had to stoop to look into her face. The bridegroom was deaf as a post. All the time the pastor was making out the necessary papers the woman talked and muttered to herself, saying: "I don't know why that stingy old man wants to get married. He doesn't want to pay a cook, that's all. Make him pay well, farson. He's worth it. He's got a farm and lots of money. He's a mean, stingy, old man and he's deaf and dumb, brother."

At The Theatres

May Allison at the Victoria;
Also Wonderful Film of Sinking
Ships by Famous Raider "Moewe"

May Allison will be featured at the Victoria Theatre today in "The Uplifters" a five reel Metro picture which contains a keen satire on Socialism. Miss Allison gives her usual clever performance and the picture will amuse as well as entertain. A film which cost quite a tidy sum will be shown on the same bill: it is a true photographic record of the sinking of nine merchant vessels by the famous raider "Moewe" whose feats during wartime caused such universal interest. The spectators will see the boats actually being sunk and one scene especially will greatly impress those who see it: it is the sinking of a magnificent French sailing vessel which goes down with all sails set, one shot from the "Moewe" accomplishing its end. This film was smuggled to America in some unaccountable manner and it has caused great comment everywhere it has been shown. It is worth seeing. A good comedy, the fourteenth episode of the "Trail of the Octopus" (the second last of this serial) and other attractions on the bill.

Beautiful June Elvidge Is
At the Empire Today

"Love and the Woman" starring the beautiful and talented June Elvidge is the big attraction at the Empire for the first three days of this week. Apart from the lavish costume display which usually distinguishes Miss Elvidge's pictures, the story has a wealth of dramatic incident, romance and heart interest.

A two-part Hot Gibson outdoor picture with its thrilling climaxes a police strand comedy and the latest News Weekly complete the program.

Coming Thursday, Jane Grey in "The Guilty Wife."

"Girl of the Sea" at the Auditorium Today, with Comedies

The Auditorium opens another good week of motion picture attractions today, with a special feature, "The Girl of the Sea," a powerful drama wherein adventure, love and passion go far to make a thrilling tale.

The bill will also include another Kaufman weekly, that have met with keen approval on the part of the public since their inception here. A Hank-Mann comedy entitled "A Coy Copper" will also produce mirth to the heart's delight of all. This is one up to amusing standard of Hank-Mann productions, and you will like it.

At a very numerous and respectable meeting of the Merchants and others concerned in the Trade and Commerce of this Country at the Exchange Rooms on Monday at 2 o'clock, it was unanimously resolved to petition the House of Commons against the proposed alteration to the duties on Lumber and a Committee was named to draft a petition, to be submitted to a General Meeting on Thursday next at 2 o'clock. It is expected that a similar measure will be taken in Montreal and other points of both Upper and Lower Canada.

BIG CONCERN "CONSUMERS"
Large Companies Will Have to Pay Two Per Cent. Sales Tax.

Toronto, July 4.—A definite and final ruling has been made regarding the 2 per cent. sales tax on material sold by the manufacturer to the consumer or retailer to the effect that all railway companies, power companies, steamship lines and public utility corporations are ruled by the Department of Inland Revenue to be consumers, and must, therefore, be charged by the manufacturer the two per cent. sales tax on each invoice. This has been decided officially by George B. Taylor, Assistant Deputy Minister of Inland Revenue. The impression had gone abroad that a one per cent. tax only applied, but this is in error, and the department desires manufacturers to be governed thereby.

MRS. J. M. CRAIG, of Los Angeles, Calif., who says no one can feel more grateful for what Tanlac has done than she does. Declares she has gained twelve pounds and her health is now better than in years.

"Of all the people who have taken Tanlac, I don't believe there is anyone who feels any more grateful to it than I do," was the statement made recently by Mrs. J. M. Craig, of 674 1/2 East Fortieth street, Los Angeles.

"Like so many other families during the influenza epidemic last year we all had it, and my own illness, together with the worry over the rest of our family, brought on a case of genuine nervous prostration.

"I was so weak I couldn't even sweep the floor, and during the day I would have to lie down four or five times. I tried to walk but found out half a block was all I could stand before I gave out. Nervous spells came on me often.

"Every medicine I tried failed to reach my case until finally my husband urged me to try Tanlac, and I am indeed thankful that he did, for it proved to be just what I needed.

"The first two bottles didn't seem to help me. I guess that was because I was so extremely bad off, but on the third bottle I could tell I was improving and that gave me more hope than ever of getting well.

"My improvement from then on was rapid and by the time I had taken five bottles of Tanlac I was better and stronger than I had been in years. I was sleeping soundly at night and had gained twelve pounds in weight.

"That was several months ago and from then until now I have been in as good health as I ever was in my life and have been doing all the housework by myself.

"It is simply remarkable how Tanlac has built me up and I have told everyone of my friends and relatives what a wonderful medicine it is."

Tanlac is sold in Quebec by Martel and Dion; and by Jolicoeur's pharmacy; and in Levis by Maurice Dion; under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.
