O Canada refrain marks 'historic' unity alliance

QUEBEC (CP) — They sang O Canada here during the weekend when pro-federalist groups agreed to form a co-ordinating committee to fight the planned referendum on Quebec independence.

Some qualified the union as historic when seven unity groups and eight federal and Quebec political parties, invited to a three-day meeting here by the Council for Canadian Unity, joined forces.

About 300 delegates jumped to their feet and sang the national anthem when Jean-Louis Gagnon, former co-chairman of the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism, submitted a resolution proposing creation of the umbrella committee. It was unanimously accepted.

The first meeting was scheduled for Montreal on Dec. 10, with each participating group sending two delegates.

Although sharp differences emerged between the various groups on how to fight the Parti Quebecois government's sovereignty-association plan, publisher Claude Ryan suggested a common path.

"For the referendum, we have to be united on principle," Ryan said. "The two important elements are: 'Do we want to live under a federalist regime?' and 'Do we want to be Canadians?'"

NEED FOR COMPROMISE
By agreeing on those points, Ryan said, it will be possible to strike a compromise between those who want foremost to defeat the referendum and those primarily seeking a new federalism.

The newspaper publisher also said the referendum fight—"the battle of the century"—must be waged cleanly because we have to live together when it is over.

And it must not be a negative campaign so that the rest of Canada does not think the Quebec problem is solved if the referendum is defeated. He pointed out that opinion polls show between 60 and 70 per cent of Quebecers want changes to the federal system.

Ryan said the first challenge for the co-ordinating committee will come when the government decides on the question to be posed to voters in the referendum. The cohesiveness of pro-federalists will be tested when they react to the question, he said.

All four parties with elected members in the House of Commons will be represented on the committee as well as the following Quebec parties: Liberal, Union Nationale, Ralliement Creditiste and Parti Nationale Populaire.

Unity groups on the committee are Decision Canada, Quebec-Canada Committee, Ralli Canada, Positive Action Committee, Impact Quebec, Commitment Canada and Council for Canadian Unity.

10-12% tax hike for Sherbrooke

SHERBROOKE (JC) — Property owners will face a 10 to 12 per cent tax increase in the new fiscal year, city hall spokesmen said over the weekend.

Owners of unifamily houses, valued between $18-$35,000 will be hardest hit by the fourth successive property tax hike in as many years.

The tax increase will be announced in the city's 1978 budget, which is expected to be released in two weeks.

While some councillors appeared relieved the hike wasn't bigger, others expressed regret that the bigger tax bite was necessary.

"There is nothing that pleases me in this budget...it is difficult to accept," said councillor Roger Gingues.

"I am tired of seeing our taxes continuously on the rise. We will have to find measures to bring an end to this one fine day," Mr. Gingues said that he was angered that it is "the small property owners who will be hardest hit" by the hike.

Councillor Romeo Quintal said that he was satisfied with the increase.

"We are not in easy times...the mechanisms that we found to avoid a 20 or 25 per cent increase show good sense. We must find ways to minimize our expenses and augment our revenue, such as the arrival of new industries," he said.

Councillor Quintal feels the city should stop hiring.

"I am in complete agreement that the city should continue its large projects such as the work on bridges. We cannot let them fall into the rivers. But other projects must wait."

Ottawa corset smothering us, says Leger

SHERBROOKE (JC) — Quebec is suffocating in the corset of the federal government, Marcel Leger, Minister of Environmental Affairs said here Friday.

Mr. Leger was speaking at the closing session of a week long symposium on rural environment at the Sherbrooke CEGEP.

"Less than ten years ago, Quebecers were given an instrument, a political party, with the goal to give each man and woman a real country, a true country."

"For one year, this party has been in power...each week, the government of Canada takes stands to oppose the birth of Quebec. These stands are voluntary and involuntary. But the conclusions are always the same," said Mr. Leger.

The Minister said he was angered by last week's Supreme Court decision which firmly established cable television at a federal jurisdiction.

"In the Supreme Court, we are three, they are six. In the House of Commons, we are 74, they are 190. Their priorities are not our priorities."

"The little federal politicians - Lalonde, Chretien, Quillet, Goyer - tell us the Parti Quebecois is to blame for Quebec's financial problems. Next year, they will come during the electoral campaign, and talk of the myth of Canadian unity."

"Ottawa said no to the Bourassa government on the cable television question...just as they said no to the present government...just as they are preparing to say no to Quebec during the referendum campaign," Mr. Leger concluded.

KEABLE PROBE FIGHTS TO LIVE

MONTREAL (CP) — A Quebec commission of inquiry, on the verge of asking some tough questions to the top brass of the RCMP, must pause this week to fight for its constitutional life.

The commission, headed by labor lawyer Jean Keable, has reached a critical stage in its investigation of the possible involvement of the upper echelons of the RCMP and the federal cabinet in an illegal police break-in at a left-wing news agency in October, 1972.

Last week, commission lawyers suggested that John Starnes, then head of the RCMP security service, may have informed former Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer or Prime Minister Trudeau of the raid—a point denied by both men.

But Solicitor-General Francis Fox has challenged the provincial commission's authority to mount an extensive inquiry into these politically explosive questions.

Bermuda rioting continues

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — British troops armed with rifles and machine-guns were deployed in Bermuda today for the first time in nearly 10 years, but rioting to protest the execution of two blacks for political murders already had ended.

British commanders said 260 troops were brought in from bases in Belize, in Central America, and Britain to back up the 900 men of the local police force and the Bermuda Regiment.

The British island colony was calm all day Sunday, and only three fire bombs exploded Sunday night.

Iraq walks out Sadat sanctions vowed

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Five Arab opponents of Egyptian peace overtures to Israel formed a "confrontation front" against President Anwar Sadat today, and announced diplomatic and token economic sanctions against him.

Iraq walked out of the Tripoli meeting, undermining the united front Sadat's foes hoped to achieve, and demonstrating once again the chronic dissonance in the Arab world.

Sadat said the Arab campaign against him causes him no concern. He also told two interviewers in Cairo Sunday that the Soviet Union is behind the "rubbish" at the Tripoli meeting.

The leaders of Syria, Libya, Algeria, South Yemen and the Palestinian guerrilla movement agreed in a final

Maylaynsians probe crash of hijacked jetliner

JOHORE BHARU (AP) — Investigators are trying to determine whether the hijackers of a Malaysian airliner caused the crash in which all 100 persons aboard died, and whether the hijackers were Japanese terrorists.

One witness to the crash Sunday night said the twin-jet Boeing 737 wobbled unsteadily, rose slightly, then started down and exploded. Wreckage, dismembered bodies, clothing and debris were scattered over a square mile of swamp north of the Johore Strait and Singapore.

The Malay Mail newspaper says the eyewitness reports "indicated some kind of tussle between the hijackers and the crew."

"The explosion may have been caused by explosives carried on board by the hijackers, considering the wide area over which the wreckage was strewn," the newspaper said.

Among the dead were the Cuban ambassador to Malaysia, Mario Garcia, and his wife; two World Bank officials from Washington, O.D. Hoerr and S.S. Naime, and Malaysia's agriculture minister, Ali Haji Ahmad.

FOREIGNERS KILLED
Malaysian Airways said about 20 of the 93 passengers were foreigners.

MONTREAL STILL BATTLING TRAFFIC

MONTREAL (CP) — Weary commuters faced another day of snarled traffic and frayed nerves today after negotiators in the city's transit dispute drew a blank on a return-to-work protocol for 2,600 striking maintenance and clerical workers.

Hopes of a quick return following union and management acceptance of mediators' contract recommendations were dashed when 900 maintenance workers at a meeting Sunday voted unanimously to reject transit commission proposals the union feels do not adequately protect members against disciplinary action.

Clerical workers also voted in a separate meeting against the return-to-work proposals, which guarantee the dropping of disciplinary action only for civilcode infractions during the strike.

"What we want is a guarantee that no disciplinary action will be taken against the members, not only for anything that happened during the strike, but in the months of dispute that preceded the actual walkout," said one union official.

He said workers would stay off the job until the transit commission meets their demands.

TUESDAY THE EARLIEST
One transit commission spokesman estimated that "even being as optimistic as possible, it will be late Tuesday at the very earliest before the buses and subway could be back in service." Public transport has been closed down since Nov. 21.

Throughout the strike, about one million regular users of the public transit system have been forced to rely on taxis, car pools or hitch-hiking to travel around the city.

Company relocation rumors fueled by fear

MONTREAL (CP) — Nowadays, if top brass of a small English-Quebec company goes out of town for even a few days, there are bound to be rumors and raised eyebrows.

Employee rumors feed on the fear that the company is trying to find a new location—somewhere, anywhere, far away from the Parti Quebecois and its controversial interventions in the business arena.

But with a wait-and-see attitude, most English companies have decided to comply with government legislation aimed at making French the predominant language in offices, factories, stores—in fact, just about everywhere.

Quebec companies with more than 100 employees are supposed to have set up worker-management committees by Nov. 30 to analyze the language situation within the company and make a report to management for forwarding to the French language bureau, the government agency which issues francization certificates.

While larger companies have the resources to absorb the costs and upheavals caused by francization, smaller companies are finding certain provisions of the law both unsettling and expensive.

For Nicholas Fodor, the opinionated 73-year-old president of a small but thriving Montreal electronics firm, the policy is quite simply "a major intrusion into my bloody capitalist system."

A Hungarian immigrant who built his company from scratch in the mid-1950s to a $13-million enterprise with sales to 59 countries, Fodor says a highly-technical international company like his can't operate under the language laws.

All of the drawings and specifications for Electrovert's electronic wave-soldering device are in English and Fodor says the cost of translating them would be prohibitive.

English is also the main language of the business office and the factory where approximately 30 per cent of Electrovert's skilled tradesmen are German or Hungarian immigrants.

While hoping it may be granted some form of exemption by the Quebec government, Electrovert has reluctantly begun the process of conforming to the language laws.

At Foxboro Co. Ltd., a small American high-technology firm with 300 employees in Montreal, the language laws are regarded as an unsettling but necessary part of doing business in Quebec.

"We have a law and a goal to achieve over the next few years," personnel director Paul Gostony says matter-of-factly.

A multinational in Canada since 1933, Foxboro's corporate approach to the mainly English-speaking factory employees is with a "We shall survive" attitude.

Gostony says he hopes the worker-management francization committee will play an active role.

One of Foxboro's biggest fears about francization, and one similar to Electrovert's, is that the company may be forced to translate its highly-complicated drawings and specifications of industrial control systems for the petroleum and mining industry.

Gostony estimates that with translation and language courses for employees, Foxboro is already spending up to $100,000 a year on francization.

For one small U.S.-owned manufacturing company in Quebec's Eastern Townships, the cost of francization might be the decisive factor in whether it will move its Canadian operation of 350 employees out of the province.

"You can be damned sure that our head office is going to take a hard look at the bottom line after Year 1 under Bill 101," says a management source, who doesn't want the company to be identified.

She says the company, where about half the management is English-speaking and about 90 per cent of the workers are French, has always worked in both languages, "but now we're faced with hard realities—that things that have been normal practice are illegal now."

"For instance, it means you can't fire someone in English, even if that person's English."

A management representative on the francization committee, she sees it playing a "policing role" with employee-representatives blowing the whistle on the company if things aren't to their liking.

"What really bothers me about all this," says the management spokesman, "is that the workers really couldn't care less."

"It's not going to make one iota of difference in their lives. Maybe if I thought it would, I wouldn't mind all the extra work."

For the 400 mainly French-speaking employees of Drummond Business Forms, Canada's third largest in the field, francization is regarded as "a problem for other companies, but not for Drummond."

Founded by a Quebecer in 1949, the company is in Drummondville, Que., some 60 kilometres northeast of Montreal and operates mainly in French. It was bought by a U.S. firm seven years ago.

"Obviously, we're not worried about what we can do to make our operation more French," says personnel manager Bob Moser. "But we worry about how Bill 101 might affect our dealings with head office."

"I think people can work with Bill 101 in the long term," Moser says. "It's in the short term that it creates problems."

Britain recovers from crisis years

LONDON (Reuter) — Although the Britons are hardly aware of it, Britain has made a dramatic financial recovery during the last year and the extent of this now is being studied by a visiting team from the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

About a year ago, the IMF experts were here amid a blaze of publicity. They were seen as rescuers. Britain was in a financial crisis with the British pound crashing through the floor and there was talk of a threat to political stability.

This time, the dark-suited, rather severe-looking men from the IMF are practically unnoticed as they pore over bundles of statistical documents and are driven to the treasury in Whitehall for talks with senior officials.

The British financial position is so much better that some of the discussions have moved toward when the country might repay the money it borrowed from the IMF and how much contribution it might make toward helping a general world economic recovery.

At the annual meeting of the IMF in Washington in September, the organization's managing director Johannes Witteveen spoke of Britain's "astonishing success."

A year ago, the IMF granted Britain a $3.9-billion credit standby. This immediately strengthened the pound and has attracted large amounts of foreign money into the country.

As a condition for the loan, the government dampened credit and cut public spending.

Instead of a deficit of $1.5 billion ($3 billion) for 1977 which had been expected, Britain will probably have a balance of payments surplus of more than $250 million ($500 million).

Quebec stallion's a champ

The Quebec Clydesdale Association's entry at the recent Royal Winter Fair, "Doura Perfect Motion", won Senior and Grand Champion Stallion and then went on to win the Supreme Championship over the Grand Champion mare. This stallion's home is at John Heatlie's farm, Brownsburg, Que. He was exhibited at the Royal by Mr. Heatlie.

Other Clydesdale Exhibitors from Quebec, were John (Junior) Heatlie of Brownsburg and William Brass, Lachute.

John Heatlie won 5th place foal and second place in "Yearling Stallion", "Reserve Junior Champion", "Brood Mare" and "Get of Sire".

William Brass had first prize three-year-old and Reserve Grand Champion Mare. Also winning the Canadian Bred Mare Trophy "Reserve Junior Champion Mare", 2nd in "Progeny of Dam", 3rd in 3-year-old gelding, 4th "Light Draft team" and 5th in yearling filly class.

In junior showmanship, Nancy Cleland of Lachute, won 3rd prize and Heather Brass also of Lachute, won 5th place.

Dollar drops to record low

FRANKFURT (Reuter) — The U.S. and Canadian dollars fell to record lows on the West German foreign-exchange today.

The U.S. currency fell to 2.2095 marks before rallying slightly, dealers said.

Japan's reserves climb

TOKYO (Reuter) — Japan's external reserves rose to a record $22.15 billion in November following massive central bank intervention on the Tokyo foreign exchange market to support the U.S. currency, the finance ministry said recently.

The figure, up $2.57 billion from the previous record at the end of October, was the largest monthly rise since August, 1971.

Davies after seal markets

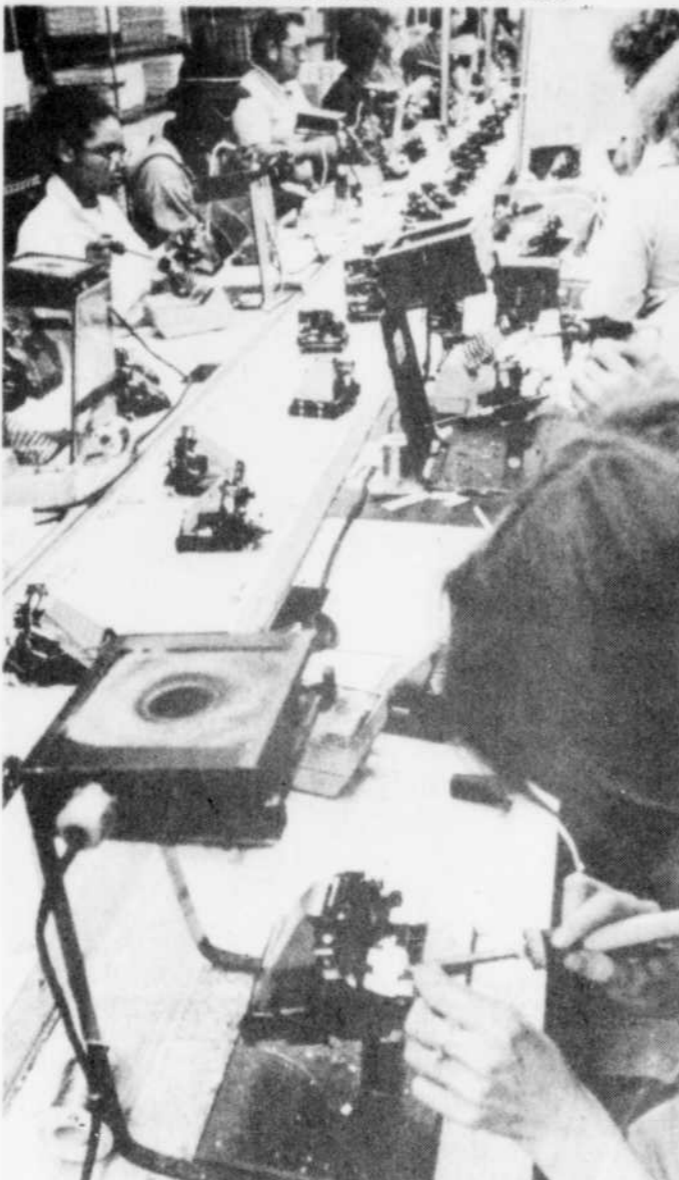

FREDERICTON (CP) — Brian Davies, executive-director of the International Fund For Animal Welfare, says his group will not be on the Newfoundland ice floes next year to attempt to disrupt the annual seal hunt.

"We've done all we can on the floes and now we're going after the markets and the markets are in Europe," he said Thursday.

Davies said the decision has nothing to do with the group's finances, which he says remain healthy.

Davies did not specify what he planned to do to attract support in Europe for the campaign to stop the controversial seal hunt.

Polaroid breaks records

Polaroid Corporation manufacturing facilities in Norwood, Mass., are setting daily record-breaking production levels in round-the-clock pre-Christmas assembly shifts to meet retailer and consumer demand for OneStep instant cameras.

Han van Eesteren, general manager for Polaroid Canada in Rexdale, Ont., says that OneStep is the most successful camera in the history of Polaroid and predicted that by year end, instant cameras will claim 40 per cent of Canada's 900,000 unit amateur camera market.

Unity benefits Quebec

NEW YORK (CP) — Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie says it's in Quebec's interest to continue to benefit from Confederation, particularly in energy.

Western oil should replace foreign oil in Quebec, Gillespie told a dinner of the Canadian Society of New York last week. He said the National Energy Board may extend the pipeline from Montreal further into Quebec and down to the Maritimes.

The board also expects "very shortly" to receive an application for the movement of high arctic natural gas in the form of liquefied natural gas to southern markets, he said.

A questioner at the dinner had asked Gillespie if Quebec separates, what price will the province have to pay for oil.

"Quebec will not separate," Gillespie said and he drew cheers from the audience.

He noted that about 70 per cent of the energy consumed in Quebec is oil, much of it imported.

"I think that it makes sense for Quebec, and it makes sense for Canada, to move that western oil to Quebec to replace foreign oil and that's what our strategy, our policies of self-reliance are aimed to do as far as that province is concerned as well as the Atlantic region and other regions of Canada."

Handicraft exhibit — quantity's up, quality slides

SHERBROOKE (BVS) — Opening night of the 10th annual Eastern Townships Handicraft Show, Salon des Metiers d'Art, was held

Friday at the Belvedere St. Armory. The work of 21 artisans, including pottery, wood, enamel, glass, weaving, leather, batik and copper was exhibited in the 15 kiosks.

In past years, the exhibit has been held at the University of Sherbrooke's Art Centre, but space forced the move to the larger quarters. Even though this year's exhibit was bigger than ever, the overall quality has not been maintained at the usual high standard, according to Record art critic Barbara Verity

Stevenson. There is a noticeable variance in quality in several of the crafts, ranging from obvious commercialism to fine artistry.

The exhibit would do better to remain smaller or to choose from a broader range of craftsmen, keeping in mind the maintenance of a high standard.

However, there is much to see and plenty of space at the armory. The new location is also closer to downtown Sherbrooke, making it more accessible. Exhibitors are:

Officers may face suspension

GRANBY (JC) — As many as seven Granby Municipal Police Force officers could face permanent suspension for acts termed "reprehensible", police director Joseph Couture said today.

Judge Guy Genest will preside over preliminary hearings on Wednesday into the case of four officers suspended on Nov. 23, 26 and 28. A fifth officer was suspended of his duties on Dec. 1.

The sources said that two more officers are expected to be suspended within the next few days for undisclosed breaches of trust.

Granby mayor Paul Trepanier was unavailable for comment.

Town council changes

Several changes occurred in the Sutton Town council after the municipal election, held on November 7.

Mayor Donald Fadden, who has retired after his turn of office, was replaced by Jean-Paul Deslieries.

Mr. Deslieries was elected by acclamation; he had served as a councillor since 1967.

Councillors Lyndon Royea, Alban Houle, Rufus Cromwell and Allan Whitford also retired after their turn expired.

The council seats are now represented by John (Jack) Westover, who won seat No. 1 easily by 609 votes over his opponent Jean Brien, with 76 votes.

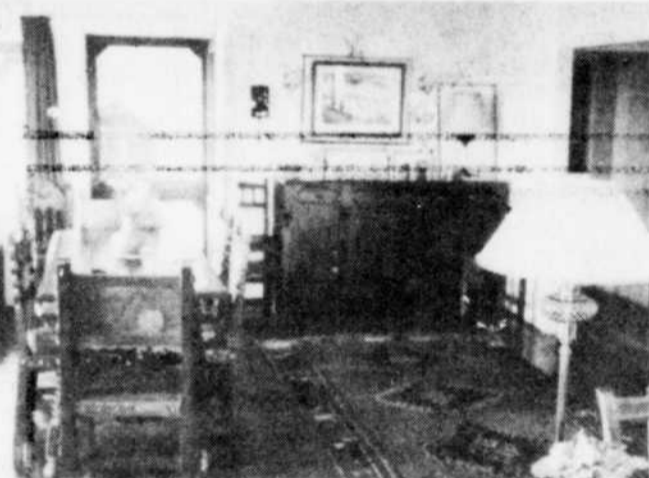

Joan Meyer — the first woman ever to sit on the council — was elected by acclamation for seat No. 2.

Seat No. 3 was a close contest between Rock Dandenault with 45 votes, and Roger Cusson who lost with a count of 230 votes.

Councillor Laurent Larose retained seat No. 4, and Vincent Royea had a remarkable showing for seat No. 5 with 484 votes versus opponent Charles Talbot with 204 votes.

Jacques Gagne was elected by acclamation to seat No. 6, previously held by J.P. Deslieries.

Penfield reward offered

All items marked with an 'X' as well as all the carpets shown were also among the articles stolen from the late Dr. Wilder Penfield's summer home during September, 1977. (Photo supplied by Quebec Police)

COWANSVILLE (JM) — Quebec Police report they are still offering a reward of up to $5,000 for any information which may help them recover the balance of the effects stolen from the late Dr. Wilder Penfield's summer home in Bromes City, during September 1977.

Antique dealers may be aware of some of the most identifiable objects which have yet to be recovered.

They include:

A nine-spindle, antique Windsor chair, dark wood, dull finish.

3 framed Currier & Ives "Cries of India" prints;

A Persian gold-on-ebony impression of dancing woman;

A print of beached torpedoed ship "Sussex 6" x 8" details of sinking on the back;

A mahogany game box - 2' x 1' x 1' - with fitted game sets - chess, dominoes, backgammon, poker, etc., - silver plaque in centre of lid "Russell Bonyngne."

A small red leather antique chest with dome top and gold studs - in family since about 1800 - c 18" x 1' x 1'

A pair of 1' Canada Geese, standing with wings spread, carved in wood by Veltheim;

A pair of 4' Eskimo carvings from Cape Dorset, 25 years old, geese in similar stance;

A traditional hand-painted Chinese silk scroll of Empress, c 4 1/2' x 2';

One Marlin saddle rifle, 19th C., lever action, hexagonal barrel, 30-30.

Mrs. Wilder Penfield Jr., said the family are deeply disappointed about the theft of three rolls of 16 m.m. movie film. "I don't know if they expected to find some porno films to view when they stole the Revere movie projector," she said. "The films are priceless in value to us as they represent at least 10 years of our history - weddings, graduations, and other footage which is of no use to the robbers."

Police have recovered almost 50 per cent of the stolen goods and are most interested in any information which may conclude the case.

Any information leading to the arrest of the culprits will be kept in the strictest of confidence and any person having knowledge of any of the whereabouts of the objects are asked to call either Const. Marcel Lachance or Const. Andre Lessard at (514)-263-2622.

Traffic safety week underway

Traffic safety week began Thursday, and autoroute authorities are taking the opportunity to remind motorists of certain basic safety rules they should observe:

If you have car trouble at night, pull over to the side of the road and leave your lights on. Attach a white handkerchief or tissue to the left door of your vehicle. This will be understood as a signal that you are having car trouble and need help. Stay in your car until assistance arrives.

If you witness an accident, don't apply first aid unless your help is required i.e. if you are the first to arrive at the scene or if you have medical training.

Report all accidents, giving their location, at the nearest toll booth.

Avoid accelerating and braking on bridges and viaducs as these surfaces are the iciest parts of the road. Remember, the effect of salting the roads is greatly diminished by the wind and new ice forms rapidly.

For further information on autoroute safety, contact Richard Normand at 388-9201.

Fair meeting planned

The annual meeting of the Eastern Townships County Fairs Association will be held at F.L. Luch, Queen St., in Lennoxville, Dec. 8 at 10 a.m. Dates for the 1978 exhibitions at Bromes, Bedford, Richmond, Ayer's Cliff and Cookshire will be decided, as well as midways. Reports of last year's activities will also be given.

Blood donor clinic opens

The semi-annual Red Cross blood donor clinic will be held at Branch 99, Royal Canadian Legion in Cowansville on Tuesday, Dec. 6, between 1 and 8 p.m. The local Optimists Club have organized the clinic and urge one and all to get out and give the 'gift of life'.

Simard appointment announced

The appointment of a Coaticook native, Major Roger G. Simard as assistant to the Governor General's Secretary and officer responsible for arranging the Governor General's travels was announced last week by Government House.

Born in Coaticook, December 15, 1942, Major Simard graduated from Royal Military College, Kingston, Ontario, in 1964 with a BSc degree. He is trained as a pilot on anti-submarine aircraft and is a former director of studies at the Canadian Forces Staff School in Toronto.

Major Simard served as Esquary to The Duke of Edinburgh during the royal visit in October this year. He has received the Canadian Decoration, the Silver Jubilee Medal and is a Member of the Royal Victorian Order (MVO). He is married to Jacqueline Bachand of St-Jean, Quebec. They have two daughters.

Major Simard fills a newly-created position at Government House. He will report to Mr. Esmond Butler, Secretary to His Excellency Governor General Jules Leger.

Operation Volcan works

LES OBJETS DE VALEUR DE CETTE PROPRIÉTÉ PORTENT UN CODE GRAVE POUR AIDER LES POLICIERS À LES IDENTIFIER. SURETÉ DU QUÉBEC

Quebec Police, in conjunction with municipal forces, launched "Operation Volcan" two or more years ago. Its object is to identify easily-stolen household effects such as television and stereo sets, a favorite target of burglars as they are easily disposable to receivers of stolen goods.

"Operation Volcan" entails the use of an electric etcher and the homeowner either inscribes the number on his driver's permit or social insurance number in a concealed spot on the object he wants to identify. The number enables police to trace the rightful owner quickly after they have recovered stolen goods.

Quebec Police are issuing door stickers to home owners who have availed themselves of the service, as well as small stickers to be placed on marked objects to discourage would-be thieves.

Owners of cameras, portable typewriters, portable radios, etc., should note all serial numbers, and, if possible, place their own mark within the objects to assist in their identification if they are stolen.

Contact either your municipal police or the nearest QPF detachment for further information concerning "Operation Volcan."

Court pleas heard

SWEETSBURG WARD —

Wayne Buzzell, Cowansville, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving in Cowansville, Nov. 4, when he had consumed 180 mgs. of alcohol. Crown attorney Noisieux told the court the accused had been convicted of a similar offence in 1975, although no notice of recidivism had been served. He was fined $200 and costs, in default 30 days.

Richard Tetrault, Granby, who earlier pleaded guilty to one count of breaking and entering a dwelling in Granby, was handed 90 days by Judge Legare.

No circus in '78

There won't be another three-ring circus on the ice off Newfoundland next spring, if we can believe seal conservationist Brian Davies when he says his group isn't going to launch a protest similar to last year's.

We can all remember last year's tawdry theatrics of Brigitte Bardot, caressing a stuffed seal for the benefit of the cameras and then telling us how inhuman it all was.

The bullheaded stand by Fisheries Minister Romeo Leblanc and his team of inspectors made a confrontation with the equally mullish Greenpeace conservationists a foregone conclusion; had it not been for the presence of the Mounties, the goons would have been clubbing each other, rather than the seals.

Last week, Mr. Leblanc announced this year's harp seal quotas in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and along the pack ice off Newfoundland would be raised by about 10,000 seals to 170,000 animals. Those extra 10,000 animals must be taken by airborne or small-boat hunters — the limits for the Norwegians and ship-based Canadians remain the same.

The curious thing about the seal hunt is that it's no longer a matter of money. Even 10 years ago, the hunt was an economic necessity for the cash-poor outport fishermen of Newfoundland and the shore-based hunters of the Magdalen Islands.

Today, Magdalen Islanders don't bother with the seals — they collect more by staying home and living off pokey.

The majority of Newfoundlanders setting out after the seals having their pups on the ice pack 100 miles or so offshore are teenagers and young men out for a week or two with the boys. For them, it's a hard-boozing macho time equalled only by the fun they have when they get back home with a few hundred dollars in their pockets.

Even the manner in which the hunters sign onto a ship reveals the casual nature of the hunt. Once, it was done on the basis of need and seniority — the older and poorer hunters got the berths not very long ago, while the youngsters waited until their elders signed on before applying. Today, it's a free-for-all except on vessels commanded by the old-timers.

However, the use of helicopters and aircraft for spotting herds and ferrying men and equipment has made the whole thing infinitely easier. The result is that quotas are filled faster and the measure of chance once surrounding the hunt is gone.

When all the talking's done, the fact remains that the annual seal hunt is a nasty, bloody little scene out on the ice which probably does less for Canada's national image than all the scandals in Ottawa.

The seal hunt has become a media event. As long as there's film footage available of those baby seals, there will be reporters and cameramen from around the world to get it all.

Let's can the whole thing and leave the hunt up to the Inuit. With all the other hassles we've got going right now, this is one we don't need.

Alberta's Lougheed eyes national role

Quickly now. Which provincial premier is better known (and liked) in Russia, Israel, Saudi Arabia, Germany and Switzerland than in the rest of Canada?

Of course, Peter Lougheed. The Alberta premier's splashy tours abroad (once with a 60-man entourage) have probably done more to put "Canada's energy province" on the world map than even the travels of his globe-trotting rivals, the Albert All Girls Drum & Bugle Band.

But gallivanting to strange lands, however useful for Alberta, has only strengthened many Canadians' impression that Mr. Lougheed's single interest in Canada is to keep Pierre Trudeau's paws off his $2.5 billion yearly oil and gas revenues.

Gently corralled last week in Calgary, Mr. Lougheed and his able Minister of Federal and Intergovernmental Affairs, Lou Hyndman, told me that if in economic affairs Alberta is a road-runner, on nation-building she is no ostrich.

The Lougheed-Hyndman approach to the Quebec-Canada crisis rests on three ideas:

A strong Canada grows from strong regions: the classic regionalist point, made soothing by the slogan "we are Canadians before being Albertans." Mr. Lougheed holds that his "opponents in Ottawa and Toronto" (bureaucrats and bankers) stifle the initiative of Canadians outside the "Golden Triangle" of Windsor-Montreal-Ottawa—and, as a result, the prosperity of all Canadians.

Major changes in the constitution: Mr. Lougheed fears Prime Minister Trudeau may again content himself with "cosmetic" adjustments. Alberta wants the constitution to build in a basic shift of decision-making economic power toward the West. It wants resource-rich provinces to have a real voice in a constitutional court and other federal mechanisms. (Wheat Board, National Energy Board) affecting their interests.

A prudent, behind-the-scenes style: With quite un-Albertan modesty, Mr. Lougheed and Mr. Hyndman believe that grandstanding by them in Quebec could harm the federalist cause, at least for now. As in dealing with Mr. Trudeau on the constitution, Mr. Lougheed prefers to wait and see: he'll react to Premier Levesque's plans for "association" between an independent Quebec and Canada if and when Mr. Levesque spell them out.

Perhaps Mr. Lougheed need not go to Quebec as Sadat went to Israel or Eisenhower to Korea. But with his own pet themes of economic and political frustrations so closely paralleling those of Quebec, should he not be getting more openly and actively into the fray?

First, from Alberta's own selfish viewpoint, it's time Mr. Lougheed proclaimed more widely his province's commitment to Canada. If only to protect her own resource interests in the upcoming nation-building talks, Alberta needs allies. And these are hard to find when a lot of "outside" Canadians, never having heard on home ground the reasonable part of the Lougheed-Hyndman message, unfairly dismiss Albertans as greedy parochials, with gas in the stomach and oil on the brain.

Second, leading Alberta more loudly into the constitutional debate could serve the broader advantage of Canada. Mr. Lougheed, a Conservative English-speaking Messiah in a multicultural province, can well afford to state his honest affinities with an awakened Quebec: nobody will accuse him of looking like, or talking like, those "pointy-headed Grit Frenchmen" some Westerners affect to disdain.

Were Mr. Lougheed to say in Quebec (perhaps backing it up with a new Alberta office in Montreal) that Quebec and Alberta share fundamental economic and political interests, he could reveal to non-pequiste Quebecers that "English Canada" is not the monolithic enemy many think. Without provocation or meddling, he could tell the encouraging truth that Quebec is not alone in Canada.

That, followed up by a fresh joint western initiative to free and balance regional energies through an overhauled constitution, might offer credible substance to the "third option" myth Ottawa still seems so insecurely to fear.

Will Peter Lougheed surmount his scruples about timing and salesmanship while there remains a country to salvage? Not unless a few friends tell him he may be squandering an unrivaled chance for national statesmanship.

Manitoba's Sterling Lyon is a new boy, busy bashing socialists. Saskatchewan's Allan Blakeney stands stripped of his oil and gas windfall by the Supreme Court. B.C.'s Bill Bennett is still slowly emerging from his father's shadow. Mr. Lougheed is thus the West's most plausible, and most available, prophet for a Canada where the regions, including Quebec, could breathe more freely.

Is time a problem for our perambulatory premier? Why not just tee up a Canadian stopover on the next junket to Katmandu?

By sharing with other Canadians his ideas as well as his oil revenues, Mr. Lougheed might get known, and liked, as much in Halifax as in Helsinki.

Hell, if he brought with him the Alberta All Girls Drum & Bugle Band, neither Pierre Trudeau nor Rene Levesque would get a word in edgewise.

Letters

Closer than they think

Editor:

In connection with the recent near tragedy on Jay Peak involving the Dawson College Outing club, may I make the following points.

Group expeditions should never consist of more than eight persons, plus two leaders. This is specifically stated in literature published by the Green Mountain Club of Vermont.

In the case of winter expeditions, all participants should have had extensive wilderness training and experience before undertaking any cold weather exercises.

Any group expeditions should carry sufficient shelter for all members of the group. In the Jay Peak area, none of the G.M.C. shelters is equipped to handle more than nine people plus gear. As hiking areas become more heavily used, there is always — no matter what time of year — the possibility that shelters are full. In the winter seasons, there is every possibility of being unable to reach a shelter. Having three tents for fourteen people, therefore, is difficult to excuse.

Any group leaders should ensure that all expedition members are properly clothed and equipped. In this case "lightweight footwear and blue jeans" are, emphatically, not proper equipment. Nor is down clothing, particularly at this time of year. Down, when wet, loses its insulating value almost completely. Wool does not, nor does polyester fibrefill.

Group leaders should have been "over the ground" before taking out an expedition.

Expeditions going out November-May should obviously be prepared for winter conditions. I have been caught in sudden, violent snowstorms in the Green Mountain in June. It is possible, and most rewarding to spend days in the mountains in January in relative warmth and comfort. Getting wet and cold is an indication of lack of training and preparation.

Apparently cigarettes were "rationed". Rationed! They should have been destroyed!! Any competent wilderness leader knows that cigarettes and wet-cold conditions are a nasty combination. Cigarettes do affect blood circulation which in turn affects the body's ability to generate heat.

Finally, I am concerned that the situation developed at all, but I am more concerned that the people involved, for the most part, appear to have taken the whole thing as a joke and as some indication of being "tough". Worse, the press has made the whole thing into some sort of heroic adventure (with the welcome exception of MR. Duff's editorial — somehow at odds, however, with his lead article). Adventure it was, but it wasn't a joke, it wasn't "tough" and it wasn't heroic. It was pointless, expensive, and an example of gross incompetence. I can only hope that other organizations with similar outdoor programmes will take note.

By all means, enjoy the wilderness, but accord it the respect it deserves. It can be a savage teacher, and what good is a learning experience if you die in the process? The Dawson students survived, but they were probably closer to the edge than any of them realize.

From the Scriptures

Editor:

I am writing this to let people know where they stand, when they call people fools.

This is the Lord Jesus Christ speaking from his sermon on the mount, Mathew 5:21-24 "You have heard that it was said by them of old time, you shall not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgement."

But I say unto you, that whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgement; and whosoever shall say to his brother, Racca, shall be in danger of the council; but whosoever shall say, you fool, shall be in danger of hell fire. Therefore if you bring your gift to the altar, and there remember that your brother hath ought against you: Leave there your gift before the altar, and go your way; first be reconciled to your brother, and then come and offer your gift." Acts 2:21. Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.

It's a shame when people stoop so low as to call each other fools and I hope things can be straightened out in Lennoxville in a decent and orderly manner.

Jack Anderson's Washington Merry-Go-Round
Polygraph test mooted for Park

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Justice Department attorneys have agreed it will take a lie detector to get the truth out of Korean payoff man Tongsun Park if he accepts the deal to give his testimony in exchange for immunity.

Park has made so many conflicting statements, the prosecutors acknowledge, that his testimony would be worthless in court unless it can be bolstered with supporting evidence. They will insist, therefore, that Park submit to a lie detector test as part of the deal. Their hope is that Park, with a polygraph machine monitoring his veracity, will provide enough new information that they will be able to build on it. They will seek corroborating evidence, which they will then use to make more cases against congressmen who have accepted bribes.

The prosecutors admit it will be tough to nail many congressmen. The Justice Department has determined, for example, that Park highly exaggerated his influence on Capitol Hill. He boasted to his Korean cohorts that he was close to congressmen whom he had merely met and that he had passed out cash, which he really had diverted to his own use.

It looks as if Park was a skilled con man who misled even his own government. On the other hand, the Justice Department has solid evidence contradicting the South Korean government's claim that Park was merely a businessman who acted on his own.

His link with the Korean Central Intelligence Agency has been established to the satisfaction of the prosecutors. They are aware, however, that Park didn't flash his KCIA credentials on Capitol Hill and offer "bribes" to congressmen. He told congressmen, on the contrary, that he was a businessman who wanted to contribute to their campaigns.

It will be difficult to prove there were any strings attached to the contributions. Not until later would Park drop by and make a pitch on behalf of South Korea. The Justice Department, therefore, might have trouble in court differentiating between political contributions and outright bribes.

The prosecutors will be able to prove, however, that some congressmen were secretive about their dealings with Park and concealed the cash he gave them. This raises suspicions, at least, that they really didn't regard the money as legitimate campaign contributions.

Auto Stac: In a move that could squeeze the nation's small radio manufacturers out of business, General Motors is forcing auto dealers to buy some of its 1978 models with built-in GM radios.

Car radios have traditionally been optional equipment, and dealers have been free to purchase them from independent firms. But General Motors has decided that its own radio will be standard equipment on every 1978 Buick Riviera, Oldsmobile Toronado and Chevrolet Chevette. The dealer will have no choice.

This GM action has raised the hackles of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., who has fired off a confidential letter to the Justice Department's antitrust chief, John Shenefield. The new GM policy, Kennedy complained, has "tremendous potential for inflicting irreparable injury on independent radio manufacturers." The relationship between radio firms and auto dealers could be "disrupted", he wrote, by this "selective intrusion into their market."

The Justice Department has launched an investigation into the matter, which will also focus on other auto parts and accessories.

Footnote: General Motors had no comment as we went to press. Ford Motor Company, meanwhile, will also install radios in every 1978 Pinto and Mercury Bobcat in order to remain "competitive," a spokesman said.

School Bus Safety: Thousands of unsafe school buses are still on the road because of a bus-sized loophole in the law. Congress ordered strict safety standards for the nation's school buses back in 1974.

But any bus chassis manufactured before the April 1, 1977, deadline doesn't have to meet the tougher standards.

Some manufacturers, therefore, drastically stepped up their production to beat the deadline. Their tactics have been uncovered by Rep. Andrew Maguire, D-N.J., who has asked highway safety chief Joan Claybrook to blow the whistle on these unsafe buses.

"Hundreds, if not thousands, of school bus chassis built before April have been purchased by school boards and manufacturers," Maguire warns in a confidential letter, "so that cheaper, but less safe bodies can be installed."

Who's News: President Carter is fascinated with foreign affairs and devotes a large share of his time to managing the nation's diplomacy. He studied a briefing book on the Shah of Iran, for example, before the Shah's visit to the White House last week. The president demanded details not only on the shah but upon the structure of his government, his military build-up, the oil situation and other issues. At least one senator believes the president should spend less time on foreign problems. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., advised Carter privately that he would do better if he concentrated on domestic problems and left foreign affairs to the professionals.

John Connally has become the most effective manipulator in the smoke-filled backrooms of the Republican Party. He is quietly lining up political operators and financial backers for a backroom bid for the GOP presidential nomination. Insiders tell us that he has suddenly become the man to watch.

We recently quoted a published statement from Nobel Laureate James Watson calling the National Cancer Institute's war on cancer "a total sham." Dr. Watson now tells us that his remarks were published out of context and that he was referring to some of the institute's efforts.

We are happy to make the clarification.

Ann Landers says Birds not for kids

Dear Ann: I have seen letters in your column from cats and dogs but never a canary. Let me be the first. When I had feathers they were a buttercup yellow. My wings were emerald green interspersed with blue and orange. "Why don't I have feathers?" you ask. Because there are four kids under six years of age in this family and they take torturing me. I keep looking for an open window or a chance to get out the front door but so far no luck. I realize if I could escape, life would be very difficult for a house bird like me. But it's so bad in here, I'd take the chance. Please, Ann, give me some advice. I read your column regularly. —Without A Song adult supervision.

In Lansing
Dear Without: Although I'm sure my column is on the bottom of many bird cages around the world, you are, indeed, the first canary to write. When your letter appears in print, clip the column with your beak and hand it to the parent of your choice. You don't have to say anything. They'll know. In the meantime, here's a word from me, in case you get too choked up: If there's a mom or dad out there whose canary seems to be moulting out of season, please keep a closer watch on your kids. No child under 10 years of age should be permitted to handle a pet bird without regular adult supervision.

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — Can you tell me how I can get a macramé purse back to its natural white color? I washed it with a mild detergent and it turned yellow so I tried bleach but there was no change. Thank you. — CAROL.

DEAR CAROL — You could try color remover that can be found in stores with packaged dyes. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — I want to add to Vern's list of bad table manners. At family picnics, church pot luck suppers, etc. when a platter of fried chicken is passed (especially on the second go round) some people will use the fork they have been eating with and spear every piece on the platter looking for a favorite piece before passing it on. That is when I quit eating. Who wants a piece of meat that has been speared and moved around by a fork that has been in someone's mouth? Do not use my name but just sign me — A FAN.

DEAR POLLY — I want to suggest to Mrs. J.M. who is plagued by lint balls on things, that she might try gently rubbing the surface of the fabric with FINE grained sandpaper. I have had great success removing lint balls formed on materials, sweaters, etc. and especially those made of synthetics. — HELEN K.

DEAR POLLY — I find that wet plastic curlers will curl dry hair very well and faster than when the hair is wet. This is especially good for those with long hair as it dries so slowly and for short hair when it does not need washing but you would like to give it a quick curl. — LYNN.

DEAR POLLY — I am recovering from a broken ankle and therefore need to keep it elevated when sitting down so as to reduce the swelling. I could not depend on finding a footstool at the doctor's office or at the homes of friends so went to the Army Surplus store and for little over a dollar and a half found a portable camp stool to carry with me. It is light, folds flat and can go in a flat shopping bag with handles and carried over my arm like a purse. Since the legs are wood they can be cut to suit the person's comfort. A friend with a bad knee has followed suit and it is so cheap people living in Social Security can afford it. — MRS. P.R.B.

DEAR POLLY — When I go shopping I always carry some name and address stickers in my purse. When I buy something I stick one of these on the package in case I should lose or misplace it. — MRS. JAN L.

DEAR POLLY — Have you discovered that some of the family's jacket sleeves are too short or that the cuffs are worn out? Cut the ribbed tops from old socks and sew them on and even give the garment a new sweater look. — M.V.S.

Telephone Bridge-500 a hit

The regular meeting of the Parents Committee of the 1st Sherbrooke Brownies and Guides and 2nd Sherbrooke Brownies was held November 15, 1977. The treasurer's report indicated a successful Telephone Bridge - 500 card party. Mrs. Arbery, president, gave the badge of secretary's report as Mrs. Blenkhorn was absent. The secretary, Mrs. Banks, read a thank you note from Mrs. Bev Steele. Mrs. Marguerite Braucage stated she would act as Cookie Conventor for 1977. The president asked for a mini-report from brownie and guide leaders for the church christian annual report.

Mrs. Arbery read a letter received from U.S. Girl Scouts regarding exchange visits. Genetic engineering now less hazardous LONDON (Reuter) — A team of French molecular biologists have announced the discovery of a major difference between bacteria and higher organisms, including man.

The discovery, described in the science journal Nature, might make the controversial techniques of genetic engineering more complicated, but at the same time safer.

A team led by Dr. Pierre Chambon of the Faculty of Medicine, Strasbourg, France, found that the genetic message encoded in the double-helix formation of DNA for the production of an egg white protein is not carried in a continuous sequence within the DNA. Instead, the instructions for making the protein are carried on four distinct pieces of DNA interspersed with DNA whose message—whose entire reason for being there—is not known. The finding, Nature reports, "heralds a major revolution in molecular biology."

DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid) is the genetic messenger for all living things. The recently discovered techniques of recombinant DNA theoretically allow scientists to snip genetic instructions from one life form and insert them in another.

This has led to the hope that bacteria can be "rebuilt" to produce rare medicines, such as insulin. It has led to fears that bacteria will be accidentally created which will carry new diseases against which man has no natural defences.

Genes, which is the code for various proteins, lie strung out along the DNA double helix. Biologists working with bacteria have been able to read this code from beginning to end, like reading a book chapter after chapter.

WORK COMPLICATED But the discovery that genes of higher organisms possess what at this early stage looks like "irrelevant" DNA complicates things.

Roughly, it is as if an instruction manual on changing a tire began by telling how to remove the wheel, then launched into a description of how rubber is produced, then told how to change the tire and replace the wheel. One would need to know what bits to skip.

The discovery might mean that "teaching" bacteria to do a task like making insulin will be harder, because the instructions from the gene are so complicated.

It also hints that there is less risk than feared of the bacteria picking up coding for mammalian diseases by accident.

Yet there is a body of research indicating that bacteria in fact can handle genetic instructions from higher organisms.

Angostura homemade liver pate

There's bound to be a party coming up. One that you will have to give. Possibly even one that you might want to give. Note this idea now for future reference; it's so good it shouldn't be forgotten. The most talked-about food item at the party will be this liver pate. It always is. To start with, it looks like something ordered from an expensive caterer. It tastes like it was prepared by a talented French chef from a carefully-guarded secret recipe.

ANGOSTURA

LIVER PATE

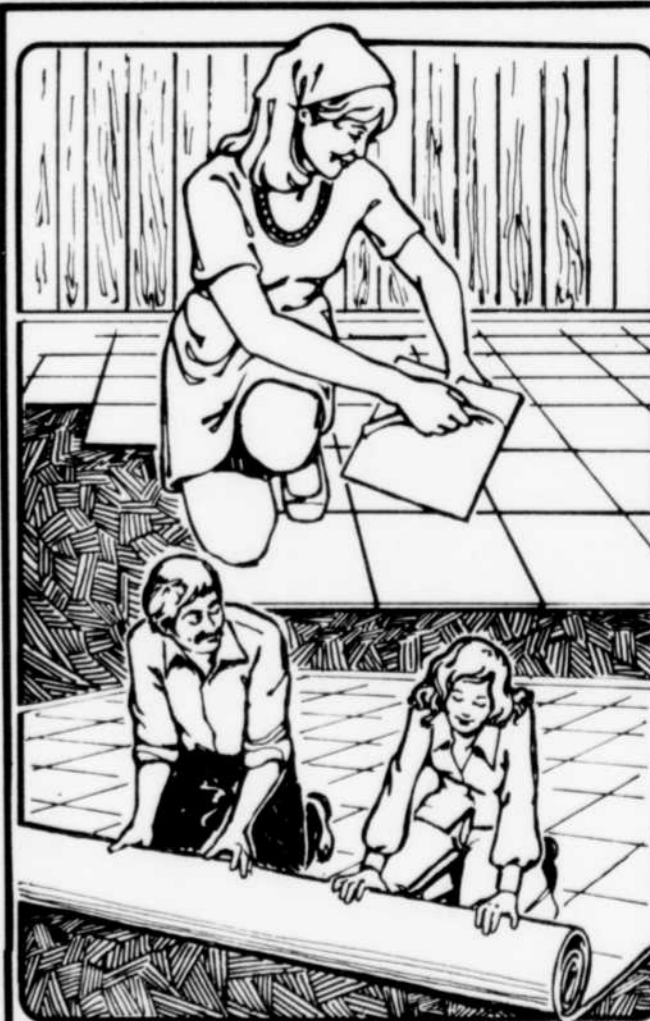

- 2 lb. beef liver
- 2 envelopes unflavoured gelatine
- 3 cups cold water, divided
- 3 beef bouillon cubes
- 1 small onion, grated
- 3 tbsp. lemon juice
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. Angostura aromatic bitters

Cover beef liver with water and bring to a boil; simmer for 10 minutes or until liver is tender. Drain and grind liver finely. Sprinkle unflavoured gelatine over 1 cup cold water in small saucepan. Add bouillon cubes and stir over low heat until gelatine and cubes are dissolved. Remove from heat; stir in remaining 2 cups water, onion, lemon juice, salt and Angostura aromatic bitters. Chill until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Fold in ground liver. Process briefly in blender to combine ingredients. Pour mixture into a (23 cm. x 13 cm. x 7 cm.) 9" x 5" x 3" loaf pan. Chill until firm. Unmould and cut into slices to serve on lettuce leaves. For hors d'oeuvres, cube and serve on crackers or on top of bread squares. Makes 1 loaf.

Refugees land in Australia

DARWIN, Australia (Reuter) - A wooden-hulled boat carrying 75 men, women and children arrived here Thursday night, adding to the flood of Vietnamese refugees reaching Australia from their homeland in the last two weeks. The group aboard the KienGiang, which was escorted into this harbor by an Australian naval patrol boat, brought to 591 the total of refugees who have reached here since mid-November after hazardous ocean voyages from Southeast Asia. Since the fall of Saigon (now Ho Chi Minh City) to Communist forces 2 1/2 years ago, 989 refugees in 27 vessels have reached Australia's rugged and sparsely-populated northern coastline. The latest arrivals sailed into port quietly, in contrast to the glare of controversy surrounding the docking Tuesday of the prawn trawler Song Be 12, seized by refugees near Ho Chi Minh-City almost three weeks ago after its three Communist military guards were overpowered. The Australian government said Thursday it will not budge from its decision not to return the prawn trawler's refugees - described by the Vietnamese regime as "pirates" - as demanded by Hanoi. Of the 181 people aboard the Song Be 12 when it reached here Tuesday, 172 are regarded as refugees.

Levesque-Quebecers on their own

QUÉBEC (CP) - Premier Rene Levesque said Thursday that the Supreme Court of Canada's decision on cable television proves Quebecers will always be a minority in their own country. In a statement to the national assembly, Levesque stressed that Wednesday's court decision, which gave exclusive jurisdiction over cable TV to Ottawa, was the decision of "six anglophone judges." The three Quebec members of the court all dissented from the decision. "The Supreme Court, through these non-Quebecers, has made a judgment concerning the cultural powers of Quebec, or more precisely against these very powers," Levesque said. "Not only is the Canadian constitution centralizing by nature, but the Supreme Court, whose members are all named by Ottawa, is also a 'centralizing agent,'" he said. "This is not the first time that the Supreme Court has become in some ways the judicial arm of the dominating federal power. "To accept that every eventual case should be dealt by a body where the dice are so obviously loaded against us would show more naivete and irresponsibility than good faith."

School committee meets

MANSONVILLE (MB) - The November meeting of the Mansonville Elementary School Committee took place in the staff room with Mr. and Mrs. Bogusz, Mrs. R. DeFelicé, Representative teacher, Mrs. Keven Heath, Sandra Jewett, Secretary, Mrs. Bertha Nichols, Chairperson, and Mr. Wally Horn, School Principal. Three members were absent. A brief resume on the October District Workshop was given by the Secretary during the business session. It was also noted that Parents' Committee Meeting was to be held in the Heroes School at Cowansville in November. Decisions were made that a newsletter will be sent out to parents, also a written agenda will be circulated amongst the members prior to meetings and a subscription will be made to Home and School News; Mr. Bogusz to report to the committee any news of particular interest. Mrs. Nichols read a letter from Mr. Dickison of the District of Bedford Regional School Board. Mrs. DeFelicé gave a staff report on PPD, Teachers' Convention, projected date for distribution of reports to students, Parent-Teacher interviews and the Dec. 21st mini-Christmas Concert. She also reported on sports in the gymnastics classes each Tuesday from 2 to 3 p.m. with J. Bogusz, a possible construction of skating rink on the school grounds; Mr. Curran's Inter-school (Sutton-Mansonville) soccer a success, and she asked to continue encouraging nutritious lunches for students saying that hot lunch program resumed Nov. 1 (15 cents).

Vorster hails victory

JOHANNESBURG (AP) - Prime Minister John Vorster hailed his victory in Wednesday's election as a resounding endorsement of his white-power policies and rejection of foreign "meddling" in South African affairs. Colin Eglon, leader of the liberal opposition, warned of a "hardening of race attitudes." "I'm deeply thankful, very, very deeply thankful, that this has happened," Vorster declared Thursday as election results indicated that white voters had rallied behind his government at a time its apartheid policies are coming under increasing fire abroad. The final tally in the election gave the ruling National party 134 seats in the 165-seat parliament, more than the Nationals have ever held in the nearly 30 years they have dominated South African politics. The party won 116 seats in the last election in 1974. Second place, and the status of official opposition, passed from the centrist New Republic party to the liberal Progressive Federal party. WON 17 SEATS The Progressives, which advocate sharing power with the country's 19 million blacks, won 17 seats while the New Republic party dropped from 23 to 10 seats. The conservative South African party won three seats, while the ultra-rightist and openly racist Reformed National party failed to bring in any of its 56 candidates. Voting for one seat was postponed. Eglon, 52, predicted "more authoritarianism and a hardening of race attitudes" with the Nationals' landslide victory. He pledged that his party will present a viable alternative to the government's apartheid policy. The blacks - as well as 2.7 million coloreds (persons of mixed blood) and 750,000 Asians - are not allowed to vote, although Vorster has proposed setting up separate parliaments for the coloreds and Asians. The blacks are officially regarded as citizens of tribal "homelands," not of South Africa. The election came on the heels of an international outcry against South Africa's white-minority government set off by the mysterious death in prison of black activist Steve Biko and the subsequent government crackdown against major black leaders and organizations. WHITES RALLY The anger culminated in a United Nations arms embargo against South Africa. But the outrage and the embargo evidently served only to rally South Africa's 4.5 million whites behind Vorster. Less than 60 per cent of the voters registered in many of the contested constituencies turned out, and several government candidates were helped by competition between opposition candidates. The country's black majority generally ignored the election and the black newspaper The Post, which has replaced The World and other black papers banned in the Oct. 19 government crackdown, did not even mention the election in Thursday editions. While the whites were voting Wednesday, police arrested 29 black journalists demonstrating in central Johannesburg against the continuing detention of several colleagues. The journalists were released on bail and ordered to appear in court Feb. 22 on charges of violating the Riotous Assemblies Act. Outside the capital of Pretoria, a bomb went off on a mail train. Police and Justice Minister James Kruger said the blast, the second within a week, was the work of "hard-core terrorists" and demonstrated the need for "stern measures" to combat sabotage.

Tea and Sale

EAST ANGUS - The A.C.W. held a very successful tea and food sale at the Cultural Centre. Mrs. Gerald Gaulin and Mrs. Roy Martyn worked at the food table while Miss Dorothy Shattuck was the cashier. The novelty and white elephant table was looked after by Mrs. W. Thorneley and Mrs. R. Joyce. The salad tea and kitchen was in the capable hands of Mrs. Hartley Westgate and Mrs. R. Gray with Mrs. Douglas Bell Sr., keeping the salad bar well filled. Miss Marion Ord was attending the door and the tickets for the tea. Mrs. Allan Hall was in charge of the drawing of a food voucher, which was won by Mr. Douglas Bell. All the ladies helped in the kitchen after the tea and we would like to thank them all for their cooperation, also the ladies who worked Friday evening setting up the tables.

Anniversary celebrations

The Sherbrooke Snow Shoe Club celebrated its 100th birthday at a party held on Saturday evening which included the presentation of gifts commemorating the occasion. Shown from left are Tony Pinard, life member of the Tuque Rouge Club, presenting SSSC anniversary chairman George Jobel with a token of his club's best wishes, while Sherbrooke mayor Jacques O'Bready presents a plaque made by a city employee to SSSC president Archie Quick as the city's memento of the birthday.

News Briefs

Liberal recruiters hopeful

MONTREAL (CP) — Lawrence Wilson, new president of the Quebec Liberal party, says party members should try to double their membership to 125,000 by taking advantage of what he described as a renewal of interest in the party among voters.

Wilson said in a speech Sunday to more than 300 party members: "Let's take advantage of the interest... to bring back the thousands of party sympathizers who have been discouraged by our lack of dialogue."

Wilson set Jan. 16 as the deadline for the recruitment campaign, the last day of enrolment to qualify party members for participation in the election of the new party leader April 13 and 14.

Rhodesian officer shoots 13

BULAWAYO, Rhodesia (Reuter) — A black policeman ran amok Sunday night and shot to death 13 other blacks — five of them children — before being killed himself by security forces, police said.

Police said they were treating the case as a civil crime and not as an outbreak of urban guerrilla warfare connected with the nationalist campaign to end white rule.

The man, whose identity has not been released, burst into a house in Bulawayo's black township of Mzilikazi with a shotgun, and killed two men and two women, police said.

Bokassa honored today

BANGUI (Reuter) — Bokassa I, the world's only reigning emperor, receives the tributes of his subjects today as the Central African Empire celebrates his lavish coronation.

The former French colonial soldier, wearing an elaborate Roman-style toga, Sunday placed a heavy gold crown on his own head in a ceremony modelled on that of Bokassa's hero, Napoleon Bonaparte, when he took the imperial crown of France 173 years ago.

Tabloid king goes international

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — Quebec tabloid king Pierre Peledau became an international publisher today with the publication of the first edition of the Philadelphia Journal.

A press run of about 200,000 copies of the sports-heavy tabloid got under way at 3 a.m. EST after a hectic day of a last-minute planning.

The Journal, fourth newspaper in Philadelphia and one of only a few to begin publication in the U.S. in recent years, devoted half of its 64-page first edition to sports. It also ran a color photograph of Philadelphia baseball player Mike Schmidt on page 1.

Comatose woman failing

NEW YORK (AP) — A comatose pregnant woman has developed pneumonia and internal bleeding, and doctors have little hope that she can be kept alive to give her five-month-old fetus a chance to be born.

Dr. Thomas LaBarbera, director of the critical-care unit at Victory Memorial Hospital, described the condition of Rosemarie Maniscalco, 27, on Sunday as "poor, very poor."

"According to statistics, it has been practically impossible to sustain life in a person in her degree of coma," Dr. LaBarbera said.

Royal grandchild still unnamed

LONDON (AP) — The first grandchild of Queen Elizabeth remains unnamed 19 days after his birth because of a dispute between his mother and grandmother, a palace correspondent said Sunday.

The boy, who is fifth in the line of succession to the throne, was born to Princess Anne in a London hospital Nov. 15.

Sources said the delay in naming the child is due to the refusal by the princess and her husband, Capt. Mark Phillips, to allow the Queen to bestow a title on the baby. Audrey Whiting reported in The Sunday Mirror.

Clock ticks off neighbors

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — Paul Solon's century-old clock is ticking off his neighborhood and the village fathers.

He wants to put the 4½-metre (15-foot) 1,500-pound street clock in the front yard of his home, which sits among dwellings in the $95,000 to $115,000 range.

But some neighbors complained, arguing that curious people might start driving by, invading the peace and lowering property values, and that the clock with two faces would just seem out of place. And what if it fell on a child? they asked.

Solon, 33, a clock collector, is threatening to go to court after making little headway since June with the zoning and village boards in this suburb northwest of Chicago.

tions by calling into question the constitutionality of its mandate.

The case is scheduled to come before Quebec Superior Court Tuesday — the same day that a federal royal commission of inquiry, appointed by Fox, starts its own public hearings into the Agence de Presse Libre du Quebec break-in.

HAS NO POWER

Fox's lawyers say the commission has no power either to investigate the internal workings of the RCMP or the force's relations with the solicitor-general, the prime minister and the cabinet. This is the job of the federal commission, headed by Mr. Justice David McDonald of Alberta Supreme Court, they say.

But lawyers for the Keable inquiry say Quebec's jurisdiction over the administration of justice gives them the right to go as far as necessary in tracing responsibility for the break-in and other illegal acts.

Fox lost his bid to temporarily block the inquiry's hearings last week while waiting for the constitutional challenge to come before the courts.

Commission lawyers took the opportunity to table a sheaf of RCMP telegrams indicating that Starnes was aware of the raid only days after it was carried out by officers from the RCMP, the Quebec and Montreal police forces.

WAS 'IRRITATED'

Furthermore, in an Oct. 12 telex, he said he was "considerably irritated" and worried that the RCMP officers' involvement in the "illegal" operation would be exposed in "this pre-electoral period" — a reference to the 1972 federal election campaign which ended on Oct. 30 with a victory for the Trudeau government.

A day later, a senior Montreal anti-terrorist officer wrote an internal note to a colleague suggesting that all communications with Starnes and his assistants "ideally should be done in person — no correspondence."

The running legal dispute between Fox and Keable is likely to take a new turn today when the commissioner announces his ruling on Fox's refusal to hand over certain types of RCMP documents.

These include the mounties' training manual, organizational charts, intelligence reports on the Parti Quebecois and reports based on any bugging operations conducted in connection with the PQ.

Fox says these documents are irrelevant to the commission's task of investigating specific illegal acts committed on Quebec's territory, such as the news-agency raid and the theft of PQ membership and financial records in January, 1973.

Obituary

FAY F. MCGILL

of South Durham
On November 12, 1977 at the Sherbrooke Hospital, the death occurred of Fay McGill in his 81st year.

The deceased was born in Danville, Vt., on March 13, 1897 son of the late James McGill and his wife Jennette Fisher.

In August, 1920, he married Ena Cross of South Durham, where they made their home. His wife predeceased him in July 1970.

He leaves to mourn his loss his daughter and son-in-law (Jean), Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lester, six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral service was held at Fleury's Parlors in South Durham on November 14 with the Rev. Beaudon officiating. Interment was in the United Church Cemetery, South Durham.

The bearers were Murray Wright, Stuart Moore, Howard Watt, Evan Coote, Albert Doyle, and Lawrence Clark.

Friends and relatives attending the funeral were from Verdun, Greenfield Park, Ontario, Richmond and surrounding district.

Obituary

MRS. J. R. ARMSTRONG

formerly of Knowlton
Mrs. Ruth Armstrong of Lennoxville, widow of James R. Armstrong, passed away suddenly at the Sherbrooke Hospital on Friday, November 18, 1977, following a recent illness and operation.

Relatives and friends called at the Webster-Cass Funeral Home in Lennoxville on Saturday and at the C.E. Wilson Funeral Home in Knowlton on Sunday.

The funeral service was held at the latter on Monday, November 21st with Rev. Douglas Warren officiating. The bearers were Keith Mizener, Harold Spencer, Stanley Mount, Ken MacGillivray, Warren and Craig Parker.

Interment was at Fulford, Que.

Ruth Grace Doak Bowen was born at Hillhurst, Que., on October 5, 1897, the fifth daughter of Herbert Bowen and his wife Edna Webster. After graduating from high school in Ayer's Cliff, she taught for several years throughout the Townships and received her Elementary School Diploma in 1920.

She also attained a diploma in commercial illustrating. On September 29, 1928, Ruth married James R. Armstrong of Warden. They lived first in West Shefford and following that, South Roxton, moving in 1933 to Knowlton. Her she took part in Church groups, Farm Forum and other community activities.

When her husband retired in 1953 they bought a home on St. Paul's Road where they lived until his death in 1961. Many former students and teachers of the Knowlton High School will remember her for her supply teaching.

Her presence at The Brome County Historical Museum was a familiar sight for many summers.

She remained in Knowlton until 1972 when she moved to Lennoxville. There she renewed old acquaintances and made many new friends and particularly enjoyed the Lennoxville Senior Citizens Group.

She will be sadly missed by her daughters and their families: Barbara and Ken MacGillivray, Bill and Kenda of Brome, Que., Faye and Warren Parker, Craig and Andrea of Ottawa, Ont. She is survived by sisters, Mrs. Richard Roberts (Florence) of St. Johnsbury, Vt., Mrs. Lewis Demick (Hazel) of East Haven, Vt. She was predeceased by Mrs. Albert Davidson (Bertha) Ayer's Cliff, Mr. Fred Bowen, Newport, Vt., and Mrs. Jasper Rudd (Evelyn), St. Johnsbury, Vt. She is also survived by sister-in-law, Mrs. Aseneth Bowen, and brothers-in-law, Jasper Rudd and Lewis Demick, nephews and nieces and their families, many cousins and countless friends.

Ruth will be especially remembered for the art work which occupied her and gave her pleasure all her life. Her oil paintings and water colours hang in countless homes of friends and relations throughout the Townships and far beyond. Her own home was always cheerful and welcoming with her bright pictures, painted glass, crewl cushions, wall hangings, braided rugs and tea cups always ready on her crocheted tablecloth.

The family is grateful to the many kind friends and relations who visited Ruth at her home these past months, and who sent flowers, cards and made donations in her memory to the Arthritic and Cancer Funds and the Sherbrooke Hospital.

BU basketball teams win

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — The men's and women's basketball teams notched pairs of weekend victories, including their season openers, and the men's hockey club went to defeat in Bishop's University action.

McGill University fell prey to the Gaiters on Friday, permitting the locals to commence their Quebec University Athletic Association (QUAA) season on the right note.

The BU men won 77-61 over the defending league champs and had the Redmen pinned in the early going, and were leading by 15 points at halftime.

Blair Shier showed his opponents that his injury is pretty well healed as he scored 16 points and pulled in 15 rebounds. Trevor Bennett, also made his presence felt on the backboards, snatching the ball 12 times and getting 14 points. Wayne Hussey and Ian McLean each netted 13 points.

Debbie Huband and Linda MacPherson tallied 18 points a piece to pace the Bishop's women to a 78-51 triumph over the Super Squaws.

In exhibition play Sunday, Laval Rouge et Or took defeats in Lennoxville against the Gaiters. The men won 91-63 while the girls took the 81-63 final.

Bennett and Shier helped the Bish cause with 20 and 16 points respectively, while Hussey had 14. McLean got another 10.

MacPherson led the women's attack with 21 points, while Helen McAuley scored 16 and Cathy McGurk tallied 14 points. The BU squad played their best first half of ball of this season during the game.

The hockey Gaiters looked like they might break out of their slump against the University of Laval crew but the visitors had other things in mind won 6-5 in Lennoxville.

Bishop's took a 2-0 lead in the first period and built it up to a 4-2 advantage after 40 minutes. But recurring mistakes plagued the Gaiters, who watched the winning goal, with six minutes remaining, slip their doom.

NHL roundup

One of these days, coach Bobby Kromm will see his Detroit Red Wings put together three good periods of hockey and then perhaps their fivegame National Hockey League losing streak will come to a halt.

The Red Wings came out bumping the Sabres in Buffalo Sunday night, fell behind and then changed their style of play and were hammered 6-1 in one of five NHL games.

In other action, Minnesota North Stars and New York Rangers played to a 4-4 tie. Boston Bruins took Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1. Vancouver Canucks thumped Chicago Black Hawks 6-2 and Pittsburgh Penguins outscored Washington Capitals 4-2.

Saturday night, the Rangers blanked the North Stars 4-0, Montreal Canadiens edged Chicago 3-2, Toronto took Detroit 4-2, Cleveland Barons and Boston fought to a 4-4 tie. Philadelphia Flyers outscored Colorado Rockies 6-3. New York Islanders crushed St. Louis Blues 7-2. Buffalo and Pittsburgh fought to a 4-4 draw and Los Angeles Kings took a 4-1 decision from Atlanta Flames.

Canadian boat places second

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Long Gone, driven by Bill Hodge of Cincinnati, won the second stage of the international Grand Prix powerboat competition Sunday, covering five laps at an average of 94 miles an hour.

Hodge also won the first event of the international series last weekend at Lake Chapala in Guadalupe, Mex.

In second place Sunday was a Canadian boat, Olympiad, driven by Marty Niles of Toronto.

Joe Gimbroni of Tonawanda, N.Y., escaped serious injury when his boat crashed at more than 150 miles an hour in an elimination heat. He was driving Navigation, a boat owned by Tony Rodriguez of Portugal.

Third place went to Bo's Ghost, driven by Tom Baker of Queenston, Md., and fourth place went to Canada's French Connection, driven by Andy Miller of Quebec.

Aeros edge Stingers 3-2

To say that Bill Dineen's remarks following his club's victory Sunday night were predictable is an understatement.

"It feels wonderful," were the Houston coach's sentiments after seeing the Aeros edge Cincinnati Stingers 3-2 for their first road victory of the current World Hockey Association season.

"We just had to get that one behind us and it came because we played the best positional game we played all year," said Dineen.

Elsewhere Sunday, Birmingham Bulls blanked Indianapolis Racers 3-0 and Edmonton Oilers edged Winnipeg Jets 3-2.

On Saturday, the Stingers dumped New England Whalers 5-2, while Quebec Nordiques outlasted Winnipeg 4-3.

Pate-Stacy win golf tourney

LARGO, Fla. (AP) — Jerry Pate dropped an 10-foot birdie putt on the final hole Sunday as he and partner Hollis Stacy broke a tie and scored a one-stroke victory in a $200,000 mixed team golf championship.

Pate, the 1976 Canadian and U.S. Open champion, and Stacy, the current U.S. women's Open champ, combined for a final round, two-under-par 70 that just held off a late challenge by rookies Curtis Strange, 22, and Nancy Lopez, 20.

Pate and Stacy, who had led or shared the lead since a fantastic 61 in the opening round, completed 72 holes over the 7,015-yard North course at the Bardmoor Country Club in 270, 18 under par.

Strange and Lopez, who started the mild, cloudy day three shots back, caught the leaders with a birdie on the 17th but had to settle for second at 271. They shot a four-under-par 68 in the final round. It was the fourth second-place finish of the season for Lopez and the second for Strange, each of whom joined their respective tours only at mid-season.

Under the unusual format for this event, each member of each man-woman team hit off the tee. They played their second shot off their partner's ball, then picked the one they wanted and played alternate shots on the same ball for the remainder of the hole.

Broomballers wanted

SHERBROOKE — A call for interested midget boys broomball teams has been launched for this year's Estrie region Quebec Winter Games.

Mr. Roland Dussault, coordinator of the region, announces that all teams, either associated with the Quebec Broomball Federation or not, are eligible for the competition. The team members must have been born in 1962, 63 or 64. Each team entering its name must not have more than 15 boys playing for it.

The winners in the regional competition will advance to the provincial tournament in Amos at the end of February.

More information may be obtained by contacting the Estrie region office at 75 Chartier St., in Sherbrooke at 569-9731.

Beavers sweep weekend games

By LEN O'DONNELL
SHERBROOKE — "Sound hockey behind the blue lines backed up with good defensive play and fine goaltending by Roger Belanger, paid dividends for us," said Coach Delage last evening as his club dumped the Nationals of Laval 12-1 before 3,541 fans.

The win gave the Beavers a sweep of their weekend games. Their next home game will be Friday when they tangle with the Royals of Cornwall.

Tonight they move to Laval for another go with the Nationals and on Wednesday they play in Verdun before coming home for their tilt with Cornwall.

The Beavers didn't wait long till they hit the score sheet. Just after a minute of play Louis Begin got away and made a perfect pass to Sylvain Locas and on went the red light. Jimmie Mann helped to set it up

Locas and Begin teamed up again just after the half-way mark of the period. Laval rallied but to no avail as Roger Belanger was turning everything aside in close. Serge Boisvert picked up the puck in centre zone on a pass from Ken Johnston and make a pass to Ron Carter and the beaver made no mistake by hitting the meshing behind Michael Parker for the Beavers' third tally.

Francois James went off but the Beavers held their ground and allowed only one good shot on the net which Belanger stopped. When he returned Ken Johnston lifted the disc to Mark Green, who went in the corner. He passed back to Ricky Vaive at the blueline and the hard-shooting winger rifled one by Parker who didn't have the chance to move as the puck went by. The Beavers outshot the Nationals of Laval 13-6 and drew only one penalty.

The Sherbrooke squad held the upper hand all through the frame and although the Nationals broke away they couldn't get many hard shots at Belanger as the forwards were coming back to help their defense and this paid off for the Delage squad.

Play in the middle session commenced at a slow pace as both clubs were content to wait for their breaks. The checking was close on both sides finally Gaudreault got in but Parker came up with the save.

Mark Green got in behind the Laval team and Ricky Vaive lifted the disc to him but saved. Luc Locas finished off a play with Secco set up by Pierre Tremblay

A couple of minutes later the Beavers were caught in their own end and failed to cover Currie, in front of the net, and he finished off a pass from Daley and Pepin. A minute later Mark Green completed a play on a pass from Pierre Tremblay and the local captain made no mistake on his hard drive. The locals held the better of the play with a total of 16 shots to six for the Nationals.

Mike Parker came up with two big saves at the start of the final frame. Mark Green got in but failed to click on his initial drive and then missed the rebound. Pierre Tremblay came up with a good end-to-end rush right but missed to count.

The Beavers were in charge of the tilt during the first seven minutes but couldn't finish off their plays near the goal, although they were coming close. Laval were digging but they also had trouble around the net as both goalies were blocking everything.

Jimmie Mann checked a Laval player in their end and rifled a hard shot to beat Parker on the low side of the net. It came from hard checking in the Laval end which paid off for the Beavers.

The Beavers were outplaying the Nationals and had no trouble in carrying the play to Laval's end but Parker was coming up with big saves. Ricky Vaive finished off a play with Mark Green and Ken Johnston as he tipped in the puck in front. It put the Beavers ahead 9-1. Sylvain Locas completed his hat-trick when he finished off a play with Jimmie Mann and Louis Begin.

Ricky Vaive registered his hat-trick, assisted by Mark Green and Ron Carter a minute later. The Beavers kept on the attack and Mark Green made it 12-1 when he let go after taking passes from Pierre Tremblay and Yvan Gaudreault. All three goals were tallied within two and half minutes of the period.

The Beavers bombarded the Nationals 29-6 for a grand total of 58 shots to 18 for the Nationals. At no time were the Nationals in the game, especially in the final period.

Ricky Secco moves in on Laval National netminder Michael Parker in Sunday's game at the Sports Palace.

This shot missed the net but the Beavers were hot last night, scoring 12 goals to the Nationals one.

Hull Olympics downed 11-2

By LEN O'DONNELL

SHERBROOKE — "We proved to our supporters that once when swung into high gear things would be different. We just have too much potency to be mired at the bottom of our division for a lengthy period it was bound to come to, life and this evening was the time," said Coach Delage Friday evening following the Beavers convincing 11-2 win over the Hull Olympics before 3,254 fans at the Sports Palace.

Sylvain Locas set the pace with four goals and two assists to lead the assault while Mark Green, Serge Boisvert and Ron Carter each came through two and Jee Leverman notched the other. Ricky Vaive led in the play-making department with four while newcomer Pierre Tremblay helped to set up three. Ken Johnston, Jimmie Mann and Ricky Secco picked up two in the wide-open battle.

Yves Dandurand, known as the "King of the Clowns" around the circuit, put on his show in the pre-ame warm-up. He wandered into the Beavers' end searching for trouble. He shot the puck in a couple of times but, instead of picking it up, he stood around needing the Beavers. Finally, he got hooked with Jimmie Mann then both teams got in the scramble. He was the recipient of several blows but there was more to come.

Just after the face-off, two seconds, he clashed with Jimmie Mann and this time he got the worst of the encounter. They both drew majors, misconducts and a minor to the Hull player. He also was tagged with a game misconduct for shoving a linesman.

Coach Guy Trottier, said after the game, "that Delage set up the whole affair by sending Mann after his player." He wasn't around before the game when his roughie did his best to start things he finally received his reward.

The Beavers went to work and with Ricky Secco in the cooler Mark Green and Sylvain Locas potted the first tally. A few minutes later Locas came through with his first tally of the evening. Roger Belanger came up with three big saves in a row as the Olympics commenced the force the play.

Claude Larochelle opened the scoring for the visitors and five minutes later Daniel Metivier registered, what proved to be their only other tally of the evening. From then on they came close several times but Belanger kept his cage clear with some good saves.

Pierre Tremblay was the middleman when he got the puck from Jimmie Mann from behind the net. He rifled a hard drive and Sylvain Locas was on the spot to snare the rebound and the tie was broken.

Following this the Beavers settled down and assumed command of the two-way traffic. They turned in a fine exhibition of two-way hockey with everybody doing their share. The forwards were coming back to help their defense and Pierre Tremblay, in his first appearance, gave a good account of himself.

Jeff Leverman was next to dent the twine behind Daniel Labrecque when he rifled a hard drive into the net.

Locas and Carter helped to set him up in the slot. The Beavers had Louis Begin in the sin-bin when Ron Carter got away from a ganging play to registered his 150th goal of his career. The visitors were forcing the play at the time Ghislain Gaudreault hit the post and the Mark Green also Pierre Tremblay the same.

Louis Begin was thumbed off and Roger Belanger came through with four big saves in a row. Mark Green with Ricky Vaive teamed up to extend the lead and then Serge Boisvert with the help of Ron Carter and Ricky Secco gave the Beavers a 7-2 lead after two periods.

In the third frame it was all the Beavers as they ran in four tallies while holding the Olympics off the score sheet for their 11-2 win. The Beavers picked up three minors in the frame but their mates held the fort and kept the Olympics at bay.

Sylvain Locas opened the scoring in the third frame. This completed his hat-trick. Ken Johnston helped to set him up. Serge Boisvert was next hit with the twine with the help of Ricky Vaive.

Francois James was in the cooler when Pierre Tremblay cleared the puck to Mark Green and he in turn flipped it to Locas who registered his fourth of the game.

Ron Carter potted his 151st goal of his QMJHL career when he got away on a break circled the goalie and flipped it into the open side of the net to finish off the scoring with the Beavers on the long count of a 11-2 score. The third period was like the second with the Beavers in complete command of the situation.

Pierre Tremblay and Ghislain Gaudreault were playing their first game since they were acquired from Sags Tremblay, on the blueline, added much needed experience while Gaudreault fitted in well up front.

Jim Brown of Rochester, N.Y., who was drafted by the Beavers in June, was on hand at the game along with his coach, Andy Laing. Georges Guibault and Roger Roy, chief scout, were in Rochester Thursday to see him play and invited him to come to Sherbrooke.

Brown was amassed by the manner in which he was received but he intends to finish his high school before making any moves in the hockey world. He stands 6'2" and tips the scales at 210 lbs, and is only 17 years old. Guibault tried to convince him to join the club but he

WI meetings

RICHMOND — The regular meeting of the Richmond Young Women's Institute was held on Monday, Nov. 7 at the home of Mrs. Clifford Mastine, Melbourne. The president, Mrs. Elmer Stimson opened the meeting with 14 members answering the roll call. This being a social evening, guests were invited and introduced. The secretary, Mrs. W. Whittinghall read the minutes of the previous meeting and they were approved.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. Vaitėkenas gave the financial report and various bills were presented to her. The correspondence for the month was read. It consisted of a Thank-You from Mr. Ross Henderson for a Sunshine Tray he received; a letter from Fer de Lance announcing an information meeting on Nov. 10 at 7:30 p.m. with Dr. Paulette as the guest speaker; a letter of thanks from Butters Centre following the recent donation from the W.I.; a letter from the St. Michael's School Parents' committee requesting financial assistance; a letter from the Provincial President and individual letters to each convener.

There were no reports from the standing committee. Welfare and Health convener, Mrs. Connie Pariseau reported that cards and Sunshine trays had been sent. The president gave a report of the County meeting she recently attended. Two requests for catering were received. One was approved. Several donations were made.

Plans were made for the Wales Home Birthday Party, held on Nov. 16. The next meeting will be held on Dec. 4 at 5:30 p.m. and will be the Christmas meeting; at which the catering will be done by the members. This will be a social evening. As there was no further business the president adjourned the meeting and the guest speaker, Mr. Garth Carson gave a talk on "Wills". This was very informative and he was very obliging and answered many questions. Following the guest speaker's presentation, lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Douglas Banfill and Mrs. Clifford Mastine.

KINNEAR'S MILLS — The regular meeting of the Women's Institute took place on Nov. 2 at the home of Mrs. Joy Nugent. The President Mrs. Pauline Nutbrown welcomed nine members and two visitors. Roll call was answered by each member naming an agriculture product in French. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Treasurer's report was also given.

Correspondence included the reading of a letter from Mrs. Kilgour, the list of competition for Q.W.I. and J.P. Coats contest. It was decided to order Christmas cards from UNICEF. Reports from convenors were as follows:

Agriculture — J. Nugent stated that statistics show that the average family income rose 15 percent, while the farm income fell by 11 percent.

Education — H. Jamieson said that the petition had been presented to the Greater Quebec School board, on St. George's School, action will be taken next year.

Health and Welfare — A. Allan read a poem on Remembrance Day. A committee was formed of Helen Jamieson and Audrey Allan to plan a Christmas Tree Concert. The Motto-Avise from an old carpenter. Measure twice and saw once.

The programme for the evening was to wear a poppy and observe two minutes silence. The draw box was won by Janet Lowry. Refreshments and a social time brought an interesting meeting to a close.

Your Birthday
 Dec. 6, 1977

You will establish several enviable relationships this coming year. They will be with people who are as concerned with advancing your hopes as you are with theirs. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today in dealing with others try to see that which is beneath the surface. It'll help you establish stronger bonds with people you have felt had little to offer. Find out to whom you're romantically suited by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, NY 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You conduct yourself well today in areas where you have authority. You're fair and just, yet firm when necessary. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Give free reign to your imagination today in situations that have far-reaching effects. You should be able to perceive the outcome and make plans accordingly. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You shine today in your ability to mastermind the affairs of others. Ways and means of achieving goals overlooked by them will be obvious to you. ARIES (March 21-April 19) An opportunity may arise today to transform a situations deemed undesirable into something quite beneficial. Be willing to change. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This could be the day you've been waiting for to do a little negotiating with the boss in order to better your lot. Play your aces wisely. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't keep feelings to yourself regarding someone you really care for, but have been reticent to reveal. Chances are the feelings are mutual. CANCER (June 21-July 22) The circuitous route you'll use to reach your goals today may baffle the curious observer, yet to you, each and every step will make sense. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) As a salesperson it will be difficult to find your equal today. You aren't apt to promote anything you don't sincerely believe in. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your flair in financial matters could be quite remarkable today. All you'll take is the proper challenge. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Others will find your personality appealing, although a shade mysterious today. You won't be role-playing. You may not even be aware of it yourself. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The secret for getting associates to do your bidding today is to appeal to their emotions. This is especially true for persons you've previously helped.

Oswald: "It is about time that we run some really simple hands for our readers. At least ones that are simple to experts."

Jim: "Here's a good one to start with. West cashes the three top diamonds and shifts to the five of clubs."

Oswald: "First elementary decision for South. Should he finesse? The answer in CB language is 'Negatory'. He doesn't need that finesse."

Jim: "Next elementary problem. What card does he lead from dummy? The answer is either the king or queen of trumps. He can pick up trumps easily unless they break 4-0. If West has all four South is helpless. The lead of a high spade from dummy makes it possible to pick up four in the East hand."

Oswald: "Sure enough, East has all four and South must go after hearts. Which one should he lead?"

Jim: "This is the third simple problem. He must lead the nine. If he leads this and West ducks he can continue with the queen and get to lead the suit three times. If he starts with the queen West can beat him by ducking twice."

"Is it true I'd now have to work longer to collect Unemployment Insurance?"

Yes. Parliament has decided that the qualification time should be longer everywhere, and that people who live in areas of high unemployment should be given certain advantages over those who live in areas where jobs are more plentiful. Which means that you now need more insurable work weeks to qualify for Unemployment Insurance benefits.

"I can see why. But just how long would I have to work to be eligible?"

From 10 to 14 weeks, depending on where you live.

In regions of low unemployment, claimants need up to 14 weeks of insurable employment to get UI benefits. This will only happen in places where it's easier to get and keep a job.

In regions of high unemployment, claimants now need as little as 10 weeks to qualify.

"Does this mean I'd get less or that the payments wouldn't last as long?"

No change in payment amounts. The UI benefit rate stays at two-thirds of your average weekly insurable earnings.

The maximum is $147, less tax.

The maximum time for which anyone may receive benefits has changed slightly, however.

The old maximum was 51 weeks. Now it's 50 weeks.

But since September 11, the total number of weeks for which a claimant qualifies has more closely reflected the unemployment rate in his or her region.

Right now, we measure unemployment by dividing Canada into 16 economic regions. Later in 1978, we will fine-tune the program to 54 regions so that UI will be even more closely related to local labour market conditions.

"What else is changing about UI?"

Not much.

The basic two week waiting period remains the same everywhere. And so do the rules on the waiting period when a claimant has left his or her job for no good reason or been fired for misconduct. In such cases, a claimant may have to wait up to eight weeks from when employment ends until benefits start.

Then there's maternity, sickness and age 65 benefits.

Previously, sickness benefits were only payable during the first 39 weeks of the claim. Now they're payable at any time during the entire benefit period.

"Would I still go to the same UI office to claim?"

As explained in the box below, you still go to the familiar locations for both UI offices and Canada Manpower Centres. Watch for changes in your area.

Unemployment Insurance has changed for everyone's benefit, including yours. All we ask is that you remember your obligations as well as your rights.

If the need should ever arise for you to come to us, we'll make sure you get all the UI benefits to which you are entitled by law. But you must keep up the search for a new job all the time you're getting those benefits.

The Unemployment Insurance Commission and the Department of Manpower and Immigration have become the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission. For a time, you'll still see our local offices identified as Unemployment Insurance offices or Canada Manpower Centres. When they're together in one location, they'll be called Canada Employment Centres.

Working with people who want to work.
