GAS EXPLOSION IN A SUB-WAY

Causes the Loss of Eight Lives

TWO SCORE PEOPLE INJURED

High Buildings Shaken by the Force of the Explosion, and the Street Caved In.

Philadelphia, Oct. 5—Eight men were killed and nearly two score of persons were injured to-day by the explosion of illuminating gas in the Market street subway at Sixth street. High buildings were shaken by the force of the explosion and for a block on either side of the scene of the explosion nearly every window was shattered. The street caved in, halting traffic and resulting in the suspension of business. Fire followed the explosion but it did no damage to neighboring buildings. The loss, it is believed, will exceed $300,000. The dead: John Lawless, aged 25, timber foreman; Frank Leans, aged 48, employed by the United Gas Improvement Company; Gato Beningo, aged 35, of Pittsburg, laborer; John Scott, laborer; Frank Beidleman, aged 45, a tailor; Frank Croller, laborer; R. Capero, laborer; John Pasy, laborer. Beidleman was passing when the explosion occurred and was killed by flying debris. Leans and Beningo died in an hospital. Croller's body was recovered from the excavation by searchers late this afternoon.

WARSAW'S DAILY TRACEDY.

Warsaw, Oct. 5—In an encounter soldiers killed two revolutionists who had attacked and killed a policeman. Terrorists to-day murdered a road overseer near the station at Maciecowice, on the Vistula railroad and then removed the rails from in front of an approaching mail train. A gendarme, however, flagged the train.

DISARMAMENT IN CUBA.

Havana, Oct. 5—While the disarmament of the rebels will not be completed until nearly two score of perfidently expected that the entire operation will be finished by Monday, with the exception of Puerto Principe province. The number of rifles surrendered is larger in proportion to the number of men disbanded, than the Government expected. A great majority of the rebel rifles are old and poor. In response to the criticism made by Americans that the Cuban flag was flying over the palace while that building is being occupied by an American Governor, Governor Taft today said: "I am here working for the Cuban republic; therefore the Cuban flag will fly as long as I am here in that capacity."

29 POLICE RECOVERED.

Bluefield, W. Va., Oct. 5 — Twenty-nine bodies have been recovered from the West Fork of the Pocahontas collieries company's mine at Pocahontas, Va., and it was estimated to-night that the number of dead will be 70. The rescuing party reached the scene of the explosion, but the immense amount of debris and wreckage has hampered the search for bodies. There is no evidence thus far of fire.

It is said to-night that it would be the work of ten days to clear the mine of wreckage and slate. It was learned from an official source to-night that the management give the figures as 27 already recovered and 20 missing and believed to be dead.

MAN KILLED IN WELL

Kemptville, Ont., Oct. 5.—A particularly sad accident occurred at South Mountain about four o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Joseph Dillabough, who lives near the village, was helping Mr. Wm. Barkley deepen his well. When the well was originally dug, a large stone had been left in the side of it and the men now tried to remove the stone. Failing to dislodge it they started to stone up the well again and for this purpose Mr. Barkley was down inside, Mr. Dillbough looking over the edge. Mr. Barkley said he was not doing it right, but to come out and he would do it. Mr. Dillabough had only been down a few minutes when a scream and a splash was heard and the man was found in the water dead. The large stone had at last loosened and fell down on the unfortunate man's head, splitting it open. Mr. Dillabough, who was about 60 years of age, leaves a wife and a family of seven small children.

TORONTO BETTING CASE.

Toronto, Oct. 5.—The stated case in reference to the Woodbine bookmakers was presented to the Court of Appeal this afternoon. J. Saunders, Arch McDonald, Jerry Jones, Alex. Mitchell and John Sullivan were charged with running a disorderly house on the Woodbine track. The stated case was forwarded by Col. Denison. Deputy Attorney General Cartwright appeared for the crown, and sought to show that the operations of the bookies came under the criminal code. J. M. Godfrey appeared for the defendants.

KINGSTON NEWS

Members of Fish and Game Protection Association Charged with Illegal Fishing.

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 5—A police constable to-day served summonses upon half a dozen leading citizens to appear before Justice of the Peace Hunter on Monday on a charge of illegal fishing. The offence it seems was committed in July last, catching more fish per pole than the law allows. Several are members of the Fish and Game Protective Association.

Chief of Police Gunyou left Deseronto after a long residence to take the position of chief of police of the mining town of Sudbury in New Ontario. Friends assembled in the town hall to bid him farewell and incidentally to present him with a weighty purse of gold.

Capt. H. W. Visgar, of the steamer Idler, which runs during the summer between Alexandria Bay and this port, dropped dead at Alexandria Bay yesterday. Deceased was about 45 years of age. He was a tall stout man of large frame and was considered one of the most powerful men in Alexandria Bay. Deceased is survived by a wife and children. He was a brother of Capt. W. Visgar, owner of the steamer Captain Visgar, which also comes into this port.

United States Consul Vansant has been granted fifty days leave of absence and starts on the 15th for his old home in New Jersey.

Dr. G. E. McIntosh, Macdonald's Corners, died Wednesday after two week's illness with acute typhoid. Deceased was 28 years of age and was only married a short time ago to Miss Zena Blair. Dr. McIntosh opened his office at Macdonald's Corners about a year ago.

WOMAN DIED FROM STRYCHNINE.

Guelph, Ont., Oct. 5.—Mrs. Drum, of Chicago, who was visiting relatives in Guelph township, is dead as a result of an overdose of strychnine. Whether it was taken accidentally or with suicidal intent will never be known, as the woman was alone in her room at the time. Mrs. Drum went to her room shortly after dinner hour on Thursday and was apparently engaged in some work. A little after two o'clock some of the members of the household heard a heavy fall in the room, and, opening the door, found the woman lying on the floor in an unconscious condition. The empty bottle which had contained the strychnine was standing on the table. Mrs. Drum was 33 years of age. Her husband is dead.

CANADA'S OPPORTUNITIES,

Winnipeg, Oct. 5.—Richard Grigg, the commissioner sent to the Dominion by the British Board of Trade, to investigate trade conditions and to enquire whether any steps could be taken to improve and increase the trade between the Mother Country and Canada, has arrived here after completing his tour of the west. "The great and potent fact regarding the western portion of the Dominion," he said, "is that there are in it at the present time more opportunities for a larger number of people than are to be found in any other country in the world. The resources of the country are beyond the power of words to describe and the people are inspired with an unquenchable optimism. We went through to Vancouver and Victoria and met the men of affairs in both cities. We went through the canneries of Vancouver and found the operators face to face with a serious shortage of men, a condition which prevails throughout all parts of the western provinces."

C. T. P AND C. P. R.

Toronto, Oct. 5—Chairman James Leitch, K.C., and the other members of the Railway and Municipal Board reached the city to-day from Port Arthur and Fort William, which places they visited in connection with the location of the Lake Superior branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific between Fort William and the junction with the main line near Pelican Lake. One cause of complaint on which evidence was heard at Fort William was that the Lake Superior branch paralleled the Canadian Pacific Railway for nearly seventy miles. The reason given by the G.T.R. officials for this paralleling was that no other feasible or practicable route could be found, several location engineers testifying that the valley of Kaministiquia river was the only pass through which the line could be successfully located. Maps of the location of the line and the freight and passenger stations in the town of Fort William not having been filled with the board the location has not been approved. At Port Arthur evidence was heard as to the requirements of the town in regard to freight and passenger accommodation. The members of the board made a personal inspection of the proposed route of the railway through Port Arthur and the site of the proposed terminals in that town. The board has reserved decision also on the application for approval of these proposed locations.

GOSSIP OF CAPITAL

Shelburne-Queen's Appeal---Policeman Charged with Robbery—British Visitors.

Ottawa, Oct. 5.—Constable Joseph Delorme, of the city police force, has been suspended pending investigation of a charge of robbing a prominent insurance agent's office on Sparks street, stealing a pair of opera glasses, $3 in money and other stuff. The revelation has created a mild sensation as police are usually regarded as being for the purpose of protecting property. Delorme was on duty at the time.

The Minister of Public Works was asked to-day if he had any statement to make in reference to the revelations of fraud in connection with the London by-election. Mr. Hyman replied that he had nothing to say at present, but intimated that he might have a statement to make later on.

The Hon. Henry Lyon, son of the Sixth Earl of Beauchamp, F. C. Smith, Conservative member of the Walton division of Liverpool, and Norman Chamberlain, nephew of Hon. Jos. Chamberlain, compose a distinguished party of the younger element of British tariff reformers who were in the city to-day. They registered at the Russell. The party first visited the West Indies and are now on a trip to Canada, getting a line on public sentiment respecting the economic question of preferential imperialism. They are sanguine as to the ultimate adoption of a protective polity in Great Britain.

In the Supreme Court this morning the argument proceeded in the appeal of Cowie vs. Fielding, the Shelburne-Queen's election case. The appeal is from a refusal of the trial judges to compel the Minister of Finance to testify as to money paid after the election of 1900. It was shown that in 1902, Mr. Farrell, speaker of the Legislative Assembly of Nova Scotia, and one of the minister's chief supporters in the elections of 1900 and 1904, brought him a number of bills for expenses in the former. Mr. Fielding at first refused to pay them but afterwards did so without inquiry as to their nature, and on being examined about such payments the court would not compel him to do so. The appellant argued that he was entitled to show that these payments were made with intent to secure the support and aid of Mr. Farrell and of the persons to whom the money was paid in the coming election of 1904. He also contended that corrupt practices, in the election of 1900 would disqualify the respondent in 1904. Lovitt appeared for the appellant. Drysdale, K.C., Attorney-General for Nova Scotia, and Lafleur, K.C., for the respondent. At 4 o'clock judgment was reserved and the court adjourned until Monday next.

A GRAIN BLOCKADE.

Fort William, Ont., Oct. 5.—There is congestion of loaded wheat cars on the C. P. R. between Winnipeg and the head of the lakes, which amounts to little less than a grain blockade. Only about 150 cars per day are now arriving from the West, as compared with nearly double this number arriving a year ago. It is said that nearly every siding on the division contains loaded cars, which cannot be brought through to their destination. This condition is not the result of the car shortage, but seems to be due to a certain extent to double tracking. Notwithstanding that there is more wheat in the west than ever before, there is less in Fort William than for several years past.

INJURED ARE DOING WELL.

Troy, N.Y., Oct. 5—All of the score of the injured on the Boston and Maine road in this city Thursday afternoon are doing well and will recover with the possible exception of Geo. P. Stevens, of Winchester, Mass., who is in a serious condition at the Leonard hospital here. Mr. Stevens does not know that his wife, who was killed in the train crash, is dead and he keeps calling for her. Thomas Holleran, the engineer of the troop train which crashed into train No. 5 and caused the accident, was arraigned to-day. Holleran was charged with manslaughter in the second degree. He pleaded not guilty. The case was adjourned to October 19th, and Holleran was admitted to bail in the sum of $2,000. Holleran just after the accident tried to commit suicide.

COUNTY OF QUEBEC.

Meetings favorable to the election of Mr. Geo. E. Amyot, are being held nightly in the different parishes of the county, and Mr. Amyot is meeting with most encouraging success. On Thursday evening Messrs. Amyot, L. A. Taschereau and J. Patry addressed a large meeting at St. Joseph in the parish of Beauport, while Messrs. C. Devlin and Ald. Galipeault addressed the electors of Cahrlesbourg. At Montmorency Falls another successful meeting was held in favor of Mr. Amyot and was addressed by Messrs. Trancoeur, P. French and Ledieu.

Edmonton, Alta., Oct. 5.—Many pack trains have gone northward, stimulated by the gold excitement in the remote Peace River. A number of Pacific coast forty-niners have outfitted here and the excitement is increasing. The Standard Oil Company has sent several men into the country this year to report on the condition of the oil and coal deposits.

HOTEL ACCOMMODATION.

The insufficiency of hotel and boarding accommodation in this city made itself painfully apparent this year, and there is very little reason to doubt that it was the cause of serious pecuniary loss by preventing the visit of many tourists who would otherwise have come here and shortening the stay of many of the actual arrivals. The tourist season was indeed an exceptional one, and the usual numbers were swollen partly by the attraction of the French and British war vessels making a simultaneous visit, with a German cruiser thrown in, and partly by the inauguration of the Canadian Pacific's trans-Atlantic line of magnificent steamers, but there is little reason to believe that the tourist stream will be diminished in volume next year, but rather increased, while on the occasion of the celebration of the tri-centennial of Quebec in the following year, honored as there is much reason to hope that it will be by the presence of His Majesty the King, and the gracious Queen Alexandra, we may expect to be overwhelmed by a gathering beside which all previous experiences will be insignificant. It is for the citizens of Quebec to say whether they will show themselves prudent, and prepare betimes to meet the demands which are sure to be made on Quebec's hospitality, or whether they will let the golden opportunity pass by neglected, and be satisfied to have their visitors perforce make a mere transient stay of a day or a couple of days.

For cities that wish to attract and retain as long as possible the human butterflies of summer ample and luxurious hotel accommodation is a prime necessity. This axiom is recognized elsewhere, at Ottawa, at Kingston, at Toronto, and should be recognized here. At Ottawa, Lt.-Col. H. A. Bate, speaking at a luncheon given by the directors of the Ottawa Exhibition a short time ago, referred to the importance of better hotel accommodation in the following terms: "The experience of all other places has been that the better the hotel accommodation the greater the volume of business. It is in my judgment a mistake to wait for the railways to build a new hotel; let private capitalists go ahead at once—they cannot start too soon—and put up a hostelry second to none on the continent. It would pay from the start, and boom the tourist business, and the city would greatly benefit."

The Kingston News, taking the words of Lt.-Col. Bate as a text, endorses the views expressed, and says that these words apply equally to Kingston. "This city need not expect to advance in the absence of such accommodation as the better class of tourists demand. In the absence of it we may secure railways in direct contact with the city, and advertise the natural advantages of the city to earth's remotest bounds, but the growth in population and wealth will be disappointing. The need hence for a commodious and up-to-date hostelry is so palpable that those interested in the city's future should be able to find ways and means of securing it. The effort of the Board of Trade seems to have resulted in nothing tangible, but because of this the citizens should not be discouraged to abandon the project."

It will be noted that both in Ottawa and in Kingston the same sentiment is expressed in almost identical terms, not only as to the importance to the municipal welfare of commodious and first-class hotel accommodation, but also as to the source from which the need of it should be supplied, namely private, and not public enterprise, domestic, and not outside capital. "It is in my judgment a mistake to wait for the railways to build a new hotel—let private capitalists go ahead at once," says Lt.-Col. Bates in Ottawa; "the effort of the Board of Trade seems to have resulted in nothing tangible, but because of this the citizens should not be discouraged to abandon the project," says the News in Kingston; whatever is done must be through the enterprize of public spirited citizens.

And what is true and reasonable in Ottawa and Kingston is ten times more true and reasonable when applied to Quebec. Quebec is the tourist city par excellence of the Dominion; tradition and history, nature and art, have combined to render her more attractive to outside imagination than any other Canadian city, and the money spent by visitors during the summer months forms no mean factor in her prosperity. The theatres may feel a legitimate pride when the popularity of a piece compels them to turn away people from their doors, but with the city it is otherwise, and it should be ashamed to have it to say that it cannot accommodate all its visitors.

CHALMER'S CHURCH.

Rev. E. McGougan, of Montreal, will to-morrow preach at both services in Chalmer's Presbyterian Church.

ARE THE CROP STATISTICS RELIABLE?

There has been some complaint in the west concerning the census taken of the new provinces, which it is alleged is inaccurate and misleading, and now we find a similar complaint in Alberta concerning the official crop reports. The Red Deer News says:

"Not only an explanation but immediate and satisfactory reparation is due from Mr. Rutherford's Government to the winter wheat districts of the south for a grossly unfair report recently sent out under the guise of an official bulletin.

These reports were distributed broad cast and have been widely quoted in the newspapers. They give the estimated yield of winter wheat in the Lethbridge, Stirling and Raymond districts at less than ten bushels to the acre, and the total yield at 48,000 bushels.

"Talk about 'knocking' and libelling the country! Alberta's worst enemy could not have administered a worse 'knock,' and if the Minister of Agriculture had been hired by the American authorities to frighten immigration from Southern Alberta he could not have devised more effective literature than this infamous 'Crop Bulletin No. 3,' which bears on its title page the inscription, 'Published by direction of Hon. W. T. Finley, Minister of Agriculture.' In the introduction of the alleged crop statistics the following statement is made: 'This bulletin may be accepted as a fair estimate of the crops of 1906.'

"The Herald is at a loss for a fitting comment on the above, but one thing is certain, and that is that the country may well pray to be delivered from ministers of agriculture of the calibre of Mr. Finlay.

"Another thing certain is that the people of the whole south, to whom the winter wheat industry is of such vital importance, will insist on the Provincial Government immediately retracting the libel which has been circulated by one of its departments, and furthermore, seeing that justice is done to the south by the actual facts being published officially.

"Anybody who knows anything of crop conditions around Lethbridge and Raymond district knows that the average yield given by Mr. Finlay's department is less than half what the actual yield is. And even Mr. Finlay himself knows—it, indeed, he knows Lethbridge produced this year more winter wheat than his beautiful department credits to the whole district.

"This issuing of unreliable Government returns is becoming rotten. The census was bad enough in all conscience, but this is worse. Not only is the credit of the country at stake but the credit of Mr. Rutherford's Government also, and if the rest of the members of the cabinet have any regard for the fitness of things they will promptly sit on Mr. Finlay and make him repair his costly blunder."

PRESS OPINIONS.

MORAL COWARDICE AND SOCIAL VICE. — County Police Magistrate Hunt, of Elgin, in his statement in connection with the Orwell Hotel case at Aylmer, reported in the Globe yesterday, made a most damning charge against the citizens and the law officers in the community in which he lives. After convicting the hotelkeeper, on his own evidence, of "keeping a disorderly house," the Magistrate addressed the assembled ratepayers, charging that "unlicensed houses of prostitution" are established where once there were "licensed hotels," and insisting "that these public houses, licensed and unlicensed, should be run in a moral way." He declared that local public opinion on this question is either weak or ill-directed; that people are either indifferent or afraid; that even where they are personally interested in the closing of these houses of social vice they will rather suffer than run the risk of "creating bad feelings," and that pious appeals are made to Almighty God to do what the Magistrate would be willing to do if any person would lay an information and secure the necessary evidence.

Two points raised by Magistrate Hunt's indictment demand public emphasis. One is the fact of moral cowardice on the part of citizens in the face of known crime. To save his own son from certain ruin was not inducement sufficient to nerve a man to lay an information against a notorious resort which he knew from personal observation to be conducted for immoral purposes. He was afraid of "creating bad feelings." There you are at the very core of the situation. The institutions of social sin are allowed to flourish in a decent community, they become emboldened because of the supineness of local public opinion, presently they involve so many families as to warrant their defiance of the law, and in that whole community there is not one man of strength and courage and civic responsibility to stand for law and decency. The magistrate was right in his estimate of the impiousness of asking the mighty to condone and to co-operate with such moral cowardice. One sane and strong man could break up the most firmly entrenched house of social vice in the community, or the public and the Government would be made to know the reason why.

The other point of public importance is the very direct and very damaging indictment suggested by the Magistrate against the local law officers of the Crown. If licensed houses in various parts of Elgin are places of immorality, what about the direct responsibility of the license inspectors? Why are not hotelkeepers other than the one at Orwell convicted and their licenses withdrawn? And if unlicensed houses are so notoriously immoral that the Magistrate himself declares having seen "from ten to thirty rigs tied up in front of them," each one brought there for immoral purposes, then in the name of respect for law, to say nothing of moral purity, is there no law officer in the country can be held to account for his criminal neglect of duty?—Toronto Globe.

IMPROVE OUR PORTS.—Even if there were no obstacles encountered at the lake ports on our through routes, the movement of all the grain along purely Canadian lines of transportation would be rendered difficult, if not impossible, by the lack of shipping facilities at the ocean ports of the St. Lawrence. Quebec, the port at which the largest vessels, notably the C.P.R. Company's Atlantic Empresses, must stop, is very deficient in outfit. This was pointed out the other day by a visitor, Mr. F. B. Girdlestone, manager of the docks at Bristol, Eng. He expressed the opinion that one reason why so large a volume of Canada's export trade to Great Britain goes through United States outlets, such as Portland, Boston and New York, is the backward state of the shipping accommodations at our own ports. He urges that the Government proceed at once to put Quebec in readiness for the handling of the enormous traffic that will be originated in the interior of this country. Millions, he says, will have to be expended on new docks if vessels of the largest class are to be brought to the port.

It is undeniable that the great gateways of this country's traffic have received too small a portion of the money lavishly expended by the present Government. While the revenue is mounting up at the expense of our farmers as well as other consumers, the farmers' transportation needs are left neglected. Every year the standard for harbor accommodation is being raised by the increasing dimensions and capacity of ocean ships. The Cunard Steamship Company is building two new vessels that will be too large to enter New York harbor in its present state. These vessels, the Lusitania and the Mauretania, will be afloat in two years, and the great improvements in progress in New York harbor cannot be completed in less than four. If Quebec's harbor were in the perfect state it could easily be put in, the St. Lawrence would soon become the great artery of our export trade it ought to be.—Mail and Empire.

NEW ASSISTANT.

Owing to the resignation of Miss Hodgins, who has been assistant lady superintendent of the Jeffery Hale's Hospital for some time past, she will be succeeded by Miss Shaw. The latter lady has arrived in the city and will enter on her duties next week.

Your Liver

You cannot possibly enjoy good health when the liver is inactive and the bowels constipated. You must keep the liver active. You must have daily action of the bowels. Ask your doctor if this is not true. Ask him at the same time if he knows a better laxative than Ayer's Pills. All vegetable, sugar-coated. Dose, only one pill, at bedtime.

We have no secrets! We publish the formulas of all our medicines. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Great Clearing Sale of Gents' Furnishings
At a Sacrifice.

The Entire Stock to Be Sold Daily Until Disposed at of Prices Below Original Cost.

Owing to re-organization of the former firm of W. Vincent, Merchant Tailor and Dealer in Gents' Furnishings, the latter branch of the business will be dispensed with in order to make room for a large consignment of Cloths, Tweeds, etc., in connection with the Tailoring Department of the future.

This entails upon us the obligation of selling out our entire stock of Gents' Furnishings at a sacrifice, and prices below the original cost. The sale will be continued daily until all is disposed of.

RECORD YEAR FOR IMMIGRANTS.

The present season has been the biggest in the history of the port of Quebec for the landing of immigrants, and not only that but never before have the incomers consisted so largely of people from the British Isles. Since navigation opened, 96,000 immigrants have landed at the Ancient Capital, of whom no less than 85 per cent. were already British subjects who spoke English and understood British institutions. It is expected that before the season closes over 100,000 immigrants will have been landed on our wharves.

STRUCK ON A MUD BANK.

New York, Oct. 5.—The big new steamer Bermudian, of the Quebec Steamship Company, running between New York and Bermuda, ran aground on the mud flats off South Brooklyn while coming up the harbor to-day. She had 160 passengers on board. Tugs failed to pull her off, as the ship had grounded when the tide was high.

A later despatch says she was floated off at high water last night.

PUT IN FOR REPAIRS.

London, Oct. 5.—Bark Romance, Captain Andersen, from Sligo, for Gaspe, has put into Fredrikstad, Norway, with cutwater damaged and leaking. Will make repairs before proceeding.

GAVE UP THE JOB.

Liverpool, N.S., Oct. 5.—The Merritt wrecking steamer, which was sent to the wrecked steamer Elina, ashore near here, has abandoned her work and returned to New York. The Elina will probably be a total loss.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Yesterday morning Watchman Lechasseur, of shed No. 20, Louise Embankment, discovered a man lying asleep at the edge of the stone wall on the north side of the Louise Basin. Lechasseur had to approach him very cautiously, for had he awakened suddenly he would have certainly rolled into the basin and most probably have been drowned. When the watchman got close enough to the sleeping man he seized his clothing and dragged him back from his dangerous position. With some difficulty, the individual, who is a stoker on an ocean steamer, and was somewhat under the influence of drink, was awakened from his stupor, and subsequently made his way to his ship. It was fortunate he was discovered by Lechasseur, as he would, no doubt, have rolled into the river.

MAKES NEW BLOOD

That is How Dr. Williams Pink Pills Cure the Common Ailments of Life.

Making new blood. That is just what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are always doing — actually making new blood. This new blood strengthens every organ in the body, and strikes straight at the root of anaemia, and the common ailments of life which have their origin in poor, weak, watery blood. Mrs. A. H. Seeley, of Stirling, Ont., tells what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for her fourteen year old sister, Miss Annie Sager, after other treatment had failed. She says: "For some years Annie had not been well. She would take spells of dizziness and headaches that would last for several days, and her whole body would become dry and hot as though she was burning up with fever. Her lips would swell until near the bursting point, and then when the fever would leave her the outer skin of the lips would peel off. She doctored with two different doctors, but they did not succeed in curing her, and the trouble seemed gradually to be growing worse. Then we began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and under this treatment she has recovered her health. The headaches and dizziness have gone; her color is improved; her appetite better, and she has had no further attacks of the fever which baffled the doctors. We are greatly pleased with what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for her, and recommend them to other sufferers."
It was the rich blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually made which cured Miss Sager. That is why these pills cure common ailments like anaemia and debility, headaches, and backaches, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance and the special ailments that prey on the health and happiness of girls and women of all ages. Get the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, with the full name on the wrapper around each box. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WHAT

Fruit-a-tives

OR "FRUIT LIVER TABLETS"

ARE

Fruit-a-tives are the marvels of modern medicine. They have accomplished more actual cures—done more good to more people—than any other medicine ever introduced in Canada for the time they have been on sale.

Fruit-a-tives are fruit juices. They are nature's cure for

—CONSTIPATION
—BILIOUSNESS
—BAD STOMACH
—HEADACHES
—IMPURE BLOOD
—SKIN DISEASES
—KIDNEY TROUBLE
—RHEUMATISM
—IRRITATED HEART

Fruit-a-tives are the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes. These juices are concentrated—and by a secret process, the juices are combined in a peculiar manner. This new combination is much more active medicinally than fresh juices—yet so perfect is the union that Fruit-a-tives act on the system as if they were in truth a natural fruit, medicinally stronger than any other known fruit.

To this combination of fruit juices, tonics and internal antiseptics are added, and the whole made into tablets.

These are Fruit-a-tives—sold everywhere for 50c a box or 6 boxes for $2.50.

FOR THE FEMININE FANCY

ROYAL HUSBANDS

Princesses who Marry Princes and Later Become Queens-Consort.

The daughters of English sovereigns have not always, or even often, married kings or princes who later became monarchs. The delicate satire of Jane Austen that "there are not so many men of large fortune in the world as there are pretty women to deserve them," may be paraphrased into "there are not so many kings in Europe as there are amiable princesses to deserve them." In England the following examples occur:—Maud, the proud heiress of Henry I., was one of the few English princesses who have married a German Emperor, and the grandeur of this match made her doubly reluctant when a widow to contract a second one with Geoffrey Plantagenet. She could not forsee that his lineal descendant in the centuries to come would be ruling one-fifth of the world, while the childless Emperor would be remembered only in the dustiest archives of history. Two daughters of Henry II. were mated with kings, and one of them afterwards married a count of Toulouse and fell on very troublous times. She came in her distress to seek aid for her husband from her crusading brother Richard Coeur de Lion, and found him cold in death. In the shock and despair she fell ill and was buried by his side. Isabella, a daughter of King John, was married with great pomp to Frederick II. of Germany, and three Plantagenet princesses became in turn queens-consort of Scotland.

TRAGIC DISTINCTION.

It is curious, however, that the daughters of Edward I. and Edward III. never attained to regal rank, great and victorious as their fathers were, while a child of Henry IV., the noble-minded Philippa, was chosen to wear the crown matrimonial of Denmark. Elizabeth of York, the beautiful heiress of the White Rose and eldest daughter of King Edward IV., was notoriously jilted by a dauphin of France, but she was crowned Queen of England in later days as the consort of Henry VII. Their daughters were beyond question the most remarkable instance of English Princesses who have married sovereigns of another country, one by the far-reaching effects of her union, and the other by the singularity of the alliance, Margaret, the elder girl, carried as a wedding gift to James IV. of Scotland the heritage of England to his descendants and the future Empire of the seas; and Mary, the younger, was only English Princess since the Conquest selected Queen-consort of France. These Tudor sisters have for history another and tragic distinction, for Margaret was the grandmother of Mary, Queen of Scots, and Lady Jane Grey was descended from Mary.

GRACE OF NAPOLEON.

The only daughter of George I. married a King of Prussia, and was mother of Frederick the Great, but she cannot be called an English Princess, because her marriage took place long before her father succeeded Queen Anne, and she never set foot in England.

Louisa, a younger child of George II. fair, amiable and beloved, died early as a Queen-consort of Denmark.

The kind and delicate-minded Charlotte Augusta Matilda, eldest daughter of George III., gave her hand to a consort of ducal rank only, but became latter by "the grace of Napoleon Bonaparte," the first Queen of Wurtemburg, and always felt grateful to that extraordinary man for giving her husband a regal title.

MEETING OF BROOK.

Victoria Adelaide Mary Louisa, the eldest daughter of Victoria the Beloved, was given in the April time of youth, scarcely beyond the "meeting of brook and river," to the second heir of the kingdom of Prussia, and she gravitated gradually to the Imperial Crown of the restored Empire of Germany.

The recollection of her splendid abilities, her noble aspirations, her many sorrows, and the pathos of her death is fresh in the knowledge of all.

The last example of the daughter of an English Sovereign married to the King of a foreign country is, of course, the youngest child of King Edward VII.

Who could predict when the Princess Maud of Wales made a love match with her cousin, Prince Charles of Denmark, that in 1906 they would be crowned King and Queen of Norway—that "gray old Norway" with its magnificent scenery and its brave Norse population.

Avoid the Knife For Itching Piles.

It is customary for physicians to recommend a surgical operation as the only cure for piles, and on the strength of such advice many a person has undergone the suffering, the expense, and the enormous risk of such an operation only to be disappointed by a return of the old trouble.

A safer, cheaper, and even a more certain cure is found in Dr. Chase's Ointment. And, while this is a strong statement, it is fully corroborated by the positive evidence of well-known people, who have been cured by this treatment, even after surgical operations had failed.

A strong point about Dr. Chase's Ointment is the promptness with which it brings relief from the torturing, itching, stinging sensations which make this disease almost unbearable. Complete cure is often brought about by one or two boxes of this ointment even in chronic cases of fifteen or twenty years' standing.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is the only positive and guaranteed cure for every form of piles, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto.

FAGUY, LEPINAY & FRERE.

About THE House

Mint chopped fine and stirred into a glassful of currant jelly is excellent with spring lamb. Mint chopped fine is also good in the French dressing poured over tomatoes.

BRAISED LAMBS' TONGUES.

When a number of lambs' tongues can be procured they can be made into a good and substantial dish. Wash them, cover with boiling water, add a half teaspoonful of salt and simmer for two hours. Let stand until cool enough to handle, then skin and trim away the roots of the tongues. Make a sauce with two tablespoonsfuls of butter, two of flour, one cupful of the pot liquor, and one cupful of strained tomato. Add a bay leaf, four cloves, a blade of mace, two sprigs of parsley, half of an onion, and salt and pepper to taste. Put the tongues in a braising pan or any heavy baking dish, pour the sauce over them, cover closely and cook in a very moderate oven for two hours longer. Serve with the sauce strained round them.

VEGETABLE CUTLESS.

Delightful vegetable cutlets are made in this way. Mash six large hot boiled potatoes, adding butter, seasoning, and enough hot milk to slightly moisten. Chop fine one onion and fry golden brown in a tablespoonful of butter. Boil and chop fine new carrots and white turnips to make one heaping cupful of each, add these and the onion to the potato, season very highly with salt and pepper, add a tablespoonful of chopped parsley and mold into small cutlets. Dip each in slightly beaten egg, roll in fine bread crumbs, and fry golden brown in deep, smoking hot fat.

STUFFED EGG PLANT.

To stuff wipe large egg plant and boil in salted water for fifteen minutes, then drain and cool. Cut each in half lengthwise and scoop out the centres, leaving the sides almost an inch thick. Chop the centres fine, mix with an equal quantity of crumbled bread soaked for three minutes in a little milk then pressed quite dry, one onion chopped and lightly fried in a little dripping and a high seasoning. The addition of a small amount of chopped cooked ham adds to the tastiness. Heap the shells with the mixture, cover with buttered crumbs, and brown in a hot oven.

BROWN BUTTERED EGGS.

Put two tablespoonsful of butter in a small saucepan and cook slowly until it is dark brown; then drop in quickly two tablespoonsfuls of tarragon vinegar, cook for a moment and take from the fire. Divide between four shirred egg cups and add to each a quarter of a teaspoonful of chopped parsley; break a raw egg carefully in each, place in a hot oven, and bake until the whites are set. A variation on this recipe is to poach the eggs separately, trim the whites with a cutter, and slip them into the cups in which the sauce has been kept hot.

PEACH CHUTNEY.

Pare and halve sufficient peaches to weigh, when ready, three pounds. Put them in a large agate saucepan, add one pint of vinegar, and stew gently until tender. Pound together in a mortar four ounces of white onions, two ounces of garlic, and five ounces of fresh ginger root; add these to the peaches with six ounces each of sugar, seeded raisins, and white mustard seeds. Add two ounces of dried chillies and one cupful of vinegar. Simmer for ten minutes longer, then bottle.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING.

Grate a quarter of a pound of plain chocolate, and mix it with a quarter of a pint of milk, and cook gently till smooth. Beat together a quarter of a pound of caster sugar and three ounces of butter till of the consistency of whipped cream; then add beaten yolks of two eggs and six ounces of bread crumbs. Also mix the milk and chocolate and a few drops of vanilla Beat up whites of eggs with a tiny pinch of salt, place all in greased basins, cover with greased paper, and stand for one hour. Serve with sweet sauce.

FISH SALAD.

Ingredients required:—Cold cooked fish, salad of lettuce and tomato, two yolks of eggs, two tablespoonfuls of salad oil, one tablespoonful of vinegar, pepper and salt, and sugar. Take the fish, skin it, and remove the bones, and cut in neat slices. Arrange a nice salad on a dish, with slices of fish on the top. Beat the yolks of two eggs in a basin with a wooden spoon, and gradually add the vinegar; stir one way only, as the oil is slowly added. Season with salt, pepper, and sugar. Coat each piece of fish with this sauce just before sending it to table, and garnish the dish with slices of tomato and hard-boiled eggs.

Elbow sleeves still reign, yet there are more of the long-sleeve models to be noticed than last spring. For the house, sleeves will certainly be short, but lace undersleeves will be worn in many instances. For street suits, the longer sleeves, with detachable cuffs, so that they may be worn with the long gloves, will for the present be the most popular. The newer sleeves are becoming; of medium size, they are so put into the armhole as to make the breadth of the shoulders seem greater, while the longer shoulder seam is still considered smart. Slashed and trimmed, the new sleeve is quite an intricate piece of work, but it must be admitted that it is a becoming style.

Fortunately, the fashion of wearing colored gloves is coming into favor, and the tan and gray ones are in great demand, so that it is to be hoped that the day of wearing long white gloves on all occasions will soon pass. The Biarritz and mousquetaire styles in tan and black are now considered far smarter than the white to wear with street gowns.—From the Special Autumn Fashion Number of Harper's Bazar.

KISSING IN PUBLIC

So Long as the Lady is Willing the Policeman Will Make No Objection.

If you are on Young street or Queen street or any other thickly occupied street and feel like kissing your best girl—or anyone else's for that matter, providing she does not object—don't hesitate, says The Toronto Star. Just kiss her, and give her a little squeeze, too, if your inclination is that way. The police will not object unless you get unreasonable and block up the street during the osculation and subsequent embracing. Do it quickly and not too often, and the chaps in the city's blue will not interfere.

I have Deputy Chief Stark's word for it.

"Spooning on the streets and in the parks!" he exclaimed. "Why there isn't any law against it that I ever discovered, and the policemen have not been given any special orders to stop it. If young people feel like kissing and hugging on the street I guess it is their own business, not ours. We do not come into the proposition at all unless the young woman makes objection to the operation, or they get so loving that they attract a crowd, or obstruct the street by halting in the middle of the pavement while they do a little billing and cooing."

"Suppose they did attract a crowd or cause a stoppage in traffic by stopping in the street to kiss and hug, what would you charge them with?"

"Disorderly conduct," was the reply. "It would come under that head. All matters which cause street obstruction come under that title."

"But who would you arrest? If a crowd chooses to gather because a man is doing something that he has a right to do, why should he be made to suffer?"

"Oh, well, the law is quite clear on that point," was the answer. "That which causes the obstruction must stand the responsibility. In Montreal a year ago a shopkeeper was fined because the marriage of a couple in his store window attracted a crowd which interfered with street traffic."

"Then a newspaper which bulletins election returns is liable to prosecution?"

"Yes," said the deputy, "but we never prosecute. Everybody is interested in election results, and no one raises a protest at the obstruction; therefore we do not bother."

Deputy Chief Stark said that in the parks of the city no one bothered with the billing and cooing as long as propriety was not violated. He said that the Allan Gardens were the recognized refuge of the love-sick in Toronto, though all the parks got their share.

"It is amusing over in the Gardens to watch the lads and lassies toting the benches over into the shade," he remarked.

"What would you do if a young man and a girl walked down Yonge street hugging and kissing each other?" I asked Policeman Brown, who was on duty at King and Yonge streets. Now Brown is a good-looking young fellow. He smiled retrospectively before replying.

"I wouldn't do anything," he replied. "Why should I? It's their own business. I'd let them hug all they wanted to unless they attracted a crowd, when I would probably tell them to quit, making a public exhibition of themselves."

"Have you any instructions on the matter?"

"None. I guess that is a matter left to a man's discretion," was the answer. "If they got too broad I suppose I would have to break up this love lunch."

Just then Policeman Roberts came up to relieve Brown, and the question was put to him.

"They could do it to their hearts' content for all of me," was his answer. "Unless they were drunk and became noisy over it and attracted a jeering crowd I would not worry. I have seen a few couples go down the street hugging each other. I often see newly-married couples wandering around hand-in-hand, he looking into her eyes and she into his'n."

Over in Buffalo it is a common thing to see young people hugging and kissing in the street squares near the heart of the city. No one pays any attention there. In Toronto such demonstrations of affection in public are comparatively rare. One night I saw a young woman pucker up her mouth in tantalizing fashion at her escort, who swung on a strap above her. He took the plunge without hesitation, and the smack woke the passengers up. But for the young woman's furious blushing the passengers would not have known who was the recipient of such a vigorous buss.

The Cause of Sore Feet

Examine them carefully and you'll probably find corns. Whether hard, soft, or bleeding, apply Putnam's Corn Extractor. It's painless, it's rure, and above all quick to act. Insist on only "Putnam's."

Next time you burn any milk take the saucepan off the fire, and stand it at once in a basin of cold water. Put a pinch of salt in the saucepan, give the milk a stir, and you will find that the burnt taste has almost, if not entirely, disappeared.

SOME WONDERFUL QUEER THINGS IN NATURE.

A baby was born in Newark, N.J., that had its heart attached to the outside of the body and performs its functions in full view. The heart was just below the chest and over the upper ribs. It was beating regularly and to all appearances the baby was in normal health.

The physician decided that an operation was necessary and the child was taken to the hospital.

Several successful attempts have been made to place the organ in its proper position, but little hope is entertained by the doctors that the child will live. They say the phenomenon is without parallel in the annals of medical history and it has aroused intense interest among physicians.

The London Lancet notices the death of a woman from a scratch on the nose, received while smelling a primula obconica, a variety of primrose originally brought from Central China The Lancet says it is not the first case of the kind.

Every submarine vessel in the British navy is supplied with a cargo of white mice. These tiny rodents are rated on the ship's books like ordinary seamen and the government allows them 20 cents a week for food. Their office on board a submarine is to give warning of the escape of gas. The very slightest leakage of gasoline fumes will make them uncomfortable and they will begin to squeak. As it is absolutely necessary that there should be no escape of the deadly gas the most delicate test of its presence has been employed. Numberless experiments have proved that these mice furnish the most reliable indication of impending danger.

Americans who have visited Paris will recall a gaunt, tall man with a red beard who on fete days stood before the cafe terraces and swallowed "any old thing" for the amusement of people who had "sous" to give away. His name was Bruneau and he has done with swallowing.

He began in this way. Accidentally he swallowed a cork one day and found that his stomach immediately rejected it. He tried a few nails and discovered he could bring them up at will. That decided him to change his profession from acrobat to "stomach wonder." Sometimes he failed to recover the swallowed object, but since he suffered no unpleasant results he did not bother, conceiving an enormous admiration for his powers. His specialty became nails and pebbles, some of the latter "veritable cobblestones," as his advertisement read. On the day of Mi-careme he outdid himself by swallowing a spike, or by trying to do so, but it stuck in his oesophagus and he had to go, reluctantly, to the hospital. There they told him he must be operated on at once. He declared he only needed an emetic and repaired to another house of mercy, where they took hold of him and operated on his stomach by force. In it they found seven nails more than two inches long, fourteen "veritable cobblestones" and a number of empty spools, the whole weighing nearly two pounds. The wound in the oesophagus was easily repaired and the intestines had not been perfprated. Bruneau is as well to-day as ever.

The first balloon was made by Jacques Eitenne Montgolfier, of Annonay, France, in 1783, and the French have maintained the leadership in balloon flying.

During the remarkable thunder storms in the state of Queensland an extraordinary phenomenon was witnessed at a place called Cooper's Plains near Brisbane. In the midst of the rain there suddenly fell from the skies a large number of young fish. The fish fell at first in twos and threes, but subsequently came in dozens, until a large area of ground was strewn with live fish measuring from one and a half inches to three inches.

Experts in the district described the fish as of a fresh water variety never before seen near Brisbane. The theory accounting for the phenomenon most generally accepted is that the storm generated a waterspout in one of the rivers and that the fish were sucked up by it and carried by the wind some long distance before being dropped.

POINTER FROM THE TRANSVAAL.

Washington Star.

In South Africa candles are used for lighting purposes in the homes, and when a young Boer maiden has gentlemen visitors, the mother sticks a pin in the candle, and when it has burned to the pin the callers understand that it is time for their departure.

Mrs. Early, a society matron of Washington, recently made a visit to the Transvaal, and was so impressed with the custom of the Boers that she determined to introduce it into her own home. Consequently the electric lights were removed and candles substituted in the drawing-room.

Mr. Staylate, a frequent though not always welcome caller, was one of the first visitors to call after the inauguration of the new custom. He witnessed the placing of the pin in the candle by Mrs. Early, and after she had gone ventured to inquire:

"Why, Miss Early, does your mother stick a pin in the candle?"

"Oh," responded the young woman with an air of apparent innocence, "mother learned that in South Africa as a way of sending home the boers."

FREDERICK TEMPLE'S CHILDHOOD.

His Mother Was His Teacher Before He Went to School.

Frederick Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury, was born in the Ionian Islands. Although he was taken to England at nine years of age, his recollection of his early years was vivid, and the influences on him of his home education and surroundings were permanent. In his "Memkirs" his sister tells of his early education.

My mother was considered a beautiful woman, with gentle manners, knowing no language but her own, not clever in the sense of brilliant at all; but thoughtful, with excellent judgment, great sense of personal dignity, governing her family without any effort, without severity. Her word was an unquestioned law.

She was the only teacher that my brothers and I had previous to the time when they went to school. She taught us to read and write; she taught arithmetic, with very little knowledge of arithmetic herself, by steady repetition. She had a key to the sums in the arithmetic which gave the answers. If a sum was brought to her and the answer was wrong, she drew her pencil through it and made no further remark. It had to be done again till it was done right. The sum to-day was repeated to-morrow, and so on, until perfect accuracy was obtained.

When it was time for my brothers to begin Latin, the same system was adopted. She could not pronounce it, but Frederick had to learn a few lines each day, always repeating the old until seven or ten pages had been learned. Then the first four or five pages would be left and a further advance made.

This went on day by day and year by year until he was twelve years old; and he went to school knowing his grammar perfectly, as no other boy knew it.

Euclid was the same. She did not understand a word. He began to understand as he advanced, and could substitute one expression for another, or change the order of letters. She interposed and corrected him. He would reply, impatiently, "It is all the same." "Say it," she ordered, "precisely as it is here!" touching the book.

The boys were under an absolute rule of courtesy. They were taught that courtesy was ever to be maintained in the family. We were not at all rich, and lived very plainly. Butter was expensive and we lived on dry bread, except that now and then we were allowed some jam, or, a rarer treat still, some "dripping." The boys were taught to eat whatever was given them.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL

Service at Rimouski Should Be Considered by Board of Trade.

The Quebec Board of Trade at its next general meeting should take into consideration a better and quicker mail service at Rimouski in connection with the passengers steamships that handle the European mails.

The attention of the Government should be called to the inadequacy of the present conditions that involve vexatious delays on account of the small and obsolete side-wheel boat called the Rhoda, on the service.

Steamship officials, with the interest of their respective lines and good of the public service in mind, have complained repeatedly of the vexatious delays and other obstacles occasioned by the inefficiency of the Rhoda to meet the requirements, and look forward to the present Postmaster-General to secure a much-needed relief.

They request that a new, up-to-date screw boat replace the Rhoda, and say that this is the only way to improve the service.

Captain Dorion, master of the tender in use, cannot be held responsible. He is an intelligent, capable navigator, and does his very best under the adverse circumstances he has to contend with. But it is impossible to improve the existing state of affairs unless a new modern boat was built or engaged to replace the present tender. The Rhoda is not a new boat by any means. River men remember her as a tow boat in the St. Lawrence trade over twenty years ago, and besides her slow movements in the water, she is altogether unequal to the duty she is called upon to perform in these days of mammoth passenger boats.

When the Empress of Ireland arrived at Rimouski on her last trip to this port, she was delayed considerably longer than necessary at Rimouski on account of the tender, and arrived at her detination at 3.15 a.m. the 28th ult, three and a half hours ahead of the mail that came up from Rimouski by train at 6.45 a.m.

Besides, the Rhoda is unable to go alongside the Empresses amidships on account of her smallness and their height out of the water, and want of hatchways in these parts of the C.P.R. big vessels to take in or pass out the mail bags, she is in consequence obliged to go alongside at the bow or stern, and as these parts of the ship have an inward curve that the tender goes underneath, and thereby exposes her paddle-boxes to be stove in by the motion of the high sea that invariably prevails in the Lower St. Lawrence and Rimouski all the season round.

This has already happened and is likely to be repeated any time the tender goes to do mail service alongside the Empresses. There is only one way to remedy the situation which is complained of as an annoyance by the steamship companies, and at the same time improve the public service in regard to the European mails. This is the acquirement of a new, larger and more modern screw boat for the service, and the Quebec Board of Trade should not fail to adopt a resolution at their next general meeting, calling the attention of the Government to the very necessary requisite.

DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN PRINTER.

Thomas F. O'Brien, who suffered a stroke of paralysis on the street Tuesday afternoon while on his way home from work, died early this morning without regaining consciousness. Mr. O'Brien was one of the best known printers in the city. He was born in Canada about 50 years ago, but came to Troy when a youth, securing employment in The Troy Press office, where he learned the trade of compositor, and with but slight interruption had always worked for this paper. When the linotype machine was introduced in Troy, he was the first printer to learn its mechanism and became an expert in its operation. Mr. O'Brien was one of the oldest members of Typographical Union No. 52, and was also a member of Troy Council, C. B. L. His was a thoroughly domestic life, and he took his greatest pleasure with the members of his family. He will be greatly missed by his associates in this office, with whom he was a general favorite. Besides his wife, one daughter, Mary, and one son, Fred., survive.—Troy Press.

Deceased was the son of Mr. Alex. O'Brien, formerly stevedore of Quebec.

IMPORTANT WORKS

For the Equipment of the Lower St. Lawrence Route on Eve of Completion.

The Shipping interests of Canada will be pleased to learn that important works in connection with the equipment of the Lower St. Lawrence with navigation aids is now on the eve of completion. In the Straits of Belle Isle the fog horn and lighthouse stations at Forteau Bay and Greenberg Island are almost completed, and will be in operation for the next season of navigation. The lighthouse waterworks and fog horn system at Belle Isle will also be finished this fall, and at Cape Ball and Cape Norman similar works in course of erection will be completed this fall.

At Cape Anguile, Newfoundland, the new dwelling for the lighthouse-keeper together with other works are well advanced and will be finished next year.

The Cape Ray station is finished and the fog alarm and lighthouse systems at Cape Magdalen and Martin River are completed.

Besides the foregoing the Marine and Fisheries Department will complete this fall the new fog alarm station at Seven Islands, and during the past season the Department, through its Quebec agency, managed by Mr. J. U. Gregory, have erected four new lights in the Saguenay River. Owing to the pressure of business that taxes the capacity of the Department's steamers at this port, the Minister of Marine and Fisheries has engaged the services of the Holliday Bros.' steamer Aranmore for the balance of the season, and the latter will leave to-day loaded down with material for the public works and aids to navigation in progress down the St. Lawrence. This will include the conveyance of new style concrete lighthouses for Matane and Metis and other points, and in the month of November the same steamer will make another trip down the river to bring to Quebec the large number of Quebec citizens and laborers engaged on the works. All these aids to the navigation of the St. Lawrence, which are bound to prove of inestimable value to shipping, and should reduce marine insurance, were proceeded with under the superintendence of the Department's Quebec Engineer, Mr. P. E. Parent, who is praised for the excellence of the workmanship and quick dispatch of the construction.

LEFT BEHIND.

Seven stokers of the steamer Empress of Ireland were ashore yesterday afternoon, when the steamer sailed. They reached the dock in time to see their ship disappear around Indian Cove. They were subsequently sent by Intercolonial train to join the steamer at Rimouski.

ANNIVERSARY OF ANCIENT CAPITAL.

A meeting was held on Wednesday evening at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, at which arrangements were begun for the participation of representatives of Montreal in the forthcoming celebration at Quebec of the three hundredth anniversary of the Ancient Capital in 1908. Committees were tentatively aupointed, and considerable enthusiasm was shown amongst those present to have the metropolis worthily represented at the festivities. The whole arrangements are under the auspices of the seigneurial association.

The following committees were named:—Hon. President, Sir Henry Joly de Lotbiniere; hon. president, Chateauguay de Salaberry; chairman of inspection committee, Prof D. H. Penhallow; chairman of military committee, Dr. Valois; chairman of decoration committee, Alcide Chausse; chairman of publicity committee, P. A. Octe; presidents of literary committee, Mgr. Racicot and Prof. Colby. Another meeting will be held in about two weeks to complete the organization.

THIRTEEN YEARS.

Unlucky Numbers for Dakota Women.

The question whether the number "13" is really more unlucky than any other number has never been entirely settled in everyone's mind.

A So. Dak. woman, after thirteen years of misery from drinking coffee, found a way to break the "unlucky spell." She writes:

"For thirteen years I have been a nervous wreck from drinking coffee. My liver, stomach, heart—in fact, my whole system being actually poisoned by it.

"Last year I was confined to my bed for six months. Finally it dawned on me that coffee caused the trouble. Then I began using Postum instead of ordinary coffee, but with little faith, as my mind was in such a condition that I hardly knew what to do next.

"Extreme nervousness and failing eyesight caused me to lose all courage. In about two weeks after I quit coffee and began to use Postum, I was able to read and my head felt clear. I am improving all the time and I will be a strong, well woman yet.

"I have fooled more than one person with a delicious cup of Postum. Mrs. S. wanted to know where I bought my fine coffee. I told her my grocer had it and when she found out it was Postum she has used it ever since, and her nerves are building up fine.

"My brain is strong, my nerves steady, my appetite good, and best of all, I enjoy such sound pleasant sleep." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Get the little book in pkg., "The Road to Wellville." "There's a reason."

Neglected Colds MAY CAUSE Consumption.

MRS. ADDIE HARDING. MRS. MARY MEYER. MRS. FRANCES WILSON.

PROBABLY every case of consumption begins with a cold.

Consumption is generally classed as a hereditary disease, but consumption is not hereditary.

A constitutional weakness is inherited which renders one liable to consumption.

Even people who have strong lungs may acquire consumption from a cold.

Mrs. Addie Harding, 121 W. Brighton Ave., Syracuse, N. Y., writes:

"I have been a user of Peruna for the last twelve years and can truthfully say that there is no better medicine on earth.

"With me it is a sure preventative for colds and many other ills. In my home can always be found a bottle of Peruna. Two or three times a year I am troubled with my throat.

"A SURE PREVENTATIVE."

"I always had to have the services of my physician two or three times in each case.

"Although a user of Peruna, I never thought of taking it for my throat until about two years ago.

"I tried Peruna to check it, and to my great delight I was not troubled with the smothered and choked feeling and never have since.

"I can check it every time with Peruna.

"I certainly would not be without Peruna one minute."

Mrs. Mary Meyer, Thomson avenue, near Shell Road, Winfield, L. I., N. Y., writes:

"I have been annoyed with a cough for years.

"Often it was so bad that I could not sleep half the night. Many people thought I had consumption.

CONSUMPTION WAS FEARED.

"A woman recommended Peruna to me two years ago. I began to take Peruna and now I am perfectly free from a cough.

"I am glad to say that Peruna cured me entirely. I take Peruna occasionally when I do not feel well and I also give it to my children.

"Peruna is the best medicine for coughs and colds. I have told many people how much Peruna has helped me."

A neglected cold is a well-worn path to consumption.

Many a person catches cold and pays no attention to it.

He scarcely recovers from the first cold when he takes the second.

Still he gives it no heed, and possibly takes another cold, and so on.

He doses himself with bromides, quinine and various expectorants.

His case is catarrh, at this stage, and his case should be treated as catarrh.

A common cold is acute catarrh.

Finally, if the cold is allowed to continue, it becomes chronic catarrh.

Mrs. Frances Wilson, 32 Nelson street, Clinton, Mass., writes:

"Had you seen me at the time of my illness and now, you would not wonder that I take delight in sounding the praises of Peruna.

"My ailment was a severe cold which attacked the bronchial tubes and lungs.

"I followed your special directions and after using six bottles of Peruna I was on my feet again.

"I think Peruna a wonderful medicine."

All colds, coughs, bronchitis, laryngitis and tonsilitis should be treated as catarrh, as they are in reality catarrh.

The success of Peruna in relieving these cases entirely depends upon the fact that Peruna is a catarrh remedy.

It relieves catarrh wherever located in the system. Whether in the throat, bronchial tubes or lungs.

CONSUMPTION PREVENTED.

It has saved a multitude of people from consumption by eradicating catarrh before it reaches the lungs.

The tendency of catarrh of the throat or head is to spread downward to the lungs.

If taken in time, Peruna will prevent these cases.

We have in our files many testimonials from people who thought they were victims of consumption, but have been permanently relieved by the faithful use of Peruna, thus showing that catarrh was really the cause of their ailments.

COURT OF APPEALS

Argument in McCrae Case Concluded--Important Judgments Rendered.

The attorneys in the case of McCrae, under death sentence for the murder of Percy Sclater, concluded their arguments for a new trial yesterday afternoon in the Court of Appeals, when the case was taken under advisement.

At the morning sitting judgments were rendered in the following cases by Chief Justice Lacoste and Justices Bosse, Blanchet, Trenholme, Lavergne and Cimon, ad hoc:—

Quebec Bridge Company, appellant, and Quebec Improvement Company, respondent, appeal maintained with costs of both courts and judgment of Judge Langelier set aside. The Quebec Improvement Co. had taken action against the Quebec Bridge Co. for $29,126, amount allowed them by the majority of an arbitration commission for the expropriation of certain lots on the 27th February last Judge Lanin St. Nicholas and St. Romuald, and gelier gave judgment for the sum of $28,245, from which judgment the Quebec Bridge Company appealed and won their appeal yesterday.

The McArthur Export Co., Ltd., appellants, vs. James Bell Klock, lumber merchant, of Matane, respondent In the month of November, 1904, Mr Klock sold timber to the McArthur Export Co., who refused to take it on the ground that the timber was not according to contract. An action was then taken against the McArthur Co. for $71,284, and in December, 1905, Judge Routhier condemned the McArthur Co. to pay over $47,994 with interest from 11th Oct., 1904, and costs. From this judgment the McArthur Co. appealed and Mr. Klock also took a counter appeal for the sum of $16,000. This morning the appeal of the McArthur Co. was dismissed and the counter appeal was maintained to the amount of about six hundred dollars, all costs being against the McArthur Export Co.

The Court will sit again on the 22nd, 23rd and 24th instant.

MOVING PICTURES.

There will be performances this afternoon and evening of the moving pictures at the Auditorium.

PLEADED GUILTY TO FORGERY.

The man Goodrich, who had been arrested on a charge of drunkenness and sent to gaol for four months, was brought before the Police Court yesterday on the charge of passing forged cheques. He pleaded guilty and was sent to the penitentiary for three years.

INEXPENSIVE MINING.

The Canadian Consolidated Mines, at Trail, B.C., have found by careful comparison that the use of Westinghouse electrical apparatus for power and haulage actually increases the output of their mines, and at the same time cuts down their operating expenses. They are now using three Westinghouse 1,250 K.W. transformers, as well as a Westinghouse electric locomotive for hauling cars to and from the mines!

QUEBEC BIBLE SOCIETY RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

On Thursday evening the 4th inst., the first regular meeting of committee after summer vacation, at which there was a very large attendance of members, the following resolution was very feelingly presented, and passed unanimously:—"Whereas; It has pleased Almight God to remove from our midst Mr. T. H. Oliver, K.C., who held the office of President of the society for the past five years, and had an honorable and sympathetic connection with the society lor the period of thirty years;

Be it resolved that we place on record our sense of the loss the society has sustained in his death, and also of the high esteem in which he was held ny this committee, and by the community at large;

And that we extend to the sorrowing widow and relatives our heartfelt sympathy in this the hour of their bereavement, and pray God that the loss by death may be sanctified to them and to us."

How to Uncurl an Ostrich Plume

Trimmed with Uncurled Plumes

Rub Lightly but Thoroughly

To Get the Right Droop

The Drying Process

PARIS, '06.

THIS season's fashions offer no greater boon to the economically inclined than that of the new, uncurled ostrich feather—if, of course, you happen to be the lucky possessor of some old plumes. Otherwise, fashion has played you a shabby trick.

In order to rejuvenate your plumes it isn't even necessary to send them to the cleaner's. For light and dark alike, two basins of tepid water and a good lathering soap is all that is required.

Make a stiff lather and regularly wash your feathers in it, rubbing the fibres lightly but thoroughly. After this, rinse immediately in the clear water, dipping the feathers lightly in and out. Don't be alarmed at the appearance of meagreness that your plumes will have assumed ere this. The next process will give you a delightful surprise.

Now spread a towel on your lap and lay what remains of the feather flatly on top of it, with one hand holding the end in a curve around your knee while you slap the feather quickly and vigorously with the other. In a very few minutes the tiny fibres will have dried out fluffy, but perfectly straight, as the new fashion requires.

The centre of the feather is still damp; in order that it shall dry, with a properly graceful curve, secure it with a bit of thread and stand it upright for several hours.

One Method of Celebrating Anniversaries

A PRETTY story is going the rounds just now of a young married couple, prominent in social circles, who, wearying of time-worn methods of marking wedding anniversaries, celebrated their fourth, not long since, by taking 400 Sunday school children on a picnic.

Their friends are wildly enthusiastic over the innovation, and have vied with each other ever since in planning trolley rides, clambakes, minstrel shows and other such jollifications dear to the childish heart, the only flaw seeming to be that there are not enough anniversaries among them to give an outing to all the little ones in the neighborhood who have already tasted the sorrow of "doing without things."

Of course, there are plenty of people to suggest that this is only a fad among the too-highly favored of the earth, and will die a natural death as soon as some new form of amusement is invented. Possibly they are right, but good fads are deserving of followers, and surely there is no truer way of giving thanks for your own happiness than by trying to bring a little bit into other lives.

I know of one young mother whose small son is the recipient of such a continual showering of blessings that at times she has despaired of teaching him that he is not the only child in the world who is worthy of consideration.

On his fourth birthday she planned a party on unusual lines. No invitations were sent to any of the small autocrat's particular "set," but instead she went out, if not literally into the highways and hedges, certainly into the homes of the poor, and gathered together her guests.

THEIR FIRST PARTY

Many of the children who came had never seen a party. They were country children, without even a knowledge of the city gamin's chief delectation—hokey-pokey—and ices shaped like birds and flowers were to them the handiwork of fairies or angels at least.

The refreshments were the sort specially beloved by the young host, and he was made to understand that his guests must be served plentifully before it came his turn. Chief among his earthly joys was a pony, with its accompanying cart, and on this, his own birthday, he took not one ride in that cart.

All through the long afternoon, a small but persevering pony took loads of ecstatic children the length of the lane and back, each child having its turn; while the little owner looked on—first indignant, then amazed, then acquiescent, finally blandly delighted at his new role of benefactor and host.

It isn't much to give one day in the 365 to others, is it? But what a deal of pleasure would result if everybody tried it. If children to whom toys and gifts are a daily occurrence would devote the anniversary that is their very own to bestowing of their abundance upon other children, do you think they would lose much of the joy in life?

A set of young girls who had been in the habit of exchanging costly gifts among themselves at Christmas made a compact one year to devote the money to giving something specially nice to those of their friends whose means did not permit the bestowing of handsome presents. It was decreed that these gifts were not to be necessities, but luxuries—trifles that all girls long for, and only the few possess. That was an unusually happy Christmas for two distinct sets of girls.

Try just once to exchange the joy of receiving on your own pet day for the joy of giving. You may want to do it again.

Aigrettes and the Theatre Man

JUST after the cheering news that the Paris theatres had succeeded in enforcing the no-hat rule (thanks to a certain fashionable coiffeur) came news from which the masculine soul recoils in despair. It was that tiny theatre hats—hardly more in some cases than the classic Napoleonic wreaths—were to disturb the peace of man, and, incidentally, to damage his eyesight.

Tiny they are, in very truth—so tiny that the hardest-hearted dictator of theatre rules couldn't by the wildest stretch of imagination prove them—to a feminine jury, at least—to be infringements upon the no-hat rule.

Just a wreath of roses, with a soft, full something of the nature of pompon or chou, makes them, with the addition of an aigrette.

And there's the rub! For the majority of people—mere men or their better halves, alike—would rather lose their view of the stage entirely than try to see it through the maddening, feathery lines of an aigrette. If you've the least tendency to eye troubles, your eyes feel much like the famous "chewing-gum man," of "nonsense" fame—as though they were "pulled seprit ways," and didn't like it a bit.

All hail to the no-hat rule, but if it means aigrettes as substitutes, let us strenuously work for the days of hats, the lesser evil, again.

A CHRISTMAS CENTREPIECE IN THE "LAZY DAISY" STITCH

IT IS a stitch evolved from the old chainstitch our grandmothers were almost as lavish with as we are with briarstitching, yet it masquerades as a brand-new thing, under its new name of "Lazy Daisy," which name, by the way, was invented whimsically by a mere man.

Daisies, incidentally, aren't the only flower, by any means, to which it may be applied with good effect. Forget-me-nots are made into the prettiest chubby-petaled things imaginable; and violets, asters—any of the flowers which have either very tiny or long petals—are quickly and effectively embroidered if that stitch is used. But daisies are in the design nine times out of ten.

As each petal is made by a single stitch, the stamping is done with merely a line to represent a petal—there's no outline to be filled in.

Starting at the centre of the flower, bring the thread through upon the right side. Then insert the needle in the linen close to the thread and bring it out again at the end of the petal, catching the thread in a long loop by passing the needle over it and through to the other side. Start at the centre again for the next stitch. Fill in the centres with French knots and outline the stems.

A heavy silk is used for the embroidering—one with plenty of body to it, if you want the centrepiece to launder well. For library table mats, embroidered upon colored (or the natural color) linens, in colors, use as fluffy a silk floss as you can get—there's just that much more softness and realism got into the flower. Upon the colored pieces you can take more liberty with the stitch—it doesn't have to be set in such a firm fashion. Upon white, be careful to get it firm without letting it pucker.

The same stitch may be applied to embroidery upon mull or chiffon, and is done, of course, in exactly the same color as the material upon which it is worked.

How "lazy" is that stitch? The best answer to that lies in the fact that flowers and stems—all but the buttonholed edge — of the pattern given may be embroidered in an hour's time, and that with the average skill, not by some one so trained to the work of embroidering that she accomplishes work with the speed of the expert.

To apply the design, lay impression paper, face down, upon the linen, and the pattern over that, and go over the lines of the design with a hard pencil. If impression paper isn't at hand, the linen may be pinned over the pattern and held against a window—the strong daylight will show the lines up plainly, so that they may be traced off readily. Or, rub the reverse side of the pattern with a soft pencil or with crayon or colored chalk. Then lay the pattern on the linen and go over the lines in exactly the same way you do when using impression paper.

Detail of the Work

Lace Initials

AS IF the matter of initials hadn't been properly taken care of by people who embroider, and supplemented by tiny machine-made ones as well, lace-makers have invented the prettiest cobweb affairs imaginable.

It is an open bit, as open and lacy as can be, the only heavy part about it, the strong little edge, and the letter, which apparently "happens" right in the centre.

Even if there's no lace on chemise or corset cover, such an initial adds a pretty little touch of individuality without adding the work of embroidering.

A New Way of Phoning

HAVE you tried the new way of phoning, invented by some germ-dreading individual? People who have a scientific turn of mind give all sorts of interesting reasons for it, but it does seem somewhat startling to press the receiver against your chest and to talk into space, exactly as though the person you were phoning to were in the room.

Yet, curiously enough, your voice carries perfectly over the wire—more clearly, in fact, for there's neither the mumbling nor the shrieking which "comes out" in metallic "jerks" at the other end.

Try it.

Lea & Perrins' Sauce

has been before the public for very many years (nearly a century)

during which time it has commanded an ever increasing sale in all markets of the world. The innumerable imitations attracted by its success are devoid of the excellence of quality and richness of flavour characteristic of the genuine article, which is prepared from the original recipe, the exclusive property of Messrs. MANUFACTORY, WORCESTER ENGLAND.

The fact that unscrupulous persons commonly make use of the designation "Worcestershire" for inferior productions, and even call them genuine, renders it necessary that the public should ask specially for Lea & Perrins' Sauce and refuse cheap substitutes.

COLUMBUS WON THIS ONE.

Columbus, O., Oct. 5.—The series of games between Columbus and Buffalo for the Class A Minor League championship were resumed here to-day and Columbus won 9 to 2. After Buffalo tied the score in the seventh, Currie gave four bases on balls and these were followed by two singles, a triple and a wild pitch, giving Columbus seven runs. But for Friel's error Columbus would have scored a shut out. Buffalo has won two and Columbus one game of the series. Score:—

FIRST GAME TODAY

Quebec and National will Inaugurate Rugby Season on Q.A.A. Grounds.

The Rugby season will be inaugurated in the Ancient Capital this afternoon, when the Quebec and National teams will line up on the Q. A. A. grounds in the Quebec Union series. The game is called for 2.30 o'clock, and those who go to see it are sure to witness a hard struggle for supremacy. The visitors are out to win, and it is of course unnecessary to state that the same laudable ambition animates the locals. The deciding of the question as to who is to wear the laurel leaves of victory promises to be quite interesting.

It is to be hoped that there will be a big crowd of spectators present, as the game will be a good one. The Nationals are stated to be a husky aggregation, while the Quebec men have got a pretty tidy team together.

The teams will line up as follows:—

Quebec.

Full Back—W. Pugh.

Half Backs—J. Power, J. Lee, A. Gale.

Quarter Back—L. McWilliam.

Scrimmage—Roeber, Baugh, Hewitt.

Wings—Newman, Blair (Capt), Brown Gillespie, Kingwell, E. Gahvreau.

Spares—Gibson, Parent, Trudel, Poston.

National.

Full Back—R. Hebert.

Half Backs—Masson (Capt), Joron, Toupin.

Quarter Back—H. Bisaillon.

Scrimmage—Gauthier, Langevin, St, Onge.

Wings—P. Bisaillon, Carle, Michaud, Dr. Cousineau, B. Brault, J. Brault.

Referee—H. Christmas; umpire, F. Reid.

TURF OUTLOOK IN QUEBEC.

Montreal, Oct. 5—Col. Sewell, Dr. C. S. Parke and Major Ashmead, of Quebec, who were here yesterday to attend the opening meeting of the Montreal Jockey Club in their new quarters, stated that a movement was under consideration to make the Quebec Jockey Club a mile track instead of a half. They stated that in future every effort will be made to have two or three open meetings yearly.

BASEBALL WIND-UP.

Last Games of the Season Will Be Played To-morrow.

The baseball season in Quebec will be brought to a close to-morrow afternoon, when the Victorias of Levis and the Montreal team will meet in a double-header on the Q.A.A. grounds. The first game, which is the final of the League series, is called for two o'clock, and the second one, an exhibition game, for 4 o'clock. The Levis team will have the same strong lineup with which they defeated Montreal last Sunday, while it is stated that Dubois, Farrell, White and Robinson, who were to have been with Montreal for the last game, will be with them to-morrow. The team will be a very strong combination. The Montreal management think they have the best team in the League though defeated by Levis for the championship, and will endeavor to demonstrate that fact on Sunday next by trying to beat the champions in both games. Whether they can do so is an open question, and it will be interesting to see just what they can do against the boys from across the river. There promises to be another big crowd to witness the double event

APPOINTMENT OF OFFICIALS.

Intercollegiate Football Union Has Adopted a Novel Plan.

A unique method of appointing officials in case the competing clubs are unable to agree, was adopted at the meeting of the Intercollegiate Union executive in Kingston on Saturday of last week. The College Union has thus far shown little regard for pre-established customs, and their latest action is no exception.

Heretofore considerable dissatisfaction and annoyance to all concerned have resulted from the old method of appointing officials when the clubs failing to reach an agreement, and it is safe to say that the same grievance exists in all unions where the appointment rests with the president in case of the failure of the clubs to agree. The Collegiate method may solve the difficulty. If the president is not notified four days before the game that a referee has been agreed upon, he takes it for granted that such is not the case. He then proceeds to nominate two men, who are not members of the competing clubs, and forwards the names of these men to the Ottawa, McGill and Toronto representatives to the executive of the Union. Whichever of the men secures the votes of two of these representatives is the referee for the game and he chooses his own assistant officials.

The rule will be given a trial and its working will be watched with interest.

REMARKABLE SHOOT

Great Scoring of a 19 Year Old Member of the British Team.

With a margin of 60 points, the Seventh Regiment rifle team wrested the Sir Howard Vincent Challenge Shield from the team from the Queen's Westminster Volunteers, of London, England, at Creedmoor, L.I. The last stages of the competition, the 800 and 1,000 yard ranges, were replete with sensations and record-breaking scores. The scene after the last shot in the match was fired will live in the memory of those present. The Seventh's total was 1,648 points, while the Englishmen scored 1,588.

After the last shot had been fired and the American team had won there was an outburst of enthusiasm, which had been kept in check during the match in fear of disturbing the shooters. After the cheering ceased Major-General Charles F. Roe, N.G.N.Y., referee of the match, caused both teams to line up facing each other. Then, stepping between the lines, the General, addressing Colonel Sir Howard Vincent, asked the commander of the English team if the match had been satisfactory. In a short address Sir Howard thanked the Seventh Regiment for the courteous treatment he and his men had received and expressed his appreciation at the manner in which the competition was conducted.

Colonel Daniel Appleton, of the Seventh, then addressed the English team, expressing the hope that the contest would serve to more firmly weld the bonds of friendship already existing between the two organizations. Then General Roe officially declared the American team victorious. After the announcement the two teams rushed together and the crowd, which had closed in on the teams, cheered the shooters.

As if by magic, hundreds of little English and American flags made their appearance from the folds of the dresses of handsomely gowned women, and were waved frantically in the air. The shooters were seized by members of the Seventh Regiment and others and carried bodily across the field. Several of the victorious American team were taken on the shoulders of the Englishmen and carried around. While these scenes were being enacted, the Seventh Regiment band suddenly struck up "God Save the King." In an instant every one of the soldiers and spectators were uncovered, standing at attention. They remained so while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

One of the most sensational features of the last day's shooting was the finish of the string fired by Corporal-Marksman A. G. Fulton, of the Westminsters, on the 1,000 yard range. Up to the time he began his string, Sergeant W. B. Short, of the Seventh, was top man for the highest individual score prize, a silver cup, presented by Captain Francis G. Landon, of the Seventh. Short's total was 278. Fulton is the 19-year-old son of Sergeant Fulton, one of the best shots in England. He started to build on the 1,000 yard range with a total of 208.

FALLS DOWN ON LAST SHOT.

After his fifth shot at this distance, Fulton needed nine bulls and a four to make him high gun. All of the other contestants had finished, and the crowd surged about the boy as he counted bull after bull. He made nine in succession, and needed but four to put him in top place. He fired his last shot, and the crowd waited breathlessly for the result. A groan went up from the English and Americans when the shot was indicated as a three. The boy's extraordinary work was cheered to the echo. His total was 277, which put him in third individual place.

Lieutenant Howard E. Crall, of the Seventh, broke all records at the 1,000 yard range. He missed the bull's eye twice in his string of 15 shots, making a total of 73 out of a possible 75. This score has never been equalled either in practice or competition with a military rifle at this distance. His total score for the four ranges was 277, which put him in second place in the individual scores.

When the firing started on the 800 yard range the weather conditions were ideal, with the exception of a rather tricky wind, which blew across the range from the east with varying degrees of velocity. The sky was overcast with light clouds, making the light excellent for shooting. It was at these ranges that the English shooters hoped to recover the lead of 34 points which the Seventh gained on them yesterday on the shorter ranges.

At the 800 yard range the Americans held the Westminsters, each team making a total of 406 points. At the 1,000 yard range the Americans made their greatest gains, scoring a total of 409 points against the English team's 383. In the first relay on the 800 yard range the Seventh gained five points, but lost four on the second. The third relay evened matters up, the Seventh losing one point.

At the 1,000 yard range the Seventh began to gain rapidly from the start. The total of the first relay showed a gain of 13 for the Americans, the lead being further increased by four on the second relay. The Seventh's last pair gained nine points on the Westminsters, making the total lead 60 points. The average of the Americans at this range, a fraction over 98, broke all records at the distance for teams of six.

In the reserve shooting, Private D. C. Meyer, of the Seventh Regiment, won the cup for high score presented by Colonel Appleton. His total for the four ranges was 269. Marksman R. DeRupe Roche, of the Westminsters, was second with 263.

After the match both teams were entertained at the club house of the Seventh Regiment. After this the teams, headed by the band, and escorted by all the members of the Seventh present, marched to the railroad station, where they boarded a special train for Manhattan. For the next few days the English soldiers will be the guests of the Seventh Regiment. They leave for England next week.

PRO. HOCKEY TALK

Prospects for the Coming Season—Circuit Still in Doubt.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 5. — Hockey enthusiasts are already discussing the probable line-up of the various teams in the International League. All the talk is rumor as not an official announcement has been made by any of the club managements as to players signed. It is not known what players from other leagues will be seen in professional ranks this year. None has been reported signed and it remains to be seen whether any of the teams will make changes." About the only new player who made a name for himself in the league last winter was "Joe" Hall of Houghton. Houghton will likely have to get a new goal tender. Riley Hern announced his retirement last season and may not be back. Regan of last winter's Canadian Soo team is spoken of for the position. Grindy Forrester the point player, is said to be out of the game. He has a bad knee, but may get over it. For the line Houghton will have Bright, Lake, Hall, Stuart and Taylor. The Michigan Soo will doubtless have all its players back again with the probable exception of Howell and Hamilton. Two new defence men will be needed, but the problem will be simplified by "Reddy" McMillan's ability to play defense in case a forward man is procured for his position at right wing. It looks as if Calumet would have to get an entirely new team. Nicholson, Gardner, Strike, Mallen, Shields and Scott are said to be out of the game. "Hod" Stuart will manage Pittsburg. It is understood he is looking for a goal tender and two forwards. The Canadian Soo will be there again and expects to be in as good shape as any of the clubs.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 4—The formation of the International Hockey League circuit is now just as much in the air as it was before the meeting held at Detroit recently. Any number of cities are being mentioned for franchises, and nothing definite will be known until the next meeting of the league magnates in November. The latest city being mentioned for the place in the league is Marquette, where it is said a large rink will be erected this fall. Marquette would be welcomed to the International League with open arms. Its proximity to Ishpeming and Negaunee would give Marquette a good territory from which to draw and there seems to be no doubt that the team could be made a go. Columbus' prospects are rather hazy at present. The rink will certainly be erected there and the city will also have a hockey team, but it is not yet known whether or not it can get in this year. If not this year, next, for the Ohio city is certain to be in the league. It is said the Canadian Soo will be reinstated in the league without much trouble, and the international formation of the league will be maintained. The proposition now on in Detroit is to convert the electric park into a large rink for both skating and hockey by simply roofing it. The seating and other facilities are already all that could be desired for that purpose. The expense of putting the rink in shape as proposed would be very light, and the changes would in no way interfere with the present uses of the park in the summer season. Regarding Winnipeg, Mr. Ferguson, former president of the league, states that the owner of a large rink in that city has just expressed himself as being very anxious to get into the league with a good team, and that the city stands a good chance of being taken in along with Minneapolis and St. Paul.

CAPS AND CORNWALL.

Ottawa, Oct. 5 — So satisfactory were Peter Murphy and Tom Moore, of Shamrocks, as officials, last Saturday, that Capitals and Cornwall have again agreed upon them to act in Cornwall next Saturday. Caps had a splendid work out on Rideau Hall grounds, the temporary practice field to-day, seventeen men being in uniform. The team on Saturday will be the same as that of a week ago, with possibly one exception. Gaul, of the home, may be saved for the finals and replaced by Larry Brennan, a slight shift being made in the players. This is intended to make a stronger defence team and leave Gaul fresh for further matches, if any.

PILGRIMS NOT COMING.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 5—Word has been received in Chicago that the visit of the Pilgrim socker football team, which planned to make a tour of America this fall, is practically abandoned, because of the illness of the promoter on this side of the pond. The announcement of the calling off of the trip for a short time was a great disappointment to the Britons, for they sought to outdo the Corinthian tourists.

Promoters of what is known as the "national game of England and Scotland" plan to settle the dispute between the Corinthians and Pilgrims in a series of match games, for the teams have met only a few times, and both are backed by big followers.

FAST TIME MADE

Races of the Montreal Hunt Club on New Track.

Montreal, Oct. 5—Upwards of 3,500 attended the opening of the fall meet of the Montreal Hunt on the new course at St. Laurent, yesterday afternoon.

There was little that was momentous in the day's racing. The fields were good for a Hunt meet and the finishes all provided the excitement dear to the heart of the race goer. There were two mishaps, each occurring in the steeplechases; neither however, was attended by serious results. In the Farmers' Steeplechase, W. V. Henderson's King Top was racing along in front and apparently well in hand when he bolted at the brush jump at the top of the turn, running into the wing and throwing his jockey, Mr. Henderson. King Top struck with such force that he sustained a rather serious cut in the shoulder and was knocked out of the race. Henderson was badly shaken up, his arm being hurt in the fall, but there were no serious results.

In the open steeplechase Hugh Burnett's Arctic Circle took off too close to the Liverpool and turned a somersault, rolling over on his jockey, Walsh. The accident, happening as it did right in front of the club house, created a lot of excitement and fears were entertained for the safety of the jockey. Walsh, however, was on his feet in a few moments, not much the worse for the toss.

Quebec horses were to the front in the Afternoon. Dr. Colin Sewell's Blue Coat, a heavily-played favorite, winning the six furlongs flat, and Bellcourt, entered under the colors of the Quebec Stables, winning the open steeplechase. The other winners of the day were Kathleen, owned by Mr. C. S. Campbell, Fair Havana, owned by Dr. Chas. McEachran, and Mr. S. Nesbitt's Rose.

For a new track the going was exceptionally good. Not a horse stumbled on the flat throughout the afternoon, nor did one of the thoroughbreds pull up lame. There was a marked absence of the crowding and jostling so often seen on tracks where the turns of necessity are short, the jockeys crammed in their positions. The new course, when finished, with its big sweeping turns, well banked, and its long stretches, will be one of the fastest courses in the world. No attempt was made to make the surface such as would be conducive to speed for yesterday's races, the object being simply to have it safe.

But even with this hurried preparation the track was in such remarkably good shape that in the last race Blue Coat, after being pulled up at the start ran six furlongs, with 140 pounds up, in 1.17. This is as good a performance as can be made on the best tracks by such a horse under such a heavy impost. When the track is thoroughly harrowed, well watered and properly rolled, a first-class horse will be able to run in close to world's record time.

There is no place in America, except perhaps Belmont Park, where such advantages for extreme speed are to be found. The back stretch is over 1,500 feet from curve to curve, the home stretch is nearly five furlongs in length. Beneath the three inches of top soil is a nine inch cushion of the finest loam, which makes the track like a spring board. The steeplechase field is wonderfully level and very fast. In the fourth race yesterday, Bellcourt galloped over the two mile course in 4 minutes and 17 seconds, and when it is considered that at Toronto and Hamilton the time in similar races is 4.34 and 4.35, some idea of the perfection of the Montreal course may be obtained. Moreover, it must not be judged that, on account of this fast time, the steeplechase course is easy. There is a Liverpool, the only one of its kind in Canada, which is 4 feet 6 inches high, 3 feet wide, with a ditch 5 feet wide on the take-off side. There is also a water jump 4 feet high and 3 feet wide, with a ditch on the landing side 12 feet wide and filled with water.

The day's programme consisted of three flat and two steeplechases. The opening event was the half-bred hunters' flat, at one mile. This was run out of the chute, and for the first time the Montreal public saw the portable fence in operation. This fence, while perfectly safe and rigid, can be moved in any direction. At the start the chute was fenced off from the home stretch, so that the horses ran in a straight line to the first turn, and in less than a minute after the start the fence was taken to one side, leaving the home stretch open. There were five starters in this race, which was won by C. S. Campbell's brown mare, Kathleen, who withstood a stretch run by James Hagnon's chestnut mare, Virginia, and won with something to spare. Dr. E. A. Sugden's Becky Sharpe was third. The feature of the race was the clever handling of Kathleen by Mr. P. F. Mathias.

Second on the card was the hunters' handicap, flat, one mile and a quarter, for a cup presented by Mr. Hugh Paton, with $300 added. Fair Havana, a trim little mare by Havoc, the sire of Inferno, won in gallant style from the favorite Kumshaw, with Ballycastle third. The winner, bred by Joseph Seagram and owned by Dr. Chas. McEachran, ran a good race with 142 pounds up, and had plenty to spare at the finish. Heidleberg, a chestnut gelding, owned by E. A. Barnard, made all the running up to the back stretch, when he tired under his heavy impost of 160 pounds and finished outside the money.

The farmers' steeplechase furnished the first mishap of the day, King Top going down as already described. Mr. S. Nesbitt, of Petit Cote, got both first and second with Rose and Woodbine, D. Brown's Tommy being third. Save for the mishap this was a capital steeplechase, the horses fencing excellently and taking the difficult Liverpool in their stride.

The open handicap steeplechase went to Bellcourt, a mare bred by Nathaniel Dyment, of Barrie, which figured in the King's Plate—then the Queen's plate—at Toronto six years ago. She ran an excellent race, finishing ten lengths ahead of A. Henry Higginson's Dunbeath and W. Webb's Honorious.

The day's sport concluded with an open flat at 6 furlongs, in which Blue Coat was a prohibitive favorite at 2 to 5. He had showed such extreme speed at Hamilton and Toronto that the handicapper had to load him with 140 pounds. Just as the flag fell Walker pulled him up and was slow in getting away from the post, while Marcotini, who had been acting badly, was practically left. Blue Coat had to do his best to beat Red Monk, while Marcotini, making up a lot of ground, got the show money.

QUEBEC GOLFERS FOR MONTREAL

The following members of the Quebec Golf Club will likely play on the team to meet the Royal Montreal Club in the latter city to-day:—Rev. Canon Von Iffland, A. Laurie (Capt.); H. S. McGreevy, W. C. J. Hall, R. H. Reid, A. Murray, E. Wurtele, C. B. Beamish, A. R. M. Boulton, H. S. Thomson, A. A. Walcot, E. L. Garneau, G. B. S. Young, W. S. Champion, A. Brofic, S. Ahern, Major Sheppard.

THE VANDERBILT CUP.

Mineola, L.I., Oct. 5—Seventeen high power automobile racing machines will start to-morrow morning, beginning at 6 o'clock, in the third international race for the Wm. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Cup. The course, which begins near Westbury, on the Jericho Turnpike, practically is a rectangle, measuring 29.21 miles. The course will be traversed 10 times, making the race 297.1 miles. It is expected that 200,000 persons will see the race. Wm. Stadler and George Wydamer, laborers, to-night were struck by an automobile owned by Wm. M. Woods, of Boston. Stadler received fatal injuries, dying soon afterward. Wydamer sustained shock and bruises. The accident occurred in Long Island City through which thousands of automobiles passed en route to the races.

What Does It Mean?

Dr. Hamilton Gives a Full and Satisfactory Explanation.

Look at your tongue!

Sometimes it's heavily coated sometimes it's clear and red.

Study this out and you'll find some interference with the functional activity of the body.

This means the bowels are not regular, the liver is sluggish and the blood is contaminated.

Strong cathartic pills act so destructively on the intestines as to provoke deathly sickness; this often frightens people from taking medicine when they badly need it.

To the multitude of dangerous purgatives now on the market, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a notable exception, they neither gripe, cause sickly feeling or headache, yet they cleanse and purify the entire system in one night. No other laxative acts with such mildness and certainty. Giving proper stimulus to the liver and kidneys, strengthening the stomach and lending valuable aid to digestion, it's small wonder that such marvelous results accompany Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Mr. Geo. O'Hogarty, of Amherst, N. S., writes: "Last winter I worked in a lumber camp and neglected my health. I was dreadfully constipated and had a headache that fairly made me reel at times. I was sick and miserable, and hadn't the slightest ambition to work or stir around. I felt heavy and dull and had a bad taste in my mouth. I sent into the city for Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which I knew were good for my condition. They fixed me up very quickly and have kept me in good condition ever since. There are other men in the camp that use Dr. Hamilton's Pills also. They say they wouldn't be without the pills for ten times their price."

Every dealer in the land sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills—25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn, U. S.A., and Kingston, Ont.

GHOST PLAYS PRANKS IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.

Hay is Scattered About, Men Imprisoned, Bolted Doors Swung Open and Horses Removed From Their Stalls

Strange, unaccountable things are befalling in the neighborhood of Lamberhurst, Kent, England. The villagers, who in the midst of their laughter exhibit unmistakable symptoms of fear, are convinced that they are sheltering one of the most enterprising, audacious and mysterious "ghosts" recorded in the annals of the unseen.

If "ghost" it be—and the word of the persons chiefly concerned can only be accepted on this point—the visitant has displayed the greatest discrimination in the choice of its field of operations. Lamberhurst is an oldtime cluster of cottages, Elizabethan for the most part, lying midway between Horsmonden and Goodhurst. Two miles further on is the Furnace mill, owned by J. C. Playfoot, a well-to-do farmer and hop grower. Here the "ghost" has established its headquarters.

Furnace mill lies in a wooded hollow, a quarter of a mile from the main road. It is flanked by a darksome lake, in which the tall elms that fringe it cast shadowy reflections. The trickling of a cascade and the calls of bird to bird are the only sounds that disturb the silence. No other dwelling is visible. Altogether, an eminently appropriate home for a "ghost."

LOCKS AND BOLTS OF NO AVAIL.

Mr. Playfoot, a matter-of-fact business-like man, recounted with some reluctance his weird experiences, "for," he said, "already the news has got abroad, and last Sunday hundreds of people from the towns and villages for miles around invaded my place to look for the 'ghost.' Whatever the thing may be," he went on, "that is playing the very mischief with my place, it operates only in the daytime and under the very noses of myself and other members of the family who are looking out for it.

"It is important to know that I have not discharged any one, that this place can only be reached by a private road, that the approach of any stranger would be disputed by two watchdogs that would not stand on any ceremony, and that I carry in my own pockets the keys of the mill, stables, hayrooms, and other buildings.

"Despite all these precautions, locked and bolted doors swing open, the horses are changed from stable to stable, are sometimes turned around in their stalls so that their backs are against the mangers, and are often seen to run shivering and startled from their stables into the road.

"Bales of hay are cut and scattered about the hayrooms, the contents of sacks in the drying room are emptied and changed about, while in the tool-house barrels of lime weighing hundredweights are flung down a flight of stairs. These and many other strange things happen in rooms that are locked, barred and bolted while people watch and listen outside, and the keys are in my pockets. Nobody or nothing is ever seen or heard."

BOY'S ADVENTURE.

Then Mr. Playfoot detailed what was perhaps the strangest "manifestation" of all. "About noon a few days ago," he said, "in the presence of my son I locked and bolted every building on the premises and went into the mill house for dinner. Suddenly I heard a startled cry from the lad, and rushing into the yard, saw the door of the drying room, only about ten yards away, wide open. Within the room I heard the shouts of the lad, but before I could reach him the door silently closed. I seized the handle. The door was locked. My son was a prisoner inside. The key of the room was in my pocket. I unlocked the door and entered the room. Nobody was there except my son, standing on the stairs frightened and pale."

Young Playfoot, a bright lad about 15 years of age, corroborated this strange story. "As soon as I had entered the room," he added, "I saw the door closed in some mysterious way. The latch rattles and the lock creaks, but, although I stood only a foot or two away, neither the latch nor the lock made the least sound.

"I could not have believed it if I had not been there," supplemented Mr. Playfoot.

A strong-man feat performed by the "ghost" was the overturning of a large waterbut, a veritable Sandow from spiritland. One morning, according to Mr. Playfoot, as he was working near one of the stables the lock was screwed off. He substituted a bolt. Shortly afterward he found that the bolt had been removed and the lock neatly restored to its place. "And yet I saw nothing," he said, as he wearily drew his hand across his puzzled brow.

Mr. Playfoot conducted the reporter who interviewed him to one of the stables. The double doors were locked and bolted, and the entrance was spanned by a stout timber bar secured by a hidden fastening designed by the millowner in the hope of circumventing the "ghost." In the stable was a gray mare.

SPIRITED AWAY.

"Now, such strange things had happened to this horse," he said, "that one day I decided to watch the stable closely, I made everything secure and put the keys in my pocket. Presently I crossed from where I was standing, and unlocking the stable door, looked in. The stable was empty. I found the horse in an adjoining hayroom, which was padlocked.

"How the horse got there—how it got through a communicating door scarcely wide enough to allow a man to pass—how it got up the steps—all these things are beyond me. If they had been done by human agency (and I hesitate to believe in ghosts), I must have seen or heard something, for I was only a yard or two away. In ordinary circumstances the stamp of the horse's hoofs in the wooden floor of the hayroom would have reached me. Besides, although the doors must have been unlocked and relocked, I had all the keys in my pockets. It is impossible that there can be duplicates."

The police have attempted to investigate the circumstances, but without any result. They are as mystified as Mr. Playfoot. Meanwhile, something like alarm exists among the scattered inhabitants of Lamberhurst, Horsmonden and Goudhurst, and they hope that the "ghost" as they firmly believe it to be, will confine its operations to Furnace Mill.

CHINESE TEACHING.

It Shows Thoroughness and Dependence Upon the Memory.

A description of Chinese schoolroom methods, taken from "A Corner of Cathay," is of interest as showing the contrast between schools in the Orient and schools in this country.

The beginner takes his book to his teacher and hears him read a column or more, after which the pupils returns to his desk and cons this lesson aloud, until he can recite it without looking at it. He then takes his book again to the teacher, turns his back to the master, and recites what he has learned. This is called "backing the lesson." In this way the pupil commits the whole book to memory, and he is expected to learn it so thoroughly that he can at any moment repeat the whole of any passage the initial words of which are mentioned to him.

Just before the noonday recess the teacher writes a sentiment, a proverb or a proposition upon a slip of red paper and pastes it upon the door. Each boy, as he goes out, reads the lines, and in the afternoon renders to the teacher another line which will, with the first, make a couplet. In China, all honors, social, pecuniary and official, await the scholar; and the teacher has always at hand illustrious examples to hold up for the emulation of those who become discouraged. Among the ancients, as among the moderns, many who were poor or stupid rose to eminence by sheer diligence and self-discipline.

The teacher tells of So Chin, who being afflicted with drowsiness when at his nightly studies, thrust a needle through his flesh so that pain might keep him awake; and of the restless Sai Lin, whose active body revolted against sitting at his books, and who cured himself of a constant disposition to rise and leave them by placing a pail of cold water where his feet would be immersed in it whenever he stood up.

A warning is given in the career of the unscrupulous Pang Kein, who cut off the ends of the straws that his teacher told him to arrange evenly, while the careful and honest Sung Pin separated a similar bundle and laid the straws straight, one by one, and found that they were all of uniform length without cutting. The character thus manifested by the two showed their teacher which of his pupils would best repay his efforts, and his judgment was justified by the event, for Pang Kien came to no good, while Sing Pin won renown and wealth, and great honor came through him to his preceptor.

WHY STAY RHEUMATIC ?
Nothing Short of Folly When Cure is Guaranteed with Ferrozone.
Rheumatism can't be cured so long as your system is weak and run down You must first build up and get strength to fight off the disease.
Ferrozone cures because it builds up, because it renews the blood and dissolves the Uric Acid and the poisons that cause rheumatism.
It is proved right here that Ferrozone does cure.
Col. H. M. Russ, of Edwards, St. Lawrence Co., one of the fine old heroes of the Civil War, was completely restored by Ferrozone. Read his statement:

SAMOA'S GREAT VOLCANO.

The Eruptions on Savaii Growing More Violent.

At last accounts the new volcano on the island of Savaii, the largest of the Samoan group, was in more violent eruption than ever. The volcano was just a year old on August 5th.

It came after a series of about 50 earthquakes, some of them very violent A photograph of the volcano taken only a few weeks after it first came into view shows an enormous mass of volcanic matter heaped around the crater. This mass was lifted from the subterranean depths by the eruptive forces to a height of at least six or seven miles and scattered in the first two or three weeks around the chimneylike vent through which it had passed.

We do not know from what depths under the earth's surface volcanic material may be brought, but the volcanic islands of Samoa rise from sea depths of from 25,000 to 28,000 feet, and the millions of tons of outpourings in the volcano of Savaii were carried up through the throat that opened from subterranean regions to the surface of this island mass.

This is the second volcano that has come to light on this island within three years. All the islands of the group, excepting the coral islets around them, are of volcanic origin, but there is no evidence that volcanic disturbances heve occurred on any of them, excepting Savaii.

FOR THOUSANDS OF YEARS,

The new volcano is in the interior of the island, about seven miles from Maugaafi, the volcano that was found in September, 1902. In all phases of these outbursts the recent eruption has been far more severe than its predecessor.

The spectacle at times has been magnificent as well as terrifying, and though Apaia, the capital of German Samoa, is about 60 miles away, the inhabitants, from the heights above the town, have at times been able to discern the black outpouring that covered as with a pall the skies above Savaii, and mor frequently they have seen at the night the glow in the sky reflected from the molten lava that has been flowing in main and branch streams to or toward the northern coast.

On the island itself and to vessels out at sea the scene during the most violent eruptions has been of almost overpowering grandeur. If the calamity had occurred on populous Upolu, with its many hamlets and its rich cacao and cocoa palm plantations, the loss of life and property would have aroused the sympathy of the world.

Upolu is the Garden of Eden in the colonial domain of Germany, but Savaii is still among the wilds of Polynesia. A number of important islands in the vast waste of waters are still partly unexplored, and Savaii is one of them.

A very few white traders and planters live on the coast or a little island. The native population is scattered among a few hamlets.

The lava flows between August, 1905 and March last made straight for some of these settlements and wiped them out, but.

DAMAGE WAS NOT GREAT,

for these primitive habitations are easily replaced. The flows from the volcano to the north coast were still moving in March, and at all times they have been so regular in their progress that the hour when they would reach a threatened hamlet could be computed closely, and so all had ample time to escape. There has been no loss of life, and the chief sufferers have been a few whites who have seen the plantations which they had developed by ten years hard toil swept away in an hour.

We have heard of the heartbreaking labor it takes to clear away the jungle of a tropical forest. It is child's play however, for red-hot lava, and the mightiest trees of the forest melt away as the stream enfolds them like tow in the flame.

One reason why Savaii has not been well explored is that it is almost impossible to pass through these thick forests, but there are roads now to the new volcano, for the rivers of lava have mowed wide stripes to the sea; clean cut on the sides, not a vestige of the forest growths remaining, except a sprinkling of ashes.

White men who have seen the spectacle of the last few months say that the grandest sight of all has been the dropping of several of the lava streams into the sea. Some of them have fallen over steep cliffs 100 feet high into the ocean with a mighty splashing of the water and a deafening hiss as clouds of steam arise. The water penetrates through many crevasses to the heart of the molten mass, giving rise to the continual detonation of explosions which blow fragments of the lava high into the air, is constantly changing from white to black or yellow or a mixture of all three, according to the sulphurous or other mineral ingredients that are mingled with it. The surrounding waters are raised to boiling heat, hundreds of thousands of fish have been destroyed for a long stretch along the shore. In places the advancing lava has passed through the coral reefs and broken them up.

One of the observers says that the scene by night is far more imposing than by day. For hundreds of feet the laka mass rises above the water and looks like a red mass of iron, out of which jets of white flames are constantly emerging.

One of the lava streams in Feburary made an average advance of 404 feet a day and was twenty days in reaching the northeast cape of the island. Another stream flowed 3,336 feet in six days and was steadily approaching the coast at the latest advices.

The Samoan Zeitung reported that at the beginning of March there was more lava in motion than at any previous time and it seemed as though there would be no end to the eruption. The volcanic activity, which began just a year ago, gradually subsided and it was enought in November that the phenomena were practically at an end, for a time at least.

In December, however, the eruptions began again with redoubled fury, and there is no telling when peace and quiet will again bless the lonely island. Savaii is off the usual ocean routes and communication with it is neither regular nor frequent, and so it happens that news only occasionally reaches us from the land that is now the victim of such troublous times.

ATTITUDES IN SLEEP.

The Odd Postures in Which Animals and Fish Seek Repose—Hedgehog Like Chestnut Bur.

Fish have a density so nearly that of water that they can rest quietly on sand or gravel without apparent effort. Are they asleep? Probably, though they do not shut their eyes. At the beginning of evening, for instance, the gudgeon chooses a sandy spot between stones and remains there, facing the current, its body resting on the lower lobe of the tail and on its pectoral and ventral fins. It is possible that it assumes the same position in winter and remains in it until spring, hibernating. The barbels and breams sleep in companies, like the gudgeon, but on a muddy bottom. The pike sleeps in summer near the bank, at the surface, where the sunlight can reach it. The carp keeps near the bottom. The eel hides in holes that it makes nearer the bank.

The obervation of sea fish is more difficult, as may be imagined. It is now agreed that herrings, mackerel and other so-called migratory fish pass the winter at the bottom in the kind of lethargy. Do they adopt the gudgeon's position? Perhaps, though Pleville le Peley has seen thousands of mackerel half buried in the mud, holding their tails vertically above it. Batrachians sleep sitting with the head in the air. The toad sleeps by day in holes or under rocks and retires underground for the winter. He burrows backward his hind feet and the end of his body serving to dig the hole, while he pushes with his fore feet. The marsupials are generally forced by the shape of their bodies to sleep sitting. The phalanger fox sleeps in a crouching position, the head between the fore feet. The lemurs also crouch, with the long, bushy tail around the hind feet. With the chimpanzees and other apes the hair on the upper arm and the forearm grows in opposite directions. This serves to protect the animal more effectively from the rain when he sleeps crouching in the thick woods or in the brush with his arms folded and pressed against the body. The orang takes his siesta with bent back, head hanging on his chest and sometimes holding to a branch by one of his extended arms, but generally with both arms hanging by his sides.

Penguins and pelicans also rest in a sitting posture. A whole flock takes refuge under a projecting rock, the beak resting on the breast or with neck bent, to allow it to rest on the back. The hare does not sleep with open eyes, as has been wrongfully asserted, for its pupils are hermetically closed during sleep.

The crocodile and the cayman repose on the ground on the entire ventral surface. Lizards sleep with their eyes shut and their mouths open. Turtles naturally take the same position, the land varieties in dry grass or in a shallow burrow, the marine ones at the surface of the sea, on which they float. This is the moment chosen for catching them.

Most of the ruminants lie on the flank. Camels stretch out with necks extended. Deer lie near each other in winter. The horse stretches out his legs. Cats and hares also sometimes stretch themselves.

The carnivores—the cat family, the bear, dog, wolf, fox, etc.—curl up or place the head stretched out on the paws. Several rodents, like the rat, sleep rolled up in a ball. The hedgehog, which passes the whole day hidden among stones or brush or in the trunk of a hollow tree, also rolls up, with its head and paws under its belly so that it looks like a huge chestnut bur.

BAITING WITH MUSIC.

Remarkable Way An Italian Savant Catches Fish.

Fish are regarded as being deaf and dumb. But there are some fish that pipe, others that grunt, and others still that drum and whistle.

On the Danube men hang little bells to their nets to attract fish. In Japan, fish are summoned to dinner by gongs, and the monks in an abbey in Belgium whistle to their carp when they wish to feed them. But the most remarkable story is that which was seriously recorded not long since of an Italian savant who uses a musical bait to catch fish.

It appears that while the slightest noise scatters them in all directions, a musical note, especially that produced by the human voice, attracts them, and on hearing if they stop suddenly in their course. Having discovered this fact, the Italian embarked one morning on the Lake of Geneva with a party of friends.

He possessed a fine deep bass voice, and striking up a national song, he proved to his astonished companions the truth of his assertions. They were able, by means of an aquascope, to perceive the eagerness with which the piscine population gathered around the little boat. Then, casting their nets, they instantly made such a catch as has rarely, if ever, been known on the lake.

WOULD IT SUIT OUR M.D.'S

How the Medical Fraternity of Japan Treat the Poor.

A Japanese doctor never thinks of asking a poor patient for a fee. There is a proverb among the medical fraternity of Japan: "When the twin enemies, poverty and disease, invade a home, then he who takes aught from that home, even though it be given him, is a robber."

"Often," says Dr. Matsumoto, "a doctor will not only give his time and his medicine freely to the sufferer, but he will also give him money to tide over his dire necessities. Every physician has his own dispensary, and there are very few chemists' shops in the empire.

"When a rich man calls in a physician he does not expect to be presented with a bill for medical services. In fact, no such thing as a doctor's bill is known in Japan, although nearly all the other modern practices are in vogue there. The doctor never asks for his fee.

"The strict honesty of the people makes this unnecessary. When he has finished with a patient, a present is made to him of whatsoever sum the patient or his friends may deem to be just compensation. The doctor is supposed to smile, take the fee, bow, and thank his patron."

TRUE STORY OF A DOG.

A gentleman once possessed a valuable sporting dog which was extremely clever in the retrieving of game. The owner, however, was a remarkably bad shot, and one day on firing both barrels hastily at a rabbit, he heard a mournful howl. The next moment his dog appeared, carrying a black object in his mouth, and laid it carefully at his master's feet. The animal had retrieved his own tail. —Calgary Herald.

Grandfather's Cure for Constipation

GREAT medicine,—the Sawbuck. Two hours a day sawing wood will keep anyone's Bowels regular.

No need of pills, Cathartics, Castor Oil, nor "Physic," if you'll only work the Sawbuck regularly.

Exercise is Nature's Cure for Constipation and,—a Ten-Mile walk will do, if you haven't got a wood-pile.

But, if you will take your Exercise in an Easy Chair, there's only one way to do that, because,—there's only one kind of Artificial Exercise for the Bowels and its name is "CASCARETS."

Cascarets are the only means to exercise the Bowel Muscles without work.

They don't Purge, Gripe, nor "upset your Stomach," because they don't act like "Physics."

They don't flush out your Bowels and Intestines with a costly waste of Digestive Juice, as Salts, Castor Oil, Calomel, Jalap, or Aperient Waters always do.

No—Cascarets strengthen and stimulate the Bowel Muscles, that line the Food passages and that tighten up when food touches them, thus driving the food to its finish.

A Cascaret acts on your Bowel Muscles as if you had just sawed a cord of wood, or walked ten miles.

Cascarets move the Food Naturally, digesting it without waste of tomorrow's Gastric Juice.

The thin, flat, Ten-Cent Box is made to fit your Vest pocket, or "My Lady's" Purse. Druggists—10 Cents a Box.

Carry it constantly with you and take a Cascaret whenever you suspect you need one.

Be very careful to get the genuine made only by the Sterling Remedy Company, and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC." 788

SUDDEN DEATH.

Dr. Jolicoeur, District Coroner, was notified yesterday of the death during the previous night of a carter named Souey, a resident of Limoilon. It appears that the man died shortly after he had eaten supper. The deceased was 46 years of age, and was a married man with a family. An inquest will be held this morning.

WATCH DISAPPEARED.

Complaint was laid with the police yesterday by a man named Gustave Berube, belonging to a schooner lying at Rioux's wharf, to the effect that a watch belonging to him had been taken from the vessel during the previous night. A man who went aboard the schooner peddling goods is under suspicion of having taken the timepiece.

Charcoal Kills Bad Breath.

Bad Odor of Indigestion, Smoking, Drinking or Eating Can Be Instantly Stopped.

Sample Package Mailed Free.

Other people notice your bad breath where you would not notice it at all. It is nauseating to other people to stand before them and while you are talking, give them a whiff or two of your bad breath. It usually comes from food fermenting on your stomach Sometimes you have it in the morning, —that awful sour, bilious, bad breath. You can stop that at once by swallowing one or two Stuart Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful gas and odor absorbers ever prepared.

Sometimes your meals will reveal themselves in your breath to those who talk with you. "You've had onions," or "You've been eating cabbage," and all of a sudden you belch in the face of your friend. Charcoal is a wonderful absorber of odors, as every one knows. That is why Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are so quick to stop all gases and odors of odorous foods, or gas from indigestion.

Don't use breath perfumes. They never conceal the odor, and never absorb the gas that causes the odor. Besides, the very fact of using them reveals the reason for their use. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges in the first place stop for good all sour brash and belching of gas, and make your breath pure, fresh and sweet, just after you've eaten. Then no one will turn his face away from you when you breathe or talk; your breath will be pure and fresh, and besides your food will taste so much better to you at your next meal. Just try it.

Charcoal does other wonderful things, too. It carries away from your stomach and intestines, all the impurities there massed together and which causes the bad breath. Charcoal is a purifier as well as an absorber.

Charcoal is now by far the best, most easy and mild laxative known. A whole boxful will do no harm; in fact, the more you take the better. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made of pure willow charcoal and mixed with just a faint flavor of honey to make them palatable for you, but not too sweet. You just chew them like candy. They are absolutely harmless.

Get a new, pure, sweet breath, freshen your stomach for your next meal, and keep the intestines in good working order. These two things are the secret of good health and long life. You can get all the charcoal necessary to do these wonderful but simple things by getting Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. We want you to test these little wonder workers yourself before you buy them. So send us your full name and address for a free sample of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. Then after you have tried the sample, and been convinced, go to your your druggist and get a 25c. box of them. You'll feel better all over, more comfortable, and "cleaner" inside.

Send us you name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package, free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 50 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

ANOTHER ARREST MADE.

The search for the thieves who stole the cloth from Hout's tailor shop on St. John street is being actively pursued by the police, and Detective Defoy and Constable Copeman, about 10.30 o'clock yesterday morning, effected the arrest of a prisoner, whom it is thought may be connected with the gang. The man, who gives the name of Jones, says he only arrived here on Thursday night, but his account of himself is, so far, considered by the police, to be very unsatisfactory. When arrested the man was clothed in a suit of blue overalls, but the police were surprised to discover that under them his clothes were of good quality and not at all in keeping with a man whose occupation would compel him to don overalls. In addition he wore patent leather shoes and silk stockings. The prisoner is being held on a charge of loitering while the investigation is continued. Detective Walsh has, in the meantime, gone to Montreal, to confer with the police of that city in regard to three individuals who have already been arrested on suspicion.

AT THE AUDITORIUM

(Re-written and Released.)

Paris, August 26. — Madame Yvette Guilbert has a new idea regarding the actress of the future, and is not at all backward about making it known. While her theory may be somewhat Utopian in scheme, it bears the marks of some thought.

"The actress of the future," said Madame Guilbert, "is to be a most fortunate individual, for she will be gradually raised to a plane of art that will have for its ultimate object the sincere approval of all classes. Today there are those who affect to look upon the stage and the actress as creatures of the devil, but happily these are in the minority. The time will come when the actress will have achieved a position that will be as secure as that of any great artist or musician. She will have to play in but few cities and those widely separated instead of rushing all about the country. You know women are better actors than men, and consequently women will be the actors in the future."

Mme. Guilbert in conjunction with Albert Chevalier, the celebrated English humorist, will appear at the Auditorium next Wednesday evening.

THE RAGGED MESSENGER.

Creston Clarke, whose artistic rendition last season of the difficult role of "Monsieur Beaucaire" gained for him the exceptional high praise of "the best romantic actor upon the stage to-day," has this season had conferred upon him the equally distinctive title of "the best emotional actor of the present time." His interpretation of the modern role of John Morton, the clergyman, in "The Ragged Messenger," which he will give at the Auditorium, on October 18, 19 and 20th, is said to be as rare an exhibition of emotional acting as has ever been seen. He brings to the part the same intelligence, finish and inspirational spark as have always characterized his work. His countless admirers in this city are planning a royal welcome for him.

MME. MODJESKA.

Madame Modjeska, who will soon make her farewell visit to this city, is leaving the American stage at the very zenith of her fame and popularity. Although she has had a long career and has scored more and greater triumphs than usually fall to the lot of an actress, her health and talents still remain unimpaired. The vacancy that will be left after her retirement, at the close of the present theatrical season, cannot be easily filled. Many local patrons of the drama who have not been to the theatre all season will be among the large audience that is certain to witness the farewell appearance of Madame Modjeska here.

MUNITIONS OF WAR

For Quebec Ordnance Department Have Arrived.

The Quebec Transport Company after some up-hill work, has at last established a good freight connection with the English markets that is likely to become important in the course of time, and demonstrate the value of a Quebec line of steamships.

The Company's steamer Puritan arrived at an early hour this morning, and has brought out nearly 3,000 tons of general cargo to be landed at this port, which includes eight quick-firing Maxim guns and 600 shells consigned to the Quebec Ordnance Department.

Mr. Thomas Harling, the Managing Director of the Quebec Transport Co., has labored hard to bring about this result, and it is said he is now meeting with splendid success, and when he goes to England this coming winter in the interest of his Company, expects to establish good paying connections that will bring the Quebec steamship line prominently to the front, and warrant the first-class line of steamers that is being negotiated for next season's trade.

CONSTABLE PROMOTED.

Constable Mercier, for the past 21 years a member of the Provincial Police, has been appointed Sergeant Detective and attached to the Police Court. Constable Mercier's promotion is well merrited, for his service has been a long and faithful one. He has been engaged in many noted cases, and among others aided in the capture of the famous outlaw Morrison in the woods at Lake Megantic.

BADLY DAMAGED.

Shortly after nine o'clock last evening a fire alarm from box 29 brought a portion of the brigade to the store of Louis Mongeon, cabinet-maker, Cote d'Abraham, where a fire had declared itself. The men of the brigade, however, had several streams of water soon playing on the building which was badly damaged by water and smoke.

LONDON LATEST OFFICE NOVELTIES.

The finest stock of the latest English office devices has just been received by I. P. Dery & Fils., 59 Dalhousie street, city. The following ones deserve special mention. White wicker letter baskets and letter trays, cut glass ink bottles and paper weights, stationery rack, scales, dampers and sponge bowls, duplicating apparatus. These above goods have never been sold at such low price in Quebec before.

WORK AT THE NATURAL STEPS.

Dr. Amie, of the Dominion Geological Survey, who has been called on to make an expert examination of the rock formation in connection with the Natural Steps, arrived in town yesterday, and subsequently left for the Falls to go over the site of the operations.

PIMPLES, BLACKHEADS—

Get Rid Of All Your Face Troubles in a Few Days' Time With the Wonderful Stuart Calcium Wafers.

Trial Package Sent Free.

You cannot have an attractice face or a beautiful complexion when your blood is in bad order and full of impurities. Impure blood means an impure face, always.

The most wonderful as well as the most rapid blood cleanser is Stuart's Calcium Wafers. You use them for a few days, and the difference tells in your face right away.

Most blood purifiers and skin treatments are full of poison. Stuart's Calcium Wafers are guaranteed free from any poison, mercury, drug, or opiate. They are as harmless as water, but the results are astonishing.

The worst cases of skin diseases have been cured in a week by this quick-acting remedy. It contains the most effective working power of any purifier ever discovered—calcium sulphide. Most blood and skin treatments are terribly slow. Stuart's Calcium Wafers have cured boils in three days. Every particle of impurity is driven out of your system completely, never to return, and it is done without deranging your system in the slightest.

No matter what your trouble is whether pimples, blotches, blackheads, rash, tetter, eczema, or scabby crusts you can solemnly depend upon Stuart's Calcium Wafers as never-failing.

Don't be any longer humiliated by having a splotchy face. Don't have strangers stare at you, or allow your friends to be ashamed of you because of your face.

Your blood makes you what you are. The men and women who forge ahead are those with pure blood and pure faces. Did you ever stop to think of that?

Stuart's Calcium Wafers are absolutely harmless, but the results — mighty satisfying to you even at the end of a week. They will make you happy because your face will be a welcome sight not only to yourself when you look in the glass, but to everybody else who knows you and talks with you.

We want to prove to you that Stuart's Calcium Wafers are beyond doubt the best and quickest blood and skin purifier in the world—so we will send you a free sample as soon as we get your name and address. Send for it to-day, and then when you have tried the sample you will not rest contented until you have bought a 50c. box at your druggist's.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package, free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 51 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Each issue the same everywhere except the local sections, and brimfull of the week's happenings, flashed by wire from all parts of the country up to going to press.

The big events of the week featured in national editorials contributed by telegraph by fourteen editors throughout the country up to midnight Friday, shaped-up by Samuel Hopkins Adams and his associates in New York, and telegraphed back to all the branches, for publication this morning.

Ridgway's is the newest thing in modern journalism. It is published by twentieth century methods for twentieth century people. Edited by telegraph, and in your hands a few hours after going to press. It is an epitome of the vital important things that concern the nation and you with their real significance made clear.

The magazine section is good. There are excellent stories, well illustrated, several articles, plenty of humor of the sort that lingers in the memory.

The illustrations are a big feature. 16 pages of half-tones printed on super paper depicting the important national and local occurrences in Business, Politics, Finance, Sports, Society and the Drama.

W. Gilmore Beymer contributes a brilliant short story, "The Left Handed House," splendidly illustrated.

William Travers Jerome, New York's District Attorney, writes an answer to an absorbing question, Is the Political Boss Doomed?

Joseph Conrad begins his great serial story, The Secret Agent, a story that will interest and fascinate.

Martin Egan conducts the Washington Bureau with a big staff of editors, contributing the latest news from the capitol. Every department of the government service under review by alert and able writers.

There are 4 pages on national topics of the week, 4 pages of national editorials, 8 pages of local happenings in your district, 16 pages illustrating current events, 8 pages from the Washington Bureau, 4 pages of humor, with additional pages of general articles and sketches, making 64 pages in all.

GREAT CLEARING SALE.

A great clearing sale of gents' furnishings is now in progress at the store of W. Vincent & Co., No. 33 Fabrique street, and will continue until disposed of. The goods are being sold at a great sacrifice, and the whole stock of choice furnishings are offered. Owing to the reorganization of the firm, the gents' furnishings department of the business is to be dispensed with in order to make room for a large consignment of cloths, tweeds, etc., in connection with the tailoring department. The sale presents a great opportunity to secure a choice lot of furnishings at prices away below cost. See advt.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Mr. Timothy Healey's Message to His Irish Friends in Quebec.

Mr. Timothy M. Healey, the well-known Irish member of the British House of Commons, accompanied by Mrs. and Miss Healey, sailed for home by the C. P. R. steamer Empress of Ireland yesterday afternoon. Mr. Healey arrived by the Empress special from Montreal, and went directly on board the steamer.

To Mr. M. Monoghan, of this city, an old friend of the famous Irishman, and who went on board to see him, Mr. Healey expressed his regret that he had not been able to spare the time to visit the Ancient Capital.

"I wish you to tell my Irish friends in Quebec," said Mr. Healey, "that Home Rule prospects were never brighter than at present, nor the conditions of the country more hopeful."

Mr. Monaghan, who knew Mr. Healey intimately before leaving Ireland for Canada, was greatly pleased at the opportunity afforded of renewing his acquaintance with him.

CHARGED WITH INTIMIDATION.

The man Gagne, charged with intimidation in connection with the street railway strike in Levis, appeared in the Police Court yesterday afternoon, his case preceding before Judge Chauveau, who took the matter under advisement.

THE QUEBEC BRIDGE.

The fine season is rapidly passing over but that does not prevent the Quebec bridge from advancing rapidly and, moreover, it is a splendid sight to witness by the passengers of steamer Frontenac, who can visit it on board that steamer by the 1.30 and 3.30 trips on Sunday from Quebec.

How Dunlop Heels Save the Nerves

Altho Dunlop Rubber Heels are fixt to the shoes, they actually fit in between each of the thirty-one joints of the spine.

They supply a cushion for the fall of the foot and thus absorb the jar that is sent thru the spine when the heel strikes the ground in the motion of walking.

Hard leather heels are good enough for walking over soft footing, but when solid pavements and hard floors have to be stept on, something is needed that will ease the force of the contact.

Most any rubber heel will help some, but Dunlop "Comfort" Rubber Heels will help most and wear longest—last as long as leather heels. They are made of live rubber thru and thru, and they will give spring to the step down to the last point of wear.

Everything in Dunlop rubber is made to uphold the reputation of the name "Dunlop" and worthy to bear this trade mark.

Put on by all Shoedealers. Fifty Cents the Pair.

INDUSTRY OF THE INSECT.

Creatures May Have Business or Simply be Exercising.

I doubt if anyone half realizes how life teems in the world unless he has thrown himself down in the grass or under an oak or willow on the moss, and has lain there for an hour or more watching what goes on about him, writes S. Baring-Gould in the London Leader. If he be observant he will find himself, like Gulliver in Lilliput, with multitudes of active beings swarming about him engaged on their several pursuits—seeking food, in quest of mates, or merely promenading to exercise their limbs.

There is an old story of a king and his servant; the day was hot, his majesty was tired, and he expressed the desire to sleep. Accordingly he lay down in the hedge and was soon snoring. But the servant sat by his master, watching, and to his surprise saw a little creature like a tiny newt issue from between the lips of the king and begin to run about. A little trickle of water was near, and the newt crossed this on a bent leaf of grass and disappeared among the flowers and foliage beyond, After an hour the servant saw the small creature reappear beside the water, when he removed the grass suspension bridge by which he had crossed. The newt ran up and down the bank in great perplexity till it discovered a twig laid across the stream. It crossed that, ran to the sleeping king, darted into his mouth, and his majesty awoke.

"Have you slept well, sire?" asked the servant.

"Yes; I have had a pleasant dream. I thought I was walking in a fair land, where the buttercups were of the size of the sun and the bluebells as big as the largest cathedral bell. And I saw before me a mighty river, crossed by the most beautiful bridge conceivable, as of green grass, but perfectly solid and not likely to break. Having traversed the river on this bridge I entered a wonderful world, peopled by the most marvelous beings, full of cleverness and mother wit, and—— But I cannot tell you all. Suffice it to say I found great difficulty in getting back, for the green bridge had been carried away by the torrent, and I had to find another."

Then the servant knew that what he had seen was not a lizard or a newt but the soul of the king on its wanderings whilst he slept.

Now, I venture to say that anyone who on a hot July day will lie as suggested in the grass, among the heather on a moor, beneath a tree in the wood, will find his soul transported into a world of which he has not dreamed, and will see sights of which he had no previous conception. He will be visited by a vast number of insects, quite harmless, moved by curiosity, desirous of seeing if anything in their way can be got out of him, but he will also see a greater number going about their own business, unconcerned by his presence, intent only on its own affairs, it may be seeking food, it may be merely passing the time.

And all the insect world seems to be so happy, to be without a care, and yet it has its tragedies and sorrows. Just then went by the ichneumon fly, very small, but capable of compassing the destruction of many a caterpillar, though not one-thousandth part of the size of a single victim. This fly perches on the back of the grub, pierces its skin with a sharp hollow needle wherewith it is furnished, and the force of the stab projects an egg under the skin into the flesh.

As each wound is made the caterpillar shows a certain amount of uneasiness, but does not intermit its eating. The eggs of the ichneumon are speedily hatched within the body of the grub, and they devour the fatty portions of the caterpillar, shrewdly leaving the vital organs untouched. When the time arrives for the caterpillar to change into chrysalis the ichneumon grubs eat their way into their foster mother and at once spin for themselves a number of yellow cocoons, among which the dying caterpillar is often hopelessly entangled and where it expires.

I once gave a great scare to an old lady. I saw an ichneumon fly perch on her hand, and she exclaimed that she had been pricked by it. So I gravely described to her how that insect provides for the young of its kind. The old lady, who was very fat, turned green, and, looking at me with a ghastly face, asked, in a voice that quivered with emotion: "How long do you think it will be before they reach my vital organs?" It was a rather cruel joke, but I never for a moment supposed that she would take the matter seriously.

Wondeful it is that the insects should have their maladies like mortal men, and that these maladies should be due to those confounded microbes of which we have heard so much and of which we are in terror of our lives.

Almost every caterpillar has a silk-forming organ—a double organ it is; there is a vessel containing a gummy substance from which the silk is spun, and as there are two of these silk-making organs, the result is a double thread. If these threads lie parallel to each other the silk is good. But there is silk and silk, and the silk of most caterpillars is not valuable.

The production of the silk of the silk-worm is the great industry of the Southern Cevennes, where every farmer grows acres of mulberry trees, and all members of his family for the few weeks of the hatching out of the silk-worms to their spinning cocoons are busily engaged.

A few years ago the silk-worms were attacked by a disease called fibrine that threatened the extinction of the industry, and a panic fell on the inhabitants of the Cevennes. M. Pasteur was sent for. He came down and examined the moth, and discovered that the malady was due to a detestable little living organism— a microbe, in short; that there was no other way of getting rid of the sickness than by stamping it out. Now, every moth when it lays its eggs is enveloped in a little bag, labelled, and sent to a laboratory, there to be pounded up and examined through a microscope. If the germs of fibrine be detected, moth and egg are consigned to the fire. At Alais is a bronze statue to Pasteur, who is represented waving a twig of mulberry with caterpillars on it, and adoring Cevenal peasants kneeling at his feet. He saved the industry.

Look at the little hardwooded plants, as well as the shrubs and trees, and see how the leaves are studded with galls. Provisions these, made by insects for their young to live and thrive, whilst they themselves gad elsewhere. In the Cevennes just mentioned was once a great industry now extinct. The almost barren limestone tracts and mountains grow the dwarf kermes oak, evergreen with spiky leaves, like holly. On the underpart of the leaf lives the Kermes insect, much as a tick does on a dog or sheep. It blows itself out with the juices of the plant, but transforms this juice into a brilliant crimson, which was used by dyers until the cochineal insect was discovered to take its place as yielding a richer crimson. This year the roses have been attacked with the aphis, the green fly, very seriously. Spare every ladybird you see. It is the natural enemy of the aphis, as the aphis is the enemy of the rose.

WONDERS OF VEGETATION.

The fertility of some members of the vegetable world is really astounding. Thus, an ounce of onion seed which was sown in a garden at Newton Abbott produced no less than 400 pounds of onions. This will give some idea as to the prolific nature of vegetables, but it is by no means an isolated example, says London Tit-Bits.

For instance, at Musbury, a village near Axminster, an agriculturist planted an ordinary winter cattle bean. The average individual if asked how many beans made five would make a different answer from that which the agriculturist would give. His single bean produced no fewer than 660 beans.

Very extraordinary is the force exerted by growing vegetation. A curious example of this fact has been furnished in the gardens at Kelsey Park, Beckenham. Signs of cracking were observed in the brickwork of a frame and gradually a block was pushed out of position. This weighed in the aggregate over 1 1-2 hundredweight. Several bricks had to be cut out by the workmen, and then they found a mass of mushrooms, only 3 pounds 3 ounces in weight, growing in the centre of the wall.

Melons are extremely strong; in fact, one has been known to raise a weight amounting to two and a half tons.

A well-known student of nature tried to estimate the strength of a melon when it was eighteen days old and measured 27 inches in circumference. He fixed a sort of harness around it, with a long arm or lever attached, and so was able to measure the force of the melon by the weight it lifted at the end of the lever. When about twenty days old—that is, a couple of days after the harness had been fixed on—it exerted a strength of sixty pounds, while seventeen days afterward it actually lifted 5,000 pounds weight.

The seed of the globe turnip measures only about the twentieth part of an inch in diameter, yet in the course of a month or two it will enlarge into 27,000,000 times its original bulk, in addition to the large crop of leaves.

In fact, by careful experiment it has been found that a turnip seed, under favorable conditions, will increase its own weight fifteen times in a minute. Turnips growing in peat ground have been found to increase more than 15,000 times the weight of their seed in a single day. By exceptional means, such as by drugging, even this may be exceeded.

In this connection it may be added that by drugging plants and other vegetables their rate of growth can be increased to an astonishing extent. When placed in air-tight dens and fed on ether for twenty-four hours, until they become permeated with the fumes, they mature in about half the time it takes them to develop naturally. It is confidently expected that this method of drugging will work a recolution in the methods of forcing flowers and garden vegetables.

The cleverness of plants is extremely remarkable, and some of them employ the most ingenious stratagems whenever danger threatens them. There is, for example, a species of Mimosa in South Africa which feigns death in times of danger. This is evidently for the purpose of preventing grass-eating animals from plucking it. While in a natural state the plant is of a vivid hue, yet directly it is touched by any living animal it collapses into a tangle of apparently dead and withered stems. Among British wild plants, by far the most sensitive is that of the insectivorous sundew, which is found on boggy land.

Notwithstanding their vitality, members of the vegetable world will not flourish in smoky towns. Even the hardy trees have no love for those products of modern civilization. It is well to know that horticulturists are almost unanimous in giving their vote to the plane as the best tree for planting in smoky towns. Where the smoke is not too dense, it is found that limes, horse chestnuts and Turkey oaks do well, but that practically exhausts the list. Among the shrubs which will grow are hollies, laurels, japonicas, mountain ashes and almost any hardy evergreens.

The game of hide and seek came from Europe about the beginning of the seventeenth century.

"Grand Peninsular"
The Ideal Kitchen Range

The "Grand Peninsular" is my ideal of what a perfect cast-iron range should be.

It is the most reliable cooker of its kind—because the oven is built exactly like the oven of an expensive steel range.

Steel radiates heat quicker than cast-iron. Instead of using only a steel BOTTOM—I make the ENTIRE OVEN—top, bottom and sides—of patent Levelled Steel Plate.

That's one reason why the "Grand Peninsular" is such a quick, even cooker—and saves so much fuel.

Then I do away with all guess work about the baking, by putting a thermometer on the oven door. The oven is perfectly ventilated—the air kept fresh and dry—thus preventing soggy baking. I make the Grate Bars large and strong and easily removable.

All the ornamentation—the nickeled parts—can be lifted off the range when cleaning, without loosening a single bolt. You can see Peninsular Ranges at your local dealer's store. 40

NEAR MIDNIGHT SUN.

Baseball Games at Edmonton Began at 8.30 P.M. and Daylight Lasted Till Nearly Eleven O'Clock.

In his sixth letter from the Canadian Northwest the special commissioner of the New York Post writes in part as follows:—

Crossing the Gilbert Plains, we saw our first Northwest Mounted policeman. We brought him into the car and asked him questions. In a strange country the most reliable sources of information are cab drivers, barbers, and policemen. Lake, for that was the constable's name, proved no exception to the rule. He had been down to Brandon with a violently insane man, and had not slept for two days and night. His adventures with his charge were a story in themselves.

He was stationed at Fort Saskatchewan, twenty miles from this point, and one of the things that he told us stuck in our minds—that on guard duty in June he had read a newspaper until 10.45 o'clock in the evening before the light failed, and had resumed his reading at 1.30 in the morning, when the sun was shining again. This sounded too much like an Arctic tale to be true. But the first thing seen in Edmonton was a large banner stretched across the street, bearing this inscription: "Baseball tonight at 8.30." The advertisement in the paper read:—"Go to the baseball game after dinner to-night."

Edmonton is one of the big fur depots of the Northwest. The Hudson's Bay Co. has been in here for years, and now they have a competitor in Revillon Freres, whose trappers are working over the same territory with the older company.

On the high hills above the river on which the city is built the prospect is pleasing to the eye. In the river below there are gold dredges seeking in a desultory sort of way to extract the precious dust from the sands of the river. "Farthest north" is the centre of an apparently rich farming district instead of a jumping-off place. The fields are diversified by frequent pieces of timber land. Coming north from Edmonton over the miles of flat prairie dotted with raw frontier towns, the contrast is striking. If you have ever seen Ashtabula, O., where so many people were killed in the famous wreck, you have seen Edmonton.

At a guess, though Ashtabula has not eleven banks on its principal thoroughfare, each housed in a commodious brick building of its own Nor is it any hotter in Chattanooga to-day than it is here, thousands of miles to the north. After you come within the zone of the warm winds from the Japan current, latitude ceases to be a factor in making temperature. While the land is new, the contrasts are startling. Within rifle shot of a railroad passenger office that could not be distinguished from the most spacious one on lower Broadway, I came upon an Indian family on their travels. First came the squaw pulling at the head of a reluctant piebald pack pony. The second pony was drawing a travois loaded with outfit and surmounted by a baby. On the third pony was an Indian girl with the head-line of another pack pony, and bringing up the rear without burden or responsibility was the old Indian who was the head of the outfit. They were traveling across country to visit friends and paid not the slightest heed to our comments or presence.

Edmonton had but 1,500 or 2,000 people in 1898, when the rush to the Yukon gave the town its first impetus to a larger growth. Notwithstanding, four years later, the population had not increased. The Hudson's Bay Co. has had a trading post at Edmonton for more than a hundred years, but the Saskatchewan River was the only outlet to the world. Freights were prohibited. A keg of nails was worth $50. The greatest need of the town was a railroad. Time after time the citizens besought the Canadian Pacific to come to their aid. When the road finally decided to come in, its officers concluded that they would save the cost of a bridge over the river by founding a new town on the opposite bank. Strathcona came into being, six miles away, and Edmonton was invited to cross over. Strathcona was at first called Edmonton, and the old town was calmly requested to give up its name.

The next move of the railroad people was to request the Dominion Government to move the land office across the river. The loss of this institution, of course, meant the death of the town. However, the Federal Government issued the order, the agent packed up the property at his office, and started to move when the citizens of Edmonton, with rifles, stopped the proceedings. The Mounted Police came in and averted bloodshed. The officer in charge persuaded the land agent not to move until an appeal had been made to Ottawa. The citizens of Edmonton posted armed sentries and waited. The Ottawa Government changed its mind and the land office stayed.

For fourteen years that followed the single ambition of Edmonton was to keep ahead of Strathcona in growth, despite the advantage the new town had in its railway connection. Now the Canadian Northern has come into Edmonton. The Grand Trunk Pacific will stop here, and it will be on the main line of "Jim" Hill's new Western Canada. Finally, the Canadian Pacific is building a high level bridge that will bring its line to Edmonton and that without a single concession from the town that would have been glad to have donated any amount of land for this railway station at any time since the conflict began. Though Edmonton is the northernmost point in Alberta yet developed, it is south of the centre of this great province, more than half of which is still given over to the Hudson's Bay posts and to traders and hunters. It is the section of Western Canada next to be opened after Saskatchewan and the lower half of Alberta are filled with settlers.

REAL TREASURE ISLANDS.

Where Columbus First Heard of America—Tens of Thousands of Islands Which Strew the Oceans are Laden With Natural Riches.

There are twenty-six islands in the group known as the Faroe Islands, and they were first discovered 1100 years ago by Tloke—a Norse pirate who put sheep upon them. "Fare" is the old Scandinavian word for sheep. They are famous, too, as being the islands where Columbus first heard of the existence of America.

In 1803 a British cruiser captured these islands, but in 1814 they were abandoned as worthless and went back to Denmark. Yeb Sudero, the southernmost of the group, which is about 30 miles long by 12 wide, is nothing but one gigantic mass of coal. But ships can steam right into a landlocked bay and there fill their bunkers from the seams which crop through the cliffs. And by steam, this island is only forty-eight hours from England.

The treasure island has always been a favorite theme for the writer of fiction, and without doubt there are, in actual fact, such things as pirates' hordes of gold buried in certain island cliffs and beaches. Such men as Admiral Palliser and Earl Fitzwilliam do not risk money and time as they have done for nothing, and there is pretty good proof that Keating's treasure of fifteen million dollars was actually buried in Cocos Island, and that another huge mass of loot was secreted in Trinidad. Whether either will be discovered is quite another matter.

But there is really no need to go and dig for buried millions when so many of the tens of thousands of islands which strew the oceans are laden with such natural riches, like the Island of Sudero already mentioned. Another instance in) White Island in the Bay of Plenty, New Zealand. About three miles in circumference, and rising in its centre to 840 feet above sea level, this island is a mass of minerals, principally gypsum and sulphur. Of course, it is purely volcanic, and a cloud of steam always hangs over it. In the centre is a lake about fifty acres in extent, which is practically nothing but dilute sulphuric acid. There ought to be money in White Island.

RICH IN NATURE'S TREASURES.

Guano to the value of many millions has been dug from the Chincha Islands, small, barren, sunbaked rocks, off the southwest coast of South America, and there are islands rich with a similar deposit and known as Plumpudding and Possession Islands, close to the coast of German South West Africa. Guano is now running short, but there are still a few islands rich in the fertilizing material which have not yet been worked at all. One was recently discovered about 400 miles southwest of Clipperton Island in the Central Pacific. This low coral atoll is covered with the richest phosphates, and has proved a fortune to its discoverers.

Off the coast of Spanish Honduras are the five Bay Islands. The largest of these, Rautan, is a veritable treasure island. It has the rishest soil and the most extraordinary climate. The temperature never rises above 88 degrees, nor falls below 66 degrees. The natives hardly ever do any work, for there is no need to do more than plant a patch of cocoanuts and cane and sweet potatoes. These renew themselves year by year. If anyone could buy that island and had a little money to develop it, he could make an immense fortune.

What are probably the most valuable islands in the world are the Fur Seal Islands in Behring Sea, and Robben Island in the Sea of Ohkotsk. The average take of the Kamochatva Industrial Company for years past has been 25,000 fur seals worth $750,000 and 300 sea otter skins valued on an average at $750 apiece. During the late war the Japanese raided many rookeries and are said to have secured over a million dollars worth of furs.

The weirdest treasure islands in the world are on Kabihoos. Frost bound, utterly barren and repulsively desolate no one could imagine them to be worth landing upon. Yet under their eternal ice are such huge stores of fossil ivoty, the remains of long extinct monsters, that the islands produce a revenue of about five million dollars yearly.

Why Chest Colds are Dangerous

They lead to pleurisy and pneumonia. Follow the advice of W. H. Powles of Powle's Corners, Ont., who says: "I used to be subject to attacks and although I used most everything nothing relieved quickly till I discovered Nerviline. I have used it for pleurisy and sore chest and found it just the proper thing. For Lumbago or Neuralgia it's quick as lightning. I cheerfully recommend Nerviline." Strongest, cleanest, most pain destroying liniment on earth is Polson's Nerviline, 25c. bottles sold everywhere.

HER FIRST FAILURE.

The honeymoon was young and sweet,
The little bride played well her part,
She could not cook by instinct, so
She tried to be a cook by heart.

One morning breakfast came not thence,
'Twas long past hubby's time to eat,
The bride stood by the kitchen range
And slowly, surely saw defeat.

She came into the dining-room,
Her pretty eyes with tears were wet,
"Oh, Frank," she cried, "I've boiled those eggs
One hour, and they're not soft yet."

BABY ATHLETES.

Infantile Prodigies Capable of Most Remarkable Stunts.

From time to time young children have shown quite extraordinary powers of strength and endurance, but probably no child in the world has exhibited these to the extent that little Francis Slevin has. This remarkable youngster, though not six years old, stands to-day as the youngest living athlete, having won that title at the famous baby parade held at Asbury park last August. Baby competitors from all parts of the United States were entered for the conest, the number being well over five hundred.

When being judged, "Baby" Slevin was represented as a sprinter toeing the mark in a stooping position illustrating the start of a race. He wore the colors of the New York Athletic Club, and was pronounced by the judges to be the most perfect physical competitor among all the contestants, and was awarded a handsome silver loving cup almost as high as himself.

This baby athlete first came into prominence last June at the Knights of Columbus games, where he won a 25 yards "midget race," doing the distance in 10 seconds. At the country fair held at Madison Square Garden a few weeks ago he gave exhibitions of several 25-yard dashes, and received first prize. He is the youngest member of the Athletic union, having been elected amid much enthusiasm on January 15 last.

Francis Slevin was born on the 19th December, 1900, in New York, his father being the champion sack runner of the world, and the smallest athlete on the cinder path in the States to-day. The boy's physical measurements are wonderful, and have been the subject of several discussion in various medical journals. That they are correct was proved by the writer, who is personally acquainted with the boy.

His height is 36 inches and he weighs exactly 40 pounds. His reach is 34 inches, measurement of chest 24 inches (normal) and 26 inches (expanded), waist 22 inches, biceps 8½ inches, neck 11 inches, foot 5 inches. So remarkable is his development that the future holds great possibilities for him. In addition to his athletic ability he is a footballer, a buck-dancer, a bag-puncher and a weight-thrower. He is now being taught the art of boxing by a well-known professor.

Another baby athlete only second in physical development to little Francis Slevin is August Geritz, the eight-year-old son of a trapeze artist, lately a member of the "Biggest Show on Earth" Company. This youngster can throw a double somersault as neatly as an adult acrobat, and he is, perhaps, just as physically well equipped as young Slevin, though, of course, older. He is remarkably clever on the trapeze, a daring bicyclist, and an excellent boxer. For his age he is not phenomenal in size, but beautifully proportioned. He has won prizes for foot races, varying from 25 yards to 100 yards in most of the principal cities of the union, and is said to be the cleverest "baby" hammer thrower in the world.

Among the baby athletes there have been several girls who, at an age when they should have been still in the nursery, have astonished audiences by their remarkable acrobatic performances.

One of the most noted of these is little Miss Grace Patten, also an American child, who has been touring the country in her father's circus, and proving, perhaps, the most attractive part of the show. This child, who is barely seven, has the physique of a girl of ten or eleven years, and is said to have commenced her education in the circus at the age of two years. Her father and mother are very clever acrobats, and the child, they say, showed an uncommon taste for "tumbling," (without any apparent injury to herself) at the tender age of 12 months. Physicians who have examined the child declare that the "strenuous" life she has led has had no ill effects upon her, but, on the contrary, has given to her a physique which few children possess.

She can put herself into any position without the least strain, and so supple is her little body that on the posters she is referred to as the "Rubber Baby." Her muscles are wonderfully developed, and she can lift with ease her own weight. In all gymnastics she excels, and she has never had a serious accident during her five years she has been training. Her father is now contemplating a tour in England, where, if she is allowed to perform, she will doubtless prove a "sensation."

The hunting and calling of moose and caribou are among the sportsman's chief delights during the continuance of the hunter's moon and the manly sport of tracking the big game through the gorgeous autumnal woods of the Canadian Adirondacks is one that tends to renewing the youth of both mind and body, and the upbuilding of a robust frame and a strenuous manhood. The Quebec and Lake St. John Railway is the open door to the sportsman s paradise of the northern woods, where moose, caribou and bears exist in countless numbers, their run-ways crossing the forests in every direction. oct.1xt.f.

PRESBYTERIAN FRENCH.

Toronto Presbyterian.

The Rounder had a holiday last week and went to Quebec. Before starting he carefully furnished up his stock of French so as to be ready for all emergencies, as he had been informed that in the quaintly beautiful old city even the children speak French and the horses do not understand English. In the Lower Town he asked a man in his very choicest French what car he should take to get to the Chateau Frontenac.

The supposed habitant looked at him with a grin, and said: "Bedad, sor, av yez take the car forninst yer nose an' transfer at the trassle ye'll get to the Chatty Frontenac all right. But av yez want to keep out av the loonatic asylum don't talk anny more av that kind av Frinch."

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

New York, Oct. 5—A sluggish upward movement of prices gave way in the last half four of the trading today to a buoyant and animated uprush which made up almost as large a volume of dealings as the whole of that for the rest of the day. The revival of the statement—verified shortly after the close of the trading—that the "ore deal" was ready to be announced caused the awakening. Up to that time dealings had been so dull as to offer small field for comment. The forecasts of the bank statement were for an increase of $8,000,000 to $9,000,000 in cash. This gain is mostly due to the deposit of Government funds with the banks under the offer of the treasury department. Money on call was easier. The stocks immediately connected with the ore projects were notably strong in the day's narrow market. Rumors were afloat at one time that President Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania, had died. Contradiction of this report did not entirely relieve the market from the repressive influence of the talk of his ill-health. Wall street gave attention to the excited cotton market. The renewed apprehension over the cotton crop is of direct importance to holders of shares in the cotton carrying railroads. Union Pacific's strength was connected with reports of the very favorable character of the forthcoming annual report. The market closed buoyant under the influence of the late outburst of animation. Bonds were firm.

To-day's market enjoyed a fair advance of from one to three points, on expectations of benefits to accrue to the United States Steels and several of the standard issues, upon consummation of the much vaunted ore deal. The opening prices this morning were at some improvement upon the Tow prices scored yesterday, as a result of the disappointment felt over what people considered inadequate dividend disbursment in Atchison and Canadian Pacific. The quotations to-day continued strong, however, and near the close the rumor was circulated on the exchange that the terms of the ore deal would be published after the close of the market. This report was accompanied by a young spurt which carried prices to the high point of the day and nailed them there at the close. We continue of the opinion that advantage should be taken of such rallies as the present to dispose of long holdings, for it seems to us that the bull ammunition is becoming exhausted for the time being and further substantial declines should follow. This view is suggested by the belief that the market is in a poor technical condition, because of the extensive weak lines of long stock distributed during the recent irregularity, not to mention the monetary situation and prevailing high level of securities prices.

NEW YORK CLOSING LETTER.

From E. & C. Randolphe's Private Wire to McDonald, Lesperance & Co.

Speculative sentiment was of a more cheerful character to-day and price movements on the stock exchange were generally toward a higher level. Talk of deals of various descriptions was resumed, but foremost of the news of the day was the announcement that the St. Paul Railway had authorized an increase of $150,000,000 in capital. This naturally gave rise to confident speculation in St. Paul stock. St. Paul, Union Pacific and Reading were the most aggressively bought on any of the Railroad list. To-day's market was a highly professional affair. A great many traders sold a considerable amount of stocks yesterday on advance information as to the radical character of President Roosevelt's speech and these same men repurpurchased the same stocks at considerably higher prices to-day when they found that there was no public liquidation on the Roosevelt speech. On the contrary, it was extremely well received. Money was decidedly easier and the rapidity with which stocks advanced toward the close shows the market is comparatively bare and the floating supply unusually small. Sales 953,400.

CLOSING LETTER.

By private wire Neuville Belleau & Co. 93 St. Peter Street, Quebec. Phone 946.

New York, Oct. 5—Although the dealings continued in comparatively small volume upon the stock exchange to-day a much improved feeling pervaded the trading and general though moderate advances were scored in all the active issues. Confident buying of the United States Steel issues and the Hill stocks was accompanied by a report that an important conference had been held last night at which it was stated further progress in the direction of concluding the ore deal had been made and the strength in these issues had a good effect upon the trading sentiment in general. In addition the low rates for call money coupled with the large gain by the banks on the week's currency movement, approximating $9,000,000 tended to create a hopeful feeling with regard to the monetary outlook, and evidence was plentiful that important interests were quickly accumulating stocks. This was particularly true of United States Steel, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, all of which maintained a strong tone throughout. There was also good buying of St. Paul, Northern Pacific and Great Northern, pfd. Amalgamated Copper was the principal feature of the industrial list outside of the United States Steel issues, the stock being steadily accumulated without attempts to force up the price unduly. After mid-day trading quieted down considerably and there was no particular feature until the last half hour when the whole list developed animation and strength under the lead of United States Steel and Union Pacific accompanied by reports that the ore deal terms would be announced this afternoon. The closing was strong and active at the best prices for the day.

BRADSTREETS' REVIEW.

New York, Oct. 5—Bradstreets tomorrow will say:—Cooler weather has stimulated retail trade and all fall lines feel the impetus. Wholesale business has been of good volume, re-orders for fall and some lines of spring goods being liberal. Great activity rules in industry. Canadian mills are rushed with orders for rails, imports are large and iron and steel tend upward. Butter and cheese exports are heavy, the latter especially showing a large increase. Grain is moving to market freely and money is getting easier. Building is very active. Collections are better than usual at this date. Weekly failures number 23, as against 27 last week and 25 in this week a year ago.

FROM SATURDAY TO WEDNESDAY

We are offering for sale a very pretty overcoat made to order, valued at $20 for $14.50; the material may be seen in one of our windows. Cut guaranteed. Gentlemen, take advantage of this offer.

There's a Reason for Grape-Nuts

DAY BY DAY.

Tear 'em up!
Eat 'em alive!
Rip 'em up the back!

No need of getting scared. There's no war on. Only the first football game of the season.

Goodrich evidently thought he had a good plan to get rich. He will have to be good now rich or not.

To-day's lacrosse matches will decide which two teams are to be left out in the cold—that is to finish the series amid the chilling blasts of the late autumn.

The crop of football hair is reported to be less luxuriant than usual this year. This may possible be due to the recent scarcity of water—or it may not.

It is not so much the buying of the fire wood as the sawing of it that makes life a blithering burden, says the Champlain street philosopher.

Those people who ornament the streets with rubbish done up in more or less neat paper parcels should be made to ornament the prisoner's box in the Recorder's Court once in a while. It might somewhat curb their decorative proclivities.

And nobody has yet suggested that the men who robbed the tailor shop on John street must have been of the Tweed stripe.

The military authorities have just heard of Champlain street, remarks the philosopher.

Montreal is getting up-to-date. The Black Hand is there now. It is, of course, unnecessary to say that this differs greatly from the glad hand.

The check-maker will now have three years to complete his studies in the art.

While it will cost very little to make a temporary road at the landslide, the military authorities spent many dollars telegraphing and telephoning the fact to Ottawa yesterday, says the Artillery street sage.

No, you can hardly say that Quebec Chinamen belong to the great unwashed.

If you don't like the match to-day, you needn't ask for the quarter back. There might be a scrimmage if you did.

This is October without the b-r-r-r!

Notwithstanding the lateness of the season, the dry period will tempt many people as usual to make a week-en-trip to that popular resort, across the river, where they raise base-ball champions and keep open on Saturday nights.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Young Men's Bible Class Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A hearty invitation is extended to all young men, strangers especially.

HIGH CLASS TAILORING.

Mr. W. Vincent, the well-known fashionable high class merchant tailor, will not leave Quebec for the West as many of his friends were disposed to think he would. He has made arrangements to continue in business at the old stand on Fabrique street, as manager of the newly organized firm of W. Vincent & Co., and will be pleased to meet his old customers as usual. The new firm is now engaged in making ready for an absolutely new stock of the finest quality of Imported Fall and Winter Goods, and is prepared to accept orders for suitings. The reputation of Mr. W. Vincent as a high class fashionable tailor, in keeping with the superior quality of the goods he always kept in stock, together with his excellent service in the make up of faultless garments, is a sufficient guarantee that the business will be carried on on the old lines and many improvements in addition. It is the intention of W. Vincent & Co., to confine all their efforts and special attention to their Tailoring Department only, and in view of this fact, the firm will do away with the Gents' Furnishing Department, which necessitates a clearing sale at a great sacrifice, of all the Gents' Furnishings in stock. The firm is anxious to dispose of this stock as soon as possible, to make room for new goods in connection with their Tailoring Department, and in order to facilitate their plans, have determined to sell all the Gents' Furnishings in stock for cash at a figure considerably below cost.

Bad Stomach Makes Bad Blood.

You can not make sweet butter in a foul, unclean churn. The stomach serves as a churn in which to agitate, work up and disintegrate our food as it is being digested. If it be weak, sluggish and foul the result will be torpid, sluggish liver and bad, impure blood.

The ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are just such as best serve to correct and cure all such derangements. It is made up without a drop of alcohol in its composition; chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol. Now this glycerine is of itself a valuable medicine, instead of a deleterious agent like alcohol, especially in the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion. Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of it:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. * * * It is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs; especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach). It is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric acidity. It is useful in chronic intestinal dyspepsia, especially the flatulent variety, and in certain forms of chronic constipation, stimulating the secretory and excretory functions of the intestinal glands."

When combined, in just the right proportions, with Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Queen's root, Bloodroot and Mandrake root, or the extracts of these, as in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, there can be no doubt of its great efficacy in the cure of all stomach, liver and intestinal disorders and derangements. These several ingredients have the strongest endorsement in all such cases of such eminent medical leaders as Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Hobart A. Hare, M. D., of Medical Department, University of Pa.; Prof. Ladrence Johnson, M. D., Medical Department, University of New York; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D. and Prof. John King, M. D., Authors of the American Dispensatory, and scores of others among the leading medical men of our land.

Who can doubt the curative virtues of a medicine the ingredients of which have such a professional endorsement?

Constipation cured by Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One or two a dose.

THE GOVERNMENT

Are Keen to Responsibility and Give Instructions for New Road.

The officials of the Militia Department were awakened yesterday morning by the Chronicle, to their responsibility in regard to the danger attending pedestrians compelled to pass along Champlain street in the vicinity of the landslide.

The exposition of the situation made in the Chronicle had its effect, and the same, when read, caused the Government representatives in this city to become energetic. The telegraphic and telephonic communications between this city and Ottawa were kept busy all forenoon, with the result that the opening of a roadway along the wharves past the dangerous point, was ordered at once. Mr. Mathieu, C.E., resident engineer of the Militia Department, acting upon instructions went to work yesterday afternoon to arrange with the property owners, and at last the residents of Champlain Ward will be able to proceed past the vicinity where the workmen are engaged in blasting the cliff with perfect safety. The opening of a new roadway comes none too soon. Already the street at the base of the cliff is nearly blocked with boulders hurled down and debris that followed. On Thursday several large pieces of the rock blasted from the height of the cliff came down and not only carried the safety fence away, but rushed across the street and knocked down the railings on the river side of the roadway and carried it and a large portion of the sidewalk into the vacant lots below the elevation. Fortunately no person was passing by at the time, otherwise they would most certainly have been struck and killed.

LECTURE AT LAVAL.

Count Maurice de Perigny lectured last evening in the grand hall of Laval University on the poet Frederic Meistral. Mgr. Mathieu, rector of the University, Mgr. Laflamme and a number of the professors were included in the large audience present. Count de Perigny was the representative of the Geographical Society of Paris at the Congress of Americanists held in this city last month.

FIREMEN'S FUND.

Alderman Foley, chairman of the Fire Committee, has received from the Mayor of Levis a cheque for the sum of $50 to be turned over to the Firemen's Fund in acknowledgment of the good work performed by the local fire fighters at the recent conflagration in Levis. The sum of $25 has also been received by the Treasurer of the Fund from the firm of D. Morgan, merchant tailor.
