'Paper war' Colored currency debated

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy may be asked to step in and settle an emerging paper war over colors in which the Montreal-born woman who signs her name on American paper currency is sharply challenged by the man who prints it.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rudel Smith, treasurer of the United States, has proposed that similar to the Canadian practice, denominations of American currency be printed in different colors to make it easier for handlers to tell one denomination from another.

Henry Holtzclaw, head of the federal engraving and printing division, believes that adding new tints and hues "would mean tremendous confusion and make it easier for counterfeiters."

"I've been in this printing and engraving business for 44 years," he told The Canadian Press, "and I believe chief reliance on colors for identification of different denominations would be a very hazardous undertaking."

"This is also the wrong time for any change. It would make people think President Kennedy is printing a new type of money to pay for all his social programs and that he is speeding up the printing presses."

At present, all American paper currency is printed in a light shade of green, somewhat similar to the Canadian $1 bill. Mrs. Smith, appointed treasurer by Kennedy, says she has received many complaints that this is confusing — that it is difficult to tell, for example, a $1 bill from a $5 bill unless you look closely at the figures.

Born and raised in Montreal, the daughter of an American immigrant, she said.

Education measure adopted

QUEBEC (CP) — The Liberal government's eight - bill legislative program to help education got off to a fast start in the Legislative Assembly Monday.

One of the major measures, authorizing $175,000,000 in government aid to expansion programs of universities during the next five years, was adopted by a vote of 37 to 18.

Study of two other bills was completed. Maximum to be spent in any one year from the $175,000,000 will be $40,000,000. Grants are to be voted upon annually by the assembly.

Building programs of Quebec's six universities will entail $300,000,000 expenses in the next five years.

PROPOSE SCHOLARSHIPS
The assembly gave second reading to a bill to authorize granting of 300 new scholarships a year to attract more high school, normal school and classical college professors.

The scholarships, ranging in value from $1,200 to $3,500, would go to above average students wishing to teach.

Second reading was given a bill which would make school commissions responsible for education from grade one through grade 11. There is no legal limit now.

The legislature already has passed a bill creating a royal commission into education and another providing family allowance of $10 monthly for each youth aged 16 and 17 still attending school.

Lives dog's life in 'police state'

SYDNEY (CP) — A stray Russian wolfhound, who has been roaming the city's north end, loves children. He also enjoys a handout of meat.

But he makes tracks when he sees a police officer.

It happened again Monday. The big dog was rolling on the ground with several children when two policemen came along. As Constable John McKay walked toward the playful dog, it leaped to its feet and dashed off.

"I guess that Russian dog thinks this is a police state," said Constable McKay.

Doctor, family held hostage by Trujillo's assassins

By E. L. ALMEN

CIUDAD TRUJILLO (AP) — A young doctor said four of those who plotted Rafael Trujillo's assassination held him and his family hostage for four days until hunger drove them out of hiding.

Dr. Robert Reid Cabral said his home was commandeered by the four fugitives shortly after the Dominican dictator was gunned down Tuesday night.

Reid Cabral said he, his pregnant wife and their infant son were held hostages until Sunday.

The family's ordeal ended when the fugitives, desperate for food and cigarettes, came out of hiding. Within two hours, two of the four had met death in a gun battle with police and the two others surrendered to authorities.

Leader of the group and alleged mastermind of the assassination was retired Gen. Juan Tomas Diaz, 52.

RELATES STORY
Reid Cabral told this story: After the Trujillo slaying, Diaz and his accomplices went to the office of another physician, Dr. Marcelino Velez, to get treatment for a bullet wound.

The men threatened Velez unless he found them a hiding place and he took them to Reid Cabral's home. When Reid Cabral opened the door, Diaz and Antonio de la Maza forced their way in with guns drawn. Later two other fugitives moved in also.

Cabral said the fugitives tried to get him to relay word to a person identified only as a "Wimpy" to tell Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt that "the tyrant is dead."

"Wimpy was to try to drum up support in Latin America for the Dominican revolution movement, the country's opposition party. Reid Cabral refused to relay the information, despite threats to liquidate him and his family."

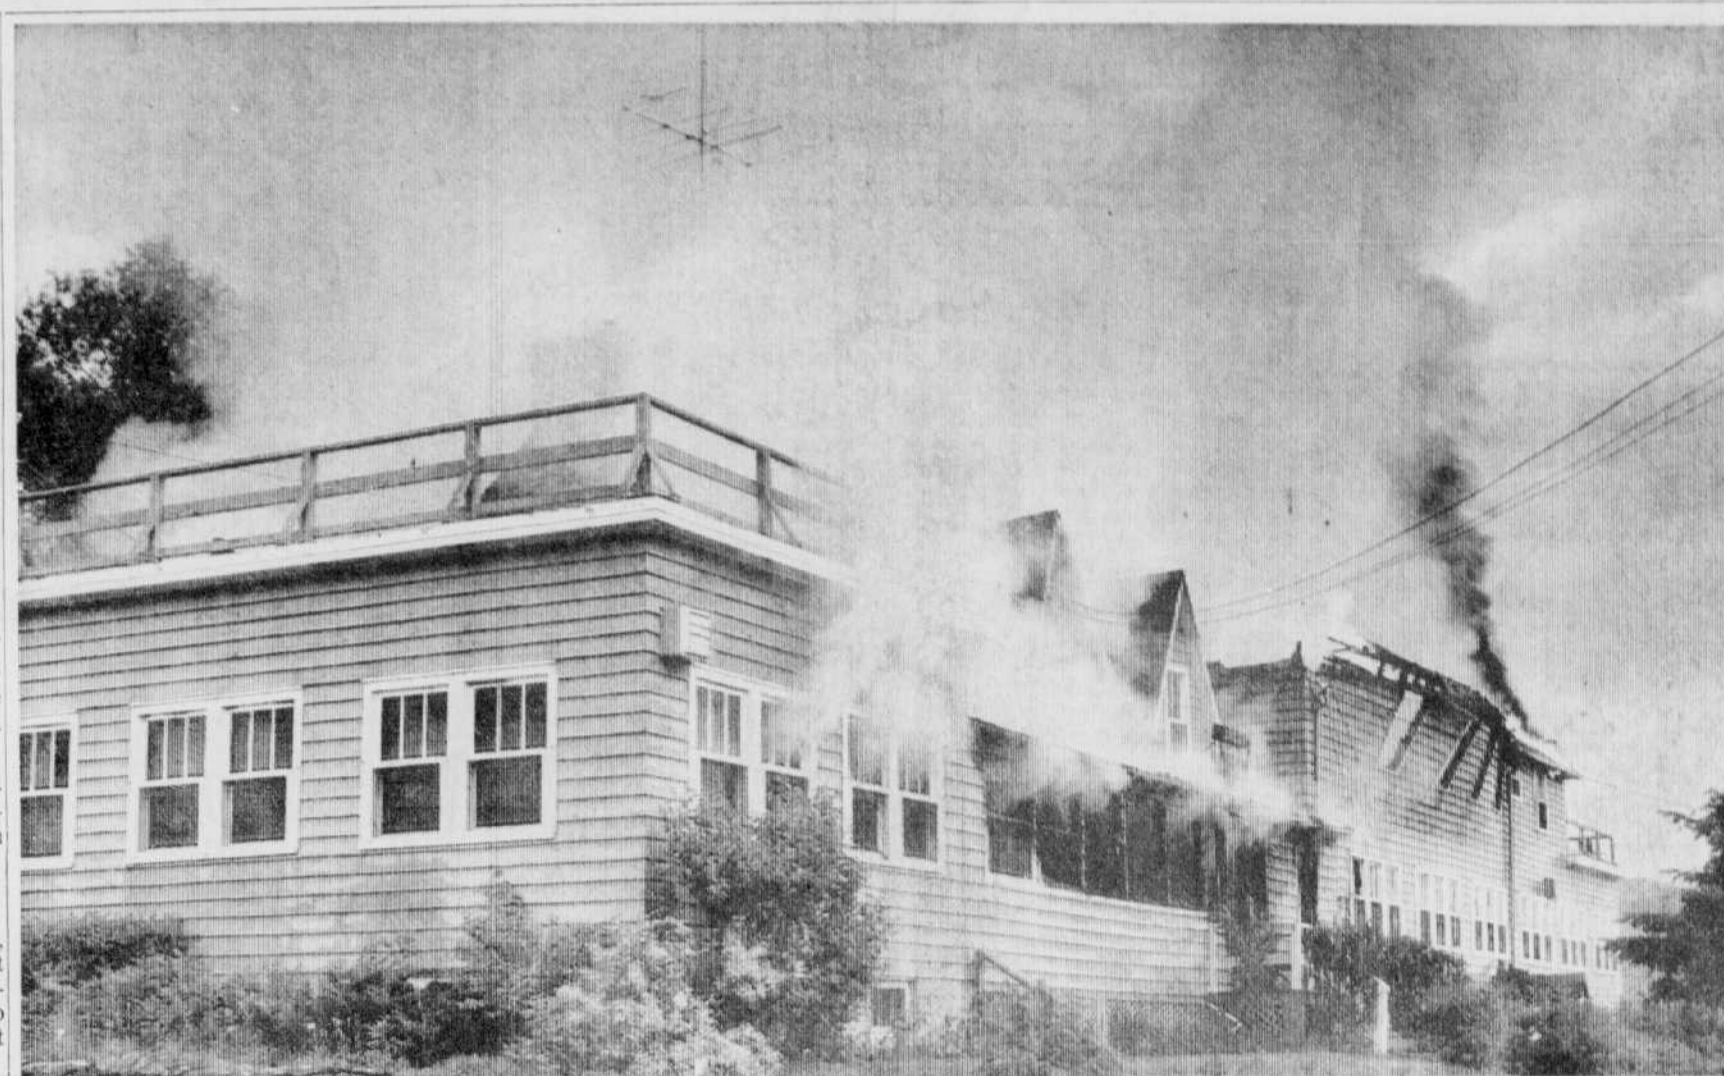

BECAME SHAKY
"Every day they said they would leave at night, but the hour never arrived," the doctor said. "They constantly asked me to find cigarettes and when I delayed, Diaz suffered a terrible attack of nerves."

"They asked me to find some potassium cyanide because they preferred to commit suicide rather than be taken alive. I firmly refused."

They kept alive on fortified powdered milk and fruit juices. One of the fugitives, Salvador Estrella, fainted from hunger. When they finally decided to leave the house, Maza gave Mrs. Reid Cabral his gold ring and a fountain pen to be delivered to his wife. Diaz left a diamond pin for his son.

Two hours after they came out into the open, police spotted Diaz and Maza in downtown Ciudad Trujillo. Diaz was machine-gunned to death and Maza died of wounds soon afterward in a military hospital.

The other two, Estrella and Luis Caceres Michel, gave themselves up voluntarily.

DOMAINE MONTJOYE DESTROYED IN $125,000 BLAZE — Smoke is seen pouring from the Domaine Montjoye hotel on the Capelton-North Hatley road Monday afternoon, in a fire reported to have caused a loss of some $125,000. The building was partially insured. All eight residents of the hotel were able to leave the building without injury.

Old Hillcrest lodge destroyed by fire

Domaine Montjoye - formerly Hillcrest Lodge - was gutted by a $125,000 fire Monday afternoon, the third resort hotel in the North Hatley area to go up in flames in the past seven years.

The eight residents of the building were unhurt and left the building before the heat became too intense. The owner, Robert Nadeau, 36, was in Montreal for the day.

Carmen Nadeau, aged 20, sister of the owner, lost most of her trousseau for her wedding next September.

The others, J. H. Nadeau, father of Robert and Carmen; his wife and her sister, Mrs. Alice Garneau; a girl who worked at the hotel, Irene Lacombe; and the three barmen and bellhops, Denis Prevost, Claude Jette and Rene Clouston, all lost personal belongings.

Clouston, the head barmen, is believed to be the first to discover the fire, about 2 p.m. when he opened a shed door near the kitchen and saw smoke pouring out. He notified the others but had to go upstairs to Prevost's room to wake him. His room was filled with smoke.

The Sherbrooke and North Hatley fire departments were notified, but special permission was required for the Sherbrooke men to go to the scene.

By the time they arrived, the fire had spread along the first floor to the second floor bedroom and the entire centre section of the building was ablaze.

Firemen immediately hooked up two booster pumps to the hotel swimming pool, which contained 75,000 gallons of water, and started pouring the water into the building.

By 4:30 p.m., about two hours after the fire began, it appeared that the flames were under control, but the water supply began to run out and the firefighting crews were forced to cut down on the number of streams they were using on the blaze.

By 7 p.m., the building was a smouldering shell, with sections of the wall fallen down and parts of the roof caved in. Sherbrooke fire department had a 16-year history as a tourist and skiing mecca before that. It was a familiar stopping place for skiers heading for Green Timber Mountain and summer vacationers on their way to North Hatley and resorts on Lake Massawippi.

Ski tows first began operating in that area in 1940 and four years later Sherbrooke notary Georges Sylvestre and noted skiing instructor Eric Schiller purchased the land on which the hotel was to stand. They built the lodge on the site of an old farmhouse.

In 1957 the lodge was sold to Marcel Robert, a St. John's businessman, subject to a lease on the skiing area nearby, held by the North Hatley Ski Lift Company, of which Mr. Sylvestre is still a major shareholder.

Two years later it was sold to Jean-Louis Hamel, of Lake St. John, who ran the business until selling to Robert Nadeau. Hillcrest was the third resort hotel in the North Hatley area to be destroyed by fire in seven years.

North Hatley Lake House burned on Labor Day, 1954 and River View was destroyed about three years later.

'Voluntary' controls irk Japanese

REGINA (CP) — Japan is not very happy with the way she has been forced to extend "voluntary" controls over her exports to Canada, the Japanese ambassador to this country said Monday.

Ambassador Toru Hagihara said in an address to the Regina Rotary Club the system was inaugurated after complaints from Canada — and he agreed they had some validity — that a sudden increase in certain exports harmed Canadian industries.

"The question is, however, when and to what extent these self-restraining measures are to be applied, and when they should be abolished."

There has been mounting pressure, he said, from some Canadian industries to do away with Japanese imports entirely.

FORCED TO ACCEPT
"And there have been instances where Japan was forced to accept a curb on certain exports under such circumstances in which it was suggested that, otherwise, Canada would resort to such measures as the arbitrary fixation of value for customs purposes. "In this atmosphere and under these circumstances, the number of items subjected to 'voluntary' export control by Japan has continuously increased to cover nearly one-half in dollar value of Japan's total export to Canada."

"We are not happy with this kind of situation. It should be remembered that Japan is the only country in the world which is accepting quantitative restrictions as an exporter. If any country abused these 'voluntary' restrictions by Japan, it would be tantamount to the country's applying discriminatory measures against Japan."

If there are areas where Japan's export trade is to be curtailed to avoid injury to Canadian industries, Mr. Hagihara said, the problem remains as to where to increase exports in "non-sensitive" areas to counterbalance growing Canadian exports to Japan.

If a serious imbalance of trade became permanent, however, Japan would have to "think over" its policies,

Kennedy report awaited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communist party registered with the U.S. attorney - general as a puppet of the Kremlin. This requirement is a part of the 1950 Subversive Activities Control Act.

The court Monday upheld the U.S. attorney - general's decision that it is a crime for a person to belong to any organization knowing that it advocates violent overthrow of the government.

1. A clause in the Smith Anti-Communist Act of 1940 which makes it a crime for a person to belong to any organization knowing that it advocates violent overthrow of the government.

2. A requirement that the Communist party register with the U.S. attorney - general as a puppet of the Kremlin. This requirement is a part of the 1950 Subversive Activities Control Act.

Gus Hall, U.S. Communist party general secretary, said in New York the decisions endanger "the very foundation and fabric of democracy in our country."

Writing the majority opinion upholding the government's efforts to force the Communist party to register as an arm of the Soviet Union, Justice Felix Frankfurter swept aside the party's arguments that its rights under the first amendment of the constitution were being violated.

If the high court agreed Frankfurter said in his 39,000-word opinion, it would "make a travesty of that amendment and the great ends for the well-being of our democracy that it serves."

The first amendment guarantees freedom of speech and the right of peaceable assembly.

Show for Truman

NEW YORK (AP) — Former president Harry Truman announced Monday he will do a series of 26 one - hour television programs dealing with historic events of the present age and the period when he was president. Producer David Susskind said a sponsor has not been signed yet but he hopes the series can be started next February.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress—divided between hope and skepticism—awaited President Kennedy's report to the people tonight on the results of his conferences abroad.

Speaking on radio and television at 7 p.m. EDT, Kennedy planned to summarize his meetings with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, President de Gaulle of France and British Prime Minister Macmillan.

The expectation was that the president would deal largely in generalities in describing the Khrushchev conversations. But he seemed certain to reaffirm vigorously the West's determination to stand fast against any new Communist encroachments in Berlin and other world danger spots.

Kennedy, flying from London where he and Macmillan announced they see eye to eye in pursuing common world policies, faced a busy day in his office before the speech.

STOPS IN LABRADOR

The president's jet transport reached Goose Bay, Labrador, at 12:37 a.m. after a flight of about 5½ hours from London. Kennedy remained aboard the plane for about six hours' rest before taking off for Washington. Most of the 32 aboard the plane — including State Secretary Dean Rusk—went to barracks at the Labrador air base to relax until takeoff time.

Prices for food and housing lower Canada's cost of living

OTTAWA (CP) — Lower prices for some foods and housing items edged Canada's cost of living downward during April despite increases in transportation and clothing, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The consumer price index had eased one-tenth of a point by May 1 to an even 129 compared with 129.1 in the two previous months and 128.2 a year earlier.

The index of living costs is based on 1949 equalling 100. Meat, poultry and egg prices declined and so did the cost of house operations. Higher auto insurance premiums and some gasoline prices, increases in women's clothing and footwear and higher theatre and toy prices nearly balanced the price cuts elsewhere.

The sports committee of the Notre Dame de Perpetuel Se-cours parish, in Sherbrooke's North Ward, Monday night re-ceived partial approval from city council to install a coaching and monitoring system in the parish's St. Alphonse park.

Purchases of property in the city to be made to con-form to the master plan will cost about $75,000, it was learned Monday night. This figure includes purchases of some 12 properties.

Students hold fashion, woodworking show

Some 60 Lennoxville High School home economic stu-dents, modelling sports clothes, casual wear, after-five dresses, semi-formals and housecoats, presented their Garden of Fashion fashion show at the Lennoxville High School gym-nasium Monday evening.

At the same time the boys of grades eight, nine, ten and eleven gave an industrial arts woodworking, and drafting dis-play, featuring the furniture they have made in school classes during the year.

In a cavalcade of color, the home economic students from grades seven to eleven, smartly modelled the clothes they had made during the year. Com-mentator for the first part of the evening was Sandra Beattie. Modelling sports clothes were Sandra Brand, Merna Sarasin, Betty Ann Wells, Sandra Smith, Audrey Savage and Anne Nugent. Bermudas and matching tops seemed to do-minate the sports scene.

Grade seven students modelled their colorful cotton blouses. Cheryl Morehouse, Carol Hodge, Rosemary Green, Marilyn Donnelly, Pearl Robi-chaud, Jackie Carr, Susan Shaw, Lynn Povey and Carol Bell modelled blouses in cotton. Gail Cameron was the would be a better-organized system of games and recreations and even an accident prevention program.

The parish priest complained to council of the lack of con-trol over those directing games. The lifeguard at the pool, he said, just sat behind the bath-house all day reading, and no number of complaints could ap-parently move him, even complaints made to the city.

Ald. Tony Pinard replied that no complaints had been received by the parks committee, and in fact the parish priest had made himself conspicuous by his ab-sence at meetings aimed at im-proving the situation in the city parks.

The debate gradually resolved itself about one main point: whether the responsibility for the city park belongs with the city hall or with the parish in which the park lies, a question which was never resolved.

However, as Mayor Armand Nadeau pointed out, this sug-gestion is a completely new out-look on park administration in Sherbrooke.

He said he believed eventual-ly, a system would be evolved whereby the younger people would be trained specifically for administration and organi-zational work in parks. This, said the Mayor, may eventual-ly become the aim of the OTJ.

The session finally came to a close with Mayor Nadeau's sug-gestion that council and the sports committee of the parish get together for a three-way discussion with representatives of the OTJ to discuss further possibilities of the monitors plan.

Sherbrooke court cases

Three city youths get a month in jail

Three Sherbrooke youths, Roger Legault, 23; Richard Le-gault, 20, and Roger Laverdiere, 21, will spend the next month in jail in Sherbrooke following their pleas of guilty Monday in Sherbrooke district court to several charges of breaking and entering, car theft and theft in various municipalities in the district in recent weeks.

Judge Hayes gave the trio a choice of a month in jail, to ap-pear on their records, or two months in jail, starting with the time of their arrest, to appear as suspended sentences.

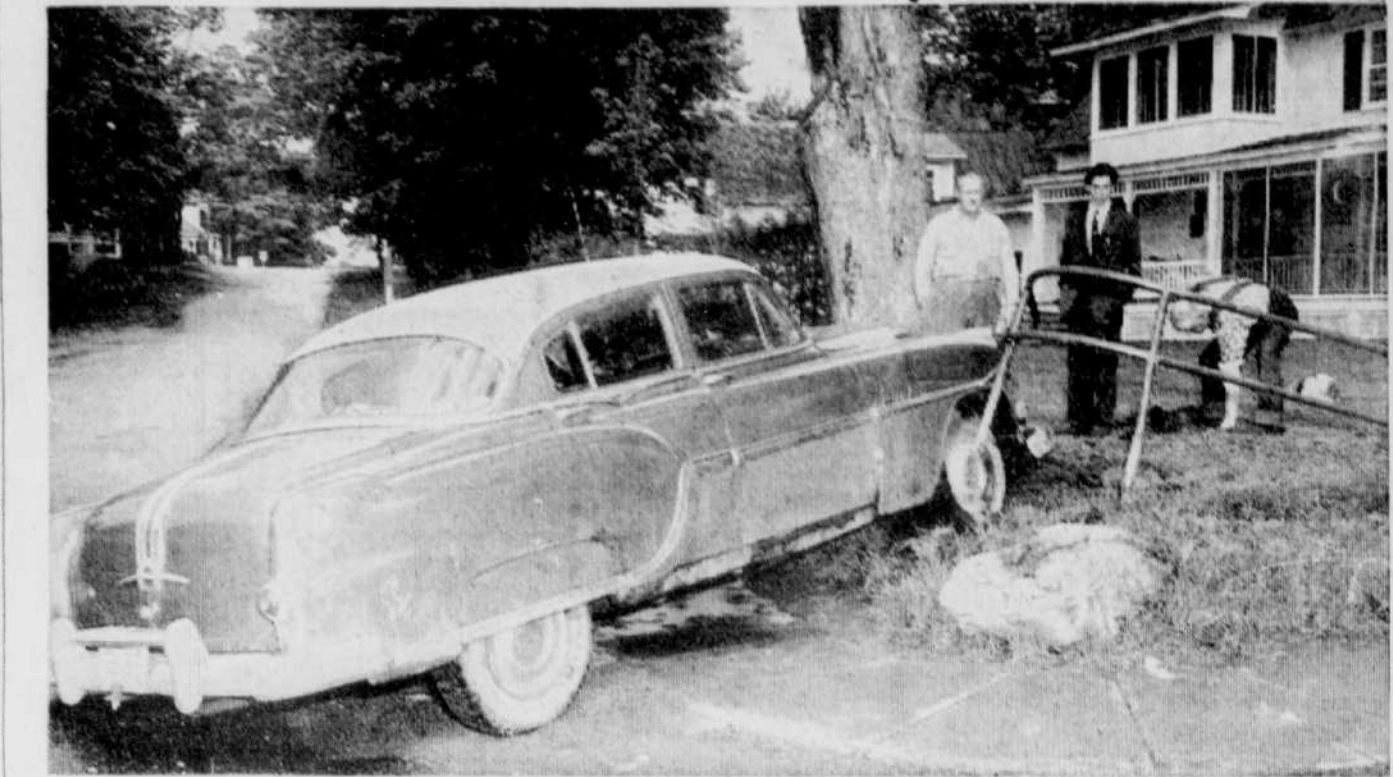

Legault and Laverdiere re-sented by counsel, stated they would take the two months rather than have criminal re-cords. Richard Legault, repre-senting himself, made the same choice.

Sentence was adjourned un-til July 5.

Norman Davies, 21, of Bromptonville, was fined $50 and costs, or 15 days in jail, and had his driver's licence suspended for six months af-ter pleading guilty to a charge of dangerous driving.

Alcide Roy 20, also of Bromptonville, arrested with Davies on a charge of resist-ing an arresting officer, was fined $15 dollars and costs or 15 days in jail.

Roy told the court that it was his first brush with the law and his only complaint was that he felt his compan-ion, Davies, was being un-justly treated.

END OF THE ROAD — Pictured is an automobile crashed by two young men against the iron rail bordering the property of A. J. Buckland in Waterloo early Monday morning. But Sherbrooke founded 144 years ago

125th 'anniversary' marked in '62

One hundred and forty-four years ago, Sherbrooke received its name.

One hundred and twenty-nine years ago, Sherbrooke became a town.

Eighty-six years ago, Sherbrooke became a city.

But next year, a newly-formed tourist committee plans to celebrate the 125th anniversary of the city. At a meeting at city hall Monday, a program for the celebra-tions was planned.

Members of the committee talked of celebrating the founding of Sherbrooke.

Actually, the "125" designa-tion is taken from "cen-tennial" celebrations held here 25 years ago. Exactly what they marked is not too clear.

Alderman Marcel Savard, who is spearheading next year's event, explains things this way:

"In 1837, the British Amer-ican Land Co. established headquarters here. I guess you could call this the start of industry in Sherbrooke. That's what we're going to celebrate in 1962."

In connection with next year's celebration, the com-mittee is planning to ask for a grant from the provincial government, as well as from local industries and busi-nesses.

It was agreed that the com-mittee would first decide on a program of events for next year before asking for money.

Various means of publiciz-ing the anniversary celebra-tions were discussed but no decisions were reached.

The proposed constitution for the tourist committee was read by the president, Albert Gosselin. It was decided that the executive should meet once every two weeks and that a general assembly should be called once a month.

Following upon a decision made at the organizational meeting in May, L.P. Demers was asked to visit Victoria-ville, Granby, and Q.ébec to find out how various anni-versary celebrations were or-ganized in these centres. He will make his report at the next meeting of the execu-tive.

It was agreed that all other decisions would be postponed until Mr. Demers presents his report.

Lennoxville council

Says 'lovers' lane' developing, spot police checks are ordered

Lennoxville alderman Frank Taylor told Monday night's council meeting that a roadway in town has become "a regular lovers' lane."

Police chief Grant Smith was ordered to make regular spot checks on the road, off St. Francis St. near Bishop's Col-lege School Chapman house.

He was also ordered to make regular checks at the town park to prevent damage to municipal property. A chain will be placed at the park's entrance to keep cars out after dark.

The bylaw will cover all pri-vate, semi-private and public pools in Lennoxville. A nom-inal fee of $5 will be charged annually for pool inspection.

Mayor Ernest Gilbey told aldermen that he had re-ceived a number of com-plaints regarding dogs run-ning loose and ruining house-holders' gardens. He said that the municipality's bylaw on the leashing of dogs should be enforced during the summer months.

Alderman Albert Raycraft pronounced Cleanup Week in Lennoxville, from May 8 to 13, "satisfactory considering the circumstances." He noted that bad weather had hampered operations.

Alderman Raycraft, chairman of the Roads Committee, also announced that repair work will soon begin on streets and sidewalks.

A petition for incorporation by the Lennoxville Optimist Club was approved by council.

At the meeting, Mayor Gilbey also:

- Announced that building permits for a total value of $136,000 were issued in the municipality during the month of May.
- Requested that the warn-ing lights at the Q.C.R. rail-way crossing on Moulton Hill Road be repaired.
- Announced that the town's evaluators had com-pleted their job.

Bogus bills on decline in district

The circulation of bogus $10 Canadian bills in the district appears to be declining slight-ly, officials of the RCMP in Sherbrooke said Tuesday.

Last week some 25 of the bad bills were picked up in various banks throughout the city and turned over to police authorities, but thus far this week there have been few complaints about them.

The new bills are fairly good imitations, police says, and they are difficult to spot be-cause they are apparently be-ing circulated one by one and not in large lots.

Many of the new bills which have been picked up may be spotted because the last three numerals in the serial are "744."

Police still are unable to discover the origin of the phony $10's.

Domil meetings continuing

Post arbitration meetings went into their second day Tues-day between officials of the Domil Limited, Sherbrooke and representatives of the Domil Textile Union which voted last Sunday to reject arbitration and go on strike.

Monday both sides met to hear union demands for gen-eral wage increases and the an-nouncement of the strike vote.

Arbitration was announced last week and last Friday repre-sentatives of both sides met for a discussion on the results.

Spraying their shots

Canadian parents, banded together in the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation, are doing a needed job for Canada and Canada's children.

They provide liaison between family and school life, both important factors in the development and education of the young.

As well, they apply a useful pressure on government agencies to assure that standards of teaching and accommodation are kept high. In their dual roles as parents and taxpayers, their views are always listened to and usually acted upon.

But when this influential group branches out into international affairs it is spraying its shots and weakening its effectiveness.

This hazard is inherent in a recommendation before the group now in convention in Montreal. The recommendation — first proposed in Toronto last November — calls for development by Home and School of a "parents-for-peace" movement.

Another resolution — from the British Columbia delegation — calls on the federal government to reduce its arms budget and to discourage nuclear testing among other governments.

Both of these measures, high-sounding and worthy though they may be, have nothing to do with Home and School.

They are certainly of interest to parents. But surely there are enough groups and causes already addressing themselves to these very problems. As well, parents already have a means at their disposal by which to register their views on these issues — the ballot. Elected representatives of the Canadian public at large, not the appointed officers and delegates of a small specialized group, are the proper persons to deal with questions of this nature and gravity.

Some members of the association have already indicated that they feel that nuclear testing or pressuring the government for peace are "none of the Home and School's business".

It's to be hoped that this element prevails so that the convention is not sidetracked for too long from resolutions related to its proper sphere of influence — the facilities and methods by which Canada's children are educated.

Quebec separatists

The influence of historical forces, never very far from the surface in Quebec, has come once again to the fore with the increased activity of French-Canadian separatist movements in Quebec.

There are, on an organized basis, three of them. And while they agree basically on the desirability of Quebec seceding from Confederation, they differ widely on how a separate Quebec should be run once independence is achieved.

None of the movements should be taken lightly. While they may not represent the majority opinion of French-speaking Quebecers, they do speak with a voice consistent with the development of French Canada down through the years.

Since 1759, the feeling that English-speaking Canadians are the conquerors and French-speaking Canadians, especially in Quebec are the conquered has been a valid sentiment. In some cases, it has been, and still is, a sincerely and strongly held one.

This should not be surprising. There is a rough parallel in the United States, where the Civil War two centuries ago created a chasm that has yet to be bridged.

There are, in the Southern United States today, secessionists as ardent as those in Quebec, and they are far more active in the United States. The issues that spur them on there will probably never be resolved to their satisfaction, even as the issues that prompt separatist feeling here will never disappear as long as a French-Canadian culture remains, and history has meaning.

French-speaking Quebecers who oppose the separatist sentiment point out that independence for Quebec would be politically and economically impractical at this date. The same argument is persuasively applied to the southern United States.

In neither place is the logic of this contention going to impress those who want separate states.

Their logic is that minorities have rights too, and that one of them is the right to become a majority.

This is a feeling those who now belong to a majority should be able to appreciate, even if the claim to the right is disputed.

Encouraging safety belts

With the exception of the possible victims themselves who might escape death or injury, the use of safety belts by motorists should prove of greatest advantage to the automobile liability insurance companies. By cutting down the death and injury rate resulting from accidents, the claims against these companies would be reduced materially.

Thus there is something to be said for the proposal of a New York state legislator that insurance companies reduce premiums by at least five per cent on cars equipped with safety belts.

While the belts have not proved popular in the past, few things are more attractive than a bargain and this idea, which should prove of benefit to the insurance firms, might do more to popularize the use of seat belts than anything yet suggested.

British parliament

Conservatives in for bad spell

LONDON (CP) — Parliament reassembled for its summer session this week with government members edging uneasily into their seats like schoolboys facing a stiff oral exam. One trouble is they cannot agree on the answers.

This session, with its hot weather and frayed tempers, is normally difficult for any government. But with the prospect of a major showdown on the Common Market and African policy, the Conservatives may be in for the worst spell they have had so far.

Most disturbing for Prime Minister Macmillan is the rebellion on the right and left wings of his own party. In the background the old guard is still quietly protesting the government's handling of the situations in Kenya and the Rhodesia Federation.

Earl Winterton has resigned from the presidency of the House of Commons Conservative Association as a protest against some aspects of the government's African policy. In general, he supports Lord Salisbury's view that Colonial Secretary Iain Macleod is moving too quickly.

On the other hand a number of younger Tories, eager to establish the right to ignore party whips from time to time, have opposed to such a development.

Despite such objections, Macmillan seems prepared to go ahead with negotiations for entry into the Common Market.

He told a Western European Union meeting, a defence organization composed of the Common Market countries plus Britain, that Britain was determined to work slowly toward the consolidation of Western Europe.

The question of the Commonwealth remains as a major stumbling block to such a unity. At a three-day meeting of senior Commonwealth officials recently Britain promised no move would be made to join the Common Market until Commonwealth trade matters are further discussed.

A clear difference in attitude on the Common Market has developed between Canada, Australia and New Zealand on the one hand and the Asian and Africa members of the Commonwealth on the other.

The old Dominions, with New Zealand taking the lead, are worried about Commonwealth trade preferences and the danger of uniting Europe and the

Cross-Canada survey

Horn of plenty should overflow; only Eastern seeding is delayed

Given good weather, the horn of plenty will overflow with the products of Canada's farms this year.

Increased acreage is reported for almost every major field crop.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows seeding generally on a schedule throughout the Prairies and most of British Columbia; fairly well along in Ontario but delayed by late spring in eastern Quebec and most parts of the Atlantic provinces.

Farmers in the Western grain belt would be happier if there were more subsoil moisture but the situation hasn't reached the critical stage yet.

Early in March the bureau of statistics reported that farmers intended to plant more oats, rye, flaxseed, corn, soybeans, potatoes and wheat than last year, and less barley and rapeseed.

This is generally borne out by reports from each province early in June although Alberta is bucking the rapeseed trend by increasing its acreage substantially.

The province-by-province story:

British Columbia: Growing conditions have been good except in the Peace River area where it has been unusually dry and cool. Wheat acreage is estimated at 53,500, up six per cent, and an agriculture department official says he suspects some farmers put in extra grain crops after the big deal to sell wheat to Red China was announced. Growing weather in the Okanagan Valley has been ideal and tree fruit crops are coming along fine although there are some slight problems with fruit formation of pears.

Alberta: Seeding is almost completed with some flax and barley still to be planted. Showers have brought good germination and early growth over most of the province but good rains are needed to restore subsoil moisture, particularly in the east-central region. An earlier survey indicated farmers would boost rapeseed acreage by about 26 per cent over last year's 170,000. Now it appears it will be even greater, with an increase possibly as much as 35 per cent in the northern part of the province.

Saskatchewan: More than 95 per cent of spring wheat acreage has already been sown compared with less than 90 per cent at this time a year ago. With intended acreage of 14,722,000 — about two-thirds of the land planted with spring wheat on the Prairies — Saskatchewan is the only province with a slight reduction from last year. O. A. Turnbull, minister of co-operative development, who farms in the west-central region will have a normal crop. Carman C. Cook, agriculture representative in Estevan in southeastern Saskatchewan, says that if there is no rainfall in the next two weeks, "the situation will be serious."

Moisture conditions are unsatisfactory there and with continued hot weather the grasshoppers have begun to hatch.

Manitoba: S. E. Ransom, and others are prepared to give Britain the green light.

Behind the opposition from the white Commonwealth, however, there is a general feeling of inevitability about Britain's joining the Six. The noises now being made are regarded as a preliminary manoeuvring for position in negotiations with European trade matters.

president of the Manitoba Federation of Agriculture who farms at Boissevain, says, "Up to this point, seeding has been very good. Germination has been excellent — there's plenty of moisture. But it won't be long until we will need rain badly."

Seeding of wheat generally is almost completed with oats and barley 60 to 75 per cent along. Rudy Usick, president of the Manitoba Farmers' Union who farms at Erickson, says, "Seeding in the west — central part of the province has been fairly late but in the last two weeks it has been wonderful." Manitoba farmers had indicated they intended to plant 2,686,000 acres with spring wheat. This may be boosted in some areas.

Ontario: A. H. Martin, director of the field crops branch, says, "We're late this year but I can't foresee any serious trouble yet." Some cereal crops have been sown earlier than last year. "Growth is slow because cold weather is holding it back . . . but we have adequate moisture at present." Barley to bacco returns to the fields of Western Ontario this year following lifting of a planting ban imposed by the marketing board last year to cut surpluses. But the 1961 acreage of 5,470 is still only 60 per cent of 1959.

Quebec: Seeding is up to three weeks late in the eastern regions as a result of a cold spring. In Montreal and the Eastern Townships it is on schedule. In parts of the Lower St. Lawrence and Gaspé Peninsula there are still banks of snow on the ground. Last year 5,241,523 acres were under crops; this year it may be a little lower with less spring wheat, oats and barley but more mixed grains and potatoes.

New Brunswick: Flooding late in May set farmers back another two weeks and this means a month delay in many areas. Some early planting was washed out and the land may not be sown again this year. R. D. Gilbert, deputy minister of agriculture, says the season varies but generally planting is the latest of recent years due to cold, damp weather. New Brunswick's biggest cash crop is potatoes, ranging from $7,000,000 to $15,000,000. Acreage may be up about four per cent over last year's 50,000.

Prince Edward Island: Seeding is a week to 10 days behind normal and three to four weeks slower than last year. There was unusually early farmers are planning to sow 46,400 acres of potatoes, a three-per cent increase, but Agriculture Minister Andrew MacRae says "I wish it were down 10 per cent." He would like to see farmers take some of the fertilizer they use for potatoes and use it to develop grassland and grow more grain to develop other branches of agriculture, particularly dairy farming.

Nova Scotia: Spring was about 10 days later than usual

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — A couple of Tory politicians are particularly tickled by a couple of the Tory election wins because they personally masterminded them. Respectively, that is. And they stand to gain much personally from the kudos thereof.

One I've written about before — the erstwhile Tory temptress in the Commons, Charlie Van Horne. He resigned his seat after criticizing the government, annoying the prime minister, and scuttling his prospects for political advancement in Ottawa.

But, unpredictable as ever, Van Horne then set out to hold his former riding for the government by organizing the campaign of the Conservative candidate, Edgar Fournier. When Fournier won the Restigouche-Madawaska election that nearly everybody had conceded to the Grits, Van Horne got the credit and a leg up on the Conservative leadership in NB that is his next political goal.

The other is James A. A. George, avowed candidate to succeed the resigning Deane Finlayson to the Tory leadership in British Columbia. A 52-year-old investment dealer in Victoria, Jim George personally picked and sold George Chatterton to the Conservative organization in Esquimalt — Saanich. Liberals say that a year ago Chatterton wasn't even a member of the Conservative Party (curiously, his candidate was), but Chatterton had won many friends and much respect as the full-time, hard-working reeve of Saanich.

Jim George picked George Chatterton mainly because he calculated Chatterton could command 3000 to 4000 votes on a personal basis through his record as reeve. Some of these votes otherwise would go to the Grits, the seceders and the New Party.

But the Tory brass in BC is badly split. The dominant faction is headed by Leon Launer of Vancouver, who as president of the Tories' federal council in BC controls the money. So Jim George quietly slipped into the background in the hope that campaign funds thereby would be more freely forthcoming.

However, the hope proved in vain. Actually, I was told, Liberal David Groos' campaign showed signs of greater affluence than Chatterton's. And a fortnight before the election Jim George judged that unless something drastic were done immediately Chatterton might lose. So he by-passed Launer and telephoned John Diefenbaker in Ottawa, who sent out Defence Minister Harkness, who did much to counteract the effect of Liberal leader Pearson's enthusiastic reception and to help Chatterton win by a narrow margin of 545 votes.

Jim George's political astuteness and determination are not likely to be lost on Premier Diefenbaker — nor the similarity between George's present situation and that of John Diefenbaker, back-bencher, a half dozen years ago. Both know the "maverick" label, and rejection by the vested interests of the party.

George, who has run unsuccessfully for both the Commons and the BC legislature — again paralleling Diefenbaker — is fighting to force his party to choose a new provincial leader this summer. Preferably him. But on both counts he is bucking BC Conservative Association president Stuart Fleming, the MP for Okanagan-Revelstoke who, if defeated in the next federal general election, might be interested in the provincial leadership for himself.

JACOBY On Bridge

ACES, KINGS, AND SKILL WINS
Raymond Balfe of New York was one of the two or three greatest auction bridge players but has confined his contract play to rubber bridge. He may be found at the Regency Club every afternoon and while his bidding would not please a bridge scientist his play of the cards is just about as good as there is.

Ray is a firm believer in the adage that bridge is a game of aces and kings. Hence, while 18 points opposite an opening bid is not normally enough for a slam, Ray felt that since his 18 points were almost entirely made up of aces and kings, he wanted to be there.

He won the opening diamond lead and counted up tricks. He had nine tricks in high cards and needed three more. They might be produced in either clubs or spades and Ray saw that the spades could keep for a while.

He entered dummy with a heart; led the jack of clubs; and let it ride. West took his king and knocked out Ray's ace of diamonds. He had to make a discard from dummy and his choice was the correct one of the six of hearts.

Then he cashed his king of spades; went over to dummy with a heart; and discarded his losing diamonds on the ace and queen of spades. The suit failed to break, so Ray led the eight of clubs and finessed. When West showed out, Ray led dummy's last club and brought in the rest of the suit.

Says tariff system antiquated, urges a complete re-appraisal

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian tariff system is antiquated, says Dr. R. V. Yohe, president of B. F. Goodrich Canada Ltd., Kitchener, Ont.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Dr. Yohe, who described himself "as an American with nearly three years sojourn in Canada," urged a complete re-appraisal of the tariff system.

A hearty "amen" came from L. D. Smithers, "an American from Missouri," president of Dow Chemical of Canada Ltd., Sarnia, Ont., and a fellow panelist at a session Monday on world trade.

Canadian manufacturers have indicated in representation to the federal government that they don't want so much higher tariffs as a readjustment of tariffs to give added protection where it may be necessary in the face of developing conditions.

Dr. Yohe's comment was an aside from his main address in which he exhorted Canadian industrialists to seek out markets and "sell Canadian," and at the same time emphasized the place of "the genius of government."

"The genius that is management," he said, "knows when to borrow to best advantage; when not to add to the cost of production; when to expand to satisfy a profitable market; when to reduce costs; when to reduce prices to achieve greater sales volume at a profit; when to increase prices if income is not providing."

NEED HELP

"But if it is government on which you must depend for new frontiers, then the genius that is government should know when to yield its taxing authority or relax it; establish subsidies or remove them; apply or reduce tariffs; resort to price supports or not; reach cooperative agreements with other countries; limit or expand capital inflow—all for the purpose of establishing conditions which create a profit for the nation, a better standard of living for its people, but at a rate of improvement that does not generate an excess burden or inhibit economic development in any area."

Dr. Yohe called into question some concepts of American competition. He said:

"While about 70 per cent of Canada's imports come from the United States, these goods do not necessarily—in fact, a large portion do not—compete with Canadian manufacturing."

"Who competes with Canadian manufacturers? Obviously it is those who have no subsidiaries in Canada and who have no competing connections about competing with Canadian-manufactured products. The most intensive price competition for products of Canadian manufacture is not from the United States, but from overseas."

MINISTER SPEAKS

Trade Minister Hees, who led off a session on world trade, also urged industrialists to "sell Canadian," and said that while some companies have good records in seeking export trade, others are not taking advantage of opportunities. He invited them to make greater use of the facilities and information of his department.

Stuart Armour, economic adviser, Steel Company of Canada Ltd., Hamilton, commented:

"Last year, for the first time in Canadian history, in terms of ingot tons, Canada's steel exports just about matched our steel imports. But by stepping up our exports so substantially the profits of our industry went down so sharply that if we had been a little more successful as exporters we would probably all have gone broke."

Mr. Armour said that in the three months ended March 1, 140,000 more people left Canada than entered the country, and asked: "Are we trying to solve our unemployment by pushing people out of the country?"

Industrialist, Mrs. Smith says she is impressed with the Canadian money.

"I always keep some in my purse to show people and to use when I go to Montreal," added Mrs. Smith who still has a brother there. Her permanent home is in California.

"My mail is running 4 to 1 in favor of a change in American currency. This is very gratifying to me. Several banks along the Canadian border have suggested that the American colors, if they are approved, be similar to the ones in Canada."

DILLON NON-COMMITTAL

Mrs. Smith said in an interview she made her proposal to Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon who has adopted a rather non-committal attitude.

"I have no position on the matter definitely at all," he has said, but those close to him said he is waiting for Kennedy to get a breather from world diplomacy to make a final decision.

Holtzclaw said the United States has more than 5,300,000,000 paper bills in circulation with a total face value of more than $29,000,000,000.

"These have an average life of from three to five years. If different colors were adopted, we would have a very confusing situation. Counterfeiters could change the color by using chemicals. Then there are those who are color blind."

Asked what he thought of the Canadian practice, Holtzclaw replied: "Canada has its counterfeiting problems — that I know. And Canada hasn't got $29,000,000,000 worth of currency in circulation."

Paton profits down as wool use drops

Reflecting generally quieter business conditions in Canada, net profit of the Paton Manufacturing Co. Ltd. declined to $45,284 in 1960 as compared with $159,831 in 1959. Regular dividends of $66,592 were paid on the common and preferred stock.

In his report of the shareholders, F. R. Daniels, president, said the decline in employment had resulted in a per capita decrease in wool consumption in Canada of 7 per cent compared with 1959. Canadian mills maintained their percentage of the reduced market. The United Kingdom, largest exporter of wools to Canada, suffered a loss of 15 per cent, while imports from Italy jumped 50 per cent.

For many years the outstanding problem of the Canadian woolen industry has been competition with products from low-cost exporting nations, Mr. Daniels said. The unfavorable economic situation intensified this disadvantage which has now become a matter of concern, not only to our industry, but to many other segments of domestic secondary manufacturing, he continued.

Despite an adverse year, the equipment throughout the plant has been maintained in good condition and to improve the competitive position and product diversification, further additions to equipment were made during the course of the year, he concluded.

Tips for parents

By EDITH HENRY
Parent Education Associates

If you're planning a summer holiday by car, packing in all the family and their beloved belongings, take heart.

Some 75% of American people use this vacation vehicle proving that for family travel it holds first place.

The car offers economy, a free, relaxed, gypsy life, privacy and a chance to live as the family unit. Penny and Patrick found that their father, their very own father, could, with a few crayons, transcribe the lake and trees to a piece of paper.

They also learned how daddy met frustration!

EVEN MOTHER'S EAGER

There are two keys to a pleasant trip. The first is the eagerness of even mother to undertake the adventure. The second is the efficiency of your preparation.

You have to comprehend that taking children along makes a difference. Fascinating folders from provincial and city sources, from boards of trade, travel bureaus and oil companies are apt to lure you too far or too quickly along the splendorous paths.

Authorities, however, including the good Dr. Spock, recommend "four traveling hours on traveling days, stopping for the night in mid-afternoon, and staying a day or two where adventure calls.

Mother, as mistress of the wardrobe, will be planning loose, creaseless, drip-dry clothes, of dark color. Soft-soled shoes will be for the car and a sturdy pair for exploring.

LEFT BEHIND

The pair not in use must be in their place always. Daddy won't relish a return trip for a lost shoe!

Together with Penny and Patrick, mother will pack a very small bag of toys for each — rubber cars, dolls and dolls' clothes, one or two favorites.

Older children will like puzzles, art materials, playing cards, books, a magnet, pinwheel and so forth. Surprise packages might include a puppet, new cutouts, etc.

Toys and surprises are brought out only when necessary to prevent boredom. They can be supplemented by collections made by the wayside — stones, leaves, shells, cones.

Pack the car when the children are asleep. The back floor might be built up with cases on which the crib mattress or blankets rest, making both a bed and play space.

Raincoats for all will go in one bundle as will cold-weather clothes and night clothes. Otherwise take a case for each child.

Some parents find it best to start late at night, carrying the sleeping children out to the car. Some start before breakfast, with fruit juice and a cookie, thus leaving the house tidily.

REGULAR ROUTINE

Once on the highway it is best to keep a regular routine. Include a run and romp every hour. Make sure meals are on time, the car is aired and that places are changed to avoid fatigue.

Depend on plain food, tinned and frozen, with wrapped bread. One hot meal a day, at night is best.

And so the little family explores the highway and its by-paths, relaxed and happy.

Is the trip a success? Penny's small voice answers: "When do we plan for next year, daddy?"

Charm, tact and energy

Olive too has political magic

By PETER DEMPSON

OTTAWA — The new Conservative MP for Kings, Prince Edward Island, is Mrs. Margaret Macdonald, first woman ever to be elected to Parliament in Maritime history.

A reserved, middle-aged mother of four, she won in Monday's by-election by a scant 167 votes.

Not generally known is that the person who tipped the scales in her favor was Mrs. Olive Diefenbaker, wife of the Prime Minister.

The accomplishments of the Conservative Government were a big factor, of course.

Undoubtedly the sudden death last winter of her husband, John Macdonald, the former MP for the riding, resulted in a large sympathy vote going her way. He was a popular figure.

But the final push she needed to slip by her Liberal opponent, Thomas J. Kitchin, almost certainly came from Mrs. Diefenbaker.

Olive Diefenbaker didn't campaign openly for Mrs. Macdonald.

However, she spent a day or two in the constituency the week before the by-election.

and her very presence there must have turned a large number of votes Mrs. Macdonald's way. Mrs. Diefenbaker is a most charming woman. People can't help but like her.

As one newspaper columnist once described her, "She's a political jewel for the Prime Minister."

Mrs. Diefenbaker made two appearances in Kings riding. She attended an afternoon tea at Morell. She was the guest of honor, along with Mrs. Macdonald, at Montague.

Mrs. Diefenbaker was an immediate hit.

The fact that Kings remained Conservative, even if only by 167 votes, was all the more amazing because the county went Liberal in the last provincial election.

Mrs. Diefenbaker is an extremely attractive and gracious woman. Politically and socially she is a great asset to the Prime Minister. She's amazingly industrious and personable. She gives him an advantage that no other prime minister has enjoyed for years back.

For, while Mrs. Louis St. Laurent was a capable chatelaine, as a political first lady she was largely inactive beyond the bridge table and a small circle of intimate friends.

Mrs. Diefenbaker is an active participant in the hard-driving career of her husband and the busy life of the capital.

Mrs. St. Laurent, disliking air travel, remained close to the fire-side, seldom traveling with the former prime minister even during his election campaigns.

An attractive wife, decorating the public platform, is almost a political essential nowadays. Mrs. Diefenbaker rose to the occasion in the 1957 and 1958 elections. She made a tremendous impact on the electorate everywhere. Jacqueline Kennedy proved a decided asset to John Kennedy in the recent U.S. presidential campaign.

Since Mrs. St. Laurent was reluctant to accompany her husband, Mr. St. Laurent usually had one of their charming daughters on the stage with him. This was helpful. But many Liberals would have preferred to see Mrs. St. Laurent, with her many homespun qualities.

Today's recipe

Yield—One 2-layer cake
1/4 cup butter or margarine;
1 package (approx. 3 1/2 ounces) vanilla, flavored instant pudding mix; 2 cups sifted icing sugar; 1/4 cup (about) orange juice; 1/2 cup (about) chopped pecans; 2 bakers' cake layers (about 7 inches in diameter); Orange-flavoured candy fruit.

NO-BAKE MIDSUMMER CAKE
slices, optional. Sprigs of fresh mint, optional.

Cream butter or margarine; gradually blend in the vanilla flavoured instant pudding mix, icing sugar and sufficient orange juice to make an icing of spreading consistency. Beat vigorously until the mixture is smooth and creamy; stir in all but 1 tablespoon of the toasted pecans. Put the 2 layers of cake together with a generous filling of the instant pudding mixture; cover top and sides of cake with the remaining icing. Decorate cake with saved-out pecans and, if desired, with orange candy slices and sprigs of mint.

Say it with artificial flowers

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—The latest fashion in Paris is to "say it with artificial flowers."

Frenchwomen revived the art of the artificial bouquet last winter when fresh blooms were both expensive and scarce. These life-like, artistic flower arrangements need no water and can be used over and over again.

Theatres, haute couture salons and professional decorators long have realized the scope of artificial flowers. But the idea has caught on only recently in private homes.

Such experts as Judith Barbier, who supplies fashion flowers for the haute couture; Dugrenot, the well-known Faubourg St. Honore antiquary; and Trousselier, who creates absolutely lifelike reproductions of every natural bloom, offer beautiful and varied selections of artificial flowers for private clients.

Trousselier is capable of reproducing an exact copy of any known flower. But his selection is usually within the range of fresh flowers sold in the florist shops. His special favorite is the rose.

USE BEST FABRICS
The finest pure fibre fabrics are used to make these flowers. Silks, velvet, and sheer organdies or voile prove most suitable. Shading, streaks, veins, and etched effects in leaves are hand-painted. Prices are high, but many clients "collect" their flowers a few at a time, adding to their bouquets every week with money which they otherwise would spend on fresh flowers.

Monsieur Trousselier's roses cost an average about 15 francs (about $3) each. Single branches of lilac, gladioli or delphinium cost between 20 and 28 francs (about $4 and $5.60). Smaller flowers for dining or side table vases, including sweet peas, nasturtiums, corn flowers, daisies and ivy or leaf sprays, cost from three to six francs (60 cents to $1.20) each.

Madame Janine Dugrenot has launched a special line of miniature orchids made of plastic. No one can resist touching the waxy smoothness of their translucent petals to probe the secret of this lifelike media.

Madame Paule Dedebar, who runs a florist shop, specializes in mixing fresh and artificial flowers in the same bouquet. She believes in taking advantage of the fresh-cut flowers in season, and using two or three artificial varieties to provide a touch of the unusual.

Five Games In Intercollegiate To Be Televised

TORONTO (CP)—Five games of the Senior Intercollegiate Football League will be televised by the CBC this fall, it was announced Monday.

It will be the first television appearance for the 73-year-old league which comprises McGill University of Montreal, Queen's University of Kingston, Ont., the University of Toronto and the University of Western Ontario, London.

The games probably will go on the national network as part of the CBC's new World of Sport series.

REMEMBER WHEN...

Ada Mackenzie won the Ontario women's golf championship at Hamilton 17 years ago today, for the eighth time. The founder of the Toronto Ladies Golf Club defeated Mrs. H. M. Currier of Toronto at the 19th hole. Miss Mackenzie was five times a winner of the Canadian Ladies' Open title.

Archie Moore In Top Physical Shape, Says Dr. Schiff After Exam, Ready For Giulio Rinaldi

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP)—Archie Moore, the venerable king of the light heavyweights, announced today that he is ready to encounter any style Giulio Rinaldi employs in their title bout in New York Saturday night.

Archie, 44 years old by his reckoning but 47 by his manager's, said: "Let's say that I will do it. Whatever Rinaldi does I expect to do something better."

Rinaldi, who decided Archie in Italy earlier in the year, has made no secret of his plans. He intends to push Moore, keep him off balance and stay away from his right hand.

There had been rumors that Archie would have trouble making the 175-pound limit. They were not entirely without reason for in the past he has bloated up to fearsome proportions. But he hopped on the scale and it showed 178½.

"I've been around a long time," Moore sniffed, "and have heard that sort of thing before. It seems I've even heard it about one Archie Moore. But it is well not to be influenced by such talk."

Archie now has only one sparring partner, Greatest Crawford, and he, too, is impressed with the old master.

"Why Moore is as fast as most middleweights," Greatest enthused. "He seems to get faster every workout."

Dr. Alexander Schiff of the New York State Athletic Commission also joined the bandwagon.

"He's a physical marvel," said Dr. Schiff. "What's the difference how old he really is? He has the reflexes of a man of 32."

Cowansville Wins First Ball Fixture

COWANSVILLE —(Staff)—The Cowansville baseball team, the only Canadian team in the Eastern Border Baseball league, registered its first win of the season Sunday, by defeating Fairfax-Bakersfield 6-1.

Winning pitcher was R. Dostie who not only hurled a good game but also got two hits. Losing tosser was P. Jones.

Following is the schedule for the remainder of the regular season:

June 18, Cowansville at Enosburg; June 25, Cowansville at Jeffersonville; July 9, Cowansville at Highgate; July 16, Jericho at Cowansville; July 23, Cowansville at Fairfax-Bakersfield; July 30, Cowansville at Franklin; August 6, Enosburg at Cowansville and August 13, Jeffersonville at Cowansville.

Indians Move Within One Game Of Front-Running Tigers Who Lost To White Sox, Yanks Take Two

Cleveland Indians, barred from high-stake card games by manager Jimmy Dykes, are playing a hot hand in the American League race, moving within one game of first place with a seven-game winning streak.

Dykes ruled out the big pots to make sure this Tribe kept their minds on baseball. The Indians have done just that. They have won 19 of their last 23 games.

The three-man relief brigade of righthanders Frank Funk and Barry Latman and lefty Bob Allen has a 13-3 won-lost record. They have been in on 20 of Cleveland's 31 victories.

Latman ran his record to 4-0 Monday night, breaking a 5-3 tie with a triple and blanking Washington Senators in four innings of two-hit relief for a 7-5 victory.

That put the Indians even with the league-leading Detroit Tigers in the decision "lost" column as Chicago White Sox knocked off the Tigers 8-0 behind the seven-hit pitching of Frank Baumann.

YANKS MOVE UP

The third-place New York Yankees moved to within four games of the top with a 6-1 and 6-2 doubleheader sweep over Minnesota Twins.

Los Angeles Angels beat the fourth-place Baltimore Orioles 3-0 on southpaw Ron Mueller's six-hitter. Kansas City Athletics split a doubleheader at Boston, winning 10-6 after the Red Sox had won the opener 6-2.

The Indians, after blowing 3-0 and 5-3 leads behind starter Johnny Antonelli and Bobby Locke, finally made it with two unearned runs in the seventh inning against losing reliever John Gabler (2-2). Latman's two-out triple triggered the rally and gave the bullpen three victories and three saves in the Tribe's seven-game streak.

Cleveland collected 15 hits—including a 4-for-4 show by the three pitchers—with Jimmy Piersall cracking a triple and three singles and Johnny Romano extending his hit streak through 20 games with a double.

FIRST SOX SHUTOUT

Baumann (4-4) gave the White Sox staff its first shutout and became the first lefty to go all the way against Detroit this season. He also had three hits and drove in three runs. Righthander Phil Regan, a five-game winner for Detroit, lost his second in a row when the White Sox scored twice in the second inning on two walks and singles by Jim Landis and Sherm Lollar.

The Yankees set league home run records for 13 and 14 consecutive games while tagging the Twins with an 11-game losing string. A three-run pinch homer by Johnny Blanchard did it in the seventh inning of the opener. Mickey Mantle regained a tie for the league lead with his 15th homer, a two-run shot in the eighth.

That made it 27 home runs in 13 games for New York, and Tony Kubek made it 28 for 14 in the nightcap with a two-run homer in the seventh that gave the Yankee shortstop a 14-game hitting streak.

Jim Coates (6-2) won his fifth straight game, first as a starter, with relief by Luis Arroyo in the opener. Rookie Roland Sheldon (2-2) then pitched his first complete game with a six-hitter in the second game, clinching it with his first major league hit, a two-run single in the fifth inning. Don Lee and Chuck Stobbs, both 0-2, were the losers.

HITS TWO-RUN HOMER

Ted Kluszewski hammered a two-run homer in the first inning for the Angels off Hee Brown (5-2), who had won four in a row. It was Klu's sixth hit off Baltimore pitching this season—all home runs. Moeller struck out nine men—fanning Brooks Robinson and Jim Gentile with the bases loaded in the fifth and whiffing Jerry Adair and pinch-hitter Dave Philley with two on in the sixth. It was his first victory and complete game in the majors.

Mike Fonzies (2-2) gave up 10 hits but went all the way while making his first start in three seasons for Boston in the opener.

Als Will Be Gunning For Victory Over Canadiens, Coach Ruel Is Undecided About Starting Hurler

The Alouettes will play hosts tonight to Coaticook Canadiens at the Park Avenue Stadium while the Granby club visits the Royals of Drummondville. These are the only games on tap this evening in the Provincial Eastern Townships Baseball League. Both are slated to commence at 8:00.

It will be the first visit of the Canadiens to Sherbrooke this year. Both games are important as it will give the Alouettes an opportunity of moving out of the league cellar and the Royals a chance of moving close to second position.

If the Canadiens come through with a victory it would move them into a tie with Waterloo, who are idle this evening. If Granby wins their tilt it would put them in sole possession of second place in the standing.

The Als will be out trying to put an end to their losing streak as they have dropped their last four. Last Thursday the two teams clashed in Coaticook and the Canadiens eked out a close 3-2 verdict. It was Muccucci's homer which decided the outcome.

Coach Claude Ruel was undecided last night about his starting pitcher for tonight's game. He has Billy Korman, long ball hitter, to help them Bert Cotterell or Wayne Nugent to draw from. It seems it will be between Cotterell or Nugent as Poitras and Prud'homme worked last Sunday.

The game at Drummondville is expected to be a close battle but Manager Dupont is pointing for a win for his Royals. He figures they can stop the Knights on their home grounds. Fresh from their win over the two teams clashed in Coaticook and the Canadiens eked out a close 3-2 verdict. It was Muccucci's homer which decided the outcome.

The Royals is the only team in the circuit to knock over the league-running Acton Vale club. The Royals have signed another outfielder in Maurice Dupont, who is regarded as a game. He has Billy Korman, long ball hitter, to help them Bert Cotterell or Wayne Nugent to draw from. It seems it will be between Cotterell or Nugent as Poitras and Prud'homme worked last Sunday.

Pirates Gradually Coming Back Up Ladder, Redlegs Belt Braves To Move Back On Top, Giants Lose

A year ago Vern Law was a 20-game winner and Pittsburgh Pirates were on top of the National League race. Now it's the first National League decision, wins—and the Pirates are in fourth spot.

It is easy to spotlight the Bucs' slump, what with Law losing four of his first five decisions and Bob Friend, an 18-game winner last season, losing seven in a row as a starter.

Law picked up his first win in more than a month with a 5-2 victory over Los Angeles Dodgers Monday night. He moved the fourth-place Pirates to within 2½ games of first place. The loss knocked Los Angeles out of the lead.

Cincinnati Redlegs jumped back on top by beating Milwaukee Braves 5-3. Last-place Philadelphia Phillies dropped San Francisco Giants to third place with a 3-2 victory and St. Louis Cardinals defeated Chicago Cubs 10-8.

Law, bothered by a sore shoulder and home runs, avoided both troubles Monday night. He gave up eight hits and blew a 2-0 lead, but then singled home the tie-breaker in the sixth inning against losing reliever Ron Perranoski (3-1) before giving way for a pinch hitter, Elroy Face saved the decision with two innings of one-hit, shutout relief. Bill Mazeroski and Smoky Burgess homered for the Pirates, who collected 13 hits.

The Reds came from behind and beat Lew Burdette (4-5) with a three-run eighth inning on homers by Frank Robinson and Jerry Lynch. Robinson singled and Lynch doubled as they scored Cincinnati's first two runs in the second inning on a single by Gordie Coleman after the Braves had counted three in the first on home run by Ed Mathews and Joe Adcock.

Joey Jay, a former Brave, worked the first seven innings, blanking Milwaukee on one hit over the last six.

A six-run seventh inning, triggered by Carl Savatski's two-run homer and capped by Bill White's grand-slammer, moved the Cardinals from behind. Maury McDermott, gaining his first National League decision, was the winner in relief. Ed Bouchee and Ernie Banks homered for the Cubs. Reliever Joe Schaffernoth (0-3) lost.

Robin Roberts, who had lost his first seven decisions, beat the Giants with a six-hit performance. Chuck Hiller hit a two-run homer for San Francisco in the second inning, but then put the tying run on base with an error ahead of Fanchio Herrera's winning three-run homer in the third. Mike McCormick (5-5) dropped his third straight decision.

Bolton Edges Orleans 9-8 In Close Tilt

BOLTON—Don Goyette hurled Bolton to a 9-8 win over Orleans in the Massawippi Valley Intermediate Baseball League here Sunday. It was the third straight win for Bolton.

Goyette, who took over from Brennan in the sixth, picked up the win. Bob Peasley started for the home club but ran into trouble in the second when Brennan came to his aid. E. Goyette went the route for Orleans and was charged with the loss.

R. Goyette clouted a home run for Orleans but they failed to pull out the game. Orleans rallied in the closing innings and at the end of the fifth they were tied 5-5. They went ahead in the seventh but Bolton showed four runs across in the seventh to move ahead.

Orleans came up with another run in the eighth and in the ninth they were held to one run to lose out by a slim one-run margin.

Thinking Man
By BOB ROSBURG

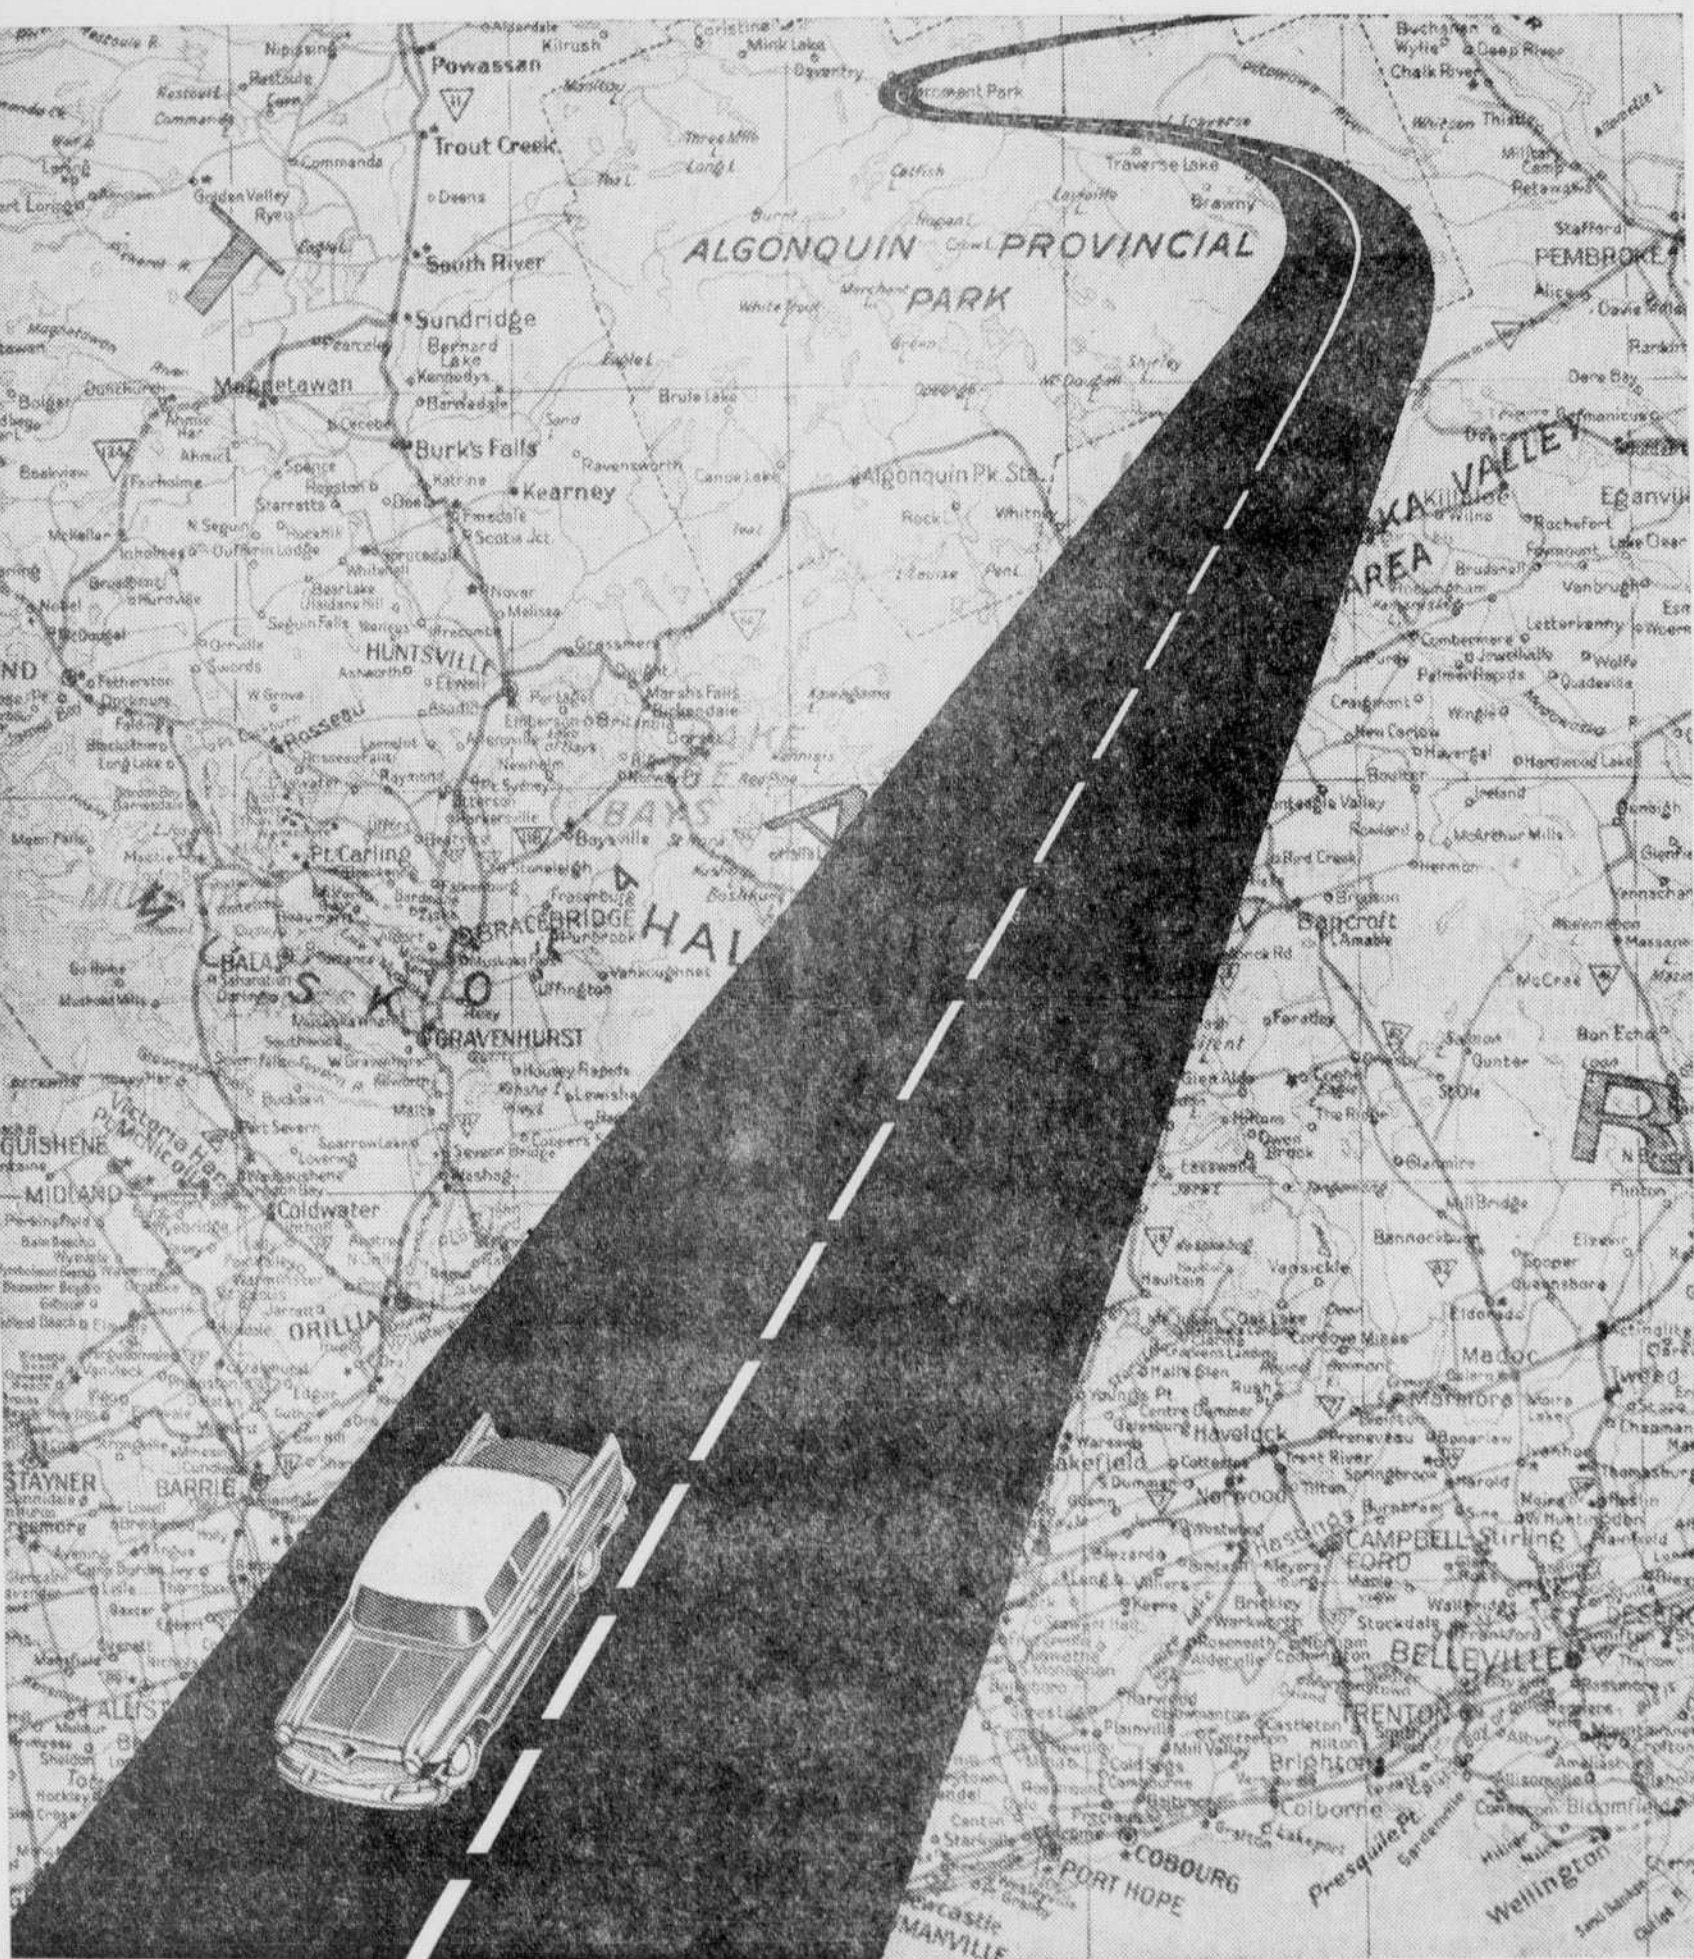

Golf is more than a matter of swinging a club properly. It is a thinking man's game. Sometimes you can think your way out of predicaments that even the finest of shots won't bail you out of when you don't have proper thought and consideration behind them. If you think a good game, you won't get in those predicaments.

Learn to play within yourself. Realize what shots you can make properly and try only those in which you have confidence. A weekend golfer, who tries to play spectacular shots he may have seen made by stars in tournament play, can only wind up in more trouble than he's already in.

Have confidence in your clubs. Your professional can be of great service in helping you select just the right ones for you. He has scientific methods of measuring exactly what size and weight clubs are best suited to your physique.

Some golfers have pet clubs. If you have any, use them whenever you think they'll work effectively.

They give you confidence—an all-important asset.

Is 56,211 miles exceptional for one set of tires?

This actual mileage was obtained by Mr. E. Maxwell of Port Credit, Ontario.

In a way this is a record. But other car owners, driving hard or on bad roads, would be likely to get less mileage. And owners of low horsepower cars might get more. It all depends on driving conditions.

That's why mileage claims are controversial. Mileage depends not only on tire quality, but on the type of car, the way it is handled and the roads on which it is driven.

What one driver gets, another may not.

The important fact to remember is the difference in mileage you get between brands.

Your problem is how to determine that difference. You could find out by driving your car on various brands then comparing the mileage. There is an easier way. Look at the results of the Comparative Mileage Tests conducted by Goodyear.

In the last 3 years, Goodyear tires delivered more mileage than 28 competitive brands of equal price. Fact: the Goodyear Custom Super-Cushion gave 15% more mileage than Brand "A", 14% more mileage than Brand "B".

Think about these facts when choosing new tires.

The chances are you will agree with the majority of Canadian drivers. And most car manufacturers, too. Goodyear tires give better value than any other kind.

There is a difference in tires. Visit your Goodyear dealer this week.

Important! All new Goodyear auto tires now covered by a Road Hazard Guarantee for up to 36 months

Transfer Seems To Be Magic Word In International League, Teams Involved Roll Up Straight Wins

Mention the word move or transfer and it must perform wonders in the International League.

Charleston Marlins won seven straight games after their move to the United States from San Juan, Puerto Rico, last month. Jersey City Jerseys, rumored heading for Miami later this month, have reeled off five victories in a row.

However, league president Tommy Richardson might have put an end to the spell when he said from Charleston, W. Va., Monday night that "it would take a $50,000 gift to move the club to Miami" and it would buy nothing more than the satisfaction of taking baseball back to Miami. He indicated that such would not be the case.

Sweden Gains In Davis Cup European Zone

BUDAPEST (AP) — Sweden eliminated Hungary Monday 3-2 and moved into the quarter final round of the European Zone Davis Cup competition.

Ulf Schmidt of Sweden won the decisive point when he defeated Istvan Gulyas 6-2, 6-3. That gave Sweden a 3-1 lead.

When the final singles match was halted by rain, Sweden's Jan-Erik Lundquist was leading Zoltan Katona 8-6, 2-6, 6-4. Because Lundquist had to return home immediately, the Swedes decided not to continue the match today. The point went to Hungary.

The outclassed Hungarians only other victory came in the doubles Sunday.

Sweden will meet Spain, a 3-2 winner over New Zealand, in the quarter-finals at Barcelona, June 16-18.

Other quarter - final pairings determined over the weekend were:

Italy vs West Germany

Britain vs South Africa

France vs Poland

Italy won the European zone last year and then upset the United States before losing to Australia in the challenge round.

Films Will Be Used By Als For Injuries

MONTREAL (CP) — Trainer Stan Wilson of Montreal Alouettes has joined football's movie jag.

In treating injuries that will confront him this Big Four season, the lanky dark-haired Minnesotan plans to use action films.

"It's surprising how much you learn about an injury from movies showing the play that produced it," he said in an interview Monday.

Should a Montreal player suffer an injury during a game this season, Wilson plans to make a note of the time.

"Then later I'll go over the film at that point and I can learn how hard the man was hit and from what angle. This information will go a long way towards aiding diagnosis and treatment."

He said an injured player all too often cannot say himself what happened.

"Sometimes they get hit from behind or from the side and they don't see who raked them up or how."

Bo Winiger Is Fined By PGA

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Bo Winiger was fined $500 and suspended for six months by the Professional Golf Association Monday for playing in a tournament that conflicted with the $30,000 Memphis Open.

Joe Black, PGA tournament supervisor, said Winiger had been warned, along with other players, not to compete in last week's tournament at Odessa, Tex. He played anyway.

Winiger last month asked Memphis Open officials to release him so he could play in his hometown Odessa tourney. They refused.

They also declined to release top money winners and Gary Player, Arnold Palmer and Vancouver's Stan Leonard to the International Canada Cup matches, which also conflicted. Player, Palmer and Leonard sat out both tournaments.

Carry Back Is Being Treated For Infection

OCEANPORT, N. J. (AP) — Carry Back, three-year-old colt who missed horse racing's triple crown when he lost the Belmont Stakes last Saturday, is being treated today for an infection of his left front ankle. When he returns to racing is questionable.

Dr. William O. Reed of New York checked Carry Back Monday and said x-rays showed no fracture of the ankle bone.

"The lameness of the horse is apparently due to an infection caused by bacteria introduced by a 'rundown,' probably during the running of the race," Dr. Reed said. "The entire leg is swollen."

Usually the "rundown condition comes from deep, sandy track conditions causing an abrasion on the heel or ankle during the running of a race.

President Richardson Claims It Would Cost $50,000 To Transfer Jersey City Ball Club To Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — President Tommy Richardson of the International League said Monday night it would require an outright gift of $50,000 to have the Jersey City baseball club transferred to Miami.

Sports editor Jimmy Burns of the Miami Herald asked Richardson Monday night "I talked to a couple of directors and they were against it."

Richardson said last Friday in Richmond, Va., that he had been conferring with Miami City manager Melvin Reese about moving the team to Miami.

"There is nothing to confer about," Richardson replied, "unless someone wants to put up $50,000, which would be used to pay off debts and for operational expenses."

Asked what the money would buy, Richardson said nothing "other than the satisfaction of bringing baseball back to Miami."

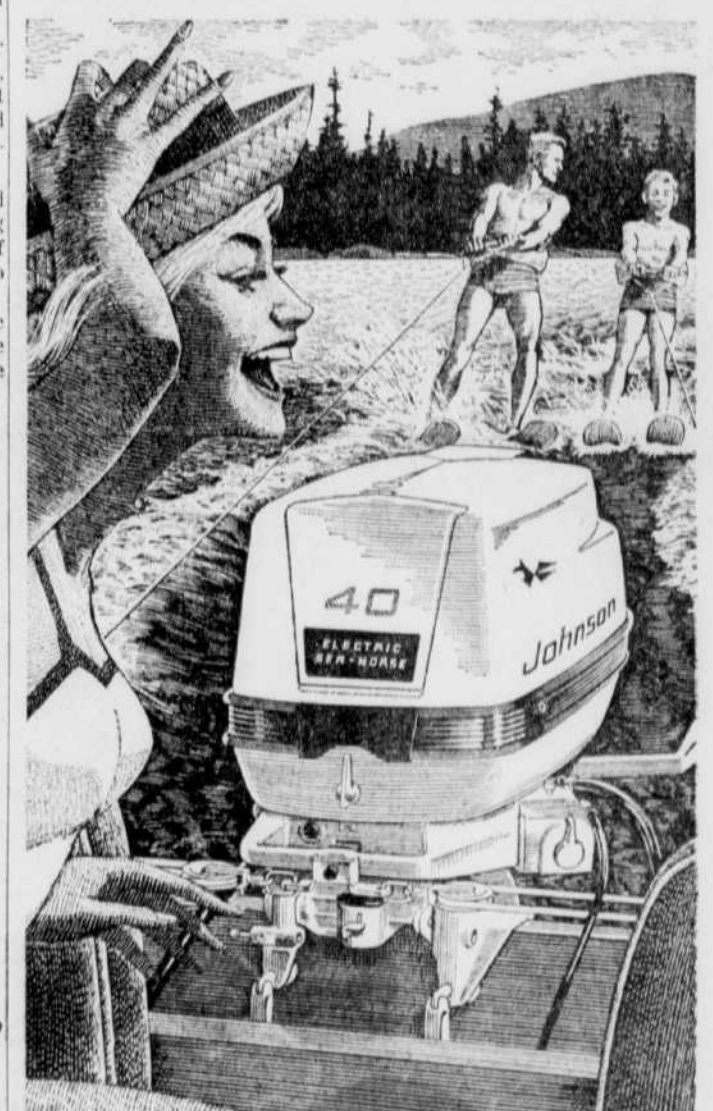

Without a financial incentive to move, he said, the league would be better off keeping the team in Jersey City, N.J.
