THE CADBY CASE.

Not Yet Concluded—Great Interest Taken in It by the Public—Stewart to Answer for Contempt.

(SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.)

ST. JOHN, N.B., March 23.

The argument is very much muddled in the Cadby case. It was concluded by Counsel this afternoon. No new statements of facts were brought out. The judge adjourned the Court till Thursday, at 2.30, when he will deliver judgment. To-night, the judges of the Supreme Court met at the residence of Judge Palmer for consultation in the case. Should judgment be that Chief Stewart does not hold Cadby legally, then the Counsel will again argue the case as to the prisoner's disposal. Chief Stewart, of Hamilton, with New York District Attorney Gardner and several legal gentlemen, went to Moncton, to-night, where Stewart has been ordered to appear tomorrow on a charge of contempt of the Halifax Court in not returning when ordered. The case is creating unusual interest here.

The lowest bid 4 1/2 per cent was made by the London and Canadian Loan Agency, and the last awarded to them. OTTAWA, March 23.—Nellie Cassidy, a domestic servant in the employ of Mr. Snow, barrister of this city, left her home on Friday evening last and has not since been seen. From enquiries made by Mr. Beatty, father of Mrs. Snow, it appears that on the evening the girl was to have met her lover at a house on Division street, but failed to keep the appointment. She used to attend the Salvation Army meetings, but the army don't know anything of her whereabouts. She is about twenty years of age, of medium size, good looking and has dark hair.

The respondents claiming as purchasers; the contention is as to whether a possession of the goods, by the purchaser, to satisfy the bills of sale Act Ch 119, R. S. O.

A Sad Accident.

LONDON, Ont., March 23.—A particularly sad occurrence was witnessed in the township of Dawn yesterday morning. The Rev. Wm. Bell lost his daughter, aged seven, and in attempting to rescue her from a perilous position nearly lost his own life. His little daughter went down to Lake Creek, which at this season of the year contains seven or eight feet of water, and got on a piece of ice, which broke from the shore by the weight of the child, and commenced floating down the stream. The child's dangerous position was noticed by some passers by who gave the alarm, and the father rushed down to the stream and into the water and succeeded in reaching his daughter. He then attempted to gain the shore, but was greatly impeded owing to the large amount of floating ice, when but a short distance from the land the little girl slipped away, and immediately disappeared, the swift current carrying her out of sight. She never reappeared and all hopes of her recovery were abandoned by the crowd that had by this time assembled. The body of the girl was found the following day.

LONDON, March 23.—The Commons, by vote of 216 to 173, adopted a motion in favor of local taxation falling partially upon owners of landed property instead of upon the occupiers only, as the law now stands. Mr. Chamberlain urged that the motion be withdrawn, as the Government was preparing a bill to equalize taxation.

Gladstone's Intentions.

LONDON, March 23.—Gladstone will announce in the Commons tomorrow the date upon which he will make a statement in relation to Ireland. ### The Treaty of Peace Violated.

The French houses and stores which Tamatave were shelled by the Hovas and they were destroyed. The Hovas then returned to the capital. Their losses were small. A few days later General Sherman surprised in a forest four thousand Sakalava preceded by 250 Frenchmen and three machine guns. The Sakalava were routed, forty being killed and many wounded. ### Pastor's Patients.

PARIS, March 23.—One of the wolf-bitten Russians, who recently came here and were treated by Pasteur to prevent rabies, died last night in great agony with all the symptoms of hydrophobia. Pasteur is not at all dismayed by the failure of his treatment in this case. The Russians arrived here and were placed under Pasteur's care on March 15. They were Muzik and were 19 in number. All had been attacked by mad wolves and died last night. The man who died last night had been inoculated with virus twice a day since his arrival. His terrible death with all the symptoms of hydrophobia in its worst form has operated as a serious check to public confidence in the effectiveness of Pasteur's discovery. The corpse has been removed to Pasteur's laboratory, where it will be made the subject of experiments by the scientists. M. Pasteur is much annoyed by the unfavorable comments caused by this failure of his method, but he insists that it establishes nothing.

The spinal marrow of the dead man will be used to inoculate dogs experimentally. The other Russian patients are doing well.

Charles Bradcock and Jack O'Brien, two outlaws, were killed. Four thieves reached the river and rode out on the ice. Two horses broke through, and with their riders were swept away. The two other thieves returned to the bank where the cowboys caught them, tied them on the backs of ponies and took them to parts unknown. They have probably been lynched.

The President gave notice that all railroad business which up to this time remained incomplete was dead, owing to the passage of the Carter bill. All franchises before the board would have to be re-advised and re-petitioned for. This prevents the passage of the Cable Railroad Franchise over the Mayor's veto.

Another Weather Prophet.

STRAUSSE, N.Y., March 23.—The cold wave and blinding snowstorm which visited this section to-day was foretold by a Rev. Dr. Calhoun, of this city, nearly a month ago. His prediction was based upon observation of sun spots continued through eight years. Dr. Calhoun's prediction was in direct contradiction to the forecast sent out by the Government bureau. He was successful in foretelling the great storm of the path of an unknown law of solar influence upon the climate.

A Railroad Strike.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 23.—There is said to be a great deal of secret agitation among the employes of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad relative to a strike. Mr. G. P. Huntington, owner of the road, was waited upon recently by a committee of locomotive engineers and conductors of the Knights of Labor, who would the ten per cent reduction, made a few months ago, be restored. ### THE SKATE.

THE FIVE-MILE RACE AT PIOTOU—CROWELL WINS BY ACCIDENT. PIOTOU, N.S., March 23.—The five-mile skating race between McCormick, St. John, and Crowell, Halifax, for $100 a side and the championship of America took place in the rink to-night. The ice was a little soft, but in very fine condition. The rink measures nearly eighty-seven laps for five miles. McCormick took the lead, both men going a hard pace. Crowell held him; McCormick got well for half the distance, Crowell right at the St. John man's heels. McCormick's splendid stroke carried him down the rink at a great pace, but he did not out the corners quite as sharp as Crowell, the latter skated strongly, but not so pretty a stroke as McCormick. McCormick seemed to make an effort on the thirty-third lap to throw Crowell and broke into a hard race, but Crowell hung on. It was intensely interesting for four laps, when they eased up and continued in the same positions. McCormick looked as if there would be the struggle at the finish. About forty-nine laps they spurred again, but not hard, all the time, however, swinging round, stroke for stroke. It was either man's race. On the fifty-fifth lap they spurred, and Crowell nearly crowded out the lead, but a few powerful strokes held McCormick his place at the front. Crowell tried for first place at the sixty-first lap, but failed. Now it seemed to be McCormick's race, and he burst into a spurt on the sixty-sixth lap, and cleared a space behind him. Around both men flew, but McCormick was surely gaining, and as they rounded for the last lap, he left Crowell trying yards behind. Crowell could not hold him this time and the race was McCormick's; but just as he turned the last corner, going at a terrific pace, he ran close to the side of the rink and his skate catching he turned several times and fell. He was almost up, but Crowell had covered the difference, and he was across the line before McCormick fully recovered. The race was McCormick's but for the accident. Crowell skates finely, but the St. John man clearly had reserved speed, which McCormick could not keep up with. A lot of money changed hands. The time was seventeen minutes and forty-five seconds; the time as follows: three minutes twenty-five seconds; three minutes thirty-one seconds; three minutes thirty-five seconds; three minutes thirty-seven seconds; three minutes thirty-nine seconds. The Halifax men here are jubilant. McCormick takes it well, but considers it was his race if he had not fallen. There is no doubt of that, but the race was magnificent from first to last.

ITALIAN OPERA IN LONDON.

A Scene of Unparalleled Disgrace.

(From the London Times, March 8.) The Italian opera season at Her Majesty's Theatre came to a premature and somewhat sensational close on Saturday evening. The quality of the opening performance, noticed in the Times a week ago, made it easy to foresee a similar consummation. No one, however, could have predicted a scene such as has, perhaps, never been witnessed in an English theatre and, let us hope, will never be witnessed again. As that scene, for the present at least, marks the final stage of Italian opera in this country, and therefore has a kind of historic significance, it will be well to state briefly what occurred. The announcement that Gounod's Faust would be given had drawn a very large audience, which filled the cheaper parts of the house to overflowing. At first everything seemed to promise an enjoyable evening. It is true that Signor Vizzani was found to be a very indifferent Faust, but Signor Vidal, a good singer and an excellent actor, produced a favorable impression as Mephistopheles, and Mr. Walter Bolton's Valentine satisfied the modest demands of a Saturday night audience. No wonder, therefore, that the curtain fell on the Kermesse scene amid thunders of applause. A very long pause followed, which the gallery, suspecting nothing worse than the usual dilatoriness of operatic scene shifters, beguiled by singing "Wait till the clouds roll by," and other popular ditties humorously adapted to the situation. In the meantime, many calls for the orchestra remained empty, and presently a voice was heard to say "I professori non sono pagati," which statement being interpreted to the effect that the band not having been paid refused to play, and travelling from the first row of the stalls to all parts of the house, produced

A PERFECT ROAR OF INDIGNATION.

Seriously wronged as the members of the orchestra no doubt were, it is impossible to approve of their conduct in bringing their grievance before the public at the risk of serious disturbance, and we were glad to see Mr. Val Nicholson, Mr. Ould, Mr. White, and other leading artists, sitting at their post. To his diminished forces, Signor Mascheroni, the conductor, gave the sign to begin the prelude to the next act. But the public refused to be satisfied, and even when the curtain had risen on the Marguerite garden, indignation calls for the manager and for "an explanation" continued to resound from pit to galleries. To a young Russian lady, said to be a novice on the stage, belongs the honor of having saved the situation at this juncture. Undisturbed by the threatening aspect of the house, Madlle. Alexandra Benjeko came forward to the foot-lights and by her graceful, though necessarily mute, appeals to the chivalrous instincts of the crowd, secured silence for Siebel's address to the flowers, which was of course a well-deserved burst of approval. The acting was then allowed to continue in pace. Madlle. Datti (Margaret) entered and sang the "King of Thule" and her duet with Faust, in which she herself possessed of a sympathetic voice and of considerable dramatic power. Serious criticism of the performance, accompanied by an orchestra without clarinets and with a single flute, would of course be impossible. The words, and that, used by Dr. Johnson's words, "it was done as all the persons remaining fell amid rapturous applause, and again

AN INTERMINABLE "WAIT"

ensued. By this time the audience had fairly lost its temper, and the groans and angry cries waxed louder. When the tumult was at its highest the stage manager stepped forward and declared that the scene shifters, not having received their money, refused to work, the performance would terminate with "God save the Queen." But even this modest sop to the Cerberus of excited feeling was not touched. The curtain rose once more, and on the stage, drawn up in double file, were seen a number of superbly attired employes, females and males, partly in their ordinary dress and partly in their theatrical costumes. Instead of intoning the National Anthem they made pitiful appeals to the audience for the desist of which they had been defrauded by the manager. Coins were thrown and scrambled for in wild confusion, no one making the slightest attempt to put an end to the disgraceful proceedings, which lasted for upwards of half an hour. After this time the persons remaining in the stalls began to leave the house, but they were met in the passage by the occupants of the gallery clamoring for their entrance-money and for the manager, who, of course, was nowhere to be found. Some rough horse-play now ensued in the lobby of the house:

CARPETS WERE PULLED UP,

and one or two lamps broken. Fortunately the crowd, like most English crowds, was good-humored, having probably derived more amusement from the exciting incidents of the evening than the finest performance of Gounod's masterpiece could have afforded. The mischief to life and property that might have been done under different circumstances is incalculable, the theatre being at the absolute mercy of the excited audience from 11 at night till 1 in the morning, when the last stragglers dispersed. What must have struck the intelligent foreigners on and off the stage more than anything else was the happy-go-lucky state of indifference displayed by the authorities; no policeman was anywhere to be seen, and this after the recent experience in Fall-Mal and Mayfair! Abroad the very origin of the disorder would have been impossible. In France and Germany a manager has to deposit a certain sum by way of caution-money before beginning his performances; in London he can take the largest theatre he can find without any question as to his solvency being asked; and there is every reason to doubt whether the criminal law can touch him for cheating singers, scene-shifters and the public of their money. Artistically speaking the riotous proceedings of Saturday night probably be remembered as the ignominious end of an institution which operates the most fashionable in England. Italian opera in the Haymarket has always been an unlucky speculation. From the great Handel downwards one manager has succeeded another on the royal road to bankruptcy. Covent Garden is a circus; the sooner Her Majesty's Theatre is turned into a post office or any other respectable place of business the better.

This morning's Wall street gossip, as telegraphed to Messrs. Frank Bond & Co., 14 Place d'Armes, was as follows:—

"The fall of one-half cent in Exchange, together with the withdrawal of over $250,000 gold engaged for shipment, turned the market at a critical point, caused heavy covering by shorts, and led to a better feeling in the street. The fear that there was to be a squeeze in coal stocks caused these properties to advance a point, and a rumor gained currency during the morning that there was to be an important conference between the leaders during the evening, and that prior to J. P. Morgan's departure on the Germanic on Thursday news of a new combination will be wide spread, the result of which would be to put coal properties to much higher prices. On investigation this combination story was met by an official contradiction, but the Room nevertheless believed that there was something on the tapis, particularly as Work, Strong & Co., Green & Bateman, H. Victor, Newcomb, Neneburg, Aterburg and others had been large purchasers of D. L. & W. and were instrumental in running it up to 12 1/2 at the close of the day. The bears concentrated their force on Lake Shore and said that the selling throughout yesterday's entire session had been for the account of insiders. Commission brokers say that everything now hinges on the solution of the railroad and labor troubles, and if labor is worsted in its fight against capital there is not likely to be any further uprising among the Knights of Labor."

The following were the fluctuations in prices and the sales made in New York, Tuesday, 23rd March, as specially reported for THE HERALD by Macdougall Brothers, stock brokers, St. Francois Xavier street:—

Messrs. A. Geddes & Co., Chicago, representatives of Messrs. Macdougall Bros. of this city, brokers and members of the Chicago Board of Trade, telegraph as follows respecting to-day's markets:—

Chicago, Ill., March 23.—An improved feeling was developed in our wheat market this morning; some heavy shorts covered freely and there was generally more confidence shown than for some days past. Foreign advices indicated a steady feeling abroad with moderate buying orders for futures for foreign account.

This afternoon, owing to a fear of increasing labor troubles, which seems to be shaking Wall street considerably and which reflects here. Prices are getting low but while the feeling remains so unsettled it is difficult to predict the course of the market day by day. Provisions weakened a little towards the close in sympathy with wheat, and the strikes West will shut off receipts for a while.

E. McLennan, 12 St. John street (Western Chambers), reports the Chicago grain and provision markets as follows:—

CHICAGO, March 23, 1886.

WHEAT.—The market is quiet and steady at quotations. The only business reported on 'Change to-day was 175 barrels spring extra at $3.05, 230 Ontario bags medium at $1.85, 250 do at $1.90. The sales reported to THE HERALD were 375 barrels Manitoba strong bakers at $4.80.

Transactions in Canadian Pacific at the New York Stock Exchange to-day were at 66 1/2 and 66 3/4 shares being sold. Messrs. Brails & Jackson's private advices give the closing quotations at 66 1/2 asked 66 1/2 bid.

The amount of bullion taken into the Bank of England on balance, yesterday, was £26,000.

The Commercial Bulletin says that "assuming that the Reading reorganization carries out everything it proposes, the question still remains whether a wide application of this rehabilitation process would go far towards remedying the difficulties which are becoming more and more menacing to the railroad. We think not. The real trouble lies in an excess of railroad facilities and in a highly diluted capitalization. The problem with nearly all the railroads is—how to earn in spite of a large excess of plant charged at nearly double its actual cost; and it is a problem that absolutely defies solution."

THE PURIFYING BLAZE.

The Proposed New Scavenging Contract.

The Board of Health Committee's Plea for Cremation.

The Board of Health has prepared an elaborate report, which will be found below, on the scavenging of the city. The report has been referred to the Finance Committee for consideration. It reads as follows:—

The Board of Health respectfully report: That last year it was decided in the matter of the scavenging contract to advertise for tenders sufficiently long before the expiration of the present contract to enable your Board to grant to a new contractor unprovided with the extensive plant required for so large a work, a reasonable period of time in which to prepare himself for the carrying out of the undertaking. Accordingly, public notice was given in the newspapers inviting tenders for the said contract and allowing from the 1st to the 15th of the present month for the reception of such tenders.

From the remotest times, bodies of men and women and cities have been afflicted with difficulty in getting rid of the waste matters that are constantly accumulating wherever large bodies of men are congregated. And according as the progress of science has more and more impressed upon the public mind the dangers to be apprehended from accumulations of filth (teaching which the experience of centuries often has demonstrated to be only too true) has the anxiety of civilized communities to effectually rid themselves of this source of danger increased.

Here, as elsewhere, the principal method of disposing of waste matter beyond the city limits, were gullies, ravines, quarry pits, etc., could be had to receive it. But the great inconvenience resulting from this method has always been felt, and besides, such a manner of disposal did not really effectually rid the city of the filth, for, at the present moment, many places of deposit formerly beyond the city limits now form part of the city. Some of these have been built upon; some are to be found in the midst of densely populated centres.

And many such places, not yet within the boundaries of the city, are, nevertheless, so close thereto, that the citizens remain quite exposed to the dangers hidden in their depths. Your Board, therefore, particularly within the past few years, has been attentively studying how to deal with the difficulty, and have noted the various attempts made from time to time in foreign cities, especially those remarkable for their enterprise in sanitary matters, to establish an effectual method of disposal. Incineration, of course, has always been considered the most complete and certain manner of destroying refuse; but the apparatus invented at different times for this purpose have generally been more or less defective, and, in many cases, the resulting inconvenience has been so considerable as to necessitate their entire abandonment. However, on the whole, such progress has been made in this direction, especially in England, that your Board resolved last year to make an attempt of the most objectionable part of the city waste, namely, the night-soil; and in this respect having been sustained by the testimony given by scientific men in certain law-suits brought against the city contractors by some of the municipalities; as well as by the decided stand taken by the municipalities to prevent the depositing of the contents of cesspools &c. upon their territory.

Tenders were accordingly invited for the carrying out of this work and that of Mr. Wm. Mann who had matured a plan for the purpose was accepted. The acceptance having been notified by your Council, and were established and the process of incineration began and, upon several occasions since their establishment these works have been visited by experts under the direction of your Board and the complete success of the experiment demonstrated.

During the late epidemic the attention of your Board was directed anew to another source of danger besides the decomposition of organic matter, in the house of filth, that is to say, the refuse from houses infected by contagious diseases. Your Board was obliged during the recent epidemic to institute

A SPECIAL SERVICE for the removal and destruction of waste matter from houses infected with smallpox. But it is clearly evident that this special service should not be confined solely to matter infected by that disease, for equal danger is to be apprehended from diphtheria, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, &c.

Consequently, your Board became so impressed with the absolute necessity for the entire collection of filth removed from the city, bearing in mind the possibility of a visitation by cholera, perhaps, at no very distant day, that they concluded to invite tenders for the incineration as well as for the collection and removal of the refuse. However, in order to be at perfect liberty with respect to the method of disposal, and to save time, two different kinds of tenders were asked for:—One for the general scavenging of the city for a period of one year; the other for the removal and incineration of the scavenging matters for a period of five years.

In response to the advertisement, tenders were received from only one person, Mr. Wm. Mann, the contractor, who successfully initiated the crematory process for the night-soil last year. The two tenders submitted by this gentleman were CAREFULLY EXAMINED. Your Board having previously possessed themselves of such information as would enable them to judge of the probable efficiency of any method proposed, as well as to form an idea of the probable cost of the same, became convinced that the interests of the city demanded the immediate adoption of the tender of the said Mr. Wm. Mann for the removal and incineration of the refuse for a period of five years, and the consequent after due deliberation accepted the said tender, subject to the ratification of your Council.

Your Board, therefore, earnestly recommend that the acceptance by them of the aforesaid tender be duly ratified and that your Council direct that a contract be entered into with the said Mr. Wm. Mann for a period of five years, from the first day of July next (facilities for the said removal and incineration of the city refuse, according to the terms of the specification on file in the office of your Board, and the said tender of Mr. Wm. Mann herewith annexed, at the following scale of prices:—

Table with 2 columns: Year, Price. For the year ending 30th June, 1887... $40,000. For the year ending 30th June, 1888... $42,000. For the year ending 30th June, 1889... $44,000. For the year ending 30th June, 1890... $46,000. For the year ending 30th June, 1891... $48,000.

And that the appropriation be granted your Board to enable them to carry out the work during the coming year.

The whole matter, nevertheless, respectfully submitted. (Signed) HENRY R. GRAY, A. S. HAMELBY, J. H. MOONEY, RICHARD WHITE, MR. MANN'S TENDER.

In his tender Mr. Mann says that each crematory or oven will be built of best English fire brick so that it will completely destroy by fire all refuse. Each oven will have a blower and blast attached. Their size will be about 20ft x 12ft wide and 10 ft high. He promises to have as many ovens as may be required. This manner, he says, of disposing of this refuse is somewhat similar to that now so successfully in use in London, Glasgow, Liverpool, Leeds, etc. The chimney will be about 100 feet high with necessary dampers, etc., to prevent unpleasant odors from emanating.

It may be stated that the general consensus of opinion in the Council is favorable to cremation, but the only difficulty which seems to exist is as to whether the contract can be accepted now owing to the general cutting down in appropriations, which seems inevitable in view of the present state of the revenue. Ald. Grenier is also favorable to the principle of cremation, but fears that he will be unable to sanction the expenditure for the present year anyway and will favor the acceptance of the $25,000 tender. Finally, there seems to be a general desire existing that the Board of Health should give more ample evidence that the work cannot be done cheaper.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Scavenging Contract. To the Editor of THE HERALD. Sir,—I hope that the Finance Committee, before endorsing the Board of Health's proposed arrangement with Mr. Mann, will carefully scrutinize the figures, with a view to legitimate economy, while not detracting from the service. In my opinion there is no reason for making Mr. Mann a present of $15,000 a year, as he already binds himself to do the work in an effective way.

Yours, PRO BONO PUBLICO.

The Corporation and the Roads. To the Editor of THE HERALD. Sir,—It is reported that in view of the peremptory demand recently made by the Chief of Police, that each householder, &c. have the sidewalk in front of his house, &c. cleared of snow by to-morrow morning, and kept so cleared for the remainder of the winter, a number of citizens have associated together for the purpose of compelling the corporation to do their duty. Their intention is said to be to take action against the city for every crossing that is not brought to the sidewalk level, and an account of every neglected house front whose proprietor or tenant has not been prosecuted simultaneously with the first case officially instituted.

The proceedings will be taken to test the level of the sidewalks by which sidewalks are to be regulated. I may further say that the opinion of eminent counsel is being obtained on the subject of the grades to which the corporation is bound to keep the roadways in order, to ascertain whether or not the municipality is not bound to keep its roads to the same level as the sidewalks and in that way to provide against the flooding of sidewalks, pavements and cellars that is in this way occasioned.

Yours, CITIZEN.

The Scavenging Contract. To the Editor of THE HERALD. Montreal, 23rd March, 1886. Having read the letter in this morning's HERALD in reference to the scavenging contract, a communication signed "Let there be more light," I will endeavor to furnish him with the information asked for.

Tenders were called for through an advertisement in the public press for fifteen days, for two methods:—

1st. That the material should be removed and deposited as at present.

2nd. That the refuse should be removed and cremated.

As to the cost of cremating by the method I propose to adopt, compare my tender with the enclosed letters which Alderman Gray received this day from England.

I am, Sir, Your obedt. servant, WM. MANN.

Messrs. Clayton, Richmond & Co., consulting engineers, of Burnley, England, in a letter to Alderman Gray, of 10th March, 1886, says:—

"We estimate the quantity of refuse collected in your city daily to be 200 loads.

"To efficiently dispose of this quantity by our system (Bee-hive furnace) would entail an outlay of nine thousand pounds."

"The cost of disposing by fire of the refuse, including working expenses and maintenance of works, is one shilling 'per load.'"

Also an extract from a letter from John E. Stafford, C.E., of Burnley, Eng. He says:—

"I have much pleasure in endorsing your opinion that to effectually treat the refuse collected in large towns the agency of fire must be utilized. In England thousands of these furnaces are now engaged for this purpose, and numbers are constantly being erected."

EARL DUFFERIN IN INDIA.

Addresses from Various Indian Bodies.

Remarkable Petition to Parliament.

CALCUTTA, March 7. The Viceroy's flying visit to Madras appears to have been a great success. The reception accorded him by all the community left nothing to be desired. The feature of the proceedings which has attracted the most attention in other parts of India was the presentation of addresses by various public bodies, followed by the one speech in which Lord Dufferin answered all. The Chamber of Commerce contented itself with expressions of welcome and thanks for the courteous hearing always given to their representations. The municipality expressed only on local politics, and asked State assistance for the drainage and water scheme. The Mahomedans alluded gratefully to various measures tending to benefit their body, and especially to Lady Dufferin's fund. The address presented on behalf of the Hindoo community generally, and another by a particular native association called the Mahajans Sabha, traversed a wider field. They dwelt on the strict necessity for according the asked-for native volunteer corps, a mitigation of the salt and forest laws, the promotion of technical education, a reduction in Court fees, a change in the Civil Service examinations, and an addition of elected native members to the Legislative Council. They regretted the increase of the British garrison and the decision that India should bear the cost of the Burmese expedition. They would have liked to see the non-official element more largely represented in the newly-appointed Finance Committee.

LORD DUFFERIN'S REPLY.

was very guarded. After thanking the various deputations and making some remarks upon the striking appearance of Madras from the sea, he proceeded to say that with some of the suggestions made he could cordially agree. Others, though of great local interest, possessed a technical character, and no Viceroy could be expected to give an immediate answer regarding them in the absence of his colleagues. Others, again were of a very complicated character, touching on various fundamental points. Even upon these, however, he might not have remained silent, were it not that an inquiry was about to be instituted into the whole question of Indian administration. He made it a rule never to excite a hope which he could not be certain of fulfilling, nor to allow his views on moot questions to become prematurely known. He would therefore content himself with saying that if his views were called for harmoniously upon some important points with those of many wise, intelligent and patriotic native gentlemen.

The subject of native volunteers had, he said, been fully discussed by his Government in a despatch to the Secretary of State, the opinion expressed being that an accession to

THE MILITARY STRENGTH OF INDIA by the enrollment of a large number of volunteer regiments would prove counterproductive with the impediments to the satisfactory establishment of such an organization. He then went on to describe the difference between the functions of the proposed Parliamentary committee and those of the Finance Committee lately appointed by the Indian Government. To prevent confusion it might be advisable to call the latter a commission, not a committee. It would not remain closed at Simla, but would visit the various centres of administration for the purpose of examining special points.

The remainder of the Viceroy's stay was devoted to the visiting of objects of interest. The party embarked on Thursday, except the Commandant-in-chief, who proceeds via Bombay to the north-west frontier. Lord Dufferin's arrival in Calcutta is timed for to-morrow afternoon.

The British Indian Association, a body representing the Bengal landholders, has addressed a somewhat remarkable petition to Parliament on the subject of the proposed Indian Committee. The main point proposed is that a sub-committee should be set up on the ground that if witnesses are examined only in London the data obtained will be extremely limited. The memorialists say:—

"It is true that a few Indian gentlemen who may happen to be in London may be available for examination; but it is obvious that the bare fact of a gentleman having transmitted himself from India to England cannot warrant his fitness to dispose to large and complicated questions affecting various sections of Her Majesty's subjects in India, and it would be a grave injustice to require the Indian people to look upon such chance visitors as fairly representing their interests, hopes, and aspirations. We beg further to observe that the great body of Indian gentlemen possessing the fullest experience and knowledge of their native land can never be induced to leave India.

A journey to England entails not only expense and hardship, but the loss of social position to all but the small minority who break with Indian society from personal motives, and are unable to faithfully reflect its sentiments by reason of their isolation."

Mr. Tanga, one of the leading native agitators, delivered an address in Bombay last week, with the view of meeting the argument that social should have preference over political reform. He argued that political advancement could be gained even if the moral and social state of the people remained far from what it should be. Reform, he said, should always go along the line of the least resistance; and in India that line was to be found in politics.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Department of Fisheries will receive Tenders up to the 25th instant, for the charter of six swift-sailing Fore-and-Aft Schooners, of between 60 and 90 tons, registers, tonnage, to be well found, thoroughly stowed, and not over six years old.
Each vessel to be provided with two suitable boats, and the Schooner, outfit and tools, to be subject to the approval of an officer of the Department before being accepted.
These vessels are to be employed as "Fisheries Police Force" on the Sea Coasts of Canada, and are to be at the risk of owners.
The owners and crews will be provided, and the vessels provisioned, at the expense of the Government.
Tenders are to be for six months' service, from the date of vessel being accepted by the Department, the right of cancellation of charter, however, being reserved after three months, upon giving one month's notice of cancellation.
Tenders are to state a price at which the owner is willing to sell the vessel, or offer for charter. The Government will have the option of purchasing at any period during the existence of the charter.
Tenders may be for one or more vessels. The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.
Specifications and forms of tender can be had on application to the Fisheries Department, at Ottawa, by Mr. H. Venning, Inspector of Fisheries at St. John, N. B.; W. H. Rogers, Inspector of Fisheries at Amherst, N. S.; J. H. Duvar, Inspector of Fisheries, Alberton, P. E. Island; and the Collectors of Customs at Quebec, St. John, N. B., Chatham, N. S., Halifax, N.
