World News In Brief

London, Aug. 2.—(Reuters)—A gale was running in the English Channel today, after one of the stormiest nights since the early part of the year. Big seas swept over beaches and against promenades, and visibility was almost nil.

Most of Britain had a night of continuous rain, the first of this summer. The gale, which developed along the south coast after midnight, was reported to have done much damage in orchards and gardens.

Shanghai, Aug. 2.—(P)—How Mah Jong is taboo in Shanghai.

Communist authorities today decreed it is a waste of time to play China's favorite game.

Sixty-eight players were arrested, fined up to 40,000 communist dollars each, sentenced to four hours in jail and made to sweep the streets.

Mah Jong, a game with dominoes, was popular in North America in the late 20s.

U.S. Congress Members Are Seeking More Information On Arms-For-Europe Plan

Production Pace Is Slow In Japan

Tokyo, Aug. 2.—(Reuters)—With her productive capacity at about 30 per cent of pre-war levels and exports about one-tenth of the 1930-34 average, Japan is in the throes of an uphill struggle to rebuild her export industries—the lifeblood of her economic rehabilitation.

Japanese experts say it will require at least ten years before Japan's export capacity expands sufficiently to make her self-supporting. Even when this goal is reached, they add, she will not be able to undersell her competitors in her pre-war manner.

Textiles and machinery exports are Japan's principal sources of foreign credits and the commodities in which she will be competing most keenly in overseas markets. These industries are therefore receiving top priority in reconstruction plans.

Basing the 1930-34 production average at 100, official figures place the textile production index for March this year at 27.1 and for March, 1948, at 21.8.

Assisted by substantial loans and new material imports from the United States, textile production has increased steadily since the end of the war. Textile exports now comprise by far the largest single post-war export item.

Board of Trade officials state that Japanese trade with the sterling area will steadily increase in the future. Even before the war, Japanese trade with sterling countries far exceeded her trade with dollar-paying markets.

According to the economic stabilization board, Japan's export capacity must be expanded tenfold to import the food and raw materials required to maintain living standards at the 1930-34 level and make her self-supporting.

This would mean a corresponding increase in her trade with sterling and dollar countries. The problem now is how to increase Japanese production and foreign trade and at the same time to reduce American-subsidized imports of food and raw materials.

Main difficulties, according to the economic stabilization board are:

1. Lack of foreign exchange hampers the importation of the raw materials necessary for export industries.
2. Wide-spread bottlenecks, such as the shortage of power and transport facilities, block productive activity.
3. Productive capacity is lacking.
4. Owing to their slow recovery, the purchasing power of the eastern countries, hitherto the principal buyers of Japanese goods, has shrunk considerably.
5. Difficulties of payment arising from the limited inter-changeability of foreign currencies enjoin reliance upon complicated barter and clearing arrangements.
6. While current world-wide shortages of goods make it possible to export to a certain extent

Representatives Want Assurance That Effective Plan of Co-Ordination Has Been Worked Out by European Countries.

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, Aug. 2.—(P)—Democrats joined Republicans on the House of Representatives foreign affairs committee today in calling for more details on President Truman's request for a $1,400,000,000 program to help friendly countries arm against Russian aggression.

The Democrats, unlike their Republican colleagues, indicated willingness to take the program on faith if the details they seek are not forthcoming.

Specifically, they want to know whether there is any iron-clad agreement that the countries receiving American arms will use them as a team if action becomes necessary.

They hoped to get some of the answers today from W. Averell Harriman, special ambassador to European countries receiving American economic aid under the Marshall plan.

Czech Press Assails R.C. Church Again

Prague, Aug. 2.—(P)—Rudo Pravo, the Czechoslovak communist organ, today accuses the Vatican and the Roman Catholic hierarchy of trying to provoke civil war in Czechoslovakia over the state-church strife.

The newspaper seeks to implicate Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York and what it calls the "American organization" in the alleged plot.

The charges are made in a long article by Andre Simone, the paper's foreign commentator. It is entitled "the Vatican fifth column."

The attack appeared after a week's lull in press assaults on the church.

Simone claims the Vatican is working in co-operation with the "American organization" whose task, he says, is to organize espionage and diversions in those countries which have deserted the capitalist system.

"To this organization belongs Cardinal Spellman, who is the Pope's Schacht, because he raises 80 per cent of the Vatican income and is potentially the mightiest man of world Catholicism next to the Pope," the article says.

Allen Dulles, brother of Senator John Foster Dulles (Rep. N.Y.), is named as a director of the alleged organization.

Rudo Pravo claims the Czech state-church strife was deliberately brought to a peak by the Vatican and the Czech hierarchy, led by Archbishop Joseph Beran, to speed ratification of the Atlantic pact by the American senate.

"The scheme," it continues, "was for the Catholic hierarchy to tell the faithful that freedom of religion was in danger."

Czech Bishops were to incite against the communists, the article says, "and to praise imperialism—this time the British-American brand instead of the German."

Simone says that after the alleged church putsch failed, the Vatican "tried again with its device of excommunicating communists—but this also proved a splash on the surface."

Vatican City, Aug. 2.—(P)—The Vatican radio charged today that Romania's communist government is wiping out Christianity in that country.

Commenting on yesterday's Romanian government decree abolishing Roman Catholic orders, the Vatican broadcast called it "another step toward the total dechristianization of Romania."

"While in the other countries there are attempts to mask religious persecution under specious political motives, in Romania open warfare is waged against the Catholic church," the broadcast said.

The broadcast charged the Romanian government was taking advantage of the fact that the Catholics are a minority in the country, while the orthodox majority "has deemed it opportune to adjust itself in the social order created by the popular democratic state."

Resignation Not Planned Says Premier

Quebec, Aug. 2.—(P)—Premier Duplessis, back at his desk after a short holiday, yesterday joked away a rumor crop that reached full bloom during his week's absence.

The stories, some of them published, that went around Quebec were to the effect that Premier Duplessis planned to resign; that he planned to appoint a successor as attorney-general; that he planned a European trip.

Premier Duplessis said he was sure Hon. Antoine Rivard, minister without portfolio, must have been surprised to hear himself mentioned for the post of attorney-general, as rumor had it. The premier is attorney-general.

He added however that Mr. Rivard will represent Quebec at a meeting in Calgary, Aug. 15, of a commission appointed to study the need for revision of the criminal code of Canada. The attorney-generals of all the provinces will be represented.

Premier Duplessis said he plans no trip to Europe this year. Regarding the resignation rumor, he said if he left office he would "certainly be re-elected" since it was only a year ago that his government won 82 of 92 Legislature seats in provincial elections.

The Premier who talked informally for a half-hour with legislature correspondents said an important cabinet meeting will be held Wednesday and a press conference may follow at the end of the week.

New Sunday he will attend a bridge inauguration ceremony at St. Cesaire, in Rouville County.

Fish Reaction To Motorboat Tested

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 2.—(P)—Fish at the Wolf Lake hatchery near here are participating in a project that may make it tougher than ever for their fellow-fish to evade the angler's hook.

They are demonstrating to scientists how fish react to the sounds of a motorboat.

When the study is complete, the facts obtained may help boat fishermen outfit their prey.

In three hatchery ponds, fish are

Policemen Injured In Clash With Australian Strikers

By ANTHONY WHITLOCK
Canadian Press Correspondent
Sydney, Australia, Aug. 2.—(P)—Several policemen were injured today in clashes with dock workers attending a protest meeting in downtown Sydney.

A near-riot broke out when police tried to disperse the crowd. Twelve men were arrested following violent fighting which surged in and around the city's busiest intersection.

The dockers, who have been holding weekly demonstrations to protest imprisonment of two of their leaders, came to blows with some inlookers who cheered the police. Other onlookers were knocked over by wild punches and many women shoppers screamed and fainted.

Three policemen, including an inspector, were injured.

Earlier, 4,000 dockers walked off 42 ships in Sydney harbor in protest against a move by ship owners to have "attendance" money stopped.

The "attendance" money, 12s ($2.50) daily, is paid the men when they report for work, but there has been no work available for some time as a result of the coal strike.

Centralized Control Of Transportation Rates In Canada Is Advocated By Dosco

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Montreal, Aug. 2.—(P)—Centralized control of rates on all forms of transportation in Canada was suggested to the Royal Commission on transportation today by Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation.

The brief from Dosco, one of the country's three producers of basic steel, declared co-ordination of charges on transportation rates generally was necessary if shippers and carriers were to be treated equitably.

Dosco also complained specifically about the treatment given products of its own Maritimes plants under the 21-per-cent freight-rate increase awarded the railroads last year by the board of transport commissioners.

This "ill-advised" action had had the effect of aggravating geographical handicaps affecting those plants in relation to competitors nearer market centers.

The steel company brief, delivered by executive vice-president L. A. Forsyth of Montreal, was submitted as the three-man royal commission opened Montreal sessions in its cross-country tour of investigation into transportation problems. The commission will wind up its regional sittings at Toronto late this week.

In calling for centralized control of all transport rates, the company declared that this should be sought by "agreement"—presumably between the Dominion and the provinces—or by constitutional amendment.

At present, highway transport is under provincial control. The federal government has jurisdiction over railways, inland shipping and air services.

Dosco contended that truck competition in Ontario, where its principal competitor operated, had had the effect of bringing down rates on many steel products in that area so that "our competitive position in markets which we must also reach is seriously prejudiced."

It added that the underlying principle of a rate structure must be that both carriers and shippers have certain basic rights which the structure must respect and keep in balance.

"Furthermore," the company declared, "it appears to us to be impossible to be able to do justice between any group of carriers and any group of those for whom goods are carried unless the body charged with the duty of balancing out the equities has effective control of the rates to be charged by all carriers."

"We feel, therefore, that a drastic revision of the railway act (the federal statute governing railways) is immediately required and that such revision should be done by individuals representing the principal interests concerned."

"We also feel that means should be sought, either by agreement or constitutional amendment, to centralize the control of transportation rates in a regulating tribunal, the personnel of which should be appointed under auspices which would ensure public confidence in its ability to afford a due measure of protection for all conflicting interests."

Police Squads Comb Toronto For Killer

Toronto, Aug. 2.—(P)—Patiently, relentlessly, a special squad of crack investigators is combing east-central Toronto today for a cold-blooded killer with a $2,000 price on his head.

Thirty detectives and 20 uniformed policemen are making a door-to-door canvass of rooming-houses, determined to find the hiding place of the robber who shot and killed Alfred Layng, 25, and wounded Leonard Lefty, 19, late Saturday while making his getaway from a grocery store he had robbed.

Layng, an R.C.A.F. veteran, was slain before his wife's eyes when he tackled the fleeing thief. The bandit blasted two shots into Layng at point-blank range and fled as Layng crumpled to the ground at his wife's feet.

Seconds earlier, Lefty, a clerk in the grocery store, was shot in the hip after plunging at the bandit outside the store. However, Lefty won credit for causing the thief to drop his loot — approximately $1,000 in a brown paper bag. The bag of money rolled under an automobile and the robber left it there.

Scores of shoppers, stunned by the swift-moving drama, chased the killer through backyards and laneways of the densely-populated section. As he fled, the slayer discarded a fedora hat, a pin-striped coat, gloves and a gaudy maroon tie.

Chief Constable John Chishelm, who announced posting of a $2,000 reward, appealed to citizens to come forward with any information likely to assist the police.

Rousing Welcome Prepared For Doughty Amethyst Crew

Aboard H.M.S. Jamaica at Sea, Aug. 2.—(P)—The battered little sloop Amethyst limped toward Hong Kong today where a rousing welcome awaits the doughty crew who brought her to freedom through Chinese communist waters.

A squadron of Spitfires will dip in salute, bands will blare and a military honor guard will be waiting at the wharf when the shell-scarred Royal Navy craft arrives in Hong Kong harbor tomorrow.

The medal of the Distinguished Service Order will be awarded Lt.-Cmdr. John S. Kerans, skipper of the Amethyst, which escaped Saturday night from moorings on the Yangtze river, 60 miles below Nanking.

The award will be made with the personal approval of the King, who already has commended the crew for its gallantry in bringing the ship to safety.

The Amethyst had been pinned down in the Yangtze since April 20 when she got caught in communist shore fire during a battle between British warships and communist armies.

The Admiralty has asked the far eastern naval command to make any further recommendations for crew members who showed exceptional valor in getting the Amethyst out of her trap.

An Amethyst crew member who came aboard the Jamaica, which is escorting the Amethyst to Hong Kong, said the first three months of entrapment in the Yangtze

Dying Pilot Pens Polio Case Notes

Washington, Aug. 2.—(P)—Notes written by a young United States navy pilot stricken with polio—the hopes that he might help "find a cure for this thing"—have been released by his widow now that he is dead.

The pilot was James Olin Chiles, 25, junior grade lieutenant stationed at Anacostia naval air base. He was taken to Bethesda, Md., naval hospital a week ago with symptoms of polio.

Mrs. Chiles, 26, visited him last Wednesday when he was still able to talk. He told her: "Dorothy, this is the best thing that could happen. Maybe I can work with the doctors and find a cure for this thing."

A few hours later he wrote his first case note, in pencil in his personal notebook:

"To doctor
"First noticed vision incoherent or something at 1640 (4:40 p.m.) Can't even see clearly what I'm writing.
"If anybody puts me in a respirator please note: I cannot swallow. I have a rapid accumulation of mucus in my throat. If I am not allowed to turn my head to the side to spit I'll choke to death."

His next brief note was an hour later:

"Doctor
"1763 (5:53 p.m.) Noted very poor control of tongue in mouth."
Mrs. Chiles asked him how things were going but he could only answer in a scrawl:

"My guess is that I'm going to be all right."
She asked if he were in pain. He replied by pencil:

"Some but not bad.
"Every person on this floor has a (word unreadable) contagious disease—don't want you around.
"Can't read—vision's shot temporarily."
"Only thing I'm worried about is you."
"Help me get pillow under head.
"You should not stay. This will be my worst night. Tomorrow we should know."
Mrs. Chiles asked if she could get him anything. He wrote:

"Doctor prescribes what I need."
"And then was the last note of all:
"My neck is paralyzed, doesn't hurt anymore."
That was about 8 p.m. Wednesday. Lt. Chiles died of bulbar poliomyelitis, at 9:20 the next morning.

Leopold's Status Will Be Discussed

Brussels, Aug. 2.—(P)—Leaders of the Belgian social christian and liberal parties will fly to Switzerland today to talk to exiled King Leopold about his possible return to Belgium.

An official announcement said the King requested the conference after talking to acting Premier Paul-Henri Spaak and other leaders of the socialist party this week-end.

The consultations with the King follow a five-week deadlock in attempts to form a new post-election Belgian government. The social christians, who favor the return of Leopold, won a majority of senate seats in the June 26 polling but failed to win a majority in the chamber of deputies.

The socialists and liberals opposed the return of Leopold and refused to join any government unless the social christians would agree to hold a referendum on the King's return.

United States Polio Cases Number 8,000, Deaths 442

Chicago, Aug. 2.—(P)—Infantile paralysis cases showed a sharp increase in some states in the last week, boosting the total far ahead of 1948, a near record year in the United States.

The number of polio deaths for the first seven months of 1949, an Associated Press survey showed, is about double the total up to Aug. 1, 1948.

The survey showed approximately 8,000 cases and 442 deaths. However, data on fatalities was sketchy and incomplete in some states on the number of cases.

Many communities, fearing epidemics in the heavy polio months of August and September already have taken emergency measures. State health officials and leaders of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis are taking all precautions to prevent the outbreak or spread of the disease.

The 27,680 polio cases reported in 1948 were the second highest of record but up to Aug. 1, 1948, the total was under 5,000. The worst polio year was 1916 when about 30,000 cases were reported.

Increases in the number of cases over last week's figures were reported in New York, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin. The 1,123 cases in Texas did not include the number stricken in the last week in July. Official figures for that period were not available.

New York State reported 482 cases, with 553 in the New York City Metropolitan area, the largest number of cases in any big city.

Although some states reported incidence was light and below last year in several others, 22 states have reported 100 or more cases each to date.

The national foundation for infantile paralysis has advanced $3,551,365 to its 40 chapters up to Aug. 1 this year, twice as much as granted in a similar period in 1948.

The outbreak in Mexico, Ind., resulted in a ban on public gatherings, including funeral services. Special medical teams have been organized in New York City and nearby Nassau county. New Mexico has organized a polio committee. Many communities across the country have conducted clean-up campaigns and sprayed D. D. T. to stop flies. Special educational radio programs are planned for all stations in Oklahoma where 312 patients are in state hospitals.

Many areas said the polio situation is not considered alarming and is much better than last year. But health officials are taking precautionary measures to halt outbreaks during the next two months.

Quebec, Aug. 2.—(P)—Health Minister Aubrey Paquette announced today that 90 cases of poliomyelitis were reported in Quebec province in July. The total brought the figure for the year to 125 cases.

In 1948, only eight cases were reported in July and only 14 during the first seven months of the year.

Brigham Farmer Held Criminally Responsible For Wife's Slaying

Sweetsburg, Que., Aug. 2.—Philippe Laporte, 34-year-old farmer of nearby Brigham, was held criminally responsible for the strangulation murder of his wife in their farmhouse bedroom early Saturday morning at a coroner's inquest held here yesterday.

Laporte, the father of six children, was said by police to have confessed to the murder when he walked into the Granby police station at 7:30 a. m. Saturday and gave himself up with the simple explanation: "I have just killed my wife in a fit of jealousy."

He is being held in Provincial Police cells in Montreal pending his arraignment in criminal court on a charge of murder.

Among four witnesses called to testify by District Coroner A. Bombardier were Claude, 11, and his nine-year-old sister, Gabrielle, two of the Laporte children.

Both Claude and Gabrielle testified that around 1:30 a. m. Saturday they were awakened by the cries of their mother.

Among four witnesses called to testify by District Coroner A. Bombardier were Claude, 11, and his nine-year-old sister, Gabrielle, two of the Laporte children.

Claude said his parents tumbled to the floor at the side of the bed during the struggle.

He said his father dressed the six children and drove them to his sister's home in Magog where they were left for the night.

Before surrendering to Granby police, Laporte visited his brother, Andre, asking him to care for the animals on his farm.

Police said Laporte had previously told them he had moved to his newly-purchased farm two weeks ago "in the hope of taking my wife away from her many boy friends at Granby."

He said he had been "unable to tolerate her conduct any longer" and had strangled her in a fit of jealousy.

Other witnesses were Dr. Rosario Fontaine, provincial medical expert, who conducted an autopsy on the dead woman's body and Andre, brother of the alleged murderer.

The inquest lasted nearly an hour. It was witnessed by a large crowd of Sweetsburg residents and nearby farmers.

Local Optimists Visit St. Pat's Boys' Camp

Boys of St. Pat's Academy played hosts last night to members of the Sherbrooke Optimist Club at their Shore Acres summer camp on Little Lake Magog.

The annual visit to the camp was made through the co-operation of Optimist Henry Crochetiere, director of the camp.

President Bud Belec of the club lauded the work of the St. Pat's group for their boys' work program. Members also contributed materially to the camp program.

Invited by the Optimists, Nelson Adair, of Montreal, entertained the boys with guitar-accompanied songs and stories.

A fast moving softball match between the campers and Optimists resulted in a two-run victory for the lads. The visitors managed to puff their way to 3 runs. Final tab stood at 5-3.

Ivan Dugre on first base, a cigar-smoking second baseman in the person of Eric Marquardt, and Paul Nadeau, the pitcher who fanned out, added more than enough color to the game.

Father Lawrence Tierney, camp chaplain, hurried for the home team.

Seated at the head table during dinner were Father Paul Paire, of the camp staff, Henry Crochetiere, director, Father Tierney, Nelson Adair, Bud Belec and Optimist Don Clowery.

Fellowship In Royal College Of Surgeons Awarded To Dr. Lynch

DR. W. W. LYNCH

The medical profession's highest honor, a Fellowship in the Royal College of Surgeons of Canada, has been awarded to Dr. William Warren Lynch, of Sherbrooke, in recognition of his long and brilliant career, and for his outstanding contribution to surgery.

Previously, on June 10, Dr. Lynch had been, by unanimous vote of the Executive Council, elected to a Senior Membership in the Canadian Medical Association, an honor second only to a Fellowship in the Royal College of Surgeons.

At present Dr. Lynch is the Senior Surgeon at the Sherbrooke Hospital, a position he has held for many years, and where he has spent the majority of his 49 years of practice.

Born at Knowlton, Dr. Lynch graduated from McGill University in 1908, after which he interned at the Montreal General Hospital for two years. In 1901 he studied in England and on the Continent, and was made a Member of the Royal College of Surgeons and a Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians. Having completed his studies, he returned to Sherbrooke where he practiced for several years before being made a member of the staff of the Sherbrooke Hospital. In 1912 Dr. Lynch was appointed Senior Surgeon of the Sherbrooke Hospital. In the same year he was elected a Fellow in the American College of Surgeons. He was awarded the King's medal in 1935.

In October last, Dr. Lynch attended a reunion of the class of 1908 of McGill University, at which there were 13 members present. The members include such distinguished men as Dr. C. A. Peters and Dr. W. L. Barlow, formerly of the Montreal General Hospital; Colonel D. P. Meyers, retired surgeon of the American Air Force; Dr. D. U. Pattison, former Surgeon General of the United States Army; Dr. P. A. McLennan, retired chief surgeon of the Vancouver Hospital; and Dr. Clarence Brown, of Ottawa.

July Sun Shines Hotter Longer; Heat, Sunshine Top 35 Year Marks

Average temperature in the Sherbrooke area for the July that just dropped over the horizon topped the average temperature for the past 35 Julys—by 3.59 degrees—so says the Dominion Experimental Station at Lennoxville anyway.

July - 1949's average mercury reading leveled off at 70.22 degrees. The average of July temperatures for the past 35 years stopped at 66.63 degrees.

Highest reading for our dear departed July this year was 92, recorded on the 3rd, 27th and 28th. It only needed 7 more degrees to reach the highest July mark recorded in the past 35 years—99 degrees. The latter was recorded on July 8, 1921. That's cooking, brother.

This year's month of Caesar broke another record. Old Sol not only shined hotter, but he shined longer—longer in fact than has shone in July for the past 35 years. Sunny hours last month totalled up to 301.8. That's tops on the Experimental Station's books. July-1948's cloudy skies kept the sun under cover enough to record only 208.4 hours of sunshine. Average for the past 35 Julys is 238.04.

Up from a 1948 July rainfall of only 2.22 inches, 1949's July collected 5.12 inches of precipitation—in spite of all that sunshine. The latter figure also tops the average July rainfall for the past 35 years, 4.22 inches.

July 9th this year alone had 1.20 inches of water falling. Record for a single July day is 2.67 inches. This was noted on July 16, 1916.

THE DANISH INVASION

An unopposed landing was made on Britain's shores yesterday, when a group of modern Vikings rowed up the Thames river to London in a replica of a Danish invasion ship.
 A group of hardy medical students attempted to beat off the invaders, embarking in a boat with an armory of tomatoes and flour bags, carrying bows and arrows and painted with wood, the dye used by early Britons to cover their bodies and scare their foes.
 But those modern symbols of law and order, the police, intervened and before the defenders could fire their weapons the student's boat was towed out of range.
 This bit of by-play was all part of an up-to-date invasion organized by the Danes to commemorate the 1,500th anniversary of the Danish invasion of England by Hengest and Horsa.
 It has been going on for some days because the 1949 Vikings made their first landing last week at Broadstairs, Kent, which, after some discussion, was chosen as the place nearest to the original landing place of Ebbsfleet.
 The Danish invasion of 449 was undoubtedly regarded by the Britons of that day as a national disaster, but the subsequent contributions of the Danes and Danish kings to British history soften that verdict.
 And it is heartening, in a world still divided by international suspicion, that there are incidents like this recent Danish invasion to prove that it is possible for deep friendship to replace once-violent enmity between two peoples.

HIGH TENSION LIVING

We've been hearing for years that many of our top business executives kill themselves with the strain of overwork. Perhaps most of us have felt this situation was just an unfortunate accompaniment of modern living about which nothing could be done.
 But now comes a suggestion that this tense pace is neither normal nor necessary, even for today. Writing in Collier's magazine, Howard Whitman quotes psychiatrists as declaring it is an abnormal, neurotic drive rather than brains, energy or ambition that leads a man to push himself with work and possibly "succeed himself to death."
 Business leaders can amass plenty of evidence to support their contention that their problems and burdens have mounted to dizzy heights in the last two decades, and that their own tensions have risen in proportion. The doctors, however, decline to admit that most executives have to work as hard as they often do.
 They insist that the men who let work dominate their lives are out of balance in some way. They say some have a distorted idea of life that allows no place for fun and rest. Some men simply don't know how to use free time and tie themselves to work to avoid boredom. Others are ridden by fears—of failure, and competing executives, of insecurity they often can't define. So these high voltage individuals focus so hard on making a living that they forget all about making a life. They deprive their families of badly needed companionship and guardianship. They lose the matchless riches of leisure, the fulfillment of spiritual wants that can't be satisfied in the grubbing world of work. And into the bargain, they kill themselves. In so doing, they rob business of brain power, training and leadership.
 Thus they defeat the very purposes for which they are supposedly slaving. The doctors' advice to business executives is to grow up, to stop racing each other to the grave and grasping for the symbols of life instead of life itself.
 Any sensible person would be likely to agree with Dr. Leo H. Bartemeier of Detroit, whom Whitman quotes as follows: "The grown-up man has his prestige and security within him. He doesn't have to make a million dollars. He doesn't need the biggest car. His joy comes from being a person, a fully realized human being."

LET'S IRRITATE THEM

When Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia split with Russia last year, we were warned by our foreign affairs experts not to expect much benefit from the event. But it is clear we are reaping some advantage from it.
 Russia's anger over Tito led to her withdrawal of support for his territorial claims in Austria. Thus one of the main roadblocks to an Austrian peace treaty was removed.
 On the other hand, Yugoslavia's wrath over the Soviet-inspired Cominform campaign against the Tito regime has induced the Marshal to stop helping the Greek Communist rebels.
 By closing the Greek-Yugoslav frontier and halting aid to the rebel cause, Tito has given the Greek government a big lift in its hitherto largely fruitless efforts to stamp out the rebellion.
 If Stalin and Tito can just stay mad—as it seems they will—the western powers ought to rack up a pretty good score from this situation after all.

PRESS COMMENTS

CHICK WEED SALADS

Lethbridge gardeners will undoubtedly be surprised, and perhaps a little hurt, to learn that a weed they have despised for years actually has a use. The pest in question is the chick weed and, according to the New Yorker magazine, it is very delicious in salads. Not as peppery as water cress—to which it bears a strong resemblance—otherwise chick weed is equally tasty when dunked in melted butter. It does not taste so good when vinegar is added.
 In a way it is nice to hear that a weed which is noted for the fact that it chokes prize blooms and thus causes gardeners much rage and heart-ache actually has some use.

MEN CHANGE THEIR STYLES, TOO

American manufacturers of men's pyjamas are concerned over declining sales which indicate that many American men find pyjamas uncomfortable, uninteresting or unnecessary. If pyjamas as now put on the market are thought by any considerable number of men to be uncomfortable or uninteresting, these are objections that can be met by improvement in design and manufacture. But for men who have decided that pyjamas are unnecessary, no improvement in fabric, cut or hue will suffice. There are various psychological approaches, none of which will be ignored by the makers and merchandisers of pyjamas, but these are tenuous and uncertain. There was a day when every American male wore high shoes and accepted them as something ordained by nature; but the low shoe today reigns supreme. There was a day when every American white-collar worker was true to his occupational status and wore a white starched collar; today the white-collar worker wears a shirt with a soft collar which may display all the colors of Joseph's coat. There are many other examples to prove that even man, highland and conservative though he usually is in matters of clothing, once in a while decides to make a change. No such radical break with the past may be at hand so far as pyjamas are concerned, but those who make and style them had better find out if the male sleepers of the nation are at the crossroads or not. If they are, it will take a pretty astute psychological campaign to get them back in line again.

SALE IN CASTLE

Christie's Sale room in London is renowned the world over for important auctions. Recently it sold one of Winston Churchill's paintings for $3,000 to a Brazilian and to go in the Museum of Art at Santa Paulo. The money was to go to the Y.M.C.A. Now they are to auction some more intriguing bits of history to collectors Lord and Lady Abingdon instructed them to sell the contents of Highcliffe Castle. The sale was carried out at the castle which contained numbers of historical objects including Savonnerie carpets, which had once belonged to Marshal Ney, of France, a bed which had been the property of the Empress Josephine and armchairs from one of Napoleon's homes. The castle was furnished early in the nineteenth century by a famous collector, Lord Stuart de Rothesay. The castle itself was not offered for sale. There is a story attached to Highcliffe Castle. It was originally built in Normandy and was known as the Manoir des Audouys. In 1825, Lord Stuart de Rothesay bought it and had it conveyed to its present site. Special barges were constructed for the purpose and the castle was carried across the channel, stone by stone. The building is old French Gothic and was owned by the Bourbons. It was in this castle that Antoine de Bourbon, father of Henri IV (1553-1610) died of his wounds after the Siege of Rouen, in 1592.

TOO MANY HORN-BLOWERS

Excessive or needless use of the horn is an offence against the law and against common sense. Obviously, automobiles are equipped with horns as emergency warning signals. Horns are not intended as instruments for the expression of the driver's pleasure or anger, nor are they intended, as so often used, to summon others from indoors because the driver is too lazy to leave his car and call for them.
 The lazy driver, the irate driver who tries to clear a traffic jam by sounding his horn, and the driver who feels that he must serenade the bride and groom with loud blasts all contribute to needless noise. They are disturbers of the public peace and it is in the interest of common comfort to curb them promptly and effectively.

SAVED TORY PARTY

Harold MacMillan, Conservative M.P. for Bromley, declared in London the defeat of 1945 saved the Tory Party.
 "We have renewed, revived and reconstructed ourselves from top to bottom and it is difficult to remember how bad it was, so good has it become," he said.
 "Apart from the decay it suffered in war it was moribund even before the war. It was narrow, complacent and based on a kind of vested interest in stupidity. Now it is alive at the centre and the circumference."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

My brethren, have not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory, with respect of persons. — James 2:1.

All men are by nature equal, made all of the same earth by one Workman; and however we deceive ourselves, as dear unto God is the poor peasant as the mighty prince. — Plato.

"GEE, WHIZ! SHE WASN'T DUE FOR MONTHS YET!"

I Am A Farmer

(By Albert Hines in the Nashville Tennessean)

I am a farmer. I am the most independent chap in Earth, being able to go and come when I please, and to stay a spell between, if I want to.

I don't have to look up to anybody. I don't have to punch a time clock. I can sleep till breakfast if I want. I can plow by sunlight or moonlight, or both, or not at all.

Mother Nature provides my every want, provided I cater to her whim and fancy. Daily I commune with her and she tells me all that I need to know.

She lulls me to sleep with the patter of raindrops, and with the sighing of the wind and the chirp of the night things as they come and go outside my window. She awakes me with the rosy tints of dawn, stealing over the mountain and filtering among the treetops.

When I feel the pangs of hunger, I go to the smokehouse and cut down a ham, or I drop a handful of corn on the ground and gather up a fryer; or if I am a vegetarian, I go out into the garden and garner a sackful of cabbage and beans and beets and tomatoes and corn.

I am the envy of all men, and at least 88 per cent of the women, and fully half the small fry, I don't know how lucky I am, living out here among the birds and the bees and the grasshoppers, sniffing the sweet scent of the wild flowers, secure in that peace of mind which the rest of mankind seeks in vain.

Unlike the politician and the statesman, I am not harried by day and hounded by night. I can look the whole world in the face and smile that smile of superiority. My heritage is one to be proud of.

I feed the world. I clothe it. Should I go on strike, everything would go to pot. My corn crib is more important than a bomb plant, and my pig pen more essential than silver and gold. My hoe handle and plow handles bring more genuine happiness than pearls and diamonds.

I am a farmer, and there is nobody like me and I wouldn't swap places with anybody in any ten other callings I ever heard of.

P.S.: That's the way farm life is drummed up by the poets, the philosophers and the city slickers. Actually, farming is a bunch of hard work that will kill a man before his time, and leave him broke to boot, unless he learns early in life how to avoid at least 89 per cent of it.

which happened in Rock Forest. Mr. Wilson's barn was completely destroyed from a cyclonic storm. Soon after Mr. Wilson journeyed to Foster to interview Warren Fox, M.L.A. for Bromo, to seek advice on how about to receive a grant for a new barn, or an exchange of property with a barn. He was told, as we know, that Veterans' affairs are all Federal. Mr. Wilson took the same up with the Federal officials, and with Mr. Henri Goselin, M.P. for Bromo-Mississippi County, and was told that the land was not worth a new barn, or as Mr. Wilson could make it out—an exchange of property, and in a recent talk with Mr. Wilson over the phone, he states that he is probably just out of luck for Federal, Provincial or other aid, and will be a Veteran farmer without a barn.

"AN ILL WIND AND A VETERAN"

Gentlemen:—Your editorial of July 25th issue, "An Ill Wind," Rock Forest and vicinity cyclonic disaster of Friday, July 22nd, YES. All persons have a heartfelt sorrow for a disaster so uncalled for, that brings such destruction, damage and injury to a community, and we honor all people who give to the Relief Fund being taken up, and trust that they will give and give generously, but, Mr. Editor, a Veteran some four or five weeks ago, in the vicinity of Bromo Center, in Bromo County, R.R. 1, and by the name of Charles Wilson, his wife and small children—who reside on a Veteran's land holding—experienced the very same as that

McKENNY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenny, America's Card Authority

DECLARER'S RUSE GETS NEEDED TRICK

During the last war, with the aid of the bridge players of the nation and top ranking officers of the armed forces, I organized War Orphans Scholarships, Inc. I am happy to say that this organization today is providing educational opportunities for the children of America's war heroes. In our anxiety to help the unfortunate children of Europe, we sometimes overlook some of the situations that exist here at home.
 Throughout the country colleges and universities are now beginning to realize the need of helping these children with scholarships. I was discussing this situation with members of the New York Athletic Club during a bridge session. Some were surprised to learn that these children do not receive any educational privileges as GI's do under the Bill of Rights.
 Just after our discussion today's hand came up and I pointed out that things are not always as they appear. For example, it definitely looks as if declarer must lose two spades, a diamond and a club. But, like our war heroes, he was a fighter and did not give up.
 Opening lead of the king of spades was won with the ace, in

Questions and Answers

Q—What is the flower of the District of Columbia?
 A—The American Beauty rose.

Q—Is it true that a dog has more permanent teeth in his lower jaw than in his upper jaw?
 A—It is. In the upper jaw there should be six incisors, two canines and 12 molars. In the lower jaw a dog has the same arrangement, plus two more molars.

Q—How long has the poppy been known?
 A—Some 5,000 or 6,000 years before the birth of Christ the poppy was known and by 100 B.C. man had knowledge of the narcotic qualities of drugs made from the plant.

The Record Short Story

A Romance For Rhoda

By BELLE BRUOK

Our front door closed after Ben Drysdale who'd dropped in to return my pipe which I'd accidentally left in his car that morning. "Tom," said Letty, my wife, with a speculative look budding in her eyes, a look I knew well, and dressed, "he seems awfully nice. What do you know about him?"
 "All right," I retorted with a helpless sigh, "he's single. He picks me up now and then mornings when he happens to be passing and gives me a lift into town. He was a marine and he's taken some kind of a course under the GI bill. After that he went into business with a buddy of his who was with him at Tarawa. I don't know what business. He doesn't talk very much about himself."
 "The tactful type," Letty nodded. "I know Rhoda will like him. I've been meaning to have her out for dinner one evening soon, anyway. Do you think you can get him to come?"

I groaned. They say every woman is a matchmaker at heart, but they don't all work at it like my Letty. You'd think she'd be discouraged by now, for to date all her attempts to get suitable husbands for her old school chums have been more or less fiascos. But let an eligible come into sight, and she's off again—as with Ben Drysdale.
 "Remember what happened last time?" I said gloomily. "Jane still doesn't speak to you because Melvin Spiers married somebody else. That wealthy Colton girl, wasn't it?"
 "All those other times," Letty returned, "my approach was wrong—too romantic. Men are practical these days. And I'm going to concentrate on one particular asset, and talk that up."

I thought for a moment about Rhoda Smith. She was a nice, unassuming little thing, and I liked her. But I couldn't think of one remarkable thing about her and I said as much to Letty.
 "Do you remember we went to see her new apartment?" Letty prodded. "Well, she's made practically everything in it, except the furniture, herself. She sews like a dream. A vague picture of lots of chintz cushions and elaborate hangings flitted through my memory."

"Letty," I pleaded, though without any real hope "why not just let Fate take its course?"
 "Oh, Tommy," Letty said, "my wanting to push my friends into the same state I'm in—matrimony—is really a tribute to you, dear. If they don't like each other, there will be nothing lost. Now please concentrate. I don't let on to Rhoda that we're inviting her on purpose to meet a man. She's so terribly shy; if she thought that, she wouldn't come."
 Rather to my surprise, Ben Drysdale accepted the invitation mumbled offhand that "one of my wife's girlfriends might be able to make it that evening, too."

I quailed at the thought of my wife's clear-cut intentions by telling myself that Drysdale had a stubborn jaw, and besides a fellow's got to learn to look out for himself some time—that is, if he hadn't already.
 The evening didn't turn out badly, at that. Rhoda did look startled when Drysdale arrived five minutes after her. She was her usual quiet self, but, still, she did not seem ill at ease. As for Drysdale, he expanded during the evening and had more to say at one time than I'd believed possible. But whether it was the dinner Letty had slaved over, or Rhoda's presence, or a combination of both, I couldn't say for sure.

However, after that, occasionally Drysdale would drop in on us for an hour's visit. Letty made the most of these brief opportunities. Once she subtly praised the joys of marriage. It wasn't that same evening, but another, that she got around to the subject of Rhoda's fine needlework. She really put her heart in it, too.
 "If only I could sew like Rhoda," she explained, sighing with envy. "I could save Tom hundreds of dollars, literally. Do you know, Ben, that girl made every stitch in her draperies, slipcovers, bedspreads and cushions? And wait till you see it! Better than a professional job!"

During this dissertation I accidentally cast a strained glance at Ben. Unmistakably, there was an odd gleam in his dark eyes. "He's on to Letty," I thought. "He won't be led anywhere he doesn't really want to go." I felt relieved.
 Ben continued to pick me up in his car several mornings a week. Mostly we talked baseball and politics, but he also told me a little fact that he was escorting Rhoda around, but not as often as he would have liked, as his business often occupied him evenings.

It was on a particularly fine morning in April that Ben told me, smiling, that he had proposed to Rhoda the evening before and she had accepted him. "We're both very grateful to Letty and you for bringing us together, Tom," he said in his quiet, sincere way. I said all the usual things in return, but all the time my mind dwelt on Letty. At last she was a successful matchmaker! I grinned to myself as I pictured her triumphantly making me eat my caustic remarks about her technique for snaring a husband for someone else.
 I hounded into the house at six shouting my news. After all, Letty's motives were unselfish and I was perfectly willing to feed her praise for her success. She kissed me in an abstracted manner. "I know, dear," she said. "Rhoda phoned me during her lunch hour. She didn't have much time to talk."

I stared at her for a perplexed moment. "What's wrong?" I queried. "Isn't this what you wanted? You don't seem a bit excited. Isn't Rhoda happy about it?"
 Letty sat down slowly on the sofa. "She's terribly in love and divinely happy," she said. "Only—"

"Only—what?" I prompted.
 "I'm wondering if it's going to work out all right. Oh, Tom," she burst out, "I wish I'd listened to you about just letting things take their course. I wish I hadn't harped so much about Rhoda's being such a marvelous seamstress."
 "Why," I teased, undisturbed, "you afraid he'll expect her to spend all her spare time sewing?"
 "It isn't only that," Letty replied, not picking up my light mood. "It's—well, I just wish I could be sure that Ben wasn't unduly influenced by the practical implications of all I said. No girl wants to be married simply because she can sew a fine seam."

I leaned back, picked up a cigarette, and grinned at my wife. "You can rest your mind about that, honey," I said. "If it'll make you happy, I think I can assure you that in my opinion Ben will never want Rhoda to sew a single stitch for the house after they're married."
 "Tom," said Letty sternly, "what on earth are you talking about?"
 "Darling," I said, "Ben wasn't one bit impressed by your singing praises of Rhoda's sewing and fitting. I was sorry you harped on it, because—professionals resent amateurs, you know. But I found out too late to warn you. Ben married Rhoda because he fell in love with her. That course he took under the GI bill—well, it prepared him for the business he's in. Upholstery—draperies—slipcovers. He can cut and fit and sew with the best of them."
 For a time I thought that Letty's one success in matchmaking might have discouraged her more than all her failures. But I don't know. She met Ben's partner the other evening and I'm sure I noticed that gleam in her eye when she found out he was unmarried. They say the disease is incurable.

OBITUARIES

MR. HARRY GARDNER AYER, OF BROWN'S HILL

Brown's Hill, Aug. 2. —Another descendant of a prominent Standstead pioneer was laid to rest on Thursday afternoon, July 7, in the family lot in the cemetery at Ayer's Cliff, the county seat, which bears his name.

Harry Gardner Ayer died at his home on Brown's Hill, near Ayer's Cliff, on Tuesday morning, July 5, in his 70th year, after a lingering illness, which became serious in February, after an attack of flu. He breathed his last on the farm on which he was born and lived, as had his father, grandfather and great-grandfather. The farm is now occupied by the deceased's son Arlington, whose young son, Gardner, belongs to the sixth generation there.

Thomas Ayer, pioneer, came to this country with his wife in 1799, from Ware, N. H., and settled on what is now the site of the village of Ayer's Cliff. In the early part of the last century he acquired more and more land and as his family grew up it was divided into individual farms. His son, Gardner, acquired the Brown's Hill section and it passed successively to grandson James, and great grandson, Harry.

The family has for generations occupied a conspicuous place in the community life of the Townships and County. Gardner Ayer was one of the prominent farmers of his day and took a leading part in the founding, growth and development of the Standstead Agricultural Society, now in its 105th year.

Harry Gardner Ayer was born on June 3, 1880, the only son and eldest child of James Gardner Ayer and his wife, Emma (Brown) Ayer. Two sisters survive, Mrs. Myrtle St. Dizier, of Lennoxville, and Mrs. John Stebbins, (Susie), of Sherbrooke; while his third sister, Mrs. Helen Elder, predeceased him in 1945.

On June 3, 1901, he married Rosabelle Brown, a daughter of another pioneer family. Three sons were born of this union, Lawrence, who died in 1929 at the age of 26; Paul, residing in Detroit, Mich.; and Arlington, at home. Other members of the family are Mrs. Paul Ayer and son, Lawrence, Mrs. Arlington Ayer, Miss Judy and Master Gardner.

A diligent worker, and a good farmer, Mr. Ayer was vitally interested in all farm organizations or any movement for the improvement of the community. At the time of his death he was president of the Brown's Hill Cemetery Association.

Possessing a friendly nature, Harry, as he was familiarly called by everyone, will be missed by a host of friends, who greatly enjoyed real old fashioned visits with him.

Prayers were held at his late home, followed by a largely attended service in Beulah United Church, at Ayer's Cliff. Rev. Carl Gustafson, of Beebe, officiated. Although very brief, his message carried a world of comfort to the bereaved family. Two hymns, "In the Garden" and "The Old Rugged Cross" were sung by a quartet including Messrs. F. M. Wyman and Murray Baldwin, Mrs. R. G. McHarg and Mrs. E. Astbury, with

The Doctor Says

"BLUE BABY" CONDITION CAUSED BY LACK OF OXYGEN IN BLOOD

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

The common name "blue baby" is given to infants who are born with a bluish color to the skin. This bluish color, called cyanosis, is caused by lack of oxygen in the hemoglobin, or coloring matter, of the blood. In blue babies the deficiency of oxygen is the result of a malformed heart or of the large blood vessels near it. Such defective structures permit the blood from the veins, containing only a little oxygen, to mix with the oxygen-laden blood from the arteries.

There are several kinds of malformation of the heart which will permit this mixing of oxygen-containing and non-oxygen-containing blood. The various kinds are too numerous and too complicated to describe in detail. But it does make a difference to the patient because some kinds can now be successfully treated by surgery and others cannot.

Surgery Used
In one treatable form, the passageway between the heart and one of the large blood vessels which should normally close before birth fails to do so. This is called a patent or open ductus arteriosus. This opening can now be closed by delicate heart surgery. The operation has already been done hundreds of times with great success.

Some of the other congenital malformations of the heart can also be treated successfully by surgery, but not all of them. For this reason careful study of each case has to be conducted individually in order to make a diagnosis and decide whether or not surgery would be useful.

For the blue infant or child who cannot be successfully treated by surgery certain precautions are particularly necessary. Such children must, of course, be carefully examined and every effort must be made to avoid infection and excessive physical strain. In almost all cases the activity must be restricted in order to avoid the danger of overburdening a heart which has already been damaged.

Q—Are there any harmful effects of taking hormones for bust development and can they be bought at a drugstore without a prescription?

A—There is great doubt as to whether this treatment would produce the desired results permanently. Such hormones should not be used without a prescription.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP is a lot of little things

PARK YOUR CAR CLOSE TO THE CURB

When you do find a parking space on the street, be sure to tuck your car close into the curb. By doing so you not only make it easier for the vehicles ahead and behind to get out, you leave more room in the traffic lane and so cut down accident hazards. It may take an extra minute, but your thoughtfulness will be appreciated by others. Yes, it's a little thing, but "Good Citizenship" is made up of a lot of little things.

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

DOROTHY DIX

Male Conceit

Feminine Adulation Chief Contributing Factor

Dear Miss Dix: Why are the boys of today so terribly conceited? Answer: Well, my dear, it is partly a matter of sex. Every male creature is born with the settled belief that merely because he belongs to the masculine persuasion he is vastly superior to everything feminine. It is a complex and boys have it in its most virulent form.

Mainly, however, the reason that boys are conceited is because you girls make them so by ministering to their vanity. You put them on a pedestal and kowtow before them and treat them as if they were little tin gods. Hence it is not surprising that boys think more highly of themselves than they should.

A boy may be loutish. He may be ignorant and rude and offensive in his manners. He may be dull and stupid. He may get beastly drunk. But even so, with all his faults thick upon him, girls are flattered to death to receive attentions from him.

Then look at the way girls run after boys. They don't wait for the boys to come to see them. They chase them down. They don't wait for the boys to make the dates. They pound boys over the telephone to come to see them, or to take them to places, and they are so grateful to a boy who will go out with them that they will buy the tickets to places of amusement, or get up the party and pay for it, and go and fetch the boys in their automobiles.

And why shouldn't boys be all puffed up over their own importance when girls will stand for the "keeping company" custom, which gives them every advantage and shows that the girl is so anxious for dates that she will enter into an unequal bargain? For "keeping company" binds the man to nothing. It leaves him free to quit whenever he pleases with no harm done to him, but it shuts a girl off from all chances of making a good match during her most attractive years.

If girls had any spunk and independence, they would demand that boys come up to a certain standard before they would have anything to do with them. That would jar a lot of egotism out of their systems, and if you girls would refuse to run after boys, you would have them hot-footing it after you, for you are just as necessary to the boys' good times as they are to yours.

Dear Miss Dix: At 17 I married a man ten years older than myself. He is a good man and treats me kindly, but I have come to loathe him. His very touch makes me shiver. I haven't an idea or thought in common. We quarrel constantly. I have one child. Must I go on this way to the end of my life? Why can't I take my child and go away and make a new beginning? Would not having my boy half the time be better than this fighting for him? What of his memories of childhood in such a home? I suppose you will say stay for the sake of the child. It is such a mess.

Answer: Nearly every girl who marries at 17 has lost her taste for her husband by the time she is 25 and resents being tied down by husband and home and children and having missed all the fun of childhood. But there is no real remedy for such a mistake. So far as leaving your husband is concerned, that is a step that nine women out of ten regret after they have made it.

You have never tried making your own living. You are trained to no trade or profession and if you take your child and go away from your husband and home you could not get any but the most menial job, and want little you could earn would not go far toward supporting the two of you. Food and clothes and shelter may not seem much to you now when you are letting your mind dwell upon your sentimental grievances, but if you had no roof to cover you and were hungry you would wonder why you ever bothered about such a little thing as whether your husband understood you are not.

No one advocates a quarrelsome wife and husband staying together for the sake of the children. Unless they are willing to sink their differences and control their tongues and tempers and make a peaceful and quiet home for their children, it is far better for them to part.

Psychologists tell us that the children who are brought up in homes where the parents squabble all the time carry the ill effects of their environment through life. They are mentally and spiritually warped and are far more subject to nervous breakdowns than are the children who have fathers and mothers who live amiably and peacefully together and who are brought up in a harmonious home.

It seems to me that any woman who loves her children should be willing to forego making snappy comebacks at her husband for the sake of their whole future welfare.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

ATHLETICS AND SAINTS MEET TONIGHT IN DOUBLEHEADER

Locals Play First Twin Bill Of Season This Evening; First Tilt Slated For 7.15 In Tough Fixture

Sherbrooke Athletics will tangle with St. Hyacinthe this evening at the local ball palace in the first doubleheader of the current season. The initial tilt is scheduled for 7.15.

The Saints, presently holding down the cellar position in Albert Molini's circuit, copped two games Sunday from Farnham and will no doubt be out to try and prolong their winning ways against the local aggregation. Sherbrooke, after taking the league-leading Drummondville Cubs Saturday evening, dropped two to Granby Sunday, will have to be on their toes if they wish to cop both ends of the fixture.

Two other games are slated in the circuit this evening when St.

Johns move over to Granby and Farnham will pay a visit to Drummondville to complete the night's activities.

For this evening's twin fixture Manager Gladu will have Bill "Old Reliable" Brandt to throw against the Saints in the opening tilt with Ralph Schwamb, Lou Knerr and Bill Howitz for duty in the other game. The rest of the team will be the same.

Silvio Garcia suffering from a foot injury, which has cut down his speed affair, will be in uniform at the hot corner. Garcia has lately been setting the pace for the locals and his absence would be a severe blow to the A's bid in the standing.

Industrial Tourney Winners

The top photo shows the Dominion Textile golf team from Magog, winners of the second annual Industrial Golf Tournament held at Waterville on Saturday. Gerry Huot, left, winner of the low gross prize and captain of the team, is seen holding the G. M. Young trophy for the club. J. H. L. St. Pierre, H. Milne and J. Chadeay are seen holding individual trophies given to the members of the winning team.

In the lower picture Gerry Huot, who led the large field when he posted a low of 73, is seen just after he received the trophy from E. Manes, of the Canadian Silk Products, sponsors of the tourney.

Lowly Washington Senators, With 15 Games Against Red Sox, May Decide American League Flag Race

Washington's cellar-diving Senators, currently the sorriest looking club in the majors, may decide the American League pennant race.

Through a strange quirk in the schedule, Washington and the third-place Boston Red Sox have played only seven games against each other. That means they will meet 15 more times this season.

On the other hand, the weary Washingtonians, now only 3 1/2 games out of the basement after winning only 12 of their last 50 games, have met the league-leading New York Yankees 12 times and the second-place Cleveland Indians 15 times.

The way the Senators have been floundering, it would come as no startling news should the Red Sox win 12 of those 15 games.

Boston holds only a 4-3 edge over Washington, but all three of the Senators' triumphs came early in the season when they were the surprise of the League. Since then, evil days have fallen upon the boys of Capitol Hill.

The Red Sox advanced to within 2 1/2 games of second and seven games back of the Yankees yesterday, turning back the Indians 4-3 before a turnout of 35,248 fans at Boston. The victory gave the Red Sox a 3-2 edge in the series.

Southpaw Mel Parnell gained his 15th pitching triumph, besting Cleveland's Bob Lemon with a nine-hitter. Lemon allowed 10 safeties. Ted Williams batted in the winning run in the seventh inning.

With the score tied 3-3 and two out, Dom DiMaggio began the winning rally with a single to right. Another single by Johnny Pesky sent him to third. Williams then punched a single to shoot centre to bring in DiMaggio with the tie-breaking run.

DiMaggio also got a double and stretched his consecutive games hitting streak through 23 games—half as many as brother Joe recorded for a major league record in 1941.

Brooklyn Dodgers shaved St. Louis' first-place lead in the National League to a slender half-game last night, shutting out Pittsburgh Pirates 9-0 while the Cardinals were blowing an 8-1 decision to Boston Braves.

Ralph Branca, back in form, limited the Bucs to four hits—three by Ralph Kiner—to register his 12th victory. He has lost only three. He was backed by a six-run first inning that kayoted starter Ernie Bonham and reliever Murry Dickson.

Clearly elated after his Dodgers' 8-0 triumph over Pittsburgh pirates tonight, Shotton beamed when told the front-running St. Louis Cards had dropped an 8-1 decision to Boston. That left the Dodgers only a half-game out of first place.

"We're the team to beat, don't worry about that," said Shotton. "Who's going to beat us? It won't be St. Louis or anyone else. We're going to win."

Shotton Claims Dodgers Will Win N.L. Pennant

Pittsburgh, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Burt Shotton, manager of Brooklyn Dodgers, says flatly he'll win the National League pennant for owner Branch Rickey.

Clearly elated after his Dodgers' 8-0 triumph over Pittsburgh pirates tonight, Shotton beamed when told the front-running St. Louis Cards had dropped an 8-1 decision to Boston. That left the Dodgers only a half-game out of first place.

"We're the team to beat, don't worry about that," said Shotton. "Who's going to beat us? It won't be St. Louis or anyone else. We're going to win."

Sharpshooters Prepare For Dominion Shoot

Long Branch, Ont., Aug. 2.—Some 180 sharpshooters from Ontario and Western Canada set their sights today on the City of Toronto trophy as the 68th Ontario Rifle Association match went into second day.

The trophy is one of the main prizes to be shot for in the four-day meet on the old military ranges in this Toronto suburb.

Calgary's veteran marksman, S. Sgt. M. Ostergaard, tallied 99 of a possible 100 scores yesterday to win the featured bankers' match.

Sgt. G. O. Boast of Toronto's 48th Highlanders won the City of Hamilton Tyrone event with a perfect score of 85.

Four cadets from the Hamilton Collegiate's famed rifle club, won the city of Hamilton Trophy for Tyro groups.

The rifle artists at the meet here are varying in 10 match and three aggregate-score competitions, but they're also preparing for next week's big Dominion of Canada Rifle Association meet at Ottawa's Connaught Ranges.

He has lost eight. Rae Scarborough was the loser.

Bob Dillinger, bespectacled third baseman, paced the Browns' 10-hit attack with a trio of singles. The three hits raised his league-leading batting average to .349, five more than runner-up Dom DiMaggio's .344.

New York Giants took undisputed possession of fourth place in the National League, walloping the Chicago Cubs 11-3. Pobby Thomson led the attack on three Chicago pitchers with a triple, two doubles and a single. Clint Hartung went the route for his ninth victory. Bob Chipman was the loser.

Other teams were not scheduled.

British Linksmen Offer Serious Threat In U. S. Amateur Title Tournament Being Held This Year

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The United States Amateur Golf Championship may go to a Briton this year for the first time in 38 years.

Big Sam McCready, the British champion, and his Walker Cup teammates pose a big threat in the tournament at Rochester's Oak Hill Country Club Aug. 23 through Sept. 3.

McCready defeated Willie Turnesa of Elmford, N. Y., the defending United States champion, for the British amateur crown this year. Both Turnesa and Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., the 1948 British titleholder, came home praising the improved play of the British linksmen.

Stranahan lost a quarter-final match to McCready, big London tobacco salesman, 4 and 3. Turnesa bowed, 2 and 1, in the finals.

The last Briton to win the United States crown was Harold H. Hilton, who prevailed at Rye, N. Y., in 1911. Only other foreigner to turn the trick was Canada's C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville in 1932.

The British and United States Walker Cup teams, who clash Aug. 19-20 at Mamaroneck, N. Y., between them make up 20 of the 25 exempt players in the tournament field.

Also exempt are Bob Sweeney, former British Amateur Champion; Charles (Chick) Evans and John W. Fischer, past winners of the United States title; Ken Towne of San Francisco, American public links champion, and Gay Brewer, Jr., of Lexington, Ky., American junior titleholder.

Exempt players do not have to qualify.

That leaves 1,035 players who must battle for the remaining 185 places in sectional qualifying trials. As a matter of emphasizing the British bid, two former British Walker Cup members, Harry Bentley and Leonard Crawley, will try for berths in the tournament.

The tournament is match play, with sudden-death eliminations the first day.

Eddie Bolduc Drops Decision To Hamilton

Cootecook, Aug. 2.—Eddie Bolduc of Sherbrooke dropped an eight-round decision to Frankie Hamilton of Montreal in an open air boxing bout at Meadow Park here Sunday night.

In another fight Bill Spark of Sydney, N. S., who holds the Maritimes title at his weight, defeated Ray Letourneau of Cootecook in another eight-rounder that went the limit.

One of the highlights of the evening brought together Kid Letourneau and Kid Garneau, a pair of five-year-olds who stole the show as far as the spectators were concerned. Young Letourneau is the son of Ray Letourneau.

MOTORCYCLE RACES HERE LABOR DAY

The motorcycle races scheduled to be held at the Exhibition Grounds last Sunday will be held on September 5th.

Some of the top Canadian and American riders will compete here Labor Day.

A. Cloutier, promoter, will have the same program as was lined up for last Sunday.

Sunday's races were postponed due to the inclement weather.

Stanley Dollar Cops Harmsworth Trophy

Detroit, Aug. 2.—Stanley Dollar and his speedboat Skip-A-Long now have unquestionable title to powerboat racing's biggest honor—the Harmsworth Trophy.

The San Francisco millionaire and the 30-foot red speedster earned sole rights to the big plaque by besting Detroit's Jack Schafer's Such Crust I in the Harmsworth run-off on the Detroit River yesterday.

Then they went on to capture the grueling 100-mile Detroit marathon race by again trimming a stricken Such Crust I—this time by a lap and a half.

The run-off was to determine the possession of the British International trophy. It also was to determine—officially—whether the next challenge was to be met in Detroit or Dollar's home port, Lake Tahoe, Calif.

The Harmsworth trophy, which now goes West for the first time in its 46 years of existence, has been in Detroit since 1920, when veteran racer Gar Wood first claimed it. His last defence—and the last before Saturday's race—was in 1933.

Superheater Blasts Unitcast 10-5 To Tie For Second Place In Loop; Home Runs Big Point In Victory

Superheater, displaying a barrage of five home runs in two innings, last night defeated Unitcast 10-5 in the only game played in the Sherbrooke Industrial Softball League.

The win moved the Super Men into a three way tie for second spot in Ted Anderson's circuit.

Both teams played goo ball with Ernie Galvin's men pushing one run across in the first half of the second inning. Superheater got this back in their half of the third, and then opened up their heavy barrage of home runs in the fourth and fifth to make the score 9 to 3. Moreau, Caron, Smith, Desloges and McDonald all blasted home runs. Unitcast, in the lower half of the third inning, got two runs and two more in the seventh, but Jimmy O'Connor's men held on to their lead to run out winners of the tilt.

Fourteen Teams Took Part In Second Annual Industrial Golf Tournament Held At Waterville

Fourteen teams competed in the 2nd annual industrial golf tournament held at Waterville last Saturday.

The some 110 golfers who took part in the event toured the 9-hole picturesque course from early morning to late afternoon.

Gerry Huot, who shot a 73, won the event for the second successive year.

Huot was the recipient of the A. A. Manster challenge trophy while the Dominion Textile Company, Magog, team champions, received the G. M. Young Trophy.

The Atlantic Handicap system was used in all three classes "A", "B" and "C".
