Pioneer Slum-Clearing Successful Crime, Fires Decrease In Toronto's Regent Park District

By KEN ROMAIN
Toronto — Six years ago Frank Dearlove moved into a funeral home in downtown Toronto, dusted off the only desk in the place, and was ready for business.

Ahead of him was the task of evicting 822 families crowded into 622 homes in one of the most rundown sections of the city.

Over the next three years, as newly appointed manager of the Toronto housing authority, he booted them out and the majority liked it. For it meant moving back into modern, sanitary housing.

It was the start of the city's Regent Park North public housing project where rents were to be geared to income. The new buildings were literally built in the backyards of the old.

Today from his administration building office, the 49-year-old former city welfare officer looks out at a 40-acre community ringed with modern brick-veneer buildings, with park and recreational areas.

The project, Canada's pioneer effort at urban rehabilitation, is now near completion. Gone are the rickety, dark houses that once blighted the six-block district in Cabbagetown, one of the oldest sections of Toronto, just west of the Don river.

Already the beneficial effects of improved living conditions are making themselves felt on the social, economical and municipal levels.

But the housing manager still looks back with an amused eye at the hectic start.

Old buildings could not be destroyed until new accommodation was available. But to keep the project rolling it was often necessary to move families before accommodation was ready.

"Space was a problem. I moved families as many as six times, doubled them up if necessary, and kept them moving until the buildings were completed so we could get them back in again," says Mr. Dearlove.

"I was no better off myself. At the start there was no staff, no nothing. And I stayed in the funeral home for a year to show families that I was putting up with the same conditions."

Now a staff of 50 administrators and maintains the project that is regarded as unique in Canada. Besides being the first experiment in urban development in any Canadian city it is said to be the only municipally-owned housing project in the country.

The city expropriated the land, raised the money following a plebiscite for ratepayers' approval, and then created the housing authority to operate the $14,000,000 project. It will be fully amortized in 50 years and thus far there has been no need to subsidize rents.

The Dominion government approved grants-in-aid totalling $1-362,000 towards the cost of acquiring and clearing the site, and the Ontario government contributed $1,000 a unit toward construction costs.

"Work on the last building will begin this fall," says Mr. Dearlove. "When finally completed the project will contain 1,289 units with one to five bedrooms. Families who lived in the area before expropriation were given first chance at moving back."

Rent is based on the income of the tenant no matter what size apartment he or she occupies. The minimum is $29 and the maximum $93 a month. Average payment is $60.26 a month.

"Actually, you could say that the fortunate are helping to pay for the unfortunate," says the housing manager. "But nobody complains. However, you can't measure in dollars the effect it has had on the families."

He says that district schools report that children are cleaner, healthier, happier, and are doing better scholastically since moving to the project.

Police and fire departments report less crime and fewer fires. New buildings have reduced hazards created by the former firetraps. Health and welfare officials report a decrease in family problems and delinquency. The changes in turn also reduced the costs of these departments.

"But the need for housing is still great," says Mr. Dearlove. "Once we had taken care of the families that were here originally we accepted outside applications for the remainder of the units. For these we have had 7,000 applications some as many as three years old."

For the 192 units that will still be available before the project is completed only cases of dire need are accepted. And these are screened by the project's permanent social worker.

City taxes on land and buildings in the old slum-ridden area amounted to $36,100 before the project was undertaken. Now taxes amount to $130,000 and when the project is completed the tax return to the city will total $240,000 a year.

To ease the pressure created by the need for low-rental housing two new public housing projects are under way in the Toronto area in which four levels of government are participating.

One is the Regent Park South development covering a 26-acre district immediately below the Regent Park North project and destined for low income families.

The other is the Lawrence Heights project north of the city's outskirts which has been announced by the Toronto metropolitan commission as the largest government-sponsored public housing project in Canada.

Regent Park South is also in line with the city's plan for redeveloping blighted downtown areas. It will differ from the north counterpart in that it will not be municipally owned.

Construction will be done on the "built where they ain't" principle which was used in the north development. Displaced families in the area will receive the first units and their homes demolished to make way for new construction.

What Happens When a Big City Has to Go
Newspaper Hungry Because of a Strike?
Here's the Closeup of Detroit, Where

City Without Papers 'Like Losing Glasses'

Detroit — (NEA) — Here's a city that's acting like a cigarette smoker who has emptied his last pack and the drug store is closed until morning.

The people are irritable and jumpy. The old daily schedule is shot to Hebrides.

Absent-mindedly they keep feeling through their pockets only to become conscious once more that they have to face the bitter fact—there just aren't any local newspapers.

They wish to goodness the 116 stereotype workers would settle their strike against Detroit's three papers and let 4,500 employees get back to printing them again.

It's not that a big fence has been built about the city and that they are ignorant of the news. But as a store clerk puts it, "You have to work at getting it." You have to know where and when.

The Allied Printing Trades and laid-off newsmen are putting out an eight-page paper to fill the gap. Its 125,000 copies take care of many who come downtown and hunt them out.

Radio stations have put on additional news programs as a public service. Theatres list their movies on the air a couple of times a day. Radio also provides 15 minutes of leading stock quotations.

The newsprint shortage has helped thin out the news. Canadian papers from Windsor and as far away as Toronto carry the bulk of the load. There are only a few from Toledo, Chicago or New York on the corner stands.

The nearby Ann Arbor News explained on the front page that their newspaper stocks would only allow them to increase their press runs by 2,000 and these would be reserved for Detroit suburbs.

You work at getting copies of what papers are available. The average reader used to front door delivery never sees them. On Sunday the stock was gone in an hour and droves of autoists trekked from one store to another hunting in vain, often accompanied by funnies-hungry kids.

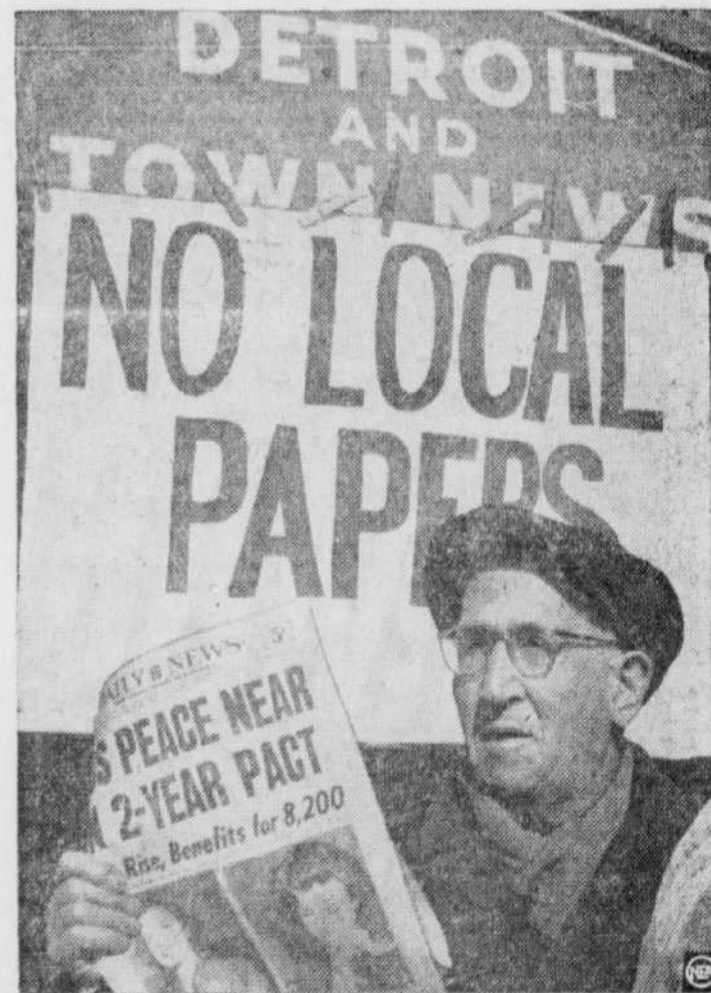

Other less orthodox lines of communication have popped up. The struck papers are keeping news flowing through a pooled effort in a hotel room. Four mimeograph reports daily go to radio stations and others vitally concerned. One department store is using these reports for hand bills.

A Polish language paper has switched to English.

Strikes are nothing in Detroit. The people have learned patience.

"You could even learn to live without false teeth," said one voluble subscriber. "But you'd miss the steaks."

Wives quip about seeing their husbands' faces at the breakfast table at last. One wished the papers would hurry back, explaining, "We have now reached the stage where breakfast is a game of matching symptoms of our illnesses."

Street cleaners are happy. Barks see a difference in the circulation of coins.

Magazines sales have spurted. Comptons from Royal Oak have resorted to pocket books or in some desperate cases to conversation.

Most pathetic victims are the lone restaurant diners. In a last ditch effort to keep habit alive they resort to reading the menu. Word for word.

At home people fumble about. Biggest complaint centers about TV-radio programs, crossword puzzles and the comics.

The unions' paper carries a condensation of daily comic contingents. It's a poor substitute for the real thing.

"It's worse than when I misplace my glasses," one woman complained. "Half a dozen times a day I find myself hunting the paper."

There's a dangerous paralysis setting in among the muscles of the community. Meetings are poorly attended and the work of civic organizations has sunk from view.

The large stores say that just as many children as ever are giving their requests to Santa.

The momentum of gift buying is keeping the crowds at last year's level; but, said one store, "Heaven help us if it were sale time."

The smaller merchants are suffering. The real estate business is almost non-existent. The garish lights only add to the desolation at the used car lots.

Funeral directors echo the complaint of much of the public that the obituaries are the most missed item of local news.

Even bookies are complaining. The steady bettor can get the races entries from forms and other ways, reported one, but the

Urge Aid For School Of Mining

Quebec — The Junior Chambers of Commerce of Quebec province yesterday asked Premier Duplessis to support establishment of a technical school for mining instruction in Quebec.

A delegation representing some 10,000 Junior Chamber members met with the premier in his offices at the provincial legislature.

Mr. Duplessis said the "project is an interesting one" and the cabinet will give it close study. However, he said, the "government has no way to manufacture money" and there are many pressing needs in the province.

Bernard Jeannelle, administrator for the provincial Junior Chamber, said the brief had been drawn up following a resolution adopted at the chamber's annual meeting Sept. 10-12 at St. Gabriel de Brandon, Que.

It called for construction of a mining school with an adjoining student's residence. Courses in the school could last four years, the brief suggested.

Confidence In Coming Year To Aid Trade Level, Bank Head Says

Toronto. —(Special)— "As we turn our thoughts to the year ahead," said James Stewart, president of The Canadian Bank of Commerce at the annual meeting of shareholders here today, "it is well to bear in mind the continuing importance of our trade to the maintenance of a high level of business activity. It may well be that the diversity and depth of our industrial evolution has provided some degree of 'insulation' from recessions in other parts of the free world. On the other hand, the breadth of extent of the upsurge in United States business conditions certainly played an important part in stimulating our economic recovery this year. If it can be anticipated—and signs are not wanting to invite such anticipation—that the momentum presently inherent in the American economy will carry well into the coming year, then we can expect stimulation in at least two directions: in continued demand for our export products, and in the psychological factor—confidence in business."

Looking at Canada's gross national production, the president continued, "We seem at this point to have established a tempo of production and consumption . . . approximating $26 billion. If productivity improves during the coming twelve months by two or three per cent in the aggregate, and if we assume even an average agricultural outturn, we well might anticipate an even higher gross national product for 1956. Should this be the case such improvement would be reflected in a relatively higher level of disposable income than last year and the natural concomitant thereof of a high level of employment. If confidence in the future continues firm then business in most fields of activity should continue to show further improvement. "On the spending side it would be in line with the prospective movement of cross national product to suggest that both capital spending and consumer spending will continue in an upward direction. In the capital sector it is likely that somewhat less will be spent on housing than during this year while industrial expansion is likely to show some acceleration."

Reviewing the past twelve months Mr. Stewart said, "Nineteen hundred and fifty-five has turned out to be a record year with new peak levels presently being established in many segments of our economy. The encouraging feature of the current picture is the recovery from the slow-down in business activity that took place during 1954, and which continued into the early months of 1955 . . .

"Major economic developments during this year again centred largely on resource development. Higher iron ore production, the expansion of Alean's Kitimat plant, the steadily increasing rate of oil production and the intensive activity in Canada's uranium fields were contributing to the inflow of investment capital. "Natural gas discoveries have been well up this year and with the recent announcement of plans for construction of a pipeline to carry gas to central Canada this source of wealth will in the foreseeable future flow into the economy . . .

"The commencement of the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project is another phase of Canada's economic development. This long awaited waterway into the heart of the continent was begun in late 1954 and contracts awarded for materials and work this year have contributed to the high level of economic activity and to the record total of construction contracts achieved this year."

Turning his attention to Canada's foreign trade, the president went on, "Prosperous conditions in the economy during the past year have contributed to and in part resulted from an expansion in foreign trade. The high level of domestic spending and capital investment increased our imports by some 12 per cent in the first nine months of the year, with all areas except the United Kingdom sharing in the increase. Likewise the high level of industrial activity in other parts of the world resulted in increasing foreign demand for many Canadian primary and extractive products. The value of our exports to United Kingdom and Commonwealth countries increased relatively more than those to the rest of the world, while to Latin America and the Far East exports will be much lower than last year. This is resulting in a much larger favourable balance in merchandise trade with the United Kingdom, and an increase during the first nine months of this year of more than $150,000,000 in our deficit with the United States. In other words, our bilateral trade with our two major trading countries is more unbalanced than last year, and the overall multilateral deficit in commodity trade in the nine-month period was $43,000,000 larger than in the same 1954 period."

Surveying the agricultural scene Mr. Stewart said, "The generally good harvest and high levels of dairy and livestock production recorded this year should raise the total volume of agricultural production well above last year's level. Against this background of abundance, however, there looms the hard fact of uncertain marketing prospects. "While dealing with the agricultural scene I cannot refrain from commenting on certain aspects of the current situation that bear contemplation and reflection in the light of wider applications. Production artificially encouraged by subsidies or support prices cannot in the long run, result in other than market disturbance. When products enter into world markets such activity invites retaliatory measures such as import restrictions and the like—restrictions certainly not within the framework of multilateral principles seemingly supported by many of the free nations of the world . . .

"Since the steady rise in capital investment has been one of the dynamic factors in the maintenance of buoyant conditions," said the President, "one is bound to ponder the questions and issues inherent in encouraging a steady flow of investment funds. . . . Time does not permit of an exhaustive discussion. . . . but I am compelled to suggest that the tax policy should be geared to the encouragement of venture capital. . . .

"I would conclude on a note of caution arising from the growing awareness of the fact that scientific developments will may have brought us closer to the absence of war as we understand it of the mid-twentieth century. In fact atomic and nuclear developments seem at this time to have generated a form of military stalemate. We must adjust our thinking to meet the change that this signifies. But of even greater significance to my mind is that under such conditions the dangers of propaganda are heightened rather than reduced. We must be on guard lest internal disturbances and doubts weaken the political and social fabric to the end that our basic objectives are obscured or that we lose the will to defend them. We must learn to live with the technological and scientific developments that we already have witnessed and those that are ahead of us, and we must resist attempts from whatever source to destroy the political and economic framework within which we have accomplished so much up to the present and which promises so much for the future."

Total assets of The Canadian Bank of Commerce have increased to more than $2,356,000,000 in a record-breaking year of growth, Vice-President and General Manager Neil J. McKinnon said in his review of the Bank's financial statement for the year ended Oct. 31, 1955.

"Aggregate deposits increased by more than $272,000,000 over the previous year, and total assets increased by over $298,000,000, reflecting the greatest year of growth in the Bank's history," Mr. McKinnon said in presenting the 89th annual statement.

Reviewing business conditions during the past year, Mr. McKinnon noted that the aggregate increase of all forms of credit had been substantial, and said some degree of restraint would be justified to guard against "unwarranted expansion." However, he stressed that there should always be adaptation to the needs of business growth.

"The banking mechanism is a sensitive one, and policies and attitudes ought to be flexible at all times—with a full understanding that the business and trading environment is constantly in a process of change."

Available statistics, said Mr. McKinnon, indicate an increase of about 14% during the year ending September in shorter-date consumer credit. But in relation to personal disposable income the relative increase was slight— from 11.27% in June, 1954, to 11.47% in June, 1955. "It is also of interest to note that personal expenditure on consumer goods and services in the last half of this year dropped from 93% last year to 91%. In other words the rate of apparent saving increased during that period."

Describing the Bank's unparalleled growth during the past year, Mr. McKinnon pointed out a balance sheet increase in personal savings deposits in excess of $95,000,000 and an increase in other deposits of approximately $169,000,000. Deposits by governments declined $16,000,000, but deposits by other banks increased by $24,000,000.

There was an increase of $150,000,000 in the quick assets of the Bank, reflected principally through an increase in cash and transit items of $32,000,000; an increase in holdings of Government of Canada securities of $42,000,000, and an increase in call loans of $38,000,000. The quick asset position of the Bank has been maintained at a strong level, with approximately the same ratio as a year ago, Mr. McKinnon said.

The balance sheet also reflects an increase in capital stock and rest account, stemming from issuance of subscription rights to shareholders in December, 1954. The Rest Account was additionally increased by a transfer of $2,250,000 from profits. In all, shareholders' investment in the Bank increased by more than $22,000,000 during the year.

The record growth of the past year placed heavy burdens of work and responsibility on the bank's managers, branch officers, and all members of personnel, Mr. McKinnon said. He praised the loyalty and devotion of all members of the organization and expressed deep-felt appreciation for their work.

Derelict Scow Heads To England

St. John's, Nfld. — (CP) — A derelict scow seems intent on drifting with the current to England, a feat men on rafts have tried and failed.

The large federal scow was being transferred from a federal works job in the St. Lawrence river to one in Newfoundland when her towline parted nearly a week ago, 40 miles from St. John's.

The next day she was spotted 70 miles from St. John's, the day after 100 miles. If she maintains her drift speed and direction she may have covered 200 miles of the distance to England by now.

Rough weather at sea has prevented salvage attempts. The scow was last seen the middle of last week.

two-dollar guy is gone like summer.

The three papers have a combined circulation of over a million and a quarter. The estimated weekly loss in salaries alone is a half million dollars.

Other costs are unfathomable. The Detroit News, for one example, has a warehouse full of 144-page photo sections full of beautiful Christmas advertising in color. It should have been circulated the Sunday after the strike began. Its fate is problematical.

Members of a proud craft, the strikers aren't enjoying it either.

"With all my troubles I can find only one bright spot," a wife of a sterc typer said. "We found an old pair of long underwear in the attic that my husband bought years ago for tobogganing."

Sadly, among the chief victims of the strike are the city's underprivileged kids. As most papers do, all three here were up to their Santa Claus beards in an effort to raise money and collect clothing for the children. The Goodfellows and the old newsboys were to sell special papers Dec. 19. There are bound to be empty stockings.

Nothing illustrated more bleakly than this how the roots of a community are blighted when its newspapers fall silent.

Congressman W. L. Prouty Addresses Holy Name Society At Derby Line

Derby Line — "The principles of Divine Law must be observed if we are to solve world problems," said Representative Winston L. Prouty, of Newport, at the annual meeting and banquet of the Holy Name Society of St. Edward's parish.

The banquet was held at the Derby Town Hall, with the ladies of the Altar Society providing a fine dinner. The president of the society, Rocco A. Novia, presided at the meeting.

Speaking of his recent trip through Europe, Congressman Prouty said that the nations of the world are actually closer together than the towns of Orleans were not too many years ago. "These are extremely critical times, and we must all recognize our duties as citizens of a democracy. It will soon be possible to make this planet uninhabitable through weapons that are being developed, and we cannot overlook the problems of the world."

"The farm problem," continued the speaker, "is the only serious economic problem of our country today, and one of the ways we are trying to solve it is by attempting to increase the exports of farm surpluses. The money that we receive is often spent in developing air bases in the very countries that buy these surpluses, so we benefit in two ways."

Explaining that without Marshall Plan aid it would have been more than possible that most of Europe would have gone communistic, Mr. Prouty went on to say that about 70 per cent of the money appropriated for overseas came back to this country for items purchased here. "Western Europe is much stronger defensively, and there is a good chance that they could hold out long enough for us to come to their defence if they were attacked. Defence today is a global problem, not simply a domestic one. We must remember that our adversary is bent on world domination, and one of the ways we can defeat him is by raising the living standards of other countries."

Mr. Prouty spoke of meeting the Pope in Rome, and displayed a medallion presented to him by His Holiness. He said that the Pope looked quite well and seemed happy.

Berlin is the place to make a comparison between the East and the West. Things have greatly improved in West Berlin in the past two years and the people look happier, better fed and better clothed. The people of East Berlin, on the other hand, still have the same haunted, hungry look, and the new buildings look good but are shoddily made. Thousands are escaping each month, said the speaker, and the contrast is very great.

"We do not need to fear communism, all we need to do is to compare it with democracy. The difference is all in our favor. We must fight it with all possible means, realizing completely that nobody can win another war."

Preceding the talk by Mr. Prouty several items of business were taken care of. One of the most important was the presentation by Ernest Gratton, of the West Charleston unit of the Holy Name Society, of a check for $1,000 to Rev. Father Armand Fortin toward the indebtedness of St. Benedict's Chapel in that community. This money had been raised by the comparatively small unit and was gratefully received by Father Fortin.

The officers of the Holy Name Society of St. Edward's parish for 1956 are as follows: R. A. Novia, president; Gerard Francouer, vice-president; R. Goudreau, secretary; R. Murray, treasurer.

E. Boisvert, program chairman; Gordon "Doc" Stewart, youth activities; L. E. Moore, sick and vigil committee; Armand Gagnon, marshal; Roger Beauregard, chairman West Charleston unit; Rev. Father Armand Fortin, spiritual adviser.

Congressman Prouty was introduced and thanked by William J. Burke, who also gave a short report on an executive meeting of the State organization.

Farm Forum Activities

MILBY

The Milby Farm Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Orr. The topic, Retirement Plan For Farmers, was broadly discussed by the members of the panel.

The chairman, W. T. Evans, presided, and the secretary, Mrs. Bertrand Turner, read the Green Leaf. Open discussion was held during the "What Do You Think?" interval.

When the farmer is planning to retire do you think it better for him to retire off the farm or remain on the farm?

There is always the individual and circumstances pertaining to each case. It would seem desirable for most farmers to retire either on the farm, the home place, or a smaller place in the community, where it will be possible to keep up previous interests and associations. The cost of living would lower rents, etc. If it is a father and son or similar arrangement, the farmer may continue to participate, perhaps in a moderate way, in the life which he usually very much enjoys. Separate living quarters would be highly desirable. Some farmers do prefer to get away from the farm and go to town to live.

How should farmers prepare financially for this retirement? Perhaps the soundest plan is a retirement insurance policy, some form of annuity, which will provide them with a regular income as long as they live. Systematic savings should be in the economic plan of each farmer.

Many rural people plan for their retirement by investing in a town house, preferably a duplex which will take care of future overhead expenses when the income from farm ceases.

Many farmers live on the home, renting all or parts of the farm as a service of income. The panel suggestion "Don't put all your eggs in one basket," was sound advice, by having more than one service of income, greater security may be achieved. During the social hour lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. W. T. Evans and Mrs. Everett Beattie.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Beattie.

Richmond Hill Institute Meets

Richmond Hill — The Richmond Hill W. I. branch met with Mrs. C. Banfill, 11 members and one visitor, Mrs. Golden Fletcher being present. Mrs. Taylor led in the opening exercises.

The roll call was answered by a Christmas decoration for the tree. The minutes and financial report were read by Mrs. J. Hawker.

A letter was read from Mrs. Alton Mills thanking the branch for remembering her new baby,

TV Goes, Family Benefits

By RUTH MILLETT
The Smiths have gotten rid of their TV set. And they claim they wouldn't have it back if the rabbit ears were gold, tipped with diamonds.

They have recaptured a way of living that TV drowns out in loud commercials, blaring music and stale jokes.

The drastic decision that their TV set was expendable came after Mr. and Mrs. Smith sat down one night and confronted all the changes it had brought into their home.

"Nobody listened to my collection of beautiful records any more."

Evenings of games and family fun had disappeared as parents and children sat evening after evening before the one-eyed monster.

Reading for pleasure was a thing of the past. The printed word casts its spell in peaceful quiet and there is no peace or quiet in a home where a TV set blares forth program after program.

Wide Spare Time Activity For Mining Area Teachers

By FRASER MacDOUGALL

Elliot Lake, Ont. — How do women school teachers put in their spare time in a new mining field?

"We wax floors," laughs Lola Smith, one of three teachers in the modern public school in this town-to-be 20 miles northeast of Blind River in the heart of Ontario's pioneer uranium field.

However, Miss Smith, principal Orelth Walker and Esther Dean instantly chorus: "It's really not like that. We find lots to do. We have our own car and can get away for weekends."

The three left the Timmins area where they taught for some years, to teach here in a town which still hasn't any houses. School opened Sept. 29 with six pupils for its three rooms, each with accommodation for 40. Number of pupils doubled the first week and is still growing.

Curry 'n Banana snacks: Spread small rounds or triangles of thin white bread with mayonnaise. Top each with a banana slice, brushed with lemon juice. Sprinkle with curry powder and garnish with a slice of green cherry.

Teens The Look Is Youthful

By ALICIA HART

A big holiday dance is a good opportunity for a teenager to be as pretty as she knows how. Her spirit of fun and her imagination about clothes, hair and accessories can come to the fore.

However, most teenagers who look as pretty as they can, do not elect to look ultrasophisticated at this season. The young gals who whirl into the ballroom or gym dressed in a metallic-cloth sheath and long gloves look more gloomy than gay.

They look as though they had so little confidence in their own youth, which is a handsome ornament at any season, and their own good features, that they felt they had to look like a threat in order to succeed.

Full skirts are the top favorites with teen-agers and everyone else who wears them is only trying to re-create that young and festive look. Dressy dresses with cap sleeves or ruffles over the shoulder are very becoming. A strapless gown has little excuse for being in a teen wardrobe.

This is not ancient prudery speaking. This is the self-confident teenager talking. A recent dressmaking contest had as its top winners full-skirted, tight-waisted, covered-up dresses, all designed and made by teens.

There is no need to try to be old to appeal to young men. They like you at your prettiest.

A.D.S. School News Report

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT
The Junior Girls' Basketball Tournament was held at Lennoxville High School. Asbestos-Danville-Shipton High School played its first game against Bury.

Bury received the first throw-in, but A.D.S. soon had possession of the ball. C. Green of A.D.S. attempted a basket, but wasn't on balance for the shot. A Bury guard caught the rebound and in doing so, an A.D.S. player received a foul. G. Barter of Bury took the foul shot and the first point of the game was made.

A.D.S. wasn't to be beaten, and by quarter time the score was 14-1 for A.D.S. By half time the score was 38-4 for A.D.S. Bury did not give up hope nor did A.D.S. slacken their fight. At three quarter time Bury had raised its tally by ten points, and the score stood 47-14 for A.D.S.

Both teams played hard until the end, but A.D.S. proved the better team, defeating Bury 56-17. The high scorer for Bury was G. Barter with eight points. C. Green gained 26 points for A.D.S.

After an enjoyable lunch was served to all the teams, the tournament continued with A.D.S. versus Lennoxville. The game began with both teams really in the fight. The first basket of the game was made by Jean Bowers, of Lennoxville. A.D.S. soon had possession of the ball and M. Boreham gained two points. At quarter time the score was 8-7 for Lennoxville.

The score remained close until three quarter time when Lennoxville was leading 33-15. In the last quarter A.D.S. put up a great fight, and wonderful work was done by both forwards and guards alike. The excellent footwork and accuracy of shooting on the part of Lennoxville proved too great for A.D.S. The game ended 35-28 for Lennoxville.

Jean Bowers who scored 24 points, was the high scorer for the Lennoxville team. C. Green was the top scorer for A.D.S.

CHRISTMAS DANCE
The Students' Council of A.D.S. is sponsoring a Christmas dance, to be held Friday evening, December 16th. This event is one of the highlights in the school's social life.

Grade X students are in charge of the arrangements, and they tell us they have obtained the services of an excellent orchestra, the Elmer Topp Trio, from Montreal. From what we hear from Grade X, a really gala evening is being planned.
