Boilers At School May Need Considerable Repair Work

The Huntingdon Protestant School Board Commissioners met in regular session at the School, on Thursday evening, with all members present. The minutes of previous meeting were read and passed and also a number of bills.

The plans for the new building have still not been received from Quebec and the chairman, Mr. Lyell Graham, is to interview Mr. Somerville, M.P.P., with regard to this at an early date.

A letter from the architect stated a probable cost for the new addition in the neighborhood of $300,000, which the Board thought was high. However, it was pointed out that this could be changed when tenders were called for. The letter also asked a sum of $4,000.00 for services rendered in drawing plans, etc., to date. It was also pointed out that the sum should be more than double this. The Board felt that the amount was still too high, but apparently there was nothing to do but pay it, in view of the fact that the Board had already asked for a reduction.

The report of the Boiler Inspector was read and it gave some details of some repair work which should be done. It further stated that another inspection would be made of the internal parts of the boilers and it was noted that some of the tubes were badly pitted. The Board was of the opinion that perhaps a considerable amount of work would have to be done on these boilers.

A letter was read from the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, complaining about the publishing of the report of Inspector Brady about the school, in The Gleaner. The letter was written in concern of printing what it termed a confidential report meant only for the Board and the Principal and those concerned. The Board was of the opinion that the report being a good one, was one that should be published, but perhaps a mistake had been made in printing it in whole as some parts of a personal character could have been deleted. They decided that more consideration would be given to further reports of this kind.

Dr. Willis was delayed in getting to the meeting, but when he did arrive, he asked if the above letter had been received and read. He also asked what would be done in regard to the boys breaking into the school. The Board decided to press for payment of the damage done at the first break-in and to see that the boys received a severe reprimand. The matter of contests and using the school and pupils for the purposes of such contests, was brought up. After some discussion it was decided that the school should not be used for the purposes of advertising such contests and that in future such requests will not be considered.

In view of the fact that the plans may be received at any time now, the meeting was adjourned at the call of the Chairman in order that no time will be lost when they arrive.

Seminar Held At Ormstown For Students For Anglican Ministry

A seminar was held in Ormstown the past week and which ended today, (Wednesday) with a luncheon at the Hotel. The attendants at the seminar were students from the Montreal Diocesan Theological College of the Anglican Church and the young men are in training for the ministry. The staff of the seminar consists as follows: Rt. Rev. John H. Dixon, Lord Bishop of Montreal and Canon R. H. L. Slater. Principal of the College, ex officio members; Dean Rev. R. G. Elliott, R.D., Chairman Rural Committee; Rev. Wm. J. White, R.D., Chaplain; Rev. H. M. D. Westin, Rector; Rev. Wm. E. Soule, Music Director and Rev. John Peacock, Secretary Rural Committee, Lecturer.

Twelve students were in attendance and are first and second year theological students at the above mentioned college. They were billeted at homes in the Ormstown area and on Sunday, May 4th, they took services in the various churches in this area.

The seminar provided a training that is not obtained in the college, but will prove a vital necessity when these young men go out to take over parishes on the completion of their training and during the student ministry. The various subjects that were taken and which were given by persons trained in the special field on which they spoke, were all on matters to do with the practical work of the minister of a parish or church. The various addresses enlightened the students on where they may obtain information on a number of subjects and also gave information as to dealing with matters to do with them when an occasion should arise.

When people are in trouble and perhaps have no one else to whom they can turn, they go to their minister, or clergy. It is thus that he is often confronted with all sorts of problems of which he is expected to have some knowledge to overcome. The seminar was endeavoring to supply a knowledge of a number of subjects with which these students may have to deal in their future duties. To give some idea, here are the subjects which were taken during the eight days of the seminar: Rural Church Work in Canada, by Rev. L. F. Hatfield; Demography, by Dr. P. Parrot; Rural Church and the Scout Movement, C. J. Dendy: Family Allowance, Old Age Pensions, by Maj. L. Lafrance; Community, by Floyd Griesbach; Church and School Cooperation, Panel Discussion under Principal Eric King of Ormstown High School; Recreation, by Rev. J. Peacock, Leader; District Jails, Rev. Wm. J. White, R.D.; Needy Mothers' Allowance and other Allowances, by J. M. Bouchard; Rural Church Work in the U.S.A., by Rev. Wm. Davidson; Adult Education Service of Macdonald College, Prof. Harry Avison; Farm Forum Demonstration, by Les Young; Organization and Conducting of Vestry Meetings, by Archdeacon J. F. Morris; Agricultural Missions, by Rev. Khairur Din; What the Doctor Expects from the rural parish priest, by Dr. G. L. Sutton of Ormstown; Rural Church Music, by Rev. W. E. Soule.

This is one of such seminars which have been held during the past seven years. They are held in the rural sections of the diocese to help to create the right atmosphere and a good number of the students are city born and have not had much experience of rural areas. A greater chance is given to the student to understand the rural problems and to meet the people who live in the areas and understand why they live here and what they do. They study in this quieter atmosphere and can enjoy the freedom of the rural dweller for the period of the seminar. It is a most valuable experience that can only be

C. E. Petch to Address Group At Macdonald

The annual meeting of the Quebec Society for the Protection of Plants will be held May 8th and 9th, at Macdonald College, the very place where it was founded 50 years ago.

Many well known scientists will present papers on the actual tendancies in the field of plant protection.

At the banquet, Mr. C. E. Petch of Hemmingford, Que., a retired entomologist, will give a talk significantly entitled: "In retirement". A group of pathologists who have studied under Dr. J. G. Coulson will present him their homage at the occasion of his retirement, which will occur this year.

This scientific Society is the only one of its kind in Canada to group all those who are interested in the control of plant pests: Entomologists, pathologists, zoologists, and specialists in weed control.

Safety First And First Aid Practiced By S. W. & P. Co. Staff

Mr. Hector Provost, Shawinigan Water and Power Co., Huntingdon, has been in Shawinigan for the past two weeks attending meetings in connection with Safety First work. Mr. Provost is a great worker in the Safety First and First Aid movements and in this respect he officiated as one of the leaders among a group of from 60 to 70 S. W. & P. Co. foremen who were called to meet at Shawinigan.

Artificial Respiration, Accidents and First Aid were the principal topics worked upon. Mr. Provost told the Rotary Club on Monday, that in 1952 the indirect cost of lost time through such accidents among the Shawinigan Water & Power Co. 9000 employees represented $171,000. Through greater care being exercised in the following year the loss showed a reduction, yet the loss represented $110,806.

In conducting their campaign for Safety First they impressed upon their employees that every lineman must do his work, first with a view to being done in a safe manner, and avoid the possibility of becoming hurt. By 1956 the loss through accidents had been reduced to $32,000 and in 1957 the loss of time accidents had been reduced in numbers to 26, representing $8,519. Unfortunately during the early part of 1958 accident loss showed an increase over the corresponding period of the previous year. We must not rest upon our laurels of 1957 but keep on trying to avoid accidents.

Artificial respiration used in cases of drowning is something everyone should be familiar with. Only a short time ago a little girl of 8 years was allowed to die, who might well be living to-day had someone present known how to practice artificial respiration. Here in Huntingdon during 1957 Mr. Provost gave instruction in the conducting of artifical respiration to a class of 18 women who were attending the Red Cross Society Home Nursing course. If a drowning accident takes place here, and no one present knows how to officiate immediately contact a doctor, a Shawinigan employee, Bell Telephone Co. employee, any one of these 18 women or some other person who knows something about artificial respiration, and if such is done it is highly probable a life can be saved.

A man of 48 years of age received an electric shock. Artificial respiration was conducted for a period of 12 hours. The man lived remained in good health, and died at the age of 72 years.

Electricians may suffer from shock when on the top of a transmission pole. Since 1937, 129 linemen were so afflicted and artificial respiration upon these men when on top of the poles with beneficial effect. Electric shock are not difficult to receive so care must be exercised at all times. Never touch an electric wire or switch with wet hands, for even though the voltage may be only that of 11 volts such can kill a person.

In connection with electric shock, resussitation can be achieved though the administration of shock treatments. In the United States a man was doomed to die in an electric chair. The man to be electrocuted permitted medical men to study artificial respiration upon him and it was revealed that in three hours after his electrocution artificial respiration could have been exercised and with success. The man was condemned to death, so allowed to die.

At the close of the Rotary Meeting Mr. Provost gave a demonstration of how to practice artificial respiration in the case of drowning accidents.

Mrs. C. L. Henderson Active, Interested At Age Of 90

Mrs. Christine Lighthall Henderson, Montreal, who celebrates her 90th birthday this year, will be remembered by a number of the older residents of Huntingdon. Mrs. Henderson for many years lived in Huntingdon and played an active part in many organizations of feminine interest, particularily that of a Literary Society that met with regularity. Mrs. Henderson always had a love for the writing of poetry and has published three books of her poems.

The Monitor, Notre Dame de Grace, has this to say about Mrs. Henderson.

Mrs. Christine Lighthall Henderson, dean of the past presidents of the Women's Art Society, has very little to say about modern art.

"I don't like to commit myself" she told The Monitor recently, "I'm too old-fashioned to understand it."

Mrs. Henderson is 90 this year.

Born at Huntingdon, Que., she attended the Huntingdon Academy for her early education and took advanced studies in French at Feller College at Grand Ligne, Quebec. She also studied at Harvard for six semester school terms and was a French specialist at Huntingdon Academy until her marriage to Francis H. Henderson.

Mrs. Henderson, widowed early, has travelled extensively, crossing the Atlantic ten times, spending some years abroad, she has wintered in Rome, Paris and Los Angeles. She spent much of her time with her cousin, Miss Alice Lighthall of Westmount. In later life she began to write and has three books to her credit and two more ready for publication; one of these being fifty-two poems on Quebec which has been purchased by the Provincial Government.

She has her own ideas, too, on modern litterature and summed them up by saying "I think after World War I the rising generation was disillusioned and the whole world of literature, poetry, art and sculpture went jazzy."

Still active at ninety Mrs. Henderson, who speaks English, French and Italian, fluently, lectures on cultural subjects and is a well known lecturer on bird protection.

She is a vice-president of the Poetry Society of London, England; past-president of the Women's Art Society, past-president of the Province of Quebec Society for the Protection of Birds; past-president of the Italiano Canadere. She is active in the Poetry Group, the Canadian Authors Association, the Montreal Women's Club and other cultural groups.

EVERY DROP OF BLOOD IS USED.

GIVING BLOOD IS EASY. A blood donation takes only a few minutes.

An Appeal To The Parents, Teachers

In many schools across the province, final examinations are just about to begin. This means that vacation time is upon us once again. So that all children will be able to enjoy the coming holidays, not one fatal accident is needed. The Provincial Highway Safety Committee, (PRUDENTIA), appeals to parents and teachers alike to stress highway and street safety to the children. Demand of your children, and of your students that they be prudent when going to class or returning to their homes. Do not make the automobile become the instrument which cuts short even the life of one child who has the right of those beautiful summer holidays.

Friends Fete M. Barrington At Chateau

The Ormstown Board of Trade and Friends honored Merrill Barrington, recently elected to represent this constituency in the House of Commons as a Progressive-Conservative, with a banquet and dance in the Chateau Huntingdon on Thursday evening. It turned out to be not only a largely attended gathering but one that was quite jovial. Mr. James White, President of the Ormstown Board of Trade presided.

The Grace was pronounced by the Rev. J. C. Hood, Ormstown. In the absence of Mayor Cappiello, Adam L. Sellar was asked to extend the words of welcome to Huntingdon. Mrs. J. M. Smellie, in behalf of the women of Ormstown and friends in Huntingdon, presented a very beautiful evening bag to Mrs. Merrill Barrington. Dr. Leo Belisle of Ormstown in behalf of the Ormstown Board of Trade and Friends presented Mr. Barrington with a large brief case as well as a smaller manuscript case.

Congratulations to Mr. Barrington were voiced by Messrs Maurice Laberge, M.P.P. for Chateauguay County; H.A.D. Somerville, M.P.P., Huntingdon County; Mayor Beaulieu, Ormstown.

Mr. Merrill Barrington fittingly addressed the assembled gathering as "Dear Friends," and it was quite evident he was more than a bit moved with the standing ovation that was accorded him as he arose to acknowledge the courtesies accorded Mrs. Barrington and himself. "This is the first time in at least six months that I find I am short of words," said Mr. Barrington. "What the future holds is something we cannot say, but in any case this is an event that shall never be forgotten. Thanks citizens of Ormstown and all other friends for these tokens of appreciation which you have given to Mrs. Barrington and myself."

The Rev. Msgr. Langlois of Ormstown pronounced the Benediction. Mr. White, the Chairman, invited all present to remain for a evening of dancing which was held in the Gai Lounge. The music being supplied by Messrs Cullen, Reddick and Yates.

STUDENTS OF HUNTINGDON HIGH SCHOOL BOUND FOR NEW YORK CITY

Above is a group of Grade XI students as they were about to board a bus which took them to New York City, on Thursday morning. The students had worked hard putting on a number of money making events throughout the year to pay for this trip and tour of New York City. They finally reached their goal and on Thursday morning boarded the bus to spend a few days in this great city. They were accompanied by two teachers as chaperons and arrived in New York about 8 p.m. that evening. There followed a round of sight seeing and entertainment before they re-embarked on Sunday morning for the homeward journey, arriving back in Huntingdon Sunday evening.

Number Of Purchases To Be Made By Town In Near Future – Finances Presently Rather Strained

The Huntingdon Town Council met on Monday evening at the County Building, with all members present. The minutes of the last meeting and a numbr of bills were read and passed. Alderman McWhinnie suggested that when hardware requirements are needed by the different departments of the town, the business be divided up between those stores dealing in the articles required. It was noted that there was one large bill for such items which could have been distributed more evenly. The town foreman was instructed to buy at the various stores and also others in charge of purchasing are to be so instructed.

Tenders were opened with regard to a new auxiliary engine to be used at the Filter Plant to replace the present fire pumping unit. The tenders were requested by the Town Engineer. The following figures were given by different firms handling the product on an installed and complete equipment basis: $5,690.; $5,975.; $5,950.; $5,699. and $5,040. It was decided to refer the matter to the Town Engineer for advice on the best unit to purchase for the replacement and to be guided by his suggestions.

A letter was read from the Quebec Government dealing with Civil Defence Day to be held in October of this year. The letter stated that the Province is cooperating with the Federal Civil Defence officials and asked that the various municipalities advise their officials to plan now for a demonstration of Civil Defence. No action was taken on this.

Deputy Fire Commissioner J. Amyot, sent a letter in which he reported the findings of engineers who had investigated the reason for loss of pressure on the water main to Garden City. The conclusion reached was that the main must have a blockage at some point along the way.

Alderman McWhinnie stated that he had met with an official of the firm which installed most of the pumping equipment at the Filter Plant and they had gone into the matter thoroughly. It had been decided that this firm could bring equipment to Huntingdon for the purpose of clearing the obstruction. Some digging would have to be done at certain points, which the town would be responsible for and also a high pressure of water maintained. The cost for this work would be approximately $4,000.

The council thought this figure was quite high and especially when the town men would have to work on it as an extra and the main would have to be repaired at the points that it would have to be cut. The work would also have to be done on Saturday and Sunday when the mills were shut down. It was decided that the town would undertake the work on its own and have someone supervise it. The job would start at the river where the main goes out from the filter plant and work along until the obstruction is found and removed. Holes will be dug ahead of the job so that the work can proceed as quickly as possible.

The C.N.R. asked for a new agreement with regard to water as the line has been dieselized and the station had been closed and no passenger trains were operated. The old station is being used as a bunk house. It was decided to give the domestic rate.

The matter of the financial needs of the town was brought up by Secretary-Treasurer Martin, who explained that the town owed $18,000 on last year's borrowings at the bank and had a further overdraft of about $4,000. He said he would need to borrow at least $25,000 and pay off these obligations, but it would only leave about $2,000. for the bills which had just been passed and he doubted if that would be enough to cover. One very large bill was for the new fire truck and equipment amounting to close to $6,000 for which a government grant of almost half was available. The other accounts ran into the hundreds of dollars in a number of instances. Several other purchases are being contemplated, such as the auxiliary engine for the Filter Plant and money would be required to pay for these.

Mayor Leo Cappiello said he thought perhaps the council should ascertain just how much money would be required and just what had to be bought and then float a Bond issue. If this is done it would require a referendum from the ratepayers. Mr. Martin explained that he would have to have money immediately to take care of requirements and operating expenses.

It was decided to ask for $35,000 to take care of immediate requirements and further consider the other purchases that will have to be made.

A lawyer's letter was read which made a claim on behalf of Mr. Poirier, which stated the town had made a contract with him for removal of snow from the sidewalks during the past winter. It had also been requested that he provide an insurance policy to cover damage that may result from the work and this had cost $44.00 for the premium. He asked for a sum of $240.00 and damages. A stated period was set for the settlement of the claim. Mayor Cappiello stated that the equipment that was to be used for the work was not satisfactory so could not be used and it had been said that the equipment would have to be able to do the work or it would not be used. Other aldermen concurred in this. No action was taken.

A letter was read from Const. A. Trepanier, who has resigned from the Police Department, in which he thanked the council and the people of the town for their co-operation with him during his term of policeman.

A letter was read from the N.Y.C. which stated that an application was being filed with the Board of Railway Commissioners to discontinue passenger train service between Malone and Montreal at an early date. It was explained that the operating of the service was a losing proposition and the company did not think it could carry it any further. The council decided to draft a resolution objecting to the application to discontinue service. It was felt that it would work a hardship to other towns along the line and only bus travel would be available to those who needed to travel to Montreal.

A complaint was made as to brush growing on the Leach Textile property on Fairview Road. This was blowing onto other properties. Council is to ask that this be stopped and the brush cut.

A new policeman has been hired to replace Const. Trepanier. He is Onil Bosquet and will be paid $45.00 per week and an allowance of $100. per year toward uniform. He will be sworn in in due course and commence his duties about mid month.

A hydrant on Chateauguay Street is to be moved and it was decided to see if arrangements could be made with either Mr. Rolfe or the Oddfellows, or both, so that the hydrant can be placed between their two buildings.

Four building permits were granted for repairs, alterations and a new dwelling.

Discussion centred on some tenders which had been obtained by Alderman Lalonde with regard to the proposed purchase of two new trucks. The only dealers submitting the tenders were J. F. Smythe and S. J. Kyle. It was asked if other dealers had been requested to submit tenders and it was stated that they had not. In view of this and in order to be fair, it was decided not to open the tenders, but to advertise in The Gleaner for tenders to be submitted on specifications to be drafted. Alderman Lalonde had mistakenly asked for the tenders, when the council had merely wanted a rough estimate in order to get some idea of what might be needed to budget for the cost of purchases which are contemplated. The tenders will be returned to those who submitted them, but they can tender again at such time as new tenders will be called for.

The council decided to have a letter of condolence sent to Mrs. C. Brown, wife of the late Charley Brown, who has been employed at the Filter Plant for several years and whose death occurred on Saturday.

Several applications have already been received for the position at the Filter Plant and Alderman McWhinnie is to interview one of the applicants with a view to his being hired for the job.

Blood Donor Clinic Being Held Tomorrow — May 8th

Citizens of Huntingdon and surrounding districts will have the opportunity to contribute to the Red Cross blood bank on May 8th when the clinic, sponsored by the local Red Cross branch, will be open at the Legion Hall from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m. The objective has been set at 375 bottles.

Organizers of the clinic are: Mrs. E. M. Wood, president of the Red Cross Huntingdon branch; Mrs. E. C. Martin, chairman of the Blood Donor Committee; and Mrs. Ruth McGerrigle, vice-chairman.

"The Red Cross is collecting the blood," said Mrs. Wood, "but the Society acts merely as an intermediate between the donor and the sick or wounded person who badly needs a transfusion. The blood bank is everybody's business. We don't know when we may need a blood transfusion."

110 hospitals in the province of Quebec are now affiliated to the Red Cross free Blood Transfusion Service. Each week, a minimum of 2,000 pints of blood must be collected to fill the increasing demands.

Mrs. Wood added that anybody in good health, between the age of 18 and 65, can give blood without the least trouble. The whole procedure takes but half an hour, divided in 4 to 5 minutes giving time and an approximate 20 minutes rest period.

Citizens are urged to come to the clinic and bring with them at least one friend or one relative as a new donor.

Editorial Notes

Another Railway Strike?

ARE we going to have another railway strike? This is a question that is being asked now, even though the railway unions have given forth the word that a strike has been called for May 11. If it comes about, it will not breed goodwill toward the "firemen" who will be in on it. It could well spread and mean disruption of all rail services in this country, even though it only applies to "firemen" on freight trains and in yard service in the employ of the C.P.R.

We feel that the railway unions are misguiding their membership in this action, as the coal miners were misguided some years ago. For many years the coal miners were striking on one pretext or another and to a certain extent the results of their actions are now reflecting upon the railway firemen. When the miners held their strikes they often disrupted the railway services on account of the supplies of coal for the steam trains running low. On account of this continual threat, oil fuel locomotives appeared on the railways and which now figure in the dispute about the use of "firemen". Today, oil has so displaced the use of coal, that we do not hear very much about coal miners anymore.

Are the workers on the railways going to continue to listen to the union bosses until they too are replaced by other means of transportation. Are they going to let their own common sense be dictated to by a voice from another country. A voice that would like to have the Canadian Railwaymen make theirs a test case for their similar workers in the United States. So much so, that offers of assistance to carry on the stand against the findings of a Royal Commission have been made. This may be a profession of great friendship of the brotherhood, but should we as Canadians permit such interference in the affairs, and national affairs at that. If the firemen carry out their threat to strike and if by this threat they cause disruption of the nature of similar past strikes, then they will not have the backing of the Canadian peoples' majority.

If this sort of thing continues, there is no doubt that other surer means of transportation will be found and substituted just the same as oil has been substituted for coal. It may be said that it cannot be done — but let us not be too sure. Many strange things are being done today and it behooves us to take a look around before we decide to leap into the uncertain. It will not be too long before we can travel across almost half of Canada on the St. Lawrence Seaway. Perhaps other linkage will present itself in the future also. With this and other means of transportation, it might be possible to do without the railways. The unions then would have priced their members out of their jobs far more than the disuse of "firemen" on diesel locomotives would ever do. It is something for these "firemen" to think about well before they reach the final decision.

It is not known what action might be taken by the authorities in the event that a strike should disrupt the railway services, but sharp measures should be taken in order that the strikers may know that their action is not in the popular favor. There are times when the general public is in sympathy with a strike, but they are certainly not in favor of this one. It is brought on by a march of progress and something that is inevitable in this day, but it has not cost these men their employment as the railway has arranged for other jobs for these men. Should a strike take place, immediate steps should be taken to see that the operation of the railway is maintained. Under a similar situation in England some years ago, the railways were operated by the armed services and it was termed a national emergency.

In this time of mild recession, workers would do well to consider their positions with a view to maintaining conditions and improving them, rather than forcing further declines by unprecedented demands and strikes. We can conquer this recession if we will only work together and avoid further upsets in our economy. Strikes at this time and demands for higher increases in pay can do much to send this country into a real decline. But by hard headed thinking and a determination to mend the economy, the present recession can be licked in a very short time.

President Eisenhower to Visit Ottawa

CANADA for many years now has assumed a voice of her own in world affairs and it is becoming increasingly necessary for this country to make known its stand on many matters. This has been made more prominent in recent months due to the many international problems which are of great concern to Canada.

In view of the possibility of an attack by Russia by means of egress by way of the Polar regions to the United States, Canada must be constantly on the alert. Canada also depends to a greater extent today on its ability to trade with other nations of the world those commodities and raw materials of which she has an abundance. We are closely allied with the United States, which also trades in similar commodities as do we Canadians. Of late, differences have arisen in the way that the U.S. is conducting her export business and our own loss of markets due in part to the method used by the U.S. As to defence, Canada and the U.S. work very closely together and it is imperative that there be nothing which could interfere in the relations of the two nations. The differences referred to are not of a nature that would cause real bad feeling, but they are irritating as a friction between friends. It therefore requires that the friends get together to discuss the problems and try to find solutions which will be amicable to both parties.

Wheat is a big part of Canada's foreign trade and means much to the agricultural stability of this country. The Prairie provinces are the producers of wheat and it is the main staple of the wealth of the people in these provinces. Thus it is an important industry and one that needs much thought and consideration when it is affected adversely. The U.S. is also a producer of wheat in a large way and it too needs markets for this product. In the years past the two countries have vied with one another to obtain markets for their wheat, but it has been on a competitive basis and worked out quite well. However, since the last war conditions changed and brought about new needs for the countries which suffered by its effects. In order to get a number of these countries back on their feet, various give-away programs were instituted and wheat was one of the commodities on this program. As conditions improved, this program was changed, but there still remained the program of trading commodities for the dollar, which has become more and more the world monetary standard of exchange. Many countries wanted our wheat, but did not have sufficient dollars to pay for it, the same condition applied in relation to U.S. wheat. Surpluses of this product built up in both countries and desperate measures were pursued to gain markets and keep the farmers in these two countries happy in disposing of their product. The result has been that the U.S. made trade agreements with various countries to dispose of its surplus and which worked to the detriment of the Canadian product. A serious reduction in the number of markets for Canadian wheat has resulted and the Canadian product has slumped in sales and the surpluses have increased to serious proportions. The Canadian government has made representions to U.S. officials who make the foreign trade policies, but without avail. It is therefore hoped that if the two countries can get together for talks, that something will be done to iron out the problem and improve this situation.

Other matters have to do with Oil, Textiles, as well as other agricultural products. All of which if they can be amicably settled will tend to improve the trade of the two countries both on the world markets and in the domestic field. In both countries there is presently a mild recession and some unemployment, which are attributed to the differences in trade balances. It is possible therefore that the announced visit of President Eisenhower to Ottawa may tend to bring about better relations in this field and help to restore the economy of both countries. It is important in these days of Cold War that the economy be kept on even keel and that there be less dissatisfaction among the working population of both countries. A discontented population makes a fertile field for the inroads of Communism as has been proven many times in the past. The problem of the economy is perhaps one of the greatest which faces the Diefenbaker regime at this time. It is important that a solution be found at the earliest opportunity as it would be the groundwork to the solution of the overall problems which presently beset us. There is evidence that the recession in both countries is easing a little and perhaps the visit of President Eisenhower can be the means of restoring confidence and thus ending this recession.

Confidence In The Canadian Heritage

PRIOR to the Federal Election in March of this year, there was much singing of the "Blues" — Canada was heading for ruin in all directions and one would think that in a few more months the whole country would be bankrupt. We have not heard so much of this talk since the election and conditions are much brighter. It is easy to talk ourselves into a real depression — gloomy talk spreads at a much faster rate that the optimistic.

Canada is going to have its "up and downs" as do all individuals. It would be too much to expect that this country could go along on a highly prosperous trend continuously. The ordinary individual goes along for a time on a very even trend and then for some reason gets a set back, which changes his course of progress. Much of this has to do with management of affairs and the ability to meet and overcome difficulties as they arise. Canada is in a better position than most individuals in the fact that it has both a visible reserve and a hidden reserve. This hidden reserve is the potential mineral resources that have yet to be tapped, but are known to exist. Its human resources are such that they also provide a wealth that is still in the potential and hidden stage.

A forecast, made by the Population Reference Bureau, in Washington, U.S., a non-profit organization, predicts that by the year 2,000, Canada will have a population of 54,000,000 people. It says that Canada's population is growing at an extremely high rate and the country is now in "the world's most favorable position in terms of numbers of people and resources to support them."

We have only to take a glance at one instance of this fact — that of the growing need for more accommodation in our seats of learning, as a proof of this condition. Every year more and more secondary schools are built and existing schools enlarged to accommodate the increased enrollments. This also is true of the higher institutions of learning, even though fewer students are successful in reaching the higher grade of education. Apart from this, Canada holds an attraction for adults from many parts of the world, some being highly educated, some being skilled mechanics and some being of the ordinary vein. The latter also spells addition to the birthrate as they may be still raising families or are potential material for the purpose.

Despite the hue and cry that is raised when immigrants come to this country in large numbers, the increase tends to provide more in every way — employment, as these people have to be fed and clothed and all the other requirements that come about in due course. It provides the need for expansion in many businesses and perhaps the establishment of new ones. It provides a greater domestic outlet for our products and resources. Recently a report was given that a tremendous increase had been made to the manufacture of baby foods. This was due to the demand for these products and the higher birthrate of the past years. Canada pays great attention to the health of its people and in consequence, the death rate has inched down from 9.4 per thousand population in 1946 to 8.2 in 1956.

Canada stands high in potential mineral resources and also in hydro-electric power. This tends to invite manufacturing and industrial development. This is bourne out by the fact that of the immigrants coming into this country today, more and more of the industrial type are being sought than was the case several years ago. Moreover they are absorbed quickly. This influx of all kinds, demands more and more in services and goods and thus the professional type of people are also in great demand. Much of this is due to good management and foresight. We have for many years looked at our neighbour, the United States and many times have envied the apparent prosperity of the people there. As time goes on, it is doubtful if this position will retain, we shall be the envied people, our development will be watched and our standards of living will continue in accordance with the prosperity developed.

A favorite child has little difficulty in persuading a parent, and before many minutes Mr. Forsyth was wo: over, declaring, "it wad be a shame gin we did naething to try an' save the puir lad". It was arranged she should go at once, the father undertaking to break the news to his wife. Her preparations having been made beforehand, the slipping of a plaid over her head and shoulders rendered her fit for the journey, and with a cheery goodbye to her father she stepped quickly to the canoe. She went to the camp at La Fourche, where she surprised her brothers and got them to search out the messenger who had brought the startling tidings. She had a talk with him, learning all he knew of Morton. Then she went to see the Indians in camp, who readily enough told what they knew of Hemlock. They believed he was at Oka and did not expect him back, as he said he would join the force that was being assembled above Cornwall to meet Wilkinson. Thus informed she took the road, a mere bush track, that led to Amfield Mills, now known as the town of Beauharnois. Arrived there she went straight to the house of the only person in it who she thought could help her. It was a log shanty built on the angle where the St. Louis rushes brawling past to join the calm waters of the bay, and was of unusual length, the end facing the road being devoted to the purpose of an office. The door stood open and Maggie walked into a little den, in one corner of which stood a desk with pigeonholes stuffed with papers. Alongside were a few odds-and-ends, the whole dusty, dark and smelling of tobacco. At the desk sat a little man, dressed in blue with large gilt buttons.

"Oh, ho, is this you, Maggie Forsyth? Often have I gone to see you, but this is the first time you have come to see me".

"See you, you withered auld stick; I just dropped in to speer a few questions at you". Maggie adopting the dialect in which she was addressed.

"Auld stick, Mag; I'm no sae auld that I canna lo'e ye".

"Maybe; but I dinna lo'e you".

"Look here lassie; see this bit airn kistie, its fu' o' siller dollars; eneuch to varnish an' auld stick an' keep a silken gown on yer back every day o' the year".

"'An eneuch in thae dusty bottles to pooshen me when ye wad?"

"Ha, ha, my lass; see what it is to hae lear. I didna gang four lang sessions to King's college, Aberdeen, for naething. I can heal as well as pooshen. It's no every lass has a chance to marry a man o' my means and learnin'."

"Aye, an it's no every lass that wad want them alang wi' an auld wizened body".

"Hech, Mag, ye're wit is ower sharp. When a man's going down hill, ilka body gies him a jundie. If ye winna, anither will, but we'll let that flee stick i' the wa' for awhile. Where is your father?"

"At hame; I just walked ower".

"Walked ower yer lane, an' a' thae sogers an' Indians roun'!"

"If yer ceevil ye'll meet wi' ceevilty, Mr. Milne; an I'm gaun farther this day, an' just looked in for yer advice".

"Oh, ye maun hae a drap after your walk", and here he pulled out a big watch from his fob. "Gracious! It is 20 minutes ayont my time for a dram".

Stooping beneath the table that answered for a counter, he filled a grimy tin measure, which he tendered to Maggie, who shook her head. "Na, na, I dinna touch it".

Seeing persistence useless he raised the vessel to his mouth and with a "Here's tae ye", emptied it. "Hech, that does me guid — but no for lang. Noo, lass, what can I do to serve you?" Maggie unreservedly told him all. "An' what's this young Morton to you?"

"Naething mair than ony neebur lad".

"Tell that to my grannie", said the old buck; "I can see through a whin stane as far as onybody, an' I noo unnerstan' why ye turn yer back on a graduate o' King's college, wi' a kist o' siller, and a' for a penniless leftenant".

"Think what thochts ye may, Mr. Milne, but they're far astray. The lad is naething to me nor me to him. I am going to Oka because nae manbody is allowed to leave the camp, and I couldna stay at hame gin it was in my power to save a fellow-creature's life".

"An' what can I do to help you to save him?"

"Help me to reach Oka and find Hemlock".

"Were it no for thae stoury war-times I wad get out my boat an' gee you a life, and there's naebody to send wi' you. My lass, gif ye'll no turn hame again, ye'll have to walk the the road your lane".

"I hae set my face to the brae an' I'll no gang hame".

The Week At Ottawa

THE WEEK AT OT — Ed page —

OTTAWA (CP) — President Eisenhower and Mrs. Eisenhower have accepted an invitation to pay an informal visit to Ottawa July 8-10, accompanied by Sate Secretary and Mrs. Dulles.

During the president's visit here, he will address a joint session of the Senate and House of Commons, as he did in November, 1953. Governor-General Massey will hold a dinner party.

The schedule is expected to allow time for full-scale policy talks by Eisenhower with Prime Minister Diefenbaker. Diplomats hope that out of such talks will come better Canadian-U.S. trade relations, especially in handling economic problems which have caused increasing difficulty in recent years.

Last year the U.S. exported to Canada $3,880,000,000 worth of goods while Canadian exports to the U.S. totalled $2,900,000,000. American experts say the billion-dollar bulge in favor of the U.S. was made up by the flow of American investment capital into Canada. But even so, Canadian leaders would like to see the trade more evenly balanced.

Another topic would be the deadlock in world disarmament efforts. Prime Minister Diefenbaker in a statement last Saturday charged that Russia's rejection in the UN of the U.S. Arctic inspection plan "has placed a veto on the hopes of mankind for peace by denying a first step" toward ultimate disarmament.

Increases Blocked

The cabinet has over-ruled the board of transport commissioners, throwing out big railway and telephone rate increases previously authorized by the board.

Tossed out last week, in the first cabinet rejection in a quarter-century of a transport board ruling, were a 3.6-per-cent freight rates increase authorized by the board Dec. 27, and originally to have gone into effect Jan. 15; and a phone rate increase in Ontario and Quebec of about three per cent that was authorized in January.

The cabinet had previously suspended the new rates pending its decision on an appeal from municipalities and provinces affected.

The freight rate increases, opposed by all provinces except Ontario and Quebec, would have meant additional revenues of $15,000,000 a year to the railways. The phone increase, appealed by 36 municipalities in Ontario and Quebec, would have added $10,300,000 to annual revenues of Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

However, the cabinet turned down a plea from the provinces that it cancel a four-per-cent freight-rate increase that went into effect Jan. 1, 1957.

The cabinet decision followed an April 24 speech by Mr. Diefenbaker to the Canadian Labor Congress in Winnipeg that was generally interpreted as a request to industry and labor to fight inflation by holding the line on wages and prices.

Since the board was set up in 1904 the cabinet has rejected only three of the 59 board rulings appealed to it. The last was in the early 1920s and dealt with the Crowsnest Pass grain rates. However, the cabinet has 14 times referred appeals back to the board, sometimes with directions as to changes.

Unemployment Figures

The government last week produced an encouraging figure on the current unemployment situation. The number of persons registered for work at National Employment Service offices had dropped by 97,174 to 789,486, between March 20 and April 20. The March 20 figure had been the highest number of registrations since the service was organized in 1940.

The April 24 figure also indicated a drop of 35,800 from the previous week, officials said.

The Employment Service figures do not indicate absolute unemployment since they include an unknown number of persons who have since found work or are seeking to change jobs. The Bureau of Statistics April 22 estimated unemployment at 590,000, an increase of 35,000 from the mid-February figure.

Meanwhile, despite the heaviest drain on the country's unemployment insurance fund since its establishment 17 years ago, the fund remains healthy.

The Unemployment Insurance Commission reported that although the winter's unemployment siphoned off $144,000,000 between Dec. 1 and March 31, the fund still totalled $743,500,000. This compares to a record total of $926,000,000 at the end of 1956.

Officials said the $182,500,000 fund drop in the last 15 months is no cause for immediate concern. The fund is expected to start growing again with the advent of normal heavy summer employment.

Civil Servants

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the five-day work week has been extended to about 10,000 government employees in national parks, Indian and Eskimo hospitals and on federal experimental stations across the country.

They were — up to last week — the only federal civil servants without the five-day week except for two groups, still excluded: 1,000 lighthouse keepers and about 3,000 firefighters in federal employ.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who announced the move May 1 in Ottawa at the foundation convention of the 25,600-member Civil Service Association of Canada, also said he believes the federal employees should have a greater voice in determining their salaries.

He thought this could be done "within the general framework and institutions and laws which we already have."

He made no mention of collective bargaining, sought for civil servants by some of their staff organizations.

Boating Rules

The federal transport department soon will be distributing to boat operators across the country some 200,000 copies of "Safety Afloat", a departmental publication that wraps up regulations and safety instructions for operators of small boats.

They apply to private and commercial craft under 15 tons and over 10 horsepower, and became effective April 1.

Nitro

Canadian Arsenals Limited Bowling League Ladies Division

NITRO — Thursday, May 1st saw the last game in the finals of the Ladies Division to decide the champs between the Maple Leafs and the Rockettes. The first three games saw the Rockettes take 8 points by a pinfall of 2899 to the Maple Leafs 2669. The next three game series saw a split decision of 4 to 4 with the Maple Leafs taking the first game by 144 pins, the next two games were won by the Rockettes by only 7 and 61 pins with the pinfall point going to the Maple Leafs by 76 pins.

The last game saw the Rockettes get their final point by 1048 to 871 pinfall. The Maple Leafs were most unfortunate to lose their captain, Grace Brady, who had to undergo surgery. Sincere wishes are extended to Grace from the Bowling League for a speedy recovery and we all hope she will be present at the Bowling Dance on May 9th to receive her trophy for the High Average of the year. Grace also had the high average of 198 during the playoffs.

The High Single during the playoffs was won by Mrs. Muriel Plante of the Beavers with a score of 340, and the runner up was Miss Peggy Anderson of the Rockettes with 295. The High Triple was won by Miss Peggy Anderson with scores of 167-295-283 giving a total pinfall of 745.

In final comment on this years bowling it may be said that there was keen competition displayed by all competitors during the season. In general the spirits were high and the heckling resounding.

The Annual outing of the Grade Eleven pupils of Gault school, Valleyfield, took place this past weekend. They took in the sights of New York City. Young people from Nitro in this fortunate group were: Heather Swartz, Nancy Phene, Judith Dando, Fred Clark and Billy Fullerton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Mickelborg visited Cornwall, Ont. last week and were interested spectators of the progress of the St. Lawrence Seaway at that place.

At the weekend Mr. and Mrs. Mickelborg entertained Mr. and Mrs. A. Perratt and Mr. and Mrs. W. Downey at their home on Kent St. Mrs. Mickelborg also accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Downey on a weekend trip to Plattsburg, N.Y. recently.

Free Area Assured

Evidenced by a report by Leon A. Beaudin, Agronome for Huntingdon County, it would now seem that the campaign for a Brucellosis Free Area has been successfully completed. Also, that all that is now required is the approval of the Quebec Department of Agriculture and the Veterinary Director General, Canada Department of Agriculture. Finally, the testing of herds by the Health of Animals Branch, Canada Department of Agriculture. Nevertheless, it may be several months hence before the field operations (testing) get under way, depending, of course, on the staff available for that purpose.

The Agronomes of this area should be commended for the splendid job they did in organizing the campaign — including calling and conducting the meetings, canvassing breeders and arranging with others to aid them in the farm by farm canvass of those who did not attend the meetings. The Agronomes concerned are:

Leon Beaudin, Agronome for Huntingdon County and Township of St. Malachie de Ormstown (in Chateauguay County) who was assisted by Clifford McGee, Associate Agronome.

Gerard Ampleman, Ste. Martine, Agronome for Chateauguay County (except the Township of St. Malachie de Ormstown).

Sauveur Gosselin, Valleyfield, Agronome for Beauharnois County.

Also taking an active part in the campaign were Prof. Cote of Ecole d'Agriculture, Ste. Martine, and Georges Mayrand, Live Stock Promoter, Quebec Department of Agriculture.

Statistically

According to Leon Beaudin 89.2% of the 1,025 cattle owners with 29,312 head of cattle in the nine municipalities of Huntingdon County, signed as being in favour of an Area. Similiarly some 90% of the cattle owners of St. Malachie de Ormstown signed as being in favour.

At the time of this writing details of the votes in the balance of Chateauguay County and the County of Beauharnois were not available. However, Leo Beaudin informed us that equally gratifying results were obtained in these two counties.

In connection with the campaign Leon Beaudin said: "We wish to thank the Mayors and Councillors of the Municipalities of Huntingdon County, likewise all those who assisted by canvassing those who did not or could not conveniently attend the meetings.

"Our only regret is that a few of those who would doubtless have signed were not at home when the canvassers called at their farms. Also that a few of the others were inadvertently overlooked during that canvas. However, the deadline was April 30, which left us little time for a 100 per cent check".

Grass Silage

The objective of "New Holland Grassland News" is essentially to advertise the products of that Machine and Implement Company. However, while most of the editorial material is linked up with products of New Holland Machine Company, that material is otherwise mostly very interesting indeed, often full of sound advice.

"Move Your Pastures"

For instance the article, "Move Your Pastures Indoors", in the copy Grassland News which recently came to hand is concerned with Grass Silage. That article reads, in part:

"High quality grass silage—properly preserved—gives you almost as much feeding value as pasture itself. In fact, more and more farmers are capturing 90% or more of the raw nutrients by preserving their grass as silage.

"Farmers with well-planned pasture and roughage programmes usual have an abundance of grass and legumes in late spring—more than normal grazing can remove. By ensiling this lush first growth, they not only assure an adequate feed supply for emergencies but actually improve their chances for more and better hay.

"For one thing, you can cut earlier when you ensile. This gives you more second-cutting hay—lengthens the hay harvesting season—and lets you make maximum use of forage at its peak value.

"In addition, grasses tend to have more weeds in the spring, and silage makes the best use of this weedy forage".

Making Grass Silage

"How to Make Grass Silage" is the title of another of the items refered to. It says, in part:

"Harvesting your crop fast while it's at the right stage of maturity not only gives you a better silage but makes you independent of the weather. For most grasses, a short chopping length is usually best, since a fine cut packs and cures better in the silo. In moist crop, you can increase this chopping length a bit.

"After chopping, grass should feel cool and moist. It should make your hand slightly wet, but should not drip.

"If you add preservative", says the article, "you can sprinkle it over the load or mix it in as crop enters the blower. Either way gives better moisture control and reduced spoilage. Additive like molasses even boosts feeding value of the silage.

"However many farmers prefer to put up wilted silage. In that case, they often don't use preservative. To make silage this way, mow and rake as you do to make hay. When windrows are down to desired moisture level, move in with your silage harvester, using a windrow attachment instead of a sickle bar."

Another interesting item of advice reads: "Proper packing reduces spoilage. For Bunker Silos use a tractor. Pack each load. Then go over it again for half an hour in the morning before the first load and in the evening after the last load—until the silo is filled. An airtight cover will cut down spoilage."

When to Cut

"Grasses and small grains: Cut after the heads emerge before they bloom.

"Alfalfa: Cut from one-tenth to one-fourth bloom.

"Red Clover and Alsike Clover: Cut at half bloom.

"Soybeans and Lespedeza: Cut when first seed pods fill".

DUNDEE — Mr. C. M. MacRae and daughter Elizabeth, Montreal West, visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Trueman and daughter Gail last Sunday.

Gloomy Outlook Given For Success Of Summit Conference

The western Big Three reluctantly have agreed that their Moscow ambassadors will continue separate consultations with Russia's Foreign Minister Gromyko in preparation for a summit conference.

Britain, the United States and France said in a note to Moscow they still had not modified their view that more rapid progress could be made in joint talks. The west gave in, however, "because it desires to get on with the basic task" of organizing for the summit talks, the note said.

Russia on April 26 had rejected a demand for joint talks and said that if the west persisted in this, Poland and Chechoslovakia should also take part to equalize representation in preliminary negotiations. Britain, France and the U.S. are opposed to any such enlargement because it would set a precedent for future dealings.

The western note said the three nations will be ready, after discussing the agenda for a summit conference, to take up the question of the date and site of a conference of foreign ministers, which would be an intermediate step toward the summit talks.

Gloomy Outlook

At the United Nations in New York, the gloom and apprehension caused by Russia's veto of the Arctic inspection plan was accompanied by speculation over what made the Soviet Union worsen the disarmament deadlock.

Moscow's refusal to allow the United Nations to set up an international commission of countries with Arctic territories to implement a program of mutual surveillance in the Polar regions led to belief that Russia indeed has something to hide in her northern Siberian wastelands.

It is generally conceded that the Russians have little to learn about North American defences in Alaska and Canada's northern territories. Hence their rejection of the American "open skies" offer.

Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief American delegate to the UN, said after the security council meeting had put at least a temporary end to any more UN disarmament discussion, that "it looks to me now, speaking personally, as though the Soviet Union had deliberately knocked the summit conference on the head."

State Secretary Dulles, in a speech a few hours after Russia's negative vote, made no direct reference to summit prospects, although he called the general picture "frightening".

Canada's External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith said in London that it might be a good idea if limited goals were set, since there was no real prospect of any major general agreement even if the summit talks are held.

A series of such conferences each narrowed to a specific issue, offered the best hope, said the Canadian foreign minister, who was en route to this week's NATO conference at Copenhagen.

State Secretary Dulles also was en route to Copenhagen, and was expected to seek at the NATO parley fresh support for President Eisenhower's Arctic inspection plan despite Russian veto in the UN council. "We remain willing to join in any dependable arrangement which will reduce the risk of surprise or accidental attack or, on a fair basis, reduce armaments," he said.

"At the choice of the Soviet Union the fears and the risks continue," Mr. Dulles declared before boarding his plane at an air force base at Portsmouth, N.H.

"They continue for one reason alone, and that is because the Soviet Union rejects international inspection against surprise attack. The significance of that is frightening..."

Princess Margaret

Princess Margaret arrived in Belize in the Central American colony of British Honduras to a welcome spelled out by 5,000 school children.

The Princess flew from Georgetown, British Guiana, with a brief stopover at Jamaica. Her airliner was accompanied by two RAF Canberra jet bombers. Officials said earlier that the presence of the jets "was not a security measure, but part of the arrangements for the royal visit."

Desert Rescue

In Aden, a British-led native force rescued a besieged garrison in an action straight from the pages of the past. Turbaned troops battled for more than 12 hours under heavy gunfire to relieve Fort Assarir and rescue Fitzroy Somerset, a British official, and loyal troops. The fort, near the Yemen border, is in the heart of an area where tribesmen with Communist arms are trying to wrest control of the Aden protectorate from Britain.

Sea Tragedy

A relief committee has been set up at Mulgrave, N.S., to aid the families of seven men who lost their lives when the trawler Sheila Patricia caught fire last week on her way to the fishing banks.

Bodies of four of the men were still missing. Three others who escaped in a dory died of exposure. The dory with its grim cargo was picked up by a sister ship, the Acadia Fisher. The missing four, including Capt. Uriah Hillier, 38, were thrown into the water and swept away when the lifeboat tipped as it was launched.

Six others, including first mate Max Dodge, stuck with the flaming trawler and were rescued after 17 desperate hours by the Newfoundland coastal ship Zebrula. The survivors, who had fashioned a raft, said they could have lasted only one more hour aboard the ill-fated Patricia.

Death in Arctic

A story of death from starvation and cold came down from the Arctic last week. Doug Wilkinson, a northern service officer, flew to the Gary Lake area 530 miles northwest of Churchill, Man., and found that eight Eskimos had died of starvation. A ninth Eskimo, caretaker of a government food warehouse which had been destroyed by fire, was found frozen to death.

Relief supplies were flown to the nomadic hunters who inhabit the bleak territory bordering on the Arctic Circle.

Dundee

DUNDEE — The monthly meeting of Zion Church W.A. was held last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Van Goudoever. The meeting opened with the worship service conducted by Mrs. Grace Fleming. She used the theme Forgiveness from the booklet Topics for Worship. The hymns "All the Way my Saviour Leads Me" and "Son of My Soul" were sung. Guest speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Grace Gleason of Fort Covington, N.Y., who spoke on hands. She showed pictures of different hands — one was a child's hand clasped in its parent's hand, which showed the trust a child places in its parent. Another child's hand was in that of its grandfather who had a Bible, thus typifying faith. A wife's hand was clasped in that of her husband to exemplify married happiness. Another picture had rugged hands used in work or play. Mrs. Gleason also spoke about the hands of the evangelists and those of the stewards. The prophet says "it is more blessed to give than to receive" and it still holds good today. There are many things for our hands to do. God has no hands or feet but ours to do His work. Let us be careful of prejudice for this can often be laid at the feet of parents. Children play happily with others often not noticing or caring if someone is poor or rich, colored or white. Our eyes are said to be the windows to our soul but our hands are the doors. Let us be careful how we use them. Mrs. Jos. Platt donated some hand-made lace for pillow slips and Mrs. Thos. Stowell donated all the prizes for the last crokinole party. Mrs. Stowell had purchased several pieces of apron material and that she gave out to different workers. Notes of appreciation were read from the Fraser Family and from Mrs. Wm. McNicol. A delicious supper was served by the hostess, Mrs. Lee Van Goudoever.

Mr. Brodie Gardiner is still a patient in the Huntingdon County Hospital, but is recovering nicely from the serious burns which he received in a flash fire near his home over a week ago.

Obituary

The Late James Lester Smallman

Mr. James Lester Smallman, former resident of Fort Covington, who spent last year at his summer home at Cedar Point, passed away at his residence in New Haven, Conn., on April 27. Mr. Smallman, who was 70 years of age, had been about as usual the previous day, but was found dead in bed apparently from natural causes.

The body was brought to Fort Covington and funeral services were held from the Cosgrove Funeral Parlors to St. Paul's Anglican Church in the Fort at 2.30 p.m. on Thursday, May 1. The Rev. W. W. White, vicar of the church, officiated. Burial was in Elmwood Cemetery. Mr. Smallman, who is a relative of the Smallman family in Dundee, was born in Fort Covington on March 23, 1888, a son of the late Captain Alexander Smallman and his wife Mary Mills. He lived in New Haven from 1923 to 1931 and returned there later to spend the remainder of his life in that city in 1942. His wife, the former Christena Bashaw, died on June 1, 1953. A daughter Evelyn, Mrs. Boyce, died in 1956. He leaves one son James of Fort Covington; one brother Allan also of the Fort; seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

His father was a noted boat captain in the era when steamboats operated to Dundee Lines, Cornwall, Valleyfield and other points. Railroads were said to be responsible for the loss of trade to the river freighters.

The Week In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis has appointed to the provincial cabinet two members of his Union Nationale Party long regarded as "coming young men" in his powerful political organization.

Daniel Johnson, 43-year-old Montreal lawyer, and Jean-Jacques Bertrand, 41, lawyer from Sweetsburg, were sworn in respectively as hydraulic resources and lands and forests ministers.

They succeed Hon. John Bourque who held the two portfolios in addition to the finance portfolio. Mr. Bourque, appointed acting Finance Minister early in the year, was sworn in as finance Minister.

Mr. Johnson, first elected to the Legislative Assembly in 1946 in Bagot Riding, becomes the first minister to preside over hydraulic resources exclusively. Mr. Bertrand, first elected in 1948 as member for Missiquoi, becomes the youngest man in the cabinet.

Jean Lesage, Minister of Northern Affairs and Natural Resources in the former federal liberal administration, announced this week he will be a candidate at the leadership convention of the Quebec Liberal Party here May 30-31.

The 45-year-old Quebec City lawyer called upon youthful elements of the party and all opposition groups to get behind him to achieve the Liberal Party's first aim. That aim, he said, is to "overthrow of a dictatorship" and the return of freedom both in the Legislature and in the Provincial Government Administration.

Mr. Lesage said he will decide later whether he will give up his Ottawa seat. It is thought he will hold it until the next party leader is chosen.

The decision of Mr. Lesage brings the official candidate count to four. The three others are Rene Hamel, provincial member for St. Maurice, Paul Gerin-Lajoie, a Montreal lawyer, and Dr. Aime Fauteux, Montreal dentist who is brother of former Quebec Lieutenant - Governor Gaspard Fauteux.

Georges Lapalme, former leader of the party, said he will not support any particular candidate.

The 51-year-old Montreal lawyer announced his resignation as Party Leader last week. He said at a press conference he would have resigned even if Jean Lesage had not entered the leadership race.

Three university of Montreal students, refused an interview with Premier Duplessis for the 37th time Thursday, announced they are suspending their "siege" at the Quebec Legislature buildings to take their university examinations and to seek summer employment.

As they departed they said they will be back at Mr. Duplessis' office door in September.

In Memoriam

ARTHUR — In loving memory of Mother, Georgina M., who passed away May 8th., 1953 and Dad, Robert A., who passed away August 23rd, 1941 —

"We wish that we could speak awhile
Just with you today.
To see you as you used to be
And hear the things you'd say.
But since we cannot be with you
We'll do the next best thing.
We'll spend the day with you in heart
Just remembering."
Sadly missed by,

Janet, Donald and Roberta.

HENRY — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, John G. Henry, who passed away May 9, 1957 —

"He is gone but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In our lonely hearts of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near,
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they litte know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed".
Ever remembered by,

His Wife Eva and Son Lorne.

MacPHERSON — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Eva, who passed away May 7th, 1957 —

"One year ago, we had to part
With one we loved with all our heart.
A kindly smile, a heart of gold,
No better Mother this world did hold.
Her thoughts were all so full of us
She could never forget.
And so we think that where she is,
She must be watching yet.
As Angels keep their watch up there,
Please God, just let her know.
That we down here do not forget
We love and miss her so.—
She never failed to do her best,
Her heart was true and tender,
She tried so hard for those she loved
Then left us to remember.
Time has changed in many ways,
But one thing changes never
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together".
Ever remembred by,

The Family.

Sings Solo At Church Service

Mrs. F. H. Hunter had the pleasure of entertaining her daughter Mrs. Alex Sim, Manitick, Ont., her husband and three children over the week-end. At the Sunday morning service Master David Sim, who was awarded distinctive honors for his singing during the Music Festival at Ottawa, sang a solo that was very much enjoyed by the large congregation. Little David, with his outward mannerisms, reminded the older members of the congregation of his great grandfather, the late Richard Pringle. Well done David, and may you frequently return to Huntingdon and accord such pleasure to all here with your gifted voice.

Letter to the Editor

"Maplehurst"
R.R. No. 2
Howick, Quebec,
May 5th, 1958.

The Huntingdon Gleaner,
Huntingdon, P.Q.
Gentlemen:

In the Gleaner of April 30th, 1958, you had two articles, apparently from the same source both of which drew attention to an exceedingly pertinent situation.

One, "Bill of Rights the first step" important as to the future and the other "Agencies Socialize Farm Crops" important as an indication of present day trends.

Both articles are, to my mind, interrelated especially so as one points out the operation of the use of certain assumed Rights and the other, the putting into effect the enjoyment of those, so called, Rights.

The General Assembly of the United Nations made a "Declaration" of Human Rights, which "Declaration" was ratified and adopted by the then Government of Canada. This "Declaration" specified as a "Right" certain things which were, and properly could only be deemed, desires, because the putting into effect of some of them, especially without a full definition of what the phrases meant, could, quite properly, be interpreted to mean something different according to the point of view of the individual. For example "An adequate Standard of Living". What to me might be quite adequate, could by another be deemed entirely inadequate, and, by a third individual much more than adequate. The same with "Social Security", what might be security for me could be starvation for another, unless the items which go into the Security hand out differed with each individual involved. An adequate Standard, Social Security, Holidays with pay are nice to contemplate but their acquisition is a matter for the individual himself, provided, and this proviso is, to me, one major Right, and that is the Right to have work which will bring to him, if he satisfactorily performs his allotted task, sufficient return that he will, by the exercise of common sense living, be able to live adequately, provide for his old-age and be able to afford each year a holiday compatible to his situation in life.

Undoubtedly, a man has a right to dispose of his own as to him seems fitting. A farmer has the right to sell his produce himself to individual customers, he has the right to pool his product with others and sell cooperatively and at such a price as he, as an individual can get, or, as an organization, can enforce but I do not think he has a Right to force others to do the same as he is doing, as seems to be in question in the Article on Socializing of Farm products.

This process is quite common throughout our daily life, Unions of all sorts seek to make it compulsory. We have the "Closed Shop" Pilotage Associations etc., etc.

These Associations have come into existence by the willing acquiescence of people in all walks of life, believing it to be for their ultimate welfare. Possibly it is, but it certainly requires others to unwillingly cooperate. Just where lies my Rights as an individual?

To bring forward a Bill of Rights which does, adequately protect the individual from exploitation by others for their private gain, is a very complex affair indeed. Such a Bill of Rights must not be put into force by appropriate Legislation until those Rights have been so well defined that there can be no misapprehension in regard to them.

Neither is it something which our present Government, any more than the previous Government, can without very close study, by experts, be competent to enact.

Those elected as Members of Parliament, simply because they were elected to that office and, presumably represent the majority of the Electorate (in point of fact they don't), do not "ipso-facto" become possessed of knowledge and ability greater than that of their fellows.

It certainly appears to the average man that Governments, when in power, have a different point of view than when they were in Opposition and that that point of view is coloured largely by what the Electors will think. The Declaration of the General Assembly of the United Nations, naturally, appealed to the ordinary citizen; to put it in force, or to adopt it as a focus point for subsequent Legislation, certainly was not considered as harmful in future elections. This is, perhaps, why so little discussion arose around it.

The present Government also seems to be paying more regard to the apparent desires of the average man than they are to the Rights of certain individuals.

Take the case of the Railroads and the Telephone Company.

They had been granted an increase in Rates by the Board of Transport Commissioners. This Board is a body instituted to protect the Rights of Public Utilities, coming under Federal jurisdiction, and the persons using those Utilities. The Board is a body of expert opinion, expert because of their ability to obtain expert advice and expert because of the plurality of cases which have come before them for study. The last Railroad and Telephone case is by no means the only case which has been brought to them.

The Board heard evidence and representation from all and sundry, Pro and Con, expert and otherwise and the findings of the Board were such and so. They granted some measure of relief.

My point is that a Board of experts, apointed by the Government for the purpose of protecting the General Public from exploitation by soul-less Corporations, did, after a full investigation, hearing from all shades of opinion, a certain ruling. The Cabinet of the present Government, because of representation made to it by a certain section of the Country, reversed that ruling and so, making if of non effect, implied that the Board of Experts were incompetent and that the Cabinet, composed of men who, until a few short weeks ago, were not even in Parliament, were quite competent to correct experts. Does this action of the present Government appear to be in the best interest of the Country as a whole or was it a case of the Rights of certain individuals being sacrificed because of the many who requested the sacrifice. A plurality of Voters possibly.

How does this action of the Government affect my Rights as an individual?, does it affect my Rights? Can such action on the part of a Government adversely affect my Rights? The Board of Transport Commissioners is a Legal Tribunal with the force of the Government behind it, having power, on you or me, to enforce its will. (unless the Cabinet interferes). A Judge has the same power. A Judge sentences me to Life imprisonment for some crime; the Cabinet reverses that decision or judgment, lets me go free and awards me a pension. How would that affect the Rights of a Citizen. Far fetched and Absurd? Oh no; The way we are heading unless we as Individuals do a lot of thinking and translate that thinking into action, anything can happen. It has in some countries. Oh but it can't happen here in Canada. It can, it has; Governments have overridden the will of the people Surely it is a Basic Right of the Individual that they cannot be put in prison without a fair trial. Does that always happen? Have you not heard of a Law which permits a man to be Jailed without trial?

The Cabinet reversed the judgment of the Board of Transport Commissioners because of the Charge made against deferred Taxes.

Business is permitted to-day to deduct from earnings a certain sum to be put aside in case of an increase in Corporation Tax so that if Corporation Taxes were substantially increased the Corporation would have a backlog of earnings to take care of that increase.

In effect it is a Reserve the same as a Reserve for Depreciation etc. It seems reasonable that during reasonably prosperous times provision should be made against times of adversity. The Cabinet said NO you must not charge people for something out of which they get no benefit.

What about our National Debt. Much of the debt was to pay for services particularly and peculiarly applicable to the early settlers in this country. It was for something for which neither you or I did reap any particular benefit. If I should not pay for anything for which I, as an individual, get no benefit then my Taxes should be reduced considerably.

Such a contention is however absurd and has no place in our present complex system of life, but it is something which must be taken into consideration when a "Bill of Rights" is being drawn up if that "Bill of Rights" is to mean anything to me and not just a Bill over which Lawyers may fight day in and day out for ever and a day.

STOP, THINK AND Demand the Experts, real experts be called to act.

Unemployment This Area Shows Improvement

According to figures supplied The Gleaner by the Valleyfield Office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, unemployment has declined since the beginning of April. This is a cheering piece of information as it would tend to show that the situation had much to do with seasonal conditions which are peculiar to this country.

The Valleyfield Office paid out $822,609.05 in unemployment benefits during the months of January, February and March of this year, as compared to $462,751.35 in the same period of 1957. Almost double the amount.

At the beginning of April of this year there were 3,747 persons looking for work in the area supplied by the Valleyfield Office. At the end of the month this had been reduced to 2,500 persons. Most of these received unemployment insurance benefits.

It would thus seem that there has been a big improvement in the past few weeks.

Dundee

DUNDEE — A stag party for John Latreille of Cazaville was held in the Community Hall, Dundee, on Friday evening, May 2. About 90 young men from Cazaville and vicinity took part in what in French parlance is called "interment de la vie de le garçon" and by all accounts the event was a very realistic one. These affairs, which to some rather squeamish folks may seem rather gruesome, call for the guest of honor of the evening to be taken to the party with a rope tied around his neck and riding in an open truck with a gallows frame erected on the platform. With John it wasn't any different.

About 7 p.m. a car carrying black flags was seen driving around, evidently waiting to pick up the victim of the evening's merriment but in this case their quarry was in Cornwall, where he is presently employed as a construction worker. Some of his friends found it necessary to cross over to the Ontario city and bring him back in a car to the Canadian border, where he was loaded into the waiting truck and made the last few miles to the meeting place lying in a rude coffin with the rope properly attached.

To make up for their hazing Mr. Latreille's friends presented him with a purse of $75.00 and everyone enjoyed refreshments and had a general good time. The coming bridegroom is being married on May 24th to Miss Rachael Lalonde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lalonde of York Street in Huntingdon. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Latreille of Cazaville.

An Oily Parallel

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

Byron, in his satirical poem Don Juan, has a couplet which runs:

"In virtue nothing earthly could surpass her,
Save thine incomparable oil, Macassar!"

For the information of the younger generation it should be explained that Macassar Oil was popularly used by young sparks in Byron's day as a hair-oil. It not only gave an attractive gloss to the bushy hair worn by the mashers in those days, it also had a subtle aroma which was alluring at close quarters to the fair sex. But later, to that same sex, as housewives, it became a nuisance and they made antimacassars to protect their furniture from the greasy smudge.

Even in these days the teenaged and later beaux are plastering their shaggy hair and sideburns with some sort of thick pomade, a la Elvis Presley. One of the virtues attributed to macassar oil was that it promoted growth of the hair. But that is very doubtful, for it resulted in crops of bald heads among our grandfathers, while their whiskers, on which they used nothing but soap and water, grew profusely to the end of their days. My theory, as an old fellow who has kept his top hair on, is that hair is a vegetable and needs frequent watering at the roots.

But all that is a digression from what I had intended to write about. My only excuse is that I was led astray by Byron in his reference to the ladies or to a certain lady with whom he compared "thine incomparable oil, Macassar." If the poet were writing today he would have an excellent subject for satire in the present situation in the Middle East, where the rulers of the various Arab countries are considering the question of forming a united Arabian Empire under the incomparable dictator Nasser. And, appropriately enough, oil is the principal commodity at stake in the creation of an Arabian Empire in the Middle East. It isn't hair-oil this time, but a far more valuable and widely-used lubricant and fuel combined, which is largely applied to airplanes, so that there is at least a phonetic similarity between air and hair, Nasser and Macassar.

There is an abundance of oil in the Middle East, and while it has been freely flowing into the western world markets, the Arab states have been peacefully prosperous. To preserve that condition, all they need now is an effective anti-MacNasser.

Seminar Held

obtained in this manner short of actually living in the area. It is practical in every way. The speakers are all men of special knowledge in the field on which they spoke and come from various parts of Canada and the U.S.A. and a wide field of Quebec. Rev. John Peacock, is from Cowansville and deals with Rural Sociology; Rev. Leonard Hatfield is from Toronto and is general secretary of the Council of Social Service of the Anglican Church of Canada; Doctor Paul Parrot, is in charge of Demography for the Dept. of Health, for the Province of Quebec, at Quebec City; Mr. Cyril Dendy is Executive Commissioner of the Quebec Boy Scouts Association; Major Lionel Lafrance, is Regional Director of Family Allowances for the Province of Quebec, Sillery, Que.; Mr. J. M. Bouchard, of Quebec, Secretary and Legal Advisor to the Quebec Social Allowances Commission; Rev. Wm. Davidson, of New York, U.S.A.; Prof. H. Avison, Macdonald College; Mr. Leslie Young, Secretary of the Quebec Farm Radio Forum; Archdeacon J. F. Morris, Montreal; Rev. Khairur Din, Priest of the Diocese of Lahore, Pakistan; Rev. W. E. Soule, Seymoor, Conn., U.S.A.; Rev. C. Samuelson, New York, U.S.A.; Rev. R. G. Elliott, Chairman of the Montreal Rural Life and Work Committee and Dean of Seminar, Shawville, Que.; Rev. W. J. White, past Chairman of the Rural Life and Work Committee and Chaplain of the Seminar. Bedford, Que.; Rev. Malcolm Westin, Rector of the Seminar and of the Parish of St. James Church, Ormstown, at which the seminar was held. Others taking part were Dr. G. L. Sutton, and Mr. Eric King, who are both well known to the people of Ormstown and surrounding district.

On Friday evening, a community party was held to which the people of Ormstown were invited and took part. This provided a social part of the proceedings and enabled the students and others to meet with the people of Ormstown and other parts of the district.

Each day started off with a lecture in Rural Sociology at 9.15 a.m. The morning sessions ended at 12.30 and the afternoon sessions resumed at 2 p.m. Most evening sesions resumed at 7.30 and the closing luncheon was held today (Wednesday) at 12.30 noon. The students were all deeply intrested in the various talks and given an opportunity during and after each talk to ask questions. Some of the questions asked taxed the ability of the speaker, but provided good material to work upon in the interests for which the seminar was intended. There was a free and easy atmosphere which tended to keep the participants relaxed, but alert. This atmosphere helped in holding interest in the matters presented and everyone entered into the spirit of the occasion without any tension which so often prevails at such gatherings. Each speaker gave out much worthwhile information that was both helpful to the students and a revelation to some of the committee officials and others.

It would seem that these seminars are a genuine and worthwhile effort to train students to take a deep interest in the work they will be called upon to do when they eventually take over charges following their ordination into the Anglican Ministry. The students appeared to be enjoying every moment of it, even though actually it was a time of deep concentration and study.

GRATEFUL ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Mr. John Alexander of Dykebar, Covey Hill, and his family wish to sincerely thank Dr. M. R. Stalker and Dr. Andrew Kelen, for their skilful endeavours, their assistance, the nursing staff and attendants, David Hyde, the chef and kitchen staff of the Barrie Memorial Hospital, Ormstown, for their tender and devoted care during his recent illness. God with their help have brought about his recovery and we are deeply grateful.

"You mean to say— just 3-a-day may send backache away!"

Sounds good! Logical, too! You see the normal job of the kidneys is to remove excess wastes and acids —so often the cause of backache—from the system. Dodd's Kidney Pills stimulate the kidneys in this function and so may bring you that welcome relief from backache they have many others. Try just 3-a-day. You can depend on Dodd's — in the blue box with the red band. 64

Mr. Raeburn Orr acted as best man for his brother, the ushers being Mr. Wm. Summerfield and Mr. Eldon Orr.

Mrs. Orr, mother of the bridegroom, wore a grown of tropical blue crepe and chantilly lace with a black hat. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Following the reception held in Riverfield Church Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Orr left via plane for Mexico City, the bride travelling in a dress of light blue wool with matching accessories, and carrying a coral wool coat. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Orr will take up residence in Ormstown.
