Quebec Government to go to People After Fall Session

Abolition of Provincial Sales Tax Will be Under Consideration When Legislature Meets

Decision to hold a fall session of the Quebec legislature, commencing either in October or November, has been taken by the Godbout government, according to usually reliable information.

Following this session, the fifth in the life of the present legislature, there will be provincial general elections during the winter, almost immediately after prorogation.

An important conference of heads of the provincial Liberal party was held recently to discuss some problems which are pressing upon the government.

There are seven vacant electoral divisions at the present time, and the choice for the Godbout government is either to hold a series of by-elections, or hold general elections, and the opinion favors general elections. The general elections come in their natural course later on in 1944, since the five year term of the present legislature would terminate in any event in 1944.

The situation is felt to be subject to different considerations than those which would influence a federal government conducting a great war, for provincial governments are not directly concerned with the conduct of the war. The feeling which existed early in the war, that there should be no politics in wartime, has been dissipated long since, the final blow to that idea being the general elections in Ontario, where no such cry was raised. Prince Edward Island is also to hold general elections in a short time.

The Quebec session to be called for October or November—the date is not definite yet—will be for the purpose of clearing up general Government matters. For one thing it is said, the provincial sales tax will be abolished, serious though the loss of 12 millions of revenue will be. But it is pointed out that this tax was put into effect in 1940 as a temporary measure to rehabilitate the finances of the province, following the very severe strain which they suffered during the depression years from 1930 to 1940.

There are other matters which are said to be in line for settlement, notably the restrictions on the sale of beer, and possibly also as regards the sale of spirits.

The Godbout government was not directly responsible for this drastic decision to interfere with the social habits of the people, but it has been quite clear since it was taken that they are being equally blamed with Ottawa. On this question, of course, the Godbout government can do nothing without Ottawa taking the necessary action.

There are other matters which the Quebec legislature can deal with, even without federal co-operation. One of these is the matter of rural teachers' salaries. It had been expected in the course of last session of the legislation that there would be legislation to raise the present minimum of $400 to $500, but for some reason or another the legislation was not forthcoming. The opportunity to present it will come at the fall session.

These, it is pointed out, are the main steps to be taken by the Godbout government in order to meet the people at a general election early in 1944.

Liberals Will Meet in Convention at Ottawa, Sept. 27

Hon. Norman McLarty, acting president of the National Liberal Federation, in a statement Friday night announcing a meeting of the federation in Ottawa September 27 said "the political activities of the parties opposed to the administration have made increasingly apparent the necessity of presenting the government's policies in their true light."

Mr. McLarty said a meeting of government supporters in parliament will be held at Ottawa September 24.

The meeting of the National Liberal Federation will be open to the public as well as to members of parliament, it was learned on Friday.

"No meeting of the National Liberal Federation has been held since war began, and because of the war the Liberal party has maintained no political organization since the general election of March, 1940," Mr. McLarty said.

"Other political parties have, for two years or more, been most active in the promotion of party interests. Since the Winnipeg convention, the Progressive Conservative party has built up an elaborate political organization. The new leader of the party, John Bracken has given his full time to party organization throughout the country, and has left the leadership of the official opposition in the House of Commons to one of his lieutenants. (Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader.)

"The political and organizational activity of the C.C.F. has been steadily intensified since early in the war . . . the political activities of the parties opposed to the administration have made increasingly apparent the necessity of presenting the government's policies in their true light.

"It is to consider the present position of the Liberal party from the point of view of organization and education that its supporters in Parliament and in the National Liberal Federation will be called together at the dates indicated."

Appeal to be Made For Salvation Army

Drive to Commence Sept. 27—End Oct. 11

Morale is a lot of little things . . . mail from home when you're a thousand miles away . . . the memory of a pleasant leave for a serviceman . . . the knowledge that "home" will always be there, when his job is done . . . and a thousand other things.

For the boys at the Front, morale means that folks back home are bending every effort to make his job easier for him; to send him what he needs to keep out the cold and to cheer him up. Morale means the knowledge that his family is safe and happy.

What about the father of a motherless child, who hears the call to arms? He is torn between his devotion to his child, and his loyalty to his country. What about the veteran of the last war who is still young enough for active service now? He is loathe to leave his aging mother and dad because they depend on him to provide the necessities of life. What about the woman war worker whose husband has made the supreme sacrifice to keep his country free? She wants to do a job of work, but has no place for her children to stay.

These are but a few of the needy who find their answer in The Salvation Army. The Army mothers the motherless child, giving her a home and friendly, loving care; The Army provides haven for the aging father and mother of a warrior son, whose reply to his country's need has been whole-hearted and instantaneous because of the help he has received; The Army gives back to the widowed mother the right to do her share in the country's war effort, by opening its doors to her children; by looking after their spiritual and physical growth while she reaches top production figures on the assembly line.

The soldier, who bids farewell to his new wife at the station, knows that even though he won't be on hand for the important event, his child will be born in the pleasant surroundings and secure atmosphere of a Salvation Army Hospital.

Morale is a lot of little things, that in the end add up to life itself.

The Home Front Appeal of The Salvation Army is reaching out to Canadians from coast to coast, asking them to make their response a generous one. By making a contribution, you are adding one more stone to the pillar of confidence and courage which every boy away from home carries in his heart. You are helping to care for his loved ones back home.

A drive for funds to carry on the work of the Salvation Army will be made in the Huntingdon district during the period from September 27th to October 11th and an organization to canvass the district will be set up shortly. Further particulars of this will be announced later.

In the last drive the quota set for this district was exceeded by a considerable amount and it is hoped that the people will be as generous when they are asked to contribute in the forthcoming drive.

REPORTED MISSING—NOW SAFE AND WELL

Good news has been received from Squadron Leader W. G. Conrad by his parents, Rev. W. W. and Mrs. Conrad of Richmond, Ont., that he is safe and well. A cable was received from the British Vice-Consul telling that he had arrived in a neutral country, is safe and well, and awaiting return to England. Sq. Ldr. Conrad was recently reported missing. He is a brother of Mrs. W. R. Ross of Huntingdon.

Farmers Urged To Buy Oats

Farmers in Eastern Canada may have been finding it difficult recently to obtain western barley. Offerings to date have not always been equal to the demand. Oats, however, are much more readily available, Fred W. Presant, Feeds Administrator, states, and Eastern farmers are urged to buy oats now and to take full advantage of existing transportation facilities. If this is done a more continuous flow of feed grain to Eastern Canada will be maintained, said Mr. Presant.

Farmers buying feed grains for storage on their farms are entitled to the subsidy of 2½ cents per bushel in August; 2 cents in September; 1½ cents in October, one cent in November and half a cent in December.

$1515.15 For Smokes From Carnival

Photographs of Soldiers Still Uncalled For

Thursday evening Mrs. W. D. Shanks presided at the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, in the absence of the president, Mrs. H. R. Clouston.

Mr. C. Oney and Mr. W. K. Pope were present, bringing a cheque from the Finance Committee of the Carnival. Mr. Pope's report showed a clear profit of $1515.15 after all expenses of the Carnival had been paid. There is still $35.00 in prize money to be turned into War Saving Certificates, if the prize winners wish to claim them. All Committees formed in connection with the Carnival were dissolved. Mrs. Shanks expressed the thanks of the Ladies' Auxiliary to both Mr. Oney and Mr. Pope for the large part they had in making the Carnival a financial success.

Mrs. J. W. McGill, 29 Henderson St., Huntingdon, reports that there were 187 photographs of soldiers and War Veterans on display in the windows of the Shawinigan Water and Power Co. at the time of the Carnival. Some of these photographs have not been called for and Mrs. McGill would like to remind the owners that these pictures may be had by calling at her home.

It was reported that there is a shortage of ash trays at the Military Hospital. All members of the Auxiliary are requested to make the gift of one ashtray each. These may be left with Mrs. A. H. Dawson.

A letter was read from Cpl. Allen D. Taylor, in which he described the opening of a Soldier's Club, by the Canadian Legion, which he visits often. This Club has a snack bar where waffles and syrup, Canadian Chocolate, and many other treats, dear to the hearts of Canadians may be obtained. Allen also mentioned the pleasures of out-door dancing and that garden dances were often held in the district where he is stationed.

Letters were received from Lawrence Roy, G. Latreille, C. W. Sloan, A. M. Legault, and Daniel Elder.

Post Cards from Kenneth Griffith, Cpl. Dupuis, Jack Elder, Sigmn. A. Kazulak, A. Arthur, Stan. Currie, Spr. Wm. Feeny and Henri Asselin.

Huntingdon Convent Opens On Thursday

Temporary Class Rooms Established in St. Joseph's Parish Hall

The opening classes for the term 1943-44 will take place on Thursday, September 9th, at 9 a.m. Due to circumstances occasioned by the fire which razed to the ground the former Huntingdon Convent, the courses will be held in St. Joseph's Parish Hall, where temporary classrooms have been set up. The Sisters of the Congregation of Notre Dame are now established in the former residence of the Brothers, on Cemetery Street. All the usual courses will be taught as in the past, i.e. High School Course, French and English, Commercial, etc. With the opening of classes on Thursday, a great wish has been realized, that of keeping in Huntingdon the establishment of the Convent, for as said at the time of the disastrous fire, it would put the community back 50 years to suffer the loss of the Convent in Huntingdon. This gives local girls the opportunity to continue their instruction in their own town and also to prepare those desirous of continuing to higher studies elsewhere.

F.D.R. TOPS WINNIE AS FISHERMAN

Quebec.—It took a while to find out but the word is that Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt caught fish on their brief holiday—but Mr. Roosevelt caught most.

The lake where they cast their lines was identified tonight as Grand Lac de L'Epaule, in Laurentide Park about 40 miles north of here. They were accompanied by an official of the Quebec Government.

Lord Louis was taken to the historic sight to see where General Wolfe attacked the city by scaling the steep cliffs to the Plains of Abraham, the first commando attack in North American history. $870,000 Shown as Surplus By Quebec Government

Quotations Given Are For Fiscal Year Ending March 31st, 1943

For the financial year ending March 31, 1943, the Quebec Government showed a surplus of $870,000 after paying both current and capital expenditures, according to a statement issued by Premier Godbout at a press conference here today.

"In connection with the final figures for the financial year ended March 31, 1943," the statement says, "It may be of interest to note that once more the province of Quebec has completed its financial year by living within its means. It has again achieved the highly desirable result of operating under a budget balanced on an over-all basis."

The surplus amounts to about one percent. of the budget.

The statement continues:

"Included in the foregoing figures are payments to the sinking funds of the province for the redemption of its outstanding debt. During the year under review $7,130,000 were applied to that purpose

"In connection with the statement of the public debt, it may be observed that a number of items formerly classed as indirect debts have been assumed as direct obligations by the province. These include the debentures of technical and professional schools amounting to some $2,000,000, the assumption of the obligations of the Lake St. Louis Bridge Corporation amounting to about $3,000,000 and the classing, as a direct obligation of the province, of the borrowings effected some years ago for the benefit for the benefit of the Gentlemen of the Seminary of Saint Sulpice amounting to $4,000,000. As the money was in this case advanced by the banks on the credit of the province, it was felt that this should be represented by a special Treasury bill, thereby saving interest."

MUST PUNISH LEADERS BUT NOT PEOPLE

New York.—A Moscow broadcast reported by the United States Office of War Information quoted an article in the Soviet publication "War and the Working Classes" as holding that punishment must be meted out to Nazi leaders but not to the German people for war outrages. The broadcast, beamed to the United Kingdom in English, said the article was written by Professor A. Trainin.

Trouble For U-Boats

If, as reported, Hitler's U-boat crews are staging mutinies, this may be why. Picture shows a corner at National War Finance Committee headquarters in Ottawa as the completed tally sheets of the "Stamp out the U-Boats" campaign began to come in. This young woman is counting a small portion of the sheets covered with the names of Canadians who paid for depth charges by purchasing War Savings Stamps. Each tally sheet represents $90 worth of Stamps, which pays for a depth charge containing 350 pounds of TNT. The depth charges will go rolling along to Canadian ships whose crews will use them to blast the German submarines from the seas and strike terror into the Nazi raiders.

New Drug Brings Sleep to Soldiers Fatigued by Battle

The Toronto Daily Star in a news-page story said that with a comparatively new drug—sodium amytal—"soldiers who have reached the point through battle fatigue where they cannot sleep are given the drug and they sleep."

Sometimes, the paper added, the slumber lasts unbroken for a week or 10 days. At other times a 20-minute treatment is sufficient.

The paper added:

"The patients obtain complete physical and mental relaxation . . .

"In cases of so-called shell shock, or where an added psychological element is involved, they reveal their problem to the doctor in the complete truth. When the soldier awakens, the problem which has been preying on his mind is discussed and he is a good soldier again."

Cost of Living Increases

Higher Payment of Bonus Unless Prices Drop Before Nov. 15

Canada's official cost-of-living index moved upward during July for the sixth consecutive month and unless the trend is reversed between now and the beginning of October bonus payments to workers in most industries will have to be increased effective November 15.

Government action to reduce the cost of living, perhaps through extension of the existing subsidy policy, likely will be taken if prices do not drop of their own accord. High officials have said in the past that an increase of bonus payments would be the beginning of the end of price control.

From July 2 to August 2, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported, its cost-of-living index advanced from 118.8 to 119.2.

Cost-of-living bonus payments are based on this index. They are adjusted quarterly, with the next date for change November 15, on the basis of the index figure for the beginning of October.

Unless the index drops below 118.9, upward revision of bonus payments will be necessary.

The present figure of 119.2 is cost-of-living of 18.3 per cent. At that level the maximum bonus payable to Canadian workers would be $4.57½ a week compared with $4.25 at present.

Workers who now receive the minimum bonus of 60 cents a week or 2.4 per cent. of their weekly earnings depending on the wage category, would be paid 92½ cents or 3.7 per cent. of their earnings.

The increase in the index during July was the sixth month in a row in which the figure has gone up.

"The total rise for the period has been 2.3 points, with monthly advances ranging from 0.3 to 0.5 points," the Bureau of Statistics reported.

"The decline of 1.9 points occuring in January and February, 1943, has been offset in this advance with a small margin to spare, and the August, 1943, index is 1.3 points above the index for July 1942, upon which the last cost-of-living bonus was authorized."

Foods accounted for most of the increase at August 2, said the Bureau.

"The food index mounted from 131.8 for July to 133.2 for August. Eggs were sharply higher, and there were small scattered increases for beef, veal, lamb, onions, raisins and lemons.

"Clothing and home furnishings gained fractionally from 120.5 to 120.6 and 117.8 to 117.9 respectively.

"Other group indexes remained unchanged, fuel and lighting at 113.4, rentals at 111.5 and miscellaneous items at 108.2."

Last December the government announced a series of steps by which it was proposed, "by reduction of duties and taxes, and by outright subsidy," to reduce the retail cost of a number of foodstuffs of widespread consumption.

The action was taken, the minister said, to offset increases in living costs due to price rises in spite of the general ceiling control.

Coffee was reduced by four cents a pound, tea by 10 cents a pound, oranges by several cents a dozen, milk by about two cents a quart. There was some reduction, also, in the profit margins on beef.

There was no statement from the Prices Board as to possible action in the future but Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, has emphasized in a number of public addresses that any increase in existing cost-of-living bonuses would, by increasing labor costs, put an additional strain on the price ceiling and almost certainly result in an inflationary spiral.

Premier Godbout Congratulates Quebec Farmers

Premier Godbout has congratulated the Quebec farmers for the way "you are behaving during this war."

Addressing some 1500 farmers at an annual picnic in nearby Deschambault, Mr. Godbout said:

"I want to congratulate you, farmers of Quebec, for the way you are benaving during this war. You have remained calm and courageous. You have collaborated in the war effort.

"This Spring, despite bad weather conditions, a shortage of employment and a scarcity of implements, you have worked in a way to increase your agricultural production, in accordance to set objectives.

"I proudly proclaim that farmers of the Province of Quebec are performing an admirable effort in this war. I felicitate them."

Mr. Godbout, who also holds the portfolio of Agriculture, was accompanied by his deputy minister, Adrien Morin.

J. P. Lettre, secretary of the Society of Canadian Breeders, also addressed the gathering.

Impressive Service Held At Prince Arthur Square

Hon. Capt. L. E. Mason, Chaplain, C.A.(B.)T.C. No. 41, Conducts Drumhead Service For Members of Barracks and Civilians

On Sunday, a day of prayer was observed in Huntingdon, which started off with a Drumhead Service at Prince Arthur Square, conducted by Hon. Capt. L. E. Mason, Protestant Chaplain of Chateauguay Barracks.

The service was held at 9:30 in the morning and practically the entire personnel of the Barracks was present to take part in it. There were between 500 and 700 men and officers in the parade which formed in a square around the bandstand, which was used for a pulpit In addition, the Band under the leadership of Sgt. N. Mouland, led the parade, followed by Huntingdon Branch No. 81 of the Canadian Legion with the Standard Bearers. The members of the Canadian Legion formed up at the right of the Bandstand, the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Lagion No. 81, who attended in a body, formed to right of the Legion; while the Band formed at the left of the Bandstand, with the officers of Chateauguay Barracks standing immediately in front of the Bandstand. The Standards and the drums were placed immediately in front of the Bandstand.

Taking part in the service with Hon. Capt. Mason, were Rev. J. B. Maclean, D.D., minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Thos. Knowles, minister of the United Church. Specially typed hymn sheets were distributed among the soldiers and civilians making up the gathering and the service opened with the hymn "The Church's One Foundation." Rev. Maclean read the lesson, followed by Rev. Knowles with a prayer suitable for the occasion. Rev. Knowles asked for the safeguarding of the soldiers who were to do battle and that victory would come to the people of United Nations so that peace could once more reign in the world.

Several other hymns were sung and a responsive reading, when Hon. Capt. Mason gave his address. Capt. Mason pointed out the significance of the occasion, stating it was the wish of His Majesty King George VI, that services of prayer for victory and peace and thanksgiving for past victories be held at this fourth anniversary of the war. He told the gathering there was great need of prayer in this war and he pointed to way the great leaders of the United Nations included God in all their speeches throughout the war. He told of how the soldiers in the different campaigns, before going into battle, held a service and prayed. To illustrate this latter fact, he told of a soldier in the Sicilian campaign who wrote home to his sister and told her that he had prayed as he had never prayed before and hoped that those at home were also praying for their soldiers overseas.

It was a short, but impressive service that pressed home the need of religious co-operation both for the soldier and the civilian and the need for Christian belief and thanksgiving.

The number of civilians present was not large, but those present must have been deeply impressed. The band accompanied the singing of the hymns and led the parade to and from the place of meeting.

A system of loud speakers was set up which made it easy for all to hear the speakers and enjoy the service.

Special thanksgiving services were also held in the churches at the regular services throughout the day.

Parish Hall To Receive Blessing

Bishop of the Diocese Of Valleyfield to Confer Blessing

On Sunday, September 19th, St. Joseph's Parish Hall will be blessed by His Excellency Joseph Alfred Langlois, Bishop of the diocese of Valleyfield. He will come to Huntingdon on Sunday morning and will bless the Parish Hall just before the High Mass. His Excellency will also visit the different classes of the Huntingdon Convent which are established in the Hall, and will then proceed to the Church to attend the Sunday morning High Mass. His Excellency will return to Valleyfield in the afternoon.

The divisions for the classrooms have been made by means of partitions of beaverboard for temporary purposes. The heating system did not allow the partitions to reach the ceiling as this would not permit heat to circulate in the classrooms. The Hall will be used temporarily for at least two years, while awaiting further developments as to the schooling conditions. The classrooms are situated on the ground floor of the Hall, and the basement will be used as a recreation center for the children. The grounds have all been levelled and the outside of the building has been covered with imitation brick. A new sidewalk has been made leading to the Hall from York Street. Trees have been planted in front and back of the building which help make St. Joseph's Hall a spot of interest in the town.

Roast Chicken Supper.—

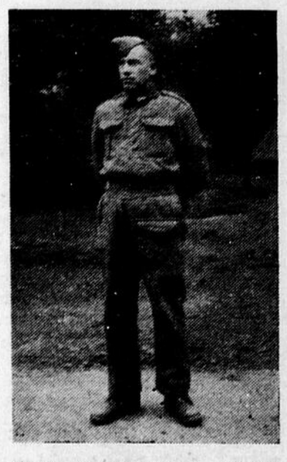

A Roast Chicken Supper will be held at the Hall, on Thursday, Sept. 23rd, from 5 to 8 o'clock in the evening. The Ladies of St. Anne are in charge of the supper and will be assisted by the Children of Mary.

Tickets are now on sale for the supper and may be obtained from the Ladies of St. Anne or the Children of Mary. Everybody welcome.

Huntingdon, Wed., Sept. 8th, 1943

Labor Relations and Strikes

DONALD GORDON, Chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Finance Minister, are warning the people of the country about the dangers of inflation if price ceilings are wrecked. Mr. Gordon in an address at the Warvention of Canadian Weekly Newspaper editors and publishers at Toronto recently warned of the danger of collapse of present controls if wages were increased. Mr. Ilsley, in a recent speech to the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada convention, warned those in attendance of the same evils if the wage ceiling is pierced.

Despite these warnings there are persistent strikes against so-called low wages and the inequality of the Cost-of-Living Bonus. The most recent threat is the proposed strike of the workers in Dominion Textile Plants and which includes the workers in the plant of The Montreal Cottons Ltd., at Valleyfield.

It would appear that the steady continuance of these strikes dates back to the Steel Workers' strike in which some concessions were made in the wage rates. The Montreal Tramways strike also had its influence in encouraging the workers to make demands. It would further seem that the Government's policy with regard to settlement of these disputes has been rather lax and has given leaway for the making of further demands regardless of the fact that strikes are declared illegal during war time.

In the case of The Montreal Cottons Ltd., Valleyfield, as per a circular letter published in the last issue of The Gleaner, it shows that the company granted three wage increases after the first of September 1939, one of 10% and two of 5% and in addition is paying a Cost-of-Living Bonus of $3.30 per week, which according to the letter makes a total of $6.45 per week over the 1939 figure. It points out that according to Government figures on the increase in the cost of living at 25c per point the company should only be paying $4.25 per week increase. Thus the company shows it is paying its employees $2.20 per week more than the Government records indicate it should.

The employees, however, are asking for a full payment of the Cost-of-Living Bonus, i.e., $4.25, and an increase of 10c per hour for every worker. Presuming that a 50-hour week is worked, this would mean an increase of $5. plus the difference in Cost-of-Living Bonus, $4.25 as against the $3.30 now being paid or a total increase per week of $5.95. In addition to this one week's holiday with pay is asked. Prior to the demand the company made a request to the War Labour Board and certain holidays with pay were granted. This year three days are being given with a bonus of 1% of yearly earnings, next year six days will be given with 2% of yearly earnings being paid.

At the present time a report from the War Labour Board is awaiting the attention of the Government. No one knows yet what this report recommends and even the members of the Government closely connected with the report assume they have no knowledge of its contents. Considering the numerous strikes of one kind and another and the importance of all classes of workers continuing in their jobs, the matter of this report should be of first importance. It is a matter of importance to every citizen of this company and to our government that the presentation of this report be facilitated. Within this report may lie the solution to a problem that is without doubt reaching alarming proportions.

Even the most uneducated economically, can visualize the dangers of inflation to a post war period should the controls now established, fail to function through the ceilings being wrecked. The Dept. of Labour, at Ottawa, has the power to act in all disputes and to bring about swift stoppage of all strikes under the War Measures Act and the regulations of the National Selective Service Act. This latter Act requires that seven days written notice be given either way before termination of employment can come about. It also requires that a permit be obtained to seek re-employment providing the National Selective Service grants the right to cease the previous employment. Under this part of the act alone, it would seem that penalties could be imposed on each and every striker that would make them wonder if a strike would be worth while.

President Roosevelt made no bones about the strike of the miners in the United States, and finally the miners had to agree to his terms.

There is probably much cause for disagreement on both sides of the fence, but it should be remembered that we are at war and we have not yet won the war. Controls are necessary in war time and such controls affect our way of living in a great measure. The cost of the war must be borne by the people in payment of taxes, in lending money to the Government and in contributions to various types of war funds. Here, again, we come to a bone of contention which cannot very well be avoided, that is the new income tax regulations and the deductions made on account of it from the pay envelopes of every worker. The more the worker earns, the greater amount of tax he pays, thus the greater the amount of deductions from his weekly pay envelope. But it must also be remembered that all that is deducted, is not all tax, some of this money will be returned to the taxpayer after the war with an interest of 2%. These amounts may well prove acceptable to many people when the war is over and more spending will be allowed.

Thus it should be recognized by the unions and the workers who are members of the unions, that they are only impeding their own recovery after the war, if they persist in striking for higher wage rates which may have the effect of breaking down present controls against inflation. If wages go up, other goods rise accordingly and so affect the cost of living in ratio. Some evidences of the increase in the cost of living have been seen in the case of fruits and vegetables over which there has been very little control due to its seasonal nature. If control was relaxed, the same state of chaos would result in all lines. There is one other way by which this can be met and that is to subsidize. Subsidies mean increased governmental expenditure and these in turn increase taxation, thus creating a greater load to be carried to the working man. Of the wage-earners of this country, 95% earn $2,500 or less and they are providing 80% of the income taxes being collected. It is easy to see from this just who would suffer most where further increases were to come.

As stated, the higher the amount earned, the greater the income tax deduction, thus overtime pay increases the earnings, and the deductions are thereby increased considerably. Such deductions cannot be blamed on the employer, these are part of the price that everyone is paying for the cost of the war. In other words it is the "Blood, Sweat and Tears" which Churchill said was all he had to offer until the war is won. We on the home front are not giving much in the way of blood, but there seems to be a place for the sweat and the tears, and this is little enough for us to call sacrifice.

Three World Spokesmen

DURING the past week three spokesmen prominent in international acclaim, have broadcast messages to the world relative to the war, and on the eve of the fifth year of its duration. Each one of the messages has had its bearing on the trend of the war both past, present and future, and each one has been paid rapt attention to by millions of persons all over the world.

President Roosevelt started the ball rolling with his address from under the arch of the Peace Tower, at Ottawa, on August 25th. Prime Minister Churchill followed on August 31st, with an address from Quebec City. Pope Pius XII concluded the round with an address from Rome, on September 1st.

President Roosevelt came fresh from a conference of United Nations officials, held in Quebec City, where further plans had been made for the conduct of the war against the Axis Powers. It was a momentous occasion for Canada, as it was the first time that President Roosevelt had addressed the people of Canada on their own soil from their own seat of government. It further signified the great friendliness which abounds between the people of the United States and Canada. The President pointed out that Canadian and American soldiers were fighting shoulder to shoulder and had achieved great successes in Sicily and at Kiska in the Aleutians. He said the soldiers were fighting together in this time of war just the same as the men and women and children played and worked together in times of peace. Referring to the conference at Quebec, the President said he had just come from a meeting at which determination to achieve victory in the shortest possible time was a primary consideration.

Mr. Churchill, in his address, spoke of the hope within the hearts of the members of the United Nations that the people of France should once again rise to the rightful state of free people. He spoke of the link between the people of France and those in Quebec and the long standing friendship and understanding between France and Great Britain. He hinted that at some time when it was felt that the effort would not be a wasted one, forces from the United Nations would make their way to France for the liberation of that country. He paid glowing tribute to the people of Canada for the contribution and effort they were making in the war. One significant part of his speech was the explanation of the absence of Marshall Stalin from the conference. Pointedly, he told his listeners that it was necessary that there should be an early meeting of Stalin, Roosevelt and himself and that the latter two were prepared to go to any place of meeting if Stalin would agree to meet them. While he hailed the armies of Russia for their valiant part in beating the German armies, he also noted that the United Nations had done much which allowed them to attain their victories, despite the fact that there was a continual shout for a so-called second front. He also said he did not blame them for their cry of a second front, but it was easier to have a front pulled down than it is to build one up again.

The address of Pope Pius was couched in terms of peace for the whole world, the cessation of hostilities before more bloodshed and horror of total war could do further harm. He pointed a finger at the Axis powers for starting the war against an appeal that had been made a few days before the outbreak, and he made an appeal to those who had victory within their grasp to give all nations a justified hope of worthy peace which does not clash with their right to live and their sense of honor. While no one of the belligerents was singled out in the Pope's address, all were appealed to in their prospectus and in significance of their part in the war. There was a place in the speech which seemed to indicate an appeal for the soft treatment of Italy, in which reference was made to the growing aversion to war and the horrible spectacle of death and destruction which could be contemplated.

The two first speeches were in the nature of challenges to the Axis Powers as to what they could expect unless they were prepared to lay down their arms in unconditional surrender. They were an evidence of what Germany and Japan could expect when the war was brought home to them on their own soil. The last address, an admonition for starting the war and an entreaty for peace. Appeals for peace to the Axis are likely to fall on deaf ears at the present time, unless the terms of that peace are most favorable to them. They know the conditions that are required of them and they know that they will receive no quarter for their crimes. War is a terrible thing, but once started cannot be stopped unless one side or the other is ready to do the will of the victory. Germany proved once before that she could accept peace, but also proved that she could not keep it. The United Nations are determined this time that the peace will be accepted and kept permanently.

CHATEAUGUAY, BEAUHARNOIS and HUNTINGDON COUNTIES

From Manuscripts of

The Late ROBERT SELLAR

At Huntingdon, on the 31st March, 1906, Cantelo F. Blachford, aged 91 years and 3 months.

A Glimpse of Old Huntingdon

So far as the writer knows, the death of Cantelo Blachford, which took place on Saturday, removes the last inhabitant from among us who knew the village of Huntingdon 70 years ago. He had attained the great age of 91, and, altho he had led a laborious life, retained his vigor and faculties in a remarkable degree to the end. Up to within a few days of his death, he was able to move about. In person, he was below the medium height and far from having a rugged physique, yet had gone thru hardships that would have disabled many of larger build and greater muscular strength. His leaving the tailor's bench to take a bush-farm, clearing it, and making a success of it, was a notable instance of what steady work and perseverance can accomplish. His regular habits and equable temperament explained much. Altho an Englishman, he became early associated with Orangemen, and was one of the first, possibly a charter member, of the village lodge. The following is an account of his life as he told it to the writer—

I was born within 6 miles of Salisbury, England. My mother died while I was a baby and I was brought up by an aunt, my father having married again. When old enough to learn a trade, I was taken on trial by a carpenter, but did not like the business. I said if I was given the £35 that would have to be paid as premium when indentured, I would go to Canada, whither some of my acquaintances were about to sail. This was agreed to, and I took passage in the summer of 1832 with my friends on the Royal Adelaide, a brig of only 300 tons, and whose main ballast was the barrels of water for her 70 passengers. On the pilot coming on board on entering the St. Lawrence we learned of the cholera, but there was no sickness on our ship. At Quebec a steamer, the first I had seen, came alongside and took us to Montreal. We landed on a beautiful Sunday evening, but not a soul was to be seen on the wharves or on the streets, the terror of the epidemic keeping everybody indoors. My intention was to go to the Goderich district, but on learning that it was common for cholera to break out in the Durham boats on their slow progress up to Prescott, and that half of the immigrants perished by the way, I resolved not to go further. The cholera was very bad. Every morning a string of French carts, laden with rough box coffins, passed to the cemetery. A companion on the ship who was a shoemaker, persuaded me to lend him the money I had, £30, to start him in business, but he took ill, and I lost everything, even my watch. I hired with a merchant-tailor, named Slack, to take care of his horse and do chores, for which I got a dollar a month and my keep. An old American I chanced to meet told me to leave the city for Huntingdon, where I would find myself among English-speaking people, and I determined to try it. On the 1st April, 1833, I started. It was a fine bright day, with the dust flying. I had brought a lot of clothes from England, and, as I could not take a trunk, I had a bag made, into which I packed them, and strapped it to my shoulders. It must have weighed a hundred pounds. On reaching Lachine two Indians agreed to ferry me across. The river was full of cakes of ice, and one Indian poled the canoe clear of them, while the other paddled. Landing at Caughnawaga, I started on the road to Chateauguay Basin. While passing a house a man hailed me and asked me where I was going. I told him. He said he was from Huntingdon, and would hire me, if I was willing. The man was Joshua Lewis. It took me 2 days to reach Huntingdon. On the road thither I stayed over night with Joseph Holbrook, who had then a sort of tavern near the Brysons, and again at Blakeney's, at Dewittville. I got to Huntingdon, and was resting at Thompson's tavern, when Lewis came in. He said he had noticed me passing. I engaged with him for $6 a month, and went and had supper at his house, where I stayed and did what was needed round the house and store. Anxious to learn a trade, I, after a while, went to John McMahon, an Irish Catholic, who lived in one end of Bowron's house. He was a tailor and a good one. When the talk got round about the building of a canal at Cornwall, he left, and I finished my time with Tom Adams, whose shop stood where Miss Stewart's house now is. When my apprenticeship was up, I married Ann Boyd. My wife's people lived in the Boyd Settlement, which was not convenient to get to in those days, and as I did not want to be married in the village, I asked John Somerville, (who then lived where Mrs. Hugh Graham is now) if we might get married in his house, which was close to the track between the settlement and the village. He agreed and so did Mr. Walker, the minister, and after the ceremony wine and cake were passed round. I now started for myself, building a small house on the half acre at the N.W. corner of Prince and Bouchette streets, where James W. Stark now lives. It was a wet bit of ground, covered with fallen trees, and took a day's logging to clear sufficiently to build the house. I got plenty of work. Soon after, R. B. Somerville raised a company and I joined them, and drew my $10 a month, which was a great help. The officers were kind, and asked no more than that I attend morning drill, so my being a volunteer did not interfere much with my tailoring. It was light infantry drill, and there was no word of command, orders being given by bugle. I was with them until disbanded. The leading people in the village at that time were nearly all Americans and sympathizers with the movement for annexation, and so wished well to the French rebels. Both Lewis and Ames scolded me for joining the volunteers, and wished me bad luck. In those days the Fourth of July was observed in Huntingdon in great style, with the Stars and Stripes flying and firing of guns. When Lord Gosford visited Huntingdon, at the public dinner given him, one of the Yankee sympathizers said something offensive, when dishes were thrown across the table. I went, on the first Sunday of November, 1838, to hear the Rev. Mr. Parmelee preach in the school house that stood where Oney's house now is. When he was about half thru, the door was thrown open, and the order shouted for all who belonged to the volunteers to come, for the French had risen again. As I had left Somerville's and enrolled in Davidson's company I left, and next morning we started for Reeves'. We were quartered there, and were at dinner on the day when the skirmish took place. Hearing the shots, we left the table to look out of the windows, and saw our men running and the French firing at them. We were ordered to fall in, and many who had been boasting of what they would do when they got at the rebels, were for shirking, but Capt. Davidson compelled them to fall into the ranks. He did well and showed he was fit for his position.

ALL CANNING SUGAR COUPONS NOW VALID

For the convenience of women eager to preserve the current fruit crops the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has announced that August and September canning sugar coupons are valid from July 26. Merchants have been authorized to honour these coupons, notwithstanding that some of them are marked as not becoming valid until August and September.

It is emphasized that this does not mean that any greater quantity of sugar will become available during the full year or that there will be any additional sugar for home canning. There is no present prospect of the present canning sugar allowance being increased, it is stated.

FREEDOM'S LEADER

Stocky, Pugnacious Winston Churchill, the man who had led the democracies of the world through dark days to a vision of freedom, will never win the title of the world's best-dressed man. He may yet, however, win some sort of title as the man who emancipated men.

A recent news despatch reports that: "Mr. Churchill started wearing the air raid (siren) suits during the blitz and finds that it serves his purpose well. He says it's much easier to step into one of those suits and pull a zipper to get dressed than to go to all the bother of putting on a shirt, collar and tie."

Now there's a man after our own hearts. Just think of it. Fair weather or foul, formal dinner or fooling around in the back shop—just step into a zipper suit and there you go. No more lost collar buttons, ties that won't stay straight and shirts with too much starch.

As a concession to formality, we might have two zipper suits—a black one for work and a white one for formal wear. If Winston can put over the idea, he will have opened still another path to Utopia.—Smiths Falls Record.

THE JAPS DISAPPEAR

The bloodless capture of Kiska by a combined force of Canadian and United States army units marks the departure of Japanese soldiers from the vicinity of America. The Japs had moved into the Aleutians shortly after they began their war in the Pacific. By doing so they created a menace to Alaska and to the entire Pacific coast of North America.

Both Canada and the United States took swift measures to counteract this danger. Under the direction of Major-General Pearkes, V.C., a strong defensive land force has been built up on the western coast, while the Royal Canadian Air Force and the Royal Canadian Navy have had their part in ensuring that an invasion by the Japs would meet with the stoutest resistance. The Aleutian episode was probably the deciding factor in the great developments which have taken place throughout Canada's northwest territory and in Alaska under aegis of United States military authorities. The Alaska highway was built to ensure that Alaska would be properly defended in case the Japs kept on coming. The story of the opening-up of that vast hinterland and of the massing of defensive and offensive armaments in that area will constitute one of the most revealing chapters in the story of this war.

The Japs held Attu and Kiska for some time, presumably developing strong defensive bases there. They were aided by treacherous weather in a region that is fog-bound the greater part of the year. Finally the Americans drove them out of Attu after a lengthy siege. Evidently the Japs came to consider Kiska no longer tenable after the fall of Attu. At any rate they had flown by the time the Canadian-American forces arrived. If they had remained, it would have marked the first time since Hong Kong that Canadian and Japanese soldiers had come into contact. Incidentally Premier King revealed that several battalions of men called up under the N.R.M.A. and usable only for home defence in Canada or the territorial waters thereof had gone to Kiska.—Simcoe Reformer.

CANNED GOODS SALES SUSPENDED

To assure supplies of canned fruits and vegetables for civilian and military requirements next winter the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has frozen the curent pack now in the hand of canners and wholesalers as well as the remainder of the 1942 pack. This will conserve stocks during the period when supplies of fresh products are readily obtainable.

Under the plan the public will be asked to refrain from using canned fruits and vegetables during the season when fresh supplies are on the market. The new order affects all canned fruit and vegetables except canned soups, baby foods, jams, jellies and marmalades. Frozen and dehydrated products are not affected.

WEEK AT OTTAWA

In any general survey of Canada's contribution to the cause of the United Nations during the four years of war that have now passed, which has been paid generous, eloquent and well deserved tribute by great democratic leaders, the achievements of agriculture must hold a highly creditable place. While the farmers have had to face the uncertainties of climate which have taken their toll this year—as well as the difficulties of labor shortage and deteriorating equipment, records that have been compiled show the amazing way production has increased in four years to meet wartime demands. This year there has been a set back through the late spring and unfavorable weather conditions in many parts of the country. This has been particularly true of the farms of Ontario where the sowing of seed grains so urgently needed for expanded herds of livestock was delayed and restricted. This may later result in a decline in dairy products and in meats. There will be a distinct decrease in the amount of fruits needed for canning. The grain crops of the prairies are also down very considerably from the record figures of last year.

Bacon For Britain

In the vastly increased shipments of bacon to Britain, the farmers of this country have shown their ability to adjust themselves to wartime economy. The British agricultural community through wartime necessity has increased the proportion of the food produced in Britain itself from about 35 per cent of the amount of its food needs to around 65 per cent. The increase has been mainly in feed and garden crops. The British have plowed up much of their grassland as grains are a surer safeguard against starvation if the U-boat warfare should grow stronger. They have relied on Canada to give them meat mainly bacon. Canada is now shipping about 13,000,000 pounds of bacon a week, and this means about 85 per cent of the British bacon ration. These shipments also represent about 42 per cent of Canada's meat supply. It is hoped this year that hog marketings will reach 8,000,000, which is the goal set by the Dominion Provincial conference of last December. In 1938 the total marketings were 3,245,000 which shows the immense increase in bacon production both in central and western Canada. Canada aims to reach a total of 675 million pounds of bacon in shipments to Britain during the year ending November.

Export contracts for bacon are under the supervision of the Meat Board, formerly the Bacon Board, which works in co-operation with the Agricultural Food Board and the Foods Administration of the Prices Board, and with Provincial Departments of Agriculture. Auxiliary to

QUANTITY OF MONEY and volume of credit are matters of high national monetary policy.

Canada's Chartered Banks exist to perform two main services:

1. They receive the savings and other funds of the public, who thus build up bank balances in the form of savings and current accounts.

2. They advance short term loans to persons or enterprises needing money and able to repay within a stated period.

Along with these main functions the banks, through more than 3,000 branches and sub-agencies, render a large number of other important services related to local and national needs—services which have greatly increased as a result of the war.

But the quantity of money in existence in the country at any given time, and the volume of credit, are matters of high national monetary policy. The nation's own central bank, the Bank of Canada, determines them. The Bank of Canada makes extensive use of the Chartered Banks' facilities in giving effect to these policies.

The Chartered Banks' responsibility, clearly established and regulated by the Bank Act, is in the realm of commercial banking—that is, to receive deposits and to serve the needs of trade and industry.

Pungent Pickles and Relish Aromas Herald Tasty Meals Next Winter

Some of the very sweet relishes which usually grace the pickle shelf will be missing this year because they require a considerable quantity of sugar in their making. However, there is no reason why the meals next winter need to be lacking in this respect, because there are several pickles which require no sugar at all and others which call for very little sweetening.

The Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, has been testing pickles and relishes during the past few weeks and has selected a number of recipes which can be recommended at this time. The following have been taken from the new folder "Wartime Pickles and Relishes," a copy of which can be obtained by writing to the Publicity and Extension Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Uncooked Vegetable Salad Pickle

1-2 gallon ripe tomatoes
1 green or red pepper
3 medium onions
1 head celery, small
1-2 cup salt
3-4 cup sugar
1 tbsp. cinnamon
1-2 tbsp. cloves
1-2 tsp. pepper
2 small hot peppers (chillies)
OR 1-8 tsp. cayenne pepper
2 cups vinegar

Peel and cut tomatoes into small pieces. Add chopped peppers, onions, and celery. Put salt on vegetables and let stand overnight. Drain well. This is most important as otherwise a very juicy mixture will result. Mix sugar and spices with vinegar and water and pour over vegetables. Bottle and seal. Makes about 4½ pints.

Green Tomato Relish

1-2 gallon green tomatoes
1-4 cup salt
1-4 medium cabbage
2 green peppers
1 large onion
1 sweet red pepper
3 cups vinegar
1 cup sugar
1-2 tbsp. celery seed
1-2 tbsp. mustard seed
1 tsp. whole cloves

Put tomatoes through food chopper, using coarse blade. Combine with the salt and let drain overnight, in cheesecloth bag. Add cabbage, peppers, and onions, also put through chopper. Mix vegetables together and add vinegar, water, sugar, and the spices tied in a bag. Cook over low heat until the vegetables are tender—about 20 minutes. Bottle and seal. Makes about 3½ pints.

Pear Chow Chow

3 large onions
2 large sweet red peppers
6 lbs. ripe pears (about 15 medium)
1 cup sugar
2½ cups vinegar
2 tsp. salt
1-2 tbsp. mixed whole spice

Peel onions; remove seed cores from peppers; put vegetables through food chopper, using coarse knife. Peel and core pears; cut in small cubes. Mix sugar, vinegar, salt, and spice in large preserving kettle; heat to boiling point, add onions, peppers and pears; boil 30 minutes, srtiring occasionally. Pour into hot sterilized jars, filling to top; seal at once. Makes about 4 pints.

WHAT—JOHN BULL'S TEA?

GOOD NEWS FOR TEA DRINKERS

So many people in Canada drink tea that there will be a genuine feeling of satisfaction that more of it will be available for home rations after September 2nd. WEDDING

SMITH—MCMILLAN

The marriage took place in Montreal, at noon on Saturday, August 28th, of Miss Margaret Luella McMillan, daughter of Mrs. Mildred McMillan and the late Mr. Wilbert McMillan, of Franklin Center, Que., to Cpl. Francis E. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith of Ormstown, Que.

The bride was attired in a floor length gown of white brocaded organza over satin, having a sweetheart neck line, fitted bodice and full skirt. Her finger tip length veil of white tulle illusion was held in place by a cornet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of deep pink roses. Her only ornament was a heart shaped locket, a gift of the groom.

The bridesmaid, Miss Alice Rolfe, of Huntingdon, Que., was gowned in floor length ice-blue brocaded satin, fashioned along princess lines, with a shoulder length veil of blue tulle illusion held in place by blue flowers. Her bouquet was of yellow roses.

Mrs. McMillan, the bride's mother wore a street length dress of light blue crepe with a British tan hat and accessories to match. Mrs. Smith, mother of the groom, was dressed in navy blue sheer with matching hat and accessories. Mrs. McMillan's corsage was talisman roses, while Mrs. Smith's was deep red roses.

AC2 Harold C. Kuhn, of Montreal, acted as best man for Cpl. Smith.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Chateau, Huntingdon. Later Cpl. and Mrs. Smith left for Toronto and by boat to Niagara Falls. For travelling the bride wore a two-piece ensemble of bridal blue light weight wool with a navy blue hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was of white gladioli.

Maple Leaf Grange

Over eighty members and friends of Maple Leaf Grange enjoyed a picnic at Fraser's Point, on the third Saturday in August, which happened to be one of the few pleasant afternoons of the month.

A South American programme was the entertainment provided for the second regular Grange meeting in August. The opening number, song by all, "America the Beautiful," was selected as applying equally to both North and South America.

A gramaphone record, "Na-O-Te-Dou" sung by Carmen Miranda, introduced the distinctive spirit of the Southern Continent. In introducing Peter Mickles and his friends the Lecturer, Mrs. W. L. Carr, said, that Peter was born in Montreal and has spent three summers on a farm where he developed a great love for outdoor activities, especially in acquiring bugs for his collection. This summer he made a real contribution to the general work by driving the horse-fork in haying, helping with vegetables and chores. "I am convinced that Peter has qualities of leadership as well as persuasive ability of an expert salesman and seems to get along smoothly with diplomats. He talks endlessly about the joys of farming to all his friends and this year they could resist no longer and came to see for themselves."

Carlos Pecanins, whose father is the Consul-General for Venezuela in Canada, was born in Ecuador, twelve years ago. In answer to questions he discussed in perfect English, his travels in Denmark, France, Belgium, Germany, England and United States. He said of all countries, he liked England the best. On arrival in Canada five years ago he could not speak English and the only schools he has attended are French schools in Montreal. He learned English mainly by his association with Peter Mickles and other English friends in Westmount. He added interesting facts about the Republic of Venezuela.

Edmund Costello, son of the Consul for the Republic of Columbia, said that his country is slightly larger than Venezuela, borders on the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. Its capital is Bagota, situated inland and reached by airplane or rail. The climate there is cool, ranging between 50 to 60 degrees throughout the year. Bagota is the centre of old Spanish culture, where there is a university, established in 1604, and several colleges. Edmund has travelled extensively by air in South America. He speaks perfect English which he learned since coming to Montreal, three years ago, where he attends St. Leo's School.

Third speaker was Helena Pacanins, aged eleven, who spoke in a charming manner about her travels in Europe. She remembered pleasant times spent in Copenhagen, Denmark, where the King used to ride daily in the park and the little princesses rode in a gold carriage. She had vivid recollections of the trips to England, where she saw the crowns of all the English Kings, and other jewels. Helena also liked England the best of all countries she has visited.

Demonstrations of the South American dances, the rumba and conga were given by Miss Jacqueline Mickles and Helena Pacanins. The graceful performance in a fascinating rhythm was much appreciated. After some square dances Jacqueline and Peter Mickles and their South American friends instructed the young people in the technique of the Conga Line.

DAHLIA'S WHATNOTS

CAROLINE CHISHOLM

Besides her efforts to further the interests of emigrants, Mrs. Chisholm made a powerful, and eventually successful, appeal to the English Government on behalf of the "emancipatists." This was the questionably euphemistic terms applied to the convicts who had been transported to Van Diemen's Land. She contended that it was wiser to send out the wives and children of these men than to maintain them at home on relief funds and in the poorhouse; and that, as for the men themselves, it was the most certain means of effecting their reformation.

In February, 1846, a public meeting was held at Sydney, which was attended by eight members of the Legislative Council, the Mayor, the High Sheriff, thirteen magistrates, and many leading merchants, who composed a committee to present Mrs. Chisholm with a testimonial of 150 guineas (the guinea being a gold coin worth about $5 in our money) accompanied by the following address:

"We, the undersigned members of Council, magistrates, landholders, merchants, and others, inhabitants of New South Wales, beg to offer you, on the occasion of your departure from this colony, this expression of our thanks for your active and zealous exertions on behalf of the emigrant population during the last seven years . . . In the establishment of an Emigrants' Home in Sydney, and in procuring the advantageous settlement of great numbers of the emigrant populations in the interior as servants and occupants of small farms, your exertions have proved of signal advantage to the community. In the large collection of statistical facts and 'voluntary information' which you have obtained from the labouring classes, you have accumulated materials for establishing the great advantages which N.S.W. possesses as a favourable field for the emigration of British settlers."

Mrs. Chisholm's first work on landing in England was to communicate with the Government relative to facilities being afforded for the emigration of families, and for the sending out of those children left behind by previous emigrants, owing to the stringency of the laws then in force. Earl Grey consulted her on the subject, and received a characteristic reply, showing the iniquity of making children a bar to emigration. Incidentally, a hundred years of further supposed enlightenment have not imparted to our modern business world that "spirit of the most enlightened benevolence" with which Mrs. Chisholm was credited in a part of the above address which I have deleted for the sake of brevity. Ask the heads of families in our towns who seek to rent a shelter for themselves and their offspring, ask even mothers, sole guardians of their families while the fathers fight for the victory which is to preserve the real estate of the landlords, and they will tell you that children are a bar to tenancy.

Canning Corner

By Laura C. Pepper,
Chief, Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture

The pear is a fruit with a long history and with its trees spanning the globe. Centuries of cultivation have resulted in a great many varieties of pears. Among the better known in Canada are the Bartlett, Anjou, Flemish Beauty, Clapps' Favourite, Keiffer and Winter Nelis.

As for plums, there is also a wide range of Canadian varieties differing in sweetness and including nearly all the colours of the rainbow—blue, purple, red, yellow and green.

RAY AND HIS HORSE

Ray had the most wonderful horse. His name was "Friend." Ray had chosen this name because he himself had so many friends and was so fond of other boys and girls. Friend was a good name, too, because the horse was so good to Ray, carrying him on long rides in the green, pine-covered hills and always bringing him home safely. He was a real friend.

In turn, Ray was kind to Friend. He always gave him all of the hay and oats he should eat. During fine weather, of course, Friend grazed on the lush, green pasture surrounding the boy's wilderness home. He liked this freedom very much for he could graze wherever he wished. At such times there was no bridle or saddle on him. But he was never happier than when carrying Ray along the woodland trails. They were the best of pals.

During the long, cold winters, Friend was quartered in a warm, snug barn against the fury of the storm. And there was never a time when he went hungry. Ray always made sure he had plenty of good food to eat. Often after school, Ray would visit Friend and stay awhile to stroke the beautiful animal's soft, velvety throat. Friend knew how much Ray loved him and frequently showed his own affection by rubbing his nose against the boy's face.

One summer day, while Friend was galloping along a trail with Ray on his back, an accident occurred. Friend scraped his leg on a sharp rock. The wound bled quite a bit and Ray felt so sorry for Friend. But he did more than feel sorry for him. That afternoon he induced his father to take Friend to town for treatment by the veterinary surgeon. He could not bear to think of anything serious happening to his pal.

The doctor was very kind and gentle, disinfecting the wound and bandaging it neatly. When he had finished the doctor told Ray the charge would be three dollars. And the boy held out three one dollar bills. The doctor did not know that Ray had been saving the money to buy a small camera which he wanted very much. And Ray did not tell him. It was quite a blow to Ray to have to use the money he had been saving for another purpose. But he did not complain. No sacrifice was too great for him to make in behalf of Friend. He knew that Friend had paid the debt many times by taking him for so many fine rides.

For home canning pears and plums the Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture recommends these methods.

Canned Pears

Peel, halve and remove cores from the pears. Prepare a one to two syrup (1 cup sugar to 2 or 3 cups water). Pack fruit in hot sterilized sealers. Cover with hot syrup, partially seal and process. If pears are very firm steam fruit 15 minutes before packing. In canning pears by the oven method simmer the fruit in the syrup for 10 minutes before packing in the sealers.

On Friday afternoon, Sept. 3rd, the W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Church, assisted by the Y.W.A., held a union prayer meeting in the church parlour, with a good attendance. The United and St. John's Anglican Churches were well represented.

Prayers for the allied nations our soldiers, sailors and airmen, were offered by different members.

Miss Kimball gave a short talk on the hymn, "Eternal Father, Strong to Save"; and Mrs. Merson for the Y.W.A. took for her subject the word "Faith", Bible references being given by the young women members.

A solo, "Sweet Hour of Prayer", was fittingly rendered by Mrs. Stanley Ruddock.

The President thanked all present for their assistance in making this meeting a success. All then joined in repeating the Lord's prayer in unison.

A Ruling Overlooked

Attention has been called to the unsightliness of the various advertising signs that are tacked to the telephone and power line poles along the various streets in Huntingdon. There used to be a ruling, which to the best of knowledge is still in effect, that no bills or advertising signs should be posted on these poles. The ruling was part of both companies' regulations and it is believed carried a penalty for contravention. It would be a good idea if enforcement of the regulation were put into effect.

Wedding

DUHEME-CLAUESSON

The marriage of Gladys Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Clauesson, to Emmet N. Duheme, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Duheme, Glenelm, took place at Athelstan Presbyterian Church, at 2.30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon Sept. 4th. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. B. Maclean, D.D., of Huntingdon. Miss Betty Hampson presided at the organ and Mrs. Marion Reese sang "I Love You Truly." The church decorations were carried out in bouquets of multi-colored gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was attended by her two sisters, Miss Mary Clauesson as maid of honor and Miss Effie Clauesson was her sister's bridesmaid, while Christena Duheme, her little niece, was flower girl.

The bride was attired in a floor length gown of white sheer crepe over satin with embroidered bodice and full skirt. Her finger-tip length veil of white tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of lace. She carried a bouquet of deep pink roses. The two attendants wore floor-length gowns identical in material and on the same lines as that worn by the bride, only in shades of pink and blue with shoulder length veils. They carried arm bouquets of roses, while the little flower girl, prettily dressed in a floor-length frock of white, carried a basket of sweet peas and baby's breath.

Mr. Lloyd Duheme, Huntingdon, acted as best man for his brother and the ushers were Messrs. Stanley and Irwin Clauesson, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Clauesson, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue sheer crepe dress with blue hat and corsage of red roses.

The reception was held in the church hall, where gladioli and other garden flowers formed the decorations. The newly married couple left for a wedding trip to Saranac Lake, N.Y., the bride travelling in a two piece frock of green wool crepe with a brown hat and matching accessories.

Some months ago the stone house on what is known as the David Orr farm, four miles north of here, was destroyed by fire. It was a fine old land mark, built over one hundred years ago by the Orr predecessors. It was at one time used as a barracks for soldiers of the Fenian Raid (a member of the family states). The stones in the walls were placed in dray mortar over a century ago, came through a disastrous fire and are standing intact, a tribute to artisan forefathers who had acquired a perfect technique in the country from which they migrated.

FRANKLIN CENTRE BRANCH

The Franklin Centre Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. R. J. Blair, on Sept. 3rd, 1943. The meeting opened with the Ode and Creed. The roll call was answered by the donation of a quilt block. Two pieced quilt tops were given by Mrs. Geo. Goldie and Mrs. Geo. Williams. Mrs. Geo. Goldie read an article on the Potato Blight and this drew forth a short discussion on the subject. Mrs. F. D. Stevenson told about a small plant being opened at Ottawa, where coal is being made into many useful articles, among which are gasoline, nylon, paints, varnishes, synthetic rubber, dyes and chemicals. A paper was read on our Lend-Lease aid to Russia and China. A large amount of money is wanted to send much needed articles to Russia, such as glasses, safety-pins, X-ray film, scissors and transfusion needles.

The question of helping the hospital at Huntingdon was brought up and was left in the hands of our representative at the county meeting to decide. It was decided to take 6 ditty bags to fill for the sailors.

Mrs. Amaron, of Montreal, was the speaker for the afternoon, and she gave a most interesting talk on her travels through Europe and her three year residence there. She spoke of India, Ceylon, Rangoon and Burma and told us of the countries, people and customs, which was listened to with great attention, as these places are so much spoken of in these present times. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Amaron. A quiz on the latest outstanding events was held, Mrs. Geo. Williams being the winner in this. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. R. J. Blair, assisted by Mrs. Geo. Goldie.

Ormstown Sports Day A Great Success

Ormstown has become a point where the Labour Day holiday is recognized for the holding of an annual Sports Day, and the eleventh annual softball tournament was held there on Monday. The event was a great success and drew a very large attendance from all surrounding districts.

The day was fully taken up with sports of various kinds which provided something of entertainment for young and old alike. Possibly the greatest attraction of the day's programme was the double-header softball games played under the electric floodlights to a capacity grandstand. Two ladies' teams battled it out on one diamond, these being the Beavers of Dundee and the D.I.L. of Valleyfield. On the other diamond two men's teams opposed each other, these being one from Bellevue and the other the Moose of Valleyfield. There was plenty of excitement in watching these games and the fans were thrilled by the play. On the ladies' diamond, the Beavers won their game over D.I.L. by a score of 2 to 1. On the men's diamond a battle royal was in progress with the score keeping close all the time. It was intended to play only seven innings, but the play demanded that nine be played. The result was that Bellevue won the contest on a decision.

Chinese War Relief Fund Appeal

Over 5,000,000 Chinese have perished since Japan launched its destructive war in 1937; numbered legions have been wounded; 90 per cent of all Chinese industry has been lost; more than 2,000,000 babies have been orphaned; 50,000,000 Chinese are refugees in their own country.

These are a few facts released today by headquarters of the Chinese War Relief Fund to emphasise the need of support of the million-dollar campaign now in progress throughout the Dominion to provide food, medicines, clothing, hospital supplies, etc. as the tribute of Canadian citizens to the gallantry of the Chinese nation.

Subscriptions from the people of this province are now being sought. There is no direct canvass; instead the public is being asked to send in their donations direct to the Chinese War Relief Fund, 610 St. James St. W., Montreal, or hand them in to any branch of the chartered banks of Canada.

Officers of the Fund, which is receiving the aid of prominent men and women of all classes, races and creeds in the Dominion, state that few people have any conception of the havoc and devastation, of the ruthless cruelties inflicted on China by the Japanese in their seven year attempt at extinction of this country. They point out that had it not been for the courageous refusal of the Chinese to accept defeat, even when their country has been pillaged, her industries destroyed, the United Nations would not now be on the offensive instead of the defensive. China, it is estimated, has killed or permanently incapacitated one and a quarter million Japs; her will to fight has engaged one million Japs in the Orient and prevented them being thrown into the fight against the United Nations on other fronts.

For these and the reasons of her suffering in heroic silence, officers of the Fund suggest Canadians should be willing to subscribe generously to the appeal which is now in progress and which will continue until the end of this month.

Money subscribed will be used in one of two ways. It will be sent direct to China for making purchases of necessities or supplies will be bought in this country and flown to China by way of India.

General Victor Odlum, Canadian Minister to China, with a group of Canadian and other prominent citizens in China, with the collaboration of Madame Chaing Kai-Shek, is supervising the distributon of funds and supplies sent from Canada.

In Memoriam

BAIRD: In loving memory of our dear son Eric, who entered into rest Sept. 11th, 1936.
As we loved him, so we miss him,
In our memories he is dear,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.
At the Heavenly Gate he will meet us,
With the same sweet loving smile,
We are only parted Eric,
Parted for a little while.
—Sadly missed by father and mother.

"Star Spangled Rhythm" At O'Conner Theatre, Sept. 12 and 13

No matter what the weather forecast for next Sunday-Monday is, the stars will be out at the O'Connor Theatre! Paramount's star-studded, gigantic musical comedy hit, "Star Spangled Rhythm," is promised for those days and if advance reports are any indication of what may be expected in the way of entertainment, it should be nothing less than terrific!

There are at least forty top stars in it! To mention a few, there are Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Fred MacMurray, Franchot Tone, Ray Milland, Victor Moore, Dorothy Lamour, Paulette Goddard, Vera Zorina, Mary Martin, Dick Powell, Betty Hudson, Eddie Bracken, Veronica Lake, Alan Ladd and Rochester. If that doesn't read like the who's who of moviedom, then we just don't know what's what. All the stars mentioned, plus some twenty-four others including William Bendix, Jerry Colonna, Macdonald Carey, Walter Abel, Susan Hayward and Marjorie Reynolds, don't just make a brief appearance on the screen and then vanish. They all really work in the film and the results are said to be absolute top in movie entertainment.

There's a story to "Star Spangle Rhythm," too. It's not the usual typ of revue that the presence of s many stars might lead you to believe. It's a real, honest-to-goodness musical comedy.

The story tells of the sad plight of Victor Moore, gateman at the Paramount Studio in Hollywood, whose sailor son, Eddie Bracken, believes him to be head man on the lot. Eddie, on Shore leave, comes to the studio with a bunch of his mates. Betty Hutton, studio switchboard opreator, figures out a way for Moore to continue his deception and give the sailors the show of their lives at the same time.

Every Paramount star gets behind her. They sing, dance and clown, each according to his talent. Considering that there are more than forty top-notch performers, "Star Spangled Rhythm" ought to be everything it's cracked up to be which is, the biggest, best show eve to come out of the Paramoun Studio.

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS AT Ottawa

Written specially for the weekly newspapers of Canada

By JIM GREENBLAT

It would make excess reading for me to enlarge at length on the things weekly readers have already heard or read of President Roosevelt's visit to Ottawa. A few personal impressions might be more appropriate even at this date. After a close-up view during his address under the Peace Tower I am willing to "string along with Roosevelt" as I am with Churchill. He is the typical Happy Warrior; he simply radiates greatness, leadership, inspires confidence. You can see his face for hours afterwards. Here is a man in whom one feels one can trust our destiny, that of our children.

You should have seen his face when making that statement about being "everlastingly angry" at those who think the Four Freedoms of the Atlantic Charter are unattainable. And his broad shoulders seemed to reach up into his tanned, healthy face and jutting jaw line when he said, "We are going to get rid of these outlaws this time."

You felt ready to kick off the national sidewalk any selfish political individuals or interests when he declared the good old days were not that in every sense and he rather believed "we can achieve new and better days." After seeing him I believe the saying that men make history not history makes men. The imprint of his visit to the capital will be profoundly embedded in the sands of things to come.

The great crowd on Parliament Hill was a sight to be remembered. The picture, the reaction was best summed up by that famous internationally known writer, Emil Ludwig, who was present. "What impressed me most was the gaiety without hysteria, the friendliness, the serenity and the hearty welcome without noise. The picture was like a folk festival—completely peaceful as if there could be no war in the world."

I thought it a fine gesture that at the luncheon at Government House invited to meet Mr. Roosevelt were Gordon Graydon, Opposition Leader in the House, Mr. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader and J. H. Blackmore, Social Credit leader, among others prominent in our political life.

Because statistics show increased butter production in Canada, there are some who complain about the ration allowance. Quite appropriately this week one of the local papers dealt editorially with this matter pointing out "overseas needs" is the answer. One item, for instance, the food parcels going to our prisoners of war—100,000 of them weekly—each includes a pound of butter, pound of dried whole milk, quarter pound of cheese. That's only a part of the overseas requirements from Canada.

In the office of J. W. G. Clark, director in chief of information for the armed services, the other day I was shown something which your boys in the forces at home and overseas will really enjoy—a series of paintings depicting scences on various parts of Canada. These were done in oils voluntarily through a committee of Canadian artists and then reproduced in silk screen, framed 30 by 40 inches, with the cost being borne by well-known Canadian business and industrial firms. There are 25 subjects, ranging from a fishing scene in the Maritimes to a winter panorama on the Prairies, and there will be 300 reproductions of each, 7500 in all. Every "men's" mess (not officers') will get a set or portion to suit space available. A swell idea, and while it will create nostalgia on the part of the boys, will they ever enjoy the homespun scenes. The artistry in each is superb.

Summer holidays are on the wane and t'won't be long before Ladies' Aids, Church Associations, etc., get down to the serious business of organizing autumn and winter programs. If your organization represented on the women's regional advisory committee to the Consumers Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board? Ladies' groups should have a definite period for discussion of wartime civilian regulations and your liaison officer, who represents you on the advisory committee will have up-to-the-minute information on new regulations. Make sure your local corresponding member knows the name of your officer. At present there are 12,000 active officers giving leadership to the women of Canada in the fight against inflation.

Snappiest parade (of many) seen in Ottawa was on a past Sunday when the girls of the C.W.A.C. put on a parade on the main thoroughfare. Oddity, but really good, was the girls' own pipe band, with the pipers wearing Tam o' Shanters. The girls can sure make those bags bulge with music.

Here's a 64 dollar question. Is there any place in the British Empire where the flag is never lowered, flies constantly? Only one, at Lucknow in India. Has flown ever since the Siege of Lucknow by royal decree, I am told.

Announcement here of the new Joint War Aid Committee, United States-Canada, is important. Its decisions will probably have much to do in directing the course of action of Canadian and American cabinet directing bodies in the disposition among United Nations of vast quantities of war supplies, running into many billions of dollars. If any of the United Nations asks for tanks, planes, guns or wheat, the question of where that supply is to come from is, of course, most important. It is a possibility that the committee might be expanded and continued into the post-war era when hungry nations of Europe will seek sustenance from the two greatest food storehouses of the world—Canada and the U.S.A.

The 6th Compulsory Employment Transfer Order issued by National Selective Service embraces men who have reached their 16th birthday, and have not passed their 41st. Ex-service men must register but are not compelled to accept other jobs. After Sept. 8 employers in the named list of occupations who retain men in the categories without S.N.S. permit are breaking the law. Among the exempted occupations in the wholesale line are included farm products food products, fuel, ice, gas, oil, grease, lumber, building materials, machinery and allied equipment. Employers would do well to see that they familiarize themselves with the order, which goes into detail.

Farmers of Eastern Canada are again urged to buy oats from the west now and take advantage of existing transportation facilities and the subsidy which is on for buying feed grains for storage. There may have been a little difficulty lately in getting western barley because offerings to date have not always been equal to the demand. What is desired is a continuous flow of feed grains to eastern Canada. Talking of barley the 1943 carry-over is an all time record, placed at 69,253,707 bushels compared with 10,908,001 in 1942.

Not a fish story. Despite the drag of war, production of the Nova Scotia fisheries reached the highest point in history of the province in 1942, the marketed value being $15,297,446, a 21 per cent increase over previous years.

Week at Ottawa ...

the administration of meat production as well as the general supervision of agriculture are the local committees that have been formed throughout the country. Of interest at this time is the suggestion that Canada might benefit from study of the British county committees which have apparently been so successful. Close relationship with provincial departments and with farm organizations throughout Canada is maintained by the Agricultural Advisory Committee as well as by the Agricultural Food Board.

COFFEE RATION INCREASED

In recent years coffee has gained in popularity for Canadian breakfasts and the news that more of it is being made available by the Ration Board early in September will be received joyfully. Commencing September 2nd, two coffee ration coupons may be cashed every three weeks. By using them for 'SALADA' Coffee, consumers will be assured of superb quality.

Cheese Production

Some anxiety is felt over the production of cheese for shipment to Britain. Since the Dairy Products Board was formed in May 1940, the exports of cheese to Britain have reached a total of 380 million pounds. That is a heavy figure and the aims of the year did not envisage any increase over the 1942 total. In the first seven months of 1943, however, there has been a decline of over 30 per cent in comparison with the same months of 1942. This has been due in the main to the butter situation. Creamery butter brought a better return to producers. There was also an increased demand for fluid milk in towns and cities. The provincial subsidy for cheese was cut off last November but has been restored in July. To keep up the export volume of cheese to Britain the Dairy Products Board ordered that all cheese made in Ontario and Quebec should be for shipment to Britain and prohibited the manufacture in Ontario and Quebec of cheese from skim milk so that the amount of cheddar cheese for Britain should be increased.

Export of Dried Eggs

Another food commodity of heavy export to Britain is dried eggs, shipped in 5 and 14 pound cartons. The British Ministry of Food has asked Canada this year to supply 9,000 long tons of dried egg powder, the equivalent of 63 million dozen eggs. It is feared this objective will not be reached, but will be short about one third of the total. Meat rationing in Canada has increased the domestic consumption of eggs, and with this demand egg prices have at times been over prices paid by the Board for export. There are eleven plants in this country reducing eggs to powder for export.

The payment of freight eastward from the head of the great lakes and the graded subsidies ranging from the 3 cents a bushel paid in July to 2 cents in september, 1½ in October, 1 in November and ½ cent in December has somewhat eased the feed grain situation. The movement of the grain so much needed in central and eastern Canada has, however, been retarded by the difficulty of getting enough men to load cars at the Lake Superior centres. It is not so much a question of having available supplies particularly in the case of oats, of which the supply is ample. It is a question of being able to make the most advantageous use of transportation facilities by water and rail.

Agriculture as well as all other branches of this country's war activities will undoubtedly react to the stimulating news from the Mediterranean Sea. With the battle finally joined on Italian soil within the so called fortress of Europe, with the task of striking at the Axis on its own ground now on its way and with Canadian troops from every part of the Dominion locked in combat with the enemy, the energies of all Canadians will be thrown wth renewed vigor into the job of ridding the world of Nazi and Fascist tyranny.

HITLER LOSES VOICE, GOEBBELS HAS LOCKJAW

The BBC said that the latest talk, apparently in Germany, was that:

Hitler has lost his voice.

Goebbels had lockjaw, which makes him unable to laugh.

Goering has had a nervous breakdown.

COMMISSIONED

Wm. Bradley, Ormstown, Que., being presented with his commission by Air Officer Commanding Pacific Command at a recent graduation parade held at Officers Training Centre, Gordon Head, B.C. 2nd-Lieut. Bradley was born at Howick, Que., and was educated at the Ormstown Consolidated High School. Prior to enlistment he was employed by the Canadian Bank of Commerce in the Maritimes and Montreal.

SIZES OF GLASS FOOD CONTAINERS RESTRICTED

Standard sizes for glass containers for certain foods and beverages have been established by the War-time Prices and Trade Board. Jams, jellies, marmalades and honey may be put up in 12, 24 and 48 ounce jars, which eliminates two previously permitted sizes, 6 and 9 ounce. Peanut butter may now be packed only in 9, 16 and 24 ounce, eliminating 6 ounce containers.

Containers for mayonnaise sandwich spread, salad dressing and mayonnaise remain the same as previously allowed. Dill pickles will be put up in 32 ounce containers only. The restrictions do not apply to containers already manufactured and used containers.

Discreet

Voice (on telephone): "Is my husband in the club?"

Club Waiter: "No madam, I'm afraid he isn't."

"How do you know? I didn't tell you my name."

"Husbands are never here, madam —especially those who are wanted on the 'phone."

Nutritionists Urge Women to Defend Health Front

"How I wish I could do a real war job"—so many women utter that wish. Busy from morning till night—keeping house, planning meals, shopping and cooking, these women do not realize that they are doing a war job and a very important one at that.

The health and well being of the Canadian people lies very largely in the hands of the women whose war job is the unglamorous one of "keeping house." The way she does her job of feeding the family can help the enemy or help us.

If she neglects through ignorance or carelessness to give her household the proper foods, prepared and served so that they retain their maximum food value, she is helping the enemy by undermining the health of her family.

Today every Canadian must be at the peak of health and efficiency in order to be able to play his full part in the war effort.

Authorities at Nutrition Services realize that the housewife's job of planning and preparing highly nutritious meals day in and day out is not an easy one under present conditions. Knowledge of food values, skilful buying and imaginative cooking must be employed if wartime meals are to be both nutritious and appetizing.

Canada's Official Food Rules serve as a pattern by which the housewife can check the meals she serves. If they conform to the pattern, she has the satisfaction of knowing that her part in building the health and morale of the nation through proper diet is being well done.

HATS OFF to the PRODUCTION ARMY

The production army of the home front is as vital a part of the war effort as the men in the armed forces. Everyone knows the requirements for fitness and ability that is required of the men and women in the armed forces. Their's is a tough job, one that requires great stamina, there must be no weaklings, all must be kept strong and ready for the job.

The men and women in the production army must be just as fit and just as strong, they must not lose time on the job through bad health and sickness. In order to keep strong and fit a proper diet with the right nutritional values is essential. Follow Canada's Food Rules for your diet and eating habits, these have been carefully laid down for the qualities of nutrition which can be obtained from them.

The workers in the mills and other industrial establishments in Huntingdon, are a part of the great army of production and a part of the war effort. These workers are required to be strong and fit in order that they do not lose time and slow down production. Take heed of the need for a nutritional diet at all times, study your health and eat right to feel right at all times. Proper diet with the right foods in the correct quantities can do much to help you maintain good health at all times. Undernourishment leaves you weak and open to attack by all manner of germs, a strong healthy body is better able to throw off the attack. Remember — CANADA NEEDS YOU STRONG. No matter how small may seem the part you are taking in this great war, each and everyone is vital if we are to be victorious. We cannot afford to slow down production for one hour, each worker laid off by sickness means a tremendous loss to the war effort. Guard against such loss by eating the right foods in the right quantities, not one day, but every day and all the time.

Canada's Food Rules

MILK—Adults: one-half pint. Children: more than one pint. And some cheese.

FRUITS—One serving of tomatoes daily, or of a citrus fruit, or of tomato or citrus fruit juices, and one serving of other fruits, fresh, canned, or dried.

VEGETABLES—(In addition to potatoes, of which you need one serving daily)—Two servings daily of vegetables, preferably leafy green, or yellow, and frequently raw.

CEREALS and BREADS—One serving of a whole grain cereal and four to six slices of Canada-approved bread, brown or white.

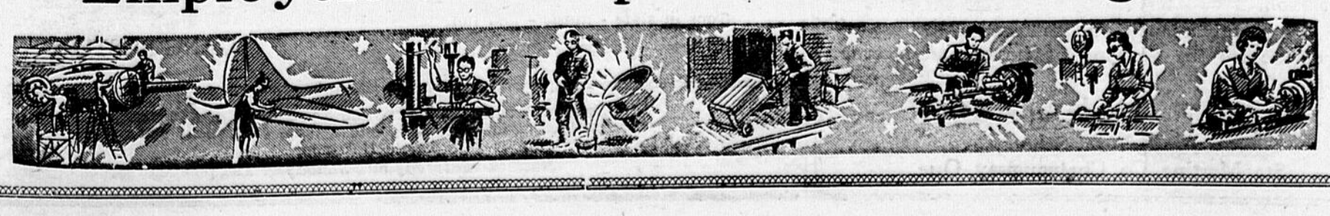

MEAT, FISH, EGGS, etc.—One serving a day of meat, fish or meat substitutes. Liver, heart, or kidney once a week. Eggs, at least three or four weekly.

Canned Chicken to Be Sold by Grade

When a housewife wants a can of chicken after September 1, 1943, she will no longer select it by guesswork—but by grade. This is the result of recent Dominion Department of Agriculture regulations governing the packing, grading and marking of canned poultry. When poultry canners are able again to get supplies of tin, they will be required to label their product either Grade 1 or Grade 2 for interprovincial and export shipment—and these grades will tell the consumer exactly what she is buying. Misuse of the regulation terms is prohibited no matter where the product is sold.

Grade 1 canned chicken means that the meat is produced from chicken making the highest quality of canned product. The meat will make up from 50 to 56 per cent of the jellied pack and not less than 75 per cent of the solid pack. The remained of the can is filled with broth in which the meat has been pre-cooked and which also must be of definite quality.

The Department officers point out that the grading of canned poultry is a development of the nationwide grading of dressed poultry which it introduced some years ago. A consumer accustomed to buying with confidence dressed poultry by grade, will now have the same assurance in buying canned poultry.

In devising these regulations, which cover not only chicken but all kinds of poultry canned on and after September 1, the Department has received assistance and co-operation in the technical aspects of canning from the National Research Council and has been in consultation with the canned poultry trade.
