M'GILL WILL GAIN BY GIFT OF ROCKEFELLER

Research Work in Medicine to be Carried on by Local Man

DETAILS OF PLAN NOT YET SETTLED

The Millionaire Asked for Permission to Have a Student Work Here

As part of a plan for research work on behalf of humanity, for which Mr. J. D. Rockefeller is supplying the funds, investigations will be begun in the pathological laboratory attached to the medical department of McGill University. The work will be carried on by a McGill man.

This is all the information that is available here in reference to Mr. Rockefeller's latest gift towards college work. Professor Adami, professor of pathology, under whose immediate direction the research work here will be carried on, told a Herald reporter this morning that Mr. Rockefeller's present intention is to give $50,000 to permit of medical research being carried on along many lines in which it is now being undertaken, and that he had applied to McGill University for permission to have one man conduct investigations in the pathological laboratory of that college. The details of the plan have not been made known to the college authorities yet, but the permission asked for has been accorded willingly.

WHAT NEW YORK HEARS.

Cleveland, June 3.—The Plain Dealer says: "John D. Rockefeller is said to have given a sum of money to the extent of a million dollars for the founding of an institution for medical research."

New York, June 3.—The Herald says to-day: "Within a comparatively few days the work on behalf of science and humanity which the newly incorporated Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research is to carry on will be started in the pathological laboratories of half a dozen universities in this country, and one in Canada, and in the laboratory of the Health Department of this city. Among the centres of the work will be the University of Chicago.

Indications are that the $200,000 which Mr. Rockefeller has given as the capital of the new institution is a trifling sum compared with what he contemplates giving to the same cause.

"The work will be done at Columbia University, Harvard University, the University of Chicago, the University of Michigan, the University of Pennsylvania, Johns Hopkins University, McGill University of Montreal, and the headquarters of the New York Health Department. The directors of the new Rockefeller Institute will have supervision over it, but it will be performed by physicians whom they will employ and who will work more or less independently in the different places mentioned. The heads of the various pathological laboratories will have general charge of the investigation, whether they happen to be directors of the institute or not. The directors will be the sole regulators of the expenditure of the $200,000 provided they will meet to discuss the result of the work, and will jointly give out the information which it may have developed through the ordinary channels. The work may go on for a year or two before definite plans are made for a permanent institution.

EXHIBIT FROM NORTHWEST

Territories Will Send Live Stock to Pan-American.

BRONCHOS, RANGE HORSES, STEERS, AND SHEEP WILL BE SHIPPED TO BUFFALO.

Buffalo, June 3.—The North-West Territories of Canada have decided to make a live stock exhibit at the Pan-American Exposition.

On the 10th of August, 1900, Superintendent Converse wrote to the Government of the North-West Territories urging them to make an exhibit. This morning he received a reply from Charles W. Peterson, of Regina, deputy commissioner of the Department of Agriculture, stating that the Government had decided to confine its efforts to making a creditable live stock exhibit.

With this [illegible] deputy commissioner Peterson writes: "[illegible] North-West Canada will send [illegible] best range-fed wethers to the [illegible], also four carloads of range [illegible] steers to the cattle show of the [illegible] and short-horn breeds, not eligible to registration.

It is proposed to make horses the leading feature of the North Western Canadian live stock exhibit. It will include a four-in-hand team of bronchos, a carload of range horses, selected teams of heavy draught coach horses and hackneys, one [illegible] two thoroughbreds, cavalry chargers [illegible] gentlemen's saddle horses.

[illegible] is the intention to sell all these exhibits at public auction in Buffalo after the exhibition is over."

MUCH UNEASINESS.

New York, June 3.—A special to the [illegible] from London says the uncertainty in regard to recent operations in South Africa is causing a good deal of uneasiness in this country. It is believed that owing to [illegible] warning from General Kitchener as to giving news to the public, the home officials have suppressed almost all the news he has forwarded.

Meanwhile the daily lists of casualties are anxiously studied, but these lists do not fully denote the actual number of deaths of British soldiers caused by the war. At the present moment all the military hospitals in the United Kingdom are crowded with patients, a large number of whom are suffering from enteric fever contracted in South Africa.

THE SHAMROCK DRY-DOCKED.

Southampton, June 3.—The Shamrock II. will be dry docked to-morrow and she will start for the Clyde Tuesday, June 11, to have her new steel mast fitted.

FELL OFF THE BANK AND WAS DROWNED

Mr. Hy. Anderson, 602 Cadieux St., Meets Death Yesterday. Body Not Recovered.

A melancholy accident happened yesterday morning, whereby Mr. Henry Anderson, aged 27, of 602 Cadieux Street, met a sudden death by drowning. He had spent the night, together with a number of companions, in fishing in the river just below Victoria Bridge. About six o'clock all had left excepting Mr. Anderson and his friend, Mr. Geo. Lallemand. The latter had his head turned away for a few minutes, and when he looked again to where Anderson had been sitting, he heard a splash, and saw nothing of his friend but his hands just disappearing beneath the water. Mr. Anderson never appeared again, and Mr. Lallemand is of the opinion that he must have dozed, owing to having been awake all night, and had slipped off the bank into the water. Mr. Anderson wore his overcoat at the time, and the weight of this, no doubt, tended to keep him down. The current is swift at the spot where the accident occurred, and it is [illegible] that the body will [illegible] down the river.

The deceased was a son of Mr. William Anderson, for many years connected with the [illegible], and a brother of Mr. Alex. Anderson, of Ottawa, and of Mrs. Foster, of The Herald business office.

MARCONI SYSTEM A SUCCESS ON OCEAN VESSELS

Lake Champlain's Installation a Triumph for Wireless Telegraphy.

MESSAGES RECEIVED SIXTY MILES OUT

While Going at Full Speed. A Station Needed in the Gulf.

The Marconi system of wireless telegraphy has been applied to ocean vessels, and has been demonstrated to be a complete success.

The Lake Champlain, of the Elder-Dempster line, the first ocean-going commercial vessel to be equipped with the new system, arrived in port this morning, and many visitors went on board to see the apparatus. Captain Stewart and his officers are highly pleased that their vessel should have had the honor of proving the usefulness of wireless telegraph communication as applied to trans-Atlantic travel.

The battery and instruments for the ship's installation are placed in a small cabin built for the purpose aft of the deck house. A pole was lashed to the top of the mizzen mast and a wire led from this to the instruments below. The top of the pole was some fifty feet above the deck of the steamer. The installation was put in under the direction of Captain Daly, well-known in Montreal as the former commander of the Mexico, who is now marine superintendent of the Marconi International Marine Communication Co., Ltd. The expert in charge of the experiment on the vessel is Mr. F. Stacey, of Signor Marconi's staff. The installation is, of course, only a trial one, and was put up in less than a day, but the results were most successful.

When passing the coast stations at Holyhead, at the Lizard, and at Rosslare, in County Wexford, the vessel got into communication with the stations, and was as much in touch with the world as if she had been lying at her berth. After signals had been exchanged telegrams from passengers to their friends on shore occupied Mr. Stacey's attention for some hours, and a number of answers were received from shore. The ship was in communication with one station, while approaching it and drawing away from it, for something like six hours, all the time going at full speed. Messages passed between the shore station and the Lake Champlain station as long as there were any to transmit, and when the last one was sent there were sixty miles of ocean between the two points.

It is understood that the installation on the Lake Champlain will be made permanent when she returns home and the other vessels of the Elder-Dempster line will probably be supplied with Marconi installations also. In addition to the stations mentioned there will be one at Crookhaven, between Cape Clear and Mizen Head, on the south-west coast of Ireland, by the time the Lake Champlain arrives back, so that she will be able to communicate with the shore some hours before the Green Isle is sighted. In fact, it will probably be known in Montreal by friends of passengers that the ship has reached the other side safely before she has been observed by the signal stations there.

In order to make the use of wireless telegraphy of benefit to vessels entering the St. Lawrence it will be necessary to have coast stations at Cape Race, Belle Isle, or somewhere in that vicinity. While the Lake Champlain is here Hon. Mr. Tarte will be asked to have a look at the Marconi instruments, and this matter will be brought to his notice. From the remarks that have fallen from the minister's lips from time to time it is thought he will be very willing to aid in the establishment of a Canadian station.

The Lake Champlain had a pleasant trip. There were a number of saloon and many [illegible] on board, who were debarked at Halifax, and they had a royal time on board. One day a programme of athletic events was pulled off, in which many of the passengers took part. Over [illegible] thousand immigrants were brought out, and landed at Quebec.

M'KINLEY STILL PROTECTIONIST

Statement in Alleged Interview With Mr. Siegfried Strenuously Denied.

Cleveland, [illegible] June 3.—Senator Hanna [illegible] the President [illegible] the Republican [illegible] a modification [illegible] Dingley tariff [illegible] the text [illegible] seven [illegible] years. When asked what he thought of M. Siegfried's statement in a Montreal [illegible] that President McKinley had told him he was no longer an ultra protectionist, [illegible]:

"Of course, I cannot assume to speak for the President, but I may say that I don't believe the President ever said anything to M. Siegfried or any[illegible] else. M. Siegfried's statement must have been based on a misunderstanding.

"I have talked with the President and I know [illegible] position. Mr. McKinley [illegible]. He believes [illegible] extending the [illegible] of the United States [illegible] reciprocity treaties, which provide [illegible] mutual concessions.

"Personally I agree with the President. There will not be, in my opinion, any attempt to modify the Dingley tariff law for several years. I believe that reciprocity is the only method by which concessions can be made to the nations of Europe in the matter of tariff changes."

The Senator intimated that if the reciprocity treaties were taken up at the next session of the Senate and received consideration from the proper committees they would be ratified.

REPUDIATED IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, June 3.—M. Jules Siegfried's second version of his recent interview with the President, in which he is represented as saying that President McKinley told him he was no longer an ultra protectionist, is repudiated in Washington.

Immediately after his call at the White House, several weeks ago, the former French Minister gave out here a statement which differed materially from the one attributed to him in Montreal, and which is understood to be more nearly correct.

It was said that when he called upon the President the conversation was of the most general character. M. Siegfried recalled his former visit to Washington and spoke of the changes he noticed. The commercial relations between the two countries and the advantages of reciprocity were discussed. Nothing was said by the President, it is stated, that would justify the interpretation, attributed to M. Siegfried, who may have misunderstood the President or may not have been correctly reported.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Vankleek Hill, June 3.—Mr. D. N. McLeod, tailor, of this town, failed to answer calls for breakfast at his boarding-house this morning. An investigation by a physician revealed the fact that the young man was dead. He led the Christian Endeavor services in Knox Church last night, and was in the best of health when he left his friends at 10.30 p.m. He was a single man about thirty years of age.

DROWNED AT MASSENA.

Watertown, N.Y., June 3.—A special to the Standard from Massena says: While going to work about 8 o'clock last evening James Cowles, captain of the hydraulic dredge Yankee, and Thomas Cogan, a deck hand, were drowned in the canal by having their canoe capsized.

All the men selected are actually in residence this term, and everyone competed at the last Inter-Varsity sports last March.

SHERIFF'S SALES.

In the case of W. J. Henderson against Mary J. Donahue, the lot and dwelling in Westmount belonging to the latter was sold at sheriff's sale to the estate of the late Wm. Dow for $7,100.

On the 30th of May a sheriff's sale took place of certain lots in Westmount owned by Mrs. R. L. Thompson, at the instance of R. H. Warden, trustee of the aged and infirm ministers' relief fund. The lots were bought in by the plaintiff at $1,800.

CROWD FOUGHT TO GET TICKETS FOR MANSFIELD

As a Result Montreal Will Pay About $6,500 to See "Henry V." For Two Days

CRUSH WAS BIG FOR THREE HOURS

There Were Some People Fainted and the Bluffers Were Numerous.

As early as seven o'clock this morning some twenty people were clustered at the door of the Academy of Music waiting patiently for a chance to purchase tickets for Richard Mansfield's two performances of "Henry V." And as if to show that the old saying that the early bird catches the worm is as unreliable as a five cent cigar, some of these did not get inside the lobby for nearly three hours later. The newcomers forced them to the northern side of the door. And thus the St. Catherine Street crowd forced their way in first. The strain of endeavoring to wedge their way in was too much for some of these early visitors. One elderly gentleman fainted three times after finally getting his place in line. And two or three ladies had to be assisted to seats and given ice water to enable them to recover from the effects of the crush.

Sharp at nine o'clock the big policeman opened the doors and stretched his brawny arm to keep back the furious [illegible] of the crowd. And it says much for the good faith of the Academy that at that moment every ticket was in the rack. Not one had been taken out to favor anyone. All day Saturday and yesterday the telephone rang almost continuously at the private residence of Manager Edwards by people anxious to avoid the crush. One man offered $25 for five tickets for either night. But to all the reply was the same. No exception could be made for anybody. The management had promised the public that the sale should begin at nine o'clock only, and were determined to keep faith. Consequently, everyone had a perfectly even chance. As to those who forwarded money and requests for tickets by mail, the missives were numbered as they were received and taken up in rotation as the crush at the selling wicket lessened.

Elaborate precautions were taken to prevent speculation in tickets. Only four for each night were sold to any one person, and the line was carefully scrutinized to prevent anyone passing the wicket twice. In cases where more than four tickets were asked the tickets were sold. But all over four were placed in an envelope marked with the purchaser's name and retained in the box office until 7 o'clock on the night of the performance. This effectually checked the speculators and quite a number of disappointed men fell out of the line.

At ten o'clock all the dollar seats had been sold and only the higher-priced ones remained. By twelve o'clock some $4,000 had been taken in. And Manager Edwards predicted that Mansfield would play to about $6,500 for the two nights. This looks a huge sum. But it must be remembered that the running expenses of "Henry V." are over $2,000 per night. And with this in view, the proportion of Mansfield's profit are not so very large.

Of course, in a crowd like that which fought its way in, at the expense of hats knocked in, linen rumpled, veils torn off, back combs lost and rubbers left behind, a good deal of human nature was evident. Many and varied were the "bluffs" put up to get in at the private entrance. Never were the employes of the house so popular. Hundreds of people wanted to see them. They wanted to tell them that their wives were taken sick, that their houses were on fire, that their babies had the croup. Above all, they wanted to get in and give their messages in person. But the iron-visaged janitor was adamant. Not a soul got by him. In vain did pretty girls suddenly become sick and faint right opposite the door and beg to be let in to sit down and get a glass of water. The man who rushed up with an important face and announced that he was a doctor who had been telephoned for to attend to the fainting women was turned down as good and hard as the man who stated he was a lawyer called to examine into the contract. The electrical expert who wanted to fix the wires met the same fate as the man who thirsted to look at the meter. No one got in except through the regular entrance. But Nemesis waited on that janitor. He wanted to get two-dollar seats for himself, and the crowd of "bluffers" kept him so busy that before he could leave the door all the dollar seats were gone. Slowly and reluctantly he put up for two two-dollar ones. And the next "bluffer" who tried the door received a response that caused him to reach St. Catherine street in three jumps.

By ten o'clock the crowd of men was replaced by women. And those who are accustomed to speak of them as the "gentler" sex should have seen the way in which they formed themselves into "flying wedges" and bucked the line in a way that a football scrimmager would envy. At half-past ten the big policeman had accumulated an armful of back-hair combs, stray rubbers, gloves, hat pins and torn veils. Not until eleven o'clock did the rush commence to abate, and all afternoon there was a steady dribble of men and women into the box office. What the rush will be when the gallery doors open on Wednesday night can only be imagined. But the ticket taker on the gallery door has taken out an accident policy.

WAR OFFICE IS STILL RETICENT

The Vlakfontein Affair Has Not Been Explained—Kitchener's Instructions.

London, June 3.—The War Office is making no effort to allay the public uneasiness occasioned by the scantiness of the news from South Africa. Nothing has yet come through to illuminate the Vlakfontein affair, the only despatch on the subject since the first official announcement being a three-line message from Lord Kitchener, issued this morning, giving the names of three additional officers killed.

Details just received of the relief of Zeerust, Transvaal, May 22, by General Methuen, show the town was besieged practically for several months, and that its food supply was short.

A despatch from Pretoria announces that the constabulary have captured Abram Malan, son-in-law of the late General Joubert. Malan was an energetic, progressive politician before the war, and since it began he had been very active against the British, and had filled several important commands, including that of Pietersburg, until the British occupied the place.

OTTAWA CATCHES STRIKE FEVER

Ottawa, June 3.—The strike fever struck Ottawa to-day. One hundred machine woodworkers went on strike for a 20 per cent increase in wages. The firms affected are the Ottawa Car Company, 25 men; Thackray & Davidson, 30; the W. C. Edwards Co., 40. The men demand recognition of their union as well as increases. Attempts to settle the matter amicably failed, as the employers would not consider any increases nor would they treat with the union.

The carpenters of the city are also on strike for twenty-five cents an hour minimum wage. Many of the men get from seventeen to twenty cents an hour, some get twenty-five, and an effort is being made to get the larger amount for all hands. Some of the employers who are paying a few men twenty-five cents an hour say others are not worth it, and they refuse to pay the same rate to all. The carpenters first tried to get an amicable settlement but failed.

The twenty-five tinsmiths who went out on Saturday are still out.

MAXIM'S NEW EXPLOSIVE

Said to be the Most Powerful Yet Discovered.

UNITED STATES, AFTER EXHAUSTIVE TESTS, BUYS SECRET FROM INVENTOR.

New York, June 3.—The Press says:—Maximite, the new explosive invented by Hudson Maxim, has been adopted by this country after a series of successful tests at the Sandy Hook proving grounds. The secret of the explosive has been sold to the Government by the inventor, and the explosive, it is thought, may revolutionize warfare. It is said to be more deadly in its character than lyddite, yet so safely can it be handled that the danger attaching to its use is less than that incurred in transporting ordinary black powder. The tests indicate that the explosive will pierce a 12-inch Harveyized nickel-steel armor plate and explode on the other side with sufficient power to destroy everything with which it comes in contact. The inventor thinks the moral of these developments is that the ponderous battleship must go and be replaced by the small, swift torpedo boat or torpedo gun boat and cruiser.

GERMANS AND FRENCH FIGHT FUSILIERS

Serious Affray at Pekin Results in Wounding of Many Soldiers.

BRITISH SOLDIERS ACTING AS POLICE

While in Discharge of Duties They Came Into Conflict With Other Foreigners.

Tien Tsin, June 3.—There was a serious affray yesterday between international troops. Some British fusiliers, who were acting as police here and preventing French soldiers from housebreaking, were attacked with bayonets and bricks. The Fusiliers responded by firing into the air. This brought a number of Germans to the aid of the Frenchmen. They numbered together 200 men. Five Fusiliers fired again, this time killing a Frenchman and wounding three others. In subsequent fighting four Fusiliers, five Germans and one Japanese were wounded. The arrival of a German officer and a strong guard ended the fray.

VON WALDERSEE LEAVES.

Pekin, June 3.—The departure of Field-Marshal Count Von Waldersee from Pekin to-day was marked by a great military display by the allied troops, the booming of artillery and the playing of bands. The entire diplomatic body escorted the Field-Marshal to the depot.

Von Rauch, the aide-de-camp and nephew of Count Von Waldersee, will remain here to escore Prince Chun, the Emperor's brother, to Berlin, where he will formally apologize in behalf of China for the murder of Baron Von Ketteler.

CARNEGIE'S PLAN IMPRACTICABLE

The Principals of Four Scotch Universities Decide Scheme of Free Fees Will Not Do.

London, June 3.—The principals of the four Scotch universities—Glasgow, Edinburgh, St. Andrew's and Aberdeen—to the free students of which Carnegie munificently gave $7,500,000, have decided that the scheme proposed for the utilization of the gift is impracticable. So Mr. Carnegie has consented to place his gift in the hands of Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Secretary for Scotland, who is now engaged in a consultation with the principals and drawing up a modified scheme.

The money will now be applied mainly, if not wholly, not to providing fees, but to an endowment for scientific and technical instruction, in which the Scotch universities are far behind those of America and the Continent.

The principals would prefer to have the money given in a lump sum to each university, leaving to the discretion of the governing bodies how it should be applied; but Mr. Carnegie does not take the same view.

CANADIAN SHIPS MAY WITHDRAW

There is trouble on in the Atlantic passenger trade pool. About eight years ago all the companies running ships to North America, except the Elder-Dempster Co. formed a pool, and drew up certain restrictions and regulations by which they agreed to be governed. One of these restrictions is that Canadian and British steamships sailing to North America are only allowed to carry 6 per cent. of the so-called continental traffic to North America, and of course a very much larger percentage than the share allotted to the Canadian lines want to come to Canada.

The Elder-Dempster Co., however, not being in the pool, or conference, as it is called, lowered the steerage rates and secured a large percentage of the immigration business from Continental Europe, which it took from the continental steamship lines. Thus the Elder-Dempster Company has so far proved a partial outlet for intending settlers, and by cutting rates to this continent a considerable number bound for the United States have come by this line. Such being the case, the conference lines running to New York have lately invoked the aid of the immigration authorities in Washington to assist them in crushing out the competition from the Elder-Dempster Line by appointing inspectors to examine immigrants destined for the United States at the frontier ports. Now the situation is that the United States authorities have threatened to hold up every C.P.R. and G.T.R. train crossing the border containing foreign emigrants bound for the United States from 12 to 24 hours, and make it as unpleasant as possible for the passengers, regardless, of course, as to whether they have crossed the ocean on the "conference" steamships or by the Elder-Dempster Company's vessels. The Canadian railways and steamship companies are very much disturbed, and are now threatening the Atlantic steamship companies sailing to New York, which have stirred up these complications, that they will withdraw from the pooling arrangement unless the proposed methods are dropped.

Dream Fancies

YOU DIDN'T FEEL a magnetic thrill probably, but the fact is, Hon. R. L. Borden is in town, and he and his 1st Lieut., Hon. F. D. It is needless to observe that the great commanders of the other's Conservatives in Canada hadn't been there long enough to inhale four good sized mouthfuls of air before the Gazette dream writer had Hon. You Are Not Sick

But Feel Miserable

Nearly everybody seems to complain more or less at this season of the year. You feel the need of some tonic to put new strength and energy into the system. You don't sleep well, and suffer more or less from headache and dyspepsia. It may be you are depressed and discouraged, and feel the affairs of everyday life a burden. Little things worry and irritate you. You are not sick, but lack the vitality that is necessary for health and happiness.

There is one preparation which is doing wonders these days as a restorative and nerve invigorator, and that is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It is different from any medicine you ever used, for instead of tearing down the tissues of the body it builds them up, and so thoroughly fills the system with new life and vigor as to overcome pains and aches, weaknesses and irregularities. It is surprising what a host of people are using this great food cure. A few week's trial will convince you of its singular merit.

PRACTICAL SHOOTING

Ottawa, June 2.—(Special.)—The prize list for the Bisley meeting, which has just been received here, shows that a new prize, a silver cup, given by Earl Roberts, will be shot for under military conditions of a very practical character. The competing teams, from any cavalry or infantry unit of the home, Indian or colonial forces, will consist each of one noncommissioned officer of any rank, and nine lance-corporals or privates, to fire ten shots from the magazine rifle and under novel conditions. Each man will have a target to himself, placed on the ground line, the target being a life-size representation of the head and shoulders of a man in the act of firing. The teams will be extended to three pace intervals in rear of a small breastwork, three feet high, which may be used as a rest, the men taking cover behind the works so completely as to conceal themselves and rifles from view from the targets. At a whistle signal each man will raise into any suitable firing position, fire one shot at his target and drop down under cover. The remaining shots will be fired in the same manner, with an interval of but six seconds between shots.

STRIKES BEGUN AND ENDED

Toronto, June 3.—Affairs at strike headquarters of the machinists yesterday were decidedly lively. Over a hundred delegates have arrived from all parts of the United States to attend the convention, which opens to-day, and President O'Connell has been able to get in closer touch with the situation than it is possible to do by wire. Mr. W. Nelligan, who is in charge of the strike in the Chicago district, arrived and held a consultation with the headquarters' officers. Mr. O'Connell afterwards announced that the allied trades of Chicago were prepared to go out on strike to help the machinists if requested to do so. This would involve 25,000 men, and Mr. O'Connell thinks there is no necessity for such a step, as the machinists are in a position to enforce their demands.

Among the settlements reported since Saturday are the W. A. & P. Railway, of Anaconda, which has signed the agreement. The Spokane Iron Works offer their men a nine hours' day with no reduction in wages. The men asked for a 20 per cent. increase, and Mr. O'Connell says he does not understand why they did so. He has wired them to accept the offer. The Bettes Company, a big concern, of Wilmington, Del., offer to introduce the nine-hour day in September, and pay overtime for the hour till then. The Payne Engineering Company of Elmira have stated that they will reopen their shops on the nine-hour principle. The men of the New York Central shops at Depew struck illegally, and in an unauthorized way, and the convention will decide what action is to be taken in respect to them.

BROCKVILLE LIBERALS

Brockville, June 3.—(Special.) — The complete answer to the yarns that have been circulated by the Conservative press was given Saturday by one of the largest Liberal conventions ever held in this riding, when George P. Graham, M.P.P., was again unanimously chosen to again contest the riding, there being no other nominee mentioned. The officers of the association elected were:

President—John A. Mackenzie.
Secretary—Mr. C. Franklin.
Vice-president for Brockville—D. W. Downey.
Vice-president for Front Yonge and Escott, A. W. Mallory, sr.
Vice-president for Rear Yonge and Escott, A. W. Kelly.
Vice-president for Athens, I. C. Alguire.
Vice-president for Elizabethtown, R. M. Arnold.

The following resolution was unanimously passed:

Moved by D. Derbyshire, seconded by W. H. McNish,—"That the Liberals of Brockville riding in convention assembled, hereby re-affirm our confidence in the Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his Government, being wise, progressive and economical. We find their policy exactly suited to the requirements of this young and growing country, and we hereby pledge ourselves anew and promise them our loyal support."

Moved by W. A. Lewis, seconded by D. D. Tennant,—"That the Liberals of the Brockville riding in convention assembled beg to express their confidence in the administration of the Hon. G. W. Ross and his colleagues. We express our appreciation of the able mannner in which they have managed the affairs of the province and the energetic steps they are taking to develop the resources and encourage the industries of our noble province. We pledge our unanimous support to Mr. Ross and his colleagues and our hearty determination to use every effort to maintain them in power."

These were carried with enthusiasm, short and good speeches being made by Messrs. D. Derbyshire and W. A. Lewis.

J. Neilson's grove, at Lyn, was fixed on as the place for the Liberal meeting in July, and the next order of business was the nomination of candidates. D. W. Downey, ex-Mayor of Brockville, spoke in very eulogistic terms of the present member, Mr. Graham, and moved that he be the candidate. The motion was seconded by W. G. Parish, of Athens, who said no man could poll as large a vote in the rear of the riding as Mr. Graham. The president asked for further nominations, but received none, the reply being three cheers for the present member, and he was declared the unanimous choice of the convention.

Mr. Graham thanked the Liberals warmly for the renewal of confidence and gave a brief review of the work of the past session, after which one of the best conventions ever held in the riding closed with cheers for the King, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. George W. Ross and the candidate.

THE ST. BERNARD AWARDS.

The Sporting Editor of The Montreal Herald:

Dear Sir,—In your report of the Dog Show, I notice several errors in the St. Bernard awards which I would like to have corrected in your next issue. The special for the best male was won by Miss Betts' "Blanco." Our bitch, "Lady Hereward," won the best for her sex, the Canadian Kennel Club medal for the best specimen in show, dog or bitch, the Montreal Canine Association medal, Austin Young & Co.'s special, and Christie Brown & Co.'s special. Miss Betts' "Blanco" captured most of the specials in the male classes. We did not show "Rosy O'Grady" this time, therefore her name should not appear among the winners. Trusting you will find room for this in your sporting colums, I am, respectfully yours,

Frank Stuart.

THE PORT TRAFFIC BEGINS WELL

Shipping and Revenue Show a Good Advance on Last Year.

The navigation season has started well at the Port of Montreal. The figures up to the 1st of June, submitted at the weekly meeting of the Harbor Board, held today under the presidency of the Hon. Robert Mackay, show that thirty-four more vessels visited the port than last year, that they represented more than 100,000 additional tonnage; and that the customs revenue is $544.33 more than last year, exclusive of a sum of $2,000 due, but not actually paid within the month, but which if counted, would make the actual increase $2,544.33.

The rearrangement of the itineary so as to include the new element introduced into it by the invitation from the Mayor and Corporation of Owen Sound to the Commissioners and officals to be their guests at a citizens' banquet, which has been fixed for next Friday evening.

It was this invitation which caused the change of plans that led to the postponement of the trip from Saturday last, as originally arranged.

It has now been decided that the members of the Board who go to the banquet, shall leave on Thursday evening. They will remain in Owen Sound until Saturday leaving on that day by C.P.R. steamer for the "Soo." They spend Monday at Sault Ste. Marie and will be in Duluth to-morrow week, Minneapolis on Wednesday, the 12th inst., Chicago on Thursday the 13th and Buffalo, Friday, the 14th. This programme is subject to rearrangement and has simply been prepared by the officials as the minimum time in which the trip can be made. It only provides for six hours stay in Chicago, which, it is felt, is very short time, indeed, for the inspection of the multfarious industries connected with the transportation of freight, especially package freight. The trip up from Owen Sound to Sault Ste. Marie will give the commissioners the opportunity of seeing the splendid arrangements for the lighting and buoying the navigation channel which the harbor engineer declares to be amongst the best that could be devised.

Only three of the commissioners—the president, Mr. Bickerdike and Mr. Racine—will be able to go to Owen Sound in time for the banquet, and they will be accompanied by Mr. Kennedy, the harbor engineer and Mr. Seath, the secretary to the Commissioners; Mr. Torrance and Mr. Contant will leave on Friday night to join the party at Owen Sound on Saturday in time to make the trip up the channel. Most of the other members will meet the party at Buffalo on their return on Friday the 14th inst.

The Employment Committee reported that they had modified the rules relating to employment so that the mechanical superintendents should have the power to employ the men under the supervision of the chief engineer, and that in all cases of application for employment those recommended by the Commissioners should have preference if found duly qualified. The report was adopted.

A letter was received from Messrs. Kingman and Company and Henry Dobell and Company, asking for authority to erect sheds on the new wharf opposite Bonsecours market, where they understood they were to be alloted space for their steamers. The secretary reported that the matter had been referred to the harbor master who had reported favorably upon the applications and fixed the amount of space to be given to each. The harbor master's recommendation was approved by the board.

ELECTION IS VOIDED

Fredericton, June 3.—(Special.)—Chief Justice Tuck and Judge Hannington opened the York election court at 11 a.m. today for the trial of the petition of Rev. Dr. McLeod, against Alex. Gibson, Liberal member for the county, at Ottawa, and the whole proceedings were done in half an hour. T. J. Gregory, counsel for respondent, admitted his agents having hired teams and given electors dinners on polling day, and consented to the seat being declared vacant. O. S. Crocket, for petitioner, announced that Dr. McLeod would not press his claim to the seat or the personal charges against respondent. The Chief Justice then gave judgment declaring the election void and the court adjourned sine die.

SALE OF TIMBER LIMITS

Quebec, June 3.—(Special.)—Large numbers of lumbermen from all parts of Eastern Canada are expected to-morrow for the big annual sale of crown timber limits. The sale last year realized over a quarter of a million dollars cash. The list this year is longer, and the most of the forest lands to be sold are more convenient for buyers than formerly. It is expected that the receipts from the sale will reach or surpass the record.

A BILL POSTING TRUST.

The bill posting companies of Canada are becoming somewhat alarmed over the action of certain delegates from the International Bill Posters' Association of the United States, which is quietly endeavoring to buy up the bill posting concerns of Canada with the view to forming a "trust" on genuine American lines. From all over Canada comes news of offers made to buy out plants. In this city one of the prominent bill posting concerns declined an offer of $7,000 in good crisp Bank of Montreal bills. And when the offer was increased by the addition of $5,000 in stock and a position at $1,200 a year for the manager, it was still refused. An offer of $5,000 in cash and $5,000 in stock was made to the principal bill posting concern in Quebec. And many other firms have been approached. Those who declined have been invited to attend the annual meeting of the International Bill Posters' Association in Buffalo on July 7 next, where further arguments will be adduced.

LE PIONNIER'S ATTACK.

The article in Le Pionnier, under the head of "A Reign of Terror," accusing the Secretary-General of the Bar of altering the examination sheets of candidates, favoring his friends and preventing those he dislikes from ever becoming advocates, has naturally called forth an immediate response from Mr. Globensky. It is said that he has sent an ultimatum to Mr. Robillard, the editor, to the effect that if a retraction is not immediately published in the evening papers he will cause his arrest on a charge of criminal libel. Mr. Robillard is consulting his legal advisers.

THE LOAN OFFER.

Editor Herald :—

Sir,—Messrs. Melville & Aldred, of which firm I am a member, offered the city of Montreal, through the Finance Committee, 97 for $1,500,000 forty-year three and a half per cent. bonds. The Finance Committee rejected the offer, preferring to take chances on the future of the bond market. If this offer is referred to the bankers or prominent business men, they would probably find that in almost every instance they would approve of the city having accepted it. Very truly yours,

J. E. ALDRED.

MR. ED. WHYMPER HERE WITH GUIDES

Will Start for North to Explore Yoho Valley and Will Climb Assiniboine After.

Bronzed and weather-beaten, but bearing his sixty-one years and his mountains of travel with singular lightness, Mr. Edward Whymper gold medallist of the Royal Geographical Society, Knight of the Order of St. Maurice and St. Lazare, and member of all the Alpine clubs, arrived here last evening, accompanied by four Swiss guides of his own choosing, for the purpose of spending the summer in climbing and exploring the Canadian Rockies.

Mr. Whymper, who came over by the Australasian, is staying at the Place Viger and will leave for Banff on to-morrow or Wednesday. In the meantime he is in consultation with the Canadian Pacific Railway authorities with regard to his movements. Since first he made his famous ascent of the Matterhorn Mr. Whymper has done so many feats of mountaineering both in the Alps and the Andes that his name 's known wherever bountaineering is talked about.

According to his present plans he will devote three or at least two summers to the Canadian Rockies, going to England in the autumn and returning again in the spring. He will make his headquarters at Banff and will begin forthwith his exploration of the Yoho Valley in which there are a number of peaks and glaciers which have never been explored. After Yoho, he will attack Mount Assiniboine which has hitherto resisted the efforts of all mountaineers to ascend its summit, including the redoutable Walling Brothers of Chicago, whose adventurous attempt of last summer nearly cost the entire party their lives.

Mr. Whymper will be accompanied on his expedition by Messrs. S. A. Franklyn and F. Franklyn, of Halifax, who joined him here to-day. His Swiss guides are Klucker, Kaufmann, Bossonby and Pollinger. The party will devote attention to prospecting for minerals and to scientific work, which come within the domains of natural history and botany. Mr. Whymper was originally trained as an artist in wood, and his knowledge of technique in art has been of no inconsiderable value to him in his geological discoveries.

ST. JAMES CHURCH TO WAIT

Hamilton Conference Decides Not to Aid it at Present.

LARGE FACTION CONSIDERED THE OBLIGATION DEMANDED IMMEDIATE ACTION.

Hamilton, June 3.—At Saturday's session of the Hamilton Methodist Conference, the committee appointed to consider the pleas of St. James' Church, Montreal, and Dundas Street Church, Woodstock, recommended that the question of aiding the latter church be taken up immediately, but that St. James' Church be left for consideration in the near future. Considerable discussion took place on the recommendation, in which the general belief expressed was that the conference, in view of former pledges, was as much under obligation to St. James' Church as to Dundas Street Church. A motion was moved that the matter be referred back to the committee, but it was postponed for further consideration. Next year's conference, it has been decided, will be held in Woodstock.

The Sunday Blue Law crusade began several weeks ago and has been pushed by one side and opposed by another with fierce energy. It was started because of Sunday baseball playing.

THE CONGREGATIONAL COLLEGE.

Toronto, June 3.—(Special.)—Rev. Principal George, of the Congregational College, Montreal, in speaking in Olivet Church here last night, referred to the satisfactory condition of the Montreal College. Three years ago there was but one professor on the staff, while now there were three professors and three lecturers. At the close of each year there had also been a surplus in the college funds. The college he said did not make any attempt at the so-called liberal education. Its teaching was first, last and always Christian. He made complimentary reference to McGill College and Toronto College ,and strongly urged that intending candidates for the ministry be young men of great physical strength.

In addition to Principal George, the following Montreal and Quebec men will take part in the annual Congregational meeting, which commences here on Wednesday :—Prof. Warriner, Mr. S. P. Leet, Rev. Hugh Pedley, Rev. D. S. Hamilton, Montreal; Rev. F. J. Day, Sherbrooke.

MOUNT ST. LOUIS CADETS.

The Mount St. Louis College Cadets underwent their annual inspection Saturday afternoon on the Champ de Mars before Lieut.-Col. Roy, D.O.C. The Cadets, five companies, arrived on the Champ de Mars at 2 o'clock. Their cycle corps and maxim gun detachments also attended. All the movements asked for by the inspecting officer, were carried out smartly and well. The efficiency of the corps was highly praised by Lt.-Col. Roy Sergt. Major Phillips deserves the greatest credit for his work with the cadets. After inspection the Cadets showed their appreciation by presenting him with a handsome sword.

PONS-LITTLE CASE OVER.

Edmond Condon, alias Emosser, Gedeon Perry and Dan McLeod alias Little who were charged with conspiracy to defraud Mr. Joseph Thompson, of this city, in connection with wagers made on the result of the Pons-Little wrestling match in April last were this morning honorably acquitted by Mr. Justice Choquet, who held there was no evidence.

SHIRTS AND COLLARS.

New York, June 3.—The Mail and Express says that under the title of the American Shirt and Collar Company, a $20,000,000 linen goods manufacturers' trust will be incorporated under the laws of this State. It will control completely the wholesale shirt and collar trade of the country. The retailers, it is said, regard the combination with disfavor. It was learned to-day that at a meeting held last Tuesday, in Troy, a tentative agreement, signed by eight of the largest manufacturers, met the approval of nine others, who expressed their willingness to ratify the combination.

CONSTABLE FALLS INTO THE TRAP

Policeman Plouffe Takes Gold Watch From a Supposed Drunken Man.

Constable D. Plouffe, De Lorimier Avenue, who for the last three years has been on the city police force and attached to No. 3 station, was arraigned in the Police Court this morning on the charge of stealing a watch from a prisoner whom he had arrested. He was not asked to plead, as his counsel, Mr. P. E. Leblanc, K.C., was engaged in another case in the Superior Court. The charge was read to him, however, and he was remanded until 2 o'clock this afternoon. In the meantime he was placed in the cells adjoining the Police Court.

The charge made against Constable Plouffe is the result of a well laid trap prepared under the direction of Police Inspector Lapointe. Constable De Bellefeuille, of No. 2 station, was ordered to appear Saturday afternoon at the Inspector's office in plain clothes. He was taken into the officer's confidence, and told he would be required that evening to feign drunkenness on Constable Plouffe's beat to such an extent that he would be arrested. He was provided with a watch and other valuables, and the trap was so surely laid that the suspected constable fell into it without the least hesitancy. De Bellefeuille played his part to perfection. He was so unsteady in his walk that Constable Plouffe found it prudent to walk close behind him. As the supposed drunken man passed a house under way of construction on St. Catherine St., near Wolfe Street, he entered the place and sought out a secluded and protected spot to lie down and sleep. It was all a part of the plan laid out by Inspector Lapointe, who himself was not many feet away. Constable Plouffe followed the drunken man into the house and as his presence there was an offence against the law, he proceeded to arrest him. There was nothing extraordinary in the fact of a drunken man going to sleep in an out of the-way spot. But the constable seemed to delay considerably. Inspector Lapointe appeared on the scene as though by accident and inquired what was the trouble. The constable explained the man was very drunk and would not go with him to the station. The patrol was then called. The supposed drunken man was hustled into it and taken to the station. He soon was sobered when Plouffe had left to return to his beat. The suspicions seemed to have been confirmed. De Bellefeuille was minus his watch and he declared Plouffe had taken it from him. At once Inspector Lapointe set out with a constable and met Plouffe on the street.

"Where is your revolver?" asked the Inspector.

"In my pocket," replied the constable, as he handed it out. According to the regulations of the force a constable must keep his revolver in the holder when not requiring it and an infraction of this point of the regulations is sufficient to warrant summary dismissal. Constable Plouffe was then ordered to give up his baton, which he did. He was then arrested.

Plouffe did not say anything nor did he resist, but the two officers who had him in charge noticed that he almost continually shook his head violently. Why he did so was explained in the light of subsequent events. On the way to the station, and there too, Plouffe stoutly denied the allegation that he had stolen. When he was searched, however, the watch was found in his helmet. Plouffe was placed in the cells and Chairman Lebeuf, of the Police Committee, and Chief of Detectives Carpenter, who had just returned from New York, were called to see what was to be done. Inspector Lapointe, Chief Carpenter and Chairman Lebeuf all and each in turn had a talk with the prisoner, who at first continued to deny the charge, but finally admitted his guilt.

ANOTHER WATCH.

From what could be gathered this morning, it was the result of a mere accident that brought about Plouffe's arrest. For many months past complaints have been made to the chairman and members of the Police Committee regarding robberies that were being committed by constables upon prisoners whom they arrested. But there was no way of discovering offenders. An Englishman, a prominent merchant in the city, got drunk, and went to a room in an hotel at the corner of Maisonneuve and St. Catherine street to sleep. His time for resting was quite limited, as early in the morning he had to catch a boat leaving for Laprairie. He rose still under the influence of liquor, and before departing asked the proprietor to wind his watch. It was a valuable time piece, and the hotelkeeper took particular notice to it.

He left the hotel alone. He was in such a condition that the constable on beat who met him insisted on accompanying him to the wharf. Later during the morning Constable Plouffe, accompanied by a man in civilian's clothes, entered the same hotel referred to above, and in a private room called for liquor. The proprietor himself served them, and as he entered the room he saw Plouffe showing his friend a very fine watch.

"Why," exclaimed the proprietor, "that belongs to an Englishman who has just left here."

"No, sir," replied Plouffe, "that is an old family watch that I am trying to sell," and he put it into his trousers' pocket. The saloon proprietor informed Inspector Lapointe.

MORE LIKE PLOUFFE.

Ald. Lebeuf was called upon by Mr. Leblanc last evening with a view of preparing a defence. The chairman of the Police Committee, when spoken to regarding the arrest, said, while regretting the affair from the view point of his relations and friends, he was glad that some result was being brought about from the recent charge in the way of conducting things. He did not wish to reflect on the police force as a body, but he felt sure that there were others like Plouffe.

There were complaints, Ald. Lebeuf said, received almost daily. Just recently he had discovered that three constables in the west end of the city had been off their beats and without any sufficient reason. He had taken the matter up and taken upon himself to punish the offenders. He ordered them to do three extra hours night duty during a fortnight.

PLEADED GUILTY.

Constable Plouffe pleaded guilty before the Police Magistrate this afternoon.

Mr. P. E. Leblanc, Plouffe's lawyer, made a strong appeal for leniency for the defender of the public. Plouffe, he declared, had been an honest man until he joined the police force. There he found a school of immorality and he fell.

Infantile complaints carried off 29. Other causes of decease were: Diphtheria, 2; scarletina, 4; typhoid, 3; measles, 1; whooping cough, 1. The total number throughout the week was 106, being 87 Catholics, 15 Protestants and 4 Jews.

LORD MILNER'S PATH IS THORNY

He Will, Nevertheless, Return to South Africa—The Minority Opposition.

New York, June 3.—The London correspondent of the Post cables as follows: Lord Milner has been the man of the week. With a small group the man to attack, with the rest to applaud, almost idolize, though always at a certain distance.

Ten days ago it seemed quite possible that South Africa would see him no more. He had left Cape Town broken in health, dispirited, and none too certain of the attitude towards his administration of the British Ministry and the British people. An entirely new aspect is now put upon the whole situation. The voyage has made a new man of him. The warmth of his reception by the King and Lord Salisbury and the greater part of the press has banished whatever thoughts he had of resignation, and he is now resolute to return to South Africa to see the new Transvaal and Orange River colonies well on the road to self-government.

The Daily News, the Manchester Guardian, and the minority they represent among the Liberals refuse him all countenance, for his policy is to them unadulterated Chamberlainism, but Sir Edward Grey, who may be regarded as Lord Rosebery's special lieutenant in the House of Commons, has this week declared from a public platform that Lord Milner and no one else should administer the conquered territories. Lord Milner then will go back to Pretoria two months hence, and this is his mandate as officially declared by Mr. Chamberlain, "to lay broad and deep the foundations of a united South Africa, as free, prosperous, and loyal as the sister federations of Canada and Australia."

It is a thorny path, beyond all question, as thorny a path as any British proconsul ever trod, and Lord Milner knows it, for he this week described the forces against him in South Africa as "panoplied hatred, insensate ambitions and invincible ignorance." One wonders how Lord Durham would have fared in Canada, sixty years ago, if he had started his mission of conciliation by pinning such epithets to the French-Canadians.

CARNEGIE'S EXAMPLE.

Mr. Carnegie did the British people better service than probably he knew, when he planned his gift to the Scottish universities. Before his ten-million-dollar donation was talked about there seemed some little foothold for the fluent young protectionists, ever eager to indoctrinate the public through certain sections of the press with the marvellous efficacy of shipping bounties, import duties, and preferential tariffs in beating off American and German competition. Their voices now are drowned, in the demand which Mr. Carnegie's gift has accentuated for saner and more progressive educational methods. In opening a new grammar school in Derbyshire, yesterday, the Duke of Devonshire, as head of the Education Department, openly invited rich Englishmen, and especially rich coalowners, to follow Mr. Carnegie's lead. Another Minister, Mr. Balfour, has gone a step further, indicating schools of applied science as the best objects for private munificence. The Liberal leader, Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman, last night enforced the moral of Mr. Carnegie's gift upon an Edinburgh platform, while to-day Lord George Hamilton, Secretary of State for India, in a letter explaining to the English steel master why American locomotives have got a footing in India, impresses upon English capitalists the need of keener chemical research and thorough technical education.

All these moral lectures, be it noted, are addressed by Ministers or ex-Ministers to private benefactors. The suggestion that Government should go to Parliament and ask for the necessary millions to do the work themselves would be scouted as ridiculous. A few weeks only of the present war expenditure would do much, for six million dollars is still the nation's weekly bill for South Africa.

IMPERIALISM.

There is no disguising the satisfaction of Imperialist circles here over the insular decisions of the United States Supreme Court. Journalistic comments are subdued, partly because exultation might have a prejudicial effect upon American opinion, partly because imperialism by the majority of one judge seems to Englishmen rather a slender reed to lean upon, but outside the public prints, where talk is unrestrained, quiet gratification is expressed that America shows these tendencies to walk, if not hand in hand, at least along lines parallel with English Imperialism. One Minister declared it to be the best possible news for Anglo-Americanism and the English-speaking world. Yet it provokes other feelings. Some recall with suspicion the point of Seth Low's warning to Englishmen, as quoted by Mr. Bryce, of the dangers of the omnipotence of the British Parliament from which Congress is freed by legal checks. They hint at the grave opportunities of corruption at home and tyranny abroad which these new and stupendous powers place in the hands of Congress, which is not now free from charges of venality and decadence.

There is a note of alarm also in the comments of those who believe that South America is destined to become the centre of intense international rivalries ere long. America can now, they say, hold Nicaragua and Mexico as England holds India. They fear the effect of such expansion upon her relations with Great Britain and Germany. "Our American friends," says the Spectator to-day, "will say they have no desire for conquests. We entirely believe them. Still the open road produces traffic, and we have little faith that anything will stand in the way of the ambition of the commercial people and community which longed for Texas and might long for more. If we were Spaniards of Mexico or Central America, we should feel that the judges at Washington had, however unintentionally, made the sky for us perceptible more full of clouds."

DAYLIGHT RUN TO BUFFALO

The Grand Trunk summer schedule went into effect under favorable conditions yesterday. One of the special features of this new service was the inauguration of the "International Limited" between Montreal and Buffalo. This train left Montreal yesterday on time, 9 a.m., and reached Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo a few minutes ahead of time. The inauguration of this through service from the Canadian metropolis to the Pan-American city was very favorably commented on by the many passengers on board, and the train should prove a most popular one, as the run is entirely in daylight, and for about 100 miles of the trip skirts the shore of Lake Ontario. The run from Montreal to Buffalo is made in ten hours and fifty minutes, and marks a new record for international railway service never attempted before.

THE POLICEMAN AND THE WATCH.

According to an oft-told story familiar to frequenters of police headquarters, the policeman who has been a month on the force without providing himself with a watch at the expense of some prisoner is either a fool, or incompetent, or both. "What time is it?" asks one policeman of another, and not getting the required information, adds: "Have you no watch? And you have been a month on the force!" It was one of these stories that hinted at grave misdemeanors as matter of common habit, which reflected the knowledge of the well informed, and upon which the uninitiate might put what construction they chose. Evidently it was not all make-believe, for Policeman Plouffe has been caught with a watch in his helmet, the said watch being taken from a supposedly drunken man who had been sent out to make a test of the constable's integrity. The outcome is not flattering to the constable, but few are interested in the individual case, while all would like to know whether the accused man is a fair type of the whole force.

There is no good reason why such practices should not be pretty general, for the men are left to their own devices the greater part of the time they are on beat. The fact that a small party of them used to meet regularly at a little club of their own proves that much. This following of a drunken man into deserted premises proves it over again. The wonder would be if it were otherwise, for it is an old story that man is as lazy as he is allowed to be, and the policeman's uniform is not a safeguard against temptation. In any city where the police force is seriously employed there is a patrol officer whose duty it is to see that the constables keep to their work. He knows where each of his men should be met at a given time, and it is his business to be there every now and again to meet them. With that kind of a system constantly in operation there would be no such thing as a policeman's club for cold nights. Without it almost any excess is possible. What is wanted in Montreal is a complete change of system which will at the same time make the best use of the men and leave them the fewest occasions for dishonest practices. Ald. Lebeuf is to be complimented on the success of his coup.

THE WAR AND ITS CONSEQUENCES

With what might once have been called characteristic heterodoxy, Mr. John Morley quoted the text of the sermon he preached to the House of Commons ten days ago, not at the beginning but at the end "I quote a sentence from a great divine which I have used before: 'Things are what they are, and their consequences will be what they will be. Why then seek to deceive ourselves?'" To which the ready answer of Mr. Austen Chamberlain was that things are indeed what they are, but that almost alone on his own side Mr. Morley has seen them in a different light from the members of the Government and their supporters. Mr. Morley's speech turns out to be all that was said of it by the cabled accounts. It is not a speech designed to make party capital against the men in office, but an oration whose effect is to lay bare the conditions of the country as the speaker sees them. Mr. Morley was severe upon the Government but severe also upon certain of his own associates. He ran counter to the sentiment of the vast majority of the members by again denouncing the war and those whom he holds to have made it, in terms as unsparing as any he used since 1895. The fact that the speech was a great success from the spectacular standpoint proves once more that in England, at all events in the Parliament at Westminster, the right and the efficacy of free speech are still conceded and that there are men strong-minded enough to speak their minds, even if they seem to be without support or sympathy.

The speech was made in the last hours of the debate on the finance bill, but in view of Mr. Morley's well-known attitude towards the South African war the centre of the speech had to do with that event. He still maintained that war could have been prevented, and that it were better it had been. He knew they called him a dreamer for thinking so, but they who said so were the same who said at the eleventh hour there would be no war, the same who said it would be over in two months, the same who said it would cost ten millions, where it has cost already a hundred and fifty, the same who said the Boers would not fight. Truly, in the matter of prophecy Mr. Morley has had much the better of his critics. He concedes that to reconcile the races in South Africa would have been difficult before, but holds that it is equally necessary and a thousand times more difficult now. "The war," he said, "has brought material havoc and ruin unspeakable; unquenched and, for long, unquenchable racial animosities; a task of political reconstruction of incomparable difficulty, and all the other consequences which I need not dwell upon of this war, which I think a hateful war; a war insensible and infatuated; a war of uncompensated mischief and irreparable wrong."

By unbelievers, who are legion, this outburst, which was the climax of the speech, will be received with the reflection that hard words break no bones. A greater interest attaches, for Canadians at all events, to certain passages of the speech in which Mr. Morley outlines other consequences, as seem to him probable, of the action of the last two years. "This budget, moved as it is at this stage of a great war, is a landmark and will prove to have been a landmark in our fiscal history. This budget is not the last chapter, but the first; it is not the end, but the beginning of, I believe, a new system on which we have embarked." It was in this way the speaker began. He ended by reprobating "the extension of territorial dominion, the transformation of our ancient realm, which has aided civilization for generation after generation, into a boastful military empire, to be supported, I suppose, by conscription and by a customs union thrown in, which will lose us our best markets for the sake of the worst." In the middle of the speeech he referred once more to the colonial position; "I thought the Chancellor of the Exchequer the other night went as far as prudence allowed when he spoke of colonial contributions under another head. We hear about Imperial funds and colonial contributions. Have the hon. gentlemen considered what sum they can reasonably expect to get from the colonies? How are they to go about it? What is the uttermost you can reasonably expect to get from the colonies? All that we can in reason expect to get from them at the highest estimate would relieve us of one penny in the income-tax. This would be the colonial contribution." And again, "It is idle for a militant imperialist to say he is an ardent and unshakeable free trader. If you are going to be militant imperialist free trade goes. It begins to go with the budget the Chancellor of the Exchequer has introduced."

The most ardent of our inter-imperial preferential trade advocates probably did not count upon recognition of their views in this quarter. Mr. Morley, however, does not welcome that which he forsees. "Wear out your coal," he says, "pile up your debt, multiply and magnify your responsibilities in every part of the globe; starve social reforms among your people at home, and then indeed you will have a Little England, a dilapidated heritage to hand on to your children and your children's children."

MACKAY OF FORMOSA.

Of the all the men who went out of Zorra to win fame in far countries, the most widely known was Rev. Dr. Mackay, the missionary to Formosa, whose work was closed by death a couple of days ago. He was of the stern stuff of the Canadian pioneer, and his constancy to his life work in innumerable difficulties made the story of his mission read like a chapter from the lives of the apostles. It will always be difficult for those outside the field of that enthusiasm which bears up the foreign missionary, to understand how life in tropical Formosa, amongst a people steeped in ignorance and vice, could offer any attraction to a hard-headed Scotch-Canadian. The Caledonian, above all others, is a man of argument. Example all can give, but the Scot is never satisfied unless he has convinced. What mental pleasure could there be in receiving the acquiescence of the Formosa savages to his teaching? The same satisfaction, no doubt, that bore up the Jesuit missionaries as they went to the stake in an earlier Canada, the consciousness that something had been done to bring the gospel to the heathen. Dr. Mackay seems to have brought to his work a great capacity for organization, he having founded colleges and trained native assistants to such an extent that the lot of his successors should be easier than his.

ÆMELIUS JARVIS AS A SAILOR

The boast of Chicagoans that the Northwestern was the first vessel to attempt the trip from the Great Lakes to Great Britain is quite unfounded. Twenty-five years ago the three-masted schooner Edward Blake sailed four times across and up and down the Atlantic, under command of the late Captain Peter Thompson. There were several Torontonians among the crew, one of them being Mr. Aemelius Jarvis, the well-known yachtsman. Early in the summer of 1876 the Edward Blake sailed for London from False Presquile, Lake Huron, laden with square timber. Captain Andrew Thompson, son of the skipper, gives the following account of the voyages:—

After completing our loading at Hochelaga, we were towed to Quebec, and from thence sailed for London, where we arrived after a run of thirty-one days.

In December of the same year the Blake was chartered to load at Cardiff, Wales, for Rio de Janeiro, and sailed in ballast early in January. Arriving at Cardiff, we took on our cargo of railroad iron and coal, about seven hundred tons net. Our voyage south commenced with rough weather, and for several days the proverbial Bay of Biscay weather was quite in evidence. The cargo shifted, and the vessel, being strained considerably thereby, made water in such quantities that pumps constantly worked could not lower the water. However, the weather changed for the better, and with a fair wind soon we were able to take advantage of the north-east trades, which made pleasant sailing, until we drew near the equator, where we drifted about in what is called the "doldrums"—light, variable winds. Taking advantage of those whereby we could make most southing, we caught the south-east trades, which enabled us to shape our course for our destination, Rio de Janeiro, where we arrived after a lengthy passage of ninety-one days from Cardiff.

After unloading at Rio, we sailed northerly for Aracaju, Rio de Cotandebo, about midway between Bahai and Pernambuca, and there loaded sugar, and several cases of yellow fever. The condition of our crew when leaving there was such that we had to have the assistance of volunteers from other ships in harbor to enable us to get under way, and make sail, but the wisdom of getting out to sea even in so crippled a condition was soon apparent, as the fresh, pure atmosphere of the ocean put new heart into the officers and crew. One young fellow—a Swede—died two days out. The rest of the ship's company soon recovered, and were able to perform the duties required of them.

We reached Falmouth after a passage north of fifty-seven days, and got orders to proceed to Greenock.

Captain Thompson brought the Blake back to the lakes the following summer with a cargo of pig iron for Hamilton, and the vessel is still in commission, owned by Kingston parties.

SETON-THOMPSON.

Ernest Seton-Thompson, whose sketches of animals in words as well as lines are familiar to nearly everyone on this continent, lectured twice Saturday at Windsor Hall on the subjects with which his name has been so intimately associated. Both afternoon and evening the audiences were fairly large, but there is no doubt that, had Mr. Thompson visited Montreal at a more seasonable time, the hall would have been filled to overflowing.

"Wild Animals I Have Known" formed the basis for both of the lectures. In the afternoon the subject was treated particularly for the benefit of children, while in the evening the advantage of "Camera-Hunting" were set forth for the edification of adults. The evening lecture was illustrated by some wonderful snapshots of animals, many of them secured automatically by a patent camera.

In the Whirl of the World.

The Queen's Quaintness.

Queen Victoria's sincerity led her to a quaintness of wording which was often very entertaining. One instance of this among many which rise to the memory may be given here. A piece of very modern music had been performed in the Queen's presence, manifestly not to her approval. "What is that?" she asked. "It's a drinking song, ma'am, by Rubinstein." "Nonsense," said the queen; "no such thing! Why, you could not drink a cup of tea to that."

Father Built Rossin House.

Mr. Julius Rossin, son of the original builder and proprietor of the Rossin House, Toronto, is at present in that city the guest of his uncle Mr. S. Nordheimer. The Rossin family ceased to have any interest in the hotel shortly after it was rebuilt, following upon the fire believed to be of incendiary origin, which destroyed it during the American war, at a time when many Confederates were residents in the house.

It is thirty-seven years since Mr. Rossin graduated at Toronto University, taking his B.A. He went abroad to Europe, intending to stay for a year or two, and afterwards go into law. He ended his tour at Hamburg, Germany, and has been a resident of that city ever since. Mr. Rossin prospered greatly in business. In all the long years of his residence in Germany he had remained a British subject, never having been able to bring himself to change his nationality. In some respects this was extremely inconvenient, as it prevented him from voting, and from taking part in public affairs, but he did not regret that.

Rosebery's Villa.

The Earl of Rosebery possesses a most charming villa at Posillipe, near Naples, the Villa Delahoute, at one time the residence of the Empress Eugenie. The entrance is exceedingly bad, and the house is approached by a very rough and narrow lane, but, when reached, the villa is a perfect paradise, surrounded by ilex, arbutus, and olives. The house has a southern exposure, and the view is unrivalled; it looks to Castellamere and Sorrento, and on the left is the beautiful Vesuvius. It is only a few years since Lord Rosebery bought the villa, but now it is nearly perfect in every way. He has collected brocades; statuary, tapestry, and old china—for real old Capo di Monte Lord Rosebery will give almost any price, and he is too well versed in imitations to buy any but the very old kind, which is becoming rarer and rarer every day. At this particular time of year the gardens are in the greatest beauty; they are full of color, chiefly from the almond trees, the scarlet and magenta anemones, and the blue and white violets, for which Naples is so famous.

Were Victims of Iroquois.

David Boyle, curator of the Ontario Provincial Museum, in discussing the unearthing of five hundred or more human skeletons near Jordan on Tuesday, says: "I think there can be little doubt that the skulls and bones unearthed at Jordan are the remains of the tribe of Indians known as the Attiwandarous, or Neutrals, a name which they were more familiarly known by in that section of the country where the discovery was made. The Attiwandarous, who were exterminated by the Iroquois in the seventeenth century, were akin to the latter tribe and also to the Hurons. Recently a few odd Ossuaries, or bone deposits, have been discovered along the shores of Lake Erie, but not to such a great extent as in the northern portion of Ontario, particularly in the neighborhood of Georgian Bay, where many skulls and bones have been dug up. The fact that these discoveries were being made now," said Mr. Boyle, "is because the land in a number of the historical spots in Canada is now under the plough for the first time."

The skull sent to Mr. Boyle contains Wormian bones, or extra bones, such as are common in the skulls of Indians.

A despatch from Jordan says that the grave seems to be about fifteen feet square and about three feet deep, covered with about six inches of ground. A conservative estimate is that the sepulchre contains from 800 to 1,000 skeletons. Hundreds of skulls have been carried away, some quite well preserved. Thus far nothing in the line of arrowheads, tomahawks, tc., has been found. The bones are thos of people apparently much above the ordinary stature. There is a huge stump over the grave the roots of which extend down through it. Hundreds of people have visited the scene during the past few days, and carried away many well-preserved skulls and other bones. Mr. Dean has prohibited all further digging.

PROMINENT PEOPLE

The last Easter egg which the Czar presented to his mother contained the golden model of the castle at Gatschina, where she spends most of her time.

One day when he was in Cambridge the late Bishop Mandell Creighton was asked if he could state the difference between an Oxford man and a Cambridge man. The professor, as he then was, immediately replied: "An Oxford man looks as if the world belonged to him; a Cambridge man as if he didn't care to whom the world belonged."

The Paris correspondent of London Truth writes: "I said that Leo XIII., as presented by M. Benjamin Constant, was a vain man. The painter would like the judgment to be slightly softened. But he confesses that His Holiness is not exempt from coquetterie. When he was sitting, he from time to time got up to see how the portrait was progressing. Whenever he did so he whispered into the painter's ear: 'Do try not to make me look too old.'"

The Government of the State of Victoria has presented to the Duke of Cornwall a most interesting memento of his visit to the colony. It consists of fine specimens of gold quartz taken from Victorian mines, enclosed in a cabinet of Australia blackwood. The pedestal upon which the cabinet is mounted is beautifully festooned in chased Victorian gold, and the case itself is encrusted with Victorian diamonds to the number of one hundred and ninety-seven.

Will Write a New Statement of Belief

Chicago Times-Herald: By a practically unanimous vote the five hundred commissioners representing the Presbyterian churches of the country at the General Assembly in Philadelphia have declared in favor of formulating a new statement explaining in untechnical language the faith and beliefs of this great ecclesiastical organization.

A church, like every other organization, secular or sectarian, must be anchored to some fixed belief. There must be some definite doctrinal basis of faith to which its adherents may subscribe. The secular world may howl about creeds, but history has demonstrated that a creedless church will not hang together. A man who does not believe in something is generally a none-entity in the affairs of the world anyway. It is faith in something that makes character, and character is the salt of society. Faith is the backbone of purpose and achievement.

The Presbyterian Church has undeservedly suffered from the popular misapprehension that the Westminster Confession is the creed to which its communicants must subscribe. In view of this misapprehension it has been deemed best for the interests and progress of the Church that a simple, declaratory statement of the present beliefs of the Church be prepared by a committee of twenty-one, to be submitted to the next General Assembly, which meets in New York. In addition to this there is to be a declaratory statement explaining certain vague and infelicitous expressions in the confession of faith. The statement of belief is therefore to be of a didactic nature and not to be used as a substitute for or an alternative of the confession of faith.

The Westminster Confession is a historical document framed to meet a great exigency in the life of the Church. It will not be disturbed. It could not be "revised" any more than Homer's "Iliad" could be revised. It will be allowed to repose peacefully in the archives of the Church. The action of the General Assembly on this question must be regarded as a "forward movement," and will no doubt be welcomed by Presbyterians everywhere.

HOW MR. CALLAWAY RESIGNED

The story of how Mr. S. R. Callaway resigned the position of president of the New York Central Railroad to accept the presidency of the American Locomotive Works is told by the New York Tribune. A friend of Mr. Callaway asked him why he resigned, and Mr. Callaway said:

"Well, you see I was in the position of the Irishman who had a summons served on him. The Irishman said, 'I could have licked the tarrier, but he came after me with a certiorari and a mandamus, and what the devil was I to do?'"

The decision of Mr. Callaway to resign and accept the presidency of the American Locomotive Company came rather suddenly. The men who organized the American Locomotive Company called upon Mr. Callaway one afternoon and placed before him a statement of what the company could do and offered him the presidency. The terms of the offer were so attractive that Mr. Callaway thought for a moment that he misunderstood what was offered. He said: "Gentlemen, place your offering in writing, and I will consider it." Next morning the offer, formally drawn up, was given him. He was studying it in his office when William K. Vanderbilt came in. He handed it to Mr. Vanderbilt and said:

"What do you think of that?"

Mr. Vanderbilt looked at it a moment and then said that it was pretty good. He added that while the directory of the New York Central would do anything in its power for Mr. Callaway, it did not care to stand in his way of doing better, and added that there was nothing the Central had to offer that equalled the offer in hand. He cordially advised Mr. Callaway to accept it, and this Mr. Callaway did. The decision to accept the office of president of the American Locomotive Company came so suddenly that Mr. Callaway hardly had time to tell his family of it before it was in the papers. In one of the newspaper accounts Mr. Callaway was quoted as saying that he had worked all his life for a salary, but this gave him a chance to acquire an interest in a promising business and protected his family for all time. This paragraph fell under the notice of a son of Mr. Callaway, who is at St. Paul's School. The boy is a bit of a wag, and he wrote a letter to his father in which he said:

"Dear Father—I see by yesterday's paper that you were forced to get another job owing to the extravagance of your family. I want to congratulate you upon your success, for, judging from what the papers say, you have struck an 'oily' job."

Mr. Callaway was born in Toronto 50 years ago, and for many years was connected with Canadian railways.

CASE OF GEN. MONTGOMERY

Editor New York Evening Post:

Sir,—The Evening Post of May 22 contained a letter relative to the tablet it is proposed to erect in Quebec to the memory of Gen. Montgomery. Your correspondent, Mr. Petrus, asks if there is any authority for the statement that Gen. Montgomery proposed, in the event of the capture of Quebec, to allow the American soldiers to plunder the property and violate the women of the city. You answer that you know of no authority. From some acquaintance with the written life of Gen. Montgomery, I venture to say that there is no authority for such a statement. Gen. Montgomery was a merciful man, with the true spirit of charity. I may illustrate this by quoting an autograph letter in the General's own hand, which I have in my possession. This letter was addressed by Montgomery to Gen. Sir Guy Carleton, the commander of the British troops at Quebec, on the eve of the assault on the city, in which Gen. Montgomery fell December 31, 1775.

I should be pleased to show this letter to any one interested in the subject, or to any one who would question its authenticity.

JOHN D. CRIMMINS.

New York, May 25.

"Holland House.

"Sir,—Let me once more intreat you to have compassion on the unfortunate inhabitants of Quebec—to what purpose do you compell me to distress them? You can but protract for a few days that event which must inevitably in a very short time take place—If you possess any share of humanity, you will not sacrifice the Lives & properties of so many innocent people to a vain punctilio.—

"Embrace the opportunity I offer you of retiring in a manner suitable to your rank—You shall not be a Prisoner—You shall have a safe Conduct to New York or wheresoever you may chuse to embark—The Lieutenant-Governor shall have the same indulgence——

"I engage in the most solemn manner for the security of the lives & Properties of the Citizens, our dispute is not with them—we bear them no malice & the hopes of affording them relief alone induce me to make these proposals.

"Should you decline the offer I now make, I hope I shall stand acquitted in the eyes of the world of the fatal consequences which must attend your refusal, which I have sufficiently explained in my former letter.

BRITISH WHEAT CROP.

London, June 3.—The Mark Lane Express says to-day in its weekly review of the crop situation: "It is already clear that British crops will be very irregular, but we do not despair that wheat will be up to the average yield. Grub and other pests are much in evidence. The crops promise well in Russia."

An English View of J. J. Hill

A year or two back (says a traveled contributor of M. A. P.) a friend of mine found himself at dinner at Minneapolis seated between Archbishop Ireland and a somewhat insignificant man of middle age. Conversation turned on the marvelous careers of America's richest men, and the Archbishop whispered to the Englishman, "Your neighbor is Mr. Hill, who is one of our railway millionaires." Thus enlightened, the stranger turned to Mr. Hill, telling him that he had just learnt that he was reputed a millionaire. "Well, maybe I am, but I guess you don't know how I started." The Englishman confessed his ignorance. "Well, I was a roust-about." "A what?" asked his astonished companion. "A roustabout; don't you know what that is?" "I am afraid I never heard the word before." "Why, it's just a luggage-porter—one of the fellows who loiter on stations and carry boxes."

Having confessed to this extraordinary start towards the acquisition of millions, Mr. Hill gave a few more biographical details. How from roustabout he had been car-man, in the signal office, and then the station office; saved a little; got promoted; acquired a small railway interest; and so on to that moment when he with one or two others controlled some of the greatest railway interests in the States.

My friend describes him to me as a typical American. A sallow-faced, grey-haired, keen-eyed man about 50 years of age, rough and brusque in manners, bearing in his somewhat rugged and deeply-lined face the marks of that alert, untiring, fierce resolute struggle with life which one sees to-day in the face of Andrew Carnegie. The men who emerge with the possession of millions in the States always seem to have those dried, passionless, muscular features which repel one and yet attract by the grit and force in them. I myself have many times watched Andrew Carnegie as he talked at his own luxurious dining-table, and in his eyes I have read how his present has cost him a past of unlimited self-sacrifice and relentless toil.

Such a man was Hill. After dinner he invited the Englishman to his house, and the latter accepted, thinking, naturally, that this ordinary-looking man would have but an ordinary house. They stepped into the sledge (it was winter time) and away they went for some seven miles from Minneapolis. There they reached a big modern mansion, standing in ample grounds. They were welcomed by Mrs. Hill, and after they had some refreshment the host said, "I brought you along to see my pictures. Just you come to the gallery." The Englishman, prepared for a few bright-colored daubs, followed through the large hall, and found himself, to his amazement, in the presence of one of the finest private collections of landscapes he had ever seen.

There were dozens of exquisite specimens of the French and Dutch masters—priceless Corots, superb examples of Watteau and his school, of Gaspard Poussin, and many beautiful canvases by English landscapists. The sight of such surroundings, for the moment, my friend has often told me, amazed him so that he could find no words to express his admiration. Afterwards Mr. Hill took him carefully round, and he found in this ex-roustabout as able an artistic critic as he had ever met. He says he will never forget his visit to the home of the Railway King at Minneapolis.

BISHOP HELLMUTH DEAD

London, June 3.—The Right Rev. Isaac Hellmuth, formerly Bishop of Huron, Canada, is dead at Weston-sper-Mare. He was 71 years old.

Rev. Isaac Hellmuth was the son of Jewish parents, and was born near Warsaw, Poland. He was educated at Breslau University, and in 1841 made a public profession of conversion in England. He came to Canada in 1844. For some years he was professor in the University at Lennoxville, and rector of St. Peter's, Sherbrooke. He was subsequently created archdeacon of the Huron Diocese, and was sent to England to collect funds for a theological college in the diocese, of which he became principal. His next charge was as dean and rector of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, Ontario, where he established Western University, to which he contributed $10,000, and the two Hellmuth cottages. In 1871 he was appointed coadjutor bishop to Bishop Cronyn, and on the latter's death succeeded him as Bishop of Huron. In 1883 he was appointed Coadjutor Bishop of Ripon, England, where he remained till 1896, when he resigned, and became rector of Briddington, in Yorkshire.

IN CAMP AT QUEBEC.

Quebec, June 3.—(Special.)—To-morrow is the most important day among the friends and patrons of the R.C.R.I. The redcoats went down to Levis Saturday afternoon and put the tents up for the volunteer forces that took part in yesterday's manoeuvers. The fact that the Q.O.C.H. is commanded by Lieut.-Col. Turner, V.C., D.S.O., rather adds to the interest that he and his corps awakens. The night attack, which took place shortly before daylight on Sunday, was quite successful.

RAILWAY TO CANSO.

Sydney, N.S., June 3.—A despatch from New York says that Mr. Van Aken, chief engineer of the Manhattan Construction Company, with a staff of engineers, left that city on Saturday for St. Peters, C.B. to begin work on a railway from the Strait of Canso to Louisburg. It is said that the new railway is a link of the system from New York to Cape Breton, whence a beet of fast steamships will run to Europe.

MISSIONARY DROWNED.

Winnipeg, June 3.—News has reached here of the drowning, near Dyment, on the main line of the C.P.R., near Fort William, of Rev. Peter Ivrach, Presbyterian missionary. There are no details, but it is supposed Mr. Iverach lost his life by the capsizing of a canoe in a storm.

MAY ABOLISH NORMAL SCHOOL.

Le Journal this morning says there is some probability that the Montreal Normal School, Sherbrooke Street, of which the late Abbe Verneau was principal, will be abolished. The reason for this, it says, is that it is considered that a normal school in the city of Quebec would suffice for Montreal as well, as the two cities are divided by a few hours' travel only. The $20,000 which are annually spent on the Montreal Normal School could then be given to make the Montreal Polytechnic school one of the greatest institutions of its kind in Canada.

TO TURN PEKIN OVER TO CHINESE

Generals of Allied Troops Decide to Give Up Administration This Month.

Pekin, June 3.—At a meeting of the generals of the allied troops yesterday it was decided to transfer the administration of the city of Pekin to the Chinese officials gradually during June.

Count von Waldersee, accompanied by his staff, will leave Pekin to-day. Two special trains will run all the week, taking troops to Taku. The Germans are removing an extraordinary amount of baggage, including Chinese carts, rickshaws, tables and chairs.

The Baluchi Regiment left this morning, and all the other British troops, with their bands, and every United States officer in Pekin was present, the latter being particularly anxious to show their appreciation of the manner in which the British bade farewell to the United States troops.

FRANCE AND HO-NAN.

London, June 3.—"I am informed," says the Hong Kong correspondent of the Times, wiring Saturday, "that the French intend to annex Ho-Nan in July."

KNOX CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

Semi-jubilee services in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the pastorate of the Rev. James Fleck, B.A., were hold in Knox Presbyterian Church yesterday and there were large congregations at both the morning and evening services, when eloquent sermons were preached by the Rev. Wm. Patterson, of Philadelphia (formerly of Cooke's Presbyterian Church, Toronto), who is well known in Montreal, he having been heard both in the pulpit and on the public platform in Knox Church on previous occasions. At the morning service the reverend gentleman took for his text St. Matthew v., 13: "Ye are the salt of the earth, but if the salt have lost its savor wherewith shall it be salted?" In an earnest discourse the preacher dwelt at length upon the fact that the disciples were called the salt of the earth because of some new powers they had received which was to preserve men. That was the quality of salt. Like Christianity, it preserved what it was applied to. A barrel of salt might be placed alongside a quantity of meat and do it no good unless applied. Ten thousand Bibles in a house were of no use if not read into the hearts of those who lived there. A church to do good must come in contact with the people. Continuing, the reverend gentleman went on to speak of the Church as the light of the world, and in conclusion exhorted the congregation not to hide their lights under a bushel; neither should they be content to shine by flashes, but rather strive to be a beacon to others.

The musical part of the services was bright and appropriate. Dyke's "Te Deum" was the anthem for the morning, and Mr. J. C. Barlow's fine tenor voice gave an excellent rendering of "How dear are Thy counsels." At the evening service the anthem was Mendelssohn's "O come let us worship," and Miss Dowling, who possesses a sympathetic contralto voice, sang "Abide with Me."

There was a general gathering of the pupils of the Sabbath school with their parents and friends, when the chair was occupied by the superintendent, Mr. Walter Paul, and addresses were delivered by the Rev. Dr. Scrimger, Rev. Wm. Patterson, Rev. James Fleck, Mr. James Croil, Mr. Robert Henderson and Mr. David Morrice, president of the Presbyterian Sabbath School Association. The singing by the children was very hearty.

A social gathering will be held this evening at which ministers from the different Protestant denominations will speak, and an address will be presented to the pastor.

TABLET TO THEIR COMRADES UNVEILED

Royal Scots Perpetuate in Brass the Heroism of Goodfellow and Wasdell.

Very fine was the turnout of the Fifth Royal Scots of Canada yesterday afternoon, accompanied, as they were, by the Army and Navy Veterans in charge of Commander Bolster and by the Bearer Company under Surgeon-Captain Cameron. Those in line were the observers of a dual function—a parade to St. Andrew's Church and the unveiling of a brass tablet in commemoration of two of the members of the Royal Scots who fell at Paardeberg. As Rev. Dr. Hill pointed out in his discourse, the Royal Scots sent one of the largest, if not the very largest, detachments to form the first Canadian contingent, and the regiment as a whole had consequently a prominent part in the attainment of the great results of the war.

It was upon the return to the drill hall, from the church, after a circuitous march through the streets of the city, where thousands lining the route admired the soldierly bearing of the participants, that the ceremony of unveiling took place. The monumental brass stood on an easel in the centre of the hall. The Royal Scots lined up, two deep, on three sides of a square, the fourth being formed by the army and navy veterans and the Bearer Company, and in the gallery was a number of spectators.

After offering prayer, Dr. Hill, the chaplain, who was attired in his uniform, said that they had met to do honor to the memory of two of their comrades who gave themselves for their Queen and country, and who now lay sleeping in the soil of Africa. The regiment had done itself credit by that act of celebration, for he was told that every man had a share in that monumental brass. While they perpetuated the memory of those who had died for their Queen and country, they were grateful that only two of their number had been left behind, buried where they should be, in a soldier's grave; buried on the field where they fell; buried where they would wish to have been buried, facing the foe.

Three of the comrades of Goodfellow and Wardell, who fought on the same field—Sergt. Gunn, Sergt. Youngson, Sergt. Stanning and Sergt. Jeffries—bore the tablet, after the unveiling, into the Scots' armory, where it will afford a perpetual reminder of the heroic death of these young Canadians.

The memorial brass bears the arms of the regiment in heraldic colors, and states that it is in memory of Corp. Robert Cuthbert Goodfellow and Pte. Frederick Wasdell, who fell in action at Paardeberg, S.A., the former on February 18, 1900, aged 35 years, and the latter on February 27, 1900, aged 23 years. "This tablet," it is also recorded, "is erected by the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the Royal Scots of Canada in honor of their dead comrades."

Rev. Dr. Hill's discourse in St. Andrew's Church before the volunteers and a large congregation of civilians, was devoted to a review of the chief events that had transpired in South Africa since he last had the pleasure of addressing them, two years ago. In glowing words, he pictured the unification of the Empire, in fact as well as in sentiment, that had been brought about by the Mother Country's recent trials.

Besides the Royal Scots, 341 strong, there took part in the parade, forming the van, Army and Navy veterans to the number of 25, and some 30 members of No. 3 Bearer Company. The Royal Scots were under command of Lieut.-Col. Ibbotson, and the honorary colonel. Senator Mackay, also walked at the head of the regiment.

DR. BEERS' MEMORIAL

The following circular, which speaks for itself, has been issued:

M.A.A.A., Montreal, May 28, 1901.

Dear Sir,—At the last annual meeting of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, held in the club house, May 29, 1901, it was resolved that a committee be appointed to solicit subscriptions for the purpose of purchasing a testimonial to perpetuate the memory of the late Dr. W. George Beers.

The committee, feeling that a generous response would be forthcoming from all over Canada, as well as the United States, where Dr. Beers' name is known, have decided to add to their number by applying to all sister associations and clubs to whom they thought this object should appeal for co-operation; believing by this means that the work will be more expeditiously handled and organization made more complete.

In soliciting your help it is only necessary to touch briefly upon the career of one whose memory all Canadians, old and young, should feel proud to honor.

The best years of his life were devoted to the promotion and perpetuation of lacrosse, as the national game of Canada; and although, perhaps, the present generation of players do not know much of him they must know that he was indeed "The Father of Lacrosse."

The keenly active mind saw the glorious possibilities which the game possessed, in observing the crude efforts of the red man, so, to shape its destiny, to mould and fit it for the white man's pastime, his master judgment was set to work to evolve from its chaotic state our modern game of lacrosse and in course of time through dint of hard work and unwavering faith in final success, he was enabled to produce the first laws governing the game.

He created an interest in the game all over Canada by his personal influence on his various travels to different parts of the country, and by the magic of his facile pen disseminated a knowledge of the possibilities and beauties of lacrosse. His efforts since the inception of the game to keep it clean from professionalism, to discourage all forms of trickery, betting, and such low associations as would tend to vitiate the mind of the young generations of honorable amateur athletes, to whom he was to hand over a pastime for gentlemen, were but the reflex of the nature of the man, and show something of the sterling manly qualities and honorable life. Apart from his interest in athletics Dr. Beers was recognized as a staunch Britisher and stalwart Canadian, whose love for his native land was intense, yet who held firmly to the belief that the welfare of Canada was best assured by remaining an integral part of the British Empire.

In conclusion, when we are reminded of the excellent work he accomplished in the cause of emigration during his historic trips to the British Isles in 1846 and 1882, of his honorable and patriotic address before the Dental Association of America at Syracuse a few years ago, of the organization of the Victoria Rifles, and his active service therein for many years, of his contribution to the world of literature, of his scholarly attainments and his charming personality, we are honoring the memory of one of Canada's truly great sons.

The committee feel that the best form the proposed testimonial can take, is that the money collected be applied to the formation of a fund to be called "The Dr. Beers' Memorial Fund," the interest accruing from a judicious investment thereof to revert to his widow, Mrs. Beers, as an annuity sufficient for her maintenance. All moneys sent to the trustee of the fund will be promptly acknowledged.

FRED. E. NELSON,
Chairman and Trustee.

Address—M.A.A.A. Office, Montreal.

Committee:—Chas. C. Chitty, Thos. L. Paton, F. C. A. McIndoe, H. S. MacDougall.

TRAFFIC TO BE ALLOWED TO GO ON

Mission of United States Special Commissioner Inquiring Into Emigration from Here.

The result of the inquiry which has been made by Mr. Edward Watchorn, United States special commissioner, who was sent here by the Government at Washington for the purpose of investigating certain alleged irregularities in connection with the European immigration traffic from Canada into the United States—more especially of Italian and Oriental immigration—has been that the traffic will be allowed to continue, but under somewhat stricter regulations than heretofore.

Mr. Watchorn, who has now left for New York and Washington, has reported that the conditions under which the traffic was managed had been exaggerated, that there was no satisfactory proof that persons who had been rejected at New York had come on to Montreal and had entered the United States from this port. Still he found some features of the traffic unsatisfactory.

During the fortnight he was in Canada Mr. Watchorn had interviews with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the immigration authorities at Ottawa, with Mr. Bell, the general passenger agent of the Grand Trunk, with Mr. Ussher, the general passenger agent of the C.P.R., and with several representatives of the shipping interests, including Mr. Campbell, of the Elder, Dempster Line. The conclusion arrived at by Mr. Watchorn was that the traffic could be continued with the elimination of certain features to which he drew attention.

M. C. A. building, Saturday evening and yesterday afternoon.

MEETING ADJOURNED.—Another effort will be made in the near future to hold a meeting of municipal reformers. That convened on Saturday evening on Chaboillez Square was not very successful. Letters of regret at not being able to be present were read from Mr. W. D. Lighthall, Mayor of Westmount; Major L. W. Hibbard, Mr. Roswell Fisher, Ald. H. B. Ames and E. L. Bond. Mr. W. S. "EMPEROR M'KINLEY"

Lincoln, June 3.—Taking for his text the words, "Emperor McKinley," W. J. Bryan last night gave out an extended statement bearing on the Supreme Court decision in the insular cases.

Mr. Bryan declares the Supreme Court has joined with the present Congress in an effort to change the form of government, and he calls on the people to repudiate the verdict. Mr. Bryan says in part:—

"By a vote of 5 to 4 the Supreme Court has declared President McKinley Emperor of Porto Rico, and according to the press despatches the Emperor has gladly and gratefully accepted the title conferred on him by the highest judicial tribunal of the land.

"Those who are encouraged to believe that the constitution had caught up with the flag were doomed to disappointment. The decision declares that the people are not the source of power, it defends the taxation without representation, and denies that governments derive their just power from the consent of the governed.

"It assails the foundation of the republic and does so on the ground of expediency. The dissenting opinions bristle with precedents and burn with patriotism."

PIANO SELLING ON NEW LINES.

We constantly keep in stock new instruments from $35.00 to $2,500.00, and secondhand instruments of all makes at all prices, taken in exchange for new instruments, but instead of selling them payable in 4, 5 or 6 years, we sell them only for cash or payable inside of a year.

Buying for cash and selling them at those short terms enables us to sell them at much lower prices than other houses. We do away with canvassers, collectors, losses and large expenses, which in other stores have to be paid by the cash or short term purchasers. Persons in a position to buy at our terms will find it to their advantage to examine our instruments and prices. A visit cordially solicited. L. E. N. JUNE WEDDINGS

One of the most interesting and romantic events which has taken place in Toronto for some time was the marriage on Saturday of Miss Frances Lilian Dignam, daughter of Mr. Dignam and Mrs. Dignam, President of the Women's Art Association, to Sir John Alexander van Hougenhouch Tulleken, first lieutenant, the Royal Guards, The Hague, Holland. The young people met last summer when Mrs. Dignam and Miss Dignam and a party of friends were travelling abroad. The ceremony was performed in the house by the Rev. George Davey. The house was a perfect grove of flowers. In the drawing-room an arch of white lilacs and white roses had been raised, and under this the bridal pair stood during the ceremony and the reception which followed. In the dining-room an artistic arrangement of pink and white roses, with quantities of mauve lilacs was observed. Bowls of roses and lilacs were everywhere, while vases of white violets and lilies of the valley made the air heavy with their fragrance.

The gallant bridegroom was very splendid in his lieutenant's uniform, which was donned for the first time on the occasion of the marriage of Queen Wilhelmina, and which has not been worn since. Later, his doughty sword was placed in the hands of the fair bride, and used by her to cut the wedding cake. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a very handsome gown of white duchess satin. The skirt was without decoration, flaring into a long court train. The tullness of the front of the bodice was caught in at the corsage by a bertha of rare ol drose point. The transparent yoke and undersleeves were of white chiffon, edged with accordeon-plaited ruffles. The long tulle veil was fastened on the fair hair with orange blossoms and diamonds, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridal bouquet was of white roses, with showers of lily of the valley. The only attendant was the tiny brother of the bride, Master Hugh Molyneux Dignam, who wore a smart page's suit of black velvet, lined with white satin, and pretty buckled shoes.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at which a number of distinguished guests from the city and from a distance, were present. After the reception, the newly-wedded pair left for a short tour in the States, the bride going away in a gown of navy blue broadcloth. The skirt was trimmed with applied vandyked bands of the cloth, while the Eton coat had an application of black over white broadcloth. The blouse worn was of white brocaded satin and lace, and the hat of aquarelle blue with a pompom rosette of ribbon and black roses. Sir John and Lady Hougenhouch Tulleken will return to Toronto next week, when Lady van Hougenhouch Tulleken will receive with her mother, Mrs. Dignam, at 284 St. George Street, on Friday afternoon and evening, June 7th. The bride received a very large number of presents from friends in Canada, United States, England and Holland. Among the presents were some rare jewels, and a quantity of costly lace. The Baron and Lady van Hougenhouch Tulleken, parents of the groom, sent a beautiful writing desk and cabinet, and furnished the new house at The Hague.

The wedding takes place shortly of Miss Vivian Sartoris and Mr. Archibald Balfour. Mr. Sartoris sails very shortly for England to join his sisters and attend the wedding. Mrs. Gordon, an aunt of the young people, will open her home for the marriage, and Mr. Balfour will bring his bride to America in the fall to visit Mrs. Sartoris and Mrs. Grant, who have taken a cottage at Coburg, Ont., for the season. Miss Rose Mary Sartoris will act as her sister's maid of honor. Mrs. Grant has included in her gifts to her granddaughter a quantity of rare lace, which will adorn her bridal gown.

The marriage of Miss Fanny Bethune, eldest daughter of the late Robert Bethune, Esq., of Toronto, to the Rev. J. C. Roper, D.D., of the Theological College, New York, took place Saturday at Holy Trinity Church at ten o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Pearson, rector of Holy Trinity, assisted by the bride's uncle, Rev. Henry Bethune, of Port Hope, and the full eucharistic service was said, Rev. Mr. Bethune celebrating. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Henry Bethune, was attired in white duchesse satin, with yoke of Honiton lace, the veil being fastened by orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of bride roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Emily Bethune, wore white silk, touched with blue, and hat of white tulle. Dr. Roper was for many years rector of St. Thomas' Church, Toronto.

A pretty wedding took place Saturday afternoon at half-past two in Knox Church, Toronto, when Miss Mary Millicent Wilson, daughter of Mrs. E. J. Wilson, of 267 Wellesley Street, was married to Mr. H. Gerald Wade, son of Mr. Henry Wade. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Parsons, assisted by Rev. A. B. Winchester. The bride wore a pretty gown of white satin, en train, the skirt being finished with a deep flounce edged with a ruffle of chiffon. The bodice had a dainty decoration of lace and chiffon. The customary veil and orange blossoms were worn, and the bridal bouquet was of white roses and lily of the valley. Miss Ella Marcon acted as bridesmaid, and was attired in white muslin, trimmed with ribbon and lace. Her picture hat was of white tulle, with clusters of pink June roses. Her bouquet was of pink roses. Two little attendants followed the bride, Miss Maida Macrae and Master Howard Wade, niece and nephew of the bridegroom. The little maid was dressed in a frock of white organdie, with a pretty white hat, and carried a basket of flowers. Master Wade was also in white, with a tiny boutonniere. Mr. F. Percy Rodger was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Clarence McArthur, W. A. H. Findlay, T. Christie, and Easson.

A number of ladies went down to the ship to say goodbye to Mrs. Tabb and her family.

The convention will be held in the American Presbyterian Chapel, 75 Inspector street, under the auspices of the Lawrence Union. Invitations were given to two consecrated young women to volunteer to accompany Miss Melville to Cisamba, in West Central Africa, and $200 of the bequest of the late Mrs. Sanders was voted to erect a cottage in the Ella Williams Memorial Hospital, to be named the "Frances A. Sanders Cottage."

Mrs. Porter, president of the Calvary Church Auxiliary was presented with a life membership by the ladies of the church board. Addresses were given by Miss Dougall, and Miss M. Melville of Cisamba, Africa.

The second league match was played on McGill campus on Saturday, when the students defeated Montreal in rather easy style. ENGLISH UNIVERSITIES' REPLY

The following is the text of the answer to the McGill-Varsity challenge to Oxford-Cambridge:

To V. E. Henderson, Esq., University of Toronto, and E. J. Carlyle, Esq., McGill University:

Dear Sirs,—We beg to acknowledge with many thanks your communication of April 17 ult. These have been duly considered by the committees of our clubs and a joint committee, representing the Oxford University A. C. and the Cambridge University A. C.

We shall be very happy to visit Canada, and to accept your challenge, subject to one small modification, and shall have much pleasure in taking part in the meeting you propose. As you may be aware, negotiations have been goin on, and are still going on, with representatives of Harvard and Yale Universities, U.S.A., for a meeting to take place in New York, at or about the end of September.

If these negotiations are satisfactorily concluded, we would propose that the athletic team of Oxford and Cambridge representatives should meet the athletic team of Toronto and McGill representatives on September 14, and that the match should be on the lines of the proposed match which it is suggested should take place at New York on September 28.

Thus the programme of events against both Toronto and McGill and Harvard and Yale would be identical and would include the following: 100 yards, quarter mile, half mile, one mile, two miles, 120 yards hurdles, high jump, long jump, throwing the 16-pound hammer. Directly we receive further advices from New York, which will enable us to come to some definite arrangement, we will write you again.

Hoping that everything will be arranged to your satisfaction and to ours, we remain yours very truly.

ERNEST DAWSON,
President O.U.A.C.
H. W. WORKMAN,
President C.U.A.C.

GOOD RATES FOR WHEELMEN.

Mr. Louis Rubenstein has just returned from a couple of days at Buffalo, and while there he completed arrangements with the Robbins syndicate for special rates for C.W.A. Mr. Rubenstein says that the accommodation is first class, meals are good, and the cars can be taken at the door. The hotels are about ten minutes from the grounds by car.

The rates for C.W.A. members are $1 per day for room and $6 a week for board. This is cheap compared to what the regular charges will be. For outsiders prices will be raised on June 15, but for C.W.A. members they will remain the same.

A determined effort will be made to raise $1,500 in order to retain the grounds of the Kingston Amateur Athletic Association. As it is on these grounds that all the football matches are held each autumn, their loss would be a sad blow to local lovers of the game.

My Lady of Orange

By H. C. Bailey

CHAPTER IX.—Continued.

"You were in the right," I said sharply. "I ought to have come with you. What is the use of words now?"

"It was, indeed, a task too great for me," he answered sadly and moved away. You cay guess that was not what I meant my words to say. There is nothing stirs me more than praise when my deserts are blame.

At last, when it was growing dark, we came to Breuthe, and there gathered round us a pale, weeping, trembling crowd to learn that 200 men—their husbands, their brothers, their sons—who marched out yesterday, lay stiff and cold on the plain now. St. Trond rode slowly through the throng, with his hat pulled down over his brows, and they fell back in silence, with angry looks, to let him pass. Then when I came a little after they called down blessings on my head. Such was the justice of Breuthe.

"Has the prince come?" I asked the burgomaster.

"No, sir, not yet."

"Strange, cordieu! strange, Vermeil, is it not?"

"He may not ride quickly, captain."

"He has had a full day," I answered.

"We broke the bridge at Veermut."

But the hours went by, and still the prince and Gaspar came not, and the moon was out ere there came a thunder at the main gate and a cry.

"Teufe! Are you all asleep?"

"Who are you?" cried the guard.

"Ach! I am the bodyguard of the prince of Orange!"

The gate was flung open, and there came in William of Orange, riding a jaded horse; and walking at his side, holding by the stirrup-leather, Gaspar Wiederman, covered with dust and splashed with blood.

The guard ran forward, crying anxiously: "Your highness is safe?"

"Thanks to this gentleman, I am safe and alive in Breuthe," quoth the prince with a smile.

I came running up bare headed, roused by the noise.

"You were attacked, Gaspar?" I cried.

"Ach! do you think I walk for pleasure?"

"Shut the gate, knaves!" I said, for the fools had left it open.

"There is no need," said the prince calmly. "There are no pursuers."

"Teufel! there are none to pursue," grunted Gaspar.

The prince smiled and dismounted.

"And it is you, sir, I have to thank for saving the town," he said, holding out his hand to me. "I little thought I had made so good a bargain when you came to Delft. Your despatch was something of the shortest, but the news needed no phrases to set it off. I fear I have left your escort behind me. They fought bravely, sir, and few of those that beset us live to tell the tale—"

"Where were you attacked, your highness?" I cried.

"They—Alva—had laid an ambush by the river at Veermut to attack us as we crossed. Your men held them in play while my horse swam the stream. Even then but for your lieutenant I should have been in ill straits. Your men were outnumbered, and four Spaniards crossed the river after me. My friend here had lost his horse, but he swam across alone. My pistols served for two, his sword for the others. I know not how many that sword had slain before."

"Four, I think—or five," said Gaspar solemnly. "It was 20 to 50, captain. A good fight."

"If all your men fight as well," said the prince, "it is not a regiment you brought me at Delft but an army. Even Cornput will believe you are worthy now."

"O, we fight, some of us," grunted Gaspar.

St. Trond came hurrying up.

"Your highness," he broke out, "I come—"

"Ah, Laurenz, my friend," said the prince gaily; "and so you give me a virgin city back!"

"If the town is safe, it was not I who saved it," answered St. Trond slowly. "And this day I have lost 200 men through my folly. I went out to attack Alva with 600 burghers against the advice of better men than I. I brought back only 400, and had it not been for Master Newstead here, who risked himself and his men to save me and mine, not one of us had come back to the town. I was unequal to the task you gave me."

The prince looked at him sadly and kindly.

"Laurenz, Laurenz, have you forgotten my campaign against Alva?" he said. "I was worse beaten than you, for I had no army left at all."

"If I had been willing to go with the Seigneur de St. Trond at first," I cried, "it might have been a victory."

"Indeed, gentlemen, it seems to me you have done very well. Once I had all but given up hope for the town itself. For the 200 lost I am sorry—I am sorry," he repeated slowly, "but you will not make me believe it was the fault of either of you."

But I knew—by Heaven, I knew!

CHAPTER X.

IN THE GARDEN.

Two days afterward, or more it may be, I was in the burgomaster's garden. The name was a mockery. While the siege still lasted anything that men could bring themselves to eat was too precious to be left, and so all over the trim square beds the brown earth lay bare alike of flowers or leaves. There was food in the city now; grain that Alva could not wring from the peasantry poured in freely for us, and the burghers knew what a meal meant again. But, away across the plain, Alkmaar was passing into the trouble Breuthe had lately known. There were 16,000 men before it now, and there might have been 3,000 less. With that thought in my head I was pacing up and down the garden.

Gabrielle came out of the house; she put her hand up to her eyes to look through the sunlight, standing there by the door, a slim figure clad all in white. I watched her—I could not help watching her—but when she came toward me I turned away. But her steps made straight for me, and I turned again to meet her.

"I—I have not seen you since," she said, not looking at my face. "I have come to ask you to tell you how sorry I am."

"For what?" said I—though, indeed, I knew.

"For—for what I said. Oh, how it must have hurt you!"

"I deserved it."

"No, no; I thought you meant to let my father go, and—"

"And I did!"

"But you went!" she cried.

"Do you know that if I had gone at first, if I had not thought of my own safety—we could have crushed Alva. If we had stuck together there was one moment when his fate lay in our hands. If your blame stung then, yow much do you think your words sting now?"

"But you saved my father—"

"It was my fault he was in danger."

"[illegible] said—you were right—you were wiser if [illegible] had listened—"

"Wiser!" said I, with a bitter laugh.

"If he had listened to you," she persisted, "he would not have lost the men."

"I was wrong; your father was right. I say it. Is not that the last word?"

She looked up then straight into my eyes, and I saw that her face was flushed a little and her eyes bright.

"No," she answered; "I was wrong, too."

"O, will you not let it end here?" I cried.

"I called you—cowardly. At least that was wrong?" she said plaintively.

"You had good excuse," I answered.

"But if—if you are a coward, and if it was wise to go, and you are not wise, why did you go after all?" she asked, with a little smile. I did not answer for a little, and her eyes grew brighter while I stood silent, till at last I looked at her straight and said:

"If you remember so well all you said then perhaps you remember what you did before we parted."

"I—I cried," she said under her breath.

"Yes, you cried."

"Well?"

"And I rode after your father," said I; and she had no answer ready.

"I do not understand," she said at last. "Sometimes you seem to be heartless, and sometimes you think of things—little things—and they make very much difference. You are not always the same man."

"There are few of us all black," said I. "I do not claim to be better than the rest. I sail under no false colors. I have fought for Alva once. What sort of a school is that, think you?"

"Why did you leave him?" she asked quickly.

"He did not pay the men."

"Will you get paid now?"

"Yes; Breuthe has offered, for one source of money."

"But you did not know that when you chose Orange."

"No," said I.

Wills and Executors

No one should be burdened with the duties and responsibilities of executorship, with the loss of time, worry, litigation and personal friction so often incidental to such position, now that Trust Companies exist for the purpose of performing the functions of an Executor.

Prior to the existence of Trust Companies there was no choice but to accept and to delegate such serious responsibilities, such difficult and thankless tasks; Testators had no course open but to appoint Private Executors with all the risk and uncertainty of these individuals being able to perform properly their trust functions, whether from lack of business knowledge, experience, time, inclination, or permanent residence, and always the possibility that the Executors would not survive the Testator a day.

A Trust Company makes a permanent Executor—one never indifferent to the performance of duty—one never absent.

LACROSSE

CORNWALL WON IN A POOR MATCH

Defeated the Montreal Colts 2 to 1—Was a Rough Game With Little Brilliancy,

The opening game of the senior lacrosse championship was played on the M. A. A. A. grounds on Saturday under almost ideal circumstances. There was an unusually large and enthusiastic audience, who applauded every clever bit of play promptly. The field was as smooth as a billiard table, and the turf as springy as a wire mattress. It was neither too hot nor too cool. And the sun was veiled by a light mist that prevented any dazzling of the eyes. Under these circumstances the two teams should have played better lacrosse than they did. Of course it was the first game of the season, and both sides will doubtless improve from this on. But, if they do not, they will have to fight it out for bottom place. At present either Capital or Shamrock could play rings all round them.

For Montreal's poor showing there is some excuse. Their entire home is made up of juniors, some of whom have never played in a senior game before. Considering that these light youngsters had to come up against a heavy, powerful defence like that of Cornwall, who used their weight mercilessly and slashed and bodied the lads at every opportunity, they did remarkably well. In fact, their pluck was admiringly commented on. For Cornwall's defence simply fight to keep the home out, and they are not particular as to how they do it. Thus every time a Montreal home man came within reach he was flung with a force that must have jarred him up severely. Of course Montreal's home showed the usual defects of a young team. They could not shoot. In the only game they took the ball was batted in during a scuffle. Either they threw wildly from so far out in the field that it was simply a picnic to stop it, or else they held on to the ball as if it was their life, and endeavored to pass the whole of the defence; with the result that they were bodied with sufficient force to send them flying one way and the ball another. That they will improve with practice is undoubted. They have the speed and skill. But they lack weight and strength. They want at least one heavy man who will take chances. Had they had such a man on Saturday they would have defeated Cornwall hands down. On the defence Montreal is strong. They are veteran players, and know Cornwall's style of play. Consequently the life of Cornwall's home men was not a bed of roses. They were as heavily checked and slashed as the Montreal home. But the Cornwall home are heavy, muscular men, who can take a hammering and return it with interest. Hence there was no parallel between the two teams in this respect.

Cornwall was somewhat of a disappointment. It is an extremely heavy and powerful team. And some of the men are fast in addition. But it does not look like a team that will improve much. They lack judgment and generalship, and rely too much on heavy checking and brutal use of the stick. Their passing was better than Montreal's. But their stick work was not particularly good, and they seemed to lack staying power. Towards the end of the third game they went all to pieces. The big fellows seemed to be dead. And any kind of a clever home could have scored at will. They simply bunched in upon their flags and clung there as if they were exhausted. Had it not been for the fluke shot from the field which scored that game for Cornwall, Montreal would have won the game. So confident was Hamilton that he was behind the net talking to Mr. Chitty. He rushed to the front when the ball came up. But he failed to stop the shot, and Cornwall scored. No sooner had they done so than Cornwall resorted at once to blocking tactics, and during the last ten minutes it was not lacrosse at all. The Cornwalls threw the ball all over the field to kill time. And the disgusted crowd were glad when time was called.

It was twenty-five minutes past three when Mr. Percy Quinn blew his whistle and the two teams lined up as follows:—

M. A. A. A.		Cornwall.
Hamilton	Goal	Hess
Taylor	Point	John White
Haynes	Cover	W. Broderick
Moore	Defence	Cameron
Cameron	"	Kievin
McKerrow	"	Burns
Christmas	Centre	Degan
Buddo	Home	Tobin
Bowie	"	Madden
Lunan	"	J. Broderick
McCarthy	Outside home	Carr
Coppin	Inside home	A. Allan

Captains—Dave Patterson, J. Riley.

Referee—Percy Quinn.

SUMMARY.

Game.	Won by.	Scored by.	Time
1	Cornwall	Broderick	25 min.
2	Montreal	Bowie	16 1-2 min.
3	Cornwall	Allen	21 3-4 min.
4	Unfinished	—	—

The length of the games is an index to the character of the play. There were no brilliant bits of work, and there was an unusual amount of poor passing, bad shooting, and inability to pick up the ball. At first the fight was all on Cornwall's poles. But big Broderick soon relieved, and the superior passing and catching of the Cornwalls made matters very interesting for Montreal. The work of the Cornwall men was certainly not on the clean side. They slashed the smaller men unmercifully and used their weight cruelly. It was easy to see that they would be a difficult team to beat on their own grounds where everything goes. The sending off of Tobin for five minutes proved a wholesome lesson. But even with twelve men to eleven Montreal could not score. The home played without any judgment. They could neither shoot nor pass accurately. And they seemed timid of going in on the flags. The ball was most of the time in Cornwall territory, yet nothing tangible was done. The lads worked hard, but they needed a king-pin to whom they could pass and who would do the shooting. Cornwall's home played with much more judgment. And, finally, after twenty-five minutes of play, Madden passed to Tobin to Billy Broderick, who scored the first game for Cornwall.

The second game also opened with a sharp attack on Cornwall's flags. But Montreal's covering soon became loose. Their home could neither pass nor shoot, and for a while it looked very blue. Then they suddenly took a brace upon themselves. Coppin got the ball from MacKerrow. He was bodied and dropped the ball in front of the flags and Bowie scooped it in. Time, 16 1-2 minutes.

The third game opened with Cornwall evidently tiring. Their defence would not stir out of the poles and Montreal's home poured in shot after shot. It looked as if Cornwall were beaten out. But the big Indian or Hess stopped every shot. And then the unexpected happened. White sent the ball down field with a long shot. Tobin got it and passed to Allen. The home man made a long shot from the field which somehow or other fooled Hamilton. Time, 21 min. 45 secs.

This settled it. From this on Cornwall confined themselves to blocking their goals. And during the last few minutes they simply passed from one to the other to kill time. It was not lacrosse at all. And the thoroughly disgusted crowd left the stand and went down town in search of something to take the taste out of their mouths.

TRONTOS WILL APPEAL

The action of President A. G. Pittaway, of the Senior Lacrosse League, in declaring null and void the championship match played at Rosedale on May 24, between Capitals and Torontos, and which was won by the latter by a score of three goals to two, is causing a good deal of talk of the brimstone order.

This action has been taken on the grounds that Mr. J. Melrose Macdonald, secretary of the Torontos, did not comply with the rule recently adopted by the league, which requires the secretary to forward to the president an official report of the match within four days after the playing of the same. The rule in question is as follows:—"The president of this union shall forward to the secretary of all clubs in the union a statement duplicate book, in which shall be recorded the results of all matches played by the club, the dates of matches, the names of all players and officials in such matches, and the official score and time of games taken by the timekeepers. The secretary of all clubs shall forward their official statements by registered letter within four days from the date of each match (championship or exhibition) to the president of the union. No match shall be considered played by this union until the official statement has been received by the president."

The Torontos are making a big kick, and will appeal to the league. This appeal will give rise to a good deal of discussion, as a good many hold that Mr. Pittaway was within his rights according to the new rules. At the same time a number of members of the Capital Lacrosse Executive are averse to any decided action taken by annulling the match. The Torontos won fairly in the field, and they do not wish to take advantage of what they consider a technicality.

"ROUGH HOUSE" LACROSSE.

The New York World, speaking of Saturday's game, says:

Three men were badly hurt in the Crescent A.C.-Toronto University lacrosse match yesterday afternoon at Bay Ridge. They were purposely injured.

Groves, centre of the Toronto team, was hit on the jaw with a lacrosse stick by Jewell, Crescent's second attack, two minutes before the match finished. The Canadian dropped to the turf unconscious, and it was some time before he came to. Jewell was immediately ruled off the field.

"Wall, the Crescent's first attack, deliberately hit Kyle about the head with his stick and then threw him to the ground in a scramble for the ball. The Toronto player, Kyle, was thrown upon his right arm, which doubled under him. He was in a bad way when he regained his feet. Blood streamed from a gash at the left corner of his mouth, his right eye was blackened and swollen, and his right arm was useless for the moment.

"Kyle was attended by a surgeon, who at first thought the bone was broken. This was not the case, however, as careful examination proved, but his arm will be in bad condition for a long time. This happened in the middle of the second period. Referee Rose ordered Wall out of the game, but Capt. Mason begged so hard that Wall was allowed to continue.

"At the start of the game, before a goal had been scored by either side, Wall ran down Graham, Toronto's point, and the collision was terrific. Wall also hit Graham on the back of the head with his lacrosse stick. In falling the Canuck sprained his right leg and had to retire. Lindsey, of Toronto, was accidentally hurt in a scrimmage and retired.

"Throughout the contest Wall played 'rough-house' lacrosse. McKinnon, the big Toronto first defense, tried to even matters up with the Crescent man, but the latter kept out of his way after two lively bouts with the sticks.

"Despite their crippled condition the champion Canadian team played a fine game and displayed form that under other conditions would have made an even contest."

CAUGHT IN THE GOAL NETS.

Toronto star says: "Pittaway is too fresh."

Toronto papers are figuring on Billy Murphy's condition for Saturday's match.

The Capital executive are in hopes that Hutton will be in his old place between the poles when the Cornwalls are met June 15.

From reliable sources it is learned that Lionel Yorke will be on Toronto's defence at Montreal on June 8. Yorke has almost decided to return from the coast.

Captain George Wheeler is recognizing the fact that the Toronto home field requires ballasting. More weight, strength and fearless aggressiveness are needed.

A PRACTICE MATCH.

A practice match was played Saturday afternoon on the cricket field at Longueuil between the married and single men of the club. Though the benedicts put up a game fight, they were finally defeated after a most exciting inning's play by the score of 40 runs to 33.

WANT EXCURSION RATES.

Many of the clubs in the Ontario and the Quebec Rugby Football Unions have decided to make a big effort to get the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific railways to establish again excursions and stay-over privileges in connection with football matches, and with this end in view, the football men have gotten up a petition for presentation to the general managers of the railway lines.

The movement to petition the railways in connection with the matter originated in Kingston, and so far the petition has been signed by representatives of the following clubs: Granites of Kingston, Queen's University of Kingston, Royal Military College of Kingston, Brockville, McGill of Montreal, Britannias of Montreal, Westmounts of Montreal, Ottawa University and Ottawa City. The Toronto clubs and other clubs up west will likely sign the petition.

Nine dreary touts, who went to Toronto to have a lovely time at the races, and who have been lying in jail for a full week watching the rain fall, were turned loose, after all admitting that they were vagrants.

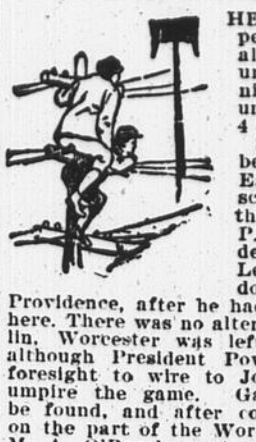
RANK UMPIRING AGAINST MONTREAL

Even Worcester Paper Admits That Work of the Umpire Was Bad.

(From the Worcester Telegram.)



HE Worcesters slapped the white paint all over Montreal Saturday afternoon, winning out a dull and uninteresting victory, 4 to 0.

Silk O'Loughlin, the best umpire in the Eastern League, was scheduled to work at the oval Saturday, but P. T. Powers, president of the Eastern League, in his wisdom, sent him on to Providence, after he had reported for duty here. There was no alternative for O'Loughlin. Worcester was left with no umpire, although President Powers did have the foresight to wire to John H. Gaffney to umpire the game. Gaffney was not to be found, and after considerable hustling on the part of the Worcester management, M. A. O'Rourke was secured.

There was no good and sufficient reason why O'Loughlin should not have been allowed to fill his original engagement in Worcester without interference from President Powers. The facts in the case were that Rochester and Providence, which are fighting for first place in the league race, met for the first game of a series in Providence yesterday afternoon. Frank Warner, originally assigned for the Providence game, is laid up with a sprained leg, and Managers Buckenberger and Murray wired President Powers asking that O'Loughlin be assigned.

And Powers was easy.

There is no special necessity of enlarging upon O'Rourke's work. It spoke for itself, and even the bleachers at times laughed at his decisions, they were so palpably wrong. Montreal raised no protests, although some of the visiting players were aching to do so. Charley Dooley knew what he was up against, and ordered his men before the play started to go in and do their best, and let it go at that. O'Rourke made one dead right decision on a play that would have puzzled the best of them, when he gave Unglaub first base on his long, low drive to centerfield, which Odwell got just after the ball had struck the ground. Odwell put up a protest that he caught it before reaching the ground, but O'Rrouke thought otherwise, and O'Rourke was right.

But for all this, Montreal's inability to hit Pappalau was the primary cause of its defeat.

The principal weakness in the Montreal outfit appears to be an inability to hit the ball, even taking into consideration that it was stacking up against good pitching when facing Pappalau. Montreal made fielding errors but its men covered a lot of territory, Odwell's playing in center, and Quinlan's play at shortstop being especially brilliant.

TORONTO BEATEN.

Hartford, Conn., June 1.—Dumb plays by the Hartford infield, combined with an error and three hits, gave Toronto four runs in the opening inning, but then McCann settled down and the visitors were at his mercy. Errors by Altrock and Bannon and singles by Kuhn and Schock gave Hartford three runs in the fourth inning, while hits by Steelman and McCann and a stolen base by the pair gave the home team enough runs to win in the fifth and seventh. The grounds were not in the best of shape, while the threatening weather kept the attendance down to 1,300.

BROCKVILLE IS CHOSEN.

Toronto, June 1.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Canoe Association was held on Saturday evening in the Queen's Hotel and was largely attended. A large amount of important business in connection with the affairs of the association was transacted, which included the presentation of the annual reports and the election of officers. The annual regatta will take place this year at Brockville, on Saturday, August 10.

Y. M. C. A. GYMNASTS

The Gymnasium classes at the Y.M.C.A. have closed for the summer. This completes the tenth year of the physical department, and the reports from the various clubs and committees show that it has far excelled all previous years. Nearly every club shows a larger membership than ever before, and reports a balance in the treasury. The gymnasium classes have been record-breakers in point of numbers, interest and character of work done. The closing week was an exceedingly busy one, and was occupied with seven examinations and competitions, with the following results:—

Elementary examination for entrance into intermediate class, 18 entries. The following 11 men passed in order of merit: J. Tombs, R. E. Dixon, W. Cairns, G. H. Birch, Wm. Reeves, B. Mitchell, A. Hall, J. A. Rigby, F. D. Thomson, C. McBride and L. Heillig.

Intermediate examination for entrance into advanced class; 9 entries. The following 8 men passed in order of merit: R. Griffiths, W. L. Bird, L. Carnegie, George Smith, W. Duckett, J. Fish, C. Bradbury and G. Hutchings.

Junior class competition, covering attendance and development during the year and an examination in gymnastics.

Special prize offered by "A Friend" for first place, won by H. M. Cribb, 79; second, J. Tombs, 75; third, B. Mitchell.

The advanced class competition was won by H. J. Smyth, with George Palmer second; international Y.M.C.A. silver and bronze medal for first and second.

The advanced class club team contest was won by G. Palmer, captain; J. C. Reilly, F. W. Hadwin, C. Skead, W. Spiers, with a score of 1,352. Captain Smyth's team second with a score of 1,273. This was an exceedingly interesting competition, consisting of both athletic and gymnastic events each Friday night from January to the close. Captain Palmer's team formed the rear guard for several weeks, but jumped to the first place the night for basketball, and remained there to the finish. Captain Smyth was always close at his heels, but Mr. Palmer handled his men well, and was never caught napping.

The Leaders' Corps examination was the hardest of the season, running through the entire year, and covering attendance at the leaders' class, leading night, first aid to the injured and the gymnastic competition. Mr. H. S. Greenleese succeeded in winning first place with an exceptionally high mark, and this in spite of the fact that he was compelled to be absent for several weeks.

Twenty-five competitors. The first five received the following marks. International Y.M.C.A., silver and bronze medals to the first and second.

	Leaders' Class	Leading Night	First aid to Injured	Gym. com	Av. p. c.
H. S. Greenleese	100	69	84	89	85
J. K. McNutt	91	75	84	71	80

J. Brown	78	57	65	92	73
F. Hadwin	84	100	21	86	73

The Junior Leaders' competition resulted as follows: E. Montgomery, 74; G. Budge, 72; R. Hastings, 67; O. Dettmers, 60; W. Small, 59; E. Howell, 59.

FOOTBALL

A WELL-PLAYED DRAW.

The Points and Strathconas played a draw in the first league match on Queen's Park on Saturday afternoon. First blood went to Points. Their forwards played a very aggressive game. McQueston scored from a fine combination play. The Point defence was strong enough to hold the Strathconas at bay till time was almost up, when Steward, on a long kick, scored and made it one all, which it remained when time was called. The teams were:

THE TURF

CLOSING DAY AT WOODBINE

A List of the Winning Owners Contains the Names of Two Montreal Men.

Toronto, June 2.—The spring meeting of the Ontario Jockey Club closed Saturday with comparatively fine weather. The financial results, although $10,0000 behind last year, were satisfactory, considering the fact that rain fell nearly every one of the nine days of the meeting. The attendance for the meeting was, in round numbers, 31,500, averaging 1,000 per day less than in 1900, or a loss to the Ontario Jockey Club of about $10,000. After over a week's steady rain the fine weather was a relief. It was a great pity for the public, as five well-backed favorites and two second choices won.

COMMANDO BROKE RECORD.

New York, June 1.—A big half-holiday crowd hailed Commando, the son of Domino, considered the greatest three-year-old of the decade, at Gravesend to-day. He started in the Carlton Stakes at one mile, over a dead track, and galloped home in 1.39 2-5, making a new track record. Eight of the other nine horses entered for this race were scratched. Blues was the only one to go with James R. Keene's horse. Commando was a prohibitive favorite at 1 to 6. The pair raced neck and neck for six furlongs, going to the half in 47 2-5 seconds, and then Spencer let Commando down and he left Blues behind in a dozen jumps and romped home, the easiest kind of a winner, by four lengths. Hanover Queen won the Hudson Stakes cleverly from the favorite, Merridian.

NEW SPEEDER FOR MONTREAL.

Mr. P. J. Coleman, of Montreal, has purchased Wm. Hendries' Red Breast for $120.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS.

On account of the bad weather the golf tournament of the Sherbrooke Golf Club has been postponed. The building committee has accepted the plans submitted by Mr. Archer, architect, for a new club house, and work will be proceeded with immediately. The new building will have dressing rooms, and a large room for meetings and social purposes.

Al. Weinig, of Buffalo, lost on a foul to Jim Galvin, of New York, Matty Matthews' protege, Saturday night, at Toronto. Galvin forced the issue from the star and fairly smothered Weinig.

The Truth

About my shoe for men and women.

My claims are no louder than the claims of other shoe dealers. But my claims are backed up with "The Mansfield" shoe—something which no other shoe dealer can show. 'Tis the only $3 Patent Leather and Enamel Calf, Goodyear welted shoe in Montreal.

No other person can write in just the same manner that Mark Twain writes.

No other person can sing just as Melba sings.

No other shoe-dealer in Montreal can produce the equal to "The Mansfield" for $3. No other shoe will please you so well in every way. At any rate, this is what we think; and what the nobbiest dressers of Montreal think.

All styles—all leathers—all toes—all the same price—$3 per pair.

The prices we make are a strong incentive for early purchase. There are other reasons too; our shoes are the latest, our materials reliable. We guarantee perfect fit, and, if wanted, your money back.

TWO TRIALS OF THE CUP DEFENDERS

The Fin Keel Yacht Loses Her Mast—Last Year's Red Coat Leads This Year's Craft.

The second trials of the newly built cup defenders were held on Saturday afternoon off Valois. Unfortunately owing to accidents the fin keel yacht did not finish either race. In the first she had lost a spreader and in the second her mast went by the board. Red Coat, too, mistook the course and lost some time in the final race. The weather was so favorable that the others got a good trial. Of course the new yachts are not tuned up yet and when the sails are properly set they should show more speed.

The showing of last year's craft was very good, in fact the new yachts have so far won no honors from the 1900 quartette.

The course set was L shaped, from the Dorval clubhouse to a boat in Valois Bay, round a spar buoy in the middle of the lake, and back again, all buoys to port. This gave a broad reach for the first leg, then a tack into the eye of the wind; and a run and a close reach home. Mr. Arthur H. Hersey acted as officer of the day from the jetty, and besides the seven racers three of the 17-footers had a contest of their own.

The crews were as follows.—

Ross, fin keel—Messrs. G. H. Duggan, skipper; G. McCulloch, Thornton Davidson, and A. McDonald.

Lake of Two Mountains—Messrs. A. E. Abbott, skipper; Huntley Drummond, and Ed. Girdwood.

Lieut.-Col. Hamilton's—Messrs. F. W. Shearwood, skipper; W. M. Kirkpatrick, W. O. H. Dodds and Benson.

Finley's—Messrs. W. C. Finley, skipper; S. A. Finley, H. Gordon and Huntley Gordon.

White Cap—Messrs. W. Angus, skipper; W. A. C. Hamilton, C. Gaudett and Skinner.

Red Coat—Messrs. C. Routh, skipper; A. Shearwood, J. J. Riley, and L. Morris.

Black Beauty—Messrs. James Paton, skipper; T. L. Paton, Dr. McLeod, and D. S. Copeland.

Doris—Messrs. F. Barlow, skipper; Dr. Barlow and Leslie Jones.

Habitant—Messrs. D. Hemsley, skipper; Geo. Hemsley.

Viola—Messrs. Walter Ewing, skipper; Sidney Ewing and Gordon Ewing.

The first race was started at 4.05 and the times were as follows:

	Start.	Finish.
Ross' Fin Keel	4.05.00	......
Hamilton's	4.05.15	4.32.22
Black Beauty	4.05.16	4.33.20
Red Coat	4.05.20	4.33.29
White Cap	4.05.40	4.34.59
Lake of Two Mountains	4.05.45	4.32.40
Finleys	4.06.05	4.36.20

Ross' Fin Keel yacht held the lead till half way up the second leg, when she lost a spreader. Red Coat lost two or three minutes by mistaking the course.

Five minutes after the big boats were started on their course, the Viola, Doris and Habitant, of the 17-footer class, followed on their own account in the above order. They finished as follows:

Viola 5.43.40

Habitant 5.44.32

Doris 5.45.25

At 4.55 the second race was started. The course was the same and the times were:

Ross' boat	4.51.10	......
Red Coat	4.55.11	5.21.55
Black Beauty	4.55.18	5.22.40
Hamilton's	4.55.20	5.22.45
Finley's Thorella	4.55.21	5.25.10
Lake of Two Mountains	4.55.40	5.24.10
White Cap	4.55.58	5.24.33

The Ross boat, when in nearly the same place as before, lost its mast by a clean break about half way up, and she had to take a tow home.

WATSON BELIEVES IN SHAMROCK II.

New York, June 1.—According to a despatch to the World from Glasgow, Designer Watson is worried by criticisms passed on his workmanship on the Lipton challenger. He told Sir Thomas Lipton he did not place any value on the result of the recent trial races on the Solent. He built the challenger with an eye to American sailing conditions, and nothing has happened to alter his judgment that she will prove the fastest challenger ever sent across.

Captain Sycamore expresses entire agreement with this view. He says if he and Watson had their way the challenger would have been brought straight across the Atlantic when she was launched to be tuned up here, but Sir Thomas did not want this.

INVADER MAY DRAW TOO MUCH.

Toronto, June 3.—The big question in yachting circles here is whether the Sibbick yacht Invader will come within the measurement for the Canada Cup. She will be dangerously near the limit. As she stands now, minus spars and gear and crew, the brass plate which indicates her calculated water line astern is submerged and the water line is fully two inches further aft. Forward she rides high, and the hull will have to go down fully three and one-half inches before she will trespass. Will her top hamper and the 1,050 pounds of dead weight put her down?

Commodore Gooderham says not. So do many other practical men; but on the other hand, there are three yachtsmen—two Toronto men, the third a non-resident—men who have designed and built boats which have made their names familiar to yachtsmen on the great lakes, who shake their heads and say they do not believe she can make the class. When the Sibbick design was received in Toronto this point was debated at length, and apparently Commodore Gooderham was satisfied, else the boat would not have been built.

MICHIGAN WON IN "BIG 9" MEET.

Chicago, June 1.—With one western intercollegiate record broken and one equalled the annual meet of the "Big 9" colleges of middle west was held to-day for the first time under the auspices of the new Intercollegiate Conference Association. Michigan winning the pennant with Wisconsin second and Chicago third. Athletes representing the University of Michigan captured a total of 38 points, Wisconsin 28, while Chicago won third place over Minnesota, the former having 17 points to its credit to Minnesota's 14. The inter-collegiate record for the quarter mile run was broken to-day by Merrill, of Beloit, who did the distance this afternoon in 49 4-5 seconds in an exciting race, in which W. A. Maloney, Chicago's star sprinter, one of the best runners in the West, was compelled to take second place. The total points scored by the various colleges follow: Michigan 38, Wisconsin 28, Chicago 17, Minnesota 14, Beloit 11, Illinois 6, Northwestern 5, Purdue 3, Iowa 1, while Indiana failed to make a score.

YANKS GO TO ENGLAND.

Unusual interest will be taken by Americans this year in the championship contests to be held in England June 29. Two doughty Yankees—Arthur Duffy and Irving K. Baxter—are going to battle against the English athletes for international honors. Duffy and Baxter are both record holders in this country in the events in which they will contest, the sprint and running high jump respectively. They will sail at an early date.

Duffy is one of the speediest sprinters ever developed in the United States. He earned his honors while a student at Georgetown University, his most recent public appearance being in the intercollegiate events held at Berkeley Oval a week ago. At that time he repeated a previous performance in his trials by equalling the world's record for 100 yards—9 4-5 seconds. In the finals the following day it was confidently believed he would beat the world's record, but a heavy track precluded the possibility of such a performance.

Duffy is small of stature, but of beautiful conformity. His quickness in starting is the marvel of sprinters. He is usually yards away from his competitors before they get their stride. He finishes like a whirlwind. English champions will find in the Georgetown crack a sprinter than whom none is more formidable.

Irving K. Baxter is the University of Pennsylvania star. He is one of the most consistent high jumpers in the college field. He has trained faithfully for the task before him in England, and amateur athletes in this country believe he will return here with the world's record in this event. After the English games it is expected the two Yankees will go to France and enter field events in that country.

AT DIXIE LINKS.

Members of the Royal Montreal club, spent a pleasant day on the Dixie Links on Saturday. There were no matches, so foursomes and doubles were made up from those present. Among the scorers were: W. W. Watson and J. McCall vs. J. O'Flaherty and Homer Taylor, 112 all. J. P. Taylor and Lansing Lewis beat D. C. S. Miller and Gordon McDougall by 114 to 112. Dr. Wyld and E. A. Whithead, Jr., beat H. S. Holt and W. S. Clouston by 114 to 113.

POINTS TO LONGUEUIL.

The Point St. Charles Cricket Club defaulted in their match with the Longueuil Club, which was to have been played on the Longueuil grounds Saturday afternoon. This match was the second one in the City League and was of course awarded to Longueuil.

MONTREAL 6, LACHINE 0.

STOCKS BULLISH IN WALL STREET

Feeling Steady Locally, With a Very Fair Volume of Business.

There is an unquestionable bull campaign on in Wall Street these days, and while it savors a good deal of professionalism, there is nevertheless quite a large public interest. There has been quite a heavy volume of trading lately and it certainly looks as if the market would surprise a good many who looked for a pronounced period of dulness as the result of the late collapse.

Stocks there have already had quite a considerable recovery from the low level and if the literature coming over the wires to the Montreal brokers is any criterion, there are further gains in sight. "Buy Western Union," "Think well of B.R.T.," "Sugar is good," are but samples of what the New York brokers are sending out, and to a large extent these no doubt reflect the temper of the market.

There is nothing particular to be said in regard to the local market to-day. The amount of business done was pretty large and the tone was steady, the list of sales given below telling the story pretty well.

WHEAT DECREASED THREE MILLIONS

Visible Supply Shows an Increase in Corn of Over a Million Bushels.

The visible supply statement to-day gave wheat a decrease of 3,130,000 bushels, corn an increase of 1,093,000 bushels and oats an increase of 78,000 bushels.

July wheat opened at 75 and advanced to 76⅝, standing at 76⅜ at 12.30. July corn opened at 45⅛ to 45¼ and held fairly steady all morning.

$ $ $

Snow, in Orange Judd Farmer, says: "Drouth in Missouri and locally in Illinois and Kansas has lowered general condition of wheat to about 90 per cent. Missouri and Kansas are about 10 per cent. lower than a month ago and Illinois about 5 per cent. Fly and chinch bugs are increasingly mentioned, but are responsible yet for no material damage." This is quite a clinch down from his "practically perfect conditions" of a week ago. He further says of spring wheat: "Rains in North Dakota, but no damage yet except in sandy soil. Red River Valley can stand ten days of dry weather yet. Oat prospects do not improve and sensational conditions are likely to develop. Present conditions in Illinois nearly 20 points below last year; Iowa, 20 per cent. below; Missouri, 35; Kansas and Nebraska, 10. These reports represent conditions that no later weather can overcome. Corn making slow growth and rain needed in important districts."

MONTREAL MARKETS

GRAIN.—There does not appear to be a great deal doing in the local grain markets and prices for the most part are about the same. Ontario No. 1 spring wheat, 77c; Ontario white wheat, 76c; No. 2 red wheat, 76c; peas, 75½c to 76c; No. 1 oats, 36¼c; No. 2, 35¾c; buckwheat, 62½c to 63c; rye, 58c; No. 2 barley, 53c to 52½c.

FLOUR.—There is no change in the flour market. Millers of Manitoba wheat continue very firm in their views and are talking as if there may be an advance if they continue to have to pay present high prices for wheat. Spring patents, $4.10 to $4.30; winter patents, $3.65 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.25 to $3.40; strong bakers, $3.75 to $4; straight rollers, bags, $1.55 to $1.65.

MEAL.—There was no change in the market for rolled oats. The demand to-day was quiet, but the feeling is firm at $3.60 per barrel, and at $1.72½ to $1.75 per bag.

FEED.—The market for feed was quiet, with no change in prices to note. Ontario bran, in bulk, $14.50 to $15; shorts, $16; mouillie, $20 to $24 per ton; Manitoba bran, including bags, $15; shorts, $16 per ton.

HAY.—A slightly easier feeling was noticeable in the market for baled hay today, which was due to some extent to the increased offerings of inferior grades, but no actual change in prices has taken place. No. 1, $12 to $12.50; No. 2, $11 to $11.50; clover, $9.75 to $10.25 per ton, in car lots, on track.

CHEESE.—As will be seen by the reports of the country markets published elsewhere the tone is rather easier.

THE REPUBLIC MINE

President Jaffray Speaks of the Recent Slump.

IT WAS MAINLY CAUSED BY THE FAILURE OF THE DUMP ORES TO COME UP TO EXPECTATIONS.

The president of the Republic Mine, Mr. Robert Jaffray, was interviewed Saturday. Mr. Jaffray was unwilling to say anything that would influence the market value of the stock in any way, but considered that the present low price of the stock was due to the fact that the dump of ore at the Republic mine had turned out to contain much smaller values than had been expected by the directors of the company. This dump was the security held by the bank for money advanced to build the mill, and the debt was further guaranteed by certain individuals in Montreal.

When the dump turned out a disappointment and failed by many thousands of dollars to meet the amount due the bank, there was, of course, trouble with the guarantors of the liability; hence the drop in the stock. Mr. Jaffray stated, however, he expected that the difficulty with the guarantors would be settled without his having again to visit Montreal.

The original debt of the mine was about $250,000, and it has been reduced to about $190,000.

Regarding the mine and the mill themselves, Mr. Jaffray says there is a certain amount of speculation in all mining ventures, but that the outlook is good. The mill is doing its work excellently.

He characterizes as unfounded the rumors that have been going abroad that the mine has been gutted of all its ore. He admitted that the workings were at present in rather lean ore, but this was one of the incidents of mining.

In conclusion, he stated he expected arrangements would be made at once for money wherewith to prosecute the working of the mine.

Regarding a railway into Republic camp, he stated there was a good prospect for one, and if built it would greatly benefit the camp, as there are certain quantities of ore in the camp which could be treated better by smelters than in the mine. There would probably be enough ore to keep the mill busy and give the smelters lots of work to do besides.

GOLD MINES

Rossland, June 1.—Shipments from this camp for the week closing Saturday night are slightly below the standard for the past month or two, largely because the Leroi shipments have been curtailed on account of the trouble at Northport. As there is every likelihood of this matter being arranged at an early date, the output is expected to reach the 10,000 mark again within a week or two. The details of the week's output are as follows:

Mine.	Week. tons.	Year. tons.

TO-DAY'S CATTLE MARKET

About 450 head of butchers' cattle were offered for sale to-day at the East End Abattoir. There was a fair attendance of local butchers and sales were brisk. Choice cattle were in demand and sold at steady prices. Prime beef sold at from 4¾c to 5¼c per lb., good animals at from 3½c to 4½c, and the common stock at from 2¾c to 3 c per lb. Clearances were good, nearly everything offered being quickly bought up.

VICS' ANNUAL INSPECTION

The Victoria Rifles underwent their annual inspection on Saturday before Major-General O'Grady-Haly on the Champ de Mars, and acquitted themselves in a creditable manner. The General, at the conclusion of the inspection, addressed the officers and men of the regiment. He had often heard, he said, of the efficiency and smartness of the Victoria Rifles. He had come here expecting to see a smart corp, and he had not been disappointed. He must say that the work of the regiment had been satisfactory to him in every respect.

The Champ de Mars was as usual crowded, among the spectators being a large number of officers and men of the other city corps, including Lieut.-Col. Ibbotson, Major George Cameron, D.S.O., Major Carson, of the Royal Scots; Lieut.-Col. J. P. Cooke, Major Finlayson and Adjutant George Ferguson, of the Prince of Wales Fusiliers; Major England, of the 2nd Regiment Canadian Artillery; Lieut.-Col. Labelle and Capt. Desnoyers, of the 65th Regiment; Capt. George W. Stephens, of the 3rd Montreal Field Battery.

The regiment arrived on the Champ de Mars shortly after three o'clock, and had but a few minutes to wait when Major-General O'Grady-Haly arrived, accompanied by Lieut.-Col. Roy, D.O.C.; Major Howard, R.C.R.I.; Major Stewart, P.O.

The march past was the first thing on the card, and was done in a way to reflect a great deal of credit on the regiment. Then the General asked Col. Hamilton for several battalion movements, which were satisfactorily performed.

"Companies 2 and 4 will form for attack" was his next order. No. 4 formed firing line and No. 2 the supports. Both interval and line were well kept.

The General left to catch a train, and Lieut.-Col. Roy completed the inspection.

On the whole the Vics can be congratulated. Though the inspection was short, it gave a fair idea of what the men could do. Perhaps the most noticeable feature of the parade was the steadiness of the men throughout.

The parade state showed a total of 356 of all ranks, made up as follows:

Lieut.-Col. Arthur Hamilton, Majors E. Wilson, Charles McAdam and Major and Paymaster W. Rodden; Adjutant-Lieut. Stikeman.

No. 1 Company—Capt. Stewart, Lieut. Butters, 2nd Lieut. Wilson; Lieut. Gunn attached, 4 sergeants, 19 files.

No. 2 Company—Capt. George Hiam, Lieut. Johnson, 2nd Lieut. Kane, four sergeants, 16 files.

No. 3 Company — Capt. R. Starke, Lieut. Henderson, 2nd Lieut. Gascoigne; 4 sergeants, 17 files.

No. 4 Company—Capt. Fisher, Lieut. Crombie, 2nd Lieut. H. Hiam, 4 sergeants, 18 files.

No. 5 Company—Capt. W. T. Rodden, Lieut. Hagar, 2nd Lieut. McCormack, 4 sergeants, 16 files.

No. 6 Company—Capt. Cameron, Lieut. McGill, 2nd Lieut. Weir, 4 sergeants, 16 files.

Gun detachment, Lieut. Burland, one sergeant, one corporal and ten men.

Brass band, Bandmaster Quivron, and 40 musicians.

Bugle and drum corps, Bugle Major Smith and 16 men.

Bearer Section — Surgeon-Lieut. Yates, sergeant and 12 men.

LAYS BLAME ON TRADES UNIONS

London Paper Claims That American Manufacturers Are Beating British.

London, June 3.—Commenting on Lord George Hamilton's letter replying to the attack of Sir Alfred Hickman (ex-president of the British Iron Trade Association) in the House of Commons, May 23, on American locomotives and bridges, the newspapers are unsparing in their criticism of the attitude of British manufacturers towards their customers.

The St. James Gazette applauds Lord Hamilton's "crushing brutal frankness in commenting on the Micawber methods of British employers and the selfish idleness of British workmen," and, proceeding to censure the methods of trades unionists as "thoroughly and unscrupulously dishonest," the paper says it almost wishes Lord Hamilton had not given an undertaking to give preference to British firms where it is possible, as "it would be well for the future that our industrial classes learn the bitter lesson of experience."

The Globe does not hesitate to predict that unless the methods of trades unionism, as practiced in this country, are modified, Americans within the next few years will beat the British out of the field.

WRITES LIFE OF THE KING

London, June 3.—A new life of the King, by one of "His Majesty's Servants," was published last week. Much of its contents is new, and it is full of personal anecdotes and tales. It may surprise some of his subjects to know that His Majesty is "inordinately fond of dancing," and that for many a year his friends declared he danced the Highland fling better than anyone else in the Kingdom. He is a fine skater, plays hockey well, is a good sailor, and of late years has patronized the sport of pigeon flying. Among his minor hobbies is that of collecting arms of all kinds. The King's wardrobe is immense, due to a considerable extent to the many complimentary naval and military appointments he holds. About the fit of his private clothes he is most particular, and gives employment to three tailors. The King has a great dislike for eccentricity in dress, startling neckties and fancy waistcoats, and above all a profusion of jewellery is strictly tabooed by him.

SPAIN MUST ECONOMIZE

Madrid, June 3.—The Spanish military attaches at the various embassies and legations abroad have been withdrawn for reasons of economy.

The Spanish Government, it is asserted, has dismissed the prefect of Corunna, where serious riots occurred last Friday, and the torpedo boat destroyer Autiaz has arrived there with marines to maintain order.

The two anarchists, a Spaniard and an Italian, arrested here as the result of advices from the Marsemes police that they had projects against the Spanish ministers, have been liberated, owing to lack of proof that the police suspicions were justified.

BRITISH EMIGRANTS

London, June 3.—A parliamentary paper just issued shows the emigration and immigration from and to the United Kingdom during the past year were respectively, 168,825 and 63,395. Sixty-one per cent. of the former went to the United States. The immigrants were mostly Jews from Russia, Poland and Roumania.

A WELCOME HOME.

Mr. George Phillips, one of the clerks at the Windsor Hotel who has been enjoying a holiday in his native land, England, and incidentally Ireland, returned to the city Saturday. He and his family travelled both ways by the Dominion Line S.S. Commonwealth. Mr. Phillips, who has endeared himself to a host of friends by his unfailing hospitality and dignified courtesy at the Windsor and outside, was welcomed home by large numbers of Montreal's best people.

THE TIRED GROCERY CLERKS.

The grocery clerks of the city spend long hours for their "bosses" and they are feeloing sore over no atention being paid to their demands for salary increases. Saturday afternoon they decided, in the form of a union, to meet at St. Joseph's Hall, corner of St. Elizabeth and St. Catherine Streets. The question of hours and salary will no doubt be taken up and if the speakers expected attend an interesting meeting is expected.

CORNERSTONE LAID.

The laying of the cornerstone of the new Baron de Hirsch Institute is taking place this afternoon. Mr. D. A. Ansell, president, wil llay the stone. The Hirsch and Zion Cadets will form a guard of honor. Addresses will be delivered by Mayor Prefontaine, Mr. Ansell, Rabbis de Sola, Friedlander, Kaplan and Ashinsky.

IGNORANT OF NATURE'S LAWS.

If not ignorant, stupid—else why attempt to treat Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma by snuffs, tablets or atomizers. Such remedies can't cure, for the medication must be carried to the diseased parts by the air you breathe. Catarrhozone is inhaled into the lungs, throat and nasal passages. Kills the disease from its very roots. Catarrhozone is recommended by doctors and druggists as a never-failing cure. Try it. 25c. and $1.00.

REWARD FOR LYNCHERS.

San Francisco, June 3.—Governor Gage has offered a reward of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of the persons implicated in the lynching of the five men at Lookout, Modoc County, Friday last.

PIERPONT MORGAN MEETS THE KING

Multi-Millionaire and Promoter Present Saturday With New York Delegates.

Windsor, Eng., June 3—Twenty-two American gentlemen, dressed in the deep black of British Court mourning, representing many millions of money and vast commercial interests, were the guests of King Edward Saturday at Windsor. They were the delegates of the New York Chamber of Commerce.

The visit was arranged by the London Chamber of Commerce, the President of which, Lord Brassey, accompanied the American party. The visitors were greatly impressed and pleased by their audience of the King. The King had expressed considerable curiosity to see what manner of men these multi-millionaires might be, especially Messrs. Morgan and Carnegie. As regards the latter, the King was disappointed, for Mr. Carnegie was unable to be present. From the King down, all the officials concentrated their attention on Mr. Morgan. Their curiosity was not unmixed with awe. One of the high officers of the household humorously confessed that an inspection of the list of visitors made them tremble lest Mr. Morgan or one of the other millionaires should take a fancy to Windsor and buy it. Apart from this personal point of view, the Associated Press was officially informed by Lord Pelham-Clinton, the Master of the Household, that the King regarded the presence in England of such a representative body of American business men as highly significant of the close and friendly relations existing between the two countries, and, in furtherance of that feeling, he was delighted to welcome them to his castle and make their acquaintance.

RECEIVED BY KING AND QUEEN.

After an inspection of the grounds, the delegates were taken to the east terrace, where they were received by the King. They were surprised to find that the Queen was also present, for her appearance was quite unexpected. With the King and Queen were the Princess Victoria and the children of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York.

President Morris K. Jessup said: "We were mostly warmly welcomed and spent a most pleasant afternoon. One of the most pleasant features was the unexpected presence of the Queen. Both she and the King were extremely affable. I regard the occasion one that will greatly strengthen the relations between the two countries."

All the delegates said practically the same thing.

George G. Ward said: "When we saw the Queen we could scarcely believe it was her. She looked so young and charming. Both the King and Queen appeared to be in splendid health, and they certainly were in the best of spirits."

BRITISH COMMENT.

The Daily Telegraph, in the course of an editorial upon King Edward's reception of the visiting delegation from the New York Chamber of Commerce Saturday, says:

"It has stamped the royal seal upon a national welcome. There could have been no more fortunate suggestion, at the outset of this remarkable visit, of the true spirit in which American business rivalry is regarded in Great Britain."

The paper advocates, as one of the best means of meeting this friendly rivalry, that British employers and workmen alike should visit the United States and observe for themselves America's business methods; and it declares that "The fact of two countries being so indispensable to each other makes all plans of European industrial coalition against United States an idle dream so faar as any British participation is concerned.

GOES AGAINST SALISBURY

London, June 3.—The election in the north or Saffron Walden Division of Essex, for a successor in the House of Commons to Armine Wodehouse, Liberal, deceased, has resulted as follows: J. A. Pease, Liberal, 3,994; C. W. Gray, Conservative, 3,202; Liberal majority, 972. At the last election the Liberal majority was 110.

CONSERVATIVE LEADER HERE.

Mr. R. L. Borden, M.P. for Halifax, and the leader of the Liberal-Conservative party of Canada, who was accompanied by Mrs. Borden, arrived yesterday from a brief tour through Western Ontario. In the course of a brief chat at the Windsor Hotel he expressed the belief that the Province of Ontario had become more strongly attached to Conservatism.

Mr. Borden declared himself to be particularly well pleased at the condition of the party in Toronto. From what he saw of the work done by Mr. Whitney, the leader of the Conservative party in the Ontario House, he predicted a victory as soon as Premier Ross decides to appeal to the electorate of that Province.

Mr. Borden expressed himself satisfied with the work done by the Conservatives during the session just brought to a close, and made a flattering reference to Mr. Monk.

VERY HOT IN EUROPE.

London, June 3.—For several days intense heat has prevailed over the continent, accompanied by heavy storms of thunder and hail. In various sections the crops have been destroyed, and many deaths have been caused by lightning.

Corn Lightning

WAR WILL LAST ONE YEAR MORE

So Predicts Gen. Smith-Dorrien—Actual Hostilities End Sooner.

London, June 3.—General Smith-Dorrien, who has been welcomed home at Berkhamstead, reports that, while the war may be ended by September, the bulk of the army will be needed in South Africa for twelve months. This is a gloomy forecast, and it comes from one of the most experienced generals in the field, who has not made a single mistake and has shown excellent judgment throughout the campaign.

Suspicions are excited by the lack of details respecting the battle fought at Vlakfontein. It is not probable, however, that the War Office is deliberately suppressing despatches from General Kitchener, and that a serious reverse has occurred. General Kitchener has told the story of the attle riebyb, and is not disposed to magnify the importance of anything connected with the campaign, but cannot withhold the list of casualties. The absence of Mr. Brodrick may explain the reticence of officials in Pall Mall, the stronghold of red tape, and the details of the battle may not be accessible to the few straggling war correspondents remaining in the field. There is no anxiety among military men, since the Boers are known to have been finally repulsed, but there are strong suspicions that the British were again off their guard, and that the heavy losses were caused by their being attacked unexpectedly. Delarey's commando has been allowed free range of a large district for a long period, while General Kitchener has considered it more important to clear other portions of the Transvaal.

THEIR MISSION A MYSTERY.

Standerton, Transvaal Colony, June 3.—General Tobias Smut and De Wet, secretary to General Louis Botha, arrived here Saturday. Their mission is not explained.

LONDON STORIES.

London, June 3.—The Sun publishes a sensational story to the effect that General Botha has arrived at Standerton and is appealing by telegraph, through the Netherlands Government, to Mr. Kruger to sue for peace. Lord Kitchener is said to have given Botha permission to adopt this course.

The Sun further hears that 10,000 Zulus have gone on the war path owing to Boer raids in Zululand.

A DRY DOCK FOR ST. JOHN

Mr. George Robertson, ex-Mayor of St. John, N.B., who was at the Windsor Hotel yesterday, says that within sixty days tenders will be asked for for the construction of the St. John, N.B., dry dock. The project has long been hanging fire, but Mr. Robertson declares that it St John is to become an important shipping port on the Atlantic seaboard a dry dock is absolutely essential.

Mr. Robertson said that his visit to England and subsequent negotiations with the admiralty were somewhat disappointing, and there had been modifications of the original plans. The dock would be a little smaller, but the site was one of the best on the Atlantic for such a structure, and it could be enlarged when the traffic demanded it.

It is Mr. Robertson's intention to discuss the question with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and other members of the Ministry. He left for Ottawa yesterday afternoon with that object in view.

Speaking of the equipment of the different ports Mr. Robertson maintained that a more perfect equipment would be a means of abolishing subsidies to steamship lines, as they would seek well furnished ports without being subsidized at all.

Discussing the growing importance of St. John, Mr. Robertson declared that they had shipped from that port during 1900 from three to four million feet of lumber and timber, and as this year's cut had been good and as the logs had been got out of the rivers well last spring, the aggregate export of the chief port of New Brunswick will most likely equal if not exceed that of 1900. Mr. Robertson added that the location of the steamship building plant at St. John would depend upon the carrying out of the dry dock project, and if the dock became an accomplished fact the steel plant would be built within a couple of years from now.

MRS. M'KINLEY VERY ILL

Washington, May 3.—Mrs. McKinley continues very weak. Her condition is not greatly changed, but each day that elapses without a gain in strength lessens her powers of recuperation. The complaint which came near ending her life in San Francisco is still present. It is in a slightly less aggravated form, but gives the physicians and the President much concern. Mrs. McKinley has shown remarkable vitality, but her illness has so reduced her strength as to leave her very feeble, indeed. It is feared that unless a change for the better soon manifests itself that he strength may become so near exhausted as to leave her without any rallying power. The news given out by the physicians in attendance yesterday was not reassuring, though hopes of better things continues. President McKinley spent most of the day at the bedside of his wife.

RIOT AT SHORNCLIFFE

London, June 3.—A military riot occurred Saturday night at Shorncliffe. A detachment of the Dublin Fusiliers, actuated by some imaginary grievance, wrecked their arracks. The guard was called out to arrest the ring-leaders and shots were fired by the Fusiliers, who met the reinforced guard with a volley of ball cartridge and bayonet thrusts. The riot lasted two hours.

FIRE RESTARTED.—The brigade last evening was called upon to extinguish a small blaze that had arisen amid the ruins of the Coristine building on St. Paul Street.

DR. GEO. L. MACKAY DIES IN FORMOSA

Most Famous of Canadian Missionaries Passes Away at the Scene of His Labors.

Toronto, June 3—"Dr. Mackay is dead." This message cabled from Tamsui, Formosa, reached the Presbyterian Foreign Mission office here yesterday. It marks the close of perhaps the greatest missionary life since that of Livingstone, with the possible exception of Paton, of the New Hebrides.

George Leslie Mackay was born in Zorra Ont., March 22, 1844. He was educated at Woodstock and Omemee schools, and Toronto University, and studied theology in Knox College, Princeton and Edinburgh. He was ordained in 1871, and almost immediately started for Formosa. After some early disappointments he gained the favor of both the people and the local Chinese rulers, and developed a strong school and church organization, with an hospital and a college at Tamsui, for the instruction of his native helpers, who number over a hundred, ministering to some sixty congregations and stations. He married in 1878 a Formosan lady, who accompanied him on one of his visits to this country and was for a short time with him in Montreal. In 1880 Queen's College conferred on him the degree of D.D., and in 1894 he was elected moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. His work in Formosa included the preparation of a dictionary of the Chinese language. He leaves a son and two daughters, who will carry on the work begun in Formosa by their father.

HIS LIFE WORK.

"The death of Dr. Mackay," said a prominent Presbyterian, "removes one of the foremost figures in missionary effort in modern times and causes a breach in the workers of the church which it will be hard to fill. His name has been for thirty years linked with that of Formosa, for it was in 1871 that he first went to that island, then a portion of China, and from which he has since returned on but two brief visits. During all that time he has throw the effort of a splendid manager and the religious zeal of an apostle into a work which has made his name famous throughout the civilized world.

"He had been suffering for the past five months from cancer of the throat, and for five or six weeks it has been known to his intimate friends that recovery was impossible. Two months ago he sought medical aid on the mainland at Hong Kong, when an operation was performed, but without permanent relief. For some time he has had with him Dr. William McClure, a Presbyterian medical missionary, stationed at Honan, but who left his station temporarily owing to the disturbances in China. His regular physician, however, was Dr. Wilkinson, an Englishman."

ORDINATION OF CLERGY

The first diocesan ordination service since the passing of the new Cathedral Act by the Quebec Legislature last session was held at Christ Church Cathedral yesterday morning by the Archbishop of Montreal.

The candidates for orders were:—For ordination as priest—Rev. J. J. Willis, B.A., of Papineauville; as deacons—Messrs. Angus A. Ireland, J. Douglas, B.A., and Thos. Edmund Wilson, the Rev. A. Ireland being gospeller.

The Ven. Archdeacon Norton, the rector, made the following statement in connection with the ordination:—

"For seventeen years His Grace the Archbishop has held diocesan services in the cathedral by the courtesy of the present rector. It was always a pleasure to me to extend that courtesy to His Grace, but it is a much greater pleasure to me to-day to welcome His Grace here for the first time as coming, not by the courtesy of anyone, but by legal right. I wish to thank the congregation for the kind and unanimous assistance which the general vestry meetings gave to me in removing by legislative enactment a long-standing injustice and anomaly, and securing to our diocesan the perpetual legal right to conduct his own special services at ordinations and synods in this cathedral church, which is now in the fullest, truest and best sense a cathedral indeed for the diocese for ages to come by the Divine blessing. I thank God for having enabled us all to accomplish this long-wished-for result."

The Rev. W. F. Fitzgerald, M.A., of Onslow, preached an eloquent sermon upon messages the newly-ordained clergy were to deliver, the Rev. E. McManus read the litany, the Rev. Principal Hackett, as Archbishop's examiner, presented the candidates to His Grace, and the Ven. Archdeacon Norton was celebrant. The choir chanted Talli's Litany and sang Clarke Whitfield's anthem, "I will lift up my eyes to the hills," and Cruickshank's communion service in E flat.

CROP FAILURE IN PRUSSIA

Berlin, June 3.—Owing to the bad crop prospects in Prussia, Count von Buelow, in his capacity of President of the Prussian Ministry, has advised the various government departments concerned to prepare for taking suitable measures to provide state aid for the purpose of meeting the situation. The harvest threatens to be a failure over large areas of the monarchy.

Prussia's loss on account of crop shortage are estimated by the president of the standing committee of the Prussian Board of Trade and Agriculture, in his report to Count von Buelow, to be: Wheat, 183,750,000 marks; rye, 103,000,000 marks.

ROYALTY FEARS ONLY THE CRANKS

Professional Anarchists Watched and Followed So Closefy as to Be Almost Harmless.

New York, June 3.—The N. Y. Tribune prints the following from Mr. I. N. Ford, its London correspondent:—There are one or two small ripples in the stagnant pool of foreign affairs. The arrrest of two anarchists at Madrid, an Italian and a Spaniard, is reported this morning wtih a confused account of a plot for the assassination of the Queen Regent. French detectives at Marseilles were apparently shadowing them, and the Madrid police pounced upon the pair of suspects before they had entered the city. If the police authorities are not working up a romance of their own their success in disarming and capturing these miscreants is a new proof that anarchists are closely followed by spies and kept under constant surveillance in European cities. They are watched vigilantly in London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, Vienna and other cities, and are not feared by the police unless they have a refuge for conspiracy across the Atlantic. Experienced detectives always assert that monarchs and rulers are no longer in danger from European anarchists. The police can watch and circumvent professional assassins, but cannot adopt safeguards against the freaks of disordered minds. The elaborate precautions required for the protection of sovereigns in every capital are directed not against socialists, but against cranks.

GERMANY AND HOLLAND.

The welcome which Queen Wilhelmina has received in Berlin would have been distasteful to her subjects a few years ago but is now tolerated as a necessary sequel to the German marriage. Dutch resentment is reserved exclusively for England and the anti-German prejudice has been steadily subsiding since the outbreak of the war in South Africa. England is now disliked by every body in Holland and the German Emperor is left free to shower compliments upon Queen Wilhelmina and her subjects. He has contrived to gain the friendship of both England and Holland by his course during the Boer war, and he takes advantage of every opportunity for courting France and Russia. The Anglo-German agreement was negotiated mainly for his benefit, and, as Count von Waldersee commanded the international forces in China, the pre-eminence of the Kaiser has been asserted and emphasized at every turn of the negotiations; yet, he has succeeded in playing a great part in the Far East without wounding Russian susceptibilities. The German troops are now retiring from Pekin, and the cost of the expedition will probably be defrayed in large part by the indemnity. The German Emperor has gained prestige both at home and abroad by the astuteness and persistence he has displayed throughout the Chinese negotiations.

U. S. COMPETITION IN ENGLAND.

The significance of the decision of the United States Supreme Court has been gradually revealed in England, and is intelligently commented upon by the weekly press. The clearest statement which I have heard comes from an experienced diplomatist. "The Supreme Bench," he says, "has sanctioned manifest destiny, as it has always done and must ever do. It perceives truth, the truth that, while some things may not be covered by the constitution, anything and everything in the order of progress and national development can be left under charge of Congress." This is more luminous than turgid essays on the ordinance of 1787, the Dred-Scott case, the Louisiana Purchase and other undigested details of American constitutional history appearing in print.

U. S. CMOPETITION IN ENGLAND.

Judicial decisions, based upon the common sense which is the heritage of the English-speaking race, make less impression here than the cumulative evidence that America has challenged England's position as the dominant money power of the world, and has shown superior capacity for industrial concentration and for massing the reserves of the capital. German and Belgian Capital in the iron and steel trade are preparing to meet American combinations by similar amalgamations. Whether the iron, steel and mining interests of the United Kingdom can be brought under single control is a problem on which many cautious English capitalists are now reflecting. The stress of American competition is felt daily with increasing effect. Lord George Hamilton's weighty reply to Sir Alfred Hickman's structures on purchase of American machinery and material for the Burmese and other railways under British control is the latest instance in point. While he attributes the introduction of American engines into India to the engineering strike, he enforces the moral that British firms must wake up, since these transactions have proved that for railway supplies and bridge construction, American bids are lower and the work is executed more rapidly. Documents like these induce searchings of heart among English industrial classses. It is easy for the leader writer to saddle upon the trades unions the responsibility for England's loss of commercial prestige, but the real source of weakness is a lack of flexibility and adaptability.

Valuable Information About Catarrh

Is a sure method of curing it. Ointments and powders won't cure it, and you never heard of medicine in tablet or liquid form that could cure either. What's the reason? Simply that germs cause Catarrh, and these germs take up snug quarters far back in the nasal passages, or deep down in the bronchial tubes where ordinary remedies can't go. What will reach them? Catarrhozone will, for it is inhaled in the lungs and bronchial tubes, goes where the air you breathe goes, kills the germs and cures the disease. It never yet failed. Try Catarrhozone, 25c and $1.00.
