THE CHURCHES.

American Presbyterian.

The Rev. Mr. Wells officiated at yesterday's morning service in the American P. Church, Dorchester street, taking as his text, with reference to the late Chicago disaster, the 8th verse of the 46th Psalm: "Come behold the works of the Lord, what desolation he hath made in the earth." The disaster we mourn to-day is the most extensive ever known in the world; words are too weak to describe fitly the ravages of the fire in that noble city, the imagination too feeble to grasp the extent of the injury. Chicago more than almost any other city upon the face of the earth, has invited the attention, and enlisted the sympathies of mankind. It rose in the face of difficulties that would have daunted another people, and stood forth as the first and highest representative of the energy of the Anglo-Saxon race. On this fresh new continent, forty years ago it was a morass, a swamp, the abode of five traders, since then its palatial buildings sprang up as by enchantment, and till but as yesterday, it remained a monument of skill, industry, and intelligence. A once insignificant creek was transformed into a capacious basin, sufficient to contain the navies of the lakes, a tunnel constructed at a vast cost brought in the most clear, cold and pellucid waters of the lake; railroad and telegraph wires ramified from it over the whole Continent, and in every conceivable way it wedded itself with the world at large. It was in fact one of the great nervous centres of commerce, and its destruction is the tearing of the heart from the body. Let us turn from the dark and gloomy side of the picture, in proportion to the vastness of the calamity, how has the world's generosity been shown? The distinguishing marks of country and clime have been forgotten. As the news travelled along the telegraph wires to the business centres of the old world, Liverpool, London, Edinburgh, Frankfurt, Vienna, &c., feelings of humanity were awakened in every breast, and nobly has the call been responded to. Business jealousies and strife were forgotten, and Chicago's rivals St. Louis and Cincinnati, &c., contributed as freely as the rest. Montreal, as became her position and eminence, has as nobly done her duty for never were two cities bound closer together by the ties of commerce. May we hope that this calamity so close to us will teach us to regard mankind with broader feelings and to learn as humility. How feeble man's power seems when compared with that pitiless destroyer, fire. If any city seemed prepared to battle with it, Chicago did. Her waterworks were regarded as most complete, her fire brigade was most efficient and numerous, she was partly surrounded by water and possessed telegraphic fire-alarms. But all human preparations were in vain. The flames swept forward as if unopposed. Buildings thought fire-proof of marble, iron and wood melted as if it were, at their approach. Three great lessons, sympathy, humility, and hopefulness may be culled from this terrible visitation. Hopefulness will apply to the future. The spirit of the people remains the same, the work of rebuilding the ruined quarter will immediately recommence, and Chicago, even greater than before, will rise up before an astonished world. Let us remember the perishability of the things of this world, and look forward unto the coming of the Lord, and limitless future where the rust doth not corrupt nor thieves break through and steal, and the fire no power to consume.

Mile-End Presbyterian.

The Mile-End Presbyterian Church was last evening filled to its utmost capacity to hear the Rev. Mr. Jones, who preached at great length; his discourse being directed to the Chicago fire, from which he deduced inferences relating to the world in general. The text will be found in the 2nd and 3rd verses of the 15th chapter of St. Luke: "Suppose ye that these Galileans were sinners above all Galileans because they suffered such things; I tell you nay, but except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." There is a freshness and vivacity in Christ's teachings which has never been equalled, and those weighty truths which fell from his lips 1800 years ago, are now the standards of ethics, morals and religion. Never, perhaps, since the Christian Era, has there been a time when these ought to be studied with greater earnestness than at the present; a time of wonderful changes and revolutions. While these progress, there are always some who will not learn the lesson of repentance, but who think where the heaviest judgment falls, there is the greater amount of guilt. I purpose to direct your attention to temporal calamities viewed first in a scriptural light, and secondly, in their design. We know there is no such thing as accident, for if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without God's will and permission, surely our fellow creatures cannot perish by the sword, famine, &c., without the same Divine consent. The Bible is full of such judgments; national and individual sins have been punished in this and in every age of the world. For these was the world submerged by the Deluge and Sodom and Gomorrah consumed. Sin has been the cause of all the calamities under which the earth has groined from the fall of Adam until now. Last Sunday evening such a fiery judgment visited a sister city. Men, in their wisdom, search out its causes. They see not that it is a visitation for sins—sin, as infidelity, drunkenness, debauchery, Sabbath-breaking, pride of wealth, &c.; they see not in this visitation God's hand, as they do in the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah. He works through natural causes, and there is no element, natural or supernatural, which is not under the control of the Almighty. That city provoked God's anger, and that retribution which is the reward of sin fell upon it like a thunderbolt, and almost blotted out the existence of ards, its adulterers, and its adulteresses be struck with awe? Shall not our Sabbath-breakers remember the consequences of their sins? I see a city yonder in ashes, and thousands of our fellow-creatures stripped of their possessions, and humbled to the dust. From this desolation I hear a voice saying: "Think ye that these Galileans were sinners above all men, because they suffered such things. I tell you nay, but except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." Let not our own city exult in her own excellences—and instead of inquiring into the sins of the sufferers, take warning by their misfortune. I am afraid that there is some danger impending over us in the midst of our prosperity; which will bathe our citizens in hot tears. I do not mean wholly for these unfortunate prostitutes who walk over the streets in scores; I do not mean wholly for the drunkards who made the silent watches of the night hideous with their besotted rovelry and profanity, nor the theatrical farces performed in some of our churches, but especially for the sins of the Street Railway Company, an institution injurious to the city and the lives of our citizens. To-day we see the names of some of its leading stockholders on the subscribers list for the Chicago sufferers, placed there in the name of Humanity, God, and all that is dear to man. Are we not in danger too? Can

THE GREAT DIANA OF THE WEST.
Shall not this city tremble, and its drunk-

THE GOD OF FIRE, PESTILENCE, AND FLAMES look with indifference upon the weekly breaking of one of his commandments. Shall He not visit the whole city for this Sabbath-breaking, this awful hypocrisy? A company which, under the pretence of accommodating church goers, becomes the servant of the heathen Japanese, and the managers of all manner of theatrical amusements upon God's Holy Day. Their silver and gold, thus acquired, may go to the sufferers in the west, but it will not atone for this Sabbath breaking in Montreal. Let this city, therefore, tremble, lest in His just wrath He scourge her as He has another for her iniquities. God's judgments of old have been recorded for our benefit: to shun the same punishments, we must shun the same crimes. This is to us both justice and mercy. One individual is out of, that another may mend his ways; one city is destroyed that another may fly from the impending wrath. Shall not its near thunder arouse us from our stupor? Our interests, political, commercial, moral and religious, are always in his hand. May our prayer also be that this visitation of the Almighty be overruled to our lasting good.

ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH.

Farewell Sermon of Mr J. P. Dumoulin.

This comfortable little church was crowded last night, the occasion being the leave-taking of the Rev. J. P. Dumoulin, who has accepted a ministry at Hamilton. The preacher selected for his text the last verse of the 15th chapter of the first epistle to the Corinthians—"Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

From this the speaker deduced in his usual impressive style several sterling truths which the real disciple of Christ must ever remember, as expressed in the words: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee a ruler over many things, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

The preacher spoke of his text as embracing so many "directions,"—to be STEADFAST, UNMOVABLE, ALWAYS ABOUNDING,—each of these he took up in order, enlarging upon them, and appealing to his hearers to be careful, lest the cares of the world blinded their eyes to the works of the Lord, which were waiting to be accomplished. The practice of charity was earnestly urged.

At the conclusion of the sermon, after a brief pause, the reverend gentleman alluded to his approaching departure from the field in which he has labored for the past five years and a half; "during which," said he, "God knows that it has ever been the one desire of my heart to exalt Jesus Christ as the only Saviour from sin." He then asked that the congregation pray that his future ministry be blessed, and left the pulpit amidst the most breathless silence, which was relieved by the organist playing as a voluntary the well-known air, "Home, Sweet Home."

DROWNED.

An old man named Joseph Paquet was drowned in the canal on Saturday evening under rather peculiar circumstances. He resided in Basin street and was, with his son returning from market about 7 o'clock. He proceeded down Martin street, and on reaching the corner, instead of turning walked right on into the canal. His son, who has only returned to the city after a long absence was not acquainted with the locality. The poor old man was drowned before he could get out of the canal. An inquest was held this morning and a verdict of "Accidental death" returned. Paquet has resided in Basin street for some time and was well acquainted with the neighborhood and it is most probable that his mind was wandering a little and so he mistook his road.

TO LEASE FOR A TERM OF YEARS,
Water-power and Premises with Sixty (60) Horsepower Tyler Wheel, Buildings and Sheds; also Saw Mill adapted for Custom work.
 These premises were formerly occupied as a Stove Foundry, and are well adapted for the Foundry Business, having a good Moulding Shop, Mounting Shop, and Pattern Sheds, or they are advantageously situated for an Agricultural Implement Manufactory, or for the manufacture of Sashes and Blinds, in connection with Planing Machines for dressing lumber. The facilities for getting lumber in the rough to these premises cannot be better, as they are situated on the main road, with direct water communication with all the large lumbering districts on the Ottawa, and lower districts on the St. Maurice. As nearly all the lumber from these districts pass through the Chambly Canal to the markets of the United States, the lumber should be brought to the door. There is a large and thickly populated surrounding country to supply with building material, which is compelled to draw its supplies from a great distance, at a great expense. Enterprise of this kind cannot but do a thriving and paying business. The property will be leased on liberal terms, the object of the proprietor being to get business started. Plunging into the River to Escape the Flames.
 (New York Sun Yesterday)
 Refugees from the ill-fated city crowd every eastward-bound train. The Erie train yesterday brought among others, Mr. C. N. Armour, who was engaged in the "Inside Printing House" of Kellogg & Co. He was hemmed in by the fire on the river's bank, and only saved himself by plunging into the current. There he clung to a floating plank and afterwards clambered upon a barge. His hair and whiskers are singed close to the roots, and the skin on his face, neck, and hands is blistered. One eye is badly inflamed, and his whole appearance indicates the peril which he has undergone. His story is replete with fresh horror. He relates as follows:

"In the first place, you may write from now until doomsday and use up the whole dictionary of adjectives, and then you can't begin to tell the whole story. I have seen more than I ever can remember, for

I LIVED A HUNDRED YEARS IN SIX HOURS.
 When I first made up my mind that the fire would cross the river and go over the other side of the town, I left my boarding house with two friends and walked down to the river to see. This was Sunday night. We kept walking until some one said:

 "We turned and saw the flames not more than two blocks off, sweeping along toward us in a semi-circle. We ran back to the house to save our things, but the house itself was then nearly burned down. My two friends ran down toward Adams street. I kept on back to the river. All the bridges except the Adams street bridge were gone, and that I could not get to, as the fire was between me and it. I went down close to the dock. Every minute the fire came nearer, and cinders filled the air. Soon the heat was not endurable. The hot cinders fell on me, and set my clothes on fire. I could not stand it any longer, so I plunged into the stream and swam to a float tied up to a spile. Even the water was warm, and thick with charred wood and ashes. I kept wetting my clothes to keep the sparks from burning my flesh. The air was full of smoke, and I was obliged to breath. Some of the shipping had been removed, and all that was left was blazing. I expected to die every moment. The flames made such a crackling noise I could not hear much else, except the crash of the tumbling walls as the tall buildings fell in. But all at once I heard voices, and saw a barge towed by a little propeller, coming along. It was covered with people. Men, women, and children were piled upon it, so that some sat holding on to the outer rail. I shouted with all my might, but the boat went on. As it grazed my float, I stretched out my hands. I was caught and helped up, and I tell you I never was so thankful in my life. I had to hang on to the logs of those on board with my feet dangling outside. All this time the sparks were falling and burning where they fell. The women and children screamed with terror. The water was as red as blood. Some of the docks were all a-fire, and seemed like one great live coal. There were two horses, a cow, and many dogs swimming and vainly trying to get a safe place, but there was no place for them to land. As we came to the Adams street bridge it was partly consumed. Just then a handsome coach with two splendid horses, apparently furious with fright came leaping upon it. As the centre was reached the timbers gave way and horses and carriage

WERE TUMBLING INTO THE RIVER.
 We were almost under them; but our tug dashed ahead over the fallen planks, and although we very nearly overturned and terribly shaken, we passed on safely until we reached the lake. Many were severely burned on the way. At one place the flames made an almost perfect arch, high above the banks on either side, from shore to shore. Several plunged overboard to escape the fury of the flames and were drowned. Numbers of dead animals floated in the water."

The Great Western Railroad Depot at Windsor, Ont., was destroyed in the late fire, as telegraphed, only the roof suffered slightly.

And now we have even the Ottawa Citizen discussing Independence. In its issue of Friday it said:

"Within the last few years the Colonies have been told, if not by official authority, at least on very good authority, that they might have their independence at any time they were prepared to ask for it or accept it. The mother country and the Colonies have become familiarized with the terms 'independence and separation' by frequent repetition, but when the question is looked squarely in the face, and it is asked how shall the matter be effected? it becomes just as difficult to say how they shall divide as how they shall maintain the connection."

Here we have a "Ministerial organ," published at the instigation of Government, only withheld from declaring fair and square for Independence by reason of its own inability to decide "how shall the matter be effected?" Assuredly there is a sign of the times not lightly to be regarded. Time was when the very idea of "blatancy" in the most disguised manner at Independence was looked upon as little less than high treason, but to-day we see a ministerial mouthpiece taking as its text for an Independence article the words "The spirit is willing but the flesh is weak."

The Citizen says the difficulties of effecting Independence are as great as those which surround the desire to maintain connection with the mother country. We ask our contemporary to divest his mind of all silly sentimentality and say which of these questions it best becomes us as a people to face. Does it become us, young, strong, sturdy as we are, to clutch to the apron strings and insist upon being pap fed, while our good mother, tired out and wearied with the cares and troubles of maternity, gives us plainly to understand that if we would do honor to the family we should give up baby tricks and act as our age and station warrant. Whatever may be the "difficulties" in the way of Independence conjured up by the Citizen, we certainly show a more manly spirit in trying to overcome them than in exhibiting ourselves to the world as a lot of timid colonists content to bear anything rather than boldly face imaginary dangers to a state which, while affording every chance for the fullest development of the great country we possess, would command for us the admiration and good will of the whole world.

We hope to hear further from the Government organs on this matter. Possibly they may be sounding public opinion in advance of a "new departure" to be announced when Parliament meets.

It takes a good deal to procure an expression of public opinion in this city. The people leave too much to the journalist, and even when the press exerts itself, might and main, in behalf of some laudable object, or for the removal of a long endured abuse, it is but rarely that a sign of approval is forthcoming from the citizens. This is a subject which the people of Montreal should seriously consider. There should be the fullest reciprocity, a perfect unity, and a complete understanding between the People and the Press. If good is to be accomplished the two must work together.

For years the press has declaimed against the gross neglect and criminal carelessness shown in the building up of the city, particularly in the suburbs, and yet, though the sufferers are the people themselves, not the slightest manifestation on their part has backed up the printed protests. An unmistakable expression of public opinion on any question of the day has untold influence with those in authority, and had such an expression been forthcoming when the crusade was begun we should not now have to deplore that the evil is so widespread as to be almost appalling. After all these years of apathy and indifference it has taken the overwhelming Chicago calamity to force from the people an appeal to the Corporation to enforce the laws regulating buildings and to take steps for the removal of lumber yards from the dangerous positions they now occupy. These things were urged in the strongest terms years ago, and at a time when reform would have been easy of accomplishment. Now, however, the removal of the lumber yards will cost the city an immense sum, and if buildings laws framed with due respect to safety, decency, health and the general well-being of the city, are to be enforced the buildings to be pulled down will be numbered by the hundred. However, cost what it may, the experience had better be bought now; further procrastination will only ensure a harder bargain, if haply we escape the fate of Chicago.

We earnestly hope this sign of an awakening to the importance of things other than money-making will not be a mere flash in the pan. The worst abuses of the old world are taking deep root in our midst, and it will need all our determination and energy to eradicate them. Slowly, but surely, there are being built up around us "slums" which will most assuredly engender vice, pauperism, and squalid misery. In these suburbs sanitary requirements are utterly ignored; the one idea is to crowd as many people as possible into a given space. We will venture to say that not even in St. Giles', London, is less space afforded each individual than is the case in the suburbs of Montreal. Back gardens are looked upon as extravagant luxuries only to be enjoyed by the wealthy. And then the constructions. If the reader—we suppose it is useless to ask the Building Inspector—will take a walk along Ontario street, eastward, he will see such a colony of enlarged wooden packing cases as perhaps no other city can boast of. We visited the locality yesterday. The wind had dealt rudely with some of the shells. One or two had collapsed bodily. The carpentering that the wind had exposed to sight—the wreck covering the roadway—would have disgraced a maker of egg-chests in Europe. We have seen stronger work put up by children playing with a toy tool-box.

Of course all this is in utter and violent opposition to the by-laws of the city; but it is useless to hope for redress until the present wretched farce termed "The Inspection of Buildings" is swept away and replaced by an active practical man who shall have the same powers and be required to do the same duty as an English District Surveyor.

Though Ottawa has laid herself open to the charge of foolish procrastination in the matter of water works, the very opposite must be said in the case of the railway project which is to bring the political and commercial capitals of the Dominion within four hours of each other. On Thursday a special meeting of the Ottawa City Council was convened to consider the advisability of giving a bonus of $100,000 to the Montreal & Ottawa City Junction Railway. The project was thoroughly discussed, and all were unanimous in favor of the grant. Subsequently a public meeting of citizens was held, and the decision of the Corporation heartily endorsed. The lumbering trade is fairly in ecstasies over the advantages the line would give, and the estimates of the saving to be effected by transporting lumber to the United States via Montreal instead of as now by boat and rail astonished even the projectors of the line.

It is asserted, after careful calculation, that the saving by the new route would be at least from 50c. to 75c. per M. over water transport; and when it is remembered that about 133,000,000 feet (one hundred and thirty-three millions) are annually sent from Ottawa to the United States, the total saved amounts to a very respectable sum. This traffic alone ensures the prosperity of the line, which is more than can be said of any other of the projected lines.

At the Ottawa meeting Sir FRANCIS HICKES was present as a taxpayer, and in the course of a few remarks he made concerning the road, he said "the new system of giving bonuses instead of taking stock was a good change." And most assuredly it is. Railways, like other things, suffer if too much "managed." The old proverb, "Too many cooks spoil the broth," is as applicable to great projects as to domestic operations. We would have all Railway Boards as free as possible from outside influences. With the responsibility concentrated, Public Opinion has power, and the management cannot afford to ignore the rights of the people; but with a hundred different "interests" to study and wills to obey, the management becomes a wretched farce—a political puppet show.

Montreal is ready to devote a liberal sum to sound railway projects, but not one cent to an elongated political machine. The roads she desires to aid are those which will confer real benefits upon the country at large, as well as conduce to the development of her own trade. There must be no equivocation about the schemes; everything connected must be "fair, square and above-board," and presented in a definite shape. Facts must be forthcoming; guesses, suppositions or reticence are equally useless; the taxpayers are not going to throw their money away in the dark; the projects must stand the most powerful LIGHT. When the North Shore route to Quebec is shown to be a line which will bear the scrutiny of men not political wire-pullers; when it is shown that its location is such that at least sufficient traffic to pay expenses will be forthcoming; when it is shown that a second Grand Trunk blunder is not to be made, then the taxpayers of Montreal will be ready to listen to propositions respecting a bonus. So with the Northern Colonization; money is waiting for a sound, sensible project, but it is sheer impertinence to expect that the people will vote in favor of a bonus to a line of which nothing definite is known. Let these two schemes be presented in such a shape that every citizen may be satisfied of their stability, and there will not be a dissentient voice at the polls. Until this is done, it is hoping against hope to expect that the public will acquiesce in a vote for a bonus. The line we first noticed comes before the public in honest garb; it has received the hearty approval of all who have studied it, and but a modest sum is asked of this community in order to proceed with the construction at once. If we know Montreal rightly she will not allow Ottawa to outdo her on the score of commercial enterprise.

THE BIG BLOW.

Yesterday's storm in the City—Panic in the Churches—Houses and trees blown down. One life lost.

Shortly after eleven o'clock yesterday forenoon, a hurricane came up from the southwest with considerable fury. It is supposed to be a continuation of the storm which has done so much mischief on the coast of the Lower Provinces, during Wednesday night and Thursday morning, stranding their straits with wrecks.

Shortly after the first lesson was concluded in the service of the English Cathedral, the steeple was caught by a severe gust of wind, and the beams of the ceiling cracked with the loudness of a series of pistol shots. Almost all the congregation rushed to the various doors without their hats, and escaped into the open air. Several boys who were in the church brought out the hats, &c., and they were selected by their owners. Most of those going from the Cathedral stood to observe the raking of the high steeple which was plainly perceptible to those looking on. The Bishop, who preached the sermon at the service, seemed but slightly alarmed, and commanded the service to proceed, but only between twenty and thirty persons remained to the conclusion of the sermon.

AT ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH

The service was interrupted by a loud crash and falling of some of the plaster from the roof. This event took place between the reading of the first and second lessons. Two or three nervous and very silly people rose excitedly and called out "Fire! fire!" with all their might. All control over the congregation was instantly lost, and Mr. Bond's efforts to induce them to sit still and assurances that there was no danger, only excited them the more and men women and children rushed like mad people over the pews where they could not easily get out by the doors, and heedlessly rushed to the entrances, knocking each other down, and running over their prostrate companions to get into the street. Many ladies fainted in the porch and on the pavement, and calls were loud for water and aid. The medical men in the congregation were immediately on the spot, and every possible assistance was rendered. Fortunately nobody was very seriously injured, but bruises and torn dresses were very common casualties. This freedom from more serious or perhaps fatal injuries arises from the facilities for egress, so well arranged in the church. Mr. Bond continued the services to their conclusion to some fifty or sixty of the congregation who returned to their seats.

SAD ACCIDENT.

The most distressing circumstance connected with the gale of yesterday is the accident which occurred to Miss Annie Lowe, by which she lost her life. It appears that about noon she took a book and went into the summer house in the grounds of Mr. McKay, near her father's property, Cote des Neiges. During the gale, a tree near the summer house was blown down; Miss Lowe heard it cracking, and thinking it would strike the house, ran out, just then the tree fell, striking her on the head and fracturing the skull. She was taken into the house in a state of unconsciousness and Dr. Smallwood was quickly in attendance; but all help was unavailing, and she died about half-past three. She was the only daughter of Mr. John Lowe, and was idolized by her parents, who will have the deepest sympathy of their many friends in their bereavement.

BUILDINGS INJURED.

Two frame houses in St. Jean Baptiste Village, and one in Amherst street, were blown down. A house in Bonaventure street was stripped of its gables, and numerous windows were broken. A tree in the Champ de Mars was torn up by the roots, and several in Viger Garden broken. The skylight of the General Hospital was blown off, and very nearly killed Dr. Fenwick's horse, which was standing at the door. At one of the houses in St. Jean Baptiste Village the people of the house had just sat down to dinner, when the roof of the house was blown off. During the prevalence of the storm three alarms were sounded, all caused by chimneys on fire; the reels were quickly on the spot, and the flames subdued without damage.

We must fear that the news coming over the wires will disclose many disasters by flood, and field caused by this storm. The appearance of the river was very strange, and the white caps were higher than they have risen for many years. As the waves struck the piers of the Victoria bridge, they threw up large bodies of water terminating in a white spray which presented quite a novel, and interesting effect. One of the steamers caught in mid-channel by the storm, caused much apprehension to those looking on, but fortunately weathered the gale, and arrived safely.

OTHER SCENES.

No panic took place at any of the other churches, although several of them were slightly shaken by the heavy gusts of wind which succeeded each other with great rapidity.

THERE IS NO SPECIFIC

FOR CONSUMPTION AND SCROFULA. DYSPEPSIA, resulting in depraved nutrition and impoverished blood lies at the foundation of these formidable diseases. The only rational method of treatment consists in improving Digestion, Assimilation, and the formation of Healthy Blood. DR. WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA immediately restores tone and energy to the Stomach, enables the invalid to digest and assimilate a proper amount of nourishment, and thus to arrest decline. Phosphates are now the chief reliance of the Medical Profession in the treatment of Chronic Wasting Diseases; and every one (and their name is legion) that has used Dr. WHEELER'S PREPARATION will attest to its great superiority and elegance over every other combination, and its thorough reliability. Its action is prompt, progressive and permanent, invigorating and vitalizing all the organs of the body, with no liability of a relapse. Sold by all Druggists.

NOON TELEGRAMS.

The Prairie Fires. NEW YORK, Oct. 16. Late advices fully confirm the worst accounts of fires in the region of Green Bay. Numbers of towns have been laid in ruin, the loss of crops is fearful, and the suffering of the people dreadful.

CHICAGO.

Latest from the Burned City. CHICAGO, Oct. 16th. City crowded with sight-seers. Louisville capitalists intend to invest $10,000,000 in buildings. City districted by superintendents who attend to the distribution of food, &c. Sanitary condition of the city is excellent. 102 dead bodies thus far recovered. Coroner says none were hanged. Two men and a child were found on the prairie yesterday; also, a female, exposed to the storm, died in childbirth; and, three children, driven from their temporary shelter by the gale, perished. Allen Pinkerton has placarded the city with hand-bills, ordering his men to kill any thief or ruffian caught attempting depredations. Three alarms of fire last night drove the people almost frantic.

SPARKS FROM THE TELEGRAPH

CANADA.—W. Hatchard, being troubled with the green-eyed monster, killed Thomas Maslin with a hatchet at Toronto. Windsor fire burnt up $189,000 worth of property. Malloy's grain elevating warehouse, Toronto, was destroyed by fire. Loss, $50,000; insurance, $12,000. Three unsuccessful attempts to burn down London the little on Friday night. Kingstons had the gale bad; seamen could not start, and many schooners are ashore; The Queen of the Lakes is a total wreck. Dr. Barker retires from the editorship of the Kingston Whig; rumored that the paper has been sold to the Grits. Help for Chicago is universal in Canada. Yacht race at Quebec to-day. Sherbrooke voted $1,000 to Chicago; private subscription amounted to $500 already. $6,000 from St. John, N.B., to Chicago. The cabin-men's strike in St. John, N.B., has terminated, the fares being arranged to suit them.

UNITED STATES.—The grain trade was resumed on Saturday by the sale of two cars of oats and two of wheat at Chicago. The elevators destroyed at Chicago are those of Galin, Munn & Scott, Armour, Dole & Co. In Chicago, the lake front as far as Harrison Court is about to be built for business purposes immediately. Permits to build one-story offices are given by the Chicago authorities. They are clearing away the site for the Chamber of Commerce, Chicago, which will be equal to that destroyed. The city of Chicago is one mass of bustle and activity from laborers clearing away the rubbish to commence new buildings. Quincy, Ill., has raised $70,000 and a large amount of clothing for the Chicago sufferers. The Americans in Paris have sent to New York $30,000 for the Chicago fund; the officers and men of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, $5,500; the bankers of Pittsburgh, $20,000; the American committee of London, $18,000.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH.

John Noonan, the lad whose leg was amputated by Dr. Howard at the General Hospital on Friday last, died on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. An inquest was held the same evening, and a verdict of "accidental death" returned. The boy, a fine looking fellow—as will be remembered, met with the accident which caused his death, early last week, when he was thrown from his seat on the coal cart in front of the wheels. He was an orphan, and resided with a boss carter on College street.

MARITIME INTELLIGENCE.

HAALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 10.—The American schooner E. A. Horton, recently seized by Captain Terry for violating the fishery laws, was stolen from Guysborough harbor last night. Galveston, Oct. 8.—The steamer C K Hall was lost in a storm on the 3rd inst., with all on board except Otto Lassen.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN IMPORTING HOUSE.

A CARD. The Merchants of Canada are said by some to be a hard-fist class; that they not only want Goods cheap, but that they must have everything low-priced. To whatever extent this may be true of old style dealers in past times, it is a total mistake as applied to the present. The general public are now becoming judges of the quality of articles, and the merchant who will command their trade must not only sell goods cheap but good. In accordance with this principle we have endeavored to meet the wants and the taste of the public and the trade in classes of goods formerly proverbial for their inferiority. The trade, therefore, recommend our Goods without hesitation, and the public buy them with confidence. To the Merchants of Canada—from Nova Scotia to Manitoba—we offer inducements which they can appreciate to patronize us:— 1st—We offer the largest assortment held by any one house on this Continent. 2nd—We keep up stocks to the full limit, in Toronto and Montreal, at all seasons of the year. 3rd—We offer in all departments the best of its kind. 4th—Our Goods are widely known, and are freely bought. 5th—We sell at reasonably low prices. 6th—Our terms are close to good men, with liberal discount at short dates, or for cash. A visit to our Houses at Toronto or Montreal solicited from all buyers, or sample orders by post. ROBERT WILKES.

GRAY'S SYRUP OF RED SPRUCE GUM.

This preparation is made from our native Red Spruce Gum, which gum has been held in great esteem by the Indians of Canada and the North West for the relief of pulmonary complaints, from time immemorial. A large amount of the Spruce Gum is held in complete solution in the Syrup, consequently all the balsamic and soothing effects of the Gum are preserved, which is not the case when it is taken in high wines, according to old-fashioned usage. For COUGHS, COLDS, CHEST IRRITATIONS and THROAT AFFECTIONS, this Syrup will be found invaluable. Persons who are very susceptible to changes of weather would do well to keep it in the house, and use it on the first appearance of cough. Price, 25 cents per bottle, at all drug stores, and at the store of the manufacturer, HENRY E. GRAY, DISPENSING CHEMIST, 144 St. Lawrence Main street. (Bottles and 10c) 242

LOVE'S REDEMPTION;

The Baronet's Wife.

"Nearly six and twenty years. You will keep the dreadful secret, won't you? I could not afford to be so frank if you did not know my age. Nearly six and twenty years! He was a fledgling ensign then, used to rave about my eyes, and write me letters for which my husband would have horsewhipped him had I told him of their existence; but Gerard was such a pretty boy that I had not the heart to get him into trouble."

"He has been very constant." "He told me seriously that he has remained single entirely through me, and I believe him. You know some men are strange."

"You are a coquette to the last," Miriam said to herself, "and your vanity will help me to your destruction, Lady Montgomery Gunter. If you have any such folly as a genuine bad affection for him I shall like it the better, for the blow will strike you with more keenness coming through him."

She dined in Mount street with Archie, Chandos, and her ladyship—a little cozy party of four. It was the first of many dinners of which the same four were sole partakers, and Captain Gerard Chandos was soon on a very friendly footing in Park street. It was his pleasant delusion that he made Mr. Ravel jealous, and was always welcome to Miriam.

"There is not a more magnificent woman in the world," Gerard Chandos told himself, for perhaps the hundredth time, as he left the house at the end of one of the morning calls that were becoming frequent; "and I never felt so strongly inclined to sacrifice my freedom. She is outside society, it is true; but then so am I, and so I have been for the last ten years. She has two thousand a year—that, as I have ascertained, is true beyond a doubt—and with two thousand a year we could make a good show on the Continent. Then her beauty! I am half determined to try what chance I have."

While he was making up his mind, Miriam, with the assistance of Granger and Mr. Medwin, was interesting herself considerably in his private affairs. They made a brief history, common enough to men of his kind; he was heavily in debt; dishonored bills bearing his name were as common as waste paper, and even his commission was at the mercy of disreputable money-lending lawyers and tailors. His income barely sufficed to pay the interest on his debts, and avert the evil day.

"You will buy up every debt he has," Miriam said to Mr. Medwin: "make yourself his sole creditor, and hold him so that you can throw him into prison at an hour's notice should I require it."

Mr. Medwin could scarcely understand his client, but he promised to carry out her instructions. He took a singular interest in her character, probably because it mystified him. "The total sum will be one thousand seven hundred and forty-three pounds," he said, quietly; "and as a speculation I would not give the odd seven hundred for them."

CHAPTER LIII.

A NOTE OF WARNING.

The intimacy between Miriam in Park-street and Lady Gunter in Mount-street went on with a gradual growth of cordiality, and no one could have suspected that the two women had ever been bitter foes. Miriam never said a word of blame to her old enemy. She spoke as if their warfare had run its legitimate length, and come to a legitimate termination. Her anger, if she had any, was against the baronet and Talbot Grey. Of them, and mankind in general, she spoke with a cynical contempt which Lady Gunter thought was part of her nature hitherto unrevealed.

Yet there were times when Cecilia's instincts were troubled by a vague distrust—a sense as if a peril were gathering round her silently. When Miriam was with her, her suspicions vanished; when she was alone she could recall peculiar expressions, curious inflexions of tone, and a strange, inexplicable second look in that beautiful dark face—a look which spoke to her soul rather than to her eye, and warned her of a slowly coming danger.

They never mentioned the past as if they had been connected with it together. The tragedy by the chapel at the hour of sunset was never alluded to. Their ancient enmity was never alluded to. Even when Miriam was more than usually quiet Lady Gunter had a doubt, and expressed it.

"I can scarcely believe that our friendship is real, Miriam." "As real as women's friendship ever is, my dear lady Gunter. Sincerity and depth depend entirely on relative positions. We are useful to each other. I have lost caste—you are only half-received. I tried a lonely life in Park-street, exiled Mr. Ravel, and found it gloomy. Here I meet a certain set who, at least, amuse me."

"I really thought you were more unfor-giving." "I question whether you really ever injured me. You simply helped me to test the men who professed to love me. They could not stand the test, and so I learned their real value. They were not worth keeping, and I know it, thanks to you. You proved to me who was my ever true friend, for all you said and did had no effect upon my poor, faithful Archie."

"I am glad we are friends," Cecilia said seriously. "I have not the strength and energy I had. Since I have gained my purpose I seem to want repose, and it would worry me to be at war with you." "It would be a waste of time on my part even had I the inclination," Miriam said with a smile. "You have your position, and nothing could make you less than Lady Gunter."

"Nothing," repeated Cecilia; "but tell me, dear, if you really wanted revenge, what would you try to do?"

Miriam walked to the window, which commanded a view of the Park. Inside the railings some few wretched outcasts of either sex reared wearily on the grass in the sunshine. There was one miserable creature more wretched-looking than the rest, so tattered, limp, nerveless, and famine-stricken, so hopelessly haggard, hollow-eyed, and worn by drink, disease and vice, that a pauper's grave would be a merciful refuge.

"Come here," Miriam said to Cecilia and she obeyed.

You see that poor lost creature, with the bent and ragged bonnet and shoeless, stockingless feet—the most wretched of them all?"

"Yes." "Well, that is what you should be, unless you died before my vengeance finished."

Lady Montgomery Gunter shrank from the low, deep tone, and light caressive touch with a shudder. The words woke the instinct which told her of the silent peril; they were a note of warning, telling her of a slow, shapeless hatred under their tranquil suavity.

"I wish you would give me your solemn promise that you have forgiven me," she said. "You make feel now and then as if I am not safe. I wish I had never been your enemy, Miriam Medhurst!" The divorced wife of Talbot Grey laughed under her breath. "You always were a little coward, Mrs. Digby. Your most vicious things have been the mischief of a refractory child, persisted in with the full knowledge that they must be found out and punished; but you are out of my power—fortunately, perhaps, for both of us. It would be useless for me to tell Mr. Grey what I have known all along: that it was the general's man, Miller, who struck him down, and you who stabbed him. It would be useless for me to say it was you who put the broken whip and the stiletto in the shabby box I brought from Rylands, although I knew it was; and you do not care to deny it to me. The man is recovered, the prosecution is abandoned, and I am free—as I wanted to be; and you are out of my power, or I might be tempted to revenge myself."

Cecilia wished she had not asked the question. The tone of the reply did not reassure her.

"What has become of your child?" she inquired. "Did you find her?"

"I dare say Mr. Grey has," was the cautious answer. The mother's heart told her the motive for the inquiry. "I can scarcely be supposed to interest myself in the offspring of a man who was so willing to get rid of me."

Her voice was not under control this time. Cecilia smiled to herself.

"You have been trying to find her all this time, and failed," she said to herself. "You think I know where she is, and that is why you have not mentioned her in my presence. I must take her from Sunbridge, and hide her in some safer place. You mean to do me some mischief, my sweet Miriam, and I must retain that power over you in case of accidents."

Lady Montgomery Gunter sent a messenger to Sunbridge next day. She chose Mr. Miller for the service in preference to going herself. Her own absence might have excited suspicion. The valet had acted exactly as Mr. Pulteney predicted he would. He was no sooner liberated from Brooke-street and Mr. Granger than he went to the general's wife, and by a simple cogent argument induced her to use her influence to have him restored to his former service. He did not want to be an expense to her, he said, and she would find him a faithful servant.

In want you to fetch a little girl from the seaside for me," she said, when she had rung the bell after Miriam's departure, "and take her direct to this address, a boarding-school in Clapham. The arrangements for her reception there will have been made by the time you return."

Cecilia did not think there was occasion to give him more than that brief instruction. She gave him a letter to the Sunbridge riding-master, and the money for the journey, and the valet, not having been told to keep his own counsel, told Cecilia's maid where he was going.

That same evening Mr. Granger, talking as usual to the pretty housemaid with the ribbons in her cap, heard incidentally that Mr. Miller was going out of town next day, and as in duty bound communicated the fact to Mr. Ravel. It occurred to Archie at once that his errand concerned Miriam's child.

He had asked her why she did not have the little one with her, and she told him the reason.

"I should grow to love her so much that my heart would be softened, and turn from its purpose. She is happy, well cared for, and safe."

"Are you sure she is safe?" "Mr. Stirling has promised me not to give her up to any one, and in the event of Mrs. Digby wishing to remove her to send for you at the St. James' Club."

Archie remembered that now, and he took a resolution without consulting Miriam. He went to Ted Pulteney instead.

"You had better forestall our friend Miller," Edward advised; and you might, Archie, by proper management, turn that little one to good account. It would be as well to get the Sunbridge people to make Mrs. Digby believe that the child had been discovered and claimed by Talbot Grey."

"That would put an end to her own claim entirely. She would not care to go into a contest with him."

"You might use that little one, Archie, as the means to reconcile Sir Henry with his wife."

"How?" "Take the child to him. Tell him who she is, and don't let Miriam know where she is. Tell her nothing, except that she is safe. Depend upon it, Sir Henry will receive her gladly."

"I had a letter from the poor old fellow the other day," said Archie, "full of the most penitent expressions. He wanted me to go and see him, but I did not see what good I could do by going. The letter had been lying at my club for a long time."

"Did you send a reply?" "Yes. I told him not to think any more about it; but I could not give him any hopes about seeing her again. She will not even speak of it. Her whole heart and soul is fixed on the one purpose—some scheme she has against Mrs. Digby."

is sure to be kind to her for her mother's sake. You need not tell Lady Selton where she is. Say simply that she is safe, and can be seen at any time; then, when she wants to see her, you know what to do." (To be continued.)

"THE CHILD OF FORTUNE," or "THE VICTIM OF DESTINY," will be commenced in the STAR in a few days.

Napoleon Weeping.

The unfortunate exile who has seen the end of his Imperial Greatness, wept when he found himself so mercifully dealt with by his Antagonist and Captor, King William of Prussia. History seldom chronicles such leniency on the part of a Conqueror. Not so in Medicine, for the Great Shoshonee Remedy and Pills have no respect of any reigning disease in the human body, for this combined medicine roots out completely all acute and chronic maladies, and converts the system into a sound tabernacle for humanity to live in. The Queen's Hotel, Toronto, is one of the largest in the Dominion of Canada. It is one of the institutions of Toronto, and is conducted with such success as to have earned the esteem of the entire travelling public. Its situation on Front street, overlooking the Bay and Lake, is convenient to the railway stations, and business part of the city. Commercial men from the Lower Provinces and tourists generally should recollect that this hotel is recognized by travellers everywhere as the finest in the Dominion. Parties having had the good fortune of once accepting the hospitalities of Mr. McGaw, manager, forever afterwards bear the house in the highest possible esteem. 180

CLOTHING.

STEWART OF NEW YORK—RAFTER OF MONTREAL.—Why has Stewart's, of Broadway, New York, become so noted throughout this continent? The fact is owing chiefly to the immense extent of the building, the accommodation it affords to customers, and above all the signal success of its proprietor.

This position wasn't gained in a lucky moment or in a year, but perseverance, courage and integrity were necessary. Just like great chiefs whose names became as a spell to the armed hosts; those men passed through years of upward mountings, facing obstacles without number, ere they arrived at that eminence which entitles them to a note in history.

Commerce is a kind of commercial warfare, in which Stewart, of Broadway, and Rafter, of Montreal, are taking active parts. As a great clothier to the million it's more than probable that Rafter's trade exceeds that of Stewart, of New York. It is most likely, too, that had Stewart started in Canada he would not have secured the success which has attended Rafter's trade, and that he would have crossed the lines years since.

Integrity and largeness of views are marked characteristics with both in their style of doing business.

RAFTER includes every class of our people in the varied and extensive arrangements laid down for the conducting of trade, at his large Store, No. 463 Notre Dame street. From the Governor and Suite down to the honest working mechanic, everything required in the line of Dress is to be had.

His large Store, as a great Clothing Depot for Ready-mades or to order, may be looked upon as one of the first in this Dominion. Gentlemen will be suitably provided with the latest styles known to the fashionable world. The working tradesman and his children will also be well suited (with no less courtesy, and at a rate of charge which will be nearly as moderate as the wholesale prices.

His fair rule of "allowing any garment to be returned, if not found to give entire satisfaction," is calculated to secure the greatest confidence with the public.

In the visiting season of Americans Rafter's store becomes so like a Broadway Mart, that it is not unfitting to note their similitude and to allude at the same time to Stewart's as one of the most celebrated throughout the Union.

INSURANCE. FIRE AND MARINE INSURANCE.

WESTERN ASSURANCE COMPANY, OF CANADA.

WESTERN ASSURANCE COMPANY.—This Company's business is rapidly expanding, as appears from a comparison of the premium receipts for seven successive years—

Table with 2 columns: Year (1865-1871) and Premium Receipts ($27,849 to $316,028).

Though the past year has been unusually disappointing to fire insurance companies, involving the Western in losses to the extent of 66 per cent. of the receipts, yet the shareholders of this Company have had the handsome dividend of 14 per cent., and the sum of $30,000 has been cleared beside. These results, though not so favorable as might at one time have been anticipated, are highly encouraging. There is now a fund of $200,000, in addition to the paid-up capital, set aside, to which additions are being regularly made, giving every reasonable guarantee of safety, and placing the Company in a position where no ordinary kind of adversity will be able to interrupt its progress.

WESTERN ASSURANCE COMPANY. Insurances effected against loss or damage by Fire.

Inland and Ocean Marine at usual current rates. Losses liberally adjusted and paid in full on proof of claim.

Special Rates and Policy for the Insurance of Dividends, Schools, and Churches in Town or Country, for One or Three Years.

Conditions of Policy materially modified for this class of business.

POETRY.

AUTUMN SONG.

BY FLORENCE K. BRADLEY.

The great winds blew through the woods at noon, Late noon, when the sun was cold; Stray shifting breaths from the thin white moon Flow over the beds of marigold, And the one late rose forgotten of June.

Summer was dead—we both knew that, I and my song that loved the sun; We wanted to hear the brown bird's chat, And listened; but only one by one The red loose leaves fell down where we sat.

And Love was dead—we knew it well, Love who came with the buds in May; It wore a sorrowful thing to tell How he sickened and fell away, Without one sigh, without one farewell.

There was an end of all sweet things, too— All rhymes, all laughter, and tender looks; Dreamed out together, the lips that grew, Sighing a little, and sad to ours— This also surely we knew.

We could not utter it, being alone, But the tears sprang up unaware, For the glad green spring, forgotten and flown, The tender touch of his hand and hair, And the new life yet unknown.

THE SATELITES OF THE EARTH.

The question of the earth having once had two satellites, has been for some time agitating the French Academy of Science, and M. Stanislas Meunier has been the author of the theory, now taking a strong hold upon the scientific world. M. Meunier has deduced his theory from the various erolites, and their mineral composition which have fallen upon the earth. He argues upon the distance of the planets from the earth, and their composition, that these cannot fall from them, and he has founded a theory generally adopted, that another moon formed part of our system, which he has called "Geologia," from the fragments of which, as they have passed round the globe for centuries, these erolites are cast off, and by the earth's attraction, fall upon its surface. M. Meunier is only assistant to M. Dobree, at the Nation Museum, and Dobree becoming jealous of M. Meunier's fame, has shut up his erolite, and put an end to M. Meunier's further investigations, at the same desiring that he should, himself, as a matter of course, have come to M. Meunier's conclusions, in which he had only, by the rules of common deduction, forestalled him. Amongst scientific circles this is the most exciting joke that has ever come before the academy.

FREAKS OF A STEAM ROLLER.

The New York Times tells of a singular accident happening the other day in the streets of London. It appears that a huge steam roller was in Pall Mall on its way to St. James' Park, to be used on some paving work. At 12 o'clock the driver of the engine concluded to go and get his dinner. He, therefore, shut off steam and left the engine standing near a statue in front of the Pall Mall Restaurant. A crowd of people gathered around including some mischievous boys, one of whom got on the engine and managed in some way to start it. This done the lad ran away. The locomotive to the dismay of the bystanders, started off, at first slowly, but continually increasing its speed, and presently spread consternation all around. Its first direction was for the statue, which it would probably have overturned if not demolished, but when close up to it, the engine turned capriciously almost at a right angle, went straight across to the shop of Mr. Thompson, a photographic colorist. Its entrance was effected by the window, which was totally smashed, and not only this, but the heavy stone facade underneath the glass was also shattered to fragments. Several ladies standing in front of the window were slightly hurt, and one gentleman seriously. Two other ladies fainted in the crowd, and, being tramped under foot, received bad, although not dangerous injuries. The devastation committed by the unruly machine in the window, which was full of pictures and other fragile articles, is said to be indescribable, and it is easy to believe that a ball in a china-shop could have been nothing to it.

The EVENING STAR is undoubtedly the cheapest newspaper in Canada, containing most news, and managed with more ability than any other in this city. But The Recollet House is the place for first-class Dry-Goods at the lowest prices, and for variety of styles, and magnitude of stock, is behind none. The Fall trade is just opening, and Brown & Claggett have secured such a lot of the very latest novelties that must place them in the van of all other competitors. The Departments are all stocked with goods to meet every want, and at prices to suit every purse. Having a resident buyer in London, they have always placed in the hands of the Montrealers such goods as were fashionable in Europe almost as soon as they appeared in London. Therefore, we would say to the tens of thousands that read our newspaper buy your Dry-Goods at the Recollet House. Patronise Brown & Claggett, who, although only three years in business, nearly come up alongside of our oldest houses. Having facilities for buying goods cheap, which our oldest firms have not, and being determined to sell cheap, which our oldest firms do not. The public will decidedly find it to their advantage to visit the palatial Dry-Goods store of B. & C., corner Notre Dame and St. Helen streets.

McMILLAN & CO., AGENTS, MERCHANT TAILORS,

232 ST. JAMES STREET, Next door west of the Ottawa Hotel.

McM. & Co. beg to announce that they have opened the new store, No. 232 St. James street, where they purpose carrying on business as Merchant Tailors. It will be remembered by many of their former customers that for a lengthened period they did probably the largest first-class Tailoring Business ever done in Canada. They consequently possess a knowledge of the business in all its details, such as can only be acquired in the management of a business similar to that alluded to.

Their acquaintance with the most celebrated makers of goods in England and elsewhere, together with the arrangements they have perfected for a regular supply, will enable them to offer the newest and most reliable makes of goods.

Their ability to manage the artistic and mechanical departments of a first-class business will not, they think, be questioned by those acquainted with them. In the fitting of pantaloons they flatter themselves they can combine elegance with perfect comfort.

Attention will be given to Boys' and Youths' Dress, Ladies' Riding Habits and Servants' Livery.

Their prices will positively be moderate. Fixed prices strictly adhered to.

An inspection of their goods and a share of your orders respectfully solicited.

FOUR O'CLOCK.

The funeral of Judge AYLWIN takes place to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 from his late residence, opposite the old Donegans Hotel, to the Wesleyan Church, Lagachetiere street East. Thence the remains will be taken to the boat for Quebec, where they will be interred.

We see it stated that the late Judge bequeathed his splendid library to Morin College, Quebec.

ROUND TOWN.

The Peoples' Telegraph Co., has opened an office at Carillon, Quebec.

Thirty-six lamps were reported by the Police as unlighted last night.

Ald. Alexander is to open refreshment rooms in the new Music Hall building, St. Catherine street.

The wall of the new City Gas Company building at Hochelaga was blown down by yesterday's gale.

The new premises of the Mercantile Association on St. Catherine street, were opened on Saturday evening.

The Coleman children left on the 9 o'clock train this morning for Ogdensburg, where they will play for two nights.

The Dorcas Society will hereafter assemble at 11 o'clock every Wednesday afternoon, in the Dorchester street American Presbyterian church.

A few of the residents of St. Armand got up a purse of $40 for the Chicago sufferers and forwarded it to his Worship the Mayor, who handed it over to the Committee of Relief.

A very neat block of buildings, has been erected during the past season on the corner of Dorchester and Bleury streets, by the directors of the Protestant House of Refuge and Industry, situated on Dorchester street.

A little before five o'clock on Saturday afternoon as Joseph Maurie, horse-dealer, was turning a buggy in Chaboillez square, the vehicle upset, throwing Mr. Maurie with great force to the ground, seriously injuring him.

The Police records show 1948 licensed dogs in this city; but there are a great many unlicensed puppies—on two legs—who congregate before the doors of churches on Sunday and stare ladies out of countenance.

The sum of $218.50 has been subscribed by the various establishments in connection with the Montreal Typographical Union for the printers of Chicago. The offices are: Gazette, Herald, Daily News, Star and Mr. Starke's.

A bazaar for the aid of the Nazareth Asylum was opened at 2 this afternoon, in the hall of the building, St. Catherine street. The institution, a very deserving one, is said not only to be in want of funds for the exigencies of the coming winter, but to be also in debt.

La Minerve denies, on what is affirmed direct authority, that Governor Archibald ever intended to resign the Governorship of Manitoba. The fact that Judge Johnson, at Ottawa, had been appointed Administrator de facto in case of the decease of the Lieutenant-Governor alone gave rise to the report.

A disgraceful row took place at the corner of Ann and Wellington street yesterday afternoon, and broken heads and bloody noses were the order of the day. There was no policeman in the neighborhood, and the dozen or more men engaged in the "serenade" fought it out and then went away. Where are those forty new policemen who are wanted so badly?

In our account of the Highland gathering and games in Glengarry, we omitted to mention that Mr. William Isaacson, of this city, won the 600 yards race, Bowie being a good second; and that the gold medal awarded by A. W. Ogilvie, Esq., President of the St. Andrew's Society of this city, was won by Mr. D. Macmaster, advocate, of this city, for the best essay on "The History and Effects of Highland Games." No decision on the merits of the prize poem has yet been given by the judges.

THE ENGLISH CATHEDRAL.

We hear that the Cathedral authorities have applied to City Surveyor McQuisten for his opinions respecting the stability of the steeple and building generally.

OBITUARY NOTICE.

The Hon. Thos. Cushing Aylwin was the grandson of one of those Americans who preferred the British Government to that of the revolutionary party, and left Connecticut to take up his residence in Quebec. He was born in Quebec on the 5th of January, 1806, and was educated there till fourteen years old, when he was sent for a short time to Harvard College. He studied the law under the late Mr. Thompson, afterwards Judge of Gaspe district, and was admitted an Advocate in 1828. Judge Aylwin was the editor of a Quebec journal for several years, and fearlessly advocated reform in the government of the Province, particularly in its administration, and, with the most supreme contempt for the charge of disloyalty which was brought against him, maintained with infinite tact and talent that the real disloyalty was committed by those who brought the Crown into contempt by oppression and injustice. He was elected M.P.P. for the County of Portneuf in 1840, and strongly set himself against the tricky manner and high handed tyrannies of Mr. Poulett Thompson (Lord Sydenham) the Governor-General. In 1842 he was appointed Solicitor-General in the Baldwin-Lafontaine administration and resigned with them. Lord Metcalfe, the Governor-General refused to make the appointments the Ministry named to him. In 1848 he was again appointed Solicitor-General, but shortly afterwards accepted a judgeship, Mr. Aylwin was three times married: first, to Miss Hannah, of Quebec; secondly, to Miss Felton, an English lady of great talent, the daughter of the Hon. J. Felton, M.C. of Sherbrooke; and, lastly, to the daughter of Dr. Blake, an eminent physician of this city, who survives him. Judge Aylwin's talents were of the highest order. His hatred of tyranny and injustice was innate in him, and could only be equalled

3rd EDITION

SIX O'CLOCK.

The Telegraph Company notifies us that the damage done by yesterday's storm has interrupted communication with New York; hence the lack of usual evening telegrams.

We are glad to learn that the Bar is at last to assist the Press in its endeavors to rescue the legal business of Montreal from the awful slough into which, by mingled ignorance, incompetency and laziness, it has floundered. Probably our more recent strictures upon the shameful condition of the Court House may have led to the present action, but certain it is that a meeting of the Bar of this city is to be held on Friday next to consider the best means of remedying the administration of the Circuit Court business. The rolls of the Court are so frightfully encumbered that on Saturday over four hundred cases had to be transferred en bloc to the November list.

We would suggest that a Judge be appointed to sit every legal day. At present the Court sits for about six days per month, and it is simply impossible to transact the business which accumulates. Besides the above 400 cases there must be about 100 left by consent. The fees of the Court should be ample to supply the Judge so urgently needed.

ROUND TOWN.

Seven ocean steamships are in the harbor. The Dominion Orange Lodge give a grand dinner on Friday, November 3.

Large shipments of butter and cheese continue to be sent weekly from this port.

Frequent fogs on the river are at present great impediments to the regular arrival of steamers, &c.

The Board of Chairmen meet this afternoon to consider the proposed amendments to the charter.

The Finance Committee meet the Chicago Relief Committee at the City Hall tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

The old well-known bathing house moored at the Wind-mill Point, has disappeared, having gone into winter quarters.

William Lunn and Theodore Lyman, Esqrs., are the visiting Governors at the Protestant House of Industry and Refuge for the present week.

On Friday last, Ignace Bourget, Bishop of Montreal, issued a circular warning the members of his diocese not to read the Pays, as it had not yet received his approbation.

We are glad to learn that over 300 reserved seats have been sold for Boscovitz's concert in aid of the Chicago sufferers at the St. Patrick's Hall to-night. No doubt the Hall will be crowded.

The quarterly meeting of the Montreal S. S. Association of the Canada Presbyterian Church will be held to-morrow evening, the 17th inst., in the lecture room of Knox Church. Tea will be served at 7.30, and Rev. R. M. Thornton will deliver the quarterly address. Admission free.

The steamer Quebec, due yesterday morning, arrived at 8 o'clock last evening. She grounded on Saturday evening opposite Three Rivers, but was got off at 6 a.m. yesterday by the Trois Rivières. The latter steamer, expected last night, has not yet arrived. It is feared an accident has caused the delay.

PRESENTATION.

On Saturday evening a number of the clerical friends of the Rev. J. P. Dumoulin assembled at the house of the Ven. Archdeacon Bond, and presented Mr. Dumoulin with a very handsome address, accompanied by a splendid solid silver communion service and a number of choice books, as a token of their esteem, previous to the departure of the reverend gentleman to assume his new charge in Hamilton. Mr. Dumoulin will leave for Hamilton to-morrow.

ATTEMPTED ARSON.

Michael Flaherty, aged 19, a common vagabond, was arrested by Con. Goddard last night on Dubord street, in the act of setting fire to a brick house belonging to Mr. Greaves. The material used—leaves, paper, &c., was alight, when the discovery was fortunately made in time. As it can be only called an attempted arson, it comes before the Police Magistrate, and not the Fire Marshal. Flaherty has made innumerable appearances before the Magistrates on charges of larceny, vagrancy, &c. The investigation into the case will be rapidly pushed forward to conclusion.

THEATRE ROYAL.

Miss Kate Ranoe, one of Montreal's greatest favorites, will inaugurate a brief winter season to-morrow night, opening with the burlesque of "Kenilworth." Miss Ranoe has an entirely new company, some of them well known and old favorites here, such as Miss Sallie Holman, Miss Kate Quinton, Miss Ida Leslie, and Messrs. Phelps, Davidge, G. Holman, Hudson, &c. The first two or three weeks will be devoted mainly to burlesques, after which it is expected one or two first-class stars will visit us. We have long felt the want of amusements here in the winter time and we trust the public will afford the management that generous support which it will undoubtedly deserve.

$1 A WEEK ADVANCE.

Does the Council ever intend to take any action on Alderman Bernard's motion to increase the pay of the police force from $7 to $8 per week? We think the worthy Alderman would do well to endeavor to get the motion taken up to-morrow night and push it as soon as possible. The winter is now close on us, warm clothes, and fires are needed, and the extra pay would come very acceptably just now to our hard worked and badly paid guardians of the peace. It is not much they ask, not quite fifteen cents a day, and yet over eight months have been wasted in thinking about granting their request; if it had been a proposition to add $5,000 each to the salaries of a few favorites, fifteen minutes would have sufficed—vide Council meeting, 12th July on Salary question.

VICTORIA LITERARY AND DEBATING SOCIETY.

This Society commenced its session last Saturday by a debate, held in the Mechanics' Hall. The subject was, "The Treaty of Washington: Will it be of Benefit to Canada?" The debate was opened on the affirmative side by Mr. Walker, the President. He was replied to by Mr. May, and the debate was continued in the affirmative by Messrs. Allan, Shaw and Moore; and in the negative by Messrs. Fitts, McDermid and Cuthbertson. When the sense of the meeting was taken, the majority voted for the affirmative.

This Society is established for the intellectual improvement of young men. Its meetings are held every Saturday at the Mechanics' Hall. Next meeting will be occupied by an essay, reading, &c.

EAST CIRCUIT—WESLEYAN MISSIONS.

Sermons were yesterday preached in the East End and Sherbrooke street churches, by the Revs. Messrs. Wakefield and Hansford, in aid of the above named object. The services were marked by deep earnestness and interest. The Quarterly Sabbath School Meeting in the afternoon was also an occasion of interest. Friends from other circuits were present in numbers—the scholars sang several S. S. hymns, and brief addresses were made by Messrs. Hansford, Sparling, and Gordon, and several S. School workers.

Public Missionary Meetings will be held this and to-morrow evening in the East End and Sherbrooke street churches respectively, with the Rev. Messrs. Wakefield, Hansford, Sparling, and Hunter as speakers, with singing; a good and successful time may be expected.

RESCUING PRISONERS.

Scarcely a month passes without an attempt being made—sometimes successfully—to rescue prisoners arrested by the police. The majority of these rescues take place in transferring prisoners from the Ottawa-street Station to the Chaboillez-square Station, and from the St. Charles Borromeo-street Station to the Central Station; neither the Ottawa nor St. Charles Borromeo streets stations having any cells where prisoners can be kept. These rescues generally result in torn clothes and broken heads to the policemen—as was the case with Jones on Friday night. It is perfectly evident that the Ottawa and St. Charles Borromeo streets stations are totally unfit for the purposes for which they are used, and we trust that the Police Committee will go to work with a will next year to provide proper stations. There is not a single police station in the city which is anything like what it ought to be, and the Ottawa and St. Charles Borromeo streets stations are a positive disgrace. It would be rousing the Police Committee with too rude a shock to propose any improvement this year, but we do earnestly hope for better things next year.

LEFT BEHIND.

The company from the theatre, which was to have left for New Orleans by the 9 o'clock train this morning, missed the train on account of their luggage not arriving in time; and will have to wait over until 8 o'clock to-night. A quizzical friend of the Company immediately got out the following announcement: "In view of Mr. Ben. DeBar's Company having missed the train through mismanagement, they will give one grand extra performance on Monday evening, 16th October. The performance will commence with the vexing farce of

A DAY LOST.

To ensure a full house the price of admission will be reduced: Boxes, nothing; Dress Circle, half price; other parts of the house in proportion.

FOOTBALL.

The annual match Gown vs. Town, took place on Saturday afternoon, on the McGill College Grounds, before a fair number of spectators, who appeared to enjoy the fun greatly. The game was well contested, and, although from the nature of the game, hard blows had to be given and received, the utmost good humor prevailed. The contestants were:

GOWNS.

- Fleet, Torrance, McDonald, Buchanan, McMillan, S. Campbell, Blackwell, Carter, Russell, G. Campbell, Fownes, Vanneck, Stewart, Whilom, Mudge, Blogg, Esdaille, C. Jones, S. C. Stephenson, captain. W. A. Molson, umpire.

TOWN.

- McDonald, Buchanan, S. Campbell, Blackwell, Carter, Russell, G. Campbell, Fownes, Vanneck, Stewart, Whilom, Mudge, Blogg, Esdaille, E. A. Whitehead, captain. George Tyer, umpire.

The Gowns proved the victors after a close and exciting game.

POLICE COURT.

Before W. H. Brehaut, Esq., P.M. Thomas Bowes, grocer, corner of Workman and Fulford streets, selling liquor without a license, $50 and costs, to be collected by distress, or 3 months. The Clarendon brothers (3) were arraigned on a charge of assault on Moise Trudel at St. Martin, on the 24th ult. Plaintiff being unable to appear, the case was postponed until the 23rd inst.

Felix Lafrenchie, stealing from Larose; no proof; discharged.

Jean Lauzon, for assaulting Pierre Campeau, $1 and costs or 8 days.

William Pollard, seaman, barge North Star, drunk, $1 or 4 days.

SEVEN CASES NEW GOODS JUST RECEIVED at Harper's Centre Dollar Store, containing four thousand different articles, new, useful and ornamental. Nothing like them in the Dominion. Come at once, and see for yourself, and you will find our Goods more than is represented, for this is the only Dollar Store in Montreal, or Notre Dame street. Business men of Notre Dame street, in the Shoe, Fancy Goods, Jewellery, Hosiery and Clothing trade, all say that Harper is spoiling the trade.

Harper keeps steadily on attending to his own business, not minding the empty cry for trade of the Two-pence Ha-penny Store that cries "No! No! No! No Dollar Store for him." Poor fellows! they must feel bad, and would like to see Harper pull in his Dollar sign at No. 267 Notre Dame street, opposite the original Blue Store. 212

We should like to see the public avail themselves of the free "Personals" in THE EVENING STAR. These advertisements will be directly opposed to the "Personal" advertisements so glaringly inserted in some American papers. THE STAR "Personals" will be for the benefit of strangers seeking the address of some city friend; for information from one person in the city to another, such as appointments to attend meetings, invitations to parties, excursions, or other private social gatherings; questions and answers, &c. As only initials of names will be inserted, the public will see what a secret, reliable, and advantageous means of communication the "Personal" column of THE STAR may be.

NEW GOODS.—New Goods, at the West end Fifty Cent and One Dollar Store, consisting as follows:—Shell and Rubber Bracelets, Shell and Rubber Sets, Pin and Drops; new Parian Vases, Walking-Canes, Albums, Purses, Work-Boxes, some very fine Cutlery and Scissors; also, one case more of the Gold Opera, Oread and Hair Chains, for Ladies and Gentlemen, selling rapidly. Come and see them, opposite Recollet House. 209

THERE is a general complaint throughout the Suburbs that it is impossible to obtain the STAR without sending to town for it. There is a good opening for at least a dozen smart boys to serve the factory and workshop hands in the West-End at Six o'clock.

ALL letters in answer to free advertisements will be kept carefully at THE EVENING STAR Office, if called for by the advertiser within ten days after the insertion of the advertisement. See advertisement in another column.

THE PROPRIETORS OF THE EVENING STAR beg to inform newsdealers that in future every facility will be provided for furnishing them promptly with papers. A special office is now being fitted up for the newsboys, and newsdealers will be supplied at the office, 91 St. James street.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES and Obituary notices will receive free insertion in both the daily and weekly editions of THE STAR. Persons desirous of acquainting their friends in the country with such notices, may be interested in knowing that THE WEEKLY STAR, published at Sixty Cents per annum, is now largely circulated throughout every county in the Dominion, and as it contains from one to two columns of Deaths and Marriages every week, people in the country have got habituated to reading its columns for all such intelligence. See advertisement in another column.
