Valleyfield - Coteau Bridge Officially Opened By Hon. Maurice Duplessis

Large Gathering at the Valleyfield Seminary Listens to Speeches Commemorating the Inauguration of the Msgr. Langlois Bridge

The Msgr. Langlois Bridge was officially opened on Sunday, September 26, by the Hon. Maurice Duplessis, Premier of the Province of Quebec and by Msgr. J. Alfred Langlois. Because of the rain, the program for the ceremony was curtailed somewhat.

The first of the official ceremonies took place on the Coteau side of the Msgr. Langlois Bridge. The Hon. Maurice Duplessis cut the ribbon across the Coteau Bridge (Bridge 2) thereby declaring the Msgr. Langlois Bridge to be officially opened. Dr. Augustin B. Clement, the prefect for the County of Soulanges acted as Master of Ceremonies. The Hon. Romeo Lorrain, Minister of Public Works, spoke briefly. Mr. Duplessis in his short speech, stressed the importance for the unity of the Diocese of Valleyfield. He also stated the very great importance of unity between the Federal Government and the Government of the Province of Quebec.

The official party then moved to the middle of the Msgr. Langlois Bridge, where the Hon. Maurice Duplessis unveiled a commemorative Plaque. Following this, the party moved on to the Valleyfield Bridge (Bridge 2) of the Langlois Bridge. Msgr. J. Alfred Langlois spoke briefly and then gave the benediction.

From the Bridge, the official party drove by automobile to Valleyfield to form up in a line behind the five bands formed up near Tougas-Nicholson's. The procession moved along Ave. Grand Ile to Victoria Street along to Larocque Road to the Valleyfield Seminary where the official speeches were given, to the music of the Municipal Band of Valleyfield, of Beauharnois, the Garde Champlain, The Garde Dollard and the Zouaves.

A gathering of about 2,000 people assembled in the concert hall of the Seminary for the official speeches commemorating the inauguration of the Msgr. Langlois Bridge.

His Worship, the Mayor of Valleyfield, Louis Quevillon, presented a serling silver salver to the Hon. Maurice Duplessis as a souvenir of Valleyfield, and a sterling silver as a gift of appreciation to Mr. Edgar Hebert, MLA for Beauharnois.

Mr. Edgar Hebert received an overwhelming ovation by the assembled gathering. In his speech, he expressed his thanks to Mr. Maurice Duplessis, Mr. Romeo Lorrain, the Minister of Public Works, and their colleagues for making it possible for a fifty year dream to come true. He also expressed his appreciation to his many colleagues of the Government who were able to attend the opening of the Msgr. Langlois Bridge. He reviewed the history of the construction of the bridge and spoke on thoughts for the future of Valleyfield and Beauharnois.

Mr. Hebert then introduced Msgr. J. Alfred Langlois to the gathering. Msgr. Langlois in his brief speech, said that he was overwhelmed but very happy, that such a great honour had come to him of having such a fine structure named after him. He thanked the Union Nationale Government for building the great bridge; for Mr. Edgar Hebert and Mr. J. E. Jeannotte working so faithfully in striving for the building of the Langlois Bridge which will link the two shores together into a solid Diocese of Valleyfield. He expressed his appreciation to the many architects, the construction workers and the many others who had a part in building the bridge. He felt that with the building of the great Bridge, that prosperity would come to the north and south shores of the St. Lawrence River.

The main speaker of the afternoon was the Hon. Maurice Duplessis, the Premier of the Province of Quebec. Contrary to expectations, the Premier did not make a bitter attack on the Prime Minister of Canada and the Federal Government. Instead, he spoke quietly and dispassionately.

He stated that he had always been willing to co-operate to settle the constitutional financial problems between Quebec and Ottawa but that as long as he is premier of Quebec he will never give up the essential rights guaranteed Quebec by the constitution.

He confirmed a story which appeared in a Montreal Daily last week, that on three different occasions he had offered to meet the prime minister and the federal minister of finance on "neutral grounds" to try and find a solution to the problem and find a more equitable distribution of the Canadian Tax dollar. He said that the meetings were proposed by the representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Chambre de Commerce and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

He stated that the Federal Government admitted that it collected more than 17 per cent of taxes than it needed fo rits budget, but that Ottawa objected when Quebec asked for only 15 per cent of the tax dollar collected in Quebec by Ottawa. The reason for this was so that the Federal Government could distribute this surplus to the "poorer" provinces. "It is all very well for Mr. St. Laurent to make gifts to the poorer provinces, but let him do it with his own money, not the money of the Province of Quebec. If we want to help the less fortunate provinces, something which we are willing to do, we will make the gifts ourselves. We don't need the Federal Government to do it for us."

The premier reiterated his stand that Quebec needed the money for essential health, public works and social services and that the present Government was determined that the people of Quebec would not be deprived of these services because the federal authorities wanted to collect all the taxes. "Ottawa will collect all the money and will then distribute it to the province by means of subsidies as Ottawa sees fit. That is something we will never accept as long as I am premier.

Mr. Duplessis spoke for sometime on the characteristics of French Canada, speaking about its own culture, language, and religion, and the relation and reasons for building the French schools, colleges and hospitals in order to steep the young people in the ancestorial culture of French Canada.

He recalled that since 1945, the National Union Party has spent more than $116 million in agricultural loans, $47 million for housing and $20 million in rural electrification. It had established 15,000 new hospital beds and had accomplished hundreds of other needed reforms. He mentioned these figures to show the audience why the government needed more money to carry on this work.

Mr. Duplessis said that Quebec would never be intimidated by the threats of a prime minister, even when that prime minister was a native Quebecer, who should know better.

"Quebec has ever been ready to show its good will. We have always been ready to get together with the federal authorities to find a solution just as long as the essential rights of the province, rights guaranteed our forefathers, when they entered the pact of confederation are respected."

Following the speeches, a reception was held at the Chalet, in Sauve Park. Some 600 guests attended the reception. Being a damp night, the schedule street-dance on Victoria Street was cancelled. There was a very good display of fireworks in the bay from nine o'clock on.

Fire Prevention Week

Observation to Be From Oct. 3rd to 9th

Chief L'Heureux and his firefighters are busy this week planning their campaign for Fire Prevention Week which is being observed next week from October 3rd to the 9th. Visits will be made to all the schools and Huntingdon Junior Chamber of Commerce has allocated a sum of money to be used in conjection with a competition on Fire Prevention among the school pupils and students. The fire brigade plans having a window display and to parade the streets warning of the dangers of fire and urging all to take preventative methods against fires.

The Chief is also urging all citizens to do what they can to have their chimneys, stove pipes, furnaces, oil burners and so forth thoroughly checked. In this way chimney fires and such may be prevented during the coming winter months. He also issues a warning not to overload electrical circuits in the home. Smoking in bed is a habit that is frowned upon by the Chief and he hopes that persons now practicing this habit, will make sure their cigarette is out before they go to sleep.

Huntingdon has a very good record as to fires and the Chief would like to have it kept that way. He and his firefighters are always ready to combat fires, but from the damage and loss of life angle, he feels it is better if they do not have to fight a single fire. Much can be done to prevent fires, but this takes the co-operation of every citizen and it is this co-operation that the Chief is seeking. Let's make the most of Fire Prevention Week by getting rid of the possible hazards around and inside our premises. This also applies to those who live in the rural parts of Huntingdon as well as to those in town. It is better to prevent a loss than to incur one. Every hazard removed will possibly mean a fire prevented.

Annual Convention Protestant Teachers

The annual convention of The Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec is meeting in West Hill High School, Montreal, on Thursday and Friday, October 7th and 8th. Teachers from schools in the Beauharnois District will be attending and a very interesting program has been arranged. Included in the program will be the award of the Order of Scholastic Merit to fourteen teachers.

Permanent Pastures A Worthwhile Project

Recently, concrete examples were shown of the experiments that are being carried on with respect to the establishment of Permanent Pastures on a number of farms in the County of Huntingdon and the Ormstown district of the County of Chateauguay.

These experiments are being carried on as part of the Better Farming Competition, a five-year plan which was organized in 1953 by Leon A. Beaudin, Agronome for Huntingdon County and the Ormstown district, Quebec Department of Agriculture. At present there are 25 farmers of seven municipalities enrolled in that competition.

Various phases of farming operations come under this five-year competition or plan, but probably one of the most important is the Permanent Pasture Plan. Also which, if same is successful, should be of incalculable benefit to the farmers concerned. Albeit, an object lesson, perhaps an incentive to a great many others.

Eighteen of the five-year plan members have also entered the Permanent Pasture plan, while 12 other farmers who are not otherwise in the general competition have each placed a field under Mr. Beaudin's supervision.

Jean Desjardins, District Representative of the C.I.L. (with headquarters at Ste. Martine) assisted Mr. Beaudin in connection with the general lay-out of the Permanent Pasture Plan. Several of the other members of the C.I.L. agricultural staff gave Mr. Beaudin considerable assistance by way of advice, soil sampling, etc. The C.I.L. also made a substantial contribution to the plan.

However, says Mr. Beaudin, "My task was only made possible by the spirit and material co-operation of the members involved in this plan."

It is true that this experiment is still more or less in its initial stages. However, a group of people who are vitally interested in such experiments, and who viewed seven of the fields involved, are apparently well satisfied that the experiment is well off to a good start.

Led by Leon A. Beaudin the group referred to assembled at Ormstown, at 1.30 p.m. on Tuesday, September 21, and from there proceeded to seven farms in the vicinity of Ormstown, Ste. Barbe and St. Anicet. Included in the group were the following C.I.L. Officials:

Philip A. Novikoff, Public Relations Dept.; L. M. Godfrey, Product Development Manager Agric. Chem. Dept.; C. R. Snyder, Technical Service Supervisor, Agric. Chem. Dept.; J. C. Leclerc, Soil Chemist; Fred Hayward, Advertising Department; Jean Desjardins (as already mentioned); Tony Lamoureux, St. Hyacinthe.

Quebec Department of Agriculture Officials in attendance included E. Brisebois, Assistant Chief Extension Service; L. Renaud, Agronomist, Farm Competitions (who has also given Mr. Beaudin considerable advice in his task); Paul Methot, Seed Branch; Clifford McGee, Assistant Agronome, Huntingdon.

The group first visited the farm of Robert Eastwood, near Ormstown, at which time Mr. Beaudin informed the group that two vital factors, time and distance, had to be considered when the seven farms to be visited were selected. He assured the group, however, that while one or the other might be better than the average, the seven of them really represented a cross section of the experiment in general.

Mr. Beaudin also explained that insofar as possible the fields selected for the experiments were either adjacent to the farm steadings or else as near to same as possible. Water and shade were also factors considered. "In that way", said Mr. Beaudin, "time and effort is saved, while the cows are more or less under supervision at all times. Moreover, it has frequently been the case that the manure is now being taken to other fields which ordinarily would not have been given the benefit of manure."

He also explained that the seed pattern is as follows:

Twenty pounds to the acre. The mixture being comprised of Timothy and Brome grasses; and such of the following clovers and legumes as may be best adapted to the soil concerned: Red Clover, Alfalfa, Alsike, Ladino and Birdsfoot Trefoil, but, as already indicated, not necessarily in that order or composition. The Ladino and Trefoil were included in an experimental way, the other clovers and legumes according to types of soil, acidity, etc. In several instances Alsike has been substituted for Alfalfa.

Mr. Beaudin then led the group over the seven farms already referred to, and gave the information and details which are hereafter briefly summarized.

Robert Eastwood Farm

Incidentally Robert Eastwood is a World War II Veteran and so he is meanwhile operating a 100-odd acre farm under the Veterans' Land Act. He is also a Diploma Course graduate of Macdonald College.

The experiment at that farm is being carried out on a 5.5 acre field which is immediately adjacent to the farm steading. The field was sown in 1953 to oats as the cover crop for the grass mixtures. An application of 400 lbs. of 2-12-10 fertilizer per acre was also given, except in the case of a narrow strip or check row in the centre.

Only one-half of the field was pastured to any extent, while the oats of the other half were allowed to ripen and were subsequently harvested.

In the present year (1954) this field of 5.5 acres, which is in three sections, grew sufficient grasses, etc., to pasture 20 head of Jerseys continuously from May 20 to August 7. The cows were put on another pasture on the latter date until August 23, after which they were returned to the experimental field and there grazed until September 10, when they were again changed-over in order to let the grasses reseed.

However, that is not all the story, because the grasses were growing too fast Mr. Eastwood cut one-third of the field for grass silage. Also, at the end of July Mr. Eastwood clipped the other parts so that the grass would not get too rank.

Howick W.I. Sponsoring Special Film Showing

The Howick Women's Institute has arranged with Mr. Norman Holland of Montreal to show his film, "30,000 miles by Air" in the Howick High School, Tuesday, October 5, at 8.30 p.m. The film which takes about two hours to show, and the very entertaining commentary which Mr. Holland has prepared is of interest not only to children of school age but to adults as well.

S. Morgan Powell, when he was editor of the Montreal Star, after viewing the film, said in part: "The charm of this film lies in the fact that Mr. Holland has taken scenes best calculated to stir the imagination. He shows the beauty of tropic landscapes, the wonders of tropical flora and fauna, and the marvels of mountain and waterfall. He also gives intimate glimpses of life in these tropical lands and shows the majesty of their great cities as well as indications of their incalculable resources."

Among the outstanding features of the travelogue are the views of the majestic Kaieteur Falls and the scenes showing the crossing of the Andes. All persons in the district including high school pupils of Ormstown and Huntingdon are invited to attend the showing of this entertaining film. A silver collection will be taken.

'Little League' Baseball

Valleyfield Rotary Sponsors 4 Teams

"Little League" Baseball is an actuality in a great many cities and towns. The boys who participate in such leagues are 9, 10, 11 and 12 years of age. Service clubs frequently sponsor such leagues, not only with a view to finding potential baseball players, but to give a great number of boys a chance to participate in organized sport and at the same time develop a sporting interest within themselves, rather than see some boys slip into the category of delinquents.

The Valleyfield Rotary Club, under the presidency of Cliff Foley, had a "Little League" baseball organization set up in Valleyfield for 1954. Rotarian Medard Cousineau assumed the chore of being the manager. Medard had a number of old baseball players lend him their support, and so it was they made the League a real success. 60 boys were in the league, there being 15 boys for each team.

To equip the four teams and get things ready to go by May 15 it cost the Rotary Club $2,500. During the season some equipment had to be replaced or augmented and insurance was carried on all 60 boys against accident and possible fatality. These expenses made it that the "Little League" cost the Valleyfield Rotary Club for first year, $3,000. They expect the cost of continuing the league in 1955 will be around the $2,000 figure.

The World Series of the Little League took place in Williamsport, Pa. Nine cars went to Williamsport, Pa., conveying the 64 boys, and 76 adults also made the trip. The cars left Valleyfield shortly after 5 a.m. and arrived at their destination in the afternoon. Two cars were much

Ormstown High School Chairman Voices Need For Addition To School

Could Possibly Be Done For About $100,000 — Part Paid By Government — Cost of About $5.00 Per Taxpayer For Balance

The annual Commencement Exercises of Ormstown High School were held on Friday evening, Sept. 24th, in the O.H.S. Assembly Hall, when 1953-54 prizes were awarded and the address given by Mr. A. W. Lang, Secretary of the Provincial Association of Protestant School Boards.

Mr. E. A. King, B.A., M.A., principal, conducted the evening's program. The evening opened with "O Canada" followed by the Invocation given by Rev. W. T. Payne.

Mr. James White, Chairman of the Ormstown School Board, extended a welcome to the new teachers and expressed appreciation of the teachers, who had previously served on the staff. He reviewed steps taken and the address given by Mr. A. W. to ensure safety on school buses and improvements made around the school during the summer. He also mentioned the large enrollment of pupils of the present session and the lack of space to accommodate them. Grade XI, numbering eighteen students, has been moved to the library and forty-eight students occupy one class room in the junior school.

Mr. White stated that on investigation, the required addition would cost approximately $100,000. Part of this cost would be paid by the Government and the Board already had an amount of $14,000 set aside. Calculations showed that only one extra mill on the present tax rate would provide the necessary local share for the project and to the average family the increase in the tax would amount to $5 or less.

Prizes for the 1953-54 school session were awarded —

Mr. Leslie Ross, secretary-treasurer of the school board, presented perfect attendance prizes donated by the school board, to: Connie Gamble, Norman Rabideau, Billy Rennie, Alanne Hooker, Harley Sproule, Mary Catherine Hooker, Susan Davidson, Margaret McWhinnie, Donald McCormick, Dorothy Beattie, Gordon Duncan and Grace Elliott.

Second Lecture on Business Administration Has Larger Attendance Than First

Topics Include Discussion on Wills Which Proves Most Valuable

73 people attended the second lecture of the School of Business Administration, of the series of lectures given by the Huntingdon Board of Trade as a service to the community.

Mr. Roger Fortier, notary, was again the chairman for the discussion with Mr. Edmour Castagner, Registrar for the County of Huntingdon, as guest speaker. The topics under discussion were Deeds of Sale, Lending and borrowing money, Marriage contracts and Wills.

Perhaps the greatest interest for the general public was the discussion on drawing up a will. Mr. Fortier said that it is wise to remember this motto "Give and Forgive", when making a will.

There are four types of wills, Holograph Wills, Witnessed Wills, a military will and a Notarial will. The best type of will is naturally the Notarial Will. This type of will is not easily lost like an Holograph will is sometimes, when a person finds that he is not mentioned in the will. Also the Notary is able to advise the Testator how to leave his money and effects to do the best possible good. An holograph will is one that is written and signed by the testator. Usually the Testator hides the will in his abode. After his death, the will is discovered after a great deal of searching only to, sometimes disappear forever.

It is wise to make a will. The executor will take charge of the funeral expenses and the estate. If there is not a will, the consort assumes the funeral expenses and the relatives will have to assemble. An inventory of the estate will also have to be taken, to settle the estate.

Wills are sometimes signed with an "X", the testator being unable to write his name on account of the type of sickness. In that case, the Notary will ask information from the family doctor on the nature of the sickness and will have the doctor sign the report as a witness. This is to protect the notary if there is any trouble occurring about the will and the estate. If trouble occurs, the doctor will have to share the trouble with the Notary.

It is cheaper in cost to make a will containing the list of heirs and the executor's names. If there is no will, there is the cost of finding a tutor for any children under age, to make the inventory of the estate and to find the descendants of the deceased.

A person may make his will with one notary then take his business to another notary with a copy of his will. At the death of the person, the executor (s) have the choice of using either of the two notaries.

Tonight, Wednesday, September 29, there will be the third lecture of the series held in the County Building, Huntingdon, at 8.30 p.m. Topic under discussion will be Succession Duty, a very important subject when a person decides to make his will. It costs nothing to attend, just bring your pencils and paper and be at class at 8:30 p.m. sharp.

$654 For S.A. Drive To Date

Canvassers Urged To Complete Campaign and Report

The date of the closing for the Salvation Army Campaign in Huntingdon, is September 30th and to date less than half of the $1,500 objective has been reported as received. Six canvassers have finished their job and the amount received so far is $654.00.

Mr. J. Telfer who had the canvass for the upper part of Chateauguay Street has turned in the sum of $127.00 as against last year's amount of $108.50. This is an 18% increase over 1953.

All canvassers who have not yet reported, should complete their canvass and report to the committee at once in order that the campaign may be closed off on schedule. Those people who have not yet been called on by a canvasser are asked to give as generously as possible when the call is made. If they have been missed, they can leave or send their contributions to Mr. George Dixon, Builders' Supply and Feeds Ltd., Huntingdon, Que.

Road Signs For School Buses Referred To Attorney General

A letter has been received from Mr. Arthur Laberge, M.L.A., informing the Ormstown School Board that steps are being taken to acquire road signs re. school buses. The Director of Provincial Police has been consulted and an appointment with the Attorney-General is being arranged. It is presumed that the Road Department will take some definite action with regard to these signs in the near future.

HOW AND WHY

A Column for Boys and Girls
By Harold Don Allen

XV: A COLLECTION FROM THE TREES

One of the most interesting "homework assignment" I had in high school was to go out into the woods and the parks and to collect the leaves of as many kinds of trees as I could. We made a Leaf Collection. The whole class did it. We pressed the leaves carefully, let them dry, and taped them neatly to looseleaf sheets. You'd have been surprised at the many different kinds of leaves the class found. But there's no reason to wait until you are in high school to try the fun of going out and hunting for leaves. Collecting and keeping them is really quite simple. You'll find much of what you need to know right in this column this week.

Trees are everywhere, on city streets, in parks, by roads, meadows and streams. You should have little trouble finding the leaves with which to get your collection under way! You will be surprised, as your collection grows, to learn of different kinds of maples, elms, oaks and pines that you never had noticed before. You will find walks far more interesting when you know all about the trees you are passing by.

When you find a tree from which you want to collect, it's best to try to cut a small twig with two or three leaves and perhaps some seeds.

When you come upon a tree that is new to your collection, there are things for which you will want to look. A small twig, with one or two leaves and, perhaps, seeds would look well in your collection. But you will find that your pages will lie flatter if you collect only leaves. You might collect two of each kind, and mount them to show both upper and lower sides. So perhaps you will choose to do that. You would be wise to leave space for a third leaf of each kind, which will show the colour that the tree's leaves turn in the Fall.

Leaves dry and curl up soon after they have picked. Here is what most leaf collectors find is the best thing to do. They carry an old magazine with them — a magazine with rough pages like newspaper — and carefully put the leaves flat between the pages as soon as the leaves are taken from the trees. Most kinds of leaves when cared for this way, will stay smooth and natural until you reach home.

At home, the most important part of your job begins. You press the leaves so that they will stay flat and keep their shape in your collection. This takes several days, but is really no work at all. As soon as you get the leaves home, lay them carefully between the dry pages of another "pulp" magazine. Put a heavy book on top of the magazine to press the leaves perfectly flat. The pages act as blotting paper, and help to dry the leaves. They may dry faster if, another day, you change them to a new magazine. At any rate, they will be smooth, dry and ready for collection within a week.

You will want good size sheets of fairly thick paper so that your mounted leaf collection will look its best. You can glue the leaves to the paper. Some collectors like to use tape. It's wise to put the leaves of different trees on separate sheets. It's neater, and it leaves you with plenty of room for summer and autumn leaves, and seeds, on one sheet. Keep clear space where you can letter neatly the date and the name and location of the tree.

The pages of your leaf collection, looked at together, will make a quite interesting "book."

If you are not sure of the name of a tree, ask at your School Library for a book that shows the leaves of different kinds of trees. You may want to have your father, mother or teacher help you to find your leaf in that book.

You will have started a quite interesting collection and one that you may want to keep for many years.

Leaves will interest you even more when you learn important things about them. You'll be able to read and find out quite a bit about why plants have leaves in your How and Why corner next week.

Headlines on the Recent Hurricanes

Carol also swept the whole length of the coast, and now Edna comes along with the dustpan and brush.

The only trouble is that when they clean house, you can end up clean out of houses. They sweep everything under the rug, especially the roof. There may be some question as to "Who is Sylvia?" but Edna is the kind of girl you can't forget.

New York had to put up with Hurricane Edna while still recovering from the visit of Hurricane Marilyn.

Edna is the kind of girl whose version of the new flat styles is to knock everything flat. She went to girls' finishing school, and learned how to finish things. She just washed the Atlantic coastline, and now we can't do a thing with it. Now the coast is singing: "Tell me, pretty baby, are there any more at home like you?"

The Hurricane stories are getting to be pretty much alike — the same buoy gale routine.

By the time we get down to Hurricane Scarlett, it looks as if everything will be gone with the wind.

Kilbain

KILBAIN — Word has been received from Messrs. Gerald McGinn, Billy Cosgrove and Edmond Thurston, informing their parents that they arrived safely in Alberta, and have secured position. All three boys enormously enjoyed their trip and also seem very pleased with the Western Provinces.

Losing to the first game of the final series 6 to 0, Blackpool seemed to be off to a poor start. However the team came back to take the next three games against C. & I. by the scores of 7 to 6, 7 to 1, and 8 to 3, the last game clinching the championship for the Blackpool Blue Bombers.

Both Blackpool and C. & I. had eliminated the Brokers and Merchants from the semi-finals by two straight victories in the best of three series. Mr. J. M. Benoit, President of the Lacolle Town League, said that the last game of the final series was one of the best played games this season.

Beauharnois

Evening Auxiliary

BEAUHARNOIS — The Evening Auxiliary, St. Edward's Presbyterian Church, met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. W. E. Kilgour. Mrs. Hetty Graham presided. The meeting was opened with prayer followed by the singing of a hymn, "The King of Love My Shepherd Is". Mrs. R. B. Calhoun was in charge of devotions using Corinthians Chapter 12 as her message which was excellently delivered. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Ruth Hatfield, Mrs. W. Monovan read minutes of previous meeting. The Treasurer's report was read by Mrs. William Loucks and the hope expressed for the meeting of allocation due in November. A Glad Tidings report was given by Mrs. R. B. Calhoun with a reminder of subscriptions for Magazines for 1955. The Study Period was taken by Mrs. Hetty Graham who chose as her theme, the title of the study book and the hymn "Jesus Shall Reign" written by Isaac Watts in the year 1718, with reference to excerpts and statistics on world coverage in our time.

At the close of the meeting, a gathering was held at which forty-three ladies of the congregation were present and a few Anglican friends to honor Miss Margaret Page. The president in her remarks said how Margaret, well known for her ready wit, spontaneous smile and charming personality had become endeared to all members of the congregation. There were other assets she had of which she had given generously to the church by her singing and as organist as well as her contribution to Sunday School, Young People's Society and Evening Auxiliary and now as a token of their appreciation her friends were presenting her with a kitchen shower. A corsage of baby white mums and heather was presented to Margaret. The bride-to-be looked charming in a crimson shantung dress, full skirted and with fitted bodice trimmed in rhinestones, was deeply overcome by the surprise of the evening and the generosity of her friends. Margaret graciously offered her thanks. The contents of the shower gifts were parcelled in blue with pansy and aster colors and trimmed with yellow ribbon as a complement to the fall flowers used in decoration. A wheelbarrow, in attire not recognizable by a gardener of the menial tasks it usually serves, held the gifts of many useful kitchen utensils. This was also done in blue with lace doilies as trim, posies of fall flowers and yellow ribbon. An aluminum clothes dryer held the smaller articles and was quite attractive. Purchasers were Mrs. Calhoun and Mrs. Sullivan. Decorations, Mrs. W. E. Kilgour, Mrs. C. E. Lagden, Mrs. R. B. Calhoun and Mrs. H. Graham. Hostesses included Mrs. H. S. Spencer, Mrs. W. E. Kilgour, Mrs. Jacques Turnbull, Mrs. J. E. Sullivan, Mrs. W. Loucks and Mrs. Calhoun. The best wishes of the entire congregation will follow Miss Page into her future wedded life.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. R. Withers, Verdun, mother of the groom-to-be, and Mrs. Gordon F. Cuttle, Lachine. Mrs. I. Page, mother of the bride-to-be and Miss Rachel Page, her sister, were also present for the happy occasion.

Fire Prevention Week

EVERY year, in October, a reminder is brought to everyone to take care with regard to fires. At this time of the year people are beginning to turn to artificial means of keeping themselves and their homes warm. In the course of ordinary events, the heating plants have been lying dormant during the summer months. (We cannot say that is entirely true with respect to the past summer months. We believe that heating units have often been in operation as there have been many cold days and nights). While some people take great care of their heating plants, there are others who never take another look at them until it is time to put them to use again. It is thus that a potential hazard exists and Fire Prevention Week has been established with a view to making all people fire prevention conscious. Thus next week, from October 3rd to 9th, has been set aside as Fire Prevention Week throughout the whole of this country.

Heating plants are not the only hazard, there are a number of them. Fire Prevention Week tends to make people aware of all possible hazards and to look for more, with the idea of eliminating them in every way possible. Fires are unpredictable and often start from causes unknown, so it pays to be careful and to do everything possible to prevent them. Clean chimneys and properly operating heating plants can most likely eliminate a chief cause of fires. There are plenty of others, however, but which in many cases can be removed and thus prevent a possible fire. Some people have a habit of storing quantities of combustible material in basements, attics and cupboards, and which could easily be disposed of. If this material is stored nearby to stovepipes, furnaces, stoves, etc., there is a great hazard of fire. It may be possible for a spark to ignite such material and for it to smoulder for a long time before actually breaking into flames. Such accumulations should be removed and if not required, should be disposed of in the best way possible as a preventative against fire.

Overloaded electrical circuits are another hazard. Dimming of electric lights when appliances are switched on, is often a warning that a circuit is overloaded. Such should be checked, or care taken to see that not too many appliances or lights are in use at one time. Better still, would be to have a fresh circuit added and thus avoid possibility of overload. When fuses blow, the best thing to do is to replace them with new ones, don't place metal objects behind them. A fuse is a safety gap and when it blows it has prevented the possibility of more serious consequences by cutting off the power on that particular circuit. If you place something behind the blown out fuse, you have removed the safety feature and if there is a bad short somewhere in the circuit it could easily be the cause of fire. Fuses are therefore a protection and should always be treated as such. It is never wise to connect up a number of extra lights and appliances to any one outlet, for in this way it is very easy to overload a circuit. Electricity is one of the most reliable servants we have, but it requires commonsense in its use and application. It is better to pay an electrician a few dollars to be sure your wiring is adequate, than to take chances with fire. More and more appliances are being added to homes today, therefore the facilities available should be taken into consideration. Many of the appliances are made with higher wattage than previously and thus they draw more current than older models. This is especially true with regard to irons and toasters, etc.

Huntingdon has a particularly good record in regard to fires and this is due in part at least, to the people being fire prevention conscious. Let us continue to keep it that way, it will mean much to everyone.

One Hundred Years - Anniversary

FROM the beginning of time as we of today have been given to understand, man has always turned to a supernatural power of some kind as a means of spiritual uplift. In the early days before Christianity, the sun, the moon, the stars and stone idols were worshipped in the belief that certain troubles would be taken care of. With the coming of Christianity and the teachings of the bible which dissolved the savage or primitive man into what we now call the civilized state, God was taken as the All Supreme.

Much comfort was obtained from this new form of worship and it has gradually engulfed the whole world in some form or other. In the beginning of a new settlement and in a new world, it was only natural then that people should want some place where they could offer up prayers and thanks. Thus it was that in the early days of Valleyfield, the new settlers saw the need for spiritual comfort and decided to have regular worship in the year 1854. Starting on October 3rd, Valleyfield United Church is celebrating the one hundredth year of this founding.

Those one hundred years have not all been of plain sailing. Difficulties have had to be faced and overcome, sometimes the problems were almost heartbreaking for the brave little group which in those early years tried to keep their own form of worship alive. Even today, there are difficulties which have to be met and settled and the congregation while much larger, is still suffering from decreases in number through fluctuation of a floating population. General upkeep is always a source of anxiety to any church and where congregations tend to keep small, the financial burden can at times be very heavy. It is only the determination and great faith of the members of the congregation which keeps the burden in check. Despite all the difficulties, the Valleyfield United Church is now celebrating the centenary anniversary by holding special services morning and evening throughout the month of October. These services should bring back old memories and serve as an opportunity to renew old acquaintances as there will be many visitors both by way of former ministers and worshippers. It is always a source of pride in accomplishment, and to carry on for one hundred years is no mean accomplishment. Many of those still serving the church have been so doing for a large number of years. To them there is an even greater pride of accomplishment for it is through the careful administration that the finances available from time to time have been put to the greatest use. They have used the facilities at hand with care and foresight in order to overcome the difficulties which have presented themselves during their years of office.

Congratulations are offered to all of the Valleyfield United Church on the occasion of this one hundredth anniversary and it is hoped that the success will continue in the years to come.

Once There Was A Man

THE once upon a time stories begin something like this: "Many years ago in a certain land there was a man and this man had a very large family, etc." We are going to begin our story in the same way.

This man with a large family was quite content until he became so absorbed in his own affairs and that of his family that he forgot there was anyone else living in the world. He wanted to keep his family cooped up in a small part of the country in which he lived, because he was of the opinion they needed greater protection than any other family in the country. There were people who lived in far away parts of the country, who could not understand this attitude and they spoke of it among themselves and they tried to help this family to become part of the larger family of the country. However, their efforts were in vain for this family was only allowed to keep within itself and wanted no help from outsiders.

It thus grew within the family and from the teachings of the man at the head, that they believed other people were trying to take away their liberty, their culture, their language, their rights to education and everything else. So they began to get closer together and to refuse to listen to pleas to help them. Each time an approach was made to them to join in an outside party or gathering, they turned the offer down in fear that it would implicate them in some terrible disaster. They tried to build a wall around themselves and to shut out all other persons who would help them.

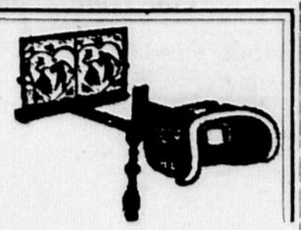

As is natural in such circumstances, the curiosity of some members was aroused and they took a look over the wall, in secret. They noticed that their neighbors were getting along quite well and seemed to be getting many more privileges than they were getting. In their case, they had to work hard and to turn over a greater part of what they earned to the head of the household so that he could keep them in the way he saw fit. It began to dawn on some of these family members that they had to work harder than those outside, in order to keep the man at the head happy and contented. All the time he preached to them that they must keep together in order to preserve their liberties and to live better in every way. Meantime in order to appease them he picked first this one and then that one and gave them expensive gifts. Sometimes after he had given a number of such gifts, he would say that he had to have a greater share of their earnings and they would have to contribute a larger amount. He told them he needed it for their general welfare. Then he would give out more gifts.

Those who had taken a look over the wall, soon discovered that other people obtained these same gifts with far less expenditure on the part of the individual and they were also quite happy. Then they began to hear murmurs from outside that they could have the same thing but the head of their household would not listen. They also found out that the gifts they received came out of the money they were contributing and that actually these were not gifts from the head of the house himself. The head of the house was continually urging them to do this and to do that and not to listen to the things they heard that went on outside of their realm. But some could not help but think that they were paying very dearly for some of the gifts they received and they felt they should have more say in what should be done with the contributions they were making. After all, they said, it is our money and why should we do all the work and let someone else spend it to make some other member happy and at no expense to himself. Why should we be asked to increase our contributions while those on the outside did not have to and yet they enjoyed all the privileges that we do? After all we belong to the whole just as much as the others do and it is only the will of this man at the head of the family who is keeping us from mixing with those outside. But they were afraid to say too much in the family circle for fear of the wrath of the family head, so they just kept quiet and applauded everything he said and proposed. They even pretended to believe that if they did step outside the family circle, they would actually come to a bad end.

The sad part of this story is that we cannot end it in the usual way and say: They lived happily ever after. There is no end to the story so far and the family is still living under the conditions mentioned. But there is a mighty man on the outside who persists in telling this family that they could do better for themselves if they would only live like the others on the outside. The head of the family has heard these stories also and he is a trifle nervous for the loyalty of his family. He fears he may have some who would want to join the outsiders and that would not be good for him.

Here we must leave our story and we must leave this man and his family. Time alone will tell if he is bringing them up in the right way.

Random Glimpses of The Past Taken from Gleaner Files

November 28.

Huntingdon — Monday night the mercury went as low as 10. The sharp frost covered the River with ice. Yesterday morning, it became mild and at noon, the ice suddenly gave way and for half an hour ran down as at the breakup in spring only the cakes of ice were thin.

Some grocery specials listed in the Gleaner: Porterhouse, Short and Sirloin steaks 30c lb.; Prime roasts 27c lb.; Boneless Beef Rolled 28c lb., fresh Pork roast 35c lb.: Fresh Halibut 30c lb.; and Finnan Haddie 20c lb.

Ste-Martine — On Monday, the frost came for good, and the river was frozen across. So were the muddy roads which became as hard as stones and vehicles were jumping from lump to lump. Very few came to the village yesterday.

December 5.

Ormstown — Skating in the creek and river commenced on Monday. Sleighs were running quite freely Wednesday afternoon.

Ste-Martine — It is a good thing the roads are frozen and Wednesday morning we have enough snow for sleighing.

December 12

Butter is retailed at the unheard-of price of 58c per pound. Eggs are fetching 65c a dozen.

December 19.

Howick — The rivers have been frozen over twice this season and are again open with the last thaw. The ice was seven inches thick.

Ste-Martine — The big thaw of last week has taken away our good sleighing and caused the river to overflow but the ice holds on and the water having retired, pedestrians are now crossing near the church.

The drop in the price of beans has discouraged many farmers who have to pick them by hand to get five cents a pound. The consumers think it is still a big price but the producers do not, when they recollect last year's price.

January 9

Howick—A few farmers who were unable to have their threshing done owing to bad weather and roads are now finishing their stacks in the fields, a portion of which, however has been badly injured with rain and snow. Fortunately the good roads are enabling farmers to haul wood early this winter to make up for the deficiency in coal.

Huntingdon — To prevent accidents the laws enacts that all sleighs on public roads shall have bells so that pedestrians may be warned of their coming. The law is not observed.

Fine winter weather was seldom favoured the holidays. It looked as if we were going to have a green Xmas, but it began to snow the day before and when the storm ceased next morning, the country was radiant in a fresh white robe and there was fair sleighing. The old year left in anger, for it was the frostiest and stormiest of the winter, but the new year came in much milder, and there was much driving.

Rule Of The Proletariat

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

In my last article I traced the history of Socialism in Germany to show that it was the direct cause of the World Wars, and predicted that if there were a third war it would be due to Socialism as represented in Soviet Socialist Russia. The social system and the aggressive international policy of Russia today are based upon the Communist Manifesto, which was devised and published in Germany by a fanatical materialist, Karl Marx. He regarded human beings, excepting himself, as material for vivisection experiments by means of class warfare and world revolution. Marx's Socialism was anything but sociable; it was violently intolerant and, far from setting up a new social order, made for the disintegration of human society.

Throughout the whole of Marx's writing and particularly in the communist Manifesto he is repeatedly referring to the "bourgeosie" as the bugbear of modern society. Originally that term was applied to citizens of towns, especially independant merchants, artists and professional men. Marx applied it to industrialists, tradesmen and employers generally, as distinct from their employees whom he calls the "proletariat." The latter, according to the Manifesto, must wage "more or less veiled civil war, within existing society, up to the point where that war breaks out into open revolution, and where the violent overthrow of the bourgeoisie lays the foundation for the sway of the proletariat."

Strangely enough, with all his hatred of the bourgeoisie, Marx pays it the following glowing compliment: "The bourgeoisie, during its rule of scarce one hundred years, has created more massive and more colossal productive forces than have all preceding generations together. Subjection of nature's forces to man; machinery, application of chemistry to industry and agriculture, steam navigation, railways, electric telegraphs, clearing of whole continents for cultivation, canalization of rivers, whole populations conjured out of the ground — what earlier century had even a presentiment that such productive forces slumbered in the lap of social labor?"

Marx, of course, attributes that wonderful development to the breaking away from the old feudal system, but it is nevertheless a fine tribute to capitalism and free enterprise, which the Manifesto sought to abolish—for why? Because, says the Manifesto, "modern industry has converted the little workshop of the patriarchial master into the great factory of the industrial capitalist. Masses of laborers, crowded into the factory, are organized like soldiers. As privates of the industrial army, they are placed under the command of a perfect hierarchy of officers and sergeants. Not only are they slaves of the bourgeois class, and of the bourgeois state; they are daily and hourly enslaved by the machine, by the overlooker." That is a perfect description of the Communist industrial system as it operates in Soviet Russia today, and it is in accord with the Manifesto's ten proposals for setting up the Socialist state.

Those proposals include: "Extension of factories and instruments of production owned by the state... Establishment of industrial armies, especially for agriculture." That is exactly what has happened in Russia. The proletariat, who were supposed to be "raised to the position of ruling class," are regimented into "armies" of forced labor, officered and commanded by an upper class of taskmasters, snooping overlookers and a hierarchy of bureaucrats. That may be the best system for Russian workers, but it is the reverse of the promised "rule of the proletariat" who are more than ever the "under dogs" of the social order. There is no regimentation of labor under industrial free enterprise, but there is danger of it in the growing strength and dictatorship of some Socialist-minded labor union leaders.

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — For the second time since last year's general elections, federal political parties will square off at the polls on Monday, Nov. 8.

That date was announced last week for by-elections in six constituencies to fill vacancies in the House of Commons.

Five of the ridings had been held by Liberals and one by a Progressive Conservative. They are the three Ontario constituencies of York West, Toronto Trinity and Stormont, the Montreal ridings of St. Lawrence-St. George and St. Antoine-Westmount, and Selkirk in Manitoba.

As the contest shaped up last week, Liberals and Progressive Conservatives will have candidates in all ridings and the CCF in at least two — Selkirk and York West. No Social Credit candidates had yet been named.

Marler Seeks Seat

Three of the ridings involve seats formerly held by cabinet ministers and most of the interest centred on one of these — Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount — where Transport Minister Marler, appointed to the cabinet July 1, will seek to enter the Commons for the constituency formerly held by Finance Minister Abbott, now a Supreme Court justice.

Mr. Marler, former Quebec leader, was named successor to Transport Minister Chevrier, who gave up his Stormont seat to become president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority. The Montreal St. Lawrence - St. George seat was vacated by Defence Minister Claxton to become an insurance company executive.

The other three vacancies were created by deaths. The York West member, Progressive Conservative Rodney Adamson, was killed in an April 8 crash at Moose Jaw, Sask.; Lionel Conacher, Liberal member for Toronto Trinity, died at a Commons softball game last May; and Selkirk was made vacant by the death of Robert J. Wood, a Liberal.

Setting of the date for November raised speculation that the recent practice of holding a fall session of Parliament may not be followed this year.

The by-elections will be the second test of strength since the Liberal party was swept back into power in the Aug. 10, 1953, general election. Last March 22, four by-elections were held in which Liberals retained two Quebec seats and the Conservatives held two Ontario ridings.

Besides local questions, the national issues in the by-elections are expected to be taxes, unemployment, immigration, defence and the state of the country's economy.

Verbal Battle

Meanwhile, observers saw another kind of political battle developing out of a speech by Prime Minister St. Laurent in Quebec, in which he defended his government's provincial taxation agreements against recurring criticism by Quebec Premier Duplessis.

Some believed that the strongly-worded speech signalled a move by the federal Liberal party to back its Quebec organization in an attempt to unseat Mr. Duplessis' Union Nationale government. Mr. Duplessis, however, told reporters there was no question of a provincial general election before 1956 "at the earliest."

Mr. St. Laurent's speech charged Union Nationale leaders with distorting the federal policy of federal-provincial tax rental agreements, which have been signed by every province except Quebec.

He said Mr. Duplessis' charge that the agreements weaken provincial autonomy is a screen to hide shortcomings in his provincial government.

He told Quebec, which also has rejected federal aid to education and sharing in the trans-Canada Highway project, that the federal government will never recognize that one province is more important than the entire country.

Political observers expected Mr. Duplessis to carry on the verbal battle.

The question of federal-provincial relations is expected to be a chief issue in the two federal by-elections in Montreal. And in a campaign speech in Selkirk constituency last week, Justice Minister Garson defenced the taxation agreements as a means of helping the weaker provinces.

Among the satisfactions of a Bank Account . . .

It's reassuring to watch savings grow . . . to have your bank book record your progress.

Multiply by 9,200,000 deposit accounts the satisfactions you enjoy from your bank account. The grand total of comfort, security and peace of mind shows, better than a dollar total, the essential value of a bank account. More deposit accounts than there are adult Canadians, with new accounts opening every day, reflects the confidence of the nation in the chartered banks.

QUICK KNOCKDOWN

THE NEW BOXING ring recently installed in Madison Square Garden can be knocked down almost as fast as some fighters we could name. This is important to the Garden, with its quick-change schedule of sports events, from boxing to basketball to hockey and back to boxing again. Made of lightweight aluminum, this ring promises to be more than a match for the toughest heavyweight.

Aluminum is constantly making news in our own sports world. Anglers, yachtsmen and other strenuous types go for the light, strong, non-rusting equipment made by Canadian manufacturers from Canadian aluminum. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

delayed enroute due to the fact that the boys tarried too long at stops and on one occasion it took two drivers two hours to round up the boys.

When at Williamsport, Pa., the boys were provided accommodation in a Presbyterian home. The fact that the Canadian boys were from Valleyfield and were mostly French speaking, caused a great deal of comment and interest. True to form, one person who was rounded up to carry on a conversation, or make an interview, spoke to one of the boys in French, only to receive the reply that he was sorry but did not speak the French language.

Mr. Ed. Pilon screened a film of the Williamsport finals, the final game being between the representative of the State of Alabama vs. New York, the former winning by a score of 1-0.

Mr. Foley was introduced by Rotarian W. R. Wilson and thanked by Rotarian E. C. Martin.

A party in honour of Ronnie Smythe was held at Heath's Hall on Wednesday evening of the past week, when about 150 of his friends from Huntingdon, Montreal and Malone gathered to congratulate him on his approaching marriage. During the evening, Mr. Harold Higgins, M.C., presented the guest of honor with a well-filled wallet, the latter being the handiwork of Albert O'Neil. After Ronnie thanked his friends, his father said a few words and introduced Mr. Jacques Ness, who would soon be Ronnie's father-in-law. Mr. Ness expounded at length on the new life his daughter and Ronnie would soon lead. The spacious hall proved an ideal place for such a gathering and much credit is due Mr. Jimmy Patterson, chief organizer, for the success of the party.

Rain Spoils Events on Sunday

The Huntingdon Branch of the Canadian Legion Decoration Day Parade was marred by rain on Sunday afternoon. However, it was carried out at both cemeteries, but only members of the Huntingdon Citizens' Band and the Legion Branch were present. Very few, if any of the citizens turned out to witness the ceremony. The ministers were present and conducted a short service at each of the Legion Plots in the cemeteries.

The Baseball game scheduled to take place at Cluff's Field on Fairview Road, was also rained out and although the opposing team arrived the game could not proceed. This is one of the games in finals of the league games to decide the champions. Huntingdon team so far holds the lead and if it can win this next game will be the champion.

School Will Be closed For Two Days

The recent paving and in some cases widening of streets in town is a big improvement. This is especially so on Hunter Street at The Canadian Bank of Commerce corner. There is still room for further jobs of this kind.

Member Bereaved

Bandsmen offer their sincere sympathy to clarinet player John Cappiello, whose mother passed away on Friday.

Band Activities

Rain marred the Decoration Day activities in Huntingdon on Sunday; however, the band was on hand at both cemeteries. The band expects to take part in Armistice Day programmes in Huntingdon and Valleyfield on behalf of Canadian Legion Units of these two centres. It is presumed these services will be held on alternate Sundays. Reserve Army fall activities start Thursday evening, band leaving Huntingdon at 7.30. Next regular practice will be at the Legion Hall at 8 p.m. Monday.

Farewell Party

The Band roster showed almost everyone attended practice at the Legion Hall on Monday evening. This in itself was not unusual as practices are well attended; however, it was a foregone conclusion that all bandsmen would turn out at this weeks's practice because a surprise party had been planned in advance in honour of Earl Wilson, trombone player. The bandsmen recently learned with regret that the senior active member of the band is moving to Kingston, Ont., this week-end.

Earl is a charter member of the band and besides being the life of the party at any band function he more than once proved a mainstay in maintaining the unit when the going was rough and others were ready to give up bandwork. Doing yeoman service in the trombone section, his absence from the band will create a void.

At the half-way mark of the practice session, Earl was more than a little surprised when tables were set up and refreshments brought in. Bandmaster Moore explained the reason for the party and several of the bandsmen were called on to say a few words, following which President Lorne McIntyre presented the honored member with a set of pipes in a leather case, a lighter and a pound of tobacco.

Sergeant-Majors Reilly and Amos and Sgt. Degre of 61st Ack-Ack, Valleyfield, were invited guests for the occasion.

Holstein Dispersal Sale

The Holstein herd of Lorne B. Reid, Ripley, Ontario, established some 35 years ago, was dispersed by public auction on September 20. The 71 head thus dispersed, says a report of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, brought $52,715.00 or an average of $742.00 The latter being the highest figure for a complete dispersal in Canada since 1950.

The Holstein-Friesian report also gives the following averages:

Seven bulls, $612.00; thirty-eight milking females, $905.00; three bred-heifers, $541.00; fifteen open yearlings, $482.00; eight heifer calves, $372.00.

Widespread Buyers

Seven head were purchased by Guillermo Bullrich, of Buenos Ayres, Argentina, and others went to buyers from New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Quebec, but the bulk of the animals remained in Ontario.

Top Prices

The top price of the L. B. Reid dispersal sale was $5,200.00 which was paid by Dr. Hector I. Astengo, Brampton, Ont., for Maple Lea Sunset Sally, a noted show cow whose winnings included the reserve grand championship at the 1954 Western Fair, London, first in the aged cow class at the 1953 Chicago International Dairy Show. She has also been graded "Excellent and has a record of 804 lbs. fat from 18,159 lbs. milk on twice-a-day milking.

Second highest priced animal, at $4,400.00 was Maple Lea Colantha Jennie, "Excellent and with a production record of 23,961 lbs. milk, 1,000 lbs. fat, on twice-a-day milking. She was purchased by R. Rasmussen, Elmwood Farms, Deerfield, Illinois. Mr. Rasmusen also paid $2,500.00 for a nine-year-old cow.

Maple Lea L. G. Rosine, "Excellent and the All-Canadian four-year-old of 1950, also with a record of 25,833 lbs. milk, 982 lbs. fat on twice-a-day milking, was sold at $3,100.00 to Orvan Chambers, Wilfrid, Ont.

Bruce Taylor, Weston, Ont., purchased 6 head for a total of $5,600.00. That group included four that are closely related to the $4,400.00 Maple Lea Colantha Jennie—her 13 months old daughter at $1,850.00; her maternal sister and baby calf at $1,400.00; her 13 year old dam at $925.00.

"Caul' Kail"

"Caul'-Kail-het-again", is an old Scottish expression which originally applied to the reheating and serving for a second time that delectable Scottish dish of which Scots now in other lands have nostalgic memories, even of the reheated version. However, that expression was also frequently used in connection with other subjects, such as repetitions of stories, reports etc., about events, people, etc. And so the following might be classed as coming under the above category.

The Howick Calf Club

Referring again to the Howick 4H Ayrshire Club annual show of Saturday, September 18. We are not aware as to how long that event had been held in the paddock at Chester Orr's farm at Riverfield. However, it had been held there for so many years that the change this year to Terrace Bank Farm made it seem as though there was something lacking. Nevertheless, Terrace Bank also made an ideal place for that show. The animals were housed in the main byre and were paraded from there to the paddock or space immediately in front of that byre. Moreover, J. Earle and "Bobby" Ness did everything possible to accomodate their youthful guests. The ladies provided one of these delectable luncheons for which the Howick ladies are noted.

"Joe" Fleury

One of the spectators was J. P. ("Joe) Fleury who is in charge of the Quebec Division of Production Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, and therefore also in general supervision of Production Service's Calf Club activities in the Province of Quebec. However, Joe was there as a guest, since his assistant, Donald Robertson, is the Fieldman of Production Service in Connection with the English-speaking (so to speak) 4H Clubs in the Montreal area and other parts of Western Quebec.

A fortunate Club

The formation of the Calf Clubs (now 4H Calf Clubs), as also of their predecessors the Heifer Clubs, was largely due to the efforts of S. J. ("Steve") Boily, when he was in charge of the Dominion Department of Agriculture's livestock work in Quebec. But Joe Fleury was Steve Boily's able assistant during these years and finally his successor. It has therefore been that Joe Fleury has been intimately connected with the Howick Ayrshire Calf Club since its inception in 1933. Joe was therefore on familiar ground when he addressed the Club members and others at the time of that Club's annual show. He referred to the outstanding record of the Club and to its being so fortunate in its Leaders and Counsellors, the first in that respect as also one of the organizers having been Douglas A. Ness. Then came Archie Roy, one of the original members who graduated to the Leadership after he reached the age limit for members. Similarly, Archie Roy's successor as Leader and still the current Leader or Counsellor, Robert ("Bobby") Ness was also a prominent member of the Club during the entire period he was eligible for membership.

As already indicated, Steve Boily and Joe Fleury long took a personal interest in the Howick Club, while Donald Robertson has ably followed in their footsteps.

While Howick is actually outside his regular district Leon A. Beaudin, Agronome for Huntingdon County, has taken a keen, helpful interest in the Club during the past several years.

The Club has, of course, its one Executive Committee and its current President is Brodie McFarlane, while Raymond Smith is Secretary. In that respect we may say Brodie McFarlane made a nice job of thanking the supporters of the Club, guests, etc., and in presenting the leather wallet to Archie Roy.

However, friends and well-wishers of the Club were disappointed to learn from Joe Fleury that the Dominion Department of Agriculture may, in the near future, turn over its share of the Calf Club operations in the Province of Quebec to the Quebec Department of Agriculture. That does not of course mean that they were fearful of the future of such Clubs. The Quebec Department of Agriculture has a laudable record in that respect, but it was felt that it would be a pity if the Production Service dropped its active participation.

Champions at Havelock

Inadvertantly, it was a case of "the wrong bulls and the wrong owners" in our report of the Havelock "Red and White" Show. The junior and grand champion male was Elm Manor Coronation first prize junior yearling bull, bred and owned by J. Grant Whyte, Huntingdon. The reserve junior and reserve grand champion was Glengarry Lucky Major, second prize junior yearling bull owned by Mrs. R. L. McCaig & Sons, Ormstown.

J. Grant Whyte also had the first prize produce of dam pair, a last minute switch by the judge over the pair shown by J. Earle Ness & Sons which was not noted by this writer.

We have also learned that the special prize for the best display of Ayrshires was won by J. Earle Ness & Sons.

Recipe Suggestions For Zestful Living

TRIED AND TESTED FOR SATISFACTION

THIS WEEK — OVEN BARBECUED CHICKEN

The other night one of the home economists of the Consumer Section was attending a movie and one of the shorts shown was a fashion show. It was not the usual type of fashion show with gorgeous furs, hats and gowns, but, if you please a Barbecue Fashion Show. The scene was an outdoor barbecue fireplace and shown were food fashions for barbecues and the clothes you would wear at the barbecue. Actually it probably appealed to the home economist especially at that time because that very day in the kitchens of the Consumer Section, she had been working on barbecued chicken. The words "barbecue" and "barbecuing" have probably been used in our vocabulary more lately because while we knew about barbecuing whole sides of beef or a whole pig it is only recently that we have had barbecues in our own back yards or at summer camps and cottages. And, very definitely as far as food fashions are concerned "barbecuing" is a popular thing.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, realize that not every one is fortunate enough to have an outdoor fireplace or a portable barbecue so they have been doing some work on how you can barbecue in the oven of your kitchen stove. Now this word barbecue has several meanings it seems. It can mean a fireplace, frame or spit used for roasting meats. It can also mean a method of cooking as frying or roasting does. Barbecuing is roasting in the outdoors over a fireplace. And too, a barbecue can be a social event just like a picnic. However, when we write about "barbecuing" we mean the method of cooking. As mentioned before, it generally refers to outdoor cooking, but this is the home economists indoor version of "oven-barbecued" chicken.

The first thing needed, of course, is chicken. The home economists suggest using chicken cut-ups that is, the legs and the breasts of chicken or half broilers. A broiler is a young chicken which weighs from 1½ pounds to 2½ pounds eviscerated, that is cleaned and ready for cooking. When these small chickens are split in half each half makes a good serving.

Generally barbecued meats are basted with a spicy sauce while they are cooking, and they may also be served with a spicy sauce. The home economists found in their work that barbecue sauces used for basting are of two main types, one a very thin sauce with a vinegar or lemon juice base, the other a much thicker sauce with a tomato base of tomato juice, canned tomatoes, chili sauce or catsup.

One very easy method for oven barbecuing chicken is to simply brown each piece of chicken in a small amount of fat in a frying pan, then arrange the chicken in a baking dish and bake in a moderately hot oven 375°F until tender. If the legs and breasts are small weighing only around 7 or 8 ounces they will need about 45 minutes to cook, for larger legs and breasts weighing from 10 to 12 ounces allow approximately one hour. About 10 minutes before the chicken is done a thick spicy barbecue sauce is poured over it, this sauce should be served with the chicken. With this method the spicy flavour of the sauce naturally does not penetrate the meat as much as if it had been basted constantly, but it is certainly a very satisfactory way and one which is not too time consuming. We usually feel, however, that barbecued chicken is a specialty, something that we are willing to spend time making, so if you want to make the real oven barbecued chicken these are the directions from the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture.

To oven barbecue chicken the home economists suggest that you place the chicken in a pan on the centre rung of the oven and set the thermostat control at 375°F. An interesting thing that they found out was that when the basting sauce had a tomato base there was a tendency for it to burn more quickly due possibly to the thickness of the sauce and the sugar in it. When the oven barbecued chicken was to be basted with a tomato base sauce the home economists found that they had to set the oven control at 350°F. rather than 375°F. In other words place the chicken in a shallow pan in the centre of the oven and set your oven control at 375°F. for chicken basted with a thin sauce, but at 350°F. if the basting sauce is thick. Just before the chicken is placed in the oven, it is a good idea to sprinkle it with salt and brush both sides with the barbecue sauce. Then place the chicken, skin side down in the pan and put it in the oven. About every 10 or 15 minutes it should be brushed with the barbecue sauce. When basting the chicken do not pull the oven rack out and baste with the oven door open. Lift the pan out of the oven and close the door because when you have to baste so often a good deal of heat will be lost if you leave the door open. The thinner basting sauce was certainly easier to handle in barbecuing chicken because of the tendeucy of the tomato type to burn more quickly. However, many people like the flavour of a tomato barbecue sauce and if you are one of these people just be sure to watch your oven carefully because you may have to lower the oven heat if the sauce starts to burn. It will take about 1½ hours at 375°F. and 1¾ hours at 350°F. for the chicken to cook. Just before serving you can brush the chicken again with barbecue sauce. However, if you feel that you like the chicken very crisp the home economists suggest that you omit the final brushing. If there is any sauce left you can serve it with the chicken. If it is too thick just dilute it with a small amount of water. It probably is not necessary to give you a recipe for a barbecue sauce because you can find one in any cook book. But, if you would like the Consumer Section's favourite recipes just write the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and ask for barbecue sauce recipes.

Allan's Corners

Mr. A. A. Tannahill was among those to attend a Shriners' Show at Brockville, Ont., on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Pierce, of Montreal, spent Thursday evening at their home here and attended the annual turkey supper and bazaar sponsored by the ladies of the Barrie Memorial Hospital.

The Week at Ottawa

Defence Warning

A warning about the state of the western world's defences came from Ottawa last week. Senior defence officials said the west is losing ground to Russia in developing nuclear weapons and jet aircraft.

One top official put it this way: "We have no reason for complacency. The Russians are gaining or perhaps are ahead of us in the fields they choose to concentrate on, such as atomic weapons and aircraft."

In a speech at Vancouver, Dr. Gordon R. Shrum ,a member of the defence research board, said that in five years jet bombers and fighters will have been made obsolete by intercontinental guided missiles.

Dr. Shrum indicated the Russians are far ahead in rocket development and years ahead in production of jet bombers.

Rail Arbitrator

Other new developments of the week included:

1. Appointment of Chief Justice Gordon McGregor Sloan of British Columbia as arbitrator to decide on a binding settlement of the long-standing contract dispute between the railways and the unions of non-operating employees. Meetings are expected to start in the week of Oct. 10

2. Success of the navy's Arctic patrol vessel Labrador in pushing her way through the northwest Passage from the Atlantic to the Pacific — the first warship to do so. The 6,500-ton ship followed the path blazed 10 years ago by the Famed 80-ton St. Roch of the RCMP.

3. Meetings of experts from the 14 member countries of the Colombo Plan, charting the progress of the six-year $5,000,000,000 program of assistance for South and Southeast Asia. The main Colombo Plan conference of ministers starts Oct. 4.

Permanent Pastures

With reference to this field, Mr. Beaudin said: "It is clearly apparent that on the check row where no fertilizer was spread the growth of clovers has been very restricted, even the grasses are light in catch as compared to the remainder of the field that had an application of 2-12-10 fertilizer".

Albert Billette Farm

This farm is owned by Albert Billette, Ormstown, another World War II veteran, who is also operating under the V.L.A. system.

This field, 4.2 acres in extent, is located nearby the farm steading. It was seeded on April 29, 1953, and fertilized with 400 lbs. to the acre with 2-16-6. It was pastured from May 28 to September 14, 1953, the procedure in that respect being: 1½ hours per day for the first 10 days; 2 hours per day for the next 10 days; 3 hours per day for the remainder of the summer.

The field is divided into two plots which are pastured alternately, at intervals of about 5 or 6 days. It therefore is that when one plot is being pastured the other is resting and regrowing. During the current year, 1954, 13 Holstein cows and one calf were continuously pastured on the field as a whole from May 18 to September 10. In addition, when the growth became too strong one of the plots was mowed and Mr. Billette thereby took off 2 tons of hay.

In commenting on this field Mr. Beaudin said: "A full control is exercised here. That is the cows are let on this pasture in the forenoon, afternoon and evening, one hour at a time. And of particular interest in connection with this system of hourly pasturing very few droppings exist.

"Mr. Billette also gives each cow approximately 2 lbs. of dried hay and 1 lb. of ground oats per day. His cows have had no other pasture since last year and he claims that compared with 1952 his milk yield has doubled."

Mr. Billette has also stated: If the remainder of my farm gave the same returns I would be able to retire in three years' time. Incidentally ,in order to maintain the vigour of this pasture, Mr. Billette has now on hand a further supply of 0-12-20 with a 2% of borax which will be applied in the near future."

Gerard Brisson Farm

From the Ormstown district the group proceeded to the Ste. Barbe district, to the farm of Gerard Brisson, a Diploma Course graduate of Ste. Martine Agricultural School.

Mr. Brisson's experiments were actually commenced during 1952, the year before the commencement of the Better Farming Competition. In that year he seeded 4.7 acres with oats and a grass and clover, etc. mixture which included Ladino, and that field was subsequently pastured.

In 1953 he seeded down with oats, and the grass and clover mixture a 4.4 acre field, along with 5-10-10 fertilizer at the rate of 250 lbs. to the acre. That field was also grazed in 1953.

In 1954 he also seeded down another plot of 3.2 acres which have also been grazed. In addition another plot of 2.7 acres of old meadow is scheduled to be ploughed and seeded down in 1955. In connection with this experiment Mr. Beaudin said:

"This area of 15 acres will doubtless more than carry 16 head of Holsteins and 3 horses. In 1954, only 9.1 acres of the present 12.3 acre area (1952-3-4 seedings) were used as pasture and 10 tons of hay were taken from the plot seeded down in 1953.

"At the present time Mr. Brisson has divided the 15 acres (including the 2.7 acres of old meadow, referred to) into 6 plots of approximately 2.5 acres each on which he rotates the pasturing and takes hay from such as the cattle cannot take care of."

When asked by Mr. Beaudin as to the difference between the feeding value of the current experiment and th old system of pasturing, Mr. Brisson replied: "The cows prefer it very much, they relish eating tender sweet grass, and they also maintain their flow of milk".

Romeo Girouard Farm

The next stop was at the farm of Romeo Girouard also in the Ste. Barbe district. In that connection Mr. Beaudin reported: "On a gravelly knoll, this 3-acre field was most discouraging in the fall of 1953. Growth and quantity of the plants were none of the best. An application of 10 tons of stable manure was advised and this had a marvellous effect on the number of plants and growth in 1954. It also received an application of 2-16-6 fertilizer at the rate of 300 lbs. to the acre.

"In 1954, a new field of 4.5 acres were sown, together with 2-16-6 fertilizer at the rate of 300 lbs. to the acre ,and, as you will note, this field is most promising indeed.

"The 1953 seeding pastured 16 cows and 2 horses for 15 days in all in 1954; similarly the 1954 seeding also pastured the same stock for 15 days.

"When Mr. Girouard was asked what did the cattle do before the current improvement, he replied: They were used to pack the s oil only, there was no feed value in this piece of land. Incidentally, Mr. Brisson plans to apply 10 tons of manure per acre this fall to the new seeding."

From the Ste. Barbe district the group proceeded to the St. Anicet district where three more farms were visited, as follows:

J. D. Quenneville Farm

It would appear from Mr. Beaudin's comments that due to various reasons and causes ,the 1953 experiment at the J. D. Quenneville farm was not altogether as successful as might have been expected.

A field measuring 10.5 acres had been seeded down and same had received an application of 2-12-10 fertilizer at the rate of 400 lbs. to the acre. However, the results were sufficiently good to persuade Mr. Quenneville to continue the experiment in 1954. The 10.5 acre field was therefore sub-divided into 4 plots and the results obtained were so good that Mr. Quenneville not only pastured his own herd of 22 head from May 20 to July 20, but also 18 head of his son's cattle (from the adjacent farm) on one plot for two weeks.

He then gave the field a rest of 15 days, after which he again pastured his own 22 cows for another month.

Mr. Beaudin is natuarally quite pleased over this experiment and the cooperation that is being given by Mr. Quenneville. "Seeing is believing", said Mr. Beaudin as he pridefully pointed to a stack of C.I.L. bags of fertilizer. "In that shed," he said, "there are 3,000 lbs. of 2-12-12 to be applied when the weather is propitious this fall. Before he placed that order Mr. Quenneville told me: 'I am not now scared about fertilizers. You have convinced me of their value.' He has also consented to plow under a plot of 2½ acres to be reseeded next spring. On this plot he will make an application of 10 tons of manure per acre before plowing under."

Gilles Quenneville Farm

The next stop was at the farm of Gilles Quenneville, St. Anicet, another Diploma Course graduate of Ste. Martine Agricultural School.

On this farm 11.5 acres were seeded in the spring of 1954, together with an application of 5-10-10 fertilizer at the rate of 500 lbs. to the acre. In that respect Mr. eBaudin said: "The seeding had to be done between rains, with perhaps the poorest seed bed preparation possible. You will agree, however, that it looks quite promising for next year.

The field is divided into two plots and the herd of 13 cows have been pastured continuously on one or the other since June 20. In addition, in order to keep the oats from getting an upper hand 14 cows from his brother's herd were also pastured there for a week.

Said Mr. Beaudin: "He plans to apply a top dressing of barnyard manure this fall, which we consider will improve the vigour and stand of the crop."

Guy Chretien's Farm

The last of the farms visited was that of Guy Chretien of St. Anicet, another Diploma Course graduate of Ste. Martine Agricultural School. Mr. Chretien purchased this farm in 1953 just previous to seeding time.

This experimental pasture field, 9.1 acres, is close to the farm steading, with running water through same. It is divided into 3 plots of even size which have been pastured in rotation ever since it was seeded down in 1953.

In connection with that experiment Mr. Beaudin gave the following details:

"In addition to an application at seeding time, in 1953, of 2-16-6 fertilizer at the rate of 250 lbs. per acre, he also applied 8 tons of barnyard manure per acre.

"In the spring of 1954 he gave the field a top dressing of 2-16-6 at the rate of 500 lbs. per acre, and on September 15 he applied muriate of potash at the rate of 100 lbs. to the acre.

"This field has pastured 21 Holstein cows in both years — in 1953 for approximately two and a half months; in 1954 from May 25 to July 23, and, after a rest of 10 days, from August 3 to September 10, when the cows were removed for a week.

"Also in 1954, Mr. Chretien seeded a new plot of 3.8 acres which has been occasionally pastured. In addition he has tilled the rough land which is situated next to the buildings which he is planning to fertilize and further improve so as to enable him to maintain at least 35 milking cows."

The group then proceeded to the Huntingdon Chateau where they were entertained to dinner by the C.I.L. Officials. After the dinner Jean Desjardins of the C.I.L. showed coloured films of a number of the fields which had been seen that day, same having been made, in conjunction with Mr. Beaudin, at different times during the course of the year. A discussion period then ensued, during which time Mr. Beaudin was congratulated on his laudable undertaking.

Clarifying Part of Report on School of Administration

In the report on the first lecture of the school of Business Administration, attention has been drawn by a number of notaries of this district of some unintentional mistakes made in the report that have caused considerable embarrassment to Mr. Roger Fortier, Mr. James E. Barrett and Mr. W. F. Welch. Apologies are due to these men for any mistakes, and corrections appear herewith.

In the last issue the following appeared in the report:

"The Valuation is made by a team of three men who know the terrain, the condition of the soils, etc., thoroughly, and who are appointed by the Municipal Council. One of the three is usually a member of the last team of valuators. Should one of the three men become sick, a substitute is appointed, as there must be always three men doing the valuation."

Instead of this, it should have read as follows:

"The Valuation is made by a team of three men who know the terrain, the condition of the soils, etc., thoroughly and who are appointed by the Municipal Council. At the same time there are two substitutes appointed to replace any member of the team in case of sickness. One of three appraisers is usually a member of the last team of valuators. There must be always three men doing the valuation."

Also the following appeared:
Paragraph 1

These arrears are generally allowed to go for two years in some municipalities and in others for three years, but with an added 2½% interest per annum. At the end of the two years or three years time, whatever the case may be, if the arrears have not been settled with the council, the council has the right to sell the land concerned to settle its debt to the council. This is done by listing the taxes and notifying the person to pay the arrears within thirty days. If still not paid, the County lists the properties before the 20th of December of the year or the 20th of January of the following year.

Paragraph 2

However a notary of the estate or of the family concerned may buy back the property viz, pay back the taxes in arrears plus 10%. The purchaser will receive his original investment back plus 7½% interest. The other 2½% is the interest accumulated from which the costs are paid. However, if the purchaser still has the deed to the property after two years, he applies to the secretary or a notary who will issue a permanent deed to the property, but at the same time the notary and two witnesses sign the deed.

Referring to Paragraph 1, it should have read as follows:

A property may be listed for sale for one year's arrear's in taxes. The Secretary-Treasurer of each municipality must, if ordered by the council, before the 20th day of December of each year, transmit to the office of the county corporation, a list of the properties in arrears. (School taxes arrears — property lists to the County Secretary before the 31st of December of each year. The lists for each municipality must be posted and published in the usual manner before the 8th day of January of the following year. It must also be published in the Official Gazette for two Saturdays during the month of January. At the time of the first publication of the list and notice, the County Secretary must send a copy of the same by registered letter to the County Registrar who will list the property for seizure.

Referring to Paragraph 2, it should have read as follows:

Any purchaser offering then and there (second Thursday in March) to pay the amount of the money to be raised together with costs for the smallest portion of each immovable becomes the purchaser thereof. He must pay the amount of money immediately upon the adjudication thereof.

Any person may redeem the property from the purchaser after the sale up to two years time as prescribed by law. The redeemer pays the amount in arrears, plus costs plus an interest rate of ten percent per annum. The original purchaser will receive his investment back plus an interest of 7½% per annum. The 2½% left pays for the registration of the property and the County Clerk's fees.

If a purchaser has held a property for two (2) years, he will then receive a clear title. All mortgages and debts concurred on the property are automatically discharged. The deed will be given to him by the County Secretary who will sign it as well as two witnesses. A notary can not issue a deed or title for such a property.

Ormstown High School

Grade 10, Proficiency — 1 Brian Hooker, 2 May Martin.

Geometry prize awarded by Mrs. S. Gage: Brian Hooker.

Grade 11 — High School Leaving Certificates to Ronald Begbie, Marjorie Bryson, Lyndon Hooker, Milton Hooker, Barbara Tillotson.

Proficiency — 1 Lyndon Hooker, 2 Ronald Begbie.

Geometry prize awarded by Mrs. S. Gage — Lyndon Hooker.

C. M. Walsh Memorial prize for French: Lyndon Hooker.

Reader's Digest award: Lyndon Hooker.

Following the prize giving, Mr. King called on the past president of the Student Council, Lyndon Hooker, to tell the audience of the Pat Cavers Memorial Trophy and to announce the winner.

Lyndon stated that etrly this year Ormstown High School had lost a loyal student and a keen athlete in the passing of Patricia Cavers. It was the sincere wish of the student body and the student council that a trophy be placed in Ormstown High School in Pat's honor, this trophy to be awarded the girl with the highest aggregate in the sports program. The student council purchased a lovely rose bowl with provision for the names of the winners from year to year. Edith Stevenson, present president of the Council, unveiled the trophy and Mr. A. W. Lang made the presentation to Miss Heather McKell. Heather not only won honors at home but placed second in the Ladies' High Jump at the Canadian National Exhibition.

During the past two years, O.H.S. Student Council set aside a sum of money for the purpose of installing a sound system, tape recorder, etc., in the school. On Friday evening, Edith Stevenson presented the School Board with a cheque for $250 to assist in purchasing and installing the sound system, part of which was in use for the commencement exercises. Mr. J. White, chairman, accepted the cheque and expressed sincere thanks to the Council. This presentation was followed by the School Song.

Mr. K. Campbell introduced the guest speaker, Mr. A. W. Lang of Montreal, a former principal of O.H.S. and Willingdon School, Montreal, and presently secretary of the P.A.P.S.B.

In addressing his audience, particularly the Graduating Class, he spoke of the difficulties young people were bound to encounter, but suggested that success could be attained by giving strict attention to reason, responsibility and religion.

With regard to the proposed addition to Ormstown High School, Mr. Lang spoke strongly in favour of sufficient space for each class, proper lighting and conditions for work as well as necessary space for play, etc.

He complimented the Student Council on their move in recent years to acquire money towards purchasing a satisfactory sound system comprising recorder, amplifier, microphones, etc., connecting the rooms in the building.

Mr. J. Winter conveyed the thanks of the Board and all present to Mr. Lang for his splendid address.

Following the National Anthem, students remained in the hall to see movies, while parents inspected the building, interviewed teachers in the various class rooms and were served light refreshments.

Rockburn

ROCKBURN — Mr. Hamilton Lindsay and Mr. Herbert Simpson of Calgary, Alta., motored through to Rockburn recently to take home with them Mrs. Hamilton Lindsay and their three little children who had been with Mr. and Mrs. George Lindsay for a couple of months' visit. All were glad to learn of their safe arrival at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Arrden Douglas spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. McClenaghan at Ormstown.

Glad to report that Mrs. W. G. Tannahill, now in the Barrie Memorial Hospital, is recovering nicely from her recent illness. Mrs. Sloan accompanied Mr. Tannahill on Sunday afternoon to Ormstown, to visit the patient.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Merritt of Oswego, N.Y., called on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Oliver on their way home from a two weeks' holiday spent in sight-seeing and calling on relatives and friends in the Western States. They had made a short visit at the home of Mrs. Merritt's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Maither, of Ottumwa, Iowa, and while there telephoned Mrs. Oliver, thus demonstrating the ease and pleasure rendered by the telephone service. Mrs. John Abbott of Pulaski was a caller at the same home with Mr. and Mrs. Merritt.

The Rockburn Congregation had again the pleasure of having with them Sunday morning Prof. Barr of Montreal Presbyterian College, and are hoping his visits may be repeated the next few Sabbaths.

Pleased to report that little Miss Judy Graham is gaining well in the Barrie Memorial Hospital, where she has been for the past two weeks.

Prof. James Barr, Presbyterian College, Montreal again conducted Church service on Sunday and intimated he expected to be back again the next week.

A couple of young school boys had an orgy of window smashing on Thursday afternoon taking for their target the Presbyterian Manse at present unoccupied. The Managers estimated the damage amounted to over $50, so it is hoped the boys enjoyed their fun, as it is not likely they enjoyed the aftermath, when the parents and guardians had to defray the expense of replacing the broken panes, about thirty.

Powerscourt

Powerscourt—A welcome sight on Wednesday evening was a rainbow, rather an unusual sight during this strange summer.

Mrs. Ernest Atcheson and George motored to Charteris, Que., on Saturday, where they were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Sparrow. On their return, they were accompanied by Mrs. Sparrow and 3 children, who will spend this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Atcheson.

Mrs. Robert Milne of Dewittville, Que., has spent the past three weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McClatchie.

Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Ross were Mr. and Mrs. Allan Rowat and Alison of Montreal, and Gerald and Judy Rowat.

Mr. Ronald Wood visited relatives in Montreal on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wood motored to Montreal on Monday, where Mrs. Wood had her eye examined. Glad to report that the eye condition shows steady improvement.

Mr. Hewlett of Montreal, was pulpit supply on Sunday in the absence of Mr. McLeod. The latter is vacationing in New Brunswick.

Miss McConnell has spent the past week with relatives in Montreal.

Silo filling is the order of the day and better progress is being made at that than with the threshing. However, owing to the sodden fields, some farmers are using sickles to cut the corn.

The Government steam shovel has been at work on the farm of Mr. Tom Ross. Cleaning ditches with that outfit is a big improvement from hand digging. The shovel could be used to good advantage on a number of farms in the district.

Crop Harvesting Belated On Account of Wet Weather

DUNDEE — Damp foggy weather and frequent rains are seriously hampering the harvesting of the late season's crop in this and adjoining areas. Oats and mixed grain, which would ordinarily have been threshed 2 or 3 weeks ago, are still in the fields with heads sprouting in the stooks. Some later grain and buckwheat is still to be cut and in some low-lying fields will probably remain untouched unless the weather takes a sudden and more lasting turn for the better.

Corn fields, too, are a soggy mess and some farmers are cutting the crop by hand. A few farmers that had early grain on high land were fortunate enough to get their threshing done the latter part of August but these are in the minority.

The quality of the grain so threshed was fair for this year. The later threshing, if it is done at all, will certainly turn out a poor quality product, most likely unfit for next year's seeding.

In many instances too, potatoes are showing signs of rot, except on high land.

Mr. and Mrs. James Patterson, of Huntingdon, recently moved into an apartment in Mrs. Allan Morris's house at Dundee Lines. Mr. Patterson is employed at the Dundee Customs.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Brewerton of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKay and Mrs. Brewerton's mother, Mrs. D. McCool, of St. Johns, Que., spent the week-end at the Brewerton's summer home in Dundee. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ashton Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ashton Jr., all of Montreal, were Sunday guests of the Brewertons.

While out trolling on Lake St. Francis during the week-end with members of her family, Mrs. McCool had the good fortune to hook a 16 1/2-lb. lunge which gave the party considerable excitement until he was landed safely in the boat. The last two week-ends have been rather rainy and disagreeable but it doesn't seem to dampen the ardor of the local nimrods who are willing to brave the elements in order not to miss any chance of getting a strike on a muskie. This was Mrs. McCool's first try at muskie fishing so naturally she feels quite proud of her accomplishment.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Smellie spent Saturday visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Lacey and family, at Aultsville, Ont. Their grandaughter Anne returned with them to spend a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Smellie and their grandaughter spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Smellie and family at their summer camp on Lake St. Francis.

Miss Lorna Fleming, Home Economics teacher at Shawville, Que., and Mr. Ronald Fleming of Montreal, spent the week-end at their home at Dundee Centre.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ferguson and family motored to Dorval on Sunday. En route they crossed the Msgr. Langlois Bridge, which officially opened at 3 p.m. that day.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Fraser and family attended the opening of the new bridge from Valleyfield to Coteau which, despite the drizzling weather conditions, was well attended.

Hundreds of cars thronged through the highways leading to the inauguration stands on either side of the river from which the Honourable Maurice Duplessis, Premier of the Province, along with other notables, addressed the throng and later declared the bridge officially open.

From this writer's point of view, the whole layout of the bridge its design and the approaches leading to it represent a triumph or engineering skill on the part of those responsible for its construction. When the swing bridge over the Soulanges Canal is finished and ready for use the trip to Highway 2 on the North shore of the St. Lawrence from Valleyfield will be made very quickly compared to the old way of crossing on the ferry in the summer or going around by the Mercier Bridge in the winter. Looking at and driving over this remarkable new network of super highways which now encompass Valleyfield and district and with this new Highway bridge as a feeder, this section of the province will no doubt in the next decade or so grow and prosper to an unheard of extent.

Pat MacNaughton of Huntingdon spent the week-end with her grandmother, Mrs. Eleanor McNicol.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Fraser accompanied Mrs. Cora Fraser and Mr. Harold Fraser to Franklin Centre where they spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. Ross Fraser.
