Water Board threatens legal action against paper companies

By CUTHBERT JONES

QUEBEC — Legal action to compel 21 paper or pulp mills in the province to cut down the discharge of suspended solids into the rivers and streams of Quebec is threatened by the Quebec Water Board.

In reviewing its activities for the past four years in the field of pulp and paper mill pollution of the watercourses, the Board states that the quantity of suspended solids dumped into the rivers and streams by the plants has decreased by 514 tons daily, or 36 per cent, during the past four years. This has been achieved despite an increase of 12 per cent or 1,200 tons daily in pulp and paper production.

The production of pulp, paper, cartons and similar products in the 54 mills in Quebec had reached, on July 1, 1970, a total of 21,700 tons a day while the solids discharged into the water courses amounted to 909 tons or 4.2 per cent of the production.

In 1966, these plants discharged 1,423 tons of suspended solids daily, comprising rough and fine bark, wood and pulp fibres and materials used in production operations. This amounted to 7.3 per cent of the 19,400 tons of pulp and paper produced each day.

Unfortunately, the pulp and paper industry has not yet attained the objective set by the Board to reduce solids in suspension to not over three per cent of the daily production, or about 600 tons daily for all mills in Quebec. The Board set December 31, 1969, as the deadline for achieving the first phase of the directives issued in 1968 to reduce pulp and paper mill pollution.

At the target date of December, 1969, at least 35 mills had not yet reached the objective set by the directives. The Board issued an ordinance to each of these plants in February of this year stipulating they must conform with the regulations by July 1. Of this number, 14 took steps to meet the requirements.

However, there remained 21 mills that had not met the requirements of the Board and the files have been turned over to the Department of Justice for action.

The 21 plants concerned had a combined production of nearly 10,000 tons daily, or 46 per cent of the overall production of the 54 plants in Quebec. Their discharge of solids in suspension reached 589 tons a day, representing 65 per cent of the global discharge while the 33 other plants discharge only 35 per cent of suspended matter.

The Water Board admits it is not satisfied with the results obtained to date by its directives and ordinances, but says that without the measures it has taken the situation would have been worse. Instead of receiving 909 tons of suspended solids daily, the watercourses would be receiving 1,600 tons.

Furthermore, the Board plans to issue in the near future the objectives sought in the second phase of the directives to the pulp and paper industry. The combined discharges of all the pulp and paper mills of the province must not contain more than 240 tons of suspended solids daily after January 1, 1974.

This, said the Board, is a far cry from the 909 tons now being discharged and the 1,600 tons which would have been discharged if the coercive action had not been taken by the Quebec Water Board.

Ceremony symbolic of area participation

SHOWING THE COLOURS — The Canadian Legion Color Guard participated in Armistice Day commemoration ceremonies held yesterday at Alexander Galt Regional High School.

Chaplains John McMillumray and Doug Daniel offered opening prayers and student council president Don Jones presented a wreath to the visiting Legionnaires, who represented Canadian Legion Branch 10 of Sherbrooke.

The commemorative service has never before been conducted on a school-wide basis, according to activities coordinator Whitman Haines.

"We wanted to show that the entire region cares about Armistice Day," Mr. Haines said. "And this is the appropriate place to do that."

Opposition asks for explanations of kidnap decisions

By DON MacPHERSON

QUEBEC (CP) — Opposition Leader Jean-Jacques Bertrand suggested Wednesday Premier Robert Bourassa's Liberal government "was not governing at all, but was trailing along behind Ottawa" in handling a crisis provoked by two political kidnappings.

Mr. Bertrand, Union Nationale leader, was the first speaker in a debate on the Quebec government's actions and decisions since the Oct. 5 kidnapping of James Cross, senior British trade commissioner in Montreal.

The emergency resumes today at 3 p.m. Premier Bourassa is to speak after the three Opposition party leaders.

Mr. Bertrand said he wants "all the facts" behind the government's actions. While giving the government "the benefit of the doubt," he wanted a full explanation of government decisions.

CRISIS ESCALATED

The crisis, which started with the Cross kidnapping, was escalated Oct. 10 with the abduction of Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister who was later strangled to death.

The government called on Ottawa for troops and asked for proclamation of the War Measures Act, which gave police powers to search and arrest without warrant and to hold suspects up to 21 days without laying charges.

Mr. Bertrand showed a special interest in finding out whether Mr. Bourassa's government had abdicated any of its responsibilities or initiatives to the federal government.

He was a "partisan of moderation" who denounced violence as a means of achieving change in society, but he wanted answers to several questions:

—Was it Ottawa or Quebec which took the "initiatives and responsibility" in negotiations with the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec for the release of the kidnap victims?

—How much had the federal government influenced Justice Minister Jerome Choquette's Oct. 10 statement in which he rejected the FLQ kidnappers' ransom demands for the release of 23 so-called political prisoners?

—What conditions led the Quebec government to invoke the Police Act, placing all Quebec police under the control of Maurice St. Pierre, director of Quebec Provincial Police, and to ask Ottawa to invoke the War Measures Act, "a radical, drastic measure"?

QUESTIONS RUMORS

Mr. Bertrand also wanted to know how well-founded were rumors about "a provisional government or a parallel government" either supporting the Liberals or taking over from them.

His hour-long speech came after a drawn-out verbal argument between Liberal backbenchers and members of the Parti Quebecois.

The Liberals repeatedly shouted down PQ members trying to question Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Choquette about the crisis, and insults flew back and forth as Speaker Jean-Noel Lavoie struggled to restore order.

The trouble started during the daily question period after Premier Bourassa and Education Minister Guy Saint-Pierre slipped stinging remarks into answers to questions from Jean-Guy Cardinal (UN-Bagot) and Robert Burns, the PQ house leader.

Mr. Burns immediately called on Speaker Lavoie to order Mr. Choquette to withdraw his statement.

QUEBEC IN FOCUS

Arrest four FLQ suspects

MONTREAL (CP) — Four additional arrests have been made under the War Measures Act, bringing the total in custody to 63, a Quebec Provincial Police spokesman said late Wednesday.

The arrests were made in Montreal, Senneterre and Amos in northwestern Quebec and in Quebec City.

A total of 443 persons had been arrested since the War Measures Act was invoked Oct. 16. Of those, 380 have been released, two of them Wednesday.

Charge govt. with immorality

QUEBEC (CP) — Some 19 priests and curés whose Gaspé parishioners number about 44,000 have signed a manifesto by charging a profoundly immoral lack of government action in developing the region's economy.

Clergy spokesman Rev. Charles Banville, cure of Ste. Paula parish in Matane, presented the manifesto to reporters Wednesday, explaining that a "mass movement" in the region has obliged the priests to abandon "our customary indifference."

Father Banville said governments and governmental agencies, worried about making mistakes, skated around the Gaspé's economic problems. Then the population, noting the government's inability to provide effective solutions, lost confidence in its leaders.

Use existing services to full

Mayor asks halt to services extension

By DAVID MAGIL

SHERBROOKE — Municipal government must assume a greater role in regulating urban development and renewal, Mayor Marc Bureau told the quarterly meeting of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce last night at the Le Baron Motor Hotel.

In revealing his new policy, the mayor said that this city's development had progressed to the point where "we will soon be forced to use existing services to their maximum before installing others."

"We cannot open any more roads or install any large water or drainage pipes until those in service are utilized to their maximum," he said.

The mayor claimed that "only 65 per cent of existing services are being used efficiently. The rest must be utilized before any further extension can be contemplated."

Furthermore, he said, the municipal administration must also concern itself with urban renewal if it does not want to see the city center become uninhabitable.

"All citizens, be they rich or poor, have the right to decent housing," he said.

This policy must be instituted, since its effect could be a lower into consideration the period of time in which these properties could be developed. When this new policy is in force, and if the period of development has been changed, then our evaluation roll will be revised accordingly," he said.

In reference to landowners who might try to charge exorbitant prices for their property, the mayor said that "the city already has enough land within incompletely-developed areas and can sell these lots so that all land prices will be controlled without their being owned by the municipality."

In the course of his speech, Mayor Bureau traced the growth of municipal involvement in urban development and described the evolution of assessments for civic services.

"At first, each person built his own water and drainage system and each was responsible for his part of the road," he said.

Later, domestic servicing and property taxes were introduced.

The next step, Mr. Bureau said, "was the beginning of development guiding by municipal authorities. Property assessments were charged for half the domestic servicing while property taxes covered the rest."

The mayor said the fourth stage, which we are experiencing now, is one where all services are paid for through assessments and any extensions of them are covered by property taxes.

GPs agree on medicare, specialists may follow

QUEBEC (CP) — An agreement outlining how general practitioners are to participate in Quebec province's medical care insurance plan was signed Wednesday. Health Minister Claude Castonguay said.

Mr. Castonguay told the national assembly the government has met twice with representatives of medical specialists in the province and agreement over disputed fee schedules seems imminent.

The health minister said emergency legislation which forced specialists back to work Oct. 15 following a 10-day strike will be revoked as soon as talks seem to be leading to a settlement with the specialists.

The insurance plan was implemented Nov. 1 after months of delays while the government conducted talks with the Quebec Federation of Medical Specialists and other medical bodies.

The agreement with the Quebec Federation of General Practitioners, which groups the province's 2,300 GPs, provides for creation of a committee to study claims by patients that their doctors have overbilled them under the plan.

CAN BARGAIN

It also sets up mechanisms for dealing with doctors' grievances and sets up arbitration procedures.

Mr. Castonguay said general practitioners can claim advances of $2,000 a month for a two-month period to ensure a smooth transition to the payment setup under the insurance plan.

The real test in price struggle still to come

By DAVID MAGIL

SHERBROOKE — The first real test in the three-day-old grocery price war is expected tonight, when residents head for the stores to do their weekly shopping.

In spite of a Dominion stores claim that business increased by more than 50 per cent Tuesday, local grocers say that no noticeable change in buying patterns will be seen before the weekend.

Sherbrooke residents are known to purchase most of their groceries Thursday and Friday evenings and on Saturday.

Dominion Stores regional superintendent Roland Desilets told The Record public reaction to its discount pricing policy was "extraordinary." He said Sherbrooke stores reported a sales increase of 50 per cent on Tuesday, the first day of the policy but admitted that as far as he could tell Wednesday's business would not be as brisk.

Other grocers here reported no noticeable change over the past two days, and Steinberg Ltd. manager Claude Henri said that the new Dominion policy would have "no effect whatsoever" on his store, where discount pricing has been in effect for ever a year.

"It (the discount pricing policy) proves that we were the leaders, and they are following us a year and a half behind. I think we may increase our business since their policy shows that we were right," he said.

Meanwhile, on the front lines in Toronto, where Dominion instituted its discount policy last week, two of the combatants have announced new strategy.

T. G. McCormack, president of Dominion Stores Ltd., announced Tuesday that his firm is introducing a "dual pricing" policy. In selected markets, certain products will bear tags indicating both the total price and the price per ounce.

It is not known whether this will be applied within the Sherbrooke area, though regional superintendent Desilets said yesterday that a similar policy has been in effect here in respect to meats for some time.

Leon Weinstein, director of consumer relations for Loblaw Groceries Co. Ltd., announced yesterday a new "maxi-save" program which will involve price reductions for his firm's 180 Ontario stores. A Loblaw statement said the new program "represents thousands of products throughout every department."

At the same time, Canadian Press reports that consumers groups are keeping a skeptical eye on the battle.

A spokesman for the Ontario Food Council — a provincial government-backed group with representation from food producers, processors and consumers — said supermarkets were surveyed during and after a similar price war in Edmonton last year.

"After five weeks of discounting the prices did go back up," the spokesman said.

SHERBROOKE — Starting November 15, Bell Canada will supply telephone service to Gould and Sainte-Marguerite-de-Lingwick. These two municipalities are at present served by the "Lingwick Telephone Company".

In making this announcement, Claude Begin, Bell Canada manager for this region, explained that both places mentioned would be connected with the Weedon dial office.

This means, he said, that these subscribers will then have dial telephone service and can themselves dial their local and long distance calls. They will therefore have new telephone numbers whose first three digits will be "877".

The Bell Canada manager added that Gould and Sainte-Marguerite residents will be able to call without long distance charges subscribers in Weedon, Disraeli, Garthby and Stratford.

Ceremonies honor war dead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The sound of rifle shots and bugles echoed across Canada Wednesday as the country honored her dead in two world wars.

Government offices, many businesses and schools closed for the day, as services were held to commemorate the 110,000 Canadians killed.

At the Cenotaph in Ottawa about 10,000 looked on as Canadian leaders placed wreaths at the monument. Despite overcast skies, it was the largest crowd in recent years.

Gov.-Gen. Michener, Prime Minister Trudeau and Mrs. Mary Meech of North Sydney, N.S., placed wreaths at the foot of the war memorial in Confederation Square.

Mrs. Meech represented Canadian motherhood. She lost two sons in the Second World War.

GUNS LOADED
Security at the Cenotaph was tight. Soldiers, for the first time in history, stood by with loaded guns.

Three teen-age girls, representing Canadian youth, participated in the Ottawa ceremony.

News from Stanstead College

STANSTEAD (IH) — Staff and students are away on the mid term long weekend which runs from Nov. 12 to 17.

The New Boys show took place in Pierce hall on the evening of Nov. 10. When the "new boys" return they will be "old boys", it was declared at the conclusion of the show.

Students to make the headmasters list are M. Campbell, M. Pirro, B. Walker and B. Wright, Grade 12; G. Babeau, D. Burdon and P. Deutschman, Grade 11; B. Bourne, G. Brown, J. Deacon, F. Hebbel, J. Little, R. Mou and M. Pierce, Grade 10; R. Frank, D. Johnstone, D. Layton, R. Lennox, D. Smith, P. S. Wong, and N. Stephenson, Grade 9; and Junior school, R. Clark, M. Graham, C. Murray, J. Perlman, and D. Star.

M. Dirro, K. Lemon, B. Miner and R. Campbell composed the debating team on Sunday, Nov. 8. Their topic was "The government's implementation of the war measures act was an unnecessary and dangerous action in the Quebec crisis".

Paulette Stachnik, Devon, Alta.; Rejeanne Godin, Maisonneuve, N.B.; and Linda Stewart, Saskatoon, were award winners in the Royal Canadian Legion's essay contest on remembrance.

Other youths participated in less-traditional ways, including a group of Ottawa students who listened to recorded music from the Woodstock Festival as they gathered on the University of Ottawa campus. The casually-dressed students said they were also there to remember the dead of Vietnam.

In St. John's, Nfld., branches of the armed forces and military organizations presented the city with 12 flags. Among them was the original United States flag that flew over Fort Pepperrell, built in 1941 as a U.S. Army base. It was closed in 1960.

Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island attended a service at Georgetown; in Halifax a 21-gun salute was fired from Citadel Hill.

LAST DUTY
Louis J. Robichaud performed his last official function as premier of New Brunswick when he placed a wreath at Fredericton. Today he turns over power to Conservative Leader Richard Hatfield, winner of the recent provincial election.

At Saint John the surviving members of the 26th New Brunswick Infantry Battalion, a First World War unit, participated in ceremonies.

Eighty soldiers in battle dress, armed with automatic, bayonet-tipped rifles, flanked officials during ceremonies at Montreal's Dominion Square. Students at a Toronto high school broke with tradition and conducted a service in which slides were presented showing men dying, children starving, the mushroom of the first atomic bomb, and Winston Churchill, symbol of the Allies' will to win the Second World War. The ceremony was held Tuesday as all schools were closed Wednesday.

In Winnipeg, a musical tribute was to be held at Centennial Concert Hall with bands and choirs from Newfoundland and Regina participating.

In Calgary large downtown stores remained closed during the morning as more than 1,000 marchers took part in official ceremonies. A march past included four horsemen from the Lord Strathcona Regiment. Taverns remained open but liquor stores closed for the day.

Two still at large Border bank robbers captured

ROCK ISLAND (WD) — Two of the four men believed responsible for Tuesday's bank robbery in Newport, Vt., have been captured, police said last night.

Fifteen thousand dollars was taken in the armed robbery, the fourth in small Vermont border towns since June.

One of the suspects was arrested in Stanstead Tuesday afternoon while attempting to switch cars and the other was taken into custody late yesterday afternoon on the highway between Stanstead and Magog.

A sum of money, believed to be part of the stolen cash, was also discovered.

Sherbrooke and provincial police said the men, whose names were not released, were undergoing interrogation last night in the Rock Island-Beebe area, where they are being held.

The interrogation was being conducted by both Canadian and U.S. police authorities.

Four armed men, wearing ski hoods, took part in Tuesday's robbery in Newport. The group fled into Quebec over seldom-travelled dirt roads, using a red sedan which had previously been stolen in Sherbrooke, police said.

One shot was fired in the getaway as the four eluded law officers on both sides of the border.

Following the three earlier robberies in Enosburg Falls, Vt., North Troy, N.Y. and Richford, Vt., border patrols along the back roads were beefed up, but apparently without success.

The amount taken in the four robberies was $123,000.

Teachers say few texts published in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Less than a third of all school texts used in Canada are published in Canada, say representatives of the Canadian Teachers Federation.

The federation so far has not taken a stand in the controversy about whether a major school text publishing house, Ryerson Press owned by the Unit-d Church of Canada, should be sold to the American-controlled publishing house McGraw-Hill of Canada Ltd.

But the federation, which represents about 200,000 elementary and secondary school teachers in Canada, has long been concerned about the amount of Canadian content in school programs.

Federation spokesmen said in an interview that the problem with textbooks goes deeper than just where the books are published. They make these points: —School text written in this country are aimed mainly at the large markets in Ontario and Quebec, to the expense of other areas of Canada.

—Most texts written in the U.S. are aimed at a national market, meaning they meet "lowest common denominator" standards of the varying state education systems and avoid issues that might be objected to in some geographic areas.

TRANSLATE U.S. TEXTS
Oddly enough, textbooks for French-language schools in Canada are frequently translations from American textbooks rather than Canadian books or imports from France.

Visual aids to learning are often unsuitable for use by French-speaking students and the federation has set up a special French-language commission to try to deal with such problems.

Norman Goble, federation secretary-general, says it is hard to assess how much the use of American texts is affecting Canadian students, since teachers and administrators organizing Canadian school programs tend to act as a buffer.

He says a change in present conditions may not be possible without some form of government aid but at the same time suggests that, in an era of rapid change, "we may be too wedded to the idea of the book," especially long-lasting hard-cover ones.

"I'd like to see a situation where books are available for reference but are not a major teaching instrument," he said.

Chamber completes plans for Buy at Home drive

ROCK ISLAND (IH) — Members of the Border Chamber of Commerce gathered on Tuesday evening, Nov. 10 at the Del Monty hotel to complete plans for the Buy At Home campaign.

This campaign will commence Nov. 19 with a half page advertisement in the local paper giving details and listing the names of merchants participating. As of the meeting night there were 30 merchants planning to enter the campaign.

This will continue for four consecutive weeks.

With each $5.00 purchase, participating merchants will give a ticket for the weekly price drawings.

Starting Sunday, Nov. 29, and each Sunday thereafter will be a prize drawing in front of Quebec Hydro building in Rock Island for three prizes valued at $20, each.

Following each prize-giving the tickets will all be saved until

Dec. 20 for the big bonus when $5 gift certificates will be given to the winners.

Bonus prizes will be one of $100; two of $50; five of $20; and 10 of $10 value. These prize coupons may be used until January 31, 1971. All tickets will be at the merchants by Thursday, November 19.

A sum of $25,000 was authorized to the Minor Hockey League if they send their Pee Wee team to play in Quebec in February.

It was learned with regrets that Guy Gauthier, manager of the Bank of Commerce in Rock Island, is being transferred to Northern Quebec.

Mr. Proulx will replace him.

A get well-card is to be sent the daughter of a member at the Medical Center in Sherbrooke, Miss Letitia Labere, and all are pleased to learn of her improvement after a bout with a very rare and unknown illness.

A card is also being sent to Mrs. P. Tellier who is hospitalized.

Campus humor grows up

It is not true that today's college students have entirely lost their sense of humor. They are just more attuned to social and political satire than their dads were in "the gold old days."

So concludes an article, "What happened to College Humor?", appearing in a recent issue of Bostonia, the alumni magazine of Boston University.

The author of the article, Robert W. Minton, who edited the Princeton Tiger in 1940, does not deplore the passing of the corny humor of his era. An example:

First salesman — "I hear you're a salt seller. So am I."
Second salesman — "Shake."

Compare this with the current collegiate joke about the ailing president who received a get-well message from the faculty — which passed by a vote of 41-39 with six absentions.

Some preoccupations of college students have not changed, Minton found. One is S-E-X.

Sex could lead to trouble for an editor. The editor of Boston U's humor magazine was expelled in the '30's for printing a suggestive cartoon. Today, just about anything goes.

It is a good question, though, whether the "honesty" of today's four-letter words and near pornography is a real improvement over this oldie, The Flapper's Prayer: "Lead us not into temptation. Just tell us where it is and we'll find it. Amen."

To repeat, today's students have a taste for satire and biting, sophisticated commentary.

But as for having lost their sense of humor, a look at the old days suggests that college students never really had that much humor to lose.

Creating an "inn" image

The attorney-general of North Carolina has launched an investigation into what he calls an "unfair and deceptive practice."

It seems that some motels in the state are parking decoy automobiles in front of their rooms to give the impression to passing motorists that they are popular and have customers for the night.

This is as dastardly a deception perpetrated on the travelling public as would the parking of decoy trucks in front of a roadside restaurant to take advantage of the common motorist's simple faith that any place that has trucks parked in front must serve the best meals.

The smart person will not be taken in by such subtle subterfuges, however, but will continue to stop only at those hostilities whose billboards advertise that "Everybody stays at the Motel," and eat only at those establishments where the sign plainly says, "Good food."

BERRY'S WORLD

"WOW! Hey, maybe some of these long skirts aren't going to be so bad after all!"

Act now against ideological criminals

By LUBOR J. ZINK

OTTAWA — (TNS) — When Nikita Khrushchev told the Western world "we'll bury you," many people took it to mean a threat of nuclear war.

Pointing out the simultaneous destruction of the Soviet bloc in such a conflict, they dismissed it as a crude and clumsy stratagem of psychological intimidation.

The few who interpreted the cryptic words as a prophecy of essentially internal destruction of the democracies, did not get very far with their elaborations of this thesis. In the heady atmosphere of the Kennedy era it sounded too implausible to be taken seriously.

Yet, looking back at the events of the past decade, it's pretty clear what kind of burial Khrushchev had in mind. Like every Marxist, he was convinced that the free society would eventually succumb to what the Communists call its "internal contradictions." He was equally convinced that, in conjunction with disarming "detente" lures, the process could be greatly accelerated by skillful aggravation and exploitation of the mounting social problems of the technological age.

Since the functioning of the democratic system depends on the maintenance of a large and secure middle ground between political (which in our time means ideological) extremes, Marxist strategists concentrated on gradually narrowing that middle ground, on making it insecure and eventually untenable.

The method they used for setting in motion the desired polarization of the free society's politics showed considerable flexibility and ingenuity.

Having discovered that the classical socialist formula for radicalization of the "working class" brings meagre results in the affluent Western Democracies, they searched for a more fertile ground and found it among the restless young generation, particularly in the universities where idealized Marxism caught the imagination of the student "radicals."

It was this relatively carefree and pampered group which, together with the already established "peace" fronts of the hard core of Marxist agitators, provided the main instrument for polarization of the political process in the United States and the other democracies.

Using the confrontation techniques of publicity catching mass demonstrations with graduated escalation of political violence, the main purpose of the scheme has been and still is to create such pressures from the extreme left that would generate their own counter-pressure and thereby force the moderates, frustrated in their search for a workable compromise, to leave the political middle ground.

With fewer and fewer people in the middle, the moderate centre was thus destined to be overrun by the battle of the extremists. Its disappearance was to sound the deathknell of the democratic process.

With this in mind, the result of the mid-term election in the U.S. offers a glimmer of hope that the pushers of the polarization scheme may have suffered a setback that will slow them down for a while.

The moderate middle, so vital for preservation of democracy, seems to be not only holding, but appears to be reclaiming some of the ground lost to the extremists.

While neither the Republicans nor the Democrats have attained their partisan goals in the contest, both parties should be pleased with the outcome which shows a remarkable resistance of the U.S. electorate to the polarization pressures.

This, to my mind, is right now far more important than the voting arithmetic in the Senate and the House of Representatives, for the attack of the extremists is not directed at one or the other party but at the functional centre, the meeting and operational ground of the moderate forces which sustain the democratic process.

The danger in the U.S. election was that the voters would desert the embattled middle ground.

This did not happen. If the two parties have any sense, they will now get together to consolidate what is in fact their joint gain before the extremists regroup for a new attack.

Regardless of their party label, the men in the middle must know by now that they are facing a common enemy.

They must also know that the enemy, whatever his camouflage, is international totalitarianism which operates extensive fifth columns within the democracies.

The task of the fifth columnists is to destroy the democratic process through confrontation politics. William A. Starmer, an associate professor of law at Georgetown University, has fittingly called them ideological criminals.

While they do not hesitate to use physical violence, their main weapons come from the arsenal of psychological warfare against which the free society has not yet found effective defence.

Our only defence, as we have painfully discovered last month, is the ill-suited War Measures Act. The Americans do not have even that.

The time bought by the U.S. election should be used for concerted joint efforts by all the democracies to fill the gap before the will to hold the middle ground snaps under the totalitarian attack.

"How about calling for a 90-day ceasefire . . . ?"

Background on Trudeau's move

OTTAWA — A few days ago I was driving with an Ontario Cabinet minister.

He was reflecting aloud on the War Measures Act and the lead given by the Trudeau Government in the FLQ crisis.

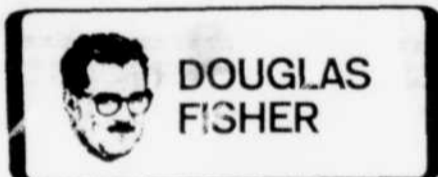

"You know," he said, "it's hard to believe that this Prime Minister, the man who invoked the War Measures Act, who sends the troops into Quebec, was once the young guy who fired blank rounds at an anti-conscription rally during World War II. He has come a long way since then."

The minister's tone registered approval.

I could only comment on the basis of other information about the early career of our Prime Minister. This information truly surprised my Tory acquaintance. He couldn't believe it. Neither can other people to whom I've mentioned it. This surprise is only explainable because of the unusual reticence of Mr. Trudeau about his past.

Few seem to know that during World War II Mr. Trudeau was Lieutenant Trudeau (well, 2nd Lieutenant) of the Second Battalion of the Fusiliers Mont-Royal. This battalion was the training cadre throughout its "reserve army" status for the first battalion, one of the toughest fighting outfits in the 6th Infantry Brigade of the 2nd Canadian Division.

Mr. Trudeau was 20 years old when the war began, a university student. During the winter of 1942 he sought and obtained a commission from the King which he was to hold for almost five years.

DOUGLAS FISHER

Through the tender years of the war, Lieutenant Trudeau trained several nights a week with FMRs and took part in their summer camps and manoeuvres. The motto of the FMRs was Numquam Retorsum. This Latin translates colloquially into Never A Backward Step. Isn't that an appropriate motto for Trudeau, the politician?

It's hard to estimate the influence of this military service as a young officer upon the Prime Minister during such formative years. At the least, it would give him a familiarity with military organization, training and weapons which no other Canadian prime minister ever had, with the possible exception of John Diefenbaker.

Critics of Mr. Trudeau, especially Tory critics, may gain some reassurance from this military facet of Mr. Trudeau's experience and, perhaps, a partial explanation for his alacrity with the War Measures Act and the troops. The Tories have been even rougher in the past on Gerard Pelletier, Mr. Trudeau's close colleague, accusing him of republicanism.

I wonder if there'd be more kindness in them if they knew that he, too, just like Mr. Trudeau, served in His Majesty's forces during the war, in his case in the Royal Canadian Navy.

There's an odd difference in the matter of using the military in this crisis as between Quebec and Ontario.

You will remember that the troops first emerged dramatically in Ottawa.

This was on Monday, Oct. 12. They were not sent forward in Quebec to guard public buildings and aid the civil authorities until the following Thursday, a few days before the War Measures Act was proclaimed.

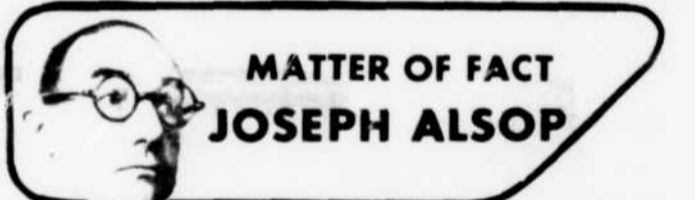

Mr. Trudeau made it clear that Mr. Bourassa had asked for the troops. The Quebec Premier confirmed this, explaining about the exhaustion of the police and the need for the troops to abet the civil power.

Such meticulous explanations are necessary, of course, because the relatively massive use of troops is an unusual occasion.

The authority for their use in Quebec was probably provided first under the National Defence Act, then under the War Measures Act.

The more specific authority is open to the Federal Government under the National Defence Act, Part XI, entitled Aid To The Civil Power.

Perhaps the reason for not continuing to use the National Defence Act may have been that it sets out rather strictly how the costs for such troops are to be paid by the civil power through arrangements with its provincial agent, the attorney general.

MATTER OF FACT
JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON — The fact that there is no renewed thunder of guns along the Suez Canal is being taken as a wonderfully good sign. But perhaps we should be more impressed by other sounds we do not hear — in this case, not because they are not real sounds, but because they are beyond the range of hearing. The shouted commands, the clank and bang of steel on steel, the hasty hammering that is always needed to complete a pontoon bridge — these are the sounds we do not hear, but only because they are out of hearing. They are caused by the intensive training Egyptian troops are now receiving, with the large quantities of additional canal-crossing equipment the Soviets have recently delivered in Egypt.

The main training area is the Birket Qarun, a big lake to the southwest of Cairo. Egyptian divisions are patterned on Soviet divisions, with their engineering units integral to each division. Thus the training is going forward by rotation, division by division. Besides pontoon-bridge training, there is also reported training on the mechanized rafts the Soviets have provided for the Egyptian army.

In this harsh world, it is always very foolish not to be prepared for people eventually doing what they are visibly preparing to do. In the present case, besides the Soviet delivery of canal-crossing equipment and the intensive Egyptian training on this equipment, there are other preparations for an eventual canal-crossing that must also be noted.

One is the roll-forward, in flagrant breach of Soviet and Egyptian promises to the United States, of the powerful missile weapons system now emplaced along the banks of the Suez Canal. Another is the forward movement into the canal-side strip, again in defiance of earlier promises, of the powerful 203 millimeter guns the Soviets have lately given the Egyptians. These guns' only imaginable purpose is to smash Israel's fortifications in the Bar-Lev Line.

These are more significant facts, by any rational test, than the fact that the Egyptians and their Soviet masters have been willing to extend the cease-fire, despite the Israeli refusal to begin talking. The worst of it is, moreover, that the missing pieces in the puzzle are even more unpalatable than the pieces that are already in place.

There is nothing puzzling, to begin with, about either side's decision to continue the cease-fire for another 90 days. Any week without fighting is a week gained for the Israelis. As to the Soviets and Egyptians, their practical interests were all on the side of waiting, at least for a while.

The Soviets need at least six months to sort out the new political situation created in Egypt by the death of Gamal Abdel Nasser. They also need at least six months — maybe more, in fact — to train the Egyptian army to use the new canal-crossing equipment they have now received. The continued cease-fire says nothing, in short, about the ultimate Soviet and Egyptian intentions.

The preparations for an eventual canal-crossing meanwhile speak volumes about those intentions. But here, the first missing piece in the puzzle immediately crops up. The Soviets cannot possibly be thinking about a canal-crossing, in fact, unless they are thinking about much more massive ultimate intervention in the Middle Eastern war.

This is because a canal-crossing, if successfully attempted, will immediately pit the Egyptian armor against the brilliant and terrible Israeli armor. No planner in his senses could think of such a thing without making further plans to give the Egyptian tanks the crucial advantage of air supremacy on their side.

Logically, therefore, if the Soviet-Egyptian preparations now going forward are not mere empty exercises, the Soviets must also be ready to assure air supremacy over Sinai when the time comes. This can only be done by staging into Egypt, and sending into combat over Sinai, enough additional squadrons of Soviet MIG-21s to beat down the tiny but superb Israeli air force by sheer weight of numbers.

Unless all that they are now doing is the sheerest bluff, the Soviets (or at least the Soviet general staff) must clearly be ready for this kind of further intervention. Otherwise, all else they are doing is sheerest lunacy.

As to the puzzle's other missing piece, it has to be deduced from the Israelis' intransigence. Unlike Americans, they have never deceived themselves about the dangers hanging over them. They must believe they have an ace in the hole, which they can use if worst comes to worst. So what we are perhaps talking about is a nuclear war!

COLUMN

WASHINGTON — I am happy to report that the people of the United States are no longer in a mental depression. They are now paranoid.

The day after the election, I ran into Roundtable, who was shaking visibly.

"What's the trouble, Roundtable?" I asked.

"I don't know what's going to happen. President Nixon and Agnew said if they didn't get a majority in the Senate and the House, there would be crime in the streets, violence on the campuses and pornography in every home."

"That was just political rhetoric, Roundtable," I said. "They didn't mean it."

"And the Democrats said if President Nixon remains in the White House, there will be a depression and all Americans will lose their jobs, their homes and their Social Security."

"You shouldn't believe everything you hear during a campaign, Roundtable. The party out of power always says the same thing."

"I don't want to die," cried Roundtable.

"You're not going to die."

"The Republicans said if they didn't win the election, President Nixon wouldn't be able to end the war in Vietnam or stand up to the Russians in the Middle East or the Cubans in the Caribbean."

"They were just trying to scare you into voting for them, Roundtable. It's part of the game plan."

"The Democrats said if they didn't win, we would all die of pollution or go bankrupt bailing out the Penn Central Railroad."

They were scrounging for issues, Roundtable. They didn't expect you to believe them."

"Why did the President stand up on his car in San Jose?" Roundtable said.

"I don't know why. He probably thought it was a good idea."

"I know why he stood up," Roundtable said. "He stood up because he was hoping they'd stone his car."

"I don't believe it."

"Well, one agent of the San Jose police said his car wasn't stoned."

"If he said that, then there's nothing to worry about, is there?"

"No, except that the Secret Service said his car was stoned, and the President went on television and told everyone he was stoned, and he said if we didn't elect the candidates he supported, we could expect more of the same from the anarchists in the country."

"The President was just trying to dramatize the point that there has been a breakdown of law and order in the country and the Democrats were responsible. That's fair comment during an election year."

"The Democrats said the Republicans purposely played a bad tape of the President's speech so the people would accuse the TV media of sabotaging the Nixon Administration."

"We don't know that for a fact though, do we, Roundtable?"

"No," he sobbed, "that's the trouble. We don't know anything for a fact. I'm scared."

"Look, friend, everyone gets frightened during an election year, but in a few weeks it will all be forgotten. We'll still have violence in the streets, student unrest, unemployment, pollution and trouble with the Russians, and it won't come up again until the presidential elections."

"That's why I'm scared," said Roundtable, shaking.

"How's that?"

"If this is the kind of stuff they're going to throw at us in an off-year election, what the hell are they going to do to us in 1972?"

Scrubber is answer to troubles

VANCOUVER (CP) — A boiler-maker's idea more than 20 years ago to scrub smoke with water may give industry an efficient, low-cost answer to air pollution problems.

Norman Gladu, 52, of Langley, B.C., was working for an Ontario pulp and paper company straddling the Canada-United States border when he first thought of the invention.

But he didn't give the Gladu Mark II fly-ash suppressor a test until this year. It worked.

The squat, black device was installed atop a smokestack at Scott Paper Ltd.'s New Westminster plant a few months ago.

Its basic function is to remove particulate matter—better known as fly-ash—from wood smoke.

The device and results of tests were unveiled at a recent news conference held by Scott Paper at its mill in New Westminster and Universal Pollution Control Systems Ltd., which leases the machine and installed it.

GOT THE RESULTS

Resources Minister Ray Wiliston, whose job it is to enforce pollution standards set by the British Columbia health department, watched the suppressor in operation and got results of the tests last month.

"As far as particulate fallout and emissions are concerned, the device certainly did the job," he said in an interview.

Mills would be told there are devices on the market to cut down fly-ash "so get with it if there are no prohibitive expenses," he said.

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark also had a look at the device and said it "will go a long way in clearing up our problem."

Both ministers said they were impressed by the simplicity of design and easy erection of the 3,200-pound device which sits over the smokestack on legs.

Smoke passes through it and is scrubbed by water, leaving an inky black sludge which would be fly-ash if it got into the air. The sludge runs down a pipe to a large collection and filtering tank and is trucked later to landfill sites.

UPCS, a private Vancouver company, was formed in September, 1969.

WELL WITHIN LIMITS

Doug Holme, Scott's director of manufacturing and an assistant vice-president, said smoke from the company's boiler stack was well within the limits of a New Westminster bylaw when Scott was approached by UPCS.

"These fellows came out here and said they had a heck of an idea," Mr. Holme said.

"We knew it was going to cost us a few bucks but we thought what the heck, let's give them a try."

The cost to Scott so far has been about $5,000 in addition to thousands of dollars worth of employee man-hours in liaison with UPCS.

Arctic gas reservoir find of the century

CALGARY (CP) — The Herald says a natural gas well burning out of control on King Christian Island in the Arctic has tapped one of the largest gas reservoirs ever found in Canada.

Although the assessment is subject to modification once the well is controlled, the paper said, it reflected the opinions of the petroleum experts who visited the site this week.

The well, 1,700 miles north of Edmonton, went out of control Oct. 25 and is marked by a 200-foot pillar of flame which can be seen from 120 miles.

Smaller flames within a 1,500-foot radius are burning natural gas which is escaping from fissures leading away from the drill hole.

An average of 42 million cubic feet of gas a day, driven by high pressures, is feeding the main flame, the paper said.

The well has tapped a formation about 20 miles by five.

The well was only a few feet into the formation which in other parts of the Arctic was up to 2,000 feet thick. How much of the formation bears gas was not known.

The paper says the find is so big pipeline engineers believe it justifies a 60-inch-diameter line larger than any now in operation in Canada, to bring the gas more than 2,000 miles to energy-deficient areas of the eastern United States.

A second rig being moved to the site it is to drill into the formation close to the wild well. Once the formation has been reached sea water will be pumped down in an attempt to drown the flow of gas.

The water will be brought by a nine-inch pipeline which is being built to the coast, 1-1/2 miles away.

GM buys Wankel licence

NECKARSULM, West Germany (AP) — The final contract has been signed between General Motors Corp. and Audi-Nsu Auto Union AG, Wankel-GmbH, and Curtiss-Wright Corp., granting GM non-exclusive world rights to the rotary-piston Wankel engine, Audi-Nsu announced Wednesday. It said GM's one-time licence fee, to be paid in instalments, would amount to about $40 million.

The contract entitles GM to produce and distribute rotary-piston engines based on the Wankel system for all types of engines except aircraft engines, Audi-Nsu said.

Obituaries

James R. Sangster

SHERBROOKE (CJ) — A resident of Sherbrooke for his entire life, which covered nearly a century, James R. Sangster died early Wednesday afternoon following a brief illness. He was 98.

Mr. Sangster, who had been associated with the printing business in Sherbrooke for more than 60 years, had been unusually active both physically and mentally until late this summer.

Mr. Sangster was born in Sherbrooke in 1871, the son of James and Isabella Sangster who had come out from Aberdeenshire, Scotland, five years previously.

In 1883 he entered the Sherbrooke High School, then known as the Boy's Academy, on a scholarship he had won upon graduating from the Old Central School on King Street.

He left the Academy before the end of his third year to enter the law office of Camirand, Hurd and Fraser. Later Mr. Sangster transferred to the legal firm of Hall, White and Cate. Here he spent a number of years before being appointed an official court stenographer.

Soon after this he became associated with the late E. J. Page in the printing business and in 1908 they formed the Page Printing and Binding Company.

This company, later reorganized as the Page-Sangster Printing Co. Ltd., has become one of the leading commercial printing establishments in the district. Mr. Sangster maintained his active interest in the firm until shortly before his death.

Mr. Sangster was keenly interested in community affairs and for several years served as a member of the Sherbrooke City Council representing a Centre Ward seat.

He was also a member of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club, the Sherbrooke Country Club, the Sherbrooke Fish and Game Club and a life member of the Sherbrooke Snow Shoe Club. An ardent curler he served as president of the Sherbrooke Curling Club.

At various times he also held the posts of chairman of the local branch of the Province of Quebec Society for the Protection of Fish and Game; president of the Sherbrooke Boy Scouts Association; president of the Sherbrooke Y.M.C.A. and a governor of the Sherbrooke United Church.

In religion, Mr. Sangster was an adherent of the United Church of Canada, holding many posts in the administration of Plymouth United Church.

Mr. Sangster was married in 1898 to Jennie H. Rugg, daughter of the late Dr. H. C. Rugg, of

J. R. SANGSTER

Stanstead. Mrs. Sangster predeceased him in 1924.

He is survived by a daughter, Alice, and a son, Frederick, who was associated with him in the printing business.

Massey-Vanier Regional ends successful fall

COWANSVILLE (SA) — The fall sports season at Massey-Vanier Regional High School was a busy time, and indications are that the winter activity will be fully as hectic.

Students participated in a variety of athletic pursuits, including soccer, cross country running and handball.

The boys' senior and junior soccer squads saw their first action Wednesday, Oct. 30, against Richmond Regional High School.

The seniors ran into a tough Richmond defence and were unable to come up with any offensive successes in dropping a 4-0 decision.

The junior team lost 4-1 as Darrell Cook scored the MVRHS goal. It tied the score 1-1 early in the contest, but Richmond came back for a 3-1 halftime lead and counted the only goal after the intermission.

Health, Physical Education and Recreation held a handball clinic at Massey-Vanier Nov. 4, and Jean Francois Ozoux, head of the Association for the Promotion of Handball in the Province of Quebec, led the instruction.

After viewing a film of a world championship game between Soviet and Japanese teams, those present were divided into teams to learn rules, strategy and scoring techniques as they played.

Physical education instructors from the elementary and high school levels attended.

Coach J Longtin was displeased with the officiating of the game and questioned the motives of the opposition.

"One does not expect to see girls kicking, shoving, elbowing, and tackling, to mention a few infractions, in a high school sport and — worse — getting away with it.

"Prior to the final goal with four seconds remaining, one of our players was literally picked up and dumped from behind with only the goalie in the way of the net."

GOLF

Golf, at least at the competitive level, was a new sport at Massey-Vanier this year.

After the qualifying round at the Cowansville Golf and Curling Club on Wednesday, Sept. 16, the school team competed in the provincial tournament Sept. 18.

Scores were:

Ken Poure	86
Rick Stowe	87
Paul Lippert	89
John Russel	90
Bob Rainville	94
Eddy Vogel	95

Reason for NFL subpoenas still shrouded in mystery

The National Football League acknowledged Wednesday that it has been asked by federal authorities to surrender certain documents but was unable to throw any further light on the wave of subpoenas that have been served around the circuit.

A majority of the 26 teams reported having been served federal grand jury summonses to appear in Cleveland at various times, beginning Nov. 17. Others said they knew nothing about the action.

The justice department in Washington declined details.

"It is reasonable to assume that all 26 of the clubs will be served with papers, although some may not have them yet," an NFL spokesman said.

"We honestly are in the dark. We have been asked to submit certain documents but that is all we know about it," he added.

There was a report late Tuesday that the subpoenas arose from an anti-trust action being brought against the league by a former defensive back of Cleveland Browns, Walter Beach, now a law student at Yale. But Beach denied it.

Sabres sign last holdout

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The National Hockey League's Buffalo Sabres signed their last holdout, centre Phil Goyette, Wednesday.

Goyette, an NHL veteran of 15 years, will report to the Sabres Friday and will play "as soon as he shows he can," a team spokesman said.

The 37-year-old centre was obtained by the Sabres from St. Louis in the expansion draft but balked at contract terms offered him. At St. Louis, he led the Western Division scorers with 79 points, including 29 goals.

Fergie to make comeback?

MONTREAL (CP) — Sam Pollock, general manager of Montreal Canadiens, said he will meet with recently-retired left winger John Ferguson today to discuss the latter's return to the National Hockey League.

The meeting follows published reports here Wednesday that Ferguson, who retired four days before the start of the NHL season, will be back in a Montreal uniform shortly.

Ferguson, 32, was in Laurel, Md., for Wednesday's 19th renewal of the Washington International. He had cited increased business interests and a desire to spend more time with his family as reasons for his retirement.

HANDBALL

The senior girls' handball squad met the Immaculate Conception School representatives in Granby Monday, Nov. 7, and came away with an 8-7 victory.

The first game of the season was a closely-fought battle all the way, but the Massey-Vanier teamwork was finely developed.

Lynne Lickfold led the winners with four goals, and Heather Dave had a pair. Lee Lickfold and Debbie Mullins contributed one score each.

The junior team visited Immaculate Conception Wednesday, Nov. 4, and dropped a 3-2 decision.

CROSS COUNTRY

At the Bishop's University Harrier Meet held Oct. 10 in Lennoxville, the MVRHS representatives finished third in the team standings behind the winning aggregation from Lindsay Place High School of Montreal and the runnerup Stanstead College squad.

Individually, Sandy Lenz of Massey-Vanier was the all-round winner of the event. Other individual placings were:

Terry Mullins	13th
Dave Lenz	17th
Ken Ladd	18th
Jim Peasley	19th

PROPOSED CUMLS

The Bedford district branch of CAHPER hopes to sponsor two clinics in the near future.

A badminton session is planned for late this month or early December, and a wrestling clinic is slated for Saturday, Dec. 5.

Everyone is welcome, whether he is interested in organizing community activity in either area or simply wants some familiarity with a sport some family member is pursuing.

Canadiens victimized by charging Golden Seals

Frank Selke Jr., general manager of California Golden Seals, foresaw a golden future for his team one night early this season after the Seals had blanked Buffalo Sabres 6-0.

The club was Oakland Seals at the time and the event took place during the National Hockey League's pre-season exhibition schedule.

But the immediate future was dismal for the financially plagued West-Coast club and a rather bleak picture was painted amid rumors of a possible move to more lucrative centres.

A change in name didn't help. Even brilliant new home uniforms had little effect on the Seals plunge to the NHL's West Division cellar with only two ties to show in their first nine games.

Suddenly, the tides have changed and the new-look Seals are currently the hottest NHL property, winning their next four starts—a club record.

Their latest victims, Montreal Canadiens, fell 2-0 as goaltender Gary Smith registered California's first shutout of the season.

STILL IN CELLAR

While their resurgence has yet to get them out of last place, the Seals are within two points of sixth-place Pittsburgh Penguins and within four of Los Angeles Kings and Minnesota North Stars, tied in fourth.

The North Stars tripped Los Angeles 3-1, Pittsburgh battled New York Rangers to a 3-3 tie, Chicago Black Hawks drubbed Philadelphia Flyers 7-1 and Vancouver Canucks dropped Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 in other scheduled games.

The only game tonight has Detroit Red Wings visiting St. Louis Blues.

At Oakland, the Canadiens, outshot 16 to 5 in the first period, applied pressure of their own late in the game in an effort to salvage some respect.

But goals by Gary Jarrett, his fourth of the year, and rookie Ernie Hicke stood up as Smith shut the door despite a concerted Montreal effort.

The loss dropped Montreal into third place in the East Division behind New York.

FIRST POWER-PLAY GOAL

Minnesota capitalized on a power-play for the first time this year and the occasion seemed to spur them to victory on the strength of first-period goals by Jean-Paul Parise and Jude Drouin at Bloomington, Minn.

The North Stars, who had failed on 41 previous tries this year to take advantage of the manpower edge, finally had their efforts rewarded with Drouin pulling the trigger 31 seconds after the Kings' Ross Lonsberry went off for hooking.

The Penguins were hard-pressed for their tie with third-period goals by Jean Pronovost and Wally Boyer enabling them to overcome a 3-1 Ranger lead in New York. Goals by Dave Balon and Ted Irvine 62 seconds apart in the second period had given the New Yorkers their two-goal cushion.

Dart League tournament a success

BOUNDARY (IH) — The Border Dart League held a most successful doubles tournament Friday evening, Nov. 6, at the Newport Legion Home.

Seventy-four players, perhaps a record, participated in the event which was won by Larry Smith and Bob Gosselin.

President Richard Reynolds presented the perpetual trophy to the champions to hold for a year.

Miniature trophies were presented to the winners and to runnersup David Cunningham and Andy Gosselin, while other high scorers also received awards.

Co-organizers of the competition were league president Reynolds and Dick Wing.

BOUNDARY (IH) — The Border Minor Hockey League has voted to join the Quebec Minor Hockey Association.

The decision was taken at the November monthly meeting of the league by a majority vote of the representatives from Rock Island, Stanstead, Beebe and Ayer's Cliff.

The clubs will pay a $2 registration fee for each player. The money will be assigned to the local league fund, of which Thomas Ritcher Jr. is treasurer.

A representative of the referees was also present at the meeting, and it was announced that referees and coaches will meet at the Legion Home in Stanstead on Nov. 23, at which time a chief referee will be elected. As such, he will be registered with the QMHA.

Roger Goodsell has undertaken to make arrangements for a baked bean supper at the Maples Hotel Sunday, Nov. 22. This affair will be open to the public and is designed as a benefit for the league treasury.

Shingles, Chicken Pox Caused by Same Virus

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have contracted the "shingles" and am in terrible pain. Would you please tell me what to do and how long it will last?

Dear Reader—"Shingles" are caused by the same virus that causes chicken pox. Characteristically, "shingles" or herpes zoster occurs in adults, although it can occur in children.

In most cases, the adult has previously had chicken pox. The virus may remain in a dormant state for years and then become active.

Usually a nerve root is involved. The inflamed skin is over the area where the nerve is located. The most common location is along the curvature of a rib. A nerve follows the course of the rib from the spine, half-way around the chest. The band of pain may exist for several days before any changes in the skin are noted. In this time interval the doctor often has trouble discovering the cause of the severe pain. Then a rash, such as that seen in chicken pox, occurs along the rib.

The period of acute pain usually lasts 10 to 21 days, but the area may be sore for some time thereafter.

Unfortunately, there is nothing that can be given to eliminate the condition except medicine to relieve pain, so the disease usually runs its course. Pain medicine and tincture of time are all that can be offered. If the skin gets infected, the infection has to be treated.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am 62 years old. Recently when I urinate I notice that I am passing blood. I have had prostatitis in the past and I have passed stones. I do not have any pain or hurt anywhere. Could it be cancer of the kidneys or prostate gland?

Dear Reader—Yes, it could. If it is painless bleeding it is probably not cancer. The only way you can find out the cause is from a complete examination. It is likely that the doctor will need to look into your bladder or do other studies to locate the source of the bleeding and its cause.

Don't wait. See your doctor right away since blood in the urine, particularly without pain, can be caused by cancer and, if that is the cause, the earlier you receive treatment the better. Regardless of the cause, you need treatment.

Ski boot and skate sale

WATERLOO — A rather novel idea on how to raise funds in order to purchase new school team uniforms has been instituted by Miss Connie Barr, the kindergarten teacher.

A ski boot and skate sale is planned in the school. Any parent or child with ski boots or skates that are too small or not in use, were asked to bring them to the school gym. They will be priced and exhibited for the sale itself on Friday, November 13.

There will be a 25 cent commission on each sale, and with the profits it is hoped that uniforms for the school can be purchased.

All interested parents and children are requested to go through their attics and closets and to make use of this service, as it certainly presents an opportunity to either get rid of surplus equipment, or to be in a position to buy much needed attractive at price.

Rumor has it that someone somewhere is giving us a lot of free publicity. You see, when we built our portable cassette tape recorders, we made sure they'd come in handy. So, in addition to the simple-to-work cassette tape recorder, we included an FM/AM radio. In one model, we even put a true FM stereophonic radio with separate speakers. In all of them, we put fast forward and fast rewind.

And automatic recording level indicators. Capstan Drive for constant speed and better sound. And almost all of them we built to work on batteries or house current. Anniversaries in the news

Silver wedding

St. Armand couple mark 25th Wedding Anniversary. On the occasion of the Silver Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon S. Wade of St. Armand, a reception was held in the Whitwell Hall, Philipsburg.

The event was arranged by a group of friends, and it was not until shortly before the event that they were told of the arrangements.

On their arrival, they were greeted with the singing of For They are Jolly Good Fellows and the Happy Anniversary song.

Peter Wade then presented his mother with a corsage of white carnations, and Mary Rutherford, pinned a boutonniere on her uncle Mr. and Mrs. Wade were escorted to the front of the hall by Mr. and Mrs. Royce Chamberlin to the strains of the wedding march.

They received congratulations from the many guests. Little Miss Judy Wendover presented Mrs. Wade with a bouquet of twenty five American Beauty Roses.

A tastefully arranged table was placed along the front of the hall with a background of greenery and large baskets of Autumn flowers. The linen covered table was centered with a three tiered silver trimmed Anniversary cake, flanked by tall silver tapers in crystal holders and autumn flower arrangements. Large and small silver "25's" were also used for decorations.

MONTREAL, November 12th — Have you joined the swing to convenient Pouch-Paks of MONARCH CAKE MIXES? I've found with Pouch-Paks of Monarch it's just a matter of deciding what size cake I want! For a 2-layer cake I simply use 2 Pouch-Paks and for 1-layer — 1 Pouch-Pak. These economical Pouch-Paks... rather than more expensive, bulky boxes... save me considerable money (and cupboard space). With Monarch I'm always sure of a light, moist cake... and because of a special ingredient Monarch has added, my cake stays moist the day after baking — and the day after that. DO YOU REALIZE that over 6 generations of Canadians — children and adults — have used DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY for relief of diarrhea? My own grandmother was a booster of Dr. Fowler's, and for a very good reason. Fowler's is a gentle, restorative formula, based on roots and herbs. It relieves nausea and cramps... and gently restores intestinal balance. Dr. Fowler's is not constipating, although it does act quickly. It has come to the aid of many a distressed mother after her children have over-indulged in food or play. For soothing relief from embarrassing, uncomfortable diarrhea, keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand.

WITH MANY OF OUR HUSBANDS working under pressure five days (and several evenings) a week, it is up to us to suggest ways for 'our man' to relax. Like taking the train when a business trip is planned. When he boards a CANADIAN NATIONAL train, there's no worry about bad weather... keeping his eyes on the road... traffic lights. With CN doing the driving, he can relax — stretch his legs — eat man-size meals when he feels like it. CN trains are really so comfortable and reliable that you know he'll arrive at his destination refreshed. And CN has special fares for family travelling that are most appealing, too!

SUCH A JOYOUS, FESTIVE SOUND... the "pop" of a cork, particularly when the wine you serve is Brights Canadian PRESIDENT CHAMPAGNE. Here's the brightest, liveliest, "bubblingest" wine you've ever tasted or served. Brights President Champagne is truly a celebrated wine for celebrating occasions. It's an outstanding wine that brings a dinner or a party to life... adds an extra glow to every happy occasion. Then, too, you'll find that planning a party on a budget (without the budget showing) is easy: Brights President Champagne is the answer... as inexpensive as it is delicious! And what better time to try it?

MOTHER HAD THE RIGHT IDEA when we were young and caught a cold... she put us to bed with a hot, soothing drink. Now NeoCitrin has brought that time-proven remedy for the miseries that accompany the common cold up-to-date. NeoCitrin comes in powdered form... and when added to hot water you have a steaming, delightfully lemon-flavoured drink. The important difference is that NeoCitrin contains special ingredients that quickly relieve your headache and reduce your fever. You sleep better... so you feel better. Make sure you have NeoCitrin on hand before that next cold strikes. At all drug counters.

weekly duplicate game. As usual Z is South with A and B holding the East-West cards.

The old auction experts put on a pretty good show of contract bidding today with Z winding up as declarer at four spades.

A made the normal opening lead of the king of hearts and B signaled with the nine. Z's long experience at dummy play made it easy for him to play the five spot without any indication that he was ducking. But the play didn't fool A in the slightest. A could tell that Z needed the ace of hearts in order to have an opening bid so that B's nine-spot play almost surely indicated the start of an echo with Z. Had some sound reason for ducking that first heart. What could it be?

After a moment of thought A was able to reconstruct Z's hand in its entirety. He had to hold six spades. With a seven-card suit he would have jumped when he rebid. With a five-card suit he wouldn't have made any immediate rebid. He had to be void of clubs so the ace of clubs would give him a place to park his third heart at some stage or other in the play. This left him with four diamonds.

Therefore, A continued with the queen of hearts. Z won and led his 10 of spades but A hopped up with the ace and led a third heart for B to ruff. A still had to make his king of diamonds and Z was one down.

Note that if A had led a low heart dummy would win the trick with the jack and Z would then discard his ace of hearts on the club ace and make his contract.

Precious treasures they did bring,

To honor Him, the newborn King.
