

Ormsdown Study Club Opens For Fall And Winter Sept. 11th

"Vocalists" Barber Shop Quartet from Montreal Opening Feature

Wednesday evening, September 11th, at 8 o'clock, the Ormsdown Study Club opens its regular fall sessions which continue each Wednesday evening until November 13th, when Achievement Night climaxes the weeks of study in various courses.

Opening night each year has always provided something of an entertaining rather than educational nature; possibly to provide contrast for the more serious studies to follow; and this year's opening promises an evening of genuine pleasure for young and old alike.

The feature attraction will be the appearance of the "Vocalists", a highly trained barber shop quartet from Montreal; members of the "International Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc.", an organization which provides yearly benefit performances for community enterprises, particularly those of a charitable, civic or patriotic nature.

It has been said, and with a great deal of truth, that there has never been an unsuccessful barber shop quartet concert, so that those who plan to attend the opening night of the Ormsdown Study Club can look forward to a musical treat. Opening Night has always been well attended by the public at large.

Also featured on the programme, it is hoped, will be the group of entertainers headed by Rupert Hawley which in itself is a guarantee of sheer enjoyment. The Ormsdown Band will also be heard in a number of musical selections.

Construction Of Bishop's Palace, Valleyfield Is Nearly Completed

The Directors of the Diocesan Fund, responsible for the fund raising campaign organized in September and October of 1956, met a few days ago to view the progress of the construction of the new Bishop's residence at Valleyfield. This new home is located near the Valleyfield Cathedral.

Last Fall, industrialists, business men and the faithful and friends in the diocese of Valleyfield subscribed the sum of $380,000 to help in the construction of "The Father's House". Of this amount, $380,499.00 was received in cash. This means that pledges by the dioceses, part of which will be due in September 1957, aggregated $278,595.00.

Those present were Messrs. Paul Charette, general chairman; Maurice Lapointe, Eric Leduc and Jean-Claude Lefebvre, Messrs. Adrien Cholette and Clifford Foley were detained elsewhere.

After visiting the new Bishop's residence, Mr. Charette stated that "the faithful of the Valleyfield Diocese will have every reason in the world to be proud of the new Bishop's residence. It is modern in structure and appearance and will render timely services to the members of the clergy and all the faithful."

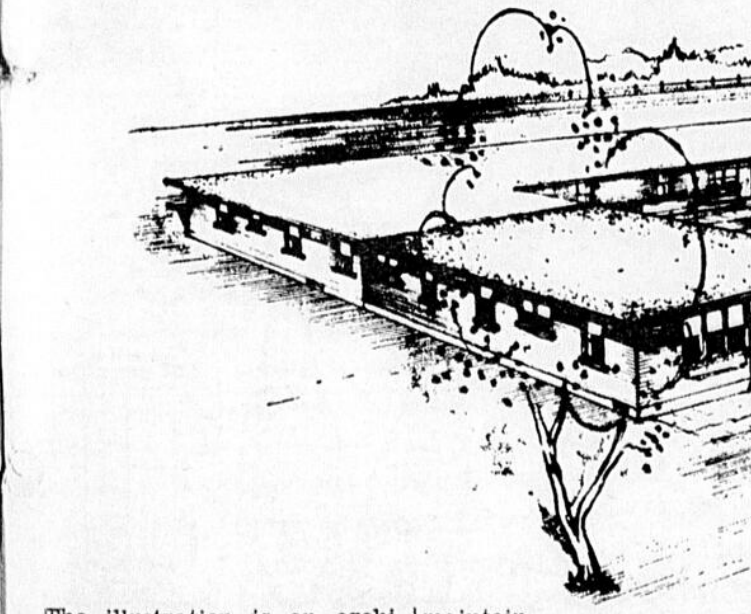

Commenting on the generous gestures of the industries in the district and elsewhere, Mr. Charette admitted that "we were deeply touched by their contributions. Furthermore, we earnestly hope and believe that the

Canadian W.I.'s Contribute Large Sum

Canada topped the list of contributors of UNESCO Gift Coupons for model centres to help the Lanka Mahila Samiti (Women's Institutes) with its work for the rural villages of Ceylon.

This item appears in the Federated News publication of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, in its recent issue on the "Triennial Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, held this summer in Ceylon. It is quoted from a report prepared by Miss Rose Duce, Women's Editor, Western Producer, Saskatoon, one of the Canadian delegates to the Conference.

Miss Duce goes on to say that Canadian Women's Institutes had given $14,575. Total contributions from all constituent societies of the ACWW amounted to $33,040.

While in Ceylon, delegates had an opportunity to see some of the model centres. Splendid work is being done and the Lanka Mahila Samiti are deeply grateful for the assistance Canada has given.

First Can. Polled Herefords Exported To England Last Thursday

Last Thursday morning, August 29th, some 24 head of Polled Herefords were shipped to England on the M.V. "Calgarian". These animals came from herds at Barrie and Orangeville, with 19 of them coming from the farm of B. B. Warnica and Son of Palmwick.

The shipment was purchased by Frederick J. Honour, of East-leach, Cirencester in Gloucestershire and Richard Jopson, Manager of the Home Farm, Little Gaddesden, Berkhamsted, Hertfordshire, a farm owned by Cooper, McDougall and Robertson Ltd.

The shipment consisted of 23 heifers, yearlings and heifer calves and one yearling bull. All are about 20 months old. All are American bred cattle, as the calves are from the females imported from the United States in 1954.

Two trucks of R. Bruce Ness & Son brought the animals to Montreal from Barrie.

Murray Warnica is the son-in-law of R. Bruce Ness and is the fourth generation of the Warnica family in the cattle business. His great-grandfather, John L. Warnica brought the first purebred Herefords into Simcoe County before the Canadian Livestock Association began their cattle registry.

Accompanying the shipment to England is Mr. B. B. Warnica.

School Opened Today With Large Enrolment, Full Staff

School opened this morning for the Huntingdon High School, with a possible enrolment of 450 pupils not counting those in kindergarten. It is expected that Grade one will have 60 pupils this year and this will be divided into two classes under the direction of Mrs. S. Ruddle and will be based in the lunch room. A partition is being put in the lunch room for it will also have to accommodate a part of Grade one.

All the High School grades will be in the old building this year. Grade 10 will be in the room formerly occupied by Grade one. Grades 8, 9 and 11 will be upstairs and the lab will be used a great deal of the time as a classroom. Much more blackboard space will be required for the High School grades. Six rooms in the new part have been painted and decorated giving them a much brighter and improved appearance.

The teachers met on Tuesday to check over the arrangements for their classrooms and take a preview of the year's work ahead. It is expected that as several

Only two complaints were registered against the assessments and after reading the tax roll and considering the complaints, it was decided there would be no changes made. At a later meeting a new tax rate will be decided and set for the ensuing year.

It was decided that K. M. Ferns should be given the contract to supply fuel oil for the Fire Station this season.

A grant of $1,000 was decided upon for the Barrie Memorial Hospital in connection with the campaign to raise $80,000 which is starting this month. This sum will be paid over a period of three years.

In connection with the Public Bill which the Town is applying for, it was required that the town be zoned for wards. After discussion it was decided to divide the town into three wards. This would be done in this way: Chateaugay Street from east and west limits and that section south including Garden City, would be one zone. Dalhousie would be the dividing line between zones for the east and west. That is all that part of town east of Dalhousie from Chateaugay Street to the Ridge Road would be another zone.

Welcome Rain On Monday Brings Relief

While the rain on Monday, Labor Day, may have marred some outside events and perhaps curtailed the holiday of some citizens, it was the most welcome in many a long day. This summer has been particularly dry and pastures and wells were at the point where they could not take much more of it. The rain was general over a wide area and continued throughout most of the day and night until early Tuesday morning.

The majority of farmers had completed harvest operations and the yield and quality of the crops is reported as excellent. However, many farmers were becoming a little worried on account of the burnt out pastures and wells being lowered by the drought.

Several bad bush fires have been raging and those fighting these fires have hoped for rain to help hold them in check, if not actually to put them out. There is no doubt that Monday's rain will have helped to do this and the danger in the Ormsdown Howick areas should be subdued.

Several other farm fires have occurred during the dry spell and no cause could be given for the start of these fires, but they might be attributed to dry, hot weather of the past months. It is hoped that the rain will provide that needed moisture for pastures and other seeded areas and revive them before colder weather sets in.

Louise Sauve Wins Popularity Contest Ormsdown Boys' Club

A much needed rainfall was rather welcome at Ormsdown on Monday since it completely ruined plans for the Boys' Club for a carefully prepared Parade. However this parade was held on Tuesday night and attracted a large number of spectators.

The floats depicted scenes from olden days of Ormsdown and District, including "Elopement", "Incorporation", "Village School" etc. It was obvious that a great amount of work had been put into the floats and certainly those working have a good feeling of great achievement.

It was possible however to have the softball tournament which was played inside the arena. 16 teams were originally entered and three teams defaulted. Preliminaries were played Woodland vs Balmoral, Hotel Valleyfield vs Balmoral, Hotel Valleyfield and Chateau Salaberry vs Howick with Balmoral and Howick emerging in the quarter finals.

Ormsdown Merchants opposed Beauharnois with a win for Ormsdown and Massena defaulted to Maple Grove.

Maple Syrup - Harvesting It Is A Sweet Little Business In Vermont

by Charles M. Wilson

BRATTLEBORO, VT. — Having just harvested a bumper crop, boasting the largest proportion of fancy-grade syrup in history, the Vermont maple industry is taking a new lease on life these days. It also is assuming a financial pattern quite different from that of only a few years ago. Today, many small corporations play an increasingly important role in the business, supplementing the efforts of individual farmers and of the diversified national concerns like General Foods and Penick & Ford.

The new lease on life stems from a 1957 harvest well above the average for the 'fifties. Washington estimates it at approximately 800,000 gallons, while the Vermont Department of Agriculture, after an exhaustive survey, tallies 616,400 gallons for commercial sale. The latter figure is 182,900 gallons more than the previous year. But more significant than the size of the crop is the unprecedented proportion — 85% — which qualified as Fancy or Grade A. Both are premium ratings requiring the very highest flavor standards. No more than 10% went as sugar or flavor stock, for which uses quality is less important. Grade B, somewhat darker and stronger than Grade A, fell to an all-time low of barely 5%. Until recently, qualifying even half of the maple syrup as Grade A was regarded as a remote hope for the little industry built on the nation's oldest sweet.

Several factors have been at work in nearly doubling the percentages of Fancy and Grade A syrup in recent years. There have been rapid technical advances, a determined effort to educate producers and consumers alike, increased activity by producers' associations, and the establishment of grading standards by state law. The cause is being helped along, too, by a new kind of maple census, pioneered three years ago in this state, and involving the work of 240 specially qualified reporters.

The industry's new financial pattern is based on a drastically revised concept of marketing, accentuating the premium-grade product. By this means, one small state with only 5 million acres of land, classed mostly as submarginal, and barely 2,000 farms listed as commercial producers of maple, substantially dominates the national and, in fact, international, markets for top-quality maple syrup. The significance far exceeds the $4 million current value of Vermont's No. 3 crop (after dairy products and poultry). For the same sort of financial problems occur in premium-grade processing, marketing and maintenance of quality in many other lines.

Canadian marketing, then, is geared to the requirements of a bulk commodity. It is a big business involving major food processors both in Canada and the U.S., and financial structures generally similar to those which prevailed in Vermont half a century ago, when the product was definitely a bulk producer.

Some major U.S. food companies, as already noted, still play a role in Vermont's maple sugar industry. At the other end of the scale, there are today about 300 Vermont farmers selling their own maple wares directly to the public, under state-approved labels and grading regulations. And it is the state's proud boast that since 1949 only one maple producer has been prosecuted and punished (by a $200 fine for violating the grade standards. Coming into increasing prominence, meanwhile, are a number of small corporations engaged in processing maple syrup. Currently 16 of these concerns are to be found on the state's corporate roster. Their authorized capitalizations range from a low of $5,000 to a high of $310,000.

The common stocks of these companies trade over the counter on a pretty intermittent basis. As yet, none of them are listed on a major exchange but four brokerage firms in this state report sales of their shares within the past year. New stock in these concerns is offered only when corporation officials (in the state they are the principal stockholder) feel that expansion or a strengthening of capital is required.

Boys' Clubs of Canada

DURING the past few weeks, The Gleaner has been publishing articles about the Ormstown Boys' Club and its Annual Labour Day Celebrations in Ormstown.

The Boys' Club is an organization whose trust is to make each and every boy and girl a decent citizen.

- 1. A BELIEF that it is more saving of a boy to prevent him from getting into trouble than it is to treat, or correct, or punish.
2. A REALIZATION that, although children from all kinds of neighbourhoods and backgrounds can and do become delinquent, it is usually boys from less-chance areas who cause the most concern.

3. A CONVICTION that broken, or overburdened, or inadequate homes are a major cause of delinquency.

4. AN UNDERSTANDING that just as there are multiple causes of delinquency, so there are multiple ways in which children can be helped to become decent members of society.

5. AN ACCEPTANCE OF LIMITATIONS which means that the Boys' Club cannot be "all things to all people."

6. AN ACKNOWLEDGEMENT of the principle that "we do those things together which we cannot do as effectively and efficiently alone."

People might say that that is all very good, but how do the Boys' Club institute these beliefs into boys so that they become decent citizens of Society.

The Clubs in the various cities and towns work to achieve these beliefs by what is known as "THE TEN STEPS TOWARD JUVENILE DECENCY". For example, one of the steps is "EACH BOY COUNTS". This means that a young boy comes into contact with the Club, is acquainted with the facilities offered, while adult experts at the same time study the lad.

The Ormstown Boys' Club is composed of a number of community minded adults who help and guide nearly 200 children in Ormstown, the year round.

The Executive of the Ormstown Boys' Club have had a long hard time in making ends meet, but they all have one satisfaction; they have and still are having the privilege of helping the youngsters of Ormstown become better citizens and thereby reducing delinquency in the community.

Other communities should study this organization, for no matter how big or how small the town is, there are children who do need guidance, and need it badly, so that they can become better citizens in the world tomorrow.

Why don't you do something today, you will be helping some one else, your child, or a strange boy, to become interested in creative and active recreational programs and eventually become a more sound and stable citizen of tomorrow.

The Campaign For Barrie Memorial Hospital

THIS hospital has not launched a campaign for raising funds since the one that was conducted when the present hospital building was erected. Funds have been received in the way of donations, Annual Memberships, Life Memberships, etc., from time to time, but such money has been used in the general operating of the Hospital, according to the designation attached.

The campaign that is now underway is with the idea of raising a minimum sum of $80,000. Part of this will be used to clear off the indebtedness spoken of and part will be used to complete the Motel residence to accommodate more of the nursing staff.

The sum asked for should not be too difficult to raise if the people will co-operate in the same way as they did in the original campaign. Canvassers will shortly be calling on everyone and it is hoped that they will give as generously as possible.

Its record speaks for it and we feel we have no need to expound its merits. We believe that everyone will be willing to do his share to the best of his ability in this campaign and thus make it another outstanding success for our district.

86th Annual Havelock Fair

SEPTEMBER has arrived and so has the 86th Annual Havelock Fair, of the Huntingdon Agricultural Society, Division B. In the past, this popular Fair has been held on Wednesdays, but this year, on an experimental basis, the Fair will be held on Saturday, September 7.

As in the past, Havelock Fair has been very popular with many of the residents of Chateaugay and Huntingdon Counties. Some might call the Fair, a gigantic Farmer's Picnic, but certainly it is also a fair and a good cattle exhibition. Three breeds of cattle will be competing for the many prizes offered this year, Ayrshires, Holsteins and Jerseys. There are also classes for light and heavy horses, sheep, etc., as well as numerous competitions for domestic displays including fruits, vegetables, sewing, cooking, etc.

There will be plenty of fun for young and old and it is hoped that Mother Nature will again be favourable and produce a nice sunny, warm day as she has done in the past. We hope that the Havelock Fair will be a very successful one and shows others that Country Fairs can still exist and be a financial success as well as beneficial to an agricultural community.

Back to School

THE long summer vacation is over, the Labour Day holiday is over too, so once more summer is past. Boys and girls go back to school and a new school year is on its way. That new crop of youngsters will be attending school for the first time and will be starting on their first step toward an education.

Teachers will be returning to the task of teaching the pupils for another year. Some will have a class of new faces, while others will be back with well known youngsters. New teachers will be wondering about their reception both by the pupils and the community. Some will be new to the job and their anxiety will be even greater.

Parents too will have their worries, some of them will be starting their child for the first time. Will he behave himself in school and do what the teacher wants. Will he be able to look after himself, put on his clothes and not get into fights with the other children. Will he be sure to come home with the other children, or shall I have to go and bring him home. Until the child has been a few times and proved that he can look after himself, the parent will be watching every minute he is a little behind time.

Then a word to the motorist, watch out for these children as they go to and from school. Slow down near schools in your town. Don't pass the stopped school buses in either direction. You may have a child at school too — you need not be a parent, it may be your brother, or sister. What would you think if a motorist knocked your brother or sister, because he was careless? You would have plenty to say. But remember, if you do such a thing, the other fellow would have plenty to say too. It works both ways — but there is only one remedy — that is drive carefully, obey the rules, be safety conscious.

Looking Back Along the Trail

"ECHOES OF THE PAST"

A Voice From Long Ago.

When gold was discovered in British Columbia the news revived the attacks of gold fever which had followed like furies in Australia and California. Thousands were anxious to go and try fortune, but were forced to remain at home by the difficulty of communication.

The journey by Panama and up the Pacific coast to Victoria was then both dangerous and costly. Exaggerated reports of the Cariboo finds induced a few ardent spirits to propose crossing the continent, and in the spring of 1862 a party was formed to make the journey.

The Executive of the Ormstown Boys' Club have had a long hard time in making ends meet, but they all have one satisfaction; they have and still are having the privilege of helping the youngsters of Ormstown become better citizens and thereby reducing delinquency in the community.

Round Byre AND Ring

BY FRANK NAPIER

The weather seems to be about the one and only topic of conversation these days, at least the chief one. At this time of writing, Friday, August 30, the drought was still continuing and the rains seem to have circled all around, but never landed in this district.

Unfortunately, however, the pastures have taken a "licking" and we hear that in some instances (Continued on page 9) grain, now mostly harvested, is turning out exceptionally well. Also that a great many farmers will have been able to silage their corn, before same has been "post-bit", as often happens.

Unfortunately, however, the pastures have taken a "licking" and we hear that in some instances (Continued on page 9)

One wonders when the C.B.C. will get help to itself, discard the burlesque style of weather reporting, and get to just giving a brief report of the weather.

The Crop Situation It would appear that most people were able to harvest an excellent crop of hay; that the Letter to the Editor

Howick Station, Que. August 26, 1957. Huntingdon Gleaner Inc.

Dear Sir, It has been pointed out in the Gleaner that the Chateaugay River is not as clear as it could be. I think that it should be pointed out that the river is polluted because the people living in the towns and along the river are unwilling to undertake the responsibility of cleaning up the river and keeping it clean.

I have found the fishing this summer very poor. This summer a small creek flowing into the Chateaugay River between Ormstown and Howick suddenly turned black and began to stink. In a distance of less than a quarter of a mile more than SIX HUNDRED dead fish were counted.

If something is not done soon the pollution will reach a point where fishing and swimming will be condemned. It is so bad that swimming is not recommended now and in some cases there have been objections to the cattle drinking the water. It would be another big loss to the farmer if the water was condemned for the cattle.

Let us get busy and do something now. Robert Hope.

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA. — (CP) — Canada's mountains of farm-stored grain and what's to be done about the cash position of the Prairie farmer was the main domestic item in the nation's capital as Prime Minister Diefenbaker left no doubt that the wheat problem is very much in his mind.

The Prime Minister announced after a cabinet meeting that he will press ahead with his election promise to grant farmers advance payments on the grain they find it difficult to sell. He said he will bring his cash advance proposal before Parliament soon after it opens on Oct. 14.

In the meantime, he announced his government is renewing the old system of government-guaranteed loans with farm-stored grain as security. And the interest rate is to be held at five per cent despite the general rise in rates in the last few years.

Stop-Gap Move Prime Minister said he realizes that provision of bank loans won't meet all the problems of the prairie economy. But he was proclaiming the measure as a stop-gap until parliament could act.

The Prime Minister gave no details, but Trade Minister Churchill said later that the government is thinking primarily about wheat. Consideration would be given later to extending the advances to other grains.

Some farmers have suggested the payment be $1 a bushel. With more than 300,000,000 bushels of wheat already in storage on farms and the possibility this may swell to 600,000,000 bushels by fall, a $1 a bushel advance could mean the government would have to find some $600,000,000, probably through loans.

But it is thought here to be unlikely that the government will provide such a huge amount. What may be proposed is an advance for a smaller proportion of the grower's total holdings, perhaps of less than $1 a bushel.

The government also has set up a three-man cabinet committee to consider all problems relating to an accelerated sales program to dispose of at least some of Canada's huge wheat stocks. These were placed by the Bureau of Statistics at an unprecedented 723,000,000 bushels some 143,000,000 bushels higher than a year ago.

Wheat will be high on the agenda when Canadian and American ministers meet in Washington in the third conference in four years of a joint committee set up in 1953. The eight-member committee is designed to settle privately any developing Canadian-U.S. problems before they lead to public recriminations. It is learned the Washington meeting has been set for Oct. 7.

Wheat is one such Canadian-U.S. problem. Prime Minister Diefenbaker already has charged the U.S. wheat give-away program is a "fire sale" disposal. He has said the U.S. was abrogating the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade by tying wheat purchases to later purchases of other American goods.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming, Agriculture Minister Douglas Young, Trade Minister Gordon Churchill and Justice Minister Davie Fulton will be going to Washington for the discussions. Prime Minister Diefenbaker will be in the U.S. capital later.

Boost For Housing The government's new $150,000,000 housing loan fund is to be aimed at construction of modest homes of two, three and four bedrooms and buyers will be able to take up to 30 years to pay instead of the usual 25-year period.

Works Minister Green disclosed this in an interview in giving details of the fund which the government hopes will spur Canada's lagging housing construction.

The immediate effect, the minister felt, would be to relieve the short supply of mortgage funds and increase the number of jobs available during the winter months in the house construction and allied industries. Interest rate on the new loans will be six per cent. The minister said the new funds will finance the building of some 15,000 homes in the low-price field. Rental housing loans will also be considered where the moderate rental housing for the area concerned.

Optimistic Surveys The Gordon Royal Commission which eventually will bring down a massive report forecasting what things will be like economically in Canada in 1980, issued three more studies during the week. They were concerned with fisheries, transportation and the service industries. All were fairly optimistic about the Canadian picture 25 years from now.

The fisheries study was by the Fisheries Research Board. It foresaw fish, with a higher cash value, being caught by fewer and more mechanized in the fishing industry. It envisioned the present fishing force of some 80,000 dropping to some 67,000; the live catch increasing from some 2,100,000,000 pounds to some 2,900,000,000 pounds and prices going up.

The only dark spot foreseen was the plight of small fishermen in isolated Atlantic communities whose productivity and income is low. Elsewhere, particularly in the well-established

Pacific coast fishing industry whose salmon take alone is worth close to $50,000,000 a year, things looked pretty bright for the future.

Atomic Ships? The transportation study was by Jean C. Lessard, former deputy Minister of Transport and now vice-president of the St. Lawrence Seaway authority. This transportation expert saw major technological advances taking place in Canadian transportation during the next 25 years.

Mr. Lessard didn't see any new forms of transportation evolving but said much greater efficiency from those now in operation is a certainty.

Nor did he foresee any likelihood of applying atomic energy to commercial use in transportation except that it probably would eventually find its way into use in water transport. This, he said, would reduce machinery weight and fuel weight of ships and enhance the general efficiency of water transportation.

The study of service industries by the Bank of Montreal, forecast those who provide services for their fellow Canadians such as shop clerks, waitresses, government employees, bank workers etc., probably would increase from the present 2,000,000 to 4,675,000.

Band Notes

The mass band concerts at Malone and Huntingdon the past week were enjoyed by a good number of people from both sides of the border. When combined the two bands lack little in being able to present excellent entertainment for music lovers.

The first mass concert was scheduled for August 27th in Huntingdon. On that day, however, Doug McGerrigle, President of Huntingdon Citizens' Band received word that the Malone Band would be unable to appear due to the death that day of Bandmaster Beauvais' sister. The local band assembled and played a two-hour concert that was well received.

Huntingdon Band joined Malone Band Thursday evening of the past week at Arsenal Green on Main St. The first half of the concert was played by Huntingdon and the remainder by Malone. A good number of Huntingdon soloists were intermingled in the crowd that turned out for this last band concert in Malone for the season. Ted Desnoyers conducted the Malone band in the absence of Bandmaster Beauvais. The American band featured a soloist who has an audition this week on the Arthur Godfrey Show - his renditions of "My Wild Irish Rose" and "O Danny Boy" will linger a while in the memories of all who had the pleasure of hearing the young baritone. A trumpet player or who plays in a college band during school term and who is heard at various North Country night spots during summer vacation also provided solid enjoyment in his solo in the overture, "In A Monastery Garden" which Malone Band is well known for rendering in a superb manner, was a pleasure to hear.

Huntingdon Bandmen were entertained at the Am-Vets Club following the concert. Last evening (Tuesday) the mass bands assembled in Prince Arthur Square in Huntingdon and again all who availed themselves of the opportunity were rewarded with a fine band concert. A number of familiar faces in the Malone Band have been replaced by younger men in the last couple of years but a good number of acquaintances were renewed during intermission.

Don Payne, announced for station WICY, Malone, N.Y., acted as master of ceremonies on both occasions. He said their soloist sent his regrets that he could not attend. As mentioned, the lad is in New York this week. Don announced that the soloist would be seen on TV Thursday on the Arthur Godfrey Show and hoped his Canadian friends would tune in.

Jimmy Doud conducted the Malone band in the absence of Mr. Beauvais. As the band stand was much too small for the combined bands, a semi-trailer was loaned by C. J. Kyle on which the percussion and several of the bass horn players played from. A large crowd was on hand and a varied program of marches, popular songs, light classical and hymn tunes was played "Muskrat Rumble" and "South Rampart", two swing numbers proved the highlight of the evening and certainly appealed to the "Rock 'n Roll" enthusiasts.

Mrs. B. F. Brown of Garden City was in attendance. Her late husband was a member of both bands for a number of years and was held in the highest respect by all. The late Mr. Brown's instruments were being in use at the concert, one having been donated to Malone Band and the other to Huntingdon Band.

The Popularity Queen received several prizes including a week-end trip to New York and a day at Knopp's of the Mount Royal (Beauty Parlour). Runners-up in the Contest Misses Jeannine Chartrand and Marie Parent, were presented with brochures by the Committee.

Mrs. J. O. Brocklehurst of the Ormstown Boys' Club thanked everyone for the support of the Softball Tournament and Field Day. Though the day was not too successful as far as the weather was concerned, the day was a reasonable financial success for the Boys' Club. Over 400 adults paid admissions for entry into the grounds during the day time. The Boys' Club Canteen was well patronized with most of its commodities being sold out.

The Committee of the Ormstown Boys' Club would like to take this opportunity to thank those who worked hard to make the day a success.

Powerscourt

POWERSCOURT — Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lafond were Mr. and Mrs. Delore Robidoux of Sherbrooke, Que. After spending the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lafond, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Crushon and three children returned to their home in Sherbrooke.

Harvesting in this community is now completed and farmers are thankful for an abundant crop of hay, growing and drying. On their Monday's rain, after weeks of drought, was very welcome.

Bell Telephone's present general level of rates became effective on March 1, 1952. Since that time, the company's application to the board states, wage and other costs have risen substantially, and operating expenses have increased more rapidly than operating revenues. Until 1957, these higher costs were largely offset by the introduction of more efficient equipment and methods, reductions in corporation income tax rates, and improvements in non-operating revenues.

In 1957, the application continues, further increases in the cost of providing service have occurred, reducing the company's net income to an inadequate level. Estimates for 1958 indicate further deterioration to such an extent that the requirement for dividends will not be met from present rates.

To serve its present customers, meet the public's telephone needs, and constantly improve its service, the company states that it must continue with its large expansion program. This expansion, it estimates, will be substantially higher in the five years 1957-1961 than it was in the previous five, and requirements for investor capital will be higher. The company states that its earnings must be sufficient to support and justify this high level of capital investment.

The higher corporation income tax rate effective this year and higher municipal taxes. The higher costs associated with the raising of its highly estimated citizens, Mrs. Alfred Greig, on Thursday, August 22, 1957.

Born at Ormstown in February, 1880, she was the second daughter of the late Archibald McCormick and his wife Ellen Chisholm. She was united in matrimony with Alfred Greig on October 18, 1905, and lived on their farm at Cairnside until 1942 when they retired to Ormstown.

Mrs. Greig could always be depended upon to very capably perform any task undertaken in the many societies to which she belonged. She was a former Sunday School teacher and an active member of St. Paul's Women's Association, having been secretary for 10 years, as well as a very active member on the work committee of the W.M.S., which made her a Life Member some years ago.

She was an ardent worker in the W.C.T.U. both for County and the local union of which she was the present secretary. A life member of Quebec Women's Institutes, she ably filled the office of secretary-treasurer of the Howick Branch for 17 years.

Her family and friends have truly lost a friend who did much to make life worth living for all who knew her.

The Future Of Honore Mercier Bridge By Seaway Plans

Through the kindness of the Dominion Bridge Company, Limited, of Montreal, we are able to present to our readers an idea of what will be done at Honore Mercier Bridge as required by the plans of the St. Lawrence Seaway. The sketch which accompanies the article will further explain what is to be done. It has been hard for the average citizen to know what was planned, but we feel this will make it much clearer. There is no doubt but what it is a gigantic undertaking and one which will require much engineering skill to complete it. Yet it is but a very small part of the whole.

The main object of this project is to provide a system of approach which will carry traffic without interruption over the new Seaway canal, which is parallel to and south of the St. Lawrence River) from the Mercier Bridge in Ville LaSalle to all south shore highways leading to original approach between the bridge and highways to the south. This was entirely demolished during May 1957. Traffic (which is now being carried on a diversion roadway south of point A and installed before the old approach spans were demolished) will be maintained with a minimum of interruption.

The new approach system is made up of three branches. The main branch ABCD is a 4-lane thoroughfare, connecting the Mercier Bridge with Highway 9C, which leads to points south and east. As the sketch shows, the main canal crossing represented by BC is quite high above grade. A clearance of 120 ft. is required between the underside of the crossing and the water surface to permit the passage of canal shipping. The other branches of the approach system C to E and C to G handle traffic between the bridge and highways leading to the south and west. Each branch holds two lanes and passes over the main C.P.R. line shown. Branch C to E handles traffic away from the bridge, while branch G to C handles the return traffic, passing over the main branch at point X.

Maple Syrup

Stock activity seems to occur most frequently during the summer and early autumn, when the maple candy business reaches its seasonal peak, and capital for the Christmas business in fine syrup is in greatest demand. In keeping with the traditional reticence of Vermonters, none of these concerns yet has made public distribution of an annual report. Nonetheless, these relative newcomers are writing an interesting chapter in the continuing story of Vermont's maple industry.

ing of the George C. Carey Maple Co. of St. Johnsbury, now a subsidiary of the Hotel Corp. of America. George Carey was a wholesale grocery salesman from Portland, Maine, assigned to upstate Vermont. Back in 1904, a recalcitrant country storekeeper agreed to buy from him only if permitted to pay with 1,500 pounds of locally milled maple sugar. Carey accepted, and then faced the problem of disposing of the sugar. From a salesman, Carey learned that plug tobacco normally are cured with sugars. Diplomatically, the Yankee peddler maneuvered to swap his unwelcome bin of maple sugar for the tobacco firm for several cases of "cut plug," which in turn he managed to sell. Having developed a bulk market in the giant tobacco industry, George Carey pursued his advantage. He founded the Vermont Maple Co., which for four decades handled approximately half of all the maple products of the area. While developing a backlog market in the tobacco industry, Carey ventured into the national sale of fancy-grade syrup. He experimented, too, in flavor and sugar stock for now-famous blended syrups, such as General Food's Vermont Maid and Penick & Ford's Log Cabin. Finally, his company pioneered in the candy and confectionery trade.

United concentrates on packaging and marketing Pure Vermont Maple Syrup

The latter concern keeps active both the Carey label and the big home plant at St. Johnsbury. In 1956, despite one of the shortest maple crops of the decade, "Old Carey" bought, processed and distributed approximately 2 million pounds of maple, almost 40% of the entire Vermont crop. Market studies made by the Vermont Department of Agriculture indicate, however, that barely one-third of the Carey tonnage is now from Vermont sources.

American Maple Products Co., Inc.

of Newport, formerly Vermont Maple Products, Inc., has authorized capital of $200,000, with $80,000 currently outstanding. As of the end of 1956, the concern's assets amounted to $251,936, and net earnings for the year came to about 7.8% on the capital. Here again, 1957 prospects are bright, because of a 60% increase in new crop gallonage, a Fancy and Grade A ratio estimated at 90%, and well-established trade names, such as Old Colony, Green Mountain, and Maple Dale. An eventual increase in capitalization is probable.

Then there is Brown's River Maple Products Co., Inc.

of Jericho. This concern, which handles about 12,500 gallons of maple syrup a year, is the creation of George N. Woodruff, who was crippled by polio 30 years ago. Despite this handicap, he operated the local store successfully for 12 years, and then, still from a wheelchair, learned how to make maple candy. By 1943 he was producing about 10,000 pounds of fine candy per year, and to the surprise of some of his neighbors, selling it.

Distant Markets

For the maple industry in general, in terms of dollars as well as physical production, prospects are favorable for further growth. The Maple Growers Association is receiving support

Production techniques, too, are being improved.

In a drive to standardize the most crucial job in maple making — boiling away some 97% of the sap's original water content, the state's Bureau of Markets is distributing a new type of hydrometer to all maple producers. It discreetly trades the new for the old, and as discreetly destroys the old. To the marked benefit of syrup quality, old sugar houses are being equipped with new and efficient evaporators. Covered sap buckets made of galvanized steel have replaced the open wooden ones of old, and some are being replaced with plastic bags. Plastic pipelines, too, are carrying increasing amounts of sap directly from trees to storage tanks. Collecting tanks drawn by jeep or tractor and equipped with power pumps are easing the toils of shoulder-yoke or hand toting of the sap buckets.

Interest in maple syrup as a basic crop seems to be spreading.

Who Is Behind New Russian Diplomatic Moves Today?

Royal Air Force bombers hit rebel strongholds in Oman last weekend with more than 100 200-pound fragmentation bombs, and a ground controller reported having seen warriors of the rebellious Imam of Oman flushed from their well-prepared positions near Firq.

The air attack came a day after the combined ground force of British troops and supporters of the Sultan of Muscat and Oman was stalled by unexpectedly stout resistance at Firq.

When British forces first went to the aid of Sultan Said Bin Taimur in the rebellion which started four weeks ago they sought to avoid killing rebels by air attack.

Elsewhere in the Middle East confirmation came from European travellers reaching Cairo of the British charge that Russian arms and advisers have been pouring into the southeast Arabian kingdom of Yemen.

Government Grant for Parishes of Howick and Ormstown.

Yemen's undemarcated border with the British East Aden protectorate has flared recently with sporadic fighting. The little Red Sea kingdom claims frontier areas of Aden that Britain considers a vital hinterland for the port of Aden, guardian of the Red Sea approaches to the Suez Canal.

Informants said at least 47 Soviet technicians now are in Yemen. But British officials foresee no serious trouble on the frontier. The area is as widely rugged as the Omani mountains, 1,100 miles to the northeast at another corner of the trackless Arabian peninsula.

More workers promising to do more work, and more speeches pledging full Russian support, seemed to be the order of the day as Soviet leaders toured East Germany. Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev headed one section of the delegation and Trade Minister Anastas Mikoyan the other.

Western reporters, barred from following the Soviet leaders to East Germany, have had to rely for news on the East German television and radio reports and the official ADN news agency.

They reported that at a rally in Leipzig Khrushchev warned the "sabre-rattling west" that the people of the Soviet bloc are "no cowards".

High officials at Washington are said to be puzzled about who is masterminding Russian foreign policy these days, and United States intelligence experts are trying to solve the mystery.

The Secretary Dulles, whose brother Allen is head of the central intelligence agency, requested the study. The secrecy with which Soviet government is conducted produces surprises and unexpected shifts, but in some respects the current mystery is more than ordinarily baffling. This is particularly so because much of Russian diplomacy is conducted on the world stage with careful regard to its propaganda impact.

The most obvious candidate for the position of mastermind is Communist party chief Khrushchev, but some informed officials at Washington feel him out because he is either traveling much of the time, receiving foreign Communist leaders or occupied with urgent domestic problems. The same goes for Premier Bulganin, whose policy-making influence is considered to be limited anyway.

Boy Scouts from Kenya presented Canadian scouts at the world jamboree in Sutton Park, England, last week with a stone which will be used in construction of an international cairn at Montreal.

The square stone, weighing about four pounds, was brought from Nyeri, near the grave of Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the scout movement. It was presented to Eli Boyaner of Saint John, N.B., leader of the Canadian contingent, by Rev. Frank Bedford, leader of the Kenya group.

The Quebec scouts are building a cairn from stones collected from all parts of the world. It will be outside the Quebec provincial scout headquarters in Montreal.

One 17-year-old Alberta Scout, Joe Stern, managed to get Prime Minister Macmillan's autograph last Saturday although the British prime minister was hurrying to keep a luncheon date with the Chief Scout, Lord Rowallan. Prime Minister Macmillan rolled up his trouser cuffs to avoid the mud as he made a quick tour of the scene.

Almost miraculously, no one was injured when the roof of an abandoned mine shaft collapsed with a roar at Timmins, Ont., opening a hole the size of a 15-storey office building only 20 feet from the busy highway.

Mayor Leo Del Villano of Timmins said he drove past that point just before the pavement began bucking under the stress. Houses 600 feet away cracked on their shifted foundations.

Police cordoned off the highway, the main route into the Northern Ontario mining community, while a highways department crew completed a makeshift detour through adjacent bushland.

The earth gave way when one of three 80-foot stone pillars

Back to School

The School Boards will have their troubles too — will there be enough accommodation for the enrolment. For those who are still building, how long will the disruption last and we can get back to normal. Should Johnny, who will be six a short time after the deadline, be admitted this year. If so, how many more claims will be made for other children to be admitted. That new family that just moved in along an already overcrowded bus route — what can be done about bringing in their children?

Back to school can be a very busy time for everyone.

Fire and Smoke

Another vital topic is the "Tea Field" and the discomforts that are being experienced by a great many people some distance away from the fires which are now not only smoldering (and smoking) but also mostly quite active. The ensuing blankets of smoke are not only decidedly aggravating to those with respiratory afflictions albeit to most others, but are also menaces to car drivers. We have heard that in quite a few instances car drivers have had to make wide detours to avoid several of the smoke blanketed roads.

We are therefore wondering why such indiscriminate burnings of stretches of the Tea Fields are lawfully permitted? Whether such burnings are economically sound?

It would also appear that the ravaging fires back of Ormstown, so to speak, were originally caused by similar burnings. Not by passers-by, in cars or picnics, carelessly, or we might say, criminally dropping lighted matches or leaving smoldering camp fires. Burnings of this nature with respect to putting a bridge on such burnings would well apply here as they do in the case of the Tea Fields.

Another Angle

There is another angle to the Tea Fields and other burnings. One that decidedly irks wild fowl and game lovers. According to that well-known sportsman, W. R. Boyd, such burnings destroy the natural habitats, and food of birds, rabbits and small game. Even some of the animals themselves including rabbits which are "allergic" so to speak, to fires run right into them. The same also applies to the few deer which are in this area and make their home in the Tea Fields.

there two ports in Venezuela — between which two calls Gib Macmillan will stay on land and see some of that South American country's oil fields, particularly its agriculture and livestock. May therefore be able to see how the Canadian cattle shipped down there during the past year or so are shaping-up.

From Venezuela he will go, in the "Sunadele", to Georgetown, Demerara, chief port of British Guiana, South America, from whence comes the Bauxite from which is processed Aluminium. By the way the Aluminium Company of Canada has large Bauxite holdings in British Guiana, through its subsidiary "Demba" (Demerara Bauxite Company Limited) — with the latter having large quarries or open mines and huge processing plants at Mackenzie. In British Guiana the "Sunadele" will take on her cargo of Bauxite for Port Alfred, Que., from which the material is transhipped to Arvida where the Aluminium Company's huge plant is located.

To Gib Macmillan, British Guiana's agriculture and livestock will doubtless seem to be still in a rather primitive stage. Nevertheless during the past several years great improvements have been made, with forward air landing strips and roadways all over the world. Trinidad is also a thriving industrial and agricultural centre and will shortly be the home of the new West Indian Federation.

Trinidad, is the last scheduled stop-over at one or another of its Pitch Lake from which is processed "Tarmac" for surfacing for cargo en route to Canada.

Farmyard Manure In Crop Rotations

OTTAWA — In 1922, experiments were started at the Canada Department of Agriculture Experimental Farm, Kapuskasing, Ont., to furnish information on the value of manure and commercial fertilizer for crop production. H. A. Hamilton observes that the experiments have yielded some interesting information, in verifying previous experimental work and in furnishing information which might be of particular interest to farmers in Northern Ontario. Farmyard manure has exerted a definitely beneficial effect on the physical condition of the soil. This is of special importance where heavy clay is encountered.

In addition, while farmyard manure contributes to the organic matter of the soil it should not be forgotten that it is with a suitable rotation that organic matter is conserved. Our experiments have verified the fact that manure should at all times be supplemented with phosphatic fertilizers. This might be achieved either by adding superphosphate to manure in the stable or by the addition of superphosphate in the field.

An application of 8 tons of manure twice during a four-year rotation — of oats, barley, hay, hay — was decidedly superior to a single application of 16 tons. In cases where farmyard manure is limited it would therefore be advisable to cover a greater acreage thinly rather than heavy applications over a small area.

In deciding on the crops and rotation to be used, the following should be borne in mind:

Crops differ in their response to manure applications. For instance, experiments showed that oats responded well to manure applications, whereas barley response was poor. In the case of barley, commercial fertilizer was undoubtedly superior to farmyard manure in producing and maintaining good yields.

Manure seems to have a very lasting effect and it was possible to maintain crop yields over a number of years.

If manure is not well rotted, it should be ploughed under in the fall. For meadows and pastures, it should be spread as a top dressing, especially when land is soon to be ploughed for a cultivated crop.

The fact that manure has a lasting effect should not be construed to mean that it is possible to maintain adequate soil fertility on a farm with the mere use of farmyard manure. The need for supplemental additions of commercial fertilizers cannot be too strongly stressed. Experiments at the Farm have conclusively shown that best crop yields can be expected where a combination of farmyard manure and commercial fertilizer is used.

Organization For Sufferers From Asthma

"The Asthmatic Children's Association has now been organized," states Miss Frieda Field, R.N., who some time ago wrote to the press urging the necessity for action in the interests of children afflicted with asthma. Letters from parents, relatives, and friends of such sufferers, in their anxiety that curative and preventative measures be discovered rallied round Miss Field to make the organization possible. Charter for the Asthmatic Children's Association has now been applied for.

The objectives of the Association are to throw a spotlight on the need of action in relation to asthma and other allergies including sinusitis, hayfever, eczema etc.; to aid in promoting measures and facilities for the alleviation of asthma, and allied diseases and the rehabilitation of those suffering from them; to gather and collect data on the prevalence of asthma, sinusitis, hayfever and other allergies.

"In making all this possible", "The immediate need is $50,000 to provide a headquarters a) for research and b) to provide the first such Home for Asthmatic Children where the most modern and effective methods may be used in taking care of them. No charge will be made to those who are not able to pay", she added.

"The place for a badly afflicted child is not its own home where that child can and does mean much suffering and tragedy for the family as a whole," Miss Field emphasized. It is hoped that the A.C.A. home, intended especially for the suffering youngster will also accommodate the body in health and disease." In fact," Nurse Field claims, "in our investigation and research attention will be given to discovering the factor or factors in the food intake that may well be one of the answers in the alleviation of asthma."

As it is one of the objectives of the Asthmatic Children's Association to discover the prevalence of asthma and other allied diseases in Canada, the parents of sufferers and those interested are invited to write the Asthmatic Children's Association, 21 Avenue Road, Apt. 12 Toronto 5.

CARS ARE MU
Line
 by Noel A. Foisy

Maybe you remember a few weeks ago I mentioned the law in Memphis, Tenn. against blowing car horns inside the city limits.

That was a good or a bad law, I suppose, depending on which end of the car horn you happened to be at. Since men first started to push themselves around in horseless carriages they've been passing laws about it, and some of them have been pretty foolish. In the years I've been around cars I've tucked away a few of the stranger ones.

We might have had cars almost 100 years sooner than we did, for instance, if it hadn't been for an English law passed around 1830. Steam coaches were operating in those days, one man had three of them on a regular route of more than 3000 miles near London. Another Englishman had nine steam buses on regular routes.

But then came the famous Red Flag law which required a man to walk in front of the coaches with a red flag in the daytime and a red lantern at night. The fare on the toll roads and bridges was raised and raised (even in those days horseless carriages were seen as a good source of revenue) and the first practical self-propelled vehicles were forced off the roads.

As a result, there was no advance in motor transportation until after 1896 when the silly, restrictive laws were repealed. Quite a difference from today when the buyer expects — and gets — some new advance in motoring every year.

The rapid advancement of automobile design and craftsmanship means, too, that a car a few years old still has lots of dependable miles, economical transportation and even luxury in it. In buying a used car you have even a wider range of choice than in buying a new car... and room to spurge on a little luxury too without busting your bankbook. Glad to show you how, the next time you drop around the lot.
