Further strike talks scheduled

Hamel seeks settlement

BY BERNARD BROWNRIGG
(Record staff reporter)

Labor Minister Rene Hamel was scheduled Saturday morning to meet again with representatives of the Eastern Townships Builders' Association and the Confederation of National Trade Unions for talks to settle the five-week old strike.

Negotiations which resumed Friday afternoon about 5 p.m. through the personal intervention of Mr. Hamel were adjourned Friday about midnight after the union asked for time to study proposals, the second list offered by the minister.

Saturday's meeting was scheduled to start at 11 a.m. Main figures in the talks, aside from Mr. Hamel, are Jean Marchand, provincial president of the CNTU, and J. W. Roy, president of the builders' association. Following the adjournment, Mr. Hamel told reporters: "All I can say at the moment is that we have settled one of the biggest problems and there remains only a very thin line to cross before we can reach full agreement and end the strike. During the seven hour negotiations meeting the minister said he was only interested in settling the strike which has plagued the Eastern Townships. The minister made his first proposals to both sides shortly before 9 p.m., but an adjournment was asked for by the union representatives so they could attend a strike union meeting at their Gordon Street Headquarters.

(Mr. Hamel told The Record when he left the conference room about 10.30 p.m. that he expected the CNTU officials to return shortly to approve the proposals he made and that he didn't think they would let him down by not returning to the meeting.)

"I have full confidence that they will return and make an agreement," Mr. Hamel said before re-entering the conference room.

The union representatives returned along with Mr. Marchand after speaking to construction workers and strikers at the union headquarters. During the meeting at the union headquarters they decided not to accept the minister's proposals.

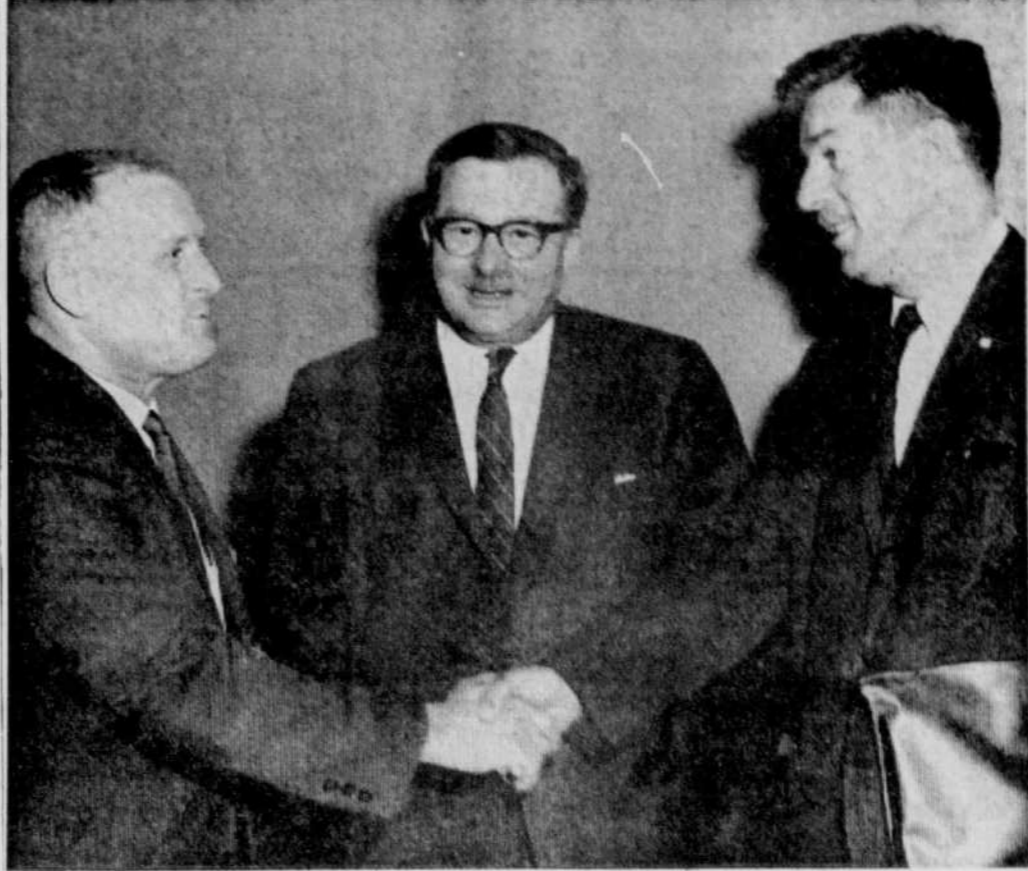

They returned to city hall shortly after 11 p.m., rejected the offer and were called aside by the minister into the aldermen's committee room and presented with a second proposal which they studied for about half an hour before asking that the meeting be adjourned so they could have time to study the proposals.

About 450 workers attended the union meeting Friday night and extra police officers were sent to the Gordon Street headquarters to assure protection of the public in case of demonstrations.

After the union meeting a number of strikers followed the union representatives to city hall where they decided to wait for results of the negotiation conference but changed their minds and left about a half an hour after.

Before the 9 p.m. break Mr. Hamel told both parties that he didn't come to Sherbrooke for nothing and that he wanted to see the strike end.

He also added that he would probably stay in Sherbrooke until the representatives of both parties agreed. Mr. Hamel arrived at the Sherbrooke airport by a government plane about 4:45 p.m. and went directly to city hall where he met representatives of both parties alone to discuss their problems before entering the meeting.

Will Lesage be next one?

Robarts joins campaign

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One of the questions in the federal election campaign has been whether Premier John Robarts (Conservative) of Ontario and Premier Jean Lesage (Liberal) of Quebec will get into the fight.

Half of it was answered Friday night at Chatham, Ont., when Mr. Robarts joined Prime Minister Diefenbaker on the platform at an election rally.

"If anyone thinks for one moment that I am less than enthusiastic in supporting you... I am here tonight to assure you (Mr. Diefenbaker) and the good people at this meeting that I am with you all the way," the premier declared.

Liberal Leader Pearson was speaking at Rimouski, Que., on the lower St. Lawrence River but Premier Lesage remained 200 miles upriver at Quebec City where the provincial legislature still is in session.

The question of Mr. Lesage's participation probably won't be answered properly unless the legislature winds up its session before voting day, June 18. The Ontario legislature isn't currently sitting.

Social Credit Leader Robert

Thompson, at a party rally in London, Ont., made the rather startling statement that he doesn't expect Social Credit to win next month's election.

But he quickly qualified it by predicting that the winner will form a minority government, forcing another vote within a year which will put Social Credit into power. The party lost all of its 19 federal seats in the 1958 election.

T. C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic Party, spent a second straight day in Regina where he is making his personal bid for a House of Commons seat.

The socialist ex-premier of Saskatchewan attended a series of afternoon teas in the homes of supporters before attending a night rally.

The holiday weekend will provide a respite for Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Pearson although observers report both look fresh and in no need of rest. They plan to spend the weekend at their Ottawa homes, picking up the campaign trail with visits to Toronto Tuesday.

The other two leaders, who have been vote-hunting at an easy pace so far, are not taking the break. Mr. Douglas was in Montreal today en route to a nominating meeting in Quebec West Sunday. Sunday electioneering is popular in Quebec. Mr. Thompson plans a visit to Unity, Sask., Monday.

The Liberal chief devoted most of his Rimouski speech Friday night to agriculture, explaining the Liberal platform of improved price supports and easier credit for self-help farm co-operatives. He termed the second item "of prime importance."

He spoke to 450 in a 1,000 seat municipal auditorium. Ten nights earlier Mr. Diefenbaker's Rimouski meeting drew a capacity crowd in another hall of about the same size.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberals would set up a research service to study and forecast farm markets and price conditions, advising farmers of the findings.

Victoria Day

Fireworks, ceremonies to honor two Queens

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Victoria Day should find many Canadians in the middle of a heat wave this year but fireworks and ceremonies will still honor two Queens, the Commonwealth and Canadian citizenship.

All provinces except Newfoundland are scheduled to make Monday a multiple observance with many meanings added to the holiday's original celebration of Queen Victoria's birth on May 24, 1819.

Newfoundland retains the actual date of May 24 as the holiday. In 1952, the Canadian Parliament decreed the holiday would be commemorated on the Monday preceding May 25.

In 1953, the same Monday was fixed for annual observance in Canada of the birth of Queen Elizabeth II, whose actual birth date was April 21, 1926.

Commonwealth Day — celebrated for 55 years on May 24 as Empire Day — will be marked in Canada's schools by special citizenship projects. In parts of Quebec and other provinces the day is also known as Citizenship Day.

The Canadian Highway Safety Council has predicted that 28 persons will be killed on the country's roads during the holiday weekend.

British Columbia is scheduled to have fine weather Saturday but is uncertain about Sunday and Monday. Besides May Day parades and crowning of May queens, the Ancient and Honorable Hyack Anvil Battery will fire a salute on its anvils Monday.

Alberta, named after Queen Victoria's husband, Prince Albert, plans a royal salute in Edmonton. Weathermen predict scattered showers and temperatures in the 50s for Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Manitoba can also expect showers and temperatures in the 60s. Fireworks sales will be permitted in the province as in most communities across the country. Victoria Day and July 1 are the only times when most local authorities sanction their use.

Ontario weathermen indicated no relief from the week-long record heat spell and call for temperatures in the 90s in southern Ontario.

President Kennedy Tuesday ordered 4,000 United States troops to Thailand to contain Communist forces in neighboring Laos and to discourage further Red moves in Southeast Asia.

The vanguard — 1,800 marines — arrived Thursday and by Friday was encamped within 50 miles of the Mekong River, which divides war-torn Laos from Thailand. A 1,000-man U.S. infantry battle group had already been in Thailand.

Kennedy said at a press conference U.S. military and political moves in Southeast Asia were an effort to "bring about a diplomatic solution" and reduce the danger of a shooting war.

The immediate object of U.S. policy was to obtain a resumption of negotiations among the three Laotian factions for the establishment of a coalition regime in Laos. Kennedy also said the U.S. would like to see a withdrawal of Communist forces as far as possible to the positions they occupied before they over-ran a shaky ceasefire last week and took several government strongholds.

MEETING EXPECTED
The U.S. has been pressing rightist Prince-Premier Boum Oum to negotiate with two other princes — neutralist Souvanna Phouma and leftist Souphanouvong — and form a coalition government with the neutralist at the head. The Soviet Union says it wants a similar solution for landlocked Laos, which borders Red China. Princely meetings were expected for next week.

French President de Gaulle, in his first press conference in more than eight months, said Tuesday he opposes any European political union that would supersede the political aims of individual nations. He supported, however, the ties.

U.S. AROUSED
De Gaulle also reiterated that France intends to build an independent nuclear striking arm and work for a third-force European body in world affairs.

This is a plan unpopular in many U.S. circles, and Kennedy replied Thursday that as long as his country puts up cash and men for Europe's protection it will demand a voice in European military affairs.

SALAN TRIED
Daily slaughter continued in Algeria as the Secret Army Organization sought to wreck the peace accords worked out between France and leaders of the Moslem rebels.

As many as 70 Moslems were killed in a day and Moslem terrorists repelled with lesser toll against European settlers. Algerian nationalist leaders warned French officials Thursday the Secret Army's carnage must stop or Europeans will face "mass retaliation."

In Paris, former general Raoul Salan, leader of the Secret Army, went on trial for his life.

CAMPAIGN TALK
Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Liberal Leader Pearson were at the same place — Mount Thom, N.S. — at the same moment Tuesday but, fittingly enough, they were moving in opposite directions.

In the midst of busy electioneering in the Maritimes, the prime minister and his motorcade were heading southbound to Halifax after campaigning in the coal and steel area of New Glasgow.

General election prompts spate of new 'literary' works

By CUTHBERT JONES
(Record staff writer)

One of the phenomena of a general election in this country, whether federal or provincial, is the appearance of a number of new literary works which the authors or their sponsors believe to be of general interest to the people of Canada. Publishers' presses are running all over the country turning out these efforts which are generally designed as non-fiction, supposedly being works of biography or history or a combination of both.

A substantial portion of the population may accept them as factual, but for hundreds of thousands of others to classify them as fiction would be to give them undeserved honor. These dissenters view them as anything from imaginative to deliberate lies. It all depends upon your point of view politically.

The first such production to make its appearance within the accepted limits of the current campaign — that is within the past year — was produced by Dr. Robert Thompson. In this he gave his views on the financial problems of the world through the intricacies of international finance and the hope Social Credit held for freedom of this country from outside control.

This has become the textbook of Social Credit campaign activity and is frequently quoted by the Social Credit politicians when they make their appeals for popular support. Following closely were a number of works on Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, ranging from full-length books covering his life and the activities of the Progressive Conservative party which he heads down to 48 to 64 page brochures on some particular aspect of his career or his policies.

Not to be outdone, Hon. J. W. Pickersgill, a former University lecturer in history, one-time civil servant and an ex-cabinet minister (Liberal) has come forward with an opus on the story and aims of the Liberal party.

Within the past week a new production has rolled off the presses.

Entitled "Douglas in Saskatchewan—The Story of a Socialist Experiment" it is written by Robert Tyre, a free lance writer who served for many years as political reporter for Saskatchewan newspapers and also as a public relations officer for the CCF government in Saskatchewan.

In an explanatory letter accompanying the book, the publishers explain that Mr. Tyre was never a party member. Even a cursory reading of the Douglas story will convince the reader of the truth of this statement and

Jimmy pleads not guilty

Refuses to withdraw Hoffa assault count

WASHINGTON (CP) — Sam Baron, one-time major figure in Canadian labor battles, broke with the teamsters Friday after refusing to withdraw an assault charge against union chief Jimmy Hoffa.

Hoffa, a short, stocky 49-year-old, pleaded not guilty to a charge of having beaten up the slight, 59-year-old Baron. He was remanded for jury trial June 19.

Baron, the union's field director for the National Warehouse Division, said his personal friend, teamsters' executive vice-president Harold Gibbons, pleaded with him to withdraw the charge and forget the incident but Baron refused.

"I only wish I was 30 years younger," he said. Baron told a reporter of being called into Hoffa's office Thursday of being cursed and accused of laziness and worthlessness and then being beaten by Hoffa about the eyes and face and thrown twice to the floor.

There were "several fine, decent trade unionists and some businessmen who saw the incident," Baron said.

Hoffa is free on $500 bail. He faces a maximum penalty of a $500 fine and one year in jail on each count if found guilty. Under U.S. labor laws, a unionist found guilty of causing grievous physical harm through assault can be barred from holding office for five years but legal officers doubt that the present case is in that category.

Baron at one time was associated with Pat Conroy, labor attaché in the Canadian Embassy here, who quit as secretary-treasurer of the old Canadian Congress of Labor in 1951 because the CCL convention refused to endorse an executive decision to give Baron a job on the executive.

Queen recovers from cold

LONDON (AP)—A Buckingham Palace spokesman said Friday night ailing Queen Elizabeth hopes to resume her full schedule of activities Monday.

The 36-year-old Queen took to her bed with a sore throat and a slight fever after getting soaked by rain Thursday.

She called off two engagements, was visited by two doctors and agreed to stay in her room during the weekend.

Her indisposition and the visit by two of her three doctors sparked off rumors that she was expecting another baby.

These were emphatically denied by a source close to the throne.

Asked if the Queen is pregnant, the informant replied: "Any such report is absolutely bogus. There is nothing to it...."

This afternoon she was resting and reading in bed.

Close friends of the Queen say she and her husband, Prince Philip, would like another child.

They have three — Prince Charles, 13, Princess Anne, 12 in August, and Prince Andrew, 2.

Lived through terror

Soviet writer tells of Stalinist purges

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet author Ilya Ehrenburg told today how Soviet intellectuals during the Stalinist terror of 1937-38 spoke frankly only to their wives—"and then at night with their heads under the bedclothes."

Ehrenburg wrote of the purges which wiped out the old Soviet intelligentsia in Novy the monthly organ of the Soviet Writers Union, published here today.

It was the first personal account to appear in literary form by a writer who lived through the wave of terror which shook the country during Premier Stalin's life.

Ehrenburg wrote how he arrived in Moscow Dec. 24, 1937, after reporting the Spanish Civil War.

In his flat that night he was told what was happening: "There was a flood of names and each was followed by the word 'arrested.'"

Ehrenburg said his friends told him: "Don't ask about anybody. If you are involved in a conversation about them don't carry it on." Next morning he went to the office of Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper. "I was well received, but I didn't recognize a single face.

"In spite of... advice I asked where this or that person was. One person would answer 'finished.' Another would just wave his hands. But there were those who hurriedly walked away."

Ehrenburg wrote: "In the circle of my acquaintances, nobody was sure of the next day. Many had small suitcases packed for any occasion with two changes of warm underwear."

Letter from SAO

Threat is made on the lives of General Salan's trial judges

PARIS (Reuters) — The terrorist Secret Army Organization Friday warned the judges trying ex-gen. Paoul Salan "you will answer with your life" if Salan is executed.

A threatening letter signed by the secret army and sent to the military court trying the terrorist organization's captured leader, was produced in court by prosecutor Andre Gavalda.

Allegedly sent on the orders of ex-col. Yves Godard, another of the terrorist leaders, it said the judges would be killed if either Salan or ex-gen. Edmond Jouhaud—already condemned to death—is executed.

Jouhaud, onetime No. 2 man in the Secret Army, was sentenced last month by the high military court.

Gavalda produced the letter while questioning defence witness Ahmed Djebour on secret army terrorism and asked him if he opposed terrorism.

Gets new post

HAVANA (Reuters) — Carlos Olivares Sanchez, deputy foreign minister, has been appointed Cuban ambassador to Moscow, it was announced Friday. He replaces Faure Chautant, who was appointed Cuban communications minister in a cabinet reshuffle announced March 24. Pelegrin Torres de la Luz becomes the new deputy foreign minister.

Court president Judge Charles Bornet interrupted to say "most members of the court have received similar letters."

Salan's defence lawyers scored a victory during the day, the fourth of the trial, when the court ruled after a long legal wrangle that former Premier Debre should be called to give evidence today.

Debre is one of 60 "missing witnesses" the defence wants to call. Many of them are high-ranking military officers on active duty in Algeria who have not been given permission to testify.

Chief defence counsel Jean-Louis Tixier - Vignancour said Debre's evidence is essential following testimony today by former justice minister Francois Mitterand, who said Debre's name was mentioned in connection with an attempt to kill Salan.

Mitterand told the court that a bazooka attack on Salan in 1957, when Salan was commander of French forces in Algeria, was "the first act of a civil war against the republic and its institutions."

He said the attempt on Salan's life was made by European settlers in Algeria who thought the general had "left-wing leanings" and might be half-hearted in the campaign against Algerian nationalists.

He said that as justice minister he informed Debre, then a senator, that his name had been mentioned in connection with

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The awards season closes with a shower of Emmies next Tuesday, and the television people are hoping to profit from cousin Oscar's mistakes.
The Motion Picture Academy telecast packs more glamor and excitement than its television counterpart, because the participants have been less exposed to the public and the awards are relatively more logical.
The Emmy telecast is hampered by an awards structure that often is puzzling. And there is not as much excitement in seeing stars who are on television every week anyway.
Yet the Emmies usually are a better television show. The reason for this may be that it is put on by people who know their own medium and give a thought to pace and audience interest.
Producing the show for NBC this year is veteran Alan Handley, whose credits include three Oscarcasts. "Including That one," he admitted, referring to the show that ran 20 minutes too short.
Handley said next week's Emmy show will seek to avoid some of the pitfalls that Oscar drops into. Air time will be 90 minutes instead of the two hours-plus of Oscar. Presenters will do just that and not be subjected to cute speeches that are mere stage waits.
"Our entertainment will be integrated, not dragged in," the producer continued. "The Oscar show has pop singers doing songs that were sung by other people in the movies. We'll show the actual entertainment that was nominated."
"We'll also start out the show with a montage of the great moments from the TV season. You'll see John Glenn's rocket taking off and Jackie Kennedy conducting her tour of the White House."

High Times

By SANDRA PICKFORD

The end of May and those final three weeks of June are without a doubt the most hectic, trying, and yet exciting time for high school grads in all the eleven years of their schooling.

And that time is just about here.

Interest this last week or two has centered around training for the Interscholastic Track meet to be held next Saturday here in Sherbrooke. Events start at nine in the morning and once again E.T. school students will gather for keen competition, good sportsmanship and the chance to make new acquaintances.

E. T. students have been on the move these last three weeks too! Trips to Montreal and Ottawa have provided an outing for many senior students.

June exams, graduation dances and a host of other activities keep students busy. School yearbooks should be coming out very soon too.

SELL GAS, OIL — Sunnyside High School students sold gas and oil at Kerwin's Station May 12. All profits, which added up to a tidy amount, were contributed to the growing Athletic Fund. The boys were on the job bright and early and stuck to their project right through the day. Many thanks are extended to Jack Kerwin for his co-operation and assistance to the fund, say Sunnyside students.

SEE PRINCE PHILIP — Students of grade nine and ten of Compton-Waterville Intermediate and North Hatley High School saw Prince Philip during their trip to Ottawa May 11 and 12. The students saw the Queen's husband as he entered the Governor General's Residence.

Prince Philip was in Ottawa as the weekend guest of Governor-General and Mrs. Vanier before flying to Montreal where he gave the keynote address at the opening session of the second Commonwealth Study Conference at the University of Montreal May 14.

The Waterville and North Hatley students also visited the Mint, Parliament Buildings, the Supreme Court, the City Hall and the National Art Gallery say Dale Ewin secretary of the Compton-Waterville Intermediate High School Students' Council.

MEANWHILE — The graduates and Grade Ten students of Sunnyside High School are in Ottawa this week-

To honor late Rev. Doolittle Plaque to be unveiled at church

A bronze plaque will be unveiled at the 11 o'clock Sunday service at the St. George's Anglican Church in Lennoxville to commemorate the centenary of the death of Rev. Lucius Doolittle, founder of St. George's, Bishop's College School and Bishop's University.

Born May 23, 1800 in Lyndonville, Vermont, Rev. Doolittle was the licensed incumbent of the Lennoxville-Sherbrooke Mission in 1833. In 1837 Rev. Doolittle founded Bishop's College School and in 1846 built St. George's Anglican Church. In 1847 he founded Bishop's University. Rev. Doolittle died in 1862 and was buried beneath the south wall of the Church. His wife, Clarissa Lawrence, was later buried beside him.

The plaque, to be unveiled by the present rector of St. George's Church, Archdeacon T. J. Matthews, is erected on the south wall over the spot where Rev. Doolittle is buried.

The inscription reads: Beneath this spot lies the Rev. L. C. Doolittle, M. A. (1800 - 1862) founder and builder of St. George's and Clarissa Lawrence, his wife. The Rev. Canon Roland

Palmer, SSJE, of Ontario will be the guest preacher at the service which will be the headmaster, ceremony. Representing Bishop's College School at the service will be Dr. Ogden Glass principal, who will read the second lesson.

Representing the Corporation of Bishop's College School will be Judge William Mitchell and representing the Town of Lennoxville will be Mayor Ernest Gilbey.

Haze can be an asset

With a long weekend at hand many of us will be acting like tourists and wandering around the countryside either taking pictures or just enjoying the scenery. Unfortunately along with the first heat wave there will probably be a great deal of haze. And hazy days spoil any chances of getting shots showing distant mountains or faraway scenes.

However, haze can be overcome by using infrared film. It should also be remembered that to a certain extent haze can be reduced with the Yellow K2 or G filters. Another idea to bear in mind is that a bit of haze sometimes gives depth and atmosphere to landscape photographs.

When using color film a polar-screen is helpful, although this type of film reacts very well to hazy conditions. The contrast ratio is reduced and the shadow areas have just enough light. There are always numerous opportunities for photographs. The different shades of green provide a pleasant contrast. The wild cherry is now in blossom and this adds another pleasant touch to a pastoral scene.

Whatever type of photographs interests you composition is important whether its people or places, flowers, or animals. So remember lines and masses must direct the viewer to the subject, never away from it. Always have a key point in every photograph and it should be well defined, not lost among other subjects. Try to tell a story with every photograph and make sure that the composition holds the photograph together.

There's nothing wrong with taking two or three shots of the same scene but why not try several different angles. This will almost always ensure you of, at least, one good picture.

But remember neither colour film nor anything will really disguise the poor points of a picture. With the daffodils and tulips in full-bloom flower lovers and photographers can have a field day: Naturally, color film will do a spectacular job with these subjects but black and white can handle them well too if the camera angle and type of flower is considered.

Some flowers are too small and intricate to be effectively photographed in color. When photographing flowers in black and white the most effective way is to include one

Scouting and Cubbing

BY DIANE DURRANT

The annual Cub Rally was the highlight of this week's events, with 150 Cubs from the District attending. Waterville placed first, showing the greatest all-around proficiency. The afternoon also provided an opportunity for the boys to pass individual outdoor tests such as walking the plank, nature study, and ball throw.

W. Noel Reakes, Assistant Provincial Commissioner of Quebec, is presently in the Jeffrey Hale Hospital, Room 531, in Quebec City. Unfortunately, he took ill on the return voyage from Europe, and was transferred to the hospital from the Empress of Britain. Mr. Reakes is making satisfactory progress, but expects to remain in the hospital until the end of the month.

Before returning to Canada, Mr. Reakes had the opportunity of visiting "Rookin Glen" near Glasgow which was once the home of Lord Rowallan, former World Chief Scout. Lord Rowallan gave his beautiful property, consisting of wooded lands, parks, flower gardens, and a lake to the City of Glasgow as a public park. He himself, is now residing near Kilmarnock.

Ronald Berwick was recently welcomed in to the Fifth Sherbrooke Pack by Akela K. Bartlett, and as Mowgli had to learn the laws of the jungle, Ronald is learning the meaning of the mysterious Grand Howl and the strange two-fingered salute. I hope we shall soon hear of Ronald's investiture into the Pack.

Tuesday, May 22, is the date of the next District Council meeting to be held in the Bulwer School at 8:00 o'clock. Every item on the agenda is of interest to every Scouter and Group Committee member in the District so let's keep this date open for an evening of Scouting.

If any group has any history to contribute, this meeting will be an opportunity to turn it in.

Yamaska Valley District will be contributing news to this column from now on, and we shall be looking forward to receiving news from their leaders soon.

As this column will continue to be published during the summer months, please keep us informed as to your hikes, camps, and other activity.

A forward step in hospital control

Introduction of a Quebec Hospital Act to provide for a measure of government supervision over the establishment and operation of hospitals in various parts of the province will be welcomed by no one more than by well-operated hospitals, whether public or private.

Recent disclosure of operating and financial irregularities in connection with a small number of institutions in various parts of the province have brought undesired criticisms of all hospitals. By establishing a system of state supervision much of this distrust should be removed.

Reports of investigating commissions into the activities of certain hospitals have stressed that while some phases of their financing or operation were far from desirable from the public viewpoint, the practices were not illegal — mainly because this province lacked any clear legislation governing these institutions.

Every other province in Canada has had such legislation for years to the satisfaction of all legitimate hospitals.

Quebec has some of the finest hospitals known but too often their reputation has been besmirched by a few unscrupulous operators.

Constantly fish for compliments and you're likely to get some biting remarks.

Financing firm meets old need

The difficulty faced by many small firms in obtaining term loans required for expanding their operations should be resolved to a great extent by the announcement of two Canadian chartered banks and two trust companies that they are forming a new corporation designed to meet the needs of modestly-sized businesses.

During the past few years there have been frequent complaints that this class of business has been unable to find the funds it requires for its capital needs.

Chartered banks are restricted by law to loaning money for operating needs and not for capital purposes.

Very small businessmen usually can find the long-term loans they require from individuals, while large companies can float bond or stock issues.

But to date, firms between these two categories have been forced to the wall by their inability to finance their operations.

RoyNat Limited, the new bank-and-trust sponsored corporation, is something entirely new in the Canadian financial field and well may mark the opening of a new era in business development in this country.

Saying what you mean may mean that you haven't as many friends.

Hearing loss can often be treated

Sound is such an intricate part of daily life that, like taste, sight, touch and smell, it is taken for granted.

But an estimated 1,000,000 Canadians are very conscious of sound because they are affected in some way by impaired hearing. To promote a better understanding of the problems faced by children and adults with impaired hearing, officials of the Canadian Hearing Society have designated May 21 to May 26 as Better Hearing Week.

This is the fourth year that an educational campaign has been held for the purpose of acquainting people with troubles of defective hearing and to promote the idea that impaired hearing is a common occurrence. Officials point out that with proper treatment, much of the loss arising from this handicap can be corrected. But early consultation and diagnosis is as important with this ailment as any other.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is among the many, including mayors of cities and prominent social workers, who have endorsed Better Hearing Week.

One of the most serious problems relates to children who are deaf or seriously handicapped by severe hearing loss. They and their parents require the best of medical advice and expert guidance by specialists in the field of special education.

Throughout Canada, there are schools and classes to deal with the problem and more are being built. Important advances are being made in the perfecting of mechanical devices to improve hearing. Both children and adults are beginning to realize that it is no more embarrassing to wear a hearing aid to correct their hearing loss than to wear glasses to improve their vision.

Fifty per cent of the hearing loss can be traced to hearing problems in early infancy. This is why parents are urged to consult specialists if they suspect hearing trouble in their children.

Because even a partial loss of hearing can severely curtail a person's activities and cause unhappiness, it is essential to be informed about what can be done to overcome or curb the affliction.

Charges union threats, intimidation

Dear Sir:

This is my first letter to a publisher, but I feel that it is necessary to voice disapproval of the way the Construction Union is endeavoring to gain their ends by coercion, threats and acts of sabotage. I can understand any Labor Union calling its members away from their work in order to secure an increase in wages, but I cannot see any reason for forcing men who are not members of the Union to stop work. Surely we have attained some type of civilization and are no longer subject to mob violence, otherwise why did many of us participate in two World Wars?

Certainly the Construction Union in the Eastern Townships is losing a great deal of public sympathy through the actions of their members who they either direct or misdirect.

I am not a contractor, simply an official of Stanstead College trying to direct the building of a residence for staff in order that our staff can be housed the first of September next; yet my men have been threatened by a mob unless we stop all work. More than that, this mob entered our grounds May 16, and tore down our lines of the building, telling our workmen that was only a sample of what they would do should we attempt to do any work.

We were first ordered by a mob to stop work before we knew there was a strike. We stopped and did no work whatsoever for over three weeks, feeling that we would co-operate with the Union and give them time to settle their problems, although we were in no way involved. This apparently did not satisfy the organizers because when we resumed work we were forced to stop through threats and intimidation.

My hope is that we have here in the Eastern Townships sufficient Mayors and other Municipal Officers of good will, who will see that law and order is once more restored.

Yours sincerely,
L. G. McGillon,
Bursar.

WORKING UNDER PRESSURE...

Adventures with God

Places the God-honoring family as the foundation of the nation

By JANE SCOTT

Christian organizations have been observing Family Week with special services planned to encourage family togetherness. Never in the history of mankind has there been greater need for a reemphasis on the importance of the God-honoring family as the foundation stone of the nation.

As goes the home so goes the nation. The family is a little wheel that turns the big wheel of the nation. One broken home has a bad influence on the whole of society.

When come the teen age gangs on the street corners? They come from the disorganized families in the community. They draw into their insidious cells some children from good families.

The growing menace of street-corner gangs was brought home to me last Saturday as I joined shocked shoppers to watch a sad procession.

STREET SCENE MAY 5

A brief item in a newspaper often indicates a major tragedy. A Monday headline read: Police Round Up 23 Juveniles. The two-paragraph item ended with 11 tragedy-packed words: "Two boys 13 and 15 are charged with drinking under age."

The curb was lined with nickle-plated motorcycles and the street with shoppers, as I stepped aside for the slow marchers.

Approximately 20 youths (girls and boys) some in black leather jackets and slims, all smirking and sneering at the shocked onlookers.

Three of them were carrying a boy. He was young. I judged him to be 13 or 14, fair of skin and blonde.

I was close enough to kiss the young face. It was still as winsome as a sleeping baby. My eyes burned with tears and my heart with compassion.

PURE AS DEW

Under my breath I gasped: Oh God! How will his parents feel? The lines of an old song flashed through my mind: Once he was pure as the morning dew.

As he knelt at his mother's knee:
No face was so bright, no heart more true.

And none was so sweet as he.
Was he one of the children from a good home who had been drawn into the vacuum of evil? Or was he a member of a family in which neither God nor morals are respected or practised?

Would his parents weep over their erring one or would they accept the episode as a passing phase of the child's development and an evidence of their modernity? Who was to blame for the lad's condition?

In nine out of ten cases of juvenile delinquency I believe that parents must accept the blame. Too many parents have brought up their children to believe that having fun and getting kicks is more important than having a good name and reputation with God and man.

By example they teach their children that it is smart to drink and mix cocktails and partners and to ignore God and His moral laws and His day for rest and worship.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — The CBC's scheduling of free time for political telecasts was done with the thought — may, the hope — that the CBC could present a Diefenbaker-Pearson debate.

That is why the TV time is in half hour chunks. That size air time lends itself nicely to two 10-minute speeches and two four-minute rebuttals, with a couple of minutes in which to choke off more vociferous speakers.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's refusal to play Nixon to Pearson's Kennedy was not unexpected. He told President Kennedy a year ago that if he had been in Vice-President Nixon's shoes, he would have rejected the debate invitation. Nixon had more to lose than to gain in the encounter, and the PM feels the same way about a debate with Pearson.

Another valid reason is that Diefenbaker is hard of hearing. He compensates for this in the Commons by using an earphone. But he would not care to parade his disability on TV by using a hearing aid, and without it he would be at a distinct disadvantage.

Presumably knowing all this, the CBC went ahead with its scheduling to accommodate debates. Maybe it counted on the PM's ego, expecting he couldn't resist a Grey Cup size audience. Maybe it was betting that the PM would risk a debate rather than appear chicken.

But whatever its reasoning, the CBC faced the PM with a situation not to his liking and strengthened the conviction of a good many Tory MPs of the last Parliament that the CBC is biased against their party and government.

The climax of the situation arrived Monday night, when the CBC had a half hour of television time set aside for the leaders of the Conservative and Liberal parties. But although the PM had declined to debate with Pearson, the CBC arrangement produced the next thing to a debate: 15 minutes of the PM on election issues, and 15 minutes of Liberal Party film starring Pearson on election issues. All that was missing was the physical confrontation and the rebuttal.

The quarter hour of "my fellow Canadians", slightly off-eyed due to Diefenbaker's reliance on a teleprompter, was not the PM's best. And in the Liberals' 15 minutes Pearson neatly upstaged the PM, in much the same way that Diefenbaker often upstages Pearson in the Commons.

The Liberals took full advantage of the recent relaxations of regulations covering political broadcasting — as New Democrat candidates David Lewis and Walter Pitman also did in the half hour they shared on the Private TV network with Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson. The Liberal presentation was bright and lively, with a mixture of Pearson travelling, whistle-stopping and hustings-speaking, topped off with a close-up close-up of the Liberal leader looking and speaking directly into the camera and the nation's living rooms behind it.

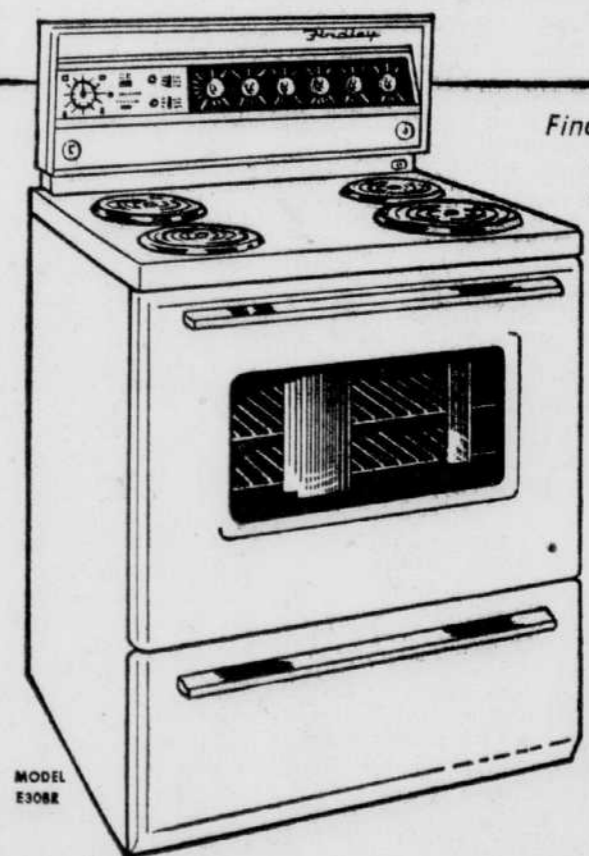

The Tories tried nothing new. Diefenbaker's technique is the old fireside chat technique pioneered by Franklin Delano Roosevelt in the 1930's, but used, I think, less effectively. The PM does not have FDR's personality.

Consolation for the Conservatives, if it can be called such, is that those voters who switched channels on the PM also missed Pearson. But the lesson should not be lost on the Tory campaign planners: for the next TV encounter they need a better technique.

With the June 18 election a month away, the leaders of the so-called old parties were setting the pace of the campaign while Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson and T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party chief, were building up steam.

Douglas and Thompson both have indicated their strategy is keyed to a barnstorming tour in the last weeks of the campaign and they're busy laying the groundwork now.

Week In Quebec: Work is to start in September on a $50,000,000 tunnel-bridge to link Montreal Island with the south shore of the St. Lawrence River, a four-year project of the Trans-Canada Highway program that has two distinct features. The tunnel, at 5,000 feet, will be the longest in Canada, and the bridge—with no overhead steel supports—will be the first of its kind in North America. Premier Lesage announced the project at a press conference.

remove any doubts that he is subsidized by the New Democratic Party to spread the socialist doctrine.

With a month to go before election day, it is probable that many more such works will appear dealing with the different parties, their policies and their leaders.

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATORS BUSY

The federal election campaign has removed some of the spotlight from the Quebec Legislature session. But some of the measure being studied by the Quebec Assembly may have an important effect on future federal elections.

Especially is this true of the controversial election act reforms which tread much new ground, for Canada at any rate. They are designed to cut down campaign expenditures and provide government financial assistance for candidates.

Many of the original provisions of the act have been so amended in committee that they bear little resemblance to the initial draft.

One important change concerns the expenditure by central party organizations. Originally, "recognized" parties, the only ones permitted to spend money throughout the province, were limited to groups with candidates in two-thirds of the constituencies. Yielding to complaints this would prevent the establishment of new parties, the special committee has changed the requirement to the entering of ten candidates.

'Do own job'
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)
A Methodist bishop warns that the church is not to become insignificant in our time," Bishop

James Mathews of Boston said
Thursday, "it must do its own job - to wit, to bear the word of God to the world."

For and about Women

Something special to serve the family on Empire Day

Empire Day . . . May 24th, the anniversary of Queen Victoria's birthday . . . originated in Canada and has been celebrated continuously since 1899. The national holiday was established through the moving efforts of Mrs. Clementina Fessenden who, noting the interest of her eight-year old granddaughter at a meeting of the Wentworth Historical Society, thought others might similarly be interested in the history of their forefathers.

To mark this proud day, serve something out of the ordinary. Try this suggestion . . . fit for Queen Victoria herself. Planked Fish with Vegetables and Dill Sauce is a spectacular affair . . . yet it's simple to make. And it's economical, too, because instant pasteurized powdered skim milk is used. Versatile powdered skim milk, which is so rich-tasting and dissolves instantly, emphasizes the succulent flavour of fish and enhances the taste of the tender vegetables and the smooth piquant sauce. And not only is powdered skim milk convenient to use, it's high in nutrition and low in calories as well.

The second recipe is another attractive fish dish for a festive occasion. Try them both . . . you'll be pleased with your own culinary tribute to Empire Day!

Planked Fish and Vegetables with Dill Sauce, made with easy-to-use and economical instant pasteurized powdered skim milk, is our festive choice for Empire Day.

PLANKED FISH AND VEGETABLES WITH DILL SAUCE
(Makes 4 servings)
1 2-pound whitefish, head and tail removed, 1-1/2 cups reliaquified instant pasteurized powdered skim milk (according to package directions), 1 teaspoon salt, Dash

8 fresh or frozen sole filets, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 2/3 cup instant pasteurized powdered skim milk, 1-1/2 cups water, 1/4 teaspoon salt, Dash pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped chives.
Sprinkle fish with 1 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Roll up and place in shallow casserole. Dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 40 minutes. Combine flour, powdered skim milk and water; mix well. Cook over low heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Add 1/4 teaspoon salt, dash pepper and chives. Serve fish with sauce.

'Luck' in securing job is of your own making

With high school or college graduation behind them, thousands of girls will be out looking for their very first jobs in June.

Almost everywhere that these young, inexperienced girls apply for work there will be other applicants after the same job.

When the educational background is about equal what is going to tip the scales in favour of the "lucky" girl who is hired?

It won't be luck in most cases. Chances are it will be one of three things or a combination of all three.

The "lucky" girl will appear to be eager for a chance to work and serious about the big step she is about to take — entering the business world.

The "lucky" girl will look as though she is ready to go to work immediately — that is, she will be dressed and groomed appropriately for a working girl — rather than like a school girl, out looking for a job as casually and as haphazardly as though she were out window shopping.

The "lucky" girl will give the impression that she not only wants a job — she is ready to go to work and expects to really work for a pay check. She will give that impression both by the way she answers questions and the questions she asks.

There is a world of difference between wanting a job and wanting to go to work. The girl who just "wants a job" is likely to act dismayed or disinterested when told what skills the job will require of her. The only thing she seems to want to know about the job she is applying for is what the hours are, how much it will pay, and what she can expect in the way of vacations and time off.

So if you want to be the Mint report lists all coins

A most important asset to any numismatist is the yearly booklet called Royal Mint, the report of the Deputy Master and Comptroller. Although I have never seen this book for sale in Canada, it is brimming with numismatic news. It brings one up to date on modern coins around the world, as well as history of British coinage.

Coins struck at mints in the United Kingdom are listed, in addition to branches of the Royal Mint in Canada, Melbourne and Perth, Australia; Indian government mints at Alipore, Bombay and Hyderabad, and the Pakistan and South African mints.

Also listed are coins struck specifications of each, with alloy used.

The Maldiv Islands, for example, ordered an entirely new currency of six denominations showing as the common obverse the emblem of the Maldives with a flagstaff on either side, and the date 1960 in English and 1379 in Arabic, composed of nickel-brass and bronze.

Kuwait also had new currency of six denominations depicting a Kuwait dhow with year of minting in Arabic, in both Gregorian and Hejira dates. Reverses show in the centre the value, under inscription "Emirate of Kuwait" and below the centre in English the word "Kuwait". These were made of cupro-nickel and nickel-brass.

Most of these coins are struck and sent directly to the country where they belong. Spinks of London manages sometimes to acquire some for sale at a later date, as with the Nigerian sets, and some local dealers eventually acquire the more common pieces. However, after studying the report, it is easier to follow up and trace coins than wait for them to appear.

The Royal Mint report was in the shops by July last year, and the 1961 report will be on sale early this summer. Price is seven shillings plus postage, from any of Her Majesty's stationery offices in London, and if ordered now, they will be sent out as soon as available.

In the United Kingdom mint for foreign countries. During 1960 for Ecuador, Greece (for the first time in 30 years), Iceland, Iraq, Israel, Jordan, Kuwait, Libya, Uruguay. MUSIC ON RECORDS

By HUGH DOHERTY

TCHAIKOVSKY — Symphony No. 5; New York Philharmonic, Leonard Bernstein cond. (COLUMBIA stereo MS 6312) — From Mr. Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic one automatically expects a big, brash performance of this rousing concert favorite, and on this recording, all concerned live up to expectations. As unashamedly romantic in his approach to the music as the music itself is, Mr. Bernstein leads the orchestra through an energetic, flamboyant version of the work. After three fine movements, in fact, Mr. Bernstein appears to become carried away with his own flamboyance, and negotiates the closing movement at a breakneck pace. So rapid and so full of flourishes is Mr. Bernstein's finale that in it, those who find Mr. Bernstein shallow and showy will find much evidence to support their views.

PURCELL — DIDO AND AENEAS — The St. Anthony Singers, English Chamber Orchestra, Anthony Lewis cond. (L'OISEAU-LYRE stereo SOL 60047) — Curiously enough, this only true opera of the great 17th Century English composer was created expressly for performance at a school for young girls. The work betrays its origin, too. In many ways, the charming and lively opera resembles a quaint Gilbert and Sullivan operetta. The comparison is far from being an exact one, but there are in the opera the same spiritedness and tunefulness that one finds much later in G & S. Nowhere is there even a hint of the heavy "grandness" of grand opera. The work is like a small gem, sparkling and attractive, and the performance given it is superlative. Soloists are uniformly good, but particularly outstanding is the chorus work. It is disciplined and polished, more well defined than grand opera ever is. It is, in fact, very much like some of the best English choral church music.

MOZART — QUARTET No. 20 in D major (Hoffmeister); Quartet No. 22 in B flat major (2nd Prussian); Vienna Philharmonic Quartet (LONDON stereo CS 6231) — Two of Mozart's more sprightly string quartets are played with vigor and effervescence by the Vienna quartet. While their playing has undoubted polish, it does not always flow along as smoothly as one might hope. There it at times a rather pronounced "oom-pah" which mars an otherwise excellent performance. This is especially true of the Hoffmeister work.

The forces which shaped him and modern theatre revealed

O'NEILL — by Arthur and Barbara Gelb, Harper & Brothers, New York, 944 pages, $12.50.

By GLADYS TAYLOR
Have you planned your summer vacation yet? If not, Stratford may be just the place for you. Not only will a holiday in this picturesque part of Ontario give you the opportunity to see such plays as MACBETH, THE TAMING OF THE SHREW and THE TEMPEST, this year but while there you will also be able to meet some real live Shakespearean actors, hear some real live Shakespearean actors, hear some interesting lectures and take part in some lively discussions — provided of course that you enroll in one of McMaster University's 1962 Shakespeare Seminars.

These seminars, which have now become an annual event are said to be among the most enjoyable and recording literary events open to Canadians. Organized by Peter Smith of McMaster's extension Department, among this year's speakers and panelists will be Nevill Coghill, Oxford University, G. B. Harrison, University of Michigan; J. Percy Smith, University of Saskatchewan; R. A. Foakes, University of Toronto; Robertson Davies, playwright, novelist and critic; John Wain, poet, novelist and critic; Herbert Whitaker of the GLOBE AND MAIL; Michael Langham, Director of the Stratford Festival; George McCowan, director of THE TEMPEST; Louis B. Wright, Director of the Folger Shakespeare Library; R. F. McDonnell, Ohio University; and Marion B. Smith, University of British Columbia.

The seminars will be limited to a membership of approximately 125 and reservations must be made before June 1st. The seminars will be held from August 5 to 11 and from August 12 to 18. Fees range from $85 to $110 for each seminar.

If you do decide to go to Stratford this summer it might add to your enjoyment of the trip if you read BACKSTAGE AT STRATFORD (reviewed elsewhere on this page) before you leave.

A recent edition of THE JOURNAL OF EDUCATION FOR NOVA SCOTIA, carried a speech on "Joseph Howe and the Freedom of the Press" delivered by Dr. C. Bruce Fergusson, Nova Scotia's Provincial Archivist on the occasion of the unveiling of a plaque commemorating Joseph Howe's struggle for this freedom.

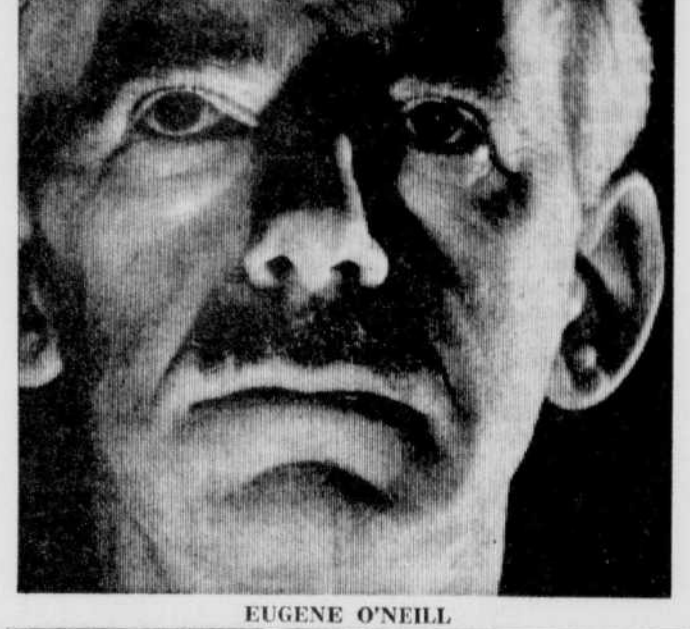

A gathering of Toronto writers recently went on a poetry binge when they listened to readings of their own works by such exponents of modern poetry as Gwen MacEwen Acorn, George Miller and Mike Strong. Following the poetry reading Robert V. McCormack of CBC ANTHOLOGY spoke on "the reading aloud of poetry down through the ages."

Crawley Films, which has made over 1,000 shorts in 20 years, plans to get its first feature-length film, HUGH MACLENNAN'S BAROMETER RISING before the cameras this fall. Incidentally next month is the tentative date set for the general release of a movie made four years ago from Morley Callaghan's NOW THAT APRIL'S HERE.

Mrs. Thelma Reid Lower, a member of the Vancouver Branch of the Canadian Authors' Association informs us that she is assembling an anthology of Canadian verse for children aged 3 to 15 years. The aim of the anthology is to give children poems reflecting the rich variety of Canadian life. Mrs. Lower three and four thousand hopes to collect between poems from which she will select 1000 of real literary merit. Her address is 4040 West 35th Ave., Vancouver 13.

Long Day's Journey Into Night, produced posthumously, is O'Neill's most comprehensive portrayal of his family, according to the Gelbs who are avid disciples of Freud. O'Neill never flinched in his belief that a genuine American tradition of drama could be forged from native talent. He was uncompromising in his goal and held to it despite offers to write for the Broadway which, at the time he was a fledgling but already promising playwright, was presenting heavy Victorian three-act plays as serious fare. He raised the level of American drama to an art and, in the process, swept the stage of its clutter of stultifying tradition, unimaginative producers and fourth-rate works.

The Gelbs in this impressive biography show the forces that shaped Eugene O'Neill, and, just as important, the American theatre as we know it today.

Sprightly star worship

BACKSTAGE AT STRATFORD by JOAN GANONG — 198 p.p. — LONGMANS CANADA — $4.95.

Though Joan Ganong tends to write a little too gushingly of the people and events at Stratford, her bad case of star worship and stage adulation is sufficiently relieved by sprightly and humorous comments to make it bearable. Aside from its overly adulatory quality, BACKSTAGE AT STRATFORD is a book you will likely enjoy, particularly if you have ever attended a Stratford Shakespearean Festival or plan to do so in the future.

Using as examples the plays of the 1961 season, CORIOLANUS, HENRY VIII and LOVE'S LABOUR'S LOST, Miss Ganong describes the intricate and laborious steps by which a Stratford production is built. She explains the blocking of plays. She explains how rehearsals behind the scenes and on the actual stage must be synchronized so that fifty-one actors may not only rehearse in three different plays, but have as well 211 costume fittings plus dance, fencing and choir rehearsals.

She devotes a section to "Props and Wardrobe, who mount the plays, and Tanya Moisevitch and Brian Jackson, who design them." She does all these things with such felicity that the reader becomes almost as involved — and as hopeful of success — as the participants themselves. So much so in fact that the rain which almost ruined the 1961 opening becomes as disappointing to the reader as to those who got soaked in it.

In writing this explanatory book about Stratford, Miss

Worthwhile light reading

"A SEPARATE PERSON" — Elizabeth Holland, MacMillan Co. of Canada Ltd. — 248 pages — $3.50.

"A Separate Person" is the delightful story of a young girl orphaned early and growing up on a western farm, which while not poverty stricken, was of necessity primitive with today's standards.

Peggy's growing awareness of herself as a separate personality and her encounters with her male cousins develop a zest for life that brooks no interference. Her maneuvering to get away from the farm during her school years and finally into university show a maturity far beyond her years but the falling under the spell of first a student anarchist and then a young evangelist in kilts shows up the naivete of a teenage mind groping its way to fulfillment.

This is an honest and vivid account of the thoughts, feelings and subsequent actions of a girl from pigtail days through school and university to the final realization of where her real aims and happiness were to be and the surrender at last to that realization.

The portrayal of a down-to-earth, "no nonsense" grandmother is brilliantly done and adds zest and charm to what could so easily have turned into an insipid first novel.

A refreshing novel that leaves one with a warm, tender feeling in contact with so much that is written today of the flaming rebellious teenage years. This is light reading but worthwhile.

The problem of identity

A STAR IN THE WIND — By Robert Nathan — McClelland & Stewart — $5.25 — 200 p.p.

This the story of a young American Jew, who, after an unhappy childhood in a mid-western city of the United States, is sent to Europe by a Canadian newspaper. In Rome he meets a Boston girl with an Ivy League background, and there develops a love affair which would have been improbable in America.

Here, however, they are both Americans away from home, and their differences tend to be overcome to a certain extent by this common ground. The girl, though, conscious of their essential differences, finally breaks off the affair, but not before she has succeeded in making him conscious of being a Jew, with a dawning awareness of his responsibilities toward other Jews.

BETTY GIBB

Ganong will undoubtedly add much to Canadian's already great pride in — and appreciation of — the project launched by Tyrone Guthrie and Alec Guinness in a tent in 1953.

Joan Ganong was born in St. Stephen, New Brunswick and came by her writing ability honestly with such authors as Dr. W. F. Ganong, Dr. Susan Ganong and Kate Douglas Wiggin among her forebears.

BACKSTAGE AT STRATFORD is a book worth adding to your library. Miss Ganong is a Canadian whose literary career is worth watching.

Ivor Whitehouse Collecting in the Townships

The St. Francis Collectors Club will hold their next meeting on May 23rd at Pat's Diner in Lennoxville. You are cordially invited to this gathering and you are assured of a wonderful evening with your fellow collectors. This coming meeting will feature a talk on stamps and stamp collecting by the energetic secretary of the club, Fred Smith of Lennoxville. Mr. Smith has worked long and hard to make the club a success and his knowledge of stamps assures you of an educational evening. The last meeting, which featured an auction, had an attendance of over thirty enthusiastic stamp collectors. The auction was successful and well run. It was noted that Mr. Charter of Richmond was in attendance, also Mr. Derrick of St. Bruno, and collectors from a number of other points. We welcomed Leslie LeBaron of North Hatley to our meetings after a long siege in Queen Mary Veterans Hospital and a holiday in Florida. The evening was climaxed by a delicious lunch for which all present extend their thanks to J. N. White of Coaticook.

Hong Kong is one of the smallest British colonies but it manages to support a fantastic number of people and in these days it provides an important link for the free world with Red China. The Colony is situated at the mouth of the Canton River on the south-east coast of China next to the province of Kwangtung. In January, 1841, the island was occupied by British forces partly as a reprisal for the treatment of British merchants in Canton and partly as a base from which trade with China could be conducted free from interference. The cession was confirmed by the Treaty of Nanking in August, 1842 and part of the mainland and various islands were added to the Colony by the 1860 and 1898 Conventions of Peking. Almost a century of uninterrupted peaceful development followed the Treaty of Nanking. The fine natural harbour developed into one of the world's great ports, and the freedom of the port ensured the role of entrepot for trade of China's southern provinces. The Colony was attacked in December, 1941 by the Japanese and fell on Christmas Day after 18 days of fighting. Canadians well remember this disaster, especially the people of the Townships, for here the Royal Rifles played a tremendous part. There have been some interesting stamps from the Colony and now we have the Postal Centenary Issue to add to the list, this set consists of three values and is within the reach of most collectors.

New Zealand has several new issues coming up, the usual semi-postals will be issued in August, and once again they will picture birds, the Parakeet and the Saddle-back and it is intended to show these birds as near as possible in their natural colours. The Centenary of Telegraph will be commemorated on July list with a pair of stamps, the 3-d value will show an early Morse Key against a background of Port Hills, Lyttelton and the 8-d a modern teleprinter. The Christmas stamp will be issued in October and this year we will see a picture by Sassaferrato entitled "Madonna in Prayer."

Stamp collectors may now add another to the list of countries which will provide new issue news and information of stamps on sale at the agency. Austria has now joined with a very interesting folder of offers. Stamp collectors may obtain additional information, and at the same time receive some good stamps on the reply, by writing to the following address: Osterreichische Post, Briefmarkenverstandstelle, Wein 1, Austria. There is no charge and if you can struggle through that address you will find it worth while.

Amazing characterization

ARARAT by Stella Wilcheck, The Musson Book Co. Ltd., $5.95, 563 pp.

ARARAT is written as the diary of an Austrian Jew who was one of a small group who fled to South America shortly before World War II broke out.

The diary form can be very restrictive since it tends to make the characters indistinct and the plot lack immediacy. Miss Wilcheck, however, has not only avoided these pitfalls, she has used the diary method to give complete validity to her story and make her characters come alive.

Miss Wilcheck is often reminiscent of that inimitable portraitist of the foibles of people, Jane Austen. Miss Wilcheck like Miss Austen doesn't intrude her own opinions, she allows the characters to speak for themselves.

The diarist Professor Bernstein does comments on people and situations but Miss Wilcheck is very careful to allow each person to develop on his own rather than having Professor Bernstein produce them ready-made.

Miss Wilcheck opens the story while Professor Bernstein and the two families with whom he escaped are still on board ship to South America. Once they arrive in El Parano the plot becomes more complicated as more characters are introduced and activity increases. Professor Bernstein gradually develops from a mildly licentious middle-aged man to an endearing and very wise old man. The Kramers and the Goldmanns are pathetic, grotesque, sometimes amusing but always fascinating.

Eva is the central character. She comes out with the Kramers to marry their son Walter. Although her life has been the least touched by tragedy before she comes to South America she is the only really tragic figure in the book.

Although the salvation of her honor which she eventually works out and her casual attitude to Walter at the end of the book may alienate the reader they have a weird justice which mirrors the troubled times.

Miss Wilcheck is too conscientious a portraitist of life to allow an entirely happy ending but even the tragedy is fitting and acceptable in the contest into which she puts it.

LEN O'DONNELL'S Sport Shots and Pot Shots

ALOUETTES ALL SET FOR OPENING TOMORROW

Sherbrooke Alouettes will open their 1962 season of football tomorrow afternoon when they play hosts to St. Johns Pirates at the Park Avenue Stadium.

Manager Yvon Ellyson has been hard at work in lining up a good squad and from their initial exhibition last Sunday, against Quebec Indians, one must admit they looked good.

Coach St. Vincent will put his charges through another workout this afternoon and the boys should be ready for the Pirates. Nothing is known about them but you may rest assured they will have a good club as St. Johns is a good ball town.

With the return of Chet Wodjic one of the other Americans was dropped and Lew Skinner got the nod. This means that Wayne Peak will take over first base duties while the other change is at third with Wodjic moving in.

The fluctuating career of knuckle ball specialist Ken Johnson was back on the track today after the Houston hand-me-down won his first game of the season with his first hit.

After losing five games Johnson virtually got the job done singlehandedly against National League leading San Francisco Friday night, cooling off the Giants with a four-hitter and driving in the winning run in the Colts' 3-2, 10-inning victory.

Johnson won it with a two-out single that chased in Carl Warwick with the clincher. Last year he bolstered Cincinnati Reds tired mound crew, winning vital games while posting a 6-2 record.

Despite the loss, the Giants maintained their three-game edge over the runner-up Los Angeles Dodgers, beaten by third-place St. Louis Cardinals 8-3. Cincinnati's fourth-place Reds closed in as Bob Purkey brought his record to 7-0 with a 4-1 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates.

Milwaukee Braves Warren Spahn three-hit New York Mets for a 5-2 decision, and Chicago Cubs outslugged Philadelphia Phillies 11-8 in other games.

Johnson gave up two hits and a run in the second inning, then held the Giants hitless until Willie McCovey tied it with a one-out homer in the ninth. In the 10th, Carl Warwick opened with a single, moved up on a sacrifice and a ground out, and scored the clincher on Johnson's first hit in 12 at bats.

Charley James' single drove the Yankees to a 3-2 victory over the Mets in the 10th. Carl Warwick opened with a single, moved up on a sacrifice and a ground out, and scored the clincher on Johnson's first hit in 12 at bats.

Sherbrooke's OTJ is staging a special excursion to Montreal next Sunday, May 27th, for the purpose of visiting various sporting centres in the Metropolis.

Juris Terauds, Physical Director at Sunnyside High School, has called a meeting of the Eastern Townships Track Association to take place at the Princess Elizabeth High School in Magog on Wednesday, May 23rd.

The general purpose of the meeting is to elect an executive. We understand the main idea behind the movement is to encourage young athletes in track and field.

This is the first time anyone has taken steps in this line and we sincerely hope all coaches in the District will be on hand. Juris Terauds is a former top athlete and set many a record while competing in local meets.

This Association is to include all schools and communities in the Townships and Juris Terauds hopes every school will have a representative on hand for the important meeting. He outlined his plans last week at the Y's Men's dinner and has already taken steps to seek aid from the provincial government.

Als meet St. Johns in opener Sunday

Sherbrooke Alouettes open the 1962 baseball campaign with a home stand against the St. Johns Pirates at the Park Avenue Stadium Sunday afternoon and after a 16-4 win over the Quebec Indians last Sunday, the Larks are bubbling with optimism and hopefulness for the coming season.

Even the club officials have predicted that if there ever was a banner year for Sherbrooke, this is it.

Major Armand Nadeau, Maurice Allard, and L. P. Brousseau, MPP for Sherbrooke, will be on hand for the league opening.

A few line-up changes have been made since last Sunday's game but it remains basically the same.

Claude Prud'Homme will get the nod and take over the pitching duties. His battery mate will be Fernand Dube. Normand Jacques, first string catcher, was scheduled to catch but a cast on his nose prevents him from discarding his mask fast enough.

Keith Peak, a long ball hatter who swung a bat for Waterloo last year, will be at the first base spot. Lew Skinner, an American colored player, was at first last week but has since been released by club officials.

Frank Kurty, a polished rookie, is slated to start at second base. He graduated this year from Montreal junior ranks and showed his value last Sunday.

Coach Claude St. Vincent will be playing at short-stop. St. Vincent was 4-for-4 at the plate last Sunday and broke the game up in the third inning when he drove a two-run shot over the rightfield wall.

Knuckle ball specialist Ken Johnson wins first game of season for Reds

Bob Bedard to compete in Oakville event

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Seven players will be featured during the annual Oakville invitation tennis tournament which starts here today. The finals will be held May 26.

Retired Davis Cup star Bob Bedard of Lennoxville, Que., will try for his third straight singles title. He is a heavy favorite.

Bernie Faloney signs contract with Ti-Cats

HAMILTON (CP) - Bernie Faloney, an unwanted Hamilton Tiger-Cat quarterback two seasons ago who was reported to be seeking $25,000 for 1962, has signed a three-year contract with the Eastern Football Conference club, it was announced Friday.

The 29-year-old Faloney, who was practically booted out of Civic Stadium when Tiger-Cats finished last in the four-team conference in 1960, had a tremendous season with the team last year. He led Ticats to a Grey Cup final berth, was named to the Canadian Press eastern conference all-star team and was voted the country's outstanding player.

Bud Grant signs five-year term with Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP) - Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Football Conference Friday announced signing of Harry Peter (Bud) Grant as coach for an unprecedented five-year term.

Grant, 35, joined the club in 1953 as an end and in 1957 was named head coach. He then signed a one-year contract that was made two years in 1958.

Grant set another contractual record in Winnipeg when he signed the first four-year coaching contract in 1960.

LITTLE LEAGUE OOP by "TED" ANDERSON

Another banner year is in prospect for the Sher-Lenn Little League. The executive, team managers and coaches, at last week's meeting, were all enthusiastic for season 1962.

A few new faces are in the league this season. Back is Gerry Daniels as vice-president. Gerry was with the league when it was organized along with Charles Clark and coached and managed the St. Pat's Old Boys sponsored White Sox. They walked off with the championship three times during Gerry's period as coach.

The executive is fortunate to have him back in Little League. The official opening of the league will take place Saturday, June 9th, at the Parade Grounds. The guest of honor on the occasion will be Doug Harvey, former ace defenceman of the Montreal Canadiens. It certainly will be a great thrill for the youngsters to meet Harvey.

Notice that the Border Waterloo Little Leagues are not operating this season. This is too bad and we understand it's more so because of the lack of interest of the parents, in the Waterloo district. It is surprising they are not operating as they really had a fine executive and, we hope it's only temporary and that they are both back next season.

Montreal Little League circles suffered a sad blow during the past winter in the death of Bill Gray. Bill was well known to all Little Leaguers and his going will be missed more ways than one.

Charlie Clark takes over the mantle of Chief-Umpire in the league this season and we are given to understand he has quite a staff lined up. Charlie will certainly do a good job.
