EIGHTH ARMY TODAY NEARS END OF LONG TRAIL

Gains Fifteen Miles In Drive Towards Tunis

Bare Fifty Miles Today Separates British 8th Army from Headquarters of Rommel at Tunis—Axis Forces Subjected to Ever-Increasing Aerial Pounding as Ground Forces Continue Pressure.

By DANIEL DE LUCE,
Associated Press Staff Writer
Allied Headquarters, North Africa, April 13.—(AP)—Allied forces pushed the enemy into a steadily contracting area in the Northern tip of Tunisia, gaining new ground North of Sousse and Kairouan, on the Southern side of the Axis box, and in the Medjez-El-Bab sector on the Northwest, Allied headquarters announced today.

(The Algiers radio, in a broadcast recorded in London, said that the British 8th Army had reached Enfidaville, twenty-seven miles North of Sousse, and fifty miles South of Tunis, and that nearly the whole of the Italian Vittorio division had been captured.)

(London military quarters estimated that Marshal Rommel was withdrawing into his Tunis-Bizerte defences, an area about 150 miles long by 40 miles wide, with about 210,000 men, 150,000 of them Germans.)

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's seasoned 8th Army patrols engaged rearwards of the Africa Corps on the coastal road between Lake Kribia and the sea as Rommel maintained his withdrawal through the Enfidaville line under a constant pressure. (This would indicate that the Montgomery advance was from five to fifteen miles North of Sousse.)

British 1st Army troops were last reported fifteen miles North of Kairouan and pressing on rapidly.

While French troops mopped up the Diebel Ousselt on the West flank and continued to advance Northward along the Grand Dorsal Range, the 1st Army in the Medjez-El-Bab area, thirty-five miles Southwest of Tunis, captured additional hill vantage points.

(The Vichy radio, German-controlled, said Rommel had been reinforced by air in the last few days with men and weapons.)

(The Italian communiqué, broadcast by the Rome radio and recorded by the Associated Press, claimed that sixty dead and 124 injured were left in Allied raids on Italy and Italian islands.)

Patrols from both the British 8th Army and the 1st Army are pushing forward North between the coast and the hills, and French forces continue to press forward in the hills to the East of the Ousselt plain, in the war bulletin said.

In the air, Allied fliers continued to pound enemy bases and airfields, scoring hits yesterday on docks and

COUNTERFEIT MONEY BASIS FOR AFRICAN PROPAGANDA

With the British 8th Army at Sfax, April 10.—(Delayed)—(AP)—In an attempt to break down Arab faith in United States currency the Germans have been circulating among the native population reproductions of one and five dollar bills bearing on the reverse side a death's head and an inscription in Arabic: "This money has the appearance of being gold. Don't be fooled by its value."

Japanese Mass Huge Forces For Great Drive Against Australia

By C. YATES McDANIEL,
Associated Press Staff Writer,
Allied Headquarters in Australia, April 13.—(AP)—Japan has concentrated 200,000 first-line troops and a great air force North of Australia and may be expected to undertake an offensive at any time, Gen. Sir Thomas A. Blamey told a special press conference today.

Gen. Blamey, Commander-in-Chief of Allied ground forces in this area, said the heavy Japanese air assaults on Allied bases in the Solomon Islands and New Guinea in recent days marked the opening phase of the enemy's struggle to regain parity, then mastery in the air.

The "profound shock" of Japan's losses in the Bismarck Sea and other actions has taught the enemy he cannot move large forces without gaining air control, he continued.

In consequence, he said, "the Japanese are concentrating their aggressive attentions—already developed to a strength of 200,000 first-line troops and a powerful air force—along the island arc Northward to Australia for the purpose of returning to an offensive interrupted by successive Allied successes in the Coral Sea, the Solomons, New Guinea and the Bismarck Sea."

"The result of this struggle in the next few weeks will have the greatest importance for us."

He said the Japanese have not yet approached peak development in their bases in islands extending across a sixty-degree arc from Northwest to Northeast of Australia. The enemy is able to concentrate in this area, the veteran Australian commander declared, because

SALVAGE SEEN AS BASIS FOR BETTER TIMES

British Experts See Salvage and Elimination of Waste as Basis for Romance and Happiness After War.

By ALAN RANDAL,
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, April 13.—(AP)—Reclamation authorities call it just plain salvage (with a capital "S" of course because this is wartime.) In the home they associate it with the dustbin and the garbage can. But the people who have really looked into the business of salvage see in it the key to romance and happiness so this child born of the war is likely to stay on through the days of peace.

Stage, the back garden ally of everyone will, if properly attended to, enable the world to reach an unsurpassed standard of living—shorter working hours, more leisure, more money, all of which adds up to comfort and happiness and removes money worries from the home. Anything like that should mean that the war is over on long after the honeymoon is over.

The authority for all this is Sir

Allies More Than Holding Place In Battle Against German Subs, Churchill Tells British House

London, April 13.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill reiterated in the House of Commons today that "We are more than holding our own" in the Atlantic battle against Germany's U-boats.

The Prime Minister was asked by Emanuel Shinwell, Labor, if he had any comment on the statement of Frank Knox, United States Secretary of the Navy, about heavy shipping losses in March.

Mr. Churchill replied: "My attention has been drawn to this statement. I agree with Col. Knox that results of the U-boat warfare are serious, as they always must be. His statement, however, refers to a limited period following one in which sinkings were comparatively small. "Viewing the battle against the U-boat as a whole I can repeat my previous assurance that we are more than holding our own."

(Knox said a week ago in Washington that ship losses were higher in March than in February, and that up to the present the Nazi attacks had developed "as we expected." The new submarine attacks were chiefly in mid-Atlantic along supply routes to Britain and Africa. Knox said, giving them a temporary immunity from Allied air patrols.

(With losses in February reported among the lowest of any month of the war, Washington interpreted the increase as indicating a trend rather than a peak of destruction, with the German submarine offensive actually underway.

Shinwell asked if more information could be given about the campaign against submarines in view of considerable disquiet in shipping circles among the seamen who are engaged in this warfare and among ship-owners.

Mr. Churchill responded: "I do not want to give exact information which would be of great advantage to the enemy but a great deal of information has been given of general character on this subject."

"I do not believe that the disquiet is more serious than it naturally would be at all times when this form of warfare is being levied upon us. Certainly if it were, there is no ground for it."

(The Berlin radio, in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, reported a special announcement from Hitler headquarters asserting that U-boats attacked a heavily loaded Allied convoy in the North Atlantic on the way to Britain.

"In this action as well as in single attacks in the Caribbean and off the South African coast they sank twenty-one ships totalling 138,500 tons and torpedoed six more ships," the announcement said. It did not specify when the asserted actions took place and no confirmation in specific detail has been made from an Allied source.)

FRESH HAVENS FOR REFUGEES UNDER REVIEW

International Governmental Action to Aid Refugees from Persecution Object of Bermuda Parley.

Washington, April 13.—(AP)—New havens for European refugees from Nazi persecution, with the United Nations footing the board bill until the war is over, will be sought in the forthcoming conference of British and United States experts at Bermuda.

(An External Affairs Department spokesman at Ottawa said March 28 that there had been no suggestion from any quarter that Canada enter the discussions. He added there was no reason for Canada to enter the discussions in their initial stages and emphasized that the Dominion is prepared to do its part in seeking a solution to the problem.)

With wartime shortages of food and housing, Britain already is giving asylum to more than 250,000 refugees in the British Isles, Jamaica, Mauritius, Cyprus, the East African colonies and Palestine.

The United States, also beginning to feel the pinch of wartime shortages, is sheltering more than 500,000 refugees from the Axis-dominated countries who came here since the advent of the Hitler regime in 1933.

The two countries consequently are looking for some joint programme to care for additional refugees who may flee Germany's attempt to exterminate the Jews, the Poles and other Nazi-despised peoples. They propose to deal with the problem internationally instead of by private charity or by individual governments.

With this aim, the State Department said Monday that April 19 has been set as the opening date of the conference.

Host at the conference will be the British Government, which proposed an informal meeting in January and obtained the American acceptance in February. State Secretary Cordell Hull suggested Ottawa for the site, but British officials chose Bermuda because, they said, it was a midway point.

CZECH JOURNAL PAYS TRIBUTE TO CANADIANS

Many Aspects of Canadian Life Discussed in Special Edition of Czech Foreign Office Paper.

London, April 13.—(AP)—The Czech-Slovak Foreign Ministry, paying tribute to Canada, has printed a special Canadian edition of "The Czech-Slovak," Czech language weekly, to tell exiled Czechs about the Dominion and her people.

The paper carried a map leaf on the right-hand top corner and a picturesque view of the Peace Tower, snapped from an archway of Ottawa's East Block of the Parliament Buildings. Inside were printed the Czech words for "O Canada," accompanied by the music.

On the front page, too, there were greetings from Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Defence Minister Ralston, L. D. Wilgus, Canadian Minister to Russia, Senator Cairine Wilson of Ottawa, and Prof. E. R. Adair, professor of history at McGill University.

The special edition devoted thousands of words to telling how Czechs from the Old World are faring in the New. There were stories of their loyalty, their history and lengthy descriptions, accompanied by pictures, of the Canada in which they live.

Prime Minister King, in his message to the paper, said Canadians had "witnessed with an admiration which cannot be written in words the steadfast courage with which the brave defenders of the free spirit of Czechoslovakia have endured uncounted suffering and desolation."

The single word "Lidice," he said, had passed into the Canadian vocabulary as a symbol for all time.

Washington, April 13.—(AP)—Hundreds of Canadian and American fishing vessels will take out after Pacific halibut when the season opens at midnight Thursday. Date of the season's opening was announced today by the United States Office of the Co-ordinator of Fisheries.

WAR BULLETINS

Cairo, Egypt — United States bombers attacked Naples harbor in daylight Sunday and hit Vittorio Emanuele Mole and the vicinity of the shipbuilding works, a United States air force communiqué announced today.

London — The Moscow radio reported today that twenty-five German planes had been shot down by Russian fliers and anti-aircraft batteries in an attempted raid on Krasnodar in the Western Caucasus. Five Russian planes were lost in the action, said the broadcast, which was recorded by the Soviet radio monitor here.

LONG ARGUMENT ON EDUCATION BILL FORECAST

Considerable Opposition Expected to Government Measure on Free, Compulsory Education.

Quebec, Apr. 13.—(AP)—The Legislative Assembly, when it reconvenes today after the week-end adjournment, is expected to settle down to the study of the legislation which the Government plans to introduce during the present session.

Since the opening of the session last February 23, little time has been devoted to the study of legislation as the Throne Speech debate, the Budget Speech debate and debate on Member motions first were cleared from the order paper.

Some Member motions remain on the order paper, but this week the House is expected to adopt a motion for the holding of two sittings a day instead of one. Premier Godbout notified the House last week that he wished to hold two sittings a day Monday through Friday.

A bill to create a Provincial Civil Service Commission similar to the Federal Civil Service Commission is expected to be the first measure to

Ministers Oppose Call For Wider Concessions In Farmer's Income Tax

Members of All Parties Demand Complete or Partial Exemption Be Granted Farmers on Income Tax—Government Fails to Make Any Progress on Taxation Proposals After Day of Committee Debate.

SASKATCHEWAN HOUSE EXTENDS OWN CAREER

Regina, April 13.—(AP)—The fifth session of Saskatchewan's Ninth Legislature prorogued late last night after adopting a bill that lengthened the Legislature's term to six years.

The bill to amend the Saskatchewan Legislature until July 18, 1944, and provides that "it shall not be necessary to hold any general election to choose members of the Assembly until that date."

A last minute attempt by the C. C. F. to give the bill a six months hiatus was defeated 30-9.

By C. R. BLACKBURN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer,
Ottawa, April 13.—(AP)—Finance Minister Hsley and Revenue Minister Gibson, the officials responsible, respectively, for imposing taxation and collecting it, stood firm in the House of Commons yesterday against a demand for concessions to farmer income tax payers.

The demands, coming from private members of all shades of political opinion, ranged all the way from complete exemption of all farmers from the income tax to exemption of the "butter and egg money" a farm wife may amass.

About four hours of the day's sitting was devoted to this discussion in which the Ministers answered a barrage of questions as to details of the farm income tax and turned aside numerous requests for relaxation of this impost.

A little progress was made with the budget resolutions on income tax changes which were being considered by the House in Committee of the Whole.

Late in the evening, when Western representatives of farm districts were repeating their arguments on behalf of farmers and their families, Arthur Slaght (Lib., Parry Sound) entered the discussion.

He said the people of his district, in great numbers, had seen their main source of income and a useful one to the country—the tourist traffic—ruined by the restrictions of war. But he was not asking special consideration for them.

"If every member singled out his own little grievance in his own district and asked the minister to discriminate in his favor... where would we get in this great war effort and in the collection of income tax?" he asked.

In the course of the long exchange Mr. Hsley told the Committee that it would be impossible to grant complete exemption to farmers as requested by Robert Fair (N. D., Battle River), and that wages for farm wives could not be charged against farm income any more than for wives in any other activity.

The last concession was the one demanded by the great majority of the many who spoke in the committee discussion. Member after member stressed the hard work necessarily performed by wives on farms.

To exempt farmers altogether, said Mr. Hsley, would set up a form of discrimination "so glaring we could never defend it" and to allow wages for farm wives would entitle every married householder to

Jurisdictional Dispute Menaces Dominion's Aluminum Production

Arvida, Que., April 13.—(AP)—Officers of the Aluminum Workers' Union (A.F.L.), advised officials of the Aluminum Company of Canada's giant plant here that the possibility of a stoppage of production "must be faced" if the company fails to negotiate with the union within seventy-two hours on the question of bargaining rights.

(At the Montreal headquarters one company official said a "threatening telegram had been received and forwarded to Ottawa," while another, closely associated with the firm's labor policy, denied knowledge of the union's approach.)

It appears to be a jurisdictional dispute between unions," said an Aluminum Company official here, pointing out that the company had a collective bargaining contract with the Confederation of Catholic Workers of Canada. "We have been advised by Ottawa that nothing will be allowed to stand in the way of continued uninterrupted production here."

The contract with the Catholic Confederation, representing potmen and other employees in the plant, was signed several years ago and has been automatically renewed each December since.

strike vote was reported yesterday, to have been taken by employees of the nearby Dolbeau power plant of Price Brothers and Company, Limited, whose newspaper and paper mills at Jonquiere, Riverbend and Kenogami have been tied up for six days by a strike of approximately 1,275 workers.

Result of the Dolbeau vote was not announced.

BAKERY TRADES NEGOTIATE
Montreal, April 13.—(AP)—A union official said yesterday that management of thirty bakeries and pastry-making concerns here have been invited to meet union leaders Wednesday and Thursday to discuss demands for increased wages and improved working conditions. "The managements have made no statement."

The official was Albert Senecal, business agent for the Syndicate of Employees of Bakeries and Pastry Shops in Montreal, a charter member of the Confederation of Catholic Workers of Canada. The union claims a majority support among the 2,100 workers in the industry.

Union demands include a full cost of living bonus, a 48-hour week, a closed shop, increased commissions for salesmen and some wage adjustments.

Eight Ontario Liberals Oppose Premier On Extension Of House

Toronto, April 13.—(AP)—Ontario's Legislature gathered momentum today for a speedy prorogation after witnessing the bolt from party lines of eight Liberals who voted with a solid Opposition against extending the life of the Legislature for another year.

The bill was given second reading by a 41-27 vote last night. Liberal opposition was led by the member for Brant, Harry Nixon, who resigned as Provincial Secretary when Mr. Conant succeeded Mitchell F. Hepburn as Premier last October.

Third reading of the bill was scheduled today, in afternoon and night sittings, which Premier Conant said in an interview would be held in the hope of prorogation of the present session would take place Wednesday morning.

Speaking on the bill to extend the life of the Legislature, Mr. Nixon said he had been on record for years as against such measures, adding, "these are still my views."

Backing him were Farquhar Oliver, former Minister of Welfare, Grey South; Eric Cross, Haldimand-Norfolk; W. A. Dickson, Perth; D. M. Campbell, Kent East; C. M. MacPhee, Middlesex South; R. G. Croome, Rainy River; Dr. J. C. Bradley, Renfrew North.

Prior to that Premier Conant said the people of Ontario did not want an election.

Replying to Opposition Leader Lt.-Col. George A. Drew's statement that he had agreed to an extension last year because of the war situation but could not do so this time because he felt there was a "very definite turning of the tide," the Premier said the war was even more serious now than it was when the previous extension was granted.

"If however," he added, "the situation should change materially, as, for example, the victorious conclusion of the war, different conclusions would apply." He also said that he thought the seven vacant seats of third reading and Royal Assent to become law. Col. Drew reiterated his previous statements that the provisions for a one-man court to administer the act was ultra vires and said he had been advised by constitutional lawyers the Act was "utterly unconstitutional and could be upset."

REVENUES OF POWER COMPANY SHOW INCREASE

Gross Returns of St. Maurice Corporation Move to $1,550,413 Against Previous Year's $1,325,121.

Gross revenues of St. Maurice Power Corporation in the year ended December 31, 1942, moved up to $1,550,413, as against $1,325,121 in 1941. After allowing for all charges, including tax provision of $102,079 compared with $6,221 in the preceding year, net profit totalled $83,466, all of which was carried forward to profit and loss account surplus. This contrasted with net profit in the previous year of $7,602.

The company's balance sheet showed an improved position last year, working capital increasing from $245,447 to $513,333. Cash and accounts receivable were lower, but holdings of Government bonds advanced from $25,000 to $525,000. Net capital outlay last year amounted to $92,354 and property account is shown on the books at $16,255,982.

In his report to the shareholders, James Wilson, President, states satisfactory progress is being made in the installation of the fifth unit of 44,500 h.p. at the La Tuque plant. This additional unit is expected to be in operation early in June.

OUTSIDE FIRMS GET HALF OF G.M. WAR WORK

Materials for War Production Cost General Motors Approximately $57,000,000 in 1942.

Oshawa, April 13.—General Motors' purchases from sub-contractors and suppliers scattered widely across Canada, to supply it with parts and materials for its war production approximated $57,000,000 in 1942, W. A. Wecker, General Manager, disclosed today.

"This extensive use of sub-contractors," Mr. Wecker said, "is merely the application of a long established peace time procedure of General Motors of Canada, procedure which has helped to maintain requirements of mass production of war material and which has spread approximately one half of its war work to outside firms."

"It was apparent at the start of the arms programme in Canada that these hundreds of small industries could never be 'prime contractors' because they had never built finished products for consumer use, serving solely as specialists in producing parts and assemblies for manufacturers turning out the final product."

"When the Government placed prime contracts in the hands of General Motors it was taken for granted that the network of suppliers James Marchant, K.B.E., who dealt the Allies have been unable to present a serious threat to the Japanese in any other theatre of war.

"If the enemy can regain the initiative in the air and maintain in the air he will pass to the offensive," he added.

He made note of the Japanese aerial attack on the Guadalcanal-Florida Island area April 7, when the enemy sank or damaged four Allied vessels against loss of thirty-nine of ninety-eight attacking planes, followed by an even more costly raid on Oro Bay, New Guinea, April 11, and yesterday's record-breaking hundred-plane assault against Port Moresby.

All this, he declared, is evidence that Japan's attempt to recapture air control in the Southwestern Pacific "already has started."

The noon communiqué from Allied Headquarters April 12 anticipated the great enemy assault on the Allies' New Guinea base at Port Moresby which developed later in the day. It said "reconnaissance reports showing major increases in enemy air strength and recent hostile attacks indicate the enemy has initiated an air offensive which may attain a considerable scale of effort."

A communiqué today followed with the statement that the shooting out of action of seventy-six enemy planes over New Guinea in the last two days may have "blunted the enemy's air offensive" and "dislocated his immediate plans."

For his statement today, Gen. Blamey reiterated the warning that great developments were in progress on a large scale of Japanese bases along the Northern coast of New Guinea, bases which certainly are prepared to handle more planes than the enemy has there at present.

Salvage Seen

with salvage in a lecture at Oxford. He pointed to the attention Germany and Japan gave to scarp in pre-war years while the Allied Nations were indulging in an orgy of waste.

Then he cited a report on the subject from the committee of American engineers that if Americans were only able to eliminate waste they would be able to maintain themselves at a higher standard of living and still work only a four-hour day in a four-day week.

The war turned Britain's attention to salvage, the dustbin for substitutes, and says Sir Stafford Cripps, "the campaign for saving waste is producing a moral and material revolution—the results are amazing."

and sub-contractors would be used just as they had been used in the normal channels of peace time trade. These suppliers, it must be acknowledged, quickly made the necessary changes in their plant and facilities to do their part of the war production job. This quickly spread the work to the largest possible number of companies and at the same time it quickly put into use the maximum number of usable machine tools and the largest possible amount of skilled labor at the points where businesses were already established."

Mr. Wecker explained that General Motors of Canada has always insisted on maximum decentralization of its manufacturing operations. As a result the five General Motors plants in Canada have sub-contracted to as many as 1,340 other concerns. The final result, as far as the company is concerned, has been the spreading of approximately one half of its entire volume of war work to firms outside.

"It is recognized," concluded Mr. Wecker, "that maintaining the economic vitality of the great aggregation of smaller units of industry and business is a matter of prime importance. The progressive development of the more successful smaller units makes possible the larger ones. It is a process that should be continued and encouraged. The problem requires the most thoughtful consideration. It is of course an entirely different objective from that demanded by the urgency of war—the maximum production in the minimum time."

NET PROFITS FOR ZELLER'S ARE UNCHANGED

Amount to $373,400 Compared with $372,734 Last Year, Equalling $2.62 Per Common Share.

Sales and profits before taxes rose to new high levels in the year ended January 31, 1943. It is shown in the annual report of Zeller's Limited (variety store chain), but net profit after increased taxes was substantially the same as in the preceding year.

The net profit amounted to $373,400 against $372,734. It equaled, after preferred dividends, to $2.62 per common share in each year.

The latest year's net profit included $60,000 of interest and excise profits taxes refundable after the war. The total tax provision was $815,000, of which $555,000 was charged before arriving at the net profit. In the previous year the taxes totalled $390,000.

Balance sheet shows consolidated net working capital of $1,034,553 against $840,211 a year before.

In comprehensive remarks, accompanied by charts and tables, Walter P. Zeller, chairman, notes that sales were up 10.67 per cent, profits before taxes up 21.7 per cent. The year's taxes, he indicates, equalled $4.44 per common share.

With regard to the outlook, Mr. Zeller states: "While the problem of securing merchandise is becoming more difficult, there is every expectation of securing sufficient merchandise to do an adequate business, although some reduction in sales and profits is anticipated."

Gains Fifteen

shipping at Bizerte; on a tanker and barges at Trapani, in Sicily; and on the enemy airfield at Ste. Marie du Zit. It was announced.

The Ste. Marie du Zit airfield first was attacked Sunday night, and many fires were left burning after direct hits on the buildings, it was said.

"Attacks on this target and on another enemy airfield in Tunisia were continued yesterday by formations of B-25 Mitchells and A-20 Bostons," the communiqué said. "Bombs burst among aircraft on the ground and more fires were started."

Ste. Marie du Zit is forty-six miles Northwest of Sousse and thirty miles Southeast of Tunis. It is nine miles East of Zaghuan.

Heavy bombers carried the attack to Bizerte, and other Axis Mediterranean supply ports. A "very large fire" was caused by the destruction of the tanker in Trapani Harbor, it was said.

Two Allied planes are missing as a result of yesterday's aerial forays, it was stated.

Drawn back into their mountain siege line that guards the narrow Bizerte, the surviving Axis forces of Rommel and Col. Gen. Jürgen von Arnim dug in today for the prelude to the final act of their bloody African tragedy.

Allied leaders, supported by an air force that rules the sky not only over Africa but the ninety-mile-wide Sicilian Channel as well, ringed the enemy bridgehead on a front of about 140 miles from Cape Serrat in the North to the Gulf of Hammamet in the East.

Allied leaders have promised to annihilate the last Axis garrison in Africa.

There are no indications yet whether the German commanders and their Italian satellites will attempt an Axis Dunkerque rather than go down fighting as did the German 6th Army at Stalingrad. But the Allies say they are ready for any eventuality.

Almost as much as the German army that perished at Stalingrad are the Germans in North Africa dependent on air transport for emergency supplies—even for fuel to run their tanks. But flying across the Sicilian narrows has become a suicide job, with eighty-eight of their big transport destroyed in the last fortnight.

The road to final victory in Africa, may be any one of five which lead into the enemy's bridgehead.

The mountain siege line has passed, and in two sectors is uniformly—Medjez El Bab and Pont du Fahs—the mountains quickly thin out into plains sweeping to the doorstep of Tunis.

On the Eastern coast, the highway which Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British 8th Army followed from Egypt runs along the rim of the Gulf of Hammamet, about twenty miles North of Enfidaville, then cuts through the high ridges some forty miles until it reaches Tunis. That is the longest of all victory roads in physical distance, but the 8th Army, which has packed the biggest Allied punch, has this road for its own thus far.

The road from Pont du Fahs to Tunis is about forty miles. It is nearly the same distance on two roads from Medjez El Bab. Near the Northern Coast there is the Mateur road, along which some of the fiercest engagements of the Tunisian campaign have been fought.

RUSSIAN AIRCRAFT IN NEW RAID AGAINST NAZI OBJECTIVES

London, April 13.—The Berlin radio said today an enemy air force had raided Königsberg, communications centre in North-eastern Germany, and a key point of the German campaign in Russia.

The broadcast, recorded by Reuters news agency, did not identify the nationality of the planes, but the fact that British sources had reported no activity of the R.A.F. last night indicated that the force was Russian.

Before the House got into committee there was a slight flurry when Finance Minister Ilsley declared Hon. R. B. Hanson (Progressive Conservative, York-Sunbury) always pleaded the cause of the House arguments.

Mr. Hanson was one of the many urging concessions to farmers, asking for consideration of Maritime Province potato growers who, he thought, would in many cases enter the income tax paying class this year for the first time.

Mr. Ilsley said the discrimination by which service men overseas and some others were granted income tax exemption had caused great difficulties.

It proved to him, he said, the danger in setting up any preferred class and convinced him that the English system of taxing income fairly wherever it was found was best.

The House was delayed nearly two hours getting into committee, the motion being debatable. The first delay was occasioned by Mr. Hanson who did not move an amendment but started a discussion in which he advocated high tax exemptions for those with large families in the $3,000 and under income bracket.

He also questioned the right of the Government to tax the incomes of supernumerary civil servants, arguing that they were denied the cost of living bonus because their supernumerary status was a fiction and that the same argument should relieve them of income tax.

Mr. Hanson contended the taxation schedules favored the bachelor or small family in the $3,000 income class, and claimed the Government was discouraging family life.

Mr. Ilsley said Mr. Hanson and Mr. H. R. Jackson (Progr. Cons., Toronto-Rosedale) that whenever they sought redress of grievances he always knew whose grievances they were pleading.

"They are pleading the cause of the well-to-do and the less wealthy," he repeated it when Mr. Jackson appealed to Speaker J. A. Glen that the comment be withdrawn.

The Speaker said there was nothing out of order in the remark.

Mr. Ilsley said that ninety per cent of Canadian citizens had incomes of less than $2,500 a year.

J. S. Roy (Ind., Gaspé) moved an amendment that, instead of adopting the motion to go into committee the House express the opinion "that it is expedient that measures be taken by the Government to remove, amongst Canadian workers, the cause of justifiable discontent brought about by the Government's policy in relation to frozen wages, unjust methods of imposing income tax and the rationing of certain food products."

He urged that the sugar and butter ration be increased for those engaged in hard manual labor in places where they could not augment their normal ration by restaurant eating such as was available to those living in large communities.

The amendment was defeated on a call of "ayes" and "nays."

be tackled. The Commission would have the right to examine prospective Civil Service employees, to readjust present salary levels and to re-establish the present Civil Service.

Late in the week, the House is expected to begin study of a measure that would make education free and compulsory in the Province for children from three to fourteen in elementary and primary elementary grades. At present, education is optional and parents pay school fees and buy their children's textbooks.

Debate on the measure, first of its kind ever to be presented to the Legislature, is expected to be lengthy and possibly may be prolonged through the next week.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK MARKET

Montreal, April 13.—There were forty-three cattle, eight sheep, 814 hogs, and 1345 calves for sale on the two Montreal markets today.

Calves were 25 to 50 cents lower. Other kinds of livestock unchanged.

The cattle offered were mostly cows ranging from $7.50 to $10 for common to good quality. Canners and cutters $6 to $7.25. Butcher bulls sold up to $11.50 and common $9 up.

Veal calves ranged from $11 to $14.50 with the bulk of the sales between $12 and $13.50, medium veals sold around $14.

mounted on self-propelling carriages to amphibious "Iron Ducks" that some day may scrape the beaches of Europe. There were twenty-six different types of armor-plated vehicles of all which I can describe but this much I can say: Rommel hasn't seen the latest products of American war plans.

There were plenty of "secret weapons" in these rows and rows of tanks and guns, bigger and better than those battering him today in Tunisia.

The Chester Tank Arsenal is an old Ford export plant, now operated for the Ordnance Corps of the United States Army. Out of it roll an average of two hundred fighting vehicles a day, ready for shipment to the battlefields of the world.

It is one of four ordnance depots in the United States. Into them flow the tanks, tank destroyers, scout cars and other armored vehicles built in factories scattered all over the country.

When the Chester Tank Arsenal is through with its tank fights, it can communicate with its base or with other tanks, it can repair itself. If it is going to North Africa, it has sand shields; if going to Russia, there are special lubricants in the crank case. If it is going to British forces, it has one type of radio. If to American, another type and if Russian troops are going to operate it, the radio panel will be marked in their own language.

Every British and American citizen and every British and American soldier has a right to draw pride and inspiration from the record which this united force is making for itself.—Gen. Douglas D. Eisenhower.

More than five hundred children were immunized against diphtheria up to noon today in the opening day of Toxoid Week, sponsored by the Sherbrooke Branch of the Health League of Canada in collaboration with the Municipal Health Department, at the mobile clinic in the No. Four Police and Fire Station in East Sherbrooke. Inoculations are being administered by Dr. J. A. Deschenes and Dr. M. Langis, who are assisted by nurses and a clerical staff recording the names and ages of children undergoing immunization against the disease.

Locations of clinics for Toxoid Week, which will continue in Sherbrooke tomorrow and Thursday, were announced by Albert Julien, secretary. A clinic will be opened in the Immaculate Conception Church Hall on Larocque Street tomorrow and another at the City Hall on Thursday. Clinic hours are nine a.m. to twelve noon, and 1:30 to 5 p.m.

In a special appeal made to mothers and fathers in Sherbrooke, Dr. J. A. Dion, Medical Health Officer, today emphasized that diphtheria can be prevented. He said that during the last three years in Canada there were 8,071 cases, which resulted in about eight hundred deaths.

EXTEND THANKS FOR GENEROUS
AID TO TAG-DAY

The people of Sherbrooke have again responded generously to a worthy appeal, with the result that the "Tag Day" held on Friday and Saturday last, under the auspices of the Prisoners' War Relatives Association, netted the splendid sum of $440.

This money is to be used to provide provisions and cheer for the local men who are temporarily in enemy hands in Hong Kong.

Mrs. Maurice Parker, President of the Association, whose husband is among these prisoners, wishes to sincerely thank all those whose sympathetic response made the appeal such a success. Thanks are due to the helpers for their untiring efforts during the two days, and to the public who so willingly bought tags.

It is indeed comforting to the organization to see their efforts so successfully crowned. It is to them a source of satisfaction to know that now they have the necessary funds to be enabled to render some help and to brighten the lives of their loved ones.

Three Local Reserve Units Plan
To Hold Recruiting Campaign

Plans are underway for the Canadian (Reserve) Army recruiting campaign which should get started in this district about the middle of next week and continue until the end of the month.

Enrollment in these reserve units cannot be stressed too much, because it is the men who are training and learning the proper methods of modern warfare in their spare time who form the backbone of the Canadian forces overseas.

All classes of recruits are accepted in the reserve army, and the work which is done is not hard and drawn-out, but instructive and interesting. The two hours which are spent on one or two nights a week at the reserve centres are well worth the while, because they afford a sort of recreation for the business man and at the same time serve as a means of obtaining exercise.

The two infantry units in this city should have 750 men each in order to be at full strength, and so far they are sadly lacking, and Sherbrooke Regiment having an enrollment of approximately 400 men, while Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke are down to 200. As time goes on many of these enlisted men leave the unit for active service and unless there are more coming in the whole unit in general is at a loss, because training schedules have to be changed to suit the different circumstances.

The same situation has arisen in the 35th Battery, which is the local reserve artillery unit. Here there are men coming and going all the time and the organization can never be sure of their quota.

It is for these reasons that an intensive recruiting campaign is going to be held in this district, and it is hoped that every man who cannot "go active" will at least see his way fit to enlist in one of the reserve units. It is the duty of the people of Sherbrooke and the surrounding district to see that the reserve army is kept operating at full strength so that the men who are interested in helping their country may secure all the assistance available.

SUGAR QUOTA FOR CANNING
NOT YET SET

Newspaper reports from Ottawa that fifteen pounds of sugar per person may be the maximum allowed for canning purposes are without confirmation and there has been no definite word as to what quantity will be available for the season. The Capital has caused a mild furor here and in various other parts of the country, prominent authorities declaring such an allowance absurd and ridiculous.

Housewives, who are being asked to preserve increased quantities of produce this season to meet a threatened shortage, have been loud in their protests, declaring that the amount mentioned would be sufficient to enable them to do only a fraction of their ordinary canning. Such a meagre provision would actually reduce winter preserves, it has been pointed out.

Thursday is the deadline for submitting applications for sugar for canning and up to date approximately more than fifty per cent of ration book holders have sent in requisitions. It is expected that many more will be received during the next few days, but time is limited. Special coupons will be issued to those who have complied with the regulation, but those who have not, and decided to undertake canning will be disappointed, for there is no provision for special late purchases.

Our Congratulations to:
Mayor O. M. J. Ingalls, of Danville, on the occasion of his birthday.

Major Bert Lyons, Recently Returned from England, Addressed Meeting of Men's Club of St. Peter's Church Last Evening.

Speaking at a regular meeting of the Men's Club at St. Peter's Church last evening Major Bert Lyons, who recently returned from active duty in England, gave a topographical outline of the part of the country in which the Canadian troops are billeted.

He said that when he arrived in England he had expected quite a shock because he expected to see a small flat country thickly settled and without much cultivation, but that instead he found a country much like the Eastern Townships. Trees and birds are sacred in England and the country is thickly populated with them.

Speaking of the soil in the Southern part of England where the majority of the Canadian troops are stationed, Major Lyons said that it was composed chiefly of chalk and that the drinking water contained much lime and was hard to wash with. He said that many of the wells in this district were from 400-500 feet deep. Small streams are not in evidence in this part of the country because of the fact that the chalk surface dries them all up.

"Roads are rather curious in Southern England in that they are crooked, narrow and often sunken from 3 to 14 feet below the surface," he said. He also explained that there were few main highways in the country and these all radiated from London. Roads of all descriptions, even on private property, are paved, however, and the climatic conditions make them practically imperishable.

Brick is the common building material and almost everything is made of brick, Major Lyons said. The buildings are inclined to be low and spread out so that many of them take on the appearance of a small village in themselves. One thing that the Canadian troops do not appreciate in the Old Country is the housing schemes which were put into effect after the last war. He said that these houses were cheaply constructed and that they were all made exactly alike, even to the color of paint. As soon as the British people could afford to move out they left these places and the Government had to look after them. When the Canadian troops came over they were billeted in these houses and have remained in them ever since.

The trains in England are the laughing stock of the Canadians when they first reach the other side, but they soon realize that the system is built for the needs required. Major Lyons said. All trains radiate from London and anyone can go anywhere by train. The average speed is thirty-eight miles an hour and people can be unloaded and loaded within forty seconds.

Speaking of the blackouts he said that it was true that they caused many accidents and there was a question of their value, but he added when they say a blackout they mean a blackout and heavy fines are imposed on all who do not comply with regulations.

"The English people are wonderful the way they come through an air raid," Major Lyons said. They never talk of the number killed and the next day they go about their work as if nothing had happened.

"Our own boys are for the most part very well, healthy and satisfied. They are well fed and looked after but they are always looking for more and more cigarettes," he said that too many could not be sent because more than 50% were lost on their way to the boys. He also assured the gathering that England had large stocks of food supply on hand and that the ration was not too severe.

In closing Major Lyons spoke about many of the Sherbrooke boys whom he had seen before he left for home. He told where they were, how they were and gave a general idea of what they were doing. These facts proved of great interest to the members of the Club, many of whom had sons and relatives near the area in which the Major was stationed.

Major Lyons was thanked by Philip Robins.

LEAKAGE MAY HAVE CAUSED
GAS SHORTAGE

While they are still investigating the possibility of theft, Sherbrooke police said today the disappearance of a large quantity of gasoline from a railway tank car in the C. N. R. yards may have been due to an accidental leakage.

British North American Oil Company officials stated today that the tank car, which had a capacity of 6,000 gallons, was short 600 gallons when a passer-by noted gasoline dribbling from the large container Sunday afternoon and notified police. First acting on the presumption of an outright theft of the missing gasoline, police officials during the course of their investigation recognized the possibility of an accidental leakage through one of the pipes under the car.

Fascist Ideas Must Be Stamped
Out Completely In Post-War Era

Winding up a series of four lectures on Post-war Blueprinting, under the sponsorship of the Sherbrooke Library, Rev. F. A. C. Dossie last evening spoke on the subject, "Beyond the Blueprinting."

In his concluding address Mr. Dossie took exception to the popular slogan, "Nothing Matters Now But Victory." In stressing his point that other important goals exist, he said that although military might can and will stamp out the Nazi and Fascist regime in Germany and Italy, this eventuality will avail nothing if the people of the Allied Nations cannot destroy Fascist ideas elsewhere. He also pointed out that there are people in Canada with the idea that Fascism would fit in nicely in this country. "Many have the feeling," he continued, "that after the war is over and the Axis military machines are destroyed and the new plans are put into effect, all will be fine. The sooner we drive this idea from our minds the better. It is less we as individuals are ready to sacrifice all prejudicial ideas it will be a worse instead of a better world."

As a graphic illustration of his topic, Mr. Dossie told of the great fire of London and how Sir Christopher Wren, famed architect, drew up plans for a better London to be erected on the old site. He submitted his plans to the authorities but through haste, greed and apathy the city was re-built without the aid of any set plans. That is why England's great metropolis is still so difficult to get around in.

In planning for a new and better world, the speaker advised his listeners not to allow haste, greed and apathy to divert them from their better intentions. In citing several examples of what we are to fight against, Mr. Dossie put special emphasis on the harmful results of racial prejudice. Hatred between races will be the main hurdle to pass in a post-war reconstruction period.

Following his address, discussions among the listeners occupied the remaining portion of the evening. It was announced that the committee in charge of these lectures are planning for a fall series which will include the filming of motion pictures.

On behalf of the gathering, W. H. Bradley, chairman, thanked Mr. Dossie for his interesting and extremely valuable talks which were greatly appreciated. The thanks of the Library were also extended to the Press for their publications, and to the La Tribune for the free use of the hall.

THE BRITISH BUDGET

One of the main inferences which can be drawn from the record-making British budget, which calls for the expenditure of more than 15,000,000 pounds sterling daily on war costs, is that the Chancellor of the Exchequer believes that the back-breaking limit has been reached insofar as the revenue raising and inflation preventive powers of the income tax are concerned and that in future, these objectives must be achieved through direct taxes on the goods in greatest demand and of which the Government desires to cut down consumption.

In regard to the income tax, the Chancellor is supporting the views presented by many economists who claim that excessive taxation—the confiscation of all individual income over a certain limited amount—tends to remove the incentive to the speeding up of individual effort, with a resultant drop in the general output of any needed article. For a limited period, some special appeal—some call to arms—may cause a man to work harder or longer hours for the benefit of his country or the preservation of his liberties, but after a time the effects of these drives wear off, and production slackens. It is useless to criticize the individual or the country for this condition. It is human nature in the individual and the country is just the collective spirit of the individual. Fortunately or otherwise, the best means of increasing production by the individual is through increasing his monetary return and by permitting him to enjoy the benefits of this increased return. To a too large extent, excessive income taxes have a tendency to offset any increased earnings. Apparently the British Chancellor has come to the conclusion that the British tax rate is nearing this point if it has not exceeded it, and that no further results can be achieved through hiking the rates.

By increasing the tax rates on luxury, or non-essential, items he hopes to cut the demand for many items of which there is a shortage, thus reducing the menace of inflation and at the same time gaining a certain amount of revenue. And certainly, the prices to which many luxury items have been advanced in Great Britain should halt their purchase by any but the most addicted devotee of their use.

His reference to the contribution of the Canadian Government to the cost of the war should make good reading in this country as an indication that the real opinion in Great Britain supports the view that the majority of the Canadian people are at one with them in the fight for the preservation of democracy, and that the criticism of the Canadian war effort is but the effusion of a noisy minority which is seeking to promote discord by a short-sighted policy for their own political ends.

THE HITLER-MUSSOLINI TALKS

Wishful thinking will give us almost anything we want out of the full-dress Axis conference at Hitler's headquarters, but it appears reasonable that the only definite conclusion we are justified in drawing is that the Nazi Fuehrer is getting set both militarily and politically—as are the Allies—for the crucial summer operations.

That fits in well with a question which most people are asking: Is Hitler likely to spring one of his surprise offensives when the good fighting weather arrives on the Continent?

Of course any answer to that must be speculative, but we can say it will not be easy for him to stage a major offensive, because the Allies hold the initiative on all fronts. He is being pressed in Russia, in the Mediterranean theatre and by terrific air-bombardment in Western Europe.

In short, his position has become defensive. And to pass from defence to offence is one of the difficult operations of war.

The Nazi chief's greatest worry is that he does not know where the Allies are going to strike after they have finished the Tunisian job. He must be on the qui vive on all fronts, thus dividing his strength.

The way things look now the Russians are set for offensive action as soon as the ground is dry enough. So Hitler knows he probably will have to defend that front.

He also can be certain that the Allies will strike in at least one other area—against Italy, through the Balkans or through Western Europe—and they may hit on more than one place at the same time.

It is sure, too, that whether or not the Allies try to invade France, their fierce aerial bombardment will continue with increasing force. This is putting a great strain on the Nazi war industries and communications, and compels them to maintain in Western Europe air power which they need on other fronts.

HOW IS THIS DEMOCRACY?

One of the self-contradicting arguments of the so-called Nationalist elements in the Canadian political set-up is that the determination of the country to prosecute the war to the limit of its ability is a negation of democracy and a deterrent to national unity, but the exact groundwork for their arguments is hard to establish. By an overwhelming majority, the Members of Parliament, speaking for their constituents voted for Canadian participation in the war for the preservation of everything which the average resident of this country holds dear—personal freedom, religious liberty and economic progress. They knew, or should have known, that participation in such a struggle could not be limited, that such a war effort could not be moderate. Any participation must be on an all-out basis—although many at the time perhaps did not realize the extent to which the struggle would grow. Later, the people of Canada in direct vote, gave a resounding support to this stand in the plebiscite in which the Government sought release from certain pledges inadvisably given during peacetime by the Prime Minister.

But despite all these evidences of popular will, the leaders of the Nationalist groups declare that the successful prosecution of the war is the antithesis of democracy and as such is undermining the unity of the country. One fails to see how carrying out the will of the majority is endangering the practices of democracy, for one of the very bases of the democratic system is that the reasonable will of the substantial majority must be respected. And in this case, the trouble-makers are arguing that because the wills of a small majority are not being catered to democracy is trembling.

If democracy is endangered in Canada, it is not because the Government is carrying out the wishes of the majority but rather because it is toadying to a highly-organized vocal minority who are seeking to advance the claims of their own particular elements against the general interests of the nation as a whole. And it is this same policy which is endangering national unity. Yielding too easily to minority elements, either linguistic, class or sectional, the Government has encouraged the policy of demanding certain, often non-existent rights, by small groups at the expense of Canada as a whole.

URGE MEAT SHORTAGE EXPLANATION

Canadians facing an early rationing of most meat products are keenly interested in the agitation now going on in the United States where the eating public is demanding a full, fair and impartial statement, supported by figures from a source in which the public has confidence, about the causes of a complete breakdown in meat distribution. This interest is in no way diminished by the fact that the Canadian meat ration appears to be substantially greater than that of the United States and sympathy will be felt for the complaints that explanations so far have left the harassed housewives feeling that they were really alibis.

Allegedly, about the only excuses advanced are that lend-lease plus needs of the armed forces account for the shortage. But U.S. Lend-Lease Administrator Edward R. Stettinius knocks out the first with figures and casts doubt upon the second. The first two months of this year, he reports, shipments of lend-lease took only ten pounds out of every 1,000 of American beef, and even this was five times the rate in 1942, at the end of which decent beef was almost unobtainable by civilians.

Last year Australia and New Zealand supplied United States troops more beef than Washington turned over to lend-lease—that is, they wiped lend-lease off the books as an alibi for shortage, and also cared for part of the excess demand created by the fact that soldiers need more meat than civilians. In no category now short did lend-lease take very much, it is suggested. Less than one pound of pork out of every ten—and this was by far the heaviest burden. One pound of lamb and mutton out of every twenty-five; the equivalent in butter, cheese, dry and evaporated milk of thirty-four quarts of milk out of every 1,000; one pound of lard and vegetable fat out of eight; five cans of vegetables out of each 1,000. Negligible amounts.

The causes of the food breakdown, charges one editorial observer in the neighboring country, go deeper than Washington has admitted. In the case of meats there is declared to be at least one expert on the federal payroll—a man who acquired his knowledge the hard way as a retail dealer—who more than a year ago predicted everything that is happening today and explained why it was going to be.

The trouble is said to have been clear cut even then—but not inevitable. It became inevitable only when those with power to decide ignored the warnings of men who knew the meat industry. That is why Americans feel that they are entitled to a clear, complete factual report as a guide to those who could still avoid some of the further tribulations now on their way.

PRESS COMMENTS

VISIT OF THE HON. JOHN BRACKEN

The Coaticook Observer.
The visit of the Hon. John Bracken to the Eastern Townships has made him many friends throughout the district. He is in the fortunate position at the present time of not being tied to Ottawa with official business as he still has no seat in the House, and is, therefore, able to take the time to visit various parts of Canada.

Prime Minister King has been helping him to be the next Premier by unpopular actions lately. His ban on beer and wine advertising and his curtailment of the supplies of beer are moves which have aroused deep resentment all over the country. If there was any good to the war effort in these restrictions, they would be cheerfully borne, but there is good ground for the widespread feeling that Mr. King was only trying to curry favour with a prohibitionist minority. There is an underlying resentment at his action which is really surprisingly strong.

Another thing which has aroused widespread resentment is the way in which the Montreal Tramways strike was handled. The Government had the means to stop the strike at its inception, and a firm hand would have been acclaimed by all. The treatment of a union which has been really trying to co-operate in the war effort was scandalous, and unless some punishment is meted out to the leaders of the other group, the effect will be bad, both among other groups of workers, and among the electorate.

A few more such unpopular moves and Mr. King will have presented the next election to Mr. Bracken.

SUBTRACTION PERILS

From Norton-on-Tees comes this delightful story concerning the arithmetic lesson in a Yorkshire village school. The teacher had just explained subtraction to the class, and emphasized that the numbers must be of the same denomination. As the scholars looked quite blank at this remark, he added: "You can't take six potatoes from ten turnips, or fifteen sheep from twenty cows." Some of the children pondered this explanation deeply, and then up spoke a farm lad with great emphasis: "You hev ter tak 15 shewy for 20 cows if 't sheep are yours and they've gotten inter somebody's cow pasture," he declared. Emboldened by this remark another boy put up his hand and said: "And please sir, can't you take 10 apples from two trees?" By this time the teacher decided the whole subject was drifting out of control, and the lesson ended.

HATRED AND THE PEACE

New York Herald Tribune.
It was rather depressing to hear Mr. Quentin Reynolds, on the American Forum of the Air, speak of hatred as "a good, healthy emotion," and assert that to beat Germany permanently the way a preacher hates sin; hate Germany the way a housewife hates filth and vermin in her kitchen." Hatred for Hitlerism exists—and with it an intense revulsion against all that Germany has come to mean in the last decade. These emotions are born of German crimes, intensified by the venom that Hitler has distilled in Germany. But if artificially stimulated, upheld as sufficient guides to thought and conduct, they can be just as blind and just as destructive as the forces that brought them into being. The simple fact, the fundamental fact and almost the only fact that is now available as a signpost for the future settlement of the German problem was stated by Mr. Reynolds on the American Forum. Pointing out that it will be difficult enough to work toward a free and secure future amid the ruins and the hatreds of this struggle, Mr. Mills said: "If we start with the assumption that the whole eighty or ninety million Germans are criminals and pariahs it will be impossible." Hatred of eighty million persons can only cloud a cloudy situation.

A DESERT COMPENSATION

Bombay (India) Standard.
The well-known song says "Until the sands of the desert grow cold," as if they never grow cold, which is incorrect, for they grow cold every night. It is not unusual to find thin ice formed on any water exposed overnight in winter. Sentries dread the coldness of night as much as they detest the burning heat of the day.

But there is one grand compensation. If you sink a bottle of beer a foot or two before "turning in," you can be assured, when you dig it out next afternoon, of a nice bottle of stone-cold beer just off the ice, as it were.

PIE IN THE SKY

Port William Daily.
In the various discussions in regard to social security proposals the term "Pie in the sky" often is used. Perhaps many people are not clear as to just what is meant when this expression is used by speakers and writers. As used in the present day discussions the expression has an implication of manna falling from the skies. In other words, pensions, allowances, and other state aids to individuals are likened to the food that was showered down on the Israelites or to the sustenance that was carried to Elijah by the ravens.

There is something more or less depressing in the fact that the showers of manna were of emergency duration only and that they did not continue indefinitely as a source of supply to human needs. The ravens, also, apparently got tired of carrying food to Elijah after the particular emergency was over, for which their services had been required. It is to be hoped that whatever "Pie in the sky" may be made available through Government measures will be more permanent in character than the manna that fell on the desert wastes or the viands prepared and served by Elijah's ravens. However, the implication of the phrase when used in connection with forms of state aid is that such aid is not exactly a natural process and that it is one which can be made permanent only with difficulty.

The phrase "Pie in the sky," however, is not a newly-coined one. It was in use in radical labor literature even before the war of 1914-18 but its meaning and application was somewhat different. It was used to ridicule the old-time exponents of the philosophy of patient and humble toil here on earth with the comforting assurance of heaven as the sure and eventual reward. This, sarcastically, was referred to by radicals as "Pie in the sky." Probably the phrase had no small influence on the growth of radical thinking in the last three or four decades for it had much pith and point in the sense in which it first was used. Now the whirling of time has made it possible to use the self-same expression to satirize the hopes and aims of those who would guarantee a generous modicum of social security.

Thus the world wags on.

THE HOUSING SHORTAGE

L'Action Catholique, Quebec.
There is a problem of lodgings for families in Quebec. It is asserted that there will be a shortage of four hundred family dwelling places in the month of May in Quebec City. This is a disturbing figure. Those who think a little of other people, as all Christians should, will be saddened by such a prospect, not with the idea of starting an agitation and importuning the authorities who are swamped by accumulated tasks, but for the purpose of trying to improve, in all good will, a lamentable situation arising from present circumstances. Generosity of heart and spirit were never so necessary as now. Those who will not accept their little share of sacrifice in the midst of universal distress will do well not to say so too loudly. They are doing the wrong thing in allowing their egotism to become too apparent.

UNUSUAL HAND ENDS IN "SMOTHER" PLAY

Do you remember the little black book of Harry Fishbein which I have mentioned in previous articles? I often take a peek at it and always find an unusual hand, such as the one shown today. Fishbein showed me only the North and South cards, and said, "West opened the jack of spades. What do you play from dummy?" Did you cover with the queen? If so, you made a mistake. If West holds the ten of spades and East has four clubs to the jack, you will be unable to develop the necessary squeeze.

With four clubs to the jack in the East hand, you can work out a squeeze play. Now I want to show you how to make the contract with four clubs in the West hand. Trump the first spade trick, lead the queen of hearts—and you get the sad news, of course at once. Cash the jack of hearts. Naturally West does not cover. Now lead a club, win in trumps and trump the nine of spades. Cash the ace, king and queen of diamonds and the king and ace of clubs. Next lead the queen of spades from dummy and discard your last club. East must lead a

The above is a two-picture story of how Daddy's shirt took up the fight against Hitler. From a discarded frayed at neck and cuff shirt came this sprightly, fresh sun suit for a small daughter. The sun suit is one of the forty outfits for women and children which will be shown at the Re-Make Revue in Sherbrooke on April 15 at Christ-Roi Hall. The revue is staged by Mrs. Kate Aitken, national supervisor of conservation activities for the consumer branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board. JUNIOR LEAGUE ASSISTED MANY NEEDY FAMILIES

Mrs. V. G. Southern presided at the well-attended annual meeting of the Junior Welfare League, held at the home of Mrs. A. A. Munster on Friday evening. The various reports reviewed an active year, during which welfare work among the needy of the city has been ably carried on under Mrs. Southern's leadership.

The Treasurer's report, as presented by Mrs. C. P. Buckland, showed a bank balance on April 1, 1942, of $148.31, receipts for the year ending April 1, 1943, of $818.35; disbursements for the same period of $681.25, and a credit balance in the bank on April 1, 1943, of $286.41. The Treasurer moved a vote of thanks to George E. Ewing for his co-operation in auditing the books for the current year.

Mrs. H. A. Peabody, Sewing Convener, reported that 317 articles, made up as follows, had been completed for the V.O.N. cupboards since the preceding annual meeting: 38 baby nighties, 201 diapers, 42 sweaters, 33 pairs of boots, and 3 bonnets. In addition, 42 squares had been knit by members for an afghan, which it is planned to raffle in the fall. Mrs. Peabody later distributed work for the members to do during the summer months.

The report of the Milk Convener, Mrs. Russell Blinco, showed that 2,713 quarts of milk had been distributed during the past year among needy families.

Mrs. F. Clark reported the sale of $145.75 worth of War Savings Stamps to League members. The Social Convener, Mrs. John Hovey, told the meeting that there had been 25 teas during the year, in addition to the Toy Tea held in December.

Mrs. V. G. Southern, Convener, reported that the storeroom had been opened in November and closed in the middle of March. The fol-

Mrs. Leonard Marcotte and Mrs. James H. The "shower" of gifts for her kitchen was attractively arranged in a miniature red and white kitchen for presentation, the bride-elect being invited to an adjoining room where the many useful utensils were so uniquely displayed. Later refreshments were served, Mrs. A. C. Ross, the guest of honor's mother, and Mrs. Stephen Newton, mother of the prospective groom, presiding at the lovely table, which was artistically done in pink and white with sweet peas and lighted tapers.

Following new articles were given out: 67 pairs of shoes and rubbers, 32 pairs of stockings, 42 sets of underwear, 46 pairs of mittens (42 pairs having been made by ladies of the Plymouth Church Women's Association), 6 pairs of boys' pants, 8 blankets, 2 baby quilts, 10 scarves (5 of which were also knit by the ladies of Plymouth Church), and material for 4 girls' dresses. The President in her report emphasized the fact that the work done is very necessary, and that each case is thoroughly investigated. In this way it is assured that all money is well spent. Although there have not been as many calls for help this winter, there are still many needy families, among whom such work is essential. Mrs. R. Stewart took the chair while Mrs. Southern presented a bouquet of spring flowers to Mrs. Munster, as a token of the members' appreciation for her kindness in permitting the use of her home for their meetings. Mrs. Munster graciously responded that the League would always be welcome to hold their meetings there, as the welfare work sponsored by this organization always had been and always would be very close to her heart.

SAVE WASTE FATS IS ADVICE FROM NATIONAL SALVAGE

"Save at least a tablespoon of waste kitchen fats and drippings every day," is the advice to Canadian housewives from National Salvage officials in Ottawa. This important and vitally necessary contribution to the war effort gives housewives, whose family duties keep their noses to the grindstone, an opportunity to do their share in backing up the armed forces right in the kitchens.

The fats should be strained into a can, and kept in a cool place such as a refrigerator until one pound, which is approximately thirty-one tablespoons, has been collected. The full can should be taken to the meat dealer before the fat grows rancid. The glycerine content of rancid fat is less.

Small families might "club" together and pool their salvage until one pound or more is obtained.

I'm proud that they were able to qualify for duty with the United States fleet. They weren't afraid to fight and they weren't afraid to die for their country—and for you and me.—Mrs. Thomas Sullivan on christening destroyer, "The Sullivan" for her five sons lost on cruiser Juneau.

MY HUSBAND IS OVERSEAS

"When he writes and tells me how little English women have to manage with in the way of clothes, I feel a bit ashamed at how much we seem to have.

"Naturally, I have to buy some clothes; keep my wardrobe in fairly good condition. But thinking of English women, I buy only what I need. And when I can't find just what I'm looking for, I don't raise a fuss about it. We've got a war to win!

"Of course, what shopping I do, is all at Reitman's. They've been telling me lately that stocks aren't what they were. They can't offer as much variety as they used to. Sometimes I have to take an alternative; sometimes a pet brand is right out of stock.

"But REITMAN'S play fair. They don't make any secret of the fact we all know—many goods are in short supply. And I like their attitude about spending, too. They come right out and say, "Buy only what you need."

Group Of Canadians Prepared For First Plane Flight In Empire In Maritime Lake Area 35 Years Ago

By JOHN LEBLANC,
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Baddeck, N.S., April 13.—(C)—Every Empire flier who sets his wings against the Axis is a direct descendant—in the aviation sense—of a stocky, blue-eyed man who lives near this village tucked away in the rolling Bras d'Or lakes country.

For P. W. Baldwin—he's never been called anything but "Casey" since his university days in Toronto—was the forerunner of all the flying men of the Empire. He was the first man of the Commonwealth's millions to take wing.

Casey Baldwin is busy now, living in the present. He'd rather talk of his little plane, now busy on war contracts, than of the past. But the odor of history clings to the whole set-up.

Down the shore a short way are the bleaching remains of an odd-looking motorboat that was the fastest thing on water in 1917. The boat, embodying a revolutionary principle, was developed by Baldwin in 1917 as a submarine chaser and then abandoned when war ended.

Years before, Baldwin's inventive talent had been centred on flying, and he became the first resident of the British Empire to take to the air, in 1908. That was at Hammondport, N.Y., where he flew the "Red Wing," a concoction of the Aerial Experiment Association.

The Association's members were Alexander Graham Bell, the telephone inventor; Baldwin; J. A. D. McCurdy, now an executive of the Aircraft Division of the Department of Munitions and Supply; Glenn H. Curtiss, the noted United States airplane manager; and Lieut. Thomas Selfridge, U.S. army, who later was killed in the crash of one of the Wright Brothers' planes.

Just where the association was actually formed has been the subject of debate among some of the principal and Maritime historians. John W. Regan, Halifax historian, who has studied the question in detail, states the Association was formed at Halifax and adduces considerable proof from his records.

Mr. Baldwin says the Association was formed at Baddeck "but we went to Halifax to have it made official."

Mr. McCurdy's recollection is that "the agreement to form an association was decided upon at Baddeck and a memo evidencing such agreement was prepared at Baddeck. The parties proceeded to Halifax where the memo was attested to by a notary public and authenticated by the American Consul."

One of the results of this pooling of talents was Baldwin's 1908 flight. Another was the first airplane flight in the Empire, made in 1909 by McCurdy off the ice of the Bras d'Or lakes near here. The flimsy machine used in this history-making hop was the "silver Dart."

Back of all this great stride in the development of Empire aviation was Dr. Bell. As the inventor of the telephone his name carried great prestige. He had come to Baddeck first while travelling through the lakes with Mrs. Bell to Sydney and Glace Bay.

Mr. McCurdy's father eventually was commissioned by Dr. Bell to purchase the property known as Beinn Breach. "They (the Bells) built a lodge to which they moved in 1891," he writes. "and in 1892 they commenced the erection of what is now known as Beinn Breach Hall, into which they moved the following year, in 1893."

It is here in Baddeck that Casey Baldwin still works, his draughtsman's board on the slopes of Beinn Breach—the "Beautiful Hill" that Bell loved well and where he and his wife are buried—and his workshop at his foot. Bell would have liked that.

War And Its Effect Predominating Lent Discussions In Eire Churches

By JOSEPH DENNIGAN,
Canadian Press Correspondent
Dublin, April 13.—(C)—The war and its effects figured prominently in Lenten pastorals read in Roman Catholic churches throughout Eire.

Joseph Cardine MacRory, calling for prayers for peace that would be founded on the "eternal principles of justice," said:

"I recognize now that we shall have to wait for peace until one side is victorious, or else until each side is convinced, or at least afraid, that it cannot win out."

Eire's serious wartime food problem was mentioned by the bishops as well as by Cardinal MacRory who directed the clergy to insert into the Lenten Mass a special prayer for favorable harvesting weather.

Bishop MacRory urged that "Every farm, allotment and garden be pressed into service while every effort is made to obtain maximum production."

Bishop Dignan of Clonfert told the people of his Diocese that the war was the cause of the "present woeful condition of things," as much as "economic ills and international rivalries which plagued the world for years past."

The last relic of British rule in Eire hatched with the winding up of the 400-year-old office of the

DO YOU HATE TO GET UP IN THE MORNING?

Doesn't it feel swell to wake up in the morning clear-eyed, refreshed, just rarin' to go? Yet so many people, especially over 40, get up tired all-over, never really feel their best.

The reason can often be traced to a very common cause—a sluggish system clogged with poisonous food waste. If you are like most people, you need help every so often to clean out your system, get back pep and sparkle that is rightfully yours. You can do this simply and so gently with the aid of the away vegetable action of Bile Beans, the small, purely vegetable laxative pills that work on stomach, liver bile, upper and lower bowels.

For a peppier, brighter tomorrow, try Bile Beans tonight and prove for yourself their amazingly gentle action. Made in England—over 7 million boxes sold yearly—proof of sensational popularity. Only 50¢ at druggists. Try them and be convinced.

The 700-ton steamship Kyleclare, which sailed from Lisbon for Dublin February 20, is overdue and believed lost. The ship set out in a calm and is believed to have struck a mine. A crew of eighteen was aboard. Kyleclare is the fourteenth Irish ship lost or missing since 1939.

The Irish people are beginning to realize the hardships by undergone by Eire's merchant seamen to keep the country supplied. Prime Minister de Valera, speaking in the Dail, said obviously it would not be desirable to detail all the steps taken to ensure safety of ships and crews but no safety steps had been neglected.

Eire's anti-tuberculosis campaign continues to make progress. Health authorities regard under-nourishment and over-crowding as the chief causes of the disease. Plans are being made to provide early treatment as well as to extend general facilities for care of patients.

Scene from "Moon Over Miami," which begins tomorrow at the New Premier Theatre, starring Don Ameche, Bob Cummings and Betty Grable.

At The New Premier

All the lavishness of "That Night in Rio," the melody of "Tin Pan Alley," and the eye-appeal of "Down Argentine Way" have been brought together in the latest 20th Century-Fox Technicolor musical, "Moon Over Miami," which opens at the New Premier Theatre tomorrow.

Framed against the lush tropical beauty of Miami, the glamour city of the South, "Moon Over Miami" features Don Ameche, Betty Grable, and Robert Cummings in their most delightful and entertaining roles. The stars more than live up to their parts by giving outstanding performances. Charlotte Greenwood, Jack Haley, Carole Landis, and Boba Wright, Jr., are other members of the star-studded cast whose acting merits praise.

This amusing film is the gay, tune-filled tale of how to invest an inheritance. Two sisters, Betty Grable and Carole Landis, induce their aunt, Charlotte Greenwood, to accompany them to Miami. All three have just inherited $5,000, and Betty decides to invest it in clothes and a lavish suite at one of Miami's ritziest hotels. Her purpose is to hook a millionaire by looking like a million.

You know what it costs you each month to keep your family. Well, then, how could your wife get along if she had to carry the load without you?

The answer is, she couldn't possibly carry it unless you leave her a sufficient monthly income.

You know approximately what this monthly income should be. We can advise you how much life insurance you should own to provide it; and also how you can obtain an adequate income for yourself in the event of total disability through sickness or accident.

Think it over... then talk it over with us... we will gladly help you.

COMMANDOS LEADING EASTERN CANADA RACE

Draw Sufficient For Victory Over Flyers

Toronto, April 13.—(C)—The scene of the Eastern Canadian Senior hockey final shifted to Ottawa Commandos holding what appeared to be an absolutely safe margin over Ottawa R.C.A.F. Flyers in their efforts to move the Allan Cup final against Victoria Army.

Commandos skated their way through a drab 5-1 victory here last night over the flyers before 6,091 paid customers in Maple Leaf Gardens. It was the second victory in three games for the army team, with the other contest a tie. And Commandos need only a tie in the fourth game Wednesday night in Ottawa to take the series, although they're heavily favored to march off with a triumph.

Only at odd intervals last night did the Commandos seem to exert themselves. They seemed to find little trouble in throwing up an effective barrier before their netminder, Pte. "Sugar Jim" Henry. And they played as if certain that sometime or other during the contest they'd get enough breaks to win the game.

Shibicky received credit for two goals, although one actually was pulled in by Sgt. Len Pinke, the Air Force netminder. Reardon, Mac Colville and Lieut. Gordon Poirier scored the others. The only Air Force goal was scored by Sgt. Buddy Hellyer.

Originally, the fourth game of the Commandos-Flyers series was scheduled to be played in Toronto Wednesday night. But George Dudley of Midland, Ont., treasurer of the Ontario Hockey Association, announced at last night's game that it had been decided to shift the series back to the Canadian Capital.

Where's Louis?

It is possible that the champion of Russia will fight Joe Louis when the war is won. Anyway, here is N. Korolev, who bosses pugilistic works in Soviet Union. Sergeant Louis is a cavalryman. Korolev a guerrilla.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

Toronto, April 13.—(C)—Kingston, Ont., is confident it has the jump on other cities in its bid for recognition as site of hockey's hall of fame. Ald. Ed Charlton went to Montreal, did some promoting with the National League big-wigs, and Capt. J. T. Sutherland went to work on the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Unofficial word is that the C.A.H.A. favors Kingston to house the memorial. The N.H.L. may make some decision at its Montreal meeting May 8. That meeting will be attended by a Kingston delegation. Halifax and other candidates take note!

Round and about:
Bobby (Toronto Telegram) Hewison says it is pretty definite, though unofficial, that the N.H.L. presidency now being filled temporarily by Red Dutton will not be filled permanently until after the war. Calgary plans to stage a Canadian middleweight title bout late this month with the champion, Len Wadsworth of Sudbury, Ont., opposing Pte. Al Lust of Calgary. Lust failed in two attempts during the past winter to lift the welter-weight crown from Sgt. Dave Castilloux of Montreal.

Cardinals Favored To Take National Loop Championship

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
New York, April 13.—(AP)—The certainties of baseball this year failed to bring any uncertainty to the minds of the baseball experts as to which team will win the National League pennant.

Figuring it always is best to string along with a champion when in doubt, the seventy-two scribes taking part in the annual Associated Press poll selected the St. Louis Cardinals as their No. 1 team by an overwhelming majority.

Fifty-four of the voters picked the world champions for first place, with no ballot placing them lower than third. The Brooklyn Dodgers, runner-up last year, ranked second, drawing eleven first-place votes and no vote lower than fourth.

The only other team to be considered for first place are the Cincinnati Reds, with four backers for the top position, and the Chicago Cubs, who have three voters picking them for the pennant. The Reds ranked third, right behind the Dodgers, figuring on the point basis of eight points for first, seven for second, six for third, etc.

Behind the Reds, in order, came the Cubs, the New York Giants, the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Boston Braves, and, as usual, the Philadelphia Phils. The point totals ranged from the 554 assembled by the Cardinals to the Phils' 87. The Phils have one backer who thinks they will wind up in fifth spot, and one optimist also has the Braves tabbed for that slot.

The Cards and the Dodgers are the only two teams not to be pushed back into the second division by at least one voter. The Reds were ticked for every place from first to sixth, and the Cubs from first to seventh. The Giants were picked to finish anywhere from second to seventh.

SEA GULLS LEAD
Quebec, April 13.—(C)—Quebec Sea Gulls, coming from behind in the third period with a seven-goal spurge, defeated Petawawa Grenades 8-4 last night in the second game of their best-of-five series for the Eastern Canada Intermediate Hockey crown.

The Quebecers captured the first game Sunday 15-3.

GOLF TOURNEY SWITCHED
Montreal, April 13.—(C)—The Province of Quebec Golf Association decided at a special meeting here last night to cancel this season the Quebec open championship tournament, the spring open and the Metropolitan open and to replace them by two wartime tourneys.

The new tournaments will be called the "Quebec Victory Bond Tournament" and the "35-year-old and older" Tourney. Dates and other details will be set later.

VICTORY IS IN your HANDS

MAKE NO DOUBT OF IT. We're on the offensive this year. The goal of Victory today is nearer than ever before. But it won't be won alone by soldierly courage or good generalship or even good luck. It will be won only if these qualities are backed with every dollar of financial strength Canadians can muster.

Can't you realize this? Can't you see that, if it took so many millions of dollars before just to maintain a stout defence, it's going to take more...millions and millions more...to fight offensive warfare. And that means money from you...loaned on your own country's guarantee that you'll get every cent of it back.

Soon you'll be asked to buy Victory Bonds...to buy as you've never bought before. Make your plans NOW. Pledge yourself that you'll hold nothing back. Determine to buy and buy...to the point of self-denial. Victory is in your hands.
