HEAVY FOG DISRUPTS ROYAL VOYAGE

Forces Full Day's Delay In Arrival At Canadian Port

Ship's Officers Declare that Even if Fog Lifted, It Would Be Impossible for Empress of Australia to Dock on Schedule—Giant Liner Bearing Royal Couple Has Proceeded Less Than 150 Miles in Past Three Days—Canadian Group Studies Situation.

Aboard R. M. S. Empress of Australia, May 13.—(C.P.)—Hope of reaching Quebec Monday morning disappeared today as heavy fog held the Empress of Australia, bearing the King and Queen to Canada, to a point 250 miles east of Cape Race, Newfoundland, and 1,080 miles from Quebec. It appeared the liner would not dock before Tuesday.

Ship's officers admitted that even if the fog lifted, it would be impossible for the Empress to dock on schedule. At 7:15 a.m., E.D.T., the liner and her cruiser escort drifted idly in the iceberg zone 250 miles from the easterly tip of Newfoundland. Fog was so thick those aboard the liner could not see the cruisers nearby.

Fog has swirled about the big liner almost continuously since early Thursday and in that time the vessel has proceeded little more than 150 miles. Yesterday, less than sixty miles were covered, and during last night the Empress started and stopped frequently, her whistle continuously giving fog signals.

The delay in reaching Quebec, where the Empress is due at 10:30 a.m., E.D.T., Monday, will disrupt a programme prepared weeks in advance. The Royal Tour of Canada and part of the United States has been timed to the last minute.

Flanked on both sides by icebergs and growlers, the Empress made little headway yesterday through the dense fog. Captain A. R. Meikle was able to give the full steam ahead signal only once during the day, for an hour in the afternoon, and as night fell and with it a heavier mist, the liner came to a standstill.

The icebergs, necessitating extreme caution on the part of the commander, afforded King George an opportunity to use the camera he is carrying with him. An enthusiastic photographer, His Majesty took full advantage of the hour of sunshine as the Empress moved nearer the bergs to provide him a better view.

Fog and a cold north wind did not prevent the King and Queen from remaining outdoors during a good part of the day as they observed the second anniversary of their Coronation. Standing at the rail as the raw breeze blew across the ship's bow, their Majesties received a Royal salute of twenty-one guns from the escorting cruisers.

The King ordered an extra rum issue for all ratings on the cruise. At tea a special Coronation cake, designed by the ship's pastry cook, Bain of Glasgow, was presented to their Majesties.

The shrill whistles of the escort ships and the answering calls from the Empress sounded through the fog at spasmodic intervals all through the day. The wisdom of Capt. Meikle's cautiousness became apparent when, late in the day, the Empress emerged into the sunshine.

On either side of the liner a towering iceberg floated by majestically. Continued on Page 2, Col. 5.

WILL SHORTEN OTTAWA VISIT OF THEIR MAJESTIES

Ottawa, May 13.—(P)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today the King and Queen would reach Quebec Tuesday instead of Monday and that no material changes would be made in the itinerary except that the Ottawa visit would be shortened to three days instead of four.

JURY TRIAL AT HOME

Bromley, England, May 13.—(P)—When a Bromley resident complained of the noise from a neighboring kindergarten, a judge sat in her home, while a jury went to the school, and counsel imitated school-house noises. Verdict was for the defendants.

KING USING FRENCH FOR OFFICIAL REPLY

Paris, May 13.—(C.P.—Havas)—When King George VI is greeted in French by his French-Canadian subjects in Quebec, he will reply in the same language, G. P. Vanier, Canadian Minister in Paris, said yesterday.

Speaking at a luncheon given by the Latin press in honor of Georges Tatavrescu, Rumanian ambassador to France, Colonel Vanier spoke of the bonds which link Canada to France.

"It is in French, the mother tongue of Quebec, that King George will receive the homage of the population of Quebec," he said, "and it is also in French that the King will reply to that homage."

Quebec, May 13.—(P)—Ernest Li-zotte, resident of Roberval in the La St. John district, died unexpectedly in a hotel here yesterday.

Publication Of Anti-Hitler Volume Blamed For Abduction Of Publisher

Bakersfield, Calif., May 13.—(P)—Bound and gagged, George Putnam, fifty-two, Hollywood publisher and husband of the late Amelia Earhart, was found in an incomplete house here today, a few hours after he was kidnapped from his North Hollywood home.

Putnam, unhurt, said the kidnapers demanded the name of the author of the anonymous book "The Man Who Killed Hitler" and suggested it would be "healthier" if he ceased printing it.

Putnam told officers he had been kidnapped by two men as he entered the garage of his home last night, to leave in answer to a telephone call received by his secretary. He said the men tied him up and drove him here and that he was taken from the car with his hands and mouth taped, but succeeded in freeing himself.

Bakersfield is 110 miles from Los Angeles.

Threats against Putnam's life were received April 20 and 23, police records showed. April 22, he fired two shots at an intruder, he reported. On April 20, he turned over to the District Attorney's office an anonymous letter which read in part:

"If you have any regard for your future safety, stop publication of this book at once. The arm of Great Germany reaches far and we have no desire to continue warning you. If you are wise you will do what we tell you because something can happen to you and your future may be extinguished."

Three days later, a bullet-riddled copy of the book, punctured with eight holes, and a rudely-pasted note were sent to his home. The note, composed of letters cut from newspapers and magazines, read: "Mr. Putnam, you're a criminal. You failed to read future. Bullet wound would be fatal to you if you don't abandon the book 'The Man Who Killed Hitler.'"

"Take no chances of a bloody killing if you want to live. Your opportunity awaits you. Take it or have it."

"Germany defies the world."

MODERNIZED INDIAN LONG HOUSE OPENED

Akron, N.Y., May 13.—(P)—Indians whose ancestors created the first American democracy and white men who are operating its current prototype gathered on the Tonawanda reservation today to dedicate a modernized Iroquois "Long House."

A pageant celebrating the birth nearly five hundred years ago of the League of the Iroquois Nations provided the climax and the keynote of the day's programme in which the reservation is being presented with a $50,000 community house built by the United States Government as a relief project.

FIRST DAY IN HISTORIC FORTRESS

MINOR ADVANCE REGISTERED ON STOCK MARKETS

With Majority of Holders Looking for Better Prices, Stocks Held Small Gains on Canadian Exchanges During Past Week.

Toronto, May 13.—(P)—Down at the heel and depressed by neglect, Canadian stock markets were able, nevertheless, to wangle a gain out of the week's operations and post the best prices reached since March.

Stockholders continue to look hopefully for better prices and few showed an inclination to sell. Traders reached for some of the penny goods in the early part of the week and fair gains were boarded by a few, including God's Lake, Naybob, Bankfield, Gunner, Reno and others.

The gains were trimmed in later action. Secondary issues field changes down to a few cents. Macassa firm twenty-five cents and Wright-Hargreaves ten.

In the base metal section, Consolidated Mining and Smelting was hammered as a result of reports that the dividend was due for a cut and the price showed a net decline of five dollars for the week, closing yesterday at $42, compared with a high for the year at $61.50. Nickel and Noranda displayed steadiness and Hudson Bay added $2.10.

Bell Telephone advanced $1 and Walkers common weakened $1. International Petroleum slipped moderately on the announcement of a minor dividend cut but quickly recovered. Imperial Oil came through with a gain of fifty cents and British American Oil held firm.

The western oils were featured by an active trade in Anglo-Canadian on the news that the company's new well in the Steveston district gave evidence of being important. Anglo-Canadian advanced to $1.30 and held a net gain for the week of twenty-three cents.

Southern Operators Continue Fight Against Closed Shop In Coal Mines

New York, May 13.—(P)—A roll call of operators will determine today whether the entire eight-state Appalachian soft coal industry and its 346,000 miners, or only portions thereof, are to be included in the union shop domain of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers of America.

The extent of the victory won by the president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, after a six-week shutdown that became nationwide a week ago, was left in doubt by the opposition of certain southern coal operators.

Operators generally predicted that Pennsylvania, Ohio and Northern West Virginia would go along, but the Southerners from five states that produce more than one half of the Appalachian area's coal supply formed a question mark.

Offered for signature was a two-year wage and hour contract that contained two sentences demanded by Lewis as the price of peace. They embodied the principle of the union shop for the industry that employs 460,000 men and recognition of the country's largest labor organization as the exclusive bargaining agent.

THREE POWERS DISCUSS FATE OF FREE CITY

Representatives of Great Britain, France and Sweden to Study Rival Polish and German Claims Over Danzig.

London, May 13.—(CP-Cable)—Representatives of Great Britain, France and Sweden, members of the committee of three, will discuss informally Polish and German claims over Danzig during the League of Nations Council meeting opening at Geneva May 22nd.

Lord Halifax, Georges Bonnet and R. J. Sandler, the international godfathers of Europe's Baltic powder keg, are not likely to do anything about the Free City, which at the moment is Europe's No. 1 danger point.

Germany wants Danzig's incorporation in the Reich and there is no doubt its citizens are eager to return. Poland is just as determined that Danzig must remain as it is, Colonel Joseph Beck, Polish Foreign Minister, having announced to the world the Poles will fight rather than submit to German claims.

Military strategy and problems of defence underlie Poland's refusal to permit Danzig to become incorporated into Germany. The Free City was established by the League as a demilitarized zone in the Polish Corridor. Poles remember that Menel also was a demilitarized zone in Lithuania, but that when the Germans seized it they lost no time in fortifying it.

If Danzig were given back to the Nazis, a motorized column could cross the Polish corridor from Germany to East Prussia in less than an hour. Danzig also could be used to cut off Gdynia, Poland's Baltic seaport, leaving all Poland completely landlocked. At present the main railway line connecting Warsaw with Gdynia passes through Danzig.

Several times in the past few months Berlin has suggested a piebiscite be held in Danzig on the principle of "the right of self-determination." Poles have not fallen for that plan because they know a plebiscite would not mean a thing. Danzig is not autonomous and its citizens by a plebiscite could not decide their future status—that is something for the League of Nations only if Germany and Poland reach an amicable settlement of their conflicting viewpoints.

Poland Protests Danzig Move To Halt Holiday Observance

Energetic Protest Lodged with Danzig Senate Over Refusing of Permission for Observance of Anniversary of Death of Joseph Pilsudski—Polish Press Demands that Troops Occupy Free City to Maintain Order.

Danzig, May 13.—(P)—Poland protested to the Nazi-controlled Danzig Senate today against the Senate's order forbidding a memorial service here last night for the Polish hero, Joseph Pilsudski.

The Senate had stopped Poles in Danzig from assembling to honor the late Marshal on the grounds the meeting might cause trouble.

Poland's protest was delivered this morning by the Polish Commissioner Marion Chodacki to the President of the Senate, Arthur Greiser, and was based on the assertion that the Danzig Government could not be sent to assure order there.

The text was not made public, but it was said to have been "very energetic."

Some Polish newspapers, drawing their own conclusions from Warsaw's step, said that if the Senate feels it cannot be responsible for order, then the Polish army ought to be sent to assure order there.

(All Poland yesterday solemnly observed the fourth anniversary of Pilsudski's death by conducting memorial services, closing places of business and having a three-minute period of silence beginning at 8:45 p.m., the hour the hero died.)

(But in Danzig the anniversary passed almost without notice because of the ban. A Warsaw dispatch last night said Danzig authorities gave as the reason that application for permission to conduct the meeting came too late.)

PRESCRIPTIONS HOLD KEY TO MURDER RING

Philadelphia, May 13.—(P)—A dozen prescriptions written by a middle-aged physician charged with conspiring with an insurance-murder gang were analyzed by police chemists today to determine whether they were a means by which victims were fed poison in fatal doses.

Assistant District Attorney Vincent McDevitt charged weeks ago, when the physician first was arrested, that he had "furnished poison and obtained prospects" for the ring, which police say may have killed more than 100 persons for insurance money in several Eastern States.

Levis, Que., May 13.—(P)—The body of an unknown man was buried at St. Romuald Cemetery yesterday, following a coroner's inquest here which rendered a verdict of "found drowned." The body had been found in the St. Lawrence River last week.

"Altogether it is fair to say that organization of the peace front is making credible progress and is, perhaps, already a more potent influence for peace than appears on the surface," the Telegraph added. The Times (Independent) indicated belief its influence would have an effect through the Balkans and Asia and hoped "Britain and Turkey could remove Bulgarian grievances to bring her into the new concert."

FRANCE SEEKING TO REACH SIMILAR PACT

Paris, May 13.—(P)—The French Government, approving the British-Turkish alliance, concentrated efforts today upon obtaining a similar accord.

French leaders hinted France expected to effect a Turkish agreement shortly. It has been held up because of Turkish demands for the Hattay republic, former Sanjak of Alexandretta in French-mandated Syria.

The Turkish agreement with Great Britain cheered France, because it was felt that it indirectly reflected Russian intention to join the Anglo-French line-up and because of its potentialities in serving to attract Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.

The Anglo-French front now includes Poland, Rumania, Greece and Turkey. Anglo-French agreements with Poland are reciprocal. The pledges to aid Rumania and Greece are one-way.

General Maxime Weygand, former chief of the Army General Staff, is back in Paris after contacting Turkish leaders at Ankara.

MORE DEATHS TIED TO SLAUGHTER RING

Philadelphia, May 13.—(P)—Two more bodies of suspected victims of an eastern states insurance-murder ring were ordered exhumed following swift court moves which investigators said had tched in sharper outline the roles thirteen prisoners played in a slay-for-pay racket.

The bodies were those of Abraham Sherman and Antonio Giacobbe. Their widows are among twenty-four persons held as members, customers and "dupes" of the ring which police say may have plotted more than 100 deaths by poison, drowning and faked accidents in the last ten years.

(Mrs. Stanley Norris); his mother, Mrs. Emmaline Rooney Thomas, aged ninety-five; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Blake, of Waterloo, and Mrs. E. LAST OLD SOLDIER

Vaduz, Liechtenstein, May 13.—(P)—This tiny central European principality now has no army. Andreas Klieber, last surviving soldier, has died at the age of 95.

London, May 13.—(P)—Turkey will gain important trade and munitions loans as a consequence of the Anglo-Turkish alliance, political commentators predicted today.

The press emphasized the strategic importance of the agreement, and many spokesmen felt it increased the prospects of concluding an Anglo-Russian pact.

Great Britain, as well as Germany, in the past has made generous loans to Turkey. Prime Minister Chamberlain told Parliament yesterday that a "long-term agreement" was to be worked out; in the meantime Turkey and Britain would "lend each other all aid and assistance" if needed.

The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) said that the agreement was of "great material and strategic importance" in reinforcing the Anglo-French front and suggested that the ultimate form of agreement would depend on Russo-Turkish relations.

"Altogether it is fair to say that organization of the peace front is making credible progress and is, perhaps, already a more potent influence for peace than appears on the surface," the Telegraph added. The Times (Independent) indicated belief its influence would have an effect through the Balkans and Asia and hoped "Britain and Turkey could remove Bulgarian grievances to bring her into the new concert."

LOCAL CHURCH PAYS TRIBUTE TO MUSICIANS

Mr. and Mrs. Wright W. Gibson, Miss Bertha Allen and Members of Trinity Church Choir Guests of Honor at Social Evening.

Large numbers of the congregation of Trinity United Church, gathered last night in Wesley Hall, expressed appreciation of the church as a whole for the voluntary assistance rendered by Wright W. Gibson, principal of the Sherbrooke High School, who played the organ during the long illness of Miss Bertha Allen, and for the faithful service of the choir. The gathering also extended a hearty welcome to Miss Allen, who has resumed her duties as organist and leader of the junior choir.

J. Gordon Armitage, who acted as chairman, extended a greeting to the members of the congregation, assuring Miss Allen of the joy of the church that she is again in good health and is fulfilling her duties with her usual efficiency, and thanking the choir for their continuous and willing contribution to the life of the church.

Extending a vote of thanks to Mr. Gibson, Dr. S. J. Bloomfield, chairman of the choir committee, said that by stepping into the breach caused by the illness of Miss Allen, Mr. Gibson had rendered an invaluable service. He presented him with a radio as a token of appreciation.

Mrs. Gibson, whose beautiful soprano solo has been enjoyed by the congregation in recent weeks, was presented a bouquet of American beauty roses by Edward B. Loomis, president of the choir.

Refreshments were prepared by Mrs. S. McLean, Mrs. E. D. Bradley and Mrs. Colin Campbell, who were thanked on behalf of the congregation by Rev. Fred Williams.

Arrangements for the social evening are in charge of Colin Campbell, Ben C. Howard, Jr., J. Wallace Barrie, J. Gordon Armitage, E. D. Bradley, Wesley Bradley, Dr. S. J. Bloomfield and Dr. Gordon Loomis.

Weight has no influence on the velocity of falling bodies. An iron ball and a wooden ball, of equal size, will fall at the same rate of speed.

Forecast: Moderate winds, fair today and Sunday and becoming a little warmer.

The maximum temperature yesterday 46 and the minimum 35. Last year the temperatures were 53 and 40.

OLD HOTEL AT SWEETSBURG IS RAZED IN FIRE

Two Firemen Injured in $20,000 Blaze Which Destroyed Sweetzburg Inn—Dwelling at Bishopton Destroyed by Flames.

Sweetzburg, May 13.—Two firemen were injured and damages estimated at $20,000 caused here yesterday afternoon in a five-hour fire which destroyed the seventy-five-year-old Sweetzburg Inn, standing only a few hundred yards from the Brome-Missisquoi-Perkins Hospital.

The blaze, first discovered in the kitchen of the hotel, ate slowly but steadily through the three-story building and at one time threatened to spread to the local post office and to the F. J. Durkee store. A barn in the rear of the inn was also destroyed. A brisk wind brought fears that the fire might spread to the hospital, but firemen managed to confine the flames to the inn and barn.

When the blaze was first discovered at 1:30 yesterday afternoon the Sweetzburg fire brigade responded to the alarm but later, when it was seen there was danger of the fire spreading to other buildings, a call for assistance was sent to nearby Cowansville. Firemen and members of the Legion of Frontiersmen of that town helped fight the flames.

At 5:30 p.m. the walls of the building were still standing. They collapsed shortly afterwards, however, and by eight o'clock the structure had been razed.

The few guests in the inn escaped without difficulty after being warned of the outbreak by proprietor Alfred Deschamps, his wife and members of the hotel staff. Deschamps' infant son was carried to safety.

During the fire firemen John Perrault, of Sweetzburg, and Paul Fuller, of Cowansville, received slight cuts. They were treated at the Brome-Missisquoi-Perkins Hospital. Much of the hotel furniture was saved before the building collapsed. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

BISHOPTON HOME DESTROYED
Bishopton, May 13.—Originating in the chimney and fanned by a high wind blowing at the time, flames completely destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Sutcliffe here.

The blaze was noticed on the roof by a young boy employed by Mr. Sutcliffe. The alarm was immediately given and volunteer fire-fighters hurried to the scene, but because of the wind the rapidly-spreading flames soon enveloped the entire structure and it was impossible to prevent its destruction.

Some furniture on the ground floor was removed, but nothing could be saved from the upper section. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Dr. Manion urged the necessity of building up Canada's industrial life for possible emergency, as Britain had been doing for the past three years. All parties had been

ROYAL COUPLE TO FIND E.T. IN GALA DRESS

Residents of City and Surrounding District Beginning to Display Flags and Decorations Although Visit Here Still Four Weeks Away.

Although the visit to Sherbrooke of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, scheduled for June 12th, is almost a month away, residents of the city and surrounding district are beginning to display decorations in buildings and on cars and each day more evidence is seen that the people of the Eastern Townships are keenly conscious of the coming Royal Visit.

In Sherbrooke a number of business houses are decorating windows with pictures of the King and Queen, flags, crests and other ornaments of a royal nature. Such decorations have been placed in a window of the Record block, where they will remain until the Royal Couple leave for England at the conclusion of their trip across the Canadian continent.

A number of cars are bearing small Union Jacks on their hoods, while other vehicles, such as trucks, are carrying full-size flags. It is pointed out that care must be taken to mount flags in such a manner that when the vehicle is stopped the flags do not dip and the proud standard come to rest in an ungraceful position or become soiled.

Officials have asked that citizens begin decorating as early as possible so that the district will have a festive appearance all the time Their Majesties are in Canada.

The Golden Text is from II Corinthians 5:4. "We that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord knoweth the days of the upright; and their inheritance shall be forever. Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for the end of that man is peace." (Psalms 37: 18, 37).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "A mortal, corporeal, or finite conception of God cannot embrace the glories of limitless, incorporeal Life and Love. Hence the unsatisfied human craving for something better, higher, holier, than is afforded by a material belief in a physical God and man. Progress takes off human shackles. The finite must yield to the infinite." (page 258, 256).

—MORTALS AND IMMORTALS—
The subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on May 14th.

The Golden Text is from II Corinthians 5:4. "We that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord knoweth the days of the upright; and their inheritance shall be forever. Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for the end of that man is peace." (Psalms 37: 18, 37).

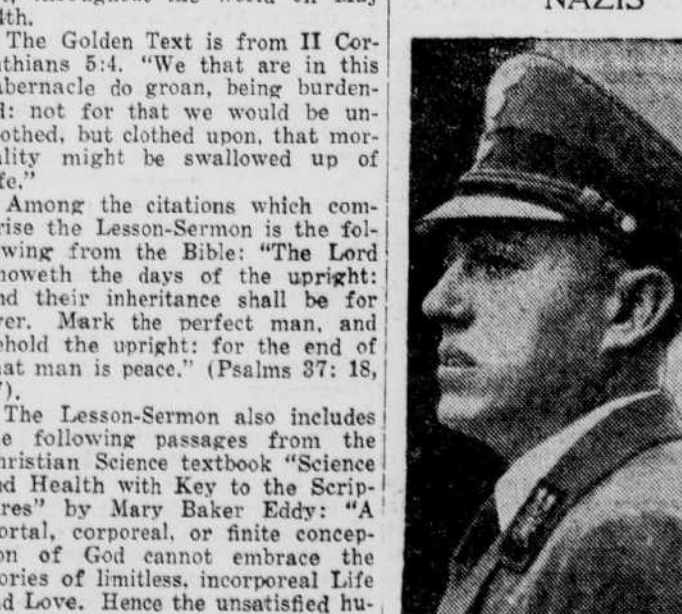

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "A mortal, corporeal, or finite conception of God cannot embrace the glories of limitless, incorporeal Life and Love. Hence the unsatisfied human craving for something better, higher, holier, than is afforded by a material belief in a physical God and man. Progress takes off human shackles. The finite must yield to the infinite." (page 258, 256).

A letter was read from Mrs. Henrietta Scott, of Knowlton, president of Brome County Women's Christian Temperance Union who thanked the Institute for donation of two dollars towards an essay contest held recently.

Forms were submitted to be filled in for the varieties of seeds to be supplied pupils of the Creek and Foster schools by the Department of Agriculture, Quebec. An invitation was extended to those interested in the Rural Life conference held at Sherbrooke and a letter read from the Canadian Red Cross Campaign Committee soliciting funds for a worthy cause. It was moved by Mrs. A. L. Chamberlain and seconded by Mrs. J. N. Code that the Institute send two dollars and it was reported that the Creek and Foster schools had each sent a like amount.

Mrs. R. E. Allen, convener of agriculture, had charge of the topic and gave a paper on the raising of chicks. This was followed by a poultry riddle and a demonstration of perfect and imperfect eggs for hatching purposes. The fact was also stressed that every member should be instrumental in destroying the numerous caterpillar nests that are forming so early this spring.

Mrs. Eula White, convener of home economics gave out the following books to each member: "Canadian Vegetables for every day use," "salads that are different," "canning fruits and vegetables," "canned fruits and vegetables for variety in every day meals," "jams, jellies and pickles," and "control of some common species of household insects." Mrs. Allen also handed out a leaflet on "Household Storage of fruits and vegetables."

Mrs. L. P. Durrell kindly offered her home for the June meeting which will be under the convener-ship of Mrs. A. L. Chamberlain, convener of child welfare and public health. The roll call will be answered by "What I would like to teach my child." Samples of home-made candy are to be brought by each member and this is to be accompanied by the recipes for making same.

The meeting was brought to a close by the Mizpah benediction in unison. A contest was arranged by the hostess, Mrs. J. N. Code, Mrs. A. L. Chamberlain and Mrs. L. Willows finishing equal and each being awarded for her efforts. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess assisted by her daughters, the Misses Phyllis and Mary Allen, and by Mrs. F. G. and C. D. Coaticook Residents Injured In Early-Morning Road Crash

Maurice Carboneau and Philippe Tremblay Found Unconscious in Wrecked Car on Dixville-Coaticook Highway—Former, Who Received Fractured Skull, Reported in Critical Condition.

Returning home to Coaticook from Dixville in a car rented from Jerry Champagne, of Coaticook, the men were injured when Carboneau lost control of the machine as it rounded a curve. The car shot from the road and crashed heavily into a tree on the side of the highway.

Passing motorists discovered the wrecked car about one o'clock this morning. The two victims, both unconscious, were slumped in the battered wreckage. Carboneau had received a fractured skull and Tremblay broken ribs and a cut on the neck caused by flying glass.

They were taken to a hotel in Coaticook and later rushed by ambulance to the hospital here. Hospital authorities stated this morning that Carboneau was in a

CROP ROTATION IS DESCRIBED BY AGRONOME

Science of Farming and Conditions Peculiar to Eastern Townships Discussed by W. S. Richardson, of Lennoxville.

"We should try to make conditions as near ideal as possible for the crops we are growing," stated W. S. Richardson, assistant superintendent of the Lennoxville Experimental Farm, in an address last evening on "Field Husbandry."

Mr. Richardson pointed out that a review of data on the cost of producing crops, assembled from experiments conducted at the Dominion Experimental Station at Lennoxville during the last twenty-five years, shows that the higher the yield per acre, the smaller the cost per crop unit. It costs very little more per acre to harvest a two and one half ton crop of hay than a one-ton crop, and the price per ton is lower with the heavy crop, Mr. Richardson pointed out.

Rotation, the system ensuring a systematic sequence of crops that is followed from year to year, helps maintain soil fertility without additional expense, declared the speaker. Where proper tillage measures are followed, weeds are kept under control, insects and certain fungus diseases are kept in check and labor on the farm is more evenly distributed.

"Time of planting is very important with most crops," stated the speaker. "and grain crops, with the exception of corn, produces better yields the earlier they are sown, providing, of course, the soil is in good tilth. Both the yield and quality of grain gets poorer the later it is sown, although corn should not be sown until the ground has warmed up and the danger of late frosts has passed."

Mr. Richardson emphasized the fact that the best seed obtainable should be used. Styles in ploughing are changing slowly, but steadily, Mr. Richardson said. The high-cut plow has almost disappeared, being replaced by ploughs cutting a wider furrow, and in cases where power farming is practised the one-way disc is replacing the plough to a large extent.

Through after-cultivation ploughing was recommended by Mr. Richardson as a means of controlling and practically eliminating couch grass. The abundant rainfall in the Eastern Townships has its disadvantages as well as advantages, the speaker continued, and is troublesome since it tends to leach from the soil double elements essential for plant growth. One of these elements is lime, which may be returned to the soil by use of wood ashes, quicklime, hydrated lime or ground limestone.

Mr. Richardson advised farmers to have their soil tested before applying lime. Following a review of methods of fertilization, Mr. Richardson urged farmers to learn by their own as well as their neighbors' experience, to read farm journals, to consult their agronomes and to keep in touch with the Experimental Farm.

CORRESPONDENT WANTED for STANBRIDGE STATION

Paving Of Sherbrooke-Ascot Road Will Start In Near Future

Paving of the Sherbrooke-Ascot highway will be the first major undertaking of the Roads Department in the Eastern Townships this year. Col. the Hon. Johnny Bourque, Minister of Public Works and of Lands and Forests, announced this morning. The stretch from this city to Ascot is about six miles long and during the past two years has been subjected to much levelling and straightening. The projected surfacing will be a boon to local motorists and tourists as this highway is being increasingly used.

Completion of macadamizing operations on the Sherbrooke-Cookshire road will be held up for a while as that highway is not yet ready for satisfactory work to be started. Last fall about half of the thirteen mile stretch was covered with asphalt, the work having been commenced at Cookshire.

Re-building of Highway No. 1 from Sherbrooke to Magog will not be undertaken until the summer of 1940, it was announced by Government officials. In the meantime necessary maintenance operations will be effected to keep this road in as good condition as possible.

Five Local Contractors Are Bidding For School Addition

Tenders from five local firms have been received for construction of the $65,000 addition to the West Ward Larocque School which is expected to be started in June. Those who have entered bids so far are Bonin and Tremblay, J. R. Royer and Company, J. E. St. Pierre, Adèle Jacques and J. A. Verit.

Plans for the extension as prepared by Architect Denis Tremblay call for an additional storey containing ten new classrooms and living quarters for ten religious brothers. At present there are approximately four hundred and sixty pupils attending the school and when the addition is completed there should be room for about three hundred more.

The present building is one hundred and sixty feet by sixty-four and is constructed of brick and ornamental granite. When the extension is finished it will be one of the largest educational institutions in the city.

Besides the construction of the classrooms and quarters for the brothers considerable work will be done to the chapel now situated on the second floor. This will be enlarged to accommodate the expected increase in enrolment.

Last date for tenders to be received is May 19.

Will Give Notice Of Motion For By-Law Authorizing Loan

Municipal Authorities Plan to Borrow from $200,000 to $250,000 to Cover Cost of Projected Programme of Public Works Rendered Necessary by Steady Development of City — Notice of Motion to Be Made Monday Night.

Notice of motion of a by-law authorizing a loan to cover the cost of projected public works within the city will be given at Monday's regular session of the City Council, Ald. Eugene Thibault, Chairman of the Finance Committee, told a Record representative yesterday afternoon.

Owing to the rapid growth of Sherbrooke and the opening up of hitherto undeveloped sections, it will be necessary in the near future to build pipe lines and sewers and it has been estimated that from $200,000 to $250,000 will be needed to cover the cost.

This week Mayor Armitage, Ald. Thibault and other members of the Council made a tour of inspection of the localities where City Engineer W. Veilleux has indicated work must be done.

In East Sherbrooke, especially, will new sewage systems be most needed as during the past year streets have been built both on the north and south sides of the ward. With the opening up of new sectors has come construction of a parish, plans for a Grand Seminary and springing up of several private homes.

Not only the East Ward, however, is in need of public works for the growth of the city has made itself manifest in the North and West Wards also. As a consequence sewers and water mains will have to be installed in the near future and as the weeks pass the need for these becomes more urgent.

The money by-law to be introduced Monday will also provide for a certain amount of paving which will be done this summer. Only definite paving project thus far is that of Wellington street south where it is planned to re-make the highway from the railway trestle to the city limits, eliminating the S-curve near the site of the Carnation Milk plant.

The greatest of His gifts to earth

A TRIBUTE TO MOTHERS

While there is reason in the contention that every day should be Mother's Day, it is well that a particular Sunday each year should be set aside for honoring her in a special way.

And so tomorrow sons and daughters throughout the length and breadth of Canada will pay homage at the shrine of motherhood. Tomorrow we will honor those mothers who are still with us and we will reverently recall those who have finished their earthly tasks and have gone to their rest.

To those mothers who still live, we can discharge our filial obligations with tender words and caresses and kindly acts. But to those mothers who are no longer of this world, the debt of maternal love and care can only be paid in the tribute of behavior, in the act of being, rather than in the act of saying or doing. To the mother who is gone, no tribute can be paid except that of being that which she would desire her child to be, for a dead mother's only monument is her children.

To the mother who is still living we can do a great deal to show our love and respect and to gladden her heart on this day.

The letter home, so long postponed, causes anxiety in a mother's heart that younger people do not understand. The good mother is a sentimental person, proud of her children, eager for their success, and, no matter what their achievements or their failures, their staunchest friend.

Few individuals there are who, later in life, do not realize that they were not as devoted to their mothers as they should have been. There were sins of omission rather than commission; leaving undone those little kindnesses which would have meant so much to the mother in whose thoughts they never are absent.

For these Mother's Day has a real significance. It will mean a stirring to some kindly action. For all children, of whatever age, a day is dedicated to making mothers happier will be a day well spent.

HEarken THE CALL OF THE V. O. N.

One of the greatest assets of a community is the health of its people, for health is the basis of happiness and efficiency. It is only right, therefore, that to safeguard the health of its citizens should be the first consideration of every city, town and village.

Sherbrooke is, indeed, fortunate in having in its midst an organization such as the Victorian Order of Nurses which is daily throughout the year rendering a priceless community service in the curing of disease, and in helping to keep the community healthy and happy.

For over a quarter of a century the local branch of the V. O. N. has been carrying on its great Christian work and has rendered invaluable service to Sherbrooke and Lennoxville residents regardless of race, creed or station in life.

The activities of the V. O. N. cover a wide scope. Practically every branch of medical service is embodied in its scope with thoroughly qualified trained nurses at the service of the community, day and night and every day of the year.

Naturally, it is to the V. O. N. that needy people turn when they are in need of medical help. Of course the work of the V. O. N. is not restricted to poor people alone, but each year the organization itself spends hundreds of dollars on cases from which it derives no revenue whatever.

An organization such as the V. O. N. which does such a vast amount of charitable work cannot be expected to be self-supporting. It can only carry on with the financial assistance of the City Council and of those citizens who realize its worth to the community and are anxious to do what they can to see that this work is continued.

It is, therefore, necessary for the V. O. N. to appeal, from time to time, to the public for assistance. Such an appeal is now being made. Next week canvassers will solicit subscriptions from all citizens. It is hoped to raise $3,500 during the week. With this amount assured the officials of the organization will feel in a position to continue their work and the splendid services of the V. O. N. will be available for those in need.

The appeal of the V. O. N. is a most worthy one and it is hoped all citizens will respond as generously as possible so that a great organization may be strengthened and encouraged to carry on its great community work.

CLEAN-UP WEEK

Clean-up Week, which formally opens on Monday, holds a special significance this year for the people of Canada, especially in those districts to be visited by Their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth. Citizens should make a concerted effort to see that all buildings and properties along the line of the Royal Parade are properly cleaned up and that all debris is removed. Canada will be on display for the period of the Royal Visit and it is the bounden duty of all Canadians to see that the visitors—both Royalty itself and the hundreds of thousands expected to witness the parades—are given a most favorable impression of the districts which they visit.

But the cleaning-up process should not be confined to exteriors alone nor to the houses, etc., along the routes. Aside from the desire to brighten up which such a visit creates, Clean-Up Week calls attention to the advisability of removing the winter's accumulation of dirt and debris for the sake of improved health and living conditions, and to this end it is often more important that the interior of the structures be cleaned out rather than the exteriors.

PUBLIC MEN AND SILENCE

Perhaps one of the most notable features of the recent visits of two noted British men, once leaders in the public eye—Lord Baldwin and Lord Runciman—is the restraint which they have displayed in commenting on European affairs.

Lord Runciman made an almost pointblank refusal to comment on present conditions in Europe, responding to questions with the reply: "There has been quite enough said on the subject already."

Lord Baldwin was a little more garrulous, consenting to give one public interview on his arrival in Canada, but otherwise refraining from comment except during the scheduled lectures which he came over to deliver.

In the years past, men retired from public life have been too prone to rush into print with their views on this or that subject, which often are of little value and only tend to embarrass those charged with administering the affairs of the nations today. In many cases the declaimers are retired or broken politicians who failed to make a success of things when they had the opportunity but now feel compelled to tell the world how things should be done. Their discourses have tended to tire the public so much that the men who have accomplished things and who could perhaps offer some constructive criticism feel constrained to hold their own counsel. Or perhaps they feel that if their advice is of any value, it should be given directly to those charged with handling the affairs of the nations rather than broadcast to all and sundry who do not appreciate the meaning of it all.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

From the Files of the Sherbrooke Record.

May 13th, 1909.

Delegates from all parts of Canada of the Imperial South Africa Service Association met in Toronto yesterday to decide on ways and means of bringing pressure on the Dominion Government to form an army reserve for Canada, composed of members of the association, service to be for a period of ten years. The association expects to return a free grant to each of its members enrolling of 320 acres of land. The scheme has been approved by the Militia Council, but the Government has not adopted it.

Over four thousand persons attended last evening's performance at the Montreal Arena when the tenth annual horse show reached its height. The presence of His Excellency the Governor General was a pleasing feature of the evening. During the performance, judging of Class 72 took place and first prize was awarded to Lady Mac, belonging to J. H. McDonnell of Sherbrooke. One of W. S. Armitage's horses, Cardinal Wilkes, Jr., won third prize.

Several bills were ordered paid at the regular session of Sutton Village Council held this week in the Town Hall. Those present at the meeting were F. L. Safford, Mayor, and Councillors G. E. Clark, G. N. Thompson, L. E. Dyer and M. Bonneau.

Re-election of the complete slate of officers except the president featured the annual meeting of the East Farnham Women's Christian Temperance Union held at the home of Mrs. George Hawk recently. Miss Gladys Brimmer was appointed president for the coming year. Delegates named to attend conventions were Mrs. A. D. Collins and Mrs. George Hawk with Mrs. Wilkins and Mrs. Levi Shufelt as substitutes.

The grounds of the St. Francis Golf Club are now in good condition and golf enthusiasts are anticipating an active season. The first minor handicap is scheduled to take place shortly.

A MOTHER SPEAKS

All mothers have the certain right to say
If there should be war. We who have borne sons
In agony and rapture rise today
In fierce defence of these, our precious ones,
As tiger mothers guard their helpless young.
So shall we stand, when threats of war arise,
No waving flag, no oratory flung,
Shall dim the steadfast purpose in our eyes.

All wars are useless—let there be no more.
We shall not have a part in this mad thing.
You cannot take the fine sons that we bore
And offer them for bloody slaughtering.
Consult the mothers of the earth, O men,
And there will never be another war.

—Grace Noll Crowell.

FROM THE PEN OF E. T. WRITERS

IN MEMORY OF MOTHER.

A flower white I'll wear today
For one who just has "gone away"
To a mansion prepared for her above,
Where she rests and sings in her Savior's love.

So far away. It is not so.
She still is here as a year ago.
Once, a guiding star—now, a memory sweet;
We'll meet again at our Master's feet.

Beyond the hills she dwells with Him
Whom she praised while here with song and hymn,
Happy with loved ones gone before;
She waits for us on a fairer shore.

At early morn with the song of birds,
In fancy, her gentle voice is heard.
At eve, in the rays of setting sun,
Again we hear her say, "Well done."

Eternal hope springs in our breast
To meet again with the very best,
Bravest, strongest—Oh may God bless,
The memory of My Mother.

TWO MOTHERS.

(In loving memory of a foster Mother who passed into Rest twenty-two years ago.)

I was just a tiny infant, just a babe in arms, you see,
When my Mother went to Heaven, and I know that she loved me.
But God called her and she answered, leaving us behind to wait,
And I know she's safe in Heaven, waiting by the pearly gate.

She was glad to hear His summons, tho' she loved her children so,
For her life had held much suffering, she was very glad to go.
No, I don't remember Mother—but the one who took her place
Is enshrined within my memory, every line of her dear face.

How she loved me, foster Mother, shielded me from every harm,
Washed and dressed me, rocked me, fed me, kept me always snug and warm.
And when I began to prattle, lisp my baby phrases o'er,
Had I been her own dear baby, she could not have loved me more.

Time passed, I grew up and left her, left her loving heart to yearn,
I know now how much it grieved her, but I never knew it then.
If you women who are childless, who have plenty and to spare,
Would seek out a tiny infant, who has lost a mother's care,
There are plenty of wee orphans in this world of want and woe,
They would pay you back in loving, you would be a Mother, too.

And you others who have mothers, living in the world today,
Send a message, go and see them, write a letter, don't delay.
For the precious name of Mother is the sweetest name on earth,
Whether it's a foster Mother, or the one who gave you birth.
And when life for me is over, and I lay aside my care,
I know I will have Two Mothers waiting for me over there.

—Eva M. Cross.

"TRIBUTE TO MOTHERS."

Mother, blessed Mother!
Your name stands forth today,
Prefacing any other
In the old-time-honored way.
Where'er God's blessings do expand,
Where'er His people are,
Their names stand forth supreme and grand,
Fair as an evening star.

Good Mothers are God's sacred gifts
To this old weary world;
By insight keen, they mend the rifts
In life, which Fate has hurled.
The fervent prayers they oft have said
Were never breathed in vain;
God's blessings rest on every head
Which spares a mother pain.

Oh, erring thoughtless ones, take heed
Lest by your wayward life
You cause a mother's heart to bleed
When honor should be rife.
How many ones, who fame attained
Reflect on years now past,
And own, the goal for which they aimed
The die in youth was cast.

Naught can replace the mother-love
Which strives to guide and cheer,
And point our souls to heaven above
When life is finished here.

Let us in deep humility
Take counsel, and be wise,
And e'er the light of wisdom see
Within our mother's eyes.

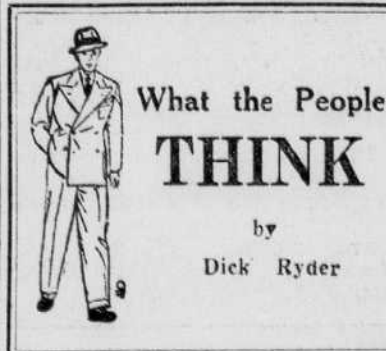

Small wonder then, we set apart
One day in every year,
On which to fill each mother's heart
With love and better cheer.

We wear that day, a flower white
For mothers who are gone,
And for those still our life and light
A posie red, we don.

(Oh, do not let us fail to pay
Throughout the days to be,
Just homage due, in every way
In deep sincerity.)

What the People THINK
by Dick Ryder

Since this column came into existence some few months ago we have hounded the man on the street for his honest opinion on a variety of subjects. One time we learned the public opinion on whether or not the City Council should donate a hundred dollars to the Sherbrooke Hockey Club after a financially flat winter, while another time we found out whether or not the citizens think a second bridge across the St. Francis river would be an advisable expenditure. But yesterday the usual query on some matter of public interest was shelved in order that the average person could air his views on a question that is definitely our business. The question—"What do you think of the Sherbrooke Daily Record?" We asked for it and we got it. One man suggested that as an improvement we hire a few good reporters. (If the editor sees this we'll be looking for a job driving a truck.) Others claim that the Record doesn't carry enough pictures. But, on the whole, the Record is in good favor with the man on the street. No one said whether or not they liked this column, though. In fact, no one even mentioned reading it. All of which proves that you can't win, or something.

Anyway, here are the answers, with a few bouquets and a few criticisms. And nothing deleted or changed.

W. K. Swallow, service station operator, 122 Quebec street: "I like the Record very much, especially the sport page, which I read more closely than any other section of the paper and which I think is very good. But I do think your paper should carry more news pictures. I once spent two winters in California and the papers there were filled with photos. After all, you couldn't expect a paper in a city the size of Sherbrooke to be the same as one in a large city and I think the Record is doing a pretty good job. I read it every night and I'm sure I'd miss it if I didn't get it."

Earle Hebert, photographer, 33 Wellington street north: "On the whole, I approve of the Record as one of the finest daily English newspapers in the province, especially as it can understand the French viewpoint on matters. And I'm speaking as a man of both English and French extraction. The editorials are straight and to the point, the sports page leaves nothing to be desired and on the city page, which I turn to first, I find all the news of local interest. The only fault I could find with the Record is that it is too conservative in the way it presents its views."

Mrs. Fred Gill, housewife, Compton: "I always find the Record interesting and I read it all, but you don't carry the country news from places such as Compton or Waterville or any other rural community soon enough. Many of us take the Record just for our local news and we expect to see it appear when it is still news. I always read the births and the deaths first, while Mr. Gill reads the market section. I've heard him say that the Saturday stories of the Lansdowne Market trading are alright. Both of us have noticed that the Record has been carrying more pictures lately, which we feel is a great improvement. We think, too, that the Record has been getting better steadily in the past two or three years."

Augustus N. Giovetti, egg merchant, 195 London street: "My wife and I have taken the Record for the past twenty-seven years, ever since we came here from the Old Country, so that should answer your question. I like the sport page particularly, but I would like to see on it more news of sports in England. Personally, I can see but little the matter with the paper and I don't believe you could get a better local daily anywhere. I find the 'Thirty Years Ago' column very interesting and I'm sure it would be a big mistake for the Record to drop it."

Gerard Cote, clerk, 107 Wellington street south: "I am very interested in sports and like the way the Record presents sports news, but I would suggest that you carry more action sporting pictures. I can't remember when the last time was that I saw a picture of some local sporting event in the Record. Furthermore, I'd rather see a headline on some small sporting event here in Sherbrooke than one on who won the National League baseball games, for instance. What do we care what happened in Cleveland or New York or Detroit? We want to know what happens here. I also think that the Record is carrying too many ads on page three, where we expect to see local news. I don't think there should be even one ad on the city page. Sometimes your editorials are too partisan, too, I believe. As an improvement, I would suggest that you carry a hobby page once a week, as it would put more interest into the paper and would get you more readers. I think it would be better, too, if the sporting column appeared daily, but if it only runs three times a week, as it has in the past, I think your sporting editor should use the column on the same days each week, so we'll know when to look for it. The column should always be in the same place, too, and not jump all over the page, as it usually does."

Malcolm Taylor, restaurant counter-man, 47 Galt street: "I don't read the Record regularly, so I can't say that I like it and I wouldn't want to say that I don't like it. But as an improvement, I suggest that you get some good reporters. (Ouch.) The Record often runs pictures too late, too. But I do think the paper has improved in the past few years."

(Note: This column usually appears Saturdays, but don't bet too much on seeing it next week.)

THE SPIRIT OF MOTHERHOOD

Mother! We have all known her. Not all of us in the same person, but the same glory frames each separate face in the aureole of its own Divinity.

The Manifold Works Of God

Psalms CIV, 24: "O Lord, how manifold are Thy works, in Wisdom hast Thou made them all; the earth is full of Thy riches."

Ever since the sixth century of our era the Sunday before Ascension Day has been known as Rogation Sunday. It was Augustine of Canterbury who introduced the custom of having solemn litanies sung in procession around parish boundaries on the three days following the fifth Sunday after Easter, to ask God's blessing upon the crops about to be sown, and also to implore those higher gifts that nourish and enrich the soul. When the Apostle James said: "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above," he evidently recognized this two-fold purpose of prayer and thanksgiving: the "good gifts" answer to the normal requirements of our common life here below; the "perfect gifts" minister to the searchings of the heart and spirit of man.

So Rogation-tide brings home to us the truth that the God of Nature is the God of Grace. To the writer of this psalm this idea presented no difficulty. The ear and heart of David were ever open to the voices of Nature. Storm and calm alike were to him sources of inspiration. From a hill-side he sees the tempest sweep across the desert, and he cries: "The Voice of the Lord is in the thunder; the Voice of the Lord shaketh the wilderness; yea, the Lord shaketh the wilderness of Cades."

The calm glory of the star-lit Bethlehem skies constrains him to sing: "When I consider Thy heavens, the Works of Thy fingers, the moon and the stars that Thou hast ordained, Lord, what is man that Thou art mindful of him, or the son of man that Thou regardest him?" Like the Englishman, Wordsworth, this great Hebrew nature-poet sensed in the universe about him "A motion and a Spirit, that impels all thinking things, all objects of all thought—and rolls through all things." "O Lord," he cries, "how manifold are Thy works; the earth is full of Thy riches!"

It has been well said that, for the modern reader, the 104th Psalm serves to illustrate the harmony between Nature and Spirit, reason and revelation. The Mediaeval school-men based much of their thinking upon this assumption, but with the rise of the modern critical spirit came doubts of an extremely radical order—doubts which the New Physics and the New Psychology are tending, however, somewhat to allay. The great biologist, Steinhach's, experiments prove, at any rate to his satisfaction, that there are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamt of in a philosophy of godless materialism!

When the psalmist cried: "My soul is athirst for God, yea, even for the living God," he unwittingly voiced the immortal craving of the human spirit. But the experience of ages shows that man cannot by unassisted reason find out God, as Kant proves in his "Critique of Pure Reason." Thus the Book of Nature, however reverently read, furnishes no answer to the Ultimate Problem!

Evolution itself is merely the "modus operandi" of the fulfilment of a supernatural plan, in which we somehow feel we have a place, and may even be called upon to play some little part. The old naive belief in the Special Creation of every distinct species has, in general, given place to the modern view, without in any way affecting the essential priority of God.

It surely calls for no great exercise of Faith thus to recognize the existence of an all-wise and beneficent Will, and to see the hand of God in the world.

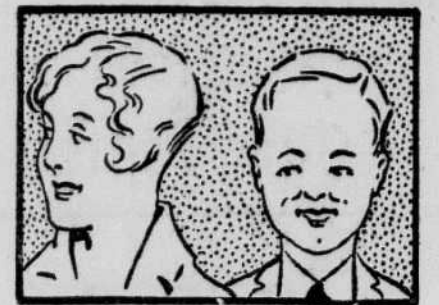

is in keeping with the railway's goal of maintaining a high esprit de corps among all ranks of the staff. While it would have been fine if no salary cuts had been necessary, when that action was compelled, the executives did not try to unload the whole burden on the employees. Instead, the executives took a large percentage of the cut themselves.

Landing in Pago-Pago, which is American soil, an American must surrender his passport, just as in entering a foreign country, and must also put up $100 as a guarantee of good behavior.

FOR THE YOUNG PEOPLE

The Haunted Cave

FREDDY, said Paul, "you don't belong to The Pack and it's sort of against the rules to bring outside fellows with us but I'm going to take a chance and ask you to come along. Won't you? We're going to explore that big cave on the hill back of the old quarry. They say it's haunted, you know. We Wolves intend to explore every crack and cranny in it and it'll be stacks of fun."

"I'd like to go first rate," said Freddy.

"You Stay Out Here, Freddy, And Be Ready If We Need Help."

"I'm not scared of course," continued Paul, "but this business may be dangerous. I bet we'll see some excitement. You know what they say about the cave? Well, maybe you don't because you're a stranger here but it's a plenty, believe me! That's one reason why I want you to come along with us. Bobby Simms is our President this month and we got to do everything he says no matter what. That's one of the rules. And Bobby, though he's a peach in lots of ways, is the reckless-est fellow you ever saw. He never stops for anything much less to think. He hops right into everything. You never saw such a fellow. Now, if you come along, you won't have to mind him 'cause you don't belong to The Pack."

Freddy was very willing to go and he was much pleased to see that his cousin Paul had enough confidence in him to feel the way he did.

The Pack was to meet at the old Benson barn that afternoon and when Paul and Freddy arrived the rest of the "Wolves", four boys, were already there. They looked at Freddy as if they did not know whether to object to him or not. But they all liked Paul so perhaps that was why they let the outside boy stay.

The cave which they were to explore could be seen on the side of the thickly-wooded hill.

"It looks like a giant showing his teeth," said Paul as they trudged over the meadow.

"It must be a big one," Freddy remarked.

"It is," said Bobby Simms, "and we've never explored it before."

When they reached the cave they all sat down to rest before beginning to explore. Each "Wolf" had brought something to eat and this grub was spread out before the leader, who divided it among his followers.

"Now then," said Bob, "Ray, you were the scout this week. What did you find out about this cave?"

"She's haunted, all right," replied Ray. "There's hollow groans come out of her and old Mose Grime said that often green brimstone lights shine out of her at night and once he saw a shape glancing in the green brimstone light an'—"

Everybody laughed so loudly at that, that he could not go on and Charlie Mose, one of the "Wolves", said: "Well, maybe old Mose's sides are getting hard."

"Come on, ye Wolves!" said Bobby. "Come on, ye Wolves!"

"Are we all going in together?" asked Paul.

"Sure," cried Bob. "Follow me, O ye fearless Wolves!"

"B-but," faltered Ray, "old Mose says he thinks there's a wild animal living in the cave."

The boys began to examine the ground about them for tracks. Charlie found a curious one. "Look!" he cried. "What is it?"

The other's clustered around and Bob said: "A bear's track!"

After that even he did not care to go into the cave until Jack Taylor suddenly exclaimed: "Why, it's got seven toes and there never was a seven-toed bear that I know of!"

"Then 'tisn't a bear track," said Bob.

"It's a spook," cried Ray, who half believed in them.

"And you call yourself a Wolf!" exclaimed the leader, reproachfully.

"Come, O ye Wolves, follow me!" He picked up a stout club which was his sceptre of office and started boldly into the yawning cave.

"I got to mind him," whispered Freddy.

was a sort of shelf of rock on which lay a number of large boulders.

"Just the thing!" thought Fred. "I'll climb up there and if a bear or anything comes out I'll push a boulder on him."

So up he climbed and waited. He waited and waited and waited. The afternoon sun waned and the air grew cooler. What had happened to the Pack? Fred's anxiety grew with every moment. He looked at his watch and found it was after five. They had been gone three hours at least. Terrible thoughts flashed through his brain as he slid down from his perch and cautiously approached the cave. At the entrance he cupped his hands, filled his lungs and yelled as loud as he could. Only the echoes responded. That is, was it only echoes? Fred thought he heard a faint answering cry.

What should he do? Ought he to run for help? It would take at least half an hour to bring someone from the nearest house even if he ran every step. Meanwhile what would happen to his friends? No, he must go after them alone. He had no weapon but remembered that fire was one thing of which all animals are afraid. He broke off several pieces from a dead pine limb and lighted one at the camp fire. Then carrying his lighted torch high in the air he stepped into the cave.

He had gone only a few steps when the cave grew lower, so low, in fact, that he had to bend double, and so narrow he hardly had room to move with his bundle of extra torches. The smoke from his lighted torch almost suffocated him, but by its light he saw a strange sight. It was the back view of a man in overalls with something white over his head. The man was squatting on his hands and knees.

"Hi, there!" yelled Freddy, and the figure moved.

"Fred!" cried Paul's voice. "Save us!"

"I will!" replied Freddy. "I'll set the feller on fire."

"Oh, don't yer do that!" the queer figure exclaimed. "It's only old Mose. I was havin' a bit of fun with the boys."

"Come out then!" said Fred, sternly.

He backed out followed by old Mose and the Pack. In the light they saw that Mose's face was painted black and the front of him was draped in a sheet. He looked so funny the boys had to laugh.

"Gee!" exclaimed Bobby, "he did give us a scare. We'd got into the narrow part of the cave when he came at us, from behind and growled like a bear. We all turned around and there we saw a white thing like a ghost and we didn't move or anything. He just sat there and glared at us. Oh my! I'll get even with you old Mose! Just you wait!"

"Don't you do it!" cried old Mose. "Let's be quits an' I'll give you my old wolf skin for your club."

This satisfied them all and then Bobby said:

"Freddy, if it hadn't been for you we'd all been dead of fright so what shall we do to repay you?"

"Let me join the Pack," said Fred.

They all gave three cheers and it was done.

SOMEBODY'S HAPPY!

(To be colored with paints or crayons. Whenever you come to a word spelled in CAPITAL letters use that color.)

HI HO! Somebody's happy!" shouts BROWN-haired Teddy holding his hand to his ear—"I hear a robin RED breast singing!"

"Oh, see what I have found!" cries YELLOW-haired Susie May. "A PURPLE violet in the GREEN grass! It's GREEN leaves are darker than the grass—and oh—I see another bunch of violets yonder behind you, Teddy!"

"Look! There is GRAY (use BLACK lightly) Mr. Robin. His beak is YELLOW and he sits among the PINK (use RED lightly) apple blossoms. The leaves are light GREEN and the branches in the tree are GRAY!" says Teddy.

Susie May wears a RED feather jacket in BROWN and her pleated skirt is RED. She wears BROWN socks and YELLOW shoes. The socks have RED and YELLOW plaids at the top. Her ribbon is BLUE.

Teddy wears a BLUE collared sailor-suit. The trousers are dark BLUE. The emblem on his sleeve is RED and his tie is BLACK. He wears BROWN shoes.

"That's a fine spray of flowers you have, Teddy! Are you taking them home to mother?" asks Susie.

In her little BROWN cap and her May.

The sky is light BLUE. Both children have PINK cheeks and RED lips.

"Just hear him now! He must be very proud and happy. I bet he's found a worm!" says Teddy.

"Maybe he's just glad to be up there in the high branches among all those lovely flowers!" says Susie May. "I am quite sure I would be!"

The Down-Fairy

IF YOU go to the woods in the early spring time, and if you have a believing heart, you shall see what you shall see." Dorothy read the words over and over. Of course, she had read them many a time before for they were at the end of a story in her favorite fairy story book, but they never before sounded just the same as they did today.

"If you go to the woods in the early spring time, and if you have a believing heart, you shall see what you shall see."

Today was early spring time, the birds were singing over their nest building, the breeze blew soft and warm through the nursery window so that the curtains sleepily brushed against Dorothy's hair bow and the smell of freshly dug garden and growing things was in the air. Of course, it was spring! And as for a believing heart? Where could you find a more trusting one that went thump, thump under Dorothy's dress?

She believed so thoroughly that she never had, really truly, doubted fairies—though, of course, she did sometimes wish she could see just what sort of clothes they wore!

"I think I'll do it!" said Dorothy suddenly, "who wants to stay indoors on such a day anyway. And it isn't far to the grove by the meadow, maybe that will be almost like the woods in the story and I know mother won't mind if I go there all alone, she said I might any time I liked."

Dorothy put the book away on the table and hurried off down the stairs. And as she went down the stairs and out of the house and through the garden and down the path toward the grove, the words of the old story book kept running through her head. "You shall see what you shall see. You shall see what you shall see. You shall see what you shall see."

As she reached the grove she went more slowly, for a person never could tell what might happen, and she didn't want to miss anything—of course, not.

She passed the beech tree—nothing to see. She passed the cluster of baby oaks—everything looked just like yesterday. She passed the damp spot where the spring beauties were so thick a person could hardly step without scrunching one—but not a new thing could she see.

Maybe you have to sit down," thought Dorothy, "it is a little easier to see things when you're not walking." So she sat down on the stuck-up roots of a great tall tree (her mother didn't like her to sit on the damp ground in spring time), and prepared to look sharply at anything that might come her way. "You shall see what you shall see," the story book promised.

Now it just happened that when

Dorothy sat down to watch, she sat facing the meadow at the edge of the grove. And that in the meadow were lots of yellow dandelions—hundreds and hundreds of golden blossoms that looked as though the sky had sprung a leak and had spilled out piles of lovely stars. Dorothy couldn't help but see them from where she sat.

"While I'm waiting to see things, I guess I'll count the dandelions," said Dorothy. And so she set to work.

But counting dandelions in a meadow is awfully sleepy work and Dorothy would surely have gone to sleep—only—at that very minute! a dainty little fairy, oh, so very little that he could ride on a tuft of dandelion down, slid down onto the ground right in front of Dorothy.

"I was looking for you," said the fairy, as he stepped off the down and made a bow. "I'm the Down-Fairy from Dandelionville, and every spring, in the early spring, I come to the edge of the woods. And if I see a friend like you, I am happy all the year. And if I don't—but then, why worry, you're here!"

Dorothy started to answer—she wasn't a bit sleepy, not she! But the Down-Fairy was gone, just that soon. There remained only the meadow and the grove and, of course, the dandelions, hundreds and hundreds of them. But she had seen what she had seen!

And every year, Dorothy promises herself, in the early spring, she's going to the woods so she can be sure the Down-Fairy is there.

And every year, Dorothy promises herself, in the early spring, she's going to the woods so she can be sure the Down-Fairy is there.

Notable Pearls

The pearl is the oldest object of personal adornment, and it is the only gem needing not the hand of man to bring it to its full perfection. The records of the Babylonians, Romans, Persians and Egyptians make mention of it. The wife of the Emperor Caligula, for an ordinary betrothal feast, decked herself with pearls to the value of over a million and a half dollars. Julius Caesar presented Servilia, the mother of Brutus, with a specimen valued at $250,000. In more recent times, Philip II, King of Spain, paid $200,000 for a single pearl known as "Peregrina," which was found in Panama.

TOMATO-PINEAPPLE SALAD

This rather unusual salad is very nice indeed.

Take as many tomatoes as you have people to serve. Cut a thin slice from the top and scoop out some of the pulp.

Turn them upside down and stand where they will chill for half an hour or more.

Sprinkle a little salt in each cup and fill with a mixture of pineapple and walnuts mixed with boiled dressing or mayonnaise.

Serve upon lettuce leaves and garnish with the dressing and halves of walnuts.

"My Back is Killing Me"

It is said that more people suffer from backache than from any other pains or aches. When the back aches the cause is usually traced to poisons in the blood as the result of defective kidney action. Relief can be obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills because they help to arouse the activity of the kidneys in their work of filtering poisons from the blood.

The combined action of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills on the liver, kidneys and bowels is a feature which makes this medicine so unique and entirely different to other kidney medicines. It is well to keep this in mind when selecting treatment for naturally this feature accounts for the long success of this medicine.

The King's Grandfather Acclaimed at Quebec

H.R.H. Albert Edward, gallant young heir to the British Throne and the first Prince of Wales to visit Canada, arrived at the city of Quebec on August 18th, 1860.

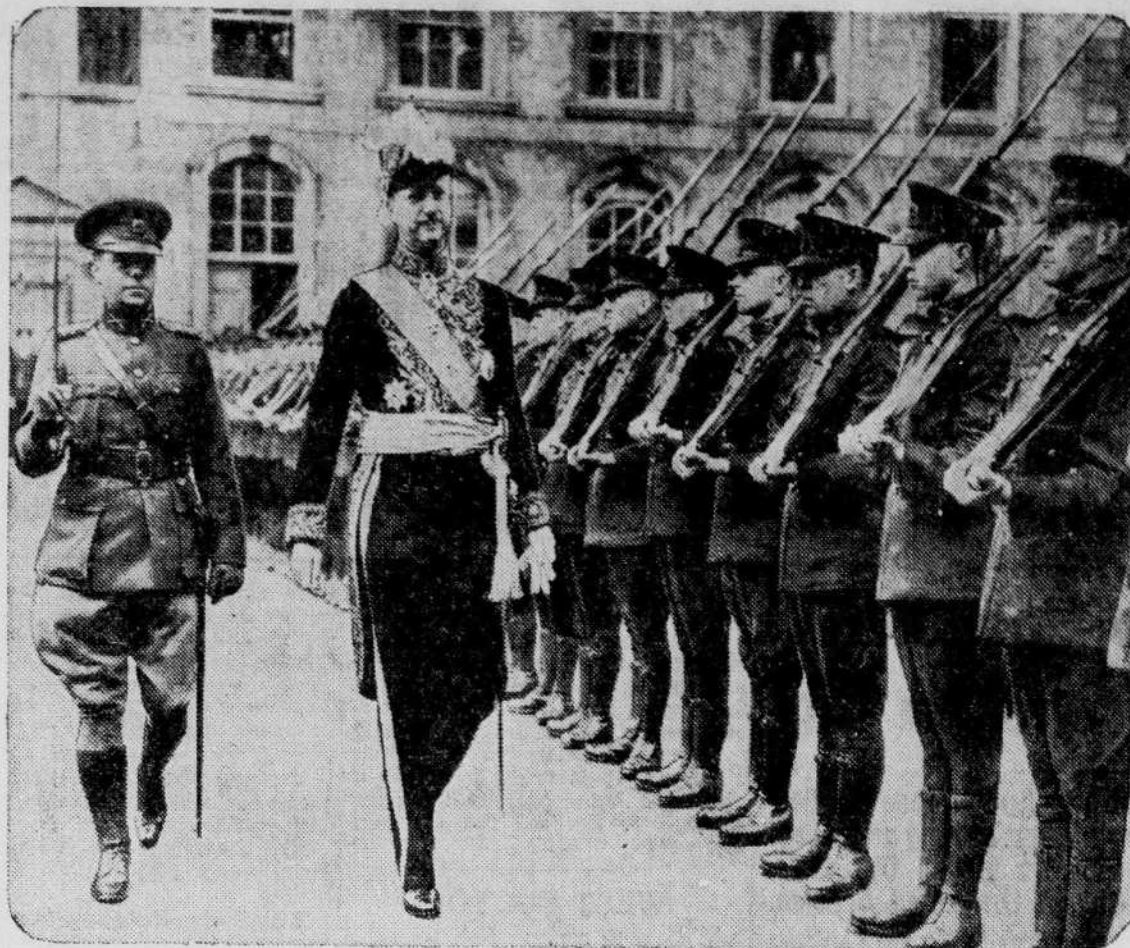

Guns roared royal salutes from citadel and battle ships. Vast throngs of citizens and visitors from all parts of "British North America" and the United States cheered themselves hoarse. Days of receptions and sight seeing were followed by a grand ball given by the city which continued "until past 4 a.m.," at which the Prince danced with 22 partners. Wrote a chronicler of the time, "white kid gloves are fearfully high in price on account of the ball."

Thirteen years before this historic visit the Canada Life—the first Canadian life insurance company—issued its initial policy. Over a period of 92 years it has paid to or accumulated for its policyholders and beneficiaries more than $650,000,000—over $50,000,000 more than it has received in premiums.

Asks Citizens' Co-Operation In Campaign To Clean City

Annual Drive to Improve Sherbrooke's Appearance Particularly Important This Year Owing to Visit of King and Queen—Planting of Shrubs and Flowers Urged by Mayor Armitage—City Trucks Will Collect Unwanted Articles.

Beginning on Monday, May 15th, and lasting until Saturday, May 20th, "Clean-Up Week," annual drive to beautify and generally improve the city's appearance takes on particular importance this year because of the impending visit of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, due here in less than a month.

Mayor Marcus Armitage, in a public proclamation, has requested citizens to clean yards and premises, paint buildings and plant shrubs and flowers in order that the city may be as neat and attractive as possible on the day of the Royal visit. It has been estimated that 150,000 persons will enter Sherbrooke on June 12th and residents are urged to co-operate in the "clean-up campaign" with more zeal than in past years.

"I urge the citizens to observe 'Clean-Up Week' in order that Sherbrooke may retain its reputation of being a clean and attractive city," the Chief Magistrate's proclamation stated.

City officials co-operate with citizens during the drive by sending trucks through the residential sections to pick up debris and all unwanted articles cast off by residents in their work of cleaning homes. Such articles, if left in front of homes, will be collected in city trucks and carted off to a dump.

In view of the fact that the King and Queen's visit to Canada and to Sherbrooke is without precedent in the history of the British Empire, it is particularly suitable for citizens to plant trees, shrubs or flowers this year, as the growths will serve as lasting memorials of the Royal visit, in addition to improving the appearance of the city as a whole.

A few hours' work on lawns and yards of homes will do wonders towards bettering their appearance and leave the householder with a sense of satisfaction that his property is in spick and span condition. Touches of paint here and there do much to brighten a building's appearance as a whole, and if the entire building is painted it takes on an aspect amazingly changed.

Interiors of homes should not be forgotten and the campaign affords housewives an excellent opportunity of getting rid of articles now stored in cellars and attics. Clean cellars and attics are a definite step towards fire-prevention and, in addition, cellars now littered with all sorts of more or less useless articles can often be quite easily transformed into virtually another room, such as a play room for the children.

To adequately clean the city in a manner fit for Royal inspection demands that each and every citizen co-operate wholeheartedly in the campaign, so that every section of Sherbrooke may be a credit to its residents.

ATTRACTIONS AT THE LOCAL THEATRES

Virginia Bruce and Nelson Eddy in "Let Freedom Ring," which opens at the Granada Theatre tomorrow.

At The Granada

"Let Freedom Ring," starring Nelson Eddy, which opens at the Granada Theatre tomorrow, presents a happy combination in blending the romantic action drama of pioneer days with music which fits the setting. And never has the screen's leading baritone been in better voice or offered more convincing dramatic work.

Despite the competition of such assured scene-stealers as Virginia Bruce, Victor McLaglen, Lionel Barrymore, Edward Arnold, Guy Kibbee and Charles Butterworth, with whom he is teamed in the leads, Eddy emerges pre-eminent as the young Harvard law graduate who is expected to champion the embattled farmers against the encroachments of a ruthless railroad gang. Barrymore as his father, Miss Bruce as Eddy's sweetheart, Arnold as the villainous railroad boss and McLaglen as his foreman, all play their roles to the hilt, but even were Eddy's songs not sufficient to win audiences, his new virility would.

At The Premier

"Risky Business," which starts at the Premier Theatre tomorrow, is the first behind-the-scenes story of Hollywood radio commentators. George Murphy as a film news broadcaster, and Dorothée Kent, as his secretary and assistant, portray the leads, Eduardo Ciannelli, Leon Ames, El Brendel, Grant Richards, Pierre Watkin and Francis Robinson head the supporting cast.

Story of "Risky Business" finds Murphy involved in a sensational headline case involving a gangster mob and a movie financier. Because the divulging of identities of principles in the case will endanger the life of a beautiful girl Murphy is forced to work alone.

The added attraction is "Mexicali Rose," featuring Gene Autry.

HOW TO FIND A HUSBAND

All that is necessary, or, at least, so runs the belief of the people of Brie, France, is to drink from the miraculous spring at the shrine of Saint Aubierge. Around the legend has grown a local celebration. The lower picture shows the traditional procession winding its way to the spring. Above, husband hunters stand in line awaiting their turn to drink. Some, feeling that one drink might not be conclusive, take bottles in order to carry home enough for another draught to make assurance doubly sure.

CAPITAL CLOSE-UPS

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Ottawa, May 13.—A farm close by the tower and Mr. Price drama in four acts with Hon. James G. Gardiner in the lead role, supported by Hon. W. D. Euler, holds the political stage as Parliament strives to drop the curtain on another session.

The vehicle of the Agriculture and Trade ministers for the Government's big show in the House of Commons is being dubbed the "New Deal" for the Canadian farmer.

Although the critics disagree emphatically on its ultimate merits there is unanimity in the conclusion that it is the most ambitious farm programme in this country's history.

The three Gardiner bills to assist co-operative marketing of wheat and other farm products and to provide an acreage bonus, together with the Euler bill to pay an initial wheat price of seventy cents a bushel, will have influence on the whole Canadian economy.

Apparently concluding that agricultural assistance is here to stay, the Government takes a long-range view and widens the application of much of its legislation to all Canada instead of just the West.

Launching this programme created one of the most violent behind-the-scenes battles of the present Parliament and wheat chaff literally blew through Cabinet Council and caucus meetings. The Government's decision to yield to demands for a higher initial price than the sixty cents originally proposed and compromise with the seventy-cent illustrates the tremendous pressure brought to bear.

Nearly a dozen western members have staked their political future on this legislation by outspoken utterances in the Commons both for and against the bills. The Liberal bolt five members on the initial price bill will have particular significance during an election campaign. Even Mr. Gardiner, himself, who many observers feel will be Federal Liberal leader some day, may have a bout with public opinion on this question.

Journey's End
After four months' debate over the nation's problems, Members of Parliament are becoming tired of political squabbles and anxious to get back to their homes. Hot weather and high humidity plays havoc with House attendance and it is likely the session will wind up without much delay, possibly by May 24. A session's end atmosphere of irritation and lazy good humor permeates debates.

Corridor Notes
The carillon in the peace tower is one of Ottawa's proud possessions but M.P.'s working in committees have not much use for Carillon. Percival Price and his bells when they are considering legislation. The Electoral Committee met in a room started his music at noon.

The members became annoyed at the "Noise," closed the windows and continued with only a tinkle accompanying their discussion. Ninety-nine different companies make up the Canadian National Railways system, says the annual report. Several Senate offices are going to be renovated shortly in anticipation of the appointment of several new members to the Upper House. There seems to be some lack of adequate accommodation for one large room is to be divided to provide two offices.

William Fraser (Liberal Northumberland), chairman of the Public Accounts Committee, thinks his committee will submit a final report on its inquiry into the Bren Gun contract before Parliament is prorogued. A canny Scot, he put up ten cents cash, when a bet was offered him that no final report would be tabled this session. The biggest pipes, the kind you smoke, on Parliament Hill are those of William Moore (Liberal, Ontario). They're larger than one ever sees in Canadian stores and one package of tobacco is only good for two fillings. Mr. Moore imports three from England each year.

Capital Personalities
Big, hearty Dave Spence, (Conservative, Toronto-Parkdale) is one of Parliament's few remaining rugged individualists and he looks to Herbert Hoover has his idea of a public man. Of the former United States president he says "I admire both his speeches and his principles."

Col. J. J. Duffus, popular Liberal member for Peterborough West, came back to the Commons this week after a serious illness and was given a great hand as he took his seat. Walter Tucker (Liberal, Rosthern), the Western reformer, is proving himself one of the ablest speakers among the younger Liberals. They say this Saskatchewan lawyer will go far in public life. When you talk about democratic-spirited cabinet ministers, take the case of Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines and Resources. Several nights a week he walks the two blocks from Parliament Hill and climbs aboard a streetcar to take the trolley home.

Senator Duncan Marshall, who farmed both in Ontario and Alberta and was Agriculture Minister in both provinces during his career, was an almost daily spectator in the Commons gallery during the agricultural debate. Then he piloted the Government wheat legislation through the Senate and ran into very little difficulty. Trade Minister Euler and Ross Macdonald (Liberal, Brantford City) are the latest M.P.'s to become air-minded. Mr. Euler addressed a luncheon in Hamilton and flew back to Ottawa

YOUNG BRITAIN RISES TO EMERGENCY

The calm demeanor with which the British public accepted the introduction of the gravity of the situation. Intimation last week that compulsory military training was to be instituted brought this response. This scene, duplicated many times throughout the country, shows would-be volunteers queuing up to be recruited into the House of Commons before the recruiting station in Great Scotland Yard, while Premier Chamberlain was preparing his announcement to the House of Commons that the Government had decided to resort to conscription to fulfil her in time for the afternoon session of the House.

Royal Gossip

You can't keep items about the Royal train out of an Ottawa column. But he takes it all with a slow smile. There is talk on Parliament Hill he will possibly be appointed Canadian Minister to Tokyo this summer.

The American Legation has had its white-stone facade scrubbed spotlessly clean for the visit. It is directly across Wellington street from Parliament Hill where the Trooping of the Color will take place next Saturday morning. Many Government officials and newsmen have been invited to the legation to witness the ceremony from the windows. The new American minister, Daniel C. Roper, will be there.

Port, little Teresa Maloney, who knows most of the secrets of the State Department but has amazing ability for a woman to keep them to herself, claims she has not had time "to be really excited" about the fact she will be the only Canadian woman on the Royal train. This charming, dark-haired girl is secretary to Dr. E. H. Coleman, Undersecretary of State, and will handle most of the official documents during the tour.

Small Demand For Feed Grain Sends Prices To Low Levels

Seasonal Spring Slackening Felt on Grain Markets—Flours Record Upward Trend—Butter Prices Ease Off Slightly on Local Mart.

With the coming of spring and the cows and sheep starting to graze in the open meadows the seasonal falling off in purchases of feed for herds and flocks has begun with its resultant effect on the price of various commodities on the grain and feed markets.

Most noticeable change was in the different brands of mill-feed, brans and shorts each dropping one dollar per carlot ton and middlings easing off as much as two dollars per ton. Feed oats and the various grades of spring wheat flour, however, moved upwards in price.

Slackness in trade continued on Lansdowne market generally although there was a slight improvement noticed in buying in the meat departments. Only marked change in price in meats was in veal carcasses which moved up from a cent to a cent and a half as supply became scarce.

Continued large supply and light demand featured the dairy market with all brands of eggs being sold at the same low prices that have prevailed for the past week. Butter eased off slightly especially creamery which was being sold from twenty-one to twenty-three cents a pound, appreciably lower than last week.

A large oversupply of strawberries sending the price per basket down to fifteen to eighteen cents featured fruit market activity. Only changes in the vegetable stalls were in the prices of potatoes which, due to scarcity, fluctuated upwards.

THEIR MAJESTIES TO VIEW KING'S PLATE

King To Present Guineas At Ontario Turf Classic

Woodbine Park, Toronto, Scene of Canadian Racing Season Feature May 22, Will Be Mecca for Thousands Seeking Glance at King George VI and Queen Elizabeth—Battle Between Archworth and Sea General Expected.

Toronto, May 13.—(P)—Battle between a colt and a gelding, Archworth and Sea General, was forecast today as the survivors of fifty-three thoroughbreds originally eligible started final tuning preparations for the eightieth running of the King's Plate here May 22.

A field of twelve is expected to trot to the post at Woodbine Park before the King and Queen and more than 100,000 other persons to match speed and stamina in the mile-and-a-half furlong gallop. At stake will be fifty guineas, gift of the King.

Running of the historic classic, feature of the Canadian racing season, will rank as an added attraction compared to the presence of the King and Queen. Woodbine Park will be the mecca for thousands seeking a glance at Their Majesties.

All will be provided with ample opportunity to see them. The Royal carriage will enter the park at the eastern entrance and circle the racing strip in clockwise fashion, stopping at the members' enclosure where the King and Queen will proceed to the Royal box.

The oldest continuously run race on the continent is fashioned for three-year-olds foaled in Ontario which have never won a race other than those exclusively for juveniles. Besides the guineas the owner of the victor will receive a gold cup and the major portion of a $10,000 added purse.

The King's role will be more than that of a spectator. After the race he will walk to a specially constructed platform at the stewards' stand where he will present the guineas.

The guineas were donated first in 1859 by Queen Victoria when the race was known as the Queen's plate. After her death the name was changed and the donation continued by succeeding monarchs.

ST. LOUIS GRADUATES
New York, May 13.—(P)—Six of the eight managers in the International League this season have once played baseball in St. Louis, either for the Browns or the Cardinals.

NOTICE TOO SHORT
Edinburg, May 13.—(P)—Because of the short notice given, the Scottish Football League advised the French Football Federation they could not accept an invitation for an international match April 30.

TENNIS
New York, May 13.—(P)—American tennis probably has fallen permanently heir to Ladislav Hecht, the former Czech Davis Cup star and one of the world's most promising young players.

Hecht came over as a member of the Czech delegation to the World's Fair, just before his homeland was taken over by Germany. Now he considers himself a refugee and intends to apply for United States citizenship.

Between the spring and autumn, a single pair of rabbits will increase a hundredfold.

England's Davis Cuppers were favored to defeat the New Zealanders in the second round European zone series, but before today's final singles the Dominion team led two-oh.

First two singles matches were split and yesterday D. C. Coombe and C. E. Maffey handed C. E. Hare and P. H. D. White, of England, a 6-3, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2 beating.

Experts claim Australia has the

45,000 RACING FANS TO VIEW PIMLICO JAUNT

Betting Fraternity Clamber Aboard Johnstown Bandwagon—New Record Not Considered Likely.

Baltimore, Md., May 13.—(P)—The biggest crowd ever to watch a horse race in Maryland, some 45,000 of the turf faithful, headed for Pimlico's time-honored course today to see Johnstown carve himself another notch of fame out of the hides of the three-year-old leaders in the Preakness.

No longer were followers of the sport of kings, from the two-buck bettors on to fellow who patronizes the $50 window, wondering who was going to win the forty-ninth running of this 1 3-16-mile gallop. Virtually to a man, they climbed aboard the Johnstown bandwagon, leaving only the question of record-breaking in the air.

The thought that if Johnstown's entry mate—Mrs. Ogden Phipps' surprise package, Gilded Knight—or Ciencia, the little filly from R.J. Kleber's King Ranch, W. L. Brann's crack mudder, Challeon, or Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's question-mark, Impound, could force him to move under pressure, High Quest's 1:58 1-5 Preakness record of 1934 might take a kicking around.

But, since no horse has ever forced jockey Jimmy Stout to pour the bat to William Woodward's whip, and in four 1939 outings, including the Kentucky Derby and the Wood Memorial, this development was not considered likely, much less an approach to Pimlico's track mark of 1:56 4-5.

New York, May 13.—(P)—They are going to have to supply bigger game for Billy Conn, the Pittsburgh kid, after the terrific beating he dealt out to Solly Krieger, the National Boxing Association middleweight king, in their twelve-round bout in Madison Square Garden.

He must have proved to nearly everybody's satisfaction by this time that he can knock the daylight out of all the 160-pounders they can throw into the ring with him. In his last four important fights, Billy has whipped Krieger twice and Fred Apostol, champion in New York State, the same number of times.

Krieger didn't belong in the same ring with Conn last night, even though Billy plainly wasn't at his best. He has been troubled with infected tonsils lately. He weighed 170 1/2 to Krieger's 160, but thinks he might sprout up to a solid 180 without the bad tonsils.

Solly tried hard. He lunged at his nimble rival round after round, but all he got was a painful beating, a confused look on his face and a load of sarcasm from the 10,000 witnesses to his plight.

There wasn't a knockdown, though it was strange that Solly kept his feet under the barrage of left-rights that poured onto his granite jaw in the late rounds. By a conservative estimate, Conn captured nine chapters, Krieger gained one and a couple could have been called even. Neither was cut, but Solly's face was swollen and battered.

I.L. FLAG MAY BE UNFURLED IN SYRACUSE
Chiefs, Third in 1937 and Second Last Year, Have Best Chance for Long Time with Newark Knocked Down to Normal Size.

You know the old saying, "A long threatening comes at last." Well, if it holds true in baseball, this might be the year for Syracuse Chiefs to win the International League pennant.

Not since 1897 has the championship flag floated over the Syracuse Stadium, and if that doesn't make the Chiefs about due, there isn't any B in baseball.

The Chiefs have been edging closer for the past two years, taking third in 1937 and second last year, with Newark Bears' super-team whittled down to ordinary size by the graduation of its stars, Syracuse has its best chance in years this season.

Today Syracuse is third, 3 1-2 games behind the league-leading Jersey City Giants. The Chiefs are there, instead of in the second division of the remarkably close race because of Johnny Get, the over-size pitcher who worked his way up to a $200,000 price tag last year.

Johnny pitched eight-hit ball and weathered a ninth-inning rally yesterday to beat Rochester Red Wings to five for his third victory of the season.

Baltimore Orioles earned a first-division spot by beating Buffalo Bisons for the second straight time seventeen to three, as five Bison moundmen failed to stem the attack.

Toronto Maple Leafs won their first home game of the season, downing Newark ten to four behind the four-hit flinging of Mike Meola.

YESTERDAY'S STARS
Jack Kramer, Browns—Held Tigers to two hits and drove in game's only run his third victory of season.

Johnny Mize, Cardinals—Hit two homers, driving in four runs, as St. Louis beat Reds eight to seven.

Morrie Aronovitch, Phillies—Homered with two on base to help beat Giants and Philadelphia out of National League cellar.

Clint Brown, White Sox—Went to mound with bases loaded in ninth and saved Chicago's victory over Indians, four to three.

THEY MUST STAND UP AND FIGHT

Billy Conn Deals Terrific Trimming To Solly Krieger

Pittsburgh Kid in Decisive Victory Over National Boxing Association Middleweight King in 12-Rounder at Madison Square Garden—Conn Ready for Bigger Game After Four Straight Triumphs—10,000 Watch Scrap.

EIRE SOCCER TILT CAUSES DISTURBANCE
Attendance of President Hyde at Football Match Between Ireland and Poland Frowned Upon by Gaelic Athletic Association.

Dublin, Eire, May 13.—(P)—Storms caused by the attendance of President Hyde at a football match between Ireland and Poland have now blown over but there is no likelihood the president will be restored to the list of patrons of the Gaelic Athletic Association.

The trouble arose because Association football is scheduled as a "foreign game" by the Gaelic Athletic Association, governing body of Gaelic football.

Background of the ban is that Association football, better known as soccer was largely played by members of the British Army here before the treaty, like rugby and hockey which also are banned.

Players and supporters of the Gaelic code attending foreign games as "idle spectators" are automatically disqualified under the ban. Gaelic football differs from soccer in that players are permitted to handle the ball.

St. Francis College scene of St. Francis Valley High Schools' Debating Society Final—Windsor Mills Victory.

Richmond, May 13.—The silver cup known as the Gardiner Trophy was awarded to the Windsor Mills High School, winners in the final debate sponsored by the St. Francis Valley High School Debating Society.

Kay Witty and Malcolm McDonald, upholding the affirmative of the resolution "That dictators have been of greater benefit to their countries than democracies to theirs," overwhelmed their opponents of Danville High School, which was represented by Mervyn Stewart and Hazel Horan.

St. Francis College, a neutral school, was the scene of the debate, which was presided over by Teddy Nixon, of Richmond, president of the League. The judges, Canon H. O. N. Belford, Rev. E. W. Coates and A. E. Thompson, B.A., in making known their decision through their spokesmen, Mr. Coates, stated that while in points of argument both sides were evenly matched, the extemporaneous manner of delivering their arguments threw the decision on the side of the affirmative.

LADY GOLFERS HOLD SESSION AT STANSTEAD

Ladies' Section of Dufferin Heights Golf Club Makes Plans for Active Season.

Stanstead, May 13.—The semi-annual meeting of the Dufferin Club ladies' section was held at the home of the president, Mrs. J. D. Ferguson. Minutes of the annual meeting held in the fall were read by the secretary, Mrs. Bernice McIntosh, and were adopted as read.

Miss Jean McIntosh presented the financial statement, which was satisfactory and was adopted as read. The matter of securing awning for the west windows was discussed and a committee appointed to purchase them and have them in place as soon as possible.

A committee consisting of Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Aldrich was appointed to purchase new curtains for the ladies' room and kitchen.

The resignation of Mrs. A. Aldrich as captain was accepted with regret, and Mrs. P. M. Poaps was appointed captain, with Miss Ruth Aldrich assistant captain.

The ladies of the club will furnish for the three men's matches of the season and the opening day of the club, which is open to shareholders and club members, is May 27th, when the President vs. Vice-President match takes place, followed by supper at the Club House.

Mr. Murphy, secretary-treasurer of the club, was present and conveyed a vote of thanks from the men's section to the ladies for their cooperation and assistance at the fall closing and annual meeting. Walter Norris, past president, was also present at this meeting.

The matter of suitable lighting was discussed and Mr. Murphy is negotiating for several large lamps for this purpose.

DEBATING CUP WAS AWARDED AT RICHMOND

St. Francis College scene of St. Francis Valley High Schools' Debating Society Final—Windsor Mills Victory.

Richmond, May 13.—The silver cup known as the Gardiner Trophy was awarded to the Windsor Mills High School, winners in the final debate sponsored by the St. Francis Valley High School Debating Society.

Canon Belford presented the trophy to Windsor Mills High School team before a large and appreciative audience assembled at the college.

COMEDY SCORES SUCCESS
Under the auspices of the Richmond and Melbourne Tennis Club, the three act comedy drama, "A Little Clodhopper," was presented to a large audience at the Town Hall.

The directors and cast had worked hard and faithfully on the comedy, and the training showed in the creditable manner in which it was presented.

"Ocey Gump," a kind-hearted, jovial person, was ably portrayed by George Walker, while Miss Juliette Bean, a boardinghouse keeper who was sentimental, was played with reality by Mrs. Grant Campbell, her odd costumes bringing forth much applause.

Mrs. George Walker as "Mrs. Chiggerson Boggs" played the part of a scheming mother with great ability, and Austin Thompson as "George Chiggerson Boggs" was exceptionally good.

Arnold Janelle as "Septimus Green," a young book agent who was very earnest and daring for the object of his love, was perfectly at home in the role, while Mrs. Rodger Nadeau, as "Judy Elliot," "The Little Clodhopper," who was a mercurial and mischievous romp, played the role to perfection.

Miss Elsie Salway as "Sandra Carter," a would-be actress, played her part with reality, while Ellen Frazer, Myrtle Davis, Leo Delaney, Arthur Bieber and Oswald McCabe also appeared in the cast. The Girl Guides assisted in selling home-made candy during the intermissions.

The Tennis Club was organized last year by Miss Irene Desmarais, assisted by Redmond Hayes, and has been very active during the winter in raising funds to improve the courts for the coming season.

New Managers Deliver Goods In Major Loops

Ray Blades Parks St. Louis Cards on Top in National—Doc Prothro's Phillies Step Along at Sixth-Place Clip—Lowly Browns in Sixth in American Under Guidance of Fred Haney.

There should be room in the baseball record after nearly a month of major league competition for an appraisal of the three managers plucked out of the minors last week to guide the two St. Louis clubs and Philadelphia Phillies.

Managers have been brought into the big tent from the side shows before, but none were as little heralded as Ray Blades, who graduated from the Rochester farm in the International League to the St. Louis Cardinals; Fred Haney, who moved from Toledo in the American Association to the Browns; and Dr. J. Thompson Prothro, who stepped from Little Rock in the Southern Association to the Phillies.

Taking over clubs which finished seventh or last in 1938, this trio has made their charges something to be reckoned with. Today the Cardinals are in first place in the National League and the Phillies in sixth. The Browns are parked in sixth in the American League.

The Cardinals stopped Cincinnati Reds eight to seven yesterday for their fourth consecutive victory. Johnny Mize hit two home runs and Red Pepper Martin one to account for seven of the winners' runs.

Prothro has the Phillies punchy all right. Three of them are among the senior circuit's ten leading hitters and Morrie Aronovitch is tied for the lead in runs batted in with twenty.

They toppled the New York Giants ten to six yesterday, getting the clinching runs in the eighth inning on Aronovitch's third homer of the year with two on base.

Haney has the Browns doing the same sort of tricks. The American League's leading batter is Mel Mazera with a .475 mark. Right now the new manager's staff is Bees taking a loose seven to one from Brooklyn Dodgers, joined to five and Chicago White Sox nudging Cleveland Indians four to three.
