Recreation group sought

Mayor Armand Nadeau said in a press conference Thursday that the city will seek from the Provincial Government authority to organize a recreation committee in the city's private hill to be presented to legislature in the near future.

The committee would be set up along the same lines as that of Hull, Quebec.

Mayor Nadeau noted the request would have to be approved by the legislature because the committee would include persons outside the city council.

"We can form a committee without the legislature's approval, as long as the persons in the committee are members of city council, but when there are outsiders involved we have to ask their approval," Mayor Nadeau said.

C-123 crashes

SAIGON (AP) — A United States Air Force twin-engine transport crashed Friday in a mountainous area near the border between North and South Viet Nam. One crew member was injured but two others apparently escaped unhurt. The C-123 plane was on a routine flight.

The mayor was unable to say how many persons would be involved in the committee.

In Hull, there is a recreation committee of six persons, including one alderman, who are paid $20 per month for their work.

The committee meets twice a month and prepares budgets for city recreational organizations and also studies and prepares new plans for recreation. Mayor Nadeau pointed out that the city has no intention of breaking up any parish recreation organization.

"We only want to form a committee in charge of all recreation in the city so they will be able to study recreational demands rather than bringing them before city council," Mayor Nadeau said.

Mayor Nadeau said that within the next few years the East, North and West Wards of the city will have adequate indoor swimming and recreation facilities.

The mayor said he was happy to announce that plans for two park-school projects for the North and West Wards, and a swimming pool and gymnasium to be built at the St. Jean Baptiste School in the East Ward are being prepared.

The mayor said the school commission and the city have met several times and the park-school idea has been approved by the Quebec Education board.

The mayor said he is still awaiting word from the federal government regarding TCA air service for Sherbrooke airport.

Tot drowns

Rejean Pinard three, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Pinard, of Little Lake Magog, drowned Friday afternoon when he fell into a swimming pool near his home.

Broadcaster dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — George C. Chandler, 56, a veteran of Canadian broadcasting, died here Friday. Mr. Chandler was president and general manager of radio station CJOR when he died. He had founded the station in 1926. He served several times as director of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters.

PARIS (Reuters) — The French government today clamped a tight security screen around former general Raoul Salan, chief of the terrorist Secret Army Organization, who was captured Friday in Algiers.

Salan, France's most decorated soldier, is being held in grim Sante Prison here along with his former top aide, former General Edmond Jouhaud, condemned to death a week ago.

Salan's capture may have dealt a crippling blow to the Secret Army which has been using all-out terrorism to sabotage the government's plans for an independent Algeria.

Salan will be tried by a high military tribunal both for his Secret Army activities and for his leading part in the abortive Algiers military revolt a year ago.

He already is under death sentence passed in his absence, but French law grants him the right to another trial.

PRISONERS PROTEST

Salan arrived at Sante Prison just 12 hours after he was arrested in Algiers in a surprise police move made on a tipoff from a suspected terrorist held in custody.

Bowed under weight of crosses

Hundreds of Christian pilgrims retrace last steps of Christ along way of cross

CP from AP-Reuters
JERUSALEM — From the Moslem school yard that once was Pontius Pilate's court, hundreds of Christian pilgrims Friday retraced the last faltering steps of Christ along the twisting, stone-paved way of the cross.

Many were singing and some were bowed under the weight of 16-foot crosses as they followed the Saviour's path in old Jerusalem's Via Dolorosa (Street of Sorrows).

In the dark-vaunted alleyways of Moslem shops they halted to pray and sing at 14 stations of the cross, marking incidents on Christ's path to crucifixion. Pilgrims, split into groups according to language, witnessed along the way many of the same sights Jesus may have seen through the blood from his crown of thorns:

Tattooed Bedouin women in brightly embroidered gowns passively watching the procession, and tribesmen driving goats and sheep through ancient streets too narrow for any vehicle.

GREY DAWN
Good Friday dawned grey and drizzling but the sun broke through and dappled the city's courtyard of the 1,600-year-old Church of the Holy Sepulchre, built over the traditional site of Christ's burial and containing the last five stations of the cross, a bent old muzzelin cried Moslem prayers from a minaret towering above the church wall.

World's fair opening today

SEATTLE (AP) — The United States' first world's fair in 22 years — Seattle's salute to the 21st century — opens at noon today with President Kennedy's touch of a golden telegraph key.

The president, vacationing in Palm Beach, Fla., will signal the opening of the fair. Cannons will fire, whistles will blow and a seven-year, $100,000,000 dream will become a reality.

A thousand reporters previewed the Century 21 exposition Friday and pronounced it beautiful and serious.

But the frivolous has not been overlooked either. The issue of "to bare or not to bare" was settled when a special city censor board gave the nod to bare-breasted girlie shows on the gateway.

Even before the first customer passed through the gates, financial success seemed assured. Advance sales of cut-rate tickets ended March 15 with $8,000,000 in receipts. That represents 3,500,000 admissions, and the fair figures to break even with 7,000,000.

SCIENCE A HIT

Previewers generally agreed that the fair's success as a show was due in great part to a king-sized assist from the government. The $9,000,000 federal science pavilion is the hit of the fair, both as an exhibit and a thing of beauty.

The wonders of science are graphically laid before the visitor. There is a cinema-made space movie that appears to hurtle the viewers through the heavens at great speed. There is even a wonderland for kids — no adults allowed — where the small fry can perform their own scientific experiments.

Jerusalem is a holy city for Moslems as well as Christians, and a few hundred yards away Mohamedans bowed in prayer hallowed stones by early morning.

As the pilgrims entered the under a beautiful dome of rock. From here the prophet Mohamed is said to have risen to heaven on his horse.

Christian churches which did not participate in the Latin way of the cross procession commemorated the Lord's death with their own rites.

Anglicans heard services in Arabic and English in St. George's Cathedral, with a special mediation on Christ's last words. Lutherans held special services in German, English and Arabic, followed by Holy Communion.

PILGRIMS PACK ROME
Pope John led a service at the Basilica of St. Paul Outside the Walls as pilgrims packed Rome's churches for Good Friday devotions.

Rome authorities forecast a record year for pilgrims. They expect last year's total of 120,000 to be exceeded by 10,000.

In Spain, thousands of penitents took part in Europe's most severe Good Friday observance.

The penitents carried heavy crosses or walked with iron chains on their ankles along a 4½ mile penitential route through Madrid's broad avenues and narrow streets. They made the march to atone for past sins.

In Dublin, the Irish government in an Easter amnesty released the last 29 members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army from prisons.

In Berlin, thousands of cars heading for West Germany to celebrate Easter backed up at the Autobahn Communist checkpoint. A police spokesman said it was the largest exodus in the city's history.

Across the Communist-erected wall in East Berlin, worshippers filled Roman Catholic and Protestant churches in warm, spring weather.

GLAD STORY OF EASTER

This is the miracle of their song,
That they should sing at all
In this world, in this time,
Singing together as a family.
For
Their song is of the dignity of life
And of an undefeated hope;
They know man's shame and hurts
Yet sing God's victory!
Then
Pray this Easter miracle be known
That from our walls and tombs
We hymn this lively victory of God
And all people, as a family, yet sing
This Easter song.

Election date in news spotlight

Diefenbaker ends the suspense

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Diefenbaker names date
Prime Ministers to meet
Arrest Secret Army chief

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, keeping suspense high until the last moment, came through on Tuesday with the long-awaited announcement that Canadians will elect a new Parliament June 18.

Commons members cheered and banged their desks to mark the end of what the opposition called a "war of nerves" over the election timing.

The Parliament, elected March 31, 1958, adjourned on Wednesday and on Thursday the prime minister journeyed to Quebec City where Governor-General Vanier signed a formal instrument of advice dissolving the body.

GET CAMPAIGN BAIT
Before they left for the hustings, however, members were equipped with some campaign ammunition.

Just before naming the election date, the prime minister announced that a nine-mile, $105,000,000 causeway "will be built" across Northumberland Strait to Prince Edward Island.

And on Thursday the Liberal opposition disclosed a blueprint for a state-supported medical care plan that party leader Lester B. Pearson said would "free Canadians from the worry of heavy medical costs."

Under the plan, outlined in a pamphlet, anyone wishing to make his own medical care arrangements would be free to do so. Self-supporting citizens would pay a "small" amount of their medical costs while others would be protected without charge.

MEET ON MARKET
Prime Minister Macmillan also set a date this week. The British leader announced Thursday that the Commonwealth prime ministers will convene in London Sept. 10 to discuss Britain's bid to join the European Common Market.

He also pledged again that, if it came to a choice between the Commonwealth and the Common Market, "we would choose to remain with the Commonwealth."

CELEBRATE EASTER
Elsewhere, the world marked Holy Week with continued killings in Algeria, new tension in The Congo and a Soviet threat to break off nuclear test-ban discussions if the United States renews atmospheric explosions. In Berlin, however, there were signs of reduced tension.

The advent of Easter was celebrated by thousands of pilgrims to the Holy Land. They visited the traditional site of Calvary at dawn on Good Friday and later in the day, bent under the weight of crosses, followed Christ's last steps to the site of his crucifixion.

NAB TERRORIST CHIEF
The bloody week in Algeria was climaxed by the arrest Friday of Raoul Salan, one-time French general and leader of the terrorist Secret

Army Organization.
Observers said the arrest could cripple the organization that has been blamed for hundreds of assassinations in a campaign to keep Algeria French.

Only a week before, a Paris military court had condemned to death Salan's second-in-command, Edmond Jouhaud.

The arrest, and new French moves to crack down harder on the Secret Army, came as Moslems broke from self-imposed restraint and retaliated against the terrorists. On Sunday a mob in Algiers beat to death two Europeans and mauled a third. On Tuesday 49 persons were slain—six of them Europeans.

France, meanwhile, got a new premier as Georges Pompidou took office last week-end, succeeding Michel Debre. The new leader, a 50-year-old banker and close associate of President de Gaulle, retained most of the key cabinet ministers of the Debre government.

HOPEFUL START
At the Geneva disarmament talks, the week started on a hopeful note as both Russia and the West promised close study of a neutral nations plan aimed at breaking the

Good driving is aim of contest

Highlighting the Road Safety for Youth Campaign Week to be held from April 23 to April 29 will be a Road-e-o to be held on the final day of the week, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Sherbrooke.

The aim of the week is to teach young drivers good road habits and the road-e-o is divided into two parts, one a written test and two a test of driving skill.

Both boys and girls between the ages of 17 and 20 are invited to enter the contest. The written test will be held in St. Michael School on King Street on Tuesday evening. Those who wish to enter the contest must attend this event and bring their driver's license with them.

On Thursday evening a guest speaker will discuss road safety and show a film on the subject. Not only the contestants are invited to attend but everyone who is interested in this vital subject.

And Sunday the week's activities will end with a giant Road-e-o and parade.

High Times

By SANDRA PICKFORD

Easter Holidays have arrived at last and the long grind of the winter school term is over. Students throughout the Eastern Townships have escaped from their studies and are taking advantage of every moment of spring sunshine. With Easter coming late this year high school students will probably be having a last fling during these ten days respite because final exams will loom close once they return to classes. One rather sad consequence of the Easter holidays, however, is that with no school there is little news for the High Times Column. However, here are a few items that came in before classes ended.

SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT — Cookshire High School presented a highly successful evening program on April 13. The program was under the auspices of the Students' Council and the master of ceremonies was Robin McLaughlin. Pupils of Grade Nine presented a one-act play The Ghost Story. The cast consisted of Patricia Stevenson, Arnold MacMillan, Trudy Learned, Marjorie Robinson, Brenda Osgood, Jim Stripe, Billy Gaulin, John Butler, Byron Le Seclleur, Phyllis Clout, Marilyn Fraser. The Operetta, Stephen Foster, was also presented.

PLANT TOUR — Thirty-eight Grade 10 and 11 students from St. Patrick High School toured the Walter M. Lowney plant in Sherbrooke on April 17. They were accompanied on the tour by two fathers from the high school.

GUEST PERFORMANCE — Cookshire High School performers travelled to Bury High School on April 16 to repeat their presentation of the Ghost Story and the operetta Stephen Foster. Those taking part in the operetta were Terry Williams as Stephen Foster, Lloyd Learned as Reader. The soloists were Linda Wood, John Merrill, David Hall, and Gary Dunsmore. The Glee Club members were dressed in costumes of 100 years ago. They sang 13 of Foster's songs.

An added attraction during the evening were the novelty numbers given by Sidney Prescott, Brian Heath, Robert Latewood, Earl Stanley, Bruce Clout, Pauline Brazel and Janet Learned. At intermission the Junior Red Cross Council sold candy. Mary Cassidy reports.

SERVICE HELD — Classes at Cookshire High School closed on Thursday afternoon with a church service at St. Peter's Anglican Church.

Honorable mentions in Record photo contest

Winston Fraser, of Cookshire, won two honorable mentions in the Record's Sugar Bush photo contest with the above entries.

G. Matheson wins prize

Display of paintings at Coaticook

COATICOOK, (Special) — A showing of favorite paintings from private collections in Coaticook is currently on display at the Art Centre in the Public Library, Court Street, the opening took place April 14.

Some 20 or more paintings, loaned to the committee by local owners, will be on exhibition until May 7. A showing of Eskimo prints, on loan from the National Gallery, Ottawa, will run from May 12 to May 24.

This will be followed by an exhibition of the work of three Montreal artists, in connection with the Coaticook Art Festival, running from May 28 to June 25. At the opening of the latter showing on May 26, members will have an opportunity to meet the three artists.

Since the Art Centre opened in April 1961 nine different exhibitions have been held ranging from children's paintings and handicrafts, to considerable local interest, to exhibitions by well-known Quebec artists, which attracted many people from outside the community as well.

The committee has planned many more interesting exhibitions by prominent artists in the months ahead.

New members are invited to obtain further information at the Art Centre about the advantages of membership which, among other benefits, will entitle one to an invitation to the openings to meet the artists and other distinguished guests.

The contest was judged by a panel of five judges, using a secret ballot system and I can safely say the judges are fully aware of what a typical sugar bush is like.

The following is an outline of the reasons for the judges choice of the winner and runners-up.

First prize goes to G. Matheson, of Lennoxville, for his picture of his little boy tasting the sap from a bucket. By using a good camera angle he was able to show the sugar camp in the effect as well as its good pictorial quality.

One other entry by G. Engelhart of Coaticook enraptured one of the judges, perhaps by its novel camera angle and photographic quality. It was taken from a sleigh. I assume carrying the sap. This is only a rough guess, as it showed a rear view of the horses in the foreground and the snowy road ahead winding towards a gate, but also no indication of a sugar bush or syrup making.

One other interesting photo was entered, showing a wooden sap spout, with a drop of sap about to drop in the bucket. I might add, if this sap bucket had been half full, along with its excellent quality it might have earned honorable mention. It was taken by Jacques MacCaughan of Richmond.

I wish, on behalf of The Sherbrooke Daily Record and myself, to thank all those who took the trouble to enter our contest, perhaps next year the weather will cooperate a little better.

Camera talk by Doug Gerrish

background and two stout maples framing the scene. This follows the rules as close as possible. In short it had human interest and was also novel.

Second place goes to Winston Fraser, of Cookshire for his entry of a young boy with his dog. It had tremendous potential, also excellent viewer interest. However, there were points lost when it was compared with the first place winner. The composition was poor as the boy, the dog's head and the sap bucket were badly placed by being too far to the left. This made the centre of interest very awkward and the other point was, the sugar camp was not showing and there was room for this necessary addition.

The third place was also won by Mr. Fraser and was chosen for its story-telling

ST. FRANCIS - MASSAWIPPI BIRD CLUB NOTES

The first two spring activities of the club portend an interesting, more extensive and rewarding season. The early-early excursion to Lake Magog furnished a sight hitherto missed by organized field trips.

Our 1963 Revue will present a celebrated North American producer of natural history films in William Anderson, who will, we are certain, strike a responsive note in his Design for Survival, a colorful study of nature's processes of selection. You will hear more about it!

Adventure in Africa, with Muri and Mildred Deusing, delighted a total audience of nearly one thousand, in two showings at the Lennoxville High School Auditorium.

In the evening program, sold out a day in advance, Muri Deusing emphasized the critical situation in wildlife conservation in Africa, where public opinion on this subject needs, apparently, as much direction and guidance as the new political and social problems.

Conservation in our own land becomes, more and more plainly, the common ground of self-interest on which birders, sportsmen, agriculturists and all developers of primary industry can and must meet. We are fortunate in this region that strong influences are aware of this need and are rapidly drawing together in defence of our wildlife heritage.

Examples of this developing unity can be cited in the enlightened action of the Canada Paper Company, the Massawippi and Compton County Fish and Game Clubs, as well as many private landowners.

The local press, radio, and television services, many school administrators, clergymen, service clubs and recreational organizations have given invaluable assistance in publicizing the urgency of conservation.

Returning officers will be appointed for federal voting

In the present campaign, PC's are supporters of the Prime Minister, Liberals are supporters of the Opposition. Party organizers are "known friends of this or that candidate.")

The enumerators will make a door-to-door check of the polling division for which they are appointed, listing the names of all adult residents and duly inscribing them on the list to be sent to the Returning Officer.

Printed lists will be prepared from these enumerators' reports, distinct lists being prepared for each polling division. A copy of the printed list will be mailed to each elector. Less technically the preparation of the electoral lists.

This enumeration must get underway on Monday, the 49th day before the election is scheduled, or in the case of the pending election, on Monday, April 30. It can last a week.

Methods of enumeration vary between urban and rural polling divisions. Enumeration in the urban polling areas will be carried out by two enumerators in each polling division, the appointments to be made by the Returning Officer, one of the lists being suggested by the candidate receiving the highest number of votes in the previous election and the other by the candidate receiving the second highest number of votes.

If for any reason, the former candidates cannot make the selections, the returning officer is required to consult with known supporters of the said candidates in the previous elections.

Revision methods also vary between urban and rural polls. In the former, the revision is carried out by revision boards who will handle a substantial number of polls — perhaps 50 to 75, while in rural areas the enumerator is responsible for revising his own lists.

Easter in the midst of desolation

The glad tidings of Easter are scarcely discernible this year through the radioactive clouds that will probably be rising shortly from desolated atolls in the South Pacific.

On the eve of yet another round of testing some of the most diabolical devices ever known for the destruction of Man, the celebration of a spiritual re-awakening seems tawdry and unrealistic.

But it need not be so.

Not even the complexities and contradictions of world power politics can prevent the warm spring sun from shining on clear days, the sap from rising in the trees, the buds from swelling in anticipation of a fuller life to come.

Nothing yet devised can hold back the nascent spring season, and the promise it holds out.

There is no threat that can prevent hopefulness, if only for kinder climes, from welling anew in the hearts of those who hear again robins in the twilight rain, or see crocuses pushing their bold, incredibly vibrant colors through the still chilled earth.

Never was there as Easter so full of significance as this Easter, for the affairs of God and man have come very close together now.

There is an Easter message today as great as that first Easter message, for paradoxically, in the midst of potential death, Man stands on the brink of potential peace.

And that message is hope.

It is a hope based on faith, and a hope based on fear, for as on that first Easter, it has taken the realization of desolation to awaken men to the true meaning of Christ's rebirth.

24th Parliament accomplished much

Canada's 24th Parliament, which was dissolved on Wednesday, sat more days than any other in Canadian history.

It was distinguished by more than length, however. There were some notable controversies, and a large number of even more notable achievements.

Too often, in the heat of political debate, the controversies are remembered more than the achievements. This should not be allowed to happen to the 24th Parliament.

The two biggest controversies were the removal from office of the governor of the Bank of Canada, James Coyne, and Hazen Argue's bolt from the CCF-New Democratic Party group.

In the first instance, the appointment of Louis Rasminsky as the new Bank of Canada governor has cancelled out any temporary ill-effects the Coyne case may have had, and in the latter instance, Mr. Argue is now the concern of the Liberal party, for better or for worse.

The achievements remain, and they must be regarded as an impressive list.

Perhaps the most impressive was the passage of a Canadian Bill of Rights, a milestone in Canadian development the full significance of which has yet to be realized;

- Establishment of the Board of Broadcast Governors;
- Establishment of the National Energy Board;
- Establishment of the National Productivity Council;
- Establishment of the National Fitness Council;
- Establishment of the National Capital Commission:

• Establishment of the National Design Council;

• Municipal winter works incentive program, which substantially reduced winter unemployment levels in this country.

• Ending of the tax rental program and substitution of new federal-provincial tax arrangements under which the provinces will levy their own share of income taxes;

• Substitution of life imprisonment for the death penalty in unpremeditated murders, but retention of capital punishment for deliberate killings;

• The federal vote for all Indians;

• Establishment of a new forestry department;

• Increases in old age pensions, old age assistance and blind and disabled allowances;

• Crop insurance;

• Increased contributions by employees and employers to the unemployment insurance fund;

• Tougher narcotics and anti-dumping laws;

• A new approach to anti-combines legislation.

And, in addition to all of this, the Diefenbaker government made a start on a number of pressing problems for which solution are needed.

The number of these accomplishments is indeed noteworthy, but it is not their number so much as the significance of many of them that is of primary importance. In many cases, the Diefenbaker government stepped in where others were too timid or too blind to tread, righting what were often long-standing wrongs.

Banishment orders often illegal

Some Canadian judges and police officials apparently have been following too closely those TV Westerns in which the frontier sheriff sternly advises an undesirable character to "get out of town and stay out." This has been accompanied by the declaration that if this particular municipal improvement is not accomplished within an hour, the recipient of the warning will find himself in a very unpleasant position.

From time to time municipal police chiefs have advised unwelcome visitors to move over to the next county or "have the book thrown at them." And judges have been known to offer an accused the choice between a jail term and a suspended sentence on the promise of going somewhere else.

Actually the practise finds no justification in the Criminal Code nor is it tolerated in the Bill of Rights.

No less a personage than Prime Minister Diefenbaker who is no mean student of criminal law himself recently commented:

"I have had the whole matter looked into and find there is no express opinion in the Criminal Code authorizing such an order to be given. Therefore it could seem that such an order is null."

Other papers say:

Hammarskjold redwood grove planned

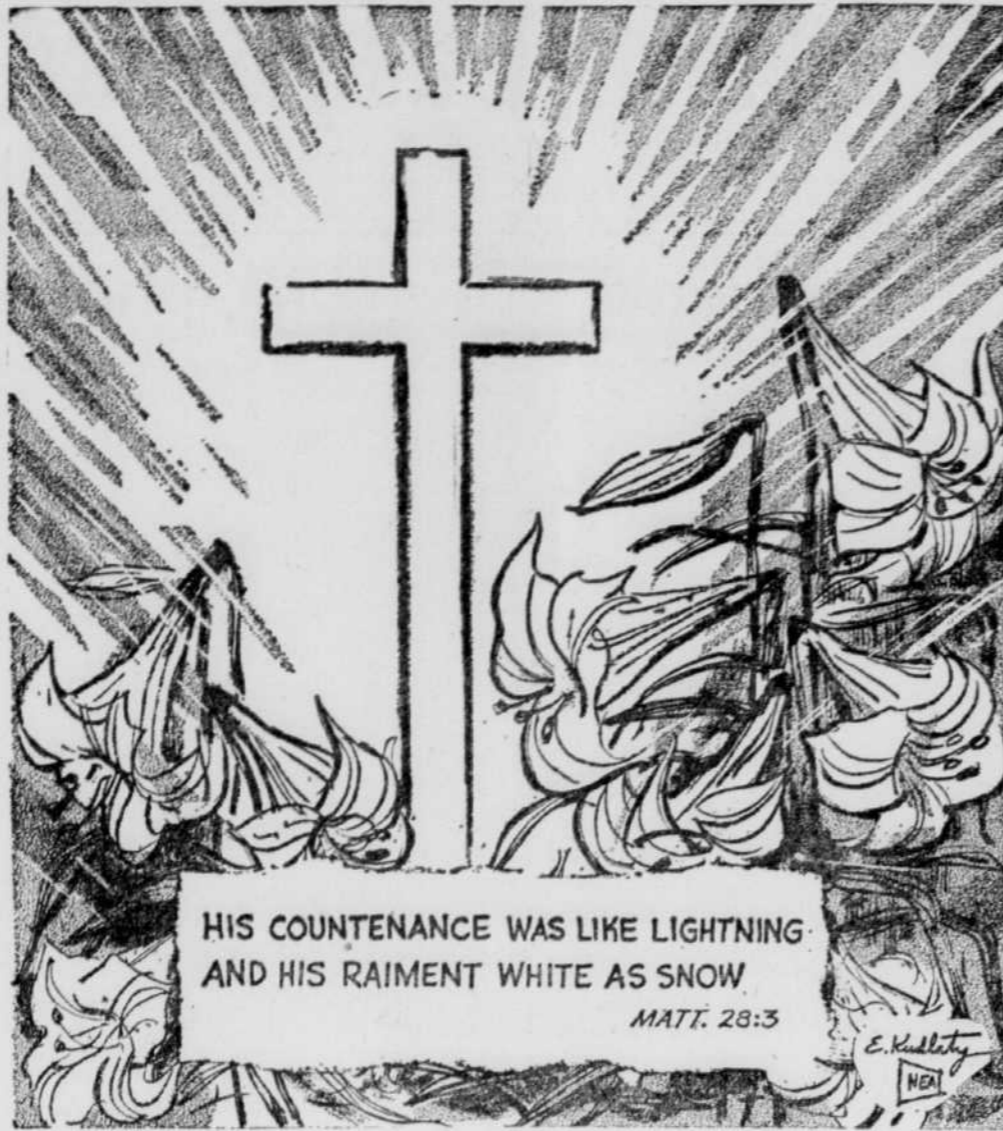

A friend remembers that when the late U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold visited California some years ago, he made a special request to visit the big trees in the Muir Woods near San Francisco. It was only with difficulty that he was persuaded to leave in time to keep a speaking engagement in Los Angeles. He had longed to spend a whole afternoon and a night amid the trees in order to recover some of the sense of peace so obviously lacking in his difficult job.

Now there is a movement to honor Mr. Hammarskjold by giving his name to a stand of giant redwoods on the Coast highway in Humboldt County, Calif. It would be necessary to acquire two hundred acres of redwood and six or seven hundred acres of protected watershed land. These trees are as much as 300 feet tall and as much as 2,000 years old. It may cost more than a million dollars to save them from destruction. If saved, they may stand for generations as a memorial to one great man and to the hopes of peace he cherished.

What now needs to be done is to procure this money, to secure a supporting resolution from the U.N. Assembly and to establish the necessary agencies to make this tribute firm and recognized. Newton B. Drury is the secretary of the Save-the-Redwoods League of 114 Sansome Street, San Francisco, which is lending its help to the project.

New facet of truth

Parishioners reminded by drama that in midst of life is death

By JANE SCOTT

An unscheduled pre-Easter drama was enacted at the little church Sunday evening. It brought the congregation face to face with some unpleasant facts and revealed a new facet of truth.

The visiting musicians were singing their last number before the sermon when there was a stifled cry from the seat ahead.

A startled wife was trying to hold her husband who had suffered an attack. The singers carried on as a nurse and others moved quietly to care for the unconscious man.

In a few minutes police arrived with an inhalator. Life-giving oxygen was administered while they awaited the arrival of an ambulance.

The congregation retired to the lower auditorium and the service proceeded.

As we watched over the still form we were reminded that in the midst of life we are in death, just one or two breaths away from eternity. There was nothing the average worshipper could do to revive or restore the pale-faced man. Even the graduate nurse was helpless. A few minutes after the life-giving oxygen had been released he moved his hands and a surge of hope welled up in the hearts of the bystanders.

(He has since been released from the hospital.)

BREATH OF LIFE
In a spiritual sense all men are in a state of collapse. The wages of sin is death and no amount of good works or good intentions can revive dead men.

What they need is mouth-to-mouth resuscitation administered by Almighty God, our source of life.

There was a form of life in that oxygen tank which none could see. It coaxed the retreating heart back to renewed effort.

Anyone who has experienced the comfort and relief provided by an oxygen tent when the human organs are too tired to function adequately can understand and appreciate not only the physical reactions but he or she can better understand the spiritual implications of the breath of life.

"I am come that they might have life," said Jesus. "I came not to condemn" men who were dying as a direct result of sin in the human race.

LOVE AND PITY
Even calloused human beings find it hard to condemn a dying man. More than once we have watched such scenes and never have we experienced a moment of condemnation.

Conversely a surge of love and pity overwhelms us when we see men and women in the throes of either physical or spiritual death.

Jesus was moved with compassion because He understood the desperate needs of dying men.

He wanted more than anything else to give them life. But the majority would not admit that they needed life.

"Ye will not come to Me," said Jesus, "that ye might have life." John 5:40.

Millions of people have died because they did not recognize their need for a touch of new life and others knew their need but refused the divine touch which would have filled them with new life and given them eternal hope.

As we stood helplessly watching our fellow-worshipper respond to the inhalator we felt a corresponding need for renewal and we prayed: Breathe on me, breath of God, Fill me with life anew That I may love what Thou dost love, And do what Thou didst do Breathe on me, breath of God, Till I am wholly Thine; Until this earthly part of me Glows with Thy fire divine.

Ever since his failure his descendants have become subject to death.

Moral and physical collapse has rendered the whole human race utterly helpless in the face of God and death.

But by the miracle of divine love and provision, we may call upon the Great Physician Who will, in His compassion, breathe on us and fill us with life anew.

We have seen many spiritually hopeless men and women restored to life anew as they submitted to the process of divine resuscitation.

We have seen some of these "glow with the fire divine" and move at the impulse of God's love and touch.

Holy Week reminds us of His compassion and love for dying men and women who are just one or two breaths away from judgment. He came not to condemn these but to save and to breathe new life and hope into their hearts.

And to save them Jesus laid down His life as ransom for many.

FEARFUL INCIDENT
(Halifax Chronicle-Herald)

The news from Washington that planes loaded with hydrogen bombs were rushed last Fall to runways throughout the world following a false signal indicating that the United States was under attack is significant for several reasons.

First, and most important, it shows how close we are to touching off the fatal conflagration of a world war. And it proves, in a manner far more dramatic and convincing than speeches prophesying doom, the necessity of reaching agreement on disarmament.

How long can fate be tempted before the first miscalculation pushes the globe into the abyss?

On the brighter side, the experience provides evidence that everything possible is being done to prevent malfunctioning detection machinery from becoming the means by which war is set in motion. Further, the waiting for proof that attack was coming shows that retaliation is, in fact, going to be retaliation and not a supposed—but erroneous—reply to aggression.

The latter consideration is confirmation of what has been basic policy from the beginning—that is, that the Western world intends to take the first blow in any conflict. Restated only last week by President Kennedy, this policy is designed to minimize the possibility of Communist misinterpretation of the West's position, and miscalculation by the free world itself.

The incident last Fall illustrates that the striking power throughout the world to reply instantly and massively to an attack. This, in itself, is a deterrent to a possible aggressor who might believe he could destroy all retaliatory strength in one huge assault.

But, in spite of all the precautions taken to guard against mistakes, it shows that war could be started through accident if faults in detection devices were accompanied by human panic. It proves once again that the cold war is a war of nerves—and that a clear head and steady hand are indispensable if the world is to survive.

Canada has a building on a site of more than 10,000 square feet.

But the pride of the Puget Sound area is the 600-foot Space Needle, with swift elevators that take patrons to the top for a panoramic view of the grounds, Seattle, and the water and mountains that ring it. Also on top is a revolving restaurant that completes a 360-degree turn every hour.

Toronto showman Paddy Conklin is operating the seven-acre gayway and is bringing in from Europe rides never seen before on this continent.

AND WHAT will probably bring Canada the most attention is the military tattoo from Sept. 10 to 16 featuring the RCMP Musical Ride and the Royal Canadian Navy sunset ceremony.

And there's word that Seattle authorities are going to look the other way for the Las Vegas-type bare-bosom girlie shows which promise to be something everyone else will be looking at.

Gracie Hansen, the ebullient co-owner of what will be one of the liveliest spots on the strip, sums it up: "We're looking forward to seeing people from all over the world. And we're also looking forward to seeing all that beautiful money."

South African coal mines produced 41,893,000 tons in 1960, compared with less than 10,000,000 tons 30 years earlier.

SEATTLE, Wash. — (TNS) — The Seattle World's Fair is shaping up as the West's biggest scalping since Custer and his cavalry got theirs at the Little Big Horn.

If you're thinking of coming to the $100 million show, be sure to bring lots of money.

Some prices have already shot sky high, away past the eye-catching 600-foot high Space Needle which dominates the grounds.

Century 21 and Washington State officials, who almost choke on the word, have already asked local business not to gouge the fairgoers — a forlorn hope, since gouging has been going on here for long before the official opening. (Saturday, April 21).

Washington legislative council has ordered an inquiry into rent gouging in the seaport city.

EJECTS "REGULARS"
More than 8,000 people — some residents of 20 years standing — have been ordered out of downtown apartments by landlords who want to cash in on daily and weekly rates during the six-month fair.

Some hotel and motel rates have doubled and tripled. Private parking rates are prohibitive near the 74-acre site about a mile-and-a-half from downtown.

A LOCAL JOKE is: Don't pay if your car is more than four years old. Let the lot keep it — it's cheaper that way.

A "Fair Practices" group has been formed. It will give certificates to be hung in restaurants and other business establishments that agree to let customers out the door with at least car fare home.

A wry comment was contained in a sign displayed in a downtown store. It read: "Buy now. 'Don't Gouge Me' Buttons. Were 95 cts, now $4.25."

But a lot of people — estimated between seven and 10 million by fair officials who keep changing their predictions — are expected to visit the glittering Century 21 display.

It is futuristic and imaginative in scope; lavish in capital expenditures; and will bring many of the world's performing greats to Seattle.

The money has been spent by the city of Seattle, the state of Washington and the federal government.

WHEN ALL the lights have dimmed and the excitement dies, Seattle will still have an ultra-modern 18,000-seat coliseum, a 3,000-seat theatre, several other buildings, and the first monorail system in North America.

STILL OTHERS
There's the World of Science, the U.S. government's dazzling $10 million look into the future; the World of Art; a display of what life will be like in Century 21 from housing to cars; and the pavilions of many foreign countries.

Canada has a building on a site of more than 10,000 square feet.

But the pride of the Puget Sound area is the 600-foot Space Needle, with swift elevators that take patrons to the top for a panoramic view of the grounds, Seattle, and the water and mountains that ring it. Also on top is a revolving restaurant that completes a 360-degree turn every hour.

Toronto showman Paddy Conklin is operating the seven-acre gayway and is bringing in from Europe rides never seen before on this continent.

AND WHAT will probably bring Canada the most attention is the military tattoo from Sept. 10 to 16 featuring the RCMP Musical Ride and the Royal Canadian Navy sunset ceremony.

And there's word that Seattle authorities are going to look the other way for the Las Vegas-type bare-bosom girlie shows which promise to be something everyone else will be looking at.

Gracie Hansen, the ebullient co-owner of what will be one of the liveliest spots on the strip, sums it up: "We're looking forward to seeing people from all over the world. And we're also looking forward to seeing all that beautiful money."

COAL PRODUCTION
South African coal mines produced 41,893,000 tons in 1960, compared with less than 10,000,000 tons 30 years earlier.

BRITISH BLANKETS
The United Kingdom wool industry, largest in the world, manufactured 31,500,000 square yards of blankets in 1960.

ANNUAL CAMPAIGN

CANADIAN NATIONAL INSTITUTE FOR THE BLIND

(Sherbrooke County)

Joint Chairmen: J. E. Roy & C. G. Bryant

OBJECTIVE $15,000

PLEASE NOTE!

We have found it necessary to return to a spring campaign. The last campaign was held in the fall, but there has been only one campaign during any one calendar year. The next campaign will be held in the spring of 1963.

IF A CANVASSER FAILS TO CALL, PLEASE SEND YOUR DONATION TO—

Canadian National Institute for the Blind

10 Wellington North, Room 204

Sherbrooke.

Take it from Kathy

Dear Kathy: I've been dating the same boy steadily for two years. A girl I had considered to be a good friend has become interested in him and is obviously chasing him. All I can do is sit back and watch.

She's more attractive than I am and my friends think she is doing it just to prove she can take him away. She knows how much I like him and how serious we have been. I don't want to lose him.—Worried.

Dear Worried: Don't waste time feeling sorry for yourself. You probably want to growl and compare notes with sympathetic friends about how mean she is. Condemns will not help to keep the boy. It's time for self-evaluation. Start with appearance. Are you trying as hard to look like a glamour gal as you did for that first date, or have you relaxed and taken him for granted?

How about your conversation? Do you save interesting little things to share with him from reading or chats with friends? We sometimes make others sounding boards for our ideas and forget to listen to them.

Start a campaign to be interesting and INTERESTED in what he likes. Re-evaluate him. Think of everything you like about him. How long has it been since you let him know about it? It isn't phony flattery to express some of the complimentary things we really feel.

Old shoes have an advantage because they are more comfortable. You have the same advantage. Use what you know about his likes, dislikes, pet jokes, etc., to make him enjoy the time you spend together.

If you concentrate on pleasing him rather than on disliking her, you should win the battle!

The United States is the non-Communist world's biggest trading nation in terms of total export and import values.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

SUCKER OVERCALL IS COSTLY ERROR

A bridge player is always allowed to complain about his bad luck even though he has been responsible for it.

One of the best ways to be so-called "sucker overcall" is to make the sucker overcall. The sucker overcall is always made in a minor suit and at the two or three level. The hand has enough strength for an opening bid, but is of balanced type so that it will probably take almost as many tricks against perfect example of this sucker overcall. He has 14 high card points and four probable tricks against the opponents. He has only five probable tricks at diamonds, so instead of contracting to take eight tricks he should pass and hope that his opponents will get too high.

Once he overcalled, West had a simple bid. He doubled and after everyone passed, led the jack of spades. East took his ace, led a second spade to knock out South's king and West ruffed. Eventually, South made four trump tricks and the ace of clubs and was down 800.

Of course, East and West could have made three no-trump for a score of 600, but if South had kept his mouth shut there is no guarantee that they would not have ended at four spades, down one. We will never know. South had given his opponents the best spot to play the hand.

THE EASTER MESSAGE
Once again the Easter message comes to tell us
Spring is here
Birds are singing, flowers are budding
Violet and daffodil.
And to those whose hearts are weary,
burdened with a load of care
Comes a message, sweet to tell them,
Take fresh courage spring is here.

Easter anthems tell the story, Christ is risen from the dead.
See the whole earth bursts its shackles and the sky is blue o'erhead.
Flowers and candles deck the altar
As we bow in humble prayer.
Thanking God for all his mercy,
and His tender loving care.

Easter Music, birds sweet singing
Flowers and candles all a-glow
Tell again the old, old story of that Easter long ago.

Emily Millar, Drummondville, Que.

St. George's Church notes

Special prayers of thanksgiving were offered at all services at St. George's Church, Lennoxville, on April 15, for the deliverance from maiming and death of the 30 children and the driver in a school bus which crashed on a hill in Lennoxville as the result of brake failure.

The Choir of King's Hall, Compton, attended Morning Prayer in St. George's on Sunday, April 15, in addition to the hymns and canticles, the anthem, "I Waited for the Lord (Mendelssohn)" and a beautiful setting of the Prayer of St. Richard.

The choir was entertained at lunch by St. George's Guild, when the members were welcomed by the rector and by Mrs. E. Paice, a former student at King's Hall.

The A.Y.P.A. enjoyed a sugar-off at Bury recently, well attended by members and friends.

Walter Hamilton of Cookshire addressed St. George's Men's Club recently on the subject of Tree Farming. At the annual meeting of this organization, Fred Green was elected president, Herbert Pratt, secretary, and Rev. R. O. Merriman, treasurer.

NEWS IN REVIEW

East-West deadlock on a test-ban treaty.
On Wednesday the U.S. delegation put forward a detailed disarmament plan under which all nuclear weapons would be destroyed within six years.
But by Friday wrangling was again in the forefront as Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin indicated his country might withdraw from the test-ban talks—although not the full disarmament negotiations—while the negotiations continue.

NEW COMMANDER
In Berlin, however, Western officials noted with approval the Soviet decision to change commanders of its forces in East Germany. The withdrawal of Marshal Ivan Konev Thursday followed a U.S. decision to bring home Gen. Lucius Clay, president Kennedy's personal representative in Berlin.
Both men have reputations for uncompromising toughness and some observers believed their departure would take the heat off Berlin.

KEPT PLEDGE
The new Congo tension resulted from a government attempt to block the departure from Leopoldville of Moise Tshombe, leader of secessionist Katanga province who had been holding sporadic unity talks with central Premier Cyrille Adoula.
Congolese troops put up barricades to block the take-off of Tshombe's plane and succeeded in preventing its departure for 24 hours. But the United Nations force, which had pledged itself to protect the Katanga leader, put on a show of strength that forced the central government to back down and allow the departure.

SEAWAY TROUBLES
It was a bad week for the St. Lawrence Seaway. Its spring opening was delayed by discovery of a leak in the Eisenhower Lock at Massena, N.Y., and two major strikes disrupted activity in the Montreal section.
The harbor early in the week was just getting back to normal after an eight-day river pilots' walkout when it was hit by a strike of 1,400 truck drivers.
Officials expected to get the seaway opened by Monday but there was no assurance that the truckers would be back on the road by that time.

Briefs . . . An eight-week strike by 3,000 employees of Chrysler of Canada in Windsor, Ont., ended Monday. . . . Three segregation leaders in New Orleans were excommunicated by the Roman Catholic Church. . . . Premier Fidel Castro released 60 wounded and ailing prisoners taken in the Cuban invasion a year ago. . . . The Chinese People's Congress ended its session Monday with a communique emphasizing increased food production.

THE WEEK IN QUEBEC
Dr. F. Cyril James announced Wednesday he will resign as principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University Dec. 1.
Dr. James, 58, has held the office since 1939. He said he wants to devote more time to economic research and — as president of the 400-member International Association of Universities — to the cause of higher education in underdeveloped countries.
R. E. Powell, McGill's chancellor, said "satisfactory replacement of the remarkable Dr. James will not be easy."
Nine trucking firms operating out of Montreal have been tied up by a strike of Local 106, International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.) that began Monday. Four others have signed agreements with the union.
Robert E. Cureton, chairman of the nine firms' joint negotiating committee, said the strike is illegal because the union did not wait the required seven days after rejecting the majority report of a federal conciliation board.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — Brad Ashton, who writes a 45-minute Saturday night comedy show on the British commercial network, returned to London this week after a busman's holiday in New York.
In two weeks, he crammed a lot of television-viewing into his schedule — and was overwhelmed by what he saw.
"I tell you," he marvelled, "the way you people can poke fun at anyone."
"We've so many taboos in England—we can't make any jokes about the Queen or the Royal Family, for instance. But what your comedians say about your president and his wife!
"We aren't allowed to joke about commercials, either, and you people do that all the time. We pretend they don't exist. When the time comes, somebody in the show will murmur something about 'Coming back in a moment'."
SPEED IMPRESSIONS
Perhaps even more impressive to Ashton was the speed of U.S. television humor.
"In England, we aim for about five laughs a minute from our audiences," he said, "and at least a quarter of them come from pies in the face, trousers falling down, and roofs falling in."
"American comedians aim for character and warmth—not necessarily comedy. They get BEDFORD — Mrs. John Reiter was hostess at a miscellaneous shower for Miss Belle Carter, whose marriage to Rutherford Hogaboom, of Enosburg Falls, Vt., takes place shortly.

Multicolored chrysanthemums decorated the living room, while white streamers hung from the ceiling to the table, where the gifts were placed.
Prior to Miss Carter's being presented with the gifts, a humorous poem composed by Miss Marion Sawyer was read by Miss Gail Nichols. The guests signed the poem, as an autographed souvenir of the evening. Miss Carter expressed her appreciation and for the many lovely gifts as well.
A game, the floral nuptials, was played, prizewinner being Mrs. Ronald Short, of Stanbury.

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be heard in the Christian Science churches this Sunday. This statement of the Master's as recorded by John will be included in the Bible readings: "I and my Father are one. . . If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not. But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe the works: that ye may know, and believe, that the Father is in me, and I in him." And from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this selection will be read: "Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage. His mission was both individual and collective. He did life's work aright not only in justice to himself, but in mercy to mortals,—to show them how to do theirs, but not to do it for them nor to relieve them of a single responsibility."

Fascinating Russian history

"THE BARONESS" — by Henri Troyat — The Musson Book Co. Ltd. — 284 pages $4.50.

"The Baroness", a historic novel, by the well known author, Henri Troyat, is a translation from the original which was written in French. A Russian by birth, Troyat became a French citizen not long after his flight from Russia during the 1917 Revolution. It is the second in the series "The Light of the Just" with "The Brotherhood of the Red Poppy", the first.

With its setting in nineteenth-century Russia, this historical romance centers on the Ozarev family. The father, Mikhail, an egoistical, self-centred old man, a real despot of the times, lives on his country estate in Kshatanovka. His daughter, Mariya, makes her home with her widowed father. His son, Nikolai, and his French wife, Sophie, return to the old homestead from St. Petersburg, following the death of their baby.

Sophie, charming in manner with delicate, slender features, soon adapts herself to life on her father-in-law's estate, making a point of catering to his every whim. Mikhail, overcome by her attentions lives up to the old saying: "There's no fool like an old fool" and secretly falls in love with her.

Having given up his minor position at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in St. Petersburg, Nikolai keeps up an active interest in politics, being one of the "dreamers" who preceded the real planners of the Russian Revolution." At Kshatanovka he meets an old friend, Vasya Volkov, from Slavanka, the estate adjoining his father's. Young and impulsive Vasya seems a likely recruit to "the cause." This leads to his renewing acquaintances with Vasya's widowed mother, Darya Vilipovna, which eventually develops into an illicit love affair under his trusting wife's very nose.

The arranging of marriages by the fathers for their daughters being a custom of the day, Mikhail arranges a marriage between Vasya and his daughter, Mariya, who will have nothing to do with it. Another suitor, Vladimir Sedov, appears on the scene, wanting to marry Mariya, but for her father's money. The father refuses but Mariya, secretly in love with Sedov, elopes with him. Her father then disowns her and the unhappy marriage ends in tragedy.

The book, I think, also describes the lighter side of the Russian character: "The gray sky and loneliness of these vast plains, covered for half the year with snow, plunge you into a state of dreaminess and apathy. To counteract them you have recourse to song and dance, gambling, social gatherings, philosophical discussions, elaborate feasts, breakneck sleigh rides, great passions — anything to break the monotony."

All of these things are depicted in "The Baroness"; an old-fashioned duel for honour's sake, a wolf hunt, a sleigh ride at breakneck speed, a flood and, yes, passions, yet running throughout the "philosophical discussions" seem to become an obsession, with plans, plans and more plans for "the cause", the Russian Revolution — yet leading to nothing but talk. But anyone interested in this period of Russian history will find this book worthwhile.

The criticisms of church politics found in this book may all be true. They may also prove constructive. But it seems a pity that the author chose to name one particular church and thus bring unhappiness to many of those long associated with and respecting this particular church. It further seems a pity that the author found it necessary to attack the church at all when it is still the only institution — if far from perfect — for good in the world today.

Only in the last chapter does the book finally strike a responsive chord in this reader. Then, when the characters seem at last to be finding themselves, the reader finds himself leaving the book with regret. He wishes the author would go on and let the church — and Christ — be vindicated as the ending of the book now seems to make possible.

Excellent travel book

THE MARCHES OF EL DORADO — by Michael Swan — Penguin Books — 333 pgs.

Perhaps because their country is a small island, Englishmen have always been great travellers and the best books of travel that I have come across have been by the English. THE MARCHES OF EL DORADO, by Michael Swan, with some remarkable illustrative photographs of the British Guiana interior by David Attenborough, is one of the most excellent.

Mr. Swan not only describes the civilized sea-line parts of British Guiana, and the men and women who live there, but takes the reader far afield into the interior where few have ventured.

In this wild and remote area live some strange, interesting and sometimes almost unbelievable human beings. Tiny McTurk will capture the reader's liking; and Nita, the odd English girl who is quite ready to leave her husband for another man, and then the other man when her husband proves more courageous, makes an intriguing figure.

No matter how exquisite the scenery or dangerous the voyage or important the discovery, people make the most important part of a book of travel, especially people presented by Michael Swan's inimitable pen.

Dangerous reading

THE STAINED GLASS JUNGLE by Gregory Wilson 399 pp. . . DOUBLEDAY PUBLISHERS . . . $6.95

This is a dangerous book. Granted it must be difficult to find an original subject on which to write, still it is unfortunate that this author had to choose the church and the life of its ministers and their wives as a field to explore. It is unfortunate because the church is — or should be — a calling; not merely a readily explored means of earning a living. It is unfortunate because this writer has such talent that he can tear the church and the people in it to shreds — make it all seem believable. He has no mercy.

Many scriptural passages are quoted in this book but with no meanings or interpretations given. At the same time as he has quoted scripture so fluently the author has ignored one very important passage in Chronicles 1 - 16:22. "Touch not my anointed and do my Prophets no harm."

If the author is, as he claims, in actual fact a clergyman writing under an assumed name, he should be familiar with this passage but he has completely disregarded its injunction in the conceiving of this book. Under the guise of fiction he has so destroyed the minister image that every reader of the book is likely to look at every minister he sees and try to place them in one of the categories so well defined by the author.

The criticisms of church politics found in this book may all be true. They may also prove constructive. But it seems a pity that the author chose to name one particular church and thus bring unhappiness to many of those long associated with and respecting this particular church. It further seems a pity that the author found it necessary to attack the church at all when it is still the only institution — if far from perfect — for good in the world today.

Then, when the characters seem at last to be finding themselves, the reader finds himself leaving the book with regret. MUSIC ON RECORDS

By HUGH DOHERTY

RECITAL BY THE ACADEMY OF ST. MARTIN-IN-THE-FIELDS, directed by Neville Marriner; Corelli, Concerto Grosso No. 7; Torelli, Concerto No. 10; Locatelli, Concerto Grosso No. 9; Albinetti, Concerto No. 6 in F; Handel, Concerto Grosso, No. 6 (L'OISEAU-LYRE mono OL 50214) — Of all the wonderful proliferation of baroque era music, none is more tuneful and graceful than the "concertos" of the period. A concerto then was not what a concerto generally means now. The baroque concerto was for a small orchestra, not for orchestra and solo instruments in partnership. The works on this recording are typical of concertos of the period. All are short, containing from three to five movements, all tightly constructed. The Academy ensemble plays them with a professional flourish marred only by occasional roughness in the string section. Mono sound is first class.

TCHAIKOVSKY — Violin concerto in D major; David Oistrakh, violinist; The Philadelphia Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy cond. (COLUMBIA stereo MS 6298) — While this is undoubtedly the best performance of the famed Tchaikovsky violin concerto on records in a number of years, it must be said that Oistrakh suppresses a good deal of the dash other violin virtuosos have given this concerto. Mr. Oistrakh gives a careful, at times subdued performance.

Perhaps, after all, it is the right way to play the work, if there is a "right way," for in sacrificing some excitement, Mr. Oistrakh substitutes a full and sensuous lushness; an opulence of style which may have been what Tchaikovsky had in mind in the first place. On his way to creating a remarkable interpretation, Mr. Oistrakh also allows the Philadelphia Orchestra to demonstrate what a really great group it is. Under Mr. Ormandy's sensitive baton, the orchestra attunes itself perfectly to Mr. Oistrakh's serene style. The result is a concerto that is really a concerto in the best romantic sense of the word.

BEETHOVEN OVERTURES — Egmont, Leonore No. 3, Fidelio, Coriolan, The Ruins of Athens and Turkish March; The Berlin Philharmonic, The Bamberg Symphony and the Hamburg State Philharmonic Orchestra, all conducted by Joseph Keilberth; (TELEFUNKEN TCS 18049) — This recording offers an excellent opportunity for the novice music lover to become acquainted with Beethoven's magnificent repertoire. The overtures touch all phases of his romanticism. They are brooding, tender and at times, lighthearted. Although the works are played by three orchestras the interpretation bears the personal stamp of Conductor Keilberth. The Berlin Philharmonic performs the first two overtures while the four other compositions are handled by the Bamberg Symphony and the Hamburg Philharmonic.

Coin Corner

Values vary with condition

By WINIFRED MATHER, FRNS

The Telegram's regular coin columnist, Joan Whitty, is in England, and writing her column from there. In her absence questions from readers are answered by Winifred Mather, president of the Metropolitan Numismatic Club, who also is a Fellow of The Royal Numismatic Society.

Most of the questions received by Mrs. Mather deal with values, and here she has selected some of more general interest.

CANADIAN BILLS: Would a Canadian $10 and $20 banknote with signatures J. E. Coyne and G. F. Towers be a rarity? Also would the 1937 cent with the 7 tapering to the left be unusual? — Mrs. E. M. Toronto.

The two banknotes catalogue at about 10 per cent over face value and up slightly depending on condition. The curved 7 on the 1937 cent was used on all dies for this coin.

DOT CENT: Could you tell me what is meant by the 1936 "dot" cent — does it have only one dot or is it like the 1921 cent with a dot between two other marks, top and bottom? How much is a 1928 U.K. shilling worth in our money? — E.F., West Brom, Que.

The dot on the 1936 cent is below the date, about halfway from the rim and below the space between the 9 and 3. The U.K. shilling is worth current exchange rates — about 14 cents.

SHINPLASTERS: Could you tell me what 25 cents (paper money) is worth, dated July 2, 1923? — A.R.J., Toronto. As you do not describe this shinplaster and do not say what signatures are on it, or whether it is worn or crisp, it is impossible to give a close estimate. Five different types of this date range from $1.75 to $11 in very good condition to $38 in uncirculated condition.

BRONZE NICKELS: Are the brown five-cent pieces brought out during the war worth more than five cents? — D.D., Toronto.

Dealers are paying 50 cents and up for the 1942 Tombac nickel which has a beaver on the reverse, and 20 cents for the 1943 coin with the large V on the reverse. May bring more in uncirculated condition.

Satisfying solution

BOILED ALIVE — by Bruce Buckingham — Penguin (Crime) — 191 pgs. — 60 cents.

Bruce Buckingham's second who-dunnit, BOILED ALIVE, has for its setting Mexico and a location similar to that in his first mystery novel Three Bad Nights, and for its detective-hero again presents the redoubtable Don Pancho, a man of intelligence and integrity.

The aging, bluff, dog-loving, autocratic but kindly Lady Kendon and her two Aberdeen terriers Scotch and Soda return to take a lively part in solving — or in confusing — the tangled puzzle of murders and theft.

For the reader who likes a fast-moving plot with a touch of international intrigue, a story flavoured by relatively unimportant "affairs" and a number of misleading suspects, BOILED ALIVE offers an evening of excitement and, of course, a satisfactory answer to who did it.

Clear book covers

For those Canadians who both love to read and to maintain a home library, keeping books looking ship-shape is somewhat of a problem. Covers eventually become stained or discoloured, marring the books' appearance.

Now, however, the same protection which libraries use is available to home readers. Tough, clear covers are being produced in Canada and will be available through stationers. The covers are almost impossible to tear and are resistant to moisture. On tightly packed shelves, the covered books will slide easily in and out.

The next meeting of the St. Francis Collectors Club will be held on April 25 at Pat's Diner in Lennoxville. All collectors are extended a cordial welcome at this Club and a most pleasant evening is assured all those attending. Fred Smith will not be able to give his talk as planned but there will be a question and answer period for everyone with a panel of more experienced collectors on hand to provide information. The last meeting was well attended and the writer thoroughly enjoyed the evening. It is hoped that those present gained some philatelic knowledge from the talk. By the way, a condensed version of the same talk was given at the Coaticook Home & School Association meeting in Coaticook and is available to any interested groups. The talk is supplemented with a number of displays and traces the development of the postal system as we now know it and shows the many types of collections possible. We will look for you at Pat's Diner next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Lennoxville.

Ghana issued her Africa Freedom Day stamps on April 15, the set consists of three values in a modernistic design by Robert Hegeman of Chicago. There have been many changes in the African scene since the first Freedom stamp appeared in 1958 and there will be many more as time goes by and new nations emerge from the colonial empires of the past. New issue news must include the Canadian issue for the Red River Settlement. Get your covers to Ottawa for the First Day Cancellation. There are several cancellations available including the one from the show in Windsor and also from the original post office.

The "Pro Infanzia" set from Somalia will be colourful this year, the .15 value will feature a child embroidering fish on a cloth, the 25 value the Blue Angel Fish, the .40 value and the .70 also fish of species found along the coast. This country has a coast line of 1200 miles along the Indian Ocean and the Gulf of Aden. This coast is quite rocky and harbours huge swarms of the most colourful tropical fish.

It is interesting to add facts about early Canadian postal history to your collection and the following are offered to collectors of our country's stamps. The early postal administrations of Canada and the United States had many difficulties about the carriage of mails. You will find old covers with the Canadian rate charged and marked on the covers and then an additional charge from the border to the destination in the United States. The same situation with covers went the other way too. These are sometimes referred to as "cross border covers". Some newspapers were carried in bulk shipments to certain towns in Vermont where they were addressed to the individual subscribers for delivery in Montreal. It could be that these men who delivered the papers were among the first newspaper boys. These weekly papers played an important part in the economy of the country. The latest arrivals of commodities from England were shown in the papers, the lists of proposed sailings were shown, the current prices for agricultural products and other items in the larger New York market were of great importance to the merchants of Montreal. The conversion of our sterling currency to the decimal system then used in the United States added to the difficulty of assessing the correct postal rates to be applied. The rates of mail carriage in the 1830's were as follows - single letters up to 30 miles - 6-cents, 60 to 100 miles, 10-cents, over 450 miles, 25c, with varying rates for distances in between. The mails were not too heavy in these days and there is a record of the quantities carried between Montreal and New York, for instance, there were 660 letters carried in December, 1792, and January 1794 saw only 94 letters carried.

HOME-AND-HOME SERIES MOVES BACK TO CHICAGO.
Hawks, who manhandled Leafs in two straight games in Chicago, apparently left their muscles at home Thursday as the Leafs outskated, outhit and outthrust them throughout most of the 60-minute in the "home" series to earn a 8-4 victory and a 3-2 edge in the duel.

They clash tomorrow evening in the bedlam-inclined Chicago Stadium and the Hawks are favored to win the battle and knot the series. The Toronto fans, generally a quiet crowd, put on a great display as they tossed everything on the ice. No doubt they watched the fans in the Windy City and taking a cue for Punched Imlach decided to put on their private show.

Even a fan got in the picture and Chicago's assistant trainer took a swing at him after he had given McDonald and Mikita the old razzberry. This was the most spirited action of the night although the players laid on some solid body-checks but nothing serious happened.

Bob Pulford paced the attack with a hat-trick while Frank Mahovlich came up with two and Billy Harris, Dave Keon and George Armstrong accounted for the others.

Coach Pilius figured his team made too many mistakes while the Leafs, who made the least mistakes, won the decision. Pilius claims these things will be rectified by Sunday and he stated they would be back in Toronto to win the Stanley Cup. Sounds pretty confident.

The Leafs stand a good chance of winning the Cup as the deciding game will be played in the Gardens and before their "new" home crowd maybe they will do just that. The Hawks will be tough tomorrow night but now it is a different story as time is running out on them and they must win to force the seventh tilt. It should be a real old hum-dinger.

The Dow Brewery Bowling Tournament of Champions swings into the final week and the champions from over 500 halls will be decided. The top bowlers will compete for a spot on "L'Heure des Quilles" on the French TV network.

The two best high triple scorers of each week qualified to take part in the championships of their halls. The next stage of the massive elimination tournament is the uniting of these triple champions in a roll-off for district honors. Each district will then send their champions to Montreal in a final tournament for a berth on the TV network next fall. So all in all it is quite a battle for a spot on the screen.

They come and they go but it seems that Stan "The Man" Musial keeps rolling on. If he can maintain his present pace he will pass Honus Wagner's National League Record. He is just 20 short of the mark and has batted out a total of 3,410 during his career. He needs only two more total bases to tie Babe Ruth for second place in the all-time list behind the late Ty Cobb.

Musial figured that this might be his last year but if he can continue his present pace we doubt very much if he will call it quits. The Cards are the surprise of the season so far and up to Thursday had five straight victories to their credit.

Harry (NEA) Grayson picks the Cards to win the National and battle the Yanks in the World Series. He places the Dodgers next with Giants third and the Braves in fourth. The Pirates have been placed sixth as they lack pitching and the Redlegs are picked to finish no better than fifth. The National has had four different winners in the last four years so why can't it be the Cards' long-deferred turn?

It seems that the Border Little League is having trouble in getting organized. The question of finance is the big problem and some of the executive is in favor of dropping out of the loop and move in with the Peanut League.

It would be a shame if this happened but after all it is quite a job in running a league. Outside help must be obtained from the community and if this is not coming then no matter how good an executive it would be tough going. We sincerely hope the boys from the Border can get things straightened away to continue in the Little League. It is a great project and one that deserves support from all Three Villages.

The Juniors of the Lennoxville Rifle Club walked off with the Provincial Sporting Rifle Team Championships for the 12th consecutive year. This speaks well for the club and shows the youngsters are coming along fine and in a few years some of the older men can step down making way for their younger members.

The club has erected a new clubhouse with an indoor range and now we are sure that Lennoxville will be well represented in all shoots for years to come. Major Ed Warner won the Quebec Open, Armed Forces Rifle and .22 Sporting Rifle Indoor championships. This is nothing new for Ed who has won practically every shoot around the country. He has also represented Canada in the Bisley a few times. Both these achievements speak well for the Lennoxville Club.

Gene Oliver lost $60,000 bonus when his arm went dead but now he is back as Cards' No. 1 catcher

NEW YORK (AP) — There are not many who can lose $60,000 overnight and grin while telling about it later.

Gene Oliver was laughing Friday, at least on the outside, as he told how he hurt his arm in a high school football game the day before he was to receive a $60,000 baseball bonus to sign with Detroit Tigers of the American League. When the Tigers saw he couldn't throw, they tore up the contract.

"George Moriarty, the Tiger scout who had recommended me, asked me to work out with them anyway," said Oliver, now the No. 1 catcher and one of the leading hitters of St. Louis Cardinals of the National League.

The double shock of losing the 60 grand and a big league opportunity disgusted the 18-year-old Oliver with baseball. He threw away his glove, determined to forget all about baseball.

"The whole thing made me sick," Gene recalled. "My folks sure could have used the money. They had five kids to feed and I was earning about $40 a week, came down with arthritis. I took a job to help out."

STILL THOUGHT BASEBALL
That was in 1953. Three years later, Oliver was still at his job but he couldn't get baseball out of his system. He still couldn't throw, however.

At the urging of his wife Marilyn, Gene began to exercise the arm, using weights and pulleys. The arm slowly began to respond. Joe Monahan, a Cardinal scout who had followed Gene in his high school days, agreed to take a chance on him. Cards gave him a $1,000 bonus to sign, figuring his hitting potential might offset his throwing handicap.

Old Joe Brown favored over Ortiz tonight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Durable old Joe Brown, the busiest lightweight champion in the division's history, remained the betting favorite Friday to retain his title in 15 rounds or less against cocky young Carlos Ortiz of New York tonight.

The 35-year-old kingpin from Houston, Tex., risks his crown for the 12th time, this one in the Las Vegas Convention Centre before an anticipated capacity turnout of 7,700.

Benny Leonard, whom many regard as the finest of all 135-pounders, defended the title nine times, which was the record until Brown came along.

This betting capital of the nation likes Brown to stand off his 25-year-old opponent at odds of about 8-5.

Co-promoters Jack Doyle and Mel Greb said Friday more than $50,000 in advance ticket sales is in the till and they hope later comers will swell it toward the $100,000 mark.

Companies file suit against Colts' prexy

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Four insurance companies have filed suit against Carroll D. Rosenbloom, president of the Baltimore Colts professional football team, charging that he made false claims in order to collect $130,074 in fire insurance.

The companies, in a suit filed in U.S. district court, alleged that Rosenbloom was paid the money on false claims of fire damage to his home and its contents in a fire more than 11 years ago.

They asked that the money be returned with punitive damages of $500,000 be assessed against Rosenbloom.

Glenn Hall has severe case of butterflies before every game but once it starts he is fine

TORONTO (CP) — "Mr. Goalie" strolls into the Chicago Black Hawk dressing room, dresses and retches.

He skates on the ice, in Chicago to a tumultuous uproar from the fans.

Still as jumpy as a cat, he spends the next 60 minutes of hockey dodging sticks and skates and stopping pucks zipping at him at up to 100 miles an hour.

"Mr. Goalie"—known to fans outside of Chicago as Glenn Hall—has a severe case of butterflies before every game as most athletes get once in their career, yet he's one of the best puck-stoppers in the business.

Does the tension that even makes him retch before every game hamper him? No, says the man who has been a backbone of the club that rose from regular also-rans to one of the toughest in the National Hockey League.

"I think it's good for me," he said in an interview. "There have been games when I have not been as nervous as usual and I find I won't go after a shot so hard."

MAKE EXTRA EFFORT
"If I'm tense, I make the extra effort that might get me on it."

Hall displayed some spectacular goal-tending during the Stanley Cup semi-final against Montreal Canadiens and now his lightning-fast reflexes, especially his left hand, are making things tough for Toronto Maple Leafs in the final, which Toronto leads three games to two.

Hall plays the toughest, most nerve-racking position in hockey knowing that "if the goalie has a bad night, the team's dead." Yet he has kicked out pucks in 538 consecutive games of NHL and Stanley Cup play and needs less than a season more to break the record of 580 set by Johnny Wilson, a forward formerly of Toronto and now with New York Rangers.

Not likely, at least for some time. The shy, soft-spoken Hall has had a goals-against average of no higher than 2.65 in the last three seasons. That was this season, and the two previous seasons it was 2.57.

HE'S DEAD SERIOUS
He's dead serious about his goaltending job, and a job is what he considers it.

"I play for the money," he said. "I quit playing and I quit eating."

Stan Mikita sets two new scoring records

TORONTO (CP) — Centre Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks smashed two Stanley Cup records Thursday night when he was credited with two assists in the second period of the fifth Chicago-Toronto game.

The pair of assists gave him 21 points on six goals and 15 assists, one up on the record 20 set by Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings in 1955. His 15 assists also was one more than the record set by Fleming MacKell of Boston in 1958.

Leafs to carry road games on closed circuit

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs management announced tonight that all the team's National Hockey League road games next season will be televised by closed circuit into Maple Leaf Gardens.

Seats to the games will be sold on a separate subscriber list. Seats will be priced at $2.50, $2 and $1.25.

Arrangements for closed-circuit TV of full leaf games in Montreal, Boston, Chicago, Detroit and New York were made with Trans-Canada Telemeter.

The 30-year-old Hall, a native of Humboldt, Sask., isn't excited about the possibility of breaking the record.

"I'm just worried about playing in the league. I'll keep going until I feel I'm not doing a good job, or until someone comes up and takes my place. That's quite feasible."

LONDON (AP)—Burnley defeated Blackpool 2-0 Friday on goals by winger John Connelly and centre-half Tom Cummings to move to the top of the English League soccer standings with a better goal average than Ipswich Town.

Burnley, with four more games to play, now is favorite to win the title and qualify for the rich European Cup of Champions next season. The national champions of Europe qualify for the competition.

Ipswich slipped in the race by managing only a 2-2 home draw against Arsenal.

Burnley and Ipswich each have 51 points. Ipswich has only three more games to play—one less than Burnley.

Ipswich, trailing Arsenal by two goals, whipped in two in the last 26 minutes for the draw. Inside forward Len Phillips got Ipswich's first goal on a penalty in the 64th minute and Jim Leadbetter got the equalizer five minutes from time.

LOW MEN OUT
The two bottom teams in the First Division drop into the Second Division at the end of the season—and it looks as though Chelsea and Cardiff City will take the dive.

Chelsea lost 5-4 to Wolverhampton. With only nine minutes play left, the London team made a desperate rally, scored three goals and just missed winning a point.

West Ham United routed Cardiff City 4-1. Peter Byrne, the £65,000 star got one of West Ham's goals.

Now Chelsea is at the foot of Division I with 25 points and

ARMY NOT TO FAVOR LEADS ON DISCHARGE ISSUE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The army said Friday a professional baseball player called to duty with the National Guard or reserve last fall would be eligible for discharge in July, rather than in May.

A Pentagon spokesman told reporters Thursday ball players and other seasonal workers might be able to get out as early as May 1. But he said Friday this was an error.

Chicago Stadium rafters are tabbed to really shake as Hawks make last ditch stand, Leafs hold 3-2 edge

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Stadium rafters are tabbed to really shake Sunday night in Chicago Black Hawks' last ditch stand against Toronto Maple Leafs.

With their heroes trailing Toronto three games to two in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final, the Hawk fans — noted as the most boisterous in the National Hockey League — can be expected to meet the challenge tossed from Maple Leaf Gardens Thursday night.

If Hawks lose Sunday night, Toronto wins the cup. If not, back to Toronto for a Tuesday finale.

The ordinarily tranquil Toronto fans hollered and hurled debris in the best Chicago fashion as Maple Leafs nearly skated Hawks off the rink with an 8-4 triumph Thursday night.

This crowd demonstration, witnessed here on television, was in response to an earlier comment by Toronto coach Punch Imlach that the Chicago crowd's wild enthusiasm was worth two goals to Hawks.

PILOUS IMPRESSED
Even Hawk coach Rudy Pilous was impressed.

"It made us feel fairly much at home," Pilous said Friday, "but whatever we did was wrong and whatever the Maple Leafs did was right."

"However, our own crowd can be much more moving, getting inspired beer and such, while their best shot is water and soft drinks."

Pilous had some comment on the Toronto debris — throwing, too.

"We'll be back there Tuesday," he said confidently, "and we expect to find Toronto the cleanest city in Canada. Those hockey fans will pick up all the garbage in the city for the last game. Some poor kids probably even will be going short on Easter eggs."

Pilous had no pep talks nor any change in lineups.

"If the Hawks don't know that their backs are against the wall," he said, "oratory briefing won't help much. A few of our players had a bad game Thursday night. I won't mention names. They know as well as anybody who played good or who played poorly. They all just have to get themselves jacked up for Sunday night."

Coach Imlach makes customary non-committal remarks on Stanley Cup, refuses to be drawn in debate

TORONTO (CP) — Coach Punch Imlach of Toronto Maple Leafs made his few customary non-committal remarks as the Leafs practices Friday and refused to be drawn into a discussion over whether Toronto fans' boisterous exhibition Thursday night might spark a lively display by their Chicago counterparts Sunday night.

Leafs beat Hawks 8-4 Thursday night and after almost every goal hats, eggs and what-not came flying out from the normally dignified crowd.

Asked Friday whether he thinks the demonstration might touch off a reaction in Chicago, where whoop-la is common in Stanley Cup play, Imlach said simply "that's not my problem."

Imlach himself touched off the Toronto demonstration with a crack earlier this week that Chicago fans were "worth two goals" to Hawks because of their wholehearted backing.

"THEY'RE JUST FANS"
And despite the tales drifting around Toronto of the fantastic antics of the Chicago fans, Imlach said this of them Friday: "They're just fans who want to see their team win."

"They're no different from any other fans."

There is a suspicion among those familiar with the Chicago crowd, who had the chance to watch Thursday night's game on television, that Imlach may find out differently Sunday night in the sixth game of the best-of-seven final. Toronto has a 3-2 lead in games.

Don Simmons will be in the Toronto nets again in place of injured John Bower. Imlach said he doesn't know whether Bower, out with a pulled groin muscle, will see action in the seventh game here Tuesday night if it is needed.

"That's up to him and the doctor," he said.

As has been his practice during the playoffs, Imlach refused to say whether any lineup changes are planned.

This should answer your question General information for Blood Donors:

- QUESTION: How long can fresh blood be kept and used?
ANSWER: Whole blood can be stored and used up to three weeks when carefully refrigerated.
- QUESTION: What happens if it is not used within three weeks?
ANSWER: It is converted into blood products which are also supplied to hospitals FREE OF CHARGE. These products are useful for the treatment of shock and severe bleeding and for the prevention of measles and other infectious diseases and for many other forms of treatment.
- QUESTION: Can blood of different races be used interchangeably for transfusions?
ANSWER: Yes. The structure and functions of both cells and plasma are essentially the same in every ethnic group.
- QUESTION: Can animal blood be used in transfusions for humans?
ANSWER: No. Blood is species specific. Blood from one species given to a different species acts as a foreign substance and is rapidly destroyed.
- QUESTION: Do donors receive any recognition?
ANSWER: A personal identification card showing his or her blood group will be mailed to each donor after the clinic. Buttons are awarded to donors for 5, 10, 20, 30, 40, 60 and 70 donations and illuminated scrolls presented for 20 or more donations.
- QUESTION: What is the Canadian Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service?
ANSWER: It is a service operated by the Canadian Red Cross Society to supply whole blood and blood products FREE OF CHARGE to any patient in any hospital in the area served. All blood is the gift of volunteer donors. Blood cannot be manufactured. It must come from people.
- QUESTION: What does the free Blood Transfusion Service mean to me?
ANSWER: Whenever you, or a member of your family may be in hospital and needs blood or blood products you will receive these FREE OF CHARGE.
- QUESTION: What happens if I need transfusion in the U.S.A.
ANSWER: Have your doctor notify your local Red Cross in Canada and arrangements will be made to replace the amount of blood necessary at no charge to you.
- QUESTION: What happened before this free Red Cross service?
ANSWER: The patient paid approximately $25 for each transfusion or frantically appealed to friends or the public for donors to replace two bottles for every one received.
- QUESTION: How many donations are needed to maintain the service?
ANSWER: An average of one bottle of blood must be collected every 15 seconds of every working day to maintain an adequate supply of whole blood and blood products. More than 555,000 bottles will be required for transfusion therapy for patients in Canadian hospitals during the year.
- QUESTION: How are whole blood and blood products used?
ANSWER: To control hemorrhage—to combat shock—to speed recovery—to prepare patients for surgery—to save infants born with heart or blood defects—to assist burn victims through a long convalescence to help mothers in childbirth—to assist victims of accidents and other emergencies.
- QUESTION: Why should I be a donor?
ANSWER: If everyone gives there will be an ample supply of blood when you, or a member of your family needs it.
- QUESTION: Is donating blood painful?
ANSWER: No. There is no discomfort experienced in giving blood donations. Every phases of the programme is under professional supervision. Specially trained nurses will take your donation.
- QUESTION: How long will it take to give my donation?
ANSWER: Approximately 30 minutes including time for testing, registration, rest and refreshments. The actual giving of blood takes only 4 to 5 minutes.
- QUESTION: Who can give blood?
ANSWER: Anyone in average health between the ages of 18 and 65 years.
- QUESTION: How can you tell whether I can spare the blood?
ANSWER: This is determined by a simple test given every donor by a Red Cross technician.
- QUESTION: Are there any diet restrictions?
ANSWER: No. You may eat anytime you like before making your donation.
- QUESTION: How much do I give?
ANSWER: Three-quarters of a pint — only one-twentieth of the average body content. This is replaced within 24 hours.
- QUESTION: How often may I give?
ANSWER: A man may donate every three months. A woman, under normal circumstances, every four months. A doctor may sometimes advise giving more often. You are not likely to be called more than twice a year.
