In the House of Commons on the 5th of March, Lord Althorp (while the Naval Supply bill was under consideration) to put a question to the Hon. and Gallant Admiral opposite.

Sir G. Cockburn regretted that the Noble Lord had not given him notice that he meant to put the question, as he was at present in a hurry to return to the coast.

The Noble Lord replied that he had not given him notice, as he was not in the habit of doing so, and that he was not in the habit of doing so.

the Canada was conducted. If those provinces were properly governed, we might substitute their own militia in the place of the present military establishments, and they were perfectly able and willing to defend themselves.

Sir George Murray wished to say a few words, in consequence of what had been stated by some hon. members in the course of the debate. The hon. gentleman opposite said that the Canadas were governed upon a garrison system.

The hon. gentleman opposite said that the Canadas were governed upon a garrison system. To show that this was not the fact, it was sufficient to state that the military force there now was the same as it was in 1792.

Some remarkably short passages have been made from Europe to New-York. The Josephine from Belfast arrived in 15 days, probably bringing intelligence from Ireland to the 27th March.

Sir, I confess myself much edited by your letter in the Montreal Gazette of the 12th inst. It requires no elucidation as it speaks for itself; I shall therefore pass it over without further notice.

I will name Pitho da Puta against any one of your Horses, to run two mile heats over the Quebec Course on the first day of the August meeting; and three or four mile heats, or a four mile heat, on the third day of the same meeting.

An answer in eight days, naming your Horses will oblige, Sir, your obedient Servant, JAMES GIBB.
