PTC strike settled

Buses today resume runs to Montreal

Bus service by the Provincial Transport Company to and from Sherbrooke is scheduled to resume today, following the settlement of a strike in Montreal early this morning.

A spokesman here said this morning that bus service from Montreal to Sherbrooke will resume at three o'clock this afternoon, and the first departure from Sherbrooke to Montreal will occur at 6:30 this evening.

By tomorrow, he added, all PTC service to and from this city will have returned to normal.

Scientists chosen for moon

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Six young scientists picked to land on the moon in the Apollo program begin their preparations next month. They will appear at a press conference at Houston's Manned Spacecraft Centre Tuesday.

Two of the six, who are trained pilots, will start astronaut training at the space centre here. The other four go to Williams Air Force Base, Ariz., for a year of flight training.

For the most part the six were tight-lipped about their selection awaiting the press conference. Their names became known Saturday through a copyright story in the Houston Chronicle. Their selection later was confirmed officially.

One of the six selected, Dr. Duane E. Graveline, who is scheduled to resign today his post in the aerospace medical division at Brooks air force base, said the moon is like an "unclimbed mountain."

"It's there," he said. "Somebody's going to climb it."

READ BUCK ROGERS

Another scientist, Dr. Frank C. Michel of Rice University, said he has always been interested in space and read science fiction as Buck Rogers and Flash Gordon "just like all the other kids." He is a trained pilot.

Current plans do not call for a scientist on the first flight of the three-man Apollo, which is at least four years away.

Striking employees of the Provincial Transport Co. voted to accept revised terms for a new two-year labor contract, hours after rejecting a previous offer.

The employees waited after the earlier rejection while Jean Robert Gauthier, a chief union negotiator, made several telephone calls, including at least one to Paul Desmarais, president of the PTC.

The revised contract in its latest form offers a pay rise of $15 a week as of July 1 at which time wages for bus drivers will go up to $70 from $55 for the basic rate. The rate will go up again on July 1, 1966, to $75.

The previous offer, rejected in a show of hands several hours before, would have provided $65 a week from this July 1 and $75 by July 1, 1967. Negotiators for the Confederation of National Trade Unions had urged the employees to accept this offer.

At the end of the contract, the rate-per-mile for the bus drivers will go up to 5.25 from five cents.

Negotiators had met in Quebec City on the weekend under the mediation of Donat Quimper, deputy labor minister of the province. As a result of their meeting, Mr. Quimper announced agreement early Sunday between both sides.

Actor dies on his boat

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—A noted today to an acute lung infection. The death of film actor Steve Cochran aboard his schooner at sea off Guatemala was attributed by Dr. Abel Giron, a medical examiner who performed an autopsy on it. Giron said he knew the actor.

He said he could not pinpoint the exact nature of Cochran's illness until he receives a laboratory report, but the lung infection caused paralysis.

Cochran's body was aboard his 40-foot schooner Rogue which was towed into the Guatemalan port of Champerico Saturday. Also aboard were three Mexican women who said the actor died June 15 after he became paralysed and could move only his head.

The women were identified as Eva Montero Castellanos, 25, a seamstress; Eugenia Bautista Zacarias, 19, a laundress; and Lorenza Infante de la Rosa, 14.

They said Cochran hired them in Acapulco, Mexico, at the beginning of June to work as helpers aboard the boat. They were chosen from 180 girls who answered an advertisement he placed in local newspapers.

STORM STOPS ENGINE

A bad storm June 12-13 damaged the foremast and stopped the engine. Cochran fixed the mast but soon after complained of pains in his legs which later spread to his chest, arms and head, the girls said.

After he died, the women decided to stay on deck until help came, but heavy rains forced them to seek shelter in the cabin with the decomposing body several times.

The only food they had left were potatoes. Finally they were seen by a Guatemalan tuna boat which towed them into Champerico.

Cochran, a native of Eureka, Calif., had been married and divorced three times.

THEY'RE ENGAGED — The engagement of Crown Princess Beatrix of the Netherlands to West German diplomat Claus von Amsberg, 38, was announced today by Queen Juliana in a radio-television broadcast. At the same time, the royal family released this photograph of the 27-year-old future queen and her fiancé, taken in Princess Beatrix' home, Castle Drakenstein. The engagement had been preceded by heated public debate over whether von Amsberg, who had served in the German army, was acceptable as a prince consort. (AP Wirephoto via cable from Amsterdam)

Queen faces controversy

Dutch princess to wed German

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — Queen Juliana of The Netherlands today formally announced the engagement of Crown Princess Beatrix to West German diplomat Claus von Amsberg.

The queen, in her radio and television announcement from Soestdyk Palace, was outspoken about the controversy over von Amsberg's past as a member of the Hitler youth organization, but said the young couple had applied "reason and conscience" to their decision.

They, "like ourselves, were very clearly aware of the doubts and even the resistance which their engagement might arouse among many people."

"Yet they finally felt the objections should not be allowed to outbalance their love," Juliana said.

They are expected to wed next spring.

At a press conference about an hour before the announcement, Beatrix, with von Amsberg beside her, appealed for "time and trust" from the people.

She told reporters that if the Dutch government had not approved her wedding to Claus she would not have gone through with it.

The queen claimed that "Claus, as well as his family, were absolutely opposed to the Nazi regime."

Prime Minister Josef Cals then voiced congratulations and said the queen showed deep understanding of the mixed feelings expressed by the Dutch people in the last few weeks.

Tuesday the couple will be introduced to the government and to parliament.

Before the wedding the queen will make him a "prince of The Netherlands." In this capacity he will receive an annual income of 300,000 guilders ($83,300).

Newspapers received hundreds of protest letters.

The government approved von Amsberg's antecedents and background. A thorough investigation was completed Friday in Italy where he had served as a youth of 18 with a German Panzer "vision during the final stages of the war."

SEEK PUBLIC POLL

Politicians also became embroiled in the controversy, with the Socialists repeatedly asking in the press and on television why there was no public opinion poll on the engagement.

They claimed that some newspapers received so many letters against the engagement that they stopped publishing them.

Kierans critical of financial institutions

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's financial institutions were criticized today by Quebec Revenue Minister Eric Kierans who said they should be more competitive and require companies to disclose more information to investors.

"It does not seem to me that our financial institutions and structures have adapted themselves to the changed realities of a 1965 economy operating at a $50,000,000,000 gross national product level," he told a Canadian Manufacturers' Association luncheon.

He said the eventual prospects of financial independence and continuous growth depend on the revival of savings.

A thorough investigation was completed Friday in Italy where he had served as a youth of 18 with a German Panzer "vision during the final stages of the war."

Afro-Asian talk delay costs face for Red China

ALGIERS (AP) — China lost considerable face because the Afro-Asian conference was postponed despite vigorous Chinese insistence that it be held on schedule.

China was forced to back down in the face of overwhelming sentiment against the meeting of chiefs of state this week in the tense Algerian capital.

The Chinese reluctantly joined the other delegates in voting unanimously Saturday to reschedule the meeting for Nov. 5 in Algiers. A pre-conference meeting of foreign ministers was set for Oct. 28.

The vote came a day after part of the conference building at the club Des Pins, 12 miles west of the city, was wrecked by a mysterious explosion. This and nightly demonstrations in Algiers against the ouster of President Ahmed Ben Bella prompted the delay.

(In Peking, the Communist party newspaper People's Daily, which since Ben Bella's downfall had told its readers the conference would proceed as scheduled, published a report of the postponement in the bottom right-hand corner of the front page. But along with other Chinese papers, the People's Daily made no mention.)

APPROVES DECISION

(In Moscow, the party newspaper Pravda approved the decision to postpone the conference. "Dictated by the situation in Algeria, the decision will unquestionably help to strengthen unity and understanding among the peoples of Asian and African countries," it said.)

Steel-helmeted policemen, armed with tear gas grenades and sub-machine guns, were braced for further protests.

Leaflets were circulated calling for renewed demonstrations against the coup led by Col. Houari Boumedienne.

One group called for a general strike today. Another urged Ben Bella's supporters to bang saucepans on their balconies in a "casserole concert" of protest.

One Asian diplomat observed that Chinese prestige would not have been so thoroughly committed had the Chinese remained silent and acquiesced in the postponement.

Besides presenting the regiment with new colors and seeing the old ones laid up with ceremony, she was banqueted, visited hospitals, a museum, the legislature, a stud farm—she's keen on the horses—called on her old friend, former governor-general Vincent Massey, and was on display for mile after mile of citizenry.

She also went to the races Saturday at Woodbine track to see the Calgary-owned Whistling Sea bring the West its first win in the Queen's Plate, premier event of Canadian thoroughbred racing. She presented the 50 Queen's guineas—worth

Looks happy in London

LONDON (CP) — The Queen Mother, smiling and happy, arrived back from Canada today and told High Commissioner Lionel Chevrier she had had "a wonderful trip."

Wearing a turquoise print dress under a turquoise coat, with a small petal hat to match, the Queen Mother stepped off her RCAF Yukon at sunlit London Airport to be met by Chevrier, his wife Lucienne, Air Commodore Wilfrid Gouin, chairman of the Canadian joint staff in London, and British officials.

Chevrier later said the Queen Mother looked "absolutely wonderful and radiant, full of joy and gaiety."

UN birthday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The United Nations, now 20 years old, ended a birthday party in the city of its birth with leaders of seven religious faiths, embracing more than 2,000,000 people, joining in support of the UN quest for peace.

The three-day commemorative session, mainly a gala 114-nation celebration of pomp and ceremony, began Friday with moments of silent meditation, as it had in 1945. It ended Sunday in a huge religious convocation.

But, in between, a crackling exchange over Viet Nam by the Soviet Union and United States ambassadors underscored a warning by UN Secretary General U Thant that the cold war seems to be intensifying.

Separatist runs

SEPT-ILES, Que. (CP) — Pierre Bourgault, leader of the separatist Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance du Québec, will be a candidate in Duplessis County in the next provincial election.

He was the unanimous choice of 200 delegates at the movement's convention Sunday in this community 320 miles northeast of Quebec City.

In a speech following his nomination, Mr. Bourgault said that, as he saw it, Duplessis County symbolizes all the problems of Quebec, "where the English-speaking companies practise the cultural and economic genocide of the French-Canadians."

ANNOUNCEMENT

Metropolitan Life Now offers you 3 New Policies for more flexible and versatile insurance

1. A new "Whole-Life" Policy with special options for retirement.

This new Policy answers 2 basic insurance needs. It gives your family protection through the critical, growing years. And it guarantees you an extra source of income for your retirement years.

Here's how it works. At age 50, or on the tenth policy anniversary if later, you can convert a "Whole-Life Policy" to an endowment plan that matures in 15 years, or to a life plan that is paid up in 15 years.

For example, if you take out your Whole-Life Policy at age 40 or after, you can take advantage of this special conversion privilege just 10 years later. And the premium payable after you convert is figured out before hand—at the time the policy is written. In this way, you don't have to pay a lump-sum, when you change to an endowment or life plan.

2. A new "Econo-Matic" Policy for practical, low-cost insurance.

This "Econo-Matic" Policy gives you maximum protection for a minimum premium.

It's designed to give low cost insurance to those who need it most—those whose first insurance need is enough protection for a young, growing family.

An "Econo-Matic" Policy is written for an initial minimum of $10,000. For this amount, your premium is much less than the premium for a standard life policy with a guaranteed face value of $10,000.

The ingenious feature of the policy is this: while the guaranteed amount of insurance is lower after two years, application of dividends—if present levels are continued—will maintain the original amount of coverage at the same low premium.

3. A new 10-Year Term Policy for special business requirement.

This convertible policy has outstanding advantages in business and estate planning—to cover, for example, large loans and certain partnership needs.

To achieve the striking cost savings this policy offers, it is written only for $25,000 or more; strictly for 10 years, and is non-renewable.

But the cost advantages are remarkable. During the first two years, premiums are especially low. And, assuming dividends at current rates are applied to premiums, payments can be kept low for the full ten years!

The policy can be converted, without evidence of insurability, to a permanent type of insurance, up to the full face amount, at any time that your life insurance requirements change.

For more flexible and versatile insurance, have a chat with your nearest Metropolitan Agent! Remember, there's no obligation—except to those you love.

Millions choose Metropolitan Life—more in Canada than any other company

Negotiations between Canadian Unitcast-Steel management and striking employees are scheduled to resume tomorrow in Montreal in the presence of department of labour conciliator.

Some 165 employees are out of work because of the strike, now in its 28th day.

The strikers at the Sherbrooke plant are affiliated with the Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU). They walked off their jobs to support higher wage and other demands.

At Superior Court Judge Arthur Smith of Montreal has ruled against limiting the number of picketers to three at each entrance of the plant.

The Canadian Ingersoll-Rand applied for this last Tuesday in order to enable court bailiff to seize casting patterns inside the Unitcast plant.

Four of the ten patterns were seized the following day. The other six had disappeared, according to a Rand spokesman.

Judge Smith ruled that limiting the picketing was no longer necessary since the patterns have already been obtained. He assessed costs of the suit against the union, court officials reported.

Superior Court is to render judgment shortly on returning the patterns, now under the guardianship of a third party, to the Rand.

City's prettiest 'paper boy'

Runs successful 'business'

By PAUL WHITE LAW
 (Record Staff Reporter)

One of the prettiest "paper boys" in Sherbrooke delivers Sherbrooke Records in the East Ward.

She's Pamela Nutbrown, and operator of her own small business in the predominantly male field of newspaper delivering.

Eleven-year-old Pamela, who lives at 926 Caen Street, has been delivering Records for about a year. She's one of 13 girls delivering Records in the Eastern Townships.

Her customers 37, in the vicinity of her home, have gotten used to the idea of a girl "paper boy," she says, but Pamela notes that she received some surprise looks when she started out.

"I was told that maybe delivering papers would be too much for me," she said. But after a year of successful operation, Pamela says she enjoys meeting and conducting business with her customers, and has enjoyed earning the salary her part time job provides.

"Delivering papers gives me spending money, and I'm also able to save," says the young grade six pupil at Mitchell School.

And Pamela's grades haven't suffered because of her after school job, says her mother.

Mrs. Nutbrown says that when her daughter first approached her with the paper route proposition she was rather apprehensive, the big question being Pamela's grades.

Pamela is following a tradition started two years ago by a 12-year-old brother Billy, when he went into the newspaper delivery business.

Her father, Ibrey, is a lab technician, and Pamela has eight brothers and sisters. They range in age from a 1½ year baby girl to a 17-year-old sister at Sherbrooke High School.

Pamela's current savings project is a new bicycle. Every afternoon after school she dons a Record carrier's bag, and sets out on her bicycle for the first house on her route (LaSalle Street), where her 37 Records are deposited by a delivery truck.

Delivering Records along her route takes only about a half hour with the aid of her bicycle, but in the winter time delivering the papers takes slightly longer.

But Pamela finds that with the arrival of summer weather and quick bicycle powered deliveries her collections are more difficult to obtain.

People always seem to be "out" during the summer, especially on paper boys' collection day.

But neither rain, nor snow, nor sleet, have kept Sherbrooke's girl "paper boy" from her appointed rounds.

Summer festival opens

Festivities will officially begin this evening for Sherbrooke's Summer Festival when Mayor Armand Nadeau will announce the opening tonight at 8 p.m. on Strathcona Square.

The Plaza Festival, which is the June 28 to July 4 portion of the Summer Festival, will not as in former years close Wellington Street off to traffic. Displays and shrubs will not be present this year.

Instead Wellington Street will be decorated and will be closed to traffic between Meadow and Frontenac Streets only during the evenings of the Plaza Festival with the exception of Friday.

A trophy will be awarded by Le Journal de Sherbrooke for the most original window display.

A concert by the Sherbrooke Harmony Band will follow to night's opening ceremonies.

Star of the Plaza Festival is the Dancing Waters which will give an afternoon and evening performance daily in front of the court house.

Nineteen motors activated from an electrically operated console and played like an organ force thousands of gallons of circulating water through more than 4,000 jets. They shoot 20 to 40 feet up from portable sections of pipe and cable.

As the sparkling waters rise and fall under multi-colored lights the waters "dance" the tango, the waltz, classical ballet, and even modern dancing.

The waters swirl and swirl into intricate dance movements.

Events centred at Strathcona Square will continue throughout this week to include a parade of stars, a talent show, a square dance and a fashion show put on by Montreal Manufacturers.

Last night in connection with the Summer Festival a provincial contest for majorettes was held in the city. Champions were the Marquises of Ville d'Auteuil in Junior A class; in Junior B class the Ste. Therese de Theford Majorettes won; and in the juvenile class the Marinieres of Lake Megantic won.

Summer can be learning time, too

For youngsters, learning doesn't have to be only a part of wintertime school days. It can be part of summer's fun, too.

A day at the zoo... a trip to the Plains of Abraham at Quebec City... a book about today's space age capture children's imagination, teaching them something at the same time.

Maintaining and further developing skills youngsters have learned at school should be part of summer's activities. Sherbrooke school principals Wright Gibson and George McClintock agree.

Children quickly forget what they've learned if they take a complete vacation from education during summer months.

Encouragement from home, however, is needed. If parents will just take an interest, suggest ideas and direct their children during the summer months, the children's education would be continued and they would begin to rely more on their own resources, Mr. Gibson, principal of Sherbrooke High School, said.

Mr. Gibson believes it is important only to guide the child, not doing too much for him. In this way junior will learn to face up to his own problems and depend on his own resources.

"Pushing" one's children to go to the library for example, will only result in his resentment of it, explained one elementary school teacher.

The child should go to the library because he wants to," she said.

There are many ways parents can encourage and guide their children through summer learning as Mr. Gibson, Mr. McClintock and two elementary school teachers pointed out.

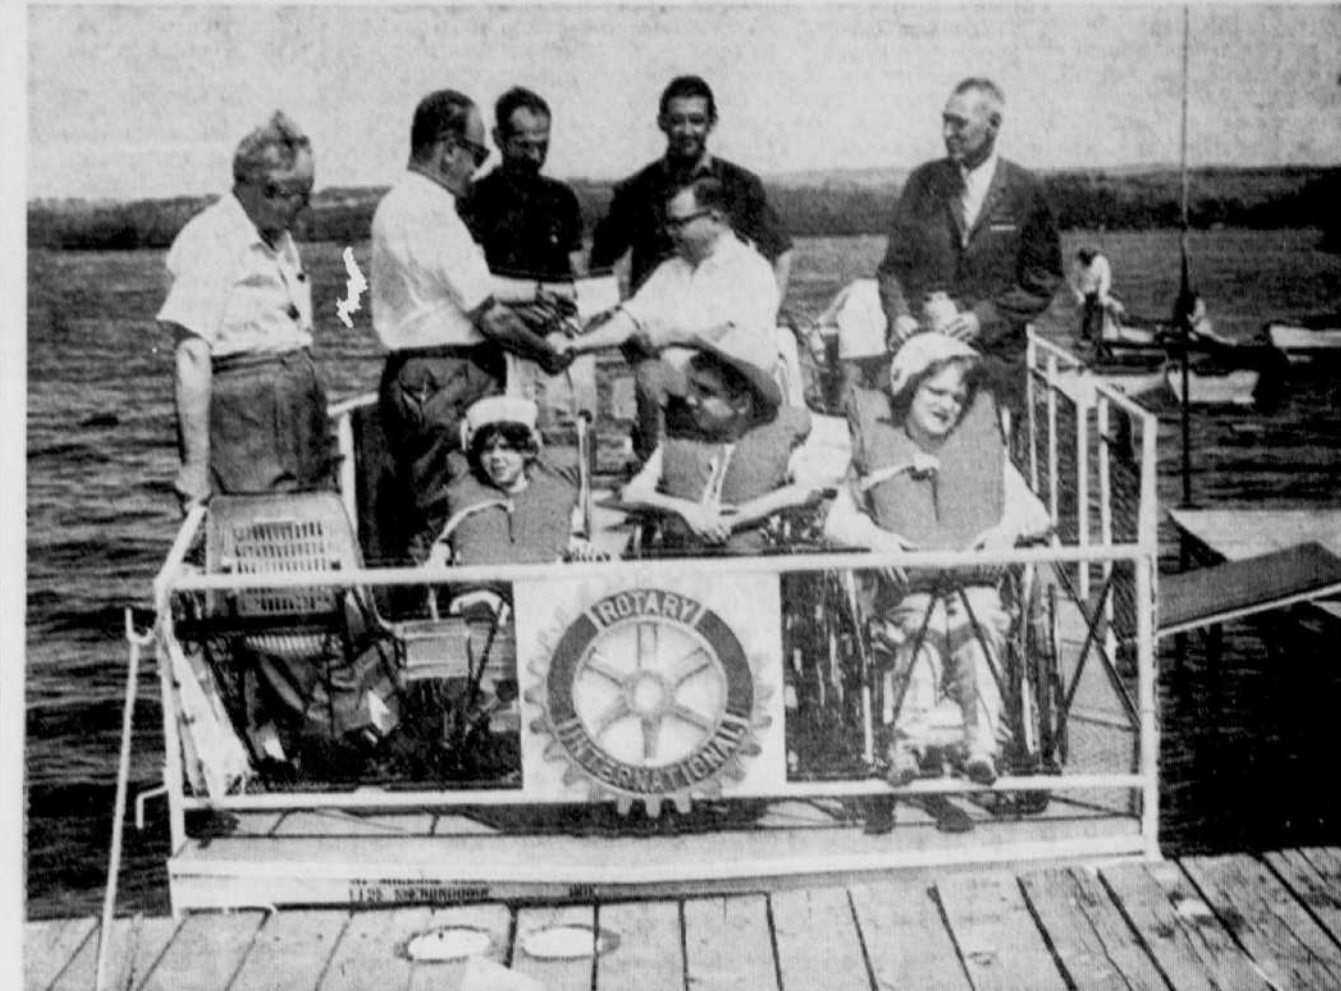

How about playing "I Spy" with your children? This develops their alertness. Or spelling bees, or mental arithmetic games, riddles, jigsaw puzzles, or dinner-table contests such as guessing the meaning of words.

All these aren't time-consuming to parents. They're fun for them and the kids.

Encouraging children to play with French-speaking children and to watch programs on French language television even before they're of school age will help teach them French, one of the big learning problems students have in school, a Mitchell School teacher noted.

Coaching should be the last resort for a student whose June report has shown him to be weak in one subject, Mr. Gibson said.

The donation of the boat to the camp was a project spearheaded by Mr. Racey who was aided by Rotarians George St. Pierre and Jacques Begin.

There were also some non-Rotarians that wish to remain anonymous who helped in financing this project, Rotary Club president-elect Clarence Blake pointed out.

On hand to help in the ceremonies was Rotary District Governor Jim Osbourn, Dr. L. P. Patterson, principal of Montreal's Mackay Centre for the Deaf and Dumb, Mr. Blake, and John Mathias, chairman of the camp maintenance committee.

After the ceremonies Mr. Racey skippered several inaugural trips around the lake for all the campers.

The project is one of the several contributions made by the Sherbrooke Rotary Club to the camp. Some of the other projects include pony rides and square dances for the campers and each year the club finances the camp vacation for several children.

In addition, he said, "the impact of establishing a virtual wall of red tape between the United States and our friends to the north cannot be in the best interests of our country."

Rough sledding for highway project

While a bill has been introduced into the United States congress to have a federal interstate highway built through the northern part of Maine, connecting the Maritimes with Quebec, the project is almost certain to have rough sledding.

Most of those concerned with the proposal in Quebec have nothing but praise for the plan. And well they should. If it is built, nearly all of the expense will be borne by the United States. For next to nothing, eastern Canada will be getting a modern auto link between Quebec and the Maritimes.

It is for precisely this reason that opposition to the plan must be expected in the United States — some of it perhaps of a most influential kind. Unless it can be shown that Maine would benefit substantially from the proposed autoroute, it may well receive short shrift from those responsible for highway spending in the U.S.

In addition, it should be kept in mind that support for the proposal is by no means unanimous in the Maritimes.

At least one important body, chiefly concerned with truck routes, has shown that the proposed autoroute will not be much shorter than Maritime-Quebec routes presently being used by Maritime truckers. Doubt has also been expressed in the Maritimes about the potential benefit northern Maine — a sparsely-populated area — would receive from the suggested highway.

This is not to suggest that a U.S. decision to go ahead with the highway should not be welcomed. On the contrary, this kind of a gift should be received with the warmest of enthusiasm. But it is as well not to be over-optimistic at this time of the project's chances in Washington.

If Dad has an eye to the future, he won't forget the present—on Mom's birthday.

Even today, one born every minute

Although the scientifically-minded individual of today prefers to be taken in by the salesmen of atom machines for the cure of numberless diseases and similar devices based on the supposed accomplishments of modern experimenters, there is evidence that the practitioners of the old art of selling the Brooklyn Bridge or getting two tens for a five have still an important role in the confidence games of today.

Recently despatches from New York told of the revival of an old Laurel and Hardy movie plot in which the hapless heroes were victimized by a pair of con men who sold them a machine to make money.

The movie idea was simple. You simply inserted a fifty-dollar bill into the machine and out came another fifty, so real that even the cleverest banker could not tell the difference.

Now, it seems, two gentlemen from Virginia, both of them being classed among the state's leading citizens, made a visit to New York City and were induced to pay $25,000 for a similar machine.

The mysterious money-maker was somewhat more complicated than the soap box contraption appearing in the Laurel and Hardy movie, but the end results were the same.

New York police are now looking for the con men who managed to escape with the $25,000.

Possibly before this appears in print there will be stories of gold bricks, representing part of the loot taken in a Northern Ontario robbery, being offered to the suckers at a wonderful discount.

The Lofty View

Bygone days

TWENTY YEARS AGO

(From the Record of Thursday, June 28, 1945)

The appeal of fresh young voices raised in song is always especially charming, and this was truly demonstrated last night in the annual high school girls singing festival at Trinity United Church. Aside from the ease with which they sang and the fine training evident all the way through, the enjoyment the girls got from singing was marked.

Under the able leadership of R. Havard, choirmaster, and Mrs. Bertha M. Bell, L. Mus., organist of the Trinity Church, the four choirs of Richmond, Coaticook, Lennoxville, and Trinity Church sang fifteen varied selections.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

(From the Record of Wednesday, June 28, 1950)

Support of all property owners and all public organizations for the $1,400,000 loan by-law to be submitted in a referendum on July 18 was urged by mayor Howard at a special session of the city council last evening.

The aldermen, he said, had spent many long hours preparing the by-law, which has been somewhat delayed, owing to the heavy program of public works involved. To ease the problem for the future, it has been decided to present a two year program instead of one year, which accounted for the very large amount of the proposed loan.

Cartoon studies indicate

Canadian history repeats itself

By JOHN LeBLANC

TORONTO (CP) — After studying thousands of political cartoons dating back to Confederation, William C. Werthman has come to the conclusion that Canadian history tends to repeat itself.

Issues that occupy the drawing-board editorialists of today, such as the English-French relationship and federal-provincial problems, are found to have had the same attraction for the cartoonists of around a century ago. Skeletons in the government closet are a recurring theme, from the CPR scandal down to the Hal Banks and Rivard cases.

Mr. Werthman, a German-born illustrator who has done political cartooning and now is design director of the University Press of New Brunswick at Fredericton, has been digging into the subject on a $5,000 grant from the Canada Council. The firm is bringing out a book, "Canada in Cartoon," based on his research and timed for the 1967 Confederation centenary.

On a visit here to hunt through archives for little-known material, Mr. Werthman said that, while the themes of the cartoonists of present and past eras often resemble one another, the execution was considerably different than now.

OLDSTERS 'AMATEURISH' Technically, the early post-Confederation school was "rather amateurish in many ways," he finds. The cartoonists of that time also expressed their viewpoints more forcibly, in general, than those of today.

"A significant aspect of political cartoonists in Canada today is that only a few have that sharp needle that Europeans have throughout. I think it's the matter of the public taste showing a preference for seeing the funny side of politics and politicians. It doesn't seem to go too much for satire.

"Whether or not that's good, I don't know. Personally, I believe in satire, because in it you can express more with a few strokes of the pen than in lengthy editorials. But it carries the danger of straying into personalities rather than issues."

Mr. Werthman, who did some political cartooning for the St. John's, Nfld., Telegram before moving to Fredericton in 1963, is planning a book of about 230 pages divided into

At Hospital for Sick Children

Less than three pounds of life given round the clock attention

TORONTO (CP)—High in the north wing of the Hospital for Sick Children a baby no bigger than his father's hand lay mewling in an electronic basin, his lullaby the amplified beat of his own heart.

The boy's head was enclosed in a miniature oxygen tent, his body from the neck down in a heated, transparent chamber where pump-regulated air pressure performed an invisible form of artificial respiration.

A tube to a vein was his feeding bottle. A catheter in the navel permitted periodic checks on the chemical balance of his blood. Electrodes picked up the heartbeat and passed it to a mechanical sentry that amplified the pulse and recorded it visibly on a radar-like screen as a zig-zagging yellow blip.

Suddenly, the blip faltered and the machine began to buzz an alarm. A nurse filling out charts at a desk six feet away stepped to the baby's side, thrust a hand through an elastic-covered porthole and massaged the infant's tiny foot.

The blip returned to normal just as two doctors arrived in response to the alarm buzzer to make sure there was no serious relapse.

FALLS ASLEEP "He falls asleep and forgets to breathe every once in a while," said Dr. Paul Swyer, the man in charge of the big Toronto hospital's clinic for newborn babies. "We have to wake him up when he does that."

"We don't know why, exactly. It may be that in these premature infants the part of the brain that regulates the involuntary muscles in the lungs isn't fully developed.

"If we can keep him going for a while in this—its a Negative Pressure Ventilator and there are only nine of them in existence — he might be all right."

"Every 24 hours of survival in the 800-bed hospital—but for these babies is a big achievement, improved techniques and new treatment tools hold out new hopes.

Dr. Swyer is about to embark on a new line of research—one of many under way in his unit—in an effort to discover how oxygen and carbon dioxide are transferred between blood and air throughout the lungs of diseased and healthy infants.

Developing techniques include intensive care — a constant electronic and human watch on ailing babies—and Dr. Swyer foresees the use of specially-equipped ambulances to collect babies swiftly and more safely from general hospital wards to maternity wards.

ONE OF HUNDREDS

The baby boy Dr. Swyer was discussing was one of about 1,500 cases treated annually in the seventh-floor neonatal unit of Sick Kids, which includes an intensive-care "rescue ward" with round-the-clock individual nursing for dangerously ill cases.

Dr. Swyer said it was miraculous that the boy in the Negative Pressure Ventilator was alive, although in many respects his case was typical.

He had been rushed after birth with his twin sister the five miles from Toronto East General Hospital to Sick Kids by ambulance.

The girl twin died, reversing an unexplained pattern in which twice as many boys as girls die of RDS.

The boy, a fragile two pounds 15 ounces, was holding on until the sixth day, when he suddenly appeared to be succumbing. "We had quite a drama here," Dr. Swyer recalled the next day. "He was hemorrhaging from the nose and mouth and we had to resuscitate him twice."

HAZARDS HIGH

The hazards are high in the newborn clinic—it accounts for almost half the mortality rate.

"Every 24 hours of survival in the 800-bed hospital—but for these babies is a big achievement, improved techniques

ECM and nuclear energy

Canada best source of uranium

BRUSSELS (CP)—The European Atomic Energy Community (Euratom) in a new report singles out Canada as potentially the best long-term source of natural uranium for the Common Market's growing nuclear energy requirements.

Euratom, set up in 1957 to coordinate and develop nuclear research and industry for peaceful purposes in France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg, estimates the six countries will need some 275,000 tons of natural uranium between now and the year 2000. By that date it foresees a $60,000,000,000 (U.S.) investment in nuclear power plants to generate two-thirds of the Community's electricity.

Since the six countries possess only meagre uranium resources, Euratom's executive committee and supply agency have begun scouting around for other sources of supply. A number of studies have been launched and contacts made with "third countries," notably Canada, South Africa and the United States. "From these contacts," says Euratom's eighth general report, "it appears that Canada has most to offer the Community in way of long-term supply, by reason of the important resources already brought to light in this country and of the possibilities it offers for prospecting."

MAY INVEST

Euratom shares the view of the French government that it is in their best interests, if possible, to own or have a degree of control in the mines producing uranium, and in an earlier report it suggested that Europe could take advantage of the present slump in the uranium market by acquiring interests in mines dormant in Canada. Also, it is examining the possibility of prospecting in Argentina and in African countries associated with the Common Market.

Although Euratom's report does not comment specifically on the bilateral negotiations between Canada and France for a long-term uranium contract, it notes that France is conducting a "systematic and continuous effort" to exploit her own national resources and to acquire her own supplies from Canada, the African continent and Madagascar.

On the research side, Euratom says that co-operation with Canada, particularly in the heavy water moderated reactor research program at Ispra in Italy, has speeded progress. This type of reactor, using natural uranium, is considered to hold considerable promise both technically and economically for Europe.

The report also notes with interest Canada's work on the CANDU (Canadian Deuterium Uranium) project and the NPD2 (Nuclear Power Development) reactor.

Canada has a 10-year general agreement with Euratom, which embraced a five-year technical agreement between Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. and Euratom that expired last October. Co-operation has continued, though, and conversations for renewal of the technical accord are in progress.

Officials here anticipate the agreement will be renewed for a further five years, once several technical questions have been settled. The Canadian role in irradiation research is expected to be stepped up.

In Roman Catholic Italy

Bare movies becoming problem

ROME (Reuters) — Nudity in movies is becoming a problem in Roman Catholic Italy.

While a movie set openly in a nudist camp would be banned, directors are achieving more provocative effects with various striptease and undressed scenes which leave little to the imagination.

A survey by the illustrated weekly magazine L'Espresso indicates even top-name Italian film actresses do not mind undressing in front of the cameras.

For the last two years, there has been a flood of Italian films on the theme of sex.

The standard pattern is the movie composed of three or four episodes, often with different directors and each portraying some kind of extra-marital relationship. The opportunities for undress are numerous.

The prevalence of nudity and near nudity has brought a sharp reaction from the church. The Bench of Italian Bishops, in a formal statement, has called on the government to take action against the "pro-nude women."

Prof. Raimondo Manzini, editor of the Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, appealed to the public to boycott movies showing examples of the current wave of immoral films.

The L'Espresso survey produced these replies from actresses, among others:
Gina Lollobrigida: "I refuse to sit in the dock, under the accusation of immorality or worse. When an actress undresses she is not necessarily contributing to pornography, otherwise the history of the cinema would have to be condemned virtually as a whole."

Sophia Loren said the movies now circulating "are just short stories with a dose of pepper, which cause only professional moralists to sneeze."

But French actress Michelle Mercier disagreed: "To make actresses undress is the easiest way for producers to make money, but it is not called on the public only wants to see action against the 'pro-nude women.'"

Once in power

Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu now lives in seclusion in Italian villa

ROME (AP) — Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu, once the dominant woman of South Viet Nam, lives in seclusion in an unpretentious Italian villa.

Two years ago she toured the United States talking to as many audiences as she could gather for as long as they would listen. Now she sees no one.

The few Italians who have met her say she believes she will return to Saigon one day, the policies of her husband and brother-in-law vindicated.

Mme. Nhu was in the United States during the coup that brought violent death to her husband, Ngo Dinh Nhu, the head of South Viet Nam's secret police, and to her brother-in-law, President Ngo Dinh Diem.

It was her contention then that whatever faults the government had, though she would admit to precious few, it was better than any alternative before the Vietnamese people.

She left the United States and moved to Paris. Her self-imposed exile there was not so strict, and occasionally she visited Rome. Later, she moved to the relatively modest villa southwest of Rome, not far from the seaside resort of Ostia. At one time it was a Maltese community is a pastoral area of green farms 15 miles from the sea.

Guest can help assure a warm welcome

More of us will be staying with friends or relatives some time during the summer months than at any other time of the year. So it is a good time to point out the few important points that make a person a good house guest—one who is a pleasure to have around.

ONE—First of all, it is important that those to whose home you are invited know EXACTLY — not vaguely — when you plan to arrive and when you plan to leave.

TWO—It is important for you to arrive in a happy, enthusiastic frame of mind. Your hosts will not want to be burdened by hearing in detail every unpleasant thing that has happened since you left home.

THREE—Given a choice of whether you would rather do this or do that, make a decision. You may think it sounds more agreeable to say, "Whatever you want to do is fine." But remember that your hosts want to please you, rather than themselves. If given no choice, go along good-naturedly with whatever has been planned for your entertainment.

Today's recipe FRESH STRAWBERRY FRAPPE

This rather rich beverage makes a delicious refreshment with crisp cookies or could serve as both dessert and beverage for lunch or supper.

1 quart fresh strawberries
1 cup ice water
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup instant non-fat dry milk
¼ cup sugar
1 pint vanilla ice cream, softened

4 cups crushed ice

Beat strawberries in electric blender, or force through food mill. Strain. Or mash thoroughly and press through coarse sieve.

Combine water, lemon juice and strawberry puree. Stir in instant milk. Add sugar and ice cream, then beat until frothy or buzz in electric blender. Mix in ice. Serve in chilled glasses —makes 6 servings.

STRAWBERRY FROST

Made with skim milk, this dessert is reasonable about calories—and very fresh in flavor.

3 cups sliced fresh strawberries
¼ cup sugar
½ cup frozen lemonade concentrate (half of a 6-oz. can)
1½ cups skim milk
1 egg white

Whole berries for garnish

Freshmint sprigs

Combine berries with all except 2 tablespoons of the sugar. Let stand until sugar has dissolved. Add lemonade.

CRANBERRY HONEYDEW

(Makes about 4 servings)

1 medium-sized honeydew melon

1 can (1 pound) jellied cranberry sauce
¼ cup lime or lemon juice

Cut melon in half crosswise. Scoop out melon balls. Reserve shells. Cut a design on the edge of melon shells, if desired. Cut cranberry sauce into ½-inch cubes. Arrange melon balls and cranberry cubes in melon shells and sprinkle with lime or lemon juice.

Dorion report may delay parliamentary recess

OTTAWA (CP)—If it weren't for the Dorion report, Parliament would almost certainly recess by Wednesday, on the eve of the Dominion Day holiday.

This may be accomplished anyway, depending on whether the long-awaited report is tabled immediately and what type of oratorical action it provokes. The report by Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of the Quebec Superior Court, into charges of bribery and influence-peddling by ministerial aides, is expected to be handed to the government today or Tuesday.

Members will have an opportunity to debate the report during the interim supply motion, when any subject can be discussed as the government seeks the necessary funds to carry out its spending program during the summer months. While members are hopeful that a recess may be reached by Wednesday, no one is making predictions until the report is seen.

Liberal House Leader George Meilaith said Friday he hoped the House could recess Tuesday night.

HAS OTHER WORK

Apart from the unpredictable supply debate, the Commons must also deal with several other pieces of legislation that were left over from a productive five days last week. These include third-reading of income tax amendments with the controversial clauses on publication. This involves a vote on a New Democratic Party amendment, asking that Time and Reader's Digest be excluded from the category of Canadian publications.

Two bills dealing with veterans' legislation, introduced Friday, must also go through three stages and an amendment to the Judges Act remains to be cleaned up, along with the resolutions dealing with aid to industries in designated areas and assistance to workers moving to new areas of employment. Apart from the publications legislation, none is expected to prompt a prolonged debate. By Tuesday, members expect the House to be heading into the Dorion report, and regardless of what it contains, no one expects the Commons to ease into recess without a smattering of fireworks.

U. S. STAGES

U.S. air support killed seven Viet Cong provincial and local officials in a helicopter-borne raid on the Mekong delta village of Tan Hiep, 35 miles south of Saigon. U.S. informants called it the biggest single bag of Viet Cong officials in the war.

They said 24 other Viet Cong were slain and 29 were taken prisoner. A Viet Cong hospital also was reported destroyed. In the air war Sunday, 68 U.S. planes struck at ammunition dumps, bridges, highways and military compounds within North Viet Nam.

Deputy chairman Huynh Tan Phat of the Viet Cong central committee was quoted in the current issue of Life magazine as saying the Communists "intend to step up terrorism and to continue it until every single American is out of the country."

No American in Saigon is safe. That also was reported as saying that the Viet Cong "is through with hit and run. Now we will attack in force to wipe out whole enemy units. These attacks will work well in the monsoon."

He was interviewed by Akihiko Okamura, a Japanese photographer who was held prisoner for 53 days by the Viet Cong.

He was sent into Communist territory by Life. Okamura said that accurately predicted last Friday's terrorist bombing of a Saigon restaurant in which 42 died.

REJECT PEACE BID

On the political front, the Viet Cong joined Peking and Hanoi in rejecting the British Commonwealth peace mission, saying it was "rigged up by British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and is aimed at peddling the 'peaceful negotiation' swindle of U.S. President Johnson."

The mission, which now can visit only Saigon and Washington, issued a communique saying it planned other moves to initiate peace talks. The mission is composed of Wilson, President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, Prime Minister Eric Williams of Trinidad and Tobago and Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, prime minister of Nigeria.

In other weekend developments revolving around the Viet Nam war:

Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said if a vote were taken in the United Nations now it would conclude that U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam "was a mistake."

Speaking on NBC's radio and television program Meet the Press, Stevenson said, however, that he didn't believe the UN members would condemn the United States for its Viet Nam actions.

The ambassador also said the United States would not object to Communist Viet Cong representatives at any Viet Nam peace talks.

The bombings of the Communist North were halted from May 12 to 18 after Shastri had proposed such action as a way to encourage negotiations.

"These Communist threats to intimidate our course will not succeed," the state department said in a statement.

QUEEN MOTHER

about $150—to owner Paul Olivier.

Much of her visit was devoted to the killed Scottish, whose colonel-in-chief she has been since 1937 and to whom she presented their old colors in 1939 when she visited here with King George VI.

Thursday night, at a regimental dinner, she told the guests she had been in love with Canada since the young royal couple of 1939 took Canadian hearts by storm.

She presented colors to the Toronto Scottish at an outdoor ceremony Friday night, and Sunday afternoon attended a service at Knox Presbyterian Church—the regimental church—at which the old standards were placed solemnly in the custody of the church.

Apart from the service she had two get-togethers with members of her regiment. She lunched with the officers at their armories and met the officers' wives, and later in the day inspected the unit at a march-past with Toronto-born Lord Thomson of Fleet, its honorary colonel.

CHATS WITH KILTIES

Informality hit a new high after the Queen Mother took the salute as the regiment broke ranks and civilians scurried around among the troops while she walked among them. Eventually, the soldiers formed a ring and she circled about inside it, chatting with many of the kilties.

During Sunday, too, she paid an unscheduled call at city hall, a new $28,000,000 structure of unorthodox twin-tower design that has been generating firm opinions pro and con since it was conceived several years ago.

The Queen Mother apparently did not take one side or the other. Mayor Philip Givens later said she pronounced it "breathtaking" but added it must have produced controversy. The mayor told her it certainly had.

However, the Queen Mother described as a "magnificent idea" the use of a broad promenade at the foot of the twin towers for outdoor art exhibitions, a couple of which were on when she dropped in.

SUN KEEPS SHINING

All through the trip, the sun shone brightly and gave the Queen Mother a free hand with bright finery. Sunday she turned up in canary yellow organza for church, and at plane time she wore an outfit of printed silk in shades of jade, pale emerald, turquoise blue and lemon, topped with a white and yellow toque.

She stuck closely to this city through most of the trip, taking only one 60-mile jaunt to Port Hope to have lunch with the retired Mr. Massey, who became a close friend during his wartime stay in London as Canadian high commissioner.

On that trip, too, she dropped in on the National Stud Farm at Oshawa operated by her host for the trip, millionaire sportsman E. P. Taylor. She inspected some of the country's top horseflesh including Northern Dancer, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness last year.

The Big Ale goes into more Embassies than any other ale.

You can't fool those ambassadors.

It's no diplomatic secret that, standing around at all those receptions, ambassadors get thirsty. (Somehow, champagne doesn't do much for a thirst.)

What they need is the Big Ale. And when they get home lots of them get it.

Our investigations suggest that more ambassadors enjoy Molson Export Ale than any other brand. As do more admirals, accountants and architects. People. People like you. (Molson Export became the Big Ale—outselling all others—because it appeals to just about everyone.)

Why is it the favourite? Next time you meet an ambassador, ask him.

News flashes from around the world

VALLEYFIELD, Que. (CP)—Paul Gerin-Lajoie, Quebec's education minister, said Saturday "a great quiet revolution" is under way in the Roman Catholic Church and involves a real revision of a very old constitution.

"The bringing up to date of the church, to employ the term used by the late Pope John XXIII, is happening at the same time as Quebec's rapid achievement of a new degree of maturity," said Mr. Gerin-Lajoie.

He made the remarks to an audience that was celebrating the 25th anniversary of the entry into the Catholic priesthood of Msgr. Hozael Aganier, Vicar-general of the diocese of Valleyfield, 20 miles southwest of Montreal.

WASHINGTON (AP)—J. Edward Day, former U.S. postmaster-general, says in his new book that Robert F. Kennedy, as attorney-general, was the man who pulled the post office patronage strings in the Kennedy administration.

Day's new book, My Appointment Round, says the post office has been the centre of patronage during many administrations. The book is scheduled for official publication July 8.

"Even today," Day says, "every vacancy that occurs among the 35,000 postmaster and 33,000 rural letter carriers is filled by political appointment. That is, on recommendation of the local member of the House of Representatives, if he is of the party that controls the White House, or if he is not, on the recommendation of local officials of the party in the White House. Promotions, too, until I became postmaster-general, depended heavily on political influence."

STE. ADELE, Que. (CP)

The president of the Canadian Construction Association said today changes in the federal Bankruptcy Act are needed to "inhibit fraudulent bankruptcies and the present relative ease with which bankrupts can re-enter business." Neville R. Williams of Winnipeg told the CCA's annual summer meeting that bankruptcies in the construction industry have risen to record levels and it is apparent "that a good many of these were premeditated."

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—Federal Justice Minister Favreau and Postmaster-General Rene Tremblay are touring this area, 100 miles north of Quebec City, promoting the establishment of federal Liberal associations as they go.

The weekend visit already has seen the establishment of the federal groups in three nearby communities. The tour concludes Sunday.

Mr. Favreau told a group of farmers here he will work to see that there are no possible distinctions of an unjust kind made by federal authorities between farmers in the west of Canada and those in the east.

QUEBEC (CP)—One-quarter of $4,108,000,000 of all retail sales in Canada in 1964 took place in the province of Quebec, Rene St. Pierre, provincial minister of public works, said Saturday night.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

BRIDGE FOLLY TO BE EXPERT

Contrary to popular belief the expert does not always get the most out of the cards. In fact there are many occasions when an expert will go out of his way to insure his contract and wind up with fewer tricks than the player who has not heard about safety plays.

The game was rubber bridge and when South looked over the dummy he saw that he could be set if East could gain the lead with a trump and play through the king of diamonds. South proceeded to guard against this by cashing dummy's king of spades at trick two and then taking a spade finesse at trick three.

West gathered in the trick with his queen and eventually made a second trick with his ace of diamonds.

The ordinary bridge player has learned to try to drop a queen when he holds nine cards in a suit and if this were done he would make 12 tricks in

How would expert South have played the hand in a duplicate game?

We don't know for sure. The only thing we do know is that he would have really studied the hand and decided whether or not to take the best percentage play for 12 tricks or to play safe for his contract. Overtricks are most important in duplicate. They mean little in rubber bridge.

Als cop weekend tilts 6-4, 12-9 and 18-10

Sherbrooke Alouettes had a busy weekend in the Provincial Baseball League. But the work was enjoyable, for they posted three consecutive victories to leave them in fourth position in the standings, 3½ games away from the top.

The Als began their trek Saturday night over Coaticook Canadians, 6-4, under the excellent hurling of newly-acquired pitcher George Birth, and then scored two upsets Sunday. Plessisville went down 12-9 in the afternoon, allowing the Alouettes to return home and smother Acton Vale Beavers 18-10, on 23 hits.

No home games are scheduled for the week in the local ball park, due to the Summer Festival activities, but the home club will travel to Thetford on Tuesday, and then to Lachine on Friday night.

In other Provincial League action over the weekend, Acton Vale beat Drummondville 7-5 Sunday and Granby Cardinals 26-11 Saturday while Coaticook dumped Lachine 15-8. Granby also took one over Lachine 6-1, with Drummondville edging Thetford 5-4. Plessisville topped Quebec 10-7.

PRATTE: PLAYER, COACH AND STAR

It is not known whether Andy Pratte, playing-coach for the Als, likes the sound of a home run or just the sight of it soaring over the fence, but whatever the cause, Pratte managed to pull off three such explosions in two games. Andy completed his weekend in Plessisville with two in the same game.

Saturday's encounter with Coaticook saw the Als come through with a first inning spurge. Lillas Poole was called out on an infield fly, after Lamboley and Robichaud singled. Pratte vehemently questioned the umpire's judgment on the fly, which, incidentally was missed by three Canadians twenty feet behind first base. After a lengthy debate, Pratte gave up and went to bat. In spite of the "raw deal," the heavy hitter smacked his first of three over the right field fence on the first peg.

Two of the other three runs came in by Hurtubise, being sent home on two sacrifices by Lamboley. Kimo singled in the second, and gained second on an error by Monette, while in the eighth, he doubled and crashed home as Lamboley sacrificed to first.

BIRTH HURLS AND WINS

George Birth, from Rocky Mount, North Carolina, hurled his first full, nine-inning tilt, and picked up the win over Coaticook. Birth started his baseball career in Little League, and played four years of high school ball. The 19-year-old hurler tasted semi-pro experience in New York last year. Although this is his first Canadian ball, his father has been known in the old Provincial League, playing for St. Johns.

Tops for Sherbrooke in Saturday's game were Hurtubise, with two hits, one a double, Pratte, with his homer, and Birth with two bingles. Coaticook had Monette with a homer and single, and Roys, banging out a double.

Acton Vale suffered the loss of Prud'Homme, (7) and Poole.

Reds pound Braves 10-9 and 10-2 to chase NL lead by one game

Continuing to prove that 1965 will be no exception in his flip-flop pattern, Vada Pinson combined with roommate Frank Robinson for nine hits and eight runs batted in as Cincinnati Reds pounded Milwaukee Braves 10-9 and 10-2 Sunday and moved to within one game of the National League lead.

Pinson sealed the sweep with a grand slam homer in the nightcap and wound up the day with four hits, four runs scored and four runs batted in. Robinson, who won the opener with a tie-breaking homer in the ninth, collected five hits while also scoring four and driving in four.

Pinson's 4-for-8 performance lifted his average to .311 while re-emphasizing the off-and-on pattern he has established during his seven-year major league career.

Starting with 1959, his first full year, Pinson has hit over .300 every odd-numbered year and under that level in the even-numbered seasons with averages of .316, .287, .343, .292, .313 and last year's lowest of all, .266.

Top-seeded Aussies against Americans

LONDON (CP)—Top-seeded Roy Emerson, the defending champion, and second-seeded Fred Stolle represented Australia's tennis power as the men's singles competition entered the quarter-finals today in the All-England championships at Wimbledon.

However, tough American competition still lies ahead of them, provided they get past today's matches.

Three U.S. players, only one of them seeded, have reached the final eight, and at least one of them will be in the semi-finals. It's the strongest American showing in years.

The U.S. trip, all university students, are Dennis Ralston, seeded fourth, and unseeded Marty Riessen and Allen Fox. Ralston and Riessen will meet head-on today, and Fox faces unseeded Cliff Drysdale of South Africa.

Emerson meets Keith Diepraam, Drysdale's partner on the South African Davis Cup team. Stolle plays Rafael Osuna, the Mexican stroke artist who won the 1963 U.S. championship and is in the Wimbledon quarter-finals for the third time in four years.

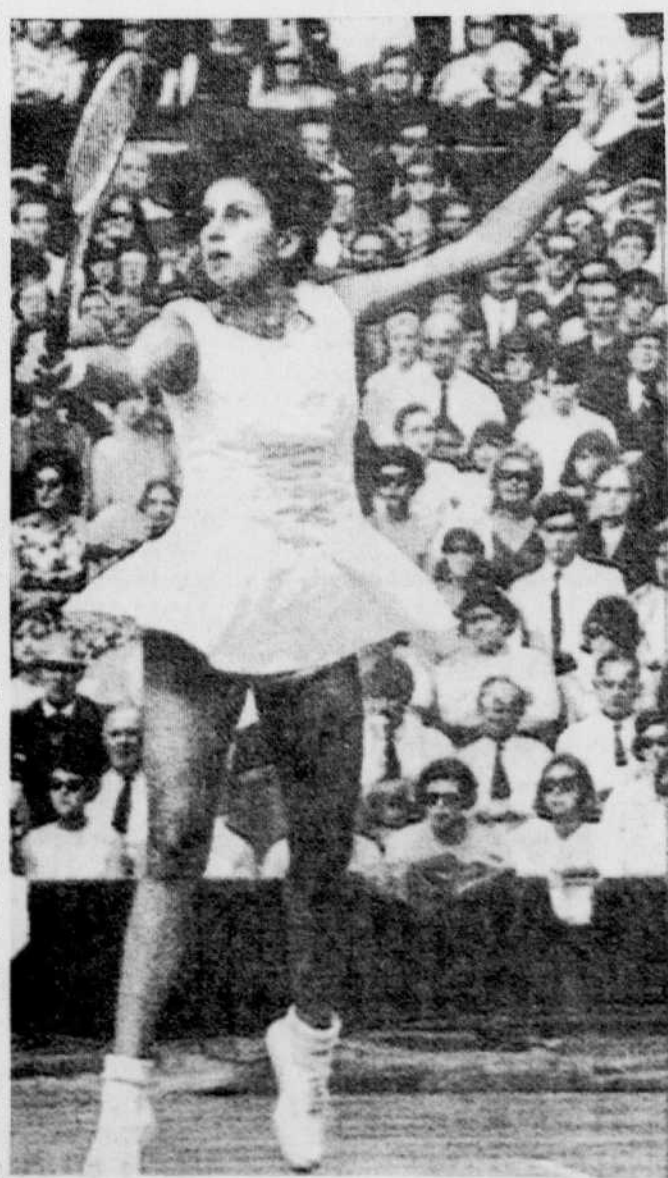

The women's singles should also have reached the final eight by now, but the rain that gave Wimbledon one of its wettest starts on record has postponed so many matches that only top-seeded Maria Bueno of Brazil has reached the quarter-finals so far.

The re-emergence of U.S. men as a Wimbledon force has shared the spotlight with what observers see as a levelling-out of standards among the top men.

The centre four on the seeding list have already been ripped out, and even Emerson, who had to go to four tough sets to beat fellow-Australian Ken Fletcher Saturday, does not seem invulnerable.

Emerson, Stolle and Ralston stand out as the three who look most like champions, however, while in women's singles everything points to another final clash between Miss Bueno, the 1964 winner, and Margaret Smith of Australia, the 1963 winner and runner-up last year.

ONE CANADIAN LEFT
The only Canadian still in competition, Vicki Berner of Vancouver, teams with Mary Habicht of the United States today to play Phyllis Brand and Dorothy Whiteley, both of Australia, in the second round of women's doubles. The Berner-Habicht tandem beat Katy Bartholomew and Christine Sandberg of Sweden 6-3, 6-4 in the first round Saturday.

REALLY UP FOR HER GAME — Maria Bueno, of Brazil, reigning women's champion, makes a leaping backhand return to Mrs. Ann Jones, of Britain, in their fourth round singles match of Wimbledon Tennis Championships at Wimbledon, England, Saturday. Miss Bueno won 6-4, and 7-5. (AP Wirephoto via cable from London)

Exacta pays $393.40, drivers suspended

NOSE PAYS OFF — It was a case of a long nose what counted last evening in the eighth race on the card. Four horses are caught at the wire but Bengali's nose gave him the edge over Amedee Beaudoin's Rhythm Mac. John

Davies teamed his chestnut mare down the stretch to overtake the leaders and pick up first money. Duchess Day C (8) and Shadydale Peach (4) are the other horses. (Record photo by M. Elliott)

An Exacta of $393.40 and suspensions featured the weekend racing card presented by the Sherbrooke Racing Club. On Saturday evening Julien Peron's Doc Red and Laurent Gendron's Clinton Tass formed the big payoff in the tenth race. Six drivers were tagged with suspensions following their performances. On Saturday Laurent Bergeron drew five days for his performance with Chris Enlen while Florent St. Denis was warned for failing to report an infraction. In the Invitation Trot Jacques Hauver was tagged with five days for backing up the field. He drove Singing Duke to the half in 1:08. In the fourth race Lionel Martel drew five days with Guy Up for dangerous driving. In the ninth race Raymond Demers drew five days for his weaving during the race. Each time during the mile when another horse moved along side he would pull out causing interference. For this he was set down for five days. On Sunday evening it went good until the final race on the program. Fern Nadeau, teaming Grand Manner seemed more content to finish second than first. During the race he would let his good go and then pull him back to finish second. He was one of the favorites. The other favorite, Baby Brother, with Jacques Dagenais driving, finished a poor fifth. Following the race Dr. L. A. Gendreau examined the horse and declared that he shouldn't have raced. Dagenais was given five days for failing to report his horse sick. He was the top favorite in the class and the fans were disappointed with his showing but under the circumstances the judges were lenient. Saturday evening the double of Lex Day, in the first, and Martyn G. Herbert paid the sum of $76.80 while in the fourth the quinella of Mathil-

Bing Crosby croons a few bars as he helped lead Meadow Court into winner's circle in Irish Derby

DUBLIN (CP) — Meadow Court, owned by three millionaires from North America, was being hailed today as British three-year-old of the year after winning the Irish Derby here Saturday.

And Calgary publisher Max Bell, Vancouver oil executive Frank McMahon and American singer Bing Crosby were in happy mood because their choice in horseflesh had come through nobly for them.

Meadow Court, the 11-to-10 betting favorite, won $165,900 first-prize money by covering the rain-soggy 1 1/4-mile course in two minutes, 46 4/5 seconds, beating runner-up Convamore by two lengths. Wedding Present was third in the field of 21 three-year-olds.

British racing writers today praised Meadow Court, which earlier had placed second to France's Sea Bird II in the Derby at Epsom.

Tim Fitzgeorge - Parkers, in the London Daily Mail, put it this way: "Meadow Court must be hailed as British horse of the year and the likely winner if he clashes with Reliance II in the St. Leger at Doncaster on Sept. 8."

Reliance won the Grand Prix de Paris Sunday. Paddy Prendergast, Irish trainer of Meadow Court, said the colt's next race will be King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes at Ascot in mid-July. A decision about the St. Leger will be made after the Ascot race.

Bell, the man who originally spotted Meadow Court as a likely champion, said the colt will be entered in the Washington, D.C., International, scheduled for Nov. 11 at Laurel, Md. Bell became owner when Meadow Court was a yearling. I trainer Prendergast paying out 3,600 guineas ($9,450) of Bell's money.

Saturday morning it was made known for the first time that Bell is not sole owner. A three-way partnership of Bell, McMahon and Crosby was registered with the Irish Turf Club.

The press and public jumped at once to the conclusion that the broadening of the ownership to include these two old friends of Bell's had taken place just before the race, but later remarks by Crosby seemed to indicate otherwise.

Bing appeared on a British television program Sunday night and interrupted anchor man Eamonn Andrews when the latter was telling the audience that the singer had bought his interest Friday evening.

"No," said Bing. "I had the ownership since he was a two-year-old."

"Really?" said Andrews. "I thought it only happened Friday."

"No," said Bing. "That was an error."

OWNERS ELATED
Bell, McMahon and Crosby all expressed elation about the fine showing of Meadow Court in the Irish Derby, on which the second Irish hospital sweepstakes of 1965 was based.

Bell, in an interview after the race, told about the sharing of ownership which had caught the racing world by surprise. "Frank McMahon is a business associate of mine and Bing Crosby is a friend I've always wanted to bring back into racing as an owner," Bell said. "When Bing sold his American string some years ago, I promised him that if every I had a horse likely to do well, I would let him in on a share."

Whistling Sea gallops off with Queen's Plate at Woodbine

First Western Canada-bred winner in history of Plate, takes early lead and sets pace for whole race

TORONTO (CP) — A three-year-old bay colt galloped out of the West and into the Queen's Plate winner's circle Saturday. But without the faith of two people he wouldn't have made it to the starting gate.

Whistling Sea became the first Western Canada-bred winner in the Plate's 106-year history as he pulled away from the other 11 starters and showed them his heels all the way to the finish line.

Second was Flyalong from the stable of Tom Hayes of Oakville and Doug Weldon of London, Ont., 1 3/4 lengths behind. Blue Mel, owned by Phil Boylen of Toronto, was third, four lengths behind Whistling Sea. Native Victor, the 7-to-5 favorite from the Windfields Farm of Toronto industrialist-sportsman E. P. Taylor, was fourth another three-quarters of a length back.

The faith in Whistling Sea came from owner Paul Olivier, a 35-year-old Calgary oil-drilling supplier, and jockey Tak Inouye, a 26-year-old Japanese Canadian from Vernon, B.C. in the face of some tall obstacles.

PARENTS WEREN'T MUCH

To begin with, Calgary-bred Whistling Sea had something less than impressive parents. His sire, Alibastre, couldn't win in 27 starts and his dam B. Fast, did nothing even though she was sired by 1938 Plate winner Bunty Lawless.

Then there was a leg ailment last year that forced Whistling Sea home for treatment.

And Whistling Sea was a sprinter as far as trainer Roy Johnson of Calgary was concerned. Johnson didn't feel the horse had enough strength to run the 1 1/4-mile Plate distance and with ample reason. Before the Plate Trials a week ago, Whistling Sea had run a mile only once and finished a bad fifth.

"Whistling Sea wouldn't have a chance of winning the Plate," Johnson said after the horse won the six-furlong Woodstock Stakes June 12. "I'd look like a fool if I ran him."

Olivier overruled Johnson and sent Whistling Sea to the Plate Trials. The horse led from wire to wire in winning his 1 1/16-mile race. But the skeptics still doubted that Whistling Sea could go the additional three-sixteenths of a mile in the Plate.

IS UNDERDOG

When Whistling Sea went to the post Saturday an underdog, led from start to finish for the second time in six days, he rewarded his backers, including Olivier, with a return of $16.40, $5.90 and $4.60. Flyalong paid $3.70 and $3 while Blue Mel returned $7.

Inouye stepped into the stirrups only after German-born Calgarian Hugo Dittfach bypassed the horse for Blue Mel. Dittfach collected about $800 for his ride on Blue Mel and Inouye cashed in for about $5,000.

"It's faith, my tieup with Whistling Sea," Inouye said after the race. "I worked another horse for Johnson a few weeks ago. Then, when the mount on the Whistling was open for the Woodstock Stakes, Roy told my agent to give me the ride."

Whistling Sea had to survive a foul claim by jockey Ron Turcotte of Grand Falls, N.B., who was aboard eighth-place Des Erables owned by Mrs. Simone Thomas of Montreal.

Almost as soon as the results were flashed on the tote board the inquiry sign went up. So did a groan from the crowd of 31,752 which included the Queen Mother, on hand to present the Plate trophy and the traditional 500 guineas on behalf of the Queen.

CLAIMS INTERFERENCE

Turcotte claimed interference by Whistling Sea at the start, but the stewards ruled the contact wasn't enough to affect the race.

"Sorry to take a little edge off your win," Turcotte told Inouye afterwards, "but I had to holler when you bumped me out of the gate."

"It's okay," Inouye replied. "You had to do it, but the bumping wasn't my fault. My horse was pushed into Des Erables by the horse beside me. I think it was Butter-scotch."

Western-bred horses weren't eligible for the Plate until 1943 and took nearly a quarter of a century to cash in. Whistling Sea's win gave Olivier a $47,687.75 jackpot in addition to a trophy and the guineas.

Whistling Sea, who broke Taylor's Plate victory streak at three, was 2 1/2 lengths ahead at the half mile, eased a bit in the stretch when Flyalong made a mild challenge, and turned it on again.

Red Sox rally falls short and Indians post 6-4 win, Yanks run away with 21-6 count, games tonight

Trailing by six runs going into the sixth inning, Red Sox in their Little League game with Indians, almost pulled the game out of the fire as they sent four runs across the plate. The rally fell short as the Indians winning by a 6-4 count.

In the other game played during the weekend, the Yankees, with a show of power, ran away from Senators chalking up a 21-6 win. Tonight, White Sox meet Tigers and Orioles tangle with the Twins, both games being played at the Parade Grounds.

Indians took a two-run lead against the Red Sox in the bottom of the opening inning. Two bases on balls and a single by Camille Pomerleau drove in the runs. Gregoire held the Sox hitless in the first and allowed them only a single hit from Robert Breen in the second. Indians went scoreless in the second. Yvon Blais putting the side down in order.

On hits from Jacques Carrier, Guy Gregoire, Pomerleau and Alain Tremblay, Indians added two more runs in the last of the third. Gregoire, in the third again, kept the Sox off the score sheet. Two hits from Richard Blais and Daniel Polander was all for the Sox in the top fourth while the Indians made it 5-0 in their half. A base on balls and a double by Gregoire added the run.

It was nothing across for the Sox in the top of the fifth. Indians closed out their scoring in the bottom of the fifth with Michael Plourde hitting a home run. In the top of the sixth Red Sox made their big bid and it almost paid off as they eventually got to Gregoire for five hits that produced four runs, one a homer, with two aboard by Yvon Blais. They had two men on when Gregoire snared a liner by Nichol to stop the rally and give the Indians the win. This was one of the better games in the league and the big men were Luc Gregoire and Yvon Blais, respective pitchers.

Yankees, in their win over Senators, can thank the Senator hurlers as they were issued no less than 12 bases on balls by the four pitchers used. They started off their win by getting one run in the second, ten in the third and five in each of the fourth and fifth.

Twins' puppets holding upper hand, win two

Minnesota Twins have developed the best puppet act since the days of the circus. The head of the act is manager Sam Mele. And his puppets are keeping Minnesota ahead of the rest of the American League even though they are on stage only half the time.

Don Mincher and Joe Nosske took turns coming up with winning performances Sunday as the Twins swept a doubleheader from Detroit Tigers 6-4 and 6-5 in 10 innings.

The double victory kept the Twins one-half game ahead of Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, who also won doubleheaders.

Mincher broke up the first game, snapping a 4-4 tie with a two-run homer in the eighth inning. Nosske ended the nightcap with his third hit of the game, a single that brought in Rich Rollins.

First-baseman Mincher and third-baseman Nosske are part of one of the most unusual platooning acts in the majors, with shortstop Zoilo Versalles the only infielder remaining stable.

DEPENDS ON PITCHER — When the opposition starts a right-handed pitcher, Mele plays Harmon Killebrew to third base and places the left-handed hitting Mincher at first base. If the opposition starts a left-handed pitcher, Mele plays Bernie Allen at second.

But when Minnesota faces a southpaw, Mele pulls Mincher off first in favor of Killebrew.

and picks the right-handed Nosske out of the dugout and puts him down at third. Rollins goes in at second.

In other AL games Sunday, the Indians defeated Kansas City Athletics 10-7 in 15 innings and the Indians bowed 4-2 to the White Sox. The Yankees dumped Baltimore Orioles 6-2 and 4-0, New York Yankees whipped Los Angeles Angels 7-2 and Boston Red Sox swept Washington Senators 4-1 and 5-4 in 11.

All three leaders came to grief Saturday as the Twins bowed to Detroit 5-2, Baltimore outlasted Chicago 2-0 in 14 innings and the Indians bowed 4-2 to Kansas City. In other Saturday games the Yankees pummeled the Angels 10-3 and Washington outslugged Boston 12-7.

Chick Hinton's fourth hit, a three-run homer off Jim Dickson, ended Cleveland's five-hour, 15-inning marathon against Kansas City Sunday.

ROCKY STARTED IT

The Indians broke a 7-7 deadlock in the nightcap with four runs in the seventh. Rocky Colavito started it with a single and scored the lead run on Max Mivis's sacrifice fly.

The White Sox took advantage of five errors, three by Baltimore shortstop Luis Aparicio, for five unearned runs in their doubleheader. They tied the first game 1-1 in the first inning on Aparicio's first miscue, and pitcher John Millers throwing error put them ahead to stay in the second.

The White Sox wrapped up the nightcap with three runs in the first inning. Skowron singled across two after runners reached base on errors by Aparicio and pitcher Steve Barber.

The Yankees' Whitey Ford, with relief help from Pedro Ramos in the eighth, posted his sixth straight victory. Elston Howard drove in two runs.

Carl Yastrzemski collected four hits, raising his average to .343, in Boston's double victory. He singled in a run in the opener in which the Red Sox also scored runs on wild pitches by Washington's Bennie Daniels and Marshall Bridges.

Bob Tillman's bases-loaded single snapped a 4-4 tie in the 11th inning of the second game.

With the aid of Miss McCredie's triple win in the track and field events, the Don Mills club won the team championship as they compiled an aggregate score of 134 points. Second spot when to the visiting Oxford-Cambridge squad, 10 points back, and British Columbia took third position with 89 points.

Three men wound up with double victories. Crothers, who won the 880 Saturday, topped the field in Friday's running of the 440, while Dave Steen of Burnaby, B.C., won first in the discus and shot put events.

Montreal's George Britten scored victories in the triple jump and broad-jump contests. In the women's division, Jenny Wingerson of Toronto won twice with victories in the 80-metre hurdles Friday and the broad jump Saturday.
