19 die in bus-train collision

SEEKS VICTIMS - A police constable examines a demolished chartered bus for victims of Friday night's train-bus collision in Dorion, Que. (CP Wirephoto)

DORION, Que. (CP) - At least 19 persons were killed and 21 injured Friday night in a collision between a bus carrying students to a party and a CNR freight train.

The bus was sliced in half by the 100-car train. Part of the crowded 45-seat vehicle landed in a ditch and the rest was dragged one-half mile by the train.

Authorities in Dorion, 15 miles west of Montreal, said the crash was the worst disaster in this general area since a March, 1965, explosion killed 28 persons in an apartment house at La Salle.

There were 11 bodies in a makeshift morgue in Dorion, a town of 5,000, and eight others at Lakeshore General Hospital in nearby Pointe Claire.

Many of the injured were in critical condition.

The CNR whose freight was headed west for Toronto from Montreal when the crash came at 8 p.m. EDT, said its own investigation has already begun.

A further investigation was to be made by the board of transport commissioners.

SOME SAW FLAMES

Some witnesses spoke of seeing flames as the train, travelling at between 30 and 40 miles, and the bus ripped into one another.

No one on the train was reported injured.

The derailed parts of the train and the shattered pieces of the bus were dragged away as crowds of up to 2,000 persons watched the floodlit proceedings.

George Shaar, who owns a shop near the scene, told of "kids (from the bus) shouting and screaming and crying."

The bus was driven by Jacques Fleury, 22, missing and believed killed.

The vehicle was carrying students from the Cite des Jeunes (City of Young People), a regional technical school complex. All had won recent student elections and were off to Hudson, Que., for a party in celebration.

BUS HAD STOPPED

Witnesses said the bus had stopped at the crossing, waiting for an east-bound train to pass.

Once that train had gone through, the bus moved on to the double track.

Then, heading west, came a second freight, and the shattering crash ensued.

The mangled bus caught fire after the crash. It was 30 minutes before the fire was extinguished.

Richard Boutin, 16, of Dorion, was one of the few passengers, if not the only one, not seriously injured.

FIREMAN SOUND WARNING

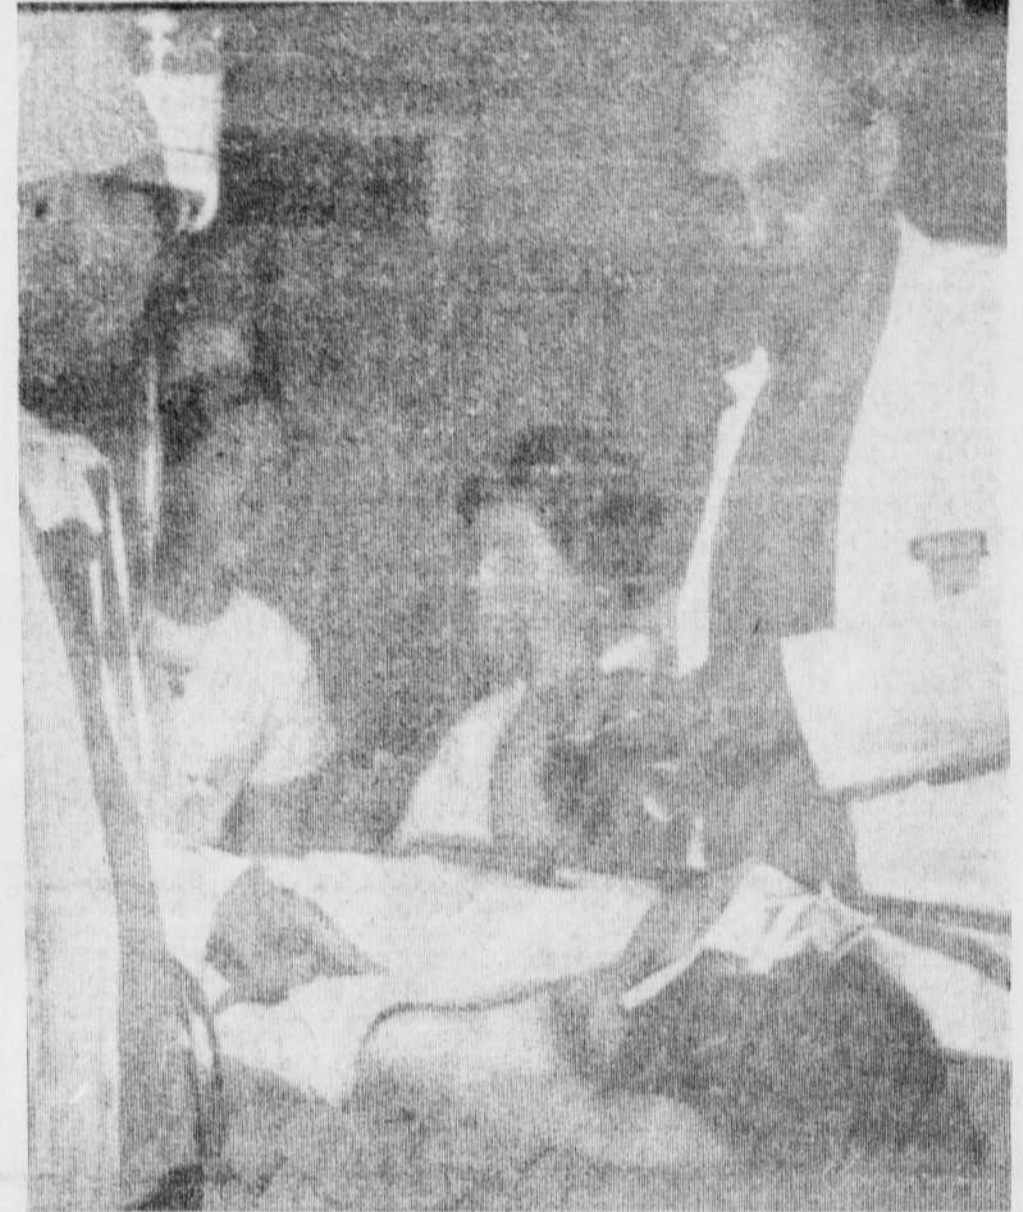

Paul Zowchuk, driver of the head diesel in the train, said: "As we approached the crossing, the fireman yelled, 'bus.'"

"I pulled the emergency cord until we came to a complete halt. The frame of the bus was on fire and it was wrapped around the front of the engine."

"I guess the impact caused sparks that hit the gas tank. I thought we were all going to burn like rats."

A passing Dorion police car sounded the first alarm.

Ambulances came roaring into Dorion from as far away as Montreal.

Dorion, Que. Friday night is being treated at the hospital for face injuries. A total of 19 persons, almost all of them teenagers, were killed in the collision. (CP Wirephoto)

Quimet quits

OTTAWA (CP) - The man who guided the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. through its greatest period of expansion and technical change is stepping down.

Joseph Alphonse Ouimet, 58, a tough battler for the publicly-owned corporation and the father of its television operations, has submitted his resignation as CBC president to Prime Minister Pearson.

It will be effective after passage of new broadcasting legislation, which Mr. Ouimet expects "early in the new year." In any case he will not remain past 1968. He has worked for the CBC 32 years.

Seek peace?

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - The foreign ministers of Britain and the Soviet Union, co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference responsible for peace in Viet Nam, meet today presumably to discuss reopening the conference.

Foreign Secretary George Brown of Britain and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko were to confer at the Soviet UN mission in New York, a British spokesman announced Friday night.

Strong attack

OTTAWA (CP) - Medical evidence at the 1959 murder trial of Steven Truscott came under strong attack Friday as the Supreme Court of Canada heard new evidence for the third day in a cabinet-ordered review of the case.

Dr. Charles Petty of Baltimore, assistant medical examiner for Maryland who has testified as a pathological expert at many U.S. murder trials, said he would place time of death of 12-year-old Lynne Harper several hours later than Crown witnesses did seven years ago.

Feed board

OTTAWA (CP) - The Commons gave approval in principle Friday to legislation setting up a livestock feed board to aid shipment of Prairie grains to Eastern Canada and British Columbia.

Clause-by-clause debate will resume Tuesday following the Thanksgiving holiday.

The feed board, backed by $10,000,000 in government funds, would administer a program started during the Second World War to subsidize the shipment of feed grains.

3 killed

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) - Searchers have recovered the bodies of three Montreal residents—two men and a woman—killed when their small plane crashed near the top of 4,400-foot Mount Mansfield.

State police Friday night identified the dead as David Schefler, 42, the pilot; Robert Rosen, 46, and Mary Pert, 30, who was public affairs director of radio station CJAD in Montreal.

Moral support

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - UN Secretary-General U Thant's Viet Nam peace campaign got moral support—if nothing else — from President Johnson's surprise visit to UN headquarters in New York Friday.

Delegates said the fact that Johnson requested the meeting with Thant reflected U.S. confidence in the secretary-general's persistent efforts through diplomatic channels to open the door for negotiations.

Bombers hit

SAIGON (AP) - Waves of U.S. B-52 bombers hammered North Vietnamese infiltration routes and bivouac areas in the embattled demilitarized zone today.

In their 14th raid since the bombers began hitting inside the buffer zone, the Stratoforters unloaded tons of explosives on the zone's western sector.

Seek refugees

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - An intensive search was under way today for 44 Cuban refugees crammed aboard a small boat which eluded Fidel Castro's border patrol only to be caught by hurricane Inez.

"One by one, they slipped away," said Enrique Gonzalez, apparently the only survivor. "I thought I could beat the hurricane, but we lost the race."

Viet Nam fights inflation war

By DOUGLAS AMARON

SAIGON (CP) - The fight against inflation in South Viet Nam is being waged as vigorously as the shooting war because, as one United States official said, if this country cannot win the economic war "there will be no country to save."

Devaluation of the piastre, a massive import program to prevent shortages, keep prices down and absorb piastres, improvement of facilities to unload the goods coming into the country, and tax reforms are part of the program to preserve economic stability.

From the spring of 1965

when the main United States forces began arriving here, prices rose by five to six per cent a month until by last June the retail index in Saigon had reached 173. This compared with a base rate of 100 set Jan. 1, 1965.

On June 18, after consultation with the World Monetary Fund, Viet Nam devalued the piastre to 118 for the United States dollar from the previous rate of 60. There was a sharp surge in prices for a few weeks then the index levelled off to a bit more than 200 and, apart from an election-week jump of 16 points, has stayed there since.

COUNTRY NOT POOR As Southeast Asian countries go, Viet Nam is not poor and the higher costs were borne mainly by middle-class urban dwellers who can best afford them and who accepted them as a sacrifice made for the war effort. Peasants in the provinces mainly have a non-monetary economy, living off the land and bartering with neighbors.

Australia getting heaviest flow of UK immigrants

By WILLIAM SCHOLES

SYDNEY, Australia - (TNS) - A heavier flow of British migrants to Australia, particularly skilled workers, has become apparent since the United Kingdom imposed its economic restrictions in July.

This year Australia has set itself a migration target of 148,000, and despite the counter-attractions of Canada, the United States, South Africa and New Zealand, it looks as though Australia's intake for 1966-67 will reach its target.

Latest figures for July and August show that 13,621 Britons asked for assisted passage to Australia - 650 more than in the same period last year.

COMPETITION To meet the competition from other countries particularly Canada - which has the advantage of a short air flight or sea passage from the U.K. or Europe - Australia is making a new bid to attract migrants by providing more grants towards passage costs.

The new grants will: - Encourage migrants who have left their homelands and have already moved to another country, to come to Australia. - Cut the amount of promissory notes, which some assisted migrants have had to sign before travelling with the aid of the Inter-Governmental Committee for European Migration. - Provide $50 a head towards the cost of "family re-union migrants" brought to Australia by voluntary agencies, but who are not eligible for assisted passages.

Provision for the new grants was made in the Budget. The decisions recognized toughening world conditions. They recognized that with full employment and better living standards in Europe, some governments and international organizations did not now feel the same obligation to make grants towards departing migrants' costs.

MOBILITY "The increased mobility of workers throughout Europe has made it unnecessary to return to their homelands before they can qualify for assisted passages," said the Minister for Immigration H. Opperman. A migrant living away from his homeland in Europe will now be able to bring his family to Australia for a basic cost of $25 each for himself and his wife.

If the fare exceeds $350 a head, the migrant will be required to meet the difference. To qualify migrants will have to be in "wanted" occupations as well as meet normal immigration standards.

Mr. Opperman said this plan would apply to some migrants from Europe previously eligible under the general assisted passage scheme, which provided a subsidy of $144 towards the cost of adult fares. This scheme would continue to apply to countries closer to Australia than Europe.

UN chief can be bothersome, but needs big power support in a plane crash in September, 1961.

By AARON R. EINFRAK

The big boys The fact of the matter is that although a secretary general can occasionally make things uncomfortable for a big power, the UN chief needs the support of all the big powers, especially the two super-powers, the U.S. and Russia. Without big power support he is ineffective because in a world of power politics, the UN itself does not have the wherewithal to heat off the obstructionist tactics of a big country.

Since U Thant took over from Hammarskjold on Nov. 3, 1961, it has been obvious that the Burmese diplomat has been conscious of the limitations of his position. Although Thant occasionally goaded the big boys, he held off from really antagonizing them in the hope that they would back his policies.

Generally speaking, Thant's cautious policy paid off until the war in Vietnam began to escalate. Then, for the first time in the history of the world organization, the United States began to receive intense criticism from the secretary general's office.

Thant takes a very dim view of President Johnson's tough Vietnam policy. As the Americans intensified their bombings of North Vietnam while increasing their troop strength in the South, relations between Thant and Washington deteriorated.

After nearly 18 months of alternately sniping at the Americans and trying to cajole them into a softer line, Thant on Sept. 1 lowered the boom on the Johnson administration by announcing his decision not to continue at UN boss.

overall with two hearts and after South bids two spades North can simply raise to three spades to see what will happen. South will cue bid hearts and North will jump to the grand slam. The trouble with that method is that, while it is simple, it requires North to open with an unsound two bid. He has a good hand but only 15 high card points and lots of gaps in his spade suit.

The bidding in the box shows how experts get there by the use of a special convention.

North's five spade bid illustrates this. He wants to be in seven if his partner can take the first hearts trick and in six if his partner can take the second one.

On the other hand it is possible for South to hold all sorts of good hands with two quick heart losers. In all those instances North wants to stop at five.

South could have bid seven spades right over five but saw no reason to do more than show his ace of hearts. North's failure to bid the grand slam was not an example of passing the buck. North reasoned that his partner might hold something in clubs instead of the king of spades. He also felt sure that South would go on to seven with a decent spade suit and South did not disappoint him.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Will movie audiences go for a real-life husband and wife as a romantic duo on the screen?

Warner Brothers hopes so. The studio has cast Christopher Jones and his wife, Susan Strasberg, as young lovers in a new film called Chubasco.

"It's much easier to play romantic scenes," she says. "Most of the time you do love scenes with strangers; by the time you become acquainted and work together with ease, the scene is over."

"It works out well, except when she (Susan) gets too set in her performance," says Jones. "Then I just reach around and slap her on the rear and she comes out of it."

THEY'RE EXCEPTION
Director Allen Miner observed that most young marrieds lack the "chemistry" to play lovers

Curiously, the most famous screen pair of another generation, Toronto-born Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, also starred together in The Taming of the Shrew. It was their only co-starring film and the first talkie for both. It was not a success.

High Times

By
CAROL THIBODEAU

HIGH TIMES goes into its second week of the '66 season. The sharper study pains should be dulled by the old routine, so how about some news. Don't forget, there's only nine months to the summer release.

IT'S A WEEK OF ELECTIONS, and Sharleen Bowen of Sunnyside High School in Rock Island reports that Penny Miller was elected president of the Students' Council. Penny was one of three candidates who ran for the post, and she won out over Gary Sisco, who was elected vice-president, and Jackie Emslie.

AGAIN FROM OUR ROCK ISLAND correspondent, Sharleen Bowen, who announces that the Sunnyside High School will hold a Hard Times Dance on October 15, especially designed for those who like to dress sloppily and comfortably. The gym, Sharleen says, will be decorated like a barn.

LENOXVILLE HIGH has had two elections since the school opened a month ago, Carolyn Annesley reports. Carolyn herself was elected as vice-president of the Student Council while Jeremy Dutton was elected president. Linda Katadotis is the council's new treasurer and Donald Suirs was elected treasurer. The Junior Red Cross at Lennoxville High also formed their executive, electing Ann Halsall as president and Sharon Caswell as vice-president. Suzanne Ellis will be secretary for the year and Jim Messenger treasurer.

ST. PATRICK HIGH SCHOOL has picked a chorus of high kicking cheerleaders to keep the school's spirit high. Marta Fudakowski was chosen manager and she phoned in Thursday morning to report that Debbi Fontaine is her assistant for the year. The other cheerleaders, Marta says, are Jane Loiselle, Louise Hoy, Charlene Binette, and Christine LaFramboise. That's something St. Pat's didn't have before they went co-educational.

LINDA BEATTIE from Cookshire High wrote in to report that the proceeds collected from the Penny Race last week amounted to $1225. Grade VII distinguished itself by collecting the most, and the lucky students got a period off on Friday afternoon.

MAGOG'S PRINCESS ELIZABETH High School reporter sends news of their first dance on Sept. 30. The Delmontes, The Barons, the Back Beats, Les Fanatics and Les Simples were featured performers. And people thought The Rolling Stones was a funny name. The first student council meeting has been held and sales have started. Interhouse sports are well on their way also. The boys soccer team is competing against other schools.

Students from the USSR visit campus at Bishop's

A group of students from the Soviet Union visited Bishop's University last week. Their visit was part of a three-week examination of student organizations and movements in Quebec.

At Bishop's, they were informed of current thinking by members of the Student's Executive Council on the political role of student governments.

And they strongly disagreed with it. The students' council president at Moscow State University, Slava Alishin, said most university students in the Soviet Union would vigorously disagree with the current campaign by Bishop's student executives to dissociate themselves from political involvement.

"You cannot divide purely student problems from the problems of society as a whole," he said. "Therefore, even if the student's point of departure is merely his own concerns, he still must involve himself in the larger concerns of the political community."

"In any case, the student's point of departure should not be restricted to what he thinks are just student concerns," he added. "We consider the student to be an integral part of society, and since all good members of society are politically involved in one sense or another, the student should be too."

Mr. Alishin, speaking in an interview, rejected the anti-activist tenor of recent declarations by the Bishop's student leaders.

On the other hand, he supported the increasing political involvement by the Canadian Union of Students, from which the Bishop's student executives are seeking to withdraw.

"Being essentially a member of society, the student cannot close his eyes to social developments around him," he said. "We agree with the trend by organizations like the Canadian Union of Students to make the Canadian student, who has probably not been as active politically as Soviet students in the past, more conscious of his social and political position and the moral obligations it carries."

"And we naturally disagree with any students in Canada, who, whether as individuals or as organized bodies, oppose this trend."

Members of Bishop's student government said that it is not their duty. Their counterparts at Moscow State University would say it is. "Our students are very active in expressing their views on the problem of Viet Nam," said Slava Alishin. "And they consider their student government, not as a structure which is above such concerns, but as an instrument for this expression."

"The students voluntarily plan demonstrations, raise money, and work in factories to produce goods for Viet Nam without pay," he said. "And they make use of their student government to adopt resolutions."

Scouting and Cubbing
 By KEN BARTLETT

Sherbrooke's First Older Boy Scout Group will be known as the First Kiwanis Venturer Troop. Plans for the founding of this group were announced at last Monday's meeting of the Sherbrooke Kiwanis Club. This group will bear the name of its sponsor. The first meeting is planned for about the first of November.

To begin operations the Troop hopes to have fifteen boys, drawn entirely from Sherbrooke. At last Monday's meeting Commissioner Percy Gray presented the new leader, Russ Gillam to Club members. In order to accept this new post, Russ Gillam has resigned as Scoutmaster of Fifth Sherbrooke Troop. To further acquaint Kiwanians about Scouting, Commissioner Gray spoke about the role of leaders and boys. District President R. A. Thorne informed members of the aims of "Venturing", and mentioned the part the Sponsor plays in the organization. Also attending the gathering were...

By the Way, Who Won?

Canada has real reasons for thanks

Canada, like most other countries has its share of pessimists who may believe that Thanksgiving Day 1966 is a time for misgiving and gloom rather than for appreciation of the benefits of the past year.

They may point to many unfavorable shades in the national picture — strikes and other labor disputes, more crimes of violence, increasing consumer prices, rising government outlays and taxations — as strong reasons for despair.

Their forebodings should not be ignored.

In giving thanks for the benefits of the past year and of the outlook for the future, human beings also should be aware of the sufferings of the less fortunate.

But this sober review should not blind us to the fact that more Canadians are enjoying more of the better things of life than they ever have before.

The country and its people have been spared any major natural disaster. They have been spared the horrors of war and invasion. They are harvesting record crops with an assured market for most of what they produce. The average citizen in nearly any community does not live in fear of criminal violence and persecution.

Each individual is privileged to attend, or refrain from attending, the place of worship he chooses.

The blessings the average Canadian enjoys are countless and through the expansion of welfare services and private charity even the most depressed economically are far better off than at any time in history.

Thus, while recognizing that this is not a perfect world, Canadians have every reason to give thanks for the many blessings received during the past year, at the same time renewing their pledge to work for an even better life for all in the future.

Hayden S. Pearson's COUNTRY FLAVOR:

Perspectives return on October ridge

Go to an upland ridge one of these blue-sky, golden days when the fires of autumn are blazing and a brisk wind is pressing from the north. It is good for a man to climb the heights and look down to the valleys. On the windswept crests among lichen-laced rocks and wind-slanted trees, one can capture a fresh outlook that reduces man-embodied tensions to proper perspective.

The crest of a ridge is an exhilarating place in any season of year, but in October when colors are flaming and the wind is freshening, the voices are deeply meaningful. Among scrubby, tangled pasture oaks with leathery brown and purple blotched leaves, the pressing wind plays haunting, deep-toned chords that remind one of distant organ music.

Stand near a tall, weather-furrowed rock and as the wind sweeps around the corner, you can hear the warning voices of winter's scouts — high-pitched and eager. If the time of ripeness has come to the trees, the leaves flutter down; perhaps one or two that drift slowly to earth; perhaps a shower of gold and red if a gust has whipped the branches. Like drifting snowflakes they whirl and turn as they settle to the humus that gave them birth. If one stands in a leaf shower, he may hear soft whispering as they drop from their air anchorage to the safety of land.

Not too many persons climb heights in October to listen to the voices. But if one will, above the noises that accompany man's daily business, he can hear the haunting, insistent ridge music that is part of Earth's never-ceasing symphony.

Other papers say:

Grit division disrupting country

Division in the Liberal Party has reached the stage where it is disrupting the government of the country.

It is emphasized when a former Finance Minister, Walter Gordon, describes his own Government as weak and divided in thinking and philosophy, as he did in a speech before the Canadian Clubs of Port Arthur and Fort William on Thursday. It was not stronger, however, when he was a member of it.

Even when the Liberal Party gave the appearance of unity, Prime Minister Pearson found it difficult to give decisive leadership with the semblance of Cabinet solidarity.

Time and again statements by ministers have been repudiated. Time and again the rug has been pulled from under them.

No sooner had Justice Minister Cardin, Solicitor General Pennell and Citizenship and Immigration Minister Mar-chand declared that there would be no inquiry into the Spencer spy case than Prime Minister Pearson made his astounding telephone call to Spencer and instituted the investigation which his ministers had said would not take place.

Toronto Telegram

Former Justice Minister Favreau was similarly overturned in the Rivard case. Scarcely had Mr. Marchand and Health and Welfare Minister MacEachen defended an eight per cent. increase for the railway men when the increase was raised to 18 per cent.

Mr. MacEachen was further humiliated by the postponement of his medicare plan.

The split in the party is again demonstrated by Mr. Gordon stumping the country in opposition to Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp's policies.

Mr. Pearson has two things in his favor — he enjoys the respect, even the affection of his followers and, indeed, of those who are not among his supporters.

He also has the prestige and strength of his office as Prime Minister, which he must now exert.

The looming question now is whether or not he will support Mr. Sharp's postponement of medicare and the hard line the Finance Minister has taken with the provincial premiers, particularly Premier Johnson of Quebec.

Even at this late date some iron may enter into Mr. Pearson's soul to enable him to deal, decisively, with the problems facing him, and there are many.

Ahead of his time?

Goldwater's not kicking now, but he's still very much alive

WASHINGTON — (TNS) — Barry Goldwater has been discovered — alive — in Arizona. Without lifting a finger or raising his voice above a sardonic chortle, the right-wing Republican challenger has dug himself out from under the 1964 electoral landslide that buried him, they said, forever.

On a clear day he may even see the Republican presidential nomination for 1968. He is still the same old Barry — not a silver hair out of place — but he looks a different Barry from the Stone age, bomb-throwing monster of only two years ago.

As the United States prepares for a crucial mid-term election which will choose a new Congress and 35 state governors, Goldwater emerges as a man ahead of his time.

The issues he raised and the dolorous predictions he made in 1964 have come to pass:

1. Lyndon Johnson has done most of the things he recommended in Vietnam — admittedly without success — and is now considering going all the way with Barry.

2. The white backlash against Negro demands which Barry expected in 1964 is now flailing the country and frightening the Democrats.

3. The country, upset by the war and an overdose of the great society, is moving to the right and, in their hearts, many voters now concede that Goldwater wasn't all that far wrong.

The hot-eyed Republican Party delegates who booed liberal Nelson Rockefeller and chose Goldwater at the savage San Francisco convention two summers ago are still in command in their districts. Although the Goldwaters were booted out of the ineffectual national party organization, most of them will be back in 1968.

Pollster Louis Harris reports: "The more conservative right-wing activists still appear to be far more efficient political organizers, far more diligent and far more dedicated than their moderate counterparts."

Goldwater, still scarred by the awful battering he took in 1964, is not sticking his large chin out again this year. His former platform — mate, actor Ronald Reagan, is carrying the conservative banner in his tussle with Democrat Edmund Brown for the governorship of California and doing it with more professional skills and prepackaged appeal than Barry could muster.

Richard Nixon — remember him? — is leading the national Republican campaign across the country.

This is, supposedly, a new Nixon, hewing to the middle of the road, ridiculing LBJ and particularly Hubert Humphrey, blaming the President for the escalation of the Vietnam war while calling for more escalation and carefully avoiding a break with the Goldwaters.

He has learned a lot from the Kennedys. Now he is a charming, laughing, still-bitting Nixon, freed of the responsibilities of office and able to damn the Democrats with gags:

"Lyndon Johnson is flying around the country trying to elect his Congress. Bobby Kennedy is flying around trying to elect his delegates and 1968 and poor Hubert is just flying around and around..."

"This no longer applies. Johnson has given up flights around the country and will do his campaigning from the far east, 10,000 miles away."

Goldwater says Nixon would be the party choice if a convention met tomorrow. But it isn't going to meet tomorrow.

George Romney, governor of Michigan and inventor of the compact American car, is coming up strong and if the country will take a non-drinking, non-smoking Mormon candidate for President who still goes for early — morning gallops, he may do well.

Whoever carries the GOP standard in 1968 will do so as a porter, unhelpful of planting it in the White House. But he will remind the country, as Nixon is doing now, that Johnson promised during the 1964 campaign:

"We seek no wider war... We don't want American boys to do the fighting for Asian boys... We don't want to get tied down in a land war in Asia."

The U. S. is now tied down in a land war in Asia and the decision to get tied down was made by Johnson before he entered the 1964 campaign.

It is impossible to predict the course of the war in 1968 but, on the basis of present calculations, it is safe to assume it will still be going on.

COMMENT

by Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — (TNS) — Mutterings of a possible winter election are beginning to be heard in Ottawa.

Last week they were still barely audible whispers in the dark political corners of the capital. Now, after Mr. Diefenbaker's setback in Quebec, the volume has increased.

How, you may ask, could anyone in his right mind want another federal election before the Centennial year and the leadership sweepstakes are behind us?

Well, I did not say that the mutterings about the possibility of a winter election come from people in their right mind. They come, perhaps without Mr. Diefenbaker's blessing, from some of his do-or-die supporters. And here and there one comes across a despairing Liberal who, having heard the rumors and speculations, thinks that a quick run to the polls before the Conservatives select a new leader need not be a bad idea.

Premature conclusion

The reasoning behind the election fever on the fringes of the disarranged Tory - Grit camps goes something like this:

Diefenbaker, as the convention of the Quebec wing of the Conservative Party has indicated is in real trouble. With the possible exception of the Prairies, Dalton Camp's demand for re-examination of the leadership question is gaining ground everywhere. Only the challenge of an election fight could now freeze the dump - Dief movement in its tracks and rally the party once again behind the chief.

This conclusion may be premature, for Ontario, which is bound to have a decisive say in the leadership issue, has not spoken yet. But the dedicated loyalists, who mostly hail from the Prairies, do not trust Ontario and would clearly like to frighten the "Bay street barons" without a distinct possibility of a snap election before it is too late. It worked last year, so why not try it again?

The forthcoming Ontario Tory convention leaves no time for fine manoeuvring. To have a chance, the save-Dief movement must therefore launch a crash program without delay, no matter how crude it may be.

With British Columbia, Prince Edward Island and now Quebec already lined up behind Dalton Camp, the loyalists' only hope of quick and dramatic action rests in the House of Commons. It is there the last minute attempt to halt the Dief - should - go mood in its tracks must be made by the nightmare prospect of an election campaign this winter.

Since the Liberals have never been so bitterly divided over their own policy and leadership problems as they are now, the stage is set for whatever commando raid the hard core of the Diefenbaker loyalists can muster in the Commons.

They have a wide choice of ground on which to attack the badly damaged and poorly manned defense positions of the Government. Any one of the ramparts breached by the Liberals themselves — from medicare and cost of living to labor unrest, two - faced foreign policy and the Spence report — is an inviting target.

In any other but the present blind - alley circumstances in Ottawa a concerted attack on any one of these weak points could conceivably leave no choice to the rest of the Opposition but to join the assault and topple the Government.

EXPERIMENT WITH LIGHT
—Glass and water are transparent; they have no dimension other than size, but with a lighted background and no light on the subject they take on depth. Two negatives were used to illustrate this experiment, one of water, the other a wine glass. (Record photo by Doug Gerrish)

Lighted background is necessary to make glass subjects stand out

Have you ever photographed glassware, or wondered how the fine wine glasses in catalogues have such fine and well defined outlines.
If you were to light wine glass from the front against a white background, the glass would be almost transparent.
But if the background was lit with a bright light and no light was allowed to reach the glass, the contours and general outline would show up in dark lines and make an artistic picture, showing in graphic detail the shape and design of the glass.
There is still another way of doing the same, but in reverse.
The reverse way is to have a black background and to light the glass so that the outline and detail come out in white lines. This works especially well when there is a design of some detail etched in white against the transparent glass.
However, I find the finished result of the black-background method is very commercial and very uninteresting.
The system using the white background will also show up

SCOUTING . . .
were Stan Lothrop and Assistant Commissioner, Bob Henry.
To fill the vacancy caused by the departure of Michael Morrison from the post of Cubmaster of Third Sherbrooke Pack, the Group Committee has named a new leader. The new Akela is Linda Hoskins. She has had considerable Cubbing experience — first with Seventh Sherbrooke and later with the second Lennoxville Pack. The new appointee held her first meeting last Friday in the Mitchell School. District Cubmaster Fred Pessig will assist her for the next two or three weeks.
A number of announcements were made at the meeting; of the Sherbrooke District Council held Sept. 27 at St. Paul's Church Hall. Commissioner Percy Gray said Sherbrooke's First Venturer group should be in operation before winter, and that an official statement will be made soon. During the summer four Scouters attended Part II of a Troop Wood Badge course held at Lovering Lake was a success but more Scouts should have attended this event. Mr. Gary said he was taking names of prospective candidates for the Idaho World Jamboree. The deadline is Oct. 31st and this district is allowed at least two entries.
District Cubmaster Dick Tracy reported that the Arctic Committee is working with Provincial Headquarters on a plan whereby "Pen-Pal" awards will be made to boys who correspond with their opposite numbers in the Arctic regions. The idea is to have Scouts or Cubs write at least three letters a year. A record of the correspondence will be tabulated as proof for judging purposes. Prospective writers are asked to get in touch with Mr. Tracy. Cub camping activities were reported by Fred Pessig. There was more Pack Camping at Lovering Lake than ever before, and this was a bright spot. For next year's camping, however better planning will have to be executed if leaders are to improve on this year's effort.
The Apple-Day Chairman, Newton Munkittrick said the City had allotted Oct. 22nd, and not Oct. 15th as Apple-Selling Day. The price of apples this year is nearly twice as high as last year — and profits to the Scouts will be regrettably lower. Badge Secretary Les Humphries reported 135 Cub and 57 Scout badges were issued during the summer months. Camp Chairman Vic Jarjour, on behalf of the District, has acknowledged the donation from the Brownie Group of a set of screens for the Cub Hut. The Brownies used the camp last summer and this was a "Thank you" gesture — a fine gesture indeed! Mr. Jarjour also said two visiting groups had used the camp last weekend (Oct. 1st).
District President Ray Thorne felt the camp next summer should be thrown open to a great influx of visitors, which is expected during "Expo" year. Montreal will probably not be able to accommodate all of visiting Scout Groups. This idea met general approval.
Scouting Brief: The Sherbrooke District has been asked if anybody knows of the whereabouts of Harry Travis who was in local Scouts between 1932-34. He may have lived in Sherbrooke, Lennoxville or Magog. Address all replies to C. Porter 201 Denison Avenue, Granby . . . best wishes go to Skipper Harold Bench of Lennoxville, who has been ill in the Sherbrooke Hospital. The Queen's Scout ceremony is scheduled for the Queen Elizabeth Hotel, Montreal on Nov. 5th . . . the local Annual Meeting date is Oct. 25th . . . place to be announced — the next Executive meeting to be held Oct. 11th at Don Lyon's office.

Paris star here to give concert

Louis Quilico, leading baritone with the Paris Opera, will be the guest star of the Sherbrooke Community Concert Association at the University of Sherbrooke auditorium next Tuesday at 8:30 p.m.
Born in Montreal, Mr. Quilico received his early training at Santa Cecilia in Rome, and later studied with Martial Singher at the Conservatoire de la Province de Quebec. Later he attended the Mannes College of Music in New York.
Winner of the 1955 Metropolitan Auditions of the Air Award, Mr. Quilico's debut in 1959 at Spoleto in the title role of Donizetti's "Duke of Alba" led to an engagement at the Royal Opera House in Covent Gardens, where he remained until 1961.
At Tuesday's concert Mr. Quilico will be accompanied on the piano by Lina Pizzolongo, his wife.
STUDENTS . . .

STUDENTS PARTICIPATE

Mr. Alioshin also said he had noticed that English-language Quebec students are much less eager to take part in the processes that govern themselves as students.
"Students in the U. S. S. R. demand, and receive, the right to participate in the administration of the education system. They don't let a group of completely non-student administrators do it for them."
"By law, student organizations are represented in the administration of particular universities and in the ministry of education. They're represented at the top, and they're represented actively."
"For example, they're particularly active in the preparation of the curriculum. But there are other examples, too."
He said his countrymen would also disagree with the majority opinion among Bishop's students that university tuition fees should not be abolished, and would agree with CUS that they should be.
"Our system assumes that education at all levels should be free. It is. We reject any view that education is a benefit which the student should buy. It is a benefit, but a benefit to society as much as to the student himself, and it is reasonable that society should finance it."
Mr. Alioshin, one of a delegation of four who toured Bishop's campus and talked to student leaders last week, said the purpose of the Quebec visit was "just to get acquainted with student organizations and processes here. When we return, we will report to our students on how students here are the same as us, and how you are different."

In the early days of the fur trade in Canada currency was practically unknown and the chief medium of exchange was the "Made-Beaver" (the prepared skin of an adult beaver in prime quality and perfect condition). This system, introduced by the Hudson's Bay Company, was the standard of trade between the Indians and white traders, and other skins were estimated in their relationship in value to the beaver. In 1733, based on this system, one beaver was the equivalent of a brass kettle, 2 hatchets, 8 knives, 1 1/2 lbs. tobacco, 16 lbs. gunpowder or 20 fishhooks. A blanket required 6 beavers and a gun 10 beavers.

There are also recorded instances of long guns specially manufactured being stood on end against which the Indian had to pile his skins to an equal height. This occurred at isolated trading posts, where there was no competition. There were also times when the rivalry between trading companies was so intense that Eskimos and Indians went additional hundred of miles for their trading to posts where they knew better trades were normally made (or where fire water was available).

About 1854 the Hudson's Bay Company introduced brass tokens in four denominations to overcome the difficulty of fractional values. On one side appears the Company's coat of arms surrounded by a wreath of oak leaves and on the reverse the Company's initials the denomination and the letters N.B. These should have been M.B. signifying Made Beaver. These tokens became negotiable at any of the Hudson's Bay Company's posts. They were very popular because they could be more easily carried across the country by trappers and hunters as a means of exchange than merchandise which they could obtain later for the tokens. The tokens were withdrawn from general circulation in 1870 but continued to circulate until the early years of this century. They are now very scarce and a set of four pieces is worth approximately $100 today.

Milquetoast approach to metaphysics not without appeal

THE DREAM by H. A. Harwick; Musson; $5.75; 133 pages.

THE DREAM, an exposition of the author's idea of the ultimate meaning of life, resembles a long prose poem. The puzzled search for Truth, for the meaning of injustice and death, has an ageless fascination. Are we living in a dream from which we shall awaken to eternal reality, or is life "full of sound and fury, signifying nothing"?

Each view has its protagonists. At least Harwick does not base his conclusions on revealed religion; but neither does he base them on logic. While his dreamy meanderings make this work a thing of poetic beauty, those with scientific leanings may be somewhat perplexed. For the author uses little but his delicately intuitive emotions to justify his stand, a stand with a moving base which he wheels freely into whatever position pleases his fancy.

His chief appeal is to the justice or "oughtness" of his opinions. But what is "oughtness" than wishful thinkings? Although his phrases drop with polished cadence, he lacks the implacable reality and sense of outrage which make the Book of Job so stark and vivid. He also lacks the desperate, objective frustration which is the mark of many existentialists. His gracefully flowing, poetic insights are subjective and indefinite, the kind of utterance that pleases many and offends almost no one.

Despite this somewhat milquetoast approach to metaphysics, his wealth of imagery and poetic eloquence will appeal to anyone with an ear for beauty of expression. His thought, though cloud-borne, is by no means imprecise and vague as it first appears. Those who seek spiritual consolation will find it abundantly in Harwick's idealistic conception of the universe, which has much in common with Tennyson's:

"My own life should teach me this,
That life shall live for evermore:
Else earth is darkness at the core,
And dust and ashes all that is."

TAYLOR

As many readers may be aware, I have recently become editor of the Canadian Author and Bookman. Before I took this job I suspected there was a large segment of our population which had one secret vice — the writing of poetry. Now I am convinced of this. Hardly a day passes that I don't receive an envelope of poems — or a self-published book of poems — from somewhere across Canada.

Volume alone makes it appear that most of it has to be rejected. The other major reason for rejections is that the quality is appallingly low. However there is a third reason which, in a way, is a combination of both the volume and quality problem — and that stems from sheer egotism on the part of the poet.

How, I ask myself, does the amateur poet have the presumption to think that he has the right to as much as two pages of magazine space in which to say something which the professional writer — having perfected his art — would say in a few words. And yet this, in effect, is what the amateur is saying to me every time he sends me a long, rambling, obviously, unpolished poem. I am angry that he should be so prodigal of my time (in reading it) and the magazine's space (in printing it). While I have every sympathy for the beginning writer, it should take only a little thought on his part to realize that it would be unfair of an editor to devote a page or more to his poorly executed poem when there are so many hardworking, dedicated amateurs still crying out to be heard.

The best example of these dedicated amateurs to come to my attention recently is in a book of poems called AN. VII, put out by a Poetry Workshop conducted by Montreal's Irving Layton. Whatever one may think of Layton's own poetry, there is no doubt he knows how to inspire young writers, as this book proves. The poem quoted is not by any means the best in the book but its reference to Thetford Mines and the fact that its author Bryce Seggie, lives in Ormstown should make it of particular interest to Eastern Township readers.

THE ACHIEVEMENT OF WILLIAM FAULKNER, by Michael Milgate; Longman's; $10; 332 pages.

The author's opening chapter rough-sketches Faulkner's career from the rebel originality of his youth to his sudden demise. He then proceeds with a cogent analysis of his works, assigning a chapter to each.

The reader who expects new or revealing biographical data will be disappointed. In Milgate's own words, "it does not pretend to explore Faulkner's elusive and in-

Farming and political history of Ontario and Canada are vivid FARMER PREMIER by E. C. Drury; McClelland and Stewart; 198 pages; $6.00.

In the preface of his memoirs Mr. Drury says that during his lifetime he kept very few records so has depended almost entirely on his good memory in writing his autobiography. The result is a story told in a simple and straightforward style full of warmth and flavour. No doubt he has told the story of his experiences over and over again during his long life and he could be saying to the reader "Oh yes, and I wanted to tell you about the time..."

Ernest Charles Drury was born in Crown Hill, Ontario, a little community near Barrie, more than 83 years ago. The first part of the book covers his early boyhood on the farm, his school days, friends and neighbours, portraying a vivid picture of life in rural Canada at that time. He does not decry the mechanization of farming, it had to be, but still it comes through to us that farmers have lost a great deal in the process.

Mr. Drury was premier of Ontario from 1919-1923 and the greater part of his story is concerned with his political career. The reader who is not particularly interested in politics might expect to find this dull reading but the old gentleman has managed to make it enjoyable. Several anecdotes furnish a glimpse into the complexities and pitfalls of being a political figure. For example the story of the "gold" coal scuttle and how it may have played a part in the premier's defeat in 1923. There are others.

Now retired, he lives on the farm where he was born and raised, evidently still taking an active interest in the world around him. His memoirs provide an opportunity to get acquainted with a man who played a part in Canada's history and especially in the history of Ontario.

MYRTLE GALLUP

Tearing up of deep growing roots an agonizing, traumatic experience

HOME AT DUSK by Elisabeth Singer; Hodder and Stoughton; $3.85; 157 pages.

Although the physical setting of this story is New York, we learn much more about a small French village. Madame Frenchet has come to New York to live with her son and his career-conscious wife, who are middle aged but childless. She attempts to fit into their apartment, gadget-filled world but for one who has had very little in the way of worldly possessions, and has had to work ceaselessly in order to live, this sudden idleness and uselessness is an impossible transition.

In her idle hours Madame Frenchet's mind is busy. Again and again she recalls incidents from her past in the French village where she felt life was good. Her husband had died six months earlier and recently a tragic accident had claimed the lives of her daughter, her son-in-law and her only grandchild, five-year-old Marinette. It seemed then that there was nothing left in France for her so that when her son Hubert, a good son sincerely interested in his mother's happiness, asked her to come to New York and live with him, she honestly felt she would be happier there.

But she could not conceive of what it would be like to be unable to speak the language, to shop in a big, impersonal supermarket instead of at Henriette's where from a back room, "It's Monday, have you forgotten? I'm doing the wash. Take all you want, you'll pay at the end of the month," or to eat quick, prepared foods instead of the hearty soups, the succulent dishes and most of all the wonderful bread which would "sing appetizingly with new-baked heat."

This poignant story points out an age-old problem perhaps intensified by the rapidity of scientific advance. Transplanting a person to an entirely different environment is difficult. Could we perchance extend this to another situation? What of the Indian or Eskimo expected to make the adjustment from his simple way of life to the complexities of our modern cities?

The St. Francis Collectors Club is going ahead with the plans for a stamp exhibition October 29 in St. George's Parish Hall in Lennoxville. The president of the club, Claude Willard of Sherbrooke, is the chairman for the event and should you wish to have any information about the show he will be glad to help you out. It is hoped that a number of new exhibitors will take part in the show and so help make it a success.

Collectors who have exhibited in the past will once again show some of their stamps and covers. Present plans call for a large display of stamps from the Crown Agents Representative in North America, this display will consist of the latest issues from many small and fascinating countries.

Confirmation of this display will be made in this column in the next issue.

The Christmas stamps to be issued by the General Post Office of Great Britain will feature two drawings submitted by young artists. One will show a snowman and the other one of the Kings of the Orient. Nearly 5,000 drawings were submitted by school children throughout Britain in the competition sponsored by the post office department.

The 3-4 will be in six colors, yellow, red, green, blue, black and gold. This stamp depicts one of the three Kings of Orient. The 1/6 stamp featuring a snowman will be in blue, pink, red, black and gold. An embossed portrait of Her Majesty will appear on both stamps. Tasveer Shemza, the designer of the 3-stamp, is just six years old, as is James Berry, who drew the design for the 1/3 stamp.

The United States postmaster general, Lawrence O'Brien, has announced the following tentative list of commemoratives for next year:

- Sesquicentennial of Mississippi Statehood.
- Centennial of Canada's emergence as a nation.
- 100th anniversary of the Alaska purchase.
- 150th anniversary of the Erie Canal.
- 100th anniversary of the National Grange.
- Henry David Thoreau, essayist and poet.
- Reproduction of a painting by Thomas Eakins will continue the American Painting series.
- In 1867, Russia sold Alaska to the United States for 2c an acre and the total purchase price amounted to $7.2 million. It was not considered a good purchase and for years was called "Seward's Folly."
- The Virgin Islands were purchased for $25 million from Denmark in 1917 and the 50th anniversary will be marked with a special 6-cent commemorative airmail postal card, the first issued by the United States.
- These small islands, 60 miles east of Puerto Rico, were discovered by Columbus during his second voyage to the new world. Later, Dutch and English pirates operated there. Several of the Islands are still members of the British Commonwealth and use United States currency for convenience.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — If you are troubled with sparrows nesting in your garage, air conditioner, eaves, and so on, try hanging from the rafters an old piece of fur, about the size of a cat, so it will gently sway with the breeze. A racoon tail will work, too. The sparrows will eye and scold but will not come near it. — MRS. V. M.
DEAR POLLY — Do tell Carol that a rocking chair will not "walk" if the bottoms of the rockers are covered with pieces of old inner tube rubber, felt or adhesive tape. — DIANNE
DEAR POLLY — Carol will find that her rocking chair will cease "walking" if she wraps heavy rubber bands around the base. I find that brown bands blend well with mine and do no damage to either floor or chair. — LYNDA
DEAR POLLY — Our two boys take piano lessons and like most children they have never liked to practice. I have now solved the problem and no longer have to remind and nag them. I figured the practice was worth in dollars and cents what the lessons cost. In other words it takes six hours of practice a week to be ready for a $3 lesson. So any week that one of them does not practice six hours he pays 50 cents for each hour missed which goes toward paying for the next lesson. This comes out of their allowances. This works wonders. — MRS. D.D.

For and about Women

Beaulieu — Wightman wedding vows exchanged

ST. JOHN, N.B. — The marriage of Joan Virginia, daughter of Mrs. Ralph Wightman and the late Staff Sgt. Wightman to Mr. G. Thomas (Tom) Beaulieu, son of Mrs. Edwin Beaulieu and the late Mr. Beaulieu, took place recently in the Presbyterian Church of St. John and St. Stephen, St. John, N.B.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. David Hostetter, Jordan McInnis, cousin of the bride, was the guest soloist.
The church was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and bronze mums. The guest pews were marked with white wedding bells and ribbons on gold doilies.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Arthur Wightman, of Fredericton, was in a gown of silk organza over satin; styled with a scooped neckline enhanced by tiny pearls. The full skirt was accented with Chantilly lace applique. Her bouffant veil of tulle illusion fell from a lace tiara embedded with pearls. She carried a white lace-covered Bible with a spray of Orange Delight roses.

Miss Virginia Arthurs, the maid of honor was in a gold peau de soie floor-length gown with matching circular head-dress of tulle illusion. She carried a lace veil covered with white and bronze mums.
Miss Ann Peters and Miss Heather McLeod as bridesmaids wore floor-length gowns of rust Miss Kimberly Boudreau, the flower girl, was dressed in gold brocade and carried a parasol. All three attendants carried rust and gold mums.
Peter Leach of Quebec City acted as best man and the ushers were Thomas Pam, of Montreal and William Pawley, of Lennoxville.

Mrs. Wightman, mother of the bride, chose a teal blue gown with crepe skirt and lace-covered bodice. Her rolled brimmed hat of Mediterranean blue feathers was trimmed with white. She wore a corsage of pink roses on a mink stole.
Mrs. Beaulieu, the groom's mother, wore an imported blue two-piece silk Jersey dress with a black velvet picture hat and black accessories, and a grey mink stole with a corsage of pink roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Shadow Lawn. The toast to the bride was proposed by her uncle, Mr. Carman Wightman, of Amherst, N.S. Miss Jane Peters was in charge of the guest book.

Later the bride and groom left for their honeymoon in Prince Edward Island, Quebec and Ontario. For traveling, the bride wore a camel hair ensemble with black and teal blue accessories. Her hat was of profile design in muted tones of teal blue. Yellow roses formed her corsage.

The couple will reside in Fredericton, N.B., where both are continuing their studies at the University of New Brunswick. The bride has received her Bachelor of Arts and the groom has a Bachelor of Science degree in civil engineering, both from U.N.B.
Out of town guests attending the wedding, were from Sherbrooke, Montreal, Quebec City, Halifax, Amherst and Fredericton.

Rapid decline in birth rate because of the pill find manufacturers of baby wear overproduced

TORONTO (CP) — The birth rate decline is beginning to bite into sales of baby items ranging from buggies to beef dinners.
The people who cater to Canada's babies are worried about statistics that show 36,000 fewer newborn customers last year than five years ago.
The bottom hasn't quite fallen out of the diaper trade but the drying up of part of the market is causing some concern.
A problem is also posed for hospitals, some of which are overcrowded in all sections except obstetrics.
"But we don't think other patients should be in the same ward. The danger of infection to susceptible babies is too great and we feel it is our job to shield the child."

Since 1960, despite an overall increase in population and rising marriage rate, Canada's birth rate has dropped from 26.8 to 21.4 births per 1000 population. Market researchers predict the decline will continue to around 1969 or 1970 when the rate may hit 18.9.
The affluent society has eased the jolt for manufacturers of maternity and infant wear; women are buying two outfits where one used to do.
But hardly anyone is buying more than one baby buggy for each baby and the result is that carriage sales were down five per cent last year.

DROPS BABY FOOD

Swift Canadian dropped its baby food lines last January and a spokesman says the birth rate was a factor. Heinz, one of the two remaining baby food processors, has asked analysts to assess the future market. Companies making products for infants are helpless.

"What can we do, walk up and down with signs saying 'Ban the pill?'" asks L. R. Kingston of McFarlane Gendron, manufacturer of baby carriages. The firm is considering diversification, including car seats for babies.
John Bailey, sales manager for Kendall Co., manufacturers in Canada of Curly diapers, says sales are falling "but not as fast as the birth rate." Surveys conducted by the company indicate more couples are delaying the start of a family but then are likely to have a larger one. Women used to have one or two children early in marriage but now they wait several years and have four or five, the surveys showed.

Doctor discusses boycotts

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Barbara McLaren, head of the University of Toronto's food services department, Tuesday said mothers who refuse to buy meat in price boycotts may harm their children.

Dr. McLaren said housewives are ill - advised to buy nutritionally - poor food. "They are going to be the losers in the long run."

She was commenting on widespread threatened boycotting of supermarkets by women protesting high food prices.
She said mothers should be finding out what protein value they are getting for their dollar. At 90 cents a dozen, eggs would still provide the best value in the store, she said.

Beauty Tip

Buckles — Gone to Head
The influence of the buckles used by current French shoe designers — has now gone to the head. Wide - buckled barrettes and sprays are being shown as the latest in headwear. Styled in rhinestone, silver and gold they make the party scene. In plain silver, gold and wood, they show up for sporty occasions.

Fast action saves lives and property

Here are some simple rules to keep in mind during fire prevention week, Oct. 9 to Oct. 15: Sound an immediate alarm in fire. Call the Fire Department. Don't take it for granted that somebody has acted.

How you react in emergency can mean your job. If the place is destroyed, nobody will be working there tomorrow. Maybe never.

In a recent Canadian business office fire, it was 20 minutes before help was called.

It takes only a few minutes for a minor fire to become a workers in a Canadian skyscraper fire.

Water is still the best way to put out most fires, and automatic sprinkler protection is a great asset to a building. But remember that water is useless in, say, an oil fire. Water only spreads the burning oil.

Make a point of reading the directions on the fire extinguishers available where you work. You may never know when yours will be the responsibility of action in emergency. You may be the means of preventing a small fire from becoming a big one.

It's not the actual flame, but the smoke and gases that threaten personal safety in fire in a high-rise building, office or apartment, where upper stories are beyond reach of the highest fire department rescue ladders. While aerial platform ladders extend 100 feet in larger cities, the buildings may reach more than 400 feet.

Even fire in the air - conditioning duct will cause alarm by the spread of smoke before the distribution is shut off.

There are two basic rules for the tenants:

Know the fire alarm signal and drill.

Know the exit plan.

A check recently of a representative building indicated that few people had made it their business to find out these rules for themselves.

Think about this - now Flammable - will burn.

Inflammable - same thing.

And yet 80 per cent of Canadian householders canvassed in a telephone survey had the idea that prefix in "inflammable" gave it the meaning of "won't burn" or "won't burn as fast."

For the rest, 20 per cent, danger was signified when either word appeared on an aerosol can or container.

Another troublesome English word - fire-proof. Use instead of the phrase "fire-retardant."

A concrete structure at the bottom of the sea might be "fire proof". But not necessarily so, if careless somebodies lived in it!

FIRE FABLES

big one. Analysis of 1965 large loss fires in North America shows that discovery was prompt in only a third of the outbreaks.

Safe evacuation of people depends, too, on early warning. It took 30 minutes to get out 3,000

Fire damage from fires like this costs Sherbrooke residents thousands of dollars every year.

In 10 years Canadian fires have killed nearly 6000 people

Fire devastation in Canada in the past 10 years has claimed 5,860 lives, injured and scarred thousands of people, and has destroyed an estimated $1,360,000,000 worth of property.

In 1965 the estimated toll of 68,580 fires (21,313 in Quebec) was 588 deaths (103 in our Province) and property waste of $144,785,571 ($50,792,966 in Quebec). While Canada's overall rates of fire destruction are still among the highest of any nation in the world one redeeming feature of the 1965 record is that there were 6,726 fewer fires. The total of fires reported in 1964 was 75,306. In Quebec the number of fires which was 29,105 in 1964 decreased to 21,313 last year, a reduction of 7,792.

Despite population growth, there was a heartening, if slight improvement in fire deaths in 1965. In 1964 deaths numbered 603 (in Quebec a reduction of 13), compared with the preliminary estimate of 588 last year. As usual, children continue to figure largely amongst the victims. They numbered 22, men 229, women 137 in 1965.

Again as they do every year multiple death fires - sometimes wiping out entire families - swell the black record of fire tragedy.

Excluding forest and Government property fires, the fire waste per capita population is reckoned at $7.40 compared with $7.71 in 1964.

Each year industry fire damage accounts for nearly half the total destruction. The 10-year total of loss to industry is conservatively reckoned at $600,000,000. Only the direct costs enter into this assessment.

Taking into account the indirect economic factors - including industrial production and job disruption - the total burden of fire in a year is at least $750,000,000, fire authorities say. This works out to a cost of $38.99 for every man, woman and child in a population now approaching 20,000,000. Nobody, least of all the taxpayer, escapes the responsibility of fire - on the job and in the home.

Fire, a source of comfort in the progress of humanity, when misused has always represented a grave danger to the man who misused it.

From time immemorial men have tried to protect themselves against fire and its disastrous consequences. As the uses of the fire became more numerous, augmenting the risks of fire, we have had to increase the ways of combating fire and above all of preventing it.

Inspired by the adage "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure", the office of the Fire Commissioner of Quebec has concentrated for many years on fire prevention.

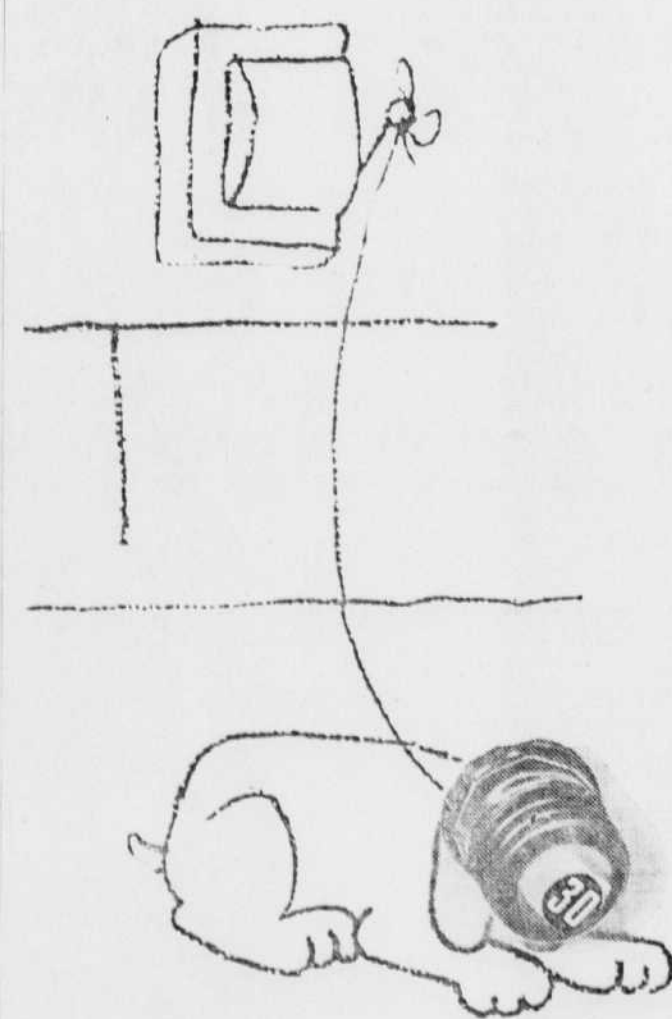

The Minister of Municipal Affairs of Quebec hopes this paper will prove a reminder to the conscience of all of the necessity of following the directives of the Provincial and Municipal authorities concerning the prevention of fire.

We take this opportunity to congratulate those who serve the communities in Quebec by protecting them against fire.

A reduction in the spiralling losses of property and life by fire is the goal of a new public education campaign against fire carelessness in Canada, a country with one of the world's worst loss rates.

It is, conducted by the Joint Committee of the Association of Canadian Fire Marshals and Fire Commissioners and the Canadian Association of Fire

Neglect often kills when children die alone in home fires

This newspaper has said it before, and it will say it again, and again, for a compassionate community there is no sadder news than the death by fire of children in the home.

And the shadow deepens when the headlines read: "We left them alone only a few minutes."

For the stricken family, the shadow of its wanton neglect will last a lifetime.

Fire is no accident. Fires are caused by stupid, unthinking carelessness.

Criminal Code of Canada

To parents and guardians of the young let it be known that, besides various provincial laws, the Criminal Code of Canada (section 189) reads:

"Everyone who unlawfully abandons or exposes a child who is under the age of 10 years, so that its life is or is likely to be endangered or its health is or is likely to be permanently injured, is guilty of an indictable offence and is liable to imprisonment for two years."

People have a duty to their children, to the community and to themselves to see that the youngsters are properly looked after.

Fire Protection ground rules for parent and babysitter: Sitter has sense of responsibility, likes children, preferably lives in neighbourhood.

Instructions in writing: How to reach you. Fire department number.

Exit locations.

Furnace or stove operation.

Flashlight handy in power failure.

If there's a fire, get the kids out. Don't wait to dress them.

Call for help. Say exactly where you are.

If you can, turn on the front lights to attract attention.

Don't re-enter the place.

Every week fire strikes one thousand Canadian homes.

In terms of dollars that means a yearly loss of about $40,000,000 the typical house fire averaging $800 in damage.

But the tragedy is that three-quarters of all our fire deaths occur in those homes. And not only deaths, for many people are horribly burned and often permanently scarred.

Fires rarely just "happen". Nine out of every ten fires are the result of sheer carelessness and thoughtless neglect of simple precautions.

Every ten years wasteful Canadians run up a staggering IOU in fire destruction of more than $1,300,000,000.

Every Canadian in the long run has to chip in and pay off the debt, through insurance premiums. Else the victims take it on the chin. An obligation not so easily squared is the terrible human toll of life by fire - more than 5,000 victims, the bulk of the dead being children and the aged.

It's worth thinking about.

PREVENT CATASTROPHE

by following the rules set by the City of Magog Fire Chief. More than half of the fire and loss of life by fire are in the home. Nearly all could be prevented by practising the following rules:

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

OCTOBER 9th - 15th

SMOKING - Never smoke in bed, in the barn, the clothes closet or the garage.

MATCHES - Do not let children play with matches. Keep matches in a safe place.

Put burnt matches in a metal container. Use safety matches.

PUT OUT CIGARETTES AND MATCHES BEFORE THROWING AWAY. BE SURE THEY ARE EXTINGUISHED.

GARBAGE - Do not keep garbage and waste, especially in the cellar, barn or cupboard. Burn carefully. Never while it is windy. Burn in protected place or incinerator. Watch the fire and be sure that it is completely extinguished.

ALL SHOULD BE CLEAN - Pipes and all heating equipment should be cleaned and checked at least once a year. Use a protective screen wherever necessary. Do not install pipes between ceilings, roof or partitions.

DO NOT OVERHEAT -

CHIMNEY COVERS - Use metallic covers. Do not wallpaper over. Do not stuff with rags.

ASHES - Only use metal containers. Do not dump ashes near places that may cause a fire.

GASOLINE - BENZINE - NAPHTHA - Do not use for lighting the fire, the explosion that may result can cause fatal burns and death.

ELECTRICITY - That all work be done by experts. Light cords should not be used as extensions or hung over nails.

ELECTRIC FUSES - Use only 15 amperes for ordinary circuits. Never use a penny to boost the fuses.

ELECTRIC IRONS - Always disconnect when not in use.

PORTABLE GAS STOVES - Protect the top with asbestos covering.

LAMPS, CANDLES, ETC. Do not put close to curtains, or other inflammable materials.

DECORATIONS - Do not place inflammable decorations over light bulbs, flame or warming oven.

OILY DUST MOPS OR CLOTHS - Keep the mops in a closed metal box. Burn the cloths, they may cause spontaneous combustion.

REMEMBER - A careful person rarely has a fire; a neat and orderly place rarely burns. ATTENTION: We ask that you cooperate by keeping stove and furnace pipes clean, and replacing any defective pipes. Chimney sweeping is now terminated.

TRAGIC SCENE: Firemen fight in vain as a large factory burns to the ground, leaving behind untold hardship and waste.

Billions of dollars and thousands of lives lost in fire in 1965

Industrial fires responsible for half the annual waste from fire

Fires in places where things are made and sold account for nearly half the annual waste. At least $600,000,000 is the cost of industrial fires in the last ten years in Canada.

Fire disrupts production and employment. In a small community, the loss of jobs is especially serious. If the plant is the only one in town, every citizen, directly or indirectly, suffers if it permanently folds.

Minor fires become big ones largely because of construction weaknesses, lack of protective sprinklers and alarm systems, and inherent fire hazards. Common examples of structural faults are missing division walls and unenclosed stairways and elevator shafts.

In 1965 there were 56 major fires in Canada each costing upwards of a quarter of a million dollars. The destruction in these fires was $31,172,800. This was a sharp increase over the previous year when the total loss from major fires was $14,290,100.

missioners comprises the Fire Marshals and Fire Commissioners of the 10 provinces and the Northwest Territories as well as the Dominion Fire Commissioner, and the Fire Marshal of the Canadian Armed Forces. The strength of the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs Inc. is drawn from municipal and industrial Fire Chiefs from coast to coast.

—Fires in places where things are made and sold account for nearly half the annual waste. At least $600,000,000 is the cost of industrial fires in the last ten years in Canada.

—Fire disrupts production and employment. In a small community, the loss of jobs is especially serious. If the plant is the only one in town, every citizen, directly or indirectly, suffers if it permanently folds.

—Minor fires become big ones largely because of construction weaknesses, lack of protective sprinklers and alarm systems, and inherent fire hazards. Common examples of structural faults are missing division walls and unenclosed stairways and elevator shafts.

—In 1965 there were 56 major fires in Canada each costing upwards of a quarter of a million dollars. The destruction in these 56 fires was $31,172,800. This was a sharp increase over the previous year when the total loss from major fires was $14,290,100.

An over-fused electric circuit invites fire in the home. And a national survey shows that hundreds of thousands of Canadian dwellings may have the wrong fuse (costing less than a dime) in a socket.

In a typical municipality of 25,000, fire investigators found that only 15 p.c. of the homes visited were properly fused.

What is over-fusing? It's when you use a 20, 25 or 30 ampere socket fuse in an ordinary branch household circuit. Why can such fuses provide a fire hazard? Because they engender a sense of false security. They do not "blow" when the "load" is dangerously increased. The wiring heats. Heat plus fuel and oxygen means fire. If the wiring is concealed, fire may start in the wall.

In minutes, it may be out of control, perhaps tragically. Says the Fire Chief of a prairie community with 25,000 homes, "In most of the older homes where we found over-loaded circuits, practically all were using 30 amp. fuses, and even pennies and tinfoil behind the fuses!"

Check with your fire chief, the utility, an electrician or even a knowledgeable neighbor to make sure you have the proper fuses in your sockets. For under a dime, why gamble with fire?

Gas leak detectable

If you cook with electricity or is sweet and sickly, even the blowing of the fuse is your safety signal. With gas your nose gives warning of a leak. Whether natural or manufactured gas, a distinctive odor is deliberately introduced for your protection. The natural gas odor is suggestive of a skunk. Manufactured gas may smell to high heaven like rotten cabbage. You may never enjoy such rare fragrance! But, if you do, open the windows, get out, and call aid. DON'T STRIKE A MATCH OR SWITCH A LIGHT.

$38.99 PLEASE!
That's your share — and the share of every man, woman and child of the estimated $750,000,000 cost, direct and indirect, of fire in one year in Canada.

Hunting and fishing

in the E T

By NORM NICHOLL

DURING THE PAST week another body of water in the area has been caught up in the black whirlpool of pollution. Tomcod Pond which is located near St. Francois Xavier de Brompton. The local Fish & Game Club reported the matter to the Wildlife Service who have been investigating the existing problem and reported to the Quebec Water Pollution Board for action. This along with three other areas of fine fishing water must be dealt with by every citizen and conservationist whether they fish or use our many fine lakes and ponds of the Eastern Townships.

LITTLE LAKE MAGOG has for many years been of deep concern to the Little Lake Fish & Game Club and to the Wildlife Service. Previous to last summer much of the pollution was believed to stem from the Dominion Textile plant located at Magog. However since the plant was not in operation during the past summer and the pollution was still evident can be readily assumed that much of the problem here comes from the City of Magog who use the Magog river as a means of sewage disposal. Here at Magog another sewage system is in the process of being completed.

LAKE MASSAWIPPI has during the past few years showed signs of increased pollution. Here is one of the finest lakes for grey trout in all the Eastern Townships that is being allowed to slip into oblivion. For many years there have been increased building projects along the shores of the lake. During this past fall one only need to drop around the lake especially at the outlet to see the slime that is accumulating on the lake bottom and on the hulls of boats.

And, if you still doubt it stir up the bottom and take a long deep breath and smell the aroma of the slime (it takes you back to that pile behind the barn.) At present the Lake Massawippi Fish & Game Club is struggling to finance rearing ponds to restock the lake. Which, unless something is done will be just a lot of hard work for nothing. The Lake Massawippi Chamber of Commerce has been pushing a project to have the dam level changed or to have another gate installed to improve the lake level. The members might in fact take a look at the problem of pollution before they have nothing to sell the tourist. Another location of pollution is at Baieconcur near Theford Mines where the same problems exists.

WHILE THERE ARE MANY differences of opinion among Fish & Game Clubs and the actions of the Wildlife Service it must be said that the deep concern that Louis Anger chief of the department feels about this problem should have the whole hearted support of all Clubs in his efforts to bring the problem before the Water Pollution Board. The individual should take it upon himself to report such problems to this department. It is hoped that the committee from the Quebec Wildlife Federation on water pollution will organize themselves and pressure the Water Pollution Board into some fast action in these matters before the forces of nature have been lost and the health of individuals threatened.

Action to safeguard our water resources must be taken during the forthcoming months so that some logical plan of action will be implemented before another season approaches.

IN THE HUNTING REGULATIONS for this season it was stated that shotguns of 10, 12, 16 and 20 calibre could be used in the hunting of big game, and that they must fire single bullets (slugs). However, an order-in-council dated September 29 has made it legal this year in the mentioned calibres for the use of buck-shot cartridges for big-game hunting. This change was made on the request of Gabriel Loubier, Minister of Tourism, Fish & Game. It is my opinion that there have been more big game animals wounded by the use of buck-shot than by any other means, and why such a law was changed is a big question. Possibly the minister has some friends who might have a little eye trouble?

NEXT TUESDAY EVENING the E.T. Federation will be holding a meeting at the New Sherbrooke Hotel to adopt resolutions from various Fish & Game Clubs of the area.

Jack Nicklaus meets Gary Player for World Match golf title today

WENTWORTH, England (AP)—British champion, fired a seven Favored Jack Nicklaus held off under-par 67 and grabbed a six-a-rally by Bill Casper and hole lead at the end of the South Africa's Gary Player morning round but he had to Palmer for similar 2 and 1 victory, the U.S. open king from into the final of the world putting touch in the afternoon.

They will meet over 36 holes Player and Palmer played all today on Wentworth's 6,977-yard, par 74 West course for the $14,000 first prize and the title won a year ago by Player. South African proved steeper Nicklaus, the Masters and in the wild finish.

Claude Osteen gets nod for today

To face 21-year-old Wally Bunker, Orioles installed 3-1 favorites to take it all, Dodgers in slump

BALTIMORE — (AP) — The confident Baltimore Orioles will send 21-year-old Wally Bunker after their third straight World Series victory today against Claude Osteen, the veteran lefty who pulled Los Angeles Dodgers out of a similar tailspin last October.

Welcomed home early Friday by 4,000 fans and feted in a parade through the downtown streets, the Orioles have turned Baltimore into a baseball-crazy city.

NOW ARE FAVORITES

By beating Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax in the first two games at Dodger Stadium, the Orioles have moved from 8-5 underdogs to 3-1 favorites to take it all. Many are talking of closing out the Dodgers in four straight.

A capacity crowd of 55,000 is expected for Baltimore's first World Series game. A clear day with pleasantly warm temperatures has been forecast.

Game time is 1 p.m. EDT. Sunday's fourth game of the best-of-seven series starts at 2 p.m. EDT.

The two baseball clubs, who arrived during the night from Los Angeles after Thursday's comedy of six Dodger errors, visited Memorial Stadium on the off day. It was the first look at the park for many of the Dodgers, who are more comfortable in their spacious home park. It is only 309 feet down the foul lines in this park and 410 feet in deepest centre.

The way the Dodgers have been playing they would be more at home in a hotel room with the shades pulled down to keep out the sunshine.

They have made six errors and are hitting only .115 with just seven base hits. Baltimore is hitting .246, playing errorless ball and getting strong pitching with a 1.00 earned run average.

WOULD BE A FIRST

If the Dodgers can come back after losing two at home they will be the first to do it. Other teams that lost the first two and then came back to win had dropped the pair on the road. They were the 1955 and 1965 Dodgers and the 1956 and 1958 New York Yankees.

In 1921 the winning New York Giants lost the first two to the Yankees in the Polo Ground but all of the games were played in the Polo Grounds that year. "It's not so much where you play," said manager Walter Alton of the Dodgers. "We've just got to play better baseball."

The Dodgers had a meeting before their workout Friday, reviewing the scouting report on the Orioles with special emphasis on Dave Johnson and Boog Powell.

"A lot of things happened to us this year that never happened before," said Koufax. "This isn't over yet."

Alton admitted he never had seen his club look as bad as it did in the two losing efforts at home. The record-tying six errors and the record-breaking three misplays by centre fielder Willie Davis in one inning were shockers.

CLAUDE DID IT IN '65

Alton called on Osteen to turn the tide. It was Osteen, a 27-year-old lefty with a 17-14 record, who got the Dodgers back into the Series last year by shutting out Minnesota Twins (4-0) in the third game after the Twins had whipped Drysdale and Koufax in the first two.

"Osteen is a great competitor," said Alton. "He has great spirit and great poise. I've never seen him upset. Most of his games are battles but he keeps firing."

Hank Bauer, whose Orioles are riding high, picked the right-handed Bunker and Dave McNally, his first-game starter, to work the next two games.

Undoubtedly he will return to Jim Palmer, Thursday's shut-out winner, if he needs a fifth-game pitcher.

The Orioles, of course, have a golden opportunity to close it out at home by winning two of the next three or two straight at Memorial Stadium. The sixth and seventh, if necessary, will be played at Los Angeles following another off day for travel.

Bunker is the third young man from Bauer's fuzzy-cheeked pitching staff to get a start. Palmer, 20, became the youngest ever to pitch a Series shutout in the second game.

HURT ELBOW

Bunker was on the disabled list from July 27 to Aug. 15 due to tendonitis in his right elbow. He has won only one game since July 27 and owns a 10-6 season record with a 4.29 earned run mark. He worked five shutout innings against Minnesota last Sunday, but his elbow still was sore.

The big hitter of the Series so far is Dave Johnson, the Orioles' second baseman, with a .500 average. Frank Robinson and Powell two of the big power men, each is hitting .375. The only Dodger above .300 is first baseman Wes Parker at .333. Maury Wills and Jim Gilliam are the only hitless regulars.

Bunker is lackadaisical on mound but he is a tough competitor, says pitching coach Harry Brecheen

BALTIMORE (AP) — Wally Bunker, a fierce competitor with a deceiving ho hum attitude, pitches for Baltimore Orioles today when they resume the World Series against Los Angeles Dodgers.

Bunker always gives the appearance of being lackadaisical on the mound. But he battles the hitters and isn't afraid to brush them back from the plate on occasion.

"I've always been that way," Bunker said of his sleepy-eyed look and his slow, slouchy walk to and from the field.

"I was told by a general manager of one club that a scout on another team wouldn't even look at me because he thought I didn't care when I was pitching."

"Don't let his appearance fool you," said pitching coach Harry Brecheen. "Wally is one of the toughest competitors around." Bunker is the third young Oriole pitcher to start against the Dodgers, who dropped the first two games of the best-of-seven Series 5-2 and 6-0.

Dave McNally, 23, started the opener and was relieved by veteran Moe Drabowsky in the third. Jim Palmer, who hurled a four-hit shutout in the second game, is 20 and Bunker only 21.

RELIES ON CONTROL

"I don't throw as hard as Drabowsky or Palmer," Bunker said. "I rely more on control. But after seeing the success their fast balls had in the first two games, I don't think I'll worry about aiming for corners. I just want to get more on the pitch and make sure it's a strike."

After winning 19 games as a rookie in 1964, Bunker slipped to 10-8 last season while suffering from shoulder pains. He was 10-6 this year and an ailing right elbow sent him to the disabled list late in August.

During his last three starts, Bunker has had hot packs applied to his elbow between innings. He gets the hot packs for 15 minutes on days he doesn't pitch.

After an off-day workout Friday at Memorial Stadium, Baltimore outfielder Frank Robinson offered some theories why the Dodgers lost the first two games.

"Maybe using Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale with two days rest has taken its toll."

"Or, maybe the Dodgers believe all that stuff they've been reading in the papers about National League superiority and the Orioles would finish in the middle of the pack in the National League."

"I don't think we'd win by nine games, the way we did here (in the AL), but we'd have a chance to win the pennant."

If Als can knock over Argos they will be assured of third place, Ticals tangle with Rough Riders

Montreal Alouettes will be assured of a third-place finish in the Eastern Football Conference if they dispose of Toronto Argonauts in their game Monday in Montreal.

But the Als are thinking of a much bigger prize — second place.

All four EFC clubs have four games remaining in the regular schedule with the top three teams making the playoffs.

The standings show Ottawa Rough Riders, slated to meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Football Conference in Ottawa today, leading with a four-point margin over Hamilton Tiger-Cats. The Als are four points behind Hamilton and six ahead of Toronto.

The game in Ottawa, starting at 2 p.m. EDT, will be videotaped and televised nationally by the CBC after the World Series baseball game.

The Bombers play Hamilton Monday afternoon starting at 2 p.m. EDT.

The Montreal-Toronto clash also starts at 2 p.m. and will be televised on the CTV eastern network.

"Finishing second would be real important to us," said Montreal coach Darrell Mudra. "It would be a tremendous advantage to play Hamilton" in Montreal.

A win for the Rough Riders will all but clinch first place. But coach Frank Clair isn't banking on their four-point lead carrying them to the top.

Ottawa is relatively healthy with the only major casualty being end Ted Watkins, who suffered a pulled hamstring muscle last week. He will be replaced by Peter Thompson.

The Bombers are hurting at several key positions. Quarterback Kenny Ploen is awaiting permission to play after suffering a bruised kidney and end Farrell Fustion is still out with fluid on the knee.

Defensive star Dick Thornton, in hospital for a week with the virus, is expected to dress.

AT LAST — The ice machines of the Sports Centre got their initial test this week when a surface was laid to see if everything was in tip top shape. Shown are above are the men who helped build the Centre enjoying a game of hockey. The Construction squad went down to a 6-4 defeat at the hands of the Architects and Technicians.

The new clock ticked off the seconds and minutes and even the penalty markers were put in use during the tilt. Music was also supplied and for the siren it could be heard a quarter of a mile away. A few hundred fans were on hand to watch the game and inspect the new Centre. (Record photo by Gerry Lemay)

LHS Jrs. win 1-0; Carr injured

Lennoxville High School junior soccer team maintained their winning pace in the St. Francis Valley soccer league yesterday afternoon, defeating Sherbrooke High 1-0 in the last minutes of play.

Dean Rick, centre forward for LHS, sent the ball over Sherbrooke's goalie, Ken Baker, with about five minutes remaining in the contest. The kick was made from just inside the division line of the field.

Lennoxville Juniors remain in first place in the junior standings of Section 'B', followed by Sherbrooke High, St. Pat's and Magog.

Weekend action in the SEVIAA includes a double program at Magog, as St. Pat's meets PEHS this morning. Sherbrooke High is at Stanstead, and will enter this game short a few players. One halfback, Dave Carr, is expected to be out of action for the rest of the season, having dislocated his kneecap in a practice Thursday night.

Gov. Armbro wins Kentucky Futurity Trots

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Governor Armbro, showing two different styles, won the $61,602 Kentucky Futurity at the Lexington Trots Friday in straight heats.

The three-year-old trotter, owned by the Armstrong brothers of Brampton, Ont., took the lead in the stretch in both races, but started his move far earlier in the first heat of the third leg in trotting's Triple Crown.

Samuel J. Coil's Bay Sam finished second in the Futurity standings and Kurt Hellberg's Shatter Way was third.

Governor Armbro, second choice in the betting in the first heat, was timed in 2:01 2/5. As the favorite in the second heat, he was clocked in 2:00 2/5.

147 horses registered for weekend card at local track, two double dashes tonight, one listed Sunday

A total of 147 horses are registered on the weekend card which will be presented at the Sherbrooke Race Track. Tonight 71 horses will battle it out for the top share of the money while Sunday afternoon 76 will seek top money.

On this evening's card two double dashes are listed with one Sunday afternoon. The seventh will be a repeat of the second race and the eighth is a repetition of the fifth dash. On Sunday the repeat is in the eighth and will be the second half of the fifth race.

The main event on tonight's card is a pace for a $400 purse in the sixth with five starters. Sovereign, Anita Adios, Audrey Boy, Juliana Herbert and Rhythm Mac complete the class.

In their last outing Saturday Lamarre's Sovereign came home the winner in 2:09 1/5 with Fern Desrochers guiding Laplante's Anita Adios to second spot. Fabi's Santa Glory was third in a close battle. It was the best mark of the year for Sovereign.

He drew the pole but with only five starters could have plenty of trouble as anyone of the field can get away fast which should be a real battle for the top spot. Rhythm Mac will be making his first start under new ownership and Marcel Mineault will be teaming him.

Two trots are listed, one this evening and the other tomorrow afternoon. Tonight six will go to the gate while Sunday there will be only five.
