VIETNAM MASSACRE

Army checking second incident

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Reports of another possible slaughter of South Vietnamese civilians by United States troops surfaced Tuesday night, while the Nixon administration revealed it spearheaded an army investigation into the alleged "Pinkville" massacre, seven months ago.

Representative Lionel Van Deerlin (Dem. Calif.) said he has asked the army to check a report that a company from the 9th Infantry Division fired into an inhabited village in the Mekong Delta area for target practice in June.

He said an army medical captain reported the incident to him after hearing about it from an orderly who said he witnessed the shooting in the Mekong Delta village of Dong Tam.

The report gave no estimate of casualties, but the army is investigating, Van Deerlin said.

Meanwhile, Defence Secretary Melvin R. Laird said in congressional testimony released Tuesday night that he launched a full investigation into the Pinkville incident seven months ago.

LIEUTENANT CHARGED

The massacre is alleged to have occurred in the village of My Lai in March, 1968. The army has charged a platoon commander—Lieut. William L. Calley—with the murder of at least 109 men, women and children.

Laird's testimony was given last Wednesday to a closed session of the Senate foreign relations committee and was released Tuesday night by committee chairman Senator J. William Fulbright.

"I want to tell you how shocked and sick I was when these allegations first came to my attention," Laird told committee members.

He said he first heard of the My Lai massacre in April.

"I immediately looked into it, and shortly thereafter a full investigation was launched by the army."

Two congressional committees will go into details of the My Lai incident today behind closed doors. Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor will testify and has been asked to bring all relevant army documents.

He will appear first before the House of Representatives armed services investigating subcommittee, and then cross to the other side of Congress to brief the Senate armed services committee.

Mendel L. Rivers, the powerful chairman of the House armed services committee, will decide after the hearing whether further sessions will be held.

Rivers's announcement Tuesday of the hearings followed mounting pressure in the House and Senate for a congressional investigation, separate from the army's own inquiry and the decision to court-martial Lieut. William L. Calley on charges of murdering 109 civilians.

SEE LOOPHOLE

Two senators declared Tuesday that Calley could escape trial on charges of murdering the 109 on grounds of bias against him created by a television interview Monday night.

The CBS interview, in which former United States Army Ptd. Paul Meadlo said he himself killed 10 or 15 of the villagers in the alleged massacre, came only hours after the army announced that Calley, 26, would face a court martial in connection with the murders in March, 1968.

Senator Peter Dominick (Rep. Colo.) charged that the interview was an invasion of the legal-judicial system and that Meadlo in effect had indicted his former platoon officer, Calley.

Senator Ernest Hollings (Dem. S.C.) agreed with Dominick and added that Meadlo, 22, is "obviously sick."

FEAR FOR U.S. PRESTIGE

White House spokesman Ronald Ziegler said Tuesday that President Nixon has issued no orders in connection with an investigation into the alleged slaughter at My Lai hamlet. The president is in no way personally involved with the defence department investigation but is being kept informed about it through normal channels, Ziegler stated.

Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, told reporters he believes atrocity reports are more damaging to the reputation of the U.S. than a negotiated settlement without victory would be.

PM 'resolved' to deliver relief supplies to Biafra

OTTAWA — (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Tuesday that delivery of relief supplies to beleaguered Biafra "must be our resolve."

The statement was taken as a hint that Canada, in association with the U.S. and possibly other states, may be close to concluding a new arrangement for getting food to the war-torn secessionist region of eastern Nigeria.

A day-long Commons debate on Biafra was set for this Thursday after the NDP agreed to use one of its allotted days — days on which it may choose the subject for debate — for the discussion.

SHERBROOKE — Some familiar names are among the winners of trophies and plaques for donating blood to the Canadian Red Cross clinic held recently at the Belvedere Armory.

S.W. Hooper Co., for instance, collected its ninth award, turning out 14 per cent of its employees to win the Class A (more than 150 employees) award to industry.

A newcomer to the ranks of top blood donors is the Carnation Co. Ltd., which won the Class B (50 to 150 employees) competition.

Among schools, the Centre d'Apprentissage des Metiers de la Construction won for the 10th time with 104 donors, 69 per cent of the enrolment.

Montcalm School, with 39 per cent, and St. Francis School with 36 per cent received honorable mentions.

A special trophy went to the City of Sherbrooke (75 donors) for the fourth time. The police department topped the city employees in number of donors.

The Belvedere Armory Clinic had 2,297 donors, just short of the target of 2,500. Other clinics in the month of November at the Hotel Dieu (162), CEGEP (229) and University of Sherbrooke (398) brought the total of Sherbrooke donors to 3,156.

Gerard Pelletier:

'No government reins on CYC'

OTTAWA (CP) — State Secretary Gerard Pelletier said Tuesday the government has "no influence whatsoever" over the Company of Young Canadians.

He told a Commons committee inquiry that in his opinion the CYC should be "slightly more answerable" and clear distinctions should be made between the tasks of its council and executive director.

In a prepared statement, he said that if the CYC was to undertake acts that were "obviously intolerable," the government could not change its 15-man board.

The reason was that 10 members of the board are elected by CYC volunteers and only five are appointed by government.

Mr. Pelletier asked whether CYC independence would be seriously limited if the majority of board members were appointed by the government.

Mr. Pelletier said it would take an act of Parliament "to handle a crisis situation" within the CYC. The government had no power to seize CYC assets, as it did in the case of a Crown agency such as the CBC.

This meant, for instance, that government could not move in quickly if the CYC executive director and his associate were to cash a $100,000 cheque and head south. Executive Director Claude Vidal earlier told the committee he can cash cheques up to $100,000 with a co-signer.

"I seriously question whether this situation can continue to exist," Mr. Pelletier said.

He also said lines of authority must be clarified so the CYC board is responsible for policy and the director for executing it, with neither interfering in the role of the other.

"At present, the executive director has no authority over the volunteers and the volunteers may disregard his directives or circumvent his authority."

Mr. Trudeau, in another of his increasingly outspoken attacks on the Biafran rebel regime, told the House that Biafra has demanded "guarantees of a political nature" to break the impasse on daylight relief flights.

He did not specify what these were, but said Canada is not willing to meet them as it would be tantamount to Canadian recognition of an independent Biafra, and interference in the political affairs of Nigeria.

The government was considering alternative means of delivering relief in view of Biafra's refusal to conclude an agreement with the International Red Cross on daylight flights.

SHOWS ALTERNATIVES

Mr. Trudeau had stated previously that the alternative measures under consideration included parachute drops, use of helicopters and river barges.

However, some government officials have seriously challenged the practicability of using parachute drops and helicopters. And the Cross River, across which supplies might have been ferried to Biafra, is reported to have dried up in recent weeks.

Other options are being studied but government sources refused to say what they are. One possibility that has been mentioned before is to send food-laden barges through the Nigerian-held estuary of the Niger River to Biafra.

In his lengthy statement, the prime minister reviewed attempts by Canada and other nations to get food and medical supplies into Biafra.

Mr. Trudeau said the government agreed entirely with the statement of U.S. State Secretary William Rogers that "daylight flights under agreed procedures... remain the only practicable scheme for an immediate and substantial expansion of relief operations."

OFFERS REJECTED

Mr. Trudeau said Biafra still objects to daylight relief flights to its Ubi airstrip despite Canadian and U.S. offers designed to protect Biafra against military disadvantage.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp had discussed the subject with some 25 other foreign ministers and Mr. Trudeau himself had discussed it with U. Thant, United Nations secretary-general, in New York last Nov. 11.

"Delivering adequate food and relief supplies to these people must be our resolve, not withstanding the disinclination" of the Biafran regime headed by Gen. Ojukwu to accept it, "except in return for political advantage," Mr. Trudeau said.

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, accusing the prime minister of making a "very harsh judgment" on Gen. Ojukwu, said Mr. Trudeau's statement was no more than a catalogue of excuses.

"The prime minister and the government are trying to escape from an indictment they deserve on this particular issue..."

Mr. Stanfield said that while daylight flights would be the most satisfactory answer to the food problem in Biafra, there is no excuse for Canada not supporting their methods of feeding the hungry. He asked why the government did not support Canair relief flights at night.

'HANDLE WITH CARE'

A box of lunar rocks

HOUSTON (AP) — A white box labelled "Handle with Care" and containing the first of Apollo 12's moon rocks was escorted under heavy guard Tuesday into the United States lunar quarantine station here.

Officials reported that the outer plastic cover around the aluminum box was torn, but a second safety cover of plastic prevented handlers from contact with the moon box.

Officials said gross weight of the box and its covers was 46 pounds, 15½ ounces. They estimated that the box contains about 29 pounds of lunar samples.

The box, along with separate containers for film and biological samples from the Apollo 12 astronauts, arrived by air force jet transport at nearby Ellington Air Force Base.

Another shipment of goods from the moonflight was en route.

The first box contains samples, gathered by Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean on their eight hours of walking on the moon last week.

The second box, documented samples—the ones collected after being photographed from four sides as they lay on the moon's surface.

The first moon trip last July brought back 48 pounds of random samples of moon rock, only partially documented. Apollo 12 carefully picked twice as many samples for variety, color and texture.

DUG BELOW SURFACE

Also in the second box are core samples. The astronauts gathered these by driving a hollow tube deep into the moon's surface. The tubes keep the moon material in the same layers as it was on the lunar surface and give the scientists an idea of the moon's substructure.

The first moon landing team also brought back core samples but theirs were shallow. Apollo 12 went 28 inches down for one sample—more than three times as deep.

That is deeper than the deadly solar radiation penetrates, and scientists figure that living organisms may be in the deep samples.

Rock samples returned to earth by Apollo 11 turned out to be lifeless.

Both batches will be kept quarantined from the technicians and scientists working with them. Work will be done with rubber gloves extending into airtight cabinets.

Part of the samples in the second rock box will be prepared for biological testing. Rock and dirt will be pulverized for exposure to earth creatures and plants. More than 100 germ-free mice will be injected with the material. Cockroaches, oysters, birds and shrimp will be fed the moon material along with their regular food. Scientists are looking for any toxic or bacterial reaction—all to help determine if moon material can harm earthlings.

IN THE COURTS

Witnesses say pair drank before slaying

SHERBROOKE — Four witnesses testified yesterday that Andre Chouinard of Lac Megantic was out drinking with Emile Fecteau the night the latter was beaten to death.

Chouinard, 18, is undergoing his second trial for the bludgeoning slaying of the 48-year-old St. Ludger resident last June 14.

Fernand Lavoie, 48, his wife Alice and their children Dolores and Mario, all of Lac Megantic, told the court that Chouinard and Fecteau spent about two and a half hours at their home the night Fecteau was killed.

Mr. Lavoie, his wife and his son all testified that both men were quite drunk when they arrived at their house at about 6 p.m. They said the pair left at about 8:30 p.m. after talking and drinking beer with the family.

Mario Lavoie said neither Chouinard nor Fecteau said where they were going after they left the house.

The second trial, which began Monday, was ordered by presiding Judge William Mitchell after one of the jurors in the first trial broke custody of the court Nov. 4.

During Monday's testimony Dr. J.P. Valcourt said the cause of Fecteau's death was a blow to the right temple. He described the victim's face as being "quite mutilated."

The trial is continuing.

In another case yesterday, Serge Cadorette was ordered to serve 24 months in jail for robbery after his appeal was retracted by his attorney Claude Leveille.

Cadorette was found guilty of being an accomplice to a robbery, illegal wearing of a mask, and possession of a firearm with a sawed-off barrel. He was charged in connection with the August robbery of the Caisse Populaire de Magog East.

The appeal was retracted by the defence lawyer at the request of Cadorette.

He said "My client felt that the sentence of 24 months was not too harsh and feels that he would rather serve his sentence than appeal."

WORLD FAMOUS GUITARIST ALEXANDRE LAGOYA

Lagoya at CEGEP

SHERBROOKE — Internationally-acclaimed guitarist Alexandre Lagoya will perform here Thursday night at the CEGEP auditorium on Terrill St.

The Egyptian-born musician will be appearing as part of the Jeunesses Musicales 1969-70 program. Lagoya began his career as a concert guitarist at the age of 13 and went on to work his way through high school by giving guitar lessons and performing at recitals.

At 19 he moved to Paris and has since become a French citizen.

Lagoya is no stranger to Sherbrooke. He has spent a number of summers teaching guitar at the Jeunesses Musicales camp at Orford and has appeared at several recitals in the city.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m.

RICHMOND — The November meeting of Udothrus Lord Aylmer Chapter IODE was held at the home of Mrs. L.F. Somerville, Laurier Avenue with 23 members present.

The treasurer's report showed a substantial balance with $301.77 having been cleared at the Marathon bridge and 500. The Regent thanked the Marathon committee and those who had helped make the event such a success.

It was decided to send the usual magazine subscriptions to the schools, if the teachers are willing.

The wool convener displayed a pretty atgnan, which had been turned in, also several pairs of socks.

The card convener reported two cards sent. The usual wreath for the Cenotaph was ordered and was placed by Master Lucien Fleury.

The following were named as a nominating committee: Mrs. F. Wintle, Miss M. Dougherty and Mrs. H. Ross.

The Regent asked the members to have their gifts for the forgotten mental patients at the home of Mrs. Somerville by the end of November.

It was decided that a letter should go to Mr. LaFrance protesting the discontinuance of the McLennan Travelling Library.

The Regent, Miss V. Noble, read an interesting report of the semi-annual meeting from the bulletin. The following donations were approved: Peace Garden, Shipping Fund, Emergency Relief, Lab. of Kitterick Hospital and the Richmond Library.

A drawing was held on a small silver dish, donated by Mrs. Pearl Driver, with Mrs. V.R. Beattie being the lucky winner.

The secretary read a clipping from a Winnipeg newspaper, a tribute to Dr. V. Ignatieff, who will soon return from Rome to live at Richmond.

The December meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. C. Fleury with Mrs. F. Wintle and Mrs. C. Spence as hostesses.

The Regent thanked the hostesses for the November meeting, Mrs. J. Fortin, Mrs. V.R. Beattie and Mrs. Somerville for the use of her home.

QUEBEC IN FOCUS

Ask intervention in CYC

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. — (CP) — City council Tuesday decided to ask State Secretary Gerald Pelletier to intervene in the case of a Company of Young Canadians volunteer who, councillors claim, is causing trouble.

The council adopted a resolution asking Mr. Pelletier either to withdraw or change the attitude of volunteer Marcel Desjardins.

Council says Mr. Desjardins has been stirring up opposition to an urban renewal project in the Notre-Dame-la-Paix section of Trois-Rivieres.

"His presence as a volunteer in the Notre-Dame-la-Paix," says the resolution, "is a handicap to fruitful contacts and exchanges between the population concerned and the project organizers."

Lefebvre opts for Bourassa

QUEBEC (CP) — Jean-Paul Lefebvre, a Liberal member of the national assembly who tried unsuccessfully to interest Jean Marchand in the leadership of the Quebec party, Tuesday announced his support for candidate Robert Bourassa.

"Of three candidates who are soliciting votes for the leadership of the Quebec Liberal party, Robert Bourassa is certainly the one who is best qualified to offer to the party and to Quebec the new style of leadership," the member for Montreal Ahuntsic said.

Mr. Bourassa, Claude Wagner, former justice minister, and house leader Pierre Laporte are the declared candidates. The convention is scheduled for January.

Apartment bill passed

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec national assembly Tuesday adopted a bill permitting apartment dwellers to own the premises in which they are living.

Aimed primarily at persons who live in co-operative apartments in the heart of urban areas, the law states that people may own the part of a building they occupy and may become joint owners of public areas such as swimming pools, elevators and parking lots.

Try to ease protocol squabble

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand said Tuesday Quebec is attempting to reduce the possibility of a federal-provincial squabble over protocol at an international education conference Dec. 1-4 in Paris.

Mr. Bertrand, replying to Liberal Leader Jean Lesage in the Quebec national assembly, declined, however, to divulge details about the flying of Canada and Quebec's flags.

Mr. Bertrand said that Mr. Lesage would have to await the release of protocol arrangements for details on the conference.

Ontario SSJB anti-separatist

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — The president of the St. Jean Baptiste Society here said Tuesday the 1,350-member local organization deplores separatism.

Aurel Gervais made the comment in a statement on the recent endorsement of Quebec separatism by the St. Jean Baptiste Society in that province.

He said the Welland group has been independent since a break with the Quebec group several years ago.

"We deplore the fact that some of our friends in Quebec went to such an extreme," he said.

The organization here was started in 1948 to promote and renew French customs and traditions among the French community.

Dairy farmers

Need government help to adjust

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government must drop its paternalistic approach to dairy farmers and work with them as a partner through a difficult period of adjustment, Lorne Hurd, general manager of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, said Tuesday.

The dairy industry is facing a steadily declining per capita consumption of milk products and a rising surplus of butter, skim milk powder and cheddar cheese, he told the annual agricultural outlook conference.

Dairy farmers either had to improve efficiency or be content with smaller returns. Government action should encourage resource adjustment, not hinder it.

A. L. Lacasse, economist with the Quebec Agricultural Marketing Board and Mr. Hurd agreed that the holdback from the dairy subsidy — which is used to subsidize exports of skim milk powder and cheese — is in fact a penalty which cuts into the farmer's income.

They agreed it is not having the desired effect of reducing surplus production.

Mr. Lacasse said Quebec farmers are working towards creating an efficient industry and milk production in the province is increasing.

He said it is essential for the government to differentiate between social welfare programs and agricultural support programs. He also recommended a national campaign to provide milk for all school children.

PRIZE WINNERS — The Sherbrooke Rotary Club's charitable campaign came to a successful conclusion last night, when Campaign Committee Chairman George Lafontaine above, announced the grand prize of $1,000 and five of $100 each, three of which were received by Sherbrooke residents.

Hospital study shows...

Shakeup or out-of-site health costs

OTTAWA (CP) — Health care costs will soar out of sight without a shakeup of the entire system to give better co-ordination, planning, organization and efficiency.

That was the challenge discussed Tuesday by federal and provincial health ministers in their first formal meeting since receiving three detailed volumes of studies of the whole hospital and medical care system.

Federal Health Minister John Munro told a news conference later a continuing committee has been established to study the 348 recommendations of seven "task forces" set to work a year ago by the last conference.

Some of the proposals could be implemented immediately by the provinces or the federal government. Others would require co-operative study and action.

The three volumes are filled with illustrations of costly inefficiencies spotted in a system which the "task forces," nevertheless, said is still one of the best in the world.

For instance, there was a $30,000 mass screening in British Columbia that turned up only one case of tuberculosis. There is evidence cited that doctors sometimes put patients in hospitals needlessly or keep them there unnecessarily.

DRUGS MISUSED
Drugs are prescribed too often and too copiously, say the studies, or misuse of highly educated nurses occurs on tasks that have nothing to do with their expensive skills.

They found costly competition and duplication between public and private interests. Hospital insurance plans were judged to offer little or no incentive to improve efficiency and reduce costs.

The result was "remorseless escalation of cost"—anticipated

Quebecair says:

Crash site inadequate for jets

OTTAWA (CP) — Navigational aids at the airport serving Wabush and Labrador City on the Quebec-Labrador border, where a plane crash Nov. 11 killed eight men, are inadequate for jet traffic, an official of Quebecair told the Commons transport committee Tuesday.

Arnold Slangen, vice-president for operations, said the company has made several recommendations to the transport department for installation of an instrument landing system on at least one runway of the airport but no action has ever been taken.

Equipment at the airport, he said, some of it pre-Second World War vintage, is not adequate for instrument landings in adverse weather by jets which fly to Labrador City daily.

Mr. Slangen said the airport has a radio beacon but lacks equipment to guide planes along a safe descent glidepath. Such a system is standard at other Canadian airports except those at Baie Comeau, Schefferville and Labrador City, points served by Quebecair, with BAC-111 jets carrying up to 79 passengers.

Mr. Slangen said later an instrument landing system at the Labrador City airport might have prevented the crash two weeks ago of a chartered executive jet. Killed were Donald McParland, president and chief executive of the British Newfoundland Corp. Ltd., five other executives involved with Brinco's development of Labrador's Churchill Falls and two crew members.

Montrealer big winner

Rotary winners take $1,500, drive ends

SHERBROOKE — Three local residents were winners in a drawing for cash prizes totaling $1,500 as the seven-week campaign to raise funds for the Sherbrooke Rotary Club came to an end last night.

Jim Ransenhousen, of 205 Quebec St., J.R. Boulanger, of 1275 King St., and Karen Bishop, of 41 King St., will receive $100 each as a result of the drawing.

Also awarded cash $100 prizes, were Yvan Repentigny, of Scottstown, and John Crease, of North Hatley.

But the big winner of the evening was Philippe de Grandpre, of Montreal, who won the top prize of $1,000.

Before the drawing, a panel discussion was held, with three Rotarians and special guest Claude Boucher, of the University of Sherbrooke, each of whom spoke on the merits of Bill 63.

Bill Richardson told the meeting that he sees the bill as a smokescreen designed to cover deficiencies that have existed in Quebec for some time.

We should have more qualified teaching personnel, he said, and eventually a bilingual Quebec.

Nils Hansen, who has been in Canada for 17 years, said that when he arrived he had to speak English and that now he is trying to learn French.

He said that in most European countries, three of four languages are spoken by a majority, and that a similar situation should exist here.

Paul McKenna told the group that the bill only legalizes what has always been taken for granted.

Must pay for past sins

The people of North America have been lying to themselves and cheating their children for generations. Now they are going to have to pay the penalty.

The lie is that we are not really as affluent as we have always believed. The cheating is the passing on to future generations of the bill for the abuse of this continent's natural resources.

We got where we are mainly because we were lucky enough to inherit an extraordinarily abundant inventory of natural resources. We were also clever enough to develop technology and business to give us extensive access to them.

But we cheated on the costs we paid. Goods in our houses and garages appeared to be cheaper than they really were. Just recently we have begun to look at the enormous backlog of delayed costs.

What we see is desecrated land, foul air, polluted water and we are horrified — or should be — at what we see.

The bill for this is staggering, but we must pay it or go out of business.

The Canadian government has warned the oil industry that it must spend whatever it costs to protect the environment from fumes and pollution, but this warning should apply to our entire industrial society.

If we are going to have a quality environment, every industry must provide for the full restoration of disturbed soil cover. We must dispose of noxious compounds to protect wildlife and vegetation, and the health and safety of our people.

The cost of these measures will show up in the price of goods and services offered to the public, instead of being put on the cuff for future generations to pay.

The bill for our desecrated landscapes, foul air and polluted water is staggering.

But we must pay it, or go out of business — the hard way.

Cutting building cost

With the reduction of home-construction costs one of the chief problems of Canadians today any move that the municipal authorities can make to simplify building regulations is to be welcomed not only by the building industry but by potential home owners and renters.

Thus the move by the Sherbrooke City Council to revise the local construction code will meet with general approval.

The local construction code was adopted several years ago before any system of national standards had been inaugurated and many of its provisions are outmoded to say the least. In an effort to assure that new buildings be of a nature deemed suitable by the individuals who prepared the code, the by-law contains clauses determining just what type of materials should be used in certain areas.

Since the local code was made effective many new and revolutionary materials have been introduced in the construction industry which are designed to reduce, or at least prevent the undue acceleration of housing costs. But because of the strait-jacket regulations in the by-law these could not be used in many areas of Sherbrooke — a condition that also applies to many other municipalities.

The national building code prepared by federal government agencies is generally accepted as being adequate to protect the public against shoddy construction without preventing the builders from applying the more modern techniques used in the construction industry.

By agreeing to revise its building by-law along the lines of the national code, the City Council is acting in the interests of all concerned.

THE PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room

Thank God at all times for everything, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. (Ephesians 5:20, Phillips)

PRAYER: Dear God, help us always to be thankful for everything. When we are sick or in sorrow, disappointed or hurt, we pray that we may be thankful that Thou art with us, fulfilling Thy promise of grace sufficient to overcome all we are required to face. In the spirit of Christ. Amen.

THE ART BUCHWALD COLUMN

More on TV coverage

WASHINGTON — Today I would like to discuss with you the dangers of television sports casting and how a small group of men decide what 20 million people will see during a football game.

Last Saturday, Ohio State played Purdue in one of the most important football games of the year. While viewers had tuned in to see this great contest pitting two of the finest teams in the country, two or three commentators who had made up their minds in advance on the outcome had subjected the game to instant analysis and querulous criticism.

It was obvious to those of us watching that these self-appointed analysts expressed their hostility toward one team or the other before the television audience had a chance to digest what had happened.

Two of the commentators, Chris Schenkel and Bud Wilkinson, by the tone of their voices and the expressions on their faces, indicated sharp disapproval of Purdue's defense and couldn't hide their admiration for the way Ohio State had managed to score at will.

They offered gratuitous advice, challenging the policies of the Purdue quarterback and coach, and the networks seemed happy to offer the commentators all the time they wanted.

WHAT HAVE YOU SEEN?

Now everyone has a right to say what he wants about the Ohio State-Purdue football game, but the American people also have a right to make up their own minds as to what they have seen.

How was this football game telecast? A small elite group of men, no more than a dozen, decided what you would or would not see Saturday. They chose the plays and the players that you would follow. You had no choice in this matter.

They also, at their own discretion, decided what instant replay would be shown and when. This great power in the hands of a few men is too frightening to imagine. Who is to say how much Chris Schenkel's inflections or Bud Wilkinson's raised eyebrows contributed to Purdue's defeat?

We know that Schenkel lives in New York and Wilkinson lives in Washington, the most unrepresentative communities in the United States.

Both men read the same newspapers and draw their views from the same sources. Worse, they talk constantly to one another, thereby providing artificial reinforcements of their shared viewpoints.

Is it not fair and relevant to question the concentration of power when it comes to college football games in the hands of a tiny enclosed fraternity of privileged men, elected by no one and enjoying a monopoly sanctioned and licensed by the government?

SIDELINE SERENITY

We should ask ourselves: What is the end profit of watching such a game? Why, for example, did the network in question choose to show the violence of the Purdue-Ohio State football game, rather than the peaceful scenes on the sidelines? Why were their cameras constantly aimed at confrontation between the two teams instead of showing us what was going on outside the stadium in the parking lot, where all was calm and serene?

At halftime we saw demonstrations on the field, cheerleaders screaming and urging their respective teams to violence. In the search for excitement and controversy we were treated to a small minority of people, numbering no more than 85,000, shouting and yelling their heads off. Was this representative of all the people in the United States?

I do not have the solutions to the questions I have asked today. I believe it is up to the sports-casting media to re-examine and improve the objectivity of their football reporting. I don't say that government should get into it at this time, but if we can't have a football game without violence on the field and prejudice on the part of the commentators, then I can't see any other alternative than for the FCC to step in.

Letters to the editor

Sir:

Why are the students at Alexander Galt Regional School being deprived of their personal privacy? The Dept. of Education has not stipulated compulsory showers. Mandatory showers is a policy this Regional School plans to enforce. Why?

Unknown to many parents, their youngsters will be made to shower after their physical education classes. The girls will have some privacy in the three-sided shower cubicles. However, the boys are less fortunate. Their shower room consists of poles extending from floor to ceiling, each bearing five shower-heads. There are no shower curtains as previously stated in an article (Nov. 13). Yet these showers are mandatory!

Boys ranging in age from 12 to 18 or more, will be showering in the nude simultaneously! Granted, they may wear "trunks," but must "shed" these in the dressing room. There is no privacy afforded those desiring it.

Just because the "Y" and Armed Forces "have been doing it for years" — Does that make it right in your eyes? — In God's eyes? Are we taking the "path of least resistance" and allowing these young people to be deprived of their dignity and rights? Certainly, some don't mind; others are very upset. Those wishing to shower under these conditions, fine. That is their privilege. Those who do not feel right about it, should have their personal privacy respected. And what is more personal than a shower?

When such personal rights are encroached upon — and eradicated — what does a young person have left? No wonder they turn to dope, etc., etc.

Some parents have taken a stand and drawn up two petitions, against Compulsory showers, one for parents and one for taxpayers. I am a parent and a taxpayer, and I have no desire to pay my hard-earned money to support a school that promotes immorality and denies its students the right to act upon their personal convictions to keep themselves covered.

It's not what will happen in the showers. There will be little time (6 to 8 min.) It's what will happen to those young people when they see the ruthless disregard of their convictions — while we sit back and do nothing on their behalf! It's a sad situation.

ALL PARENTS (even of preschoolers — What we do or do not do now, will affect those little ones) and ALL TAXPAYERS who are opposed to compulsory showers, find out where the petitions are and sign them.

Assault on academic freedom

Harvard, MIT: A lurid picture

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — If you come to this ancient university city nowadays, what you find is downright lurid. The assault upon academic freedom by the New Left is far more ugly and the response of the academic community is far more flabby than any outsider has as yet suggested.

It began this fall with a physical attack on Harvard's virtuous, medium-wooly Center for International Affairs by members of the Weathermen faction of the SDS. Scholars were beaten up. The center was thoroughly vandalized. As raids go, in fact, this one was a marked success.

Various members of the Harvard faculty sent tut-tutting letters to the Crimson. But no one seems to have been very much surprised or shocked when a member of the editorial board, Richard Hyland, also wrote in the Crimson:

"If I were not afraid of being caught, I would blow up the Center for International Affairs."

Furthermore, it was the state of Massachusetts, rather than Harvard University, that started prosecution of those raiders who could be identified. One of those being prosecuted is Eric Mann, a Weatherman leader who has apparently severed his university connections to become a full-time New Left storm trooper.

BEAT UP 'CRIMINALS'

In the MIT newspaper Tech, this same Eric Mann was more recently quoted as advocating beating up such "criminals" as Profs. Lucian Pye and Ithiel de Sola Pool, of MIT's Center for International Studies.

Mann made these interesting proposals at a meeting of the November Action Committee. This was a loose confederation of many New Left groups; and it was then organizing an attack on MIT's great Instrumentation

MATTER OF FACT JOSEPH ALSOP

Laboratory, as well as on the Center for International Studies.

MIT's President Howard Johnson, instead of resisting the proposed attack on the Center for International Studies, chose to close the center down on the day the attack was planned. The precedent thus set seems odd, to put it mildly. But police were used the next day to repel the November Action Committee's attack on the Instrumentation Laboratory.

The background of these attacks was interestingly provided in Tech on Nov. 12 by that publication's columnist, Bruce Schwartz. One thing, wrote Schwartz as part of his generally sympathetic post-mortem, is needed to be "made clear."

"This was not a week of antiwar protests. It would not be justice to (the November Action Committee) or to (the Rosa Luxemburg chapter of the SDS) to call it anything but a week of revolutionary actions. At least 200 of the people who participated in the planning sessions made their positions very clear:

"They are indeed revolutionaries. Socialist-Communist revolutionaries dedicated to the overthrow of the government and political-social system of the United States. This is the key to the NAC position, 'support the NLF.' They consider themselves the ALF (American Liberation Front)."

GIVE $150,000

Or consider the case of George Katsiavakas. He is described in another student paper as "informing the (MIT) corporation of (a night march) on President Johnson's residence by 300 SDS and Black Panther members "and repeating" the demand (the marchers) had made that MIT immediately give $150,000 to the Black Panther Party."

Yet this same Katsiavakas is one of the three students named by the MIT administration to sit in judgment on the great laboratory on the so-called Pounds Panel. Another of the first-chosen students was Jonathan Kabat, a leader of the Science Action Co-ordinating Committee, which is a small group of MIT students dedicated to halting all defense research at MIT. And the third was the like-minded Marvin Sirbu.

Even so, Kabat was not satisfied. He demanded appointment to the Pounds Panel of a student-ally, Jonathan Lerman, and a faculty-ally, Prof. Noam Chomsky. This demand was meekly yielded to. And as the stenographic record of the Pounds Panel proceedings quite clearly shows, Kabat was further permitted to veto representation on the panel of the dedicated scholars doing defense-research at the I-Lab.

This reporter has previously called the Pounds Panel a "stacked jury." If you read that stenographic record, however, you find it was more like a star-chamber proceeding. And here is the real point: All the persons named have a perfect right to any political views they choose to adopt. But star-chamber proceedings—and even worse—must automatically result when academic communities bow feebly to the menaces of New Left storm troopers.

"It looks like a case of overexposure during the Apollo 12 flight. I'm afraid he has 'Crankitis'!"

ALDERSHOT CHAPTER, IODE

Plans for a Christmas Salad Tea, IODE, held at the home of the Regent, Mrs. H. Y. Durrant, who presided.

The Salad Tea will be held at IODE House, 257 Moore St., on Saturday, Nov. 29, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. An assortment of meat, vegetable and fruit salads will be offered as well as fancy squares and rolls. Mrs. George Foreman and Mrs. Russell Wheeler will be in charge of the Salad Bar, while the decorations for the event will be carried out by Mrs. Allan Wark and Mrs. Clifford Billings. Mrs. Fred Page will preside over the card and gift table.

Mrs. H. Y. Durrant will receive the guests and Miss Marguerite Cotton will be the cashier. Mrs. Uno lives is soliciting the food required.

Other business discussed at the meeting consisted of a substantial contribution to the Christmas Welfare baskets in cash, and Mrs. George Smith was requested to purchase a quantity of mitts, etc., suitable to put in the Municipal Chapter Welfare baskets for the children of the needy families.

The Chapter's contribution to the Poppy Wreath laid on the Cenotaph was also made.

Members decided to have a Christmas party at a date to be announced, with an exchange of gifts and a chicken supper.

The members also agreed to make personal property bags and fill them after the holiday season.

The meeting adjourned, delicious refreshments being served by the hostess.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

The regular meeting of the St. Andrew's Guild was held in the Ladies Parlor, on November 17th. Mrs. Allan Goodfellow presided. The meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer, followed by the hymn, "All the Way My Savior Leads Me" with Mrs. Allan Morrison at the piano. Mrs. Douglas Jones read Psalm 41.

Correspondence included a letter from Miss Carol Joy, Convention Convenor. Fifteen answered the roll. One new member and guest was also welcomed to the meeting. The kitchen convenors of the Bazaar on December 4th solicited food. The Bazaar will be from 3:30 to 7 and a casserole supper will be served from 5 to 7 p.m.

The nominating committee is Mrs. Bryce Smith, Mrs. Peter Boulton and Mrs. Allan Morrison.

The Christmas meeting will be a little different this year. Rather than buy a Pollyanna a gift, a gift will be purchased for either a mental patient, elderly, or teenager in a home, and submitted for proper distribution. A box lunch will be prepared and given to each Pollyanna.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction. Refreshments were served by Mrs. George Jobel and Mrs. Bryce Smith.

The hostess, Mrs. Miller pinned a carnation corsage on the guest of honor, her mother, Mrs. Charles Best, and her future mother-in-law, Mrs. Douglas Raymond.

As the gifts were opened a selection of useful and lovely items for her new home were revealed.

Buffet refreshments were served with Mrs. Raymond and Mrs. Best pouring. The buffet table was centered with a shower cake made by Mrs. Miller and appropriately decorated in psychedelic colour arrangements with lighted candles on each side. Carnations and mums added to the colorful scene.

Country notebook

By WALKER RILEY
Macdonald College

With all the smoke and thunder that shows on the surface, these days education in this province really is moving ahead. Dedicated educators quietly press on to see that each generation of students has a better chance to develop his full potential, and to reach his own level, whatever it may be.

The news reports are disturbing but you realize this when you hear someone like G.A. McArthur, addressing the Lacerte Branch of the Quebec Farmers' Association. Mr. McArthur is advisor to the Protestant Teachers' Association.

Afterwards, I begged his "Poor Scholar's Soliloquy" from him, and with apologies to him and to the original author for a bit of editing, here it is.

"No, I'm not very good in school. This is my second year in the seventh grade, and I'm bigger than the other kids. They like me alright, though, even if I don't say much in the classroom, because outside I can tell them how to do lots of things."

I don't know why the teachers don't like me. They never have very much.

We have to learn whatever is in our books and I just can't memorize the stuff. Last year I stayed after school every night for two weeks trying to learn the names of the Governor-Generals. Of course I knew some of them like Alexander and Tweedsmuir, but there must have been a dozen altogether, and I never did get them straight.

I'm not too sorry though, because the kids who learned the Governor-Generals had to turn right around and learn all the Prime Ministers. I guess I just can't remember names in history. Anyway, this year I've been trying to learn about trucks because my uncle owns three and he says I can drive one when I'm sixteen. I already know the horsepower and number of forward and backward speeds of each of the twenty-six American trucks, some of them Diesels, and I can spot each make a long way off. It's funny how that Diesel works. I started to tell my teacher about it last Wednesday in Science class when the pump in a bell jar got hot, but she didn't see what a Diesel engine had to do with our experiment on air pressure so I just kept still.

I'm not very good in geography either. They call it economic geography this year. We've been studying the imports and exports of Chile all week, but I couldn't tell you what they are. Maybe the reason is I had to miss school yesterday because my uncle took me and his big trailer down to the city about 200 miles, and we brought almost 10 tons of stock to the east-end market.

He told me where we were going, and I had to figure out the highways to take and also the mileage. He didn't do anything but drive and turn where I told him. I sat with a map in my lap and told him to turn south, or southeast or some other direction. We made seven stops, and drove over 500 miles round trip. I'm figuring now what his oil cost, and also the wear and tear on the truck — he calls it depreciation — so we'll know how much cash we made.

I even write out all the bills and send letters to the farmers about what their pigs and beef cattle brought at the stockyards. I only made three mistakes in 17 letters last time my aunt says all commas. She's been through high school and reads them over. I wish I could write school essays that way. The last one I had to write was on, "What a Daffodil Thinks of Spring," and I just couldn't get going.

I don't do well in school arithmetic either. Seems I just can't keep my mind on the problems. We had one the other day like this:

If a 57-foot pole falls across a cement highway so that 17 three-sixth feet extend from one side and 14 nine-seventeenth feet from the other, how wide is the highway?

That seemed to me like an actually funny way to get the width of a highway. I didn't even try to answer it because it didn't say whether the pole had fallen straight across or not.

Civics are hard for me, too. I've been studying after school trying to learn the "Articles of Confederation" for almost a week, because the teacher said we couldn't be good citizens unless we did. I really tried, because I want to be a good citizen. I did hate to stay after school, though, because a bunch of us boys from the south end of town have been clearing up the old lot across from Taylor's Machine Shop for the little kids from the Methodist home. I made the swings and ladders from old pipe, and the guys made me Grand Mogul to keep the playground going. We raised enough money collecting scrap this month to build a wire fence clear around the lot.

Dad says I can quit school when I'm fifteen, and I am sort of anxious to because there are a lot of things I want to learn.

It seems to me most of us are like that "poor" student, sort of. Slowly, thankfully, things are changing, and Education is becoming, not for life, but part of life.

Joint meeting held by Melbourne WA and WMS

MELBOURNE — The joint meetings of the W.A. and the W.M.S. groups of l'Eglise des Cantons de l'Est were held at the home of Mrs. Lucien Perron, Lorne Avenue, Richmond, on Nov. 12. Mrs. Gerald Fortier, president of the W.A., opened the meeting. The rummage sale realized the gratifying sum of $84.

The election of officers for 1970 followed, with no change. Officers are Mrs. Gerald Fortier, president; Mrs. Ray Gifford, vice-president; secretary, Mrs. Lucille Vidal and Mrs. Ray Gifford, treasurer.

The president of the W.M.S., Mrs. Real Larochelle, opened the meeting with devotions. Correspondence included a letter from the Presbyterian Treasurer, Miss Christine Morrison, concerning allocation to Missions for 1970. Dime cards received from Mrs. Fitch of Lennoxville were accepted.

Friendship and service secretary, Mrs. Florian Menard, reported 14 cards sent and 11 visits made to sick and shut-ins. The group is happy to report that all present officers agreed to remain in office for the year 1970, except the Glad Tidings secretary, Mrs. David Fortier who has moved to Lennoxville. She has been replaced by Mrs. F. Menard. They are: President, Mrs. Real Larochelle; vice-president Mrs. G. Doran; secretary, Mrs. Gerald Fortier; treasurer and supply secretary, Mrs. Lucien Perron; Glad Tidings and Friendship and service secretary, Mrs. Florian Menard; life membership, Mrs. Philippe Perron; historian, Mrs. G. Doran; home helpers, Mrs. R. Gifford; executive member secretary, Mrs. Lucille Vidal; press secretary, Mrs. Real

Larochelle. Auditors: Mrs. F. Menard and Mrs. L. Vidal. Mrs. G. Doran continued with the evening program, a review of the year's work and study of what had been accomplished, what had been left undone and what could be done in the new year as a follow-up to the year's

Waterloo Legion Auxiliary elects officers for 1970

WATERLOO — Officers for 1970 were elected at the regular meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Shefford Branch 77, of the Royal Canadian Legion, on Nov. 11.

Mrs. Ruby Sturtevant will be the new president. Also elected were Mrs. Mildred McCullough, first vice-president; Connie Peacock, second vice-president; Mrs. Bernice Champagne, secretary; Roxie Cote, treasurer; and Marion Moffat, sergeant-at-arms.

The following ladies will serve on the executive: Mrs. Joyce Sheppard, Mrs. Lucille Aiken, Mrs. Lucie Cote, Mrs. Audrey Blampin, Mrs. Grace Rainville, Mrs. Reba Holloway, Mrs. Lillian Bouchard, Mrs. Chris Singfield and Mrs. Isobel Tryhorn, immediate past president.

The nominating committee was made up of three past presidents, Mrs. Singfield, Mrs. Blampin and Mrs. Rainville. The new officers and executive will be installed on Dec. 11.

Other business included the approval of two donations of $15 to the Red Cross and to the Christmas Cheer basket fund. Mrs. Lillian Bouchard reported a satisfactory balance for the concession, and other reports included membership and tickets; Mrs. Rainville, chairman of both committees, reported that two applications had been sent out, and that the tickets for the Armistice Tea had been sent to all members, and were nearly all sold. The tea proved to be quite successful.

Plans were made for the annual Christmas visit to the Auxiliary's adopted ward at Ste. Anne's Veterans Hospital on Dec. 14. The ladies picked names of patients in the ward and will bring their gifts in next month.

Christmas cakes and chocolates will also be purchased for the ward, and possibly a cribbage table.

Following the election of officers, champagne was served to the ladies, compliments of Mrs. Allison Lynn.

Refreshments were then served by Mrs. Vivian Bockus, Mrs. Alice Buckland, Mrs. Helen Ramsay, and Miss Myrna Fraser.

Along the boards...

By Ted Anderson

Looking at the Beaver Juniors last Friday night and then seeing them Sunday, one would think you were looking at two different teams. In Friday's game, the Beavers could have beaten any other team in the league; their positional play was near perfect.

Sunday the team looked as if most of the players had a long night out Saturday night. They lacked speed which is a big asset in Junior hockey. They could not get any plays started and bunched too much in the corners. When the puck did come loose the Ramparts had a easy time taking the puck out of their zone.

There is no doubt that some of the forwards are not pulling their weight which gives the defence men double work. The team is not so far away from the top position and a couple of back-to-back wins would move them up in the standing, but it means a team effort. The Beavers are being well supported by the fans and it is up to the team to give them something to cheer about.

In last Saturday's game the Argos looked anything but the team that held an eight-point advantage the previous week. It was perhaps too bad that they had to play the Rough Riders on Jackson "Day". The Ottawa squad were really up for this one and were worthy winners.

Russ Jackson — if he does retire certainly went out in a blaze of glory and he could be the man next Sunday that will bring the Grey Cup back to Ottawa.

The generosity of the Beavers' executive and directors in their financial support to minor Hockey and the Alouette Baseball club is a great effort and was graciously received. It means a lot certainly to the recipients and local fans who will again have first class ball to look forward to next summer. To you, President Mercier and your executive, go the thanks of all.

McGill Redmen ran up against a hot quarterback in Bob Kraemer of Manitoba. Kraemer has been the big man out West all season. Coach Mooney was right in saying, "Kraemer read our defence like a book and picked up apart". McGill has nothing to be ashamed of having a great season.

It will be Lancaster and Jackson again facing each other next Sunday and in both instances they will have to be blitzed. Both can come up with the long bomb. Lancaster is very adept at running out of the pocket and is more of a running quarterback than Jackson. It should be exciting and the weather again will play a major factor.

Ferguson suspended for tonight's game - at least

John Ferguson, who has accumulated more than 100 penalty minutes in each of his nine professional hockey seasons, today has his name tacked onto a growing list of player suspensions by National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell.

The 31-year-old Montreal Canadiens left winger appeared before Campbell Tuesday and was suspended for at least tonight's game against the Maple Leafs in Toronto.

Ferguson could be hit with an additional suspension and fines when Campbell completes his formal judgment which may be announced later today.

Ferguson was ticked off for his part in a fight during a game against the Blues in St. Louis Nov. 15. He was given a match penalty for stick swinging during a scrap with Gary Sabourin of the Blues. The game misconduct carries an automatic $100 fine.

Campbell's get-tough policy started Oct. 17 when he handed out 30-day suspensions to Ted Green of Boston Bruins and Wayne Maki of the Blues.

DREW $500 FINE

Defenceman Green suffered a fractured skull in a stick-swinging duel with Maki in an exhibition game between the Blues and Bruins at Ottawa Sept. 21. The two also were fined $300 each, plus an amount equal to their salaries for the suspended period.

Mike Walton of the Maple Leafs was the next to get stung. Campbell announced Nov. 7 that the speedy centre had to sit out three games and pay fines for pushing a referee during a game against Oakland Seals Nov. 4. Walton's fines were $75 plus an amount equaling his salary for the duration of the three games he was suspended.

Goalie Gary Smith of the Seals returns to action tonight in a game against the Blues in St. Louis after sitting out his three-game suspension imposed by Campbell last week.

Campbell also fined Smith $50 plus the three-game salary for a shoving incident with referee Ron Wicks during a game in Boston Nov. 10.

Ferguson's game misconduct in the St. Louis match helped push his total to 56 minutes in 17 games this season.

season where he collected 126 minutes in penalties. His total increased the two following seasons but dropped to 125 minutes for the 1963-64 season when he joined the Canadiens.

He led the NHL in penalties during the 1966-67 season with 177 and reached a personal high of 185 minutes last season. Forbes Kennedy, who split the season between Philadelphia Flyers and Toronto, took top honors with 219 minutes.

Owens cops Heisman

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Owens of Oklahoma, who has shattered some long-standing records in United States college football, beat out Purdue's Mike Phipps Tuesday for the Heisman Trophy as the outstanding player of 1969.

"It's something every player dreams about," the six-foot-two, 215-pound senior tailback from Miami, Okla., said.

"The Heisman Trophy is supposed to go to the best college player in the country and in this case it did," said Chuck Fairbanks.

ROCK ISLAND — Mrs. Alfred Middleton was hostess for the November meeting of Christ Church A.C.W., held at her home. The president, Mrs. A. H. Scarth opened the meeting with a period of worship taken from the Living Message.

It was noted 50 calendars have been ordered and will go on sale before the end of the year.

Further to discussion of the Guild and ACW merger, a committee of three, Mrs. Scarth, Mrs. Nellie Kezar and Mrs. Alfred Middleton, was named to meet with a delegation from the Guild and the rector, Rev. R. W. Peirce, to see what can be done about the matter.

St. Andrew's Day, being on Sunday, Nov. 30, it was decided to have the annual church service at Christ Church at 2:30 p.m. on Nov. 29, then go to Beebe to attend the Guild church sale and tea, returning to the home of Mrs. Nellie Kezar for the annual meeting. Christ Church Guild Christmas tea and sale will be in the parish hall on Dec. 6.

Mrs. Scarth read from the bulletins on highlights of the Deanery held in October at Georgetown, part of which she had attended. It is noted that the Biennial will be held at Gaspe in June. Also that in 1971 Stanstead Church ACW will be hostesses for the Deanery meeting.

In response to an appeal in the bulletin to have a partnership with a branch of the Mothers' Union in the Diocese of Johannesburg, South Africa, Mrs. John Shipway said she will carry on a correspondence with a group.

Mrs. Middleton served refreshments. Mrs. Scarth poured.

Easy to Shed Mate In the Golden State

LOS ANGELES—(NEA)—Go West, young lady. And get yourself a divorce.

Beginning Jan. 1, it will be as easy as pie to get a divorce in California. The Golden State has a new law—officially, the Family Law Act—which will make California probably the easiest state in the union in which to shed a mate.

"It will be almost impossible," says famed divorce lawyer Marvin M. Mitchelson, "not to get a divorce here."

There will be only two acceptable grounds for getting a dissolution—the new law even changes the wording, and the term "divorce" is out—after the first of 1970.

One is "incurable insanity."

The other is "irreconcilable differences."

As Mitchelson says, who hasn't got irreconcilable differences? It is, as he puts it, "a catch-all" for anything you want to say. It will be virtually impossible to disprove.

The point of the new law, which has been signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan (himself a divorced man), is to eliminate the bitterness which has marked many sensational divorce trials. But Mitchelson doesn't think it will do that.

He points out that the majority of divorce cases—nine out of 10—are settled out of court anyhow. The one in 10 that does reach court is usually a custody case or one in which the division of a large amount of property is the issue. And these, he thinks, will be fought just as bitterly in the future.

Mitchelson has handled many of them. He had a hand in the Groucho Marx case, in which a $6 million assortment of property was bisected. And he feels that this kind of thing will continue, with just as much bitterness and acrimony as ever.

But, for the average nonloaded man and woman, the new law makes it all a cinch. The waiting period, from the interlocutory decree to the final decree, has been cut from one year to six months. A woman can come to California, start a separate maintenance action immediately (no residency is required for that), and then turn it into a divorce, or dissolution, action later.

The new law also changes some other things, too. In many ways, it helps the man in the case. It makes it a little harder for a wife to get alimony—the court must now take more into consideration—the wife's earning capacity.

The new law will also result, when a marriage ends, in an almost automatic 50-50 division of property. Heretofore, courts have frequently awarded more than half to the wife, leaving the husband with the short end of the financial stick.

But Mitchelson feels the wording of the new law will make it possible for wives to play around more during a marriage, without the risk of divorce-time disappointment.

Under the existing law, the court took into consideration, when dividing up the property, the moral behavior of the two parties. The well-behaved partner did better. The object of all divorce trials was to prove you were saintly and the other partner was immoral, and you walked out with more than half the property.

"But on Jan. 1," Mitchelson says, "the 50-50 split is virtually automatic. So a wife can have all the affairs she wants, knowing that she has that security."

The law, like all new laws, will take awhile to shake down. California's divorce lawyers are currently going through a 10-week course to acquaint them with the law's 30,000 words. But even that will be inadequate.

"This law is setting a precedent," Mitchelson says. "And it will have to be modified as time goes on. I'm sure it will be tested in the state Supreme Court, perhaps even the federal Supreme Court. We'll have to learn, through experience, how to live with it."

The one thing that remains to be seen is how the doctrine of "irreconcilable differences" is applied. If the court chooses to accept, simply, one partner's word for it, there will be nothing to it. But the courts may want to know the details of those differences.

"If that happens," Mitchelson says, "we'll still have sensationalism and bitterness. After all, if a husband catches his wife with another man, that ought to be an irreconcilable difference."

CONTROVERSIAL ART SHOW featuring exhibits such as above has been attacked by critics from all sides and on all levels. Scheduled to run through Feb. 1, it is the first of five shows planned in celebration of the 100th anniversary of New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art. The mammoth presentation (more than 400 paintings, sculptures and drawings by 43 artists) is described by the institution as "the most monumental showing of contemporary American art ever brought together anywhere." Henry Geldzahler, right, the Met's curator of contemporary arts who conceived and executed the exhibit, tells critics, "I've been looking at this sort of thing for 15 years; I know what's good."

MAGOG — (Special) — Snowmobiling, one of the more recently developed winter sports has become very popular in the Magog-Orford region, where ample area to play the game affords this new breed of sportsmen chance to let loose. It's thrilling, fast and crammed with variety, a pastime that allows vast latitude in adventure, competition and tests of skill. In fact, snowmobiling has caught on so fast, and with such fervor of enthusiasm, clubs have sprung up in various centres. From these groups, another outlet to socializing has materialized. Indeed, it's an all-fun game, maybe a little costly to start, but well worth the investment indulgers claim. There must be some reward, as the compulsion to snowmobile draws in hundreds of new participants each winter.

To the newcomer, who hasn't tried snowmobiling, anyone in the new clan of motorized horse-back-riding through the snow will give lengthy testimonials of the game's value. If information is sought from an outfitter, there'll be different versions on the thrills, and the racer has his accounts of challenges. But, there's no question about it, snowmobiling is fun, lots of laughs and good fellowship. While in Magog, see for yourself.

A FAMILY SPORT — This picture shot at random at the Mt. Orford Provincial Park, shows one of many family excursions seen throughout the winter, as whole families take to snowmobiling.

Curling season opens at Magog

MAGOG - (Special) - The 1969-70 winter sports season should be an active one for the Magog Curling and Social Club, which have a well planned program ahead of them.

Romeo Langlois, club publicist said that measures are being taken to acquire a larger membership, and results to date are encouraging. Mr. Langlois said that many potential members do not realize the many advantages to belonging to the club. Many feel the facilities include just curling, which is far from fact. Truth is, Mr. Langlois stated, the club has a varied social program, which in many respects is more important than games on the ice.

Roger Hebert, president of the Magog Curling and Social Club has a strong executive, which are directing efforts toward the improvement of this important recreational organization. Mr. Hebert notes that this club fulfills an important role in Magog, inasmuch that it's one of the few places of this nature where citizens can acquire a membership to a private type club.

Ditchfield

Mr. John Fletcher, Mr. Ernest Fletcher, Mr. Bill Hodgdon, all of Goffstown, N.H., and Mr. Brian Sinotte and friend, Waterbury, Conn., were guests of Mr. Nelson Fletcher for a week of the hunting season.

Mr. John Veary and little son, Alan, Dorval, are spending a week with Mrs. S.G. Veary. Mrs. John Veary, with baby David, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philippe Leblanc, in Lake Megantic.

Mr. Bruce Simpson, Montreal, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. David Rider for a week.

Keith and Craig Rider and Robert Veary are now attending the Regional School in Lennoxville, coming home for the weekends.

Miss Mabel Slater, Montreal, spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. S.P. Rider, and Miss Violet Slater.

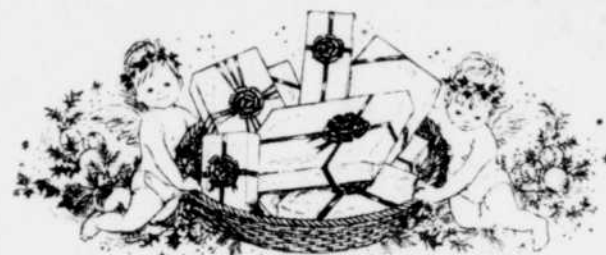

A meeting of St. John's Church Guild was held at the home of Mrs. S.G. Veary on Nov. 11.

MAGOG CURLING CLUB OPENS - Seen left to right, at the opening buffet dinner served last Saturday night at the Magog Curling and Social Club, are: Yves Forest, Member of Parliament for Brome County;

Mrs. Thomas Donavan, president of the ladies committee in the club; Romeo Langlois, club publicist; Mrs. Langlois; George Corbiere, co-chairman of the dinner organizing group; and serving is Roger Hebert, club president, who proves his is a humbling chore as well as one of prestige. Magog's Main Street is "The Golden Mile"

MAGOG - (Special) - Have you heard about Magog's "golden mile", the shopping district of this small but lively holiday metropolis' commercial district. Chances are you passed through the golden mile several times without realizing you were in the centre of town, but be assured, to the rural regions surrounding Magog, Main Street is a pretty important part of the world. In fact, those off-the-main-beat stores figure in pretty prominently too, for the people who look to Magog for most of what they buy, sell, and do their usual trading.

Why Magog though, you're probably wondering? After all, it's now a matter of minutes to bigger, more heavily stocked stores, where the choice is better, and maybe prices too. Well, "T'aint so", any travelled rural resident will assure you. Ask the folk and they'll quote proof you do better right here in Magog.

The fact is, the merchants of Magog realized long ago that they were selling to their local trade, and people who come here to escape the range-tangle of city-life with its many shops, department stores and the fancy claims of selection, quality, good values and fine service. The storekeepers here have gone all out to match the big city stores, and in many instances have really outdone themselves, but they've kept local trade at home and gained a fair transient trade too. Yes, the merchandising ideas, and drive for the holiday's patronage has made Magog a wonderful place to shop.

Chances are you'll find what you're looking for, if you shop Magog stores. The quality will be good, the prices right, and service fantastic.

Go shopping in Magog. Have a buyer's fling. It's worth it here!

Magog merchants praise Thursday night opening

MAGOG — (Special) — The second Thursday night opening for Magog stores saw many shoppers out November 19th. Most Main Street West storekeepers in this community are now convinced that the practice is good, and essential as long as there are no standardized opening hours, regulated by the provincial authorities.

Results for last Thursday night varied from store to store though. Some merchants noted exceptional results, others said the three and half hours of extra business didn't match a Friday evening opening, but proved satisfactory, and several claimed all out losses due to the extra cost of opening. It was noted by the successful storekeepers however, that those who claimed total failure for Thursday night, were the merchants who did not promote the opening, and failed to use leaders.

The practice of specials and leaders for Thursday evening opening have been carried out over the last two Thursdays, and probably, according to some storekeepers, is the reason the extra shopping hours have been attracting additional business.

It's a foregone conclusion, the Main West shop-keepers along Magog's golden mile will stay open Thursdays until Christmas, and unless there are changes in opening hours brought about by the province, will likely keep up the practice of two nights a week opening to meet outside competition.

The storekeeper who said, "The extra night opening is like an added day in our week," typifies the attitude toward the idea.

As far as Magog's mayor and city councillors are concerned, two nights a week shopping can go on forever, in fact they have literally washed their hands of the problem attached to store hour regulating. When the storekeepers can get together on one common platform, then the municipal authorities will consider a new store hour bylaw.

MAGOG — (Special) — The Mt. Orford Ski Patrol went on duty for the first time this season last Sunday, when an indoctrination meeting was held at the Orford Chalet. Following the two hour session, a considerable number of the patrollers got in their first day of skiing.

Harvey Catchpaw, patrol leader and works manager at Orford, introduced his executive, and explained the rules and regulations of his hill to the members of his first aid and rescue squad. Jean Vigneux is the patrol treasurer, Jean Lenahan is assistant patrol leader, Garth Fields the patrol standards director, Judy Lord is operations co-ordinator and assists in public relations. Conrad Laliberte heads up the social and button sales folio. Len Bachelier takes charge of equipment and statistics. Maurice Potvin is supply officer, and Charles Catchpaw is public relations officer.

Three other CSPS officials were also introduced in the persons of Robert Woolerton, patrol leader at North Hatley whose group trains with the Orford patrollers; Ralph Lund, zone vice-president in charge of operations; and Pierre Masse of Sherbrooke, a zone examiner. It was explained that this season the president of the zone, Rupert Dobbin, and his executive vice-president Charlie Brooks would be touring the zone's seven hills to check on patrollers in an endeavor to keep standards at an all time high in efficiency.

One of the requisites for first year patrollers going on duty is to take a skiing ability test. This

Mt. Orford ski patrol starts season

Sundays November 29 or December 7th, depending on snow conditions, and will take place at Mt. Echo. Canadian Ski Patrol System regulations demand that all members take mandatory annual instruction, pass the prescribed examinations in written and theoretical phases of first aid, know other operations essential to ski patrolling, and possess the skiing ability called for the work on hills. The ski ability ratings specify what slopes members are qualified to patrol. All patrollers given ratings must meet a basic standard, and those who do not possess marks above a specified level, are consistently trained in skiing, until they arrive at a satisfactory level in skiing technique. At Sunday's meeting at Orford, public relations and skier-relations were stressed. The Canadian Ski Patrol System, it was noted, have an important role to play in encouraging the public to ski. Although the majority of CSPS patrollers are volunteers, they have an important task in keeping up the public's interest in this fast growing winter sport.

Stanstead Chapter IODE plans membership campaign

STANSTEAD — On Dec. 1 the Stanstead Chapter IODE plans to entertain guests at the regular meeting in Le Baron Hall, Stanstead College. In keeping with the IODE membership campaign, guests are invited to come at 2:30 p.m. for entertainment and refreshments. Some people, who may be interested in the work of the Order but who may not have received an invitation, are especially invited to come and learn all about it.

The Order is 69 years old, having started in January, 1900, with the aim of helping Canadian soldiers and their dependents during the Boer war, and also to stress patriotism. It has done tremendous war work since in World War I and II.

The late Mrs. Clark Murray, wife of a McGill professor, on a visit in England, was impressed with the work of the Order, she came home determined to found an organization in Canada for women, where they might contribute to national well-being, based on patriotism, loyalty and service.

The first Chapter was actually founded in January 1900 in Fredericton, N.B., and February at the Windsor Hotel in Montreal with 25 women present.

Founders Day is observed each year on the 13th of the month.

From the early membership there is now a membership of between 23,000 and 24,000 with 900 Chapters across the country, of which 56 are Junior Chapters.

The order keeps in time with current events and supports all good projects. Their main work among the youth is with 'scholarships. They also support all Provincial, National and International IODE projects. Presently the Provincial Chapter, supported by donations of money from Municipal Chapters, have adopted the Kateri Memorial Hospital at Caughnawaga and are raising funds to equip a laboratory at the hospital.

Members of the IODE meet and welcome people coming to Canada at the Quebec City docks and care for the children while their parents are being processed. Over a million dollars is raised annually across Canada; about 80 per cent is spent in Canada for betterment of Canadian people, and about 20 per cent is sent to other countries.

Work is done among the Eskimos of Canada, among libraries, and the Stanstead Chapter does a great deal for the Border Communities.
