ATTEMPTED MURDER CASE.

STATEMENT OF THE LITTLE GIRL.

A TALE OF SUFFERING AND TORTURE.

The St. George de Windsor case was continued before Judge Mulvena at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The principal witnesses examined were the little girl herself and Dr. Thibault, of St. Camille.

Mr. Belanger, Q. C., explained the nature of an oath to the little child and she was sworn. The examination conducted by Mr. Leblanc then elicited a tale of suffering and torture more inhuman than the work of savages, and more heartless than the contrivances of the inquisition. The little girl cherishing only the fading memory of a mother, was cared for by her grandmother, living at St. Albert de Warwick. Last spring however her father called for her and brought her to St. George de Windsor where she met her step-mother for the first time. The subsequent relations between parents and child disclose a paternal treachery and maternal hatred unsurpassed for enormity in the annals of this Province. The unrelenting anger of her father, ever nourished by an arch-cruel woman made the unfortunate child's every moment one of torture and transferred her immediate surroundings into a perpetual inferno.

Upon her arrival at her father's house she was immediately placed in the garret, where she was compelled to remain unless employed in farm work. Garments for her they had none, and she was compelled to go barefooted, even after the ground had frozen last fall. At night she was compelled to sleep in the garret beside a pile of boards, an old coat being the only covering afforded her.

Mde. Lapierre's son occupied a bed near by, in the same room, but he was well provided with quilts by his mother. During one night, much colder than any previous, both feet were badly frost-bitten, one being entirely frozen.

The following morning she complained to her step-mother, who told her to go out and put her feet in some cold water. This she did, going out in her bare feet to do it. She was allowed to remain down stairs on this day, but was compelled to again go to the garret in the evening. From this on she was treated in the same inhuman manner as previously.

She was usually called down twice a day to take food, and on many occasions only received nourishment once a day.

The little girl was not even on these occasions allowed to eat with the family, but was fed upon the remains of their meal.

Her evidence showed that she had only been chastised frequently, but in the most cruel manner. After her foot was frozen she was beaten with a large stick and even kicked, by Mde. Lapierre, in the body.

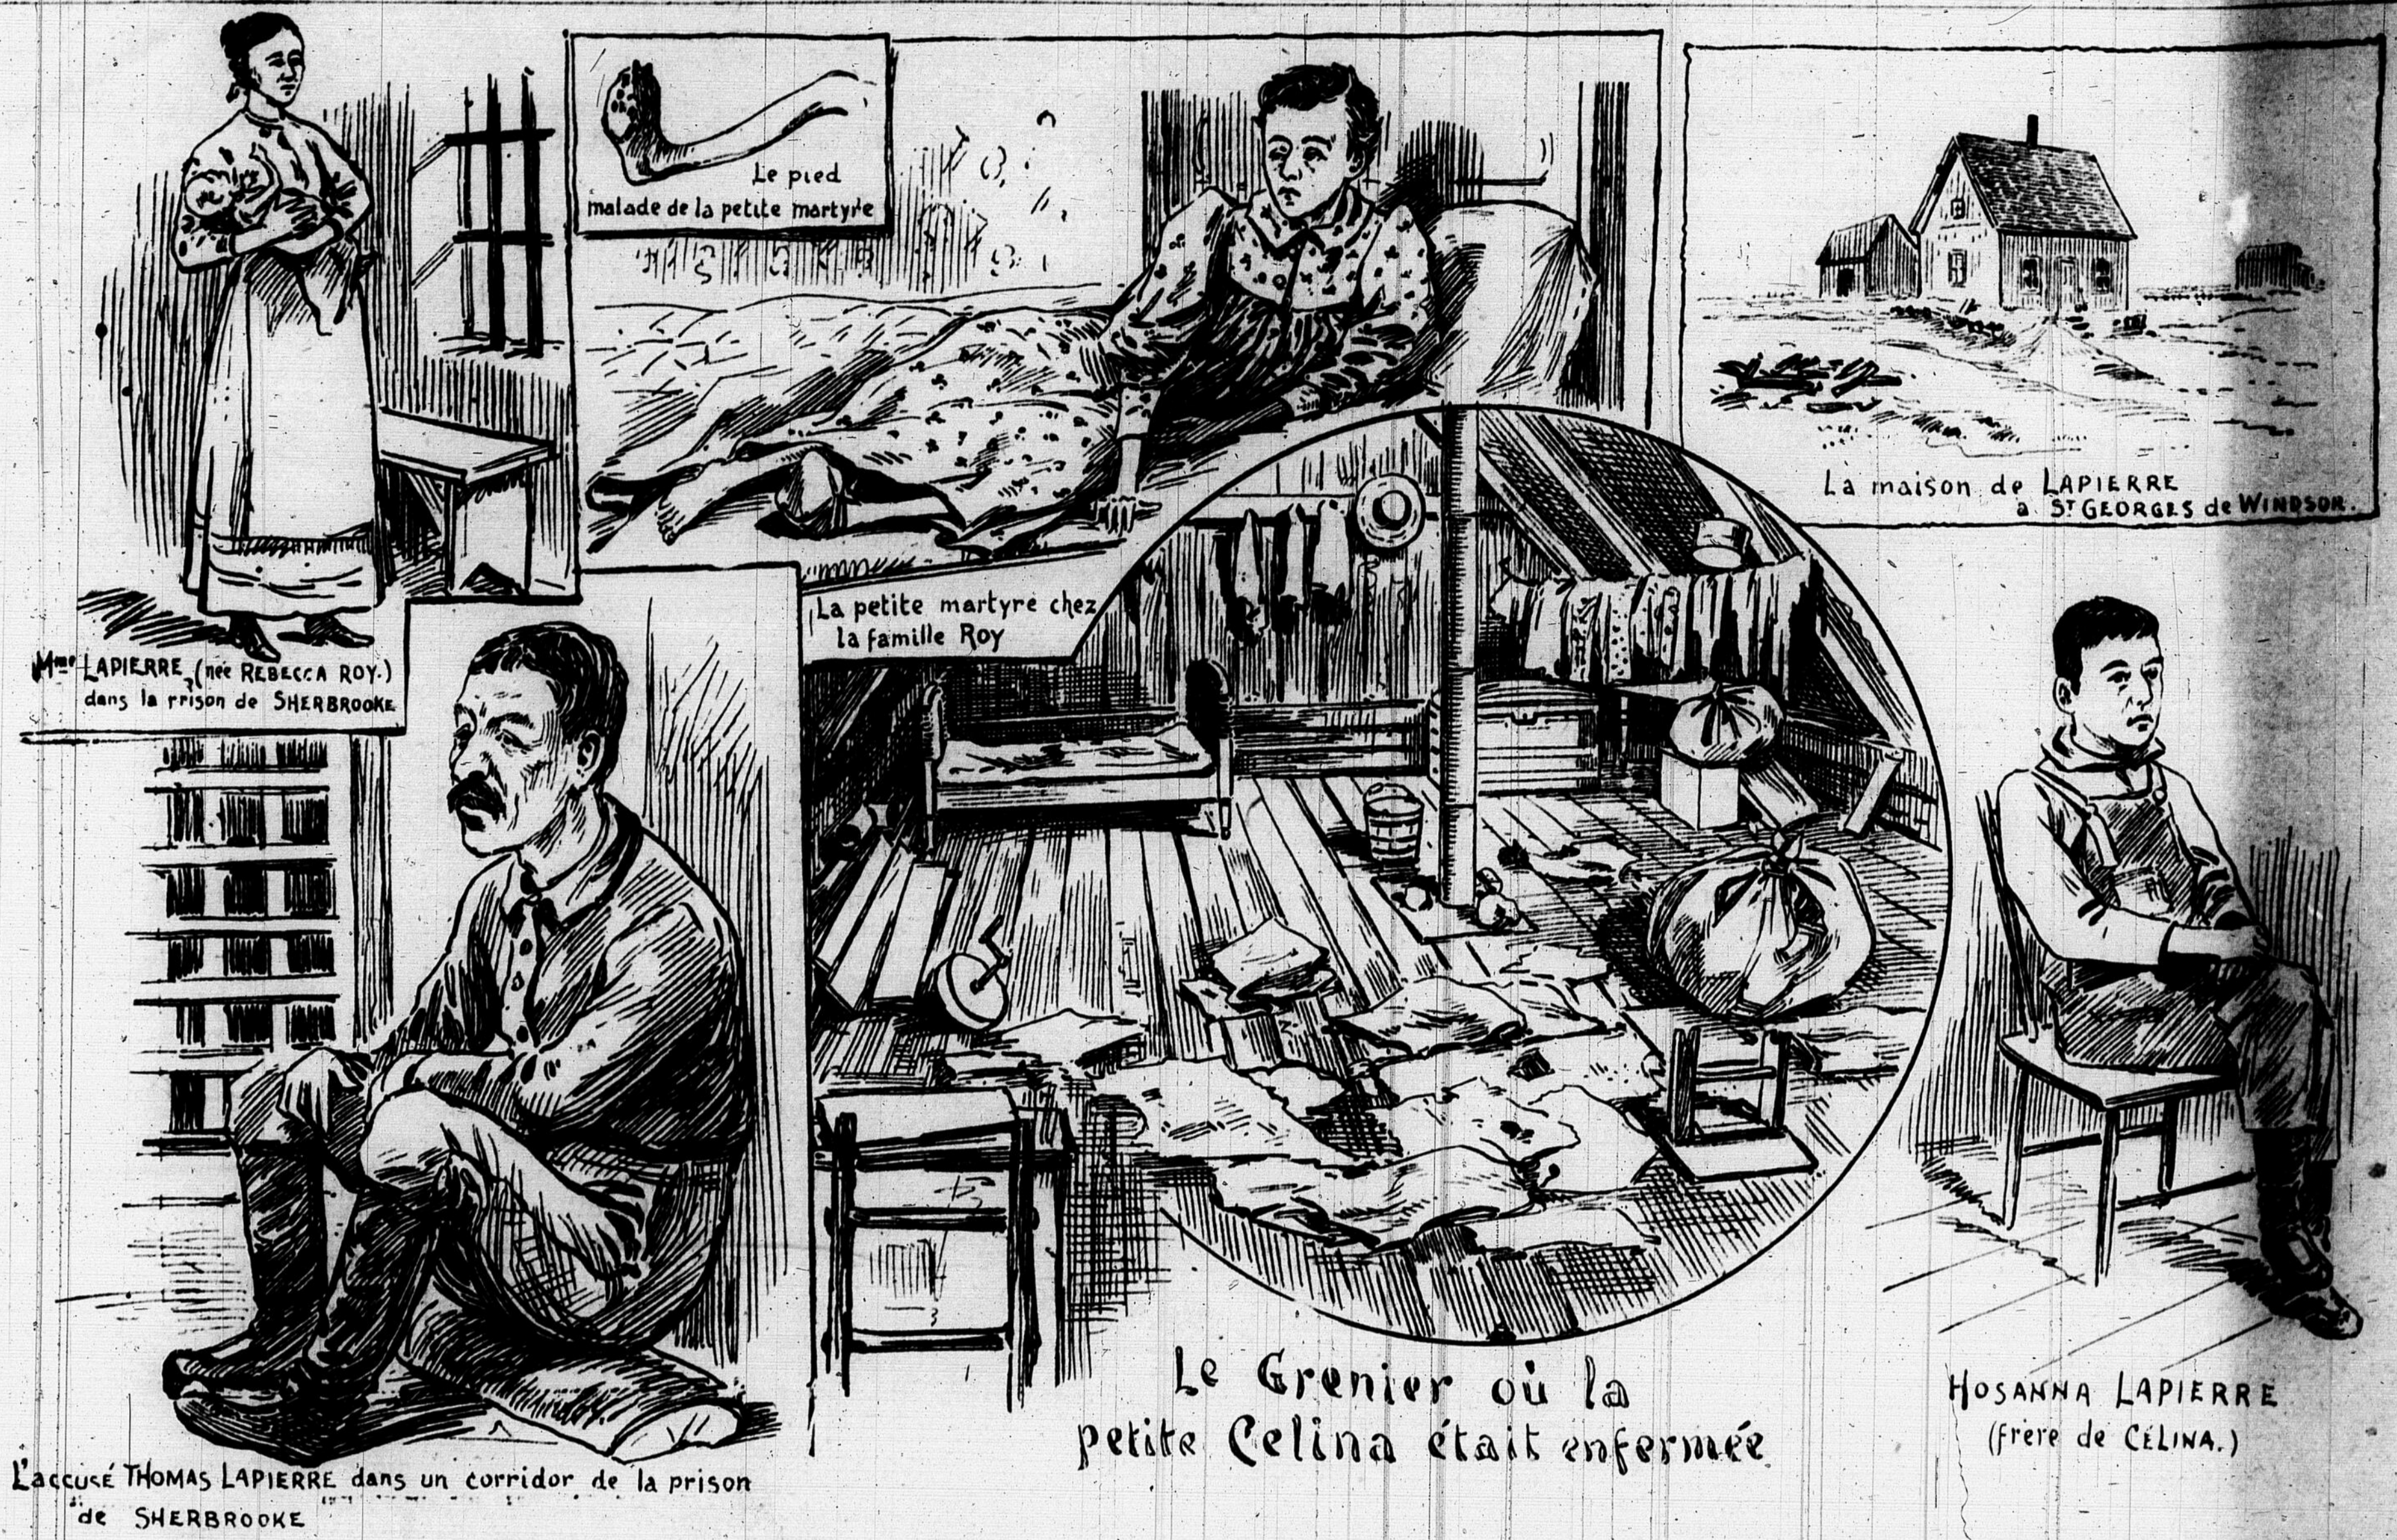

On one occasion her adopted brother filled her nose with peas, in the presence of the woman, and when Lapierre entered he told the boy to put in a couple more. This they did, using a stick to force the peas into the nasal passages.

On another occasion when she came down stairs, this same boy, in the presence of his mother, took some live coals from the stove and placed them on the little girl's tongue, burning it severely.

Again this boy, whose name was Francois, tied a string around her tongue, which he pulled to the satisfaction of himself and his mother.

These are only a few of the many cruelties disclosed by the little girl's evidence, but the atrociousness of even these few tortures is of a nature verging on infanticide, and calculated to prompt a thrill of horror in the steadiest vein.

Dr. Thibault was next called, and gave evidence with regard to the condition in which he found the child. When he first attended the child her foot was in a very serious condition, it having so decomposed as to cause a very unpleasant odor. He knew upon first sight that the limb had been frozen. The toes, he said, were all black and in an advanced stage of decomposition. The foot itself was also decomposed in places. On account of the weakened condition of the child, an operation was out of the question so he was compelled to bandage the limb and await results. With reference to her general appearance, he said, that the upper part of both eyes were black and one side of her nose was badly bruised. There were also other small bruises on the face, there was a mark on the forehead which might have been sustained in a fall. There were no visible bruises on her body. At this time she was in a very feverish condition her temperature registering 100. She was also in a very weak state, which he considered, was caused by lack of food. The inflammation of her foot would not have reduced her to such a weakened condition. He left orders to give the child milk and beef tea. This he afterwards learned she was unable to retain in her stomach.

Upon his second visit on the third day afterwards, he found her condition much improved. She, however, experienced much difficulty with her nose, being unable to breathe through it. After probing to some distance in her nostrils he extracted a pea. A considerable discharge immediately followed, showing that it had been lodged there for some days. He also noticed scars on her tongue, which he recognized as burns. From this on the doctor attended her every other day until her removal to Sherbrooke.

At the conclusion of Dr. Thibault's testimony the examination was adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

Through the kindness of La Presse, Montreal, we are enabled to present to our readers the accompanying cut, showing details of the Lapierre attempted murder case.

GREEK CRISIS.

Threatened With Revolution.

[Special to Record.] LONDON, April 28.—Great excitement reigns in Athens, caused by the reverses of the Greek troops, and the city seems to be on the verge of a revolution.

A despatch has been received by the Daily Mail from Paris, stating that the Greek cabinet has resigned.

Large meetings have been held in different parts of Athens and addressed by fiery Greek orators, who charge the government with having betrayed the cause of Greece.

Bodies of armed citizens parade the streets, and the popular feeling points to a revolution in favor of a republic.

It is reported that the government is contemplating the withdrawal of Greek troops from Crete and an appeal to the powers to settle the trouble. It is understood that the powers will not intervene until they are asked, even though the Turks carry their banner to the walls of Athens, but that when Greece requests the aid of the powers they will take steps which will put an end to the war.

BRIDGE OVER THE ST. LAWRENCE.

Coroner's Inquest at Barnston.

BARNSTON, April 29.—Coroner Pelletier, accompanied by Drs. Bachand and Stevenson, of Coaticook, went to Barnston, Wednesday, and held an inquest on the body of C. N. Remick, of that place.

Mr. Hiram Howe was foreman, and was assisted by an unusually intelligent lot of jurymen. The verdict was rendered that deceased came to his death by the self administration of some narcotic poison, taken during temporary mental aberration.

MR. PANNETON'S MEETINGS.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the supporters of Mr. Panneton was held in the north ward committee rooms on Tuesday evening. Mr. C. W. Cate was elected chairman and Mr. J. J. Penhale, secretary for the north ward and Mr. L. A. Bayley chairman and A. P. Lomas secretary for the center ward.

The voters lists were gone carefully over after which the meeting adjourned until Saturday night when all the supporters of Mr. Panneton are invited to be present.

A New Comedy.

"My Friend from India" is a pure farce comedy in three acts by H. A. Du Souchet, and must be seen to be appreciated. Erastus Underbolt, a retired Kansas City pork packer, in order to get his family into society, moves to New York. His son, Charles, becomes one of the boys and coming home early one morning brings with him a stranger, whom he afterwards, in order to get out of his scrape, palms off on his parents as a great theosophist from India. It is then the fun commences. The many ludicrous situations into which every one is thrown and the wonderful preparations indulged in making a most delightful side-splitting mix-up which finally comes out all right.

"My Friend from India" is booked at the Opera house for one night only on Friday, April 30.

What Advertising Costs

THE DAILY RECORD

Has an average circulation in the city of Sherbrooke of 900 COPIES A DAY.

These are purchased at one cent each, and go into nearly every house in the city.

For printing an advertisement this size (four inches) one day it costs only $1.80; two days, $3.25. One thousand dodgers, for distribution, will cost more than this, and not half of them read.

Can anyone afford to use dodgers when they can reach more people in the city of Sherbrooke for less money?

COOKSHIRE.

April 29.—Dr. A. R. Pennoyer went to Montreal yesterday to take his position in the hospital.

Mr. Henry Glanders, Farnham, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Flaws, left yesterday, after a pleasant sojourn.

The Cookshire Hockey club has received an invitation to send two representatives to attend a dinner at the College House, Lennoxville for this (Thursday) evening, 8.30. The invitation comes from the Lennoxville Hockey club.

After the regular consecration meeting of the Christian Endeavor last Monday evening, the balance of the evening was taken up by the reading of short papers on India, which were provided by the missionary committee. The papers were very instructive and interesting.

The Cookshire Mill Company's logs are coming down in first class shape. They are now into the main river, and when they are all at Cookshire there will be about twelve million feet of lumber.

There is some talk of a hockey ball being held in town soon. Better wait till the trophy arrives.

JOAN OF ARC.

Second Night of Sherbrooke Choral Festival.

The second concert of the series was held yesterday afternoon, in the Art Hall at 3.15. The programme consisted of choice ballads by the soloists and two part songs by the chorus.

This was the first appearance of the soloists, and the impression made by them was most gratifying.

In the evening the Art Hall was filled with an appreciative audience. The work of the chorus being Gault's "Joan of Arc." This is a cantata treating of the historical event in connection with the siege of Orleans and Rouen.

The "Maid of Orleans" was born on 8th January, 1412. Youths and maidens are holding May festival, which Joan attends, but brooding over the sad state of France she holds aloof from the festivities.

At a special call from heaven, which comes to her in "voices," she seeks aid from the governor of Vaucouleurs and assuming command of the army besieges Orleans.

Philip, in love with Joan, follows with her, and after many difficulties the siege is raised. Joan goes to the cathedral to give thanks. Victories follow, and then comes defeat, caused by treachery at Compeigne. (May, 1430.) Taken to Rouen she is tried, condemned and executed. (May, 1431.)

The characters are historical, save Philip, whose introduction into the cantata is suggested by historical mention of a rejected suitor.

The cantata is melodious and pleasing, and the rendering last night was faithfully accomplished. The characteristic features being well brought out, the material passages were very effective and were sung with breadth and vigor.

The ladies' choruses, especially the last one, "Fret not thyself today," were worthy of special mention, the voices blending very sweetly.

The choruses express three different sentiments, being joyful, martial and plaintive. Those dealing with the capture and death of the heroine being very expressive of the sorrow of the people.

The "Ave Maria" in the cathedral was accompanied by Mr. Arthur Dorey on a cabinet organ. This number introduced a touch of religious music.

The soloists entered thoroughly into the spirit of the work bringing out the dramatic effect with excellent judgment.

Mrs. Bradbury's straightforward pure style, beautiful and sympathetic voice, captivated every one.

Mr. Johnson, the tenor, has a voice of a different character from any of the soloists heretofore associated with the society. It is broad, rich and sympathetic. These qualities showed in the first air, "There is no one like her," and in duet with baritone, "Full flows the river."

Dr. Duff, the baritone, also combines a most attractive personality with a rich, mellow voice. He enters with his whole heart into everything he sings. In the bolero, "Who would not fight for freedom," he brought down the house.

This concert again manifested the good fortune of the society in the result of their choice of soloists. It would be difficult to secure a more happy combination, and the society deserves the thanks of the people of this district for giving them the opportunity of listening to such artists in a series of concerts.

The orchestra added to the favorable impression made on Tuesday evening. Their support of both soloists and chorus, was excellent and the instrumental passages were finely rendered.

Mr. Grundy, the pianist, accompanied the cantata throughout, excepting the intermezzo which was played by the orchestra alone.

The cantata occupied one hour and a half, after which the string orchestra rendered two of Czibulka's dainty compositions.

Dr. Duff sang, "The evening star," (Tannhauser).

Mrs. Bradbury sang the celebrated aria from Samson. "Let the bright seraphim." She was well supported by the orchestra and with trumpet obligato played by Mr. Barker.

The concert was brought to a close by a chorus arrangement of the "Lost Chord" finely rendered, with cabinet organ accompaniment by Mr. Dorey.

The attendance was limited by the capacity of the Art Hall, and the audience was most enthusiastic.

The afternoon concert to-day closes with a performance of Max Bruch's splendid cantata, "Fair Ellen."

The climax of the course occurs this evening in the Methodist church, when "The Creation" will be rendered by the society and soloists, supported by orchestra, piano and organ.

The attendance promises to be large, the public evidently appreciating the arrangements made for their entertainment this year.

The Cheap Sale of Furniture at John Edwards' has been so well patronized, he has decided to continue it until Saturday.

THE LAPIERRE CASE. Evidence for the Prosecution concluded this morning.

Madame Lapierre Takes the Stand in Her Own Behalf.

Dr. Thibault resumed the stand in the Lapierre case, before Judge Mulvena, this morning, when he was cross-examined by Mr. L. C.
Belanger, Q. C., counsel for the defence. This examination brought out no especially new or important features, his statements simply corroborating the evidence of yesterday. Considerable attention was devoted to the condition of the foot and if such a condition could have resulted from a bruise. With reference to the odor caused by the foot.
Dr. Thibault stated that it was entirely of a different nature than what would have resulted from a crush. In case of a crush the swelling would also have been of a different order. Judging by the appearance of the limb, on his first visit, he considered that the swelling might have taken place probably two weeks previously and the state in which he found it could only have been brought about by a severe freezing. In all, he had visited the patient eight or nine times.

On being re-examined by Mr.
Leblanc he stated that the weakened condition of the patient was due to lack of proper and sufficient nourishment as well as the inflamed and decomposed condition of her foot.
Madame Blanchette was the next and last witness for the prosecution. She and her husband had lived about two years on a farm only one quarter of a mile from Lapierre's house. During the cold weather of last fall she had seen the little one, in her bare feet, carrying water. This greatly surprised her as the weather was very sharp. Two of the other children were also outside but they had shoes on their feet.
The last time she saw the child outside the house was at about 8 o'clock on the morning of All Saints' Day. She was then in her bare feet. She called at Mrs. Lapierre's house about Christmas and saw the girl in the evening.
Her appearance was so changed that she did not, at first sight, recognize her. She called two or three times, subsequently, but did not see the child.

Upon the occasion of the last visit she remained the whole afternoon. As she saw or heard nothing of the little girl she made inquiries for her. Madame Lapierre then said that she was asleep upstairs, that she had been sick for some time and that if she died it would be the best thing for her.
Madame Blanchette said that they had four cows at this time, and they were perfectly well able to properly care for the girl.

The prosecution then declared their enquete closed, and Madam Lapierre was called as the first witness for the defence.
Judge Mulvena, before placing her under oath, explained that she would not be compelled to answer all questions, but that any answers made would be used for and against her.
Her testimony throughout was a direct contradiction of previous statements made by the other witnesses.

She said that she knew the child when she was two years old. Her husband's brother came to him last spring telling him that the little girl was running from house to house at Warwick, and that he had better look after her. Her husband accordingly brought her to their home in St. George de Windsor.
She said that when the little girl did go without shoes, it was at her own wish.
Upon one occasion, and only one, had she helped to do the cooking.

Madame Lapierre denied having ill-treated the child in any manner affirming, on the contrary, that both her husband and herself had treated the child with kindness.
Her explanation of the condition of the child's foot was that it had been crushed. While she was absent in the stable the child had attempted to carry a large stick of wood across the kitchen floor. The wood was, however, too heavy, and she had accidentally dropped it upon her foot.
Madam Lapierre said that she bandaged the injured limb, putting sweet oil upon it.

At the conclusion of her examination, which was a lengthy one court was adjourned till 2 o'clock this afternoon.

FOUND AFTER 250 YEARS.

(Special to Record.)
QUEBEC, April 29.—At last night's meeting of the city council a letter was read from Messrs.
Gibson and Cassils, of Toronto, a skin of the City of Quebec to purchase for $1,000 an astrolabe found near the Ottawa river, where it is supposed to have been lost by Samuel de Champlain on a portage on the seventh June, 1613.
It was found in August, 1867.
The master was referred to the finance committee.

wealthy young woman, a Miss Mary Clarke.

of British Honduras, has been appointed governor of St. George, one of the Windward islands.

was robbed by Corsican brigands a month or two ago, died recently of consumption at Ajaccio.

minister of foreign affairs, is the grandson of the general who so harshly suppressed the Polish revolution of 1863.

the father of Stephen Crane, the novelist, wrote a tract on popular amusements in which he condemned novel reading as one of the vices of the age.

Agostino Gatti, the London caterer who died recently, was a millionaire.
He was peasant born and lived as a peasant, with no desire to go into society. In later years he owned the Adelphi theatre.

Governor Lowndes of Maryland admits that as a farmer he has been a complete failure. Unlike most unsuccessful farmers, he says it was not the fault of the farm, but because he doesn't understand the business.

Professor Lewis Swift of Rochester has been awarded the Jackson gold medal by the Royal Astronomical Society of England in recognition of his services to the cause of science. He now has four gold, one silver and four bronze medals.

Dr. Lydia Rubinovitch, a Russian Jewess, has taken charge of the new bacteriological laboratory in the Woman's Medical college, Philadelphia. Dr.
Rubinovitch pursued the course of study at Professor Koch's laboratory in Berlin.

John Mauck, a pioneer of Washington, who cast his first vote for Jackson, died on the day before Christmas at Oakdale, in that state, at the age of 98 and left directions that his body be wrapped in a winding sheet and put in a plain pine coffin, as had been the usual way in his early life.

The tallest man in the English aristocracy, with the possible exception of the Duke of Somerset, is the young Duke of Leeds, known as "England's gin duke," from the fact that he is an active member of the firm of Holland & Co., makers of the famous gin. He is said to be the wittiest man in the house of lords.

American rights of her play, "The Tel-tale Heart," to Signor Novelli, the Italian actor.

purchased by Robert Mantell and M.
W. Hanley and will be produced at Philadelphia in the spring.
Robert Chambers has made for Augustine Daly the dramatization of "Guy Manning," which is soon to be produced under the title of "The Witch of Dumleugh."

DAINTY TRIFLES.
Very beautiful are the dressing bags with gold reponse fittings and tortoise shell backed brushes.
When one is luxuriously inclined, the passing of the days may be noted from illuminated calendars in gold frames.
Silver lamps designed to serve as corner pieces of the dinner table are made after an old French pattern and stand on two feet.
Fascinating beasts are represented in corkacrew handles which employ in their making stag, boar and rhinoceros tusks and gazelle and deer feet.
The latest shopping bag shown in Cincinnati by the leading jewelers is of white leather with gold clasp chains and scroll for the name in gold. Its price is not one of its attractions.

THE STANHOPE ASSAULT.

Rogers Committed to Sherbrooke Jail.

STANHOPE, April 28.—The assault made by George Rogers upon Forgraves at Stanhope Tuesday appears to have been fully premeditated. Forgraves had objected to Rogers drinking habits and especially to his bringing liquor to the house. Monday, Rogers bought of Forgraves his pocket knife, paying him for it thirty cents. Tuesday morning Rogers got drunk and went into the building being erected by Mr.
Burke to be used as a hotel. In a short time Forgraves quietly walked in when he was at once attacked by Rogers who cut an ugly gash in the cheek, when For-graves clinched with him, but was again attacked with the knife this time the cut taking effect under the left shoulder at a location to the left of the heart.

There was much blood lost and some internal bleeding. The blacksmith and others managed to rescue the victim and overpowering Rogers, he was put in charge of the magistrate Orange Young, who handcuffed him and put him under guard. An examination before justice Douin was held Wednesday noon when Rogers was committed to Sherbrooke jail and taken there by Mr.
Young, who drove with his prisoner to Dixville from which station they boarded the mixed train.

At the examination Rogers acted cool and almost indifferent, saying once that "he ought not to kick as it was his own knife I used." The impression is general that Rogers assaulted his man with the intention of doing him up. Dr. Stenning, who attended Forgraves said Wednesday night that he had just returned from visiting his patient and that previous indications pointed to recovery, but at the same time there was a chance of complications arising which would make the question of his recovery doubtful.
Forgraves is in good general health and has youth and a good constitution to help pull him through.

The building in which the act was committed is within a short distance of the International boundary line.

DISEASES OF TRADES.

RESULTS OF CONTINUED OCCUPATION OF MEN WHO WORK.

It Appears That Each Kind of Employment Has Its Peculiar Ailment—Both Physical and Mental Workers Fall Under the Rule—Politicians Die Early.

It is well known that there are a number of dangerous trades which give rise to serious diseases; but, as a matter of fact, almost every occupation has some ailment peculiar to itself.

Carpenters and cabinet makers are afflicted with varicose veins in the legs, and the action of the shoulder in sawing and planing produces a diseased condition of the large artery that runs from the heart to the arm.

Domestic servants are remarkable for suffering from typhoid fever. Housemaids are frequently afflicted with poverty of blood from drinking tea and running up stairs.

Miners, from working in the dark, become very irritable. Their eyes get weak, and their lungs become quite black—miners' lung.

India rubber workers have very bad headaches and great mental depression. Painters are poisoned by the lead they use so much, and all their muscles, but especially their wrist muscles, become very weak.

Recent Triumphs in Surgery. Cleansing of the wound itself was almost a surgical heresy a few years ago.

"We heard some of the strangest, most outlandish things last night," began the woman who gossips.

WOMAN'S PHYSIQUE.

Correct Proportions and How to Maintain Them.

In a lecture at the Academy of National Sciences in Philadelphia Professor A. B. Brubaker, discussing the subject of "Physical Development," said: "Professor Gottfried Schadow of the Royal Academy of Arts in Berlin has given to the world, in his figure of an artistically formed woman, the following measurements: Height, 68 1/2 inches; breadth of neck, 3 1/2 inches; shoulders, 15 inches; waist, 9 inches; hips, 18 1/2 inches.

"Long before Professor Schadow's time an unknown artist created the Venus de Medici, the world's ideal of perfection in the female figure, on these measurements: Height, 68 inches; breadth of neck, 4 inches; shoulders, 16 inches; waist, 9 1/2 inches; hips, 18 inches.

"Professor Sargent, with several thousand tabulated life measurements in hand, produced composite figures of the young American girl with these measurements: Height, 63 1/2 inches; breadth of neck, 3.8 inches; girth of neck, 12.1 inches; breadth of shoulders, 14.7 inches; breadth of waist, 8.6 inches; girth of waist, 24.6 inches; girth of hips, 13.1 inches; girth of hips, 35.4 inches; girth of calf, 13.3 inches; girth of upper arm, 10.1 inches; girth of thigh, 21.4 inches, and forearm, 9.2 inches.

"For the maintenance of the erect posture the following conditions must be realized: (1) The corresponding halves of the body must be in the same anatomical relation; (2) the center of gravity of the whole body must fall just in front of the last lumbar vertebra.

"These conditions are not always realized, and hence certain physical defects are observable, such as obliquity of the head, elevation or depression of the shoulder, curvature of the spine, and so forth.

"Among the defects which interfere with proper stature and proportions may be mentioned knockknees, bowlegs and pigeon toes.

"Pigeon toes are a term applied to the inward direction of the foot, dependent on insufficient development of the muscles which should turn the foot outward.

"It is difficult to understand why this constriction should have been indulged in through the ages. There is an idea, however, that it confers on the individual an artistic effect. The Greek woman of the decadent period suggested the methods and objects. It was adopted by the Romans at the beginning of the empire.

Not News. "We heard some of the strangest, most outlandish things last night," began the woman who gossips.
