Look what's happened to the little red schoolhouse in the past few years...

Big things are happening at the little red schoolhouse in North Hatlev.

Old-fashioned learn-by-rote methods are out the window, along with the strict authoritarian teaching they spawned.

In their place is a system designed with the student's ability in mind, allowing the child to progress at his own speed. In a nutshell—a tailor-made curriculum.

"With this attempt at individualized teaching," says John De Nora, Principal of elementary schools in North Hatlev, Coaticook and Aver's Cliff, "our students will develop their own human potential instead of merely having textbook information transmitted to them through their teachers."

In our schools, he said, we are trying to present more material and meet the varying abilities of each child, at his own level.

Mr. De Nora, who gained experience as a teacher and administrator in Chomedey, Greenfield Park and Ste. Adele, encourages the free system of education and even worked with students in decorating the school.

Routine has become a thing of the past in most aspects of the daily timetable. There are still bells that bring the children into classes and they can still be late, but there is no definite amount of work covered on any particular day.

Homework is of a special nature, rather than a habit for both teachers and students. And instead of the old final exam-pass-or-fail method, an overall picture of each child's progress is determined with small tests in the classroom.

The ungraded school, which comes closer to the needs of each learner, came into effect in Quebec with the implementation of "regulation one," following legislation by the provincial government in 1964.

"In the ungraded school," said Mr. De Nora, "organization and policy are re-structured so that a vertical progression up and through the school, without failing a complete year, becomes possible for all pupils."

Research has shown, he said, that in many classes only 20 per cent of the pupils are working at grade level. The

Mrs. Ethel Cruickshank teaches a class of eight-and nine-year olds who are involved in courses of individualized reading.

"Each student," she said, "brings a reading selection from home and learns from this rather than standard textbooks."

Records, overhead projectors and tape recorders are used extensively to illustrate reading principles to the young children.

"With their own reading material," she added, "the students draw, write or tell a story sharing what they have read with the rest of the class."

In one class, she said, there may be children from ages nine through 11 in levels four and five.

"But they are involved," said Mrs. Cruickshank, "and working together."

Students in all grades of the school worked together on an Apollo Space Project, which began with a Bell Telephone movie, Our Mr. Sun.

Mrs. Olive Vaughn helped the children to organize their own trip to the moon with a tape recording they put together themselves. A timetable of events was worked out and led to a simulated takeoff and landing of "Charlie Bear."

Grade 1 students built a large paper rocket and older pupils in Grade 6 held discussions to determine the results and merits of the event.

All levels in the school participated in the project and all watched the splashdown on television.

"Everybody did something," said Mrs. Vaughn, "and especially in the higher grades, we really became involved in the outcome of the project and its accomplishments."

She even had a debate, she said, to decide whether the money had been well spent in the venture.

In connection with the school's social studies program, trips to both North Hatlev and Hatlev were arranged to familiarize the students with their environment.

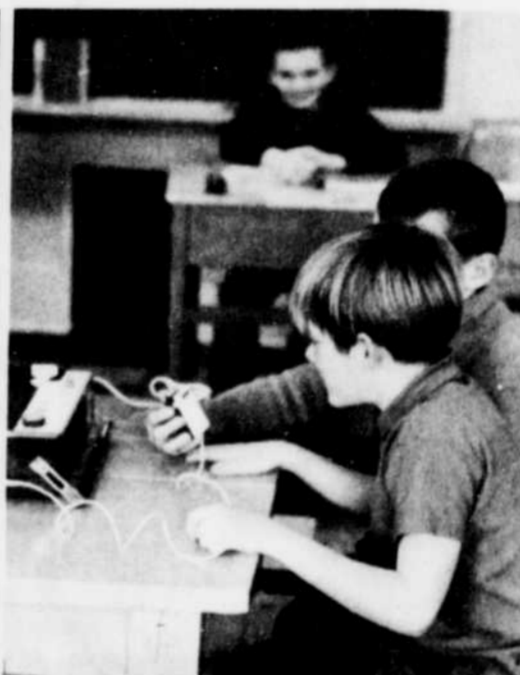

The school's students are from both towns and for this reason they spent a whole day visiting each location.

Mrs. M. J. Bean, who accompanied the children on their field trip, said that maps were made after the trip

"In the last few years, changes here have been concentrated on the philosophy and methods of teaching. The days of expecting every child to accomplish a certain area of a subject in a given period of time are gone forever."

range in a Grade 4 group might be from Grade 2 to 8, he added.

It is therefore necessary to create a structure which allows pupils to perform in their proper learning areas, he said.

"Students may go ahead in areas of special interest and skills. Timetabling is such that we attempt to have each child work on needed skills and areas of weakness."

With this system, not all students finish any given area of work in the same time. Regulation one states that, according to their abilities, pupils will spend five, six or a maximum of seven years in the elementary school.

Mr. De Nora, who likes the atmosphere of a small school, holds informal meetings with the staff once a week to discuss their progress and suggested improvements.

His principal ally in the school is head-teacher Mrs. Helen Pike, who assumes the bulk of Mr. De Nora's duties while he is away in Coaticook or Aver's Cliff.

A 30-year veteran of the school, Mrs. Pike has seen many structural changes and additions since the start of her career.

"In the last few years," she said, "changes here have been concentrated on the philosophy and methods of teaching. The days of expecting every child to accomplish a certain area of a subject in a given period of time are gone forever."

Mrs. Pike anticipates that the large number of dropouts we've seen in recent years will soon be eliminated. With the new approach, she said, everyone will be trained to do something and become an integral part of society.

"Each child here is treated as an individual," she added, "and does only what he is capable of doing. He doesn't fail anymore."

Students at the North Hatlev School don't fail because of the system which permits them to enter the next level while working on their weaker subjects.

The principle is well illustrated in the reading program underway at the school.

When a young student comes to the school, he is tested for his reading ability and put into a corresponding group. Depending on the pupil's experience with reading at home, he may have to be taught basic sounds and letters before beginning any regular course.

After the student is adequately prepared for classroom study, the attempt is made to have him taught on a completely personal basis.

and the region's history was thoroughly studied.

Other innovations in the school's system have been undertaken by Mrs. Linda Tock, who teaches art to all grades. Until recently, she taught a regular Grade 2 and 3 class, but is leaving shortly to be replaced by Mrs. Elsie Formagie.

In contrast with past years, Mrs. Tock is trying to expose the children to as many aspects of artists' media as possible.

"This is the first time they have worked with the various media and types of art," she said.

Among the recent efforts by some of the children in her classes, is a crayon-and-chalk display along with some novel works of art called Macaroni Moments.

Each student drew his own picture with small pieces of macaroni instead of using crayons or paints.

"Art should be taught in all primary schools," said Mrs. Tock, "because it teaches children to express themselves."

The entire school program is undergoing a transition period, with the development of imagination and creative talents the major goal.

"Our students need to be prepared for a world in which leisure is going to be an important factor," said Mr. De Nora.

"The school of today has to develop human potential to its fullest so that creativity and imagination will be most prominent tomorrow."

How Ready Is Your Child For School?

Many parents of five and six-year-olds ask themselves this question and it is an important one to answer. There are obvious pitfalls which we can fall into if the usual attitudes regarding school are thought to be correct.

Firstly, we should not automatically expect our children to be bright. All studies along these lines show that only about five per cent of our total population of children are top students. Does your child fall into this category or will he be just average?

Too many adults judge the "brightness" of children by their bright remarks or startling observations. These are inaccurate ways of judging intelligence. Many children have led unhappy lives in school because their parents expected them to get high ratings in all their schoolwork.

It is well to remember that all human beings are characterized by their uniqueness and that therefore every child has his own set of talents. These talents are not necessarily the same ones inherited or dreamed up by the parents and relatives.

In grade one, many children receive fairly high ratings and, unfortunately, too many adults use this as a gauge of things to come. This is not necessarily so because children continue to level off until the third year of school.

The third grade can be used as a reasonable gauge for measuring scholastic aptitudes. If parents began by expecting average work they would be happier and certainly more understanding of the results when their children do come home with average ratings.

In many respects, all children are the same. They all need love and care and help to find the way. Both parents and the school play a big part in this, but how much the school can do depends mainly on how much we do as parents.

School cannot make children learn, it can only help them to. And they won't learn unless they want to. There are skills which you can help them with and by so doing show that learning can be fun.

Building skills at home

—Cutting and pasting: Let him draw, cut (scissors should have blunt edges) and paste shapes he draws.

—Differences in things: Have him cut out big newspaper headlines. He will see which words or letters are alike and will begin to match them.

—Buy toys which have to be manipulated: Puzzles, take-apart toys, scales, clocks, calendars, playing cards, and blocks all help him come to grips with his world.

—Books: Read to him. Have him become aware that the pictures and words have connections. Help him build up a vocabulary of words for feelings for things, for actions. Knowing and using many words help him learn to read.

These are just some of the things you can do at home. Remember one important rule. If he is not ready to do these things do not force him into them. Wait and you will be rewarded by his willingness when he is ready.

SHERBROOKE — Want to witness an evolution of classical rock? See the Souls of Inspiration tomorrow night at Mitchell School.

Their sound is fed with fine rhythm and originality, twinkled with a touch of professionalism, and not one of the Souls is over 21.

Don't kid yourself, these guys can play well, considering they were beginners only four years ago.

To my recollection, the Souls of Inspiration were the first band in recent years to muster a candid round of applause when they hit Sherbrooke for the first time in September 1968.

Three of the Souls hail out of Red Lake Ontario, near the Manitoba border line. The fourth member is from Sherbrooke. Lead guitarist John Maciejewski, 20, is certainly one of the most promising performers in the region.

In the opinion of those who have heard him perform, "He's good, and I like him," admirers say.

Bassman Don Wilson, 18, is certainly the quietest member of the group, standing there on stage, gripping his eight string Hagstrom bass.

His value as a music maker is outlined when the Souls are on stage. Don does not steal the show, but his bass intervals in a song bounce in and out just at the right time.

Drummer Mark Paradis, 21, with the hair on his head and under his chin, proves his worth as a valuable addition to the group.

Sherbrooke's Raymond Cloutier joined the Souls last year.

Happiness for Raymond is an organ, and making good music. At the age of 21, the Soul's organ player has come along way from the piano lessons he took a long time ago.

Every member of the band believes he has something new to give, as evidenced by the original material they have thus far presented to appreciative audiences.

They are not phonies in the pop music world, and soon someone will come along and give them the break they deserve.

The Souls of Inspiration have been on tours with the Vanilla Fudge and Tommy James and the Shondells in Western Canada.

Since their foundation four years ago, the Souls have played high schools, dance halls and clubs in Eastern Canada.

They came to the Sherbrooke area in the summer of 1968, where they performed frequently at the Moulin Rouge and the Rockcliff Hotel near Stanstead.

A trip to Vancouver is planned with the band bus next spring, to see what's happening up there.

Zappa and Wald: Big Men on Campus

NEW YORK—(NEA)—On the surface, Frank Zappa and George Wald don't have much in common. Zappa, the zany Head Mother of the Mothers of Invention, looks like the stereotype of a hippie, which he more or less is. Wald looks more like the kind of guy who delivers biology lectures at Harvard, which he does.

But deep down inside, where it really counts, Zappa and Wald march to the beat of the same drummer (probably Ringo Starr, at that). They're both genuine, 100 per cent campus folk heroes, two of the ultrahip people whom today's students revere, identify with and are influenced by.

To find out just who the youth of America is turned on by, Youth Dynamics conducted a special survey.

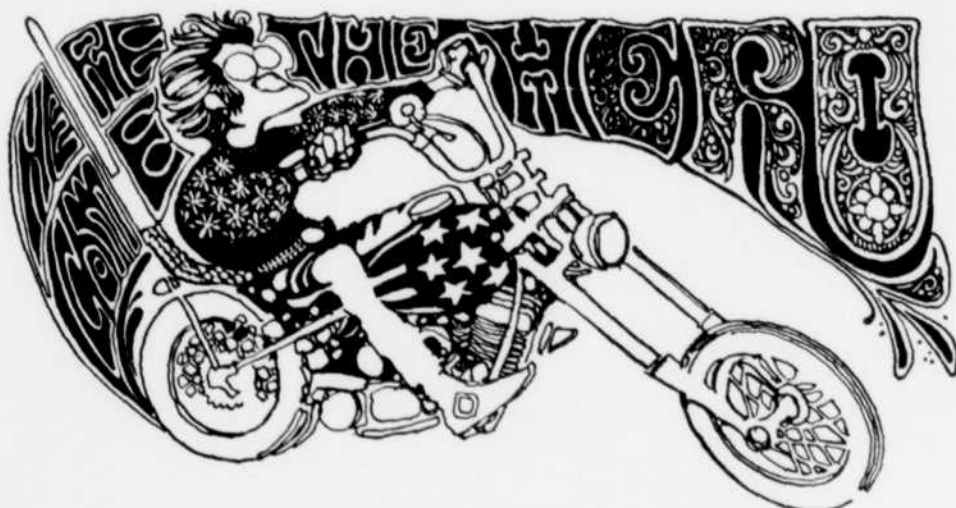

Some campus heroes who finished high on the list are Eldridge Cleaver ("He'll need all the ice he can find to keep his soul cool in Cuba," one CCNY coed volunteered), Bob Dylan, Che Guevara, the Rev. William Sloan Coffin, John Lennon, Norman Mailer, Janis Joplin (one of the few females to crack the lineup), Arlo Guthrie, Robert Kennedy, Dustin Hoffman, Muhammad Ali and Bobby Seale (the Black Panther leader), all of whom are pretty predictable.

But, to see how your generations are gapping, try on Arthur C. Clarke, Laura Nyro, Carlos Castaneda, Hermann Hess and Richard Farina.

If you know all five, you could rap with Zappa and come away fairly undamaged (no mean trick).

For those not in the know, Clarke, who is 51, wrote "2001" and is, as one Ohio State junior puts it, "the literary genius of the future," which may or may not make the 46-year-old Mailer the literary genius of the past.

Miss Nyro sings, very well, too, and is going to be, according to the kids in the know, "one of the hottest singers in the country in the next three months. She's the new Joni Mitchell." (By the way, know who Joni Mitchell is?)

Hess, a German novelist, wrote a lot of things of interest to young readers these days. His "Das Glasperlenspiel," written in 1945, deals with a utopian fantasy on the philosophy of withdrawal from the world. He also authored "Der Steppenwolf" in 1927 (it deals with the confusion of modern life and still makes great reading). There's a rock group called Steppenwolf.

Castaneda is the author of a tome about Don Juan, a Yaqui Indian who dreamed up a "way of knowledge" while munching on plants in Arizona, while Farina, by far one of the most revered figures on campus, is the late brother-in-law of Joan Baez and the subject of some of her most moving writings and comments.

Robert Downey, who put together "Putney Swope," the witty up-with-black-folks flick, is tabbed as a superhero on the way up, while Peter Fonda is busting through, thanks to "Easy Rider."

But by far and away the most talked about figures, the survey shows, are Zappa and Wald.

Wald was making his way through life with a lot of success (he won a Nobel Prize, for medicine and physiology, in 1967) and not too much fanfare until last March, when he delivered a speech on "A Generation in Search of a Future" to 1,500 students and scientists at MIT. Now he's hailed as the patron saint of the young. "The next Dr. Spock," according to the survey crowd, and for good reason.

A typical Waldism goes like this:

YOUR ALL NIGHT STATION

chlt

24 hours a day

"I think this whole generation of students is beset with a profound uneasiness and I don't think they have quite defined its source. I think I understand the reasons for their uneasiness even better than they do. What's more, I share their uneasiness."

As for Zappa, a frequent lecturer on campuses around the country (he doesn't have a Nobel Prize, but he's all for peace), his role as a social worker through music has made him something of a giant in his field.

"The only way you can fight for survival is through social outrage," Zappa says.

and today's students seem to be tuned in to what the self-proclaimed oracle of rock has to say.

Zappa, who seems to take life with a grain of salt (he's been accused of putting down everything), is a firm believer that "good people come in all kinds of personal packaging," which may explain why he looks nothing at all like George Wald.

One thing they do have in common, though, is that they're both over 30. But, of course, they both know all about Hermann Hess.

Grads: Do not bend, staple or mutilate us

SHERBROOKE — Two graduate business students told a Chamber of Commerce dinner yesterday they expect to enter a world of people when they graduate, rather than being cogs in an impersonal machine.

Roger Houle, who along with fellow University of Sherbrooke graduate student Pierre Tremblay addressed the meeting, told the Chamber members and guests:

"When I leave the university and go into business I expect to be treated as an individual, not a number."

Business students from Bishop's and U de S were guests at the dinner which was called to establish closer ties between business leaders and students.

Mr. Houle said the business student expects to have both his material and existential needs fulfilled when he enters the world of commerce.

"When I leave the University and go into business," he said, "I expect to be treated as an individual not a number."

He also stressed that the young graduate expects management to hold democratic attitudes rather than the "autocratic ones which have been en vogue for too many years now."

If the graduate presents a suggestion, management should be interested. If the suggestion has already been tried you should not merely turn him away, but explain to him why it can't work.

"Usually he will try to work out a solution with even more vigor than he normally would."

Mr. Houle said there is a need for a feeling of security

"Where am I going, how far will I get, how long will it take?" These are all questions the graduate asks himself and if you can't help him he won't be productive."

Mr. Houle said a graduate has to decide which, in his immediate future, will take prominence: Life in the small enterprise or the big business.

"In a large industry the student has the greatest number of possibilities to expand on. Whereas in a small business he has a greater overall view of the position and the responsibilities involved."

He said the choice is difficult, but usually the graduate first chooses an initiation in big business.

He said a graduate needs an efficient and adequate initial training period in the business world, to properly plan his future early in his career.

He said there is an equal need for the graduate to feel necessary and have a certain sense of accomplishment.

Mr. Tremblay's speech centred on what the student has to offer to the business world.

"The first thing you should do is stop trying to train them after they leave the school benches. Too often the student is confronted with an attitude by the employer where he feels that the theory he has learned in school is not applicable to the business world."

"What they don't realize is that in school we are trained out not only for 1969, but also for 1975."

"That way," he added, "a student keeps getting more valuable to the company as time goes on."

Crown corporation An answer to postal puzzle

OTTAWA — (CP) — Making the Canada post office a "dynamic progressive, efficient operation with commercially-oriented executives and employees" means it must become a crown corporation, a consulting firm said Thursday.

Postmaster-General Eric Kierans tabled the 190-page study in the Commons. It was prepared by Kates, Marwick and Co. of Toronto.

Titled A Blueprint for Change, the mass of recommendations, graphs, charts and statistics—resulting from 15 separate studies and assembled by the post office and six consulting firms—cost about $250,000.

"From these studies emerged the overpowering conclusion that the post office, as a Crown corporation, could better fulfil its role in the future," says the report.

Mr. Kierans gave no indication of what the government intends to do with the recommendations. The proposals will be studied.

Says the report:

"Down one road, unless fundamental changes are effected, lie steadily-deteriorating services to the public and a mounting annual deficit which by 1980 could exceed $500,000,000."

The deficit was $88,000,000 in the 1968-69 fiscal year.

Down the other road lay a

"stable, progressive organization providing a vital national service at a fair cost...."

FORESEE MORE MAIL

The department and its 48,000 employees face a rising volume of mail, a lack of equipment—"indeed there is an acute shortage of almost every type of modern mail-handling equipment"—rising costs and increasing competition, the report said.

Rate increases were needed if deficits were to be avoided.

Analysis led "unalterably to the conclusion that the economic fate of the post office rests squarely with the flexibility and freedom to adjust rates to cover expenditures."

The consultants suggested a two-year target for conversion to a Crown corporation.

Projected expenditures showed that by 1979-80 a first-class mail rate of 12 cents would be needed for a profitable operation, and by 1995 a rate in the range of 25-25 cents. The present rate is six cents.

BILL 62 'No school choice for immigrants'

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal Catholic School Commission said Thursday the new provincial language bill will force future immigrants who cannot speak enough English to attend French public schools against their wishes.

Its brief to the Gendron commission on the status of the French language in Quebec said this would be contrary to the bill's guaranteed right for all parents to choose the language of instruction for their children.

Pierre Carignan, president of the school commission, said making immigrants unable to speak adequate English attend French schools would be essential if French is to remain a majority language in Montreal.

The brief said that in the school year 1967-68, 4,022 French-speaking students enrolled in English schools, about 10 per cent of the English school population.

The brief said students of "British origin" in English schools totalled only 24 per cent. Students of non-British origin totalled 66.6 per cent.

SUGGESTS SOURCES

The brief urged encouragement of more immigration from countries such as France, Switzerland, Belgium and Italy which "by their cultures are closer to Quebec."

It called for harder examinations, written and oral, for future teacher candidates, a better quality of French taught in Quebec's universities and junior colleges and more French textbooks to replace English ones in French schools and universities.

The five-man language commission, headed by 44-year-old Jean-Denis Gendron, vice-dean of Laval University's faculty of letters, was set up by the Quebec government in December, 1968.

Mr. Carignan testified Roman Catholic schools here have no had sufficient revenue in the past to match the Protestant school system.

Equalization of tax revenues did not exist in Montreal until two years ago and still did not cover all of Montreal Island.

The matter came up when Prof. Gendron asked why immigrants seemed to find education in the Catholic schools inferior to that offered by Protestant schools.

The commission heard Montreal business executive H. L. Blachford say earlier he is worried about the growth of racism in Quebec.

He moved the head office of his chemical-manufacturing company, H. L. Blachford Co., to Toronto two years ago. Established in 1921, it employs between 75 and 150 persons in Quebec and between 25 and 50 outside the province depending on volume of business.

Mr. Blachford said he sees the growth of racism in speeches and attitudes that threaten the elimination of English-speaking schools in Quebec.

Air strike threatened Control to Minister: Your advisers goofed

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Air Traffic Control Association, approaching a legal strike position, Thursday said Transport Minister Don Jamieson was badly advised in his statements that flying services could be maintained in the event of a walkout.

A statement from the 1,000-member association, awaiting a conciliation board report due today, said Mr. Jamieson was reported to have said supervisory and military personnel could be used.

"This is clearly impossible. Military personnel are too few in number and are not trained to the required standards to maintain and control commercial and private flying services."

"The supervisory personnel mentioned by the minister are members of our association and would be included in any legal withdrawal of air services."

"We feel the minister is badly advised by the senior members of his staff. The irresponsible statements being attribute to the

Vets disagree with pension cost figures

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Council of Veterans has challenged the federal government's estimate that full implementation of the Woods Report would result in a $12,233,950 annual increase in pension costs.

The estimate was contained in a white paper issued last August following an examination of the veterans affairs department by a committee headed by Mr. Justice Marvin Woods of Saskatchewan.

In a brief presented to the Commons veterans affairs committee Thursday, the council said this cost could be reduced to $3,459,914, including $20,000,000 for a 10 per cent interim increase in the basic pension rate.

The council's estimates for implementation of eight recommendations in the report are $65,114,036 less than estimates contained in the government's white paper.

The brief estimates costs for an increased basic pension rate at $20,000,000 compared to the government's estimate of $56,545,000, and says multiple disability pensions would cost $1,334,964 compared to the government's estimate of $20,000,000.

Costs of implementing the report could be cut a further $12,600,000, the brief says, by abandoning three Woods Report recommendations.

C. H. Chadderton, secretary of the veterans council, told the committee that because his organization recognizes the serious financial situation at present, it is prepared to forgo estimated expenditures of $10,000,000 for increased pensions for widows, $100,000 for increased pensions for parents, brothers and sisters and $2,500,000 for continuation of children's pensions after age 21.

Mr. Chadderton estimated 648 veterans would be eligible for multiple disability pensions and said he cannot understand cost and eligibility figures used earlier by Deputy Veterans Affairs Minister J. S. Hodgson.

Mr. Hodgson estimated 1,500 veterans would be eligible for multiple disability pensions and said the program would cost approximately $4,000,000.

The committee agreed to request Mr. Hodgson to explain how his department calculated its multiple disability estimates.

Premiers cool to summit

OTTAWA (CP) — Premiers are not showing any marked enthusiasm for the federal-provincial summit meeting here Feb. 16 on the Canadian economic situation, federal sources said Thursday.

They said Prime Minister Trudeau, suggesting the meeting to the premiers as long ago as October, proposed that the conference last at least two and possibly three days.

They added that the first provincial leader to suggest that the meeting could be completed in a single day was Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan.

At this week's constitutional conference here, Mr. Thatcher said his province is interested in economic issues and not in a new constitution.

He mentioned specifically an economic "crisis" in wheat, potash and high freight rates.

Three items have been put on the agenda for the one-day meeting in February and officials said they do not see how they can be covered comprehensively in such a short time.

The three subjects are the economic situation, with particular attention to inflation, pollution—particularly water pollution—and tax reform.

Stanstead oil stove explodes

STANSTEAD — A kitchen oil stove explosion, which witnesses said could be heard a mile away, caused extensive damage to a building on Railroad St. yesterday.

No one was injured in the explosion which occurred in the three-room apartment occupied by Roger Hamilton and Donald Rollins.

Fire Chief Wilfred Currier of the Rock Island Fire Dept., which answered the call and had the fire out in minutes, said the blast caused considerable soot, fire and water damage to the apartment as well as the main floor of the building.

The fire was contained before it could spread to nearby wooden buildings.

Unemployment soars 40,000 from a month ago

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment in Canada amounted to 4.4 per cent of the labor force Nov. 15, as it rose by 40,000 from a month earlier to a total of 354,000.

On Nov. 15 last year, the figures were 4.2 per cent. Two years ago it was 3.8 per cent.

Figures released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the manpower department

Thursday showed that most of the unemployment increase between October and November involved adults over 20 years of age.

The monthly report said the November figure represented the highest rate of unemployment since last winter—except for the abnormally high figures of May and June, when there was an influx of students on the labor market.

The 4.4-per-cent figure, when adjusted on a seasonal basis, is equivalent to an unemployment rate of 5.1 per cent. On this basis, the Nov. 15 figure compares with 5.3 per cent in October and last June's 5.1 per cent.

The figures are adjusted seasonally to account for such factors as the entry and exit of students in the labor force, weather conditions which result in decreased employment, and holidays such as Christmas which may result in increased employment.

Employment between October and November declined by 67,000 to 7,761,000, largely because of a seasonal slack in agriculture and manufacturing. There was also a decline in construction, transportation, communications

Applying of austerity

It's a poor rule to which there are no exceptions and this seems to apply in the federal government's austerity program. None can argue that even a program as widely heralded as that proclaimed by Prime Minister Trudeau can be applied everywhere with equal firmness and determination.

Conditions alter cases but it would be interesting to learn just how these special circumstances and conditions are assessed.

It is interesting, if not surprising that Prime Minister Trudeau has exempted his own office from the economy cuts as well as the departments headed by two of his closest cabinet colleagues—Hon. Jean Marchand and Hon. Gerard Pelletier.

It must be more than co-incidence that Mr. Marchand's regional economic expansion program and Mr. Pelletier's campaign to make Canada bilingual are projects dear to Mr. Trudeau's heart at the present time.

But of greatest concern to the Canadian taxpayer is the administration's effort to reduce the efficiency of the office of the Auditor-General Maxwell Henderson.

The auditor General's office is no mere government department, but rather is quite the opposite.

Over the years Canadian Governments, regardless of their political color, have taken a grim view of the Auditor-General and his staff because of their continued attacks on misuse of the national revenues.

Mr. Henderson's annual reports, like those of his predecessors, have regularly chronicled bureaucratic extravagances and mis-spending and have offered dramatic proof of just how wasteful and inefficient big government can be.

Under these circumstances it is not surprising that the Auditor-General is a prime target for governmental "austerity."

The Red Kettle drive

One of the traditions of the Christmas season, almost as well accepted as Santa Claus, is the Christmas Kettle of the Salvation Army in which citizens are asked to place their donations toward the Army's Christmas relief program.

Proceeds from the kettle on Wellington Street, go to providing Christmas food baskets to needy families and individuals throughout the district.

Despite the many welfare programs offered by the federal, provincial and municipal governments, the need for special services at the Christmas season remains unabated and due to the general easing of the economy the demands this year are higher than they have been for some years past.

The Christmas Kettle appeal is directed to everyone and is largely effective because its success represents hundreds of small donations from the ordinary citizens rather than a few large contributions.

The odd change left after paying the sales tax on a modest purchase in the nearby store, the price of a glass of beer cut off the daily consumption or the nickel the bus fares have not as yet gone up if placed in the kettle would assure the success of the campaign.

The Red Kettle means that the people of Sherbrooke can assure a happier Christmas for their less fortunate co-citizens without too much personal deprivation.

Dig out that nickel, dime or quarter—or even the odd bill for that matter.

TIMELY QUOTES

Man and the rat, it has been said, seem to be the only animals who are prone to kill their own kind. . . . Oddly enough, the greatest deterrent to global conflict in this nuclear age is perhaps man's capacity to destroy his fellow creatures. Great fear may prevail where reason has failed.

—Sir Percy Spender, former president of the International Court of Justice and ambassador to the United States.

WASHINGTON — Time flies by so fast that it is always good to review, every year or so, why we are in Vietnam.

"Sergeant, will you start the briefing?"

"OK, you guys, now pay strict attention, because I'm going to say it only once. The reason we are in Vietnam is to protect the gooks from being overrun by Charley."

"Charley is the enemy. Is that correct, Sergeant?"

"Yes, sir. He's also a gook, but he's their gook, and the exercise is to knock off more of their gooks than they can knock off of our gooks."

"Sergeant, I hate to interrupt, but could you use another word other than gook when discussing the Vietnamese people?"

"Yes, sir. I'll use dinks. Now the big reason we're there is to train our dinks to be able to fight Charley after we pull out. This is called Vietnamizing the war. There is some question whether our dinks can do it because Charley is a helluva fighter and you have to admire him, even if you hate him."

"Do you have another word besides dinks?"

ANOTHER NAME

"We also call them slopes. They only good slope is a dead slope."

"Wait, Sergeant, I believe you should qualify that by saying the only good slope is a dead slope, if he's one of their slopes."

"That's what I meant. Now there's no problem knowing who the good slopes are in Saigon. But when you get out of Saigon, any slope, dink or gook could or could not be working for Charley, including women and children."

"And that presents a problem doesn't it, Sergeant?"

"This is our major problem in Nam. The papa sans and mama sans all look alike, and sometimes you could burn down a hootch and it could belong to a good slope or it could belong to a bad dink — you never know. If you burn down the hootches of the good gooks, then you lose them to the Cong. But if you burn down the hootches of the bad gooks, then it serves as a warning to them not to cooperate with Charley."

"Sergeant, don't you think you ought to tell them what a hootch is?"

"It's somebody's home. Everyone knows that. Now in spite of what you read in the papers, the pacification program isn't going as well as the Saigon government would like you to believe, and some areas that are supposed to be occupied by friendly slopes are, in effect, still controlled by Charley."

UNSURE? ZAP FIRST

"What do you do if you're not sure?"

"You zap first and ask questions later."

"I think you should mention though, Sergeant, that we do not condone killing innocent people."

"Of course we don't. We have to win them over to our side, and you're not going to do that if you kill them. At the same time if the people are on their side, you're not going to take a chance that they're going to kill you."

"We should all keep that in mind."

"Now, our only purpose in being in Nam is to protect the Vietnamese so they won't be taken over by the Commies."

"The best way to persuade the Commies they can't win is by body counts. The more people we can kill the less chance there is for a Commie takeover."

"At the same time, Sergeant, we must be certain that the bodies we count are only Communist bodies, and not the bodies of innocent victims of bombing and artillery."

"That's correct, sir. If there is any question as to whether it was a good gook or a bad gook, it's best that he or she be left out of the final tally."

"Thank you, Sergeant. I believe everyone understands it. Now, are there any questions?"

North shore: Its spring

By BORIS MISKEW

BAIE COMEAU, Que. (CP)

—The spirit of Col. Robert R. McCormick is still evident in the nearby woodlands as the north shore of the St. Lawrence grows fat on United States capital investment.

The American publisher and adventurer first stepped into the wilderness of Quebec's north shore in 1915 in search of adequate pulpwood supplies for his blossoming newspaper operation.

It was during one of several trips to Ontario and Quebec to inspect timber limits that Col. McCormick, elected president of the Tribune Co. of Chicago a few years earlier, stumbled on the Quebec north shore.

Since then, the region has become one of the most prosperous in the entire province.

About $3,000,000,000 in investment has been poured into the area, providing a source of livelihood for more than 100,000 people and substantial revenues for the provincial government.

EARNINGS HIGHEST

It is one of the few areas in Quebec which gives much more to the province than it asks for, and where the average weekly earnings are among the highest in Canada, let alone Quebec.

The north shore region roughly covers an area east of the Saguenay River and north of the mouth of the St. Lawrence and the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

The industrial operations generally are concentrated in Baie Comeau, about 400 miles northeast of Montreal. Port Cartier—formerly known as Shelter Bay—and Sept-Îles, which is about 125 miles downstream from Baie Comeau.

When Col. McCormick first set foot on the north shore, the area was practically desolate, with a few tiny fishing villages and only one solvent industry in more than 300,000 square miles of territory.

That industry consisted of a small pulp mill at Clarke City, set up in 1908. Financial difficulty and a separatist-supported strike several years ago led, ironically, to the shutting down of the mill, leaving Clarke City a sort of ghost town.

Although the first north shore timber limits were leased in 1915 at Shelter Bay, no wood was cut until after the First World War.

MILL OPENED LATER

By 1937, the Quebec North Shore Paper Co. opened a newsprint mill at Baie Comeau, the first major industrial undertaking on the north shore of the Lower St. Lawrence.

This was 24 years after the start of newsprint manufacturing by the parent Canadian company, the Ontario Paper Co., at Thorold, Ont.

Both companies are owned by the Tribune Co. which publishes the Chicago Tribune, Chicago Today, the New York News and a number of other American newspapers.

The Chicago Tribune was founded in 1847, and eight years later Joseph Medill bought an interest in the newspaper at a time when it had run into financial troubles.

Mrs. Medill, a lawyer born near Saint John, N.B., who was Col. McCormick's grandfather, was credited with rescuing the paper from virtual bankruptcy.

The need for assured newsprint supplies in the future led Col. McCormick and The Tribune to look toward Canada. And the lack of timber limits near Thorold paved the way for the vast pioneering developments on the north shore.

Preparations for cutting and delivery of wood to Thorold began in 1919 at Shelter Bay and, after that plant went into operation, timber limits were expanded along the Manicouagan and Outardes rivers.

Part of the leasing agreement called for the building of a mill on or near the basin of the Manicouagan or Outardes, now the site of a gigantic Hydro-Quebec power development.

The decision to build the pulp and paper mill in Baie Comeau came during the greatest depression the world had ever known.

The company completed a power station it had begun on the Outardes River in the mid-1920s to supply electricity to the mill and new-born town.

The company later received the right to develop the first falls of the Manicouagan River, and decided to go ahead with work on the site in 1951.

It constructed the McCormick dam, named after the colonel, and a 100,000-horse power plant, several times the capacity it actually needed at the time.

It then went out in search of customers for power and found success when the British Aluminium Co. Ltd. decided to build a smelter at Baie Comeau.

GOT NEW PARTNERS

The British Aluminium decision gave diversity to what had been a one-industry town. The British company and Quebec North Shore Paper thus became partners in the formation of the Canadian British Aluminium Co. in Baie Comeau.

However, Reynolds Metals Co., an American firm, acquired a 40-per-cent interest in Canadian British Aluminium from Quebec North Shore Paper in 1966 and now owns almost the entire assets of CBA.

Meanwhile, Quebec North Shore Paper and Canadian British Aluminium formed the Manicouagan Power Co., whose primary purpose is to supply power to the smelter and the paper mill, and the paper company still retains 60-per-cent interest in the

A man who'd seen the growth of the north shore since just after the First World War was Arthur A. Schmon, who later became chairman and president of both Ontario Paper and Quebec North Shore Paper.

STIRRING SIGHT

Describing the north shore countryside as he had remembered it years before, he said:

"I flew over Baie Comeau with Col. McCormick in the winter of 1935-36 just before the building began. You could not imagine a more desolate scene.

"The rivers and lakes were frozen, at Baie Comeau there was only a wharf and a clearing or two, with the Outardes powerhouse standing inactive off in the distance.

"For as far as the eye could see to the north there was nothing but snow-covered wilderness."

In 1962, a couple of years before his death, Mr. Schmon had this to say:

"Just recently I flew into Baie Comeau at night, and there twinkling like emeralds, rubies and diamonds were the lights of a modern, prosperous town.

"Where there had been the chill of isolation, there was the warmth of people and activity. There are not many sights that have stirred me so."

Hussars will remain despite militia cuts

SHERBROOKE — The Sherbrooke Hussars will be one of the militia units to remain while others are disbanded by Ottawa's recently announced militia reorganization.

Lt.-Col. J.B.J. Archambault, CD, deputy commander of the Canadian Armed Forces Quebec Region, made the announcement during a ceremony last night at the William St. Armoury when the Hussars' Commanding Officer, Lieut. Col. James Strickland, turned over his command to Lt.-Col. Maurice H. Jackson.

Open to the public, last night's parade recalled military practices that date back to early military procedures.

The Sherbrooke Hussars, now 102-years-old, celebrated their regimental centennial year with Canada's observances of her 100th year.

The ceremony concluded 18 years service with the Canadian Forces Reserve for Lt.-Col. Strickland. He was attached to the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan from 1941 to 1945.

A native of Sherbrooke, Lt.-Col. Strickland enlisted in the Sherbrooke Regiment on Sept. 1, 1951, to carry on a tradition of militia reorganization.

In civilian life, Lt.-Col. Strickland is associated with the National Life Assurance Company, and McManamy and Baldwin Insurance Inc. of Sherbrooke. He has been married to Donna McPherson since June 27, 1959.

Also born in Sherbrooke, Lt.-Col. Jackson is a graduate of the Sherbrooke High School and attended Bishop's University.

He joined the Royal Canadian Navy as an ordinary seaman and remained in the service until the war's end in November, 1945.

He first enrolled as an Officer Cadet in Sept. 1952. With the amalgamation of the Sherbrooke Regiment and the Hussars in 1965 to form the present Sherbrooke Hussars, he was transferred to the regiment and in August 1966 was named second-in-command.

In civilian life, Lt.-Col. Jackson is employed with American Biltrite Rubber Co. of Sherbrooke. He is married to Rose Fontaine and has two sons, Gregg and James.

SKIING

in the Townships

By Charles Catchpaw

According to CBC sports commentators, there are over 380,000 snowmobiles in North America and 82 different makes. It's a costly sport to begin but there must be some merit in the game. I have it on good authority that snowmobiling runs a close second to skiing for outdoor winter play, and definitely holds second place in money invested.

While snowmobiling is a great pastime and lots of fun, very few really appreciate the dangers in this sport. In fact, 26 died in Canada last year playing with these motorized horses, and while we hear so much about hunting accidents, motorized snow-scooting took more lives than chasing down game.

As the CBC chap said: "It would appear too much anti-freeze goes into night rides particularly, as that seems to be when the largest number of the mishaps occur." He recommended that all snowmobiles be equipped with lights, have good visible markings and cautioned against dragging skiers and toboggans.

The Mt. Orford ski patrol will have 43 members this winter, a good indication of growth at this popular centre in the Quebec Provincial Park.

Harvey Catchpaw, works manager at the area is also patrol leader, assisted by Richard Lanahan. The 18 girls on this year's Orford squad are: Ann Marie Audet, France Bessette, Candide Blondeau, Lucille Downey, Micheline Dussault, Francine Fontaine, Jill Garneau, Andree Jean, Nicole Laliberte, Francine Lauzon, Denise Lavallee, Judy Lord, Cynthia Munster, Carole Nadeau, Carolyn Ramsay, Mary Shaw, Patricia Thibodeau, and Marsha Zimmerman.

Men on the patrol are: E. (Lem) Bacheider, Paul Bergeron, M-Y. Beaulieu, Paul Blondeau, J.R. Beaulieu, Charles Catchpaw, Real Demers, Garth Fields, Terrance Gibson, Robert Girard, Claude Girard, Paul Gerard, Gilles Houde, Frank Lacasse, Conrad Laliberte, Ralph Lunn, Pierre Masse, Raymond McKelvey, Maurice Potvin, Louis Provencher, Ed Vancour, Jean Vigneux, and Roger Zimmerman.

Skiing is also making gains in the Maritime provinces. A long-time promoter of our sport, Douglas Mahon of Halifax, has written us, noting that there are a dozen T-bars in the Atlantic provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Most successful of them all, according to Mr. Mahon, is the operation at Edmundston, and the Crabb Mountain area at Camp Gagetown near Fredericton, N.B.

The second annual Pontiac Cup, sponsored by General Motors of Canada, will move east for the 1970 racing season.

Keith Nesbitt, General Manager of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, announced that Bromont, Quebec has been awarded the final event to take place March 13 and 14.

Nesbitt stated that the effective way this organization run their races, plus excellent facilities and close proximity to Montreal, were major factors in selecting the site.

Bromont is certainly no stranger to the Pontiac Cup series, staging a very successful race, the Bromont Cup, in 1969.

It has a lift capacity of about 2,000 people per hour and a vertical drop of over 1,500 feet including 12 miles of trails and slopes.

To improve the series, changes in some of the races and locations have been incorporated. However the overall format based on World Cup races remains the same.

This year a close liaison has been maintained with the U.S. National Team in order to encourage U.S. competitors to attend.

The inclusion of European racers in some of the series races east and west is also under consideration by the C.A.S.A.

The jubilant spirit of Christmas pervades Vermont throughout December. Scores of festive activities and winter sports events are being announced in the Vermont 1969-1970 Calendar of Winter and Spring Events, just published by the Vermont Development Department. Free copies may be obtained from the Vermont Information Centers in New York or Montreal, or by writing to: Winter Events, Vermont Development Department, Montpelier, Vermont, 05602.

The Canadian Amateur Ski Association added 42 new coaches to their training program this fall, which began in 1965 under Federal Government assistance. The C.A.S.A. now have 20 senior coaches, 20 alpine coaches, 53 club coaches and 36 assistant coaches.

Among the quotable quotes: I got another blast this past week from the ski centre people who told me they hope The Record and other news media would stay away from the ridiculous practice of telling people how much snow there was on hills this winter. The gent I spoke to said it is nonsense for him or his employees to go into the yard with a yardstick or look at a graduated pole to determine the snow depth. It might be deep in a drift area and showing bareground where there is wind exposure. He suggested snow depth quotes be dropped and a resume of snow conditions be given. For instance, this weekend we might say: "Snow depths ranging up to 12 inches, dry powder over shallow base with conditions fair to good." Check sir, we get the message!

Into the ski shop, and I'm faced with the enthusiastic chap who blasts the people he called idiots, who try to convince the public that costs to enter this sport are prohibitive.

Well, I must agree. Skiing can be a steep priced game but, like any sport, the charges depend on the extent to which a participant goes at the slope-sliding pastime. I've said in various columns and ski issues that anyone who will go for the less expensive equipment can get skiing for under a $100, and children can enter the fun for a price tag that drops as low as $50. Of course, there are lift tickets, meals, etc., but like buying needs to ski, those who rationalize can make a little money go a long way. Maybe it's with this theory in mind, that DBS stated something like a 17 per cent increase in the game last winter.

Beavers checked 4-2 in Sorel

SOREL — Alain Langlais highlighted a Sorel 4-2 victory over the Sherbrooke Beavers in a Quebec Junior "A" hockey game played last night. Langlais potted three goals thus enabling the Hawks to climb into first place in the East Division standings with 34 points. Jean Daigle netted the other Sorel tally while Bruno Isabelle and Gilbert Smith countered for the Beavers. Again, as in the last several games, misfortune played a vital role for Lou Poliquin's squad, although they did come up with a very creditable performance. Sorel outshot Sherbrooke 31-30.

In other league action last night, the Quebec Ramparts held on for a tight 6-5 win over the Drummondville Rangers; Mike Morton with a hat-trick led the Shawinigan Bruins to a 6-1 drubbing of the lowly Laval Saints, and the St. Jerome Alouettes posted their seventh consecutive win by edging the Cornwall Royals 6-5.

The Beavers, meanwhile, will be back at the Sports Palace when they host the Trois-Rivieres Dukes tonight at 9 p.m. In their only other visit this season, the Beavers handed the Dukes a 6-2 whipping, while the story is quite the reverse in Trois-

Gilbert Smith

Rivieres where Sherbrooke has suffered 4-0 and 8-1 defeats.

Tonight's match will undoubtedly prove to be most important for the cellar-dwelling Beavers with 21 points who currently find themselves seven points behind the Dukes—the latter having a game in hand. Normand Piche, the club's leading scorer, will be back in action sporting a protective helmet.

On Sunday evening, the Rosemont Nationals make their initial invasion of the Sports Palace. This season-game time is set for 7:30 p.m.

Lacroix's three-goal spurge sinks Leafs Carleton (Bruins) 2, Rangers 1

Wayne Carleton may not score another two goals in several National Hockey League games to come but the two he got Thursday night were enough to polish Milt Schmidt's image as a shrewd hockey man.

Schmidt is the Boston Bruins general manager who just two days ago acquired Carleton in a trade with Toronto Maple Leafs.

And Carleton is the leftwinger whose two goals gave the Bruins a 2-1 win over New York, snapping the Rangers' 14-game unbeaten streak and moving Boston back to within four points of the East Division leaders.

In other games, Jim Harrison, who went to Toronto in exchange for Carleton, assisted on one of three Maple Leafs goals at Philadelphia but the Flyers took a 6-3 victory while Detroit Red Wings earned a 2-2 tie with Minnesota North Stars.

One game tonight has Pittsburgh Penguins visiting Oakland Seals.

Carleton had picked up only 10 goals and 16 assists in the 92 games he played with Toronto since the 1965-66 season and his best performance with a minor club was 17 goals and 15 assists with Tulsa in the Central League in 1966-67.

The 23-year-old winger was plagued with injuries throughout most of his career and claimed the Leafs never gave him a chance to develop.

The Bruins gave him a chance Thursday and he took advantage when hard-working centre Derek Sanderson set him up twice in front of New York goalie Ed Giacomin.

His first goal came at 1:52 of the first period on a rebound from a shot by Sanderson.

Dave Balon of the Rangers tied

WAYNE CARLETON

Schmidt first emerged as a wily trader when he talked Chicago Black Hawks out of Phil Esposito, Ken Hodge and Fred Stanfield for defenceman Gilles Marotte, forward Pit Martin and goalie Jack Norris.

None of the Chicago acquisitions in the 1967 trade developed as well as the three who went to Boston. Esposito last season won the scoring championship with Hodge a 40-goal plus scorer. This season, Esposito and Stanfield both are among the top 10 scorers.

Carleton had picked up only 10 goals and 16 assists in the 92 games he played with Toronto since the 1965-66 season and his best performance with a minor club was 17 goals and 15 assists with Tulsa in the Central League in 1966-67.

Veterans Association meeting-Dec. 14

Eugene Lalonde, President of the Veterans Hockey Association took part in a press conference dealing with the annual reunion of the organization which will be held December 14th at the Sherbrooke Arena. The meeting is slated to start at 4 p.m. in the afternoon with a Buffet supper. On that same evening those attending the meeting will be the guests of the Junior Beavers — Rosemont Junior A hockey game at the Sports Palace.

At the meeting, Mr. Lalonde will be presented by the La Tribune with a plaque in tribute for his splendid word as head of the Association, and for being responsible for promoting hockey in Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships.

The executive committee on a proposition by the general assembly have terminated their research for establishing a Hall of Fame. At the December 14th meeting, President Lalonde will divulge the main outline of the project. The Hall of Fame will not only be limited to hockey but to other sport activities. The Association will present a list including players of the Seniors, Intermediates and all those who helped to further hockey interests in the Eastern Townships.

The coming meeting will be one of the most important the Association has held and President Lalonde is expecting a large number to be in attendance. Those interested in becoming members can contact President Lalonde or Maurice Parsons, Gilles Dube, Albert Daigle or Roger Longpre who are executive members.

SPORTS

it up eight minutes later but the Sanderson-Carleton combination came back for another in the last minute of the second period.

The Bruins held the advantage for most of the games, out shooting the Rangers 49-33.

Ed Johnston provided the Boston goaltending before a home crowd of 14,831.

LACROIX ADDS THREE
Andre Lacroix got his second three-goal game against the Maple Leafs to lead the Flyers before a Philadelphia crowd of 10,059. Lacroix's other three goal night came Oct. 22 at Toronto.

Bob Clarke, Earl Heiskala and Gary Dornhofer were the other Flyers marksmen in Philadelphia's fifth win of the season. They also have 10 ties for 20 points, worth fourth spot in the West Division.

Harrison assisted on a goal by Bob Pulford with Mike Walton and Terry Clancy providing the other Toronto scoring.

QUEBEC IN FOCUS

New rift in SSJB

QUEBEC (CP) — A fourth diocesan society has broken off from the Quebec Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies because of the provincial body's endorsement of Quebec separatism.

The executive of the 8,000-member society in Ste. Anne de la Pocatiere, east of Quebec City, has won the approval of a majority of its local branches for disaffiliation, it was reported today.

Meanwhile, the Rimouski society announced it will hold a diocesan congress on the question next May in response to requests from local branches.

The provincial federation, which claims a total membership of 165,000 in its affiliates, decided at an executive meeting in Montreal Nov. 9 to support separatism. The vote was 117 to 13.

The St. Jean Baptiste Society, which calls itself the national society of French-Canada and has existed since 1831, is organized along regional lines. There is a society in each of Quebec's 18 Roman Catholic dioceses and membership is still restricted to Roman Catholics.

ALEXANDER GALT COUNCIL ELECTED — Students at Alexander Galt Regional School elected a student government for the 1969-70 school year this week. The elections came three months after the school opened and a provisional council had spent six months drawing up a

Beaulieu demands tax funds

OTTAWA (CP) — Mario Beaulieu, Quebec finance minister, Thursday called on the federal government to hand over the $200,000,000 it is expected to have collected from Quebec taxpayers under its "social progress" tax by July 1, 1970.

Mr. Beaulieu, here for the federal-provincial conference of finance ministers, said the money "is absolutely necessary, not only to correct a fiscal injustice and an error in figuring, but also to meet the budget situation we expect."

The social progress tax, a two-per-cent surtax on incomes, came into effect last Jan. 1.

Demonstrators claim injustice

MONTREAL (CP) — Counsel for 95 persons arrested Wednesday night after protesting the city's anti-demonstration bylaw argued Thursday the bylaw contravenes provisions of the British North America Act and the Canadian Bill of Rights.

No plea was entered for the accused, 13 of whom are women. Judge Marcel Marier postponed judgment until Jan. 20 and bail was set at $50 each.

A battery of defence lawyers represented motions saving the bylaw is an infringement of the powers of the Criminal Code. They said the Code already dealt with the matter of demonstrations.

No war research at McGill

MONTREAL (CP) — Nine McGill University professors are doing research financed by United States defence organizations, but none of the projects involves hard-core military research or is secret in nature.

Bernard Gick, McGill research grants officer, Thursday provided a list of the university's U.S. military-financed projects.

Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, chancellor of Notre Dame University in Nelson, B.C., said recently that 13 Canadian universities, including McGill receive Pentagon research funds.

Tate murder

Cult chief charged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The chief of a band of cultists who, with five followers, is charged with murder-conspiracy in the killings of actress Sharon Tate and six others, stood with arms crossed Thursday at his arraignment.

Charles M. Manson, 35, made three points in a brief exchange with the judge.

He objected to being represented by a public defender, saying there might be a conflict of interest. He sought assurance he would have the right to question witnesses. His middle name is Milles, not Miller, as previously reported, he said.

In another development, Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger told a news conference his office will seek a speedy trial—within 60 days after all defendants have been returned to California. He also protested a court order Thursday sharply limiting pre-trial publicity, but said he will not challenge it. He declined to confirm the report of possible 14 clan-linked killings.

Members of the hippie-type band charged with Manson are: Susan Atkins, 21, Linda Kasabian, 20, and Leslie Louise Van Houten, 19, all arraigned Thursday and ordered to enter pleas Dec. 22, the same date set for Manson; also Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, held in Mobile, Ala., and Charles Watson, 24, held in McKinney, Tex.

At Galt regional

Student council elected

LENNOXVILLE — Permanent Student Council members were elected at the Alexander Galt Regional School, Thursday, with president Gary Connors heading the group.

Other members on the council are: Don Jones, vice-president; Stewart Schofield, treasurer; Kathy Richardson, secretary; and Publicity Officer Doug Currie.

The elections highlighted recent achievements of the provisional council, a body formed of one representative from each school entering the regional. This council, chaired by Peter Caragher, spent nearly six months working on the new constitution.

Executive members are now in the process of organizing house councils. These councils, one in each house, will consist of two representatives from each class, one boy and one girl.

This will result in 28 members and a House president. The president and two members from each house will sit on the regional council.

Nominations for house president closed today.

The regional executive urged all students to get involved in their school.

"Communications will improve," said Doug Currie, "when the school radio and newspaper get organized in coming weeks."

Whether the so-called "law of self-preservation" offers mankind any real assurance of survival, will be considered at the services in all Christian Science churches this Sunday, in the reading of the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "God the Preserver of Man". Appropriate Scripture will include this verse from Psalms: "He sent his word, and healed them, and delivered them from their destructions." Correlative passages from the denominational textbook will include: "The history of Christianity furnishes sublime proofs of the supporting influence and protecting power bestowed on man by his heavenly Father, omnipotent Mind, who gives man faith and understanding whereby to defend himself, not only from temptation, but from the 'supper' of ('Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures' by Mary Baker Eddy).

Hassinger-Fearnely

Miss Janice Lynn Fearnely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Fearnely, King of Prussia, Pennsylvania, formerly of East Angus, became the bride of Mr. Robert Joseph Hassinger, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Joseph Hassinger, Sr., also of King of Prussia on Nov. 8. The wedding took place at the Methodist Church, Norristown, Penn.

The Rev. James Matchette officiated at the double ring ceremony. Wedding music was played by Dr. Catherine Morgan. White chrysanthemums decorated the altar and chancel and the guest pews were marked with bronze mums and Italian wheat.

Miss Sharon Fearnely, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Lynn Breidegam, cousin of the groom, and Linda Antonelli.

The best man was Mr. Thomas Reynolds, and the ushers were the groom's brother, Mr. Kyle Hassinger and Mr. Joseph Davis. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a peau de soie gown in empire style with long sleeves. It was trimmed with lace and seed pearls and had a detachable train. Her fingertip veil fell from a bow of matching material. She carried a colonial style bouquet of white sweetheart roses and carnations.

The attendants wore gowns styled similar to the bride's but with short puffed sleeves and pleated trim at the neck and hemline. The maid of honor wore gold peau de soie and the bridesmaids wore identical gowns in moss green. Their headpieces were short veils attached to matching bows. They carried baskets filled with bronze and gold fall flowers.

The bride's mother chose a dress of embroidered aqua silk organza in empire style with three quarter sleeves. She had matching accessories and her corsage was of white and Mamie Eisenhower carnations.

The mother of the groom wore a blue and silver brocade dress with matching coat and silver accessories. Her corsage was white carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

Following a wedding breakfast served in the Lafayette room of the Jefferson House, East Norristown, the couple left for a honeymoon to New Jersey. For travelling, the bride wore an off-white knit dress with black and white checked coat and black accessories. Her corsage was of red carnations.

They are now making their home at Edgewater Plaza, Norristown.

Mr. and Mrs. Hassinger, Sr., were hosts at a pre-rehearsal dinner at the Bungalow Inn, Jeffersonville, on Nov. 7 for the wedding party and members of the family.

Mrs. Hassinger, Jr., is a 1969 graduate of Upper Merion Senior High School.

Mr. Hassinger, Jr., attended Northeastern Christian College, Villanova.

Guests attending from the Eastern Townships included: Mrs. Ellis Fearnely, paternal grandmother of the bride, East Angus; Mrs. Sidney Clout, East Angus; Mrs. H. I. Apps and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bushev, all of Richmond.

The many guests were welcomed at the door by the vice-president, Mrs. William Spackman. Mrs. Douglas Knapp acted as cashier. The hall was prettily decorated by Mrs. Clifford Wright and Mrs. Russell Marlow. Individual tea tables were centered with miniature Christmas trees.

Mrs. Henry Leech, Jr., was tea room convener, assisted by Mrs. John Masson. Mrs. Raymond Leech, Mrs. Edward Mills, Mrs. Herbert Mills, Candice Watson and Jackie McLeod. Fancy articles on the work tables were under the supervision of Mrs. Grace Sunbury assisted by Mrs. L. Stevens. Mrs. Jean Rugg looked after the nearly new table. The home cooking was sold by Mrs. Ernest Wheeler and Mrs. Maise Hopcraft. Kitchen duties were tended by Mrs. Clifford Wright, assisted by Mrs. Russell Marlow, Mrs. Noel Humphries and Mrs. Guv Martin.

The normal play would be to draw trumps and lead the jack of diamonds toward dummy's king. This would represent a 50-50 chance but Leon tried a different line. He won the heart in dummy and led the seven of diamonds at trick two. His reasoning was that West was the sort of player who would surely lead an ace against a slam if he had one. Hence, East was marked with the diamond ace and the play of a diamond to the king would not work. He asked us what we thought of his play. Our answer is that it pays to know your opponents.

His choice lay between this play and that of leading a low club at trick two in the hope that West would win the trick and not find a diamond shift. That play would not have worked and, while this play really should not have succeeded, it did work and we see why Mr. Levinson, after 40 years of play, is still a dangerous opponent. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Today's hand was sent to us by Leon Levinson, who has been playing in Mississippi and Alabama bridge tournaments as long as we have, which means he has been in the first one. He didn't show us the East and West hands or the bidding, so we have made up some bidding of our own. There would be no real play for the slam with a club lead but West opened the 10 of hearts and Leon had a chance to make his slam.

Teach Baby to Walk On a Varied Surface

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Although your living room floor is a relatively safe place for your baby to learn to walk, its flat, unobstructed surface may be a factor in causing pigeon toes or an awkward gait. A varied surface will help him to develop the muscles needed to prevent these conditions and train him to balance himself better.

Q—Our 3-month-old son was born with an enlarged thymus. He has no difficulty breathing but he makes a lot of noise when he breathes. Is this serious? Will he outgrow it?

A—Noisy breathing is common in infants and is rarely caused by the thymus, which is normally large in babies and will shrink without any treatment. In most cases, the noisy breathing is of no significance and will be outgrown, but it should be discussed with your doctor on your son's next regular checkup.

this? How can we prevent new ones from coming? A—Boils and styes are caused by staphylococci. Because you are dealing with microscopic organisms, ordinary cleanliness is not enough. After a stye or boil is opened, some of the pus may remain on hands, clothing, handkerchiefs or old bandages. The hands should be washed with a soap that contains hexachlorophene. Contaminated linens should be boiled and old bandages should be burned.

Some persons are carriers of staphylococci and may harbor them in their nose, throat, armpits or groin. If there is a carrier in your home he may require antibiotics, special soap and separate linens.

Q—My son, 3½, was born with jaundice and was hospitalized for two weeks. About nine months later, he began shaking his head. His doctor said this was a habit that he would outgrow but now, nearly three years later, he still does it. What could cause this? A—This behavior may be seen in children who are underfed, chronically ill or who have either been given very little personal attention by their mothers or who have been overstimulated by tickling the face or pulling the cheeks. It is not related to the jaundice present at birth. Most children outgrow the shaking or nodding within a few months. When this does not occur, a thorough examination should be made by a neurologist.

COUNTRY PICKERS' PICK LINE... 5:00 PM / 7:15 PM

BOB BELL ON THE COUNTRY

By the time you read this, I'll be in Nashville. When I get back, I'll tell you all about it on the air, and hopefully will have a one to two hour special to present, with interviews, new records, ad infinitum.

I feel terribly sorry for Montrealers. They don't have a country music station up there at all now. Isn't that sad? CFOX used to play some country, and CKGM did too at one time but they've all turned their backs on this world now, and the country fans have to fiddle around with their dials until they get WWVA Wheeling, or if they have a good set, they can pick us up in some areas of Montreal. I get the odd letter from folks up that way, and they all bemoan what the stations up there are doing to them. Somebody is missing out on a very good thing up there.

This has been a pretty hectic week, and things look like they're going to get a little more hectic before I take off Friday morning. You'd think I was going away for a year gads... what a lot of work!!! Gotta run again, must go get my ears lowered, so keep smilin' and keep it country eh?

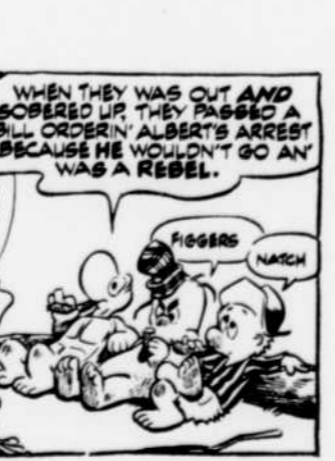

BOB BELL

Bob does the Farm Line every Tuesday from 6:35 to 7:00 A.M.

EXTERIOR OF THE NEW ST. VINCENT FAMILY CLINIC

To prevent as well as cure

SHERBROOKE — Since its opening early in October, the St. Vincent Family Clinic has offered local residents complete medical care, with specialists, X-ray equipment and laboratory facilities all under the same roof.

Founded in December of 1967 by a group of 28 doctors led by Dr. Paul Chevalier, Dr. Louis Hebert and Dr. Gerald Beaudry, the clinic was under construction for two years before opening.

The basic goal of the clinic is to provide medical services to the whole family and promote preventive aspects in the field of medicine.

With highly personalized service, the centre is equipped to solve most major medical problems in the shortest possible time.

The professional team of family doctors and specialists provide therapeutic and rehabilitation programs on an individual basis.

SPECIALISTS ON HAND

Specialists in each field of medicine are on hand to treat cases referred to them by family doctors who examine the patients. Eye, ear, nose and throat specialists, two druggists and even a heart specialist, are available to all who visit the clinic.

"Because of the recent changes in the field of medicine," says Dr. Chevalier, "a greater number of people are now able to receive medical treatment."

To accomplish this, he said, we have included a trained staff in the clinic, to work on a consulting basis after proper diagnosis has been made.

Dr. Chevalier defined four reasons for poor health in society today: alcohol, a cause of many automobile accidents and deaths; pollution of the air with smoke; drugs; and the pollution of our water.

PLAN OF ACTION

"Doctors in the clinic," he said, "are honestly convinced of the need to centre our plan of action around the family."

To serve the family efficiently, modern techniques have been made available.

The clinic includes an electrocardiogram machine and an up to date biological detection centre. With these facilities, doctors hope to keep patients confident, in a comfortable atmosphere.

For cases where hospital care cannot be avoided, the clinic is equipped to continue medical supervision, without a duplication of tests, through its affiliation with St. Vincent de Paul Hospital.

Situated at 250 King St. E., the clinic is easily accessible to all who need its services.

Offices at the centre are open from 9 to 5 during the week, with consultation from 2 to 9 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

In a few months, the clinic should be open for consultation on Tuesday and Thursday as well. But even now, there is 24-hour telephone service to give advice and aid patients in locating their doctors. They can always get help.

In an average week, the clinic has over 1,200 visitors.
