City installs new lights in response to request

Two new streetlights are to be installed in the Winchester avenue area as a result of a request made to the city council through the Westmount Municipal Association recently. A total commitment of $1,060 has been made for the new standards.

A motion to this effect proposed by Alderman Bovaird at Monday's council meeting was unanimously approved. Investigation, stated Bovaird, had shown that these two additional lights would ensure adequate lighting on the streets in the area.

The standards are to be located one on Winchester avenue and one on Somerville avenue, between Claremont and Prince Albert avenues.

Commitment was also made for $1,300 to cover the cost of three street lights on Daulac road. The City of Montreal is planning a new street lighting system on Ramezay road, Daulac road and Cedar avenue. Since part of Daulac road is in Westmount, three of the light standards as planned could be situated in Westmount.

The two municipalities working in cooperation agreed upon the installation and the sharing of the cost as it pertains to the City of Westmount. The City of Montreal will service the lighting, charging the City of Westmount $3 per month per unit. This is similar to the arrangement which the City of Westmount has with Montreal on Kingston road and Ramezay Place where the City of Westmount charges Montreal $3 per month per unit, a city hall spokesman stated.

Further commitment of $10,450 was made to cover the cost of additions and improvements to the radio communication system of the light department and public works department.

In making the motion, Alderman Bovaird stated that the new installation will provide an emergency power supply at No. 2 fire station, the police station, power house, the corporation yard and the city hall.

In addition a remote control installation will be made at the police station and mobile units will be installed in the light department's line truck, cable truck, the public works department's salt and cinder spreading truck, and two utility automobiles. This will ensure complete communication at all times both in the various headquarters and in the field between the Administration, Police, Public Works and the electric light departments. The emergency power supply will go into action in the case of local or total power failures.

At the same meeting quotations were submitted for switchgear and transformers for the Glen road and Olivier substations. The quotation of Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. in the amount of $32,313, was accepted for the purchase of switchgear, and the quotation of Ferranti-Packard Co. Limited in the amount of $28,400, was accepted for the purchase of transformers.

Commitment was made of the necessary money required for the purchases of the equipment.

Work on library proceeding well

All bricklaying on the new library extension has been completed. All prefabricated steel roof trusses have been erected into position and the laying of precast roof slabs is in progress. The work is proceeding satisfactorily, a city spokesman reported.

Last week, the Indians trounced the Orioles 7 to 3 and were led to victory by the Holden brothers, Billy and Richard. Billy hit a two run homer and Richard holds a 2-0 record on the pitching mound.

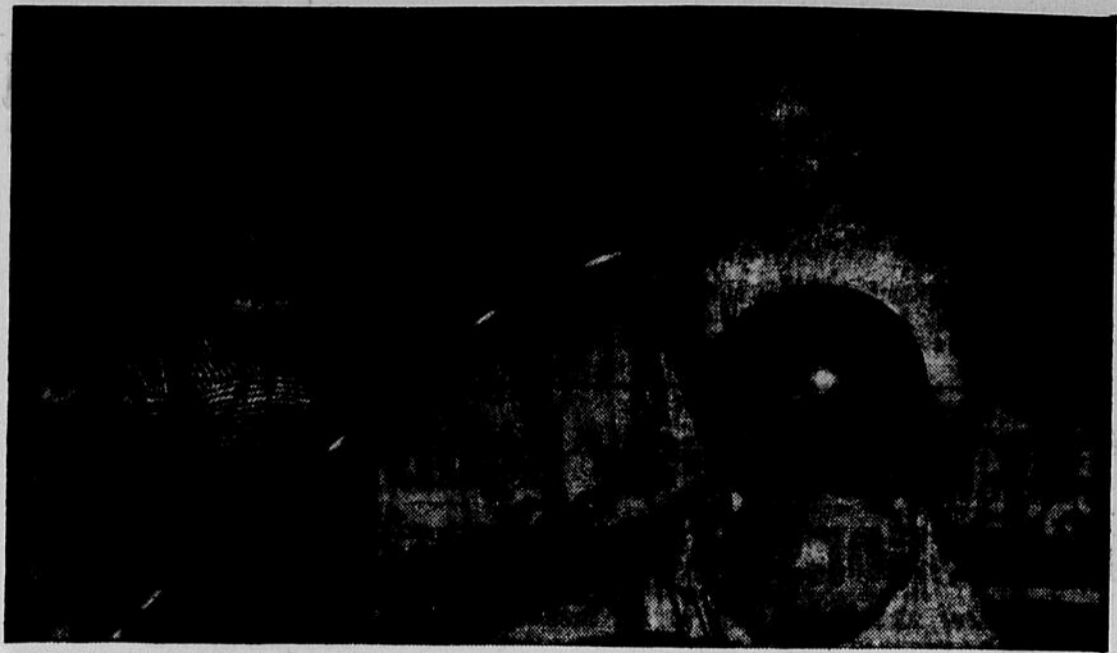

The Indians are coached by Manny Barnoff.

Laurier Club

The Laurier Club conducted its final debate of the season with an extremely controversial subject — the subject "Juvenile Delinquency." The debate was very interesting and many important points were brought out that should prove of great value for future discussions.

A funeral was held Wednesday in Montreal. Formerly Alice Chaffey, Mrs. Ayer received her education in Toronto, and in 1918 married well-known athlete Albert Johnson Ayer. Mr. Ayer, whose father founded the dairy produce firm of A. A. Ayer, died in 1932.

A member of Westmount Baptist Church for many years, Mrs. Ayer followed the family tradition of taking a keen interest in the Baptist Church movement throughout Canada.

She is survived by two sons, George and John, both of Montreal; two daughters, Mrs. John McClurg (Carol), of Ottawa, and Mrs. Henry de L. Harwood, (Janet), of Montreal.

Good Samaritan just couldn't win

A car parked on Clarke avenue, owned by Robert Ruffley, 28, of Ville Brossard, struck a Harrison Bakeries delivery truck last week after it rolled downhill unmanned.

The collision occurred at 5.15 p.m. while Ruffley was attempting to free a man in an overturned car.

"I was proceeding east on Cedar avenue," he told police, "when an accident occurred involving the car ahead of me I saw it roll over, and immediately turned the corner at Clarke avenue, and parked facing south."

As he was attending to the injured person, he stated, he heard someone shout "a car is rolling down the hill," and saw his auto collide with a stationary truck.

Driver of the truck, Laurent Naud, 24, who was making a delivery at the time of the accident, heard the crash and came out to find Ruffley's auto against the rear of his van.

manager of the theatre said: "We have had many requests from groups to stage this play again due to its popularity last fall. Two local authors win top literature awards

By VALENTINA RAHR

Governor General's Awards were won by two residents of Westmount, who are both on the staff at McGill University. Colin McDougall, Lansdowne avenue, Registrar of McGill, was named winner of Canada's top award for fiction for his first novel. Previously a writer of short stories, McDougall won the 1958 Governor General's Award with "Execution", a story of a Canadian infantry battalion in the Italian Campaign of the Second World War.

James Tait Black Memorial Prize, which is awarded yearly by the publishing house of A. and C. Black the best biography, literary work and novel.

More than 120 reviews of the book were carried in the world's English language newspapers. The New York Times alone reviewed it four times. Miss Fanny Burney, an 18th century socialite, became a sensation as a novelist and diarist. "Although it was known that Fanny had literally truck loads of manuscripts, few of them could be found, until a very large private collection was turned over to the New York Public Library about 10 years ago," said Prof. Hemlow.

She spent summers studying the New York manuscripts, went to England to study some there, and then discovered a private collection of her own. This work gives a fascinating picture of the manners and morals of the 18th and early 19th century. Prof. Hemlow became a member of the Canadian Authors Association, Montreal Branch last year.

In making an announcement that "Gigi" would return to the stage at La Poudriere next Thursday, Jeannine Beaubien, 631 Grosvenor avenue, general

The prize winning novel reflects his own career. A strong and vivid story, it is told with an acute understanding of war's human element; the Canadian soldiers who fought in the Allied Campaign in Italy are recognized and portrayed in this gripping narrative of battle.

The Governor General's Award for non-fiction was given to Prof. Joyce Hemlow, Atwater avenue, for "The History of Fanny Burney." Miss Hemlow wrote her book in her spare time over a period of eight years. She is the first Canadian to win a

Westmount High teacher retires

Forty years of grappling with the minds of teenagers, leading the quick and coaching the slow, have left no mark but experience on Miss Ruby Hopkins of Westmount High School.

Now about to retire, Miss Hopkins looks back on her sojourn in teaching and has this to say about it: "Teaching should not be a competitive profession, but rather one of associates. Then, if you have something of value, it is passed on to your fellows, not withheld."

"One should aim at building a school character where a group of specialists are working as associates—and I think we have achieved this at Westmount High School."

Firm in her belief that small schools have the advantage over large ones, she states: "A school should not be a factory. With centralization the individual becomes less and less—look at Red China today, for example."

While she admits that the present Westmount Senior High School has its physical limitations, she maintains that size can also be an enemy to private jokes and problems, without ever forming cliques within the larger clan. She has been at Westmount for 31 years.

Miss Hopkins recalled a humorous incident which happened to Howard Marcelles, a "greatly loved chemistry teacher" and a Maritimer who taught at Westmount when she came here.

"He used to get annoyed at what he felt was density on the part of some of his students. One day he explained to them that a universal solvent was one which, if dropped on the floor, would eat through wood and ceiling until it came to the heads of the students below!"

Deadpan expressions on the part of his students greeted this sally, but Miss Hopkins recalls that it remained a source of amusement among the teachers for some time.

Born on a farm in Barford in the Eastern Townships, Miss Hopkins was the last of a family of nine children. Unembarrassed about stating her age, 57, she is looking forward to once more living permanently in the country after her retirement.

"My father loved the land, and I miss the country, although I've always had 10 weeks in the summer," she says.

Miss Hopkins learned to drive five years ago, although "I'm not crazy about tackling Montreal traffic." Her sense of adventure in whatever she tries remains, however.

"What I would most like to do," she concluded, "is on the 1st of September point the nose of my car in a new direction and just drive."

WE SAY YOU SAY

Here's how one resident writes

IN a neighboring column is a letter from a comparatively new resident. He writes as he sees things, and while he is proud of Westmount and aware of many of its good points, he is not blind to what he considers its flaws.

Some of the things this correspondent mentions are well taken, as we know from personal observation, but until now, we never thought of them.

It is a good thing, sometimes, for a newcomer to speak his mind.

The rest of us may be too close to the forest to see the trees.

Local canines on the leash

WESTMOUNT dogs, of course, are kept on leash.

As a result, of course, this newspaper hasn't the same access to dog-bite stories that some other journals enjoy. But perhaps the sacrifice is worth it.

Better a little more toil to produce other news, than a harried reporter whipping across Westmount Park, with the seat of his pants in the jaws of a pursuing and perhaps rabid canine.

Clergyman writes of civic blight

Sir,

I would like very much to address this letter to the citizens of Westmount.

We are all very proud of the great traditions that have made Westmount one of the finest cities in the world. However, to stay out in front requires constant repair, planning and revision.

The condition of the ceiling in the comfort station in Murray Park is a disgrace to our fair city and it should not be allowed to remain in that state one day longer than absolutely necessary.

Some of the fences in Westmount Park should be repaired, or removed.

The playground equipment in the parks should at least keep abreast of that in neighboring municipalities and should be available for use by the first of May. Some equipment, including the slide in Westmount Park, is not up yet (June 3). There are no baby swings in Westmount Park.

Many cities have modern, economical and efficient wading pools, why haven't we?

The vacant lots (eye-sores) on the corner of Lansdowne and Sherbrooke and Western should be purchased for a fair price and turned into places of beauty, instead of mud patches. Not only would they pay for themselves in increased real estate values but would provide much needed parking space.

Either there is great public apathy, which I doubt, or there is a very important need for better communications between the levels of government.

Citizens of Westmount — the future is bright, with wonderful possibilities.

Perhaps this intangible something is to be found in the sense of fraternity which exists among the teachers at the high school, and which leads them to have their own

Roslyn gym squad best yet is opinion of coach Davies

Head rolls . . . shoulder rolls . . . head springs . . . straddle vaults. They float through the air — they land on their feet — they sommersault once, jump up, and run off.

"I've been in this business for 30 years," says Roslyn School's gym squad coach Lou Davies, "and this one is better than any squad I've ever had."

"There've been better individual gymnasts in the past — a few anyway — but never such a squad," says Davies looking over a group of 20 young boys, all in grades 4-6, who look like future olympians.

Davies pointed to one fair-headed boy and said, "There's one who was afraid of the box in the beginning. He's stuck with it, practising three recess periods a week and Mondays after school, and there he goes now!" At that the boy rolled over the three-foot-high box on

Grievous Glorified Grading

By Frances Goltman

"WHAT GRADE ARE YOU IN?" is a frequent question when people are interested in the performance of young musicians. It is also a favorite question by parents to music instructors.

AS THE MENTAL CAPACITY of each individual differs and varies so does the finger dexterity of each music student. Often what one finds easy another thinks difficult even though they are classified in the same grade.

WHEN YOU FINISH READING today's column you will have ample proof of "GRIEVOUS GRADING" and "GLORIFIED GRADING". You will realize that modern scholastic requirements in music are of a much lower standard for examinations than they used to be.

BEFORE ME IS THE 1959-1960 syllabus of the Faculty of Music of McGill University (my alma mater) and the syllabus of the Royal Conservatory of Music, University of Toronto, (1958-1959, 1959-1960). Also for comparison I have a wonderful book entitled "Piano Teacher's Guide" that I wrote to Schirmer's for many years ago. When I was in New York the last time, I thought it would be nice to get a fresh copy and upon giving the name of the book to the head of that department (the clerk had not heard of it so I asked for the head) the gentleman was quite surprised as he replied, "Hang on to your copy, it's not printed any more". (It is 198 pages and I will write about this book in detail next week). BEFORE MCGILL CHANGED examinations, the books were listed; primary, elementary, junior, intermediate, senior and highest. Pupils could use the intermediate practical for a matriculation subject and the last year of this type (1956) every piece in one of the McGill lists corresponded to pieces in Toronto's grades 8 and 9.

MANY OF THE NUMBERS ARE in both Montreal and Toronto lists BUT the difference in the gradings is astonishing. And compared with the Schirmer Guide, well, judge a few for yourself. Mozart, Sonata in C (K545) McGill, grade 10 Royal, Toronto, grade 8, Schirmer, grade 3-4;

'Can YOU Stop In Time?' Summer slogan for safety

For the three summer vacation months - June, July and August - Canada joins with the United States and Puerto Rico in a concentrated campaign for highway safety called "Slow Down and Live".

Safety experts have, for years, warned drivers to leave at least 100 feet between cars on the highway for every 10 miles-an-hour. Driving closer than that creates a terrible risk of sudden smash-up with the always-possible results: injuries, damage to vehicles, or death.

other vehicles or pedestrians or tangle traffic dangerously.

From coast to coast in Canada, individuals, organizations, industries and associations are set to promote this vital campaign which begins June 1st and comes to an end with the Labor Day weekend.

Crowded highways arouse impatience and tend to urge the unthinking driver to take chances, the Conference warns. This includes driving too close to the vehicle ahead, one of the most dangerous acts a motorist can try.

The Canadian Highway Safety Conference pleads with the motorist to realize his responsibility, as an individual, in the prevention of traffic deaths and injuries, and the reduction of the multi-million-dollar economic loss that occurs in Canada every year as the result of highway accidents.

"Only the driver at the wheel," the Conference says, "can prevent a traffic accident. It's up to him." The Conference asks him, "Can you stop in time?"

WHAT DOES GRADING mean these days? Is it raised to boost the ego of the player? Is it made a higher number to make a parent think his child is better than he is? Or is it to camouflage the lower standards of the present era?

Westmount YMCA Half-cent-a-pound charge for YMCA seaway swimmers

The Seaway Swim is under way for the young members of YMCA. As of Wednesday, boys and girls at Westmount YMCA are "Swimming the Seaway" from Montreal to Toronto (approximately 350 miles).

John Ray, the physical Director states that the children will swim lengths of the pool and various lengths will represent miles according to the Intermediate level the swimmer has reached. For example, a Card One swimmer will go seven miles along the seaway for every length he swims, whereas a Card Five swimmer will advance one mile and a half every length he swims.

Up until June 20, boys and girls will be using their regular periods to participate in the swim. The final week of June 21-26 will be open periods to both boys and girls between the hours of 3:30 to 6 p.m. Closing date for the "Seaway Swim" will be June 27.

Not only will the swimmers be competing on an individual basis but on each level a team will attempt to get its freighter to Port Arthur from Montreal. To do this, the total lengths of each swimmer will be added and one length will represent one mile. The total distance between Montreal and Port Arthur is approximately 2,450 miles. The team taking its boat the farthest or reaching Port Arthur will be awarded crests. Swimmers finishing the distance between Montreal and Toronto, will also be awarded crests.

In reality no ship is able to go through the seaway free. This will be also true of swimmers. A toll charge of one half cent per pound, minimum rate 25 cents will be asked of each swimmer. The proceeds after expenses will be turned over to the YMCA Building for Brotherhood Fund.

Registration and weigh-in will be done at the side of the pool starting tomorrow.

*As you like itDress Decorously, Please!

A few days ago your ever-faithful reporter sat in on a short refresher course conducted by an eminent authority in the person of Uncle Beauregard, treating on certain aspects of women's apparel, while the girls are guesting in restaurants or at Summer resorts.

And, when the scholarly and beauty-loving old gentleman delivers little lectures on such matters, we listen very, very attentively. No pithy utterances, they!

This last semester had to do with shorts and slacks, and kindly emphasis on their use or misuse, as the case may be.

Although Uncle Beau is by instinct a naturally constituted champion and defender of women folk (and we mean all ages); and it's been your correspondent's experience to have heard some very liberal, sympathetic and understanding opinions, interspersed with the involuntary ecstatic ones (like the time he thought a reincarnation of Lillian Russell loomed on the horizon), on their tastes in gowns, hats, coiffures and accessories, et cetera, from his lips, in the matter of shorts and slacks he pales and develops a slight stutter.

No self-respecting restaurant, he maintains, either attached to a resort or self-contained should admit the ladies dressed in them. Slacks, maybe at breakfast and lunch, but never at dinner; shorts, in the farthest reaches and darkest corners of the bar at all times.

Furthermore, Uncle Beau claims to be motivated by high and great chivalry in his dictum. All he wants to do is protect the fair sex from their own unconscious folly.

Beau gladly conceded the desirability of shorts and slacks in the recreation areas, and he added: "No one admires a well-turned ankle, or a length of well-shaped leg more than I." At this point he heaved a sigh, slightly suggestive of exasperation, and continued, "But heavens-to-betsy, can't slacks be tailored instead of skin-tight, and the shorts be just a trifle roomier?"

What restaurants and resorts do about just where they should be worn is their own business. (okay, advertisers?) However, we gave some consideration to the latter part of Unc's lament, and after doing some research this past weekend into the situation, we get his "message."

The girls (here again we mean all ages) reviewed, sporting this informal attire on beaches, beside swimming pools, on golf courses, and so forth, whose contours lent themselves gracefully to the right effect, were the ones costumed without the help of a shoe horn. They were very pretty and attractive, indeed.

Others looked like tightly packed old fashioned German sausages.

Respectfully — and at a distance — we studied further, and discovered that the varying sizes of our subjects were not the factors in the disparate impressions; regardless of girth or heft, the ones with the looser garments gave the illusion of a certain trimness and more easy good looks.

So for the sake of Uncle Beauregard's continued admiration and support, ladies, please get the shorts and slacks a little less fitted in the you-know-where. It isn't always the best feature of one's anatomy anyway.

As a matter of fact old Beau could probably give the men folk a small shot in the head along similar lines.

But come to think of it, we don't often catch him looking at that gender!

FUTURE HOME OF 'THE STUDY': No. 1 Braeside Place, the home of the late Gordon Ball, president of the Bank of Montreal, as it will look when renovations have been completed. Architect is F. David Mathias of Greene avenue. A spokesman for The Study stated that brick from a garage in the rear of the present building will be used to face two new wings on either side of the structure, as shown above, thus presenting a uniform appearance.

The Study alumnae hold open house, parents, friends view future plans

Parents and friends of The Study Old Girls' Association attended an open house party Wednesday evening at the school's future home, 1 Braeside Place. A spokesman for the Association reported that work on the building, formerly the home of the late Gordon Ball, president of the Bank of Montreal, will start in the summer, taking several months to complete.

Architectural plans by Mr. F. David Mathias, Greene avenue, allow for a new gymnasium, and two new wings for space for six classrooms. This will make the finished building T-shaped.

"The stone work from the garage at the back is being carefully removed, so that it may be used to face the front of the new wings in order to preserve as much as possible the present appearance of the whole structure, and in character with the surroundings. A picture of Miss Gascoigne, the founder of the school 44 years ago, will be hung in the main hall," commented Mrs. John F. Stairs, Westmount avenue, president of the Study Old Girls' Association.

"Decorating included live flowers, and placards were placed in every room designating its purpose, such as library, etc. Art work by the present pupils of The Study, under the direction of the art teacher, Miss Ethel E. Seath, Melville avenue, was on display. Old photos of graduates were also shown, including one of the old school and students in 1923.

"The old building on Seaforth and Cote des Neiges road has been sold. The object one shoulder and was back on his feet in the blink of an eye.

Coach Lou Davies was a gymnast himself in high school and at the University of Western Ontario. He followed up with work at Wayne University in Detroit. Gymnastics is definitely his "baby," but he is also general athletics supervisor for Kings School and teaches all the sports at Roslyn.

"It takes a long time to build them up to this point," he says pointing to a series of boys going through the motions over the box. "They have to control most of all." Not all the boys are lean and sinewy — in fact, Davies claims that he has some very able gymnasts in regular gym classes who are distinctly on the hefty side — but the gym squad boys are uniformly trim and look to be about five feet tall, 60 pounds heavy.

Many of these boys when they leave Roslyn will go on to the leaders' squad in the Junior High School and after that some of them will find their way into the ranks of the Lower Canada College gymnasts. No matter what they follow up with, they have tasted something of perfection at Roslyn School this year.

A Noted Visitor

By
The Venerable
R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

A very distinguished prelate of the Greek Orthodox Church visited Montreal last week. He was Archbishop Iakovos, the Archbishop of Boston and Primate of the Greek Orthodox Church in North and South America. He was visiting the very considerable Greek colony in Montreal.

The Orthodox clergy are always interesting because they are very outspoken. Archbishop Iakovos was no exception. He dealt with a couple of very controversial subjects. The first was Pope John's suggestion of an ecumenical conference. He is perfectly prepared to attend such a conference, without any expectation of surrendering to a Roman supremacy. He could attend a conference with Anglicans on the same terms. Such a conference would explore differences, but would also recognize fundamental agreements.

Then the Archbishop went on to a far more controversial point when he said that such a conference might well draw in other faiths than the Christian. It is the kind of thing that Arnold Toynbee has been saying for some years.

It may be that we must realize that the real division does not lie between Catholic and Protestant and Anglican and Orthodox, but between those who believe in God and those who do not; and even between those who believe in a naturalistic interpretation of the universe and those who believe in a supernatural explanation. The Christian who believes in God's creation of the universe can agree with the savage who sees something divine in every tree or spring, better than he can agree with the highly civilized member of his own race who sees nothing divine anywhere. The Hindu idea of God is grotesque

And all the world was gay.

National president, Miss Diane Raymond, of Notre Dame de Grace, says the theme of the convention, "Horizons Unlimited," is particularly appropriate as the CDA is currently faced with, "the opposite of unemployment; more job opportunities than there are dietitians."

A number of distinguished medical, government and university officials will address the meeting on other subjects affecting the profession: — Dr. L. B. Pett, Chief, Nutrition Division, Department of National Health and Welfare will speak on "Revision of Canadian Dietary Standards"; Gordon Pickering, Manitoba Hospital Commissioner, "Implications of the Government Hospital Insurance Plan"; Dr. Jane Leichsenring, nutrition professor, University of Minnesota, "New Developments in Nutrition"; Dr. C. C. Etrachan, of the Federal Department of Agriculture, "Commercial Freezing of Food"; Miss Margaret Gillam, of Michigan State University, "Training the Non-Professional Worker"; and Miss Anne Guthrie, New York, an authority on the United Nations and the Middle East food problems. John A. MacAuley, QC, Winnipeg, prominent Canadian businessman will also address the meeting on a subject to be announced.

CDA past president, Mrs. Ruth Reid of Montreal will conduct a panel discussion on "Recruiting of Dietitians," explaining the work currently underway with high school students and women's organizations. In addition to its own members' speakers bureau the CDA distributes a newly com-

POST OFFICE AUTOMATION

Businesses are noting the advantages of electronic equipment for increased efficiency and so are the Post Office Departments in at least three countries.

In 1957, the British Post Office had new machinery set-up at Southampton and specially treated stamps aided segregation of mail.

Last year the Canadian Post Office Department announced that envelopes smaller than 4" x 2¾" would not be accepted. This was a prelude to the new machines which Canada has ordered and expects to have in operation in 1960. The machines will be similar to Britain's. Stamps especially treated on the back with graphite will be used.

After July 1, 1961 in the U.S., envelopes smaller than 3" x 5" will not be accepted, and premium postage rates will be in effect for all odd-shaped envelopes. Late next year a 20 million dollar, fully integrated automatic post office will open in Providence, Rhode Island.

CORNER
CARTER'S

MUSKELLUNGE season opens on June 15, but musky is no game fish for a lazy angler. You'll do a lot of work, covering a large lake before you finally do connect. But when you do, you will encounter one of the most game fish in the world. For up North in the large lakes and the St. Lawrence River areas, lies the home of the muskellunge sometimes called the water wolf, who leads a vengeful, solitary life.

A long solid fish with the strength of an ox, he's well fitted with rows of sharp teeth for his role of active marauder. Believe it or not to reach 50 pounds the musky will have consumed some two tons of minnows, whitefish and if he's lucky, 2 or 3 of some angler's pet spoons.

The bait caster is the best way to go after this fish, because muskies will hide under logs and such and wait for his food and the bait caster will cover more ground than the still fisherman, who sits and waits for a strike. You will find the water wolf lots of times in small inlets or bays, cleaning up on smaller fish that are taking cover from the deeper waters in the lake. If you do take a Musky in one spot, move on, because very seldom is there another close by. One other thing, before you boat a musky make sure you have prepared yourself for him in the boat. Muskies can be, and are, very dangerous in boats. Dead or alive, don't underestimate him. Some guides I have known are minus a finger, so if possible, have a 22-caliber pistol and shoot it in the head before boating him.

GORD'S PET, the moose-look spinner, he talked about in Carter's Corner, resulted in these two steel head Rainbow trout, caught in Lake Magog. They weighed two and one-half pounds each.

still feel game enough to go out after a record musky, the best lures to use are large jointed plugs, red and white or dark green with silver scales on the side.

Fisherman's Tip — The type of bait that goes deepest are the ones with the large over-size lios and are particularly suitable for fishing deep channels, sunken underwater reefs and over the tops of weed beds. During the hot weather months, fish usually frequent deep waters and this type of bait is most popular in midsummer. When using this type of bait while trolling, pay out line until the bait reaches the desired depth, then start trolling.

Caledonia curling club opens at Hillside site in November

City of Westmount will gain another curling club (they have Heather and Royal St. George) when the Caledonia Club opens the doors of its new clubhouse in November. It will be a mixed club with an increase of membership.

Forced to vacate its Burnside premises, because of city expropriation of part of its property the famed old club, which was originally founded in 1850 and housed on Mountain Street until 1887, was always known as a men's club.

President Art Hutchingame, announced at a special press gathering at the club's temporary summer headquarters at 4414 St. Catherine Street, that work on the Hillside street building, is expected to begin shortly. "And if everything goes according to plan, we hope to be curling in the new club this November."

Plans of the new club were shown at the meeting and the ice layout will consist of four sheets. The clubhouse will contain a large locker room with showers and rest rooms. The main floor will be offices, board room, mixed lounge and a dining room.

The top floor will include a men's lounge, a "cosy corner" and dining room.

Hutchingame said with such a large project in view, the club must expand its membership and a committee headed by Stan McCready, assisted by Al Cousins, has already started a drive to boost the membership to a minimum of 300 active players, including 100 women.

Chairman of the building committee is John Wilson. The match committee is headed by Bill Isacc, along with George Alexander and Bernie Brunet. Jack Wilson heads up the house committee with the dining room under Ed Stuart.
