Interest rates under farm loans to be determined

OTTAWA (CP)—Public officials and private lenders are working on a formula to determine interest rates under the new Farm Improvement Loans Act, Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson told the Commons Wednesday.

Reading a statement drawn up by Finance Minister Edgar Benson and the finance department, he emphasized that the availability of money under the act is as important as its cost.

Banks stopped lending early this year because of the five-per-cent interest ceiling on government guaranteed farm improvement loans.

The revised act would have a rate prescribed by regulations and adjusted "perhaps quarterly" to market levels.

The rate would be related to market levels of interest, probably through yields on Government of Canada securities of comparable term. There would also be an administrative markup.

In the long run, the formula would work to the benefit of the farmers more than a fixed rate, Mr. Olson said.

NO FURTHER DETAILS

He was unable to give further details of the formula because it was still being worked out through negotiations with lenders, he said.

Committee study of the amendments is to continue today, with other farm credit legislation expected to follow.

Jack Horner (PC—Crowfoot) welcomed Mr. Olson's statement but said much debating time would have been saved if it had come earlier. Rural MPs have been seeking information about the proposed interest system since the bill was introduced Oct. 3.

In other business, the Commons passed an act authorizing the CNR to build a $12,000,000 spur line in northwestern Alberta to two sulphur recovery plants.

A few minutes later, the bill was given first reading by the Senate and will come up for second reading next Tuesday.

The Senate also gave second reading to the Precious Metals Marking Act, which sets out the rules for marking gold, silver, platinum, palladium and their alloys.

DENIES CHARGE

In the Commons, Mr. Olson disputed allegations by Jack Bigg (PC—Pembina) that wealthy farmers benefit most from government-guaranteed loans.

Mr. Olson said 78,249 loans averaging $2,602 were made in 1967. Evidently thousands of small loans were made under the legislation.

The agriculture minister also disagreed with the contention of Alf Gleave (NDP—Saskatoon-Biggar) that loans for land should be made under the act.

Mr. Olson said a new provision in the act, allowing farmers to borrow for land purchase, would make the process easier and less costly.

New Democrats threatened to hold up third reading of the CNR spur-line bill but gave in when James Richardson, minister without portfolio, promised to write the railway and urge it to hire local labor wherever possible in building the line.

Construction is to begin when Parliament enacts the bill and is expected to be completed in one year, Mr. Richardson has told the House.

MPs were told the spur should help develop timber and other resources in the lightly-populated Windfall-Bigstone-South Kaybob area northwest of Edmonton.

Sharp returns from UN, Nigeria relief question is unsolved

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — External Affairs Minister Sharp returned to Ottawa Wednesday night after nine busy days as head of Canada's United Nations delegation.

The capital is unlikely to prove any refuge for Sharp from the problem on which he spent many hours here—Nigeria's civil war and its heavy toll of lives from starvation and sickness, particularly in secessionist Biafra.

The Commons external affairs committee is immersed in urgent meetings on how to get speedy relief to the civilian vic-times of the strife. The UN Children's Fund at the end of September estimated 8,000 to 10,000 persons a day were dying of malnutrition and disease.

In a wide-ranging address to the 125-member General Assembly Wednesday, Sharp said Canada intends to play a strong role in providing immediate relief in the strife-torn African country and in reconstruction which must come with peace.

PROMISES MORE AID — Sharp also pledged increased Canadian aid to such UN projects as the development program for less-advanced countries; assailed the Soviet-bloc occupation of Czechoslovakia as "naked power politics;" urged a vigorous pursuit of negotiations to end the world arms race, and emphasized the importance Canada places on a peace agreement in the Middle East.

Sharp made no move to ask the UN to arrange a ceasefire in Nigeria, a policy urged on him Tuesday by two MPs who last week spent 36 hours in Biafra.

Andrew Brewin, NDP member for Toronto Greenwood, and David MacDonald, Conservative MP for Egmont, failed to convince Sharp during two private meetings here that a UN initiative is desirable.

Sharp in his speech said "the Canadian delegation acknowledges and fully understands the request of the Organization of African Unity that governments abstain from any action which might impair the unity, territorial integrity and peace of Nigeria."

But he gave a full report on Canada's humanitarian effort in Nigeria, including provision of Hercules aircraft and crews with which the International Red Cross can deliver supplies both to Nigeria and Biafra.

REACH AGREEMENT

Agreement that Nigeria would not interfere with properly-organized flights of the planes to Biafra was reached by Sharp with External Affairs Commissioner Okoi Arikpo of Nigeria during two long meetings here.

Sharp at a Wednesday news conference said Canada has not offered the UN a Nigerian ceasefire resolution because it would be "counter-productive."

Bishop's to honor four great Canadians Friday

By HUBERT BAUCH
(Bishop's correspondent)

Bishop's University will honor four eminent Canadians and install its new chancellor at a special convocation Friday to commemorate the 125th anniversary of the founding of the university.

Governor General Roland Michener heads the list of those scheduled to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Civil Law. The others are Maurice Cardinal Roy, Archbishop of Quebec, Dr. Maxwell Cohen, dean of law at McGill University and Robert D. Mulholland, president of the Bank of Montreal.

Installed as chancellor will be Brigadier John H. Price, who succeeds Mr. Justice Douglas Abbott, after having served as a member of the university corporation since 1927 and as president since 1965.

Roland Michener was appointed Canada's twentieth Governor-General following the death of Georges P. Vanier in April 1967.

Cardinal Roy has been Archbishop of Quebec since 1947 and was created Cardinal by Pope Paul VI in 1965. He is chancellor of Laval University in Quebec City and Primate of Canada.

Maxwell Cohen became dean of the McGill Law Faculty after having joined the university in 1942 and Robert Mulholland was elected president of the Bank of Montreal last year after 44 years service.

News in brief MLAs to study republic plan

Movement grows

STE. THERESE DE BLAINVILLE, Que. (CP) — Student occupation of junior colleges spread to four Quebec campuses Wednesday night as opposition to the province's education system grew.

Begun with the take-over here Tuesday of Lionel Groulx College, there were fears student occupation would soon include Quebec's 21 other junior colleges.

Met secretly

MEXICO CITY (Reuters) — Student leaders met secretly with government representatives Wednesday night in the first move to ease tension before the opening of the Olympic Games Saturday, informed sources said today.

The sources said six members of the National Students Strike Council, organizers of demonstrations in favor of a bigger voice in the government of President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, met at a private house with two politicians close to Diaz to discuss how students could start talks with federal authorities.

Indicates

TORONTO (CP) — A federal government study indicates that more labor-saving machines and an upgrading of the productivity of present personnel is contributing to the slow increase of employment opportunities in Ontario.

The study of the Ontario manpower situation, conducted by the department of manpower and immigration, says that although business expects rising sales and higher profits in the second half of 1968, work forces will remain at their present level.

Blast Cong

SAIGON (AP) — United States Air Force B-52 bombers blasted Viet Cong base camps threatening Saigon with heavy raids Wednesday and today, boosting to more than 700 the number of missions flown in the last four months in defence of the capital.

The B-52 campaign to blunt an attack on Saigon has become one of the biggest and most expensive of the war—perhaps costing $250,000,000 since June 1.

Is found dead

OTTAWA (CP) — Israel's ambassador to Canada, Arieh Eshel, was found dead in an east-end parking lot Wednesday night and an embassy spokesman said today he "apparently had a heart attack."

Mr. Eshel, 56, had attended a reception at the German Embassy earlier in the evening and it is believed he collapsed while going to get his car to drive home.

could choose republic status—while remaining within Commonwealth and possibly maintaining the "monarchical system" with a Canadian president.

Mr. Bertrand said the 52-page document was submitted July 24 to the permanent federal-provincial committee of the constitutional conference established early this year.

SENT TO TRUDEAU — The document was also sent Oct. 2 to Prime Minister Trudeau and the provincial premiers and had been distributed to members of the Quebec legislature.

He said it would be discussed in the assembly, and he had no objection to the assembly's constitutional committee discussing it prior to the proposed Dec. 9-11 provincial leaders' constitutional conference in Ottawa.

Quebec has agreed to such a conference on the dates already proposed by Mr. Trudeau.

The document says it would become an association of two nations or a federation of 10 states—any member of which form of government would provide the ideal opportunity to reform several of our political institutions so as to make them more effective.

4. "A republican form of government would render Canada's sovereignty and independence more evident to the rest of the world.

5. "However, this reform at the union level is not of such importance that an over-all priority should be attached to it.

6. "As for Quebec, she would like to have the power immediately to become a republic within the Canadian union."

3. "Adoption of a republican president heading the union would be more conducive to Canadian unity than is the British Crown.

2. "Because it is more easily associated with sovereignty of the people, the republican form of government is more closely allied with most Canadians' conception of the nature of their political institutions.

1. "At this point, a Canadian president heading the union would be more conducive to Canadian unity than is the British Crown.

relations except in matters under state jurisdiction; central and commercial banking; money and exchange rates; customs tariffs and international commerce; regulation of monopolies and restrictive practices in private enterprise; weights and measures; bills of exchange and promissory notes;

Patents, trademarks and copyrights; Canadian citizenship; the post office, maritime navigation, international and inter-provincial air traffic and international and interprovincial railways; the federal public service; establishment of state corporations for federal aims, and establishment of private companies in specifically federal jurisdictions.

As matters of joint jurisdiction, Quebec would include agriculture, immigration ("although assimilation of immigrants would come under state jurisdiction"), statistics, census, bankruptcies, radio and television broadcasting and film making, and marketing of agricultural products, food and drugs.

Independent Que. only way - Levesque

MONTREAL (CP) — An independent Quebec is the only way its French-speaking population will become "master in its own home," Rene Levesque, leader of the separatist Mouvement Souverainiste Association, said Wednesday night.

But at the same time, the rights of English-speaking persons must be respected, he told an information meeting sponsored by the Societe nationale populaire.

"The answer to our problem is to become a people that is in the majority, sovereign, master in its own home," Mr. Levesque said.

"If we want something other than... false victories, we must unite sufficiently to take charge of Quebec's affairs."

In an independent Quebec, English-speaking persons would become the minority instead of "the bridgehead of the Canadian majority."

Also represented at the meeting were officials of another separatist group—the Rassemblement pour l'indépendance nationale, headed by Pierre Bourgault—and the nationalist Mouvement pour l'intégration scolaire under Raymond Lemieux.

TO GO UP FOR THIRD TIME — Astronaut Walter Schirra steps from his Mercury 7 spacecraft onto deck of aircraft carrier Kearsage after his first space venture, a six-orbit solo trip, on Oct. 4, 1962. Tomorrow, if all goes according to plan, he will command the first manned Apollo flight and become the first man in the world to take three trips into space.

Ottawa is planning airlift

OTTAWA (CP) — It may be several days before any Canadian aircraft takes part in the Biafra relief airlift, officials here report.

After Nigeria's surprise move in agreeing to let Canadian aircraft fly into Biafra under Red Cross markings, the government is seeking details on how the airlift will work.

Prime Minister Trudeau announced Nigeria's agreement Tuesday and later it was reported that two big Hercules aircraft were tentatively scheduled to leave today.

But officials said Wednesday night a number of points still are being clarified about flights into the blockaded territory.

The Red Cross was being asked the type and location of landing fields that will be used, what unloading equipment and support staff would be available and how the supplies would be sent to forward relief areas.

The officials said they want to be sure the airfields can handle the $2,500,000, four-engined planes which can carry up to 40 tons of supplies.

They also said only one aircraft, not two, has been placed on 48-hour standby alert to take part in the Biafra run.

It is at Nnamdi, Alta., and Red Cross markings were to be painted on it today.

Also unclear is whether the plane will take relief supplies from Canada when it goes. The officials said as many as 33 men might have to go, along with loading and support equipment.

CARRY DOUBLE CREW — The plane, along with any others put into the service, would carry a double crew of 14 men to cope with the high probability of disease.

Once in Nigeria it presumably would remain some time flying a shuttle service within the country, the officials said.

The government announced Sept. 30 that it had offered the Red Cross one Hercules for flights within Nigerian - controlled territory. On Wednesday External Affairs Minister Sharp reported from New York, after discussions with Nigeria's foreign affairs commissioner, that Nigeria would not object to flights into secessionist Biafra as well.

The Commons external affairs committee today is to question External Affairs Minister Sharp on the issue of relief in the wake of his discussions at the United Nations in New York.

Also under continued questioning will be two opposition MPs, David MacDonald (PC—Egmont) and Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) who visited Biafra last week.

Mr. Brewin told the committee Wednesday there are "genocidal implications" in the war, although he was not accusing the Nigerian government of committing genocide.

And the situation is so unsettled that acts of genocide might take place if the war continued, he said.

South's jump to four hearts announced a minimum opening bid with very good trumps. In other words, it said, "Partner, my hand calls for play in hearts. If you have enough high cards to go along with my good trumps, we have a slam; otherwise we belong in game only."

North might have simply jumped to the heart slam but North decided to make some effort to get to seven. Hence his bids of four and five no-trump. South had told his story and settled for the small slam.

South looked over dummy carefully and counted his winners. There were just 11 of them. He could get a 12th easily by taking the double finesse in clubs or he could get the 12th by setting up dummy's fifth spade. The odds that West would hold at least one of the club honors were 3 to 1 in South's favor; the odds that spades would divide 4-3 only about 8-to-5, so that if only one play could be used, it was up to South to try the club finesse.

On the other hand there was a way for South to try both plays. He started by winning the diamond in dummy. Then he entered his hand with the queen of trumps. Next came a spade to the ace and the ruff of a spade. Back to dummy with the king of trumps and the ruff of another low spade.

When both opponents followed to that spade lead, South drew the last trump and showed his hand, conceding a club.

It was just as well that he gave himself that extra chance. The spades did break but both club honors were wrong.

GRAND CHAMPION—Pierrefonds Farm's Grand Champion steer, a 904 pound Aberdeen Angus, was bought by

Grand Champion brings $2.45

For the fourth consecutive year Dominion Stores bought the Grand Champion Steer at the Sherbrooke Winter Fair. This year Dominion Stores paid $2.45 cents a pound to Pierrefonds Farm of Sutton Junction. The sales netted 2,214.80. Last year Pierrefonds Farm's Grand Champion steer, an Aberdeen Angus, sold for $2,145.60, $2.40 a pound. Both prices are far off the 1966 price of $5.50 paid to North River Farm's Champion Angus.

The Reserve Grand Champion steer, owned by Desourdy Construction of Bromont, was bought for $1.10 a pound, 10 cents more per pound than was paid at last year's Sherbrooke Winter Fair. Desourdy Construction received $930.60.

Barbara Pickett's 4-H Club Champion Hereford steer was bought by T. Eaton Co. of Montreal for 60 cents a pound, the same price as last year.

The Champion Shorthorn steer was sold to Laurier Packers F. D. L. for 43 cents a pound. Last year the champion shorthorn steer was auctioned off for 35 cents a pound. The sale netted Harold Pickett of Lennoxville $388.72.

The Reserve Champion Hereford was bought by Laurier

Packers for Metropole Stores for 43½ cents a pound while last year the same reserve champion was purchased for 58 cents a pound.

The Reserve Champion Shorthorn, owned by Erwin Watson of Bury, and the Reserve Champion 4-H Club steer were sold for 36 cents a pound to Dionne Stores and T. Eaton Co. respectively. Last year's prices were slightly higher.

The three interbred steers were sold for 52, 53 and 53 cents a pound. All three were purchased by Canada Packers. Last year Canada Packers and T. Eaton Co. paid 61, 60 and 60 cents a pound. These steers are sold as dressed weight according to the weight of the carcass after slaughter.

Contrary to predictions that the average prices would go up this year, the 1968 average price per pound was 38.75 cents per pound about 3½ cents lower than last year's average of 42.38 cents per pound.

A total of 90 steers were auctioned yesterday, netting a grand total of $30,878.38. The 90 steers comprised a total weight of 79,680 pounds of beef cattle. Last year's figures showed a total of 71 steers, 61,208 pounds of beef cattle, auctioned for $25,745.38.

In the market hogs section, Marcel Sylvestre, of St. Hyacinthe, sold his grand champion pen of three hogs for $1.35 a pound. T. Eaton Co. representatives bought the lot for Au Petit Poucet Restaurant of Val David.

La Belle Ferme purchased Mr. Sylvestre's champion lot of hogs last year for $1.25 per pound.

Preston Kirkpatrick's champion pen of five hogs was sold for 34 cents a pound, 11 cents lower than last year's price. Canada Packers bought five of eight hog exhibits at the Winter Fair at an average of 33½ cents per pound. Laurier Packers bought the two remaining pens of hogs at 33 and 36 cents per pound.

Canada Packers bought Donald Young's registered barrow, first place finisher for 33 cents a pound. Canada Packers bought all five single exhibits in this interbred competition, paying prices of 33 and 34½

Community Concert Tuesday

The Sherbrooke Community Concerts Association will open its season Oct. 15 in the concert hall at the University of Sherbrooke.

First presentation of the season will feature the violinist-pianist duo of Benno and Sylvia Rabinof.

The Rabinofs have championed the works of Martinu, Creston, Robert Russell Bennett and others who have written compositions especially for them.

Among their concerts in recent seasons have been performances of all 10 Beethoven Sonatas for violin and piano which they played in a single day. They have also played Martinu's Concerto for violin.

Other presentations by the Sherbrooke Community Concerts Association will include the appearance of David Bar-

Ilan, world renowned pianist, Dec. 3 and on Feb. 11, 1969, Reri Grist, soprano, will entertain concert ticket holders with his exceptional voice.

Those interested in obtaining a membership may contact Mrs. Robert Beliveau at 567-7745 before Oct. 15.

Industry and Commerce

C of C meets tonight

Alex Baptist, Sherbrooke's new industrial commissioner, will be special guest speaker tonight at the first general assembly of the Chamber of Commerce for the new term. The meeting will be held at the New Sherbrooke Hotel.

Mr. Baptist will give his views on industrial promotion for the city. Following will be a question and answer period.

ALEX BAPTIST

Among the special invited guests will be Mayor Armand Nadeau, Raynald Frechette, MPP, Ald. Gaston M. Roy, president of the municipal commission of industrial affairs, S. W. Hooper, president of the consulting industrial commission.

Mr. Baptist's previous experience in municipal administration includes eight years as city manager of Hawkesbury, Ont., and Pointe Claire and six years as management consultant in industry and government.

Liberals plan nominations

The provincial Liberal party is holding a series of nominating conventions in constituencies now held by Union Nationale supporters during the next few weeks to select candidates for the next general election, expected early in 1969.

First of such gatherings to be held in the Eastern Townships, the Compton County convention will be held at the college hall in Cookshire at 2 p.m. Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

Indications are that Omer Dionne, a Cookshire area farmer, will be the unanimous choice of the delegates to seek the seat now held by Lands and Forests Minister Claude Gosselin.

Pierre Laporte, Liberal MLA for Chambly and chairman of the Liberal caucus in the Legislative Assembly, will be the guest speaker at the gathering.

Mr. Laporte also plans another visit to the Sherbrooke area on Monday, Oct. 21, when he will meet the students of the University of Sherbrooke and hold a series on television, radio and press interviews.

Other prominent Liberals planning similar visits to this district during the fall and early winter include Yves Michaud, MLA for Gouin, on Nov. 12, Robert Bourassa, MLA for Mercier on Nov. 18 and State Secretary Gerard Pelletier on December 9.

Mr. Justice Evender Veilleux ordered that the jury be kept in seclusion until Friday morning when it will return a verdict.

The charge was changed to one involving just four cars yes-

Leclerc is also charged with causing damages to the four automobiles to the extent of the full value of the cars.

Quick action possible on language proposals

One measure which should be introduced into the Quebec Legislature immediately it resumes sittings later this month is a bill assuring the educational rights for the English-speaking minority.

And if the party leaders are as good as their word there should be little delay in approving an amendment to the provincial constitution providing for these guarantees.

On the eve of his death, the late Premier Daniel Johnson pledged himself that he would take such action and his successor, Jean-Jacques Bertrand, at his first press conference announced he favored the linguistic policies of his predecessor.

Now Opposition Leader Jean Lesage has declared that "parents in Quebec should have the right to have their children educated in the official language of their choice if there are a sufficient number of pupils to justify it."

Even the arch-proponent of separatism, René Lévesque, has declared that he believes in the preservation of the minority rights in the field of education.

With the three party leaders apparently agreed on the principle of educational guarantees there is little reason why there should be any difficulty in incorporating the idea into the constitution of the province.

The chief danger is that the resolution might become a political football, with each party seeking to claim a special role in bringing the changes about.

Probably the best solution might be for the party leaders to make an informal agreement prior to the introduction of the resolution that it be a non-party affair.

Prime Minister Bertrand might be given the privilege of proposing the motion with the Opposition Leader acting as seconder and endorsement coming from Mr. Lévesque.

This would leave the handful of unilingual proponents in the delicate position of making their individual stands known without the protection of party solidarity.

The only person who prospers while loafing on the job is the baker.

Poor cost estimating

During World War II a federal cabinet minister found himself in considerable trouble for a chance remark, "What's a million dollars anyway?"

But 20 years later he would be branded as a piker and a cheapskate, as a man of limited intellect who should be disregarding mistakes of tens of millions of dollars instead of mere millions.

At least this might be read into a debate in the House of Commons Monday in which Creditiste Leader Real Caouette criticized the Liberal administration for laxity in permitting the costs of Ottawa's Art Centre to jump from an original estimate of $9,000,000 to a possible $56,000,000 by the time it is completed next June.

The Government's defence was rather unusual — the first claim being that no original estimate of the cost had been issued by the authorities and the possible price was based on an estimate prepared for a private group that was sponsoring the Arts Centre and the second being that Mr. Caouette was $10,000,000 too high on his estimate of the final cost.

So, it would seem, the federal government embarked on a multi-million dollar scheme without having any clear idea of the possible cost.

Unfortunately the Ottawa Arts Centre is not an isolated incident in the annals of state expenditure nor has the tendency been confined to the present administration.

Much of the financial bind in which all levels of government find themselves today results from undertaking schemes without any true idea of the final outlay.

In some shops the man who knows what he's doing is an expert at keeping secrets.

Politician raps commission for slashing rail services

Following is a letter from Glen Brown, MLA for Brome, to C. W. Rump, Secretary of the Railway Transport Committee, protesting the removal of railroad stations and agents in the Brome County area.

Dear Sir:

May I, at this time, voice my opposition to the plans dealing with stations and agents of the Canadian Pacific Railroad in the area of Brome County. This will mean that Brome County is part of a region instead of being, to a certain extent, self-sufficient. As a citizen and as a representative of the people I have found that regionalization in fact stresses more business, more employment, more importance to the large centers of a region and less of everything for the rural and small centers in the regionalization. One of our greatest problems today is to tear the initiative away from Montreal and Sherbrooke, Granby and Magog and organize employment and living in rural areas.

The railroad service in Brome County has seen in the past 20 years and the last 60 years a retrograde situation. Lack of service and lack of imagination on the part of railroads has strangled business and initiative here. The railroad sold us on its benefits present and future. Since this selling job from 1836 until 1902 we therefore have seen the decay of the system and the corresponding decay of our industrial self. The discontinuance of the line from Eastman to North Troy Vermont, the gradual erosion of the Sutton to Foster to Drummondville link, the cutting of services to Sutton on the Boston line and the gradual decrease of service to Brigham, Fulford, Foster et. al. The fact of the matter has been that the withdrawal of railroad services in Brome County ruined the economy of the County from 1901 to 1961.

Now the Canadian Pacific

Railroad, that has in fact been given a superior economic position in Canada at the request of the company and at the expense of the average taxpayer is now withdrawing, almost completely, services in many rural communities with only token services in these areas.

In Brome County since 1960 there has been a vast change for the better. In Knowlton "Clairrol" has expanded from less than 50 employees to more than 300 with the attendant increase in communications. In Sutton a vast investment of over a million dollars has established a winter and summer play area while Yarnette, Louiseville Bat, and a Bobbin factory have come into active being. The old industry of milk under the Boulanger family has increased its activity. In the other parts of the County Glen Mountain, Echo Valley, Owls Head, Orford, Bromont, Gale Mountain have elbowed their way into the tourist trade sphere so that the winter income which in the depressed times amounted to Nil will represent at the very least a million dollars in receipts and three million dollars in business.

Can the C.P.R. maintain under these circumstances that they should cut services? In addition to these resorts there are within the county extra activities industrially and recreationally. The Space Research Center in Highwater, the Korolite plant in Mansonville, the camping and tenting centers, the wood products plant at Bolton and Mansonville, the Cecil Butters Memorial Hospital. All of these centers established since 1960 and thriving in most cases, if submitted to the right influence by the railroads would supply business to re-activate the railroad in this area.

But to deny service by substituting pseudo services that in fact merely pay lip service to the needs of the community mean that the Canadian Pacific Railroad is diplomatically disengaging from a trust and service that they pledged themselves to carry out in an original commitment. The assets that they have acquired from the average Canadian citizen and taxpayer have made them one of the greatest and richest enterprises on this North American Continent.

"Serving you in so many ways" is the television blurb that they feed to John Q. Citizen; while in the cavernous interior of their administration they are withdrawing all the direct service from a human point of view to a whole county.

TEN YEARS AGO

Newspapermen and members of parliament protect the Canadian taxpayers from an over-powerful bureaucracy, the Eastern Townships Chartered Accountants Club was told at its dinner last night, the speaker being Gear McIntyre, deputy minister of national revenue.

He urged that newspapermen publish all they learned and that deputies protest in the House when they heard of abuses by officials as the best means of curbing irregularities.

Mr. McIntyre declared that the Income Tax division was less interested in the amount of tax the individual paid than it was in the proper functioning of the service and that the laws be administered to the letter.

He outlined the work of the income tax department and praised the efficiency of the service which he said cost less than one per cent of the revenue collected.

COMMENT

by Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — (TNS) — Both at home and abroad the political landscape is changing its contours. Pretty soon so many of the familiar landmarks will be gone that even experienced observers and interpreters of the scene will need new orientation maps.

At home we not only have an instant Prime Minister who has yet to show which way he is going, but with Daniel Johnson out of the picture and premiers Manning and Smallwood on their way out the established pattern of provincial politics with its predictable interactions within the framework of Confederation is also receding into the region of guesswork.

Abroad, the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia has upset most of the assumptions and calculations of the "detente" years at the very moment when the United States, tormented by a whole series of explosive internal ferment, is choosing a new president. And Moscow's intentions, finds its urge for greater unity once again frustrated by the intransigence of de Gaulle's France.

The common denominator of all these pressures and counterpressures is uncertainty which grips nations and sends people searching in all directions either for visionary Utopias or for pieces of firm ground in the familiar past.

MAKE-BELIEVE ELEMENT

In the United States this dichotomy of the general ferment lacks a symbol around which the make-believe element could rally and organize its thrust. Hence the visible polarization of political forces is taking place mainly on the other side of the scale where Nixon and Wallace profit from fear of anarchy.

In Canada the trend is right now in the opposite direction. Roused by the excitement of the centennial spirit which produced the dream-world of Expo, Canadians demonstrated in the June election that they yearn for change — any change that would break the monotony, the dull routine of our parochial political bickering.

Cultivated by the information media and the academic community, it was this mood which found in Pierre Trudeau the personification of its vague aspiration. The identification with an alleged apostle of change was so swift and emotionally turbulent that in the excitement the direction and content of Trudeau's promise of change became irrelevant.

Starting with Mr. Trudeau's heartless do-nothing reactions to the tragedies of Biafra and Czechoslovakia, via his cancellation of the winter works program and his dismal opening speeches in Parliament, to the abandonment of his promise of a balanced budget, the country has been learning that the Prince Charming of the election campaign may not be able to perform the miracles expected of him.

Tender loving care is the watchword for care of adopted children

By JOHN McCAGHEY
(Record Staff Reporter)
MONTREAL — (Staff) — The average human, used to pointing the standards of happiness at the gamut of luxury items, travel packages, and means of leisure, would, and should, hang his head in shame at times. Granted the author is editorializing.

I, an adopted child, had the opportunity of visiting the Children's Mountain Cottage Convalescent Hospital in Montreal, early this week, where a new sense of appreciation of life was kindled.

The Cottage Hospital is the result of a great deal of solid labor on the part of Miss Maeda Primavesi, a charming Austrian, who emigrated to Canada in the late 1940's.

Miss Primavesi was reluctant to talk about her native background. However, she indicated that she and members of her family emigrated to Canada when there appeared to be another world war looming on the international horizon. She settled in Montreal.

Miss Primavesi said she worked part-time at the Montreal Children's Hospital, and that she was appalled that some of the youthful patients spent month, on month, on month in the wards of the hospital, without adequate opportunities to convalesce beyond the sterile atmosphere and confines of a hospital.

The dream emerged. Miss Primavesi knew of the International Children's Villages that started in Switzerland, and were adopted in Austria, prior to her leaving her native land.

The application of this type of home for children who required convalescence stimulated her. She began by asking physicians at the Montreal Children's Hospital about the feasibility of such a project. Most agreed in principle, but were askance at the enormity of such a project.

Miss Primavesi said "That the funds, by and large, that initiated the project, came from infusing people with the validity of the project."

Miss Primavesi said that she met the daughter of one of Canada's best known philanthropists, explained the idea, having no idea of whom she was talking to, when the individual said that she thought her father "could help". He certainly did in the creation of the Pine Avenue Convalescent Hospital.

(Children's Mountain Cottage). Miss Primavesi thought, and the execution of the Pine Avenue residence has proven true, that an institutional-like atmosphere is not that in which children will convalesce rapidly, nor to their best advantage.

The atmosphere is one of gaiety, the registered nurses wear non-uniform type uniforms, and the aura is that of one happy family.

The normal family squabbles occur, but there is no trace of the usual institutional discipline, smell or overall feeling that any child can sense. The atmosphere is one of tender loving care all in perspective, yet Tender Loving Care is the watchword, if not the motto. It is certainly practised.

The Montreal Hospital that started in June 1962 is due to expand to West Brome in either late November, or early December. Not in the form of a hospital, but in the realm of a children's village.

Miss Primavesi explained that the Board of Trustees had purchased 340 acres, about half a mile west of West Brome, and that they eventually hope to have 12 houses, each with a house-mother, containing seven children. These homes will be run on the precepts established by the International Children's Villages, with Canadian connotations.

She hopes to have the first two homes in operation very soon. The major stumbling block at the moment is in locating suitable "mothers".

The "mothers" must be just that, able and willing to accept the children as if they had been adopted by themselves, no questions as to race, religion or color.

The children who will initiate the project have fully convalesced, and will be integrated into the normal flow of country life.

In many cases this will be their first opportunity out of city ghettos, where they were abused, and often neglected, by their parents, perhaps the term should miss.

Miss Primavesi displayed the photographs of one youngster whose arm had been broken by her mother seven times, and then had been the victim of innumerable burns, prior to being admitted to the Montreal Children's Hospital where she was given treatment, before being released to the Mountain Cottage.

The charming (today) young lady was full of vim, personality, and bubbling with intelligence. Tests at the MCH had indicated that she was in the moron class. All this with tender loving care?

The warmth of welcome offered any new face in the Mountain Cottage Home, if mine were normal, is an experience no person with any compassion should miss.

The smiles, the gleaming teeth, the warm cries of welcome, pick me up, how about me, my turn, the clinging and search for affection, not that any is lacking from the staff's point of view, is overwhelming. YOU are new, a new source of interest and vitality for these children who are being given the chance, in many cases, to escape from broken or unhappy homes, to experience the joys of normal childhood, without the pitfalls of juvenile delinquency.

One can only hope that the residents of Brome-Missisquoi counties will welcome them with open arms, and make sure that they become a viable part of our community.

Our last request is that anyone who would like to know more about being a housemother contact Miss Primavesi at Montreal 842-2744. She will welcome you, as will those marvellous children.

Mr. Davis served from 1944 to 1968.

Mr. Davis recalled some of the difficulties he and the members with him have had over the years. One difficulty was getting the Central School organized, and persuading people that it was possible to bus children over winter roads and that a central school had more to offer the children than the local one-room school. Mr.

Davis has always been keenly interested in children and their education.

During the evening Mr. Davis was presented with a silver tray and thanked for his long and faithful service.

The dinner was held at the Knowlton Steak House with the following well wishers present: Mrs. R. Davis, wife of the honored guest; Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Cowan, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Knights, Mr. and Mrs. R. Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. G. Larocque and Mr. and Mrs. H. Salisbury.

Two Knowlton men are hurt in an accident

KNOWLTON — (Staff) — Normand Piche, 25, and Peter Xastarslous, 53, both of Knowlton, were injured yesterday morning at 6 o'clock when the car Mr. Piche was driving went out of control and crashed into a ditch near Fisher's Crossing.

Mr. Piche injured his nose and chin.

Mr. Xastarslous has extensive facial lacerations and suffered two fractured ribs.

Both men are employed as chefs at L'Auberge du Relais (The Knowlton Steakhouse).

QPP described damages to the car as "being extensive."

Choir plans

DUNHAM — (Special) — The forthcoming choir activities of the United Church in Dunham will include the Sunday evening service at Knowlton United Church when the young people of the choir will conduct the service, the theme being, The Lord's Prayer.

Another event, sponsored by the choir, will be a Barn Dance on October 25. More particulars on this will be given at a later date.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY PRAYER GROUP OF GRACE CHAPEL

A special fall tea was recently held by the Women's Missionary Prayer Group of Grace Chapel.

There were 80 ladies present from Sherbrooke and surrounding areas including Stanstead, Ayer's Cliff, Huntingville and Cherry River. The guests were received by Miss V. Grant, Mrs. D. Fish and Mrs. R. Paulette.

Tea was convened by Mrs. A. Baker. Pourers at the tea were Mrs. C. Haley and Mrs. S. Dibble.

The table was decorated in fall colors with white candles and red and gold dahlias. The flowers were donated by Mrs. E. Faith.

Mrs. W. Klink introduced the guest speaker, Vivian Grant of Literature Crusade, Chicago, Ill. Miss Grant spoke on What the Lord Jesus Christ Should Mean to Each Individually.

Laura Thompson was soloist.

Mrs. R. Paulette announced the forthcoming meeting on Oct. 21 with Mrs. C. Haley as guest speaker.

Mrs. N. Gentry closed with prayer.

XI BETA SIGMA PHI

The members of XI Beta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi enjoyed a social evening Monday at Mrs. S. Hansford's cottage at Shore Acres. The casserole and salad supper was convened by Mrs. J. Lacroix and Mrs. G. Curphey, social committee.

Following supper, Mrs. G. Armstrong presided at a short business meeting. Plans for the chapter's 25th anniversary celebration were discussed. Names of former members to be contacted were submitted and various activities proposed.

Mrs. Curphey and Mrs. Lacroix were asked to formulate plans for the annual fall banquet to be held Nov. 4.

The next regular meeting of the chapter will be held Oct. 21, at the home of Mrs. K. Herring in Lennoxville.

Mrs. Hansford won the door prize, which was donated by Mrs. Herring.

For and about Women

Couple feted for 67th anniversary

BOLTON CENTER — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis who recently celebrated their 67th wedding anniversary, were feted with two parties, recently.

On Oct. 1, a group of about 41 friends and relatives gathered at the couple's home here. Mr. and Mrs. Davis also received a telegram from Governor General Michener on behalf of the Queen, and telegrams from Prime Minister Trudeau and Opposition leader Stanfield as well as provincial Liberal MP Yves Forest and former Conservative MP, H. Graffey.

The couple's daughter, Mrs. Henry Champeau presented Mr. and Mrs. Davis with a layer cake.

On Sept. 29, the Davis held open house to a group of about 30 guests. On both occasions the house was decorated with white and blue streamers and flowers. A buffet lunch was served and Mrs. Richard Davis, the couple's daughter-in-law presented the Davis' with a special given the couple.

Relatives and friends came

67 YEARS MARRIED — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis of Bolton Center who recently celebrated their 67th wedding anniversary.

from as far away as Rutland, Vt., Arvida, Potton, Waterloo, Foster, Knowlton, Austin and South Bolton.

The couple is still maintaining an active life. Mr. Davis milks his own cow and Mrs. Davis keeps the family supplied with butter.

Mr. Davis, 87, says he has known lean years and hard work, having worked in the woods most of his life.

"They didn't have pensions and family allowances in those days," he added.

The Davis home is equipped with all modern conveniences but Mrs. Davis, 82, still keeps her two oil lamps burning through the night as a symbol of other days.

The couple raised a large family. The Davis' had 12 children and raised three more as well by adopting their grandchildren.

They have 38 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Eat, drink, 'n exercise restraint

TORONTO (CP) — If you are going to Mexico for the Olympic Games, you should be able to eat and drink anything you want if you exercise a little restraint.

Gonzalo Moreno, director of the Mexican government tourism department in Toronto, looks pained at any suggestion that Canadians must have digestive problems in his country.

"My wife is Canadian and I make her drink the water and eat Mexican food when we are there—and nothing happens."

"There is nothing the matter with the water, but it is always a d v i s a b l e to avoid changes in drinking water."

"Remember, too, that Mexico City is 7,400 feet above sea level. One alcoholic drink has the effect of three or four back home."

"The air is thinner, food takes longer to digest and eating hours are different. You will have lunch at two and dinner at nine. I think it is a mistake not to eat Mexican food when you are there. It does not have to be hot. You can have tacos or enchiladas with tomato sauce rather than pepper sauce."

"People say the vegetables make them sick. Well, many of the tomatoes and strawberries imported into Canada come from Mexico, and if people don't get sick in Canada, how come they get sick in Mexico?"

"The best advice is for people to make sure the restaurant is clean and to be sensible in their eating and drinking habits."

ASK DOCTOR

If you are really concerned, Mr. Moreno says, check with a doctor before you go. There are medications you can take that may help.

What do you need to take with you besides digestive tablets?

"A Canadian who wishes to visit Mexico requires a passport and a tourist card. You can get the card from Mexican tourist or government offices across Canada."

For the period of the Games only, people who need visas to enter Mexico can take a passport to a Mexican consul and get a visa in a few days instead of several months.

Robert Leslie Richardson marries Elizabeth Jean Hurd at Cookshire

COOKSHIRE — The marriage of Elizabeth Jean Hurd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Hurd, of Cookshire, to Robert Leslie Richardson, son of Mrs. Morris Smith of Bulwer, and the late Leslie Richardson, took place recently at St. Peter's Anglican Church, here.

Bronze and yellow chrysanthemums and mums were used to decorate the chancel and white satin ribbon bows marked the guest pews.

Rev. A. Fairbairn officiated and the traditional wedding music was played by the organist, Mrs. George Gill.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of pale blue and silver brocade with a Mandarin collar. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a sequin ring, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink elegant miniature carnations and ivy.

Sharon Matthews, as maid of honor, wore a pale pink and silver brocade dress with matching velvet hair bow and she carried a bouquet of yellow pompon mums.

Gary Taylor was best man and the ushers were John Hurd brother of the bride, and Bruce Smith, step-brother of the groom.

The mother of the bride chose a red and black double knit suit with black accessories and wore a white gardenia corsage.

The groom's mother wore an olive green double knit suit with gold accessories and her corsage was an orange orchid cymbidium.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The table was centered with a two-tier wedding cake, flanked by tall tapers in silver candle holders. Gladioli were used to decorate the home.

Kathy Richardson, sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest book.

For travelling, the bride wore a red wool coat-style dress with grey velvet collar and cuffs.

The couple will reside in Sherbrooke.

generation really so different from those we faced? War, crime and poverty—yes, we faced them, too. Don't be too cynical about today. Don't tear down the old until you have something better to replace it with. Start building your families on some stable basis. Different, yes. But with some disciplines, some loyalties." That urging comes from Mercedes Bates, a corporate vice president of General Mills, who is particularly alert to women's place in society.

"It isn't true that you can't go home again. You can go home. To a home life designed to fit the modern environment and the needs of the times but still a basis for living constructively and, let us hope, happily," she adds.

Miss Bates points out that most young marrieds today are much better educated. They reveal idealism in joining Vista, the Peace Corps and in becoming involved in

"But young husbands and wives and children, no matter how idealistic, must eat. Yes, and eat well and regularly despite rising food costs and the fact that often the wife must work outside the home. So the answer is to become an educated consumer," says this executive with a staff of more than 50 women who develop recipes, test products for quality, prepare cookbooks and answer at least 4,000 letters a month from homemakers.

As director of the Betty Crocker Kitchens in Minneapolis, Miss Bates is able to understand women's marketing problems. Here are a few of her suggestions to young wives, whether they work or stay home with children:

• Impulse shopping puts a great strain on your food budget. Plan ahead. Read the food ads in local papers, read labels on food packages to prevent disappointment later. Study food ads in magazines.

• There is no ideal shopping list for all families. For example, the large, economy-sized package may be wasteful for the small family. So are larger cans, often. Don't try to follow the pattern for a big family with lots of children because they save money this way. Fit your order lists to your own particular needs. Remember, there is no ideal shopping list. That is worth repeating.

• The educated consumer must look at the negative costs of shopping. Also, when women squeeze tomatoes and ruin them or damage packages or drop jars or leave frozen food out of the frozen food compartment or allow their children to tear through the store knocking foods off the counters—all these lost profits are charged to the consumer by the supermarket.

Says language is the key in education plan

MONTREAL (CP) — Language, not religion, should be the basis of the division in Quebec's education system, a government-appointed study committee has decided.

The 18-member committee, appointed to look into possible school reorganization on Montreal Island, says in its report that the island's 42 existing Protestant and Roman Catholic school boards should be replaced by 13 regional boards—nine French and four English—by Jan. 1, 1971.

The report is to be presented formally to Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal by Oct. 15. Its contents were made public Wednesday by a spokesman for the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal.

Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand has said he wants to see the report before taking any action on a promised language policy for the province.

In recommending a split along French-English rather than Catholic-Protestant lines, the study committee rejected the unified and bilingual school structure espoused by a Quebec royal commission on education and the advisory Superior Council of Education.

The language split is the solution favored generally by English-speaking Protestants, who fear that their traditional rights in education would not be as well safeguarded under the predominantly French-language school boards of a unified system.

18 ON COMMITTEE
The study committee is made up of 18 prominent figures in education representing school boards, administrators, teachers and parents. Chairman is Joseph Page, former minister of education who now is vice-chairman of Montreal's Catholic school board.

The committee report said each of the nine French regional boards would operate Catholic and "pluralist" or non-denominational schools, while each of the four English ones would operate Protestant, Catholic and "pluralist" schools.

Parents would be free to choose the language and religious character of their children's education.

The study committee further recommended that a common school tax rate be established across the island. Revenues would go into a common pool and be distributed to regional boards on the basis of pupil population.

The study group proposed, if its report is approved by the education department, to set up next year a 13-member provisional school council which would supervise the implementation of the new system.

The provisional council would take over school taxation and finance immediately, and would conduct a census to determine where schools were needed.

May buy jets

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told State Secretary Dean Rusk on Wednesday to start negotiations with Israel on her long-standing bid to buy 50 F-4 Phantom jet fighter planes from the United States.

Both Democratic presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey and Republican Richard M. Nixon have come out for such action—and so did the U.S. Congress by voting a special provision into the new foreign aid bill.

Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd. looks for a rate of return on its investments of "between seven and 13 or 14 per cent, depending on the element of risk in each opportunity." Fred V. Stone, president, told the Toronto Society of Financial Analysts yesterday. In answer to questions at a luncheon meeting, he declined to disclose the rate of return on CPI's present investments but said "generally speaking to the present time, predicted rates of return have been achieved." The company, a subsidiary of Canadian Pacific Railway Co., operates as a holding company for Canadian Pacific non-transportation interests and owns a large investment portfolio. He said in recent months CPI's interest in Cominco Ltd., had been increased to 53 from 52 per cent. The common shares of CPI trade over-the-counter at between $13 and $14.

Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting said it has reached agreement to increase its ownership in Sylvite of Canada to 100 per cent from 51 per cent in return for 163,138 Hudson Bay treasury shares worth $11,200,000. Sylvite of Canada is preparing a Saskatchewan potash mine for production in 1971 at a cost of $68,000,000, 60 per cent of which is being provided by Hudson Bay. The proposal is subject to approval by Hudson Bay shareholders of the creation of additional 1,000,000 treasury shares. Hudson Bay says it expects to complete the transaction in December.

cents per pound for the five exhibits.

The Grand Champion market lamb, owned by Ivesleigh Farm of Magog, was bought at a near record low $1.50 per pound. Last year Archie Lyster's Grand Champion was bought for $4.25 a pound. T. Eaton Co. paid $124.50 for this year's Grand Champion.

The Reserve Champion lamb, owned by Archie Lyster of Melbourne, was bought by E.T.A.A. president Carlo Fabi for $1.10 a pound. Art Bennett purchased the Reserve Champion last year for $1.50 a pound. The net receipts from the lamb were donated to charity by both men in the respective years. Mr. Fabi paid $94.60 for the lamb and in turn auctioned the animal for $47.30. All the money will be turned over to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital fund.

JURY UNSURE...

day morning when he ordered a Montreal detective who investigated the case to reveal the secret place where serial numbers are stamped on the car chassis.

A previous trial in which Leclerc was accused of substantially the same charges was suspended on April 8 when the Crown appealed a decision by the Court then that the detective must give the position on the chassis of those numbers.

Judge Veilleux ordered that defence lawyer Dewey Zaor ask all questions about the serial numbers in a closed court.

Mr. Zaor did not even once refer to the secret numbers, after arguing many hours with the Crown that the revelation of the locale of the numbers was important to the defence.

Cards of Thanks

FORGRAVE — I would like to express my sincere thanks to all my relatives and friends for visits, cards and flowers. Special thanks to Dr. Taylor, Dr. Paquette, Dr. Dougan, nurses and aides on 4th floor, to Mrs. Carlie Acturey for the lovely Sunshine Basket and all who contributed to it, and to my mother for her help while I was in hospital and since my return home.

Stanstead gets anti-junk law

STANSTEAD — (Special) — A notice of motion was followed through at the Stanstead Municipal Council meeting held on Monday evening, Oct. 7 in the Council room of the Registry building in Stanstead, to have the Mayor and councillors given a remuneration indemnity as recommended by the County Council. It will be $300 per annum to the Mayor and $150 per annum to the councillors. However should a councillor miss more than three sessions of the council he will be subject to a deduction.

A few weeks ago four persons in the Village were sent registered letters requesting them to clean up the beginning of junk yards. It was noted only one had complied with the request. At the meeting on Monday evening and following a notice of motion at a council meeting, a new bylaw was approved and all previous bylaws pertaining to junk yards were rescinded. The new bylaw is — That no land or structure in the Village of Stanstead shall be used for storing used motor vehicles for the purpose of wrecking or dismantling them or salvaging parts thereof for sale or other disposal. Any person convicted of a breach of any of the provisions of this bylaw shall forfeit and pay at the discretion of the convicting magistrate a penalty not to exceed (exclusive of costs) the sum of $300 for each offence.

A cheque was received for $825 on the purchase of fire equipment. This is a government grant for fire protection.

Tigers clobber Cards 13-1

Northrup clouts grand-slam, big one today

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The aroused Detroit Tigers clobbered St. Louis pitching for a record-tying 10 runs in the third inning Wednesday and squared the World Series at three games each with a 13-1 victory behind Denny McLain, a two-time loser.

Jim Northrup's grand slam homer off relief pitcher Larry Jaster was the big blow in the third when the Tigers sent 15 men to the plate against loser Ray Washburn and three others. It was the biggest series inning since Hack Wilson misjudged a fly ball at Philadelphia in 1929 and opened the gates for 10 runs by Philadelphia A's against Chicago Cubs. The A's, trailing 8-0 at the time, also sent 15 men to bat. The final score didn't quite match the New York Yankees' 18-4 rout of the New York Giants in 1936.

Julian Javier's single with two out and two on in the ninth saved the Cards from suffering the most lopsided shutout in Series history.

COMES BACK STRONG

McLain, second choice to injured Earl Wilson in manager

Mayo Smith's pre-game opinion, made up for two earlier defeats by Bob Gibson as he came back strong with a cortisone shot easing his aching right shoulder.

The Tigers' victory once again puts it squarely up to Gibson, the Cards' strikeout ace, in a seventh game duel today with left-handed Mickey Lolich, also a two-time series winner.

Morning showers delayed the start for 10 minutes and umbrellas sprouted in the crowd of 54,692 at Busch Stadium as the rain resumed in the last of the seventh inning. The lights were turned on all during the dark, cloudy afternoon. Play was held up for 49 minutes by rain in the last of the eighth.

By the time the game was resumed only a handful of fans remained in the rain-soaked stands. Some press box ways thought it should have been declared a TKO as soon as it became legal to save the battered Cards' from absorbing further punishment.

The series thus followed the same pattern as 1967 when the Cards opened up a 3-1 edge on Boston only to drop two in a row before Gibson bested Jim Lonborg in the final. The only teams to come back from 3-1 deficits were the Boston Red Sox in a best-of-nine set in 1903, Pittsburgh Pirates in 1925 and New York Yankees in 1958.

Once again Gibson, who last worked Sunday in the rain-delayed game at Detroit, will have three days' rest while his opponent, Lolich, will have had only two days to recover from Monday's winning effort.

HAD BAD START

It was apparent early that this was not Washburn's day. The Tigers hopped on him for two runs in the second when Norm Cash walked on a 3-1 pitch, Willie Horton doubled him home and Bill Freehan broke a 16-at-bat hitless streak. Washburn, a winner with relief help from Joe Hoerner in the third game, was wild and was not throwing hard.

The third inning started innocently enough with a walk to Northrup, who hit four grand slam homers in regular season, including two on successive innings against Cleveland June 24, ripped Jaster's second pitch into the Card bullpen, about 380 feet away in right field. It was the 11th series grand slammer and first since the Yanks' Joe Pepitone in 1964.

Now it was 8-0 but the Tigers weren't through yet. Freehan, first man to face Willis, walked on four pitches. Don Wert was nally made Northrup fly to Lou Brock in left field.

Kaline, the hitting star of the Tigers' fine comeback, delivered his second series homer with nobody on in the fifth against Steve Carlton, fifth of seven Card pitchers.

Brock, whose 400 all-series average and 480 in this series led all the hitters, went out the first two times but singled in the sixth before striking out in the eighth.

McLain never had it so good. The 31-game winner of regular season coasted along with a big lead, pitching steady ball against the deflated Cards.

GIVEN RARE CHANCE

Smith gave McLain the opportunity to come back after two defeats, the first pitcher to get such a chance since Hippo Vaughn of the Chicago Cubs in 1918 who lost his first two starts to the Boston Red Sox but won the third time out.

McLain had the most lopsided shutout in his pocket until the ninth when singles by Roger Maris, Orlando Cepeda and Javier gave the Cards their only run. He allowed nine hits, all singles, didn't walk a man and struck out seven, including the last hitter he faced, Dal Maxvill, still hitless in 20 trips.

After the game, McLain was asked if he had good stuff. "It isn't that hard to pitch when you have a 13-run lead," he said. "I had real good control." Asked if he minded the fans booing him when he batted in the ninth, McLain said, "I've been booed before and by better fans than these."

THE WORLD OF SPORTS

Dick McAuliffe on four pitches. Before it was over, 10 runs were in, 15 men had been at bat and the Cards' Washburn, Jaster, Ron Willis and Dick Hughes had been roughed up for a grand slam homer, six singles, four walks and a hit batsman.

After McAuliffe walked, Mickey Stanley singled to left and Al Kaline, who had three hits and drove in four runs, pumped a single to centre, scoring McAuliffe. That was all for Washburn.

Jaster never did get anybody out. Norm Cash singled, scoring Stanley and Willie Horton walked, loading the bases.

hit by a pitch and McLain made the first out, a sacrifice bunt. An intentional walk to McAuliffe loaded the bases again and Kaline singled to centre again for his second hit of the inning, driving in Wert and McAuliffe.

WAS NEXT VICTIM

Dick Hughes was the next victim and Cash greeted him with a single to right that bounced over Orlando Cepeda's head, scoring Stanley with the ninth run. Horton's single off Hughes' glove brought home Kaline with run No. 10 of the inning.

There was a derisive cheer from the crowd when Hughes fi-

Gibson vs Lolich in today's showdown tilt

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mickey Lolich and Bob Gibson went into their seventh-game World Series date today with a bit of apprehension. But neither was backing off from the confrontation.

Gibson, ace of St. Louis pitching staff, was to work the deciding game with three days rest instead of his customary four between starts, while Detroit's Lolich was coming back with only two days off—one less than he is used to.

Both were going for their third Series' victory and were less than delighted to be working with short rest.

"Anytime you break a routine ... do something out of the ordinary, or something you're not used to, it will affect you somewhat," said Gibson, who beat the Tigers in his fourth game with just three days rest.

"I couldn't judge from that game what difference the short rest had. The weather was so bad. With conditions like that, you can't compare a game with any other one."

Sunday's fourth game was played in a steady rain.

DIDN'T EXPECT SEVEN

Lolich, who won the second and fifth games, said he was surprised to be working again. "I figured the fifth game was it," he said after the Tigers had tied the Series with a 13-1 romp behind Denny McLain Wednesday.

"I'll be able to go out there and throw," Lolich continued, "but I won't be as strong as with three days rest. It depends on what kind of game it is."

"Pitching with two days rest," said Lolich, "I'd prefer a bigger ball park."

Busch Stadium wasn't big enough to hold the Tigers Wednesday.

They exploded for a record-tying 10-run third inning and McLain coasted to his first Series victory after two losses.

HITS GRAND SLAM

Jim Northrup walloped a grand slam homer—the 11th in World Series history—and Al Kaline stroked two singles, driving in three runs in the big inning. Kaline later added a homer, lifting his average in his first World Series to .440.

Kaline, with 11 hits, and Lou Brock of St. Louis with 12 both had a shot at the record for most hits in a series—13 held by Bobby Richardson of New York Yankees, and Gibson was after a record-shattering eighth straight Series victory.

It was Kaline's first hit that drove in the Tigers' initial run in the third and knocked out starter Ray Washburn. Dick McAuliffe had opened with a walk and Mickey Stanley singled him to third. After Kaline's hit brought McAuliffe home, Norm Cash, who had three hits, singled Stanley across.

Willie Horton walked, loading the bases and Northrup, who had four grand slams during the regular season, unloaded them. Two walks and a hit batsman loaded the bases again and three straight singles by Kaline, Cash and Horton brought four more runs across.

After that, it was all downhill for McLain.

REMEMBER WHEN . . .

The most boisterous World Series in memory ended at Detroit 34 years ago today—in 1934—as St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Tigers 11-0. Left-field bleachers fans, enraged after Joe Medwick's run-in from third base in the sixth inning, let loose such a barrage of missiles that Medwick was taken out of the game "for safety's sake."

Tigers stop All-Stars 5-2 in closely fought battle

VICTORIAVILLE — (Special) — Victoriaville Tigers, champions of the Quebec Provincial Senior Hockey League last season and holders of the Allan Cup, knocked over the League All-Stars here last evening 5-2 in the annual classic.

The All-Star game, which officially opens the season, didn't live up to par with the four they played in the past. Coach Jean-Guy Charbonneau was forced to go with only two lines as the unit designated from St. Hyacinthe didn't put in an appearance.

The league executive will discuss their case in the near future. Representatives of the club showed up at the game during the third period and claimed the reason why their players didn't show was they only signed their men last evening.

Fumbles costly to Knowlton, drop 33-19 tilt to Longueuil

KNOWLTON — (Special) — Knowlton Larks gave the ball away too many times against the Longueuil Vikings last Sunday and lost 33-19.

Three fumbles by the Larks, on punts twice, gave the Vikings the ball in Lark territory and they scored. The Vikings on the other hand fumbled the ball three times and turned one of them into a 12 yard touchdown, with the other gaining about 40 yards.

Except for miscues at crucial times the Larks probably played one of their best games of the season. Larks experimented early in the game with their ground attack and had some success with sweeps but still can use better blocking especially around the left side.

Chapdelaine and Rochon opened the scoring for the Vikings in the first quarter and Coallier added another early in the second to make the score 20-0. Ken Breesee scored the Larks' first major on a 12-yard quick pass over the middle from quarterback Albers.

Chapdelaine added his second major of the day when he went around the end on a right sweep from 22-yards out. Albers again moved the Larks downfield on a good drive. With the minute flag up, to end the half, Kip Marsh got his first major of the year when he squirmed into the end zone on a third and one situation for 27-12 score.

In the third quarter the Larks ran the kick-off back to their 44-yard line but someone was caught holding. On the second play from scrimmage, Alain Lambert burst off tackle and rambled 88 yards for a touchdown to bring the Larks back into the ball game. Mullins' convert was good.

With the score 27-19 and the Larks coming on strong it looked like they were taking command. A punt fumble by the Larks inside their 30 gave the Vikings the ball.

Quarterback Coallier of the Vikings faked a dive into the line twice, and then carried around the end. This was the back-breaker as far as the Larks were concerned because they just couldn't do anything right after that.

Next weekend the Larks travel to Verdun to take on the first place Verdun Steelers.

Despite the man shortage Coach Charbonneau did a very fine job in juggling his men. He kept them going over the boards fast as the Tigers with a full lineup of six defencemen, four lines and two goalies kept the pace at a good clip.

The Tigers opened the scoring just before the half - way mark of the first period. Veteran Guy Black, who was making his first return since he broke his ankle last season, showed he was in fine shape. He finished off a play with Mike Labrosse and C. Goulet, both newcomers to the Tigers.

The lead didn't last too long as Gordie Haworth put the score back on an even keel when he beat Michel Mongeau from in close. However the Tigers, with the extra man power, didn't take long to move out in front.

Jacques Michel, Andre Samson and Johnny Mentis made the score 4-1 after the opening frame. In the middle session the All-Stars held their own and it was only tough luck around the nets they didn't score. Gerald Garneau, a junior, tallied the fifth marker to give the Tigers a 5-1 lead.

Coach Charbonneau called on Pierre Chagnon to replace Claude Cyr in the nets. The young netminder was replacing Andy Payette and turned in a fine job. He held the Tigers at bay during his stage. Rolland Sawyer potted the second tally for the league squad when he finished off a nice passing play with Gordie Haworth.

The league will get underway Friday evening in Chicoutimi when the Gauls of St. Hyacinthe travel north to tangle with the new club of the circuit. On Sunday all six clubs will swing into action with tilts in Victoriaville, St. Hyacinthe and Sherbrooke.

Als dropped 26-10 by Calgary

CALGARY (CP) — First place in the Western Football Conference standings went back to Calgary Stampede Wednesday night after an easy 26-10 victory in a Canadian Football League game against Montreal Alouettes.

Calgary quarterback Peter Liske took to the air for three touchdown passes, connecting on 17 of 29 tries. He now has 200 completions for the season, 20 for touchdowns.

The win, before 18,450 fans, gave Calgary a total of 13 points, one more than Saskatchewan Roughriders and seven ahead of third-place Edmonton Eskimos. British Columbia has five points and Winnipeg four.

The loss put Montreal—with six points—deeper into the Eastern Football Conference cellar. League-leading Ottawa has 13 points while Hamilton and Toronto each have 12. All teams in the Eastern Conference have played 10 games.

Ted Woods, Gerry Shaw and Herman Harrison scored touchdowns on passes from Liske. Larry Robinson led individual scoring with three converts, a 8-yard field goal and a single. Ron Stewart scored a single.

Montreal threatened early in the game, but the Stampede pulled ahead 7-0 at the end of the first quarter when Woods romped home from 10 yards out. The Als were attempting a punt after several long passes failed and Frank Andraski blocked it.

GRABS LOOSE BALL

Wayne Harris fell on the loose ball. A few plays later, Liske threw to Terry Evanshen who flipped it to Woods.

Calgary doubled their points at 3:37 of the second quarter, moving 74 yards in five plays before Liske threw a 21-yard strike to Shaw.

★ Victory dinner in Detroit — Mayo Smith

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "There's going to be a big victory dinner in Detroit Friday."

Mayo Smith, the smiling manager of Detroit Tigers, couldn't help but sound confident after his men routed St. Louis 13-1 Wednesday.

The victory squared the World Series at three wins apiece and sent Mickey Lolich against Cardinal pitching star Bob Gibson Thursday in the deciding game.

"His arm is capable with two days rest," said Smith of Lolich, the jovial southpaw who won two series games, including Monday's 5-3 win.

"Things don't really bother him and I think he'll do a good job tomorrow," said centre fielder Jim Northrup, who clobbered a grand slam home run in the Tigers' 10-run third inning. He hit four grand slammers during the regular season, including two in one game.

When Northrup entered the jubilant Tiger dugout after the clout, he was mobbed by teammates.

TOLD TO SIT DOWN

"I told him to sit down," said Smith. "I was afraid he was going to get stepped on, the way everyone was jumping around down there."

In all, the Tigers pounded seven Cardinal pitchers for 12 hits. Al Kaline, top Tiger hitter in the series, knocked in four runs with a homer and two singles.

"At least we haven't embarrassed ourselves or the American League," said Kaline. "We had to win the last two and we did, now we have to win one more."

Kaline also tied a series fielding record by making seven putouts in right field.

It was Denny McLain's first series victory. The brash Tiger hurler, who had lost two previous starts after winning 31 in regular season, scattered nine hits and pitched shutout ball until the Cards managed to push a run across in the bottom of the ninth.

WAS QUESTION MARK

McLain was a question mark as a starter until just prior to game time. Smith said he wanted to wait to see if McLain's shoulder was all right.

Denny had been bothered by an inflamed right shoulder after he pitched in Sunday's 10-1 loss to St. Louis. He was given a shot of cortisone Monday and warmed up Tuesday.

"I wanted him to pitch if his arm was all right," Mayo said, otherwise he had planned to go with Earl Wilson, who was bothered by a pulled leg muscle.

"Wilson will be my first relief pitcher Thursday," Smith said, in case Lolich runs into trouble.

Terry Sawchuk returns to Wings for third time

With the opening of the National Hockey League season less than 48 hours away, Toronto Maple Leafs have no captain and Chicago Black Hawks have no superstars.

Maple Leaf captain George Armstrong has retired and Coach Punch Imlach has yet to name a successor.

However, if Maple Leaf Garden president Stephen Smythe has his way Armstrong will be a non-playing captain.

He suggested this Wednesday, apparently on the assumption the veteran right winger would stay in shape and be able to play if the team ran into injuries.

Imlach said he has been grooming Ron Ellis for Captain, but thought Armstrong would be around for another couple of years.

"I don't know what I'll do. Maybe I'll go without a captain," Imlach said.

CARLETON SIDELINED

Meanwhile, Imlach learned Wednesday that the Leafs, fifth-place finishers in the Eastern Division last year, will have to open the season in Detroit Sunday without winger Wayne Carleton. He has a hairline fracture of the wrist and will be out of action for about two weeks.

Chicago still hasn't been able to sign superstars Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita. The Black Hawks open against St. Louis in Chicago Friday.

It appears the club will have to come through with a large chunk of money to get their signatures.

Cowansville Institute holds busy meeting, hears talk on Australia

COWANSVILLE — The Women's Institute met on Oct. 1 at the home of Miss Ella Brown on River Street with an attendance of eighteen. Mrs. Gordon Brown assisted as co-hostess.

Each member answered the roll call by describing a beauty spot in Canada, which she had visited.

An inter-group food sale was held, which netted $7.25. Twenty dollars was voted to the County funds.

Mrs. K. Winsor spoke on the injustice of accused persons being detained in jail pending their trial, because of their inability to produce bail.

Mrs. Whelan, an Australian visitor in Canada, gave an interesting talk about her native land. Australia, she said, is like Canada in that settlement is concentrated, with large areas that are sparsely populated.

Australians excel in sports, cricket, football, golf because the favorable climate gives them long months of practice. Their greatest sports event is the horse races for the Melbourne Cup.

Mrs. Whelan then described her own home, built especially for coolness, also the trees and flowers of Australia, which are unfamiliar here, such as the Libiscus, acacia, fig-trees and the many varieties of eucalyptus. She was then presented with a silver Maple Leaf pin, as a memento of Canada.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses and a social hour enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held

Pregnancy Chances Rare After Age 50

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—How soon after her baby is born can a mother become pregnant again? What other drug can a woman take beside birth control pills to keep from getting pregnant?

A—If you do not nurse your baby, menstruation may return in about eight weeks. If you nurse him, it may return in about six months, even though you continue the breast feeding. This figure, however, is subject to wide variation and is usually longer in women who have had more than one child.

Although there are several kinds of contraceptive pills, they are all a form of female hormone. Other means of birth control include intrauterine devices, condoms, diaphragm pessaries and chemical foams.

Q—What is the oldest a woman has ever become pregnant?

A—It is rare to become pregnant after age 50. A search of the medical literature from 1850 on revealed only 26 authenticated cases. In one series of 50,000 births, only two women were over 45. A woman of any age will not become pregnant if she has not menstruated for over a year.

Q—Is it safe for a pregnant woman to take flu shots?

A—I would say take the shots. Nothing is more likely to harm both you and your baby than a full-blown attack of influenza.

Q—What is the earliest a doctor can diagnose pregnancy by a laboratory test?

A—In one of the newer procedures, a woman's urine is tested with sheep's red blood cells that have been treated with an extract of human placenta. In some cases the test may indicate pregnancy as early as four days after a skipped menstrual period. The test takes only two hours to run. Another test, said to be very reliable and similar in nature, is read after only three minutes.

Q—My doctor terminated my pregnancy because he suspected it to be ectopic. But after the operation I was told I had a corpus luteum cyst. What caused it? Why must there be no further pregnancies?

A—A corpus luteum forms each month at the site of ovulation. It usually becomes absorbed and causes no trouble. But occasionally, for no known reason, it may increase in size and form a cyst. This, too, usually causes no trouble. But, if it ruptures and bleeds into the abdominal cavity, it causes all the symptoms of an ectopic pregnancy.

September sunny, warm and wet

The month of September was warmer, as sunny but much wetter than September 1957.

The average temperature for the month of September this year was three degrees higher than that of last year: a crisp 60 degrees.

The average temperature as recorded over the past 54 years is 56 degrees. The average maximum temperature and the average minimum temperature for the past month was 72 and 48 degrees.

Sept. 19 was the warmest day this September, a sunny 84 degrees. The coldest day was 33 degrees and this was registered on Sept. 15.

The month was just about as sunny as September last year, with the total sunshine for the month being 179.2 hours. Last year the month had 180.4 hours of glorious sunshine.

This past month, though, was a lot wetter than September last year. The rainfall for the month was 3.24 inches while last year the records showed that 2.25 inches of rain fell during the month. This isn't that bad, seeing the average rainfall for the past 54 years is 3.47 inches.

The highest rainfall for one day during the past month was 1.44 inches, almost one-third of the total rainfall for the entire month, on the 11th.

The degree-days accumulated for 1958 are 2,963.5 as compared to 2,809.5 in 1957. A degree-day is the result of adding the high and low temperature readings of each day, dividing by two and subtracting 42 degrees from the answer of the division.

Impaired drivers and tree thief appear in court

Bertrand Binette, 36, who lives on the Ste. Catherine Road, Township of Rock Forest, pleaded guilty Monday in Court of Sessions to a charge of impaired driving.

Judge Benoit Turmel fined Binette $100 and court costs or 30 days in jail with a month's delay to pay the fine.

His driver's licence was suspended for six months. He was stopped in Rock Forest on October 6 by police officials.

Real Guerin, 49, of Sherbrooke, also pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving. He too was fined $100 and costs or 30 days in jail.

His licence was suspended for six months.

Judge Turmel returned a verdict of guilty against Leo Lusier, 51, of St. Amable, who was accused of stealing 1,200 to 1,500 cedar trees from Sam Briskin.

Judge Turmel suspended the accused's sentence and ordered him to post a $100 bond to keep the peace for a year. The trees were worth $2,000.

Sutton U.C.W. makes plans for Oct. 19 supper

SUTTON — At a recent meeting of Calvary U.C.W. plans were made to hold the annual chicken pie supper on Oct. 19, as part of the church anniversary celebrations. Supper will be served from 5 p.m.

Reports were given of the activities over the summer period and appreciation expressed to members who supported these functions and made them so successful.

The Christmas sale and tea will be held on Dec. 7.

Mrs. Joyce Thomson led in the devotional period. Mrs. Jean Hughes, program convenor, showed an entertaining film, To Be King.

The hostesses for the evening were members of the Evening Unit.

Retarded adults' training centre slated

A training centre for mentally deficient adults (more than 18 years old) will soon be constructed in Sherbrooke, a recent Quebec press release revealed.

The centre, to be called La Villa Dufresne, will house 80 beds and will admit persons who cannot live at home and cannot adapt to public school courses.

Jean-Paul Cloutier, Quebec family and social welfare minister, has authorized that tenders be submitted for the construction of the centre.

The building will be constructed to allow the greatest progress possible by the centre's patients. They will be taught and trained by the most highly qualified personnel.

The centre will permit a family to keep in touch with one of its patients, who might be allowed to visit their families or even sleep at home with their families.

The press release says the success of the institution depends largely on the cooperation between different social welfare organizations and the family and social welfare ministry.

They will be taught and trained by the most highly qualified personnel.
