Union bosses leave court

QUEBEC (CP) — The three leaders of last month's Quebec public service strike walked out of a courtroom here Thursday after waiting half an hour for their hearings to begin on contempt citations stemming from the 11-day strike.

They said they were not obliged to wait 30 minutes and challenged authorities to arrest them, but Mr. Justice Pierre Cote of Quebec Superior Court chose instead to hear evidence in their absence. He then reserved a decision to an unspecified date.

The three union presidents involved are Marcel Pepin of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, Louis Laberge of the Quebec Federation of Labor and Yvon Charbonneau of the Quebec Teachers Corp.

In another development Thursday, Mr. Justice Georges Pelletier hit three more unions and 14 of their officers with heavy fines and prison terms for violation of court injunctions during the strike.

UNION FINED $50,000

A workers union at St. Jean de Dieu hospital in Montreal, Quebec's biggest mental institution, was fined $50,000 and seven of its officers were assessed fines of $5,000 each and six-month prison terms.

A nurses union at the same hospital was fined $11,000 and four of its officers were sentenced to six months and fined $5,000 each.

The employees union of Foyer d'Youville de St. Jerome received three months and $2,500 individual fines.

The execution of the judgments by Mr. Justice Pelletier were postponed until today at 5 p.m. to permit lodging of appeals.

Farm total drops

OTTAWA — Canada had fewer farms but they were larger in average acreage than in 1966, according to first tabulations from the 1971 census of agriculture. Statistics Canada has announced. Total farmland area was down by 2.6 per cent for Canada as a whole.

Census farms — defined as agricultural holdings of one acre or more selling farm products worth $50 or more in the year ended June 1, 1971 — declined to 366,128 from 430,522 in 1966. Overall farmland area declined to 169,668,614 acres from 174,124,828. The decline in farm numbers was common to all provinces and the territories. The largest percentage decline was in the Atlantic provinces at 35.3 per cent, ranging from 28.5 per cent in Prince Edward Island to 39 per cent in Newfoundland. On the Prairies, declines were 12 per cent in Manitoba, 10.2 per cent in Saskatchewan and 9.7 per cent in Alberta.

Reflecting the trend to larger average acreage, the declines in total farmland area were minimal in Manitoba at 0.4 per cent and Saskatchewan, at 0.5 per cent, while there was a slight increase of 1.1 per cent in Alberta. As a result, the average acreage per farm on the Prairies rose to 764.8 in 1971 from 685.0 in 1966, with the largest increase in Saskatchewan, to 845.2 from 763.4.

The number of farms in Quebec declined to 61,257 from 80,294 and in Ontario to 94,722 from 109,887. The trend to larger average acreage seen on the Prairies was not, however, as evident in Quebec where average acreage went to 176.3 from 160.5. In Ontario it went to 168.5 from 162.2.

OTTAWA (CP) — The latest Liberal farm legislation ran into sustained opposition flak in the Commons Thursday, with Conservatives and New Democrats moving to shoot down the whole proposal.

And a Social Credit MP renewed an old request for separate agriculture departments for Eastern and Western Canada.

The bill — an amendment to the Farm Credit Act — contains two main provisions:

— It would increase the lending powers of the Farm Credit Corp., a Crown corporation which makes loans to farmers.

— It would empower the corporation to administer the government small-farms program — announced last year — permitting it to buy unproductive farmland from owners going out of business and to sell the land to young farmers.

But in two days of debate, opposition

MPs have complained that the legislation will not improve the prospects of farmers.

AMENDMENT PROPOSED

Stanley Korchinski (PC—Mackenzie), a Saskatchewan grain farmer, proposed an amendment Wednesday that would kill the bill and have the government consider introduction of forgivable loans for farmers who meet performance standards, deferred interest payments and refinancing provisions. Forgivable loans are those which, under certain conditions, need not be repaid.

In debate Thursday, Bill Knight (NDP—Assiniboia) amended the motion to delete the reference to performance standards. He said part of loans should become grants for any farmer.

Farm bills have caused the Liberal government some of its biggest headaches in the Commons.

A measure establishing national marketing boards took more than a year to pass, and another to stabilize Prairie grain incomes was ditched last fall after it hit a wall of opposition criticism.

Opposition MPs said they were suspicious of both aspects of the farm credit bill.

Jack Horner (Crowfoot), leading Conservative farm critic, said the government wants to make the corporation responsible for its farm consolidation program so it can sidestep accountability in the Commons.

TOO MUCH POWER

The corporation would have full power to administer the $150-million fund for the program, and the government need never draft a bill again.

Mr. Knight said the two provisions together — bigger loans and consolidation — would lead to bigger and fewer farms. Only the big operators would be able to afford the loans.

J. Patrick Nowlan (PC—Annapolis Valley) attacked the new loan provisions.

Explosion not criminal

By CROSBIE COTTON

SHERBROOKE — Investigators were unable to discover the exact cause of an explosion which rocked Denault Street, killing 40-year-old Joseph Robert Letourneau, disintegrating one house and causing extensive damage to at least four others during the early morning of Sunday, Jan. 30, 1971.

Dr. Louis Gagnon, St. Francis district coroner, ruled at Thursday's coroner's inquest into the incident that no crime was involved in the incident. "The exact cause of the death is not known, but no crime was involved and that terminates the inquest," Dr. Gagnon said at the end of the hour-long session held at the Sherbrooke courthouse.

The validity of the inquest may be contested by a Sherbrooke lawyer who yesterday represented an insurance firm. The lawyer felt that no investigation should be allowed to present the report of another.

The controversy arose when Sherbrooke municipal detective A. R. Charest started to read a report compiled by Montreal Legal Institute investigator Bernard Pommeville. Mr. Pommeville, along with Mr. Charest, had searched the Letourneau basement for two days after the blast to try to find the causes of the explosion. The report contained Mr. Pommeville's findings.

The Sherbrooke attorney thought Mr. Pommeville should have been at the hearing and have been ready to be cross-examined. Dr. Gagnon felt that such was not the case and that it was normal procedure to let one individual read the report of another. He allowed the inquest to proceed despite objections made by the lawyer, who said that he might contest the validity of the inquest.

CITE FLAMMABLE GASES

In the report compiled by Mr. Pommeville, the cause of the explosion was presumed to be a mixture of flammable gases in the Letourneau basement. Mr. Pommeville said in the report that the explosion could have been caused by a mixture of such gases as those emitted from turpentine, paint remover, varnish and natural gases. He cited examples of natural gases such as propane. The exact make-up of the gases which could have caused the explosion could not be defined.

Neither could the exact cause of death be ascertained. The facts revealed in the report were that 95 per cent of the body had suffered burns but that no exact cause of death could be established.

"The exact cause of death cannot be ascertained, but remember that 95 per cent of the body was burned," Dr. Gagnon told The Record after the inquest. He felt the burns alone were enough to cause death.

Earlier, during the inquest, municipal fire department lieutenant Jacques Desbiens, 32, testified that when he checked just after the explosion the house was served by natural gas but that both inlets were shut off. He told the inquest that he found the body.

"I arrived just after the explosion. The first thing I realized was that there was a house missing, so I looked around for arms and legs," he said. It took the fire department about two minutes to extinguish the fire, which according to Mr. Desbiens was feeding on debris.

DISCOVERS BODY

After the fire was out, Mr. Desbiens spotted the body under part of a wall. On top of the wall was a hot water heater and part of the heating system. The body was lying face down in a puddle of oil and water.

The oil furnace and tank which were used to heat the home had been forced from their foundations and oil was seeping from the tank.

Other witnesses testified concerning Mr. Letourneau's state of health as well as to the explosion. Mr. Letourneau's 20-year-old son Claude told the inquest that his father suffered from depression and "wanted to die." He said his father had been in poor mental health since his wife had left him. He had been treated for mental illness.

The younger Letourneau saw his father just before the explosion and he told the court, "My father didn't think it was worth it to sell the house. He just wanted to leave."

Other witnesses said that lights were on in the Letourneau house all night before and just previous to the explosion.

Mario Berthold, a 20-year-old student who used to live in a house beside the Letourneau residence told the inquest that he had got up to get a glass of water just before the explosion "and saw the lights on in the Letourneau basement." He returned to bed just as the explosion occurred, jumped up and "saw the flames jump into the air."

Two years before the public

Record reporter Lewis Harris reports on a wide-ranging interview with Sherbrooke Mayor Marc Bureau that reveals some of the Mayor's plans and gives an insight into the temper of the man who is the chief administrative officer of this city of more than 80,000.

By LEWIS HARRIS

SHERBROOKE — "My aim is to make municipal administration as effective as a private enterprise," Sherbrooke Mayor Marc Bureau said yesterday.

"I think I was elected under a reform banner."

Just over two years ago, the 36-year-old native of Sherbrooke replaced Armand Nadeau as mayor of Sherbrooke. Six months later, in November, 1970, Mayor Bureau led the Civic Action league to a landslide election victory. Ten candidates campaigning under the Civic Action standard swept the aldermanic seats.

Administrative reorganization is still the mayor's favorite program. When first elected, Mayor Bureau and the Civic Action party concentrated their efforts on reorganizing and streamlining the municipal administration.

"It's very, very, very hard on account of many factors," the Mayor explained.

CAN BE FRUSTRATING

He cited "the length of time it takes for the administration to put a decision into effect" as one of the main frustrations of office. He said Sherbrooke could accurately be described as "a large village" and the village mentality to a certain extent makes global planning more difficult.

Residents tend to think only in terms of their homes and property and not necessarily of Sherbrooke as the third-largest city in Quebec.

Councillors still spend much of their time at council meetings listening to complaints. The Mayor, however, says that aldermen should spend their time making decisions based on reports from the many city departments. Complaints should be funnelled to the appropriate authority, reports prepared and decisions made.

MAYOR MARC BUREAU

But as Mayor Bureau says, "It's very, very, very hard." Most Sherbrooke aldermen were born here or in the region and have formed close associations and friendships with numerous Sherbrooke residents. Loyalties developed over the years make it more difficult to establish a global policy and to stay with it.

The establishment of a strong, efficient and consistent civic administration remains one of Mayor Bureau's favorite projects. The city is currently taking a "taxation inventory" to find out who is paying what and for what," the Mayor said yesterday.

SEEK EQUITY

The study will review all city bylaws and hopefully will form the basis for "an equitable basis of municipal taxation."

"I can tell you that there are some people who are not paying more in municipal taxation than they were 20 years ago. Others are paying a lot more. Is this right? Is this just?" he asked. "I don't think so," he answered.

The Mayor said he hoped the results of the tax inventory would reveal new sources of revenue for the city.

Despite the fact that the last city of Sherbrooke budget was balanced by a $1 million item known as "fiscal reform," an item which has never before appeared on a local budget, the Mayor says the Sherbrooke financial picture "is not so bad."

"If you compare it to other cities it's not so bad. If you look at it on its own, it doesn't look so good."

Another priority project, "on the verge of completion" according to the Mayor, is an overall plan for the Sherbrooke industrial park.

READYING FOR INDUSTRY

"To bring industries in, we must first be able to receive them," he says. Installation of sewers, water mains and roads will hopefully follow the completion of a master plan. But except for making Sherbrooke a convenient place for industry to locate, "there is nothing we can do to promote industry," Mayor Bureau said.

Does a streamlined administration sacrifice democracy for efficiency? "That's a very important point," the Mayor said. "We can guard against it if the administration is strong enough and qualified to move quickly and bring to council ideas on which council has only to decide."

"Things are said in caucus which can't be said outside. But the caucus itself has no authority," the Mayor said in relation to the closed door meetings.

As to what progress the city has made under the Civic Action league for the past two years, Mayor Bureau said "it depends on how you look at it."

"If you ask any businessman if he's satisfied he'll tell you, 'There's always room for improvement.' So it depends on the angle you look at it from. But I think changes were made more quickly last year than in years past."

"Sherbrooke could boom and be one of the nicest cities we live in. We have everything here."

Year of change in Bulwer

BULWER — In the 1970 annual review it was noted that Bulwer was a small community situated on a side road off the main highway between Lennoxville and Cookshire. To be more precise there are four side roads off the main highway leading into Bulwer. One of these comes via of Johnville, one between Birchton and Eaton Corner, and yet another road from Sawyerville, which joins with the one from Martinville. But don't go looking for road signs to help you find Bulwer. Hardly any of these roads have Bulwer signs and some of them, only from one direction. Evidently, this community doesn't rate with the Department of Highways, or maybe they don't know that it exists. I only know that out of town people are disgusted when they end up in Cookshire, or even Sawyerville and upon asking find they have gone by four entrances and well out of their way. What do we do to correct this situation?

The population underwent some changes in 1971. Two new little fellows came to join us: David Frank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Herring in March and Scott Terry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Williams in November. The Page farm was sold to Mr. J. Scholes. His mother, who works in Lennoxville, joins him on weekends. Mrs. Page moved into the apartment vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Smith and Karen when they moved to Albert Mines. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson moved to Birchton and Mr. and Mrs. Gary MacDonald of Sherbrooke bought the Robinson farmhouse. The Langworths moved to the Cunliffe farm on the Johnville Road, and Mr. and Mrs. P.A. Moore and Philip moved into the Boucher house on Jordan Hill. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bullard, Louise and Nelson Jr., moved into the house they purchased from Mr. Herman Wolters. Scott and Martha Davidson moved to Toronto and Rev. and Mrs. Jervis-Read and family moved into the farmhouse they had purchased from Stuart Merrill the previous year.

Our oldest citizen, Mrs. J. Mills, celebrated her 95th birthday July 10. She lives with her daughter Mabel who held open house on that day, and friends and relatives called to wish "Aunt Katie" a Happy Birthday. Several were present from Montreal as well as her son Cecil and his wife from Trenton, Ont. Mrs. Mills took time out from her own celebrations to attend the Parsons' family reunion at Bury where she was presented with a gift as the oldest living member of the family. Mrs. Mills is a great granddaughter of William Parsons, who came to Bury in 1836.

1971 also saw the beginning of a new industry in Bulwer, although it hasn't been in operation this winter. Two buildings have been erected on three acres of land leased from Douglas Grapes by Toubruer de L'Estrie, and peat moss will be harvested from an adjoining 100 acres.

Our United church has kept its doors open for another year and in August of the past year, we celebrated its 106th birthday. Rev. R.C. Belbin of Toronto, a former pastor, was guest speaker in the evening. Although many of the young couples that he married during his stay here now have grandchildren, he and Mrs. Belbin were still able to call most people by their names. We still depend on the goodness of Rev. A.B. Lovelace and our own session and we were unfortunate in losing the services of Rev. P.B. Gaudine, who has been taking the services in Windsor. The services in Bulwer have been taken by a number of different people, presenting a good cross section of independent points of view. Miss Vera Sampson and Mr. John Vaudrey, students at Bishop's University, have been kind enough to come to us quite regularly. Mr. James MacKinnon, teacher at the John Rennie High School in Pointe Claire, has been very gracious about bringing us the message of the gospel. We can't claim Jim as a native son, but he did marry a Bulwer girl and he has been part of us for quite awhile now. Mr. W.S. Laberee and Miss Marsha Merrill, members of our own congregation, have delivered inspiring messages.

There have been several others and we are most grateful for their help.

We still need YOU in the Congregation, and your children in the Sunday School. The choir is looking for new recruits — the old faithful few need the inspiration of new voices and increased numbers.

Whether or not you feel inclined to co-operate will determine our report in the 1972 annual review. Will our doors still be open, or will the hinges be gathering rust?

A cordial invitation is again extended to friends and neighbors to come and enjoy the fellowship of Christian worship, in the little white church, by the side of the road.

Investigate shooting Monday

COWANSVILLE (CC) — A coroner's inquest into the shooting death of Thomas Taylor 26, is scheduled to take place Monday at 7.30 p.m. in the C.E. Wilson and Son funeral home in Cowansville.

Mr. Taylor, a ski instructor at Mount Echo last season, was shot to death at about 9.45 p.m. Tuesday, April 25, at the home of Mrs. Colin Grouse in the municipality of Foster, part of the Town of Brome Lake.

Town of Brome Lake constable Lou Gariepy, 22, has been held under a coroner's warrant since the incident. The warrant was issued by deputy coroner Dr. N. E. Monast of 107 Davignon Street, Cowansville.

A police investigation conducted by Quebec Police Force homicide officers Jean Noel Haimes and Victor Judd is nearing completion. At the time of the incident and to date, Town of Brome Lake police have declined comment.

A QPF spokesman on the day after the shooting told The Record that constable Gariepy answered a call to come to the home of Mrs. Grouse on the night of the shooting. A struggle allegedly broke out between Mr. Taylor and constable Gariepy during which Mr. Taylor attacked Mr. Gariepy with a knife. Mr. Gariepy is said to have drawn his revolver and shot Mr. Taylor. He died on route to Brome-Missisquoi Perkins Hospital in Cowansville.

An autopsy was carried out the next day at the Montreal Medical Institute. The findings of the doctor who conducted the autopsy will be revealed at the inquest Monday.

Mr. Gariepy had joined the police force last August as a cadet. He has been a full-time employee since. Previous to his hiring, Mr. Gariepy had no municipal police experience. He had not yet been sent to Nicolet Academy to take a three-month course in police skills.

A native of Dunham, he is single. He was alone in the police car at the time of the shooting.

Mr. Taylor a native of Montreal had been a ski instructor in the region for a number of years. Two years ago he taught at Mount Sutton and for part of this year he taught at Mount Echo. In January he was sidelined with knee injuries and had to undergo surgery.

City awaits police verdict

SHERBROOKE (LH) — A Quebec government conciliator made his final recommendations to both the Sherbrooke police and the city last Tuesday. The police, who have been working without a contract since January, were to vote on the recommendations last night, alderman Jacques O'Bready said yesterday.

Should either the city or the policemen reject the recommendations of the conciliator, the dispute will automatically go to binding arbitration, he said.

"I'm waiting for the results of tonight's meeting," Mr. O'Bready said yesterday. "Should the policemen decide to accept the conciliator's offer, then I'll have to decide whether I also accept the recommendations of the conciliator. But I won't decide until I hear the results of the policemen's meeting."

Mr. O'Bready pointed out that both sides to the dispute must accept the conciliator's recommendations to settle the dispute. Should either side reject the recommendations, the dispute will be settled through arbitration and both sides will be bound by the arbitrator's decision.

Sherbrooke police are the only group of municipal employees still working without a contract. Earlier in the year the city signed new collective agreements with its road workers, office workers, firemen and hydro workers.

The city has established an unofficial guideline of eight per cent as the amount of salary increase in new contracts for city employees.

Though most other clauses have been settled, the city and the policemen are still at odds on the money question, Mr. O'Bready said. The last offer made by the city to the policemen is "a little over eight per cent because of what I call 'catching up'." Mr. O'Bready explained.

Catching up means the city wants to pay policemen according to wage settlement patterns established in other Quebec municipalities over the past years, he added.

IODE offers scholarship

BOUNDARY (IH) — The Stanstead Chapter IODE is offering a $100 scholarship to a student of Grade 11, attending Alexander Galt Regional High School from the Rock Island, Stanstead and Beebe area who fulfills the requirements.

The student must be proceeding to further education in a Canadian university or taking an equivalent full course. The committee will consider academic achievement and character.

Applications must be in the hands of the chairman, Mrs. George Carruthers of Rock Island, by June 1.

The application must be accompanied by a certificate of birth or satisfactory evidence of citizenship, a written statement from the applicant's house principal approving the candidate, and names and addresses of three persons to whom the committee may apply for reference, and a transcript of final marks obtained at school closing must be sent to Mrs. Carruthers by Aug. 15.

The Stanstead Chapter IODE will also give financial assistance to a student at AGRHS who is enrolled in any nursing course. The same stipulations apply to this aid, with all communications to be made to Mrs. Carruthers.

Pick up garbage

SHERBROOKE (LH) — The city will hold a special garbage collection Monday to conclude Clean-up Week, inaugurated by Mayor Marc Bureau last Monday.

Sherbrooke residents are invited to place rubbish and accumulated refuse near the street in front of their homes and in easy view of Sherbrooke garbage collection crews.

Citizens are encouraged to profit from the opportunity presented them by the city and help in the beautification of the city, according to a statement released by the city yesterday.

Plan garden

SHERBROOKE (LH) — Victoria Park near Sherbrooke CEGEP on Terrill Street will soon be cleaned and turned into a small botanical garden, the city of Sherbrooke announced in a statement released yesterday.

About two months ago, the city signed an agreement with representatives of Sherbrooke CEGEP to rent the park to the CEGEP for one year.

The agreement paved the way for CEGEP students to apply for an Opportunities for Youth grant from the federal government. The project which includes landscaping and the setting up of a botanical garden was accepted by Ottawa earlier this week.

The 20 or so students involved in the project will start work next week.

LENNOXVILLE — More than 350 high school students from throughout the province participated in a drama festival at Bishop's University's Centennial Theatre Friday and Saturday, April 28-29.

The festival was the second event of its kind and was co-sponsored by Bishop's University's drama department and Bishop's College School. Among the participants were students from King's Hall in Compton, Stanstead College, Massey-Vanier Regional High School, BCS, Lake of Two Mountains High School, Chateaugay Valley Regional High School and Alexander Galt Regional High School.

Productions included scenes from Macbeth, by King's Hall; Waiting for Godot and The Zoo Story, by AGRHS; and the second act of The Glass Menagerie, by Lake of Two Mountains. MVRHS presented productions in both English and French of The Quiet One.

The festival proved to have been extremely successful and entirely enjoyable. Now an annual affair, the festival permits students from across the province to see each other's work and provides their teachers with an opportunity to discuss matters of mutual concern.

The adjudicator for this year's festival was William Davis, a new appointment of Bishop's University's drama department.

Car total loss

SHERBROOKE (CC) — No one was injured, but one car was completely destroyed in a two-vehicle collision on Queen Street North last night.

The driver of the car was released after passing a breathalyzer test at municipal police headquarters just after the accident.

The accident occurred at 10:17 p.m. in front of 1139 Queen Street North. Police last night reported that the accident occurred when a car piled into the rear of a tractor. Both vehicles were headed towards Bromontville.

"There could easily have been someone injured in the accident. The car is completely destroyed and the tractor had between $100 and $200 in damages," a police spokesman said last night.

Police brought the driver of the car to police headquarters shortly after the accident to take a breathalyzer test. He was released shortly after.

Youth grants total $600G

SHERBROOKE (CC) — The Secretary of State recently announced the acceptance of 39 Opportunity for Youth projects in the Eastern Townships area requiring a total federal government grant expenditure of nearly $600,000.

The announcement comes at the same time as a group of North Hatley students are investigating the awarding of Opportunity for Youth grants in the area.

To date the government has accepted a total of 667 projects across Canada, investing more than $6.4 million to create an estimated 6,507 summer jobs for students.

In all, 477 jobs have been produced in the Eastern Townships by Opportunity for Youth grants totalling $574,554. Following is a breakdown of the various projects:

—A group of 10 actors will tour the parks of the Eastern Townships giving concerts and presenting plays using a $15,020 grant during the summer months.

—A travelling troupe presenting films by the National Film Board will travel through 15 Eastern Townships municipalities this summer. Ten students will find work using a government grant of $13,000.

STUDY COOPERATIVES

—Thirteen students will analyse the structure and operations of cooperatives in the region before completing a detailed report showing how the workings of cooperatives could be improved. The grant is for $16,710.

—Six students will study the future of the granite industry in the region, analysing the different problems of the industry. They will tour the region showing films about the granite industry with the help of a $7,470 grant.

The students will visit various groups to explain data about pollution and what can be done to fight it.

—A group of 10 students using a grant of $13,615 will research means to establish an educational program which will accent student initiative, team work and social action.

—At the beginning of the new year students at Sherbrooke CEGEP held a week-long "world awareness" session where they discussed problems and methods of relating to the world. A grant of $16,550 will allow 13 students to study the success of the projects and allow them to find ways to improve it as well as to inform other students about projects of a similar nature.

FIGHT POLLUTION

Twelve students will analyse the extent of pollution in local rivers, as well as land pollution in public places around Sherbrooke. Using a grant of $16,788 the group of students will also undertake tours to try to involve Sherbrooke residents in the fight against pollution.

—A horse-riding school will be formed by a group of eight persons with funds amounting to $12,160. The school will be open to handicapped and underprivileged children as well as to the general public.

—A group of 15 persons, using a grant of $16,012, will work to set up nursery schools in low-income areas for children aged 2 to 6 years.

Doubts remain

Prime Minister Trudeau's pledge that the federal government is prepared to halt the program to expunge the time-honored name of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is reassuring.

But the commitment, given during an address recently in Edson, Alberta, raises disturbing questions because of the equivocal nature of some of the Prime Minister's remarks.

He said the government was prepared to stop replacing the RCMP insignia with the word "police."

The government, he said, has never had any intention or desire to change the RCMP name.

If it didn't have such an intention, how could the program have already reached the lengths it has?

Does the fact that the government is willing to stop the program at this point mean that the "police" insignia will be removed where it already exists on RCMP facilities and replaced forthwith with the old RCMP insignia?

Mr. Trudeau noted that the disappearance of the old insignia was particularly disliked in Western Canada. Does he mean that the replacement program will be halted only in that part of the country? Will the RCMP insignia be returned to RCMP facilities right across the country or only in those areas where its removal is especially disliked?

The only assurance of a positive position on these questions was contained in Mr. Trudeau's statement that his government would "not introduce any insignia which does not make use of that full name and which does not emphasize the national character of the force."

That pledge could have meant much more had Mr. Trudeau stated clearly that the name replacement program would not only be halted immediately, but that there would be a return to the RCMP symbol in all cases right across Canada.

That is what Mr. Trudeau should say to clear up the misgivings that linger on because of the almost surreptitious way in which the replacement program has been conducted from the start.

Because of the nature of its implementation, it is not surprising that the Edson School Students' Union should have told Mr. Trudeau before his address that the government's decision to change the RCMP signs was a concession to Quebec which generated alienation in the West.

It may never be known for sure whether Quebec politicians sought such a concession. It would be difficult to believe that they did, because the RCMP presence is not an especially visible one in Quebec, since it has its own provincial police force.

Whatever the reason, Ottawa's decision to sanction replacement of an insignia that is deeply rooted in Canadian history and tradition was ill-advised.

A more forthright disavowal of that mistake than the prime minister's Edson statement is needed to set things right again.

Opinion from the French press

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Montreal La Presse: Marcel Pepin, president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, should have reasons to be satisfied with his recent public debate with the minister of public service, Jean-Paul L'Allier.

Even if the inter-union common front did not succeed this time in bringing the government over to its way of thinking, one of the principal objectives which it has been seeking for months was exposed in clear terms to the public. The labor movement does not hide its desire to transform the industrial structure in Quebec and the traditional rules of private enterprise.

This is, however, an objective the union leaders and the more politicized groups have yet to get the population to accept.

Nothing is stopping the labor federations from continuing their work of making public opinion conscious of this end. They must continue to do it.

When they claim that workers should be given salaries allowing them to live decently, who will argue that the unions are pursuing a "revolutionary" objective?

Too many private businesses, especially those where workers are not unionized, sacrifice the welfare of their employees to the profit-making process. When the pot boils over, they are the first to be surprised. Other businesses, on a sort of short-term basis calculated to encourage initiative, increase in an unwarranted manner the gap between the highest and lowest salaries paid to their employees.

The government itself must cease to set itself up as the protector of private enterprise and grant employees salaries and working conditions above average when this "average" does not permit a man to live without getting into debt. The effect of training systems in some private businesses is worth a hundred discourses on social justice.

If the debate between Mr. L'Allier and Mr. Pepin has clarified things, discussions between the common front and the government must continue immediately in order to regulate the public service conflict.

Following the injunctions and Bill 19, back-to-work legislation, some ministers, including the premier himself, want to open up a dialogue with the union leaders.

The coming days will tell us if they are successful or if the common front leaders will turn back to their members to continue the battle. One gains the impression that the climate is not as explosive as it was several weeks ago. This is a good omen.—Claude Gravel (May 1)

Sherbrooke La Tribune: It might seem strange — at a time when unemployment is being used to strangle inflation, to launch an intensive campaign to promote student employment, but the project remains absolutely necessary if we really want to assure everyone an equal right to higher education.

Again this year the Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with Canada Manpower centres, has tried to make the business and industrial sectors conscious of the problem of student employment.

Some people object loudly when the necessity of creating seasonal employment for students is mentioned, on grounds that in the current situation those who are supporting families should not be deprived of revenues which they need. However, the jobs which are given to students are generally temporary and do not take any regular workers away from their regular jobs.

But more positive motives justify business leaders listening attentively to this campaign. The students need this money to live, to pay for their school fees and board during the school year, and by giving them the opportunity to work business leaders are permitting them to continue their studies.

The students also reap an other advantage which cannot be overlooked — by working during the summer months they communicate and live with people from another milieu, they learn more about workers and businessmen, and this can contribute to building a society in which people from different backgrounds respect each other, despite the fact that they fill different professions and roles.

The world can only be built with the co-operation and participation of all citizens. Students have something to contribute to society. It is only natural that this same society, and particularly the industrial leaders, should be concerned with facilitating the entry into society of these students who will build the universe of tomorrow.—Jean Vigneault (April 28)

Ottawa Le Droit: A document tabled in the Commons by Finance Minister John Turner predicts an acceleration of the Canadian economy for the current year. This is excellent news, but it must be pointed out that the acceleration in question will not be the work of the government alone.

There will be an acceleration of the economy if, in the public sector as in the private sector, there are no strikes to compromise the efforts of the government. There will be an acceleration of the economy if our businessmen—both industrial and financial—become bolder and open up foreign markets essential for the sale of Canadian products.

Canada for too long and much to its own detriment has been content to play the role of an exporter of raw materials, which are often bought back at high prices after being manufactured in foreign countries.

The Canadian export development corporation must not be the only one operating in this area. The support of the state for international exchanges is essential but it must not be exclusive. Private companies must also assume some risks.

The banks must do their part as well as industries. Those who took part in the recent trade missions organized by Industry Minister Jean-Luc Pepin know from experience that success does not always smile the first time round, but they also know that it eventually comes.

Thanks to these trade missions it now is possible for Canadians to build a railway in the Congo, for example, or to sell dairy products to a country that hasn't any. Even if our sales to foreign countries are often financed by long-term no-interest loans, they are beneficial to Canada which can then make new jobs available.—Marcel Gingras (April 28)

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste: John Turner, federal finance minister, has presented a series of predictions concerning the Canadian economic situation for the current year. In his document, Mr. Turner predicts that 1972 will be a good year because the development of the Canadian economy will increase at a quicker rate in 1972 than in 1971 and that the number of available jobs will increase "to a level which will absorb the total influx of new arrivals in the job market and reduce unemployment."

Naturally this hopeful situation looks very good in the electoral setting being prepared here and there across the country. It is like cream that one puts on the cake so it will sell better. But this positive aspect of the situation which the finance minister mentions is a little cloudy if one has the courage to read his document down to the last line.

—Rejean Lacombe (April 28)

'Well it hasn't exactly been a ball for me either..'

Day of judgment

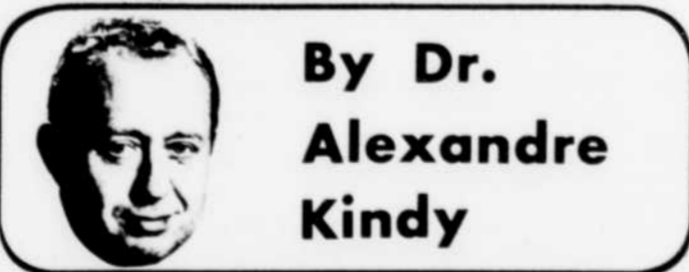

As election time approaches, Canadians will have to decide what party to vote for. They will judge the federal government on its performance, especially the way it handled one major economic problem after another during its five-year mandate.

The Liberals appealed in 1968 to the electorate for a Parliamentary majority. Pierre E. Trudeau got that majority, and since that time had to cope with a multitude of economic problems legated by the previous Liberal government or created by the economic policies of his own cabinet. Former Prime Minister Lester Pearson stepped down before the country felt the full force of the repercussions of costly legislation enacted by him.

Since 1963, the federal government has brought into being dozens of federal-provincial programs. No governments have given the country as many welfare schemes as have those of Mr. Pearson and Mr. Trudeau. Furthermore, the costs of those programs are virtually beyond control and continue to skyrocket. Being welfare programs, you can not turn them on and off. This is the dilemma we are facing now. We are right on our way into a welfare state — big government controlling every facet of our lives.

The Pearson legacy burst into almost unprecedented inflation following Mr. Trudeau's election. His cabinet spent its first two years trying to slow down the economy. This was his way to fight inflation.

We all know the end result — inflation and seven per cent unemployment, the highest level in a decade. In many parts of Quebec and the Maritimes, the rate reached 15 per cent. Even the most prosperous provinces, Ontario and Alberta, were affected by the unemployment rate. The cost of this type of policy was a major upheaval in the lives of hundreds of thousands of Canadians who had been put out of work.

By Dr. Alexandre Kindy

As the time for a vote of confidence by the people is near, we see more and more welfare programs being put into action — Local Initiative Program welfare subsidies to industries by the minister of regional economic expansion, and so on. We now can expect a budget with a lot of goodies in it.

Can all this welfareism buy enough votes so that the Liberals are going to be reelected? This is a question. However, the government faces one very big obstacle, one which it is trying almost desperately to leap. The business community is upset over the Trudeau government's record of legislation.

In almost every major piece of legislation which has been passed since 1968, business has been made the shipping boy. Tax reform, the competition bill and the labor practices bill all share one thing in common — erosion of the private sector.

Herb Gray's report has been watered down and presented that way. It seems acceptable with one exception — too much power is given to the minister of trade and commerce as a screening agency. Has the government finally seen the light or is it simply a pre-election strategy? I believe that it is the latter

On the right with William F. Buckley Jr.

The boys are becoming hysterical over the proposal that the United States Congress should in any way intervene to protect the community from courts that have decided to make a vocation out of integrating the schools, sparing the pupils no expense whatever, and themselves only the expense of rigorous thought.

The complaint is against amending the Constitution to forbid wild court decisions on the subject of busing and against Richard Nixon's suggestion that the whole business be referred to Congress. In the first instance, the critics say, you would be reversing the 14th Amendment to the Constitution — and simply denying people their rights. In the second instance, you would be denying the superior power of the Constitution by seeking to override it via more legislative action.

I have it from Mr. C. Dickerman Williams of New York, who is the best thing to hit the Constitution since the Founding Fathers, that the second objection is utter nonsense.

He cites with particular force what Congress did in 1932 in the Norris-LaGuardia Act. That act, however infamous in social effect and intention, has not been challenged as to constitutionality, and in it Congress very simply denied to federal courts jurisdiction over certain classes of labor disputes. To be sure, at no point has a federal court, citing that act, denied access to its services to someone seeking to make a Constitutional claim. It happens that no one has tried. The crucial fact remains: that Congress saw fit to, and did, limit the jurisdiction of the federal courts in certain types of cases, intending by procedural maneuver to make a substantive point.

Moreover, during the war the Supreme Court itself upheld Congress's right to limit the jurisdiction of the federal courts in a decision involving the Office of Price Administration. It was Lockhart vs. Phillips, citing a decision 100 years old, and the court said in part: "The Congressional power to ordain and establish inferior courts includes the power of investing them with jurisdiction either limited, concurrent, or exclusive, and of withholding jurisdiction from them in the exact degrees and character which to Congress may seem proper for the public good."

Moreover, it was Congress which in the first instance invited the federal courts to accept cases based on the meaning of the Constitution — in April of 1871. The court could be deprived of authority to entertain claims made under the Constitution by the simple — and terrible — expedient of repealing Section 1331 of the Judicial Code. Nobody is saying Congress ought to do that, but everybody should be reminding himself that Congress has the power to do that, and it is not inappropriate occasionally to whisper in the court's ear, "The people who gave you 1331 can take away 1331."

No, there are less drastic things to be done. For instance the deprivation of jurisdiction. Or, for instance again, requiring that issues of fact be determined by a jury — or a combination of the two. Everyone is nowadays agreed that no school district should assign pupils to schools with reference to their race. But the policies of many of the courts have, as we all know, gone far beyond this in their hot pursuit of de facto segregation, and remedial legislation based on the form of the Norris-LaGuardia Act would need merely to hold that "No court of the United States shall have jurisdiction to issue any temporary or permanent order, injunction, or decree in a case relating to the assignment of students to, or their enrollment in, an educational institution, other than to forbid assignment or enrollment on the basis of the race, creed or color of the students..." And it might be specified that juries would decide the facts; I point.

The purpose of the exercise is to get the federal courts out of the business of administration. Mr. Williams contributes as lagniappe a quotation from a speech by Chief Justice Hughes:

And I tell you, ladies and gentlemen, no more insidious assault could be made upon the independence and esteem of the judiciary than to burden it with these questions of administration — questions which lie close to the public impatience, and in regard to which the people are going to insist on having administration by officers directly accountable to them."

HOUSE PLANTS

The growing of plants inside the home is becoming more popular. However, many persons become discouraged because of repeated failures. These failures are due mainly to a misunderstanding of the basic needs of the plant. Let's look at some of these needs.

LIGHT

Light requirements vary greatly from plant to plant. Cactus, coleus, geraniums, and tubeless begonias must be placed beside windows with a southern exposure.

Ferns, palms, and tubed begonias need only a little light. Remember, however, that between November and March it is preferable to have a maximum exposure to light due to a diminished light intensity.

Most plants accommodate themselves well to a temperature from 60-70 degrees. Tropical plants, however, need a temperature above 70 degrees.

Humidity is one of the main causes of plant failure. Most plants require a relative humidity of 40-60 per cent. From experience, we know that the relative humidity in most homes varies between 20 and 30 per cent.

If this situation cannot be corrected with a good humidifier other means can be employed.

1. Place the flower in casseroles containing moss or peat to maintain humidity.
2. Place containers filled with water on radiators in order to maintain a higher humidity.

Plants should never be placed near radiators or near sources of hot air. Ventilation must be sufficient to replace the oxygen consumed by plants. It is also important to control emissions of gas and smoke from a stove or furnace. These emissions cause leaves on the plant to turn yellow and the subsequent death of the plant.

Careless watering of plants is also a primary cause of failure. Here are a few tricks which can help you avoid many problems.

1. It is better to give a plant one good watering rather than many small superficial ones.

2. An excess of water, however, can cause roots to rot and the appearance of rotting and diseases in mushrooms.

The soil must be fertile and aerated. The ideal solution is to buy commercial varieties of soil and add small quantities of bone dust.

If this solution is impossible we advise a mixture of sheep manure and peat moss.

Although there are fertilizing tablets, the ideal seems to be a fertilizing solution, either 3-1-1 or Rapid-gro. This fertilizer is added during the regular watering at the rate of one ounce per gallon of water. This fertilization can be used every three or four weeks.

Plants are generally re-potted every year. Due to the growth and redevelopment of the roots, an additional volume of soil is needed. This operation is usually most effective in the spring. It is important to use pots with holes in the bottom. Shards or a gravel bed aid proper drainage.

Most insects can be destroyed with commercial insecticides. Therefore the spiders and fleas can be controlled with a spraying of Malathion.

Mrs. E. J. Astbury, 838-4831

AYER'S CLIFF - The UCW of Beulah United Church met in the church hall on Thursday afternoon April 20. Mrs. Warren Robinson, president, conducted the meeting and welcomed fourteen members.

The meeting opened with the Lord's prayer repeated in unison. The devotions were taken by Mrs. N. Pierce who used as her topic "The Demon of Pride". The scripture was taken from St. John's Gospel, Chapter 15, followed by a meditation and prayer. All joined in singing "O Master let me Walk with Thee" with Mrs. Muriel McClary at the piano. Psalm VIII was read in unison followed by a prayer of Thanksgiving.

Mrs. E. Astbury acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. R. Waite. Correspondence consisted of three letters of thanks and a gift of money. The treasurer's report showed $100.00 realized from the Eaked

Organist for 50 years

FRELIGHSBURG - On Tuesday evening, April 25, a group of relatives and friends gathered at the Foyer St. Antoine, Eccles Hill to pay their respects to Mrs. Nellie Whitcomb, on the occasion of her fifty years service as organist in the Bishop Stewart Memorial Church of the Holy Trinity, Frelighsburg.

Rev. Richard Toase expressed the feelings of her many friends and parishioners in thanking her for the long faithful service, and, on behalf of the congregation, he presented her with a gold engraved pendant.

Mrs. Whitcomb graciously thanked everyone for their thoughtfulness.

St. James Evening Guild

FOSTER (PW) - The St. James Evening Guild was entertained by Mrs. Ernest Ladd of Bonville for their April meeting with nine members and three visitors present.

The president Mrs. Sidney de Solla opened the meeting with prayers and welcomed everyone.

The Secretary Mrs. Robert Price called the roll and read the minutes of the March meeting, and also read the corresponding secretary's report, due to the absence of Mrs. Arthur Hancox.

The treasurer Mrs. Roland Johnson gave her report, and stated $12.00 had been made at her evening card party which she held at her home. All other reports were given, and Mrs. Adrian Whitehead stated she had received a nice tricycle from Lines Brothers in Waterloo as a donation.

Final plans were made for the card party, which is to be held in Waterloo. There will also be a card party in St. James Parish Hall on May 20.

The meeting closed with the benediction. The lucky package was won by Mrs. Sidney de Solla.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bernard de Solla on May 11.

A social hour was then enjoyed over delicious refreshments served by Mrs. Ernest Ladd, for which the President thanked the hostess.

Bean supper and good receipts from the food sale held recently.

Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Mitson gave an interesting report from the meeting of the U.C.W. Quebec, Sherbrooke Presbyterian held in Magog on April 17. It is agreed to buy some new stacking chairs and to hold another casserole and Baked Bean supper on May 27. Mrs. W. Robinson, Mrs. H. McClary and Miss A. Webster were appointed to plan this event. Mrs. N. Pierce will do advertising and Mr. E. Price will be in charge of ticket sales.

Each member is asked to make an article and bring to the May meeting for the summer sale table. The afghan will be displayed at the next meeting also.

By Ann Landers

Mood Indigo

Dear Ann Landers: The letter signed "Mood Indigo" brought back some heartbreaking memories I went through the same agony two years ago.

When my girlfriend and I split up I felt as if the whole world was coming apart at the seams. The emptiness was so big I was sure nothing could fill it. Like "Mood Indigo" I wrote to you for advice. You gave me the same routine — "Put away the old love letters. Ditch her pictures. Get back into circulation. Stop mooning. Don't look back. Look ahead." It didn't work.

Every time I took out a new girl I found myself making comparisons. Whenever I'd hear our favorite song I'd get a lump in my throat the size of a tennis ball. Then I noticed a strange thing. The lump kept getting smaller and smaller. I was comparing less and less and making more original appraisals.

It wasn't your advice that saved me. Ann, it was time. Your advice merely kept me from killing myself. You told me that one day I would stop hurting and the world would look good again. You said at the end of your letter, "You'll recover. I promise." And you were right.

Thanks for being there when I needed you.

—Getting It All Together

Dear Getting There: Your letter will help those whose lumps are still the size of tennis balls. It's a great source of strength to know that someone who was once in your shoes made it back. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Somewhere there is a young mother who, about two years ago, offered her infant child for adoption. I would like that woman to know that her child is like a gift from God to us. Her beautiful baby has brought immeasurable joy and endless love to a childless couple. A home has become alive with love, laughter, plans for the future — thanks to a young person who had the wisdom and courage to give up her precious baby.

We feel privileged and honored to have your child in our family. God bless you, darling. We thank you every day of our lives.

—Happy Grandparents
Dear Grandparents: Here's your letter — with no hint to reveal the origin. Thousands of young mothers may think the letter is intended for them. They are sure to find comfort in your beautiful expression of love and gratitude.

Dear Ann: That poem from "The Wife" to the "Other Woman" was fascinating. I'm afraid she's been reading too many junky novels. Any resemblance to real life and the picture she has in her mind is purely maraculous.

I'm the "Other Woman" and there are plenty more like me.

My hands smell of detergent, just like a wife's. I wash my own dishes. I also wear flannel nightgowns and a corduroy bathrobe. I've never been to Acapulco and wouldn't know how to act if I got there. My married sweetheart can't afford a taxi, much less a plane ticket.

I change my own flat tires and work a full time job. I have no fur coat and the suggestion that I am being plied with luxuries is a joke. More often than not, I'm giving him an extra ten or twenty. Who do you think bought your daughter's birthday present, dearie?

Question my quality if you wish, but I wasn't looking for your husband. Love made me butt in on you.

—Sorry You Were First
Dear Sorry: Thanks for a realistic portrayal of "Other Women." The "glamor" is mostly a figment of the wife's imagination. The role is, as you pointed out, pretty crummy — and full of heartache.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB Get Yourself A Family Doctor

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am 67 years old and my husband and I have moved to Florida. The least bit of exertion makes it difficult for me to breathe, but when I am relaxing I breathe normally. Our family doctor in Pennsylvania told me I had chronic bronchitis. Is it serious? We do not have a family doctor here and I need some advice. Is there anything I can do to get some relief? I have been smoking cigarettes for the last 50 years and am wondering if I could have any kind of reaction if I stopped smoking.

Dear Reader — Chronic bronchitis means long standing inflammation of the bronchi or air passages in the lungs. How serious it is depends on how severe the inflammation is, and how much lung damage has occurred. If you get short of breath with a very little amount of exertion, I would guess that you have quite a bit of lung disease.

Individuals who have smoked a lot for a long period of time have a much greater probability of having severe lung disease of the type that you apparently have. Perhaps the lung damage that cigarettes can cause in so many people like yourself is even more important than cancer of the lungs.

I think you certainly should quit smoking. It might do a lot to help your breathing problem and it would be the first thing that a doctor should ask you to do if you have any significant lung damage or bronchitis. Some people do have trouble stopping smoking and will have unpleasant symptoms which are withdrawal symptoms from nicotine. I know a lot of people who have moved to Florida away from their family, friends and their doctor, and I know that many people like yourself neglect getting a new family doctor. It is hard to do sometimes, particularly in Florida, because of the large number of people who need family doctors.

Dear D. Lamb — Recently I have read that an aid to controlling constipation consisted of a glass of water containing two teaspoons full of apple cider vinegar before meals. Also, this is supposed to act as a cleaner all through the alimentary canal. In your opinion, is this beneficial or is it perhaps harmful.

Dear Reader—I doubt that it will be harmful for most healthy people. To the extent that many people's problems with constipation are aided by increasing intake of liquids, it can even be helpful. One of the most useful things people can do for constipation problems is to establish a regular morning habit after breakfast and to drink plenty of fluids with their breakfast meal. The apple cider vinegar may have somewhat the same effect as fresh fruits and prunes.

Stanstead County School Board

To All Eligible Voters in Wards Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4

Bill 27
Regulating Elementary School Boards off the Island of Montreal is now law and will present many changes in School Administration.

As of June 30th, 1972, the Local Elementary School Boards, including Stanstead County School Board, will disappear. Under Bill 27, the Protestant School Boards of Stanstead County, Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Compton, and Agnes-Megantic are amalgamated to form the School Municipality of Lennoxville. Last October the Lennoxville Provisional Council was set up to implement the terms of Bill 27.

The Stanstead County School Board is presently divided into five Wards which are represented by nine Commissioners. Under the terms of amalgamation, the Wards have been reduced to four, and consequently the number of Commissioners representing the area presently covered by this Board, also to four. The location of Wards is as follows:

Ward no. 1 formerly comprised of the territory covered by the Rock Island-Stanstead-Beebe Protestant School Board.

Ward no. 2 comprised of the territory formerly covered by the Protestant School Board of Aver's Cliff and the Protestant School Board of Coaticook.

Ward no. 3 formerly comprised of the territory covered by the Protestant School Board of North Hatley and Hatley Village with minor changes which will be shown on the map.

Ward no. 4 comprised of the territory formerly covered by the Protestant School Board of Magog and Stanstead Township.

Who May Be Elected.

Every Canadian citizen of full age (18) domiciled within the School Municipality for six months, not suffering from any legal incapacity.

Who Can Vote

Every Canadian citizen, at least 18 years of age, domiciled within the School Municipality or inscribed on the valuation roll, not suffering from any legal incapacity.

Nomination Day will be June 5th, 1972, from 12 noon to 2 p.m. at the Elementary Protestant Schools located in each Ward, and an election, if necessary, will be held on June 12th, 1972. The four School Commissioners elected shall take up their duties on July 1st, 1972, and shall be part of the Council of School Commissioners for Elementary Schools under the new School Municipality of Lennoxville. School Committees and Parent Committees will be set up at a later date.

The next regular Board meeting of the Stanstead County School Board on May 8th, 1972 at 8 p.m. at the Aver's Cliff Elementary School will be an information meeting to advise all interested parties on the Administration charges, the nominations, and the elections of School Commissioners to the new Board.

You the electors have seen your Local School Boards pass through many changes and amalgamations. To successfully implement the current changes brought about by Bill 27, the Commissioners of this Board are once again asking for your continued support and cooperation.

Rangers make their point in crushing Bruins

NEW YORK (CP) — Tom Johnson is going to have to revise his thinking based on the old adage that you can't teach an old dog new tricks.

Johnson's Boston Bruins found Thursday night they had a lot to learn about covering New York's point men as the Rangers crushed them 5-2 to narrow Boston's margin in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final 2-1.

Game No. 4 goes at Madison Square Garden Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. EDT with a fifth game back in Boston Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

"We gave their point men too many wide-open opportunities," said Johnson, taking note of the two power-play goals in the first period by Ranger defenceman Brad Park. "They were bombing us from the point."

"We're just going to have to give more consideration to practising our work on their point men," added the Boston coach, speaking of an obvious weak point in the Boston machine that had won seven straight games with the New Yorkers this year and had a playoff streak of nine victories going into the contest.

FIRST FOR DEFENCEMAN

Park became the first National Hockey League defenceman to score two power-play goals in one period of playoff hockey. Charlie Conacher of Toronto Maple Leafs set the standard on March 26, 1936, against Boston and it has since been equalled by 14 other forwards.

The young Ranger defenceman also picked up two assists and his four points in the game equalled a team playoff record started by Frank Boucher in 1932 and matched by three other Rangers besides Park.

The outcome never was in doubt after the Rangers had opened up a three-goal lead by 13:00 of the first period, capitalizing on the first three times they had a manpower advantage.

Park, Rod Gilbert and Park again sent the Bruins staggering. Mike Walton and Bobby Orr narrowed the gap to 3-2 before Gilbert and Petr Stempkowski finished the scoring in the second period.

After the New Yorkers jumped into their early lead, Derek Sanderson, Bruins' penalty-killing ace, saw little ice time.

"He was involved in their first three power-play goals so I had to make changes," said Johnson of his decision to insert Don Marcotte on the penalty-killing unit with Ed Westfall. Johnson didn't fault goal-tender Gerry Cheevers on the early goals — "We gave their point men too many wide-open opportunities" — but said Ed Johnston, who has a 5-0 playoff mark this season to Cheevers' 5-2, will start Sunday's game.

It was an unusually disconsolate Boston dressing room as the team rushed to leave for Boston almost immediately after the game.

"I hurt all over," lamented Phil Esposito, the Art Ross Trophy winner as the league's leading scorer over the regular schedule with 133 points. He has been a target for the Rangers whenever he moved into the slot in front of the New York goal.

The victorious Rangers also were suffering.

Veteran defenceman Jim Neilson missed half the game with a sprained knee and his replacement, rookie Ab DeMarco, fell on Boston centre Garnet Bailey's skate in the third period and suffered a deep gash on the back of his left thigh. Both men were taken to hospital, where DeMarco underwent surgery which will keep him out of the rest of the series.

That left three defencemen — Park, Rod Seiling and Dale Rolfe — to finish up the blue-line chores and they did a masterful job as they had throughout the game.

Emile Francis, New York's general manager-coach, still has Gary Doak and Jim Dorey available to dress. But Doak picked up some unnecessary penalties in the opening two games, 6-5 and 2-1 losses, which portended his benching for Thursday's game. And Dorey, coming back from a shoulder separation, still is not ready.

Anglers anxious

This weekend should provide anglers with enough open water in the various lakes for at least limited fishing. Lakes Memphremagog, Brome and Massawippi all have open areas and, with the right wind conditions, perhaps complete open water. Streams in the area are running extremely high and might not provide ideal conditions for this type of fishing.

Last weekend some fish were caught by the avid anglers but none of the catches were of any size.

Memphremagog's smelt are running in Powell Brook, with a peak run being expected this weekend. Massawippi has one of its tributaries open. Hibbard Brook, located at the Ayer's Cliff end of the lake. The run here is expected to start next week.

The Massawippi Fish and Game Protection Club, in cooperation with the Quebec Wildlife Service, stocked the lake with rainbows last fall, of which some 500 were tagged with a yellow marker located near the dorsal fin.

Anyone taking one of these tagged fish is asked to note the length, weight and location of where they were taken and return the information to the Wildlife Service in Sherbrooke, the Club or to leave it at one of the weighing stations located in either Ayer's Cliff or North Hatley. This information will be used in determining future stocking operations for Massawippi.

The Vermont Wildlife Service has been carrying on rescue operations on Memphremagog near Newport. An industrial oil spill has coated some waterfowl, muskrats, beaver and other species with a coat of oil. A boom has been placed around the oil slick, we understand, to prevent its moving out of the area. To date no reports have been heard regarding any damage to fish in the lake.

Lake Massawippi Fish and Game Protection Club will be holding its annual banquet on Saturday, May 20, at 6:30 p.m. in the Legion Home in North Hatley, with the usual program to follow. Tickets are now available at $2.50 per person from Club directors.

Orr, Dryden, Ratelle tops

NEW YORK (CP) — Bobby Orr, Boston Bruins' amazing young defenceman, was the only double winner today at the National Hockey League awards luncheon, winning the Hart Trophy for a third consecutive year and the James Norris Trophy for the fifth consecutive season, both records.

The Hart Trophy goes to the player "adjudged to be the most valuable to his team" and the Norris "to the defenceman who demonstrates throughout the regular season the greatest all-round ability in that position."

Other award winners, selected by members of the Professional Hockey Writers' Association in the 14 NHL cities, were: —Ken Dryden, Montreal Canadiens goaltender, the Calder Memorial Trophy as the league's outstanding rookie; —Jean Ratelle, New York Rangers, the Lady Byng Trophy as the player exhibiting "the best type of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability."

Orr's Boston team-mate, centre Phil Esposito, earlier won the Art Ross Trophy as the league's leading scorer with 133 points. It was the third time in four years Esposito had won the award. He scored a record 76 goals and 152 points in 1970-71.

Esposito's brother, Tony, and Gary Smith collected the Vezina Trophy as the league's leading goaltenders. The Chicago Black Hawks tandem allowed a total of only 166 goals for a 2.12 average. Tony Esposito won the Vezina alone in 1969-70 when he also won Rookie-of-the-Year honors.

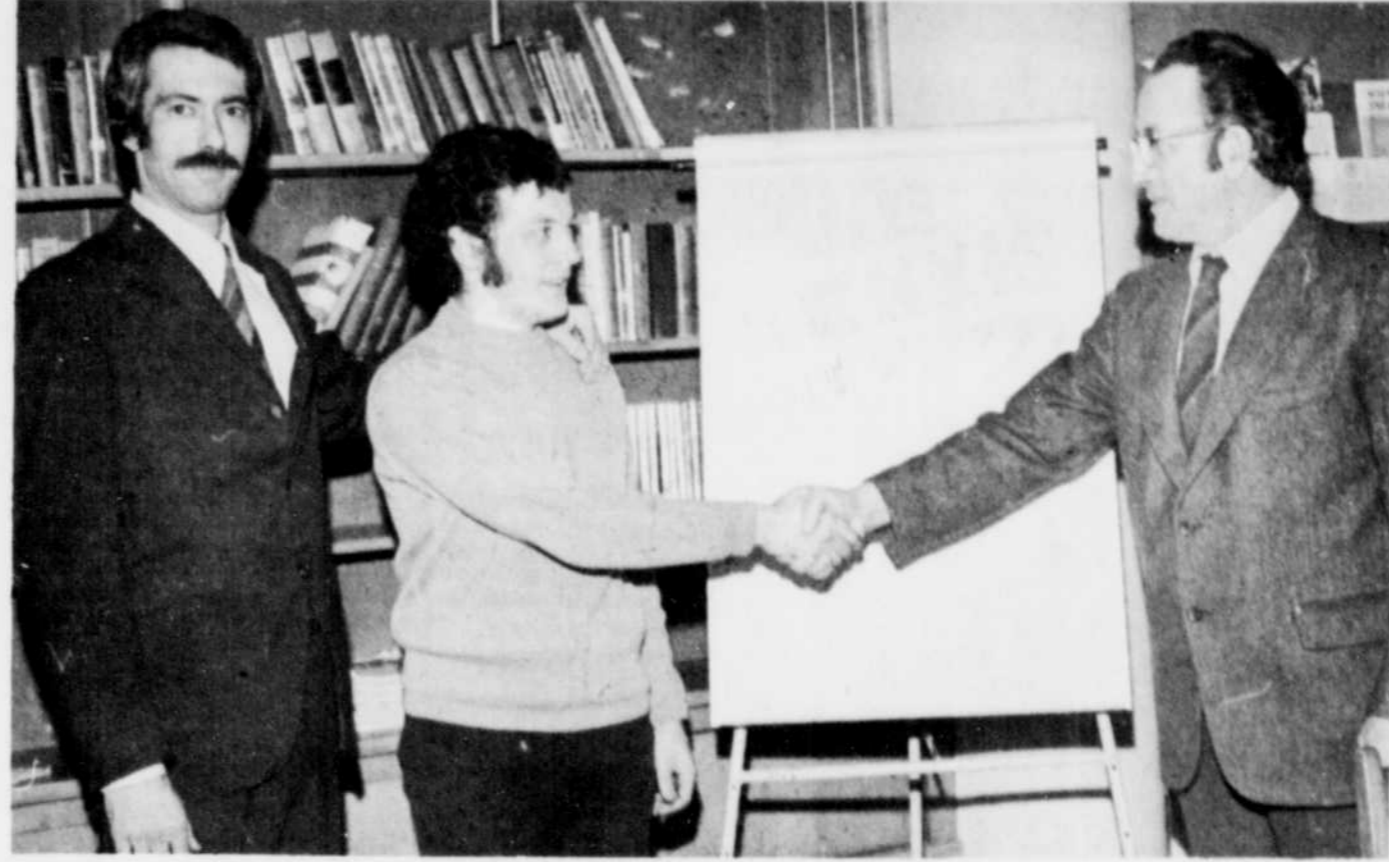

The two trophies for Orr, a 24-year-old native of Parry Sound, Ont., brings to 11 the number of individual awards he has amassed in six seasons with the Bruins. Runner-up in the scoring race to Esposito the last two seasons, he is the only NHL defenceman ever to win the scoring title with 120 points in 1969-70.

Dryden's selection as the top rookie was unique in that he had already won a major NHL award, the Conn Smythe Trophy as the outstanding performer in last year's Stanley Cup playoff.

Called on by the Canadians with only six previous NHL games under his belt, the lanky goaltender took time off from his law studies at McGill University to appear in a record 20 post-season games en route to the cup championship.

Lennoxville (BP) — Alexander Galt Regional High School will be playing host to a badminton tournament tomorrow starting at 10 a.m. Seven schools are participating — AGRHS, Bishop's College School of Lennoxville, Massey Vanier Regional High School of Cowansville, Richmond Regional High School, Mont St. Anne of Sherbrooke, King's Hall of Compton and Stanstead College.

Taking part are 170 players who are vying for 15 individual trophies in three divisions, bantam, midjet and senior. Richmond is expected to give a strong run at defending the team trophy which it won last year. All parents and friends are invited to cheer their favorite players to victory. Coach Rod McKell of AGRHS said, "It promises to be an exciting meet."

Baseball discovers life in post-strike era

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball was being damaged by the first general strike in its history, a fact reflected by a decrease in attendance and a corresponding lowering of the esteem in which the players are held by the fans who foot the bill.

But any complete analysis of the effect of the strike on the sport awaits two dates:

The first is the beginning of June, when baseball weather is guaranteed and post-season playoffs in other sports have ended, enabling all involved to get a closer look at the reasons behind a drop in major league attendance of more than 300,000.

The second date probably will come after the World Series, but could come earlier, depending on when new negotiations begin on both the sticky pension issue that provoked the strike and the entire general agreement.

STUDY SHOWS EFFECTS

The decline in attendance and player esteem plus the question of what happens in the future were the major points coming out of an Associated Press study of the effects of the strike on the game, its players and its leaders.

1. Major league attendance is down 316,722 compared with the same number of playing dates last year, it is down more than that in the American League alone, with the National showing a slight increase.

2. The attendance fall possibly could affect the future of three clubs: St. Louis, San Diego and Texas.

3. There has been a call, by Minnesota owner Cal Griffith, for an earlier beginning of contract negotiations, possibly as early as June, so that the brink isn't reached as quickly as it was this year.

4. There has been a call, by Oakland owner Charles O. Finley, to offset any damage to the game by the strike with the institution of changes to make the sport "more interesting and entertaining."

PROBLEM MAJOR

The problem of the drop in attendance is major, but an optimistic outlook comes from commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who uses a measuring stick that shows average per-date attendance up 12 per cent.

"If you take the point where the season started this year and compare it with a comparable period last season (two weeks into the season), attendance is up 12 per cent. And that's despite some above-average weather problems."

No one, however, contends there hasn't been a negative reaction by the fans.

"The baseball public found the strike distasteful and unfortunate," said Mike Burke, president of New York Yankees. "What's the long-range effect would be, I don't know. But, if by the middle of June, attendance hasn't picked up, I'd be concerned."

FANS CANCEL TICKETS

Frank Cashen, general manager of the Orioles, said some fans had even cancelled season tickets.

"Those who cancelled," he explained, "indicated they did so because the players were greedy—if that's the right word—and they didn't choose to continue supporting the sport."

Griffith says fans are disturbed "because of the amount of money the players get in salary and also from the pension."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the players' association, sees fan response as a natural reaction to the owners' propaganda during the strike.

"A number of owners didn't realize until too late what they were doing," Miller said.

"Where management runs its players down in a normal business, it has no important effect on sales of its product. But when it runs down its product in baseball—where the players are the product—I'd be surprised if there wasn't some impact."

The average player makes $29,000 a year, now more in one year than the average working American makes in a lifetime, and the players' pension plan is supported, not by gate receipts, but by a share of national television revenue, he said.

St. Louis, San Diego and Texas have been hard hit. Cardinals' president August Busch has hinted at a possible sale of the club.

Pirates get no reprieve

SHERBROOKE (CC) — Rain throughout the day yesterday forced the cancellation of Sherbrooke Pirates' first home game in Amedee Roy Stadium. The Pirates called off the scheduled 8 p.m. opener with Reading Phillies at about 5 p.m.

The Pirates are scheduled to play the same team starting at 8 p.m. today, weather permitting. Sherbrooke has been plagued with three consecutive days of heavy rainfall.

Management is hoping for a large turnout at tonight's game, which will be the team's first game in the local park. A hockey stick will be given to the first 800 youngsters 15 years of age and under who attend the game.

Derby sends 16

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Riva Ridge, a winner of many important stakes and more than $500,000, will oppose 15 other three-year-olds in the Kentucky Derby Saturday, including Dr. Neale, which has run in four races and earned $6,347.

Riva Ridge's toughest competition is expected from Mrs. Maribel Blum's Hold Your Peace, the Flamingo and Stepping Stone winner; J. R. Stratus' No Le Hae, first in the Arkansas and Louisiana derbies, and Paul Mellon's Head of the River.
