Red China trade boosts agriculture

Wheat deal aids prosperity

Canada's wheat and barley deal with Red China, which produced some high controversy at the emotional and moral levels at the time of the border war between India and China last year, is at the root of the prosperity that came to agriculture in 1962 and promises to continue in 1963.

Total farm cash income last year rose to more than $3,000,000,000 for the first time, and the chances are it will stay there.

China has skyrocketed from nowhere to the number two position among Canada's export wheat markets — 72,000,000 bushels in the last crop year, below only Britain's 85,000,000 bushels wheat and flour equivalent.

The direct effect on the prairie farm economy has been almost magical. But the indirect benefits are even more important.

With the massive wheat surpluses of the late 1950s already diminished by short crops, the freer flow of grain through the market channels has encouraged prairie farmers to swing back to greater wheat production.

RELIEVES PRESSURE

This, in turn, has taken the pressure off the livestock markets, bringing higher prices and larger incomes to farmers across the country.

Greater output this year will take the pressure off prices, but every encouragement is being given to farmers to increase production, particularly of beef. The long range outlook for the livestock men is good.

Less tangible — except perhaps to farm implement workers and prairie wholesale and retail firms — are the indirect effects of greater farm purchasing power on income and profits generally.

AIDS EXCHANGE

Hardly inconsequential, of course, are the effects of the China deal on Canada's exchange position. Net foreign earnings run to $175,000,000 per year on trade with China. The dark spot in Canadian agriculture is the growing butter surplus. Reduction of consumer prices by 12 cents a pound through introduction of a federal subsidy has not boosted sales sufficiently to bring production into balance.

A glimmer of light appears ahead. Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton has recognized that a new assault on the butter surplus is needed and there is evidence that intelligent farm opinion goes along with him.

General price levels may eventually catch up with butter and bring it into balance with the rest of the economy.

HAPPENED BEFORE

This happened once before — in 1957 — only for a new Government to appear on the scene with a mandate for higher butter supports.

The other hope lies with the new Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Administration (ARDA), which attacks the very problem of small, uneconomic farms that makes the dairy industry such a sensitive area politically.

ARDA agreements have been signed by all 10 provinces and several projects have already been launched under federal-provincial cost-sharing arrangements.

For dairying, the hope of ARDA lies in two provisions: • Alternative land use — such as forestry, conservation and recreation — which could reduce the total land now dedicated to dairy output.

• Consolidation of holdings into more economic units, which could produce milk profitably with less or with no help from the treasury.

HITS POVERTY

ARDA has, of course, implications for much more than just butter surpluses. It is an attack on the chronic poverty that persists on 30 to 40 per cent. of the nation's farms.

Its city counterpart would be a mixture of slum clearance, redevelopment, merger of uneconomic plants and general encouragement to industrial expansion.

Getting ARDA going when agriculture is the healthiest it has been in years, and when it promises to remain buoyant in the months ahead, raises the hope that it will have a significant impact on Canadian farming over the next two decades.

under the Law of Succession Juan Carlos must wait until he is 30 before he can become king, and that gives Franco another six years.

THE STRONG MAN is General Munez Grandes, Franco's civil war comrade-in-arms, for whom the job of vice-president of the ruling Falange was created by the generalissimo last summer.

It is Franco's repression that has kept this kingdom without a king relatively placid for 24 years. But the country is more restive now than it has been at any time since the civil war, and the signs are plain that Franco's reign may soon be tottering.

True, the economy is booming. True, the tourist trade is giving the nation a shot in the arm. True, Spain's bid for associate membership in the European Common Market is being unexpectedly well received.

But what prosperity there is has not filtered down to the people. Most Spaniards can hope, in a lifetime of work, for only the slightest alleviation of their wretched poverty; and many cannot hope even for that.

LAST YEAR'S wave of strikes in the mining areas of Spain was the clearest

WHO WILL FOLLOW FRANCO?

MADRID (TNS) — Who will follow Francisco Franco as ruler of Spain — the pretender, or the pretty boy?

And will the winner actually be a loser, a puppet monarch whose strings are pulled by yet another military strong man?

THE PRETENDER is Don Juan de Bourbon y Battenberg, who has been waiting to occupy the throne since 1947, when Franco's Law of Succession declared Spain officially a monarchy.

THE PRETTY BOY is his son, 24-year-old Prince Juan Carlos, who is Franco's preference — perhaps because of his resemblance to the late King Alfonso XIII.

Manitoba's separate schools are fighting for their existence. In the past six months, the issue of public assistance has flared into the open twice — and each time caused bitter arguments in the newspapers.

Manitoba and British Columbia are the only provinces in Canada to give no financial support to separate schools.

Manitoba stands alone in refusing even to buy text books for parochial school students.

It was this policy that caused the first of the two recent disputes.

Five Roman Catholic children registered early in September at a public school in St. Vital, then left for their own parochial school after getting free text books.

School officials promptly sent a bailiff to repossess the books. The bitter feeling caused by the incident still lingers.

The second dispute occurred in October when 25 Roman Catholic parents demanded religious education for their children at Winnipeg's Hugh John Macdonald Collegiate.

The parents said the province's education act provided for half an hour's religious instruction for students every day. They claimed the right to bring a Roman Catholic priest into the school to give this instruction.

But the Winnipeg school board rejected the demand.

Hold reins of destiny

Free-lance translation becomes a booming business

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA) — While everybody else has been watching the Cold War, Cape Canaveral and the Common Market, the real reins of our destiny have been passing unobserved into the hands of an unlikely little cadre — the free-lance international translators.

Not counting the fearful mountain of wordage moved daily from language to language at the U.N. or in commercial firms who employ their own interpreters, an estimated 3 million words per month are turned over to free lancers in New York alone.

And the same is true in almost every major city in the world from Hong Kong to Chicago, from London to Moscow. These words range from vital technical bulletins and crucial business correspondence to press information, sales promotion and even the subtitles on movies, which in the long run, reach more people than all the world's foreign aid.

But how well do these words survive the translation? In Paris, for example, a competition among the city's translators for several staff jobs with an intergovernmental agency brought out 526 applicants and weeded out only six as likely possibilities.

A similar search in Geneva, the world's interlanguage capital, turned up only three out of 126 applicants.

In the British film "Saturday Night and Sunday Morning," a character explains that he spends Sunday mornings with the bookies. But with subtitles in French, it appears that he spends Sunday reading good books.

With the world shrinking, facts like these have boosted the fee for a good translator to $50 per day. The $1,000 which a translator used to ask for a four-month job on a novel, he now sets as his monthly wage — if he will deign to take a steady job.

"More likely," says Philip Gilead, head of a European

And runs canal efficiently

Nasser pays off Suez debt early

Chalk one up for Gamal Abdel Nasser. He has just paid the last instalment — a year ahead of time — of $81,000,000 to the share-holders of the old Suez Canal Company.

When the president of Egypt seized the canal in 1956 and then promised to pay for it, few believed him. He won't be able to operate it efficiently, and he won't make a profit — That's what was said.

I was among the disbelievers. I saw the canal after the British-French Suez fiasco in 1956. It was a shambles. It was strewn with small sunken craft. Its machine shops and steel crossbridge were destroyed. Fifteen large ships, trapped in transit were immobilized between Port Said and Suez.

More than 100 British and French pilots quit after nationalization. It looked as though Nasser had bitten off more than he could chew.

Well, he's chewing now. And the taste must be pretty good. Today there are almost 250 pilots, about half of whom are Egyptians, all master mariners. The myth of tough Suez piloting has been exploded.

The French company, which had operated the canal, used a set of nautical signals designed to baffle conventional seamen and, on being ousted, compounded the confusion by removing all maps and charts.

The Arab and Greek pilots who remained must have done a heroic job keeping the ships moving. Nasser had modern, battery-run navigational aids installed and had the signal system revamped.

ships daily pass through the canal since he took it over than before. Tonnage is increasing. In four years, from 1957 to 1961, tonnage of ships passing through the waterway increased from 393,000 to 512,000.

And the Egyptians are making a profit. Revenue is estimated at $140,000,000 annually.

Impressive? Yes. And there is no doubt that Nasser hopes to increase his prestige with other Arabs by his achievement. When he took over the canal, he declared he was striking a blow for Arabs everywhere.

He said: "Arab nationalism progresses. Arab nationalism wins. Arab nationalism goes forward."

But it's doubtful whether he can recapture the first fire of enthusiasm that greeted his audacious move in Suez. A mood of disenchantment with the would-be Saladin's ambitions has settled over Arab lands since.

Syria has quit the United Arab Republic. Kassem in Iraq has ambitions of his own. Lebanon is preoccupied with holding the balance between titis Moslem and Christian population and has already broken the boycott against trading with ships that deal with Israel. Saudi Arabia and Jordan have their guard up against the kind of Nasser-inspired coup that toppled the monarchical system in Yemen.

With all his Suez success, Nasser is still in default. Having seized the canal, he chooses to forget that it is still an international waterway with international obligations. He uses it unabashedly as an instrument of national policy in denying passage of Israeli ships, defying the charter of 1856, the Anglo-Egyptian agreement of 1954 and several resolutions of the United Nations.

Outwardly Nasser's case rests on the contention that

News in brief

Man is held

ST. PAUL DE CHESTER — A 57-year-old man is held by Provincial Police today in the fatal shooting of Phillip Daigle, 60, in a restaurant here yesterday near Victoriaville.

Two witnesses say they were in the restaurant when Albert Heon fired a 30-30 rifle at Mr. Daigle's head, killing him instantly. The body has been taken to Victoriaville morgue and Mr. Heon is in police cells in Victoriaville.

Jump cancelled

Exercise "Chasse Galle" — a Canadian Army scheme which was to include a jump by 250 parachuters near East Angus and a mock battle at the Sherbrooke municipal airport this morning, was cancelled late Friday afternoon.

Maj. Rene Jalbert of the Royal 22nd Regiment said the wire he had received from Quebec headquarters advising Ottawa had cancelled the jump gave no reason. Montreal reports attributed the cancellation to a faulty parachute.

Participating soldiers were to include 250 parachuters and 400 men to meet them on the ground. Advance forces who had been billeted at the Williams Street Armory left for Quebec this morning.

Raps company

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec has accused the Shawinigan Water and Power Company board of avoiding mention of risks involved in its counter-proposal to the provincial take-over bid.

He made public Friday his reply, in French with an English copy provided "for your convenience", to a letter received in English Jan. 11 from J. A. Fuller, chairman of the board of Shawinigan.

Shawinigan is the biggest of 11 power companies to be expropriated by Hydro-Quebec, a provincial Crown corporation.

Delay decision

OTTAWA (CP) — The government does not intend to equip Canadian forces with nuclear weapons at least for another four months. It hopes the decision will never have to be taken.

That appeared to be the import of a long, carefully-worded statement to the Commons Friday by Prime Minister Diefenbaker. It came towards the end of a two-day debate on defence and foreign affairs.

Mr. Diefenbaker disclosed that the government has been negotiating with the United States "quite forcibly" since the Cuban crisis to have nuclear warheads made available to Canadian forces "in case of need."

Strike over

NEW YORK (AP) — The pulse beat of the waterfront from Maine to Texas begins throbbing today after a deadly silence of 34 days.

Some 60,000 longshoremen ended the longest and costliest dock strike in U.S. Atlantic maritime history after their leaders received a report that President Kennedy was "fed up" with local quibbling that threatened to prolong the walk-out.

But there still was one area along the coastline — at Norfolk, Va., where longshoremen refused to go along with their union's order to return to work.

Gauge perils

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate preparedness subcommittee has set out in a maze of claims to gauge for itself the perils of Soviet military power in Cuba, reported by some to be swiftly increasing.

Senator John Stennis, Mississippi Democrat who is the subcommittee chairman, ordered the investigation Friday, saying:

"Reports which have come to me indicate that the continued presence and buildup of military might in Cuba is rapidly converting Castro's forces into the second most powerful military power in the hemisphere."

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Soft, sexy, blurry voices make a marvelous sound for electronics," said Phyllis Curtin, almost sadly. "But a well-trained, full soprano voice with a good ping on it is an engineer's problem."

when they move from the stage to positions in front of television cameras, she continued.

"The cameras have a tendency to focus on the faces of singers—it is an intimate me-camera work."

Miss Curtin, as all music lovers well know, is possessed of a well-trained, full soprano voice with a good ping on it. And she is certain that it never really has been heard by the television audience.

"It is the problem of the receivers in the sets at home," she said. "Many musical programs make every effort to reproduce sound well, and when we hear our efforts played on the studio's machines, they sound great. But the receivers at home—most of them—just can't handle those sounds in the high frequencies."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

LUCKY LEAD MAKES SLAM

No series of articles on the tyranny of the spade suit would be complete without my own favorite hand. The game was rubber bridge and I had a conservative partner. Hence, my third hand opening of one spade on a mere four card suit.

West might have jumped to seven hearts. He would make it all by himself, but West felt certain that a seven heart bid would produce a seven spade sacrifice so he merely doubled.

My partner jumped to four spades and naturally enough I passed. West continued his deceptive tactics by bidding five hearts. My partner bid five spades. West continued to six hearts and after North and East passed I fell right into West's trap and doubled.

At this point West could have settled for a small slam doubled with an overtrick, but West became greedy. He decided to redouble. North passed. I had doubled and I should get out of my own mess.

I wanted out and ran to six spades. West went to seven hearts and when the bid got back to me I was convinced that West was sitting there with 13 red cards. I went to seven spades. West doubled and opened the king of diamonds. I ruffed with dummy's etaight, led the four of spades and finessed my six spot. I ruffed a second diamond high. Led the three of spades and finessed my nine then ruffed my last diamond. Returning to my

Conditions at Sherbrooke Registry Office

CRAMPED AND CRUMBLING — Paul Sylvestre, registrar at the Sherbrooke Registry office on Bank Street, is seen in the top picture checking a volume just pulled from the tightly-packed shelves of the office. Bottom left, he reaches almost to ceiling level for a volume. The need for more space has been ignored by city and provincial officials, Mr. Sylvestre says. Bottom right photo shows damage to the ceiling of the office's lavatory. Mr. Sylvestre's colleague Camille Charron says, "There have been no major changes made around here since the day the place was established in 1884, and I suppose that none will be made until a crisis arises." Unique picture-taking

Winter force you indoors? Keep busy with close-ups

Who but an Eskimo would wish to venture out on these cold, blustery days? They say it is healthy and invigorating? Bah!

This would be a great time to try some close-up photography. We have discussed this topic before but a few more notes could help this winter evening project.

However, when doing ultra-closeup photography, it will be limited to only the hobbyist with certain types of camera, namely those with a reflex-type focusing or better still, a view camera.

Some supplementary lens will have to be used in order to get close enough to your subject for this unique novel picture-taking project.

The subject matter for ultra-close-up shots can be of field, in other words, you will have to close your lens down to F16 or 22 or better.

Due to working so close to the subject your flash may have to be reduced in intensity which can easily be done by draping a handkerchief over the reflector. This will soften the light slightly but not enough to harm the quality of the picture. This type of shot should have as much contrast lighting as possible to emphasize the surface structure.

You will have one other problem with a twin-lens camera called parallax. It is easy to understand. The viewing lens is above the taking lens and when you focus you will have to lift the camera to bring the taking lens into the area that you have just viewed. A simple way of doing this is to focus and then line up a ruler with the centre of the taking lens and the centre area of the subject.

By picking good subjects and enlarging them to appropriate sizes, you can have lots of fun some evening by lining them up and having a game with your friends by having them write down what they think the subject is.

You may be amused at the answers given and some of them may even be right.

Camera talk by Doug Gerrish

practically anything but to make it more interesting you should pick those familiar objects that could tell immediately what they were under normal conditions, such as bread, sponge or any rough surface object. When photographed close-up they would hardly be recognizable and will make good conversational pieces and have plenty of viewer interest.

As far as lighting is concerned you can use flash but it should come from one side or the other to emphasize texture of the surface. You will also require great depth

Acclamations in 5 towns

Two centres to vote for mayor on Feb. 4

There will be mayoralty elections Feb. 4 in two regional towns—Danville and East Angus—but five other towns got mayors by acclamation Friday, nominations day in larger municipalities.

In an eighth town, Scotts town, the mayor will be chosen by the council that is elected Feb. 4. A ninth town, Farnham, held nominations Friday, but only for aldermen, the mayor's term continuing.

Detailed results of Friday's nominations:

BEDFORD

The mayor of Bedford and the three aldermen seeking reelection were all returned to office by acclamation Friday.

Mayor is Noel Belleau. The aldermen are James Davidson, Seat 1; Joffre Nadeau, Seat 3 and Marc Morin, Seat 6.

COOKSHIRE

Denis St. Jacques was elected mayor by acclamation. Returned to office by acclamation is Alderman Jean-Paul Dionne, Seat 6.

Elected to seat No. 5 by acclamation is Clermont Rouleau replacing Gerard Beaudoin.

COWANSVILLE

Mayor Roland Desourdy was returned to office by acclamation. Also returned by acclamation are Aldermen Marcel Larocque, Conrad Bellefeuille and Philippe Montagne.

DANVILLE

Two candidates will contest the mayoralty, Gustave Nadeau, a former mayor and Gerard Lafrance who resigned his council seat to enter the race.

In June 1960 St. Francis Magistrate's Court barred Mr. Nadeau from public office for five years following the charge by the man he had defeated in that year's race that Mr. Nadeau was ineligible because he had been convicted of possessing illegally imported goods.

Danville returning officer Maurice Champagne reported shortly after nominations closed Friday that he had not heard of any challenge to Mr. Nadeau's candidacy having been filed.

Also in Danville, Alderman George Flack was re-elected to Seat 2 by acclamation, and Bertrand Vermette and Charles Lambert will contest the remaining year in Mr. Lafrance's vacated Seat 3. Victor C. Lindsay was acclaimed to Seat 6, from which Wade Gifford retired.

EAST ANGUS

Herve Maltais and Hormidas Lepitre are seeking election as mayor of East Angus.

GERARD LAFRANCE

GUSTAVE NADEAU

An election will be held February 4. Mr. Maltais and Mr. Lepitre are seeking the mayoralty to replace Mayor Roland Brousseau who is not seeking reelection this term.

Three new aldermen were elected to council by acclamation. They are Rene Gagnon replacing Paul Marcoux;

Returned to office by acclamation are Aldermen Ansel Wintle, Seat 3 and J. Wilfred St. Laurent, Seat 6.

Mr. Findley MacDonald was elected by acclamation to fill Seat 4, left vacant following Mayor Poisson's resignation.

Returned to office by acclamation are Aldermen Albert Norris, Seat 1; Jules Tranchemontagne, Seat 6; Maurice Lalumiere, Seat 7 and Windsor Holloway, Seat 5.

The secretary-treasurer is J. A. Renaud.

Arthur Bibeau replacing Adelard Corriveau and Wilfrid Roy replacing W. F. Chiffoleau.

FARNHAM

An election will be held February 1 at Farnham to fill Seat 1 vacated by retiring Alderman Hector Delorme. Seeking election for Seat 1 are Arthur Audet and J. Marcel Fontaine.

Alderman Lionel Ratte, Seat 3 was reelected by acclamation.

The mayor of Farnham is Dr. Jean-Louis Cardin.

LENNOXVILLE

All council members were voted into office by acclamation.

New mayor is former alderman Archie Mitchell, elected by acclamation, replacing Ernest Gilbey who did not seek re-election this term for mayoralty.

Gilles Fortier was elected by acclamation to replace Claude Labrecque. Aldermen Frank Taylor and Constant Chailier were returned to office by acclamation. E. B. Sims was elected by acclamation to replace Albert Rayercraft. Charles Lewis was elected by acclamation to replace Hugh Brown and Norrey Hunting was elected by acclamation to fill the seat left vacant by Archie Mitchell.

Secretary-treasurer is Ken Herring.

SCOTSTOWN

An election will be held at Scotstown February 4 to elect an alderman to fill Seat 7. Seeking election to Seat 7 are Norman Lapointe and Frederic Poisson.

Members of the council will elect a mayor the next day following the general council elections. The mayor's seat was left vacant when council last month accepted the resignation of Mayor Frederic Poisson. Mr. Poisson is now seeking re-election to Seat 7.

Returned to office by acclamation are Aldermen Ansel Wintle, Seat 3 and J. Wilfred St. Laurent, Seat 6.

Mr. Findley MacDonald was elected by acclamation to fill Seat 4, left vacant following Mayor Poisson's resignation.

Returned to office by acclamation are Aldermen Ansel Wintle, Seat 3 and J. Wilfred St. Laurent, Seat 6.

Mr. Findley MacDonald was elected by acclamation to fill Seat 4, left vacant following Mayor Poisson's resignation.

Plan concert to raise funds for LHS band

A fund-raising concert is to be presented by the Evangelical Pentecostal Church Choir from Montreal at the Lennoxville High School, it was announced Thursday at the general meeting of the Lennoxville and Ascot Home and School Association.

The president of the Association, H. Lewis, told members a tentative date was set for March 2.

Proceeds from the concert will be put into the Lennoxville High School Band Fund. Lennoxville High School is taking steps to start a high school band. The band will be under the direction of John Pille, a member of the LHS staff and also a member of the Sherbrooke Harmony Band.

Donate $50

RICHMOND — (Special) — The Richmond-Melbourne Board of Trade has voted a grant of $50 and not $5 as previously reported, to the Peewee hockey club.

Clubs invited to study signs

The Sherbrooke Junior Chamber of Commerce, French section, announced Friday it will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Monday to decide whether or not to build signs at the entrances to the city which would include the names of all local clubs.

The Chamber said it would like to have one big sign which would include the names of all local clubs, such as the Chamber of Commerce, CNIB, and Kiwanis, etc., rather than having a large number of small signs which could hardly be seen.

Members of all clubs are invited to attend the meeting which will be held at the Junior C of C at 87 Peel Street.

High Times

By SANDRA PICKFORD

The last week of January and the full month of February is winter carnival time in many Eastern Townships communities.

Some of these carnivals are sponsored by the municipality, others by individual associations and clubs. But probably the biggest carnivals in the region are sponsored by high schools and universities.

Beginning the carnival spirit is Knowlton High School which will hold a two-day carnival February 1 and 2. Following close behind are Lennoxville High School students who have announced they will hold a winter carnival during the first week of February too. Joining in later in the month will be Bishop's University at Lennoxville and the University of Sherbrooke, both universities which go all out annually to present big winter carnivals.

Correspondent Claudia Jewett this week says that Knowlton High School Sports Association is to sponsor the school's winter carnival.

Activities will include basketball, broomball, hockey and racing. Some of the games will be played against teams from other localities.

A king and queen will be crowned Friday afternoon and will reign over the whole carnival. All events are to be held at Knowlton High School.

Events will close Saturday night with a dance in the high school auditorium with music supplied by the Triumphs. Tickets for the dance are $1. and for the other activities, 50 cents. A ticket covering all events costs $1.25.

ORATORICAL CONTEST WINNERS — The winners of the oratorical contest held Monday at St. Patrick High School are (1) Claude Adams, (2) Rene Boileau, (3) John Carrier (4) Robert Corcoran. The subject for the contest was My school and what I can do for it.

TOP SPEAKER — Joseph Rones of Newburgh Free Academy, Newburgh, N.Y. was named the best speaker at the close of the two-day international debating tournament for high school students.

Sponsored by the McGill University Debating Union, 40 schools from Quebec, including the Eastern Townships — Ontario and New York State each entered a pair of teams, one affirmative one negative. The topic was Resolved that the non-Communist nations of the world should form an economic bloc.

Loyola College School, Montreal, arguing the negative, defeated Albany High School, Albany, N.Y., in the championship final. The high school teams from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., were named best all-round combining total-point scores on both sides of the debate.

SLEIGH RIDE — The Students' Council at North Hatley High School is sponsoring a sleigh ride tonight says correspondent Priscilla McCourt. A dance is to be held following the sleigh ride.

STUDENTS HONORED — Two grade 10 students at the Asbestos-Danville-Shipton High School and a 1962 ADS graduate were honored by Asbestos recently for their sports achievements at a reception at city hall. The Smyth sisters, Brenda and Martha, were presented sports trophies for their accomplishments in track and field and Sheila Dennis for winning the junior girls Eastern Townships golf tournament.

SCHOOL REOPENS — Students attending the Notre Dame High School at Richmond are back at their classroom desks again studying for coming term exams. The school was closed from January 11 to January 21 due to the numerous cases of measles and jaundice.

ARCHBISHOP TO VISIT SCHOOL — The Archbishop of Sherbrooke, Georges Cabana, is to make his annual visit to St. Patrick High School January 31.

Correspondent Richard Wilson says the visit is to mark the celebration of the feast of St. Don Bosco, patron saint of the Salesians. A movie is to be shown to the students next week on the life of St. Don Bosco.

SOCK-HOP — A sock-hop is to be held at the Asbestos-Danville-Shipton High School at Danville January 25, says correspondent Pam Hutcheson. The hop is to be held after the basketball game between ADS and Sherbrooke.

SUPPER PLANNED — Deborah Todd, Cookshire High School correspondent, says grade 10 and 11 students are planning to hold a bean and salad supper March 1. The supper will take place in the high school auditorium and proceeds will aid in the paying of expenses for the students' trip to Ottawa.

AMATEUR SHOW DATE CHANGED — The North Hatley High School amateur show, previously scheduled to be held February 26, will be held February 9 beginning at

Adventures with God

Resurgence of dreams in our day that are prophetic, fulfilling

There are two kinds of dreams — the dreams of the sleep-bound and the dreams of the awakened. Both types are characterized by visions focused by the mind rather than the physical eyes and ears.

Until the time of Christ few women prophesied or were endowed with the spirit to do so. It was, indeed, a man's world until the Redeemer paid the ransom price and removed the curse of subordination from women.

God used dreams to reveal His plans and His will to the patriarchs and prophets. And I believe that in our day there is a resurgence of dreams that are both prophetic and fulfilling.

Tennyson, for example, was an awakened dreamer. He saw in his mind's eye a changed world and he penned the lines:

For I dived into the future, far as human eye could see, Saw the vision of a world, and all the wonders that would be;

Saw the heaven filled with commerce, argosies of magic sails, Pilots of the purple twilight, dropping down with costly bales.

As the plane circled over Los Angeles airport at midnight, I had a bird's eye view of the fulfillment of Tennyson's prophetic words. Great silver ships from all parts of the world were being loaded for far places as the multitude composed of many races streamed aboard.

His were the dreams of one who had awakened long before his contemporaries to see the possibilities.

We sing: There's a land that is fairer than day, And by faith, I can see it afar.

The dream of Utopia is the dream of an awakened mind. The mental vision is made real by reading the divine travel folder, the Bible.

It is the Book that tells us of a place where unimaginable feats are possible and where the limitations which have kept us from soaring to spiritual heights will be removed and sleepbound dreamers will awake to the light of a day that shall never end.

FOLLOWED THE SUN This reminds me of the flight of John Glenn. Was it significant that the capsule that carried him into the great blue yonder should be directed toward the East?

Was it by chance or by design that he followed the course of the sun and journeyed from east to west?

Was there any connection or continuity of purpose in the dream of Tennyson and the flight of John Glenn? We believe that there was.

The Wright brothers and the Russian and other scientist have played into the hands and plans of God to bring the divine dreams for this world to fulfillment.

Joseph had a dream when he was sleepbound. It was a dream that set in motion a chain reaction that is having repercussions in our day. And his brothers and Pharaoh played into the hands of God to bring Joseph's dream to fulfillment. The prophet Joel predicted a resurgence of dreams and visions and prophetic utterances in the last days. He foresaw the emancipation of women.

Women have caught the vision of a warless world and are giving leadership in making their dreams come true.

COMING TRUE Women's dreams are but a reflection of God's plan for this world. And while we have been sleepbound and dreaming of better things to come, God Himself has been moving men and nations as He moved the brothers of Joseph and the heart of Pharaoh to get His will done on earth as it is done in heaven.

Church-centred life Swedish sect builds new village

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Carmel Church of the New Jerusalem, has been completed at the site of the new village a few miles south of here near Strassburg. The pastor's home is nearly finished and 21 half-acre lots have been laid out for housing.

Mr. Childs says the enthusiasm of his congregation over the move is encouraging.

CO-OP BUILDINGS "Men have pitched in to build my house and most of our people will build their own homes with the help of the others."

He expects four or six homes to be built within the next year, and perhaps four more the following year.

"Our young people will want to live here," Mr. Childs says. "It's possible that a few of the other families, long settled in their homes, may not move out."

The sect, which believes in teaching of Swedenborgian religious beliefs combined with secular education from an early age, is credited with being among the first groups to start religious services here—in 1842.

In 1892, a school and church were built in the country, without walking distance of the congregation. Growth of the city dispelled the early atmosphere and made access more difficult.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — The government's survival of the week's vicissitudes in the Commons is not a sign of any newfound strength, but rather that the seemingly inevitable has been postponed a little longer.

How much longer may well depend on how the government proposes to proceed when it asks for the next advance on the money that Parliament normally would have voted long since to pay the country's bills.

So far the Commons has advanced to the government ten-twelfths of the April 10 budget's proposed expenditures. The advances have kept the government in funds on a month to month basis, but funds will again be exhausted at the end of January. So next week Finance Minister Nowlan will ask for a further "interim supply" of funds to cover February's operating expenses.

In granting this request, the Commons will have surrendered eleven-twelfths of the whole year's budget to the government without having had an opportunity to debate the government's spending program, and to decide by vote whether indeed the government should be granted money in the quantities requested for spending in the ways enumerated.

This procedure of government by interim supply effectively deprived the Commons and the Senate throughout all of 1962 of any check on government spending. Yet Parliament's most important right and duty is to grant or deny the "supply" the government asks, after having debated the proposed expenditures.

In speeches to the recent Conservative convention, Prime Minister Diefenbaker described an incident in the House last month, when Liberal backbenchers howled him down, as a serious assault on the right of free speech, one of the pillars of Parliament. And in fact it was a disgraceful exhibition. But it did not, as Diefenbaker alleges, prevent him from speaking; he ducked out of the Commons before the debate was resumed the next day. By thus forgoing his right to speak, he was able to preserve for political use the image of a prime minister denied the right to speak.

But when you compare the Grit backbenchers' discourteous five-minute denial of the PM's right to speak with the PM's month by month denial of Parliament's right to pass on government spending, it may not be hard to answer the question as to who did Parliament the greater disservice in 1962.

Next week's request for further interim supply will be crucial. It is estimated that detailed Commons consideration of government spending will take two months. There are only two months left in the fiscal year.

The government will undoubtedly get the eleventh twelfth that it will request. But unless it proceeds on a crash basis to submit departmental estimates to Commons scrutiny it will run out of funds at the end of February with parliamentary defeat staring it in the face.

It might stare down defeat with Social Credit help, as it has before. But the issue is so basic that the crisis would be sticky. And so, if Mr. Diefenbaker permits the situation to develop into a crisis, one might logically conclude he planned it that way, and has decided on a February dissolution of Parliament for a spring election.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jan. 26, 1963 . . .

An order in council authorized flying of the Canadian Red Ensign from all buildings owned or occupied by the Canadian government outside Canada 39 years ago today—in 1924. In 1945 this was amended to allow its flying within the country until "such time as action is taken by Parliament for the formal adoption of a national flag." Since then the question of a national flag has frequently been raised but remains unresolved.

ETAA deal mutually advantageous

The decision of the shareholders of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association to sell their property to the City of Sherbrooke while retaining use of the plant for staging their annual exhibition and agricultural shows is a step in restoring the Sherbrooke Exhibition to the position it once held in the life of the district.

Despite the best efforts of the directors of the organization there can be no arguing the fact the Sherbrooke Fair has been slipping in community esteem. It has been maintaining a high standard of excellence as an agricultural show but for a variety of reasons, largely associated with the lack of capital to effect needed improvements, it has failed to hold its appeal for the ever-increasing number of city dwellers.

The main building, once lauded as the show window for Eastern Townships industry, has outlived its usefulness and has been forgotten by most industrial concerns in the district. Replacement has been impossible because of the financial position of the organization.

Under the contemplated set-up, government grants unavailable for privately-owned organizations will be forthcoming for a city-owned property, which should ease the problems connected with modernizing the fair ground buildings.

By leaving the actual operation of the fair and its affiliated events with the present Association, the city is relieved of the problem of setting up a new organization to manage these specialized functions. The Association no longer must be responsible for the year-round maintenance of a property for which it has use only a few weeks in the year. The citizens should benefit by making the spacious grounds available for wider uses than at present.

Missile withdrawal no US sell-out

Ever since the Cuba blockade, there have been persistent rumors in just about every corner of the free world that some sort of secret deal may have been agreed upon between the United States and Russia.

In recent weeks, even so august an authority as General de Gaulle has publicly said that there was an American "sell-out" to Russia involving the removal of American bases from Turkey and other areas near the Russian border. It will be remembered that Mr. Khrushchev at first demanded this withdrawal before he would act in Cuba. The demand was dropped, but in such an abrupt manner as to fan the fires of speculation.

Now it has been confirmed that American missiles will be withdrawn from Turkey and Italy. Behind the scenes negotiations, according to reports from Washington, indicate that 30 Jupiter missiles will be removed from Italy and 15 from Turkey.

Is this the rumored sell-out? Indications are that while this action may have been the basis for "sell-out" speculation, it does not represent any kind of real concession to the Russians. The missiles in Turkey and Italy have simply become obsolete. In an age where yesterday's discovery is today's reject, the missiles are antiques.

It is reported that the land-based missiles will be replaced by a multi-national fleet of Polaris submarines under NATO direction. These mount nuclear missiles that can be fired at targets in Russia from below the surface of the sea. The Polaris submarine is a tremendous improvement over stationary, land-based missiles which are vulnerable to attack and sabotage.

It may well be that Mr. Khrushchev was informed at the time of the Cuba crisis that some such development was in the offing. There was a need for Russia to "save face" over the Cuban situation, and as part of the effort to prevent the whole affair from blowing up into world war, Mr. Kennedy may well have felt there was no harm in giving him the opportunity to do so.

Mr. Khrushchev can make good propaganda capital at home out of the missile withdrawal. He can simply neglect to mention the Polaris submarine plans, making it appear to the Russian man on the street that in the end, Russia won the battle of the Cuban blockade.

Part of the cost of baby sitting could be the carrying charge.

Cold of winter presses on the land

Each cycle of the turning year offers pictures of beauty to him who is sensitive. Each month within a cycle has its distinctive features. When the big Feed and Grain Company calendar on the kitchen wall shows the first month of a new year, there are silhouettes at sunset that make memorable pictures in the sky.

The nadir has passed; the solstice is over. But in northern climes the cold of winter presses against the land. If it is a white winter, the fields and uplands, meadows and ridges lie beneath their blankets. The sun lifts slowly in the morning and travels a low arc from southeast to south west. On a cloudless day of pale blue sky, slanting rays strike jewel gleams in the snowdrifts. Shadows are purple tinged that run long from silos and trees, fence posts and farm buildings. As the sun drops behind the horizon rim, evening silhouettes paint pictures for a few poignant moments before darkness drops abruptly. Hills and mountain tops are a blend of soft pinks and purple, blues and lavenders. The sky above the rim is a muted painting of silvers and amber, soft rose-reds and streaks of blue-gray.

Bare trees on the ridge heights resemble steel etchings, and in the meadows and lowlands tall elms and willows stand like graceful bouquets. A set of farm buildings on a brightly-lighted hillside has the stark simplicity of a Grant Wood painting.

This is the heart of winter. Days are short and the sunset light is brief. But as man waits for the additional hours of daylight and dreams his dream of spring promise, he can store pictures in the mind's gallery of the evening silhouette that marks the line between day and night.

Other papers say:

Socred leader has new wheat plan

Mr. Robert Thompson, Social Credit leader, appears to have found a way to dispose of Canadian wheat that is almost as novel as his monetary theories.

Scarcely in the interest of Canadian taxpayers, it seems that Mr. Thompson wants to give the wheat away. He has just returned from the Far East and is concerned that the sale of wheat is aiding Communism in the Cold War.

Said Mr. Thompson: "We have millions of people who are likewise hungry in nations who want to be friendly to us. As long as we have friends who need our wheat,

I don't think we should be selling it to the enemy." Mr. Thompson has overlooked the rather vital point that the Communists are paying for the wheat they purchase. Other Asian countries, including the ones Mr. Thompson considers friendly, haven't indicated they are prepared to do this.

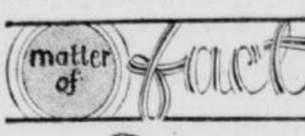

The stability of the Prairies' economy is geared in large part to the sale of its wheat. It most certainly is not geared to the vast give-away programs that Mr. Thompson seems to envision. The government would pay the farmers. But with what? With bigger budget deficits?

Sales of Canadian wheat to Red China are morally and economically justified. Canada must seek out such markets as these diligently.

Mr. Thompson says he also is convinced that Communist China should be admitted to the United Nations. Here he is at his contradictory best.

Quite obviously Red China's actions in recent years have done nothing to warrant its admittance to the UN under the "peace-loving" requirement. Yet, as Mr. Thompson presses for UN recognition of Red China, he prefers not to extend a friendly hand in the form of wheat sales.

Stiff sentence is given

Two men who were arrested by R.C.M.P. officers with counterfeit $10 bills in their possession were sentenced to a total of 30 months in Sherbrooke courts Friday.

Chouinard was arrested by Cpl. Joseph Daoust, former officer in charge of the Megantic RCMP detachment, after Chouinard had cashed in eight of the bills to stores in the area.

The largest sentence was handed to 36-year-old Francois Gerard Chouinard, of Megantic who was given a two year term in penitentiary after he pleaded guilty of being in possession of 61 $10 counterfeit bills, passing counterfeit bills, and other charges.

RCMP special prosecutor Stanley Steinman told the court that the Province of Quebec had twice as many counterfeit charges in court than in any other province.

The sentence handed down in Court of Queen's Bench by Mr. Justice William Mitchell was the biggest sentence given in over a year in the province for such offences.

Leo Paul Tinker, 41, of 351 First Avenue, Sherbrooke, was sentenced to six months in jail for being in possession of two counterfeit bills.

YEARBOOK WORK UNDERWAY — The executive section of the Fibre staff, the Asbestos-Danville-Supton High School year book, has been busy selling advertisements and adding the finishing touches to their sales campaign which begins February 1. Work has also begun on the School Daze, the North Hatley High School yearbook. Gayle Hatrick is the School Daze editor this year.

REHEARSING — Under the direction of Mr. Lyttle and Mrs. Stewart, several students at Asbestos-Danville-Supton are rehearsing for a group of one-act plays to be presented in the near future.

RETURN FROM CONFERENCE — Students' Council representatives from ET schools returned home last weekend from the 19th annual Students' Council Conference held at Macdonald College, Montreal. Representing Sutton High School was the president of the Students' Council, Patty Button and vice-president, Hana Glaser. Staff advisor K. Tannahill accompanied them. Knowlton High School sent Terry Osborne and Gay Garrnary to the conference and Pam Lane and Terry Williams represented Cookshire High School.

INTRAMURAL GAMES STARTED — Two newsletters this week tell of the formation of inter-house sports leagues. Inter-house volleyball has been organized for the high school grades at Sutton, says Carolyn Thompson. Games are played at noon. An intramural basketball league has been started at Asbestos-Danville-Supton High School for both boys and girls of grades seven to 11. The teams also compete during the noon hour and are coached by the senior students.

Indication of the pressures mounting underground. For strikes are illegal in Franco's Spain, agitation is punished severely — yet these strikes spread, and continued, and ultimately Franco himself visited the mines and promised not punishment, but reform.

The Caudillo, after a quarter of a century, is quite a politician. That could be said of the pretender, too — but not of young Juan Carlos.

The young prince came into the public eye in Spain only last May, when his marriage to Princess Sophia of Greece was given a benevolent nod by Franco and the royal fairy-tale treatment by Spain's newspapers.

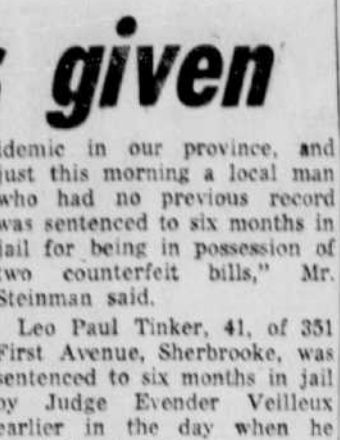

Within four months floods devastated Barcelona province. The prince and princess were still holidaying, and it took a blunt message from Don Juan to make the couple pay a sympathy visit to the people they hope some day to rule.

Silence Franco was quicker off the mark. He visited the ravaged flood zones immediately. While there he encountered Juan Carlos and Sophia — and where they were received in stony silence, Franco got rousing applause.

IF JUAN CARLOS didn't get the message, his father is capable of spelling it out for him: if you aspire to a throne, spare a smile for your subjects; for thrones these days tend to be more frequently vacated than restored.

It was after that episode that services were held in Madrid in memory of Spain's former kings. Franco and Juan Carlos shook hands cordially there, and the Caudillo is still the best hope the young prince has of being crowned King of Spain.

FRANCO COULD YET decide in favor of the pretender, Don Juan. For Spain's troubles can only increase, and nobody knows better than Francisco Franco what qualities are needed in a man who would keep the pot of rebellion from boiling over.

Israel occupies Egyptian territory and Egypt is therefore at war with her and is using the blockade as a war measure. But the war has been over six years.

His actual logic has little to do with legal rhetoric about war. It is the naked logic of possession.

For if the Suez Canal is a legitimate instrument of war policy against Israel, it's somewhat shocking that the U.S. World Bank lent him $56,000,000 to widen the canal when he is misusing it as an instrument of economic war against another U-N member.

Israel has reached the stage where she may not passively accept the blockade much longer. She has booming industry for exports, the skills to manufacture products and the enterprise to sell them.

Her exhibits at international trade fairs from Toronto to Nairobi and from Florence to Rangoon have had success and produced orders. She has a mounting volume of available export and markets for them.

She has not yet abandoned the idea of building her own canal (with outside help, of course) linking the Gulf of Akaba with the Mediterranean through her own territory. If and when that day comes, Nasser may find himself bypassed.

The Hon. Bona Arsenaull, minister of fish and game for the Province, was guest speaker.

In last year's contest there was an amount of $2,200, which was distributed among 11 clubs, the monies to be used to improve fishing conditions in the districts.

A "perch" fishing contest will be held by the Laroche Fish and Game Club members at the Three Lakes, January 27, starting at 1:00 p.m. and running till 4 o'clock.

Scouting and Cubbing

BY DIANE DURRANT

Several of the Scout Troops in the Sherbrooke District have been going on winter hikes. Tenth Sherbrooke, under the leadership of S.M.O. Phelan and A.S.M. B. Huot, hiked up the mountain behind the university. Cooking and fire-lighting tests were given as the boys prepared their noon meal. Cubs Gordon Haire and Jacques Huot also took part in the hike as they are working to pass their Tenderfoot tests prior to going up into the Troop.

The Nighthawk Patrol of Seventh Sherbrooke was rewarded for earning the most number of points last year, by an overnight hike to a hunting camp in Gouli. Accompanied by Scoutmaster G. Wintle and Group committee member P. Verlinden, P. L. Richard Cilles, Second M. Taylor, Steve Brooks, R. Walker and J. Bushnell donned skis and snowshoes and carried 22 rifles. All of the boys have earned their Marksmanship badge and proved true aim by bringing home a couple of rabbits.

Second Lennoxville Troop under S.M. Bill Van Horn, also enjoyed a day's outing last weekend as they hiked over the golf course on skis and snowshoes.

Fifth Sherbrooke under S.M. John Imbeault, also enjoyed a hike along the East Angus Road and the Scouts are looking forward to future patrol hikes.

Scoutmaster O. Phelan recently shook hands with Scout Richard Bell as Richard repeated his promise and was invested into the Tenth Sherbrooke Troop.

Also at Tenth Sherbrooke, a very sound training program is being carried out, as group committee member Gilles Beauregard has made arrangements for qualified instructors to visit the Troop meetings and give periodic courses in First Aid, Signaling, rope lashing, and others.

Peter Maher of 7th Sherbrooke was presented with the Cub Instructor's badge, having helped in a Cub Pack for a period of three months.

At Fifth Sherbrooke Pack last week, Jim Strew was presented with his Second Star by Akela Ken Bartlett. Kenneth Dick received his Collector's Badge and Steve Prupas was awarded his House Orderly badge.

Miss Marilyn Moore of the Trinity Guide Company is assisting at Fifth Sherbrooke so as to qualify her for an Instructor's badge.

Asbestos news

Death is ruled accident

ASBESTOS — (Special) — A coroner's inquest rendered a verdict of "accidental death" in the case of Robert St. Louis, who was killed in an accident on the highway near Windsor, November 25.

Mr. St. Louis' car was involved in a collision with that of Donald Laroche of Valcourt. Dr. Louis Gagnon of Sherbrooke, presided at the inquest. According to testimony given by Mr. St. Louis in the hospital, before his death and that of Rosaire Collard, brother-in-law of the deceased, the Laroche vehicle crossed the centre line of the highway and hit the St. Louis vehicle.

The Laroche Fish and Game Club were the recipients of a $100 cash award and a plaque for the clubs standing first place in district 3, in the provincial contests held last year. Paul Matton, president, received the awards, Jan. 12, at a banquet held in Montreal.

The Hon. Bona Arsenaull, minister of fish and game for the Province, was guest speaker.

In last year's contest there was an amount of $2,200, which was distributed among 11 clubs, the monies to be used to improve fishing conditions in the districts.

translation network, "the translator prefers to remain a freelancer. On today's international stage he is a virtuoso."

And he lives the part. One Italian translator says he works best if he works through the night. Another says he works best near the bathroom if he can't get a word or phrase, he takes a bath and waits for it to come to him.

Some translators require the noise of a radio or traffic. Some demand absolute silence. One man who works in German needs a quiet room and a fast secretary as he dictates his translations at the breakneck speed of 40 pages per day. If he had to slow down, he says, the quality of his work would suffer.

Virtuosi of this skill, however, comprise about 5 per cent of the translators in the market today. The demand is so great that people like Gilead are looking for translators in, of all places, the tongue-tied U.S.

What makes the job so difficult when translators, waiters and taxi drivers the world over have little trouble in translation? A spokesman for the European free-lance agency, Transport, Inc., puts it this way: "A translator must know his own language the way a violinist knows the violin. He must be a good writer. He must understand the foreign language from which he works down to the last idiom."

"But he must not be so good in the foreign language that he forgets his own. This is a very real danger. It jeopardizes even Americans who work for long periods of time in other lands."

"We cannot keep a translator who never goes home to his mother country for visits. Without this revitalization, he forgets."

Just as important a factor in keeping the cadre of expert translators tiny, however, is the American tongue in its more delicious moments.

One mammoth U.S. firm with branches almost everywhere recently brought out a new wall covering, described in its international correspondence as "exciting and dramatic."

"For the average, adequate translator, this phrase is intolerable," says a translator fluent in French, Italian and German.

"For an Italian, a woman is exciting. For a Frenchman, a play is dramatic. And the German can't understand it at all."

Card of Thanks

ENRIGHT — We would like to thank all those who so kindly gave of their time and skill to help us build our barn which had been destroyed by fire. We will be forever grateful.

OSWALD ENRIGHT JOSEPH ENRIGHT

GEORGE — We wish to express our sincere thanks to our many kind friends, relatives and neighbours who assisted us in any way during the illness, death and burial of our dear husband and father, K. G. GEORGE, who especially thank Rev. Nurse, organist and choir, Wilson's Funeral Home, the nurses and doctors of the Montreal General Hospital and the Masonic Lodge, all those who sent food, flowers, cards and gifts.

DOROTHY GEORGE (wife) BETTY (Mrs. Ray Mullins) (daughter)

GEORGE — In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Casmer F. Drew, who passed away on January 27, 1962. The golden gate stood open, one year ago today, with farewells left unspoken, you sadly slipped away.

God knew that you were weary, the hill too steep to climb. He gently took you by the hand and whispered, "Peace be thine."

MRS. MATTIE DREW (wife) MRS. ISABEL RAMAGE (daughter) MASTER SHANE RAMAGE (grandson) Stanstead.

EVANS — In loving memory of a dear brother and uncle, Elmer Evans of Sawyerville, who passed away January 27th, 1962. Dearest still as time departs. His memory lives within our hearts. No length of time can take away. Our thoughts of him from day to day. Sadly missed by, SISTERS, BROTHERS, NIECES AND NEPHEWS.

MARTIN, Leta and Levi — In loving memory of mother, who passed away Feb. 1, 1961, and dad, January 27th, 1962. "Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it." (Song Sol 8:7) THE FAMILY.

MONAHAN — In fond and loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Frank Monahan, who passed away January 23rd, 1958. It's loneliness here without you, We miss you more each day. Somewhere life is not the same. Since you were called away, Our hearts still ache with sadness, Our eyes shed how much we miss you, As it comes to the end of another year. Always remembered by, ETHEL (wife), GRANT AND BEATRICE (son), EUNICE AND TOM (daughter), VIOLA AND SYDNEY (daughter) MONA AND STANLEY (daughter) ROY AND IRVING (son) AND GRANDCHILDREN Danville, Que.

Home and School to hold dance

Now is the time to make a new home at the old address

These days millions of families are discovering how to live better. The secret? Remodeling to have "a new home at the old address." Improving the home has a number of advantages now being discovered in one out of every five households countrywide.

Modernizing gives new comfort, new convenience, new pleasure and, most important of all, increases property value of many out-of-date houses.

Sound, sensible home improvement increases value well beyond the costs of the improvement. For that reason remodeling becomes an investment rather than an expense and is like "putting money in the bank."

Modern cabinets, lighting, new walls, flooring and ceilings are wanted to provide cheery surroundings in the "household centre." New rooms are needed too, (from additional baths to converting the attic or basement, to adding on to the present structure.)

In addition to these, there are many more popular modernizing projects. Such things as swimming pools, breezeways, new heating and cooling equipment, additional storage space, wall panelling, wall papering and others to fit everyone's budget. All are guaranteed to make the home a better place in which to live.

The great need is to take care of growing families, give proper room for children's activities, for dad and mom to relax at day's end, for the whole family to live together in greater comfort.

Modern, up-to-date families think of outside remodeling as well as making the home inside more comfortable. Outside fix-up can range from a new paint job to re-siding to turning an old-fashioned porch into a sun room.

LOWER IRELAND —

Recent visitors at the home of Mrs. Fred Cox were, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McLeod and son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Ward, of Cardross, Sask., Mrs. McLeod, the former Sadie Thrower, and her sister Lizzie, left here with their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Atcheson Fitz Patrick, in 1905. Mrs. McLeod, in spite of the many changes, remembers the countryside perfectly. She could recall all the residents at that time and the farms on which they lived, both on the eKough Range, of Ireland and the first range of Leeds. Mrs. McLeod, at the age of 73 made her only return visit but hopes to again return preferably in the summer time. They left to visit Mrs. McLeod's aged aunt, Mrs. Carrie McNally, in Lyndonville, Vt.

How to have a "new house" at your present address

Gear your old home to meet new needs!

Has your family outgrown the living space in your home?

Custom kitchen at budget price

Modernizing the kitchen and achieving that much desired built-in custom look on a slim budget may seem far-fetched, but it can be done.

Experts say that design advancements in major appliances, the new free-standing units which slide into place like conventional products yet look like built-ins, are bringing new economies to kitchen modernization.

This new type appliance eliminates all need of expensive alterations, replastering and the like. And by the same token, once the appliance is installed, the entire kitchen takes on a sleek custom appearance.

For example, there are ranges with ovens located at convenient above-counter use level. This type, one of the new free-standing products that gives a built-in appearance when installed, can be pushed into position and plugged into the existing outlet, once the old model is removed. It's easy to figure into the initial planning, because it is available in either 30 or 40-inch sizes. And it's comparably priced with conventional free-standing models.

The same kind of neat installation can be achieved easily with free-standing refrigerators, especially those with slim styling lines. Modernizers will find a variety of sizes and capacities on today's market. Some companies offer built-in trim kits as optional equipment.

The advantages of these models are many. They are literally packed with new convenience ideas, ranging from frost-proof freezing systems to scientifically designed storage capacity without sacrificing floor space.

New lightweight mobile dishwashers, when not in use, can be housed in a niche under the counter, just the width of a standard 24-inch base cabinet, providing a built-in look. Do-it-yourself modernizers can utilize dozens of tricks when it comes to up-dating the kitchen. For example, if old cabinetry is to be retained, a coat of paint and new hardware will work wonders from an appearance standpoint.

Planning experts have several tips for holding down modernization costs. They suggest careful advance planning and selection of appliances, cabinetry and equipment, corner-cutting whenever possible and a generous application of old-fashioned elbow grease. The husband-and-wife team willing to wield a paint brush, lay floor covering, paper walls and the like can save as much as 35 per cent on over-all costs.

Before starting improvements, take time to work out the over-all plan step by step. This permits the modernization job to be stretched out over a period of days, weeks or even months, depending on the time and money that can be spared for the project. Finish each phase completely and enjoy the improvements as fast as they are made.

And here's an equally important tip. Become well acquainted with the equipment and materials on today's market. Collect product literature and digest it. Proper selection of products in savings and convenience.

This is the new economical approach, a fresh concept for 1963 sure to find favor with discriminating but budget-conscious homemakers.

Teachers' Assoc. hears address on U.N. seminar

AYER'S CLIFF — In August 1962, The Stanstead County Teachers' Association sent Robert Thompson of Ayer's Cliff to the United Nations seminar at Macdonald College and at the Association meeting held here Jan. 16 he told the teachers about his week of study.

The seminar was the first bilingual one to be held for some 140 student delegates from across the Dominion. Daily three lectures were devoted to the theme, The United Nations, Today and Tomorrow, which was later debated by discussion groups.

The week came to a climax with a model U.N. assembly in which Mexico was represented by Robert. The delegates spoke on the needs of their countries and at on point, hotly discussed and voted on the question of disarmament.

On the lighter side, entertainment was provided on the form of dances, talent shows and parties. Robert said he wished to give encouragement to the Association to send another student this summer.

Also at the meeting, the Association decided to hold the annual public speaking contest, which it sponsors at North Hatley, on March 21. A second workshop for teachers will be given at Sunnyside High school at the end of February.

The work and history of the PAPT were continued in an informal talk by Tom Jackson, assistant general secretary of the Provincial Association. He pointed out that the PAPT was largely responsible for the set-up of the present educational system in Quebec. He also mentioned the plans for the centenary of the PAPT in 1964 and elaborated on the role of association members.

Conciliation court recommend signing husband-wife agreement

Couples who end up in Los Angeles conciliation court, where many rocky marriages are rescued, are required to sign a husband-wife agreement. According to an article in a recent issue of a national magazine, this is a contract tailored for a couple's special needs. "The agreement puts on paper the things that have been eroding the marriage—and, more, provides a script for a happier relationship." It might be a bright idea for all couples on their first wedding anniversary to draw up their own husband-wife agreement. This would get out in the open and down on paper just what each expects of the other, and just what kind of a marriage they hope to achieve. Such a contract couldn't very well be drawn up at the time of marriage, because a couple wouldn't know enough about each other and about the marriage relationship to know what kind of a contract to draw up. But by the end of a year if there are to be in-law problems, money problems, lack of communication in areas of disagreement and so on, most of them will already have become evident. So that is the ideal time for a young couple to sit down and talk about their marriage. It is the time to work out aims, plans and promises designed to help the marriage grow, instead of permitting it to bog down in mutual dissatisfaction as so many marriages do. It's a wonderful thing for a court of law to have a special court whose sole purpose is to keep those heading for divorce to work out their differences and keep their marriages intact. But if young couples would make an effort to do this on their own BEFORE they get unhappy enough to be headed toward divorce, that would be even better.

ST. PETER'S W.A.
 The annual meeting of St. Peter's W.A. took place on January 14, in the Memorial Hall. Mrs. K. Bartlett presided. Rev. J. D. R. Franklin conducting the devotions with Mrs. N. Robins at the piano for the opening hymn. Mrs. Bartlett extended New Year's greetings and welcomed the new member, Mrs. B. Lyon. The minutes of the 1962 annual meeting were read. Reports were read by the various secretaries indicating a most successful and busy year. The president expressed appreciation for the co-operation and efforts of the officers and members over the past year and a short business meeting followed. Rev. Franklin presided over the election of officers and the slate was presented by Mrs. N. Robins, chairman of the nominating committee. The executive is as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. William Harvey; honorary vice-president, Mrs. C. Winstanley; president, Mrs. K. Bartlett; vice-president, Mrs. R. Mawhood; recording secretary, Mrs. B. Lyon; corresponding secretary, Miss D. Giroux; treasurer, Mrs. C. Taylor; Cent-A-Day, Mrs. O. Broadbelt; Dorcas, Mrs. T. Bailey; Calendars, Miss A. Baldwin; Little Helpers, Mrs. L. Thompson; Social Service, Mrs. P. Robins; Prayer Partner, Mrs. D. Racey; Living Message, Miss M. Tomlinson; Educational secretary, Mrs. J. D. R. Franklin; Thank-Offering secretary, Miss N. Munkittrick; J. A. secretary, Mrs. F. Edwards; social convener, Mrs. A. Bradley and devotional secretary, Mrs. G. McCourt.

The annual meeting then adjourned and refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. N. Munkittrick, Mrs. R. Neville and Mrs. D. Racey.

BROWNIES AND GUIDES PARENTS' COMMITTEE, 2ND, SHERBROOKE
 The January meeting of the 2nd Sherbrooke Brownies and Guides Parents' committee was held at the home of Mrs. H. Nugent, St. Esprit Street. Mrs. N. Humphries acted as co-hostess.

The president, Mrs. H. Graham opened the meeting with the Lord's Prayer and then welcomed the nine members present. The various reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. D. Breeze and the treasurer, Mrs. Nugent. Plans for the annual Mother and Daughter banquet were discussed. This is to be held on February 11 at Sangster Memorial Church and will be catered by the ladies' of the U.C.W. A flying-up ceremony and enrolment will take place after the dinner. Tentative plans were made for a card party and tea and Mrs. H. Derick gave her report on the card fund.

Mrs. Nugent kindly donated a gift which was sold, the proceeds from which were used to replenish the card box. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening by the hostesses.

FRANCIS VALLEY L.O.B.A.
 In the annual report of the Francis Valley Ladies' Benevolent Association, the name of Mrs. Beryl White, as director of ceremonies was omitted.

Today's recipe

ORANGE JUICE DRESSING
 1/4 cup vinegar, 1/4 teaspoon orange juice, 1 envelope onion dressing mix for salads, 1/2 cup salad oil.
 Mix vinegar and orange juice in a jar with tight-fitting cover; add salad dressing mix. Cover and shake well. Add salad oil; cover, and shake again. Makes 1 cup salad dressing.

Polly's pointers

DEAR POLLY—Love that column! Here is one grandmother who admits she still has a lot to learn and I do not know of a pleasanter way than by way of Polly's Pointers. Hope others will be helped by a few things I do. Save individual cereal boxes and use them to pack raisins, popcorn, cookies or potato chips that go in school lunch boxes. Fasten with a rubber band and they will not spill or crush. Also, cement a small household magnet to the top of dust mop handle and you can pick up those pins, tacks or other metal objects, in the most inaccessible corners, without having to stoop down.

GRANDMA RICKKEY
 Thank you for those kind words, Grandma.

POLLY
 DEAR POLLY—For spanking white gloves, try starch. Starched gloves stay clean longer and the starch protects them from ground-in soil. For perfectly laundered gloves, wash them on your hands in warm or hot sudsy water. Go over very soiled areas with a brush dipped in detergent. Rinse, then roll in a clean towel to remove excess moisture. Dip in a starch solution made from mixing two tablespoons instant starch in one quart cold water. Dip gloves in and out of starch several times. Dry. If the gloves need a light pressing, press with a steam iron.

MRS. G. MacK.
 DEAR POLLY—One big worry mothers have in keeping house is the black mark. Most children's shoes make a black mark here and there on the floor. By using an ordinary pencil eraser these can be taken off without hurting the wax job or scrubbing so hard. My neighbor tried it and said she wondered why I kept it to myself so long.

MRS. T. C. W.
GIRLS—My assistant has small boys and she wrote across the bottom of Mrs. T. C. W.'s letter: "I tried this and it works." Good enough for me.

POLLY
 DEAR POLLY — When or before you start to knit with two balls of wool, run the ends through paper straws to prevent tangles.

GIRLS — If an idea appears in the column that is the same as the one you sent in, please do not be annoyed, for the other reader's letter had an earlier postmark than yours. We often receive many duplicates of the same hint. Do keep sending these wonderful suggestions. We all appreciate them and I only wish each and every one could hit the Polly Dollar mark.

Cub and Scout Mothers' Auxiliary New officers elected

The annual meeting of the 3rd Sherbrooke Cub and Scout Mothers' Auxiliary was held on Tuesday, January 15, in Plymouth church hall.

Mrs. Westerman, the president, was in the chair and 13 members were present. The meeting was opened by repeating the Scout Mother's Promise.

The secretary read the annual report. The president reported that the luncheon, served to the Cub leaders, who were attending the Workshop, which was held in Plymouth Church, for the Cub leaders, of the District on January 12, was a success and she thanked all who helped in any way.

The treasurer read her report and in the absence of the convener of the nominating committee, Mrs. Betty Smith, Mrs. Vera Gillam, read the nominating committee report.

The new executive for 1963 is as follows: Past president, Mrs. E. Westerman; president, Mrs. D. Whately; 1st vice-president, Mrs. L. Gillam; secretary, Mrs. D. Martin; treasurer, Mrs. G. Morrison; hostess convener, Mrs. W. Savage; telephone convener, Mrs. G. Smith; telephone committee, Mrs. A. Atlas and Mrs. G. Stevens; pick-up for rummage sales, Mrs. G. Ross; uniform convener, Mrs. L. Gillam.

The outgoing president thanked the members for their support and help during the year with a special thanks to Grace Swan who had contributed so much of her time, as well as her car, for the benefit of the Auxiliary.

The new president, Mrs. D. Whately took the chair and thanked Mrs. Westerman, for the wonderful job that she had done in building up and carrying on the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Westerman gave a report on the Group Committee meeting which she and Mrs. Swan had attended. Various business was carried on and plans were made for the Father and Son Banquet, to be held February 22.

After the meeting adjourned, the Auxiliary then had the pleasure of listening to a talk given by the Scout leader, Mr. Gordon Morrison.

Mrs. Swan introduced Mr. Morrison, commending him on the wonderful job that he had done in building up the Scout Group.

Mr. Morrison spoke on "Scouting and Its Aims" and "What Are the Duties of the Auxiliary and in What Ways Can the Auxiliary Best Help?"

Mrs. Westerman thanked Mr. Morrison for his very interesting and enlightening talk.

HEROLD-LANCHBERY: La Fille Mal Gardée; The orchestra of the Royal Opera House, John Lanchbery cond. (LONDON stereo CS 6252) — This is the music from a charming ballet that has its origins in France in 1789. Basically a pot-pourri of folk songs, popular tunes and snatches of music from such well-known masters as Rossini and the opera L'Elisir d'Amore, it has been refurbished by the arranging of John Lanchbery. The result is delightful, pleasant, lively music that begs to be danced to. Neither very original nor very great, it is a good example of a modern rarity — popular ballet music. A highly entertaining recording.

EILEEN FARRELL SINGS WAGNER: Brunnhilde's Immolation scene from Gotterdammerung; Wesendonck songs; Leonard Bernstein conducting the New York Philharmonic (COLUMBIA stereo MS 6353) — The amazing Miss Farrell, equally at ease with Bill Bailey or Verdi proves again that she is also master of Wagner. In the immolation scene, she displays ample power and dramatic force. But the Wesendonck songs on the reverse side are what makes this recording so worthwhile. Tender and tuneful, but still full of Wagnerian splendor, they show Miss Farrell at her expressive best.

SCHOENBERG: Piano Concerto, Op. 42; Mozart: Piano Concerto No. 24 in C minor; Glenn Gould, pianist; Robert Craft conducts the CBC Symphony Columbia (Stereo MS 6339) — Quite a package. First, we have the contrast, representing either end of the spectrum for music: written for piano and orchestra. The Mozart work is not the composer's best, although it embodies some of his finest music. There is a certain disbalance in the structure. Schoenberg, oddly enough and despite the sharp, startling contrasts, is closer to the classical tradition than modern atonality. Then there is Glenn Gould whose treatment of Mozart is somewhat heavy. He seems more at ease in Schoenberg. But the finest performance is given by the CBC Symphony; crisp, full-bodied and disciplined. Perhaps, this record is not a prize-winner but it deserves a place on a collector's shelf.

There's a wee fault they whyles lay to me, I like the lassies—Gude forgie me! For monie a PLACK they wheedle frae me, At dance or fair; Maybe some ither thing they gie me, They weel can spare. So wrote Robert Burns, whose birthday on January 25 was celebrated by good Scots the world over. The term "plack," when Burns wrote these lines in 1785, was a colloquialism for coin, as were the terms "bawbee" and "bodle." The bawbee and the plack were names of coins minted in Scotland before unification with England during the reign of Queen Anne. The bodle was a minor coin minted by Charles II for distribution in Scotland.

The Scottish national coinage, which was minted independently of English coinage, began in 1124 during the reign of David I, King of Scotland. It continued until closing of the Edinburgh mint in 1709, two years after the Act of Union.

Between 1707 and 1709, however, the coins minted at Edinburgh were similar to those minted in England and are listed in British catalogues with the English coins of the period. They can be distinguished by the letter E below the bust of Queen Anne.

The bawbee was a copper coin worth six Scottish pennies or one English halfpenny and the term is still used to designate a British halfpenny, or any coin of trifling value.

It is thought the name of the coin was derived from the name of the Mint Master of the time (1542), the Laird of Sillebawby. In the same way the name of the bodle, which was a small copper coin worth twopence Scottish or one-sixth of an English penny, is believed to be corruption of the name of the Mint Master Bothwell.

The plack was a billon coin (an alloy of silver and a large proportion of some base metal, usually copper) current in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries and of very little value. There is one specimen in the British Museum issued by Mary, Queen of Scots.

Another billon coin with an unusual name was the hardhead. This was first issued by Mary Queen of Scots, and had a value of one and a half pence. This name was a corruption of the name "hardit," an old French coin. It was also called a lion because of the lion on the reverse of the coin.

Previous to the issuing of the hardhead there had been a gold lion, first struck by Robert III at the end of the fourteenth century. The gold coin was issued continuously until 1589, but after the issuing of the hardhead it was known as the Lion Noble.

Then there is the Unicorn, so-called from the unicorn on the reverse, a gold coin issued by James III, IV and V. The one specimen in the British Museum was issued by James III.

James V also issued a gold coin which has become famous as the Bonnet-piece, from the king's headgear on the obverse.

James VI issued a silver coin called a merk, the Scottish form of mark, which was also known as a thistle, from the thistle on the reverse. This had the value in Scotland of two-thirds of a Scottish pound, or thirteen shillings and fourpence.

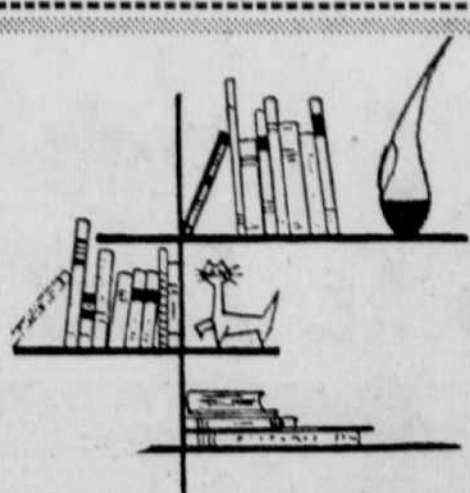

When James VI of Scotland became James I of England there was a proclamation: "The coin of silver called the merk piece shall be from henceforth current within the said kingdom of England at the value of thirteen pence halfpenny."

THE PARTY LINE

The Party Line is a monthly publication of this stamp company and contains news and views from the stamp world, helpful hints and bargain offers from time to time. All customers receive this as part of our service to collectors in the Townships, and in this month's issue a mint copy of the famous U. S. Invert on the Dag Hammarskjöld stamp was given free, last month a perforation gauge was sent out to all customers. It would be a pleasure to include your name on the list for next month, there is no obligation to buy, but if you don't find anything to your liking we will drop your name after three issues. We must add that we don't give away stamps and gauges every month.

Jottings

By GLADYS TAYLOR

In a column last year, I suggested that it might be interesting if readers kept a list of the books they had read during the year. A faithful correspondent from Waterloo, Quebec, took the trouble to compile a list and sent it to me. I found it most interesting, and perhaps you will too.

Though she admits that she peeked into, and read snatches, of many books not listed here, these are the ones she actually completed: THE FOUR GEORGES (Roundabout Papers, Thackeray); THE WINTHROP WOMAN (Anya Seton); DUNBAR'S COVE (Borden Deal); RETURN TO PEYTON PLACE (Grace Metalious); EAST OF EDEN (John Steinbeck); the Richard book by Andy O'Brien; SEVEN RIVERS OF CANADA (Hugh MacLennan); TOMORROW WE REAP (James Street); SEVEN BEAVER SKINS (Erick Berry); PHILOSOPHY IN A NEW KEY (Suzanne Langer); THE STORY OF LANGUAGE (Mario Pei); MY SEVERAL WORLDS and COMMAND THE MORNING (Pearl Buck); TEN MODERN LEADERS OF PROTESTANT THOUGHT; FROM THE RACE (John O'Hara) and A SHORT HISTORY OF GERMAN (Shuster & Bergerstraesse).

How does your list — if you kept a list — compare with that of our Waterloo reader?

The winner of the first Kenneth Roberts Memorial Award is, it has just been announced, Page Smith for his biography of John Adams. The Kenneth Roberts Memorial Award, which was only recently established, carries a prize of $5,000.00. Entries for this contest (the closing date for the next award is March 1, 1964) must be in the field of American history but may be either fiction or non-fiction. Judges for the contest will be the editors of Doubleday, the publishing house which is sponsoring this contest to honor one of America's foremost historical novelists.

Dorothy Dumbrille's popular novel ALL THIS DIFFERENCE (on the theme of English-French relations) is now being published in paperback form by HARLEQUIN PRESS. Another of her books, DEEP DOORWAYS, is also being published in paperback form, this time by the Thomas Allan Company, while a documentary on Glengarry County using her book UP AND OWN THE GLEN as a guide, has been filmed by Cornwall Film.

Versatile Arthur S. Bourne, who among other things, is both poet and painter, is having an exhibition of his oil paintings in the Little Gallery in Ottawa. Taking place from February 18 to 23, the paintings are selections from his out put of the last ten years.

Barbara Grantmyre of Nova Scotia who has sold several stories to the John Draine Program, will also have one of her stories included in the RYERSON collection of John Draine short stories, soon to be published.

THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO PRESS was recently awarded two grants by the Canada Council, one of $4,000 to help meet editorial costs for the Canadian Annual Review, and a second grant of $1,000 to provide for the translation of Le Diplomate Canadien.

Anthony Eden—his struggle was for us all

FACING THE DICTATORS by Rt. Hon. the Earl of Avon, British Book Service (Canada), 659 pp., $9.50.

There is no doubt of the historical value of this work. Until other ministers of the Crown with the extraordinary access to secret and confidential papers — not to mention the immense experience — enjoyed by Anthony Eden, the Earl of Avon, began to publish their memoirs, this will remain an outstanding source of information about the period.

This was the decade before the outbreak of World War II, even in retrospect surely one of the most agonizing episodes in the history of the west. On one side were the League of Nations, the isolationist United States, the weary victors of 1919, and their pitiful efforts to prevent the outbreak of another war.

On the other were the strange phenomenon of fascist Italy and Mussolini, the ominous confrontation of the Soviets and the reactionary forces of Spain, an expansionist Japan, and above all the monstrous apparition of Nazi Germany.

One of the figures that flit about this gotterdammerung world is Anthony Eden, who from 1931 to 1938 was a minister at the United Kingdom Foreign Office. This is the story of his journeyings about Europe, his gradual realization of the hell broth that was being brewed by the dictators, and his desperate and in the end futile efforts to convince his leaders in Britain of the menace facing them.

The book is verbose, unnecessarily detailed, and even repetitive. One never loses

Morality hammered home

GOOD AND EVIL by Wallace Reyburn, Cassell, London, 207 pp., $4.35.

Good and Evil is one of those books that leaves the reader with a slight sense of distaste combined with the feeling that somewhere along the line the author gullitoned a profound truth with a number of very dull axes.

The theme of the novel is that virtue encompasses more than merely physical chastity. Anyone who has lived observantly is aware that the so-called "good" person who centres his morals on the single virtue of not committing adultery is not really moral at all since he allows "Thou shalt not commit adultery" to dominate his life and forgets "Love the Lord . . . and thy neighbour."

Dorothy Deane, heroine of Good and Evil, has a casual attitude towards sex but she is kind, loving, compassionate, generous; her sister Edie believes that continence is the one criterion of morality and like the wary servant, buries her one talent. Edie becomes angry and unpleasant. Here is a clear-cut issue which Mr. Reyburn gullitones by introducing a whole cast of socially prominent but degenerate characters who chop away at the central theme until it almost disappears.

No doubt the author is trying to make an honest appraisal, to make a triple contrast, with Dorothy in the centre, the dissolute Hopewells at one end, and the puritanical, self-righteous Edie at the other, but even a fairly shock-proof reader may question the author's integrity in including some of the "purple" passages.

And one has every sympathy with the polite, handsome and impeccably dressed young Eden, for his struggle was a struggle for all of us, and the tragedy he describes was our tragedy.

But while he may not have the pen of a Churchill or even of a Bryant to catch the march and magnitude of the events which carried him along, he does give us some fascinating pages. They are filled with sketches of Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin, Laval and the rest, and they tell the diplomatic tale with the skill, restraint and insight of a brilliant professional in that field.

Canada figures but twice, as far as I could see. Eden holds the view that the censure of Dr. Riddell—who moved for oil sanctions against Italy in 1935 — by his Prime Minister "was unjust"; and when in 1937 the British were seeking to rearm and Eden suggested that guns be manufactured to the British pattern in the United States, it was some alternative suggestions from Canada, "admirable in their intentions", that led the Committee to decline his proposal. He does not expand this.

But his concern is with his role of David against the Goliath Dictators; unfortunately Eden had no smooth round stone for his sling: only his conviction, his "forebodings" and his integrity. And these, alas! were not enough.

Could it happen in U. S. A.?

SEVEN DAYS IN MAY by Fletcher Knebel and Charles W. Bailey II, Munsion, 341 pp., $5.45.

Set in Washington, D.C., in 1974, this novel of a planned military coup in the U.S. builds to a climax, aided by chapter headings which begin with a leisurely pacing of the seven days of action, then quicken to an hour-by-hour tension.

A nuclear disarmament treaty with Russia which military men feel will not be honored by the Communists, low military morale, strikes, and the introspective President Lyman's popularity poll at a new low, set the stage for the story.

The incidents which arouse Col. Casey's suspicions cause him to go, with trepidation, to the president and express his fears. The President gathers five trusted men in the White House solarium . . . "added by Harry Truman, Eisenhower used it for bridge games, the Kennedys turned it into a playroom for Caroline and John Jr., the Fraziere left it that way for their grandchildren, but Doris Lyman had it redone for a hideaway for her husband."

With orders to refute or confirm the plot, the men slip out to Gibraltar, El Paso, New York and back lanes of Washington, and their adventures make up the entertaining story.

There is keyhole listening, a plane crash with a vicin carrying vital information, the unwilling renewal, in the country's interests, of a romantic attachment, a kidnapping, all under the time clock of the All Red Alert, and cover for the military takeover at 11 Saturday night. The action is kept at a good pace.

The press conference after the crisis is past indulges in a few pages of flag waving, but acceptable after a thoroughly enjoyable "it could happen here" story.

1700s lucidly drawn in this dual history

STILL THE LARK, A Biography of Elizabeth Linley, by Margot Bor and Lamond Clelland, Merlin Press, London, 185 pp., $6.50.

Any writer who takes for his subjects the handsome, gifted Linleys and the mercurial, fascinating Sheridans of the 18th century has indeed a tiger or two by the tail. Bor and Clelland, two English musicians, tell the story of these two families in Still the Lark, a documented biography of more than usual interest.

Written with compassion and insight, it gives a very lucid picture of the great and near-great, of the court, the theatre, and of government in the 1700s.

Elizabeth — the eldest and most gifted of 12 children born to Thomas Linley, composer, director of music at Bath, and later Garrick's successor as patentee and director of the Drury Lane Theatre—combined a singularly beautiful voice, extraordinary beauty and a natural charm, together with a spiritual quality that swept London off its feet. "The applause and admiration she has met with can only be compared to what is given Mr. Garrick," wrote Fanny Burney. "The whole town seems distracted over her. Miss Linley alone engrosses all eyes, ears and hearts."

At the height of her career

she married Richard Sheridan, who had very nearly broken her heart during their hectic romance and who later drove her, moral and devoted woman though she was, into the arms of another man and to bearing his child, a circumstance that probably hastened her death.

Perhaps Sheridan would have written a play worth conserving had he never met Elizabeth, but certainly she kept his name alive, was in part her responsibility, for she encouraged him, read and criticized his work and did the hours of copying necessary in the days before typewriters.

She encouraged his parliamentary career, too, reading and copying for him, entertaining his friends and those who could further his political career while he left her to her own devices when she was not necessary to him, having "affairs" in general, and one in particular that caused to turn to Lord Edward Fitzgerald and to bear his child.

Yet, this strange Sheridan, when his wife was dying, returned to shelter her, to care for her, to protect her name, to be broken-hearted at her death and to love Fitzgerald's daughter Mary more than he loved his own son. His love for Mary, whom he acknowledged as his own child, was perhaps in part guilt, and his grief at the child's death was so overwhelming that it was perhaps in part remorse for the treatment accorded Elizabeth.

Still the Lark makes very clear the devotion that existed between the members of the Linley family, a family destined for tragedy as well as fame, for Elizabeth, her sister Mary, and her brother Thomas, who was a brilliant composer and musician. All died young, and Thomas Linley died knowing there would be no one to carry on the family name, as his two remaining sons did not marry.

Handbook on thorough side

AMERICAN AUTHORS & BOOKS by W. J. Burke and Will D. Howe, Ambassador Books, 834 pp., $10.75.

Understandably, this book will have only a limited audience. It could prove of real use to writers, librarians, students, collectors, editors and teachers, in short to those in need of ready reference. It could of course also prove useful to readers, if they were willing to pay the price, for such lists of information as an author's birthplace, his age, his accomplishments in fields other than literature, and cataloguing of his literary output.

For anyone looking for very comprehensive information on the American literary scene, including magazines and some newspapers, this book is ideal. To the average reader, however, it must be pointed out that this is not an indispensable reference book, though it is definitely a worthwhile one and a volume I am glad to have on my book shelves.

Collecting in the Townships

The Republic of South Africa will issue a commemorative stamp March 14 to commemorate the golden jubilee of the Kirstenbosch Botanic Gardens at Cape Town. The gardens were originally known as the National Botanic Gardens and were founded in 1913 for the study, cultivation, preservation and display of South African flora.

They are the only one of the world's great botanic gardens devoted entirely to the indigenous flora of their country.

The stamps will be issued in multi-color and will show a view of the lawns and gardens with the well-known mountain peak Castle Rock in the background and, superimposed in the lower portion of the design, a picture of the famous red disa — disa uniflora, one of the best known orchids. Information about the 1,200-acre national garden can be obtained from the Botanic Society of South Africa, Kirstenbosch, Newlands, Cape Town.

The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada offers all stamp collectors the opportunity to help philately in Canada and at the same time to add to their own personal enjoyment.

This society has broadened its scope in recent years and now embraces topical collectors as well as the specialists in the Canadian field.

The last issue of the Canadian Philatelist, the society's magazine, contained articles on Tristan da Cunha, the art of photographing stamps, first day covers, and the usual short write-ups on different Canadian stamps and comments about the hobby in general.

The cost of joining is within the reach of most collectors and is very reasonable when one considers the benefits to be derived as a member. It is suggested that you write to the Secretary, Walter Anderson, Box 3144, Station "C", Ottawa, Ont., and ask for details. Please mention that you read about the society in this column.

A new country makes its appearance Feb. 1, and this time it is not the usual new name only. The British Antarctic Territory will issue its first stamps on that date.

The stamps are printed in the horizontal format and the designs feature various facets of the survey work in this vast land. The designs were prepared by Michael Goaman and all incorporate the Annigoni portrait of Queen Elizabeth. The stamps are as follows:

- Half penny — M. V. Kista Dan in blue.
- Penny and a half — Muskog in lake and red.
- Two and a half penny — Beaver (vehicle) in green.
- Fourpence — Camp scene in sepia.
- Ninepence — Sledging in olive-green.
- Two shillings sixpence — Helicopter in blue.
- 10 shillings — R.R.S. Shackleton in green and blue.
- Penny — Manhauling in brown.
- Twopence — Skiing in purple.
- Threepence — R.R.S. John Biscoe in blue.
- Sixpence — H.M.S. Protector in dark blue and olive.
- Shilling — Otter (vehicle) in prussian blue.
- Five shillings — Snotac (vehicle) in red and orange.
- Pound — Map in black and light blue.

The St. Francis Collectors Club held another successful auction last meeting. This was the last of the material from the collection of Mr. Leslie LeBaron of North Hatley, who divided the amounts realized with the club.

The election of officers for 1963 saw R. B. Miess of Lennoxville elected President. Fred Smith will carry on as editor of the club bulletin. However, a secretary-treasurer is still needed. Any volunteers?

We extend our congratulations to all the new officers and wish them and the club a successful year. The next meeting will be on Jan. 30 at the usual place, the Parish Hall of St. George's Church, where a pleasant evening awaits you.

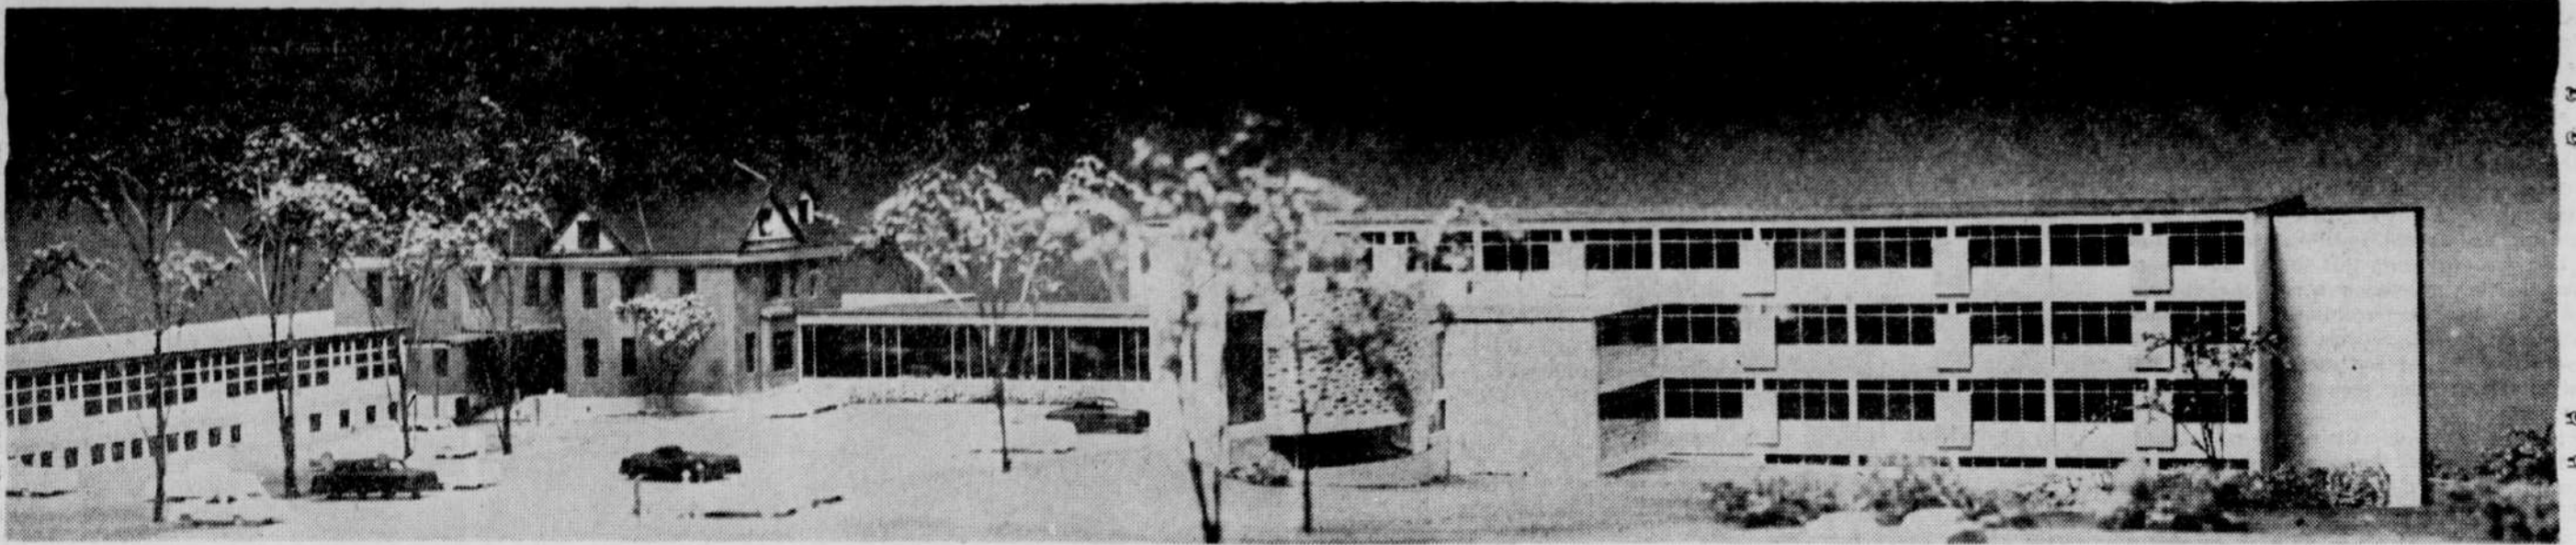

We extend to Dr. A. C. Hill of Sherbrooke best wishes for a speedy recovery and trust that we will see him in the not too distant future at one of the club meetings.

Will take 20 years

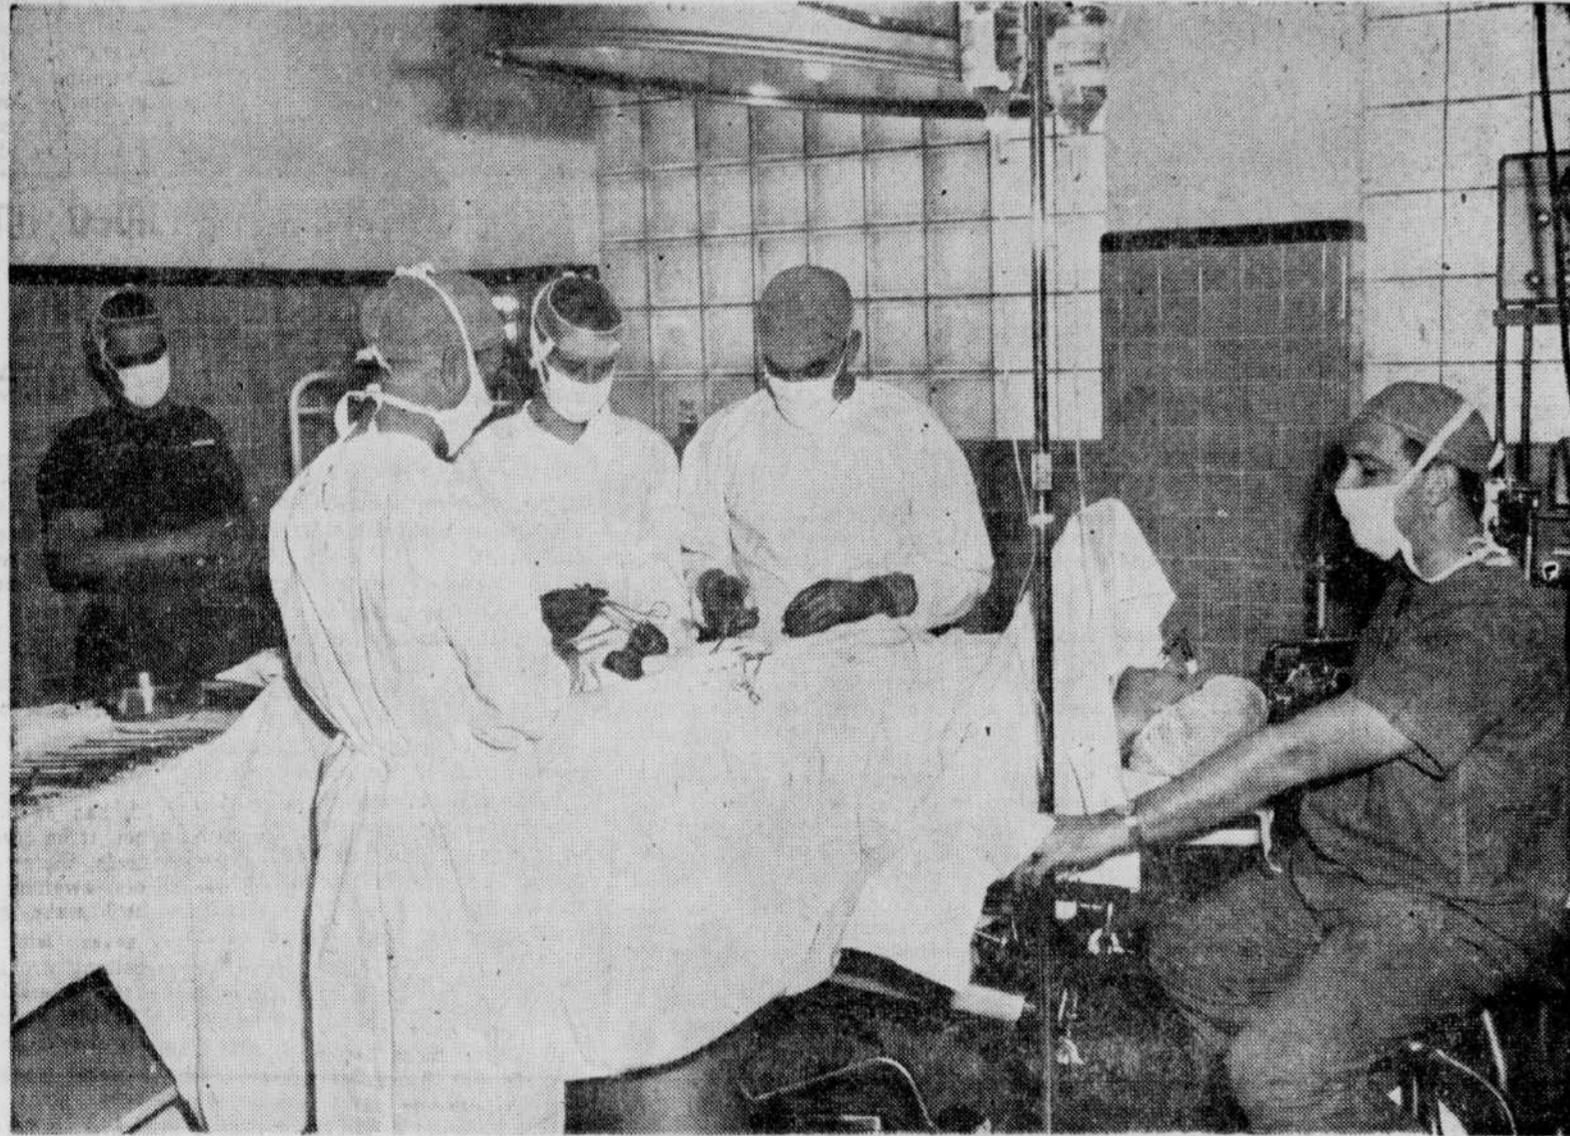

EDMONTON—(AP)—A University of Alberta professor said Tuesday it will be 15 to 20 years before Canadians begin to be truly bilingual. Roger Motut, a French professor, said it will be that long before there will be results from the present programs of French teaching in elementary schools. He said French has been taught in English-speaking Canada for 40 or 50 years but the people have not learned to speak it. He said the emphasis should be on speaking the language, not on grammar.

Windsor District's Population Expresses Gratitude To Provincial Government For Grant Promised to St. Louis Hospital

This photo shows the magnificent operating room in the St. Louis Hospital in Windsor, where the most modern and up-to-date equipment is used.

ENLARGEMENT NECESSARY TO THE ST. LOUIS HOSPITAL WHICH CANNOT AT THE PRESENT TIME HANDLE THE PATIENT DEMAND.

Promised $750,000 government hospital grant heard with appreciation in Windsor and district

WINDSOR — The residents of Windsor and the community's surrounding district have unanimously expressed their gratitude for the recently approved Provincial grant to their centre's St. Louis Hospital. Expansion plans have already been formulated, and fulfillment of the institution's enlargement project should be completed later this year.

In voicing their appreciation, the Windsor area residents have made special mention of the personal consideration given this project by the Honourable Jean Lesage, Premier of Quebec Province.

The $750,000 Quebec Government grant now assured, is no longer regarded with scepticism following the announcement by the Hon. Alphonse Couturier, Minister of Health.

On August 9th, 1962, Mr. Couturier announced,

"I will personally propose the grant for the enlargement of the St. Louis hospital, when the budget for the Ministry of Health is prepared for the 1963-64 fiscal years."

It is because of this statement, that the Windsor and district population are now confident that the work of enlarging their hospital will be started shortly. A larger, more modern hospital, will permit wider range of admittance of patients, requiring medical attention within this region.

The management of the St. Louis Hospital in Windsor met with the Hon. Alphonse Couturier on two different occasions, when the enlargement project was discussed, and when it was noted that this institution must have at least 12 bed accommodation to adequately serve the Windsor area community's requirements.

Hon. A. Couturier

WINDSOR — Little doubt is left in the minds of Windsor and district residents, regarding the need for a hospital within their area. Already served by the St. Louis Hospital, a consensus of opinion has established that the most feasible means to providing the district with better hospital facilities and medical accommodations, is to enlarge the existing St. Louis institution, and with the ever increasing demand for attention to those requiring hospitalization, immediate action is urged on all sides.

Very apparent is the fact that the people of Windsor and region prefer to be hospitalized near home, but without sufficient space it is very often necessary that they seek admission in Sherbrooke hospitals or elsewhere owing to the shortage of beds at the St. Louis institution presently.

It is a regular occurrence to have a waiting list of 15 to 20 patients each day in Windsor, and this situation has become more acute since Provincial Hospital Insurance benefits came into force.

With 55 beds, the St. Louis Hospital cannot meet the existing demand. Consequently, from 20% to 30% of the patients asking admission are forced to seek hospitalization elsewhere.

The St. Louis institution is the only hospital in Richmond County, serving a population of more than 25,000 citizens who reside in Windsor, Richmond, Kingsbury, Ulverton, Cleveland, part of South Durham, Bromptonville, St-Francois-Xavier de Brompton, Stoke, Greenlay and these centres' rural districts.

Medical Board Gives Reasons Why Hospital Is Essential For Windsor

WINDSOR — The St. Louis Hospital Medical Board of Windsor has given various reasons why they must have improved and extended hospital facilities. To substantiate their claim, the board has referred to a statement made by the Honourable Alphonse Couturier, January 14th, which written, appeared as follows: -

January 14, 1963.

Hon. Alphonse Couturier,
Minister of Health,
Quebec.
Honourable Minister:

At a recent meeting of the medical department of St. Louis de Windsor Hospital, Inc., it was unanimously decided to bring to your thoughtful attention a motion in support of the enlargement campaign at our hospital.

While we do not intend to list to you all the reasons motivating our request, still we are sure that some have an undeniable value and we venture to ask you to give them consideration.

Considering that St. Louis de Windsor Hospital has, since it was founded, received the steadily mounting support of the local and surrounding population, now totalling some 25,000; that applications for admission are ever pressing and that our average level of occupancy is 80 per cent, with patients staying an average of no more than six days;

Considering that St. Louis de Windsor Hospital, within the limits of qualification requirements, has had to equip itself as well and give as good services as large hospitals, causing expenditures in laboratories and personnel equivalent to those of a 125-bed hospital, we believe that enlargement would be an economy, within bounds.

Considering that the St. Louis Hospital, to improve its care, uses specialists from outside who contribute much to our prestige, while these same specialists do not live near the hospital, causing delays and lengthened hospital stays — with enlargement it is reasonable for us to count on acquiring two new surgeons, a qualified anaesthetist, a radiologist, a doctor with a hospital administration diploma, an internal and heart specialist, and lastly a pediatrician.

Considering that the St. Louis Hospital, as a result will have a better balanced set of equipment which will fill the requirements of licensing, thereby making clearer to the population the admirable gesture of the government, unafraid to set up hospital insurance despite existing expenses;

Considering that St. Louis Hospital, though already behind in its development, must expect a much heavier demand in future; in fact coming local industrial developments probably owe to available hospital services just as they owe to electricity.

Considering that St. Louis Hospital, at its present calibre, will no longer support the University of Sherbrooke medical faculty in a few years, but by your foresightedness will offer students the prototype of a regional hospital, will set up an internship program and will open a nursing school;

St. Louis Hospital, as represented by its medical department, its administrators and the whole local population, asks you to fulfill its keenest desires for a solidly-established maturity, under the guidance of a liberal team which views things on a large scale, which is promoting progress and liberating Quebec from economic servitude.

The medical department of St. Louis de Windsor Hospital, Inc. pleased with your attention, gives you its earnest thanks.

We remain, yours,

GABRIEL BEAUDOIN, M.D.,
Chairman of the Medical Department.

Canon J.-A. Lemay Gives Blessing to St. Louis Hospital

WINDSOR — Speaking in favor of the St. Louis Hospital project, and elaborating on the grave need for additional facilities in Windsor, Canon J. A. Lemay offered his blessings for the fulfilment of the community's hopes. His public statement, written January 15th, and addressed to the Provincial Ministry of Health, read as follows: -

Windsor, able to the welfare of the nation.
Jan. 15, 1963.

Mr. Minister:

St. Louis Hospital has operated in Windsor for 10 years. The institution began quiet modestly, and still carried out excellent work, to the point where enlargement was needed four years ago. It no longer fills existing needs.

The population of the town and the region fully appreciate the presence of this medical institution.

It is highly desirable to provide it with new additions which are indispensable to the welfare of the nation.

Everything that the minister can do to promote this humanitarian work will be greatly appreciated and will assure the thankful recognition of all who benefit.

I am pleased to support the steps taken by the authorities in this field.

I have been parish priest here for 23 years. I would consider the completion of this project now underway as something of a crowning of a long priestly career in the service of the Lord.

Respectfully,
CANON J. A. LEMAY,
Parish priest.

Windsor Town Council is backed by citizens in adopting "all out for hospital" resolution

WINDSOR — Citizens of this area are now assured that there is absolutely no doubt that the Hon. Emilien Lafrance, Minister of Social and Family Welfare, will not forget the St. Louis Hospital project, when it is time to adopt the Provincial Minister of Health budget, when it is proposed for adoption.

Mr. Lafrance has actively worked for better hospital facilities in his county, and at one time headed a delegation to Quebec, asking for $1,500,000 in Provincial Government aid needed for this project.

Others agree —

The administration of Windsor's St. Louis Hospital, joined by other civic bodies, and the municipal council, adopted a resolution at the last municipal meeting, asking that the Town of Windsor take steps to promote furtherance of the Windsor, St. Louis Hospital project. The heavily supported motion was promptly agreed on.

MONTREAL OLYMPICS WITHDRAW FROM LEAGUE
Montreal Olympics, claiming "injustice" withdrew from the Eastern Provincial Hockey League late Thursday night. This came as real surprise, in fact a couple of their directors were in Sherbrooke to see the game scheduled and didn't know anything about it.

The Olympics, who joined the league last season were called the "Cinderella" team, as they went to the Allan Cup finals against Trail, B.C. But they were anything but that this season. It seemed their board of directors figured they could do anything they wanted to and didn't heed or pay any attention to rules or regulations.

At the start of the season they wanted to open the league allowing players from any place, league or country to perform without any limit. The other clubs in the loop voted this down claiming it would cost too much money to operate.

As president of the league their claim about "INJUSTICE" hits us as funny. The Olympics broke several rules and were fined for doing so.

They played Martin and Andre Bessette who were both suspended by the USAHA, in two games. They were warned, but stated they were still going to play them. They were warned by the QAHA the players must get their releases before they could play any more. Martin was straightened away but Bessette didn't get his.

Henry Crochetiere, district vice-president of the QAHA, agreed to help them push the matter after he was asked. Atlantic City, N.J., the site of the USAHA head office, was called. Bessette was given the green light and he was notified Thursday afternoon at 4:30 p.m.

As for their damage suit of $28,000 against the league, QAHA and the CAHA were haven't as yet received any indication about it except what was said over the telephone.

All Olympic players are now free-agents. The directors are suspended for violating the league constitution and pulling out in midseason. They will lose their $1,000 deposit.

All the rules to which the Olympics refer were voted on. The other teams last year went out of their way to help the Olympics get organized and voted them extra players when they needed them. In the long run they built up a strong club and won the championship. The teams were happy, although they didn't like the idea of being beaten. In the playoffs the other clubs came to their aid with extra help to strengthen the team for the CAHA playdowns. So the "injustice" charge just doesn't stand up.

A special meeting has been called for Sunday and the teams will decide about the balance of the schedule and just what will be done regarding the future.

The Glen Mountain Ski Resort has introduced a new atmosphere typical of what is seen in European resorts and in some Laurentian areas.

A torchlight descent will be held Saturday night with the skiers carrying torches on their way down the slopes making what should be a beautiful sight to see. Bob Richardson, former member of Canada's Ski Team and co-manager of the resort, figures this should help to popularize night skiing in the district.

Molson's Fishing Club, sponsors of the annual fishing tournament, will hold a reception in the Beebe Town Hall, Tuesday, Jan. 29, at 8 p.m. to honor the various club winners for the past season.

Richmond Pelletier, director of Molson's Fishing Club, will be on hand to make the presentations. An interesting film and a talk will be given and all members are asked to be on hand for this special event.

The voting procedure for the individual awards in the National Hockey League came in for quite a ribbing. It seems the system is so complicated a slide rule was needed to determine the winners.

A total of $30,000 in league bonuses is shelled out and the manner in which this is done is hard to understand. We think a good idea is to let the players do the voting. Toronto has 20 writers who vote while the other cities have less. Doesn't seem to be a fair shake we think. It is conducted on a 5-3-1 points basis which makes it hard to understand how Frank Mahovlich of the Leafs came up with 89 points.

The 18th annual Ladies Sherbrooke Curling Club Bonspiel is over and President Mrs. J. A. Dion and various committees are to be congratulated for their fine work in running the tourney. Everything went fine according to time with no hitches.

Some good curling was witnessed during the three-day "Spiel" and members of the fair sex proved they could hold their own with the men. The tactics displayed by some skips were terrific and at all times they were in complete control of the situation. To the winners congratulations and the losers better luck next year.

The Appalachas Automobile Club is staging a Snow Rally on Sunday, Feb. 3, with departures from Sherbrooke, Richmond and Granby. For further information regarding this event those interested can call Gilles Lefebvre at LO. 2-4795, in Richmond Carl Neugebauer at FR. 6-3700 and in Granby Jean Paul Morin at FR. 8-4518.

Mrs. Campanella dies suddenly

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—she died a commotion and then the phone went dead, so she called police.

The Campanellas were separated in August, 1960, and he has lived in a Manhattan apartment near his Harlem liquor store.

Campanella suffered a broken neck Jan. 28, 1958, in an auto accident that ended his baseball career.

The couple's three children, Roy 14, Rony, 12, and Princess, 9, lived with Mrs. Campanella.

Braves stopped by Jets, two games on Sunday

Two games are on tap Sunday in the St. Francis Intermediate Hockey League. Richmond Braves visit Windsor to take on the Paper Makers while the front-running Jets of Rock Island moved into Magog.

The Jets fresh from their 4-2 win over Richmond Thursday will be out to try and maintain their eight-point lead over the second place Aces. The Jets have had more trouble with the Aces than any other team in the loop.

Marcel Benoit, the Jets' veteran rearguard, was a standout for his team. He tallied the winning marker and at the same time helped to set up the insurance tally by P. Yates in the third period. He turned in a fine defensive job on the blue line.

R. Winter opened the scoring for the Jets in the first period but a minute later Paul Blouin put Richmond back on an even keel. There was no scoring in the middle session. Paul Blouin came up with his second tally to give the Braves a 2-1 lead but then the Jets took over.

Luc Gregoire, Marcel Benoit and P. Yates settled the issue with their goals and from then on the Jets managed to turn back everything the Braves tossed their way.

In Windsor the Paper Makers will be seeking to knock over the Braves in an effort to close the gap between them. In their last meeting in Windsor the Paper Makers ran up a 7-3 verdict and they will be out to try and come up with another top performance in order to down the Braves.

Steve O'Neill, a major league catcher and manager and former manager of Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League, died one year ago today at age 69. He was a catcher for 17 years with Cleveland, Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees and St. Louis Browns, ending in 1928. He then became a manager.

Top pro skiers at Mt. Orford Sunday

MAGOG — (Special) — Fifteen of Eastern Canada's top professional skiers will compete for large cash prizes at Mt. Orford Sunday. The event is sponsored by Nap. Cote Sporting Goods of Sherbrooke.

The first of two giant slalom runs is scheduled to begin Sunday 11 a.m. on the Mt. Giroux '45, known as one of the toughest slalom runs used in Canada today for top bracket slalom competitions.

Hell Summersaur, head of the Mt. Orford Ski School and internationally known ski racer and teacher, will set the Sunday course. It is estimated that each of the runs will average 60 seconds. Modifications will be made for the second heat, scheduled to commence at approximately 2 p.m.

It is expected that world slalom champion Charles Bozon of France will be fore-runner. Bozon won his title in the 1962 Chamonix Races.

Among the top professionals entered in the competition are: Ernie McCullough of Mt. Tremblant; Willie Angerer; Andrea Rubi; Bill Preston; Jean Lesard; of Mt. Sutton; Les Street; Russell Legare; Dave Jacobs; Phil Beaulieu; Tom Barbeau; Guy Bearvoets; Fritz Tschanne, and other leading pros.

Originally scheduled to be held on the famous Three Creeks Trail, Sunday's race was switched to the fast '45 to allow the large number of expected spectators a better opportunity to observe the skiers descent. Control will consist of some forty gates over the 1,200 foot run.

Remembering the tremendous success of their 1962 International Professionals' Race held at Mt. Orford, operators of the centre are taking special precautions to accommodate the large number of spectators expected to visit the area.

In planning the Pro Race, the Compagnie Gestion d'Orford noted that all conveyances will be in operation during the race and that control will be established to allow patrons to ski without being hindered by spectators. This is possible due to use of the '45.

Lennoxville High School leading Regional curling playdowns after three rounds, final shifts today

Lennoxville High School, skipped by Mike Mooney, was leading the Eastern Townships Regional School curling playdowns after three games yesterday afternoon, stated A. E. Bartlett, Regional Director.

Lennoxville posted a 8-4 win over St. Pat's in their first match and eked out a close 7-6 win over North Hatley. In their third match they held to a 6-6 tie by Sutton after eight ends but in the extra end they managed to pull out with one point to earn the win and keep their winning streak intact.

On the late shift last night North Hatley met Drummondville, St. Pat's took on Granby and Sherbrooke High clashed with Sutton. Prior to these games North Hatley and Drummondville were deadlocked in second spot with two wins and a loss each while Granby and Sutton had picked up a win and a loss. St. Pat's and Sher-

Five games on tap in High School hockey

Five games are on tap this weekend in high school hockey action; all matches being scheduled for Saturday

In the Pee Wee section, St. Pat's took on Sherbrooke High this morning at the Parade Grounds.

In the Bantam division, the previously-postponed game between BCS Senecas and Sherbrooke will be played Saturday afternoon at 4:30 P.M. at the Victoria Street rink.

Finally, three Midget games are slated with Larocque playing Sherbrooke High at Victoria Street; game time 3:00 P.M., St. Pat's visiting BCS Mohawks; gametime 3:00 P.M., and BCS Cries tangling with Barons St. Esprit on Cambron Street; game time 1:30 P.M.

Geoffrion to work out with Canadiens today

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Canadiens said Friday night right winger Bernie Geoffrion, out of action for the last eight games with an injured wrist, will work out with the National Hockey League club today.

Club physiotherapist Bill Head said it is up to Geoffrion to decide whether he will play in Canadiens' weekend games. Centre Don Marshall, also sidelined, was to test his sprained ankle in a workout with Montreal Junior Canadiens Friday night.

Plante wrong in complaint, says Campbell

TORONTO (CP) — Jacques Plante, who guards the goal for Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, appears to be wrong in his claim that the nets are larger in some hockey cities than others.

Plante said Wednesday night, after Toronto Maple Leafs fired five goals past him, that he was at a disadvantage because of the varying sizes of the nets.

An unofficial poll of NHL clubs indicates Plante is wrong. All six, including Montreal, reported their home nets were exactly right—six feet across and four feet high from inside posts and crossbar.

NHL President Clarence Campbell has asked Referee-in-Chief Carl Voss to make an official check on the goals to settle the issue.

LHS Seniors blank Ayer's Cliff 7-0, Hilary Dougherty sets pace with two goals in one-sided tilt

Lennoxville High Senior hockey squad walloped Ayer's Cliff 7-0 Thursday night in a lopsided encounter in Ayer's Cliff.

Scoring opened at 4:30 of the first period when Dunn tallied unassisted, to be followed up at 8:10 when Stewart notched his goal of the game on a pass from Lamey.

B. Sherring made it 3-0 in favour of the visiting LHS crew at 3:00 of the second frame when he fired in a sizzling slap shot for the goal.

Hilary Dougherty put the visitors ahead 4-0 at 10:00 of the same stanza when he clicked on a pass from Smith.

In the third period, Hilary Dougherty broke out of the first face-off with the puck, raced down the ice, and slammed in his second goal of the game past Ayer's Cliff goalie Piercy.

Lindsay Majury, Lennoxville's small ball of fire, picked up a pass from teammate Richardson at 18:00 of the third to put LHS ahead 6-0 while Draper, another small forward for the visitors, sewed the game up with a goal; Stewart assisting. Rothney turned in a good performance for Lennoxville between the posts but definitely did not have the action that Ayer's Cliff netminder Piercy had in the match.

Lennoxville: D. Rothney, T. Beattie, L. Majury, S. Richardson, J. Dunn, D. Smith, B. Lamey, B. Sherring, R. Sherring, L. Fisk, H. Dougherty, R. Stewart, D. Hart, M. Draper.

Ayer's Cliff: B. Piercy, K. Blake, A. True, R. Johann, W. McCoomb, K. Doherty, G. Schoelleraft, P. McHarg, R. Dezan, T. Frapped, D. Smith, T. Cass.

Beavers will be seeking fifth straight win when they clash with Rockets here tomorrow afternoon

Sherbrooke Beavers will be hosts to the Drummondville Rockets tomorrow afternoon in the only game on tap in the Eastern Provincial Hockey League. The scheduled game in Granby between the Vics and Montreal Olympics has been cancelled as the latter have withdrawn from the league.

A special meeting has been called for Sunday at the Arena prior to the game by President Len O'Donnell and the three remaining clubs will decide on operations for the future. Several ideas will be studied and some kind of an arrangement will be arrived by the clubs to finish out the season.

Following Thursday's game each team in the league has played the same number of games with the Olympics and each has the same number, two, on the schedule with the Montreal club. One on the road and one at home.

The Rockets will be trying for a win here tomorrow as in their last two outings they came out on the short end of a 4-3 and 9-3 counts. Their last victory in Sherbrooke was Nov. 6 when they stopped the Beavers 5-4 but since then have been unable to register a victory.

The Drummondville team put up a good fight Thursday evening in Granby and forced the Vics into overtime before dropping the decision 3-2. Two quick goals by the Vics settled the issue although the Rockets came up with one but this left them short of a tie.

The Rockets seem to have improved of late and the Beavers may run into a little trouble. The locals will be seeking their third straight win since their famous winning streak was stopped by Granby, Jan. 3. Prior to that they had posted nine in a row on home ice.

Coach Imlach's revamped lineup paysoff with Bronco Horvath in spotlight, Rangers at Montreal

A week ago tonight, manager-coach Punch Imlach was confounding the opposition, the fans and maybe even his own Toronto Maple Leafs with a juggling game that left the goaltender alone sure of the position he'd play next.

Then Bronco Horvath arrived, Leafs started winning and the line-juggling stopped. The three events are all related.

Horvath, a veteran centre who has seen ice time with every National Hockey League club except Detroit Red Wings, joined Leafs last Sunday in Detroit and took a regular job that night against the Wings. His presence was felt. He assisted on the tying goal by Eddie Shack in a 2-2 draw.

By Wednesday night, the Toronto lines were as stable as Imlach lets them become and Horvath was flying. He picked up three assists in Toronto's 5-1 victory over Montreal Canadiens.

Predicts improvement. And, said Horvath after the game, "once we get to know each other better our performance will improve."

By "we" he meant newly-found linemates Shack and Bob Pulford, who before Horvath's arrival were playing on separate threesomes. Now they constitute Leafs' third line, replacing the combination of centre Billy Harris and wingers Ron Stewart and Pulford.

The result is an aggressive, tough-checking and fast combination. The flair is provided by Shack's colorful dashing to and fro.

Both Harris, who has been benched, and Stewart, who has injuries to his wrists, will have a tough time regaining permanent jobs.

Despite Imlach's experimentation—it happens every so often—

Prior to that, he had been owned by every other NHL team. Detroit was the only one to relegate him completely to the minors, although Montreal used him for only one game.

Horvath has seven goals and 19 assists this season, far off the pace he set in his prime as the pivot on Boston Bruins' famed Uke line. His best season was 1959-60 when he had 39 goals and 41 assists for 80 points, one point behind Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks for the league scoring championship.

STOPPED BY BRUINS. Ironically, in his three games with Leafs, only the Bruins have stopped him from getting any points. That was Thursday night when Toronto beat Boston 6-3.
