The cash raised amounted to $60.50.

Annual Meeting of St Paul's Church

The annual meeting of St. Paul's Church, Shawville, was held on Monday evening, January 20th. The meeting which was well attended, was presided over by the rector. The secretary treasurer, Dr. C. F. C. Powles, presented a statement of the finances of the parish. The current account showed a slight deficit at the end of the year. The mission fund account, however, showed a considerable increase over the previous year. The parish contributed for missionary work $401.00. Besides this amount the parish had raised an extra $125.00 to clear off a deficit of this amount carried from the previous year. The total sum thus raised for missionary work during the year was $526.00. Other reports received were: The Ladies Guild by Mrs. W. E. Shaw, Junior Guild by Miss Sophia Hodgins, A. Y. P. A. by Miss Lorna Wilson, Sunday School by the rector, cemetery committee by Mr. Thomas Eades. All these reports showed a credit balance at the end of the year. Mrs. R. W. Hodgins then reported for St. Paul's unit, Canadian Red Cross Society, and Mrs. T. E. R. Nurse spoke regarding the work of the Girl Guides.

The rector announced that he had received from the estate of the late Mrs. Margaret Eades a cheque for $500.00. The bequest was made to the rector and wardens, of which the interest was to be used for the cemetery upkeep. The amount had now been invested with the Synod of the Diocese. General business included the discussion of the increase in the budget apportionment and the centenary of the parish. The vestry endorsed the increase in the apportionment which raises the amount to be paid from this parish from $365.00 to $485.00. Members of the vestry felt that this amount was the sum needed by the Diocese from this parish, to make up the sum previously received from the church in England, every effort should be made to raise the full amount. A motion accepting this increase was unanimously carried.

The rector in giving his annual report, also gave a short history of the parish. While the Rev. D. Falloon arrived in 1841, there is reason to believe that Mr. Gussak who, according to the S. P. G. clergy list mentions him as being in charge before Mr. Falloon arrived. Arrangements are being made to celebrate the centenary in June of this year.

The vestry appointed the following to make the necessary arrangements:—

Mrs. E. Cameron, Mrs. C. F. C. Powles and Miss Lorna Wilson, Messrs. R. G. Hodgins, Clarence Brownlee, G. A. Howard and wardens.

Other officers of the church were chosen as follows:—

Rectors Warden, Mr. T. Eades; people's warden, Mr. G. Brownlee; Convener of sidemen, Mr. R. W. Hodgins with C. Brownlee as assistant. Sidesmen, Messrs B. Hodgins, John Hodgins, Keith Brownlee, Irvine Brownlee, Elvin Corigan, Lloyd Dagg, Keith Hodgins, Kingsley Smyth, Arthur Smyth, John Dagg, Llewlyn Hodgins and R. Judd. Delegates to Diocesan Synod; Messrs. R. G. Hodgins and Thomas Eades. Treasurer: Dr. C. F. C. Powles, with Miss Irene Shaw as the envelope secretary. Auditors; Messrs S. Hodgins and L. Wilson.

Finance committee; Rector, Wardens, Treasurer, Messrs. A. G. Brough, R. G. Hodgins, John L. Hodgins, Mrs. L. Strutt and Mrs. F. Smyth. Cemetery Committee; Wardens of St. Paul's and Holy Trinity Church; Messrs John L. Hodgins, Lawrence Hynes, W. H. Corrigan, A. G. Brough, W. E. Shaw and Andrew Sly.

Votes of thanks were expressed to the Rev. and Mrs. T. E. R. Nurse, to the officers and all members of Vestry for their interest and support during the year.

Refreshments were served at the close by the Ladies of the Guild.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

CHRIST'S CONCERN FOR THE LOST.—Luke 15.
 PRINTED TEXT, Luke 15 : 1-10
 GOLDEN TEXT.—The Son of man came to seek and to save that which was lost. Luke 19 : 10.
 THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING
 Time.—January, A.D. 30.
 Place.—Same place in Peraea.

The grief people experience over things they have lost depends upon the value of these things. How much more valuable than any property or even a domesticated animal is the loss of a soul—a man or woman becoming an absolute shipwreck, abandoned by men and without God or hope. The hearts of all studying this lesson should be stirred up with a desire to go out and seek men who know not Christ. The theme of the parable in this lesson is the grace of God—the object of the chapter is not so much to show how men are saved, but why they are saved.

Three Parables

Luke 15 : 1. "Now all the publicans and sinners were drawing near unto him to hear him." (A publican in the New Testament was a Jew in the employ of the Roman Government collecting taxes, generally from fellow Jews, for the enrichment of the hated officers who were enforcing the laws of the Gentile power upon these conquered children of Israel. They were utterly despised by other Israelites. Sinners here were those not living in conformity with the Levitical Law.) 2. "And both the Pharisees and the scribes murmured, saying, This man receiveth sinners, and eateth with them."

What our Lord now is about to say contains first a precious message overflowing with hope, and radiant with the love of God for these poor publicans and sinners who needed God so much in their lives. Up to now they had been prevented from coming to Him by all the legalistic paraphernalia which the Pharisee insisted upon. This message was for the Pharisees and scribes, too, to show them how far from the will of God they were in condemning the Lord Jesus for mingling with such people as they despised. All three of these parables move about one word as it were, namely, the word "lost"—a lost sheep, a lost coin, and a lost man. The sheep wanders away heedlessly, not of set purpose, but drawn onward by one tuff of sweet herbage after another, till it has got out of sight of the flock and hearing of the shepherd. So many men stray away from God and Christ, not deliberately, but simply because they follow inclination and the desires of the flesh. The coin, on the other hand, rolls away by mere gravitation, without volition; and many men fall into dark corners of sin almost as mechanically. But under both the careless straying of the sheep and the mechanical rolling away of the "drachma" lies the selfishness and unbridled living of the prodigal. All three parables must be taken together."

The Lost Sheep

3. "And he spake unto them this parable, saying, 4. What man of you, having a hundred sheep, and having lost one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it? 5. And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing. 6. And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and his neighbors, saying unto them, Rejoice with me, for I have found my sheep which was lost. 7. I say unto you, that even so there shall be joy in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine righteous persons, who need no repentance." The joy of success is proportioned to the difficulty, the doubtfulness of attaining it. All the hazards and sacrifices of the search are repaid by the recovery of the lost. There is no joy comparable to the joy of successful love; of love, that is to say, not only recognized and returned, but which succeeds in making the object of it as happy as it desires, and does so after many repulses and misunderstandings and hazards. This is God's greatest joy. It is taken to mean here that the "ninety and nine" had already been saved.

The Lost Coin

8. "Or what woman having ten pieces of silver, if she lose one piece, doth not light a lamp, and sweep the house, and seek diligently until she find it?" The general inference from this and the preceding parable is that each sinner is so precious that God and His ministers regard no efforts too great to reclaim such men who today are exactly like coins out of circulation. They are making no contribution to life, useless individuals, relying upon the belief that they are not influencing anybody for evil. These people are good enough when found, like the coin, and put into circulation.

Joy Over One Sinner

9. "And when she hath found it,

Boy Scout Founder Dies After Lengthy Illness

Lieut.-Gen. Lord Baden-Powell, 83, founder of the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, and one of the most famous soldiers and military intelligence operatives of modern times, died at his home in Kenya, Africa, after a lengthy illness. He is pictured with Lady Baden-Powell during a visit to this continent.

she calleth together her friends and neighbors, saying, Rejoice with me, for I have found the piece which I had lost. 10. Even so, I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."

The sheep could not have come back unless the shepherd had sought him; the coin would never have been found in this instance unless the woman had looked for it; but in the case of mankind, God must leave men to decide for themselves whether they will come to his waiting love and grace or not. God seeks sinners, of course. But repentance is necessary first on their part before they can come and find him.

Duke of Windsor Wore Crayon Stripes

Fashions set and worn by the Duke of Windsor are much followed in the men's wear world, and in view of the prominence of suits including tailored ones, in the women's field, it is worth giving a second look to the suit he was photographed in on his recent visit to Miami, Fla.

The suit, with its low and wide gorge, is a clue to current edicts in men's fashions, and the use of the wide, strong white rayon stripe of the cloth is interesting. In gray it is worn with a matching gray shirt, with maroon tie, printed in gray and white flower spots.

FARM RADIO FORUM

Farm Radio Forum, which took to the air in Eastern Canada on January 21st, will be a new adventure, both for the CBC and for thousands of Canadian farmers. This series is to be heard each Tuesday for twelve weeks at 10.00 to 10.30 E.D.S.T. (9.00 - 9.30 p.m. Standard) in Ontario and Quebec and at 11.00 - 11.30 p.m. E.D.S.T. (10.00 - 10.30 Atlantic Standard Time) in the Maritimes. Ontario listeners hear Farm Radio Forum over Stations CBL, Toronto and CBO, Ottawa.

During this series of broadcasts listeners will hear current farm problems discussed by farmers from "Sunnyridge Community" — subjects like "Are There Too Many Farmers?" and "Should Farmers Grow More?" and so on.

The Old Timer will be heard introducing farm men and women from Sunnyridge. These folks in turn will have their say and reach their own conclusions regarding what should be done to improve farm conditions.

"BETWEEN OURSELVES"

"Between Ourselves" is the title R. B. Farrell uses for his pleasant informal chats over the CBC network at 12.15 on Sundays. Broadcasting is but one facet of Mr. Farrell's many-sided career, which includes journalism, and several years service with the colours. Based on his experience in the Army and Navy, a recent series on the history of Canadian regiments by Mr. Farrell, proved extremely interesting. Now, he is concentrating on current events of the war. On January 26th the topic of "Between Ourselves" will be Col. John McCrae, author of In Flanders Fields, and on February 2nd, under the subject "The Present Situation" he will describe some of the present developments in the progress of the war.

Strictly for five fans is the Fifteen Minutes Intermission Please, by the Andrews Sisters, and speaking of Swing features, don't overlook the Swing Session from CKOC each afternoon at 4.30. Butch and Joe can certainly swing a mean disc.

One of the best hair raisers on the air is still "The Shadow" coming from CFRB at 8.30 Tuesday nights. This one will turn your hair gray.

Amusing sidelight on Hollywood is that the "Stars" are no longer the boss. New bosses in Hollywood are the boys who take the "candid" photographs for the fillum mags. No matter how beautiful a male or female star may be, there are certain camera angles that make them look not one darn bit better than you or me, or my Uncle Willie. If a "star" won't cooperate, one of these "candid" is published, and it costs that star about a million dollars worth of disillusionment on the part of the guys and gals who "worship" the flicker idols.

Crop Association's Seed Exhibition

Farmers having surplus seed of high quality for sale are urged to have it cleaned and graded immediately and to submit a sample to the Seed Display to be held in connection with the annual meeting of The Ontario Crop Improvement Association, King Edward Hotel, Toronto, Feb. 10-14th.

The object of this seed display is to help the grower with a surplus in finding a market with buyers who are looking for high quality seed.

The Ontario Plowmen's Association and the Association of Agricultural societies are holding annual conventions during the week at the King Edward Hotel and the Ontario Provincial Winter Seed Fair will also be held that week. Hundreds of farmers will attend these events, many of whom will be looking for good seed.

TO HELP THE GROWER

Only varieties which have been accepted for registration or certification may be included in the display and all seed must be graded. The sample to be displayed in each case must be representative of the bulk lot for sale and the quantity shall be as follows—grain and corn 2 qts.; clover and grass seed 1 qt.; potatoes 10 lbs.

Suitable containers and tags will be supplied; samples will be on display during the entire week and an attractive catalogue listing all seed offered for sale will be prepared for distribution. It is expected that there will be a keen demand for good seed during 1941. Consult your Agricultural Representative or seed cleaning plant operator for further information or write direct to John D. MacLeod, Secretary-Treasurer, Ontario Crop Improvement Association, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Sawdust Pastry

How would you like to spread on your bread a pat of butter made from coal? That is what the Germans are doing. Their new experimental coal-butter consists of 64 per cent. water, 17 per cent. mineral oils, 16.5 per cent. starch, and 2.5 per cent. salt. And for coarse synthetic flour they advocate a 20 per cent. admixture of sawdust, plaster and Baltic sand added to ordinary flour.

Flaxseed Crop Shows Increase

3,500,000 Bushel Yield is Largest in Canada Since 1930

The production of flaxseed in Canada for crushing purposes fluctuates widely from year to year. This is due in part to climatic conditions but mainly to the wheat and flaxseed price ration. During the past few years the price situation has favored the production of wheat rather than flaxseed with the result that the acreage under flax was relatively low, states W. G. McGregor of the Dominion Experimental Farms.

In the spring of 1940 however, the situation seemed to promise better flax prices in relation to wheat and as a result the acreage increased appreciably.

Coinciding with the increased acreage there was a high average yield per acre with the result that Canada produced the largest flaxseed crop since 1930 with a yield of about 3½ million bushels of excellent quality.

WILL IMPROVE LESS

During the past decade Canada has imported both linseed and linseed oil so that stocks on hand are negligible. The paint, varnish and allied industries consume about 2,000,000 bushels annually. Building and industrial activity in recent years has increased this consumption so it is estimated that the total consumption in the past year exceeded 3,000, 000 bushels. With the rapid development of war industries in Canada, an improvement is in prospect for the current year. It is of particular advantage to Canada to have an increased production of this raw material, conserving needed foreign exchange for those materials which cannot be produced in the Dominion.

Glass is to be used for making church bells in Italy, the metal bells being needed for munitions.

What Science Is Doing

LOWERS BLOOD PRESSURE
A new chemical compound which lowers high blood pressure in man is described in the Rockefeller Institute's journal of experimental medicine.

The compound is extracted from kidneys of animals, and is the result of an increasing body of medical evidence that kidneys possess something which has the ability not only to initiate high blood pressure but also to lower it.

NEW VACCINE AGAINST FLU
The accidental discovery of a new vaccine against influenza was hailed by medical authorities last week as "one of the most promising practical leads in research of recent decades."

About a year ago a few ferrets inoculated with human "flu" virus developed distemper also. To prevent spread of distemper a vaccine effective on previous occasions was injected into 157 other normal ferrets.

Two days later, in continuing the "flu" experiment, some of these animals were inoculated in the nose with "massive doses" of three distinct strains of human influenza virus.

To the great surprise of the New York investigators, none of these animals developed experimental influenza.

Modern Etiquette

BY ROBERTA LEE

1. Isn't it alright for a person to ask an intimate friend how old he is?
2. When should a woman rise to receive an introduction to a man?
3. Should a house guest clean her own room?
4. Shouldn't an uninvited guest be accorded the same welcome as any other guest?
5. When a girl has been given two theatre tickets, would it be all right for her to invite a young man she knows well to be her escort?
6. Should one use a fork or the fingers when eating French fried potatoes?

Answers

1. No. It is tactless to do so. Some people are sensitive about their ages.
2. Only when she is the hostess. In this instance she not only rises but extends her hand in greeting.
3. Yes, if the hostess has no servant. At least, she should make a sincere offer to do so.
4. Shakespeare's answer to this question is, "Unbidden guests are often welcomed when they are gone."
5. Yes; this is often done.
6. The fork should be used.

How Can I?

BY ANNE ASHLEY

- Q. How can I cause nails to stay more firmly in plaster walls?
A. After driving the nails into the plaster walls, pull them out, wrap them with a little steel wool, and then drive them in again.
- Q. What is a good substitute for castor oil?
A. Prune juice makes a good substitute. Soak the prunes over night. Stew them in the water in which they are soaked and pierce them with a fork to let out the juice when they are tender. Do not sweeten.
- Q. How can I preserve eggs?
A. Eggs may be preserved for many months by first coating them with lard or grease, and then packing them in bran.
- Q. How can I clean old coins?
A. Clean them with powdered whiting applied with a damp cloth. Try placing the coin in a raw white potato and allow to remain for about twelve hours, and this will restore the original luster.
- Q. How can I reduce the shrinking of woollens to a minimum?
A. Observe these three things: Use warm water, use mild soap, and allow to dry slowly.
- Q. How can I revive a house plant that seems to be dying?
A. Try pouring a tablespoonful of castor oil around the roots of the plant. This treatment is often effective, especially with ferns.

Seeing Through Waves

The Yogi idea that emotions and thoughts are as solid as what we term material things is not so fantastic as it may seem. A research worker at St. Thomas' Hospital, London, declares that he has actually seen through waves. He invented a sensitizer, which enables him to observe waves 300-millionths of a millimetre in length, which he believes emanate from the brain. This has yet to be proved, but if it is, transmission of thought will be brought from a possibility to a scientific probability. By a queer coincidence, these thought waves are of exactly the same length as the shortest rays which reach us from the sun, which makes one wonder whether thought and the matter of the universe are linked in some indefinable manner.

HAVE YOU HEARD?

A traveller was wandering across the Rockies in search of a man to whom he had been given a letter of introduction.

After a long and tedious journey he hailed a wild-looking fellow who was smoking outside a shack.

"Does Hard Pete live near here?" asked the traveller.

"No," said the man.

"Then can you tell me where I can find his friend and neighbour, Rough-House Joe?"

"I'm Rough-House Joe!"

"Well, they told me Hard Pete lived within gunshot of you."

"He did."

"What inspired the old-time pioneers to set forth in their covered wagons?"

"Well, maybe they didn't want to wait about 30 years for a train."

She was a very efficient young woman. One day she saw a large car rolling slowly down the street without a driver. Unhesitatingly she ran to the side of the moving vehicle, opened the door, hopped in and applied the brakes.

Then she got out and looked for the driver. A mere man appeared, and she asked: "Is this your car?"

He admitted ownership.

"Well," she said, "it was running away down the street."

"I know it was," said the man, sadly. "I was pushing it to the garage."

"My father was a Pole."
"North or South?"

The Hollywood film director who had lunched very unwisely returned to the studio for an interview with a distinguished author. His visitor was waiting.

Oldest Bat Dates Back 60,000,000 Years

Dr. Glenn L. Jepsen, Assistant Professor of Geology at Princeton University, has announced that a small fossil found five years ago in southwestern Wyoming had been identified as the oldest known skeleton of a bat.

Professor Jepsen estimated the fossil's age at 60,000,000 years, 40,000,000 more than that of any other bat skeleton definitely identified in the Western Hemisphere.

Newsprint production in Canada during the first nine months of 1940 totalled 2,573,605 tons compared with 2,058,899 tons in the corresponding period of 1939, an increase of 25 per cent.

HEALTH TOPICS

Fruits in the Diet

Fruits may be classed with vegetables and milk as protective foods. These foods supply very little of the energy requirements of the body but have other valuable properties. They help to keep the human body system functioning properly and correct deficiencies of diets largely composed of meat and starchy foods.

Fruits in general are similar in chemical composition to vegetables and both are valuable sources of vitamin C, states J. T. Janson, Division of Chemistry, Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture. This vitamin is best known as the anti-scurvy vitamin, but recent research indicates that deficiency of this vitamin is a factor in a number of human ailments. While the citrus fruits, oranges and grapefruit, and tomatoes, are recommended as the most reliable fruits to provide adequate intake of vitamin C, other fruits, including black currants and strawberries, are excellent sources. The vitamin C content of apples varies considerably in different varieties, but this fruit is generally considered a fair source of vitamin C. It has been found that the tissue immediately next to the peel has the highest content, so that there is some advantage in eating apples unpeeled.

AT LEAST ONCE DAILY

Vitamin C is readily destroyed by oxidation or exposure to air. Modern commercial canning practice retains most of the vitamin in canned fruits. Dried fruits generally have little vitamin C potency. Fruits are the chief source of the alkali salts of the organic acids, malic and citric. These salts correct acid reactions in the body, caused by the consumption of proteins and starches, and have mild laxative properties.

Recent biochemical research indicates that pectin has valuable colloidal properties which assist the processes of digestion. Fruits in general provide the best source of pectin, although the amount and quality varies considerably in different fruits. Pectin usually reaches its maximum as to quantity and quality at maturity. Apples are notable both for the quality and quantity of pectin and are one of the best sources of this material. Fruits stimulate the skin and kidneys and help to keep the natural processes of the body functioning properly. They should be served either raw or cooked at least once daily.

72nd ANNUAL MEETING ROYAL BANK OF CANADA

Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, Calls For Drastic Economies by Public and Government to Permit Full Measure of War Effort — War Savings Campaign Most Important Feature Federal Financing

Sydney G. Dobson General Manager, Reports Unprecedented Business Activity But Peak Not Yet Reached

Some of the factors having a vital bearing on the extent and effectiveness of Canada's War Effort were dealt with extensively by Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, at the Seventy-Second Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada in Montreal. Mr. Wilson drew attention to the fact that transition of Canada from peace-time to war-time economy had been made without financial disturbance or strain, and remarked on the essential soundness of Canada's financial position at the present time.

Mr. Wilson, however, warned that in the year ahead the financial problem would be more difficult and called for drastic retrenchment by the public and by governments in order that the maximum effort might be devoted to war purposes.

"There is little evidence of restriction of even extravagant expenditures on the part of the public as a whole, except insofar as this line of action has been made necessary by the incidence of taxation," he said. "Unless the public are prepared to save a very large proportion of the increased wages and salaries which are being distributed, there are three alternatives before us:

- (1) The Government must further drastically increase taxation, or
- (2) A system of forced savings must be adopted, or
- (3) The well known inflationary spiral will steadily gain headway.

"Nor am I sure that Federal, Provincial and Municipal authorities have eliminated from their budgets all unnecessary expenditures and postponed all capital outlays that can possibly be deferred, as they should do in war time."

TAXATION

Mr. Wilson expressed the opinion that "a considerably larger proportion of our costs should be met by taxation than has been indicated by any plans so far discussed. It seems quite clear that at the present tempo of business our national income is increasing at a much greater rate than the aggregate of all taxes."

Due to present business activity Provinces and Municipalities have had the problem of unemployment automatically solved for them and for the same reason their revenues have become increasingly buoyant. "I trust this situation will result in definite tax reductions by them in order to cushion the effects of greatly increased Federal taxation," said Mr. Wilson.

While admitting that no perfect scheme of taxing profits or income had ever been devised, Mr. Wilson expressed the opinion that present corporation taxes are not designed to produce either the maximum returns or to spread the incidence of taxation fairly over industry as a whole.

"I advocate nothing that would tend to reduce total Federal corporation taxes, but I am afraid that the Excess Profits Tax is going to bear unfairly on companies that during the period of the depression have been far from prosperous, as compared with those that have all along given a reasonable return to shareholders.

"Before leaving the question of war taxes, I should like to say that I think the personal income tax has been raised to the full extent that is economically desirable."

WAR SAVINGS

Mr. Wilson considered the present efforts to expand sales of War Savings Certificates by far the most important feature of Government finance.

"This is not because of the sums involved. The great bulk of our war financing must as usual be by way of bond issues. But I feel that it has not been sufficiently emphasized nor understood that savings by individuals in the lower income brackets are essential for another reason of the greatest national importance. Once definite shortages of labour, materials or capital equipment appear, personal savings become imperative. At that stage, only by curtailment in the production of consumers' goods can the production of war materials be increased. But surprising as it may appear, those in the lower income brackets are responsible for a great deal more than half the total purchases of consumers' goods. Full use of increased purchasing power would mean that instead of the demand for ordinary goods being reduced, it would be greatly increased, and to that extent would stultify our war effort. But war demands are inexorable, and if those who use the bulk of non-military production will not reduce their demands, the only way the situation can be adjusted is by a rise in the price level proceeding faster than increases in wages.

"This seems to me to be a compelling argument for a compulsory saving plan if the people as a whole do not respond to the present appeal of the War Savings Committee; otherwise those who are too weak or too selfish to face the issue will have wasted a part of the benefits which would have accrued to the thrifty as well as to themselves."

WAGES

Mr. Wilson remarked with satisfaction that Canada has been largely free of labor disputes since the beginning of the war and, it is essential that neither strikes nor lockouts should be allowed to interfere with production." He favoured the Government plan for a standard wage scale, supplemented by bonuses to meet any rise in the cost of living, the bonuses to apply evenly on a per capita basis and not as a percentage of existing wage rates. He felt that workers would accept their share of sacrifices if equal sacrifices are made by salaried employees, executives and capital.

SIROIS REPORT

Referring to the conference of Provincial Premiers to be convened shortly, Mr. Wilson said, "the main principles laid down in the Sirois Report can be said to commend themselves to most dispassionate observers." "If, in the exaltation of common sacrifice, a better plan of Government cannot be found, I greatly fear that it will not be found when peace returns."

In conclusion, Mr. Wilson spoke of the "terrible confirmation" during 1940 of his statement made a year ago, that "the very existence of the Empire is at stake" in this war. "I fear that at times we are inclined to forget the bloody tyranny within Germany itself, the steady extermination of the defenceless Poles, the senseless slaughter of 30,000 civilians in Rotterdam, the invasions of Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium following solemn undertakings to respect their neutrality, and the wanton destruction of historic buildings and churches, sacred not only to the whole English-speaking world but associated with the finest traditions of all humanity. These are things which we must not forget if we are to retain a proper appreciation of what we are fighting against. The new world order proposed by Hitler is one in which truth and honour have no meaning, law has no force, human dignity no place; a corrupt and corrupting tyranny, the qualifications for leadership of which embrace the basest traits of man."

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS

In presenting the financial statement for the year, S. G. Dobson, General Manager, stated that Canadian business was experiencing unprecedented activity and that the peak had not yet been reached.

Extending thanks of Directors and Executives to the bank's 7,000 employees, Mr. Dobson said: "Four hundred and forty-six members of our staff have enlisted for military service, and one hundred and fifty-eight more have been accepted and are subject to call. Leave of absence has been granted to all those who have enlisted, and positions will be available to them when they return. Married men are being paid the difference between three-quarters of salary and army pay and single men the difference between two-thirds of salary and army pay.

"The employees of our two London offices are performing their daily work amidst the death and destruction of modern warfare, and are carrying on in the characteristic British way. We cannot speak too highly of their courage and fortitude, which fill us with admiration. Up to date there has been only one fatal casualty."

Under the stimulus of war, business would experience still greater activity during 1941. "The Royal Bank," said Mr. Dobson, "is fully equipped to take care of all additional demands which may be made upon it to finance or otherwise handle this increased activity and thus contribute its share to Canada's war effort."

THE EQUITY

SHAWVILLE, JAN. 30th 1941

The C. B. C. Farm Radio Forum

Large numbers of groups of English farmers have been recently organized all over Eastern Canada. These groups, from Ontario to the Maritimes, are studying the problems confronted by the farmer these days. Study material on the important farming questions, that have so dramatically come into the spotlight a short while ago, has been prepared under the editorship of Dean W. H. Brittain of Macdonald College, and published by the Canadian Association for Adult Education. This is one of the most extensive projects ever undertaken in Canada. The Rural Adult Education Service of Lennoxville is handling the Quebec region.

Co-operating in this great adult education effort are the various governments, the Canadian Association for Adult Education, the united Farmers of Ontario, the extension service of Macdonald College, McGill University, the C. B. C. and countless farmers over the areas concerned. The groups held their first meeting Tuesday, Jan. 21st, and will meet every Tuesday for twelve weeks. Dramatized versions of the problems are broadcast, and on the basis of these and the printed material provided, the questions are discussed by wide awake farmers everywhere.

Reports are being sent in every week from all registered groups on the conclusions reached at their Farm Forums. These will all be pooled and analyzed to reveal the opinion of the farmers in Eastern Canada.

All organizational and contact work in Quebec is being done by the Rural Adult Education Service in Lennoxville.

Importance of Wool

For the past twenty-five years several million pounds of wool have been graded according to official standards. For the first time the entire clip of commercial wool in 1941 will be graded and sold according to grade. Not since the last war has wool played such an important part in the nation's war effort as it does now. In 1940 Canada used the equivalent of approximately 70,000,000 pounds, much of this volume having been imported from other parts of the empire and some from South America. Present indications are that Canadian requirements will approximate ten million pounds in 1941.

The volume of Canadian wool produced in relation to the total requirements is at present relatively small. However, the bulk of eastern production and a very considerable percentage of wool produced in western Canada is of the quality known as military wool. It is important, therefore to retain the essential characteristics of the various grades of wool.

On the sea, in the air and on the ground wool keeps the armed forces warm and comfortable. Every pound of wool produced in Canada in 1941 will be needed.

Keep the fleece clean should be the care of every sheep raiser from now until shearing time. If Canadian wool is kept free of seeds, chaff and burrs, a large quantity of clean fleeces can be piled up in the various grades, all of which are suitable for the various lines of manufacture, either for military or civilian trade.

South Onslow Council

January 17, 1941

A special meeting of the Municipal Council of the Township of South Onslow, was held on the above date at the usual place of meeting.

All members having received due notice. Meeting called for appointing a Councillor for seat No. 5. Not being a quorum Council adjourned until Monday, January 20th.

Monday, January 20th

The newly elected Mayor and Councillors filed their oaths of office. Members present were, Wyman MacKechnie, Mayor, and Councillors, Westbrook, Young and Clarke.

On motion of Mrs. Clarke and Westbrook, that Edward Stanton be appointed Councillor for seat No. 5.—Carried.

On motion of Mrs. Young the meeting then adjourned.

Jos. A. STEELE,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Record Egg Exports

During the 12 months of 1940, Canadian shipments of eggs to Great Britain totalled more than 856,000 cases, the largest on record and more than ten times the volume shipped during the corresponding period of 1939.

These exports made through the regular trade channels and without any formal agreements between governments were regarded as a stabilizing factor in Canadian egg prices in 1940.

Although in recent negotiations no formal contracts for the export of eggs were made, it is expected that during 1941 the British Ministry of Food will continue to purchase Canadian eggs in quantities. The Ministry constitutes itself the sole purchaser of imported eggs in Great Britain, and Canadian exporters negotiate their sales to the Ministry through the medium of their agents located in that country.

Correspondence

EDITOR THE EQUITY

Dear Sir—To save the trouble of discussions and explanations in my office regarding the so-called "Business Tax" I would like to make the following remarks:—

This By-law was passed by Council at the request of the business people of Shawville, as a protection against outsiders coming in temporarily and setting up business to the prejudice of local residents.

However, taxes cannot be imposed on outsiders unless the local businesses are also taxed. The maximum for outsiders is $100.00 and the minimum for locals is $1.00. This Council fixed the minimum of $1.00, which can hardly be called a tax at all, as the net revenues therefrom, after deducting collection costs, are negligible.

This is a valid by-law, regularly passed by the Council, and until it is repealed, the tax must be paid. A Court action has already been entered against one violation of this by-law. Ratepayers who have reason to complain of unfair competition may invoke this by-law, and I believe they will find that the Council will enforce the by-law if its provisions are violated.

If business people do not think the By-law is any protection, they should petition for its repeal. Until repealed, its provisions are legal and binding.

Yours truly,

H. C. ROWAT,
Secretary-Treasurer
Village of Shawville

PUBLIC NOTICE

TO THE RATEPAYERS

MUNICIPALITY OF SHAWVILLE:— Attention is drawn to amendments passed by By-Law 122 known as Business Tax By-Law, on the 9th of September, 1940.

1. By adding thereto, after Paragraph 9, the following Paragraph:—
9a.—The Mayor of the Corporation of the Village of Shawville, shall have power and authority, on behalf and in the name of the said Corporation and without having to secure any other authorization of the Council by resolution, to retain the services of any practising lawyer to take legal proceedings, prosecute and sue any person, firm or Corporation who may contravene the provisions of this By-Law.

2. That the penalty for infringement of the said By-Law be fixed at the exact and definite sum of Twenty dollars ($20.00) and costs, for each infringement thereof, in the place and stead of a penalty not exceeding Twenty dollars and costs as provided in Paragraph 8 of the said By-Law.

3. By adding the following Paragraph of the said By-Law:—

9b. The tax payable by virtue of the present By-Law shall become due and payable during the month January in each year, in the case of persons, firms and corporations actually doing business at the commencement of the year, and in all other cases, before business commences.

The list of those liable for this tax, prepared by the Valuers, is deposited in my office.

Shawville, 21st January, 1941.

H. C. ROWAT,
Secretary-Treasurer
Village of Shawville.

Poor Readers, Intelligent Otherwise

The discovery that as many as four out of every five persons retarded in reading ability have normal or superior intelligence has prompted the Reading Clinic at the Pennsylvania State college to enlarge its program of instruction.

"Too many people believe that reading problems are solved in the first six grades of a child's educational experience," explained Dr. Emmett A. Betts, who is in charge of the clinic. "On the contrary, between 8 and 25 per cent of all school children have reading faults and as high as 50 per cent of adults display little interest in reading."

In the face of these findings, it is the job of educators through modern methods, to correct reading difficulties while the person is still in school, he said.

He'll Take the Suit

Gabriel Gallardo figures he's just as good as in the army now. He's 35, lives in San Francisco, and his conscription chiefs have his number already. So why should he buy himself a new suit if Uncle Sam is taking his measurements? Arguing along that line, he told his tailors he didn't think he'd keep the suit they made to order for him for $35. He wouldn't be needing it now, thanks. The tailors felt differently about the work they had done and brought suit against Mr. Gallardo in the small claims court. Municipal Judge Kaufman pointed out that, even if he is conscripted, Mr. Gallardo will appreciate a change into "civies" on his day off, and told him to start paying.

To Prevent Nervousness

Learn to relax, both at work and during leisure hours, if you want to avoid that bugaboo of civilization, nervous tension, Leonard Allen, New York, advises. Here are a few simple suggestions:

At work avoid the strain of monotony and immobility; get up and stretch or walk about for a few moments each hour. Plan a complete break from activity sometime during the day.

Check up periodically to see whether your workday activities are all aimed directly at the attainment of your goal. Tolerate useless activities only as recreation. Keep away from unnecessary deadlines.

If you are a housewife, Mr. Allen suggests, "keep a chair or stool in the kitchen so that you may be seated while you work. Avoid body strain by wearing sensible shoes, not bedroom slippers. Eat at mealtime, and keep away from the icebox between times. Set aside a regular rest period each day. Do not be excessively fussy about housework; strike a happy medium instead."

During your leisure, learn to forget your work entirely. Recreation should not involve activity too closely resembling your work. Nor is it wise to clutter your leisure time with ceaseless activity. "People unwisely assume that vigorous recreational activity will naturally neutralize tension developed on their jobs, but this may not be true," the author says. "Unless rest is an intermediary, new exertion will simply create added strain. Always devote a certain portion of your leisure to complete rest."

Wanted: Hot Flugelhorn Player, Must Be Good

The following classified ad appeared in a newspaper:

"MUSICIAN: hot flugelhorn player, must be able to take solos, swing blues. Apply W. W. Herman, Circle 7-0162.

It seemed like a good idea to find out what a flugelhorn was, nobody around the office knowing, except perhaps H. A. S., whose day off it was. A call elicited the following: "A flugelhorn is a four-valved instrument, a little larger than a trumpet, but resembling a trumpet in size, shape, and form. Its pitch is B-flat, producing a tone between a trumpet and a trombone. The technical manipulation is that of a trumpet.

"The lip action in the blowing of the instrument is somewhere between that for a trumpet and a trombone, and needs special aptitude in blowing. The technical name for the lip action is 'embouchure.' The instrument has a baritone voice."

The advertiser explained that it was one of the oldest brass instruments, but had never been used to play hot music before.

A. Y. P. A. Service

An inauguration service for the Greenmount A. Y. P. A. was held in St. Stephen's Church on Sunday, January 12 when the following were installed in office:

President, Pearl Crawford, Vice president, Roberta Smith, Secretary, Grace Tubman; Treasurer, Lloyd Atkinson.

The following were also admitted as members, Erwin Beck and Ebert Smith.

The lesson, Ecclesiastes, Chapter 12, was read by Ebert Smith. The admission of members was conducted by the president Pearl Crawford.

The officers were installed by the Rev. K. C. Bolton, who preached on the text, Isaiah, 40.

Automobile Sickness

Recent authorities of nausea resulting from prolonged automobile riding have led some authorities to believe that frequently such sickness results from ocular fatigue, reports the Better Vision institute.

When an automobile is moving rapidly, objects fit in and out of one's line of vision. If the eye mechanism is in balance and functions easily, the images formed on each retina are transformed simultaneously to the brain, where they fuse properly. In the case of muscular or other unbalance in the seeing mechanism, considerable strain is placed upon the eyes to bring about the adjustment needed to obtain a simultaneous recording in the brain of the images supplied by both eyes. It is believed, says the institute, that the efforts to make these adjustments cause fatigue that often results in nausea.

History Moved, Not Man

Alexander Scheffer lived from birth to death within an area of three blocks in the town of Schaffers-town, Pa., and still was a resident of four different counties. He was born in Chester county, married in Lancaster county, died in Dauphin county and was buried in Lebanon county. The territory in which he lived was subdivided from 1712 to 1786, thus accounting for the changes, historical researchers said.

First Church Introducing Chanting

The honor of being the first church to introduce chanting into this country is divided between Christ church, Philadelphia, and the church in Marblehead, Mass., where it was first introduced in 1787. The popularization of chanting was the work of the Rev. William Smith, a Connecticut clergyman. The first Sunday School in New York was started in 1803 by Mr. and Mrs. Divil Bethune and Mrs. Isabella Graham. In 1809 the movement reached the West with the formation of a Sunday school in Pittsburgh.

University Gets Ancient Manuscript

Yale university has been given a musical manuscript written in 1470. The donor was Paul Mellon of Pittsburgh. The manuscript was written for the court of St. Charles the Bold and contains 57 compositions in five languages. It was lost for about 500 years. It is designated by the French name, "chansonner" and is initialed and bordered in gold, crimson and blue. Three of the languages are in English, establishing Great Britain's influence on the music of the continent. Fourteen original pieces are included in one of them, "L'Homme Arme," has been sought for almost a century.

'Styles' That Irritate

And Climax in Divorce

Husbands and wives can hurdle a crisis, pick themselves up and be on their own united way. But it's the little things that irritate to the breaking point. They may seem inconsequential at first, but daily repetition of annoying habits frequently lead husband or wife to confess, "I want a divorce."

There's the fellow who was probably a star halfback at college. Right now he follows the old Indian custom of letting his wife walk five paces behind him, never holds a door for her, and always lets her carry the groceries.

There's the sloppy woman, her house usually in a mess, ash trays flowing over, and never a clean towel in the bathroom.

Then there's the energetic male who is always going to do great things, gets up early Sunday morning and fools around under the car until wife calls breakfast. After breakfast he retires to the living room and lounges in her best chair, eventually dropping ashes on the new rug.

And that frivolous female whose feelings are easily hurt. She can't make up her own mind about anything. Wants to be pampered.

The Battle of the Sexes starts from just such annoyances as these. You can probably think of many others. Like the energetic wife who won't let her husband relax, and the rover boy who never knows when to come home. But stop. Check your own marital habits against these minor irritations before the light of your life starts mumbering something about "I want a divorce."

Liquid Saves Hosiery

To make sure you get the most out of your stocking budget, try carrying a certain little tube of stocking-saver in your bag. Its name is Run-R-Stop and it's a godsend to every woman who's had the annoyance of sprouting a run in her leg (or even second-best) hose, either in a public place, where it's embarrassing, or at home where she's dressing against time.

To apply this quick-drying, convenient preventive, just squeeze a drop on the damaged spot. If it's a run, seal the ends with the fluid; if it's a snag, be sure to catch all the loose threads.

Tests have shown Run-R-Stop to be just as effective on Nylons as on silks.

Refugees Burn Money To Escape Confiscation

Some of the people who evacuated foreign branches of the big movie companies are said to have made a pleasant discovery that it's possible to take money out of Hitler's Europe. A man who claims to have done it told how it was done.

First he liquidated everything he owned. Then, by paying a premium, he managed to change his marks into U. S. currency.

This money was taken to an American diplomatic representative and, after being examined, was burned there by its owner. The official then provided a document saying that to his certain knowledge bills of such-and-such denominations and serial numbers had been completely destroyed while in the possession of Mr. So-and-So.

The latter, after returning to this country, presented the document and eventually received new currency.

Asked how about our law against mutilating or defacing U. S. money, Mr. So-and-So said he guessed the law wouldn't apply over there or maybe that the currency could be considered lost to use and therefore already destroyed before he got hold of it. In any case, he didn't think he'd be prosecuted.

Chic Looking Not Expensive

Perfect grooming—of her clothes as well as herself—always is the answer for the chic and smart looking woman, regardless of her unlimited or limited budget.

A clean, carefully pressed $5 dress can do much more for any woman than a slightly wrinkled, mildly dingy $50 dress. A $25 hat does nothing for even a glamour girl's face if the veiling on it is wilted or the ribbon band a bit bedraggled.

There are no two ways about it—clothes demand attention, and if you make careful inquiries and get honest answers you'll find that every truly chic woman with low or moderate budget spends at least one evening a week keeping her wardrobe in order.

You'll discover that she keeps a bottle of good cleaning fluid handy and that she uses it on her hats as well as her dress or blouse in order to remove small spots or stains. She attends to buttons when they become loose instead of waiting for them to fall off. She is a firm believer in the stitch-in-time story. And she has a good clothes brush and a hat brush and a suede brush and she uses them every day.

Keeping Furniture in Condition

"It's time now to think of how to care for the porch or terrace furniture which must come indoors for the winter," says Helen Koues, director, Good Housekeeping studio. "If it is to be stored, don't put it away dirty or in bad repair—it will surely go to pieces."

Miss Koues stresses the point that the life of such furniture may be greatly lengthened if kept in good repair by careful cleaning, painting or shellacking each season. Scrub wood, metal or wood furniture with soap and water, and be sure to get in all the turns and twists. Sandpaper any rust from metal, cleanse and to store, protect with paper or cloth covering, held in place with string.

Cartel Is Monopoly

A cartel is a combination of industrial or business enterprises engaged in the same work for the purpose of attaining monopolistic control of the market, prices, production or patents. Each company retains its own identity and freedom of action except in the matters to which the common agreement may refer. Cartels may be national or international in scope. They are comparable to the great industrial holding companies organized in the United States.

The first cartel was organized in Germany (1862) by six firms that were at that time the only producers of tinned metal sheets in Germany. The earliest conspicuously successful one was the "Irma" or International Rail Makers' association, organized in 1883. These organizations came very much to the fore in 1926-27, when they were considered a symbol of Europe resentment against the American economic position in Europe and a weapon to fight the big industrial combines of the United States.

Vet Cemeteries

The United States has established six cemeteries in France, the jurisdiction of which was placed under the American Battle Monuments commission pursuant to an executive order of February 26, 1924. The manner in which those cemeteries were obtained is as follows:

The cemeteries of the Mesue-Argonne and Suresnes (with the exception of a small parcel of ground of the latter) were purchased by the French government, which granted burial rights therein to the United States in accordance with an agreement between the French minister of war and the war department, free of cost to the United States.

The Somme, Oise-Aisne, St. Mihiel, Aisne-Marne, and ground for the entrance of Suresnes cemetery were established under an agreement between the United States and the French government which granted perpetual use of the grounds for burial purposes to the United States, for which the United States paid a stipulated price.

Annual Meeting of St. Stephen's Church, Greermount

The following officers were elected for 1941 at the annual vestry meeting, St. Stephen's Church, Greermount:

Minister's Warden, Clifford Atkinson; People's Warden, George Tubman; Lay delegates, George Tubman and Allan Smith.

Plans were laid to complete the painting of the Church shed in the spring and it was agreed that the congregation favoured co-operating with the Orange Lodge in a suggested plan to enlarge the the Orange Hall building so that part of it might be used for parish activities.

The wardens reported that all pledges and expenses had been paid; that there was a credit balance in the general account, and that the stipend fund had been over-subscribed.

It was unanimously agreed that the stipend guarantee be increased by twenty five per cent, and steps were made for the early collection of the 1941 mission budget.

Votes of thanks were given to the Wardens, C. Atkinson and to Geo. Tubman and to the organist, Mrs. Gordon Smith.

The Incumbent, K. C. Bolton conducted the meeting.

EXHIBITS TELL STORY

It was not long before the original Royal Ontario Museum building was found to be inadequate for the rapidly expanding exhibits and research material. A new building was projected and completed in 1933. The old part was used as a wing and the main entrance now faced on Queen's Park. The Museum of Zoology was given the complete upper floor of the east wing and laboratories and workshops on the ground floor. These extensions of space enabled the institution to organize as a properly constituted museum.

In the development of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology, it has always been the aim to keep a proper balance between exhibits and research that is, between the popular and the scientific phases of museum work.

On the exhibition side, the aim has been to make the exhibit tell its own story with the minimum of descriptive label. This is accomplished in part by the provision of accessory material designed to suggest something of the habitat in which animals live. This trend in museum exhibition has culminated in the habitat group which depicts an animal amid a representation of its natural surroundings. Usually such a group includes a panoramic picture as a background. Only two large habitat groups have so far been attempted, these illustrating the black bear and the passenger pigeon, but a series of twenty-four smaller exhibits of the same type illustrate the habitat of a number of common Ontario mammals, birds and reptiles.

Not all the museum's specimens are on exhibition; in every large natural history museum; there are hundreds of specimens preserved in the research collection for every one on exhibition in the public galleries. One of the primary functions of a museum of Zoology is to study the animal life, particularly of the region it serves. The specimens on which such studies are based are secured chiefly by field surveys carried out by the Museum's own staff, but some material is obtained by donation, by purchase, and by exchange. The need that existed prior to the establishment of the Royal Ontario Museum for an institution to investigate the animal life of Ontario is shown by the fact, that, since its inception, nearly sixty species of vertebrates not previously known to occur in Ontario have been found within our limits.

"CONFESSIONS OF AN IMMIGRANT'S DAUGHTER"

by Laura G. Salverson
This is the tale of a stormy life; the autobiography of a great Canadian.

Mrs. Salverson is descended from the last of the Viking nobles. Her parents—Icelanders who made the voyage to Canada in '87—were settlers who never settled down. The account of their wanderings over the North American continent, from one city and pioneer settlement to another, and as far south as the cotton country of the Mississippi, is a book in itself. The writer was a delicate child brought up on the old Norse legends, who was taken in hand by an extraordinary woman, Aunt Haldora. There follow her experiences as a professional dancer, her first love affair and several years of grueling work in Canadian houses and factories. Finally she is happily married to a compatriot and she herself becomes one of the most successful of Canadian novelists, winning the Governor-General's gold medal last year.

THE WAR-WEEK—Commentary on Current Events

War Awaits Spring Drives; Sirois Report Is Ousted

"Do not regard the present full in operations as meaning that Germany does not know what to do next. The present pause is creative and only apparent."—German Propaganda Minister Goebbels.

"A final victory over 'totalitarian intolerance' depends upon Anglo-American co-operation."—British Prime Minister Churchill.

"A spirit of mutual understanding and confidence is characteristic of the friendly relations existing between the U. S. S. R. and Germany."—Tass, official Soviet news agency.

"The war will move to a climax in the next few months . . . perhaps in the next few weeks."—Hugh Dalton, British Minister of Economic Warfare.

"My personal and private opinion is that on Jan. 1 Britain stood a 55-45 chance to win the war."—U. S. General G. C. Strong.

Read together, these five utterances depict for us in broad, general outline the stage World War II had arrived at last week. Both parties to the conflict were taking stock, feverishly preparing for the climax spring was sure to bring.

Nazi Objectives

GERMANY: The whole world knew (said "Time," Jan. 13) that it would be to German advantage to strike, hard and quickly, for many reasons: to relieve pressure on backtracking Italy, to batter down the last resistance in the Balkans, to bring France and Spain solidly into the German orbit, to smash the centre of the British Empire—and its No. 1 fleet base—before American help to Britain could reach decisive proportions.

Several of these moves were for the moment stymied—Yugoslavia, Bulgaria (with the tacit backing of Russia), Turkey, were as firm in their stand against the Nazis as their relative strength would allow; Spain for the moment "wasn't having any"; the French Cabinet held too many trump cards (the fleet, and Weygand in Africa and Syria) to lose so early the game against Hitler. With regard to Nazi chances of successful invasion of the British Isles, official circles in Washington were of the opinion the odds were, definitely against it.

Offensive and Defensive

BRITAIN: The British were still in the main fighting a defensive war with Germany, awaiting the hour when they would have the full weight of American production behind them. Against Italy they were conducting a highly-successful offensive which gave promise of broadening out to wipe Mussolini's African Empire off the map, and weaken his position in Europe beyond repair.

Choice of Two Campaigns

In the Battle of the Mediterranean, the British had the choice of two major moves, of pressing the offensive in north and east Africa; or of waging war in the Balkans in earnest—perhaps gaining Turkey's adherence. The first of these two planned campaigns would be the more likely to develop.

Bread From Russia

RUSSIA: The new trade pact signed last week under which the Soviet Union undertook to increase her contributions to Germany's wartime breadbasket was viewed as of tremendous international importance. Besides broadening trade relations between the two countries, the agreements were said to have fixed mutual boundaries in newly-acquired territories and settled resulting repatriation problems (50,000 Germans in Soviet-held lands would return to the Reich). The signing of the pact followed weeks of increasing tension in the Balkans where the massing of troops and reports of disagreements over control of the mouths of the Danube gave rise to speculation that German-Russian relations might be badly strained. With China, the Soviets signed a new barter agreement exchanging Russian military supplies and machinery for Chinese tea and manufactured products.

In Legislators' Hands
UNITED STATES: The Pres-

dent's "lease-lend" bill of all-out aid to Britain was in process of passing the House of Representatives, from where it would go to the Senate. Debate in the Upper House was expected to continue another three weeks at least.

Such delay in legislation would do little harm to the British war cause, it was thought, since by practical standards American war aid to Britain was going ahead about as fast as facilities permitted, and past British cash orders for planes, munitions, were meantime being filled.

The Convoy Question

Still considered of paramount importance, though not talked about freely in the open, was the question of the U. S. strengthening the British convoy system. Everyone knew that the American aid program would be futile unless the goods produced could be delivered safely to Britain. It was expected that much would be done temporarily to relieve British shipping for war hauling, but the use of American warships in convoys would become a hot issue very soon.

... Shelved

CANADA: The mountain gave birth to a mouse—stillborn. Three years of work, millions of dollars in cash, hundreds of volumes of research material, months of publicity, appeared to have gone for naught when the conference of nine provincial premiers meeting in Ottawa last week threw out the Rowell-Sirois report (with its recommendations for reorganizing Canada's financial structure) after only a few hours' consideration.

Time alone could tell what effect this rejection would have upon the future of the Dominion. Perhaps not as momentous as we might now think. Many wondered who was right—Mr. King, who maintained that the adoption of the report would assist in the war effort; or Mr. Hepburn, who violently opposed it, saying that the time was altogether inopportune.

Now that the report had been shelved, the machinery of our governments would doubtless continue to function as in the past—until a worse crisis forced the re-vamping of our set-up in its entirety.

... Unappeased

A crowd of angry farm folk-taxed London, Ontario's, biggest hall to capacity last week and heckled Dominion Minister of Agriculture Gardiner when he endeavored to explain to their satisfaction the policies of the Federal Government regarding wartime difficulties of Ontario farmers. Unappeased was the gathering which asked for a bonus on hogs (now being raised at less than production costs); an increase in the price of cheese; removal of the peg on the price of butter; shipping of low-grade grain from the west as feed for eastern live stock.

The reaction to Mr. Gardiner's small concessions (a "floor" for butter, slight increase in the price of cheese) from Ontario farm leaders was not favorable. The provincial Minister of Agriculture was "considerably disappointed." The president of the United Farmers' Co-operative said Mr. Gardiner's recommendations were "very unsatisfactory." The president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture said the whole farm situation would be threshed out at the Federation convention this week in Toronto.

To Increase Army

A report issued at Ottawa last week by the Inter-Departmental Committee on Labor Co-ordination revealed that the Government is planning an increase of 117,200 men in Canada's armed services during 1941. Canada's munition-making army during the same time would be increased by 76,000 to 225,000. More than four new divisions (80,000) are to be added to the army this year.

World Hockey Meet Planned

Dr. W. G. Hardy of Edmonton told the semi-annual convention of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association that plans are under consideration for staging world hockey championship in Canada after the war.

Even before the war ends, world tournaments might be held on a smaller scale, said Dr. Hardy, past president of the C. A. H. A.

He explained that the chief purpose of the International Ice Hockey Association was to transfer the centre of world hockey from Belgium to Canada where it rightfully belonged. Organization of the I.I.H.A. was prompted by the outbreak of war in Europe and virtual collapse of the Old World body. Ligue Internationale de Hockey Sur Glace!

Great Britain, Canada and the United States make up the new world body and Dr. Hardy said that "the Olympic committee henceforth must take us on our own terms."

WINSTON CHURCHILL-1

John Churchill, the Duke of Marlborough, England's greatest general, was the illustrious ancestor of Prime Minister Winston Churchill. Since Marlborough's day, the Churchill family has given England many soldiers and statesmen.

Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill was born Nov. 30, 1874, third son of Lord Randolph Churchill and Lady Churchill, the former Miss Jennie Jerome of New York. His grandfather was the seventh Duke of Marlborough.

His school days at Harrow were the despair of his parents. Winston was last in his class. After two unsuccessful tries he finally was admitted to Sandhurst and immediately showed a great enthusiasm for military life.

Entering the British army in 1895, Churchill first saw action when he ran away to Cuba and joined the Spanish forces as an officer in a Hussar regiment. During 1896-1898 Churchill served in India, played much polo,

The gross revenues of the all-inclusive Canadian National Railways System for the week ending January 7, 1941, were $4,422,889 as compared with $3,620,164 for the corresponding period of 1940, an increase of $802,725 or 22.2%.

Fishermen-Farmers Harvest Eel Grass

Eel grass in demand for insulation and packing is furnishing a market for great quantities of this marine plant which is strewn along the beaches after every high wind. The fishermen-farmers of the sections of the South shore of Nova Scotia near Shelburne have been harvesting the plant and obtaining good prices. The Canadian National Railways line follows the Atlantic Coast along this south shore from Halifax to Yarmouth, an area which annually attracts large numbers of visitors. Shelburne possesses interesting links with the early history of New England and during its early settlement provided accommodation for Loyalists who had left New York.

FLYING CO-ED

BY MARY KINNAVEY MOORE

COPYRIGHT, 1940,
NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Anne Norris — wealthy college student, looking for thrills, enrolls in CAA flying course.

Georgette Parker — Anne's friend. Learning to fly is a serious business with her.

Tony Scott — college playboy, son of a gangster, envies Anne's social position.

Captain Dick Douglas — instructor of the student flying course at Midland University.

Last Week: Tony plots with Jumps Daley to damage Dick's plane. Meanwhile, Georgette solo, comes through without trouble. She is thrilled as Dick promises her night flying soon. He intends to get a few night hours himself. Anne confesses she loves flying, regrets all the things she said about Captain Douglas.

CHAPTER X

The sorority house was gay with laughter, singing, and after-dinner conversation. Anne and Georgette refused an invitation to join a bridge game and retired to their room to study.

Anne closed the door and began aimlessly sorting out books and papers.

"For goodness' sake settle down!" Georgette exclaimed. "I never saw anyone so restless."

Anne laughed a little absent-mindedly. "I keep thinking about what a perfect idiot I have been."

"Forget it. Everyone's entitled to be a fool once in a lifetime. Where on earth is my chemistry notebook?"

"I don't know. You had it under your arm this afternoon."

A frantic search of the room failed to reveal the missing book.

"Oh my gracious!" Georgette said suddenly. "I must have left it out at the airport. That's just what I did do—probably in the restaurant when we had a coke, just before we came home."

They stared at each other in dismay, then Georgette hastily put on her coat.

"Well, there's nothing to do but drive out and get it. I've got to have it if I'm to get any studying done tonight. Want to come along?"

"I don't think I'd better. I must get at French Lit. Don't be long."

PREMONITION OF DANGER

After Georgette had gone, Anne found it hard to bring her mind down to the mass of notes and papers spread out on the desk before her. No matter how much she tried to concentrate, her thoughts kept going back over the past few weeks.

Dick had praised her aptitude for flying. Later, when she'd told him of her determination regarding Tony Scott, he'd said as he shook her hand, "Good girl." There had been a friendly sympathy in his tone. Nothing more though.

She brought herself back from her reverie with a sudden start. Did she want to hear more than honest friendliness in his voice? She felt her cheeks growing warm.

Once more she tried to focus her attention on the studying that had to be done for the next day. Down the hall, a pledge called her to the phone. As she ran to answer it, she had a depressing premonition of danger.

She was totally unprepared for the loud, shrill voice that came over the wire, but she recognized it almost at once as that of Clarice, the dice-game girl at the Villa Aloha.

"Yes, this is Miss Norris." A frown puckered her brow. What on earth did the girl want?

"Miss Norris, maybe I'm messing in stuff that's not my business. But Tony Scott's a louse from away back, and you look like real stuff. Listen, Miss Norris, Tony found out who it was that helped you get away the other night — that flying guy."

"Yes?" Anne was more puzzled than before.

"Tony's sore. He knows you're through with him and he thinks this guy is the reason."

"You might as well know Tony wanted you to get in a jam when he brought you out here that night. He figured if you got in one, he'd be able to tie up with you. Get it?"

"Yes. I—get it." Anne's voice held horrified incredulity.

"So he figured that this flying guy gummed the works," Clarice was explaining. "Now he's out to get him. He got Jumps Daley — and Daley got tight tonight and shot the works to me. Here's what they're planning to do—"

While Anne listened in mounting horror, Clarice outlined the plans to sabotage Dick's plane.

"So that's the layout," the girl finished. "I'm giving it to you so you can warn the right people. If you like this flyer, he must be a good guy, so don't let anything happen to him." A note of fear came into her voice and she added, "But please, please Miss Norris, don't ever let out how you tumbled to this."

"I won't," Anne promised. "But wait—don't hang up. Isn't — isn't there something I can do for you?"

"Never mind me Miss Norris. I've looked after myself for a long time. Good luck."

The sharp click of a receiver on the other end of the wire echoed in Anne's ear. For a few minutes she stood by the telephone, numb with fear. Then a new and terrifying thought came to her. What had Dick said about a flight that very night?

According to Clarice, Daley was to learn when Dick was to make his next flight alone. He might have learned of this night trip. She glanced at her watch. Dick might have taken off by now. Already she might be too late.

Frantically she telephoned the airport. Dick Douglas had gone to dinner, and not yet returned. She gasped with relief. There might still be time to drive to the airport and warn him.

TO THE AIRPORT

A short time later the lights of the airport blinked before her as Anne drove down the last stretch of highway. As she approached the gate, she saw a car parked down the road. It looked like Tony's car! Then all this was true!

At this very moment, Tony and his companion might be carrying out their plans. But, thank Heaven, she had arrived in time to prevent disaster.

A hasty search revealed nothing of Dick. He had driven into town for dinner, and not returned. Georgette's little coupe was with a few other cars in the parking lot, but she was nowhere to be seen.

Perhaps she could find Georgette, enlist her aid. No, she decided, the chances were that when Dick returned he would go directly to the hangar where the cabin ship was kept with the other privately owned planes. No point in wasting the too few minutes trying to find Georgette.

For a second she considered going to the first airport official she could find, asking him to call the police. But it occurred to her that there might not be time. It was an hour when the airport was all but deserted. By the time the police could arrive, or by the time she could locate help at the airport itself, Dick might be in the air.

What were Tony and Jumps Daley doing?

She stood in the shadows near the administration building for a brief minute, in an agony of indecision.

With all the thoughts that raced through her mind, there was not one of possible danger to herself. At last she turned and hurried in the direction of the dimly lighted hangar. She realized that it probably was foolhardy. Yet at the same time, it seemed the only thing to do.

Near the hangar, she slowed her steps and began walking quietly and cautiously. If she could find Tony and his companion actually engaged in their work of sabotage, then she could race back to the administration building and give the alarm!

As she neared the door, a sudden vision of Tony's face as she had seen it in rage before her mind's eye. She felt horribly afraid. For a moment she paused, caught her breath.

To give way to fear now would mean disaster to Dick. Somehow she gathered strength to go in.

EXPLOSION OF PAIN

The interior of the hangar was almost completely dark. Slowly and quietly she crept in the door, staying as close to the wall as she could. Through the dark her quick ears caught the murmur of low-pitched voices.

There was the cabin ship that Dick was to use, a great dark bulk in the shadows. Near it moved two dim figures, almost like shadows themselves. Once or twice she caught the tiny beam from a little flashlight.

She had seen enough. Still moving cautiously she started back toward the door. Yet, careful as she was, she tripped against a piece of metal on the floor.

"Who's there?"

It was Tony's voice. In terror she ran, desperately, toward the door.

But just as she neared it, just as she was gathering her breath for a scream for help, there was a sudden explosion of pain in the back of her head, a moment's blinding light before her eyes, and then utter darkness.

Make Broom Sweep Clean

Watch Quality of Material and Workmanship When Buying One

A broom that sweeps clean is a desirable piece of cleaning equipment in every home. A broom's ability to sweep clean and wear long depends on the quality of the material used and the workmanship in construction. Real broom corn has tiny, finger-like tenacles at the end of each straw which pick up the dust and thus sweep clean. That is, a good broom is made up of a lot of little broom-shaped straws tied together, says the Christian Science Monitor.

The best quality straw is cut at the proper stage of ripeness to insure springiness. When buying a broom, separate the straws to determine the quality and fullness. Make sure that the inside is not padded with inferior material like old or seedy straws; then test the springiness by pressing it down on the floor.

TAKE CARE OF IT

What the chief points in construction? Good brooms are well shaped to give good balance. The rows of stitching — four or five is the usual number — are firm and accurate. The handle is smooth, straight, and firmly fastened to the broom.

Proper care increases the life-time of a broom. Dip your new broom in warm water before using it, then once a week thereafter. That keeps the straws clean, fresh, and resilient. Always hang the broom so that it clears the floor. Warped, uneven, and inefficient brooms result from improper care.

We're Sending More Furs To States

New Agreement Signed In December Means Canada May Ship Greater Quantity of Silver or Black Fox Skins to U. S.

A supplementary trade agreement between Canada and the United States, signed on December 13, 1940, increases the number of Canadian silver or black fox fur skins which may be imported during a quota year from 58,300 to 70,000. The agreement exempts higher-valued animals from quota limitations, and established separate quotas for parts and articles made of fox furs and skins. The share to all other foreign countries is 30,000. The agreement also limits the total imports into the United States of silver or black foxes valued at less than $250 each, and whole or black fox furs and skins to 100,000 units in any twelve-month period beginning December 1, 1941, or any subsequent year. The new agreement became effective December 20, 1940.

War Influences Women's Styles

Visor Hats Popular, But Brimmed Ones Are Holding Their Own

Naturally events in Europe are having their influence on the modes and manners of the day. The uniform is responsible for a lot and love of country, a noble sentiment in itself, is the inspiration, so-called, for atrocities in the way of apparel and gadgets.

BASKET HATS POPULAR

It didn't take a war to make visor hats a success but it did help the women to appreciate the advantages of a visor and to think seriously about visored caps, especially when in need of a sunshade. Visors go north and south, are in fact joined up with the people and things at sunspots. Photographs from London show them. Sally Victor adds an awning, instead of a visor, to her sun hats. The Sally Milgrim collection also shows awnings, back not front ones. So it goes.

In the meantime brims continue to assume any shape they like, there being a distinct liking for the basket types, from south of the Mexican border.

Bites Own Finger

When luck went against him, a gambler cut off one of his fingers with a knife and placed it on the gaming table in the Asia Gambling House in Nantao, China. He was arrested by Japanesegendarmes. Recently two of the many gambling houses which have sprung up under the guise of ballrooms and tea houses were bombed with hand grenades, casualties resulting in one of the places.

More Requests

Last week in giving you requests I thought we had finished for some time, but there are still a great number here and I believe the only fair way is to complete them before I begin some new discussions. Then, too, these requests are full of variety and can be quite seasonable.

The Recipe given sometime ago for Mushroom and Eggs:

MUSHROOM AND EGGS

2 tablespoons minced green pepper
1 cup mushrooms, sauteed
1/4 teaspoon salt, dash of paprika
6 eggs
4 tablespoons tomato catsup
2 tablespoons minced onion
Cook onion and green pepper in fat and add to beaten egg yolks. Add mushrooms, catsup and seasonings to taste. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and cook slowly until thickened. Cooking time 10 minutes. This dish can be served alone or on buttered toast or on buttered tea biscuits (fresh) according to taste.

VEAL LOAF

2 1/2 lbs. veal ground
1/2 lb. ham ground
3/4 cup catsup
1 cup cooked macaroni, cut
4 tablespoons prepared mustard
Salt and pepper
1 green pepper chopped
2 eggs
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 cups bread crumbs
1 teaspoon meat seasoning
Mix together meat, macaroni, vegetables, eggs, baking powder and crumbs, add seasonings Shape into loaf and wrap in heavy wax-paper. Slip the loaf, paper and all on a rack in a roasting pan. Cook in moderately hot oven. Do not add water and do not cover. The meat should become well browned and retain its juices.

GUM DROP FRUIT CAKE

1/2 cup butter
3/4 cup white sugar
1 egg
1 1/2 cup sultana raisins
1/4 lb. gum drops (cut fine)
1 1/2 cups pastry flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup applesauce
Cream butter, add sugar and egg; mix well together. Sift dry ingredients and add half mixture to number one—then add fruit and remainder of dry ingredients. Add applesauce. Place in long pan and bake in oven of 325 degrees for 1 hour.

PRUNE SOUFFLE

1 cup cooked prune pulp
3/4 cup prune juice
1/2 cup bread or cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup nutmeats
2 egg whites
Mix pulp, juice and crumbs and stir well. Add sugar and vanilla. Stir again, adding nuts. Beat egg whites and fold into the mixture. Pour into buttered pan and set in pan of water. Bake in moderate oven until firm and serve with whipped cream. Time in oven 30 minutes. Temperature, 325 degrees. Serves 6.

Storage Space Household Need

Unused Family Articles Require Adequate Cupboards

Storage space is an absolute necessity in a house, no matter what its size. One of the limitations of many apartments is the relatively small amount of storage space available. Every family has numerous possessions which must be stored. Closets in bedrooms and a single closet for storage of linens is not enough, either in an apartment or in a house. The average family must in addition to the clothing and linens, store such things as trunks, luggage, old toys, tennis rackets, golf clubs, odd pieces of furniture, seasonal accessories and decorations, winter clothes, utensils and tools not in use all the time, and hundreds of other small and large items.

In houses of traditional design storage space is usually provided either in a basement or an attic. In most modern houses, even those which are not of so-called "modern" design, both attic and basement have been eliminated. This is justifiable in the eyes of planners if adequate space for storage is provided in other parts of the house.

A sizable utility room which is also used as a laundry will provide some space for storage. Additional space can be made available in other parts of the house or in the garage. Being above ground, the garage space affords a certain amount of light and air and is probably better for storage than the basement. If the garage is attached to the house, it may also be more convenient than attic storage space.

In Shadow Land

In Shadow Land, in Shadow Land, The world is very flat, The people there are tall and thin And never, never fat; They always walk along the ground, And never up like us— I really think that Shadow folk Are most ridiculous.

In Shadow Land, in Shadow Land, The houses always lean, And there no lights in house or street Are ever to be seen; No little paths with garden gates, No little stairs or floors, For Shadow folk run up their walls, And creep beneath their doors.

In Shadow Land, in Shadow Land, You never hear a sound; No birds are whistling overhead, No footsteps stir the ground; Oh, when I see it all like this I cannot understand How even Shadow folk can go And live in Shadow Land!

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE QUICKLY & EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning that proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from your drugist and use as directed. This Hem-Roid formula which is used internally in the form of a suppository, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at so reasonable a cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your drugist will gladly return your money.

St. Luke's Anglican Church, Caldwell, Elect Officers

The annual meeting for the parishoners of St. Luke's Congregation, Caldwell, met on Tuesday, January 21st for their annual meeting. The financial report was given by the warden, Mrs. A. Tubman. The statement showed a credit balance after all obligations had been met.

The interior of the church had re-decorated during the summer with the work having paid in full.

The new budget appointment and the Centenary of the parish were discussed, both of these matters received the full support of the vestry.

Mrs. J. Tracey and Mrs. H. Latham were appointed to act as a committee with the wardens on the centenary committee at Shawville.

Mr. A. Tubman was re-appointed by the rector as warden and Mr. D. Fraser was selected as people's warden. Delegates to the Synod are Messrs. John Caldwell and A. Tubman.

Bacon Exports

Canadian exports of bacon in 1940, as a result of an agreement with the British Ministry of Food, totalled about 330,000,000 lbs. of Wiltshire sides and other cuts. A new agreement between the Dominion Government and the British Ministry of Food came into effect on November 1st, 1940, under which 8,176,000 pounds of Wiltshire sides and other cuts are to be shipped weekly from Canada until Oct. 31st, 1941, when the agreement expires.

The 12 months total of 425.6 million pounds represents about 95,000,000 pounds more than was arranged for under the 1939-40 agreement. In addition, the British Ministry will take about two million dollars worth of liver, kidneys, tongues, bladders and casings, making total purchases of hog products under the agreement of $69.3 million, or almost $17 million more than was spent under the 1939-40 agreement.

Annual Meeting of St. George's Thorne Centre

The W. A. of St. George's Anglican Church, Thorne Centre, held its annual meeting January 5th at the home of Mrs. R. Holt.

The Rev. K. C. Bolton presided. The treasurer's report for the year was very satisfactory, showing all obligations met and a balance of $80.55.

Mrs. R. Holt was returned as President, for her twenty-third year in this office. Other officers were: vice-president, Mrs. T. M. Smith, secretary, Mrs. K. Bolton, treasurer, Mrs. F. Schwartz, Dorcas secy, Mrs. E. A. McCagg.

Annual Meeting of St. Mathew's Anglican Church

An encouraging year's work was reported at the annual meeting of St. Mathew's Anglican Church on January the 13th.

After the meeting an increased stipend guarantee, all expenses were paid and a satisfactory balance was on hand. It was agreed that the guarantee should again be increased; this time on twenty-five percent.

During the year the Church had been painted inside and out; and a new set of kneelers, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. McNeill, were placed in the church.

The following officers were elected:

Minister's Warden, Fred Hodgins; People's Warden, Norval McNeill; Lay delegates, Wilbert Kibber and Lawrence Lang.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the retiring wardens, Nathan Dagg and Norval McNeill, the organist, Mrs. Gertrude Lang, the Ladies Guild and to the incumbent the Rev. K. C. Bolton.

"THE TASK WILL BE GREATER IN 1941
THAN IT HAS BEEN IN 1940
... it is going to demand more effort, more sacrifice and far more change in our daily lives ..."

RT. HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING
(NEW YEAR'S EVE, 1940)

ALREADY the pattern and pace of life in Canada have undergone a profound change. Gaps in employment are rapidly filling up. Some 350,000 Canadians who were unemployed before the outbreak of war are now employed. Another 200,000 are with our armed forces. Factories, which until recently were turning out goods for civilian consumption, have been transformed into humming arsenals, pouring out instruments of war. Night and day shifts have become the rule rather than the exception. But the peak of effort is not yet in sight.

In 1941 still more factories will switch to war production... new plants will be established, thousands more will be employed. This rising tide of activity must continue until we reach the flood of effort when every Canadian will be employed and working to his utmost, every possible square inch of plant will be utilized, every wheel will be whirring in the race we are waging against time and the enemy.

More men are working... working longer hours... making more munitions... earning more money... producing more goods... putting more money into circulation. Most Canadians are sharing in this increased national wealth—have extra dollars in their pockets.

The effort the Prime Minister calls for is gaining momentum, but many Canadians, as individuals, have not yet felt the real pinch of sacrifice.

Canadians of all classes are sharing tax burdens, but it must be admitted that up to date the larger part of the money needed for Canada's war effort has come from business firms and individuals with large incomes. They are paying high taxes. They have already invested heavily in War Loan Bonds.

This is not enough. The plain truth is that Canada's rapidly expanding production for war purposes will require increasing sums of money. That is why the Prime Minister warned Canadians in his New Year's broadcast that the year ahead demands more effort and more sacrifice.

Every man, woman and child is asked to lend. Every dollar you lend will help to put another man in a job... making more munitions. Every dollar you lend may save a soldier's life... help to shorten the war. Small wage earners must carry their share of the burden, too.

No one need go without necessities, but you are urged to forego the purchase of unnecessary articles... however small the cost... no matter how well you are able to pay for them... which take labour and material away from the great task of providing goods needed to win the war.

This is your war. Everything you have... everything you believe in... is now at stake. This is a message to you... a challenge to every Canadian... a call to the colours... a call for volunteers.

Be sure to make provision to pay your Income Tax—payment is made easier by the new instalment plan. But be prepared to do more—budget your earnings to make sure that you will have money available to buy War Savings Certificates and to subscribe for War Loan Bonds. You will help Canada—you will help yourself.
