by Erskine Johnson

Hollywood —(NEA)— Behind the Screen: Hottest and most dramatic Oscar race in Academy Award history is simmering on Hollywood's front burner—Judith Garland vs. Grace Kelly. The girl born in a vaudeville trunk vs. the rich girl born in a Philadelphia mansion. The "old pro" vs. the newcomer.

publicity heat could melt the old boy.

Jane Russell is doing her own singing in "Gentlemen Marry Brunettes," but not so her co-star, Jeanne Crain. Anita Ellis' singing voice will issue from Jeanne's lips, and she isn't happy about the vocal blackout.

Gloria Grahame's ex, Director Nick Bay, and French dazler Genevieve ("Knock on Wood") Aumont have reached the deeper emotions stage. . . Now that Gary Crosby has dropped out of Stanford, he faces Army induction. But right now the junior Crosby's health graph isn't what it should be.

Cleo Moore is shrugging off the rumor that she and recording star Tony Travis are in the hitching mood. She told me: "After I do what I want to do in this business and after he gets to be a big singing star—who knows? Right now, we're not thinking of marriage."

Leslie Caron tried to explain to a Fox press agent on the "Daddy Long Legs" set that the title of her French play, "Orvet," means a small snake. "You know," she said. "You have them in this country—underwear snakes."

Garter snakes is what the French pastry meant! Private Ear Notes: Interesting aside on the battling Edmund Purdoms is that Norma Shearer has been Mrs. P's closest pal during the misery hours. . . Humphrey Bogart as cupid! "You kids ought to know each other," he said, introducing Dewey Martin to Gloria de Haven. It was a romance cue. . . vetoed a 10-day personal appearance tour by Aldo Ray to plug Warner's "Battle Cry"—another explosion in the battle between the gritty-voiced star and his home lot.

Sign in a Hollywood studio specializing in un-cover girl photos: "There's nothing new about cheesecake. Mark Twain once said: "The average American would rather see Lillian Russell naked than General Grant in full uniform."

The Guy Mitchell-Jackie Loughery patch-up is an Itold-you-so note. But Jackie, for reasons of her own, refused to officially flash the green light on the reconciliation.

Mrs. Edward G. Robinson, Jr., decided against another make-up session and will file for divorce. They were apart during his hectic front-page life. . . Negotiations for Mario Lanza to star in Leo McCarey's big musical, "Marco Polo" are in progress. Mario and his closest friend, fur designer Al Teitelbaum, huddled with Leo about the film earlier this week.

Wail of an actor: "I have trouble cashing checks. I don't know of a single place where I'm unknown."

Overheard At Ciro's: "That girl I saw you with last night should have been on a leash."

Short Takes: Variety's survey revealing that $80,000,000 will be spent on telefilms in Hollywood in 1955 is an eyebrow lifter. This adds up to 111 series, compared to 64 last year. . . Fox will film "Space Medicine," a flicker about medics meeting the demands of the age. . . William Powell, Jr., son of the star, is a new brass hat in the Pacific Division of NBC-TV.

The rush of several producers to film "War and Peace" gave Nunnally Johnson his latest quip. Says he's going to make a Civil War version titled, "War and Peace, You-All!"

Jane Russell and Howard Hughes finally agreed to agree. She'll star in six films for him during the next six years. Her loot: $50,000 a year in $1000 weekly payments over a period of 20 years.

Daddy Ringtail Goose Bumps

By WESLEY DAVIS

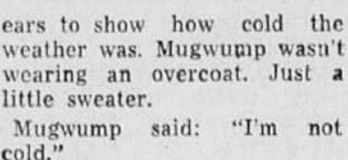

The cold north wind was blowing and howling through the Great Forest. Wintertime had come, and the Huffen Puffen, the friendly wolf, was walking along the Elephant Path, so wrapped up in clothes and coats that you could hardly tell who he was. Oh me, and oh, my, my, how cold was the day!

"Happy day, Huffen Puffen," said a voice nearby. The Huffen peeped out from all his clothes to see who the voice was. The voice was Mugwump Monkey.

Said the Huffen: "Happy day from your old friend, the Huffen Puffen!"

"Uhh, but why all the clothes?" Mugwump wanted to know.

"The day is cold, it is," said the Huffen. He put his cold, cold hands on Mugwump's ears to show how cold the weather was. Mugwump wasn't wearing an overcoat. Just a little sweater.

Mugwump said: "I'm not cold."

The Huffen laughed to hear it. "Of course you are cold," said the Huffen. "Those are goose bumps on your arm, they are." Because when you get really cold, goose bumps are the name of the little bumps that come on your arm from the cold. "Oh now," said Mugwump, "those aren't goose bumps. Goose bumps is what they are."

"Oh no!" Goose bumps!" said the Huffen. "Geese bumps!" said Mugwump.

And there they stood in the cold snow, shouting back and forth at one another: "Goose bumps!" "Geese bumps!" "Goose bumps!" "Geese bumps!" "Geese bumps!" The trouble that Mugwump didn't want to go back in the monkey house and get more clothes to keep him warm and the Huffen knew that Mugwump should do it. But Mugwump did go in for more clothes, his overcoat even, when Daddy Ringtail heard all the shouting and called him in.

And the thing to remember is this: goose bumps, geese bumps, it makes no difference what you call them. When you see them on your arm, then you know you're cold. It's time to get by a fire or to put on more clothes, as everyone should know, Happy day!

daughter and son, Miss M. Lyonnais and Mr. R. Lyonnais, all of Sherbrooke.

Property Management Discussed By Veterans' Land Act Administrators

The Veterans' Land Act convention, being held at the New Sherbrooke Hotel this week, goes into its second day today, with an equally full program of discussions and lectures taking place.

Today's schedule got off to a start at 8.30 this morning with A. D. McCracken, senior executive assistant, delivering an address entitled, "Planning For Better Results," which was followed by the superintendent of property management, W. Strojich, of Ottawa, discussing "Appraisals and Associated Problems."

A. C. Norcross, superintendent of property development, chaired a discussion concerning the paying propositions of small holdings, and J. Falardeau, of the provincial treasury, terminated the morning session by delivering an address on the treasury in co-operation with the V.L.A.

Three topics were on the agenda for the afternoon, with the first one being entitled, "Operational Delays, How To Prevent Them," which was discussed by G. Owen, the supervisor of property management. R. Gagnon delivered the annual report, and F. P. Aubrey disclosed some pointers on how to select a building site and its valuation. A period of questions from the field closed the program for the day.

By the close of the week's convention there will have been discussed many important administrative and agricultural questions. One of these questions is pertaining to a parliamentary amendment since the last session of the V.L.A., which enables a large number of veterans to take more advantage of the privileges offered them to realize their rehabilitation to civil life.

In 1942, the Canadian Parliament adopted a legislation called "Veterans' Land Act," to encourage and help the veterans financially in their agricultural establishment, for full-time farmers, small holders, commercial fishermen and settlers on colonization lots. Since that time, numerous veterans have taken advantage of this to become owners of farms or small holdings with a piece of land big enough to bring a secondary income.

Since the end of the last war, 5,008 veterans have taken advantage of the V.L.A. in the province of Quebec. In the Eastern Townships alone, 404 veterans have taken advantage of the Act for establishment on farms, 652 on small holdings, and 21 on Crown Land, forming a total of 1,077 establishments altogether.

Since the last convention of V.L.A. the act has been amended, and following this new disposition of the legislation, it is now possible to help the veteran who wishes to take advantage of the National Housing Act and who could not meet the initial deposit.

Previous to the amendments, the V.L.A. provided assistance to a maximum of six thousand dollars for the establishment of qualified veterans in the stated occupations. This assistance is divided into two parts.

Part one consists in the purchase of suitable land, and buildings, of which the veteran must pay 10 per cent of the cost. He is then required to repay sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of this cost at interest of 3 1/2 per cent over a period of not more than 25 years. In addition to this, if the cost of the purchase of the land and improvements is less than $6,000, the vet may obtain a grant for purchase of livestock and equipment to an amount not exceeding the difference.

The second part of the amendment provides additional assistance for the establishment of veterans in the three types of enterprise. Under this part of the act, the Director may assist veterans who are being established by an advance of $2.00 for every $1.00 they advance, with the Director being able to advance up to $3,000, for a full time farming enterprise which, together with the veteran's contribution of $1500 would make a total of 4,500 at his disposal, in addition to the financial assistance under the first part of the amendment. For small holders and fisherman the Director advances a smaller amount.

Part two of the amended act provides assistance for those veterans who would normally purchase under the National Housing Act, but who are not in a position to meet the large down payment. Under this agreement, the veteran is in a position to take a contract for the construction of his own home, giving evidence of knowledge of construction or agreeing to follow an organized plan, authorized by the V.L.A.

To be eligible for assistance under the Act, the veteran must have served in the Canadian forces during World War II or the Korean War. He must have served outside the Western Hemisphere or have a minimum of 365 paid days of service in the Western Hemisphere or be in receipt of a pension for a disability incurred as a result of service.

Local Nursing School Members Complete Exams

Nurses from the Sherbrooke Hospital School of Nursing who successfully completed part 2 examinations for registration with the Association of Nurses of Quebec Province were announced yesterday by the Association.

They are: Miss Rita Berube, Sherbrooke; Miss Margaret Blodgett, Lennoxville; Miss Marija Bruss, Sherbrooke; Miss Beverley Ruth Dustin, Magog; Miss Nancy Elizabeth Goodhue, Lennoxville; Miss Gwendoline Harrison, Bury; Miss Eleanor Mary Husbands, Quebec; Miss Lucille Lake, Savoyville; Miss Marielle Larabee, Greenville, Me.; Miss Esther Ruth McElroy, Stanbridge Station; Miss Beverly Pibus, Magog; Miss Mary Wattie, Waterville; and Miss Rose Williams, Coaticook.

A total of 168 nurses in this province wrote the exams out of which 155 were successful. Those who did not pass all their exams will be allowed to re-write in the spring.

New Member Is Inducted Into Optimist Club

At the weekly meeting of the Sherbrooke Optimist club held at the New Wellington Hotel last night one new member, Claude Duval, was officially inducted by Past President Erich Marquardt. This was done in accordance with the Club's new policy of having the official induction done by each past president in turn.

The highlight of the meeting was the showing of a film on the laying of underground cable by Maurice Beaudoin and Gaston Roy of Northern Electric. The film also showed the construction of telephone cables connecting Levis and Quebec.

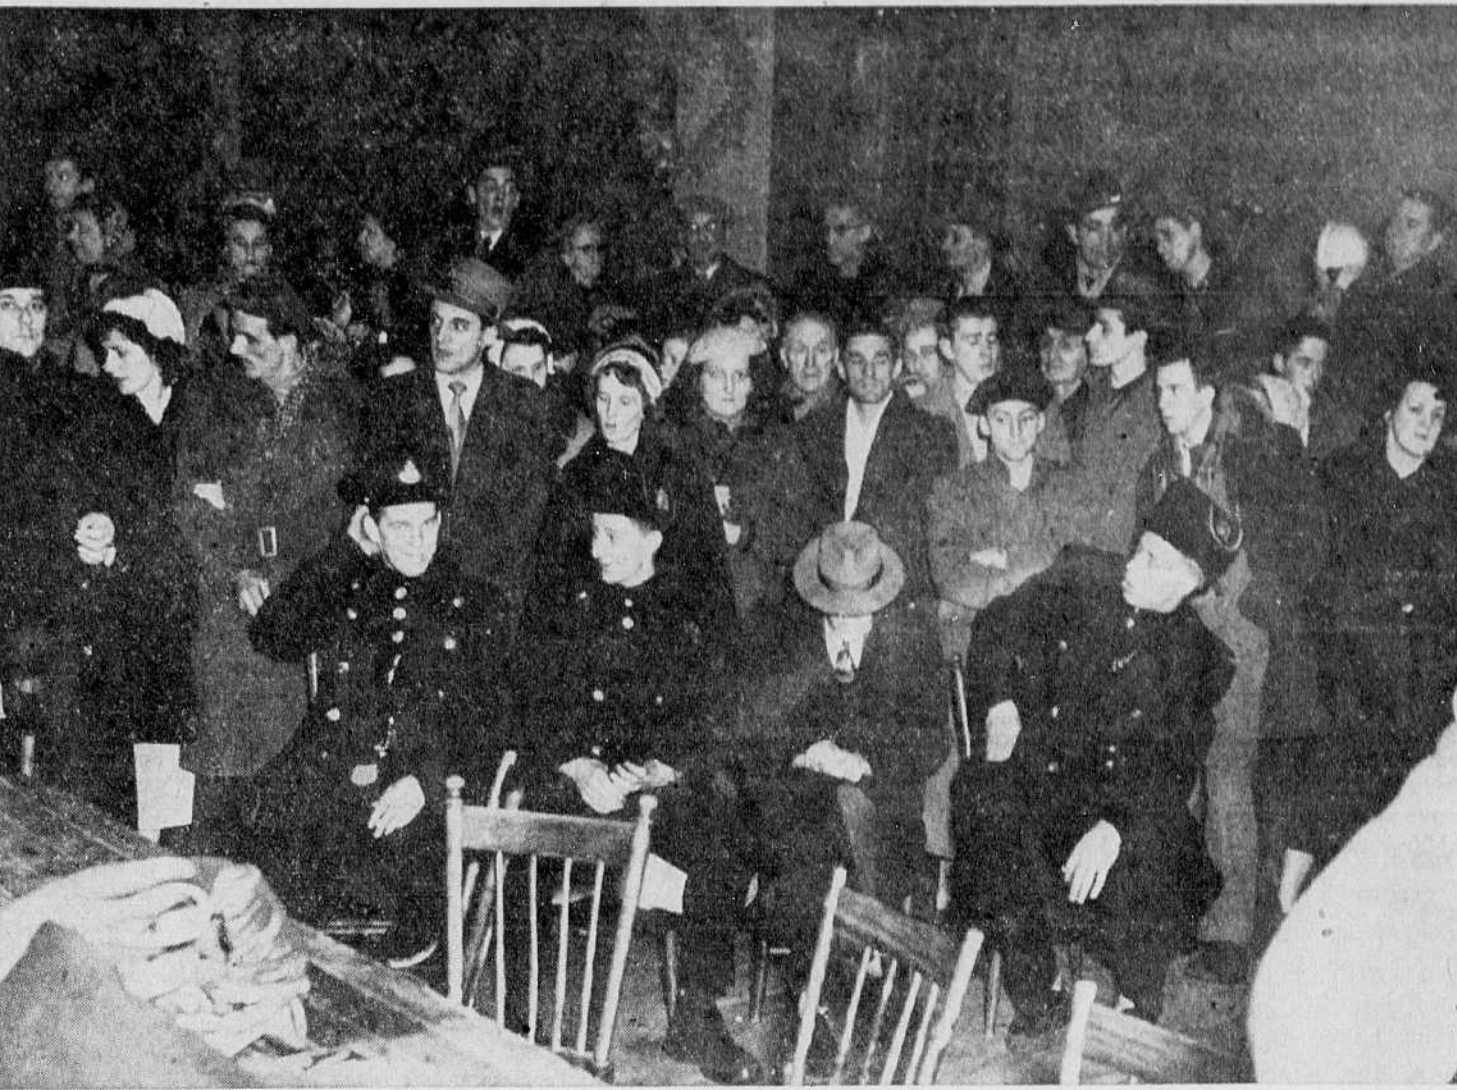

President Ivan Dugre thanked the members on behalf of the families who received Christmas baskets from the club. Mr. Dugre then announced that he would be absent from any further meetings until the end of the month. Vice-President Paul Allard will preside over the next meeting.

Stan Cuthbert, an invited guest and a former member staged a Chinese auction which raised $14 and was won by Bob Drury. The latter together with Urban Boutin answered an emergency call from a local hospital for a blood transfusion during the meeting.

Seated at the head table were: Bob Drury, Erich Marquardt, Gaston Roy, Stan Cuthbert, Maurice Beaudoin and Paul Allard.

Ulric Ashby Arraigned This Morning On Murder Charge In Lemire Death

Ulric Ashby, 64, of East Angus, was formally arraigned on a charge of murder this morning before Judge Redmond Hayes of the Court of the Sessions of the Peace. Any further proceedings have been postponed until January 13.

After deliberating fifteen minutes, a coroner's jury last night held Ashby criminally responsible in connection with the death of Gerard Lemire in East Angus last December 18. The inquest was held in the parish hall at East Angus in the presence of some 500 townfolk. Dr. Louis Gagnon, coroner for the district of St. Francis, presided over the inquest.

All during the inquest Ashby sat between two Provincial Police guards with his head bowed. He displayed no emotion after a verdict had been rendered.

Only three witnesses were called at the inquest, Raoul Lemire, father of the dead man, Gilles Ashby and Dr. Jean-Marie Roussel, of Montreal.

Raoul Lemire, garage keeper at Rock Forest, testified that the last time he saw his son alive was the Sunday before the shooting, but that he usually came home every week-end. The day of the fatal shooting young Lemire had stayed in East Angus because of a dental appointment. Lemire had been living in East Angus since the month of July last when he was employed as an office clerk at the East Angus unemployment bureau.

Ulric Ashby's son, Gilles, was called as the next witness and recalled what he saw in the house a few minutes prior to the shooting. He apparently entered the house shortly before noon and saw his father sitting on his bed with a rifle between his knees. Young Gilles asked his father what he was doing with the rifle and according to testimony last night, Ulric Ashby was alleged to have replied, "Mind your own business." The young man thought nothing more of the statement and continued on his way to his room. He then went to wash for dinner and after coming out of the bathroom he heard the shot and immediately disarmed his father, who then ran to the basement of the two-storey house. Gilles stated that he had known Lemire for about six months prior to his death and under questioning of Armand Nadeau, attorney for Ashby, stated that there had never been any harsh words spoken between Ashby and his young boarder.

Dr. Jean-Marie Roussel, medical-legal expert testified as to the results of the autopsy he performed on Lemire and stated that he died as the result of a bullet wound in the right side of the head, fired from a .303 rifle.

After the last witness had testified, Armand Nadeau gave a brief address to the jury in which he said that finding Ashby responsible for the death of his young boarder would bring dishonour upon the family name. Crown Prosecutor Roland Dugre summed up by saying that the jury had to decide whether the death of Lemire was natural.

Two Murders Head List Of Inquests During Past Year

St. Francis District Coroner Dr. Louis Gagnon yesterday released his annual report on the inquests held during the year 1954 in the district. In all a total of 124 inquests were held. This total compares with 77 in 1953. Thus a very active year was experienced in the district with the number of inquests increasing last year by 47 over the previous one.

There were only two murders recorded, one woman and one boy. The greatest killer once again was traffic, which totalled 23 but this, however, was 18 less than in 1953. Of these 23, eight were men, two women, two girls and 11 were boys.

Five persons, three men and two women, met death by drowning, while two died by suffocation and four in railway accidents. Seven men died in labor and industrial accidents. There was a total of 15 miscellaneous deaths recorded, while eight died by their own hand.

Of the 124 inquests, 68 were with a jury and 56 required only the services of Dr. Gagnon. A breakdown of the fatalities shows that 65 men, 23 women, 24 boys and 12 girls met sudden death in 1954.

Three Lucky $$ Still Running Loose In Area

It seems as if our Lucky Dollar followers might need a shot in the arm. No one seems to care about those three Lucky Bucks that are still lost out there in the cold. Don't forget. For a little bit of trouble you might be the recipient of ten or even twenty-five dollars. And who couldn't use all that green stuff?

If it is any help to you, but we're sure it won't be very much help at this point, the dollar that is good until tomorrow was spent two weeks ago on a Larabee bus in Sherbrooke. That is one dollar we would like to get back—just to see whether it did any more travelling than the other dollars after it had been spent on a bus.

Anyway, if you people want the Lucky Dollar contest to go on, you will have to get busy and find that dollar worth $25. We are giving you a pretty fair chance by making the bill good for a whole month—and we assure you, there are no tricks involved. The dollar was spent just Over a million United States youngsters came into conflict with the law during 1953 for offenses ranging from theft to murder. This same condition, according to Judge J. C. Samson of the Sherbrooke Social Welfare Court, will soon prevail in Canada unless drastic steps are taken to check the growing menace of juvenile delinquency.

Judge Samson told members of the Sherbrooke Kiwanis Club at their regular meeting in the New Sherbrooke Hotel last night, that during his 31 years law work he has seen a "frightening increase" in delinquency.

He told members that as long as persons sit back and say "Sherbrooke is not so bad" there will never be any measurable cure. In fact, he said, Sherbrooke is "no better than Montreal or Toronto" in proportion when it comes to juvenile delinquency.

In the last five years in the United States, juvenile delinquency has increased by 45 per cent, and in 1953 150,000 United States youngsters stole over $100,000,000 in automobiles. "And," he added, "while over a million children came in conflict with the law for offenses ranging from theft to murder, officials estimate that there were twice as many not caught."

Judge Samson lays the basic cause of the situation of the "general deterioration of the morals of the population." More money spent foolishly and more leisure time and a general departure from God and the spiritual values are also a great handicap, he added.

Today's youth is tempted more than ever before. He has more opportunity to leave the straight and narrow. Citizens should be more "wide awake," said the Judge, and adults should help protect our youth from "bad places."

Seated at the head table last night were: H. E. Grundy, Syd Hart, Judge Samson, Reg. Bishop, who presided, Tom Keeley, Pat Smith and Bud Howard.

Four members, including Lieutenant-Governor Les Memory, attended an inter-club meeting at Granby.

"Let's make it this Sunday!"

A CASUAL phone call, and "this Sunday" suddenly becomes an extra special Sunday! Whether the call comes from miles away or just around the corner, the invitation seems so much more personal, more inviting, when you hear it over the telephone.

Old and young alike turn to the phone when they're in a hurry. A round-up of the gang, a family reunion, a holiday dinner, a big date — it's faster, more exciting to telephone! And even the blow of bad news can usually be softened by a sympathetic voice. Next to seeing the people you care about is hearing their warm, familiar voices.

Old Man River

Sir Winston Churchill is having to move out of No. 10 Downing Street for a few months. Showing signs of wear, the traditional home of Great Britain's Prime Ministers needs shoring up, but Sir Winston trudges on. He shows few signs of physical decay which has necessitated repairs to his residence — and certainly no sign that he will shut down, even for repairs.

Commendable Study

This spring an agency of the Ford Foundation called the Fund for the Republic will release the results of a comprehensive poll of American attitudes on communism and civil liberties.

Polls are commonplace, of course. But, according to advance reports, this survey will merit nation-wide attention in that it will likely be the broadest and yet most detailed in a particular realm of opinion ever undertaken.

One of the most striking aspects is the fact that the polltakers questioned some 1500 U.S. community leaders in 100 cities. Systematically, they talked to top businessmen, political figures, editors, school administrators, union officials, among many others.

Attitudes of one type of leader with another, and of leaders as a whole with the thousands of ordinary citizens questioned will be compared. Since the topics involved are among the most crucial of our life today, the responses may provide a significant index to the thinking leaders are going in this vital field. Evidently, this was no run of the mill inquiry. The Fund for the Republic spent $125,000 and employed two professional polling agencies, including the Gallup organization. And although each operated separately, each surveying 50 cities, Fund authorities were somewhat astonished to see how closely the independent reports coincided.

Armed with an 84-item questionnaire, and perhaps the largest set of instructions ever supplied for an attitude survey, the polltakers approached their task. They encouraged interviewed persons to talk about whatever was on their minds, or whatever was "eating them."

The results of these pertinent inquiries should prove most interesting. They will be fully analyzed by Dr. Samuel Stouffer of Harvard, who led the supervisors' committee for the study.

They may well prove a major contribution to an understanding of how Americans are grappling mentally with the threat of communism and its relation to civic liberties. It goes without saying that the problem is one of the greatest, and a more commendable study could not have been undertaken by the Ford Foundation.

Wives--Diplomatic And Otherwise

Herr Oskar Schlitter, West German charge d'affaires in London, has got into trouble, serious trouble, with his home government. He has been recalled to Bonn and sent on leave. It is not Herr Schlitter's fault but that of an indiscreet wife who spoke her mind.

It may have been that Frau Daisy Schlitter, former actress and "Miss Germany of 1931," suffered from a nostalgic yearning for the limelight that was once hers. In any event she put her probably small foot "right into it" when she subbed for her husband at an embassy Christmas party, told her German-speaking hearers that they were "living among enemies in an hostile country" and added considerably more.

As a result Frau Schlitter has been under a doctor's care at Bonn and her husband's career has suffered a large setback. The Adenauer government has hastened to apologize for a regrettable speech put down to nervousness and inexperience.

Only a few months ago a member of the American embassy staff in Moscow was recalled with his wife to the United States. His wife, a pretty but impulsive blonde, had allegedly punched and pushed a Russian woman during an altercation and her husband was charged with uncomplimentary remarks about Russia when he arrived on the scene.

A wife can be a diplomat's greatest asset — or liability. It is so, too, with statesmen as with the generality of mankind. Examples are legion; a few many suffice.

In the Old Country, Lady Maude Hoare, a brilliant woman and a persuasive, in whose hands some prime ministers were like the proverbial wax, was credited with achieving her husband's first entry into the Cabinet and with much of Sir Samuel's success in political life. On the other hand, Margot, Lady Asquith — in the Kipling allusion "the woman with the serpent's tongue" — had a not-so-happy faculty of making enemies for her husband, the celebrated prime minister.

The extent to which a woman may help or hinder her husband's career has been realized more generally in the older countries than in the new. It is quite possible for all but the strongest men to marry success or to marry failure.

There comes to mind the gossiping wife who nearly ruined the practice of her husband, a physician, by talking out of turn. Her friends and acquaintances thought, incorrectly, as it turned out, that most of her data came from "the office." Also the wife of the American banker who caused a run on the bank by telling friends how worried her husband was about business. The institution was sound; the currency advanced by helpful neighbors stemmed the rush but the banker had a bad time.

Many successful men have been quick to admit that they owed much of it to their asset-wives. The careers of a few, such as Abraham Lincoln, have been able to survive the other kind — but Lincolns are very rare.

What Other Papers Say

SCENTED SUBWAY (Toronto Telegram)

Paris, famous for perfumes and slightly malodorous politics, has set an example to Toronto and other capitals by scenting the subway air. Trains leaving the station emit a spray of disinfectant sweetened with eau de cologne for the protection and pleasure of underground travelers. A correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune reports that when he took a trip with nostrils at-witch for delight he found that the smell of garlic still prevailed. That was the first test, however. If the experiment proves successful, it might be tried in the political arena, where the atmosphere needs to be disinfected and sweetened.

WALTZING UNIMPORTANT (Kitchener Waterloo-Record)

From Vienna comes the report that 2,500 Viennese wives have voted on the characteristics that make a perfect husband. Efficiency in his job won the most votes. Following efficiency were such homely and wholesome virtues as faithfulness, being a good provider, intelligence, having a sense of humour, strength, sobriety and so on. Nowhere a word for the ability to dance the waltz. One would have imagined that waltzing was a prerequisite of any desirable man in Vienna.

POOR STEWARDSHIP (Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph)

We don't know how many will shed a tear for the sad plight of Bernard Macfadden, 87-year-old physical culturist, who is in trouble over alimony payments due to his third wife. Macfadden told the court that his fortune, once worth $50 million, had dwindled to a $2,000-a-month annuity, most of which is pared down by other judgments and back taxes so that he has little more than $100 a month for personal needs.

Perhaps we should feel sorry for him, for even the story of the prodigal son can evoke a feeling of pity. At the same time, it might be well to note the results of careless stewardship of our wealth. It might encourage us to be a bit more efficient with regard to our own.

perament is not suited to the restrained, even tenor of parliamentary debate.

The great red plush Assembly Chamber itself looks more like a theatre than a parliament. Since its birth it has seen plenty of dramas and some comedies.

You can still count on a good Gallic uproar there when things are hot, with Deputies banging the lids of their desks like unruly school boys, the Speaker clanging his bell for order, and bundles of papers and books flying around as the antagonists shout abuse at each other. There have been some fist fights and general free-for-alls.

Occasionally the police have to be called in. The last time was during the strike of 1947. The Communists forcibly occupied the Tribune and refused to move until the Republican Guard was called in to throw them out.

Last May one Deputy got his face slapped (the greatest affront for a Frenchman) when he shouted an insult addressed to Deputy General Billotte.

Many of the Deputies are highly colorful and almost historical characters. There is the Honorary President, 82-year-old President Edouard Herriot, France's "grand old man" of politics, who voted against EDC. There are also Resistance heroes, who will bear the scars inflicted by German Gestapo torturers until they die.

There is another aspect of the Assembly which makes it completely unpredictable. That is the frequent practice of "march-andages" (bargaining)—the private deal which brings a Deputy to vote for or against a measure, sometimes for a reason which has nothing to do with the subject being debated.

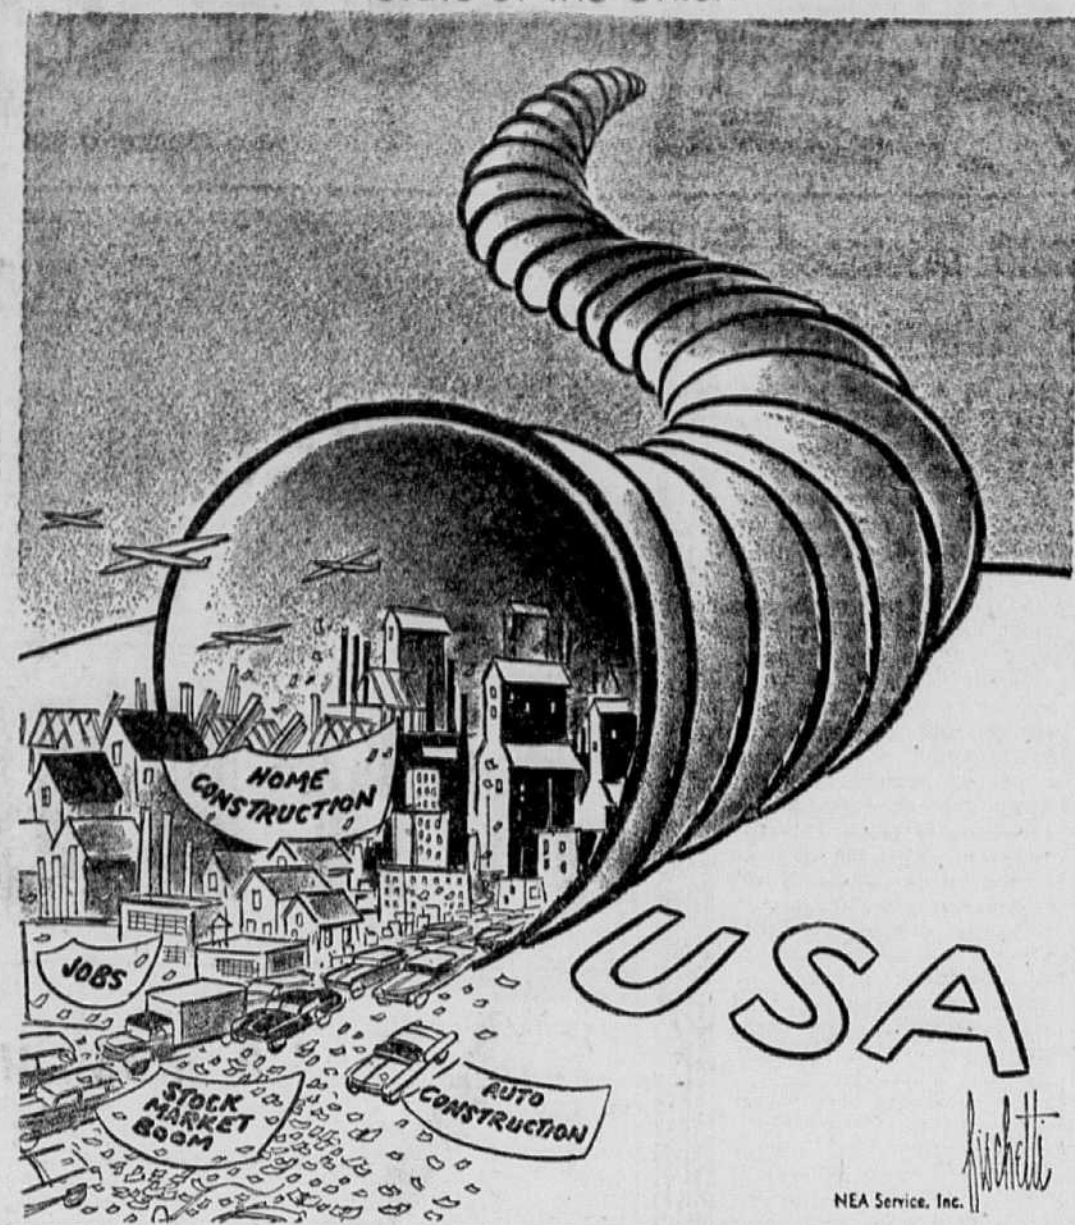

It works like this: Monsieur Dupont, who is also mayor of some provincial town, has been agitating for months for a new bridge which will bring an influx of tourists to his town. One day, perhaps in the "buvette" or in a Minister's office, Monsieur Dupont hears that the government has decided to uphold his claim.

Promptly Monsieur Dupont decides to support the government in any critical.

"It is only reasonable," says he, and thus another vote will be thrown in to support the government.

One vote gained can mean much in the French Assembly. In the dramatic month of March, 1940, Premier Paul Raymond saw his government installed on the strength of a single vote majority.

"Pitdown Charlie" Still Haunts British Museum

By TOM A. CULLEN

London—(NEA)—Next to the Crown Jewels, the Magna Carta and a few other knick-knacks, a thick, grayish-yellow skull known as the Pitdown Man was until recently regarded as Britain's most priceless treasure.

Discovered in 1912, it was supposed to be the skull of "the earliest Englishman," a beebrowed chap with a murderous jaw who roamed the forests of Sussex 500,000 years ago.

So valuable was the Pitdown skull that it was kept locked up in a special safe in the British Museum of Natural History—which was a mistake.

For had the scientists been able to get at him, they might have detected years ago that Pitdown Man was a two-bit phony.

As it was, it took them 40 years to discover that the Pitdown skull was, in reality, a not-so-old human cranium matched up with the jawbone of a young chimpanzee.

Still no one suspected Charles Dawson, the man who discovered the Pitdown skull, as the hoaxer. Dawson, who died in 1916, was a highly-respected lawyer in Uckfield, Sussex, who dabbled in fossils' as a hobby.

Today, mention the name Dawson to a nervous museum curator and he will drop a trayful of perodactyl eggs. For "Pitdown Charlie," as he now is known, stands revealed as the greatest faker of all times.

Charlie wasn't content with just one masterpiece—Pitdown Man. He doctored up the fossil remains of elephants from Tunisia, hippopotamus bones from Malta, and planted them in the gravel pits of Pitdown, where they could be "discovered" easily by himself and other eminent scientists.

He also "seeded" the gravel pits with flint instruments some of which he made himself, some of which he bought from "Flint Jack," a character who made them to order.

The demand for Charlie's phony artifacts was exceeded only by the credulity of British scientists. In 1938 they erected a monument to Dawson, "the amateur to whom professional men of science take off their hats."

But the British Museum of Natural History wasn't the only one on Charlie's sucker-list. In Hastings, the Dawson collection of fossils and flints, which the Hastings Museum bought from his widow, has been curtailed off from public view. Reason: over half of them are fakes.

There is the Roman statuette that isn't. Charlie claimed that it was "the oldest example of cast-iron in Europe," but experts now say that it's worthless junk.

Then there's the Water Bailiff's Tipstaff. The Prince of Wales was given a replica of this same tipstaff when he visited Hastings in 1927. Now, it turns out that Charlie bought it in a pawnshop. When he wasn't busy faking fossils, Charlie tried his hand at a bit of literary forgery.

The Pitdown gravel pits, themselves, became a sort of national shrine, with pilgrims from all parts of the world gazing down into the glassed-over trenches from which Eoanthropus Dawson, or "Dawson's Dawn Man" had been dug.

Charlie was preparing to unload more happiness onto the world when death overtook him. During his last illness he was investigating a development of incipient horns in a cart-horse.

Putting horns on a horse would have been child's play for the hoaxer who made a man out of a monkey.

British MP Guards Art Specimens; BC After Collection

Victoria—British Columbia is casting covetous glances at a rare assortment of Indian art collected by a Briton here following the 1898 Klondike gold rush.

The collection is the property of Sir Alfred Bosson, now a member of Parliament for Maidstone. Einar Gunderson, on a European tour recently as a special trade commissioner for the province, saw the collection and made overtures to obtain it for British Columbia.

"It forms one of the finest collections I have ever seen," says Mr. Gunderson. Included was everything made by early B.C. Indians, such as dugout canoes, thunderbirds, totem poles, masks, baskets, cooking utensils and small ornaments.

Mr. Gunderson said the collection was completed its work of drafting the Constitution of the United States in 1787.

ANYTHING GOES IN TOURNAMENT BRIDGE

The weird bidding of today's hand couldn't possibly take place in a sane rubber bridge game. In tournament bridge, however, it isn't quite as crazy as it seems.

When the bid of one heart came around to him, South was strapped for a bid. He didn't like to bid no-trump with no stopper in the enemy's suit, and there didn't seem to be much future in anything else. He tried one spade as a way of marking time.

As the bidding developed, it became evident that North had a very good hand that included very strong three-card spade support. With four spades and his evident strength, North would have raised spades at his first opportunity.

My friend and associate, Alfred Sheinwald, held the South hand at one table and decided to stay in four spades even though he knew that his partner could furnish only three trumps to add to his own three trumps.

The score for four spades would be 420 points, or 20 points more than the score for five clubs. This small difference, unimportant at rubber bridge, is vital in tournaments, as Sheinwald points out in his new book "How to Bid and Play in Duplicate Tournaments."

West opened the singleton diamond, dummy put up the ten, East played the king, and Sheinwald won with the ace. He entered dummy with a high club to lead another diamond, finessing the six from his own hand since it was clear that West had led a singleton.

In actual play, West ruffed the second diamond. Regardless of the later defense, it was easy for declarer to regain the lead, draw all of the trumps in three rounds, and run the clubs. The defenders could get their one ruffing trick and two hearts, but South easily made the rest.

If West had refused to ruff the second diamond, Sheinwald intended to lead the queen of diamonds in order to discard a heart from dummy. If West still

TWENTY YEARS AGO

From the Record of Friday, Jan. 11, 1935.
The United States Post Office Department today issued orders barring mail to hundreds of Canadians alleged to have sent lottery tickets into the United States.

Frank Richardson Cana, noted author and journalist, died in London, England, today. He was 69.

Ratepayers of Coaticook yesterday almost unanimously approved a by-law (No. 262) to commute the taxes of Charles Neider's Sons Co., to 30 percent of taxes for a "period of years." Only one vote was cast against the proposed plan.

TEN YEARS AGO

From the Record of Thurs. Jan. 11, 1945.

Vice-Admiral Percy W. Nelles, 53, has retired from the Royal Canadian Navy with the new rank of Admiral, ending a naval career spanning 38 years and carrying him from cadet to chief of Canada's overseas naval staff. He becomes the first Canadian-trained naval officer to attain full rank of Admiral.

Mrs. Althea Gallup, of Melbourne, is celebrating her 105th birthday anniversary at home today. Described as the "Grand Old Lady of the Eastern Townships," she is the oldest living person in the district, probably in the province.

Mayors of Sweetsburg, Dunham and East Farnham were elected yesterday. They are: Dr. F. H. Pickel (re-elected after 38 years in office), James Dymond and Alicide Gravel, respectively.

tion had many objects he had never seen previously, even in the B.C. museum.

Items were collected by Sir Alfred during many visits to remote Indian villages and settlements.

Sir Alfred was an architect in New York for many years before moving back to England about 20 years ago. His collection has been locked up in storage ever since until put on exhibit at the Imperial Institute in South Kensington.

Mr. Gunderson suggested Sir Alfred might wish to give B.C. his collection which would be known as the "Sir Alfred Bosson Collection."

However, if he was considering selling it, he was asked to let the B.C. government know first.

In a brochure at the Imperial Institute exhibit, Sir Alfred tells how he acquired a 30-foot "very early" totem pole from one of the coastal Indians, then was presented with the problem of shipping it.

To get it to England he had to have it lashed to the deck of a ship that sailed around the Horn. This was the pole exhibited in the Dome of Discovery at the Festival of Britain in 1951.

Strange Machinery Produces Miracles

The French Assembly's Gallic Chaos

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

Paris—(NEA)—It is hard for Americans, and British for that matter, accustomed to the more or less sober proceedings in the House of Representatives or the House of Commons, to understand the workings of the French National Assembly.

On important issues, such as Premier Mendes-France's battle over German rearmament, it is a well-known fact that the battle is waged behind the scenes almost as much as in the Assembly proper.

What strangers do not realize is that many of France's political decisions are made around the marble-topped counter of the "buvette" (bar) of the refreshment room of the Palais Bourbon and in the surrounding gilt and mirrored corridors, before they ever come to a formal vote.

Over a glass of red wine which costs but a few francs (no foreign drinks such as whiskey or American minerals are allowed here) the 627 deputies argue, speculate, intrigue and "fix" the line they will take.

Yet seeming so undecided, undisciplined, divided, and disorganized, the Assembly does somehow produce the miracle of a clear decision. This is a difficult feat for Americans and British who have only two political parties, but France counts about a dozen, with many of them subdivided into rival groups.

Even in the Radical party of Premier Mendes-France, there are what is known as "clans"—the clan Mendes-France, the clan Rene Mayer and another small group supporting Finance Minister Edgar Faure.

The moderates have their "Laniel clan" and the "Pinay clan." And no party which can be cracked loudly enough to make them all pull together, even on questions vital to the country. It is simply that the Latin tem-

Nothing Too Small For Speech In The House, Says Liberal

By TOM McCUSKER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Riviere Du Loup, Que. — Jean Francois Pouliot believes no issue is too small for a speech in the House of Commons.

For 30 years this 64-year-old Liberal member of Parliament for Temiscouata in eastern Quebec has displayed this philosophy with wordy speeches punctuated by gestures, touches of humor and occasional tears.

The new session opening Jan. 7 will mark his 31st year in the House. In Liberal party seniority he is second only to Hon. C. G. Power, dean of the House of Commons. But he gave his first political speech 46 years ago, when he was 18.

Older MPs associate the fiery, French-speaking member with the Riviere du Loup railway station and the paint job it needed during the Conservative regime of the late R. B. Bennett. Younger MPs remember his long bitter parliamentary battle on conscription during the Second World War and his subsequent split with the Liberal party.

All declare him unpredictable, with an acid tongue that spares neither party nor Opposition member when "my people of Temiscouata" are involved. Civil servants who displease him seldom escape wrath in Parliament, as Hansard reports show.

On his 30th anniversary as a member of Parliament, last Dec. 1, the big lineup outside his law office in this St. Lawrence south shore was not unusual. Since 1924, he said, he has been seeing about 50 persons a day while in his office, and also writing 60 to 70 letters a day "mostly to government officials."

The stocky, greying Pouliot says he is still in "first-class" health; does not plan to water down his tempestuous approach to parliamentary issues.

An MP who sat with the Liberal Opposition during the early 30s thinks Pouliot's first major issue was the paint job on the Riviere du Loup railway station.

Few debates, either on national or international questions, could pass through the Commons without a scorching discourse by Pouliot relating them to the government's neglect in painting the drab CNR station in his hometown.

Mr. Pouliot, whose father, grandfather and great-grandfather sat in the House of Commons, said he learned about politics as a youngster and never lost his love for it "even if it meant going against the wishes of some of my political chiefs."

He split with the Liberal party over the conscription plebiscite issue in the Second World War and was elected in 1945 as a Liberal independent.

Soon after, he rejoined party ranks because "I believe in the two-party system."

"However," he adds, "that's provided there is freedom of speech within the party fold."

Mr. Pouliot, who is bilingual, made his first political speech at a Sir Wilfrid Laurier campaign rally at Murray Bay, Que., in 1908 while he was studying law. He was batonier of the lower St. Lawrence division of the Quebec bar in 1944 and 1945, wrote legal works and covered the 1937 Coronation in London for the Montreal newspaper La Presse.

His uncanny memory for birthdays and anniversaries has won him many friends in Ottawa as well as at home. He is a pipe-smoker but loves imported cigars which he generously hands out to friends and visitors.

'54 Biggest Stock Market Boom Ever In US; Few Losers

By RADER WINGET
New York — (AP) — The year 1954 saw the greatest stock market boom in the history of the United States.

Old records going back to 1929 fell one by one as the market marched steadily forward all year.

People made more dollars in the 1954 stock market than ever before. The general public was in the market. They almost all made money. A few lost.

The value of listed securities on the New York stock exchange went from about $117,000,000,000 at the start of the year to an estimated $170,000,000,000 on New Year's Eve. A total profit of around $53,000,000,000.

The story was much the same for the American stock exchange in New York, the Midwest stock exchange in Chicago, and all the other smaller exchanges.

This present great bull market boom got going in the middle of September in 1953 after a nine-month decline. It dipped under profit-taking at the end of 1953, but recovered and kept

MELBOURNE

Mr. R. M. H. Duboyce and children motored from Dixie, accompanied by Mrs. P. C. Duboyce, who spent the Christmas holidays with her son and family. Derek and Jetta Duboyce remained with their grandmother a few days.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mr. Joseph Healey, formerly of St. Marys, who had resided in Melbourne a short time.

right on surging ahead into 1954.

In the final week of the year, the stock market went through a typical performance. Monday it was lower under the pressure of selling for tax purposes and because of the uncertainties surrounding the vote of confidence on the French government of Premier Mendes-France.

The market snapped out of that reaction and pounded ahead strongly Tuesday and Wednesday. It was quiet Thursday.

On the final day of the year the advance was resumed. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed the year at $155.20, up 60 cents on the day, and only $2.50 from the all-time peak.

The gain for the year was $47.10, or 43.6 per cent. The next best year was 1928 when the average was up 40.1 per cent. In 1929 the average from the first of the year to the all-time high on Sept. 3 advanced 34.4 per cent. For the entire year of 1929, of course, the average dropped 15.5 per cent.

In the total number of shares traded, however, 1954 was only the seventh greatest year with 573,374,622 shares changing hands. It is the best since 1933 when 654,816,000 shares traded. In the record year of 1929, the total was 1,124,800,000 shares.

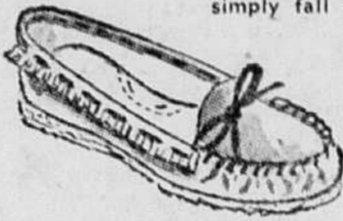

The year 1954 marked a change in the nature of trading. There was no doubt that the general public came into the market in large numbers. At the same time, the great institutions bid against each other for the blue chip stocks and for the "pale blue" chips as well. All of that helped to boost prices.

OBITUARIES

ARTHUR A. GILBERT OF SAWYERVILLE

Sawyerville, Jan. 11 - Arthur A. Gilbert, formerly of Sawyer-ville, passed away suddenly on December 30, 1954, at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Proulx, at Vaudreuil, Que. He had been in failing health the last few years.

Mr. Gilbert married Margaret Bisson, who predeceased him two and a half year ago. Of this union there were eleven children, of whom one died in infancy. The other ten survive, namely, Henry, Emile and Alex, all of Sherbrooke; Arthur, of Matapedia, Tobias on the old home place near Sawyer-ville; Alice, Mrs. Arthur Proulx, of Vaudreuil; Lillian Mrs. Arthur Winslow, and Evelyn, Mrs. Roderick Everett, of Sherbrooke; Marjorie, Mrs. Auguste Bourbeau, of Richmond, and Annie, Mrs. Lincoln Hodges, of Sawyer-ville, besides sons-in-law, daughters-in-law, twenty three grandchildren, one great-grandchild, several nieces and nephews, also one brother, Mr. William Gilbert, of Sherbrooke.

The funeral was held at Notre Dame de Rosaire Church in Sawyer-ville, on January 3. Father A. Gilbert officiating.

Flowers were numerous and beautiful. Several attended the service from Sherbrooke, Lennoxville and Eaton.

Interment was made in the Sawyer-ville Cemetery.

SAWYERVILLE--

Films Shown At W. I. Meeting

Sawyerville, Jan. 11.—Sawyer-ville W. I. Held the first meeting of the new year on January 5. Owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. Nugent, Mrs. Volney Hurley presided.

The meeting opened by singing the Ode. Roll call was answered by "Ways to protect a child's health."

Minutes were read and there were 15 members and seven visitors present. Correspondence read consisted of thank you notes and a bill from Lowry's store was ordered paid.

A vote of thanks was to be sent to Whitley, W.I., England, for a Christmas magazines received. A request is being made to hold a short course on hat remodelling this spring.

At the close of the business meeting the Club Woman's Creed was given, after which Mr. Palmer kindly showed films, namely Eye Witness, Polebarns and Milk- ing Parlors, Each Man's Son, Mission Ship, The Honest Truth and the Royal Tour of New Zealand.

Mrs. Hurley thanks Mr. Palmer and lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. P. Jersperson and Mrs. Douglas Twyman. The next meeting is to be a Valentine meeting.

OBITUARIES

MRS. CELIA CRAWFORD OF BURY

Bury, Jan. 11 — After an illness of many months, the death occurred on December 14, 1954, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Crawford, Rock Island, of Mrs. Celia Crawford, one of Bury's old and highly respected residents. She was in her 87th year.

The funeral was held in Friday, December 17, from the Boynton Funeral Home, to the Bury United Church, where she had been a regular attendant and staunch supporter.

The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Richards, pastor of the church. With Mrs. Eva MacRae at the organ, an augmented choir sang two favorite hymns of the deceased, "Peace, perfect Peace," and "Rock of Ages." Among the profusion of floral tributes, were wreaths from Alexandra Rebekah Lodge, Bury, the Women's Association of Bury United Church, Birchton Community, the Stanstead Fish and Game Club and a basket of beautiful red roses and white mums from her foster daughter, Mrs. Reginald Roberts, of Ottawa, who was unable to be present.

With six old friends as bearers, A. J. Hunt, S. J. Prangley, Ronald Stokes, Walter Atkins, Arthur Prangley and Clarence Goodwin, she was laid to rest in the family lot beside her husband.

Out of town relatives and friends attending the funeral were, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Crawford, of Rock Island; Mr. Charles Crawford, of Stanstead; Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Smith, Mr. Eddie Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Coates, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Coates, Mr. and Mrs. John Bain, Mr. Walter Hodgeman, Mrs. Louisa Beaton and Mrs. Orrin Bailey, all of Birchton; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rogers, of Verdun; Mr. Raymond Stevenson, of Sherbrooke; Mr. Herbert Gallup, Mr. Earl Gallup and Miss Hazel Gallup, R.N., of Bulwer, and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Damon, of East Angus.

Mrs. Crawford, whose maiden name was Celia Coates, was the eldest of five daughters of Henry and Lucy Coates of Birchton. She was born on January 24, 1868, at their home in Birchton, still owned and occupied by her youngest sister, Mrs. Hollis Smith and Mr. Smith.

Brought up on a farm in these early years she soon learned the necessity and value of hard work, and was never one to shirk any task that confronted her. In 1891 she was married to Andrew Irwin and went to live on a farm at Sand Hill. Following his death a few years later, she returned to her parental home. In 1900 she accepted a position as cook in the Sawyerville House which she held for eight years with the amazing record of never missing a single day in all that time. Coming to Bury in 1908, she took a similar position in the Imperial Hotel, which she held until her marriage in November 1913, to Reuben Crawford of Bury. At this time Mr. Crawford had a growing family of five children whom he and his first wife, having no children of their own had adopted. These were, John who gave his life in World War 1. Henry and his sister Bella, who died in 1926, Charles and Georgia. Accepting the responsibilities of this young family, his second wife gave them the same kindly care and consideration they had received previously.

Following their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Crawford took up residence on a farm in the Hardwood Flat road, where they spent eleven busy, happy years until July 1924 when Mr. Crawford was stricken with a fatal illness, while at work in the hayfield and died a few hours later. Mrs. Crawford then sold the farm and went to live in the village where she resided until the summer of 1953.

Living in a central part of the village she had many visitors, and being of a genial and hospitable nature their visits afforded her great pleasure. Always industrious she occupied herself with her household duties, her plants and garden and in her leisure moments with knitting and other forms of needlecraft.

Ever a loyal and devoted member of the United Church, she had for many years taken upon herself the colossal task of making the Christmas decorations for the church. As the years passed and her strength gradually failed, she was obliged to curtail many of her former activities until finally in August 1953 she had a fall which rendered her incapable of carrying on by herself any longer.

Disposing of her household effects, she was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Crawford, of Rock Island, where for fifteen months she was confined to her bed. During this time she was tenderly cared for by Mabel, Mrs. Henry Crawford, who administered to her every need and comfort, until the end.

Besides the above mentioned foster children, Mrs. Crawford leaves to mourn her passing a sister, Mrs. Hollis Smith two brothers-in-law, Mr. Hollis Smith and Mr. Herbert Gallup, numerous nieces and nephews and many friends.

What Will Summer Fashions Be After West Indies Tour?

London (C) — British fashion circles are wondering whether Princess Margaret will pick the long-bodied H-line for her Caribbean tour.

First royal traveller of 1955, the princess flies into the sunshine Jan. 31 for a month's tour of the West Indies, and her clothes will help launch the New Year summer fashions. It will be her longest solo trip since the death of her father.

The tiny-waisted princess has so far stuck to the styles that emphasize her slimmness. It was noted, however, that she applauded Christian Dior's H-line and later congratulated the designer on the clothes displayed at a November charity show.

Dior made the princess' first strapless evening gown. Then 19, the royal teen-ager raised a storm of comment in newspaper. Now the fashion-conscious are debating whether the princess will fall for Dior's flat-chested look, with its undefined waist and low hip emphasis. One point that might appeal is the impression it gives of height.

Long sensitive about her five-foot, two-inch stature, Princess Margaret wore high hats and platform-soled shoes for several years. Recently, however, the petite bachelorette girl has chosen flat beret shapes and slender strap shoes with light soles.

Most of the princess' clothes in 1954 have been wide-skirted and small-waisted. At the Chelsea flower show last summer she wore a scissor-line coat with full skirt, soft shoulders and fitted waist. Her hat was

Mrs. Ronald Smith Elected President St. Mary's Guild

Mrs. Ronald Smith was elected president of St. Mary's Guild, Church of St. Paul the Apostle, at the annual meeting which took place on Wednesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Fred Currier, Alexander Boulevard. The meeting was presided over by the Rector, Rev. A. V. Ottiwell and following prayers, the secretary, Mrs. Reg Farmer, read the minutes and a summary of the past year's activities. The financial report which was presented by the retiring treasurer, Mrs. Ron Smith, was most gratifying. The rector congratulated the retiring president, Mrs. Currier, the remaining officers and members for having such a record year, the best in the history of the guild.

Mrs. Currier expressed her thanks to all the members for their loyal support and co-operation during her term of office.

Other officers elected by acclamation were Mrs. Ed. Bryant, vice-president; Mrs. Reg Farmer, secretary; and Mrs. Clarence Wells, treasurer.

The annual meeting was followed by the regular meeting when plans were completed for a progressive "500" party to be held in the church hall Saturday January 15, at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets were given to the members for the "Name our doll" contest.

The meeting was closed with prayer, following which refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting was announced for January 19, with Mrs. Irving Richards as hostess.

MARRIAGES

BRADLEY—LOOMIS

The marriage of Miss Thelma Loomis, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Loomis, of Waterville, and Mr. John Ashley Bradley, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley, of Lennoxville, took place at high noon, Monday, December 27, 1954, in St. Peter's Church, Sherbrooke. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. G. Marston. The bride, who was given away by her father, was gowned in a cocktail dress of champagne Chantilly lace over buttercup faille taffeta, fashioned with a tight bodice, full skirt, and worn with a short jacket having long sleeves. A pill box had held her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion and she carried a covered

Prayer book to which was fastened a corsage of yellow Tea roses. Mr. W. Aylmer Bradley was best man for his brother and Messrs. Douglas and Francis Loomis, brothers of the bride, were ushers. Miss E. Mary Pollock, of Montreal, as maid of honor, was in a cocktail dress of Kelly green faille with a matching head-dress and she carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow and bronze baby mums. Mrs. Loomis, the bride's mother, wore a dress of iridescent crystalline with a white hat and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Bradley, the bridegroom's mother, was gowned in navy crepe and she wore a navy and white hat and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. D. J. Lowry, grandmother of the bride, wore a dress of brown printed silk with a brown hat and a corsage of yellow roses. After the reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley left for Montreal and Ottawa. The bride travelled in a tailored dress of grey and white checked acetate trimmed with green grosgrain, under a brown muskrat jacket and a white straw hat.

a light straw beret that resembled towelling. For a dairy show she picked a head-hugging milkmaid cap of black persian lamb, something like a trapper's bonnet set off the face. Another choice was a butcher boy's beret in oyster satin, with narrow head band and button crown, worn off the hairline and tilted slightly to one side. The Queen Mother and Princess Margaret were present at a December style show by London's "top 12" a private royal show emphasizing British fabrics. Princess Margaret, wearing a full-skirted black velvet dress with low-cut bodice and matching shell-shaped hat with white ermine trim, discussed each dress with the designer concerned. She was particularly interested in an enchanting evening gown by Victor Stiebel, who makes many of her clothes. In black-and-white organza and black lace, it had black strapless top with tiny waist. Another Stiebel frock that might suit the balmy breezes of the Caribbean was in white Nottingham lace with camisole top, wide ballet skirt and tight, satin cummerbund with floating ends, worn with a melon-sleeved black velvet coat lined with scalloped lace.

New Committees Are Named By Knowlton W. A.

Knowlton, Jan. 11. — The first meeting for the year of the Women's Association took place at the home of Mrs. Carl C. McClay, on Tuesday evening, January 4, with Mrs. Stanley Hardacker as co-hostess.

The president, Mrs. McClay, was in the chair, and the opening devotions were conducted by Mrs. E. H. Gray.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Elton Bockus, and three thank-you notes were read. A letter from a former president of the W.A. was read by Mrs. Gray.

The treasurer, Mrs. William Hives, gave the financial report for the past year, which showed a most active one.

It was decided to serve refreshments at the congregational meeting which will be held some time this month.

Woman Seeking To Record Folk-Lore Of Nova Scotia

By GERRY MARTIN

(Canadian Press Staff Writer) Dartmouth, N.S.—From the highlands of Cape Breton to the fishing villages of the south shore, Helen Creighton gathers a folk-lore history of Nova Scotia that isn't found in the history books.

She seeks the soul of the province, the joys and sorrows, storms and droughts that affected the lives of the people and now are recorded only in song and story.

For 26 years Miss Creighton has poked into the out-of-the-way nooks and crannies where song and story is handed down through the generations.

Her work is a race against time. Radio, and now television, have done much to replace the old songsters and yarn-spinners who once provided the entertainment in the tiny villages.

From her window high on a hill overlooking Halifax harbor Miss Creighton can watch the ocean liners of today slip majestically in and out of port while she listens to recorded voices, steeped in age, tell of the not-too-distant past when barques, schooners and brigantines flitted gracefully across the same water.

But this is only in winter-time. During the summer she travels hundreds of miles around the province.

Miss Creighton looks a lot younger than her 54 years. She has had three of her works published and has another book of songs being prepared. In 1932 her first work appeared, "Songs and Ballads of Nova Scotia."

Eight years later came "Twelve Folk Songs from Nova Scotia" and in 1950, "Traditional Songs from Nova Scotia."

Last summer she made a trip to New Brunswick and recorded 90 songs in one week. It's done on a tape recording machine.

The little lady with the ready smile and the easy manner just moves into the kitchen or the workshop with her subjects.

Her oldest singer was a 99-year-old Negro, her youngest an eight-year-old boy who sang in Gaelic.

Miss Creighton, recognized as one of the outstanding authorities on folklore and songs in Canada, joined the National Museum of Canada in 1948 and since then has recorded and re-copied 1,479 different songs, in English, French, German, Gaelic, Indian and Negro dialect.

Miss Creighton praises the government for its "foresight" in having the songs gathered and preserved for a time when "we will have only these records to tell of some of Nova Scotia's most colorful past."

Feeling headachy and miserable because you need a medicinal regulator?

DO AS MILLIONS DO! Chew FEEN-A-MINT

Why not ask your druggist today for FEEN-A-MINT—a modern regulator in chewing form? It's pleasant to take... it's dependable—and thorough. Yet FEEN-A-MINT is gentle in its action—gentle enough for little children. FEEN-A-MINT has a candy coating—refreshingly flavoured with mint. You'll never have to coax your children to take FEEN-A-MINT. You'll never have to force yourself to swallow ill-tasting potions. You'll discover, as millions of other people have—that FEEN-A-MINT is safe—effective—and pleasant to chew. FEEN-A-MINT is as handy as your nearest druggist.

So—next time you know you need a medicinal regulator—try FEEN-A-MINT. Do as your friends and neighbours do—as millions do...chew FEEN-A-MINT—and feel fine again!

Bob Bedard Makes Final Appearance Tonight At Arena

Brompton To Visit Sherbrooke; Two Other Games On Tap; Hockey Program To Be Available Tonight

Bob Bedard, who shares the top spot in the Massawippi Valley Hockey League scoring race, will be making his final appearance here this evening when Sherbrooke will be hosts to Windsor Paper Makers at the local Arena. In the other games East Angus travels to Asbestos and Brompton moves to Rock Island.

Bedard, who has been playing a big part in Sherbrooke's drive for top position in the Mac Wilson circuit, will be making his adieu to hockey here tonight. He leaves for New York tomorrow and on Saturday will sail for Europe where he will resume his tennis activities before returning home this summer to help Canada in her bid for the Davis Cup.

Frankie Reid of East Angus and Bob Bedard are at present stalemated for the scoring crown each with twenty-eight points. Reid has ten goals to his credit and eighteen assists while Bedard holds a comfortable margin in the goal-getting department with nineteen and nine assists. This gives them a four point lead over Claude Papineau, also of Sherbrooke.

Papineau is tied with Frankie Reid in the play making department with 18 while Dave Hayden, Sherbrooke, and playing-coach Champagne of Asbestos follow with 23 points each. Illick of Asbestos and Bertrand Morin of Sherbrooke are next with 22 points each while Couture, Windsor, and Carpenter, Asbestos, complete the top ten of the loop with 21 points. Only seven points separate the first ten in the close race.

This evening Manager Lucien Lachance will have his program for the fans. This has been held upon waiting for the printers but tonight the fans will have an opportunity of purchasing it. It will give a complete list of all the teams in the league.

A meeting of the loop has been called by President Mac Wilson for tomorrow evening at the New Sherbrooke Hotel at 8:00. Several important items are on the agenda for discussion.

Vote To Alternate Grey Cup Classic Between East And West Is Studied; Clubs Figure Still A Few Years Away

Toronto — (CP) — An interlocking schedule between East and West pro football leagues is closer to realization but still appears to be some years away.

Too many difficulties stand in the way of such a step in the near future in the view of a number of club executives polled on the subject by The Canadian Press.

They believe it will come eventually. But for the present it isn't practical because of high costs, uncertainty of air travel and the necessity for players, to hold other jobs.

GROUND WORK LAID

The ground work for such a schedule has been laid in the practice of western and eastern teams playing pre-season exhibition games in the East and West.

An interlocking schedule between the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union has been talked about in recent years but no action has been taken.

Al Anderson, manager of the Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos, is the most optimistic of executives. He says the interlocking schedule will come about, if not this year, the year after.

"I would prefer the interlocking schedule to the present system of exhibition games which I think are leading to an interlocking schedule," Anderson said. "With air transportation as it is, it would be feasible. It would be of particular benefit to television as different teams would be playing more often. The TV would also benefit the West as we could cut in on some of the revenue."

Bert Warwick, a member of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers management committee, said such a schedule would add more interest. An examination of the proposal from a financial angle should first be undertaken, he added.

Annis Stukus, coach of British Columbia Lions, said: "It will come about eventually but it is difficult to say just when. It

S.R.B.C. Plays Host To U.B.C. January 12th

This Wednesday evening the first regularly scheduled badminton match in the St. Francis Valley District will be held at the William St. Armoury when the "A" and "B" teams from the Sherbrooke Regiment will tangle with the University of Bishop's teams.

The first match is slated for 7:30 p.m.

There will be five matches in each division, "A" and "B". There will be a men's singles, and a ladies' singles, a men's double and a ladies' double and a mixed doubles.

Keen competition is expected as both teams are reported to have several star players in their lineups.

New York Giants After Three More Argonaut Players

Toronto — (CP) — New York Giants of the National Football League are after three more Toronto Argonaut players, bringing to six the number of Canadians on the Big Four invited to try out for the United States team.

Halfback Bill McFarlane, centre Elgin Hirst and linebacker Ken Foster, three first-year men with Argos last season, said Monday they received feelers from the Giants this week. Earlier, New York had asked back Johnny Pedosoff, Jack McGee and tackle Don Shaw to try for a spot.

McFarlane, Argos' top college draft choice who led the Big Four in pass interceptions last season, said he was offered $7,000.

None of the three was inclined to rush to New York. They indicated they wouldn't do much about the offers.

NHL Scoring Records Look Like Roll Call Of Montreal Canadiens; Bert Olmstead Joins Top Group

Montreal — (CP) — The National Hockey League's new issue of scoring records, released today, starts out like the roll call of Montreal Canadiens.

The four Montrealers who have been monopolizing the top positions since the official weekly issue of Nov. 9 were joined last week by leftwinger Bert Olmstead.

With five now leading the parade, all that is needed to make a complete team is to toss in goalie Jacques Plante, who was almost becoming the forgotten goalie of the league. But on an individual basis, the gangling Montreal netminder's average is best.

Was Laid Up
A fractured cheek bone shelved Plante for 18 of his team's 42 games. In those 18 games his three substitutes allowed 47 goals, a goals-against average of 2.61. Plante's average for 24 games is 1.58, which means the opposition scored a goal a game more against Canadiens during Plante's absence.

For purposes of the Vezina Trophy, Plante faces a terrific task if he is to overhaul big Harry Lumley of Toronto Leafs. The trophy, along with $1,000, goes to the goalie who has played the most games with the team least scored upon.

Lumley's consistency has kept him in the lead. He has missed only one game and his goals-against average is 1.71; his personal average is 1.72. Terry Sawchuk, who has played in all of Detroit Red Wings' games, has a 1.97 average.

Familiar Names
At the front of the scoring procession are the familiar names—Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, Jean Beliveau and Maurice (Rocket) Richard. Fourth place has been held by Ken Mosdell until Olmstead bounced in ahead of him last week with a collection of seven assists.

Olmstead's outburst also halted the climb of Gordie Howe of Detroit, who missed six games through injury and is trying to fight his way back to the scoring title he won the last four seasons.

Geoffrion is leading the goal-getters with 27 and has 22 assists for 49 points, three more than Beliveau. The Boomer scored three goals and four assists last week, while big Jean scored five times and had one assist. The pair work on the same line.

The official record shows Richard failed to get a point, although in press reports he was credited with an assist in New York Sunday night. A wired report to the NHL from New York on the scoring didn't list an assist for Richard; the score sheet has not yet been received.

Richard thus is still credited with 21 goals and 17 assists for 38 points, one more than Olmstead whose total of 30 assists leads the league in that department. He has scored seven goals.

Mosdell, with two assists last week, now has 36 points. Howe slammed in three goals, but collected no assists, to run his total to 34 points.

Canadiens retained their four-point margin over the Red Wings by winning twice and tying once in three starts. The Detroiters did exactly the same and now have 53 points to Montreal's 57. Toronto Maple Leafs won, lost and tied in three games and trail Detroit by seven points.

The leaders:
Geoffrion, Mtl., 27 22 49 37
Beliveau, Mtl., 23 23 46 30

Lennoxville Lady Curler Leaves For Scotland For Trip

Sixteen North American lady curlers will leave here Saturday for Scotland and a month-long tour of Scottish curling rinks. Eight Canadians and eight Americans make up the team.

Four Quebecers are included in the group. They are Miss E. Gauthier, Buckingham, Mrs. H. H. Clarke, Lennoxville, Mrs. H. S. Liffiton, Shawinigan Falls, and Mrs. Maurice Pollack, Quebec Victoria.

The curlers will be guests at the Outremont Curling Club Friday.

Coates Earns Split Decision Over Savoie

Montreal — (CP) — Carl Coates of Baltimore Monday night won a split decision over Armand Savoie of Montreal in a 10-round non-title lightweight boxing match at Montreal Mont St. Louis auditorium.

Coates weighed 141 pounds while Savoie, former Canadian lightweight champion, tipped the scales at 138½.

Savoie often looked bewildered especially in the early rounds when the 26-year-old Baltimore lad didn't give him a chance to land two punches in a row. Coates continually moved in close throwing short body jabs at the Canadian.

In an eight-round lightweight match Dexter Connors 137½ of Halifax won a technical knockout over Billy Jones 140½ of Otsville, Pa., when the American boxer became exhausted.

Rangers Call Up Billy McCreary From Guelph

New York. — (AP) — The battered New York Rangers Monday recalled Billy McCreary, 19-year-old forward, from their Guelph, Ont., farm club as a temporary replacement.

McCreary, one of the top scorers in the Ontario Hockey Association, is expected to play only in Wednesday's National League game against Toronto. That will be his third game in pro hockey and the last he can play without losing his amateur status.

Claim Records
The calibre of the Russian skaters was shown Monday when three bettered the world 1500-metre record at Alma Ata. A Moscow radio broadcasting said Eugen Grishin covered the distance in two minutes, 9.8 seconds, Alexander Mikhailov was clocked in 2:11.2 and Shilkov in 2:11.4.

The world record, according to the broadcast, is 2:11.5 and is held by the Soviet's Valentin Chaikin.

Skating officials in some western countries have, in previous years, questioned records established on the Alma Ata ice saying abnormal weather conditions prevail there. Alma Ata is near the Chinese border, close to Sinkiang frontier.

Ice skating is a rapidly expanding sport in the Soviet Union. The officials said that an average of 100,000 skaters use the rinks in Moscow daily.

Marilyn Bell, "Woman Athlete Of Year," Honored By American Writers At Buffalo March Of Dimes Dinner

Buffalo, N.Y. — (AP) — Marilyn Bell, Toronto swimming star, was honored as the "woman athlete of the year" by local sports writers and broadcasters at a march of dimes dinner Monday night.

The 17-year-old Canadian schoolgirl, who swam 44 miles across Lake Ontario from Youngstown, N.Y., to Toronto last summer, was presented a plaque in honor of her achievement.

Miss Bell was cited for her "remarkable accomplishment in becoming the first swimmer ever to conquer Lake Ontario."

More than 1,100 persons attended the star-studded sports dinner which raised more than $20,000 for the polio fund.

Marilyn, in a brief acceptance speech, described the occasion as "one of the top thrills of my life."

She credited her coach, Gus Ryder, who accompanied her to the dinner, for the success of her swim.

Key To City
A full roster of sports luminaries, past and present, attended the dinner. Among them were Joe McCarthy, former New York Yankees manager; Johnny Antonelli, New York Giants pitcher; Karl Spooner, Brooklyn Dodgers pitcher; Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds; Paul Andrews, light heavyweight contender; Arnie Johnson, former Rochester Royals

Mueller, German Champ, Is Found Unfit To Fight

Milwaukee. — (AP) — Peter Mueller, colorful German middleweight, was found unfit to fight today by Wisconsin boxing commission physicians because of a virus infection, and his scheduled meeting today with Irish Gordon Wallace of Toronto was cancelled.

After the doctor's decision, Mueller admitted he had been unable to train for five days because of fatigue. Promoter Phil Valley then cancelled the card, saying time was too short to arrange a substitute feature.

He was scheduled to meet Wallace in a 10-round at the Milwaukee Arena. In his last American start, also at the arena, Mueller scored a disputed knockout victory over Ernie Durando of Bayonne, N. J., after being knocked down three times himself.

Ty Cobb Enters Hospital For Annual Checkup

Reno, Nev. — (AP) — Ty Cobb, 68-year-old baseball immortal, was admitted Monday to St. Mary's Hospital for what he termed a medical checkup.

The "Georgia Peach" told a reporter "I feel fine. . . I'll just be here a few days or so."

Cobb, who maintains a home at Glenbrook, Nev., near Reno, was sued last week for divorce by his wife, Frances, 45, after five years of marriage.

Olson Interested In Bout With New Swedish Champ

San Francisco. — (AP) — Sid Flaherty, manager of world middleweight champion Carl "Bobo" Olson, said Monday Olson was "very interested" in a prospective fight this summer at Stockholm with Swedish champion "Skotteby" Bengtsson.

"But so far there have been no financial terms offered," he added. Swedish promoter Edwin Ahlquist said in Stockholm Sunday there was the possibility of such a fight.

Vic Obeck, Als' Vice-President, Is Confident That Sam Etcheverry Will Be Back; Have Good Men For Others

Montreal — (CP) — Vic Obeck, vice-president of Montreal Alouettes, said Monday he is convinced that from a legal standpoint and in every way Sam Etcheverry will be back with the Big Four club next season.

Quarterback Sam caused no little consternation and certainly the biggest mid-winter flap football has seen in many a day by signing with Chicago Cardinals, then reversing his field and signing with the Als.

Obeck also said that coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker "has already signed some of our key men and we expect others." In addition, Walker has been in contact with more than a dozen top college players in the United States.

Stand Behind Contract
Etcheverry's new contract, with Alouettes is for two years, which means the club has already taken up his option for 1956.

"He has said he wants to play here again and we feel he will," said Obeck. "I won't try to explain why he signed two contracts. When he was here recently he seemed satisfied when we talked things over and said only he wanted to talk with his folks first. Perhaps he became a bit upset. He made a mistake, but we all make mistakes."

"We feel we are on solid ground legally and we will stand behind the contract he signed with us. It was signed in the presence of witnesses and everything possible to make it all legal was done."

Moore Seeks Way To Make Marciano Fight Him Soon

St. Louis — (AP) — The campaign by light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore for a crack at Rocky Marciano's heavyweight crown took the form Monday of a want ad in the Post-Dispatch personal column, asking "information" on how to get the fight.

The ad said: "Information wanted on how to make Rocky Marciano defend his heavyweight title against a fighter who is confident he can whip him. He wants to fight fighters whom I have already beaten, easily or others who should be his sparring partners. Rush information to: Archie Moore, 115 Monroe St., Toledo, Ohio."

Los Angeles — (AP) — A youngster in the crowd at the 72nd hole in the Los Angeles open golf tournament Sunday saw a ball roll toward her.

The youngster, Jill Radel, picked up the ball and tossed it to the green.

Although it was first reported to have belonged to Ted Kroll, who took second prize in the tournament, a recheck showed it had been hit by Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex. Bill, who tied for 12th money in the tournament, probably can thank Jill for a stroke. He made the putt.

A PCA official said the incident was "the rub of the green" and no special ruling was necessary.

Ray Powell Still Top Marksmen In Quebec League

Montreal — (P) — Ray Powell, Quebec Aces' veteran center, continues to lead Quebec Hockey League scorers, but the opposition is closing in. Powell has 19 goals and 32 assists for a total of 51 points, a scant three ahead of Kelly Burnett of Montreal Royals. Burnett's points are made up of 16 goals and 32 assists.

Indians Is Still Team To Beat In American-Marion

Chicago — (P) — Marty Marion, new manager of the Chicago White Sox, is bubbling over with pennant hopes and tabs Cleveland as the big team to beat in the 1955 race rather than the highly-regarded New York Yankees. "Although the Yankees got Bob Turley, Don Larsen and Bill Hunter," said Marion, former St. Louis Cardinal shortstop star, St. Louis Browns manager and White Sox coach, "I see Cleveland as our chief rival."

IRISH WAGER $5,463,679
Dublin — (P) — Irish racegoers bet a record $5,463,679 with pari-mutuel machines during 1954, the Irish racing board announced Monday. The total is 10 times that of 1938. The board said it estimated another $5,500,000 were bet with bookmakers, legal in Ireland.

ROGER LAVERDIERE
Roger Laverdiere has been appointed sales manager of the marketing division for Quebec by Imperial Oil, succeeding D. F. Kindellan who has been named manager of the company's Manitoba division. Mr. Laverdiere, a native of Montreal, joined Imperial in that city in 1938, and has served in various capacities in the marketing department. In 1952, he was appointed Montreal district manager, and subsequently was named assistant sales manager, Quebec division.

Past Year Tough For Agriculture, Says Agronomer

1954 was a tough year for Canadian agriculture. Along with the fact it is caught in a fairly long period of declining prices, the 1954 season was the most unfavorable in many years. Just about everything that could happen in terms of weather and pests happened this past year, this being highlighted in Quebec by excessive rainfall, stated W. G. MacDougall, County Agriculturist in an address.

As a result grain, seed and silage crops were low in yield and poor in quality. In many cases, the crops could not be harvested. This will bring cash incomes to the lowest level since 1951, with net incomes being the smallest since 1947. The Canadian economy has shown clear evidence of leveling off or suffering some decline in 1954. These are the factors which contribute to the continued lower farm price trend. Total national production, total employment and exports all have declined in 1954, but these economic measures were still at a very high or attractive level last year.

While prices continued their downward trend and crops were poor, the cost of things farmers buy showed only the slightest tendency to decline. This means that along with nature's calamities, farmers are being more severely squeezed in the cost-price pincers.

Taking the produce individually, beef prices have been running about five to ten per cent down from a year ago. The corresponding range for hogs is down 15 to 20 per cent, but an increased output of meat animals in 1955 is expected, this being particularly true of hogs, where the expected increase will be nearly 20 per cent. The general prospect is that cattle prices in 1955 will run at about present levels, with hog prices possibly weakening and falling to the $23.00 floor price sometime during the ensuing year.

The prospect for dairy products is not promising. Total milk production in 1954 was about four per cent over the previous year. Stocks of butter on hand were 20 million over last year. The level of this would point to a downward adjustment of the 58 cent price support level next April unless the government uses domestic or export subsidies to move some of the stocks.

The domestic demand for milk products—butter, cheese, evaporated milk, etc., is still less than the supply of them, which means that export outlets must still be sought for some dairy products. Some quantities of these products are already being exported, with the government is considering the possibility of exporting butter as a means of overcoming the difficult stock position.

These shipments must be priced in competition with such countries as New Zealand and the Netherlands, and this tends to depress the whole price structure for our dairy products. Only when Canada gets on to a domestic or slight import basis will this situation be overcome. The prospect is that with the rapid growth of population and industrialization we may be on a domestic basis in five to ten years. Thus, in the long run, the outlook for dairy products is clearly more favorable than that for the next few years.

The poultry industry is suffering the results of expanded output in 1954 and of aggressive competition from the United States. Both egg and meat prices are well under those of 1953. Cheaper eggs may be in sight for 1955. These would be moderated in the latter part of the year if the 1955 hatch is reduced. The 1954 level of federal price supports will continue through 1955. The 1954 Canadian apple crop is estimated at 14 million bushels, 20 per cent over 1953. It is expected that the pressure of these large supplies will bring lower prices for the 1954 crop, and with favorable weather conditions in 1955, 15 million bushels are expected. With an upward trend in yield per tree, there is an indication that the Canadian apple industry may be thrown to a greater extent on the export market.

The Canadian potato crop in 1954 was about 25 per cent below that of the previous year. While supplies will likely be adequate, prices are high and will continue high in the first six months of 1955. In looking ahead to 1955, no serious interruption to the generally favorable position we are in today appears likely. Economic conditions in Canada are closely linked with those of the United States and the predictions for 1955 in that country are generally optimistic.

To summarize: The 1955 situation so far as farm prices and farm costs go, will be better than 1954. In such a situation as we confront in the coming year, the efficient production will be more necessary than ever.

Cancer Society General Meeting Wednesday Night

The annual general meeting of the Sherbrooke Branch of the Canadian Cancer Society will take place on Wednesday evening at the Group Headquarters, 204 Wellington North, Room 15, at 8 p.m.

Since the formation of the Sherbrooke Branch, some three years ago much has been accomplished. Activities carried on by the Branch include transportation of cancer sufferers to the Clinic at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, distribution of films on cancer to groups desiring them and an educational programme.

Last year a ladies auxiliary was formed at the local branch to make bandages and dressings for distribution free of charge to cancer sufferers in this area. Many of the ladies' societies in Sherbrooke have volunteered their services for this work and many hours have been spent at headquarters in the preparation of these bandages.

The annual financial drive was held last April under the joint chairmanship of Harry Grundy, Q.C. and Guy Blanchette. The objective of $5,000 was not quite reached. However with the amount collected the Sherbrooke Branch were able to carry on much work. The meeting scheduled for Wednesday evening will be convened by Douglas Howard, Q.C., and will feature reports on the activities of the various committees during the past year. An invitation has been extended to all those interested in the work of the Society to attend this meeting.

Claims MPs Opposed To Arms Plan

Ottawa — (P) — A Canadian winner of a Stalin Peace Prize said Monday night that several members of Parliament have promised to vote against the Western plan to rearm West Germany. He did not name them.

James G. Endicott, chairman of the leftist Canadian Peace Congress, made the statement in a press release issued following a day's campaign to get MPs to vote against entry of a rearmament Germany in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Mr. Endicott's aides earlier said 1,100 delegates would arrive from all parts of Canada to participate in the campaign, but rough counts showed that only half that number arrived and most of these were from Toronto and Montreal.

Debate on ratifying the London and Paris agreements providing for West Germany's entry into NATO is expected to take place shortly and be approved by all parties in Parliament.

In Memoriam

DESTROMP — In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Violet Destromp, who passed away at Sherbrooke, Que., on January 11, 1947. Not just today but every day, in silence we remember. FRED DESTROMP AND FAMILY.

DESTROMP — In fond and loving memory of my dear cousin, Mrs. Violet Destromp, who passed away at the St. Francis Sanatorium, January 11th, 1947. We were not there to see you die. To clasp your hand or kiss you good-bye. But we'll remember our whole lives through. The last few words we had with you. SUE SADLY MISSED BY HER COUSIN, IRENE AND FAMILY.

Cards Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbours who were so kind to us during the illness and death of our beloved sister and aunt, Agnes Gunning. Especially do we thank Dr. Klinek, Dr. Dougan, Dr. Ross and Dr. McLeod, the nurses on the 3rd floor of the Sherbrooke Hospital, Mrs. Cuthbert and Grace, the Officers & Members of Princess Rebekah Lodge, No. 4, all those who visited her, sent cards or Christmas Cheer, parcels and the friends and neighbours who sent sympathy cards, flowers and have called. Your kindness is greatly appreciated and will never be forgotten. MR. & MRS. A. GUNNING, MR. & MRS. GUY BRYANT.

We wish to thank all who assisted us in any way at the burial of our dear mother and grandmother, Mary Abbott. Especially the bearers, those who sent flowers and cards and Rev. Mr. Gustafson, who spoke such comforting words. To one and all a heartfelt thanks. MR. & MRS. WALLACE ABBOTT AND FAMILY, MR. & MRS. LESLIE GALL, MR. & MRS. AND FAMILY, MR. & MRS. EARL REMICK.

I wish to thank all my friends who remembered me in the hospital with cards, flowers, gifts, Sunshine baskets, etc. Especially the Catholic Women's League, Mrs. Triggs, Miss Locke, Dr. Quintin, the nurses and the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion. MRS. J. O. L. MICHAUD.

Farm Forum Activities

In order to assure publication of Farm Forum news in this column, reports should be forwarded the day following the meeting.

EAST FARNHAM

About 17 or 18 attended the Fourth Night meeting of East Farnham Farm Forum when the broadcast did not seem too good from a farmer's point of view.

Owing to a hockey match the same evening at the village rink, some Forum members were absent, and Mr. Stuart Hawke, at whose home the meeting took place, acted as chairman in the absence of Gordon Shufelt.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Strange kindly offered to entertain the next meeting on January 10, when plans will be made for entertaining the Sutton Junction Forum on January 31. Place to be decided later.

Gerald Webb organized a contest for the recreation period as chairman of that committee and a social hour was spent during the serving of refreshments.

FORDYCE

The Fordyce Farm Forum was entertained recently at the home of Mrs. O. Beattie and family, for its annual supper and Christmas entertainment. Twenty-eight adults and children sat down to a decorated table, to be served turkey and all the trimmings, in the best of style.

After the meal, the group retired to the parlor, where a decorated and well-laden tree held gifts for everyone.

The singing of carols followed with Miss I. Beattie at the piano. Everyone took turns giving Christmas reading or entertainment, with the president, Reg. Miner, in the chair.

Before returning home, the group was served light refreshments.

The Fordyce Farm Forum is very thankful to Mrs. Beattie, Miss Isabella and Mr. L. Beattie for an evening full of cheer and good fellowship, which will be long remembered by all present.

MANSORVILLE

The Farm Forum Fourth Night meeting of the Mansorville Group was held on Monday evening, January 3, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy A. George, when the North Pottion Group were their guests. There were 14 members present and 7 visitors.

Cards were played at 5 tables. As it was Mrs. John Young's birthday, she was presented with a gift by Mrs. Guy George on behalf of the members.

The next meeting will be held on January 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Klopfer. The social evening closed with refreshments.

HIGH AND LOW FOREST

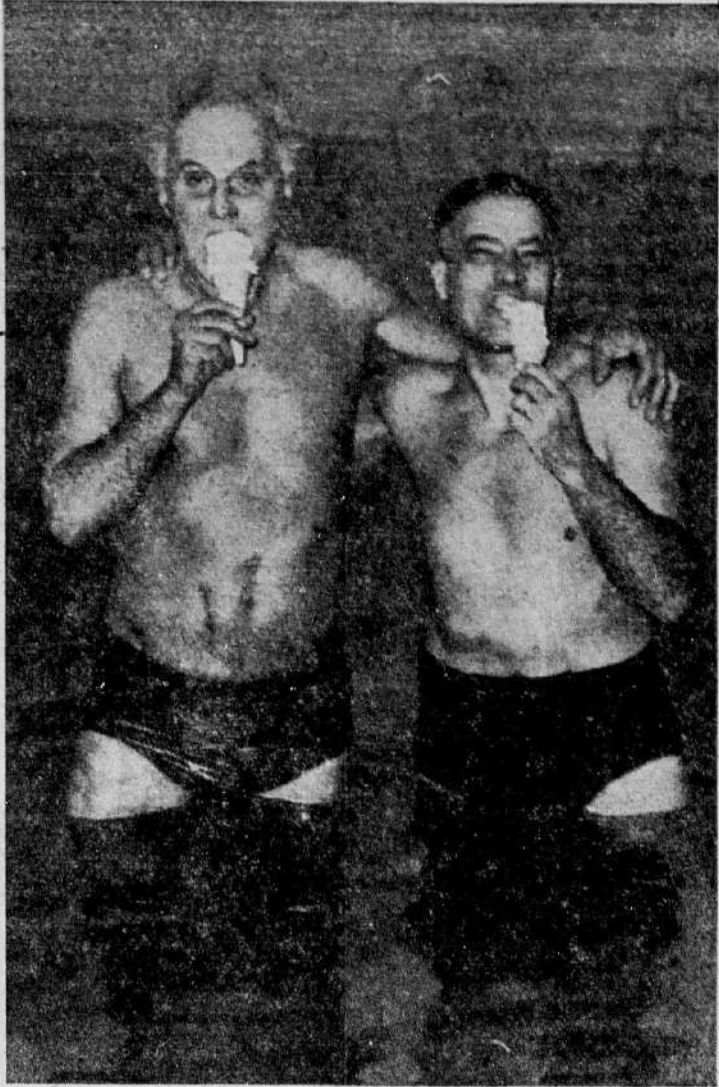

Farm Forum met on January 3, with Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Lowry, when 21 were present.

The broadcast was listened to and a short business meeting held.

Films were shown and enjoyed. Cards were played for a short time and lunch served. Next meeting at Mrs. P. Lowry's.

FORDYCE

The Fordyce Farm Forum was pleasantly entertained at the Crosby home in Stanbury.

FRIGID FROLIC — Two members of Vancouver's unique Polar Bear club pose in the waters of English Bay complete with goose pimples and ice cream cones. Oscar Pohl, 69, on the left, and Peter Panatages, 53, right, were two of 57 club members who braved the 44 degree water New Year's day. Panatages, the club's organizer, took the first Jan. 1 dip in 1919. "And I've taken a dip every day since," he told a handful of 5,000 chilled spectators. Three members remained in one hour. No. 13 in a series of RARE CREATURES!

is happy go lucky—as long as luck is with him

The GLOG is an advertiser who refuses to be moored to the crass world of facts and figures.

He may spend a million on advertising. But if you ask him why, he talks about golf.

If you ask him what he expects to get out of his ads, he raves about some oomph-girl who has caught the public eye.

You can't pin him down—because he honestly doesn't expect much from advertising.

Fortunately the GLOG is a rare creature.

Wise advertisers expect plenty from their advertising dollar. And they prefer to keep luck out of the picture.

So they don't try to cover the nation with a flimsy catch-all schedule. They pick their best markets—then really cover them.

Naturally they use newspapers. Because newspapers are basic—the foundation of any intelligent ad schedule.

Because only the newspaper reaches just about everybody in every community. Because only the newspaper carries the sense of urgency—"If it's advertised today, I'd better go down and get it quick."

No wonder advertisers invested twice as much money in newspapers last year as in any other medium!

All business is local...and so are all newspapers!

Only two brews carry this guarantee of excellence
