World News In Brief

Los Angeles, June 24—(AP)—Little Pia Lindstrom learns today whether she'll have to visit her famous mother, actress Ingrid Bergman, in Italy this summer.

The answer will come when Judge Mildred L. Lillie, who presided over a 2½-week hearing on Miss Bergman's petition for summer custody of the 13-year-old, returns her decision.

The suit was opposed by Pia's father, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, who divorced the actress after she bore a child out of wedlock to Italian director Roberto Rossellini. Lindstrom contended Rossellini, now Miss Bergman's husband, would be a bad influence on Pia.

Pia herself testified she doesn't love her mother, only likes her, and doesn't want to go to Rome to see her. She said she'd rather go to Hawaii with her father.

United Nations, N.Y., June 24.—(AP)—The U. N. Security Council postponed debate on communist germ warfare charges until tomorrow after Soviet delegate Jakob A. Malik demanded that Red China and North Korea be allowed to participate. The delay paved the way for an anticipated French compromise disarmament commission, made up of the 11 Security Council members and Canada.

Jules Moch, who leaves Thursday to resume his duties as socialist leader in the French parliament, was reported ready to present a compromise proposal which he hopes may break the east-west deadlock before the commission.

Munsan, Korea, June 24.—(AP)—Communist truce negotiators today warned the United Nations that continued screening of prisoners at Koje island "may extend the Korean war."

"You are taking dangerous steps which show that you do not hesitate to extend the Korean war," said North Korean Gen. Nam Il.

Maj.-Gen. William K. Harrison replied "we cannot and will not barter the right to freedom of any individaul. We recognize the individual as possessed of free will, not a slave bound without choice to a lifetime of servitude."

London, June 24.—(AP)—Bertrand Russell, 80-year-old advocate of trial marriage, was divorced today by his third wife. It was his third divorce.

The famed British philosopher and Nobel prize winner was charged with desertion.

Earl Russell did not contest the divorce action. His third wife, Patricia Helen Spence, had worked for a long time as his secretary. He married her in 1936. A son, Sebastian Robert, was born in 1937.

Koje Island, Korea, June 24—(AP)—An allied officer estimated today that about five per cent of approximately 8,000 prisoners of war being screened have chosen to remain in South Korea.

Screening of 45,000 captured Reds started yesterday. These were included in the 70,000 P.O.W.'s the U.N. previously said wanted to be repatriated.

Air Force Planes Smash Again At North Korean Hydro-Electric Plants

Air War Stepped Up As United Nations Adopts New "Get Tough" Policy.

Seoul, Korea, June 24.—(AP)—Air force and navy fighter-bombers teamed up again today to hammer four of the five communist hydro-electric plants smashed yesterday in the biggest air raid of the Korean war.

Nearly 200 navy planes from big fleet carriers off Korea's east coast joined air force planes from dozens of Korean bases to hit the shattered generating stations for the second straight day, navy headquarters announced.

The air force said F-84 Thunderjets "completed destruction" of two power stations near Changjin reservoir and two on the Songchon river in eastern Korea.

F-86 Sabre jet pilots exchanged firing passes with five MIG-15 jets south of the Yalu Tuesday afternoon, the air force said.

The United States Eighth Army reported increasing patrol action along the 155-mile battle front Tuesday. One allied patrol battled for almost two hours with a Red unit west of Chorwon, the scene of bloody fighting during the last two weeks.

About 20 Red troops were killed, the army said.

As allied experts studied gun film to evaluate destruction done by Monday's big raid on North Korean power plants, there were strong hints that more Red targets were marked for attack.

Military officials in Washington said Monday's raid on communist generating stations inaugurated a new "get tough" policy adopted as a result of Red stalling in the armistice negotiations.

One spokesman who asked not to be identified said "we now realize the best chance of breaking the deadlock at Panmunjom is to hit the enemy with all the force at our command."

A study of gun camera films from the 500 air force, Marine and carrier-based navy planes which took part in the Korean war's biggest air attack showed the strike was virtually a 100-per-cent success, the air force said.

An official spokesman said direct hits were registered on all five targets, and the world's fourth largest hydro-electric plant at Suiho was a "pile of junk." He described the 1,400-foot row of giant transformers and other equipment as a shambles.

The Suiho plant lies only a half mile south of Manchuria on the Yalu river. Other plants were smashed at the Changjin reservoir and on the Songchon river in eastern North Korea.

Not one communist jet challenged the attacking allied planes, although allied pilots said more than 200 swept-wing Mig-15s were parked on a Manchurian air base within sight of Suiho.

The air force said all of its planes returned safely. The navy said one carrier-based plane was shot down by anti-aircraft fire and four others were hit, but no pilots were lost.

No official at United Nations headquarters would say where the order to bomb the power stations originated. The plants have been spared since the war began two years ago and observers said the decision to smash them appeared to be more political than military.

Tokyo, June 24—(AP)—The twilight war in Korea is beginning to burn with a bright new glow.

Unless an armistice is agreed to soon, military observers feel certain full-scale fighting will break out again all along the line.

There are two reasons for the assumption:

1. Yesterday's 500-plane armada attack on the North Korean hydro-electric plants is a warning to the Reds that unless they start talking soon, they can expect more of the same.

2. Both sides are fighting for ground now and the scrap west of Chorwon is for positions which the Reds won and the U. S. Eighth Army had to go after with real force to get back.

The smashing air attack left no doubt but that the United Nations is through pussy-footing.

Asked if Gen. Mark Clark would be making a statement regarding the change of policy which permitted the raid, an officer at his U.N. Far East headquarters said:

"Those dams and installations were military targets in North Korea. No statement is necessary."

Asked if there would be an explanation as to why they were bombed now, after pilots had been warned for months to leave them alone, he replied:

"You'll have to draw your own conclusion and it shouldn't be very hard to draw."

The natural conclusion is that after two years of flying around the big dams on the Yalu, the Far Eastern air force finally got orders to knock out the power plants because the U. N. command decided it was time to get tough.

United Nations, N. Y., June 24—(AP)—David J. Dallin, author of a book on forced labor in Russia, told a U. N. committee yesterday he believes there are 10,000,000 slave laborers in the Soviet Union. Dallin testified before a closed meeting of the special committee on forced labor.

Canada Will Design New Cargo Ship

Ottawa, June 24—(CP)—Canada is designing a new-type ocean cargo ship to fit the country's requirements in peace and war.

The federal government has set up a committee to work out specifications for the proposed ship and the shipbuilding industry is cooperating with technical knowledge.

The project stems largely from Canada's experience in the second world war when the battle of the convoys put a severe stress on the country's shipbuilding facilities. Freighters rolled off the shipyard ways in large numbers eventually, but time had been lost in getting the designs together.

After the war, the country was left with a substantial fleet of vessels whose slow speed already left them obsolescent in the tough competition for ocean traffic. Before the Korean war stepped up the demand for deepsea tonnages, Canada had to subsidize part of the fleet and transfer another large segment to British registry to keep it going.

Aim of the new project is to do away with the second world war drawbacks by:

1. Getting the designs ready now so that the shipyards can jump into high gear in the event of an emergency.

2. Planning a type of ship that will be able to hold its own in the cargo-liner trade, particularly on the north Atlantic.

Speed probably will be a prime factor in determining the design of the proposed new vessel. The second world war type built in Canada ran to 10 or 11 knots. The new ones likely will be of 16 knots or more, depending on how requirements of the navy and merchant service are worked into their construction.

Plans are being made also for building in under-deck strengthening so they can be quickly equipped with defensive guns and for equipping them with degaussing gear for neutralizing magnetic mines.

An interdepartmental government committee including representatives of the Canadian maritime commission and the navy have started work on the project. Once the requirements have been settled, it is expected the design drawings will be made by the technical section of the Canadian shipbuilding and ship repairing association, organization of steel shipyard owners.

It was understood no decision has been made as to whether one or more prototype vessels will be built in advance of the time when the vessels are actually needed.

South Ruislip, England, June 24—(AP)—A United States air force B-50 medium bomber with 11 crew members aboard crashed and burned north of London today.

First reports reaching the third air force headquarters here gave no details on the fate of the crew.

Arctic Scheme Is Termed Successful

Ottawa, June 24—(CP)—A six-month test of the abilities of average soldiers and ordinary machines to work in the frozen northland is nearing an end.

Exercise Eager Beaver, in which Canadian and United States soldier last January began building two airstrips near the Alaska highway, has been termed a success, national defence headquarters announced today.

The exercise was designed to test men and standard military equipment in country where temperatures drop to 65 below zero at times. It also sized up the chances of utilizing the Arctic snow cap for potential military bases.

About 150 Canadian and 300 U.S. soldiers from engineering units went to work last January at Kluane Lake, about 125 air miles west of Whitehorse, Y.T.

The Canadians were assigned the job of building an airstrip on the frozen surface of the lake. The U.S. troops had a tougher task—building a runway over muskeg on the lake shore. Both runways were made large enough to handle four-engined aircraft.

One of the lessons learned was that airstrips on muskeg are at the mercy of summer thaws which can buckle and heave the strip until it is useless for heavy aircraft.

Troops with no specialist training were used. They were given standard military equipment—adapted but not specially designed for Arctic use.

It was found that men with low blood pressure, foot trouble or poor eyesight requiring glasses found it difficult to work for any long period.

New Arctic lubrications helped keep the heavy equipment operating in the biting cold. During the coldest parts of the winter, the troops had to run their engines continuously.

Director of the exercise is Lt.-Col. H. D. Brown of Stillwater, Oklahoma. Second-in-command is Maj. E. D. Taylor of the Royal Canadian Engineers, from Vancouver.

CANADIANS AT KOJE — Members of the Royal Canadian Regiment on Koje Island take over guard duties at Compound 66 where approximately 2,000 North Korean officers and 480 enlisted men are held. The bayonet-wielding Canadians will patrol between the outer and inner barbed-wire fences. (CP from National Defence)

Eden And Acheson Map Strategy Along Anti-Red Front From Europe To Korea

Compromise Is Likely In S. Korea

By BILL SHINN

Pusan, Korea, June 24—(AP)—A compromise solution to South Korea's bitter political feud appeared to be shaping up today.

Prime Minister Chang Paid Sang was reported to have won support for a compromise plan from middle-of-the-road assemblymen and opponents of President Syngman Rhee.

Details were not disclosed.

Assemblyman Oh Sung Whan, a member of the group trying to end Korea's month-long political crisis, said P. M. Shinicky and other opposition leaders have promised to support the compromise.

There was some talk that the assembly would recess for a week to permit lawmakers to reach agreement.

This development came as 500 rural supporters of Rhee squatted on rice straw mats in front of Rhee's house, refusing to eat until the assembly adopts his proposal for a popular presidential election and a two house-congress. The hunger strike began more than 24 hours ago.

Korea's constitution provides for the election of a president by the Assembly one month after the incumbent's term expires.

Rhee's term was supposed to expire July 24, with yesterday the deadline for an election. But Rhee supporters in the assembly pushed through a bill extending his term until Aug. 15 and providing that he remain in office until a successor is named.

Rhee supporters normally do not control the 183-member assembly. But opposition lawmakers have boycotted the assembly since Rhee proclaimed martial law and arrested 11 opponents.

Any compromise solution to the crisis probably would include assembly adoption of Rhee's two constitutional amendments, plus opposition-supported amendments giving the assembly power to throw out a cabinet and giving the prime minister power to form a cabinet rather than the president.

London, June 24.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States met today to map out joint strategy along an anti-communist front stretching from Germany's Elbe to Korea's Yalu river.

Acheson flew to London yesterday to receive an honorary degree from Oxford University and to talk with his West European colleagues. Their periodical meetings are designed to oil the wheels of foreign policy co-operation and give the west united answers to any Soviet moves in the cold war.

Acheson's conversations with Eden were expected to range along the whole anti-aggression frontier, from West Europe through the Middle East to the far Orient. Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France joins the discussions here Friday.

Acheson's schedule also included a luncheon meeting with Prime Minister Churchill today.

There is plenty to talk about.

In Western Europe, the foreign ministers are pushing for speedy rearmament of West Germany. The communists on both sides of the Iron Curtain are fighting bitterly to prevent the necessary parliamentary approvals. There are widespread fears that Red threats to West Germany and pressure on West Berlin will culminate in another blockade of that communist-surrounded metropolis.

Eden also was expected to stress Britain's current headaches in the Middle East, where anti-British sentiment long has been a big barrier to putting the Arab states actively in the western camp.

Major turning points are expected soon in Britain's relations with Egypt, which have shown signs of improving recently, and those with Iran, which have not.

Hoped-for agreements with Egypt in the disputes over British troops there and for the status of the contested Sudan would clear the way for a new international defence arrangement for the strategic Suez Canal. But in Iran crisis threats are mounting as the country, embroiled in her oil quarrel with Britain, nears bankruptcy.

Britain is anxious that she and the United States speak with one voice as these developments come to a head.

Yesterday's 500-plane raid on North Korean power plants highlighted London speculation that major policy shifts are in the offing in the Far East. Whether this speculation was well-founded or not, Acheson and Eden were certain to discuss the reports on Korea from Britain's defence minister, Field Marshal Earl Alexander. He is due back here before the end of the week, after talks in Washington.

Edinburgh Suffers From Jaundice

London, June 24—(Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh has jaundice and has cancelled all immediate engagements, it was officially announced today.

Jaundice is a disease of the liver.

An official bulletin from Buckingham Palace said the athletic 31-year-old husband of the Queen will be confined to his room for several days.

The tall, broad-shouldered Prince was unable to attend a track meet in London last Saturday. The Queen attended a cricket game yesterday.

An earlier announcement said he was suffering from a "feverish chill."

The cancellation of engagements will mean that the Duke won't accompany the Queen to Edinburgh tonight for a projected six-day stay in Holyrood House, the ancient palace of Scottish Kings. The Queen will make the trip without him.

Jaundice is marked by yellow discoloration of the skin due to the presence of bile pigments. It is usually caused by some disorganization in the liver which obstructs the outflow of bile.

Yellowness, appearing first in the whites of the eyes and later over the whole skin, is the outward symptom.

The patient suffers from loss of appetite, but dieting is usually prescribed.

Duplessis Visits Here Tomorrow

The real opening of the Provincial general election campaign insofar as Sherbrooke district is concerned will take place tomorrow evening when Hon. Maurice Duplessis, Premier of Quebec, will address a rally in the Belvidere Street Armories in support of Hon. Johnny Bourque, Minister of Lands and Forests and of Hydraulic Resources, who is seeking re-election in Sherbrooke county which he has represented since 1935.

Prior to the public meeting, which is scheduled for 8.30 p.m., a parade will be held leaving Mr. Bourque's residence at 7:45 p.m., and proceeding up Woodward Avenue to Murray Street, along Murray to Council, up Council to 7th Avenue, along 7th to King East and then proceeding by way of King East, King West, Alexander, Galt and Belvidere Streets to the armory.

In addition to the Premier and Mr. Bourque, the speakers will include: Hon. Charles D. French, Minister of Mines and M.L.A. for Compton; Hon. Patrice Tardif, Minister without Portfolio and M.L.A. for Frontenac; C. J. Warwick Fox, M.L.A. for Brome; Robert Bernard, M.L.A. for Drummond; J. J. Bertrand, M.L.A. for Missisquoi; Albert Goudreau, M.L.A. for Richmond; Hector Choquette, M.L.A. for Shefford, and Denis Gerin, M.L.A. for Stanstead.

The Prime Minister will be introduced by Antonio Pinard and thanked by Ivan Dugre.

Commons Members Approve Legislation For Veterans

Ottawa, June 24.—(CP)—The Commons yesterday made a long stride toward completing business of the current session of Parliament. Members approved the complete list of veterans legislation to be presented at the current session, expected to end next week.

They cleared the order paper of five bills embracing veterans legislation. A sixth may be given third and final reading today. It increases allowances for burnt-out veterans and lowers the age limit to 60 from 65.

This measure, which like the others previously had been considered in a Commons' committee, brought the main veterans' debate to a close. The bill increases the allowances for single burnt-out veterans to $50 from $40.41 a month and for married to $90 from $70.83. Veterans' widows and widowers with children will also get $90 a month.

Until now single veterans could earn $125 and married veterans $250 a month over their allowances. The new bill cuts the permissable outside income to $120 a month in both cases.

Opposition members, notably Howard Green (PC—Vancouver Quadra), Lt.-Col. A. J. Brooks (PC—Royal) and Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) urged that the allowances be increased. They should be boosted to $60 a month for single veterans and $120 for married ones as requested by the Canadian Legion.

Mr. Brooks also urged that veterans be allowed to earn more. And he joined with Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) and Mr. Green in urging that widows of imperial veterans who died prior to fulfilling the 20-year residence clause in Canada be paid the allowance.

Veterans Minister Lapointe said this will be considered, but he does not intend to make further changes at this session.

The veterans legislation given final approval:

1. Increases allowances to amputees. Those who have lost all or part of a leg receive an increase to $72 from $54 a year; those who have lost an arm or part of an arm get an increase to $30 from $22 a year. Allowance for the pensionable dependent parent of a deceased veteran is increased to $100 a month from $90.

2. Extends to 1953 the provision for payment of benefits to veterans from Korea.

3. Increases civilian war pensions and allowances comparable to those made under the pension act. These pensions and allowances go to those who served outside the fighting forces, such as the firefighting corps Canada sent to Britain.

4. Increases the interest on the first $5,000,000 of the army benevolent fund from 2½ to 3½ per cent. The fund is held by the government to make loans to needy veterans.

5. Changes the veterans insurance act to permit full payment of an insurance policy to the estate of a deceased veteran. At present only the paid up amount plus interest at the time of death can be paid.

Also cleared from the order paper during the day were measures to provide monies for the purchase of equipment by the Canadian National Railways and to increase the salaries of members of the board of grain commissioners. The chief commissioner is being increased to $14,000 from $12,000 a year and the two other members to $12,000 from $7,500.

The other major debate of the day concerned legislation to provide for federal renewal of taxation agreements with the provinces. It also was given final approval after Finance Minister Abbott indicated that eight provinces — all except Ontario and Quebec — will sign agreements.

Under the agreements the provinces give the federal government almost exclusive use of the income, corporation and inheritance tax fields until March 31, 1957. In return they receive annual payments based on population and the value of gross national production.

Mr. Abbott said he believes the provinces are being "well compensated."

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, urged that a royal commission inquire into the whole question of reallocation of the taxing powers among the federal and provincial governments. He said the agreements were simply a perpetuation of what was to have been a wartime expedient. A principle — the tax rights of the provinces — was involved.

Mr. Abbott made no comment on Mr. Drew's proposal.

Eisenhower Urges Positive Foreign Policy For U.S.A.

Washington, June 24— (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today placed his campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination squarely on a peace-or-war issue with his opponent, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Eisenhower, in a speech at Denver, Colo., last night, blasted isolationists and said he is in politics primarily because he believed peace is at stake in the contest for the Republican nomination.

He outlined his own peace and world security program in this way:

1. Convince the world that the United States has a sincere devotion to peace and will not consider proposals for a "preventive war."

2. Support the United Nations, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and other security agreements as instruments for peace.

3. Pursue a positive foreign program, rather than a "hand to mouth" operation, which will line-up the allies against the enslavement of any country.

4. Build up spiritual and military strength which will convince the Russian leaders they must accept a "just and practical plan" of world disarmament.

In firm command of his own campaign, Eisenhower left no doubt he classed Taft among the isolationists and that he believed a "retreat into isolationism" would leave the United States "encircled by a savage wolf pack" of communism.

Today the General called a press conference in Denver to enlarge on his views.

Coupled with the fact that Eisenhower recently (in private) called Taft an isolationist, he made it clear he was shooting at Taft when he said:

"Those who assert that America can retire within its own borders; those who seem to think we have little or no stake in the rest of the world and what happens to it, those who act as though we had no need for friends to share in the defence of freedom—those persons are ignorant or irresponsible or they are taking an unjustified gamble with peace."

Taft had no immediate comment to Eisenhower's isolationist charges. He was busy with his intensive stretch-drive for delegates in key states. Taft today carried his campaign to Pennsylvania, bidding for support from one of the largest uncommitted groups left in the country.

Pennsylvania has 70 votes at the Republican nominating convention July 7.

An Associated Press tabulation indicates that 19 delegates now favor Taft, 20 lean to Eisenhower, and the remaining 31 are undecided.

Meantime, Taft picked up 10 more Illinois votes to strengthen his lead to 84 over Eisenhower for pledged delegates.

Selection yesterday of the 10 Illinois delegates-at-large backing the Ohio Senator completed the list of the country's Republican convention delegates.

Taft, in the Associated Press tabulation of delegate support, has a total of 477 pledged delegates. Eisenhower has 393. A total of 604 is needed to nominate.

Edmonton Fears Flooding From Rain-Swollen River

Edmonton, June 24—(CP)—Hundreds of Edmonton citizens are tensely awaiting the crest of the rain-swollen North Saskatchewan river, which is expected almost hourly. Twelve families have already evacuated their homes in low areas along the river's banks, which run through the heart of the city.

Meanwhile, in other parts of central Alberta, other communities also are watching developments of rivers and creeks which are bearing the runoff from week-long general rains. At least two points have already been flooded.

The Edmonton civil defence organization is gearing itself for a general evacuation of the low areas along the river in the event of a major flood.

Officials expect the river to reach a level of five or six feet above the 1944 level, when a few homes were flooded. The river now stands at 2,067 feet above sea level, about eight feet above normal.

The first warning came from Rocky Mountain House, 70 miles west of Edmonton, where the North Saskatchewan begins its long journey through the Prairies to empty into northern Manitoba lakes.

At Rocky Mountain House the river is about three feet above flood level and flowing at three times its normal rate. However, the angle of descent levels halfway between the two points and the river broadens near Edmonton. These two factors are counted upon to help reduce the threatening flood.

Elsewhere in Alberta, a report was received from the coal-mining centre of Cadomin that "hundreds of thousands of dollars" damage has been done by the rampaging McLeod river. Cadomin is 200 miles west of Edmonton.

The river has washed out the approaches to the town's three bridges and carried away three river-bank houses. No injuries have been reported.

At Sundre, 79 miles northwest of Calgary, the Red Deer river has forced evacuation of an unknown number of residents. R.C. M.P. at Drumheller are warning citizens the Red Deer river might reach flood height within 12 to 20 hours. It was reported earlier from Red Deer that a 12-foot crest was headed downstream.

The weather holds little promise for an improvement. In the last four days there have been 1.53 inches of rain over Edmonton, with scattered showers in prospect today. So far this month there have been 4.15 inches of rain, while the monthly June average is 3.25 inches. Other parts of the province have also received heavy rains.

In a radio broadcast last night Mayor William Hawrelak said city trucks are standing by to help in case a general evacuation of the low areas becomes necessary.

He reassured the residents that every possible aid will be extended if the flood threat materializes.

Sugar Cane Paper Used In Mexico

Mexico City, June 24.—(AP)—Tests on newsprint made from sugar cane waste by a patented Mexican process were reported a success today.

The newspaper Excelsior, after trying the new paper on its presses, announced it will be used for today's afternoon edition.

The process, developed and patented by Mexican engineer Antonio Bayarte, extracts cellulose from bagasse, the refuse from sugar cane after the juices are pressed out. The Bayarte process uses 90 per cent bagasse and 10 per cent wood pulp.

Bayarte said that paper made by his process will cost under $115 a ton at the present price of materials. This compared with the $170 a ton which Mexican newspapers now are paying for imported newsprint.

Bayarte said that Mexico produces enough bagasse to manufacture more than 60,000 tons of newsprint used yearly by Mexican newspapers.

Geneva, Switzeralnd, June 24.— (Reuters) —The International Labor Conference yesterday approved an agreement providing for paid vacations in agriculture by a vote of 110 to 17 with 32 abstentions. The text now goes to a drafting committee before being presented to the plenary conference fora final vote in which a two-thirds majority is necessary.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

CARD RULES ARE GUIDE FOR ORDER

"Why should it be a matter of courtesy or fair play," asks a Portland correspondent, "to meld red threes immediately when such a stiff penalty is provided for getting caught with them in the hand?

"For example, the other night my side needed 120 to meld. Opponents put down three red threes and made a canasta. If they melded out at once, they would catch us with our full hands; but if they waited and got the fourth red three they would have enough to win the whole game.

"So I held on to the fourth red three, which was in my hand. We finally made our meld and got a canasta, and I put down the fourth red three. As it happened, we eventually won that game.

"The opponents accused me of playing unfairly. My answer was that I violated no rule, but simply took a gamble and won. If they had melded out, I would have paid the penalty of 500 points without a murmur of complaint.

"Another point: We have sometimes found it profitable to make an unsufficient meld deliberately in order to show partner which cards to hold. Even though we then have to meld 10 points more, partner is sure to hold the right cards to fit the hand.

"This also leads to arguments about fairness. My only answer is that penalties in card games are calculated to make the offenses unprofitable. If the offenses are profitable, there's something wrong with the penalty.

"I'd like to see you discuss the point in your column."

If I can say so without offending my correspondent, I must point out that the same argument can be used to prove that it's all right to rob or murder if you're willing to pay the penalty when caught. In card games, as in other fields of life, there is such a thing as morality.

Penalties in card games are devised to correct accidental irregularities. The idea is to indemnify the injured at the expense of the offender. In many situations, however, there is no way to make the offender pay as heavy a penalty as is warranted by his mistake.

So the lawmakers fall back on the theory that accidents will happen and that these incidents probably even out in the long run.

Every set of rules warns cards players that the rules are not intended to punish cheating or unethical conduct. The penalty for that is that your friends won't play with you any more.

I still haven't answered one fundamental question: Why is it unethical to break the rules deliberately?

One reason is that a game becomes completely disorganized and shapeless if you don't stick to the rules. It shouldn't be necessary to watch a player to make sure that he doesn't stuff a few wild cards up his sleeve, or that he doesn't draw more cards than he is entitled to, and so on.

Cyprus Possible Base For Allied Command In Middle East Setup

London — (Reuters)—Britain's eastern Mediterranean colony of Cyprus may become the headquarters of western land, sea and air command for the Middle East, authoritative sources here say.

The intention of the British, United States, French and Turkish governments to establish a command structure for the area was announced last year. It was followed by declarations from the Australian, New Zealand and South African governments that they would join the command.

Egypt also was invited to become a founder member of the organization. But Egypt's Wafdist government, since evicted by King Farouk, rejected the proposal on the grounds that it would tie Egypt to foreign powers and would thwart her national aspirations to rid her soil of foreign troops.

Allied military thinking always has regarded the Suez canal zone as the natural pivot for defensive action in the Middle East. Every British proposal to Egypt on the evacuation of the Suez garrison has assumed that the base would be available to the western allies in the event of a third world war.

Now that prospects of early Egyptian co-operation appear remote, the allied powers believe preparations must be made to establish the headquarters elsewhere. Authoritative sources say all indications point to Cyprus.

But a decision on the location of the allied headquarters would not alter the British government's contention that as far as British troops are concerned the 1936 treaty with Egypt entitles them to use the canal base until 1956.

Establishment of the headquarters will be preceded, it is understood, by the setting up a regional planning group on similar lines to those operating in the North Atlantic treaty area before supreme commands and sub-commands are formed.

The planning group will be a seven-country body directed to produce a blueprint for the command structure and its vital military and political links with member countries. It also will be asked to prepare detailed plans for the defence of the Middle East.

The general basis of the headquarters links already are agreed on. The command will not be an Atlantic pact organ, but will be responsible in its military operations to the Atlantic treaty organization's top permament military body, the standing group in Washington.

Political liaison with the non-Atlantic pact members—at present Australia, New Zealand and South Africa—is expected to be maintained through a non military body established at the headquarters.

Island Dwindling In Swift Current On Pacific Shore

Vancouver. — Ernest Sherwood hopes the river which is robbing him of his island will bring it back again, and perhaps add to it some day.

In ten years the Fraser river has removed one-third of Whiteworth Island and deposited it in the Gulf of Georgia. But Mr. Sherwood still pays taxes on the entire island.

The island at the mouth of the Fraser is in Richmond municipality and officials said he could get a re-assessment if he re-surveyed the island.

"No," says Mr. Sherwood. "I've spent enough on surveys already." He has other holdings on the farming islands in the municipality.

"Besides," he says, "future action of the river might bring back more land. I might end up with four-thirds of the original island."

Whether this happens or not depends on the federal works department. "It's their series of wing dams, buttresses, digging and whatnot that has made the river eat away my isla:.l," he contends.

Old charts show the Fraser's mouth has swung back and forth over a radius of more than a mile since the white man came to B.C. Long jetties of rock have made a new channel.

Little more than a generation ago deep-sea ships docked at Ladner, 15 miles from here on the south arm of the river. Today nothing bigger than small gillnetters can go up that far.

K. W. Morton, district engineer for the works department, said he can remember wading across the north arm, where deep-sea ships move today.

"What we must do is create a channel of just adequate size to keep a fast flow of water to the Strait of Georgia," said the engineer. "If the water moves fast enough the silt dumps out there and not even the Fraser can fill up the strait. Not for a million years or so, anyway."

Lapalme Says Liberal Party Is More Interested In People Than Buildings

Georges Lapalme, Quebec Liberal leader, said yesterday the Liberal party was more interested in Quebec's people than its buildings.

In campaign speeches at Weedon and Lake Megantic for the July 16 provincial general elections, the provincial Liberal leaders said Union Nationale speakers boasted of the number of schools, hospitals and other institutions built by their government.

"Schools, hospitals and training centres are just so much brick and mortar," Mr. Lapalme said. "What I am interested in is the people in these institutions, the children attending school, the sick and the infirm, and the young men who are trying to learn a trade so they can make their way in life.

"These are the people who interest the Liberal party. The Union Nationale members are interested in the buildings because of the contracts let for construction of these places. What happens to the people who use the buildings does not concern them."

He said a needy Ontario mother with 10 children receives $140 monthly from the Ontario government compared to $52 paid the same family in Quebec.

"That is what I mean when I speak of social justice. Premier Duplessis talks about all the Union Nationale government has done for the province but fails to mention the fact that needy families in Ontario receive nearly 200 per cent more than a family in the same circumstances in this province."

Mr. Lapalme said in addition to pensions for the infirm, the Liberal party would institute a system of health insurance .

He said the Union Nationale party had dragged the flag of the province into the gutter but, if elected, "the Liberals will cleanse it and proudly fly it over the tower of the Quebec Legislature."

Symphony Re-Elects C. E. Belanger

Charles-Emile Belanger was re-elected president of the Sherbrooke Symphony Concerts' Association at the annual meeting of the Association held at the Sherbrooke Trust.

He will head an executive including Paul E. Fortier, vice-president, Paul E. Bourque, secretary, Jean Dansereau, treasurer, and Gil Young, Georges Sylvestre and Mrs. C. B. Howard, directors. Dr. Jacques Olivier was re-elected honorary president of the Association.

Mr. Belanger gave a brief resume of the Association's activities over the past year, referring to the three symphonies which they presented. He also remarked on the enthusiastic support shown by the public in the founding of a school earlier this year for young musicians in this district.

The president added that the Association concluded the past season with a deficit but expressed confidence that voluntary donations would wipe it out before the campaign for subscriptions got underway.

The date for subscription week will be announced soon.

Impressive Religious Ceremonies

Some 20,000 persons attended the Living Rosary Ceremonies at the Redemptorist Father's Monastery on Sunday evening. This event closed the novena to Our Mother of Perpetual Help.

It was the largest religious ceremony ever staged in the city.

Each bead on the rosary was recited by ten persons after which they lighted their candles and gradually the illuminated living rosary was formed.

Archbishop Georges Cabana, of Sherbrooke, was standing at the foot of the altar and formed the cross of the rosary assisted by Canon Joseph Veilleux, chaplain for the Sisters of Charity on Bowen Street and Rev. Father Pierre Labrecque, parish priest at St. Louis Church, East Angus. The Archbishop recited "I believe in God." Standing behind him Rev. Father Fernando Desjardins, pastor at Our Lady of Perpetual Help, recited the "Our Father." Representing the three "Hail Mary's" and the second "Our Father" were: Mayor Emile Levesque, Hon. J. S. Bourque, Minister of Lands and Forests and Hydraulic Resources, Jacques Lagasse, representing Maurice Gingues, M.P., and Alphee Gauthier, general manager of La Tribune.

The organizer of the event, Rev. Father Jacques Lambert, acted as master of ceremonies.

Practically every religious order in the district was represented at the event. A group of members from the Knights of Columbus formed a guard of honor beside the altar. Among the groups represented were: Knights of St. Gregory the Great, Foresters, Frontiersmen, Scouts, Guides, nurses, policemen, firemen, members of the Daughters of Isabelle Society and many other organizations, of young and old, men and women.

Rev. Father Desjardins welcomed the large gathering and thanked everyone, including the invited guests, who attended the impressive tribute to the Virgin Mary. Master of Ceremonies Rev. Father Lambert presided at the broadcast.

The singing of "Magnificat" and "O Salutaris" by the large crowd with their lighted torches and candles was one of the highlights of the impressive ceremony.

The brick building was illuminated with colored lights which formed a huge "M" over the altar erected on the steps of the monastery, and and over all shone a brilliant star which could be seen for miles around.

Final Tribute Is Paid To Alba A. Lothrop

Final tribute was paid Saturday afternoon to the memory of Alba Arthur Lothrop at the funeral service held in St. Andrew's Church.

The church was filled to overflowing with many sorrowing relatives and friends. A profusion of floral tributes testified to the esteem in which he had been held by all who knew him.

Rev. Ross Adams officiated at the service and extolled the virtues of the late Mr. Lothrop as a family man and as a supporter of the church, of which he was one of the oldest members.

"When I came among you," Mr. Adams told the congregation, "I did not have to seek out Mr. Lothrop. He was here and he sought me out."

The bearers were all relatives of the deceased, Bruce and Stanley Lothrop, grandchildren; Ralph McVeigh and Glen Cathcart, grandchildren by marriage; and Morris Rolfe and Duncan Lothrop, nephews.

Interment was in the family lot at Elmwood Cemetery.

Mr. Lothrop passed away on Thursday. Despite his advanced age, he would have been 89 on August fifth, he was able to get about until just a few days before his death.

He was born at Dudswell, Que., son of late Franklin Lothrop and Lucena Woodrow in 1863, but had made his home in Sherbrooke since 1891. About 10 years ago, he retired from his last occupation which was looking after the delivery of rural mail along Sherbrooke rural route three. He was employed at this for more than a quarter-century. While still in his teens, Mr. Lothrop had help build the Quebec Central Railway.

In 1889, Mr. Lothrop was married to the former Myra Pettrigue.

Value Of Service Clubs To Community Outlined To Lions By Mayor Levesque

The work of service clubs in this city won high praise from Mayor Emile Levesque last night in a brief address to members of the Sherbrooke Lions Club at their annual installation meeting.

Mayor Levesque, present in a dual capacity as mayor of the city and president of the Rotary Club, said that a city such as Sherbrooke appreciates the importance of the work done by service clubs.

Many of them already are organized here and, said the mayor, "I know that you will always welcome any social group that wishes to form a club in Sherbrooke, because there will always be good to do and unfortunate people to help."

"It is the role of service clubs to come to the aid of those less fortunate and the more organizations we have devoted to the work of helping the needy, the greater will be the general prosperity of our city.

"This is already a good city in which to live and it will become even more so through the efforts of devoted members of service clubs which are directed with vision and wisdom."

Mayor Levesque compared the service clubs of this city with its industries and said it is not so much the numbers that make the city prosperous but the diversity.

The new officers of the club were installed by retiring president Alberic Julien.

The officers are: president, Douglas Amaron; 1st vice-president, Armand Morissette; 2nd vice-president, Hugh Rose; 3rd vice-president, Cecil Dunn; secretary, Alphonse Saumier; treasurer, Charles Rinfret; Tail Twister, Georges Masse; Lion Tamer, Lucien Desfosses; directors, Emile Elias, Henri Thibault, Narcisse Amirault and Eddie Caron.

Mr. Julien presented Mr. Amaron with the president's brief case while the president's pin was presented by deputy district governor Leopold Chevalier. Mayor Levesque presented Mr. Amaron with the gavel.

Mr. Julien gave a brief report on the year's activities, tracing the highlights which included White Cane week, the Gourmets' dinner, a broom sale and, currently, a drawing. He spoke about the honor accorded the club by the naming of one of its members, Mr. Chevalier, as deputy district governor.

"We have tried to keep the banner of Lionism high in Sherbrooke," Mr. Julien said, "and I feel that we have gained prestige during the past year."

Two young musicians who won Lions Club scholarships at the Youth Festival, one this year and one a year ago, entertained the members and their lady guests who were also present. Miss Claudette Lacharite was heard in two piano numbers and Roger Veilleux, accompanied by his sister, Miss Cecile Veilleux, played two alto saxophone selections.

Hugh Rose introduced the musicians and they were thanked by Dr. Georges Saine.

It was announced that noon meetings will start next week, at 12.15 p.m. During the summer months the meetings will alternate between noon and evening.

At the head table last night were Mr. Julien, Mayor Levesque, Mr. Chevalier, Mr. and Mrs. Morissette and Mr. and Mrs. Amaron.

Suicide By Shooting Is Verdict Returned In Island Brook Case

A verdict of suicide was returned by a jury under District Coroner Dr. Louis Gagnon investigating the death of a man believed to be Paul Therrien, about 34, in the fire which destroyed the barn and house on the farm of Mrs. Arthur Pouliot near Island Brook on Sunday evening.

According to evidence submitted at the inquest held at Island Brook yesterday, Therrien shot himself with a twelve gauge shotgun that was found in the ruins of the storey-and-a-half farmhouse after setting the house itself ablaze. The badly charred remains of a man were found in the ruins of the farm house by Sgt. Detective Stenio Brasseur and Traffic Officer Hubert Lawrence of the Quebec Provincial Police late yesterday morning.

Witnesses testifying at the probe confirmed earlier reports that a fire broke out Sunday evening in the barn of Mrs. Pouliot's property, apparently of incendiary origin, and as the onlookers were watching the barn burn, a fire started inside the house itself, some 200 feet away. Spectators said that a man was seen inside the house and as they sought to enter a noise was heard. The rapid spread of the flames prevented rescue operations.

An investigation of the embers yesterday morning yielded a small bundle which was identified as the charred body of a man.

While positive identification is lacking, evidence points to the remains being those of Therrien, a farmhand who had done some work on the Pouliot farm and had sought to marry the thirteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Pouliot.

Rev. Maurice Cloutier, parish priest of Island Brook, pointed

Child Of Seven Dies At Danville When Hit By Car

Danville, June 24. — Seven-year-old Joseph Bernier was killed instantly here yesterday when he ran under the wheels of a car.

Police identified the driver as Arthur Fuller, of Danville.

They say the child was playing near the curb and was not visible to the driver of the car since the child was behind a parked truck.

The child darted out from behind the truck just as the car went by.

The accident was investigated by Danville Police Chief Lamarche and Provincial Police Officer Lecours.

East Angus Resident Fractures Hip

Mrs. Elaine Crump, 61, of Aube Street, in East Angus, was admitted to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital yesterday evening, with a fractured left hip, after falling from a seat at the soda counter in the restaurant of Cabins Royal on No. 1 highway.

She was taken to hospital by Brien ambulance.

Hospital authorities described her condition as good this morning.

$15,000 Sought To Buy Equipment For Elementary School At Boundary

Rock Island, June 24—A school belongs to a community, not to any one generation, and on July 9, 1951, the first sod for the new Sunnyside elementary school was turned by Miss Grace Libby.

Today, there stands a fine new school building, 186 by 89 feet. Inside the building are eight class rooms, kitchen, cafeteria, etc., and an assembly hall 52 feet by 62.

This was erected at a cost of more than $280,000.

Included in the original bond issue was an amount of $15,000 for equipment for this school, but due to a depreciated bond market the proceeds of the bonds were $22,800 less than the sum expected.

This resulted in sufficient money to meet the cost of the contract for the building, but there was no money left for equipment.

Almost $9,000 is needed for classroom equipment and there is to be added the cost of gymnasium equipment. Some 400 or more chairs also are needed for the auditorium, which it is hoped will be used for many community events in the future.

Needed too is furniture for the teachers' room, lunch room and clinic, as well as a sound projector unit.

The school has been built in the municipality of Rock Island, with a small part in Stanstead and it will replace the Holmes Model school of Stanstead. The school will be opened in September and will be attended by more than 200 students from Rock Island, Tomifobia, Stanstead, Judds Mills and East Stanstead.

To have the school properly equipped at that time, a campaign is now under way under the chairmanship of E. J. Struthers of Stanstead. Gordon Petrie is campaign treasurer. The objective is $15,000.

Some 500 donation cards have been sent to former students of Stanstead schools but a donation from any one interested, whether it be large or small, will be welcomed and acknowledged.

The following donations have been received to date:

$4,000, Union Twist Drill Co., Butterfield division.

$1,000, Three Villages Building Association, Ltd.; Municipality of Rock Island.

$750, The J. B. Goodhue Co., Rock Island.

Man Drowns In Well Near Garthby

Garthby, June 24.—A verdict of suicide was returned here late yesterday in the death of 38-year-old Arcadius Cliche, nearby farmer.

The man was said to be suffering from ill health.

He said yesterday morning he was going to kill himself, it was testified at the inquest.

In the afternoon he made good his threat by throwing himself into a well. He was drowned.

Dr. Louis Gagnon, of Sherbrooke, presided at the inquest.

Provincial Police Officer Rosario Bergeron investigated.

"BRITAIN AND THE STERLING AREA"

Though the drain on the gold and dollar reserves of the sterling area has almost ceased during the past three months, there is no reason to conclude that the danger is past, says the current Monthly Review of The Bank of Nova Scotia.

The reserves remain perilously low and the current trading position of the area is not yet in balance. From every indication, it will be a long hard pull before the sterling area can build up its exchange reserves to an adequate level and before Britain can achieve the necessary surplus in her current international transactions.

All through the postwar period Canadians have been concerned with the difficulties confronting Britain and the weakening of trade ties with the Commonwealth. It is true that the contraction in this trade has had no major impact upon the Canadian economy as yet, but there is a good deal to suggest that the latest series of import restrictions imposed by the sterling area may be more widely felt. And quite apart from her direct trade, Canada is profoundly interested in the problems of the sterling area since these difficulties are a potent force tending to divide the Western world into separate trading blocks.

With respect to the latest trade "crisis" being experienced by Britain and the sterling area, the Review notes that in the nine months between mid-1951 and March of this year the gold and dollar reserves of the area were drawn down by well over $2,100 millions. At the end of March there was only $1,700 millions left in the pool, the equivalent of barely two months of British imports.

What has been particularly striking about the crisis is that it developed so quickly and followed so hard upon a period during which the reserves had been rapidly building up. Not much more than a year ago some observers were voicing the opinion that "dollar shortage" was a thing of the past. The sudden reversal in the fortunes of the sterling area is indicative of the unsettled character of the post war world and further emphasizes the vulnerability of a great trading country lacking adequate reserves and without any appreciable surplus earning power.

Without much doubt, the Review declares, the outstanding feature of sterling area trade in the past three years has been the wide swings in the markets for those primary commodities on which many sterling countries are so dependent, notably wool, rubber, hides, jute, cocoa and tin. The slump in the markets for these commodities during the mild U.S. business recession in the winter and spring of 1948-49 was a major factor in the trade crisis leading to devaluation while the succeeding boom and setback in sterling area fortunes closely paralleled the pronounced swings in these markets.

Another feature of the sterling area balance of payments in recent years has been the increasing pressure for economic development in the dominions and colonies. Indeed, if the sterling area is to continue in anything like its past or present form, one of the prime requisites will undoubtedly be that the United Kingdom produce a large enough surplus in her current international transactions to cover at least a significant part of the development needs of the other sterling area countries. In recent years, however, the pressure of demand for imports has tended constantly to spill over to U.S. goods.

KEEPING POWER LEGEND ALIVE

The Soviet action in shooting down an unarmed Swedish rescue plane is reminiscent of a similar incident two years ago when the Russians knocked out a defenceless United States naval plane in the same Baltic area.

The Russians naturally have come up with their customary phony explantions, blaming the whole thing on the harmless victims, saying they were flying over Soviet territory and that they fired first.

Probably the Kremlin doesn't expect anybody with a clear head to swallow this guff. It can have effect only on those deluded souls who still think there are big grains of truth in anything the Russians say. Unfortunately, there may be more of these souls than we like to concede, since Moscow's transparent fabrications about germ warfare in Korea seem to have been accepted by many naive Europeans.

This newest show of Russian depravity, however, need not be interpreted as a sign that the Soviet armies are spoiling for a fight. It may actually be evidence of the exact reverse.

What is entirely likely is that the Russians have a pathological fear of being discovered in their weakness. The sharpest experts we have on the Soviet Union rate the Reds seriously weak in important economic categories vital to the prosecution of a war.

This does not mean the Russians do not have a large standing army, a huge backlog of planes and tanks and other weapons, and a great share of their industrial production devoted to the output of arms. But it does suggest that this tremendous facade of strength might crumble in a long conflict with America.

The Russians dare not let the legend of their military might lose force. It is perfectly in character with that purpose to put on an occasional show of belligerence in the general zone of their borders. They undoubtedly believe they may thereby suggest to the free world that Russia's fring is bristling with impregnable defense strong points.

Such incidents as this have their value for Russian home consumption, too. Dictators live on artificially generated fears of outside enemies. What better way to convince the poor, depression-ridden Russian that his burdens are necessary than to dream up a real, live foreign plane sauntering suspiciously over Soviet soil?

The event is new, but the method and the goal are old. We shall never have an end to this kind of thing so long as we have nations ruled by men who know only the raw creed of power for the sake of power.

TAFT TEMPERAMENT DIFFICULT FOR LENSMEN; IKE'S A "MUGGER"

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — News photographers are generally agreed that Sen. Dick Russell of Georgia is the easiest of the presidential candidates to work with. He'll do anything they say.

General Eisenhower, as a new face on the political scene, is regarded by many as the most photogenic and the best "mugger." Senator Taft of Ohio still takes top honors as being the most difficult subject, photographically and temperamentally.

Recently a photographer was admitted to Senator Taft's Washington residence to make a series of "at home" shots. The photographer suggested that the senator take off his coat, sit down in an easy chair and make like he was having a cup of coffee.

"I never take my coat off at home," said the senator crisply.

"All right, replied the photographer agreeably, "I just wanted to show you relaxed at home, and most men, when they go home, take off their coats."

"That settles it," said the senator. "Leave my house."

Frank Capa, a photographer covering General Eisenhower on the final visit to Luxembourg, says he was close by when the general bade farewell to Minister Perle (the inspiration for "Call Me Madam") Mesta. It was at Luxembourg airport.

As the general stopped to shake hands with Mme. Mesta before boarding his plane, Capa says this conversation took place:

Mme. Mesta: "Well, goodby, general."

General Eisenhower: "Call me Mister."

General Eisenhower has privately told a few people there is not one word of truth in the story printed last November that President Truman had offered to help Ike get the Democratic presidential nomination, and that the general had not rejected it.

Mr. Eisenhower's version is that the story was impossible because, right at the start of his meeting with the President, there was a clear understanding that the two would not discuss domestic politics.

Iowa Sen. Guy M. Gillette's subcommittee is making a study of scurrilous literature mailed out during the 1952 campaign, though it hasn't as yet cleaned up its 1950 election scandals cases as yet.

The Gillette committee has traced the first of the anti-Eisenhower mailings, "Headlines and What's Behind Them," to the New York offices of the much-investigated Joe Kamp.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee was asked if he intended to have blocks of delegates visit him before the Democratic nominating convention in Chicago, in an obvious crack at General Eisenhower's activities along that line.

"No!" said Kefauver. "Our plan of campaign is to go see the people and then get them to influence the delegates."

California Sen. William F. Knowland's sweep of both parties in the state primaries has made him a hot prospect for a vice-presidential nomination. He would be teamed with Senator Taft in the number-one spot.

The old "Copperhead" political label of Civil War times has been dragged out again. The name was originally applied to Northerners who sympathized with and supported the South in the battle over slavery and states' rights.

Americans for Democratic Action, the liberal wing of the Democratic Party, is now applying the "Copperhead" label to Northerners who want a compromise plank on civil rights in the 1952 platform.

At the head of its Copperhead list, ADA has put Democratic Chairman Frank McKinney and Massachusetts Gov. Paul A. Dever, who'll be keynoter at the Chicago Democratic Convention.

Taft-Eisenhower name-calling over the Texas Republican convention delegates contest has now reached a high decibel and ultra high-frequency level. It isn't so much the two candidates themselves as their backers who are indulging in this mudslinging.

First the Eisenhower crowd accused the Taftites of "stealing" the Texas delegation by steamroller tactics. Undaunted by that, Taft headquarters has now issued a statement accusing the Ikeites of trying to win the Texas delegation "by fraud."

The alleged fraud is supposed to have occurred in trying to persuade Democrats to vote for General Eisenhower in Republican primaries.

Southern congressmen have taken care to see that cotton planters are protected on price-support levels in this election year, regardless of what happens to northern and western grain farmers.

The House of Representatives have passed a bill changing the standards on which price supports are calculated. The result is that cotton prices will probably be advanced three and a half cents a pound on the 1952 crop, if it runs over the 16-million-bale goal set by Department of Agriculture.

Unanimity Of Dominions Aided Legal Solution Of Abdication

London. —(CP)— Only the unanimity of the British Dominions on the grave issues involved by the abdication in 1936 of King Edward VIII, the present Duke of Windsor, saved the Commonwealth's legal advisers from a major constitutional headache.

The opinion is offered in "Retrospect," the memoirs of Viscount Simon, home secretary under Stanley Baldwin during the abdication crisis and one of England's most distinguished lawyers of the last half century.

Lord Simon discloses that he had much to do with the "mechanics" of the abdication and relates that the record office in London now has a lengthy memorandum he prepared on the series of steps that were to be taken. These were drawn up at a meeting of ministers and other state officials late on the night preceding the end of King Edward's reign.

There was no precedent in British history to guide the government. And the Statute of Westminster made it necessary for the legislation implementing the King's decision to abdicate, to carry with it the consent of all the Dominions.

What made the timing so important was that each Dominion had to receive the news through a cipher telegram to its Prime Minister before a news cable from London could reach it. Also of vital importance was that the cipher telegram should not be delivered so early as to risk a reverse message being relayed to London and published before Baldwin made the announcement to the House of Commons.

"Fortunately, the time-table worked perfectly," Lord Simon writes. "Still more fortunately, each of the Dominions took or authorized the course provided in our bill.

"What would have happened if this had not been so is a conundrum which constitutional advisers were spared from tackling."

Sixteen years later, Lord Simon, now in his 80th year, attended the accession council of Queen Elizabeth II.

"The young Queen," he says, "read her aptly-phrased speech in clear and quiet tones and went through the formal business with a calm dignity and gracious charm which touched me deeply.

"Her slight figure and gentle manner seemed almost girlish, but you felt she knew exactly what to do and was doing it with the same composure and courtesy as her grandfather always showed at meetings of the sovereign-in-council."

During a distinguished parliamentary career, extending over 40 years, Lord Simon served five Ministers from Asquith to Winston Churchill. In that span he variously held office as Solicitor-General, Attorney-General, Foreign Minister, Home Secretary, Chancellor of the Exchequer and Lord Chancellor.

Governor-General Plans Busy Summer

Ottawa. — With official court mourning for the late King at an end, Governor-General Vincent Massey has started a rigorous summer schedule of engagements.

His schedule opened in Ottawa June 9 when he presided at a state dinner in honor of the Queen's birthday. Senior government officials and members of the Senate and House of Commons attended the dinner in Rideau Hall, his official residence.

July 1 he will be host at the traditional Dominion Day garden party at Government House. About 2,000 persons are expected to attend. The same day, his Excellency will participate in a trans-Canada broadcast program being aranged by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Mr. Massey leaves Ottawa to officiate at the formal opening of the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto July 25. The following day he will address the Red Cross international conference in Toronto.

During August the Governor-General will visit the four Maritime provinces, making four official visits to all the provincial capitals —Fredericton, Halifax, Charlottetown and St. John's.

Then, in the tradition of his predecessors Mr. Massey will be in official residence at the Citadel, Quebec city for most of September.

GREAT PLAY HELPED HOPELESS SITUATION

It is always very gratifying to report a hand in which the theoretically correct play turns out well in practice. In the hand shown today, Charles H. Sanders, of New York, was faced with an almost hopeless situation.

There was only one chance to defeat the contract, so Mr. Sanders went for it and discovered that it pays to play good bridge.

Holding the West cards, Mr. Sanders opened the king of spades and continued the suit until South won the third round. South then led the queen of clubs. Mr. Sanders had to take this trick with his ace since South's opening bid of one no-trump made it perfectly clear that declarer had all of the missing high cards.

If South had K Q-x of clubs it would be impossible to shut out dummy's long suit. There was only one hope: that South had started the hand with only two clubs. If so, the contract could be defeated by the right, but somewhat startling, play.

Mr. Sanders therefore immediately led the king of hearts. This remarkable play defeated the contract. The clubs were dead since declarer was in dummy for the last time. South could take the entire heart suit, if he wanted to take a finesse, but even that would give him only eight tricks.

Note that South would make his contract if Mr. Sanders mistakenly cashed the fourth spade. On this trick South would be happy to discard the king of clubs.

You, South, hold: Spades J-3-2, Hearts A-K-Q-J-8-4-2, Diamonds A-J, Club 5. What do you do?

A—Bid four hearts. Even if North has made a very shaded response, you still want to play this hand for game. It would be foolish to bid only three hearts and have North pass because he has no hearts and a worthless hand except for four spades to the king-queen.

North will not be silenced if he has a good hand. He knows that you will not bid four hearts on deuces and treys, and he will try for a slam if he has the right cards.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades K-3-2, Hearts K-Q-9-8-4, Diamonds 7-2, Clubs A-Q-J. What do you do?

The Record Short Story

LOVE'S SHOWDOWN

By HESTER HAWKES

When Frances Grant parked her small car in front of the Black Goose Tea Shop, she sat still a moment trying to summon her courage. She knew she'd planned a drastic, do-or-die meeting, and she was coldly, horribly scared. It had to turn out right; her whole future life was at stake!

Drawing a deep breath, she went into the restaurant. As the door swung behind her, she looked over the heads of the few early diners to a secluded table in the rear. Yes, her mother was there.

She turned aside to the powder room. Bill wasn't due for fifteen minutes. It was better to wait before joining her mother so she would not betray her nervousness. She fervently hoped her mother wouldn't be angry that she'd arranged this surprise meeting between the three of them. Of course it wasn't a surprise to Bill. He'd been willing, even anxious for another chance to approach her mother. Dear wonderful Bill Fraser, the dearest man on earth!

Before Frances had left the office, she'd already removed any stray signs of typewriter ink, but she passed her powder puff slowly over her face, trying meanwhile to marshal her arguments. Somehow, she must make her mother see what her opposition to Bill was doing to her. Frances thought: "I'm being torn apart, by two loves. My loyalty is stretched to the breaking point. I can't go on this way any longer." Oh, why couldn't they all be happy together like other families?

But whenever she mentioned Bill's name at home, her mother would freeze, her face becoming so pinched and forlorn that it stabbed her to the heart. She felt guilty to be hurting her sweet kind parent who had always done so much for her.

The trouble, or part of the trouble, was that her mother had nobody else but her. If her father had lived, her mother might be more willing to listen to her and to make the effort of getting to know Bill Fraser. For the past five years while she finished school, took a stenographic course and since then, all her mother's life revolved around her. And in turn, her own life was completely supervised by her mother. She hadn't minded this, until she met Bill.

At first, when they had dates, she would invite him in. And at first, Mrs. Grant had acted the pleasant hostess, helping with the sandwiches or chatting with the new boy friend. They lived in a modest two-family house that Mrs. Grant owned. Then when love burst into thrilling bloom, the pleasantness stopped, like, Frances often thought, turning off an electric light.

"A filling station attendant!" She could still hear the scorn in her mother's voice. "He's not good enough for you."

And her quick defense, "He's not learning the business. He won't be one long——" But her mother had interrupted.

"You shouldn't waste your time on him, Frances. A professional man is the right kind for you. One who'll give you security and social standing." And she prevented any further talk by marching from the room. Though she paused at the door to announce stiffly, "That garage mechanic will not be welcome in my home, ever. Put him right out of your mind."

Frances had started to insist Bill wasn't a garage mechanic, but she hadn't the chance. She wanted to say he worked in the filling station down the street because his father wanted him to gain experience, but she never was able.

How vividly she remembered the first time they met. She'd driven in for some gas, just as a long expensive car swept up to the other side of the gas tanks. "Fill her up, boy!" the opulent-looking driver had commanded. Bill had grinned at him. "You're next, after this young lady."

The man had stared furiously, then started with a foar and drove away. Bill winked at Frances. She said, "I'm sorry if I made you lose a customer."

"You needn't be," he answered, smiling at her.

He was so friendly, so easy to talk to that before she left, she'd agreed to stop the following day to have her brakes tested.

Her next excuse had been a strange knock in the engine and that afternoon, they'd driven to a quiet country road where he'd investigated what was wrong. A minor adjustment, but a glorious chance to break through the ice of new acquaintance.

A date followed, and several more, and Frances knew with all certainty she'd fallen in love. Love for her was not just "one of those things," it was the thing, and the joy it brought was pure magic. The most wonderful part was that Bill felt the same way! They would look at each other, and it didn't need words to say between them: "You're all I've ever hoped for. Why have we wasted so much time?"

Suddenly they both knew they didn't have to talk about whether they were going to be married. It was just a question of when. Eyes sparkling and her cheeks flushed with breathless happiness, she'd rushed home, but her mother at the first mention of Bill Fraser, had frozen into an iceberg and issued her ultimatum about a filling station attendant.

Twice Bill had tried to talk with the mother but each time she'd walked off into her own room and closed the door. He'd even tried telephoning her, only to have the receiver hung up. And Frances couldn't bring herself to marry without her mother's approval; she knew she wouldn't do such a cruel thing to anyone so dear to her. So the breach widened between them, until Frances' nerves felt frayed and she grew thin and haggard.

Life simply wasn't worth living, she thought miserably, when you were constantly being wrenched apart. There just had to be a showdown. By telephone, she'd summoned them both to this quiet though public place, so there would be no "scenes," and so the three could talk reasonably and decently, where her mother couldn't escape. Frances prayed her mother would forgive her trickery. She gave a resolute perk to her chic hat brim and walked into the restaurant dining room.

Mrs. Grant greeted her with a smile. "Nice idea, dear, our eating out for a change."

The waitress brought menus, and right behind her appeared Bill. Frances' heart gave its familiar wild lurch at sight of him. All her love was in the smile she gave him.

"Please sit down, Bill. We're going to have a talk, we three. No, Mother!" She put out a restraining hand as her mother started to rise. "You mustn't leave. This time you're going to listen." Her voice sounded so much braver than she felt. Mrs. Grant sat rigid, her face a pale mask of resistance. It took a superhuman effort for Frances to start.

She drew a ragged breath, then plunged, telling of her devotion to them both, that she knew her mother loved her but Bill did also. She mentioned her appreciation for all her mother's fond care, but the time had come when she must make her own decision about a husband. And her choice was Bill Fraser.

"I can't marry him while you're so opposed to him, Mother dear," she said gently. "If you'd only look at my side and get to know him, you'd see what a splendid person he is."

Her mother's face was pinched in its suffering, and tears stung Frances' eyes.

Bill came to her rescue. He said earnestly, "I'm not a great matrimonial catch, Mrs. Grant, but I truly believe I can make your daughter happy."

"Every mother," began Mrs. Grant with some difficulty, "wants her daughter's happiness, and for her to marry someone who'll make her a good husband."

"Oh, he will!" breathed Frances with feeling.

Her mother continued, "I'm not opposed to you as a young man. I'm opposed to your being a working man. I married one myself, one who had to work hard for small pay. So I worked, too. All Frances' young years I worked, and I made a firm resolution that she wasn't going to go through what I did. Even though I have a comfortable income now as a result of those years, I haven't forgotten them."

"Frances will never have to work," asserted Bill, leaning forward. "I know it! My father has a good position for me when I'm prepared to handle it. He owns a chain of six filling stations."

"That's what I've been trying for weeks to tell you, Mother," put in Frances.

A change came over Mrs. Grant. She gave a long quivering sigh. "If Frances loves you so much, there must be fine qualities about you I don't yet know. Now, I see no reason why I shouldn't try to find out what those qualities are." And to Frances' unutterable joy, her mother extended her hand, and Bill grasped it in both of his own!

Teacher Says Students Don't Change Much

Petrolia, Ont.—(CP)—The student of 1952 isn't much different from the student of 25 years ago, says Miss Rae L. L. Jones, of Petrolia district high school.

Miss Jones is due to retire after teaching French and English at P.D.H.S. for the last 34 years. She says the modern student is more outspoken and enjoys a closer understanding with the teacher.

Twenty-five years ago pupils may have been a trifle more conscientious about study, she says, and more inclined to develop on their own initiative, but that does not mean that they were better fitted for the battle sof life.

Miss Jones likes to recall the student, hopelessly confused in a French examination, who submitted a single sheet of paper. On it was drawn a goose with all its feathers scattered about. Beneath the drawing was a single line: "Not only plucked, but skinned alive."

Her best student? Miss Jones was reluctant to answer that one. Instead, she recalled several she remembers for particular reasons.

In 1924 a pupil arrived late for French class and then interrupted proceedings by gathering books for a hasty departure. Asked to explain his actions he said: "Don't stop me now, I'm going to join the army and I'll write later."

The pupil was Fred Portsmouth, Petrolia's mayor, who served in Canada's permanent army for 23 years.

Other former pupils included Lt.-Col. John Rider, of the Veterans' Affairs Department at Ottawa; Donald Ferguson Brown, Liberal Member of Parliament for Essex West; Fred Fitzgerald, of the Comstock Company, St. Catharines, and Roy Cox, a distinguished oboe player who has performed with the Vancouver and Toronto symphony orchestras.

Among the girls Miss Jones remembers are Ellen Ewart, now director of nurses at Mountain Sanitorium, Hamilton, and Lucy Germain, director of nurses at Harper Hospital, Detroit.

Washington, June 24—(AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation said today it has located more than 19,000 draft delinquents since the peacetime selective service law went into effect four years ago. Director J. Edgar Hoover said that of the men located 3,301 actually were fugitives and prosecutions have resulted in 554 convictions. Some 11,929 cases of indicated draft-evasion are awaiting investigation.

Andre Lamothe Case Is Under Deliberation

Judge Patrick Delaney took under deliberation yesterday the case of Andre Lamothe, of St. Ferdinand de Halifax, charged with having in his possession 122,000 smuggled U. S. cigarets on which duty had not been paid.

R.C.M.P. made the seizure at East Hereford on July 27, 1951. Two other men were arrested at the same time and both have been sentenced. Leonidas Lambert, near whose farm the seizure was made, was given one year and taxi driver Omer Cote was fined.

Lamothe had previously been ordered to stand trial at the next criminal assizes but asked for a speedy trial and his request was granted. Judge Delaney will render judgment on June 30. Lucien Gendron, Q. C., and Paul Emile Brazeau represented the accused while Roland Dugre, Q. C., crown prosecutor, and Benoit Turmel, representing the R.C.M.P., handled the case for the crown.

Constable Real Cardinal of the Mounted Police force told of how on July 27 he was accompanied by Provincial Police Officer Ivan Roberge and the two men noticed a girl running in a field. They went to investigate, lost the girl but saw three men, a quantity of cigarets and a car.

The defense called only one witness, Leonidas Lambert, who took the whole blame. He claimed that Andre Lamothe went to visit him and just happened to be with him when he was receiving some cigarets.

Asked from whom he obtained the cigarets he said that an American, who spoke English, but a man he never met and knew only by telephone conversations delivered the cigarets. He claimed that they were loaded on one side of the river into a boat and he pulled the boat across the stream by a rope.

Judge Delaney took the case under deliberation.

SECOND CHARGE

After hearing his speedy trial on a charge of conspiracy to place in circulation false American money the Judge said "under deliberation."

Lamothe is accused of conspiracy to place in circulation a considerable amount of bogus American money and was arrested by R.C.M.P., last year. He had been previously ordered to stand trial at the next criminal assizes but asked for a speedy trial and his request was granted.

Old German University Gets Canadian Library As Symbol Of Goodwill

Toronto. — Books about Canada are to be presented to Germany's ancient Marburg University.

A collection of 353 volumes on all phases of Canadian life, mostly written by Canadians, has been gathered and shipped to Europe. It will be formally presented to Hon. T. C. Davis, Canada's ambassador to the West German government, at a ceremony June 28 which coincides with the 425th anniversary of the University of Marburg.

Carefully selected by a group of Toronto professors, the shipment is representative of Canada's bilingual culture. It includes both French and English publications as well as books about Canada by foreign authors. Works such as the Massey report and the Canada Year Book are presented side by side with Stephen Leacock's "Sunshine Sketches of a Little Town" and Marjorie Wilkins Campbell's "The Saskatchewan." Texts on science and religion, poetry and art, history and biography are balanced with literary criticisms and Canadian fiction.

Alan Coatsworth, Toronto insurance agent and veteran of the first world war, is one of the persons who arranged the gesture of international goodwill. Shortly after the second world war, he noticed a letter in Saturday Night magazine requesting reading material on Canada for Marburg students. Mr. Coatsworth sent 12 volumes. In 1950 he flew to Germany to see university officials.

Following his return to Canada, four professors at the University of Toronto were invited to co-operate in the project. They are Prof. G. W. Brown of the history department; Prof. H. Boeschenstein of the German department; Prof. Robert Finch of the French department and Prof. Norman J. Endicott of the English department.

It is the hope of this committee to establish the University of Marburg as a centre of Canadian studies in Germany. Marburg, a town of 33,000 people is 60 miles north of Frankfurt-on-Main, in the American zone of occupation. With a history dating from the 12th century it is famous for its university and the shrine of St. Elizabeth.

At present 353 books have been delivered to German library officials and arrangements completed for the training of an expert on Canadian affairs. Dr. Edwart Weber of the English department at Marburg is expected to arrive in Canada next May for a year's study at the University of Toronto.

Some 3,192 students attended Marburg University in 1951. Two other universities and nine colleges are in the area. During the war the university library at Berlin was transferred here, as were the remains of Hindenberg and Frederick the Great, now interred in St. Elizabeth Kirche.

Immigrants Enjoy "Temporary Hotel"

Edmonton. — There is a "hotel" in Edmonton where the guests stay free of charge. But not everybody can get a reservation.

The "hotel" is Immigration Hall. Each day during the spring and summer months about 50 immigrants stay there for short periods before going on to new lives in Western Canada.

And it's not a bad place to stay, considering it's free of charge. There are married and single men's and women's quarters. Ex-service personnel would find a close resemblance to barracks life in the free hotel.

At Immigration Hall everybody is waiting—for a new job, a new home, or the rest of the family to arrive.

Cleanliness is relative to the occupants of the hall. Single men are least neat. But the immigrant mothers go to the other extreme. Their little rooms are scrubbed and shining.

"They haven't got anything like this in European camps," said one Polish woman through an interpreter.

"The food is good but strange to us because it is Canadian. Sometimes we buy a bit of black bread and Polish sausage. It is a good cure for homesickness."

Among a recent group of 40 immigrants not one could be found who would trade the lodging for what he had left behind in Europe. The question whether they would prefer a D.P. camp in Europe brought stunned looks and incredulous laughter.

Two Canadians Travel 18,000 Miles In Jeep

Bombay, India. — Two young adventurers from Toronto landed up here recently after an 18,000-mile trek in a jeep.

They are Douglas Wilkins, 22, and Warren Wilkins, 23, who have motored through Europe, the Middle East and a few Asian countries.

They left Canada nine months ago after graduating, took a boat to Montreal and worked their way from there to Sweden on a freighter.

After travelling by jeep through Denmark, Belgium and Britain they took a special course in mechanics so they would be able to fix the car if it broke down later on.

Then came France, Switzerland, Trieste, Italy, Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey, with Christmas in Jerusalem.

Jordan next, then Iraq, Iran, Afghanistan, the Khyber Pass, Pakistan and finally India.

Fire Destroys Parade Floats

Montreal, June 25.—(CP)—Fire in a garage early today destroyed 19 of the 20 floats to be used in the traditional June 24 St. Jean Baptiste Day parade. Cause of the fire was not immediately known.

J. Emile Boucher, president of the St. Jean Baptiste Society, said the parade would go on as scheduled.

"As long as we have a flag left we will have a parade," he said.

The annual parade in honor of French Canada's patron saint is scheduled to start along Sherbrooke street, in the east-end of Montreal, at 1:00 p.m. and is the main event in the three-day celebrations, in which 1,000,000 persons are expected to take part.

Pacific Typhoon Kills Sixty-Five

Tokyo, June 25—(AP)—The edge of a typhoon hit Japan today, killing at least 65 persons and the toll was rising as reports came in over battered communication systems. Another 58 are missing.

The Japanese coast guard said 55 fishing boats with 234 persons aboard also were unaccounted for. Some may have been blown to sea. The storm hit last night. It began blowing out to sea by mid-day.

Torrential rains raised the Nagaro river to flood stage. A thousand men are fighting breaks in its banks in an effort to prevent flooding around Nagoya and Gifu, 250 miles west of Tokyo.

Police reported 8,800 homes damaged by the wind and rain which in many places amounted to 10 per cent of the annual rainfall. Tokyo was hit by 50-mile winds and four inches of rain.

A tuna fishing boat sent out distress signals this morning. Patrol boats hurried to the spot but found no trace of the craft or its crew of 45 men.

At least 19 persons were killed by landslides that also knocked out 21 bridges.

Brazil Convicts Still At Large

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, June 24. —(AP)—Troops and police turned the coastal town of Parati into an armed fortress today as remnants of a band of 300 convicts who fought their way out of Anchieta island prison skulked through the surrounding countryside.

Press dispatches from the southeastern Brazilian community said scores of heavily-armed soldiers and police patrolled the streets. Food was reported scare because the fugitives had disrupted transportation.

One Brazilian marine and one convict were reported killed yesterday in skirmishes at the towns of Chacara and Pedra Branca. Earlier police said they were closing in on 57 fugitives, reported to be the only armed group still at large.

Another band of 37 was said to be free but unarmed.

Seventeen guards and civilian workers were killed in the prison break Friday.

in Lennoxville by Rev. Mr. Scarth. Mrs. Lothrop predeceased him 18 years ago.

Six sons were born of this union, one son dying in infancy. Immediate survivors are his sons: George S., Thomas P. and Fenton S. Lothrop, all of Sherbrooke; Crofton J. of Vancouver and Merwyn S. Lothrop, of Montreal; a brother, Scot L. Lothrop, of San Bernandino, California; as well as a large number of nieces, nephews and others relatives in California. Also remaining to mourn his loss are 13 grandchildren and a number of great grandchildren.

A keen fisherman, Mr. Lothrop had for many years spent his summer vacation at Big Timbers Camp, Georgeville. Among the many out-of-town people who attended the funeral were Miss Meryle Hauser, proprietor of the Camp, and several district and American friends who had known Mr. Lothrop during the summer.

out that this was impossible, Therrien was heard making threats that he would do something "bad" if he could not marry the girl. The fire followed a few hours after the last threats and now Therrien himself has disappeared.

Father Cloutier and the residents of Island Brook are today faced with the task of rehabilitating the Pouliot family. Mrs. Pouliot and her seven children, the eldest a girl of thirteen years, were struggling to make a bare subsistence living on the small farm about 3½ miles from the village—a struggle that was grim at the best of times.

Now their entire assets have been destroyed — the tiny farm house, the barn, their two cows, a few farm implements while the truck garden which was to supply them with a few vegetables for their own needs was greatly damaged by villagers in their vain efforts to salvage some of the farm machinery.

Mrs. Pouliot and the children were given temporary refuge at the Presbytery until some arrangements could be made for housing them for a longer period. But the greatest task is that of rebuilding the farm property and providing the family with subsistence until such time as they can replant their garden and perhaps obtain a few animals.

Villagers are planning a community effort to replace the buildings, which means an entire rebuilding operation as both house and barn were levelled by the incendiary blaze.

Father Cloutier is acting as chairman of the unofficial group which has taken over the task of caring for the unfortunate family.

Lois Maxwell Stars In New London Film

London. — Lois Maxwell, freckle-faced Canadian film actress, is back in London realizing an ambition born last year during the filming of "The Women's Angle."

She's starring again in a British film—a studio version of the stage play, "Women of Twilight." As the title suggests, this is a rather grim story of unmarried mothers in a down-at-heel district. It played in London's west end for nine months, but lasted only a few days in New York.

Lois, a tall, slim blonde from Kitchener and Fort Erie, Ont., first came to British studios last year from Italy, where she had been working for such producers as Leonide Moguy, who made the famous "Prison Without Bars." Earlier she was in Hollywood but traded her long-term contract there for an 18-hour day in Italian film studios.

"Hollywood wasn't teaching me a thing," she explained.

After her second British film Lois will go back to her apartment in Rome and further Italian film parts. Although she loves Italy and wants to stay there, she's hoping that from now on she can spend part of each year filming in Britain.

Lois votes British studios top of the list for courtesy. "In Hollywood it's efficiency, in Italy enthusiasm," she says—adding that so far she has not regretted leaving Hollywood.

Former Beebe Couple Honored At Rock Island

Rock Island, June 24.—Mr. and Mrs. M. Porter Dixon, of Ottawa, Ont., formerly of Beebe, were honored on Tuesday evening, by their children, at the Del Monty Hotel, on the occasion of the observance of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

At the supper hour, a sumptuous turkey dinner was served by the hotel management, in the banquet room, to immediate relatives and friends.

The table attractive with a white linen cloth was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated in white with gold trim and was topped with an arch of flowers and gold leaves, from which was suspended a tiny gold bell. The room was further decorated with vases of gold colored iris.

Mr. E. J. Struthers, of Stanstead, was toast master and paid tribute to the bride and groom of fifty years, which was responded to by the groom.

Mrs. Minnie Rider, sang "Four Leaf Clover," and Wayne Woodsworth sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

Remarks were made by Mr. A. C. Cowles and other guests present. Grace was asked by Miss Georgena Dixon, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dixon.

The guest book was in charge of Mrs. Woodsworth. The initial cut of the wedding cake was made by the bride and groom.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Dixon were "at home" to their friends, guests being received in the banquet room. The bride was attired in a printed silk dress with which she wore a corsage of yellow roses. The bride and groom were the recipients of lovely gifts from the family and immediate friends, and numerous congratulatory cards, and received a telegram of congratulations from the manager and staff of the Murphy-Gamble Department Store in Ottawa, where Mr. Dixon is employed as assistant cashier and post master.

Mr. M. Porter Dixon and Mrs. Dixon, the former Ethel House, were married on June 17, 1902, at the home of the bride, in Beebe. The Rev. William Smith, pastor of the Beebe Methodist Church, officiated. The bridesmaid was Mrs. Winthorp Churchill, of Milton, Mass., and the best man was Mr. Charles E. Whitcher, of Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon resided in Beebe when Mr. Dixon was station master for the Boston and Maine, R.R., and later the Quebec Central R.R.

During their years in Beebe, Mr. and Mrs. Dixon were very active in the work of the Methodist Church, which later joined the United Churches of Canada. They were both active in Red Cross work and interested actively in the growth of the village. For several years, Mr. Dixon was post master at Beebe.

The hospital home of the Dixon family was always open to everyone. A few years ago, Mr. Dixon was retired from the R. R. Co., and he and Mrs. Dixon went to Ottawa, where they now reside. Mr. Dixon is very active in the employement of a large department store.

Mrs. Dixon enjoys fair health, and both enjoyed being back among old friends to spend this happy occasion of their anniversary with their family and friends at the Boundary.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon are parents of two daughters, Miriam, Mrs. Wayne Woodsworth, of Montreal; Margaret, Mrs. Donald Magoon, of St. Johusbury, Vt.; and a son, Donald, of Hamilton, Ont.

They have nine grandchildren. Another daughter, the eldest died at the age of two years, in 1907.

Among those attending this happy event from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Woodsworth, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Magoon and two children, Dick and Joyce, of St. Johnsbury, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dixon and daughter, Georgena, of Hamilton, Ont.; Mrs. Minnie Rider, of Montreal; Mrs. Olive Earl, of Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Call, of Ottawa; Mr. Charles Stevens, of West Burke, Vt.; and a number of friends from Beebe, Rock Island, Stanstead, Derby Line and the surrounding Districts.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Dixon join in wishing them many more years of continued happiness as they enter the sunset days of marriage.

General Notes

Mrs. Cecil Waterman and little son, Lonnie Alan, returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, from Broadview Hospital, one day last week, and two days later they returned to their home in Holland, Vt., accompanied by her other two children, Larry and Linda, who have been staying with their grandparents during their mother's absence.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kenrick, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Prangly and daughter, Diane, of Rock Island, spent last week-end in Montreal.

Mrs. Edward Whitehouse, of Rock Island, sustained a fall at the Holmes Memorial Park, one day recently and on Tuesday, June 17, she was X-rayed at the office of Dr. Guy LePierre, in Beebe, where it was determined that she had a fractured hip. She was taken to Brookview Hospital, the same day where she will be a patient for a time.

Miss Georgena Dixon, of Hamilton, Ont., is spending the summer at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Holland, in Derby Line.

Cowansville Lions Induct Officers

Cowansville, June 24—With the usual interest shown in the new set-up in officialdom, and in spite of bad weather conditions a good turnout of Lions was on hand, when the Deputy District Governor of District A 4, Larry Sheasgreen, of the St. Lambert club, inducted Lion Alan Webster for president, and other new officials who will guide the Cowansville Lions through 1952-53. Another pleasant duty performed by the governor was the presentation of 100% attendance lapel buttons to 19 Lions and including "Lioness" Emily Cousens, who with Lion Guy, has kept the group singing going without a break during the season just closed.

Governor Sheasgreen was presented to the meeting by Lion G. K. Lechasseur, and in opening his remarks he paid high tribute to the chef of the Ottawa Hotel, where he said he could always depend on a good meal. Continuing, he spoke on the district convention just closed in London, Ont. Although Lion Sheasgreen was a candidate for the office of District Governor at the convention it was Lion Ben Cohen, of the Hull club, who was elected. Admitting some disappointment, he none the less called on all the members of the district to support Gov. Cohen, whom he praised as a 100% Lion, and one who would fill his job with complete satisfaction to all.

Completing his remarks Governor Sheasgreen inducted the following Lions, who will hold office for the coming year: President, Alan Webster; first, second and third vice - presidents, Donald Blinn, Ambrose Graham, and Guy Cousens; secretary-treasurer, G. K. Lechasseur, re-elected; Tail Twister, "Opie" Olpinski; Lion Tamer, Garth Dean; and two directors, Ben. Phelps and Andre Gautier.

The Booster Club report, given by Lion Ambrose Graham, was one of confidence and progress. Completing the report Lion Graham presented a further check to the hospital fund of $1,000, leaving now a total on deposit of $5,500, and withholding $2,500 for salaries and other possible expenses.

At this point the immediate past president, Andre Gautier, presented to the new president, Alan Webster, the president's lapel button and turned the meeting over to him for completion. In accepting the responsibilities of his new office, Lion Webster stated that he had little to say but promised a year of activities, which would make the Lions Club a potent factor in Cowansville and vicinity. Lion Webster is a gentleman farmer and president of Realmont Ltd., and is a popular choice as chief executive of the club. He is forceful and determined in a way which gets results.

The meeting was closed with the announcement that it was the final general meeting which would be held until next September.

Fire Destroys Eastman Stable, Killing Animals

Eastman, June 24.—A fire of unknown origin Sunday destroyed the stable-barn of Leon Morin, Eastman farmer, and burned five hogs, a horse and ten cows.

The Eastman fire department under Chief Maurice Fortin, battled the blaze from 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon until 1 o'clock this morning.

The firemen succeeded in saving a dozen cows and three horses from death.

The fire ripped through the wooden structure and also destroyed five or six tons of hay which was stored in the building.

Firemen isolated structures near the fire scene.

OBITUARIES

CHARLES ADDISON, OF BROMPTON

Brompton, June 24 — Brompton's oldest resident, Mr. Charles Addison, passed to his rest after a short illness, on April 10, 1952.

He was born on August 5, 1864, the only son of the late Henry Addison and his wife, Jane Beattie. Except for twelve years when he was employed by the Grand Trunk and Maine Central Railways, his life was spent on the farm, where he was born, being the third generation on the Addison farm.

In 1890 he married Mary McArthur, of Richmond, who died in 1935.

He was a loving husband and father and a kind friend, always taking time to take part in public affairs that would be of benefit to humanity.

He was People's Warden of Christ Church for 45 years, served on the local School Board, was a Councillor and mayor for this district, and County Warden for a term. He also succeeded his father as postmaster until the Rural Delivery was established.

He was a Past Grand of Jubilee Lodge No. 31, I.O.O.F., at Windsor. He joined Equity Lodge No. 19, at Cookshire, on January 1, 1895.

The funeral service was held on April 14, at 2 p.m., from his late residence to Christ Church, where Rev. A. V. Ottiwell, of Sherbrooke, officiated, assisted by Canon E. R. Roy, of Windsor Mills, who gave the address and spoke very highly of the deceased.

Mrs. Albert Robinson presided at the organ and the hymns sung were "Peace, Perfect Peace" and "Rock of Ages". Interment was made in the family lot in the cemetery adjoining the church. Jubilee Lodge, I.O.O.F. conducted its usual service at the graveside.

The bearers were Messrs. Wesley Mackey, Albert Robinson, Howard Ward, Richard Dale, Guy Robinson and Francis Robinson, all neighbors.

Beautiful flowers covered the casket.

He leaves to mourn his loss two daughters, Florence, Mrs. H. E. Perkins, of this place, and Alice, Mrs. C. L. Gremmels, of Waterloo, Iowa; one sister, Carrie, Mrs. C. L. Nelson, of Cambridge, Mass.; and Paul Proulx and family, who have made their home with Mr. Addison for sixteen years; five grandchildren, three great grandchildren, several nieces, nephews, cousins, and a host of friends.

JAMES DANIEL DOWNING, OF SHERBROOKE, QUE

Mr. James Daniel Downing passed away at his home, 9 Cresse Street, Sherbrooke, on April 22nd, after a lengthy illness.

He was born at Acton Vale, Que., on July 25th, 1877, the son of the late Michael Downing and his wife, the late Bridget Kellett.

For many years Mr. Downing was connected with the Dominion Government Postal Services, having been with the Post Office Inspector's Department at Sherbrooke and on the closing of that office was transferred to North Bay, Ont., and while there received the appointment of Post Office Inspector. In 1929 he was moved to St. John, N.B., and later was transferred to the Montreal District. At the time of his retirement Mr. Downing held the position of Superintendent Investigations Division of Postal Services at Montreal.

The deceased was a member of the North Bay Knights of Columbus, and also a member of the Holy Name Society in Sherbrooke.

The funeral service was held at St. Patrick's Church, Sherbrooke, on April 25th, the Rev. Father Moisan officiating. The Rev. Father Boisvert officiated at the Libera at the St. Camille Parish Church at Cookshire, and prayers at the grave were said by Father Moisan. The bearers were Dalton Downing and John Berry, of Derby Line, Vt., Downing Bourassa, John Hudon and Maurice Hudon, Sherbrooke, and Rolland Bourassa, of Windsor Mills.

Interment was in the Roman Catholic Cemetery at Cookshire, Que.

Mr. Downing leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, the former Maria McCafferty; his son, J. Ellery Downing, and three grandchildren, Nancy, Joan and Peter Downing, of Montreal; two brothers, James W. Downing of Stanstead, and John M. Downing, of Montreal, as well as many other relatives and friends.

Masses, floral tributes, letters and cards of sympathy were numerous.

The Doctor Says:

WEIL'S DISEASE IS REASON TO WAGE CONSTANT WAR ON RATS

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

For anyone who hates rats as much as I do, it is a pleasure to comply with Mrs. R's request to discuss Weil's disease.

This is much more a disease of rats than it is of human beings, but in rats the disease can last for a long time, and these pests then can become a source of danger to human beings.

The germ which causes Weil's disease is excreted in the urine of infected rats, and therefore sewer workers, coal miners, ditch diggers, fish cutters, or any others who work in damp places infested by rats are liable to catch the disease.

Indeed, there has been a number of cases of human disease acquired by swimming in contaminated ponds or canals.

Like other germ diseases of mankind, there is an interval between infection and the appearance of the first symptom which is usually about eight to 12 days. Once this period has passed, signs of the disease come on rapidly, usually with chills and fever.

Headache, pains in the muscles, and sometimes disturbances in the digestive tract or other evidences of illness are frequent. There are a number of unpleasant complications of the disease also, and about one person in 20 who has a severe attack dies from the disease.

It is important that an early and correct diagnosis of Weil's disease be made, and this is not always easy because it resembles other acute infections, and since it is not exactly common, a problem in diagnosis is often present.

Drug Cure Not Complete

Furthermore, treatment is not thoroughly satisfactory, even when given early. Both penicillin and aureomycin are used, but their effectiveness in cure is not complete.

Weil's disease is another example of a condition about which one heard very little a few years ago, but which seems to be becoming somewhat more common. Perhaps the most important thing about it is that it provides one more reason for man to wage unceasing warfare on rats.

MARRIAGES

DOBB—MCEWEN

Ormstown, Que., June 24.—The marriage of Miss Grace McEwen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McEwen, of Ormstown, to Dr. Clifford Allan Dobb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Dobb, of Hatley, took place on June 7, on the lawn of the McEwen home in a natural setting of flowers and shrubs, the Rev. J. Taylor, pastor of the United Church, officiating. Mrs. McCullough, of Ormstown, played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of navy blue figured nylon with white bolero, a blue hat and white accessories and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Edith McEwen, of Sweetsburg, was her sister's only attendant and she wore a pink and white nylon frock and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

Mr. Reginald Holliday, of Cowansville, acted as best man.

Mrs. McEwen, mother of the bride, was in a gown of grey figured voile, and Mrs. Dobb, the groom's mother, was attired in navy blue sheer with white accessories.

Dr. Dobb's gift to his bride was a set of silver earrings.

The guests included the immediate members of both families and a few close friends, and after refreshments were served a la buffet, the young couple left for a week's wedding trip to Lake St. Francis.

Dr. and Mrs. Dobb took up residence in Montreal, where Dr. Dobb will assume duties on the staff of the Royal Victoria Hospital.

WRIGHT—MIDDLETON

Stanstead, Que., June 24 — A pretty wedding was solemnized at Christ Church, Stanstead, on Saturday afternoon, June 14, at 2 o'clock, when Winifred Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Middleton of Stanstead, was married to Mr. Frederick Gilbert Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wright, of Hatley, Que. Rev. F. W. Mitchell officiated and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Edward Ashman, aunt of the bride. The altar was decorated with early summer flowers and white bows marked the guest pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a floor-length gown of white nylon net over taffeta, fashioned with a full skirt and tucked bodice with cap sleeves and a small turn-down collar. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a bandeau of white rosebuds, and she wore fingertip nylon mitts and carried a colonial bouquet of Sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley with white satin streamers.

Miss Eileen Middleton as bridesmaid for her sister, was in a floor-length gown of pink silk organdie with white velvety flocking, her headdress being a bandeau of pink carnations and she carried a bouquet of blue sweet peas.

Mr. Dale Miller, of Hatley, was best man and the ushers were Mr. E. C. Middleton, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ellwood Cunnington, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Middleton, mother of the bride, was attired in navy blue sheer, with which she wore white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Wright, mother of the groom, was unable to be present because of ill health.

Following the ceremony, the reception, attended by eighty-two guests, was held in Christ Church parish hall where the bride's table was centred with a three tier wedding cake made by the bride's mother, and decorated in white and silver topped with a miniature bride and groom.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Wright left on a trip to New York and places of interest, the bride travelling in a printed dress and wearing white accessories and a corsage of Sweetheart roses. On their return they will reside in Hatley.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright were the recipients of numerous and lovely gifts.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ayer, Mr. and Mrs. Roland McClary, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pitman, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Pitman, Miss Gwen Pitman, Mr. W. J. Emery, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Erving Davis, Mr. and Mrs. James Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Emery, Mr. William Wright, Miss Hazel Emery, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Pocock, of Hatley; Mr. Carlton Whitcomb, Mr. and Mrs. John Ashman, Jr., Miss Mary Ashman, Massawippi; Mr. Warren Parker, North Hatley; Mr. Sterling Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McIntyre and family, Lennoxville; Mr. Henry Ashman and family, Heathton; Mr. and Mrs. J. Steak And Kidney Pie Makes An Economical And Attractive Small Family Meal

Cooking for two presents entirely different problems of marketing, preparing, and serving than cooking for a larger family. Brides especially are confronted with the problem of dividing larger recipes found in standard cookbooks and trying to figure fractional measurements. This difficulty can be met with the "Meals for Two Cookbook," twenty-first title in the twenty-four cookbook series that is currently being offered to readers of the Record.

Meals for Two has suggestions for necessary cooking equipment, a list of staples to have on hand, marketing advice, and ideas for varying leftovers, as well as recipe after recipe built around the limitations of cooking for two. Here, for instance, is a delightful and tasty meat pie from Meals for Two that is just right for a small family:

STEAK AND KIDNEY PIE

¾ pound steak (beef or veal)
Flour, salt and pepper
½ teaspoon minced parsley
¼ pound mushrooms, sliced
¼ pound kidney
½ tablespoon chopped onion
Water or stock
½ recipe Plain Pastry

Cut steak and kidney into ½-inch cubes and dredge with flour. Season with salt and pepper. Arrange meat into greased casserole and add onion, parsley, mushrooms and sufficient water to cover meat. Cover casserole and cook in moderate oven (350° F.) 1 hour or until meat is almost tender. Remove cover and replace it with pastry, pricking crust to allow steam to escape.Return to very hot oven (450° F.) and bake 15 minutes or until crust is browned.

Lions Club Installs Officers At Coaticook

Coaticook, June 24 — An interesting and well-attended meeting of the Coaticook Lions' Club was held at the Coaticook House, on Tuesday, June 10, marked by the installation of officers for the ensuing year.

An added feature of the evening was Ladies' Night. Several ladies were present as guests of the Club at this dinner meeting.

One of the most active organizations in town, the Lions have done much good work and deserve full support.

A report on the barn dance was given by co-chairmen George Englehardt and M. Kirmeyer and from the result obtained this may become a regular feature of the Clubs' program in the future.

The year's activities were briefly outlined by the secretary, D. Boivin, and it is to the credit of the Club that over $1,300 was disbursed during the past year in welfare projects.

Officers elected and installed were as follows: President, E. A. Gill; 1st vice-president, P. Chapuis; 2nd vice-president, M. Covert; 3rd vice-president, R. Frechette; secretary-treasurer, D. Boivin; Lion Tamer, A. P. Rogers; Tail Twister, R. Dwyer. Directors: G. Englehardt, M. Hirmeyer, C. Wells, P. Maurice, and J. Boivin.

A SHOWER

A cup and saucer shower for Miss Elaine Beamish, a popular bride-of-the-month, was held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Walker, on Saturday, June 7, with Mrs. Homer Cutler, Mrs. Mark Vaughan and Mrs. Jean Cummings assisting as hostesses.

The guest of honor and her mother, Mrs. John Beamish, were presented with lovely corsages made by Mrs. Annie Walker and presented by Miss Marilyn Cutler.

The gifts were brought in by Master Larry Walker in a prettily decorated toy wagon.

The tea table was covered with a pale green linen cloth, centred with a bouquet of white lilacs and pink honeysuckle, with pink candles in silver containers, on either side.

A few school friends of Elaine assisted in serving refreshments Miss Ann Dodds and Barbara Piercy sang, "I'll Walk Beside You" as a duet, with Miss Therese Roberge accompaning at the piano.

Miss Beamish graciously expressed her appreciation to her friends for their kindness and extended an invitation to visit her later in her new home.

POLICE CHIEF REPORT

Under the capable leadership of Chief of Police G. Groleau, and the watchful eyes of his staff, major crimes have been negligible in Coaticook.

Nevertheless, your reporter found in a personal interview with the Chief that May was a month filled with minor breaches of the law. The police are determined to keep the 20 miles per hour speed limit observed at intersections, schools, business districts, hills and curves.

Since May 1, 25 drivers have been fined the set penalty of $10 and costs.

Chief Groleau warns that this law will be strictly enforced. Motorists take warning.

During May there were 27 arrests, 14 for excessive speed, 9 for drunkenness, 1 for vagrancy, 1 grocery open after hours, 1 disobeyed constable's order to move on, 1 failed to report on ticket. 49 parking tickets were issued, 47 police calls made, 3 accidents, 5 stray animals picked up and destroyed, 3 lost children returned to parents, 1 lot of merchandise recovered and returned to owner, 6 cases of protection, 19 doors of business places found open, 2 stolen bicycles recovered, 11 construction permits inspected and granted, 21 fire calls and 2 without alarm, 14 chimney fires, 2 grass fires, 1 fire in wall, 1 rubbish and 1 stovepipe fire, 2 out-of-town calls, 4 firemen's practises held, 210 bicycles licences issued, and 11 taxi licences sold.

TOMBOLA COMMITTEE

The annual two days' Tombola to be staged by the Legion, on the last week in August, requires many weeks of planning and preparation.

Recently the committee in charge was named as follows: Chairman, M. Woodman; secretary, I. Whitehouse; finances, R. Dwyer; erection and dismantling, C. Leadbeater; publicity and public relations, R. Huard and S. Beerworth; stores, Glen Brown, Stan Cromwell; advertising, R. Jean Marie; booth chairmen, D. Clark, H. Clowery, M. Vaughan, G. Parker, B. Mosher, B. Smith, D. Dawson, R. Sage, others to be added. Refreshments, Women's Auxiliary; St. Johns Ambulance, Miss L. Laroche; lottery, G. Sarrasin.

General Notes

The members of the Coaticook High School staff entertained at dinner on Tuesday, June 10, in honor of Miss Verna Gilbert, a member of the staff and a bride-to-be. Miss Gilbert was presented with gifts from the members of the staff, the presentation being made by Mr. J. Lee Heath, principal. Miss Gilbert in a pleasing manner thanked the members for their thoughtfulness. Wednesday morning at an assembly of the school, Miss Gilbert was presented with two lovely lamps from the pupils.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Luce and daughter, June, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Akhurst at their summer home, at Bacon's Bay.

Mrs. Henry Baker, of Winnipeg, Man., and Mrs. Harry Nickerson, of Lowell, Mass., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Baldwin, on Lark Street.

Miss Myrtle Wigmore was a week-end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Davis, and accompanied them to West Brome, where they visited Mrs. Davis' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. Armand Gregoire have returned home, after a short visit to Peterborough, Ont.

Guests of Mr. A. L. Parker were Mr. and Mrs. James Parker and family and Mr. and Mrs. G. Wooten, of Beauharnois.

The Provincial Road Department was busy this past week making much needed repairs to the pavement of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Abdallah are in Quebec on a business trip.

Mrs. Robert Boyle, of Montreal, was a week-end guest of Mrs. Claribel Buckland.

Mrs. Winston ...ams is in Montreal visiting her father, Mr. E. B. Fischer, who is a patient in the Montreal General Hospital.

Mr. Simon Thompson is accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Thompson and family on their motor trip to Chicago, Ill.

Many home owners have greatly added to the appearance of their homes by planting hedges and shrubs around their properties this spring. This all helps to add to the beauty of the town.

Mrs. C. Buckland and Mrs. A. Jenks were guests in Waterloo of Mr. and Mrs. John Buckland, and while there attended the operetta put on by the High School.

Storm Causes Damage At Dunham

Dunham, June 24.—A high wind and thunder storm hit Dunham on the afternoon of June 17, when part of a large maple tree in front of Mr. Manson's house was blown down and fell on the back of a milk truck, breaking the box and scattering the milk cans, besides falling on the power line and causing fire by broken wires.

Much thanks is due to Mr. Stowe, an electrician from Sweetsburg, who happened to come along and control the traffic.

No one was injured but traffic was held up about one hour and a half.

The repairmen came from the Southern Canada Power office and made repairs. The power was off for nearly three and one half hours.

Several telephone lines were disrupted during the storm.

Nadeau Et Fils Jewellery Store Renovated, Enlarged

Nadeau And Son Jewellery Store Begins Big Renovations Sale On Wednesday; Free Gifts Featured

The Nadeau and Son Jewellery store, founded in 1914 by the late J. A. Nadeau, has undergone extensive renovations which makes it today one of the most modern jewellery establishments in the Eastern Townships.

The firm is holding a large renovation sale, beginning tomorrow.

Opening day of the sale, the proprietor will give away absolutely free Enchantment - model tea spoons to the first 500 women customers.

Thursday, each person who purchases a surprise box which contains values of $1 and up will be given a ticket on the drawing for the many valuable prizes on display in the store show window, and each purchaser will be given a plant.

Friday and Saturday, the same offer will be repeated with one difference — the plants will be replaced with one's choice of a birthstone, absolutely free, and this will be mounted in a silver ring for only $2.50.

For the convenience of customers, the watch department is situated at the front of the store, where three experienced watchmakers, with 19, 12, and nine years in this field, respectively, are ready to serve the public.

The progressive spirit of the store is evident in that it was the first jewellery store in Sherbrooke to have the famous Watchmaster equipment for the regulating of watches.

Besides the three watchmakers, the firm employs two salesladies who are well fitted to give courteous and efficient service.

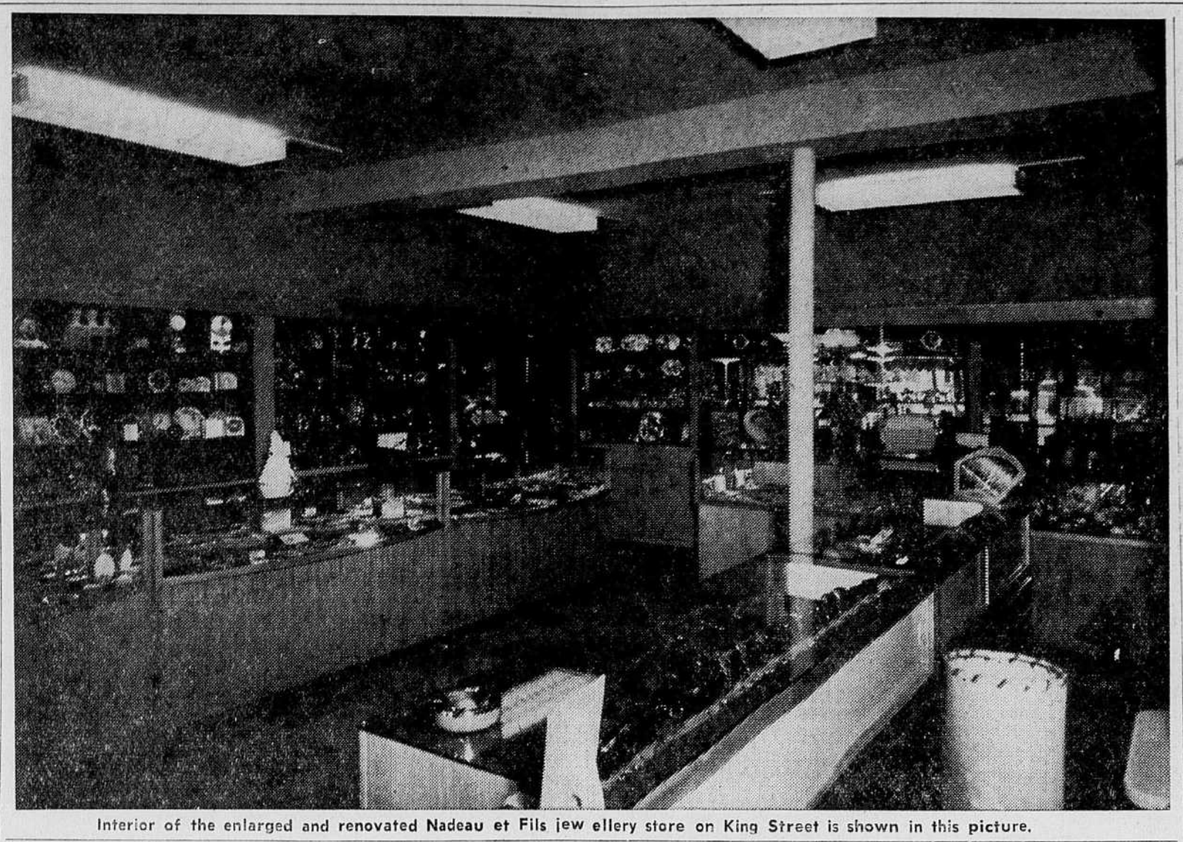

Proprietor of the jewellery establishment is Jean-Paul Nadeau. Mr. Nadeau served overseas with the 17th Hussars from 1942 to 1945.

He returned to Sherbrooke after the war and took over the business from his father, because of the latter's ill health. Under Jean-Paul Nadeau, the business has continued to flourish, particularly since the re-organization of the sales department.

Mr. Nadeau, who is married to the former Madeleine Albert, of this city, is very-well known not only as a business man but as a member of several leading organizations in Sherbrooke and the Province of Quebec.

He is a charter member of the local Optimist Club, member of Sherbrooke branch 10 of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., member of the Senior Chamber of Commerce and the St. Pat's Old Boys' Association, as well as being active in jewellery groups.

These latter are The Association of Canadian Jewellers, Provincial Association of Jewellers, Canadian Institute of Jewellers and the Provincial Association of Jewellers and Master Watchmakers.

Miss A. Hodgeman Of Birchton Given A Shower

Birchton, June 24 — Mrs. Oscar DesRuisseaux and Mrs. Henrietta Hodgeman held a miscellaneous shower at the home of the former for Miss Audrey Hodgeman, R.N., a popular bride-to-be of the month.

Miss Hodgeman had been invited to Cookshire, to spend the evening with Mrs. Henrietta Hodgeman. Stopping at Mrs. DesRuisseaux's, Miss Hodgeman was greeted with the strains of the "Wedding March" played by Miss Georgie Coates, and to her surprise found forty of her friends and relatives to greet her.

She was escorted by Mrs. Hodgeman to a prettily decorated pink and white chair at the dining room table, which was centred with a three storied wedding cake in pink and white with streamers running to the corner of the dining room table, which was covered with a lace cloth. On opening the cake, Miss Hodgeman found many beautiful and useful gifts.

The bride-elect was assisted in opening her gifts by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Alex Hodgeman, and her niece, Miss Maureen Hodgeman.

After the gifts had been passed around and admired, Miss Hodgeman in her charming manner thanked her friends for the gifts.

A social hour followed, after which the hostesses served dainty refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Arnold Brazel and Mrs. Leon DesRuisseaux.

There were guests present from Lennoxville, Sand Hill, Bulwer and Cookshire.

THE H.H. CLUB

The June meeting of the Helping Hand Club was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Rogers with nine members present.

A brief devotional period was conducted by the president before opening the meeting for business, and a prayer was read by Mrs. Howard Kerr.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. A. Glen, and the financial report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. George Latewood. These reports were adopted and outstanding bills were voted to be paid.

Possibilities of repairing the Eaton United Church were discussed. This project is to be undertaken only if the Eaton community is backing the group.

Mrs. A. Glen and Mrs. Clifford Brazel were appointed on this committee.

Plans are underway for the Strawberry Supper. Canvassers for this are Mrs. Gilbert Nutbrown, Mrs. Howard Picard and Mrs. Arthur Rogers, for Birchton; Mrs. Alex Glen and Mrs. Clifford Brazel, for Eaton.

Monthly Meeting Of Shipton W. I. Held At Danville

Danville, June 24.—The monthly meeting of the Shipton W.I., was held at the Farmer's Hall, Danville, with nineteen members present.

The president, Mrs. Paige, presided over the meeting, which opened by all repeating the "Mary Stewart Collect." Roll call was answered by paying two pennies for each size of shoes.

The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Joseph Safin and were approved as read, followed by the treasurer's report by Mrs. N. Evans. All bills ordered paid. Mrs. J. Lodge reported on the fruit and flowers sent.

A card party was discussed for June 21. It was decided not to send a delegate to Macdonald College, at Ste. Anne de Bellevue this year only. Plans were made for a reception to be held in July.

Shower Held At Boundary

Rock Island, June 24 — Mrs. Charles Crawford, of Stanstead, and her daughter, Mrs. Keith Armstrong, of Cassville, were hostesses at a charmingly arranged shower, held at the hospitable home of Mrs. Armstrong.

The guest of honor was Miss Marion Molway, popular July bride to-be. Miss Molway, an operator at the local telephone exchange had completed her duties for the day and was planning to return to her home, when she was blindfolded and taken for a ride. Later, when the blindfold was removed, she was surprised to find herself so far from home, and surrounded by thirty of her relatives and friends.

Seated in a chair, trimmed in colors of yellow and white, she with the assistance of her mother, Mrs. William Molway and aunt, Mrs. Harry Lyons, and they assisted by Mrs. Armstrong's two charming daughters, Sandra and Sharon, was soon busy opening the gaily wrapped gifts, from a basket trimmed with the same colors as the chair.

The numerous and useful gifts, all for the bride's kitchen, included an ironing board, a canister set with matching bread and cake box and many other articles, which were passed around and admired.

The bride elect thanked everyone for the lovely gifts and the grand surprise.

A social evening was enjoyed. The hostesses served delectable refreshments, which included a prettily decorated bride's cake, made by Mrs. Crawford. The initial cut was made by the bride, then the cake was passed around.

A guest, Mrs. Dixon Wall, nee June Abbott, of Altanta, Georgia, was also surprised, when on the occasion of her birthday, she was presented with a birthday cake, made by Mrs. Armstrong, and trimmed in keeping with the occasion.

Later as the guests departed for their respective homes, they wished the bride-to-be every happiness.

C. AND B. CLUB

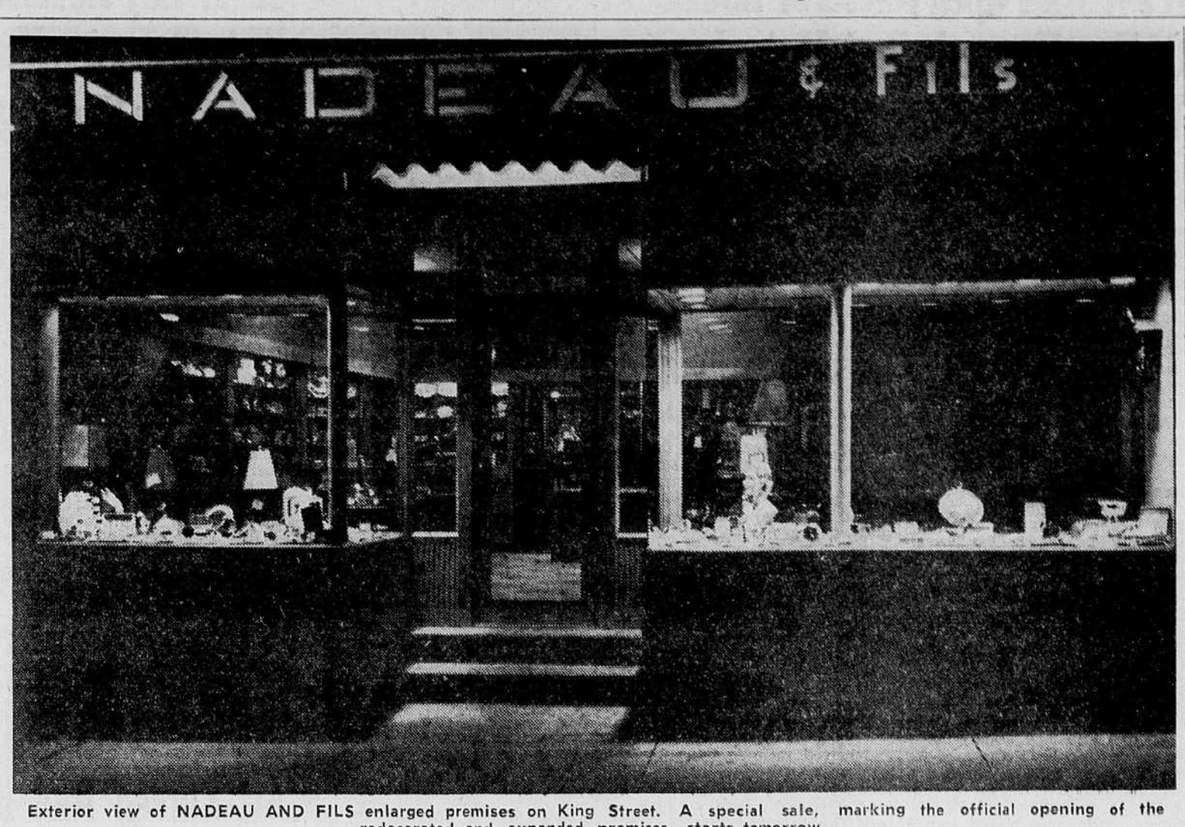

Mrs. George Stewart, of Rock Island, entertained the Christmas and Birthday Club at her home, on Tuesday evening, June 17. There were fourteen members and friends attending. A brief business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Byron Jenkins, with reports read by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. George Eryou.

A delightful evening of playing "500" was enjoyed with Mrs. Rudy Miller being awarded first prize for the highest score. The consolation prize was awarded to Mrs. K. Barlow.

This was the observance of the birthday of Mrs. Clarence Lyons, and she was the guest of honor for the evening, and was presented with a gift of money.

The hostess, Mrs. Stewart served delicious salad refreshments and dessert was a lovely birthday cake, which was cut and passed by Mrs. Lyons.

The next party will be held on July 15, at the home of Mrs. Bert Chamberlain, in West Park.

Exterior view of NADEAU AND FILS enlarged premises on King Street. A special sale, marking the official opening of the redecorated and expanded premises, starts tomorrow.

A SHOWER

Miss Denise Poulin was guest of honor at a pre-nuptial shower, given at the Spencer Cafeteria, on Tuesday evening, June 17.

Miss Poulin on arriving at the Spencer was taken by surprise, when she was escorted into the building by her friends, and upon entering the cafeteria to find twenty-two of her co-workers of the office staff gathered there.

Miss Poulin was presented with numerous gaily wrapped gifts, which were passed around and much admired.

In a few well chosen words, the bride elect voiced her appreciation for all the lovely and useful articles for her home.

Later, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Roger Turcotte, Miss Sylvia Cloutiere, Miss Margaret Rondeau and Miss Priscilla Routhier.

As the guests departed for their respective homes, they wished the future bride every happiness.

EXECUTIVE MEETING

The executive members of the Stanstead County Fish and Game Club met one evening at Coaticook and heard the report on the newly built Lippe Dam, at Barford, Que., and later all journeyed out to the lake to view the dam.

Lippe lake has been stocked with rainbow and brown trout but the Club decided that the lake will have to remain closed for the next two years so the fish will have a chance to grow to legal length. Increasing the club's membership was also discussed.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held at St. George's Hall, in Ayer's Cliff, on July 8.

General Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Judd, of Derby Line, were called to Canaan, Vt., on Friday, June 13, by the death of her uncle, Mr. M. M. Haynes, who has been ill for some time. They remained until after the funeral, returning home on Monday.

SHERBROOKE SAINTS REACH END OF TRAIL, SAYS KEENE

New Backers Must Be Found As Present Board To Withdraw; League Sets July 17 As Deadline

Montreal, June 24.—(CP)—Forrest Keene, business manager of the Sherbrooke Saints of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, said last night the team will not operate next season unless new backers can be found.

He said the present owners decided at a meeting they could no longer carry the club's expenses. Sherbrooke finisihed sixth in the seven-team league last season.

Sherbrooke, one of the four "small city" clubs in the Q.S.H.L., has been wavering for the last two years. The team reportedly lost $15,000 in the operation of the club. Attendance dwindled, hitting a new low last season.

Keene, who has been associated with senior hockey in Sherbrooke since the days of the old Provincial League when the team was known as the "Randies," said the present six backers would step out in favor of a new organization. However, he emphasized that any new executive would have to be acceptable to the Q.S.H.L., otherwise, Sherbrooke will not operate next season.

Backers of the club include President Dr. A. N. Dupuis, Vice-President Steve G. Newton, Colin Campbell, E. E. Spafford, Ivan Dugre and Keene. Dugre has coached the Sherbrooke club since its admission to the league in 1948-49.

The Sherbrooke Saints enjoyed early success in the Q.S.H.L., reaching the Eastern Canada Allan Cup finals in 1949-50 only to lose out to the youthful Toronto Marlboros, who eventually won the Canadan title.

A new group interested in the team was slated to make a big last night at the league meeting, but failed to put in an appearance. The future of the Sherbrooke club will likely be decided before the next meeting of the Q.S.H.L., July 17.

In the event Sherbrooke drops out of the league, the Shawinigan Falls Cataracts would be given first chance to purchase the players, although some are already going elsewhere. Chicoutimi is eager to land Goalie Roger Bessette, if Sherbrooke folds up. Bobby Pepin is going to study at the University of Ottawa for the next four years, and will likely line-up with the Ottawa Senators.

The Q.S.H.L. is anxiously awaiting the decision of the Maritime Major Hockey League, which meets June 29, on whether it will combine in the Major Series or return to Allan Cup competition. The Quebec league plans to annex with the professional Western Hockey League in an East-West playoff if the Maritime circuit deserts the Major Series.

Quebec Braves Edge St. Johns In 13-Inning Battle As Yankees Eke Out 9-8 Verdict Over Cubs

Quebec Braves defeated St. Johns Canadiens 9-6 in 13 innings and Three Rivers Yankees edged Drummondville Cubs 9-8, in Provincial Baseball League games played Monday night.

The league-leading Braves clinched the game with a three-run splurge in the 13th inning. They got 13 hits and made three errors. St. Johns had eight hits and made two miscues.

Ray Lague, who pitched the 13 innings for Quebec, was the winner. John Mullaney, who was on the mound for the Canadiens throughout the game, was the loser.

At Three Rivers, a single run in the ninth inning off Dante Cozzi was enough to give the Yanks the victory. They got to two Drummondville hurlers for 13 hits and made four errors. The Cubs got 13 hits and made only three miscues.

Humberto Robinson went the distance for Three Rivers, and was credited with the win. Ramon Mason was the loser.

Eleanor Engle, Girl Player, Is Ordered Out Of Organized Baseball By George Trautman, Minor Head

Harrisburg, Pa., June 24—(AP)—Eleanor Engle moaned today that minor-league Czar George M. Trautman "threw me a curve and I struck out" when he ordered her out of organized baseball.

Trautman turned thumbs down on the pretty Eleanor's signing a contract as a player with Harrisburg Senators of the Class B Interstate League.

Trautman referred to the signing as a "travesty" on baseball.

"Why should he do this to me?" Eleanor asked. "If I can't play baseball I don't want to do anything."

Trautman, who said Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick agreed with him, said "such travesties" as the signing of women players will not be tolerated, and that clubs signing, or attempting to sign, women players will be subject to severe penalties.

Howard Gordon, general manager of the Senators, said the 24-year-old brunette was signed Saturday "because of her ability as demonstrated in workouts at the ball park."

"She can hit the ball a lot better than some of the fellows," he said.

Eleanor, herself, claimed she had had the stuff to play with a minor-league club although her only experience was in softball

"Women are good for a lot of things, like golf, politics, track and all other sports. Why not baseball? After all, there has to be a first time for everything, doesn't there?"

Eleanor worked out with her masculine teammates Sunday in pre-game batting and fielding practice but was shunted to the press box during the game itself.

Harrisburg isn't the first baseball team in the country to sign a girl as a player.

Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern Association signed Jackie Mitchell as a pitcher in 1932.

They only used her in exhibition games, but in one against the New York Yankees Jackie struck out Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Tony Lazzeri.

She still lives in Chattanooga—but isn't playing any baseball.

Gordon said he imagines Mrs. Engle's short stay with his seventh-place Senators is over.

"You have to go along with the powers-that-be," he said.

Ball Lands In Ladies' Shower, Unplayable Lie

St. Paul, Minn., June 24—(AP)—Nobody argued that Ray Schmidt of Stillwater, Minn., had an unplayable lie Sunday in the Minnesota State Open Golf Tournament.

On the 18th green, the ball struck a tree by the Somerset Course swimming pool, fell to a walk around the pool and rolled into a corner in the women's shower room.

Mangrum Withdraws From British Golf Open

St. Andrews, Scotland, June 24—(AP)—Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago has withdrawn from the British Open Golf Championship, the Royal and Ancient Golf Club announced yesterday.

This leaves only nine Americans in the tournament starting at the Royal Lytham and St. Annes course July 7.

Promoter Turns Down $100,000 Offer Rights

Philadelphia, June 24—(AP)—A $100,000 offer for the television and broadcast rights to the Kid Gavilan-Gil Turner welterweight championship fight here July 7 was turned down yesterday by Promoter Herman Taylor.

Taylor said he also had turned down an offer to channel the fight via TV into 70 theatres.

Taylor said he wanted to see what the fight would draw without TV or radio to keep possible customers away.

It's A Wide Open Race For Rookie Of Year Honors In Both Major Loops; Yanks Edge Browns In Slugfest 14-10

Who are going to win the rookie of the year awards this year? It's a wide open race with practically every club in both big leagues boasting at least one outstanding candidate.

Sammy White, Eddie Mathews and Bob Nieman, a trio of first year "phenoms" laid solid claim to this honor yesterday, coming through with noteworthy performances.

White, 23-year-old Boston catcher, banged out three hits and drew a walk in four times at bat to lead the Red Sox to a 12-6 victory over Detroit Tigers. Sammy struck his fifth homer of the season in the third inning and followed with a pair of singles in a big 11-run fourth to drive in four runs.

Mathews, the fuzz-faced third baseman of the Boston Braves, rapped his 12th homer of the year in the sixth to put his team on even terms with Pittsburgh and scored again as the Braves rallied with five runs in the eighth to down the Pirates, 9-3. The 20-year-old slugger ranks fourth in the National League in home runs.

Nieman batted in three runs on three hits for the Browns but could not stave off a 17-hit hitting spree by the Yankees that gave New York a 14-10 slugfest win over St. Louis. In the day's only other action, Washington whipped the Chicago White Sox, 6-4.

Another freshman, Jimmy Brideweser, starting his fifth game for the Yankees, slapped three singles and drove in a pair of runs to play a prominent role in the victory. Brideweser played second only because Billy Martin had a pulled tendon in his right leg.

Other youngsters high in the running for rookie-of-the-year honor include Billy Loes, Ben Wade and Joe Black, Brooklyn; Ben Thorpe and George Crowe, Braves; Toby Atwell, Chicago Cubs; Hoyt Wilhelm, New York Giants; Wilmer Mizell, St. Louis Cardinals; Red Lepcio, Billy Henry, Ivan Delock and Jimmy Piersall, Red Sox; Hex Rodriguez, White Sox; Jim Fridley, Cleveland; Jim Rivera, Browns; Skeeter Kell, Philadelphia Athletics, and Frank Campos, Senators.

Delock, the young righthander from Scranton, coasted to his fourth victory once the Red Sox broke through for their 11-run outburst against Ted Gray, Billy Hoeft and Hal White. The victory moved the Red Sox into second place, 2½ games behind the pace-setting Yankees.

Nine pitchers went to the well as the Yankees and Browns pounded out 33 hits and drew 10 bases on balls. Joe Collins, who was almost traded away before the June 15 deadline, continued his bombardment with a pair of home runs and a double to drive in four Yankee runs.

The Senators stopped the White Sox rush as Frank Shea pitched and batted them to their 6-4 win. The veteran righthander singled in what proved to be the two winning runs and gained his fifth victory. The defeat dropped the White Sox into a third-place tie with Cleveland.

Rain washed out the scheduled games between the Cards and Dodgers in Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Giants in New York and the Cubs and Phillies in Philadelphia. Cleveland and Philadelphia Athletics were not scheduled.

Y. M. C. A. Day Camp Began Yesterday With Tour Of Fire Hall And Ball Game; Registrations Now Going On

The Y.M.C.A. Day Camp is showing family movies tomorrow evening beginning at 7.30 o'clock. All boy members of the "Y" are invited to come and to bring their parents and other members of their families.

Movies shown will deal with sports, nature, travelogues and comedy. The showing is in Trinity Church hall. It wil be an hour and one-half show and there is no charge for admission.

The "Y" Day Camp began Monday morning with a visit to the Fire Department headquarters on Marquette Street. Physical Director Alex Leslie and the boys were shown every courtesy by Director W. P. Donahue and his firemen.

After that, the youngsters of the Day camp engaged in a softball game, the Polka Dot gang defeating the Aces. The game was won on a triple play, made by Warren Buck, who, playing second base, caught a fly, tagged second to put out the next runner and pegged to third for the final out.

Competition wil be held throughout Camp between the two teams. So far the Polka Dot gang is ahead with eight points to six for the Aces.

Registrations are still being accepted for the Day camp and any boy from Sherbrooke and Lennoxville, between the ages of 10 and 13 may join in the fun.

All members of the Day Camp must also be members of the "Y" but may join for the summer only. A small fee after that will cover the boy for the Camp's duration, which is from now to July 18.

The program includes tours through industrial plants, hikes, out-of-town trips, sports, athletic events, interest and hobby groups, daily swimming and swim lessons, movies, picnics and other special events.

Registrations will be accepted by phoning 2-2012 or dropping in to the Y.M.C.A.

Bob Hamilton And Ted Kroll, Two Cool Customers, Reach Semi-Finals Of P. G. A. Championships Via Upsets

Louisville, June 24 —(AP)— You can tab a big, cigar-chewing fellow named Bob Hamilton and a wiry little guy named Ted Kroll as two of the coolest customers on the 160-acre steam bath known as the Big Spring Golf Club.

Neither expected to reach the semi-finals of the 34th Professional Golfers' Association Championship. Now that they've made it, they're enjoying their positions to the utmost.

Today Kroll clashes with swarthy little Jimmy Turnesa in one of the 36-hole semi-final matches. Hamilton, winner of the title in 1944, encounters chesty Chick Harbert in the other match.

The last of the publicized stars of the pro circuit went out yesterday. Kroll walked up to the tee for the second hole of a "sudden-death" playoff, lashed a six-iron shot over the heads of the still-moving spectators and laid it stiff for a birdie two. This eliminated Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the 1949 National Open Champion.

While Kroll and Middlecoff were battling it out in extra holes, Turnesa knocked out his sharp-shooting Westchester County, N.Y., neighbor, Clarence Doser, 2 and 1. Harbert rallied to beat lanky Fred Haas by the same margin and the Beefy Hamilton, who plays little tournament golf nowadays, outlasted Frank Champ, the Houston, Tex., driving range operator for another 2-and-1 victory.

As opponents in a tough match, Harbert and Turnesa aren't players to be discounted. They have both gone to the final round of this tournament before. Turnesa was runner-up to Sam Snead in 1942 and Harbert to Jim Ferrier in 1947.

Simmons-Raffensberger Tie For Hurling Honors

New York, June 24—(AP)—Lefthander Curt Simmons of Philadedphia Phillies is the National League's earned-run leader today although he is in a virtual deadlock with another southpaw, Cincinnati's Ken Raffensberger.

Earned-run averages through games of last Sunday disclosed that Simmons, an Army sergeant only two months ago, has given up 18 earned runs in 75 innings for a 2.16 average. The 35-year-old Raffensberger has 2.163 with 25 in 104 innings. Simmons has won five and lost two and the Reds' veteran has eight victories and four losses.

In the American League, hard-working Mike Garcia of Cleveland again has forged to the front with a 1.56 to 1.60 advantage over Allie Reynolds, New York Yankee ace.

Boasting a 10-4 record so far this season, Garcia has toiled 121 frames allowing 21 earned runs. Reynolds has given up two less earned runs, 19, but he has only 107 innings pitched to his credit.

Chicago Cub righthander Bob Rush, the National League's shutout leader with four, ranks right behind Simmons and Raffensberger in the circuits' earned run department with a 2.29 mark.

Bobby Shantz, the American League's leading won and lost hurler with 12 and one, is hot on the heels of Garcia and Reynolds. The diminutive Philadelphia lefty has a 1.66 average.

Wagner Goes To Argos While Puller Joins Als

Toronto, June 24—(CP)—Toronto Argonauts football team, in a deal with Montreal Alouettes, have signed Ken Wagner, a former backfielder with McGill University. Both Argos and Alouettes are in the Inter-provincial Rugby Football Union.

Wagner was awarded to Alouettes in a college draft and Argos got Ray Puller, another backfielder from McGill. Argos turned Puller over to Alouettes and Wagner came to Toronto.

MANGAN LEAVES LEAFS FOR HOLLYWOOD

Pittsburgh, June 24— (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates announced yesterday that catcher Jim Mangan, under option to Toronto of the International League, has been transferred to Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League under the same option.

Cubs Help Royals With Win Over Rochester

Montreal Royals got some help from Springfield Cubs last night as they continued their efforts to hang onto first place in the International League standings.

The home-run bats of Ted Lotz and Gene Hooks powered the Cubs to a 4-2 victory over the second-place Rochester Red Wings while the Royals shook off their recent slump to down Toronto Maple Leafs 8-6.

The results enabled the Royals to open up a 2½-game gap over their nearest rivals, while the Cubs neared first-division status by moving within a half-game of the fourth-place Leafs, losers of eight of their last nine starts.

A four-run rally in the eighth inning, sparked by Junior Gilliam's triple, gave the Royals their edge, despite Toronto homers by Marvin Rickert and Ed Stevens.

Bob Keegan threw a four-hitter at Ottawa Athletics to give Syracuse Chiefs a 2-1 victory. Hank Borowy pitched Buffalo Bisons past Ottawa into sixth place as he threw a six-hitter to give the Bisons a 3-0 victory over Baltimore Orioles.

42 Top American Pros To Perform In Open

Toronto, June 24. —(CP)— The Royal Canadian Golf Association announced yesterday some 42 United States entrants for the Canadian Open Golf Championship at Winnipeg's St. Charles Club July 16-19.

Heading the list of U.S. golfers are: Julius Boros, United States Open Champion, who played in the Canadian Open at Toronto Mississaugua last year; Ed Oliver, United States Open runner-up, and Jim Ferrier, Canadian Open Champion for the last two years.

Much Sought Perron Reports In To Police

Welland, Ont., June 24.— (CP) — John Perron, 24-year-old ex-jockey of Toronto sought for more than a year in connection with Toronto's racetrack scandal, gave himself up to the police yesterday.

He was remanded to July 9 on a charge of conspiring to defraud the public. Perron said he disappeared because of threats made against him and his family.

Earlier this month Harry Swartz, 36, of Toronto, was sentenced to three months in jail and fined $1,000 or an additional six months after pleading guilty to charges of being "a common cheat."

Perron yesterday denied taking any part in racetrack "fixes" but said he had often accepted tips on horses on which he had bet his own money and that of friends.

Several jockeys and trainers were suspended and fined for their part in the fix.

Joe O'Brien Teams Two Winners At Roosevelt

Westbury, N. Y., June 24.—(CP)—Little Joe O'Brien of New Glasgow, N.S., drove two winners last night at the Roosevelt Raceway.

O'Brien reined Due Date to win in the first race, the $2,500 mile pace, and repeated in the seventh race, the $2,500 trot event, with Dinner Date.

Macken Brothers Cop Tilts In Ontario Open

Toronto, June 24 —(CP)— The Macken Brothers of Montreal yesterday came out on top of the first two rounds of the Ontario Senior Tennis Championships.

Second-seeded Brendan Macken, a former member of the Davis Cup team, after a bye in the first round, easily dropped John Pattle, Toronto, 6-0, 6-0.

Jim Macken, third-seeded, defeated George Mills, Toronto, 6-0, 6-1, but ran into trouble in the second round against John Hichman, Toronto. Hichman took the first set 6-4 but Macken recovered to take the last two 6-3, 6-2.

Sugar Ray Robinson Is Favored To Whip Champion Maxim For Crown Now Following Last Night's Postponement

New York, June 24.—(AP)—Fresh money poured in on Sugar Ray Robinson today and there were indications that the middleweight king may be favored as high as 8 to 5 when he goes swinging for light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim's crown in Yankee Stadium Wednesday night.

The so-called "Smart" bettors laid it on the line in big batches of green yesterday after an all-day drizzle forced postponement of the battle of champions from last night to Wednesday.

When the undercover wagering closed down last night, the sleek, poised middleweight champion had jumped from even money to the role of favorite at 7 to 5.

The boys apparently believe Maxim will lose his edge in the two-day delay. The swarthy, 30-year-old from Cleveland tipped the beam at 174¾ yesterday at the official weigh-in and he'll have to make 175 pounds or less again tomorrow. Robinson scaled 160 and said he expected to hit close to that again at the Wednesday ceremony.

Joey appeared drawn at the weigh-in after drying out (abstaining from liquids) overnight.

The general feeling was that the dark-haired, six-foot, one-inch champion had come out a loser in the setback. He had gone through a long training period and hit his target just about on the nose. Now he'll have to worry, and Joey is one of the game's greatest worriers, about keeping down his poundage and still maintain his sharpness.

Robinson was very pleased at his weight. He, too, feels Maxim lost by the postponement. Yet, Sugar said:

"I wish we had fought last night. I felt good, real good. Felt like fighting."

Because of a scheduled New York Giants - Cincinnati game at the Polo Grounds tonight, the fight could not be put on the same night at the Yankee Stadium. The New York clubs have an agreement not to permit outside events to compete with the ball games.

In case it rains Wednesday, the scrap will be held on Thursday. It happens that the Giants and Dodgers now are scheduled to play at the Polo Grounds Thursday night but that was a rescheduled game and doesn't count in the deal.

Art Larsen And Ham Richardson Drop Opening Round Matches In Wimbledon; Other Aces Advance

Wimbledon, England, June 24—(AP)—Art Larsen and Ham Richardson, both high-ranking American players, were beaten yesterday in the first round of the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championships as the seeded ranks were broken on opening day for the first time since the second world war.

Larsen, U.S. clay courts champion from San Leandro, Calif., had been seeded ninth and Richardson, 18-year-old from Baton Rouge, La., was seeded 11th.

The other 10 seeded men players advanced without the loss of a set.

After Larsen, the 1950 U.S. champion, bowed before the accurate serves and drives of Sweden's stocky Tortsen Johansson, Richardson was whittled down by Felicisimo Ampon, mighty mite from the Philipines.

Johansson, a Davis Cup player, eliminated Larsen 10-8, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2, and Ampon rallied to dispose of Richardson, 1-6, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, 6-0.

Defending titleholder Dick Savitt of Orange, N.J., playing on the centre court, brushed aside Narath Kulmar of India. 6-1, 6-2, 6-0. Savitt is seeded only fourth.

Top-seeded Frank Sedgman of Australia, the betting favorite, overpowered Jaime Bartroli of Spain, 6-1, 6-0, 6-1.

Hitting Barrage Staged Last Night In Industrial Softball League; Shermac, Domil And Textile Win

Batters had a field day at the expense of the hurlers in the Sherbrooke Industrial Softball League games played last night. Shermac trounced Rand 24-5, Domil walloped Railroaders 38 to 12, and Textile edged Suffield 6-5.

The game at the Parade Grounds, between Textile and Suffield, was the best of the evening, both teams playing heads up ball all the way.

The teams were tied one all at the end of the fourth inning, then Textile crossed the plate for three runs in their half of the fifth. Suffield came back in the first half of the seventh inning with four runs to take a one run lead, but Thomas who had replaced Pepin on the mound for Suffield, walked the tying run in for Textile. Textile then got a break when centerfielder Trepanier slipped and fell while attempting to catch a fly ball allowing Textile to cross the plate with the winning run.

The opener at Dufresene Park saw Shermac romp home on a big twenty-four to five win. Rand was weak in all positions and Bill Cochrane's men scored at will, four home runs were knocked out by Marcoux, Pelletier (2), and Marier, all of the Shermac team.

The night cap was pretty much the same as the previous game, Domil got away to a eleven run lead, and increased it as the game proceeded. The Railroaders played well, but errors, mostly in the outfield, paved the way for quite a few Domil runs. Breton hit two home runs for Domil and teammates Plante and Marquis also clicked for round trippers.

Watson Earns Decision While Watching Stars

Chicago, June 24 —(AP)— Larry Watson, Omaha heavyweight, was knocked out two seconds before the bell ended his 10-round fight last night with John Holman of Chicago—and while flat on his back was awarded a unanimous decision.

Watson weighed 180 to Holman's 201½.

Frank Nagle To Join Montreal Alouettes

Lincoln, Neb., June 24—(AP)—Frank Nagle, former University of Nebraska quarterback, has announced he'll leave his job as business manager of the Lincoln Western League baseball team July 10 for a professional football job.

Nagle said he will play with Montreal Alouettes of the International Football Union. His salary there hasn't been disclosed but Nagle said he took the job because it fits in with his future plans and would help him considerably from a financial standpoint.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, June 24.—(AP)—The broken finger suffered by catcher Wes Westrum represents the third strike on the Giants. The National League champs might possibly have survived the losses of their two top outfielders, Monte Irvin and Willie Mays, but the absence of Westrum from their line-up for any length of time will prove fatal.

This year the long ball clouter from Poughkeepsie has been at least the equal of Brooklyn's Roy Campanella. His batting average does not quite match that of the bulbous Dodger, but his dozen home runs make up any deficit there. His defence against base runners has been the most deadly in the game in recent weeks.

The Giants have no backstop even to begin to take Westrum's place. Before he returns it is entirely possible that the Dodgers will pull away to a lead closely resembling the 13-gamer they held at one point last summer. Charlie Dressen's athletes will never fritter away another like that.

Commenting on the Yankees' steady push toward another flag in the American League, one observer feels that it merely proves we are looking at the worst baseball in big league annals, excepting the war years. Only Phil Rizzuto and Yogi Berra of the Yankee regulars, he says are authentic major league performers.

In our gentle opinion, on the other hand, there are three pitchers on the Bomber staff—Allie Reynolds, Vic Raschi and Ed Lopat—who would have been consistent winners in any year since the game began. Any Club which possesses three such pitchers and a defensive genius such as Rizzuto at shortstop figures to be rough.

Someone smarter than we are will have to tell you what happened to the Cleveland Indians. Maybe they'll come again, but don't hold your breath. They were reported trying to peddle outfielders Dale Mitchell and Larry Doby right up to the deadline. Those who follow the Indians say that shortstop Ray Boone too often fails to start the big inning-ending double play. The only criticism we have heard of Manager Al Lopez is that he started too early using his big pitchers in relief.

Rhododendron Tops In London Display

London. — London's Chelsea flower show, yearly arena for prize blooms from gardens and hothouses throughout Britain, once more proved a riot of color and choice blossoms.

As usual, most of the Royal family visited the show including Queen Mary, making her first public appearances after a chill which confined her to Marlborough House for most of the spring months.

For many years, the show has been a "must" for the silver-haired Dowager Queen, a lover of color and beauty in flowers.

This year's king of color is the fiery, big-headed rhododendron, which promises to be the 1952 "flower of the year" and leader of garden fashions.

Six top nurserymen displayed rhododendrons in the marquees and model gardens that sprout overnight for a three-day show in Chelsea's Royal Hospital grounds. They have answered thousands of queries on cultivation of the exotic red, pink and yellow blooms with their huge, trumpet-shaped heads.

This year's show brought back to favor such old-fashioned flowers as the graceful fuchsia and Victorian pelargonium. The sweet pea, one of last year's disappointments, was there in profusion.

The Quebec Command's mobile drivers' testing unit was in Sherbrooke at the William Street Armoury June 19 and 20, when a total of about 75 operators of military vehicles attached to local units underwent a series of driving tests.

Quebec Command Safety Officer, Major A. M. Dumouchel, of Montreal, who conducted the tests, said this is the first year that all military personnel in the province will be tested before they receive a driving permit.

Kingston. — Clemence David, 24-year-old student at Queen's Theological College, is expected to lead the way in new developments in the mission field of the United Church of Canada.

Mr. David, a graduate in arts from the University of Madras, is the first Indian to be brought to Canada to learn missionary work.

Rev. S. MacLean Gilmour, principal-elect at the college, said more missionaries will be trained this way in future.

"The day when we send missionaries to India is fast coming to a close," he said. "Our contribution will lie more and more in providing them with teaching facilities because understanding of the language and their own customs and the fact that they do not have to face the natural hostility to foreigners, brings them closer to the people."

The idea of bringing missionaries here originated four years ago when 30 students at the college decided they would raise money to bring an Indian youth into the country, someone who would return to his own country to preach the gospel.

Through bazaars and church socials they raised $1,700, enough to pay Mr. David's passage and also provide for clothes and board. The Indian student still has two years to go. Meanwhile this summer he hopes to make enough money working in the aluminum company plant here to pay his own way for the coming year.

College Gets Copy Of Breeches Bible

Toronto. — Wycliffe College here has acquired a copy of the 1595 edition of the Breeches Bible, so called because of the peculiar translation of a verse in the third chapter of the Book of Genesis.

The Wycliffe College copy was sent as a gift to Rev. J. W. McDonald of the college by his brother, Lieut.-Col. A. V. McDonald, a retired officer of the Indian army now living in England.

Lieut.-Col. McDonald found the 1595 Bible in a second hand shop.

The pertinent verse in the Breeches version reads that Adam and Eve "made themselves breeches" to cover their nakedness. The King James, authorized version, reads: "And they sewed fig leaves together, and made themselves aprons."

In 1942 a copy of the 1589 edition of the Breeches Bible was given to the Toronto Anglican College as a memorial to the late Principal R B. McElhearn. Brittle and yellow with age, both volumes have all the earmarks of time.

Jurist Dislikes Oath Regulation For Civil Cases

Montreal—(CP)—There's a law in Quebec province which may bar a citizen from recourse to civil courts if he dosen't believe in God and in reward or punishment after death.

Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault, a jurist of 25 years on the Montreal Superior Court bench, is opposed to this law. He thinks it is outmoded and may work serious injustice to a class of citizens with a just claim to recognition by the courts.

Mr. Justice Archambault sets forth his objections to the law in an article in the Quebec Bar Review, official organ of the Quebec Bar Association.

He cites the statute: "Before taking an oath a witness may be examined by one or other of the parties (in a case) on his religious beliefs: He cannot be allowed to take an oath or give evidence if he does not believe in God and in the existence of recompense and punishment after death."

The law applies only in civil cases. His lordship notes that in criminal cases a special federal statute provides for an affirmation by persons who object to taking an oath because of conscientious scruples. The affirmation has the same legal effect as if the witness had taken an oath.

Because of a difference in the federal and provincial statutes, his lordship notes that a person who may be perfectly competent to testify in a criminal case may be incompetent in a civil case.

Also, in a Quebec civil case, a witness may be called who knows something damaging about a friend. He can escape testifying against the friend by saying he does not believe in God or in future punishment or reward.

His lordship comments further: "numerous are the agnostics, unbelievers or conscientious doubters who are perfectly honest and of impeccable character, who live a family and social life beyond reproach and who would tell nothing but the truth in evidence."

Logger Cuts Park Out Of Wilderness

Vancouver. — Two British Columbia loggers have joined the "woodsman's hall of fame."

One has cut enough lumber to build 73,333 five-room bungalows without having an accident and the other single-handedly cut a park out of the wilderness near Terrace, 450 miles north of here.

Sawyer Carl Lillos was honored recently at the forest products safety conference here. If the 1,100,000,000 board feet he has cut were placed in one solid log it would stretch from here to Tokyo.

Joel Truelsen, 75-year-old Scandinavian, logged acres of Gold Creek Canyon by hand into a park, built fireplaces and picnic tables and over seven years made the hidden beauty spot available to all.

Lands and forest minister E. T. Kekkey wanted to name it Truelsen Park.

"No," said Joel, "my name won't make it any more beautiful."

But it will always be Truelsen Park to the people of Terrace.

Popular Dancer Of Yukon Ballet Adds To Laurels

B. WILFRED CHISLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Winnipeg— (CP) —"The Lady Know as Lou" has returned to Winnipeg after taking British Columbia by storm with "that wicked roll of her hips."

Eva Von Gensey, the tall, beautiful ballerina who rated raves for her portrayal of the gambling doll in the Winnipeg Ballet Company production of "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," now is aiming at a United States tour.

Eva and the rest of the 21-member troupe returned here to find negotiations were under way for a possible U.S. visit, which would climax their successful invasions of eastern and western Canada, besides the command performance they put on here during the Royal tour last fall.

Mrs. Betty Farrally, ballet mistress, hopes that a New York booking would be the start of an international career for the troupe. Miss Von Gensey herself was a leading ballerina at the Salsburg opera house in Austria before coming to Canada four years ago.

Eva also is queen of the swans in the great "Swan Lake" ballet but she likes any form of the dance. However, she admits that ballet isn't all it's said to be. For one thing, Canadian ballet dancers aren't noted for their wealth.

"There is great difficulty doing without many things, but I don't feel I miss them," says Eva.

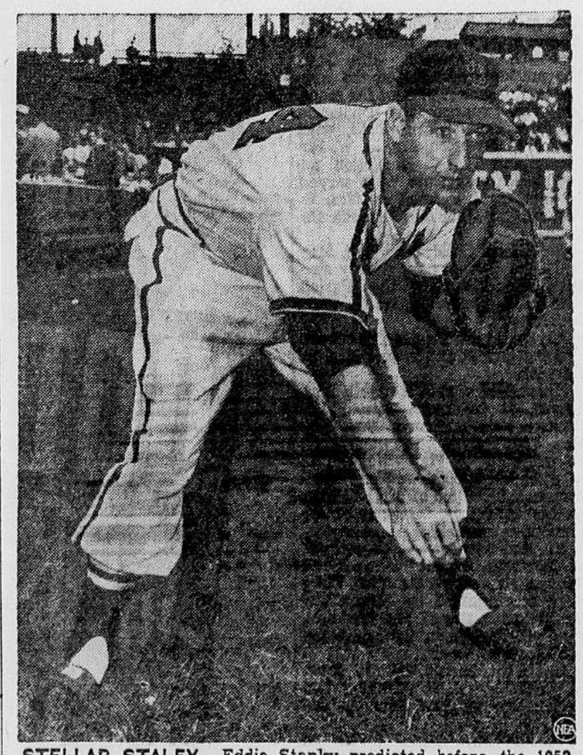

She is silent when asked about her age and weight, and if you ask what she does in her spare time she answers: "What spare time?" She usually rehearses any one of the company's 38 ballets up to 10 hours a day.

When she does get time off, she likes a long drive in the country or tries her hand at sketching. Anything to rest her feet.

Possibly the greatest triumph of the last western tour was at Trail, B.C., where the company staged its own interpretation of Robert Service's immortal Yukon ballad.

Eva said the audience cheered for 10 minutes after the national anthem was played. In Vancouver, the McGrew ballet drew 15 curtain calls.

"I think they must have liked us," says Eva.

Says Simple Toy Best For Junior

Winnipeg —(CP)— Here's good news for fathers—something they may have suspected for a long time.

Prof. Neville Scarfe, dean of education at the University of Manitoba, advises them not to buy their sons that electric train.

In plain words he says: "Get it for yourself instead."

At a parent-teachers meeting here, Dean Scarfe said mechanical and automatic toys such as electric trains are a comparative waste of Junior's time.

A wad of plasticine or a builder's set is really far better since it calls forth a child's creative ability, he said. Besides, it will amuse the child longer.

Children should be given a place of their own for play no matter how crowded the home is. Even if it's just a spot to keep their toys, it gives them a needed feeling of security.

Professor Scarfe said it is also important to give the child some regular job to do as soon as he is old enough. This helps him to feel needed—a fully-fledged member of the family.

The idea of activity for children has changed, said Professor Scarfe. Now it means a worthwhile and guided program unlike either the "do as you want" belief of the past or the still order "sit still and be quiet" attitude.

Activity means learning with the hands as well as the mind.

Dance-Date Bureau At Historic Oxford

Oxford, England. — Male students outnumber women at historic Oxford University, so a dance-date bureau has been formed.

The organization is called "Friendly Introductions, Ltd.," and the two women students running it offer to find lonely males a partner for 3s. 6d. the first time, 5s. the second and 15s. the third.

"After the third attempt we give up," say the organizers.

They blame the shortage of dance partners on the fact that only about a fifth of the women at Oxford go in for social life.

Maybe the Americans have something to do with it. A United States air force sergeant was spotted in a sports car bearing a windshield sticker saying "smart girl wanted."

Saga Of Old West Ended At Funeral For Real Cowpoke

Maple Creek, Sask. — They buried Tom Whitney in Maple Creek cemetery the other day, and with him they intered a part of the old west—the west of jingling spurs, branding irons and six-gun law.

Tom Whitney came down from the hills of Montana one day in 1905 and they say there was a gun strapped to his waist when he rode into the mettlesome young cow town of Maple Creek.

Tom was a cowboy of the old school. His parents crossed the plains of Virginia City, Montana, in the days when the only traffic hazards were skulking indians and saddle horses. Tom was the first white baby born in Madison County, Mont., 86 years ago.

The saddle was his cradle and the rangeland his home. His school curriculum didn't include the niceties of Latin grammar. He learned instead how to use a gun, trail a herd and break wild horses. He rode with the vigilantes on the trail of outlaws, cattle rustlers and renegade redmen, and swam a herd of longhorns across the Yellowstone.

He was tall and lean, and his tanned, leathery face shone from under the brim of his white Stetson.

Friends thought of him as the best stockman in the country, a good neighbor, and to some he was an adopted "daddy."

Gould W. M. S. Held June Meeting

Gould, June 24 — The W.M.S. was held on June 5, at the home of Mrs. R. Annesley.

The president, Mrs. Matthews, was in the chair and opened the meeting with the singing of a hymn, followed by the "Lord's Prayer" recited in unison.

Those taking part in the service were Mrs. K. N. MacIver, Mrs. D. O. MacIver, Mrs. Wintle, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. George MacKay, Mrs. Hillis, Mrs. Beaton and Mrs. Annesley.

There were eleven members and ten visitors present. The supply secretary, Mrs. M. Matheson, reported that a bale of clothing was being packed and asked that donations be brought to her as soon as possible.

Mrs. Hillis read an article on "Christian Stewardship."

Mrs. Matthews read a report of a lecture given by Miss Millar, dealing with the Spread and Effects of Communism in China.

Rev. Mr. Matthews closed the meeting with prayer and the benediction.

The hostess served refreshments assisted by Mrs. G. MacKay, Mrs. F. Emery and Mrs. J. O'Brien.

General Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Catchpaugh, of Magog, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. George MacKay.

Mr. Elmer Ryan, professor of the University of Edmonton, Alta., who is representing the University at the International United Conference now being held at Quebec and Toronto, Ont., was a guest of his aunt, Mrs. William Yates for a few days.

The Children's Corner

Meet My Tropical Fish

BY MICHAEL STANLEY
(Age 11)

FOR five years I wanted a dog, but we live in an apartment house and do not have a back yard.

Then I wanted an elephant. I saw a nice big one at the zoo and he was very friendly. My father measured the entrance to our apartment and showed me it would be impossible to get that elephant into our place.

A tropical pet shop opened right across from where I live and this is where my story begins. The raising of tropical fish is a fad now and can be inexpensive and fun, as the story of my own experience will point out.

The man at the shop told me the names of the different fish, have a fish tank and fish provided I agreed to take care of them. And I would have to spend my own money. I didn't have very much money so I helped my mother with the dishes, cleaned my bedroom, and even went to the store for my mother. I saved my money and that is how I got all my fish.

The tank cost me $6.95 and it holds seven and a half gallons. I also bought a reflector for the same price. And then I got a heater, a filter, aerator and motor.

I will tell you a secret how I think I saved money. In the store the man told me the bigger fish cost more money. So I bought small fish and took good care of them. I got two varigated platties for one dollar; two sword tails for one dollar; one catfish for 59 cents; one angel fish for 50 cents, and some plants. These are the fish that began my aquarium. By writing the names of the different fish on a paper several times I learned how to spell them correctly.

I like to watch my catfish. He is a scavenger and that means he eats up leftover food. That prevents the water from getting foul. Now I also have a snail in my aquarium and he helps the catfish clean up, but they don't speak to each other.
