RALSTON ATTACKS STAND TAKEN BY PREMIER BENNETT AT LONDON

Sharp Issue Taken by Former Minister of National Defence With Prime Minister's Statement that 1930 Conference Proposals Were Similar to Those Advanced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1902—Claim Made that Banks Have Been Charging Eight, Nine and Ten Per Cent. for Loans.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 26.—Hon. Arthur Sauve, Postmaster-General, when he speaks in the House of Commons today, will be the first Cabinet Minister, other than Premier Bennett, to participate in the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. Although the debate is now on its second week of progress, the ministerial members so far have refrained from taking much part.

Criticism of the stand taken at the Imperial Conference by Premier Bennett was made yesterday by Hon. James L. Ralston, former Minister of National Defence. Canada, he said, had suffered great loss through the Premier's attitude and his proposals, something it would take years to counteract.

Premier Bennett, Col. Ralston said, had gone to London primarily to sell Canadian wheat, but he had failed to observe "what would appear to be the ordinary principles of salesmanship, the creation of an atmosphere of good-will." The Premier, before going to London, had risen the Canadian tariff against Great Britain to a height which the British exporter could not scale. Then he had attempted to "force Canadian goods into the market."

The Bennett scheme was that Great Britain guarantee to buy Canadian wheat while Canada offered no similar pledge in return regarding manufactured goods.

Sharp issue was taken by Col. Ralston with Premier Bennett's statement that the 1930 Conference proposals were similar to those advanced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1902. The 1902 proposal, he said, would have Great Britain lower duties against Canadian foodstuffs, while the Bennett proposal in 1930 would have that country raise the duties against foodstuffs.

Curiously over the authorship of Premier Bennett's offer was expressed by Col. Ralston. "I wonder sometimes whether the gentleman who is now minister-designate to the United States (Major W. D. Herridge) may not have been trying his hand on ambassadorial messages in order to get his hand in. I wish he had not experimented with something which was fraught with such serious consequences to Canada."

Canadian banks, declared Milton Campbell, (U. F. A., Mackenzie) through technicalities in the banking laws, actually were charging eight, nine and ten per cent. for loans. He suggested the rate for agricultural loans be fixed at no higher than seven per cent.

Some changes in the banking policies of the country would have to be made if agriculture was to continue in Western Canada. The present high interest rates on money necessary to continue operations was an insurmountable obstacle.

CHARGED THAT BRIBES WERE PAID IN EFFORT TO DEFEAT CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATES

OTTAWA, March 26.—An attack on the stand taken by Premier Bennett at the Imperial Conference by Col. J. L. Ralston, former Minister of National Defence and a charge that thousands of dollars had been given in bribes to defeat Conservative candidates in Quebec by Dr. J. C. Moore, Conservative member for Chateaugay-Huntingdon, marked the debate on the reply to the Speech from the Throne in the House of Commons yesterday.

In brief, the former Minister of National Defence found fault with the manner in which Premier Bennett had approached the conference, with the proposal he had laid before it, and finally with his attitude when that proposal was rejected by the British Government. Mr. Bennett, Col. Ralston claimed, had gone to London to find a market for Canadian wheat, but in his efforts he had failed to observe "what would appear to be the ordinary principles of salesmanship, the creation of an atmosphere of good will."

"Through his insistence, his dogmatism and his constant reiteration of the fact that there must be no change in the proposal, he has created an atmosphere of irritation and annoyance," declared Col. Ralston, with reference to Premier Bennett.

He summarized the visit of Premier Bennett to London as a preliminary to going over, said Col. Ralston, the Canadian Prime Minister had raised the tariff of Canada against British goods to a height which the exporter in the Mother Country could not scale. Then he had crossed the ocean "to blaze a way over hills and dales to see to it that he forces Canadian goods into other markets."

"His offer, shorn of unnecessary verbiage, is that Britain should guarantee to buy Canada's wheat, but that there should be no counterpart."

MANY QUERIES ABOUT C. N. R. BEFORE HOUSE

Dr. Peter McGibbon Probes Matter of Railways' Expenses—Asks About Thornton's Expenses.

OTTAWA, March 26.—An exhaustive series of questions with respect to the Canadian National Railways has been placed on the order paper of the House of Commons by Dr. Peter McGibbon (Cons. Muskoka-Ontario). Dr. McGibbon asks specifically about the amount of money which is paid to Sir Henry Thornton, president of the system.

"What is Sir Henry Thornton's salary, including that from all subsidiary companies, if any?" he asks. "What allowance is made to him for entertainment and expenses? How many officials of the Canadian National Railways receive salaries in excess of $25,000 each?"

Dr. McGibbon wishes to know the debt of the system at the end of the fiscal year 1930-31, and what proportion is owed to the public and to the Government. He inquires as to the investment in hotels, the operating profit or deficit in each case, and the cost of furnishing and equipping these hotels. He also asks for the payroll of the Canadian National Railways in January, 1932. Other questions by Dr. McGibbon are designed to ascertain the investment in express and telegraph companies of the system and the operating profit or loss in each case.

Subsidy payments to the three Maritime Provinces forms the subject of questions by A. E. Maclean, Liberal member for Prince, P.E.I. Mr. Maclean asks if the report of the audit board in respect to subsidy claims or adjustments for the Maritimes has been submitted to the Government.

"If so, will the Government table the report in full, giving in detail the amount of subsidy recommended for payment to each province?" requests Mr. Maclean.

JOSIAH STAMP WILL SAIL FOR DOMINION NEXT WEEK

Famous British Economist to Head Royal Commission—Prime Minister to Make Statement.

OTTAWA, March 26.—Sir Josiah Stamp, the famous British economist, will sail for Canada next week to head the Royal Commission which the Government appointed to investigate grain matters. This was announced in the House of Commons yesterday when the Prime Minister answered G. G. Coote (U. F. A., McLeod), who asked further what would be the scope of the commission.

The Prime Minister declared that he would make a statement respecting the commission before the House rose for the Easter recess. "Is this part of the Government's Canada first policy?" interjected J. S. Woodsworth (Lab. Winnipeg North Centre).

PEACE ASSURED IN BRITISH RAILWAY CIRCLES

LONDON, March 26.—Peace was assured in the railroad world today by the decision of the delegates to the conference of National Union Railmen to accept the award of the National Wages Board by which earnings would be reduced a maximum of five per cent. subject to the maintenance of the minimum wage of forty shillings a week.

The other two unions, Railway Clerks and Engine Men and Firemen, already have accepted the award. Today's vote of acceptance was 49 to 31.

VISIT OF H. M. S. NELSON TO BALBOA COST $36,407

LONDON, March 26.—It cost $36,407 for H.M.S. Nelson to call on the United States fleet at Balboa.

Sir John Ferguson elicited this information when he asked in the House of Commons today what the Panama Canal charges were for the battleship. He questioned whether this expenditure was considered desirable, in view of the need for national economy.

Financial Secretary Ammon, of the Admiralty, replied "on the whole I think it was desirable."

THE QUESTION MARK

OTTAWA, March 26.—On the question paper of the House of Commons, Sam Gobeil, M.P., asks the municipalities of St. Marston and St. Hubert de Spaulding, in the County of Frontenac had work done pursuant to the Unemployment Relief Act, and if so, was the money allotted by the Dominion Government paid. If not paid, why not?

Dr. F. H. Pickel, of Missisquoi, asks for a copy of all letters, telegrams, reports, memoranda, charges of complaint and all other documents, in possession of any department of the Government, regarding the dismissal of Francis Fulford Fyles as Collector of Customs and Excise at the Port of Abercorn, in the month of January, 1927.

MINIMUM WAGE MUST BE PAID FACTORY GIRLS

Decision of Board Is of Vital Importance to Municipalities Which Have Subsidized Factories

MONTREAL, March 26.—Under no circumstances will any employer in the province be permitted to pay a female worker less than the absolute minimum set officially for the industry concerned, the Minister of Labour declared today.

Mr. Lloyd George declared that a "defeat of the government today on a major issue, with trade in the position it is, unemployment, and with the country in a state of panic, would mean a protectionist majority in parliament."

Mr. Lloyd George said that nothing was "now being asked of the Liberals but that 'we are only offering to day to pursue the same course which we expected the Labour party to adopt for the four years between 1910 and 1914.'"

The Liberal leader said: "All that we are asking from Labour is that it should do and not shrink the job." Then in a single sentence he stated the entire Liberal policy as "independence of the party, no surrender of that independence, co-operation and understanding with the government for carrying out measures which are common to both parties on progressive lines."

"That is our policy. We have no other and that is the one for which we are seeking support," Mr. Lloyd George declared, "the Liberals could not take the view of Sir John Simon, the leader of the insurgent group in his party and others that the Labour government should be turned out here and now, with the inevitable consequence of a protective tariff and a reactionary government."

"I would be only too glad," Mr. Lloyd George continued, "to be relieved of the most bewildering and thankless task ever entrusted to any political leader, but until I am relieved of it I propose to place such power and gifts and experience and strength as are left to me to"

Mr. Franco stated during the meeting today that the annual average of the female worker in industry is $64.16, but drops to around $550 when deductions are made for lost time for various causes.

MOVE IS MADE TO AMALGAMATE PAPER FIRMS

Negotiations for $350,000,000 Consolidation of Leading Canadian Pulp and Paper Companies Have Reached Advanced Stage.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Negotiations for a $350,000,000 consolidation of leading Canadian pulp and paper companies into a corporation to be controlled largely by Canadian interests are reported in Wall Street to have reached an advanced stage.

An agreement is believed to be imminent so far as the Canadian International Paper Company, the Abitibi Power and Paper Company, Ltd., and the McEwen and Ontario Paper Companies are concerned. It is reported that the fusion will call for an exchange of shares into a new holding company, and terms are expected to be announced within a few days.

Discussions between the American and Canadian interests representing these and other paper companies of the Dominion have been held in New York and Canada at various times in recent weeks. Among the companies reported to have engaged in the negotiations are the Canada Power and Paper Corporation, the St. Lawrence Corporation, Ltd., and Price Brothers and Co., Ltd.

The proposed fusion, it was said, does not include any public utility properties, and includes only such power plants as are wholly devoted to the operation of pulp and paper manufacture.

Canadian International Paper is a subsidiary of International Paper Company.

LYDD GEORGE ISSUES TERMS FOR CO-OPERATION WITH LABOR PARTY

Liberal Leader Declares Labor Government Must Adopt Policies of Liberals if It Is to Survive—Sees Protectionist Majority in House of Commons if Present Government Defeated on Major Issue.

LONDON, March 26.—Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, silver haired and immovable, and with his verbal rapier sharpened to dangerous points, faced a packed auditorium of Liberal parliamentary candidates at O. C. Caxton Hall today in a renewal of his fight for continued control of the Liberal party.

Smiling Megan, the daughter who followed him from Wales to the House of Commons, was by his side. The crowd gave the war time premier an enthusiastic reception as he mounted the platform to admonish them to support his policies in the House of Commons.

The ovation crowned a week in which he already has written two successes, the former in retaining control of his shadow cabinet, and the second in holding the parliamentary Liberal party in line Tuesday by a vote of thirty-three to seventeen on matters of policy. It was this statement of policy, which the Labour Government must accept practically as its own if it is to live, which he outlined today.

After reviewing the parliamentary situation, Mr. Lloyd George declared that a "defeat of the government today on a major issue, with trade in the position it is, unemployment, and with the country in a state of panic, would mean a protectionist majority in parliament."

Mr. Lloyd George said that nothing was "now being asked of the Liberals but that 'we are only offering to day to pursue the same course which we expected the Labour party to adopt for the four years between 1910 and 1914.'"

A lengthy discussion followed Rt. Hon. Lloyd George's address. It was participated in mostly by members of the Labour party, and the speaker who voted against the Liberal declaration as drafted in the recent party meeting.

Summing up the situation afterwards and answering a number of questions, Mr. Lloyd George declared that he was in no way bound by the Labour Government, which, he said, had not even seen a draft of the party declaration now under discussion. He did not know what the Government's attitude would be thereon, he said.

"It is co-operation and not complete co-operation we have put in our declaration," he said.

Regarding the vote of censure to be moved against the Government, Mr. Lloyd George said "I cannot say which way we shall vote. It will depend on the parliamentary party. Whichever way the party decides I shall be with them."

"I don't think the responsibility for action should depend on a few of us. A very important decision is to be taken Wednesday, and it is for those who are claiming independence to help reach that decision."

INQUIRY WILL BE MADE INTO VIKING AFFAIR

Commission of Inquiry Has Already Been Appointed by Government of Newfoundland to Investigate Disaster.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 26.—A commission of inquiry comprising Chief Justice Sir William Horwood, Captain M. Dalton, ship's husband, and Captain J. Rendell, has been appointed by the Government of Newfoundland to investigate the disaster to the sealing steamer Viking which took more than a score of lives.

Wireless operator Clayton King, who survived a compound fracture of the leg when the Viking's powder magazine blew up, and was severely frost-bitten on the ice afterward, had both feet amputated yesterday. His condition is critical.

THE WEATHER

FAIR AND COLDER

An area of unusually high pressure extends from Northern Ontario over the Western Provinces, but pressure is low in the Southwest States, and a storm which developed on the Middle Atlantic coast is moving northeastward. The weather has become decidedly cold in the West, with fresh northerly winds and local snowfalls, but with the exception of some high snow or rain near the Great Lakes it has been fair with moderate temperature in Eastern Canada.

Forecast: Northerly winds; fair and cooler tonight and Friday.

Northern New England: Cloudy and cooler tonight, with snow on the coast. Friday, fair and colder.

Temperature yesterday: Maximum 43, minimum 29.

Same day last year: Maximum 34, minimum 25.

FORMAL NOTICE OF EASTER ADJOURNMENT

OTTAWA, Ont., March 26.—Formal notice of the Easter adjournment of the House of Commons has been placed on the order paper by Premier R. B. Bennett. The Prime Minister asks the House to approve an adjournment from the close of business on April 1 until Monday, April 13.

BRUENING CABINET IN POWER UNTIL NEXT AUTUMN

BERLIN, March 26.—The Reichstag adjourned today until October 13th.

With the adjournment the Brüning Cabinet is armed with parliamentary certified dictatorial powers to run the country until late next autumn.

RETIREMENT OF GANDHI MAY BE BROUGHT ABOUT

Is Said to Have Threatened Temporary Retirement from Indian Politics if Delhi Agreement Is Rejected by Nationalist Congress.

KARACHI, India, March 26.—The Exchange Telegraph Agency says that Mahatma Gandhi, in an interview with the Agency's representative, has threatened to withdraw temporarily from Indian politics should the National Congress reject the Delhi agreement which he negotiated.

It would be humiliating, he said, to ask Great Britain to mediate in a Hindu-Muslim quarrel.

Gandhi declared that the execution of Baghi Singh and his two colleagues had not affected his opinion towards a settlement of difficulties with Great Britain. Halting of the executions was entirely outside the terms of the truce, he explained.

Gandhi condemned and deplored communal rioting Tuesday and Wednesday in Calcutta where thirty were killed and two hundred injured before the disturbance was suppressed. He declared that such riots were a menace to the peace which now prevails between the Nationalists gathering here for their annual meeting, and the Government.

"I am grieved and pained at such an orgy of hatred and bloodshed," Gandhi said. "I can only hope that the poison will not spread. At this delicate juncture in our relations with the Government, the slightest thing will disturb our mental balance."

"I appeal to the Indian nation to remain calm and not to allow the harmonious relations between the different racial communities to be disturbed. I hope the local leaders at Calcutta will put their heads together quickly to restore peace. Let it be remembered by those in a hurry to achieve India's freedom that such fanatical strife makes progress toward our ultimate goal of liberty increasingly difficult."

RAILWAYS CUT FREIGHT RATE ON LIMESTONE

Part of Movement to Encourage Greater Use of Lime in Agriculture in Ontario.

TORONTO, March 26.—As the result of a movement to encourage the greater use of lime in agriculture, particularly in those sections where soil corrective is required to stimulate more economical production of farm crops, Ontario farmers will enjoy a great reduction in the transportation cost of pulverized limestone, it was announced yesterday by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture.

The Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways have agreed to reduce the present tariff on the pulverized limestone to be used by farmers to the amount of twenty-five per cent, and the provincial and Dominion departments of agriculture, in co-operation, will grant further subventions to the combined amount of one-half the remaining freight rate with a maximum of $1 per ton. On limestone screening rates, the two governments will grant subventions amounting to one-half the freight rate with a maximum of $1 per ton, Hon. Mr. Kennedy said.

In order to take advantage of this assistance purchasers must order at least a minimum carload of thirty tons.

TERMS CANADA CORNER STONE OF THE EMPIRE

Earl of Bessborough Addressed Canada Club in London—Emphasized Dominion's Importance in Empire.

LONDON, March 26.—Addressing the Canada Club at a dinner given in his honor, when this, the oldest dining club of London, entertained the new Governor-General in accordance with its long maintained custom, the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General-designate of Canada, spoke with pride of his selection by the King, who had consulted his Canadian ministers, to represent His Majesty "in this great Dominion, the one cornerstone on which rests the great edifice of Empire."

"Anyone who has been as I have been of late years, a denizen of London, finds that he cannot move far along the streets of finance—streets not always paved with gold and streets, which of late, have been particularly stony—without making constantly fresh Canadian contacts," said the Earl, who continued: "The enterprises I have been principally concerned with have not been directly interested in Canada. But parochial and even continental distinctions are growing out of date in the realm of business today. Every market is ultimately a world market, and nowhere, I venture to say, is this more clearly realized than in the city of London."

"In going to Canada I realize that I have not the same form of equipment as the majority of my predecessors. With most of them, curiously enough, I have family connections, but as regards previous training, I fear I am in isolation, for while they had all filled high places at court, in the forum or in the army, I alone have been called to the post from the duties of business life in the city."

"I must admit, and it is no small comfort to feel that any experience I may have obtained in business is ultimately a world market, and nowhere, I venture to say, is this more clearly realized than in the city of London."

"I am proud of this distinction, I must admit, and it is no small comfort to feel that any experience I may have obtained in business is ultimately a world market, and nowhere, I venture to say, is this more clearly realized than in the city of London."

Hon. Mr. Ferguson, the dinner's chairman, spoke of Lord Bessborough's patronage of dramatic enterprises and said that he, himself, had played many parts on the wider stage of life but he hesitated to speculate as to the part which his Lordship might have cast him in.

The Governor-General-designate, said Mr. Ferguson, would find in Canada literary and artistic traditions after his own heart. Some quarters in the Old Country entertained a most singular impression of the average Canadian as a rough-spoken, somewhat blatant man, more concerned with the soil than the soul. Nevertheless, said the High Commissioner of the Dominion, there was to be found in Canada as fine an appreciation of academic and artistic values as anywhere in the world.

AUSTRO-GERMAN FACT TO BE SUBMITTED TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS

PARIS, March 26.—The Austro-German customs pact will be submitted to the Council of the League of Nations for its judgment, it was agreed today by Foreign Secretary Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, of Great Britain, and Aristide Briand, no matter what attitude Germany and Austria may take.

This information was contained in a statement to the press today by a spokesman for the French Government, following a meeting between Messrs. Henderson and Briand.

DOMINION ADMINISTRATOR RECOVERING

MONTREAL, Que., March 26.—Encouraging reports were received yesterday of the condition of His Excellency the Administrator, Mr. Justice Lyman P. Duff, P.C., of the Supreme Court of Canada, who underwent an abdominal operation at the Royal Victoria Hospital eight days ago. "Very much better, and making steady progress," was last night's report. He still has a little fever, but his general condition is excellent.

QUEBEC, Que., March 26.—

The women of the Province of Quebec will not be allowed to vote in the coming Provincial elections, for the measure introduced into the Legislature yesterday by Irene Vautrin, Liberal M.L.A. for St. James, Montreal, to grant the women the provincial franchise was killed by a vote of forty-seven to twenty-one.

While the vote against a similar bill last year was forty-four to twenty-four, only one supporter of the cause deserted in the twelve month period, Edouard Fortin, Liberal member for Beauce, who supported the measure last year, being found on the opposite side this time. Three of last year's supporters were absent from the House, Dr. Pierre Gauthier, of Portneuf; Cleo Bastien, of Berthier, and Hon. A. R. McMaster, of Compton.

Although the party leaders opposed the measure, the rank and file on both sides of the House were sharply divided. Five of the Ministers favored the granting of the franchise to the women of the province, also five members from the Eastern Townships, W. S. Bullock, of Shefford; A. Bissonnette, of Stanstead; A. C. Crepeau, of Sherbrooke; Martin Fisher, of Huntingdon; and Hon. Laurent Lapierre, of Megantic, favored granting the vote. The two other Eastern Townships members, S. Desmarais, of Richmond, and Dr. C. P. Lemieux, of Wolfe, were opposed.

The debate on the matter was very brief, only four members taking part, Irene Vautrin, Martin Fisher, and Brig-Gen. Smart upholding the motion while Amede Caron, Magdalen Islands, moved a six months' hoist.

Mr. Vautrin, in introducing the motion, reviewed the history of the movement, while Mr. Caron, in moving the amendment for the six months' hoist, declared that, in his opinion, the majority of the women of the province did not want the vote.

The important place played by women in all welfare movements was advanced by Martin Fisher as the reason for his supporting the bill of Mr. Vautrin. Going back into history, Mr. Fisher found that from 1791 until the coming into effect of Confederation in 1867, the women of the province had exercised the franchise, and he believed that the woman of today was as well equipped as her grandmother when it came to deciding matters political.

General Smart, turning to the cry that women's domain is in the home, said that was interestedly true, but men were also interested in the home, and it was the multiplicity of homes which make up the state, and happy homes make a happy state. "In what way would the granting of the franchise to women impair the usefulness of woman in the home?" he asked. "I have heard that they will ignore the home if they are given the vote, but experience in other provinces does not bear out that argument. We have elections once every four years, and I cannot make out how that would impair the usefulness of women in the home. If a woman were to devote all her time to politics, it could be understood that her home interests would suffer, but not otherwise."

General Smart said women could do much to help bring about a good system of education and good homes if given the power, and that would make for a happy state, and women would help very materially in bringing about such a condition.

The vote was put and resulted as above.

The House turned to the bill to abolish the $1 tax on lightning rods, and passed it rapidly.

Turning to credits, the House dealt with estimates for the Department of Mines. The Government was reproached with not having sufficiently protected the public against exploitation and Hon. Mr. Perrault remarked that he had unceasingly warned the people.

Mr. Duplessis asked as to the situation in regard to the Saguenay-Chibougamou Railway Company. Mr. Perrault said that the work had been stopped, but did not know the reason. Premier Taschereau said that he had met representatives of the mineral interests of the region, and they had let him understand that they could do nothing at the moment. Near the surface they had found some good ore, but were not certain as to how deep the deposits went. He said the Government had been asked to guarantee a bond issue of $15,000,000, but under present circumstances he did not feel the Government should take such a risk. He believed that above all the mining men should have confidence in their own affairs, and for

Reddy Fox Suspects

By trifles started, as you know, On this and that suspicious grow. —Old Mother Nature.

Reddy Fox long ago learned the value of trifles, or what seem like trifles. That is one reason he is one of the smartest of all the people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest. He knows that little things sometimes are more important than big things, and so he takes notice of every little thing. This habit has saved his life more than once and it has obtained for him many a good meal. And he isn't satisfied with just noticing little things. No, sir, he isn't satisfied with that. He tries to find out if they mean anything in particular, and if they do, what it is.

There was the time he discovered some wet leaves in a private little path of his own. There they were, no more than a handful, just like the wet leaves matted together along the edge of the Laughing Brook, only a few steps away. You or I wouldn't have noticed them, or if we had we wouldn't have given them a thought. It wasn't so with Reddy Fox. He noticed those leaves at once and that they were wet. There were no other wet leaves, not even damp leaves, along that private little path of his. Reddy sat down and looked at them.

Reddy sat down right beside that old nest to think the matter over

"Now what are those leaves doing here, so what are they here for?" he thought. "How did they get here? They couldn't have been blown here by the Merry Little Breezes, because wet leaves are not blown about. They don't belong here, so what are they here for?"

He cocked his head to one side and studied them. Then very carefully he walked around them, taking care to keep outside that private little path, and all the time using his nose and his eyes. At first his nose told him nothing, but his eyes discovered a place where the soft earth had been disturbed. Cautiously he scraped away some of the loose earth. Then he grinned. He had uncovered part of a small chain. On this he found just a trace of the hated man-smell. He uncovered the rest of the chain and patted it out from under that handful of wet leaves a cruel steel trap. It had been set right where he would have stepped in it if he hadn't noticed those wet leaves and then wondered how they happened to be there. They had awakened his suspicions.

So it was that when he happened to be over on the Green Meadows, near the old nesting place of Whitetail the Marsh Hawk, and took the opportunity for a look at the old nest, he at once suspected that Whitetail and Mrs. Whitetail had a nest somewhere else. This result. The remainder of the evening was spent in cards, music and dancing.

Mrs. Taylor, of Brockville, Ont., is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Jack Johnson.

The many friends of Mrs. Robert Magwood and her daughter, Alma, will be sorry to hear that they are confined to the house owing to illness.

Miss Ruby Lavers, formerly of the Canadian Ingersoll Rand, Sherbrooke, has accepted a position with the Johnson Co.

Miss Edna Reed, of Quebec, has been spending several days the guest of Mrs. Lenore Demers.

Mr. Louis Morin, of Quebec, spent the past week in town attending the opening of the supreme court.

Mrs. Max Weinstein has left for Montreal on a business trip.

Master Bobby Johnston is confined to the house through illness.

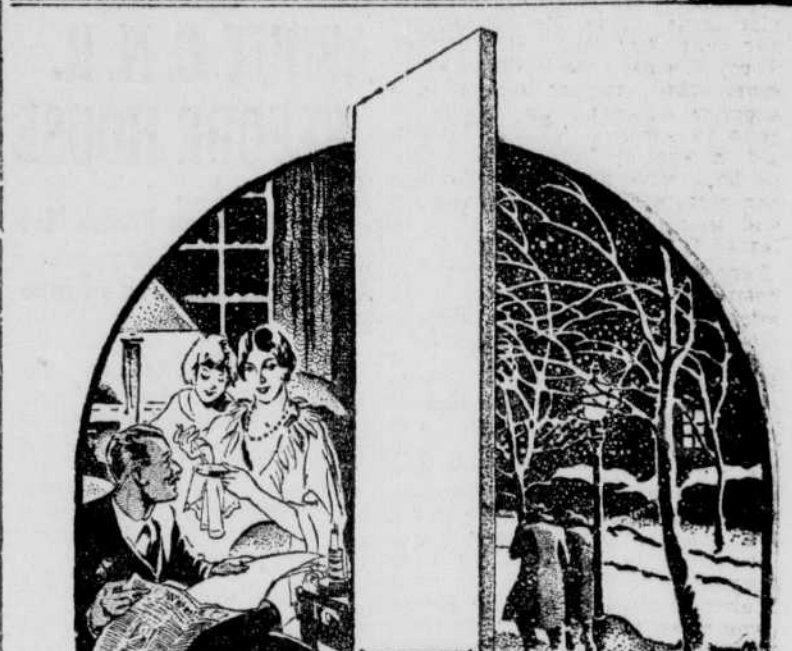

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Clearhues, of Black Lake, spent several days in Sherbrooke, recently.

think that they might nest there. I always try to do the thing that folks think I won't try to do, and I suspect the Whitetails have done the same thing. It hasn't entered the heads of their neighbors that they would build in the Old Pasture. Certainly it never entered my head until this blessed minute. So that is just what they have done. I almost know it. Well, if they are up there they are nearer neighbors than they were before. And if they are it is up to me to find out just where they are. They may think it is none of my business, but when I think of a nestful of young Hawks right on the ground, I consider it very much of my business."

So Reddy began taking long sun baths on a certain flat rock from which he could look down across the Green Meadows and at the same time see part of the Old Pasture. So, without appearing to be watching at all, he did watch the Whitetails, confident that sooner or later he would see something that would lead him to that nest.

COMEDY-DRAMA IS ENACTED AT CLARENCEVILLE

"My Irish Rose" Staged Under Auspices of Ladies' Aid—Large and Appreciative Audience in Attendance.

CLARENCEVILLE, Que., March 26.—The play entitled "My Irish Rose," which was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid on Saturday night, March 21st, in the Empire Hall, was a fine success. Notwithstanding the almost impassable roads, people came from far and near and crowded the hall to capacity. The entertainment was under the chairmanship of the Rev. John Stark, who gave a resume of the comedy drama in story form, which made an illuminating prelude to the performance.

Rose Creigan, a little Irish country lass, is the pride of her bachelor uncle, Colum McCormack and her aunt, Ann Mary. Her brother, Terry Creigan, has been cashiered from the army on account of a superior officer's enmity, and has gone to America. Maurice Fitzgerald, a wealthy Dublin artist, falls in love with Rose while painting her picture. He proposes marriage and is accepted. Shortly after he learns from his family lawyer, Mr. Peppercorn, that his cousin has been killed and that he is heir to the estate and a baronet. Mr. Peppercorn suggests that he break off his matrimonial entanglement, but Maurice spurns the suggestion with contempt. Lady Agnes Barricklow has long been in love with Maurice and now that he is a wealthy baronet decides to marry him. She arrives at the McCormack farm with Eileen, Maurice's sister, and tries to break off the match between Rose and Sir Maurice by suggesting to Rose that her lover is already engaged to marry Eileen (who is really his sister). Rose sees Maurice embrace his sister and thinking she is his betrothed agrees to break the match. But Archibald Pennywit, a blundering English tourist, explains that Eileen is Maurice's sister, and Maurice introduces Rose to all his betrothed wife.

In act three, which has two scenes, Rose and Maurice have been married a year, but Lady Agnes is still trying to cause trouble by suggesting a separation. Terry Creigan, Rose's brother, comes home from America, and is conditionally restored to his rank. Sir Maurice decides to go to Belfast to see the Commanding Officer General to remove all restrictions against Terry. After a bitter quarrel with Agnes, Rose orders her from the house, but is much dismayed to find that Maurice too is leaving for Belfast. Rose suspecting that Maurice is to join Agnes at Belfast, spurns her husband and departs for a grand ball with her brother, Terry. Maurice, thinking that Terry is Rose's lover, decides to challenge him to a duel, but Rose and Terry return from the ball and the brother is introduced to the husband, and all ends well.

The cast of characters was as follows: Ann Mary McCormack, Mrs. Marjorie Derick; Pegeen Burke, Miss Marion Stevenson; Shawn McGilly, Mr. Raymond Higgins; the widow Hannigan, Mrs. F. E. Miller; Colum McCormack, Mr. Norman Simpson; Rose Creigan, Miss Irene Brundage; Maurice Fitzgerald, Mr. Robert Stewart; Michael Peppercorn, Mr. O. M. Derby; Archibald Pennywit, Mr. Clarence Adams; Lady Agnes Barricklow, Mrs. Marion Johnson; Eileen Fitzgerald, Miss Robina Tipping; and Terry Creigan, Mr. Donald Miller.

The manner in which the players took their part reflected much credit on the management. Each character acted with a naturalness and cleverness worthy of high praise. Aunt May's brogue alone was worth listening to, while Pegeen, with her cute ways and saucy says, provided much merriment. Shawn McGilly, "laziest man in three counties," gave a fine example of what laziness will do with a man. The widow Hannigan, her quaint quality of spirit predominating, presented to the audience some very good acting. Old Colum McCormack, the farmer, beloved and belittled, endeared himself to all hearts by his perfect personification of an Irish peasant. Rose Creigan took the leading role, and her acting was characterized by clear pronunciation and a keen sense of drama, while Maurice Fitzgerald, with his cultured personality and distinct articulation, was the very embodiment of the part he was playing, worthy of an artist and a baronet. In the Peppercorn, the lawyer, was found a reflection of the professional, calm, slow and impressive. Archibald Pennywit, the blundering English tourist, acted his part in a very realistic manner, while Lady Agnes Barricklow possessed a sense of consummate art worthy of commendation. Eileen Fitzgerald, the sister of Sir Maurice, with her quiet, unassuming manner and refined looks, suited her part perfectly and gave a good account of herself, worthy of a baronet's sister. Lastly, there was Terry Creigan, the soldier. His bearing, countenance, determined looks and mood carried the significance which the character called for.

The play was under the convener'ship of Mrs. F. E. Miller. The stage manager was Mr. O. M. Derby. Stage fittings harmonized with the theme and place where the comedy-drama was thought out and enacted. One feature which gave color and background to the entertainment was the musical numbers played on the piano by Mrs. Aubrey Hunter, assisted on the violin by Mr. David Rowland. The solos sung by Mr. Harry Walker and the quartettes by Mrs. John Miller, Mrs. Aubrey Hunter and Messrs. Edward Adams and Harry Walker were well received. At the close of the entertainment, the first verse of the National Anthem was sung.

The president and executive of the Ladies' Aid wish to thank those who in any way helped to make the evening the success it was.

General Notes.

AUTO RUNS 59 MILES ON GALLON OF GAS

Automobile engineers who worked for years in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption have found the solution in a marvelous invention that fits all cars. An actual test made by one of the engineers showed 59 miles on a gallon of gas. Thousands of car owners have already installed this new invention. They not only report amazing gas savings but are also surprised to find quicker pickup, instant starting, smoother running motors and more power. The Whirlwind Mfg. Co., Dept. 2839-N, Station C, Milwaukee, Wis., for a limited time is offering a free device to those who will help introduce it. They also need men everywhere to make up to $100 weekly in their own territory taking care of local business. Write them at once for free sample and big money making offer.—Adv.

"How the suds last!" says Mrs. R. Freidrick,

"Think I'd scrub? Not when I can get clothes whiter with Rinso, the hard-water soap! What active, soapy suds—and how they last! The water around here is hard, too. Rinso's creamy suds soak out the dirt and my clothes come white so easily. This way saves the clothes; saves me work, too. I like Rinso so much I use it for dishes and all cleaning."

MRS. ROSE FREIDRICK.

Wonderful suds for washers, too

Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water. Rich, active suds—safe for the finest linens. And no softener needed. Marvellous in washers! The makers of 38 famous washers—better class laundries—home economics experts—all endorse Rinso. Great for dishes and all cleaning. Get the BIG package.

AUTO RAN AWAY ON MARQUETTE STREET TODAY

Brakes Gave Way and Milkman's Automobile Landed Up Against House—Residence and Car Badly Damaged.

There are several families without milk this morning. The situation was caused, not as the result of a strike of the bovines, but by an unusual incident which befell a local milk dealer this morning. The result of it all was that the white liquid which should have reposed on the breakfast tables of many families joined the spring rivulets which have transformed the streets into quagmires, while the owner suffered considerable damage.

This morning about ten-thirty o'clock, an automobile used by a milk man on his daily run was left parked at the crest of the short but sharp incline near the east end of St. Michael's Cathedral. In some manner the brakes gave away and the car started on its wild career unguided. At the time there was no one in its path and it plowed into the side of a house situated in the rear of the City Hall on the brow of the high cliff. A few feet to either side of the place it hit would have sent the cart hurtling over the precipice and into one of the buildings near the City Hall. The white fluid continued the flight which had been checked by the house and fragments of broken milk bottles covered the ground.

The railing on the veranda of the house was torn from its foundation, panes of glass were smashed to smithereens, while the force of the collision bulged one wall of the house and smashed the masonry on the inside. Considerable damage was also inflicted to the automobile itself. Both headlights were unable to withstand the shock, the fenders on both sides crumpled like paper due to the great momentum which the car had accumulated during its rush, the radiator was smashed and the hood of the vehicle suffered considerably.

The maximum temperature yesterday, as reported at the Lennoxville Experimental Farm, was maximum 43, while the minimum was three degrees below the freezing mark, that is 23 degrees above zero.

LENNOXVILLE

MANY PAY LAST RESPECTS TO LATE WILLIAM REED

The earthly remains of Mr. William Reed, who passed away at the Sherbrooke Protestant Hospital after a brief but painful illness, were brought to Lennoxville for interment in Malvern Cemetery. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon from the home of Mrs. E. Reed, Main street, sister-in-law of the deceased, at the United Church, where the service was held, Rev. F. R. Matthews officiating.

The choir, assisted by several members of the choir of St. George's Church led in the singing of the hymns, "Abide With Me," and "Rock of Ages." To the friends of the deceased and to the large gathering of neighbors who filled the church to its capacity, Mr. Matthews gave St. Paul's testimony to his faith, "I know whom I have believed, saying that such faith was a possession within the reach of all. From the fact that not even the most minute atom of the physical world is ever lost, Mr. Matthews drew the lesson that love, hope, and memory are never lost, and that the personality which these attributes clothe goes on to eternity.

Six neighbors of the deceased bore the casket, these being Messrs. James and Christopher Woodward, Charles and Edward Crawford, Henry Winget and E. Laforest. The principal mourners were the widow, Mrs. Reed, two daughters, Misses Daisy and Eleanor Reed, and three sons, Messrs. Archie, Austin and Clayton Reed. Of the family of fourteen sons and daughters of which Mr. William Reed was a member, four sisters and a brother survive him, all of whom were present at the funeral, namely, Mrs. Crea, of Colebrook, N.H.; Mrs. Dean, Miss Eliza Reed and Miss Maria Reed, of Lennoxville, and Mr. Hugh Reed, of Lacombie, Alberta. Mr. Niven Dean and Miss Edna Dean, of Lennoxville, nephew and niece, were also present.

Out-of-town people attending the funeral included Mrs. Emm. Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Reed, and Miss Lita Reed, of Sherbrooke; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Norton, Miss Annie Reed, Mr. Emerson Reed and Mrs. Ida Reed, of Drummondville; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Betts, Mr. and Mrs. John Bain, Mr. John Reed, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bellam, Mrs. James Teweers and Miss Gladys Reed, of East Clifton; Mr. Frank Nixon, of Valcourt; Mrs. C. D. Cornell and Miss Hazel Hatcher, of Montreal; Mrs. Charles Montgomery, of Randboro; Miss Annie Hatcher, of Brimham; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reed, Messrs. Robert and James Reed, of Waterville.

Mr. William Reed was born in the Spring Road neighborhood on June 17th, 1858. In his business connections, which extended during the more active period of his life over a large area of the surrounding country, he was well and favorably known. His business ideals and standards were unusually high, and in all his transactions he carried out the principles of the "Golden Rule." A friend to the poor and unfortunate, many unobtrusive acts of kindness stand to his credit. His whole life carried with it an atmosphere of friendship and fellowship. The last forty-eight years of his life were lived on Moulton Hill, and his going has broken many ties and will be felt as a loss to the whole community.

A profusion of beautiful flowers covered the casket, including

CANADIAN ART FINE FEATURE OF EXHIBITION

National Art Gallery's Exhibit as Representative a Collection of All Schools of Canadian Art as Has Ever Been Shown Outside Canada.

The National Art Gallery's exhibit of Canadian Art at the British Empire Trade Fair at Buenos Aires, Argentina, was as representative a collection of all school of Canadian art as has ever been exhibited outside of Canada. Sixty-seven Canadian artists were represented in this exhibit by one of their best paintings. The Canadian Art exhibition at Buenos Aires, while not as large as the one at Wembley in 1924 and 1925 where they created considerable interest, was considered to be even more representative. Sixteen of the sixty-seven pictures sent to Buenos Aires were by artists of the older or realistic school and fourteen by artists generally classified as belonging to the Seven Sinners group of Canadian artists.

Toronto had the largest number of pictures in this collection. The Toronto group was represented by thirty artists. Montreal by the work of twenty artists, Ottawa by eight and Winnipeg by two.

The following is a list of the artists who work was accepted by the National Art Gallery and sent to the Exhibition:

From Toronto: Barr, Robert Allan, A.R.C.A.; Beatty, J. W., R.C.A.; Comfort, F. Charles; Goldammer, Charles; Grier, E. IDEAL WOMAN IS SOUGHT BY FAMOUS ARTIST

Benito Martin, Argentine Artist, Finds It Hard to See Face Which He Would Immortalize on Canvas.

LONDON, England, March. — A world-wide search for the ideal type of woman is being made by Benito Quinquela Martin, the famous Argentine painter.

Senor Martin has visited France, Italy and Spain since he left South America, and now he has come to London, still continuing his quest for the woman whom he seeks to immortalize on canvas.

Although Senor Martin is famous in South America, only a few art connoisseurs in this country know his work. One of them is the Prince of Wales, who a year or two ago purchased one of Senor Martin's most striking paintings. That picture now hangs on the walls of St. James' Palace.

"Having seen the women of many countries," Senor Martin said to a press representative, "I have come to the conclusion that the ideal woman from an artist's point of view does not belong to any one country, but would have the characteristics of a number of countries. "She would have the dignity of the English woman, the smiling eyes of Ireland, the complexion of Spain, the chic of the French woman, the dark lustrous hair of Italy. "If such a woman existed every artist would want to paint her. I do not suppose she does exist, but there must be women who come near to that ideal, and it is for them I am looking in my travels. "The women of England are different from any other women in the world, just as London cannot be compared to any other city. "I love New York and Paris and Rome, yet when I arrived in London," he waved his hand towards Piccadilly, "I forgot them. When you are in London you cannot think of other cities; when you look at English women you cannot think of other women."

Then Senor Martin shattered one of our most cherished ideas about our women. We always believe that the English girl is the ideal out-of-door type. Senor Martin disagrees. "Your girls," he said, "are at their best indoors. The women of Paris are most beautiful in the streets. The boulevards are crowded with lovely well-dressed women. "The women of London do not give so much care to their outdoor appearance. Perhaps," he explained with a smile, "that is because they dress more for usefulness than appearance. Your clothes must suit the weather. "I have seen your women at receptions and parties. They are not of the out-door sporting type that they picture on the Continent. Oh, yes, I always give me every help, and time and again men and women have gone far out of their way to put me on the right road."

ONLY IF YOU WERE PRESENT First Schoolboy—Do you know the world is coming to an end on Monday? Second Schoolboy—Both! Then we shall have to write an essay on it on Tuesday.

JUMP Vicar (concluding story) — And now, children, would you like to ask any questions? Bobby—Yes sir. Please, how do you get into your collar? Peter—if I am naughty I have to go to bed without supper. John—That can never happen to me. I have medicine to take after meals.

AT YOUR AGE? Peter—if I am naughty I have to go to bed without supper. John—That can never happen to me. I have medicine to take after meals.

another POMPEIAN GIRL

A LAUGHING, animated, after-theatre crowd—and yet, in the midst of it all, they were alone. Throughout the performance Nedra has been conscious of David's admiring glances, his eyes filled with desire. The soft, satiny glow of her skin tantalized him, he wanted to take her in his arms, to whisper his hopes for the future.

Nedra is just one of the millions of women who use Pompeian products, for she knows that while it is possible to pay more, it is impossible to buy better. Pompeian Beauty Powder spreads evenly—it does not cake—it clings for hours. One of its five shades has been prepared for your type. It is now available in cake form in an exquisite new Compact.

OWNERSHIP AND OPERATION OF POWER PLANTS.

"It all depends" is the canny Scottish reply to the question asked a prominent citizen if he believed in public ownership, and followed up his non-committal answer with the thought that the Ontario Hydro-Commission was doing well.

Getting its main power production from the Niagara Falls, Ontario is committed to a capital investment of over $270,000,000, upon which no dividends have ever been earned to the province, nor has any tax ever been paid.

Quebec, under private ownership of power distribution, has several large corporations which have steadily earned and paid moderate dividends to over 200,000 shareholders.

Under the able and pushing tactics of the late Sir Adam Beck, this dominating personality controlled the Government. His persistency under the weak administration of Drury, ruined that Premier politically. Ontario has a tremendous public debt, with recurrent deficits in trying to meet its obligations.

Power development in Quebec for many years largely problematical, for the mere development is of little advantage unless customers are also developed. With a scattered population, and the distance between urban centers, these obstacles were finally overcome by the organization of a central plant which was fed by various installations, and from this central point the power was re-distributed. A plant developing 100,000 horse-power requires but a dozen operators. Isolated plants of low capacity are expensive, and they are ever a deterrent to steady development. Industries are loth to locate in a place where the supply of power is uncertain and limited to immediate needs.

To-day no modern plant is built just to supply immediate requirements. It would not pay. The future must be anticipated. Hydro-electric development is a specialized industry, and the promoters of such projects must devote much of their time in planning how to sell the power they produce, and they must show mass production and economical transmission over wide areas.

Not only does it require the keenest brains for the paying operation of power utilities, but there must be constant day-to-day activity of that brain power. Public ownership is slothful and inactive because of a lack of incentive, whilst under private ownership there are thousands of critical shareholders to urge the ablest executives on to greater activity and to clever initiative.

One has but to compare the figures of the two great railway systems to sense the different results from public and private direction of utilities. It is an open book to anyone who can study and analyze a balance sheet.

THE MAN TO SUCCEED.

The world despises the Soviet in Russia as an organization of beggars on horseback who are brutally cruel to their own superiors. Having seized the reigns of power as did Trotsky and Lenin, two garment workers, their point of view became as like the little school trustee who, never having been a boss before, spends time in hectoring and harassing some little girl teacher, just to show her that "book learnin' ain't so much."

The simple-minded Yokel, akin to our correspondent at R.R. 3, North Hatley, seldom has a chance of exercising authority, so he exercises any helpless individual who may be passing by, and enjoys life thus.

The United Kingdom's affairs are presently administered by a Government which is composed of all the freak idealists who absorbed a little learning and mistook it for wisdom.

Once they limped into power as a minority Government and rode out again because they wished to marry the Soviet openly. They were overthrown. When another accident occurred at the elections, and the irresponsible Lloyd George helped the Freakeists back again, they resumed clandestine relations with Russia.

All Europe despises the Labour Government of England, and the United Kingdom suffers in prestige just as it did in the olden days when a weak monarch held the role of autocrat or King.

Prestige may be an intangible quality and quantity, but even a business which has lost its good-will soon loses prestige and all profit.

Looking on from the pinnacle of detachment and free from the prejudices of too much adjacency, the one statesman who stands out in England for virility and decision, and prepared is the man who has the heredity of power and action, the Honourable Winston Churchill.

Because he has genius he is, like the teacher who is admonished by the clod on the fourth concession, sometimes in disfavour with the unimportant.

Politics makes strange bedfellows in any country. In Canada the descendants of rebels have been hailed and haloed.

Lloyd George was rotten-egged for disloyalty during the Boer War.

Ramsay MacDonald escaped being mobbed in the early days of the German war for expressing as his own the Kaiser's viewpoint.

Winston Churchill has refused to drive in harness with the Conservatives who would muddle through rather than push on with constructive thought. The British love the man who has courage, and the ability to carry on. Winston Churchill was the only statesman in England who was ready when the starting bell rang on August 4th 1914. He showed personal courage in the Boer War, and he has ever since been the outstanding man of political courage.

Churchill is the direct descendant of the greatest British General, "Marlborough of Blenheim." That is a heritage.

THE USEFUL APPENDAGE.

The Canadian Minister to London has snuffed out the flickering candle of the Minister to Japan. The new Minister to Washington proceeds to London to study diplomacy at the Foreign Office, and to keep us all posted about his daily diary.

Ours is a home-made diplomatic force, and there are others clamouring at Ottawa for a post at Peking, where a Canadian Minister can wake up every morning and ask, "Which laundry mark is King for the day?"

With each Minister his own publicity agency the writers for the Canadian Press in England will be able to put it all over the Tokyo correspondents, so we may hear much of the sayings and doings of Mr. Ferguson as an Empire force in the future.

These are nice positions for tired politicians who find that pay day has come for the fulfilment of a thousand promises, and all the "other people's money" has already been spent.

Mr. Ferguson left Ontario a legacy of debt and deficit, and can, therefore, advise the Hon. Philip Snowden how to make both ends meet. Usually it is the business failure who is the most vociferous advocate of financial measures that look good to the public until the bond interest is due.

EDITOR'S NOTE BOOK.

What chance has a man in a sweepstake gamble when the Post Office authorities will confiscate any mail addressed to any of these alleged clubs which conduct the lottery? None whatever. Not even as small a chance as the buyer of such tickets has even when the promoters get his money.

Two of the motor plants being opened in Ontario are really abandoned motor car plants that became unprofitable to maintain when the tariff tinkering of the King Government made it possible to import as cheaply as to make in Canada. One company is re-opening in the Durant plant in Toronto, and the other in the abandoned Dodge plant in the same city. This emphasizes the factor stressed by the Southern Canada Power executives at the Lennoxville Board of Trade meeting when they said: "Show us a vacant building suitable for manufacturing, and we will soon find an occupant for it." The United States manufacturers are in a hurry. They do not want to lose their profitable Canadian connections.

FRONT WINDOW MUSINGS

It is nice to be a man of regular habits if the wrong ones are not too regular.

A free land is one in which people believe a publicist instead of the experts because the publicist talks more.

An old-timer is one who can remember when "Cut it out" was a slang expression instead of a popular cure by a specialist.

Maybe clothes make the man, but the lack of them seems more effective when a gold-digger decides to make one.

If Government takes your surplus in time of war, that's a "capital levy." If it is done in time of peace, it is merely an income tax.

The claim that Chicago is the Athens of America seems absurd. Athens was not dominated by gentlemen from Sicily.

If the evolutionists are right, it will not be long until a chicken can decide quickly which side of the road it prefers.

How pleasant to get up on Sunday morning and discover that the comic strip hero has escaped the trap he was in a week ago.

The great moral problem now before both political parties in the United States is that of deciding whether a wet or dry platform will gain more voters.

"We must have a uniform rule," says a traffic official, "so we'll know what it means when a hand is held out." At a winter resort it means a tip.

THIS DAY THIRTY YEARS AGO

From the Files of the Sherbrooke Record.

March 26th, 1901.

Miss Mary Cardell, lately of Berlin, N.H., has been appointed matron of the Boys' Home in East Sherbrooke, to succeed the late Mrs. Bredon.

A very pleasant social under the auspices of the East Sherbrooke Presbyterian Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. H. Bartlett.

Mr. Tanguay, of the Seminary, has gone to St. Hyacinthe to represent the college at the funeral of Rev. Father Decelles.

E. Winn Farwell, accompanied by A. B. Hood is absent from the city on a tour of visits to the various branches of the E. T. Bank.

Mrs. McGivney, mother of James McGivney, Grand Trunk ticket agent at Sherbrooke, has passed away at Acton Vale in her 64th year.

Fred Huse, stage and mail driver between Georgeville and Smith's Mills, could not get through with his team, so he made the trip on foot, carrying a well-laden mail bag, the round trip constituting a jaunt of twenty miles over poor roads.

Mayor C. H. Kathan and H. B. Stewart, of the Three Villages, who have been spending several months in California, have left San Francisco on their return home.

James Kinnear, Jr., ex-postmaster of Kinnear's Mills, has served notice on the members of the special committee of the Presbytery that he intends taking civil action against them for statements made in their recent report which exonerated Mr. Whitelaw.

Theodore L. Todd, one of the Canadian Contingent in South Africa, has returned to his home in Birchton.

CIRRHOISIS IS NOT CAUSED BY USING ALCOHOL

Contrary to Prevailing Theory Held Both by Doctors and General Public, Cirrhosis Occurs in Only About Five Per Cent. of Cases of Alcoholism.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 26.—Excessive drinking of alcohol, Dr. Albert M. Snell told the American College of Physicians does not commonly cause cirrhosis or hardening of the arteries.

This is contrary to the prevailing theory held both by doctors and the general public. Cirrhosis occurs in only about five per cent. of cases of alcoholism, Dr. Snell said. He is associated with the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn.

Cases of cirrhosis that are caused by alcoholism comprise about half the total, however. Other causes include disease of the gall bladder, bile ducts, or spleen, and infectious fevers.

The disease usually is recognized too late to save the patient's life. Physicians are seeking ways to recognize it in earlier stages when it may be curable.

DUCK COMES IN FOR HER SHARE OF WORLD FAME

Mrs. Duck Quacked Her Way into Headlines When It Became Known She Had Laid a Black Egg.

BRIDGE-TON, N.J., March 26.—Marvin Snowwhite's black duck that laid the black eggs can step right up and cut herself a niche in the hall of fame. The Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia issued the invitation, explaining that it desired one of the eggs for its collection of unusual specimens.

Marvin's black duck quacked her way into headlines when it became known she had laid a black egg on four occasions, and Dr. Wilbur Stone, in charge of the Ornithology Department of the Academy Museum, was immediately interested. "It is very rare," he said. "The only theory I can advance is that possibly the color of the duck had some bearing on the color of her eggs."

GERMANS DISCOVER NEW STELLAR BODY, PROBABLY ASTEROID OF TYPE EROS

Information Received by Harvard University Yesterday Indicated that Rapidly Moving Object Was Probably Comparatively Near the Earth.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Mch. 26.—The discovery of a rapidly moving object, "probably a peculiar asteroid, perhaps of the type Eros" was made public by the Harvard College Observatory yesterday.

Because of its rapid motion, the announcement set forth, it was concluded that it was probably comparatively near the earth.

The news of the discovery reached Harvard from the Central Astronomical Bureau at Copenhagen. According to the cable received here, the discovery was made in Germany on Sunday. The object was observed by Schwassmann and Wachmann, of Bergedorf.

A third observation was made by Muellner of Heidelberg. Its position is in the constellation Virgo, right ascension 11 hours, 41 minutes; declination plus 5 degrees, five minutes, and the magnitude reported is 13.

The announcement indicated that it was possibly similar to Eros, the little planet a few miles in diameter, which swung within 16,000,000 miles of the earth in January, closer than any other planetary body, and drew close attention by astronomers.

GEORGEVILLE

Mr. Wayne Packard, who has been quite ill, is improving so as to be able to be out of doors for a few hours each day. Mrs. Packard, who was at home to assist in the care of him, has returned to her school at Fitch Bay.

PRESS COMMENT

RUMMAGE, BUT NOT FOR A SALE

The San Francisco Chronicle.

Thousands of persons have hanging in their closets old clothes they will never wear again. These clothes ought to be keeping some needy persons warm.

What about you? You are almost sure to have in your closet a suit or a dress you hated to throw away but which you will never, never use again. Shoes likewise and also hats that you are never going to wear.

Now is a wonderful time to go through your closets, pick out all these garments, hats and shoes that are of no use to you. Many needy persons can be helped so easily this way.

Do it now!

MR. DUNNING COMES TO WISE DECISION

Toronto Mail and Empire.

In an interview given to an evening contemporary, the Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of railways and canals in the late Ottawa Government, made the wise announcement that he will not return to public life until he secures a reasonable financial competency. Recalling that he became a minister of the crown in Saskatchewan at the age of 30, and without any of this world's goods, he said that he had continued to suffer from this "unsubsidized" condition throughout his subsequent years in public life. When a severe and protracted sickness came upon him, the outlook for his family was "terrible." It was thus that he had learned his lesson. He was never again going to put himself in that position. Therefore, when asked this week if he expected to re-enter political life, he replied:

"That's on the knees of the gods; but I do know this—that I won't be found in the game again unless I have what is never had yet, some reasonable security for my family."

In the course of the interview, Mr. Dunning referred to a statement made to him many years ago by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The great Liberal chieftain spoke feelingly of the hardship of being without adequate means in public life, and of the "humiliation" of having to accept assistance from groups of political friends. Surely "humiliation" is the wrong word. The political laborer is worthy of his hire. Those who contributed to the fund raised for Sir James Whitney, Mr. Fielding and other public servants did not look at the transaction in that light. They felt that they were, in some measure, making up for the state's failure to reward unselfish service as it should be rewarded.

But until such time as cabinet ministers are paid as they should be paid, these financial tragedies will continue to disgrace the nation. In any event, we heartily sympathize with Mr. Dunning. It may be that he is right. It may be that no man should sacrifice his family for the state. It may be that every young man who contemplates a public career should place his own personal affairs on a sound financial basis before he takes the plunge. It is, indeed, probable that consideration of this very problem keeps many of our ablest young men out of the Legislatures and out of Parliament—sending them into law and finance and industry, where at least they will not be paupers.

RED TAGS FOR RECKLESS DRIVERS

Washington Star.

An assemblyman in the New York Legislature has introduced a bill to compel all motorists convicted of reckless driving to carry additional license plates bearing the letters "R. D." in red on their cars as long as the motor vehicle commissioner or the court may direct. The plates would cost one dollar apiece. The author of the bill, in introducing it, said, "If the reckless driver was compelled to carry a sign on his car it would give every one an opportunity to watch their step when they came up with such a fellow on the road."

This is not the first proposal of its kind and it is quite likely that it will follow the others into oblivion. The term "reckless driver" is so flexible—in fact in many States it is almost at the discretion of a policeman to charge a motorist with reckless driving or speeding—that unless personal injury or death results, it has comparatively little bearing on a motorist's actual misdeed. In other words, speeding, regardless of the circumstances surrounding the offense, has frequently been called reckless driving by the arresting officer. There can hardly be a yardstick by which to measure at those who may be charged with this offense.

Even if the correct punishment for major traffic offenses should be the branding of motorists, there could be no fairness in lumping all those charged with reckless driving into one class. Their offenses, under the term of reckless driving, would be so varied that injustice would probably be the rule rather than the exception.

It is patent that punishment for grave offenses such as driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident without making identity known, and others should be revocation of driving licenses. That is the only effective treatment. Obviously, giving branded drivers the freedom of the roads would not in any way promote the cause of accident prevention and that is essentially the object of traffic laws. Not only would this "punishment" not aid the cause of safety, but it would not be helpful to the careful driver, to whom it could hardly make any difference or bring the slightest measure of satisfaction if he were hit by a branded driver rather than by one who has so far escaped branding.

So with the unfairness of putting all those charged with reckless driving in the same class and the ineffectiveness of the license plate punishment it is difficult to see how the revocation of their license would have even less merit if applied to those convicted of grave offenses, for whom the only punishment should be the revocation of their license.

Our Guarantee

We guarantee that Palmolive Princess Soap Flakes will not harm any fabric that water alone will not harm.

COLGATE-PALMOLIVE-PET COMPANY, LTD.

Do you want to prevent runs in silk hosiery... keep delicate colours like new... prevent woollens from shrinking? Then use this purer soap that contains no harsh free caustics... Princess Flakes.

Of course, this soap that is all pure soap (no adulterants) is more economical. Goes further. Gives you richer suds with far less soap used. That's why thrifty Canadian women prefer Princess Flakes not only for fine fabrics... but for the family laundry... for dishwashing... for linoleum and woodwork.

And what a protection these pure gentle flakes are to hands! Instead of red hands... roughened by harsh soap... Princess Flakes keeps hands always soft and white—just as it protects fine fabrics and delicate colours.

Enjoy the full, rich, abundant suds that only this pure soap gives. Write for my free book "Household Hints". Address me at 64 Natalie St., Toronto.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The hostesses for the Sherbrooke Regiment Badminton Club tea on Saturday afternoon will be Mrs. Gordon Miller, Mrs. J. W. Hammond, Mrs. Augustus Wood, Miss Alice Willard and Miss Ruth Genge.

Mrs. Jacob Dick was the hostess yesterday afternoon at a delightful tea given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid in St. Andrew's Church hall. Tea was poured by Mrs. J. R. Graham at the daffodil spring table. The same dainty spring flowers adorned the small tables where the many guests enjoyed their cup of tea under the supervision of Mrs. L. Dunsmore, Mrs. J. Fraser and Mrs. G. Platt. Prior to the tea the regular business meeting was held with the president, Mrs. W. J. Wilson, in the chair. A number of business matters were attended to and plans were made to hold a supper and mystery sale in May. Arrangements were also made for a rummage sale during the same month.

Through the courtesy of the non-commissioned officers of the Sherbrooke Regiment, the 53rd Regiment Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire sponsored a very successful card party in the Sergeant's Mess room at the William street barracks. The ladies prizes were won by Mrs. A. Dean, Mrs. W. Boland and Mrs. W. Joiner, while Mr. W. Seaward, Mr. Eclair and Mr. Grisley were the winners of the gentlemen's prizes. At the conclusion of the card game refreshments were served under the co-sponsorship of Miss M. Weddell, following which a very pleasant time was spent in dancing. The music being furnished by Sergeant Foster, Mr. Croft and Mr. Kennett. The enjoyable evening closed with "God Save the King."

BUSY SESSION
FEATURED IN HIGHER COURT

Mr. Justice Archambault sat until 5.30 O'Clock last evening, giving judgment from the Bench in One Case and Taking a Second Under Adjudication.

Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault had another busy day in the Superior Court yesterday when he heard two long cases which caused the tribunal to sit until five-thirty o'clock last evening. In one of the cases His Lordship rendered judgment from the Bench, while the second action was taken en deliber. Two Windsor Mills residents allowed their tempers to get the upper hand over their loyalty to the observance of the anniversary of Confederation, and the result was that they were haled into Court to answer to allegations made by Emile Bergeron, of Bromptonville. The trouble started on July 1st, 1930, when the plaintiff who is a peddler, covering Bromptonville, Windsor Mills and the surrounding country, was trying to make a sale in the Paper Town. When Bergeron was making the bargain with the prospective customer, Antonio Caron and Gedeon Marceau, two other itinerant dealers, allegedly approached him, and Caron, the plaintiff declared, struck him after using abusive language in reference to him. As damages for the resulting humiliation Bergeron alleged he suffered, the plaintiff asked two hundred dollars and costs.

The defendants denied the allegations made by Bergeron. They claimed that the fight resulted from an argument between Caron and Bergeron in connection with the cutting of prices, which Caron asserted the plaintiff was doing to ruin his (Caron's) trade. The judgment took the stand that the argument had reached a degree that without provocation Caron hit Bergeron. To create an example for other merchants who allowed their tempers to hold sway over their reasoning, the Court ordered Caron to pay Bergeron twenty-five dollars and costs of a fourth class action, while the case against Marceau was dismissed without costs.

The en deliber action involved Dame Marie Ella Bastarache and Mrs. Victoria Landry, both of Stoke Centre. Mrs. Bastarache claimed that while she was absent from her home during November, 1928, the defendant used her young son, without her mother's permission, to help her deliver the mail. One day the youngster was left alone in the mail cart, which was drawn by a horse that Mrs. Bastarache claimed was unsuitable for such work. The animal took fright and the young boy was thrown out of the rig. She asked five hundred dollars damages and costs for the injuries which, she claimed, her son sustained.

The defendant claimed that Mrs. Bastarache's son had received the permission of the lady in charge during his mother's absence, and had been paid twenty-five cents for each "run." This monetary consideration was for the duties the young boy performed, such as helping with the delivery and holding the horse. Mrs. Landry asserted that the accident was due to the plaintiff's child, while the injuries which his mother alleged he received were not so serious, as the next day he had offered himself for the duties which the defendant on the "run." In asking that the action be dismissed with costs, Mrs. Landry claimed that the nervousness which the plaintiff included in her plea was apparent even before the accident, because the young boy's father had affirmed, the defendant claimed, that the child was of a very nervous temperament.

Mr. R. G. Costley, Magog street, is spending a few days in Montreal on business.

Mr. Howard Miller, of the Canadian Ingersoll Rand Company, Montreal, is spending a few days in Sherbrooke a guest at St. George's Club.

Mr. and Mrs. H. McDonald and their daughter, May, of Notre Dame de Grace, Montreal, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Bruce, Murray street.

The Anglican Young People's Association of St. Peter's Church held a short business meeting in the church hall on Tuesday evening. Following this a special joint meeting of St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. executive and the executive of St. Peter's Association took place to discuss plans for the inter-club contest of plays to be held in the near future. At the close of the business session refreshments were served by members of St. Peter's A.Y.P.A. Next week being Holy Week there will be no meeting of the Association.

CITY BRIEFLETS

SHORT CIRCUIT SHUT OFF STREET LIGHTS
The street lights throughout the centre ward were off for a short time early last evening owing to a short circuit in some of the wiring. As soon as the trouble occurred the employees of the electric department made the necessary repairs, and before long the lights were on again.

KU KLUX KLAN
POLICY GIVEN BY DR. COWAN

Member of Parliament for Long Lake, Sask., Declares Western Canada Order Has Forty Thousand Members.

OTTAWA, March 26.—"There are 40,000 members of the Ku Klux Klan in Saskatchewan province, and nobody knows who they are," Dr. Walter D. Cowan, Conservative member for Long Lake, accused by Jean Francois Pouliot Tuesday of being the Klan's Imperial Kligraph, said in an interview yesterday.

"The statement was made that I was Imperial Kligraph, which is Imperial secretary, and that I received $2,100 per year as salary, plus travelling expenses," he said, "I never received one cent of salary or in any other manner direct or indirect, or in travelling expenses, from the Ku Klux Klan."

"But are you a member of that organization, doctor?" he was asked. Dr. Cowan—"I can tell you this: That nobody knows who are members, and there are probably 40,000 members of the Klan in the province of Saskatchewan, and nobody knows who they are."

"What is their policy—Their objective?"
Dr. Cowan—"Their whole policy is militant Orangeism, and nothing else. The Jews cannot get into it because the Jews cannot declare themselves to be Christians, and you must be a Christian."

"And how about Catholics?"
Dr. Cowan—"They cannot get into it."

"Why not?"
Dr. Cowan—"Because they recognize a power superior to that of the monarch of Great Britain, and if you violate any of the laws of the country and are a member of the Ku Klux Klan you are immediately banished automatically from that organization. It is militant Orangeism, as I say."

BAND OF BURMESE REBELS LED ASTRAY BY ELEPHANT
Trusted Leadership of Supposedly Charmed Animal, But Found Themselves in a Trap Laid by Police.

RANGOON, Burma, March 26.—A charmed bull elephant led a band of Burmese rebels, who trusted his leadership implicitly, into an ambush of death near Insein on the road to Mandalay, yesterday.

The band of one hundred insurgents, following the wake of the charging lumbering pachyderm, ran head-on into a trap laid by fifteen police under a Burmese officer at Kindpaid. The police shot the riders of the elephant and the rebels became demoralized. They fled into the jungle carrying many wounded but leaving four dead behind them. Twenty-two rebels were killed by two platoons of Punjab rifles in a fight in Magaya forest reserve, Tharawaddy district, today. Two leaders were among the dead. There were many injured, but the rifles sustained no casualties.

Near Insein rebels attacked a bus but after a stiff hand to hand fight with police who were on the bus the rebels fled. The renewal of rebel activity, which was thought to have ceased permanently with the supposed death of the "man who would be King" has necessitated an augmentation of military forces between here and Mandalay.

NEW BRUNSWICK IS DEFRAUDED OF LARGE SUMS

Department of Public Works Will Conduct Investigation into Charges of Maladministration.

FREDERICTON, N.B., March 26.—Charges that the province has been defrauded of large sums of money in Restigouche and Madawaska Counties by Public Works officials were made by J. E. Michaud, Liberal, Madawaska, before the New Brunswick Legislature's Public Accounts Committee at its concluding meeting of the session.

Mr. Michaud said information had been given him to place before the committee that four road supervisors and one bridge superintendent had misappropriated Government funds during last summer, and asked that a royal commission be appointed for an investigation. Opposition members supported Mr. Michaud in this stand, but Government members of the committee disagreed, and his motion was amended to call for an inquiry by the Department of Public Works. The amendment carried by a vote of eight to six along strictly party lines.

The charges of maladministration on the part of minor officials in the employ of the province has now involved five counties. Previously the Public Accounts Committee investigated occurrences in Northumberland, Albert and Gloucester. Mr. Michaud's statement involved Restigouche and Madawaska Counties.

Hon. D. A. Stewart, whose department is affected, stated his intention of not presiding at the inquiry because his own county, Restigouche, was under fire. He declared that he was as anxious as members of the committee to have dishonesty punished and stopped, and promised that a departmental inquiry would be thorough.

The names of the five officials were not given by Mr. Michaud.

MEETING WAS INAUGURATED BY MUSSOLINI
Representatives of Forty-Six Nations Present Today When Italy's Premier Declared Second World Wheat Conference Open.

ROME, March 26.—The thick set figure of Premier Benito Mussolini stepped briskly on the platform at the International Institute of Agriculture today and, speaking in French, he declared the Second World Wheat Conference to be opened.

About were gathered the representatives of forty-six countries. Throughout his opening address of welcome, Premier Mussolini's quick eyes searched every corner of the room, from delegation to delegation. Every point of his speech was carefully emphasized.

Mussolini submitted as the crucial question, whether the farmers were growing too much wheat, or whether the world was eating too little bread.

With improved post war standards of living, bread had to some extent given way to choicer types of food, Mussolini continued.

Various schemes for the restriction showed a tendency to shift from the industrial to the agricultural sphere.

Propaganda has been already started, which in certain circles begins to assume the aspect of a veritable crusade, and enunciated by certain institutions on quite an alarmist note, which aims at persuading the farmers to reduce their sowings," Mussolini went on.

"Until the full light is shed upon the problem, any action on a wide scale intended to bring about a diminution of the area under wheat may well be premature."

This however, did not prevent discussion of the possibility of such an "extremist policy," he added.

"I cannot but feel," here he paused, and then slowly and emphatically added, "that it would be rash indeed to call for limitation of cultivation of cereals at a time when in the world there are all too many people poverty stricken and grievously distressed."

The heads of the various delegations joined in thanking Premier Mussolini for his courtesy.

LORD JELICOE MAY VISIT DOMINION DURING SUMMER

Noted British Seaman May Be a Delegate to British Empire Service League Meeting at Niagara Falls.

TORONTO, March 26.—A visit to Canada by Lord Jellicoe, as a delegate to the British Empire Service League meeting at Niagara Falls, is expected to take place in August. Lord Jellicoe was admiral of the British grand fleet during the war, and also First Sea Lord of the Admiralty.

He may be in Toronto during the Canadian National Exhibition, and it is believed he will take the salute of returned men there upon Warriors' Day.

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS EARNINGS
MONTREAL, March 26.—The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending March 21st, 1931, were $2,477,700, as compared with $4,316,226, for the same period in 1930, a decrease of $1,838,526.

CHARLOTTE, N.C., March 26.—Forty-three persons were injured, many seriously, today, as a Southern Railway engine plowed into a street railway car at a mid-town crossing here.

AUTO IMPORTERS' REQUEST STILL BEFORE GOVERNMENT

No Action Taken Yet—Discount Suspension Demand Remains Dormant.

OTTAWA, March 26.—Requests received several weeks ago by Canadian automobile importers for suspension of the order placing a fixed discount of 20 per cent from automobiles imported from the United States are still before the Dominion Government.

The feeling prevailing in Government circles, it is understood, is to take no action at the moment. As previously forecasted on the night of official announcement of the fixed discount was made, automobile tariff schedules will probably be revised at the present session of Parliament. In view of the short time which will elapse before the budget is brought down, probably late in April, action in the meantime in respect to the request of the importers is unlikely, unless present plans of the Government are changed. The requests from the automobile importers for a suspension vary from two to three months. Meanwhile the order is in force.

TEXAS JURY IMPOSES FIVE YEAR SUSPENDED SENTENCE

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 26.—A jury yesterday convicted A. B. Johnston of the murder of Otis Leo Adams, alleged betrayer of Johnston's seventeen year old daughter, and assessed a five year suspended sentence.

District Judge R. L. Murray explained the sentence never would become operative except in event of conviction of another felony. Adams acted as a pallbearer at the girl's funeral after she was found shot in Port Arthur last December. Three weeks later her father shot and killed the youth as a sequel to Elizabeth's death.

HAMILTON BEAT OUT OTTAWA IN DECIDING GAME

Victors Will Meet Truro in Next Series in Quest of Allan Cup—Score Last Night Was Three to Two.

MONTREAL, March 26.—Montreal proved to be journey's end for the Allan Cup hopes of Ottawa Rideaus, a game band of hockey players that, after holding Hamilton Tigers even for two matches, succumbed in the third match here last night.

Hamilton packed its punch into the third period last night and won the right to meet the Truro Bearcats, conquerors of McGill University, tonight and Saturday afternoon at Toronto.

After seeing the Ontario finalists in action here last night Hamilton's chance of defeating Truro for the right to enter the final is problematical. The Tigers gave a courageous display to defeat the battling and youthful Ottawa team, but their skating and stickhandling left much to be desired in comparison with the hockey McGill and St. Francois showed in the Quebec championship series. The Tigers were not a fast team and their shooting was off, and if the Bearcats are able to give the fighting display they did against McGill the Tigers may have a hard assignment on their hands to achieve a victory.

Hamilton went to the front on Red Ferrell's goal in the first period, but Ottawa came back to even the game on George Draper's goal three minutes after the second session started. Hamilton took the lead again after seventeen seconds of play in the third period on Louch's goal and eight minutes later Kane increased the Tigers' lead to two.

Rideaus then sent four and five men up the ice in quest of a goal and six minutes before the end Finnigan scored a lucky tally when Marsh the Hamilton goalie, cleared a shot directly on the Ottawa player's stick. The Rideaus swept in desperately for the remainder of the game, but Hamilton held out, aided by stubborn defensive display, and the going announced their victory with five Ottawa players battling in Hamilton's territory.

The first two games of the series ended in victory by one goal for each team, tying the round at two all, necessitating last night's encounter.

EASTERN AND WESTERN FINALS COMMENCE TONIGHT

TORONTO, Ont., March 26.—Eastern and western Canada Allan Cup finals commence tonight. Hamilton Tigers, who last night ousted Ottawa Rideaus from their path, will meet Truro Bearcats, the one-sub championship squad from the Maritimes, in the first of a two-game series at Toronto. About the time the eastern result is known, Edmonton Superiors and Winnipeg Seniors will start in the first of the western series in the Manitoba city.

Speculation is rife locally as to the calibre of the Bearcats. Possessing only one substitute player after the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ruled three of their starters ineligible for violation of the residence rule, this hard-fighting team has not only won the right to represent the far eastern provinces but has also eliminated McGill University, champions of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association.

The class of the Tigers is well known throughout the east. Much stronger than last season the Bengals from the mountain city have the happy faculty of coming through in the pinches in great style. They beat some fine teams to win the Ontario Hockey Association crown, and they trounced another fine squad last night.

Tigers play the second game with Truro on Saturday at the Arena here. The winner on the round will leave the same night for Winnipeg, where the finals will be played starting next Tuesday.

Superiors, fresh from their conquest of last season's Western Canada's finalists, Trail, British Columbia's representatives, tackle what appears a much tougher problem. Winnipeg are rated outstanding contenders for the cham-

VISITORS WON INITIAL GAME BY BIG MARGIN

Sherbrooke's Hopes of Annexing Provincial Intermediate Basketball Title Received Bad Jolt When Trinity Excelsiors Took First Game by Score of 53 to 26.

Where there's life, there's hope. But Sherbrooke's hopes of annexing the provincial intermediate basketball championship faded practically out of the picture last evening when a superior squad from Montreal gave them a bad drubbing and accumulated a twenty-seven point lead for the second game, which will be played in Montreal on Saturday evening. Trinity Excelsiors, who have gone through their regular schedule in the intermediate section of the Montreal Basketball League with the loss of only a single encounter, proved masters in every department of the game over the "Y" Blues, and at the end of a mediocre exhibition the score board told the story that the visitors were on the long end of a fifty-three to twenty-six count.

Although there still remains a chance to overcome this big deficit, it is doubtful whether the local representatives can defeat such a margin in the Excelsiors' own lair. Perhaps it was the decided advantage which the visitors had over the home team, but better exhibitions have been witnessed on the "Y" floor than the contest last pionship, and, like the Alberta champions, they too have the honor of eliminating a finalist in last season's campaign. After winning the Manitoba crown they skated on to clever victories over Port Arthur, Thunder Bay titlists, and then North Battleford, the only team to win the Saskatchewan senior honors.

night. On behalf of the local aggregation it may be said that they were playing under the handicap caused by the absence of their regular centre, McNair, but it is very doubtful if the score would have been reversed had he been at his post. Don Watson replaced him and was local high scorer of the evening with fourteen of the team's total to his credit. The marksman-ship of the remainder of the team was very poor, many golden opportunities being lost by faulty shooting.

There was not a very large audience on hand when the teams took the floor for preliminary practice. Every member of the visitors' squad measured a little under six feet and experienced little difficulty in getting the face-offs. Their combination and general floor work was efficient, but not pretty to watch. Sherbrooke's warm-up session gave an early indication that the team was considerably off color and unable to revert to the steady form which stood them in good stead on their triumphant march to the championship of the City League.

J. Neasmith and J. Pitcher led the visiting attack, and when the gun had marked the end of hostilities, the former had collected twenty-one points, while the latter had scored sixteen. The game had been under way but a short time when Neasmith made his presence known with a long shot from the side, and he duplicated his feat from a face-off near the Sherbrooke basket. Clint Stocks sent his team into the scoring column, and after several local shots had failed to register, Len O'Donnell notched the tying field basket on an assist from Watson. This was the only time during the two periods that the Blues were able to approach the total amassed by the visitors.

A pass from centre gave Neasmith another opportunity, while Pitcher himself worked his way under the basket to register a fine tally. After Watson had tapped the ball through the meshes from a face-off, Neasmith readied with a foul shot and a field basket from Sherbrooke territory. Jim Woodward took Watson's place for the first substitution of the game, and after Art Stocks had scored on a penalty shot, Ben Grime went in for Clint Stocks. A field basket and a foul shot were added to Neasmith's credit before Len O'Donnell boosted Sherbrooke's score with a fine shot from his own defence. Montreal's first change took place at this juncture when Clarke was injected for H. Ward. Pitcher and Neasmith combined to give the later another fine chance, and Smith followed with a penalty throw. Sherbrooke called time out after Clarke and Pitcher had scored field tries in quick succession. The visitors at that time were leading by 21 to 9. A technical foul gave Neasmith another point, and from the next whistle, Gordon Watson and Clint Stocks replaced O'Donnell, Woodward and Ben Grime, respectively. Pitcher worked his way into a scoring position and Clarke's long shot was true to its mark. After Neasmith had accumulated a brace of points, Watson retaliated with a long shot which was perfectly timed. Hard luck dogged the Blues' attempts, while most of the shots which the Montrealers rained on the local basket found their objective. Just before the whistle brought an end to the first half, Clarke and Pitcher sent the visitors into the second session on the long end of a 32 to 11 count. Neasmith's style and Pitcher's one-handed efforts were features of the initial twenty minutes. Every time the right forward received the ball, his accurate arm invariably sent it spinning goalward for two more points. Pitcher showed fine combination work and fed Neasmith with many passes which resulted in baskets. Watson and O'Donnell worked best for the local champions, but the remainder of the squad were subjected to a close surveillance and unable to get away.

After the rest period, Sherbrooke's combination improved, but their marksmanship did not get any better. F. Ward took Neasmith's place, and after Watson had sent Sherbrooke's score up two notches, Clarke made the board read Excelsiors 34, Blues 13. A triple pass from a throw-in gave Pitcher two more points and started the tall centre on a scoring rampage. His next basket came when, within the Cambridge and High School, and is now continuing his studies at Bishop's University. He started his basketball career at the Lennoxville institution and captained the Collegians during the past season. Charlie is 6 feet and 3 1/2 inches, and carries 180 pounds.

Russ Harper and Paul McKenna are two stellar guards on which the spectators may rely to put up fine displays. Harper does defensive work not only in basketball, but also in hockey, was chiefly responsible for the good showings made by the teams whose nets he guarded. Russ is a good play maker, and besides checking effectively, gets his plays away nicely.

taining valuable points. They face a Herculean task, but they do not think it is beyond their ability, and with high hopes they will invade the Montrealers' playing quarters Saturday night to make a last desperate stand to follow in the footsteps of the High in capturing a provincial title.

The line-ups last evening were: Excelsiors Y. Blues Neasmith 21 r. for. H. Grime 1 Clarke 1 l. for. C. Stocks 2 Pitcher 16 centre Watson 14 Smith 3 r. guard A. Stocks 1 Doherty 1 l. guard O'Donnell 4 F. Ward 2 subs B. Grime 2 H. Ward D. Gordon J. Woodward 2 Jack Chamberlain was in charge of the fixture.

LOCAL JUNIORS WILL ATTEMPT TO GET TITLE

Local Representatives Face Acid Test Over Week-End When They Meet Provincial Champions, Montreal Central Y Juniors.

Another bargain bill will be dish- ed up to local basketball fans tomorrow evening when the local "Y" floor will be the scene of a high class double-header. Naturally the chief attraction of the evening will be the opening game of the home and home series for the Provincial Junior crown between Central Y. M.C.A. Juniors, of Montreal, and the "Y" Reds, local representatives in this division. However, a fitting preliminary will be offered when the Sherbrooke High School girls will be hostesses to the girls' aggregation representing Quebec Commissionaires' High. The local girls have a brilliant string of victories already and are out to keep their victory column unblemished by a loss. In the ten games they have played to date, they have received the stiffest opposition from the squad they face tomorrow evening, and as the Ancient Capital players are determined to wipe out the sting of their previous defeat, a close and exciting contest should be the order of the evening.

Following the girls' exhibition, the two Junior contenders will take the floor. Formidable aggregations will answer the referee's whistle. The visitors have earned the right to contest the finals for the crown they won last year by finishing their regular league schedule without the loss of a game. In fact, during the past two years the Montreal Central Y Juniors have never experienced the bitter drugs of defeat. The "Y" Reds will go on the floor with a two-fold purpose. The greatest is to assume a sufficient lead to tide them over the second struggle, and the secondary idea is to have the honor of snapping the visitors' winning streak.

The local representatives will start Bob Dunsmore at centre, flanked by his two High School forwards, Ernie Hall and Ken Ross. Guarding the baskets will be Horsfall and Charlie McCullough, who will have able substitutes in Russ Harper and Paul McKenna. To relieve the forwards, "Babe" Holtham, Clint Gardner and Lewis Hatch will be ready for duty. The entire team represents a well balanced unit which should prove a threat to the best in this field.

Bob Dunsmore has gained the experience which has developed him into one of the best centres in this section of the province from participation in several sports in which his school has sent worthy representatives. He measures 6 feet 1 1/2 inches and tips the scales at 168 pounds.

Ernie Hall proved to be one of the main reasons why the local students succeeded in holding their interscholastic title. Although four inches shorter than Dunsmore, he makes up for his smaller height with quantities of speed and effective dodging, which drive his opponents to desperation. Ernie boasts 130 pounds.

Ken Ross will watch his girls team go into action before he sees duty himself. The success which Ken has had in the coaching line is clearly shown in the fine victory sheet of which the school is justly proud. Ross was high scorer in the interscholastic finals, and expects to continue his activities against the Montrealers. Ken drapes his 5 feet and ten inches with 145 pounds of flesh.

All the spectators who witnessed the second interscholastic game will remember the exhibition which "Horse" Horsfall put up in the final minutes of the exciting battle. Horsfall will be at his usual post tomorrow evening and with Charlie McCullough will form a strong defence which will tax the efforts of the visiting juniors to penetrate. He has been putting his long range battery into shape and expects to roll up another fancy score.

Charlie McCullough has the distinction of being the tallest man on the team, and this qualification has placed him among the leaders of local defencemen. Charlie was born in Sherbrooke in 1911, a son of Mr. and Mrs. P. McCullough, Queen street. He received his education at the Cambridge and High School, and is now continuing his studies at Bishop's University. He started his basketball career at the Lennoxville institution and captained the Collegians during the past season. Charlie is 6 feet and 3 1/2 inches, and carries 180 pounds.

Russ Harper and Paul McKenna are two stellar guards on which the spectators may rely to put up fine displays. Harper does defensive work not only in basketball, but also in hockey, was chiefly responsible for the good showings made by the teams whose nets he guarded. Russ is a good play maker, and besides checking effectively, gets his plays away nicely.

FINE GYM WORK DISPLAYED BY BISHOP'S BOYS

Annual Strathcona Cup Competition for Physical Training Held Yesterday—Competitors Were Divided into Four Classes.

The annual gymnastic competition at Bishop's College School, Lennoxville, was held in the school gymnasium yesterday. Owing to the illness of Mrs. Francis, Colonel S. E. Francis was unable to act in his accustomed capacity of judge, and his place was ably taken by Major Watson, of the Sherbrooke Regiment, who assisted Col. N. W. McNulty and Col. K. B. Jenckes. Col. Keefler and Major Routier, cadet officers of Military District No. 4, were present to judge, not between boy and boy, but between Bishop's College School and other schools that are competing for the Strathcona Cup for physical training, a trophy which the Lennoxville boys won in '28 and '29, and lost last year by only a very narrow margin.

The large gymnasium was decorated with the school colors, purple and white, and a large number of spectators showed by their frequent clapping of hands their appreciation of the competitors' efforts, which reflected great credit, not only on the boys, but also on their instructor, Sergt.-Maj. Fisher, formerly of Aldershot, England.

The boys were divided into four classes: seniors, intermediates, juniors and juveniles, the last named being for the most part those lately admitted to the upper school from the preparatory.

In the senior class the highest marks were awarded to F. N. Dale, with G. D. Clarke a close second. Especially good was the work of this class on the horizontal and parallel bars. In the intermediate class J. R. Sare, W. H. Wallis, R. A. Kenny, B. Drury, F. M. McCaffrey, and M. S. Grant were best; while of the juniors R. G. Daykin, J. C. Howard, W. Clarke, T. H. Montgomery and A. H. Lutner excelled; and of the juveniles, K. T. Paton.

YOUNG LAD IS DROWNED AT PHILIPSBURG

Everett Maskell, Five-Year-Old Son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Maskell, Lost Life When He Fell in Brook.

PHILIPSBURG, Que., March 26.—This community today mourns the loss of one of its bright, young figures, in the person of Everett Maskell, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Maskell, of this place, who was drowned when he fell in a brook and was carried under the surface by the swift-running current.

Young Lionel Dumouchel, who had been in the company of the unfortunate youngster, gave the alarm, but it was only after considerable time had elapsed that the body was recovered. When Young Maskell fell into the stream, he was immediately swept away under a small bridge by the current, and benumbed and paralyzed by the cold water, could make no fight for his life. The body was found by Mr. Frank Young, entangled in the debris under the bridge.

Dr. Montgomery was called to the scene and pronounced the boy lifeless.

CONTESTATION CASE AROUSED MUCH INTEREST

Expected that Yamaska Election Case Will Be Settled Today—All Points Taken En Delibere.

SOREL, March 26.—Giving evidence in the election contestation case of Napoleon Veilleux versus Aime Boucher, Liberal member-elect for Yamaska, Aime Lapierre, merchant of Pierreville, admitted that previous to the last Federal election he had loaned fifty dollars to one Alfred Letendre, of Pierreville.

Lapierre was the main witness heard yesterday and proceedings were cut short at the afternoon session. At the morning session the court had ordered that a telegram be sent to Jules Castonguay, general returning officer at Ottawa, to appear today with all papers and documents pertaining to the recent federal elections in Yamaska and produce them.

The witness was examined by Edouard Masson, for the plaintiff, and he said he knew the member-elect, Boucher, having been raised with him at Pierreville. Through a barrage of objections on the part of the defendant's attorneys, witness stated that he knew an Alfred Letendre, of Pierreville, Yamaska.

When the question was asked if this Letendre was an elector, objection was raised to the fact that this could only be proved through the official documents which would be produced tomorrow, and the question was not allowed.

Mr. Justice Coderre, who is presiding with Mr. Justice Denis, then took a hand in the questioning and asked witness if he had ever spoken of the elections to this Letendre in question. Witness replied he had spoken of the elections with this Letendre and with another man named Jules Descheneaux whom he met on the sidewalk opposite his store in Pierreville one day.

The witness continued that Descheneaux had told him that Letendre was in financial difficulties and that he wanted to speak to him. Witness was told that Letendre was in favor of Boucher for the coming election and asked for a loan of fifty dollars.

"I told him to come back on the following morning," said witness, "they did and I lent him the money."

In answer to a question as to whether Letendre had spoken of how his wife would vote, witness said that Letendre had said that he knew his wife would vote the same way as himself. Asked why he had lent the money to Letendre and why Letendre had come to him for the money, Lapierre answered that this was because he was a money lender.

At the opening of the afternoon session the court ordered Alfred Letendre, who had been heard on Tuesday and who had testified that he

AFTER SCALP OF TORONTO'S POLICE CHIEF

"Red" Element in the Queen City Secures Support of the New Mayor in Attacks on General Draper.

TORONTO, March 26.—General D. C. Draper, a former Eastern Townships celebrity, and presently Chief of Police in Toronto, has fallen foul of the Communist representative in the City Council, Controller Simpson, who has for once secured the co-operation of the Mayor, W. J. Stewart, a rather weak and inexperienced occupant of the mayor's chair. There is open conflict. The better element and the majority of the Police Commission support the Chief in his endeavour to control the "red" element which has been pouring into Toronto from the Western cities.

Technically, the Mayor has the Chief at a disadvantage, for the latter cannot be interviewed, nor can he repudiate the unfairness of the Chief Magistrate when he terms an argument of the Chief's as an "attack" upon him and the agitating Communists.

The Chief of Police takes the stand that any interference with his jurisdiction by the civic politicians is just an encouragement to the disorderly elements who but await the opportunity to "jump" the police and the peace authorities as was done in Winnipeg several years ago. When he resented this interference the Mayor called it an "attack" upon him and upon other members of the Board of Control.

The trouble climaxed over the dispersal of a crowd who were blocking traffic where a number of buildings were being torn down. Several members of the disorderly element in Toronto have been after the Chief's scalp ever since he forcefully forbade the meetings of the Communists in the Queen's Park, and they have secured some coadjutors among the thinking. Under the Ontario law the Chief of Police is directly under the authority of the Board of Police Commissioners two of whom receive their appointment indirectly through the Attorney-General of the Province. The Mayor and City Council can only censure the Chief. They cannot discipline him nor remove him. Judges Motors and McEwen, the majority members of the Commission, support General Draper's position, and brook no interference from the ward-healers.

had been paid fifty dollars by Lapierre to "vote rouge" as he had in the past, to be brought to the front of the court. Lapierre was asked if this was the man whom he knew in Pierreville and to whom he had lent fifty dollars. Witness answered in the affirmative.

DRINK AGAIN DISCUSSED BY LADY ASTOR

Vivacious Champion of Women's Rights in British House of Commons Created a Furore Recently by Her Attack on Alcohol.

NORTHAMPTON, Eng., March 26.—Lady Nancy Astor, vivacious champion of women's rights in the House of Commons, demonstrated again that she needs no assistance from a mere male and stands square on her own small feet when she declined recently to accede to her husband's request that she refrain from discussing drink in a speech here.

Lady Astor created a furore recently in the House of Commons and throughout the country with an attack on alcohol. She averred that Australia won the cricket championship from England last year because the Australians were teetotalers. Since then she has been vigorously attacked and Lord Hawke, once a star cricket player, declared, "Lady Astor's remark was an insult which our cricketers might well have been spared."

When Lady Astor took the platform for her speech here she read this telegram from Lord Astor: "Urge you strongly to refuse to say anything about drink."

Having made public this admonition from her spouse—adhering to her custom of never saying anything behind anybody's back that she wouldn't say to his face—she proceeded to talk about drink. Defending her remark about England's cricket team, she exclaimed, "As though I would insult them, when three of my own boys are doing nothing else all day but bowling."

As to her speech against drink in the House of Commons she said: "Even the die-hard Tories, who with the Left Wing Socialists are the biggest enemies of this country, told me they had never heard a more reasonable and moderate speech."

I'm glad to come to Northampton to show you I am a perfectly reasonable law-abiding young woman."

DEATH PENALTY SUGGESTED TO CURB EPIDEMIC

Glasgow Judge Proposes More Severe Treatment of Gang Leaders Who Rule With Dagger and Razor.

GLASGOW, Scotland, March 26.—Glasgow has gained for itself a very unenviable notoriety. Numerous cases have come before the courts of ruffianly attacks with razors, knives and other lethal weapons, and in many cases before the High Court sentences of penal servitude have been passed. Almost a reign of terror exists in the dock district, where foreign-born gang leaders engage in attacks amongst themselves and on local people. In some cases the victims are killed, in others they are disfigured for life. Terror of the gang leaders keeps many victims silent.

"It might be necessary in exceptionally serious cases to enforce the death penalty which the Statute of George IV. attached to the commission of such offences."

This was the remark of Lord Alness, the Lord Justice Clerk of Glasgow High Court, in reference to the charges of razor-slashing which had been dealt with during the session. In recent years, said Lord Alness, it had been the practice of the Crown to restrict the penalties and pains before asking the jury to consider their verdict. It might be necessary in exceptionally grave cases to depart from that restriction on the part of the Crown, and to enforce an even severer penalty than imprisonment or penal servitude involved. He thought it might even be necessary—repugnant though the remedy might seem to be—to resort to the penalty of flogging, which was found essential in the last century to stamp out garroting, which was then prevalent in England. The bully feared flogging, and he feared death. Those were incidents of a language which he understood, and it might be that he understood no other.

In the large number of cases which were reported it was impossible to lead evidence or to bring the accused to court because of the reign of terror which prevailed and which prevented witnesses from opening their mouths. It was an insufferable state of anarchy, which was then prevalent in Glasgow. He deemed it his duty to bring this matter of what might be generally termed razor-slashing offences before the notice of the magistrates as worthy of their most mature and immediate consideration, so that restraints might be devised—by new legislation, if necessary—to cut out this cancer from the civic body, and to safeguard the good name of the city of Glasgow.

The comments which Lord Alness made at the conclusion of the High Court sitting in Glasgow were considered by the Magistrate's Committee of Glasgow Corporation at a private meeting.

It was learned that the magistrates were in full agreement with His Lordship's proposals for the curbing of razor-slashing and similar crimes in the city, but the question, it was stated, arose as to how far and in what cases the death penalty might be applied.

It is probable that the town clerk will be asked to prepare a memorandum to be submitted to Mr. Adamson, Secretary of State for Scotland, asking for extended powers to be given to the magistrates to deal with court cases in Glasgow which involve assaults with lethal weapons. Basil Hunter, the senior magistrate, said he agreed with Lord Alness that the law must be tightened in regard to assaults upon the person. They had heard too much about gang warfare in the city within the last few years to leave them

ENGINEERS AND FIREMEN TAKE CUT IN WAGES

Second Great Body of British Railway Workers Concur in Proposals of Railway Wage Board.

LONDON, March 26.—Another section of Great Britain's railway workers, the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, have decided to accept the award of the National Wages Board which calls for a maximum reduction in earnings of five per cent.

In accepting the decision, however, the national conference of delegates of the union passed a resolution "strongly resenting" the board's decision, but added that "we feel that there is no practical alternative but to accept the award."

The Railway Clerks' Association has already accepted the board's decision, but now the question of whether railway peace is to be maintained over the Easter holiday rests with the big National Union of Railway Workers, which is meeting in London today to consider the board's award.

COWANSVILLE

Rev. F. T. Norman showed a very fine set of slides in the church hall on Monday evening, March 23rd, which represented the "Passion Play" at Oberammergau, Bavaria, which is presented every ten years. This performance is the outcome of a vow made by the villagers in 1633 to commemorate the passion of Christ in gratitude for their deliverance from a plague in the vicinity. This vow has been kept the performance has regularly taken place, attracting thousands of visitors from all parts of the world. The play has dramatic and artistic merits. At each performance about 600 persons, all residents of the village of Oberammergau, take part, making the play very impressive.

Mrs. Alan Farley and daughter, of St. Johns, were week-end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bell.

Miss Muriel Burnet, of Montreal, was a week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Burnet. Mrs. G. Burnet is recovering from her recent illness.

Rev. Mr. Wilkinson, of Montreal, was a visitor on Monday.

Mr. Smith, of Montreal, was a week-end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Barrette.

Miss Isabel Beach, of Macdonald College, is spending some time with her mother, Mrs. G. M. Beach, who is poorly.

with any self-respect unless they could curb those unruly people.

He pointed out that nine out of ten gang cases came before the city magistrates in the ordinary police courts. The limit of the magistrate's power was sixty days, and, he asked, what was that to a razor-slashing? What he wanted to see was that, when a man came before the court charged with the crime of having caused bodily harm to another by means of a razor or other sharp instrument, the accused should be remitted to the sheriff and passed on to the High Court.

Another magistrate said that the dangers shown to Lord Alness at the High Court were being turned out by the dozen. Personally, he would hold equally responsible the manufacturer of the dagger and the man who struck the blow.

HEAVILY ARMED AEROPLANE HAS BEEN DEVISED

Six Machine Guns, Nearly Two Hundred Miles an Hour and Fast Climbing Abilities Are Features of New Defender.

LONDON, March 26.—Unexpected developments in the future of air fighting are included in the design of a remarkable new British single-seater fighting aeroplane which has been completed, in the hands of the Royal Air Force pilots, secret tests at the Martlesham Heath Experimental Establishment, near Ipswich.

This machine, the first of its kind in the world, is equipped with no fewer than six machine guns instead of the two guns normally fitted to similar one-man planes. Two guns are placed in grooves at the sides of the fuselage, arranged with synchronising gear to fire through the disc swept by the airscrew; four other guns are mounted in the wings just outside the airscrew radius, the barrels projecting a few inches from the front edge of each of the upper and lower wings.

At the will of the pilot these six guns may be fired simultaneously, throwing out a continuous "cone of fire," the guns being sighted to converge on a target some hundreds of yards away. Little imagination is needed to realize the deadliness of fire concentrated in this way by six guns on a target fairly located near the focal point on which the guns converge. Damage done would undoubtedly be serious even if the stricken machine were not literally disintegrated by the storm of bullets.

The single-seater fighting aeroplane is primarily the weapon of air defence. It is the most effective answer to the air raider, and the controllers of London's air defence have therefore paid much attention to the development of this type of aircraft. British invention and research directed to the perfection of the interceptor fighter—a single-seater of high speed and rate of climb intended to ascend at brief notice to intercept enemy raiders—have resulted in the production of machines which are the swiftest and most efficient military craft yet in service in the world, outstripping the best service aeroplanes of any other nation by forty or fifty miles an hour in sheer speed and climbing at a rate which leaves all competing craft far behind. Now, in this new "multi-gun" fighter the defence against air attack receives fresh accession of strength.

Though it is not quite so speedy as Britain's fastest single-seaters the new "multi-gun" fighter, despite its heavy load of guns and ammunition, is able to move in level flight at a speed of nearly two hundred miles an hour, and to operate at heights up to 26,100 feet.

It is driven by a supercharged radial 480 h. p. Bristol "Jupiter" air-cooled motor. Around the engine, at its greatest diameter, is placed a Townend ring, the British device which causes marked reduction in the considerable resistance to forward movement through the air of this kind of engine, in which the cylinders radiate like the spokes of a wheel from a central crankshaft.

Thus equipped and with full service load on board the S.S. 19 sustained a speed of 194 miles an hour in official tests and reached a height of 15,000 feet above the ground in nine minutes.

Other interesting performance figures, similarly recorded by the R.A.F. test pilots, are the speed of 170 miles an hour at ground level, the steady increase in speed with gain in height as the supercharger fitted to the motor comes into more and more effective action till at 10,000 feet the machine sustains 188 miles an hour; and the comparatively low landing speed of fifty-seven miles an hour.

The ship showed no sign of strain or stress though it was put through every known aerial manoeuvre including power dives at more than 320 miles an hour. Not a single repair was needed to the structure of the machine. Pilots remarked on the unusual ease of control of the aeroplane, the robustness and rigidity of its structure, the ease of maintenance in strenuous day by day flying, and the good view in all directions combined with unusual comfort in the cockpit.

In shape the aeroplane is beautiful and "clean," its lines recalling the monoplane built for the last Schneider Trophy Contest. It will probably be seen for the first time in public at the next annual R. A. F. Display, in Hendon Aerodrome in June.

THAT'S HONOR

"I tell you Frank is only marrying you for your money so that he can pay his debts."

"Nonsense. He never thinks of paying his debts."

RELIEF WORK GREATLY AIDED BY AEROPLANES

Planes Proved of Great Assistance in Conveying Messages During Earthquakes

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, March 26.—One thing that the recent disastrous earthquake in New Zealand revealed in striking manner was the value to the country of a supply of aeroplanes and qualified pilots, together with a chain of landing places, in such a time of crisis. When fissures and landslides on the roads, broken bridges, and twisted railroad tracks dislocated communications by land, air services ranked second only to wireless as a means of conveying messages to and from the stricken area, and were invaluable for the carrying of emergency supplies.

During the critical period Government and private aeroplanes were busy carrying messages to and from Napier and Hastings, the chief scenes of destruction, their work being all the more difficult and hazardous as the result of a storm area which covered much of the area between Wellington and Hawke's Bay. As stated in cable despatches Napier suffered the more severely of the two cities visited by the earthquake, Napier being left in ruins and two hundred people killed and thousands injured.

In an interview with the Evening Post Lieutenant G. L. Stedman, one of the aeroplanes pilots who did splendid work in connection with the disastrous visitation, said the aerodrome at Hastings had suffered little damage from the shake, but on reaching Napier it was necessary to circle several times over the landing area before coming down as fissures in the ground several feet wide were visible from the air. Fortunately he was able to select an unbroken stretch and landed safely.

Before alighting Lieutenant Stedman secured a bird's-eye view of Napier as it was in the afternoon of the day of the earthquake. "All I can say," he remarked, when asked to describe the scene, "is that conditions at Napier are certainly as bad as, if not worse than, what has been reported in the papers. During the short time we were there everything was in chaos. There was no food, no water, no light, and no means of heating the food. What they wanted there as much as anything was something to enable them to cook their food."

WOMEN WITHOUT COUNTRY GIVEN THEIR RIGHTS

According to New Act, Women in U.S. May Marry Aliens Without Losing Their Nationality.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 26.—When the Cable act passed by Congress was signed by President Hoover, hundreds of women without a country regained a chance at citizenship, and United States debutantes may contract international alliances without fear of losing their nationality or having to take on a new one.

Under the provisions of this act, United States women may, for the first time since 1907, have the same privilege as men, of marrying an alien and living in an alien country without ever risking losing their citizenship unless they voluntarily renounce it.

A whole series of international legal tangles surrounds the question of women's nationality as affected by marriage, according to Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers, who has investigated the subject.

"Under the present confused situation, part of which this present act will correct," said Mrs. Rogers, "it is possible for a woman to belong to two countries or to none."

The survey, completed by Miss Paul, who collaborated with Mrs. Rogers, in 1930, shows are only five countries which deal equally with men and women at all points in respect to nationality—Argentina, Chile, Paraguay, the Soviet Union and Uruguay. In all the world there are only nine countries in which marriage never changes a woman's nationality, without her consent, under any circumstances. These are, in addition to the five "equal" countries, Brazil, Columbia, Guatemala and Panama. The United States will make the tenth.

Germany compels her women to lose their own nationality or take that of their husbands, when they marry aliens. The same thing is true of Italy, except under certain circumstances. If you happen to be a Guatemalan, you are somewhat more fortunate, for the law of that country is the same as that provided for United States women in the latest Cable act. That is, it permits, but never compels, a woman to take her husband's nationality.

One United States woman found herself in such a situation, although she was born here and had lived here all her life. She lost her citizenship by marrying an alien residing here. His application for citizenship was later denied because of his attitude toward the war, and his wife was thus automatically denied hers. Such cases would be corrected by the present Cable act.

Oriental women, born here and therefore United States citizens have under the previous statutes lost their citizenship when they married men of their race and went to the Orient to reside. When they tried to return to this country, they were treated as members of a race ineligible to citizenship and denied the right to be naturalized, though they were born and bred United States citizens.

COMMUNISTS IN DETROIT HAVE THINGS EASY

When They Want to Parade, Mayor Murphy Says "All Right, Parade," and When They Want a Public Park in Which to Make Addresses He Gives Them the Park.

DETROIT, Mich., March 26.—Time was when communist demonstrations in Detroit occasioned bloody scalpings and black eyes. A young red-headed fellow named Murphy took charge of affairs and changed all of that. Today, Mayor Frank Murphy says that he has solved the demonstration problem and wonders why others haven't done the same thing; it appears so simple.

His policy is based on the belief that "the fathers of the country meant what they said about free speech. People naturally are sensitive, impatient, dissatisfied, and the best policy is to let them give expression to their feelings."

Soon after Mayor Murphy went into office, Communists said something about a public demonstration. "All right," he said, "take Grand Circus Park." Grand Circus Park is a double square in the heart of the uptown section, and such a thing as a demonstration there, or any sort of public meeting, never had been heard of.

"Then they wanted to parade," related the mayor, "and I told them I'd be glad to see a delegation in my office while the rest stood outside."

So on that occasion and several times since the Communists met in Grand Circus Park, paraded half a mile through the retail skyscraper district and went to the city hall. They carried banners and speeches denouncing capitalism. Mayor Murphy, President Hoover, and various other persons and institutions.

"They have their say and I have mine," said the mayor. "They tell what they demand, and I tell what we are doing. I tell them that Detroit is doing more for the needy and unemployed than any city in the world, including Moscow. I've gotten some good ideas from them. For instance, they complained once because children of unemployed men have to pay fare when going to school on the city-owned street cars. I arranged for them to ride free."

Whenever Communists meet, no policeman in uniform is permitted in or near the gathering. "They simply can't see a policeman anywhere around," Mayor Murphy explained. "When they get to the city hall, the policemen on regular duty in the corridors have hidden their clubs, physically or morally by these demonstrations."

WHATCHA PUT IT ON?
Al Faifa—That drought cost us over 5,000 bushels of wheat.
Mrs. Al F.—Yes, but there is no evil without some good, and you know that during that dry spell we could at least get some salt out of the shakers.

SAYS SHE:
I do not know which stars is which; I know there's one called Venus; But what care I how many Million miles may lie between us? I do not need a telescope To view the planet Mars; A garden and a handsome man— Ah, then I'll study stars.

FAIR QUEENS OF ART AND SOCIETY

Beauty seems to be the entre into two spheres of British life—society and art. Betty Macassey (above), only daughter of Sir Lyndon Macassey, English industrialist, is a leader of the younger set in London, and Ella Cockell (below) is fast winning recognition as one of England's outstanding artists.

TREATED MILK CURATIVE FOR MALNUTRITION

Scientists Hope to Overcome Goitre and Anaemia by Supplying Metalized Milk — To Introduce New Properties.

In the near future it may be possible to buy milk that is treated and balanced with added ingredients to meet the special need of the individual. Milk is regarded as a "whole food." It has about all the elements that the child needs to build bone and muscle and good health; it has what the normal adult needs. It supplements what is lacking in other food articles to make a properly balanced meal. All these virtues are inherent in the milk, when it is rich and fresh and clean.

By adding substances to milk it may be made especially suitable for persons who need iodine. Iodine is a preventive of goiter, and this is being introduced into milk in experiments in various parts of the country for the special benefit of persons afflicted with goitre, or with anaemia.

Food is spoken of in terms of vitamins today, and milk is rich in vitamins A, B and D, but is not as well supplied with D as with A. In children's diet fruit juices are introduced to make up for the deficiency in D. The D content of milk, it is found, may be built up by exposure of the milk to irradiation from ultra-violet lamps. While this destroys some of the A vitamins, it affects the taste of milk slightly, it yields a product that helps to correct many nutritional disorders.

Reports collected by the Department of Agriculture and summarized in the United States Daily say that milk is also found to be deficient in certain minerals which, although only needed by the body in very small amounts, are essential to the maintenance of good health. Of these, perhaps, iodine, iron and copper are the most important. As a rule, the proportions of elements in milk such as calcium, iron and phosphorus can not be changed by feeding substances rich in these elements to the cows as is done in the case of vitamins. (The vitamin content of milk is markedly influenced by feeding.) Iodine is an exception. When some sources of iodine, such as potassium iodine, fish meal seaweed, or a mineral mixture containing iodine is fed to cows, iodine passes into the milk.

After experimental work done by a number of investigators it was found that cows which were fed with some form of iodine gave milk which contained more iodine than is generally regarded as essential in preventing goiter. The value of this, scientists in Ohio have stated, is that iodizing the general milk supply would insure a constant source of iodine to all persons using milk.

At the experimental stations in Iowa, in Wisconsin and in other places work has been carried on with other metals also. Metals such as manganese, chlorine, silicon and aluminum, have been tried at various places to all persons using milk. The addition of a very small amount of copper to the milk will act as a corrective in certain cases of anaemia. One investigator reports good results from metalizing milk by exposing it to iron and copper. These studies are still in the experimental stage, but with further work it may possibly be established that metalized milk has certain therapeutic properties.

In late years there has been a steady increase in the consumption of fermented milks. The therapeutic value of such types of milk as acidophilus has long been recognized, and doctors recommend them to patients for various kinds of intestinal disorders. One of the reasons for this is that the intestines are lined with a vast number of different kinds of bacteria, some of which are undesirable as far as their effects upon specific individuals are concerned. These bacteria, which are termed the putrefactive kind, cannot live in an acid medium. When acidophilus milk is consumed, the acidophilus organisms enter the intestinal tract and keep the putrefactive organisms from thriving.

Many people who have urged to drink acidophilus milk may have failed to do so because the taste of the milk has been unpleasant to them. Science has again stepped in, and solved the problem. Acidophilus milk which tastes as sweet as if it had just come from the cow can now be made. The milk looks and tastes as though it did not harbor millions of acidophilus germs. The B acidophilus is grown in whey, and then transferred to cold sweet milk.

DEATHS REPORTED

MR. MALCOLM MURRAY,
MILAN.

MILAN, Que., March 25.—The death of Mr. Malcolm Murray, which occurred Monday afternoon,
March 16th, removes another from the already depleted number of local young people. Mr. Murray was born here on April 8, 1893, where practically his whole lifetime was spent. Although in failing health for some time, he was up and around as late as the Tuesday previous to his death.

The funeral service, which was largely attended was held from his late residence Wednesday afternoon and was in charge of Mr.
George Murray, of the Presbyterian College, Montreal. The Odd Fellows conducted their service at the home. Mr. Murray was a past noble grand of Lewis Lodge, No.
53, where he was a faithful and diligent worker as long as his health permitted. He attended the Grand Lodge at Granby as one of the delegates from Lewis Lodge in May, 1928. He was also a member of Fraternity Rebekah Lodge, No. 31.
Mr. Murray is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Murray, one sister, Mrs. John E. Nicholson, two nieces and a nephew, Evelyn, Jean and Edward Nicholson. His oldest sister died in infancy and his only brother in June, 1912 at the age of twelve years.

This death is the fourth in the Murray family inside of two years.
Mrs. Murdo J. Murray passed away,
March 28th, 1929; Mr. Allen A.
Murray on October 6th, 1927; and
Mrs. John N. Murray on October
2nd, 1930.

The bearers were Messrs. Albert
Murray, Lawrence Nicholson, Murdo Murray, John Mackenzie, John McDonald and Alex Campbell, all cousins of deceased. Burial was in Dell Cemetery.

The sincere sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved relatives in their irreparable loss and affliction.

MRS. ZERAH R. GIBSON, TROUT BROOK.

TROUT BROOK, Que., March
26.—On March 14, 1931, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann (Stevens) Gibson, one of Trout Brook's oldest citizens passed peacefully away in her eighty-sixth year. Mrs. Gibson was a daughter of the late David and Elizabeth (McKeague) Stevens, and was born in McKeeage, Que.

Her parents moved with their family to Trout Brook, Que., when she was a child. Practically all her life was spent in this vicinity.

She was married to Zerah R. Gibson, of Kingsley Falls, Que., some thirty-four years ago and went there to live. In 1901 they moved to Albert and after living there for a few years, they moved to Cranbrook, B.C. In the year 1916, she returned to spend her declining years with her relatives here. For the past five years and a half she has made her home with her nephew and niece, George and Alice Stevens, and during that time, she has been confined to the house and for the past two years she has been confined to her room the greater part of the time.

She was of a very gentle disposition, patient, always pleased with all favors she received and was devotedly cared for by her niece,
Alice and sadly missed from her home. The funeral was held at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon, March 17th, prayers being said at the late residence followed by service at St. Paul's Church, conducted by Rev. E. K. Wilson, of Danville. The choir sang the hymns "Cast Thy Care On Jesus," "Breathe on Me Breath of God," and "Rock of Ages Cleft For Me."

She is survived by her husband and her youngest brother, William, of Kingsbury, Que., the last surviving member of a family of eight,
also many relatives and friends.

The casket was borne to its last resting place beside her father and mother in Trout Brook Cemetery by four nephews, Messrs. Raymond,
Byron, Clarence and Ronald Stevens.

MRS. C. H. STOKES, FLAN-
DREAU, S.D.

FLANDREAU, S.D., March 26.
—Mrs. C. H. Stokes passed away on Saturday evening, March 7th, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B.
L. Pilling, with whom she had made her home for several years.
Her death was caused by the infirmities of old age and had she lived sixteen days longer, would have reached the advanced age of ninety years.

She leaves to mourn her loss four sons and two daughters. One son, Frank, died three years ago at Pullman, Wash. Three children died in infancy.

Those living are Dr. Arthur C.
Stokes, of Omaha, Neb.; Fred W.
Stokes, of Hastings, Minn.; Mrs.
B. L. Pilling, of this city; Mrs. A.

DEATH TOLL IN CAWNPORE RIOTING REACHES EIGHTY

One of Most Vicious Communal Battles India Has Ever Seen—Forty-Eight Moslems and Thirty-Hindus Killed.

CAWNPORE, India, March 26.—The toll of dead in yesterday's communal rioting between Hindus and Moslems was increased to eighty today when hospital records were checked. The check showed that foreign-born Moslems are killed or died of injuries, while the Hindu casualties were thirty-two. It was one of the most vicious communal battles India has ever seen. Even children were slaughtered, and the homes of peaceful citizens were burned to the ground. The riot started over an attempt by Hindu Nationalists to force the closing of Moslem shops in protest against the execution last week of Baghat Singh and two other Indians for the murder of a police official in 1928.

ONE FISHERMAN AT LEAST HAS PROOF OF HIS CATCH

OTTAWA, March 26.—When Real Grosseau, fishing from the Quebec shore of the Ottawa River near Montebello, felt a "catch" on the end of his line, he little dreamed of the startling events to follow. According to the story reaching here, Grosseau tugged on the line with all the strength in his brawny frame and after a half hour battle, when he was near the point of exhaustion, he landed a sturgeon of

GLACE BAY WAS SCENE OF SEVERE FIRE LAST NIGHT

Two Business Blocks Destroyed in Worst Blaze Experienced in Four Years—Loss Estimated at $100,000.

GLACE BAY, N.S., March 26.—This town today surveyed the ruins of two business blocks, destroyed last night in the worst fire the district has experienced in four years. Loss occasioned by the destruction of the three-story Marshall building and the Samuels block, a two-story wooden structure, was estimated at $100,000, inadequately covered by insurance.

Nine commercial tenants suffered heavy losses, and three families were left without residence as a result of the blaze, which is believed to have started in Marshall's tailor shop. A lively stable next door was gutted, but the horses were saved.

Efforts of firemen in a three-hour fight prevented the fire spreading to adjoining buildings.

staggering proportions. Grosseau did stagger in fact, being very tired after the long pull, and that was the opening for Mr. Mammoth Fish. He hit Grosseau on the leg and crippled him so badly he was still limping today, forty-eight hours after making the amazing haul. The "young whale" was finally given the "K.O." and brought to Montebello by "wagon." He scaled 217 pounds. Even before making the catch, Grosseau was noted as an angler; now he's a village hero.

ing guarantee from Canada to buy British goods," Col. Ralston said. And this offer, he added, was made to the country which, in the fiscal year 1929 had brought goods from Canada to the value of $290,000,000 as against sales to the Dominion of $190,000,000.

The speaker took issue with Premier Bennett on the claim that the other parts of the Empire represented at the conference had supported the Bennett plan. Premier Bennett's attitude had been one of insistence. That of the other Dominions had been one of conciliation. He said that proposal of Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the Imperial Conference of 1902 was entirely different from that made by Premier Bennett. In his speech to the House some days ago Mr. Bennett drew a parallel between his proposal and that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Finally Col. Ralston contended that the press of Great Britain had not given anything like unanimous support to the proposals of Premier Bennett. This declaration he enforced by quoting from editorials appearing in British papers.

Assertions that banks in western Canada were, through technicalities, actually charging eight, nine and ten per cent interest for loans, were made by Milton Campbell, U.F.A. member for the district of St. John's. He said that the whole agricultural industry should not be penalized on this account.

The interest rate charged by banks was also touched upon by Dr. J. C. Moore, Conservative member for Chateaugay-Huntingdon, who advocated a rate of six per cent on agricultural loans. That was the rate in Quebec, Dr. Moore said, and it should prevail throughout Canada.

Adjustment of the debate was moved at six o'clock by Hon. Arthur Sauve, Postmaster-General, who will be the first speaker tomorrow.

The time would come, said Dr. Moore, when the members of the eastern Canada would gain a large home market through establishment of factories in Canada. He advised members to read the history of the United States in this connection. There was nothing more certain than that the policy of the present Government would develop the home market for the western farmer.

Dr. Moore commented on claims made by the Liberals that the period of the preceding Government had been one of great prosperity. If the King Government had made prosperity, why had it not continued throughout the entire period of that administration? He commented favorably on the action of the present Government in refusing to trade with Russia, and declared that the people of Canada had been favorably impressed by the position taken by the Prime Minister at the Imperial Conference.

Members on the Opposition side had referred to the Government as a "one man Government," said Dr. Moore. It was true that the Prime Minister of Canada was also administering the Finance Department, but Dr. Moore asked the House to consider Premier Taschereau of Quebec, who was Premier of that province, Provincial Treasurer and Attorney-General. If Mr. Bennett was an autocrat, what about Taschereau?

Dr. Moore twitted the Quebec Liberals in connection with Mr. Taschereau's endeavors to secure a seat for Hon. Gordon Scott, Provincial Treasurer, in Chateaugay-Huntingdon as "a bribe to the electors." He was not surprised that a Liberal elector in Quebec had testified the other day that he had received $50 for his vote, seeing that thousands of dollars had been spent. It was wonderful, continuing Dr. Moore, how "some people don't like to hear mention of Sir Wilfrid Laurier." For the former Liberal leader he had a high admiration, and once had voted for him. But he adhered to the Conservative party because it had always been consistent with its platform. He recalled Laurier had asserted that if the country rejected reciprocity Canada would be ruined. Yet such destruction had not followed.

The present Government had inherited many ills from the Liberal administration, "at in spite of the world-wide depression," the Conservative Government would eventually guide Canada to brighter times.

Dr. Moore, referring to a despatch in the morning papers concerning the hearing at Sorel of charges that $50 had been paid to a man to vote Liberal in a municipal election, said that was nothing new and that large sums of money had been spent in his district, too, in an effort to defeat him and other Conservative candidates. He declared, answering the charges about the present Government, that he was not surprised that it was not more so than the Government at Quebec, where Hon. L. A. Taschereau was Premier, Provincial Treasurer and Attorney-General. He lauded the Government for its action in prohibiting trade with Russia, mentioning the gain in its efforts to assist the dairy industry, and stating that the Prime Minister, despite the speeches of the Opposition, had won favor throughout the country for his courageous stand at the Imperial Conference.

LARGE BALANCE AVAILABLE FOR UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

OTTAWA, March 26.—The report on unemployment relief covering the period from the emergency session of Parliament to March 16 was laid on the table of the House yesterday. The act passed at the emergency session provided that a report be laid before Parliament within fifteen days after the opening of the present session, the said report to contain full and correct statement of the moneys expended under the act and the purposes to which they have been applied.

matter where he goes, and this has made him a defence man of championship calibre. McKenna has always displayed his wares in holding the High School and the Montreal juniors will have to revert to a long range aerial attack if they wish to make any impression.

The youngest member on his team is the honor to which Earl Holtham is entitled. "Babe," who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Holtham, Wellington street south, was born in Sherbrooke in 1913, and received his education at the Central, Cambridge and High schools. At present he is employed by the Ingersoll Rand Company. He was one of the mainstays of the Reds during the schedule, proving one of the team's most valuable assets on many occasions. Before joining the ranks of the local champions, Holtham played in the House League, while his hockey activities were in the interests of the Black Hawks. "Babe" is 5 feet and 5 1/2 inches, and weighs 125 pounds. His regular position is left forward, but he can play in any position.

An American born youth also graces the roster of the Sherbrooke representatives. He is Clinton Gardner, who claims Providence, R.I., as his place of birth in 1912. At the early age of five years, Clinton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Gardner, emigrated to Sherbrooke, and to this city and Clinton obtained his education at the Cambridge and High schools. He has played on teams representing the school, with last year's Rangers and the Reds this season. Gardner holds down the left forward berth with his 5 feet and 7 inches and 140 pounds.

Last but not least comes the nineteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hatch, Goodhue street. Lewis was born in Sherbrooke and was educated in the North Ward Central schools. The House League enrolled him in its ranks while this year the Reds have claimed his services. He patrols the right forward line and does his job like a veteran. Lewis is 5 feet and 4 inches tall, and weighs 122 pounds. The appointment of Lewis to the team, the second of which will be staged here Saturday night.

TENNIS

FRANCE CAPTURED HONORS NEW YORK, N.Y., March 26.—France today had won the international tennis team competition played against the United States which was Davis Cup matches are played.

With the victory last night of Jean Borotra over Berkeley Bell, France gained the one match she needed to win, while Christian Bousquet, the other French singles star, went down to defeat at the hands of young Frank Shields, strapping New York amateur, and at the age of twenty-one, is said to be a better tennis player than William T. Tilden II was at twenty-four.

France won the doubles on Tuesday and each team gained one singles match on Monday when Borotra bowed to Shields and Bousquet defeated Bell.

In unemployment relief, The report shows that all but $1,573,088 had been originally allocated among the provinces, the railway companies, etc. The Dominion commitments approved in accordance with these allocations totalled $14,303,603, leaving a balance not directly allotted of $5,693,997.

The arrangement with the provinces provided that the Dominion Government would set aside $4,000,000 for direct relief. Dominion commitments under this had been approved to the extent of only $331,878, leaving a balance so far unallotted of $3,668,122. In reference to this, the report says: "The amount of $4,000,000 set aside for direct relief may prove to be a greater amount than is actually necessary to take care of the Dominion Government's proportion of the expenditures of the provinces and municipalities for direct relief."

It may be found the report states, that the provinces will not require the direct relief undertaken by municipalities, 25 per cent of the cost of public works and undertakings carried on by municipalities to provide work for the unemployed and part of the cost of provincial public works including direct relief trans-Canada highway. The amounts allocated with the Dominion commitments already approved in brackets follow: Prince Edward Island, $300,000 ($300,000); Nova Scotia, $700,000 ($700,000); New Brunswick, $500,000 ($500,000); Quebec, $2,850,000 ($2,850,000); Ontario, $3,000,000 ($3,000,000); Manitoba, $800,000 ($800,000); Saskatchewan, $1,000,000 ($827,796); Saskatchewan (drought area), $500,000 ($424,550); Alberta, $900,000 ($868,300); British Columbia, $1,000,000 ($871,334); Yukon, $200,000 ($200,000); direct relief, $400,000 ($331,878).

The following allotments have been approved in full: Grade crossing fund, $500,000; Canadian Pacific Railway, $863,500; Canadian National Railways, $882,412; Department of Interior (parks), $37,000; Nova Scotia coal, $59,000. The sum of $100,000 was set aside for administration of which $13,663 has been approved.

The total cost of public works under the unemployment relief agreements is $68,730,847. The actual payments made so far by the Dominion Government total $3,227,717 for public works and $31,878 for direct relief. "It may be observed," states the report, "that some time necessarily elapses between the actual carrying out of the work involved and the submission of the accounts for payment of the Dominion Government."

The report was prepared by Harry Hereford, Dominion director of unemployment relief, and submitted by Senator G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor.

Will Fly to Green Bay, Which Is Slightly South of Horse Island, Where Viking Disaster Occurred.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 26.—Bernt Balchen, who flew to Newfoundland to search for Varick Friesell and other missing members of the Sealer Viking's crew, took off from St. John's this morning, on a reconnaissance flight which will take him to Green Bay, slightly south of Horse Island, where the disaster occurred by way of Twillingate. Thence he will fly south to Fogo, on the northeastern coast.

SECURES PICTURES OF HORSE ISLAND

HALIFAX, N.S., March 26.—Bob Fogg, veteran Concord pilot who flew the first United States picture plane to reach Green Island three days ago for views of the Brecon, today had opened up an unobtainable lead in the race to carry Viking pictures back to the public. He landed, alone, at Saint John Airport at ten o'clock this morning, refueled in less than half an hour, and hopped off again to coast home in advance with the first negatives taken in the vicinity of Horse Island. He was expected to reach Concord, New Hampshire, by early afternoon. Fogg left Sydney, N.S., at 6:45 after flying from Hampden, Newfoundland, yesterday.

Meanwhile, C. S. Kent, flying for a rival concern, was still at Sydney, where he had halted his flight northward to await pictures brought down from Horse Island by rescue steamers and despatched to North Sydney. Yesterday some of the pictures which arrived on the steamer Kyle at 4 o'clock in the morning could not be found. After arrival of the train from North Sydney at Sydney, the package despatched to Al Mingaloe, who had accompanied Fogg to Sydney on the northward trip reached him safely, and together with S. B. Wright, who went to Horse Island with Fogg and Kent, he left for Boston, Fogg, with more pictures secured at Horse Island, stayed overnight to continue his trip this morning.

RIGHTS OF WAR VETERANS WILL BE PROTECTED

Assurance Given by Premier Bennett in Answer to Question by Hon. I. Mackenzie Regarding Civil Service Reductions.

OTTAWA, March 26.—The contemplated reductions in the Civil Service personnel reached Parliament yesterday when a question asked by Hon. Ian Mackenzie (Lib.-Conservative Centre), elicited from the Prime Minister that, as far as returned soldiers were concerned, the rights conferred on them by the Civil Service Act of 1919 would be preserved. No indication was given, however, of the extent of the staff reductions, or of their character.

The belief in Ottawa is that they will be quite considerable. It is understood that departmental heads were requested some time ago to furnish the Civil Service Commission with particulars justifying every position held under their jurisdiction. This has now been done, and the next move is up to the commission who will be required to indicate to what positions should be maintained and what should be abolished.

The Interior Department is understood to be the one most widely affected. The transfer of the natural resources rendered superfluous some of the positions in that branch, chiefly in the Dominion Lands and the Topographical Survey. These employ several hundred.

The western provinces absorbed a number of the staff of the natural resources department, including practically all of the western residential personnel. Not everybody was taken care of, however. The projected abolition is regarded in government circles as a regrettable necessity.

SENATE EXPECTS INTERIM SUPPLY EARLY NEXT WEEK

OTTAWA, March 26.—The Senate met yesterday and there being no interim supply bill from the Commons, adjourned until Monday next at four p.m. Senator Robertson presented the unemployment relief fund report. Hon. Hon. George P. Graham corrected a statement that the United States "resident could through the tariff commission, change the tariff by fifty per cent when in reality the change was limited to twenty-five per cent.

In reply to Senator Hughes, Hon. W. B. Aikins stated that the total amount tax free bonds issued during the war was $1,362,066,550. The amount of these bonds outstanding and date of maturity is: $52,929,600, October, 1931; $445,659,950, November, 1933; $90,166,900, March, 1937; $236,299,800, December, 1937. Total, $826,056,250.

An interim supply is expected Monday or Tuesday, and then the Senate will adjourn until Easter recess.

MEASURE GRANTING FRANCHISE TO WOMEN REJECTED BY LEGISLATURE

the moment he felt the project was premature.

CLAIMS RADIO MEASURE IS MENACE TO FREE SPEECH

QUEBEC, March 26.—Charges that the new civil responsibility bill, which would make owners of radio stations responsible for libelous remarks made over their stations, was an attempt to deprive the Provincial Opposition of the use of the stations during the coming elections were made in the Legislature yesterday. The measure got second reading on a straight party vote of forty-eight to twelve, after an amendment proposing a six months' hold had been defeated by a similar vote.

While Premier Taschereau, in introducing the bill, explained that the purpose was to prevent the spread of Bolshevistic propaganda, the Opposition saw in it a proposal to put the control of political broadcasting in the hands of the Government.

The act lays it down that owners of radio stations are jointly and severally liable with the person whose singing or speaking is broadcasted, for any damages which may be claimed for defamation arising from the broadcasting. A subsequent clause reads that: "Every person who has a radio-transmitter in his possession may interrupt the operating of his instrument for the remainder of any period of time during which he is permitted its use, whenever a defamation is committed during broadcasting."

In such case the owner of the station is not liable for breach of contract, but has only to pay back the proportion of the price of hire.

COMPENSATION ACT GIVEN SOME MINOR AMENDMENTS

QUEBEC, March 26.—Efforts to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act during its third reading in the Legislative Council yesterday failed with a single exception, the majority of the Councilors being of the opinion that it would be better to leave any changes over until time was given a chance to test the workings of the measure.

Requests from representatives of the insurance agencies that the operation of the bill be delayed until May 1932 received brief consideration. One amendment, however, was adopted on suggestion of Bernard Devlin, K.C., counsel for the
