CANADIANS AND AMERICANS KILLED IN DISASTROUS WRECK OF STEAMER SPECIAL FOR LONDON AT SALISBURY

Most Appalling Accident in England for Many Years—Engine Jumped Track and Turned Turtle — Three Toronto Men Killed—Many People Injured and Some May Die—Mayor McClellan Had Narrow Escape.

Salisbury, Eng., July 1.—Salisbury Cathedral, built 200 years before Columbus discovered America, rings its chimes to-night for more than a score of Canadian and American dead who met their tragic fate under the very shadow of its beautiful spire, when the boat train from Plymouth, freighted with people wealthy and well known, who had looked forward to the attractions of Europe, and were hurrying with great speed to the world's capital, collided with a milk train at 2 o'clock this morning. One searches in vain for eye-witnesses who might give from mental photographs details of the disaster. There were not half a dozen men on the platform at the time, and these included Night Inspector Spicer, who was there to signal and telegraph trains passing Salisbury. Looking at his watch, he noted the time, 1.57, when a great noise, the result of the impact, gave the first intimation that a tragedy had occurred. In a few minutes, police and doctors from the infirmary where the injured now lie were at the scene, as well as several Post Office employes, who always watch for the crossing over the bridge of the Plymouth special. Those assisted in the work of rescue, and the disposal of the dead. All declare that so quickly did death ensue that few groans were heard, and speak with astonishment at the patience of the injured.

TRAIN WAS GOING FAST.

All went well until the train reached Salisbury, although some passengers at various points remarked on the very high rate of speed, one or two even expressing some alarm, and those taking supper on the train experiencing the greatest difficulty in avoiding spilling the contents of their plates and cups. A short distance from Salisbury begins a remarkable curve, which sometimes has been described as the most dangerous in the world, and which certainly possesses elements of danger. Not only does the line enter and leave the station on a curve, but where it crosses Fisherton street the line takes a slight rise in order to afford sufficient headway to the dipping roadway below. It was practically at this point that the engine jumped the rails and brought about a disaster, both as regards the percentage of lives lost and the extent of the damage to rolling stock almost without precedent in the annals of British railway accidents and especially of boat expresses.

At the scene of the catastrophe there are five lines of railway. Two are main lines, two others are devoted to local traffic and the fifth is a siding. Of these five lines only two were occupied at the time of the accident. A milk train, laden with empty cans, was leisurely entering the station in the opposite direction to the express, whilst at the entrance of the siding there was a solitary locomotive ready to furnish any service the milk train might require. In the meantime the express, which was due to run through with an empty line of rails on either side of her came pounding along, swaying heavily, owing to the enormous speed.

JUST WHAT HAPPENED.

The inspector on the station platform watched and followed its course with his eyes, and was horrified to see the train leave the rails, jump to the vacant rails on the right and plunge into the rear of the milk train. A crash like the report of artillery awakened many inhabitants of Salisbury a mile away. Within some twenty seconds, the whole train became a chaotic mass of wreckage, the ponderous engine having smashed the guard's van of the milk train to atoms and killed a guard. Instantly all the carriages broke from their couplings. The engine hurled itself against the side of the strong iron parapet, which bounds the bridge over the roadway. Fortunately it struck the parapet almost end on, and probably was saved from carrying away the parapet and projecting the train into the street below. However the iron work of the parapet was twisted out of all shape and a portion of it was detached and fell with a crash to the pavement beneath. The impact with the bridge was startling in its results. While the under parts of the railway carriages remained on the track, though off the rails, the woodwork of the carriages projected over the bridge and the street below was strewn with glass and splinters. One passenger was even hurled right through the side of a broken carriage thirty feet to the embankment and either killed and mangled by the fall or by the mass of wreckage that fell upon him.

AN INEXPLICABLE MIX-UP.

The locomotive and tender rebounding from the parapet, now hurled their immense weight against the stationary locomotive which became a shapeless wreck, its boiler exploding and so severely scalding both the driver and the fireman that the latter has since died.

The express engine finally turned turtle, broken-backed. Carriage was piled upon carriage, as if by giant hands, the stationary engine tilted towards the concrete platform, with the wreckage of one carriage on its top and the engine and tender of the express almost locked into the stationary engine, everything being smashed and splintered with the exception of the guard's van of the express, which, owing the presence of mind of the guard, who quickly applied the brakes, was not overturned.

DISOBEDIENCE OF ORDERS.

The directions to engine drivers over this portion of the line is not to exceed a speed of 30 miles an hour, but it is alleged by calculations based on the times at which different signal boxes were passed, that this speed was exceeded. Both the driver and stoker are dead and therefore it may be difficult to obtain reliable information as to the speed the train was going when the accident occurred.

The horror of the scene whic hnow presented itself was intensified by fears of the added calamity of fire. Flames shot up from the furnace of the overturned engine, and set fire to debris in the vicinity, and the escape of gas from the reservoirs under the train. The officials with the greatest promptitude brought hose into play and checked the flames.

The few officials at the station, who were reinforced by willing hands from the town, with the aid of lamps began the rescue. The scene that met their gaze was heartrending. Instead of the shrieks that might have been expected, ominous silence added to the horrors of the scene. Station Master Lawrence says this was what most struck him on arrival at the spot. Both the injured and the uninjured seemed too heavily stricken or too dazed by the suddenness of the tragedy to utter even a murmur. The waiting rooms of the station were hastily prepared, as surgeries and mortuaries. Nine men and five women were taken out from the front of the wreck, soon after the accident. The driver and the fireman were quite dead in their cab.

The work of rescue proceeded slowly until the arrival of a train brought down physicians from London.

A HEARTRENDING SIGHT.

When an opening was made into the second carriage, a terrible sight was revealed. At one end of a compartment several bodies were jammed together in an almost unrecognizable mass. It was six or eight hours before it was found possible to remove them. In one part of the coach the Sentell family, from New York, were traveling together, of whom only Edward W. Sentell was found alive three hours after the accident. Some water was handed him through a hole in the carriage and shortly afterward he was pulled out and taken to the infirmary bleeding profusely from a scalp wound and with his left leg badly fractured.

The scenes around the wreck were calculated to shake the strongest nerves. The sobbings and cries of young Mrs. Cossitt wrung tears from many of the roughest among the rescuers. She knew that but her husband was so severely injured that, though still alive, his case was seen to be hopeless. He died shortly after being taken to the infirmary, and the bereaved bride was taken to the residence of a local doctor, whence she subsequently went to friends in London.

Among the dead is Keeler, the "human enigma." He had telegraphed to his aged mother in London from Plymouth of his expected arrival.

Throughout the day the scene was visited by thousands of people coming by motor car and by railroad or on bicycles.

An immense gang of men with a powerful equipment of train workers all day long clearing away the debris and about three o'clock yesterday afternoon a train got through.

CANNOT EXPLAIN ACCIDENT

A guard of the express, who was interviewed to-day, said: "I had not thought the curve was a dangerous one for a train like ours to pass over at the rate it did, and I cannot give any explanation of the accident."

The cause of the accident is still in doubt. It is suggested that the wheels of the engine failed to take the switch or that a wheel or axle broke. A careful examination may afford some evidence. It is expected that an inquest will be opened to-morrow (Monday), and a Board of Trade enquiry later will fully investigate.

The train was regarded as having been light for high speed, but it is notorious that trains always sway and shake at any speed over this curve. Much criticism is likely to be evoked by the fact that latterly there has been sharp speed competition between western lines, which are rivals for the traffic betwen London and Plymouth.

Usually at the Salisbury curve steam is shut off and the brakes applied.

No such serious accident has occurred since 1890, when the New Haven boat train and the Brighton Express collided at Wivelsfield, killing six passengers.

LATE ARRIVAL SAVED MANY.

The late hour of the New York's arrival at Plymouth saved many lives. She carried more than sixty travellers for London, but many of them elected to travel on comfortably to Southampton, in preference to the late landing at Plymouth, and the long night ride across the country. If the New York had made a faster passage the sombre roster of the dead and injured would have been larger. The big American liner reached Plymouth at 9.35 o'clock on Saturday night, and half an hour later there was a tender alongside to receive passengers for England. Several who had planned to debark and packed their baggage decided at the last moment to remain aboard. It was a fateful decision, though not dictated by any fear. The run across the Atlantic had been pleasant. There were cheery greetings when the passengers for London transferred to the waiting tender, which steamed for the Devonport Landing, where the express was being made up.

The train consisted of a powerful express engine, three first-class corridor coaches and one combination guard's van and buffet. The passengers were soon entrained and at 11.30 the express pulled out. It was given a clear track right of away on the run of 229 miles to London, on which the express generally maintains an average speed of a mile a minute. Driver Robins quickly gave the engine her head and the special was speeding swiftly through the night.

HOW VAN WAS SAVED.

The guard's van and buffet, the rearmost car of the train, was saved by the courage and quickness of the engineer.

Relief came quickly, although it was an hour before the last body was dragged from the wreck. The police attracted by the noise, called ambulances and surgeons, and warned the hospitals to prepare to receive the injured.

The railway yard quickly filled with police, doctors, nurses, trainmen and volunteers. The darkness and incredible destruction made the work of rescue exceedingly difficult. Lamps and torches were brought to light the desolate scene.

The station was converted into a surgery and the platform was made a mortuary. Several of the dead and injured were imprisoned in compartments and it was necessary to saw away the partitions to effect their release. Others were caught under heavy wreckage. Several of the bodies were badly mangled, and one woman was decapitated.

The first bodies recovered and identified included those of John E. McDonald, of New York; W. H. Thomson, address unknown, and C. F. McMeekin, of New York.

of the dead and wounded, exclaiming, as he reached a name he knew: "Poor fellow."

John E. McDonald, the New York horseman, best known as "Jack" McDonald, who is among the dead, was given the compartment on the special train which had been reserved for Mr. McClellan, and so the Mayor's escape was indeed the narrowest.

Relatives of Walter Barwick who went to Salisbury this afternoon on learning of the accident, and who returned to London to-day said the scene at Salisbury upon their arrival there was one of indescribable confusion. Their greatest difficulty was in identifying the dead, as the bodies had been frightfully mangled. Mr. Barwick's was hardly recognizable, being covered with wounds.

SPEED WAS FRIGHTFUL.

"I have been accustomed," said George A. Stachan, of Boston, who, with his aunt, Mrs. J. H. Whiten, was on the wrecked special, "on the broad guage lines of America, to speedy travelling, and know what is a good swinging pace, but it seemed to me, as we sped along last night, the old country could go us one better after all.

"I cannot remember ever being carried on at such a rate before. The oscillation and vibration were very noticeable. I remarked that it must be good reliable rolling stock and a fine rate permanent way that could stand the strain. Just then the crash came. Mrs. Whiten and I were jerked into a corner of the carriage, then the car went over and we were pinned in quite a long time. Through the window, which was above us, we saw the reflection of flame, and feared the carriage was afire and that we were cornered; but as we waited, relief came, and when we were extricated, I saw the flames came from fire engines."

ARM REST SAVED HIM.

Walter Gerson, of London, was the sole survivor of a party of five occupants of one compartment. He attributes his safety to the fact that, returning from dinner, he placed his arm in a swinging rest, and when the accident occurred, and the carriage was overturned, he was left suspended by the arm, while his less fortunate fellow travellers were mangled in the ruins at his feet.

REMAINING PASSENGERS HEARD NEWS OF WRECK AT SOUTHAMPTON.

Southampton, July 1.—On the arrival here of the steamer New York, with her remaining passengers on deck leaning over the rail and chatting gaily looking for friends ashore to meet them, the company's officials stepped aboard with letters and telegrams. Suddenly a lady passenger on the promenade deck was seen to fall with hysterical sobs on the deck, holding a telegram in her hands. Instantly her fellow-passengers flocked around to offer sympathy in her supposed personal bereavement, and turned with horror-stricken blanched faces at hearing the terrible fate that had overtaken their companions on the voyage from New York, and whom they had expected to meet in London. The news soon spread over the whole ship and cast a gloom on the landing and entraining for London of the passengers, though the officials were only able to supply the bare outlines of the disaster. American Consul Swallin, addressing the passengers, said: "You had no opportunity of going to church this morning, but you can thank God you remained aboard."

LIPTON SENDS MESSAGE.

Sir Thomas Lipton, who left his yacht, Erin, at Southampton, to visit Salisbury, sends the following telegram to the Associated Press: "I am sure it would interest Americans to know the splendid care that is being taken of their injured at Salisbury Hospital. I have been at the hospital to-day with the Mayor of Salisbury, have seen the head doctor, and can assure you that everything humanely possible is being done to alleviate suffering. It is providential that such first class medical attendance could be had so near the scene of the accident. "After seeing the wreck and the result of the accident, it seems to me that it was a miracle that anyone escaped alive.

"The Mayor of Salisbury is giving his personal attention to every detail in connection with the sufferers."

WHO DEAD PEOPLE WERE.

Cassier, Louis, of Trumbull, Conn., near Bridgeport. Mr. Cassier was the editor of two magazines, the Electrical Review and the Engineer. He was 45 years old and leaves a wife.

Cossitt, Frederick, Henry, of New York. Mr Cossitt was only 21 years of age and was married June 18 to Miss Antonia Dugrow, daughter of Judge and Mrs. P. Henry Dugrow. The young couple were on their wedding trip. Mr Cossitt graduated from Princeton University just a few days prior to his marriage.

Elphicke, Mrs. C. W., of Chicago, Ill. Mrs. Elphicke was the wife of Chas. W. Elphicke, of C. W. Elphicke & Co., vessel and insurance agents, Chicago. The Elpicke home is at Evanston, a suburb of Chicago. Mrs. Elphicke was 62 years old.

Harding, Dudley P., New York city. Mr. Harding was a travelling salesman, and spent but a portion of his time in New York city, making his home there at 316 West 95th street, in apartments.

Sentell, Charles E., New York city.—Sentell, Miss Brancke, New York city; Sentell, Miss Gertrude, New York; Sentell, Mrs. F. W., New York. Charles E. Sentell was a lawyer, a member of the firm of Morris, Sentell & Main, with offices at 16 Exchange Place, New York city. His residence and that of others of the family was at 271 Decatur street, Brooklyn. With his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Sentell, and his two sisters, he had gone abroad for the summer. The elder Mr. Sentell was the only member of the family party of five to escape death. The Misses Sentell were teachers in the Brooklyn public schools.

Critchell, Robert S., Chicago. Mr. Critchell is about 53 years old and for many years has been a conspicuous figure in Chicago. He is a member of the firm of Critchell, Miller, Whitney & Barbour, insurance agents, an officer of the Union League Club, and takes an active part in all public affairs.

Smith, Mrs. Walter W., of Dayton, O.; Smith, Miss Eleanor, Dayton, O.; Smith, Gerard, Dayton, O. Mrs. W. W. Smith, who, with her daughter Eleanor, aged 25, and son Gerard, aged 21, was killed in the wreck, was the widow of the former senior partner in the Turbine Waterwheel manufacturing firm of Smith & Vaile, which some years ago, was incorporated as the Stilwell, Bierce & Smith-Vaile Company. The son, Gerard, would have graduated from Yale next year.

Waite, Mrs. Lillias Hurd, New York city. Mrs. Waite was a fashionable milliner with a shop at 425 Fifth avenue. Twice yearly she went abroad to study the styles of London, Paris and other capitals. With her husband, former Alderman Charles B. Waite, she lived at the Hotel Touraine, on West 39th street. Mrs. Waite was 39 years old and a native of Springfield, Ill. She has a brother living in Omaha. Mr. Waite was in New wYork awaiting news of the safe arrival of his wife at London, when he received the cablegram telling of her death.

Hitchcock, Mrs. L.N., New York city. Mrs. Hitchcock lived at 261 Central Park West, New York, where she had apartments with her daughter, Miss May Hitchcock. Mrs. Hitchcock was the widow of Lumen Hitchcock, who was a cousin of Secretary E. A. Hitchcock, of the Interior Department at Washington. Mrs. Hitchcock also had a home at Morristown, N.J. She had gone abroad with her daughter to spend the summer. The latter was slightly injured in the wreck.

Howieson, Miss Mary F., of New York. Miss Howieson was a milliner. She had gone abroad on a business and pleasure trip, intending to be away about two months. Miss Howieson was 45 years old.

Koch, Frank W., of Allentown, Pa. Mr. Koch was one of Allentown's wealthiest and most prominent citizens. He was the senior member of the clothing firm of Koch Bros., and the owner of the Hotel Allen building. Mr. Koch was 54 years old, a native of Lehigh County, Pennsylvania. He was trustee of Muhlenburg College and of Allentown Hospital, and a director of the Allentown National Bank. With his wife he had planned to repeat a European wedding trip taken twenty years ago.

McDonald, John E., New York City —"Jack" McDonald had been well-known on the American and European turf for a number of years, having owned stables of race horses both here and abroad. Earlier in life, Mr. McDonald was a bookmaker. He spent much of his time in England, and was often seen in company with Richard Croker, and others of the American colony sojourning abroad. Mr. McDonald was also quite prominent in the affairs of the Democratic Club in New York, and had many and varied business interests. His wife and daughter accompanied him abroad. He was president and director of the Boston & New York Telephone & Telegraph Company, and a director of the Knickerbocker Telephone & Telegraph Company, treasurer and director of the Massachusetts Telephone & Telegraph Company, and treasurer and director of the Telephone, Telegraph & Cable Company of America. Mr. McDonald's New York address was at 216 West 72nd street.

McMeekin, Chas. F., Lexington, Ky.—Mr. McMeekin was a prominent breeder of thoroughbred horses in the famous Bluegrass region of Kentucky. He was a member of the firm of Applegate & McMeekin, owners of the Oakwood stud, Lexington. The most famous product of this stud is the horse Go-Between, which, on June 21, won the rich Suburban Handicap, at the Sheepshead Bay track, of the Coney Island Jockey Club. Mr. McMeekin had accompanied Mr. McDonald abroad, and both were killed in the wreck.

MAYOR GEO. B. McCLELLAN, OF NEW YORK, HAD VERY NARROW ESCAPE.

London, July 2.—By the merest chance, Mayor Geo. B. McClellan, of New York, was not on the wrecked American line special train. He had an appointment to keep in London, and, although the steamer was late arriving at Plymouth, he decided to come direct to London instead of going to Cherbourg with Mrs. McClellan, who was booked through to Paris.

His hand baggage had been transferred to the tender to land at Plymouth, and he was going on board the tender, when an officer of the steamer whom Mrs. McLellan had been asking to urge her husband to accompany her to Cherbourg, told the Mayor he could still reach London in time to keep his appointment if he went on to Cherbourg and thence to Southampton. Just before the tender left the ship's side, Mayor McClellan changed his mind, and the ship's steward threw his baggage back on board the New York as the tender was casting off her lines.

Mayor McClellan was greatly shocked on learning at Southampton of the wreck of the train. He had made many friends among the passengers on the voyage and eagerly scanned the lists

RUMOR OF SIR WILFRID'S DEATH.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, July 1.—Some excitement was caused here on Sunday night by the receipt of several urgent queries from New York, Montreal, Quebec and other points asking for confirmation or denial of the report that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was dead. It is said that the cable conveying the news of the death of Walter Barwick in the wreck of the American Line special, between Southampton and London, made the name read Wilfrid Laurier. The correspondents of leading American papers were inundated with requests for columns of matter, were kept busy explaining that the Canadian Premier is still alive and in the best of health.

TRAINS WERE DELAYED.

Two Accidents Cause Trains in Manitoba to Lose Time.

Winnipeg, July 2.—Four coaches and a tender of the C. N. R. westbound passenger train were derailed Sunday at Portage Junction. The accident was caused by a broken rail. The eastbound train from Edmonton arrived at the scene shortly after the accident, and the passengers of the derailed express were placed on that train, the train being returned to Edmonton. The damaged cars were replaced on the rails early Monday morning.

The eastbound C.P.R. transcontinental was delayed seven hours to-day, being held by a big freight smash-up at Swift Current, Sask. Thirteen box cars were demolished at that point by a rear-end collision, completely tieing up the traffic for best part of the day.

No one was injured in either of the wrecks.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Brockville, Ont., July 2.—The appeal of George Taylor, M.P., against the assessment by the town of Gananoque for taxation of his sessional indemnity, came before Judge Reynolds, who, after hearing argument of counsel, reserved decision.

If the appeal is dismissed and the taxing held to be lawful, the M.P.'s in Ontario, at least, will be slated by the assessors next year. And with that in view it is said that a number of members have been active and industrious in providing evidence, argument and precedent on behalf of the appeal.

TORONTO MOURNS DEAD CITIZENS

Three Killed in Wreck were Well-Known Citizens of Queen City.

PARTNER OF MINISTER.

Prayers Were Offered Last Night in Churches to Which Deceased Belonged.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Toronto, Ont., July 2.—News of the tragic death of three of its most prominent and representative citizens spread like wild fire over the city Saturday, and last night the newspaper offices were besieged with enquiries concerning the dead. In many of the Anglican churches to which communion the three dead Canadians belonged, references were made to the calamity in Britain. The three Torontonians killed are Mr. Walter Barwick, K.C., Rev. Edward E. King, vicar of St. Thomas's Church, and Mr. C. A. Pipon, general agent of the North Atlantic Steamship Combination.

Mr. Barwick was one of the distinguished members of the Ontario Bar, having been engaged in many important civil actions. He won distinction in the famous Baie des Chaleurs Railway case before the Senate committee in 1891, and has taken the leading part in many other railway suits since then. He was the head of the legal firm of Barwick, Aylesworth, Wright and Moss. Mr. Barwick was born at Woodstock, Ont., about fifty-five years ago, and was educated at Hellmuth College and the University of Toronto, where he took his degree in 1873. He was a bencher of the Law Society, a senator of Toronto University, a member of the council of Trinity University, chairman of the Toronto Club, and was a Liberal in politics. He was recommended for the title of Q.C. by the administration of Sir Charles Tupper. In 1881 he married Ella, the daughter of the late Isaac Atkinson, of Chicago, Ills., and is survived by his widow, who is at present on a visit to friends in Massachusetts, and by two daughters, Mrs. J. Ewart Osborn, of Toronto, and Miss Muriel, who is at home, and one son, Master Hugh, who is a student at Upper Canada College. Mr. Barwick was on a vacation trip to Europe for his health, and anticipated being back in the city early in September. He was a member of the Anglican Church. He was also a member of Ionic Lodge, A. F. & A. M. It may be mentioned that Mr. Barwick has had associated with him in his legal practice some distinguished jurists, such as Chief Justice Moss, Mr. Justice Falconbridge, and more recently the Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice. He was himself a constant attendant before the Railway Committee at Ottawa. In the St. James's Cathedral last night reference was made to the accident, and the prayers for those bereaved were said.

REV. EDWARD KING.

The Rev. Edward L. King, who has been vicar of St. Thomas's Anglican Church for some eighteen months, was about 36 years of age, and a native of England. Coming to Canada a number of years ago, he first went to Manitoba, graduating from St. John's College, Winnipeg, where he was ordained into the priesthood. Later he came to Toronto having been appointed as a lecturer in philosophy at Trinity University, which position he occupied for several years. He was at the same time in charge of Trinity House.

Rev. Mr. King continued his lectureship after his appointment as vicar of St. Thomas's Church, until the end of the term in April last, since which time he has devoted himself entirely to work of St. Thomas's Church. A widow, who was Miss Joslyn, of Vicin, Man., and four small children, survive. A brother is on the staff of the Anglican Church's school for Indian boys at Sault Ste. Marie. Mr. King had intended to be away only two months. Another brother lives near Plymouth, England, and he had planned to spend the first few days of his visit to the old land with him. When the congregation of St. Thomas's Church met last night, Professor Jenks preached a sermon which had special reference to the calamity which had fallen upon the congregation. He made a reference to the inscrutible purposes of God which, while they could not be understood when they happened, all worked out for good. Special prayers were offered.

Mr. Charles Arthur Pipon, who was the general agent for Ontario of the North Atlantic Steamship Combination, with offices in the King Edward Hotel, was on his way to his home in the Island of Jersey, his father had recently died. Mr. Pipon was required in connection with the will. He anticipated being in Toronto early in August. He is survived by Mrs. Pipon and children. Mrs. Pipon is a daughter of Mrs. Maud Rutherford, and a sister of H. Rutherford, Toronto. He has three children, ranging from 3 to 7 years of age.

A DOUBLE ANNIVERSARY.

Fifty Years a Priest and Twenty-five a Pastor.

Ottawa, July 1.—Rev. Father Gay, of Gracefield, Wright county, celebrated to-day the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination, and the twenty-fifth anniversary of his induction as priest at Gracefield. There was a big crowd, many going up from Hull and Ottawa. Among others were Messrs. Emmanuel Devlin, George Parent, A. I. Proulx, and Chisholm, members of the House of Commons, and F. A. Gendron, M. L.A., Ottawa County. The rev. gentleman was presented with a purse of $200 in gold.

A NOTED BARRISTER AND POLITICIAN

The Death of Mr. J. A. Drouin, K.C., Yesterday.

A CLEVER LIBERAL SPEAKER.

Took Part in Several Campaigns, and was Once Selected Candidate, but Retired for Harmony.

One of the best known of the younger generation of lawyers passed away yesterday, in the death of Mr. J. A. Drouin, K.C. His death occurred about five o'clock yesterday afternoon, at his home, 512 St. Hubert street, where he resided with his father and mother. He had been ill for the past six months, but although greatly changed in appearance, he was able to attend to his office until about ten days ago, when he was forced to keep his room. His death removes one of the strongest campaigners among the Liberal workers of the district.

The late J. A. Drouin was born in Montreal, October 14th, 1869. He followed the course of studies of the Jacques Cartier Normal School. In January, 1890, he was admitted to the study of law, and pursued his studies at Laval University, where he obtained the degree of Licentiate of Laws. He was under indenture in the law offices of the well-known firm of Prefontaine, St. Jean & Gouin, of whom two members have preceded him to the grave, while the third is now Prime Minister of the province.

He was admitted to the Bar in 1894, and began practice in partnership with Mr. J. A. Lamarche, now a member of the law firm of Beaubien & Lamarche. Later he entered into partnership with Mr. J. A. C. Madore, and the firm existed until the senior partner was made a judge. Of late the deceased had been head of the firm of Drouin, Prevost & Bazin, of which the Minister of Colonization and Fisheries is a member. In 1897 he was appointed by the late [illegible] C. Marchand attorney for [illegible] district of Montreal, and filled that position [illegible] death. In 1903 he was appointed by the late [illegible] King's Counsel by the Q[illegible]ment.

A RESPONSIBLE CABINET.

Constitutional Democrats Will Take No Part in Forming Mixed Cabinet.

St. Petersburg, July 2.—No definite statement with reference to the retirement of the Goremykin Cabinet was forthcoming yesterday. Emperor Nicholas apparently is encountering trouble in finding a man to whom to entrust the reins of power and effecting an understanding with the Liberal groups of Parliament. The Constitutional Democratic party committee met this morning behind closed doors to discuss tactics under the new association.

The Associated Press was informed, after the meeting, that the committee adhered to its former decision that nothing less than a fully responsible cabinet would be accepted and that the Constitutional Democrats will refuse to take portfolios in any mixed ministry. The leaders scarcely expect that these terms will be accepted at present.

A conference of the highest officers of the army and navy has been summoned to discuss the extent of and remedies for the disaffection in army and navy. Officers from P[illegible] Sebastopol, Niazan, the Caucasus and other places where mutinies have occurred have been summoned [illegible] report on the subject.

CAUGHNAWAGA SCHOOL.

The closing exercises of the Kateri Tekakwitha school at Caughnawaga took place on Thursday last, when a varied and attractive programme of songs, recitations and drill was gone through by the pupils before Rev. Fathers Granger, S.J., and Pilon of Lachine, Madame Perronno, Miss Dumont and a large gathering of parents and friends of the children. Among the many prizes was one of $5 in money given by Miss Holmes-Orr to be divided among the pupils who sent in the three best pieces of hand sewing. The attractive display of articles made by the children during the year consisting of knitting, sewing, embroidery and bead work was much admired.

The Servant Problem.

Everybody's for July suggests another remedy for the latest phase of the "servant problem":—

"Many plans for the relief, "elevation," and entertainment of the hired girl have been tried, especially by thoughtful housewives in Chicago and its suburbs; but has any plan succeeded? The hired girl is mistress of the situation, and she knows it. Probably she resents being patronized and "helped." How would the people upstairs like to be visited, instructed, and uplifted by the people in the basement? So we cannot believe that Mis Elizabeth M. Rhodes, of New York City, secretary of the International Research Committee, has reached the heart of the subject by her kindly suggestion that the hired girl ought to "have the use of the sitting-room at least once a week." We doubt if the use of the sitting-room once a week would appeal to the hired girl. She wants to be let alone, to follow her own bent. If she likes to change, can she be blamed for guarding herself against monotony? She has her opinions, strong ones, usually. What with her wages, and her board and lodging included, she is really more independent and better off than most of her employers. And when she wants a 'sitting-room, she wants one of her own, and not the use of yours."

WILL PROCEED WITH USURY BILL

Hon. Mr. Fielding so Informs Mr. Borden When Queried.

QUEBEC ESTIMATES PASSED.

Montreal Barracks for Permanent Corps—Montreal Postal Station —Opposition to Senate Bill.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Press Gallery, House of Commons, Ottawa July 2.—When the House met on Saturday morning, Mr. R. L. Borden inquired of the Ministry if the anti-Usury bill which was reported to the House by the Committee on Banking and Commerce would be proceeded with this session. Hon. W. S. Fielding replied that it was the intention of the Government to proceed with it.

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth informed Mr. Borden that the revision of the statutes would be completed by November.

OPPOSED SENATE BILL.

Private bills were then taken up. Mr. A. C. Boyce, Conservative, Algoma West, vigorously opposed the third reading of the Senate bill respecting the Pacific and Atlantic Railway Company, and moved the six months' hoist. His reason for opposing the bill was that the Department of Indian Affairs had sold to the company Whitefish Island for about $4,000 despite the protest of the Indians who regarded the Island as their ancestral home. The eleven acres were of great value to the company as they contained the only available water power on St. Mary's River. Mr. Boyce explained that an effort had first been made to secure the water-power rights from the Ross Government of Ontario, which had protected the interests of the Indians and municipalities including the town of Sault Ste. Marie.

He showed further that the sale to the company included contract of extensive improvements which have been made by the Ryan-Harvey Company without providing compensation for the company. The Ontario Government had placed a valuation of $24,000 on a portion of the water-power disposed of for a nominal sum. The company, said Mr. Boyce, had represented to the Government that the land was required for terminal purposes, for which it could not possibly be used, and had carefully conceived the fact that valuable water-power privilliges were included. The sale was made in 1901 by the Department of the Interior. The matter had since passed under the control of the Railway Department, but the Minister had refused to interfere with the hasty and unfair bargain made. It was manifestly unjust, Mr. Boyce argued, that this railway company which has held a charter for twenty years and which has done nothing in the way of construction should be granted exclusive rights to all the available water-power on the Canadian side of the St. Mary's River, to the exclusion of the "Soo" and other municipalities. The result would be that the municipalities would be at the mercy of a corporation.

NO WATER POWER THERE.

Mr. James Conmee, Thunder Bay, the promoter of the bill, said there was no water power at Whitefish Island. The construction of the ship canal had reduced the current to such an extent that no water power was left. The Ontario Government's valuation had been made before the ship canal was constructed.

Mr. Lancaster opposed the bill. He said it was purely a provincial matter and should be left to the Ontario Legislature. It was the worst instance of interference with provincial right that had ever come to his notice, as it proposed to upset the arrangements made between the company and the Ontario Government covering a period of nineteen years.

The bill was finally read a third time and passed.

PRIVATE BILLS PASSED.

During the afternoon the following private bills were read a third time and passed.

An act to incorporate the Grand Trunk Pacific Branch Lines Company; an act to incorporate the United Empire Life Insurance Company; an act to incorporate the General Accident Assurance Company of Canada; an act to incorporate the Chartered Bank of London and Canada; an act for the relief of William Edward Ogden.

The following resolution proposed by Mr. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, was concurred in: "That it is expedient to authorize the Governor in Council to advance to the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal such sums of money, not exceeding in the whole $250,000, as are necessary to enable them to redeem debentures issued to them in 1876, and falling due on the 5th of July, 1906.

The House also concurred in the following resolution: "That it is expedient to provide that a license fee of $50 a year shall be paid by each boat engaged in the Whale Fishery in Hudson Bay, or the waters of Canada north of the 55th parallel of north latitude."

Bills based on these resolutions were introduced and read a first time.

Mr. Brodeur stated that already six applications for Hudson Bay licenses had been applied for.

EXTENSION OF BUILDINGS.

The House then went into committee of supply, taking up the vote for the Department of Public Works. One item was $50,000 for an extension to the Parliament Building in order, said Mr. Hyman, to afford more room for members, officials and the library.

A vote of $125,000 was asked for the Victoria Museum in Ottawa. This led Dr. Sproule, Conservative, of East Grey, to suggest that great care be taken in the construction of the museum. This was not out of place, considering the accident that recently occurred in connection with the tower to the extension of the western departmental block.

Every precaution, said Mr. Hyman, was being taken. The work of inspection was being rigorously carried out.

In regard to the tower Dr. Sproule said that it was evident that the bonding of the tower walls was most defective. Who was to blame for the accident and the great loss?

Mr Hyman said no. The matter had been enquired into by a competent commission. He would recommend that the contractor in this case be permitted to take action in the Exchequer Court, so that the issue might be decided. The contract for the tower was for $75,000, and the contractor had been paid $51,371 on account.

Mr. Blain, Conservative, of Peel, reminded Mr. Hyman that the latter had promised a full and impartial enquiry into the fall of the tower. Had not one of the commission of enquiry — Mr. Curry—been employed as supervising architect on the Toronto Armory?

Such was the case, said Mr. Hyman, but no one would say that Mr. Curry was not a fair, competent man.

Owing to his connection with the Department of Public Works, said Mr. Blair, it could not be said that Mr. Curry was in an independent position.

In regard to the other commissioner, Mr. Hutchinson, Mr. Hyman stated that he had recently learned that the commissioner had a nephew in the Public Works service.

Mr. Bennett, Conservative, of East Simcoe, stated that the report of the Auditor-General showed that last year Mr. Curry was paid in architects' fees by the Government the sum of $3,600.

But, said Mr. Hyman, Mr. Curry did not make his livelihood out of the department. He was one of the leading architects of Toronto, and for that reason he had been employed by the Government.

The votes were passed with very little discussion.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS FOR QUEBEC.

The following votes were passed for public buildings in Quebec:—

Acton Vale public building, $1,500; Chicoutimi public building, $12,000; Dominion buildings—renewals, improvements, repairs, etc., $12,000; Grosse Isle Quarantine Station—improvements and repairs to buildings, $8,000; Iberville public building, $6,000; Joliette public building—improvements, $1,200; Lachute public building, $6,000; Levis public building, $15,000; Longueuil public building, $2,000; Magog public building, $10,000; Montmorency public building, $7,000; Montreal barracks for permanent corps, $20,000; Montreal examining warehouse—additions and alterations, including fittings, furniture, etc., $7,000; Montreal military buildings—new stores building, $10,000; Montreal post office—building for and installation of neumatic tube system for post office purposes, $55,000; Montreal new postal station—site and building, $30,000; Montreal public buildings—improvements, alterations, repairs, etc., $8,000; Nicolet public building, $5,000; Quebec Citadel—drill shed for school of gunnery, $10,000; Quebec Citadel—Gov.-Gen. quarters—Repairs, furniture, etc., $2,000; Quebec immigrant buildings generally, $5,000; Quebec immigration hospital for treatmentof immigrants suffering from trachoma and kindred diseases in Savard park—reconstruction of building destroyed by fire, $30,000; Quebec military buildings—main store building at Dominion Arsenal, $7,000; Quebec military buildings—shed for storage of heavy goods in shot yard, $1,000; Sherbrooke Drill Hall, $20,000; St. Hyacinthe Drill Hall, 28,000; St. Johns public building, $15,000; Three Rivers Custom House—improvements, $2,000; Three Rivers Drill Hall, $30,000; total, $365,700.

For public buildings in Nova Scotia the sum of $172,000 was voted; for Prince Edward Island, $10,000; for New Brunswick, $17,000; and for the Maritime Provinces generally, $10,000, making a total of $209,000.

For public buildings in Ontario, there was voted the sum of $560,600; for Manitoba, $346,000; for Saskatchewan and Alberta, $197,500; for British Columbia, $128,000; and public buildings generally, $61,500. For rents, repairs, furniture, heating, etc., of public buildings there was voted the sum of $761,775, of which $26,000 was for improvements, furniture, and maintenance of Rideau Hall and grounds, and $6,375 for fuel and light for the same place. For public buildings in the Yukon there was voted $80,000. Most of the other items under this vote were for the Government buildings in Ottawa.

For miscellaneous public works chargeable to income there was voted the sum of $270,900, among the items being $37,500 for surveys and inspections, $13,000 for partial reconstruction of quarantine service steamer Challenger; $94,500 for salaries of engineers, inspectors, draughtsmen, etc., of the engineering branch outside of the regular permanent civil service; $35,400 for the architectural branch; $45,000 for temporary clerical assistance; $17,500 for the Deep Waterways Commission.

Under the heading of the collection of revenue from public works, there was voted $406,775, of which $125,000 was for repairs and working expenses of harbors, docks and slides; for land and cable telegraph lines in the Lower St. Lawrence and Maritime Provinces, also maintenance of Marconi wireless telegraphy at Bell Isle, $86,000, and $138,750 for the Yukon telegraph system.

Under harbors and rivers the sum of $180,000 was voted for Quebec harbor improvements; for improvements at Port Arthur and Fort William, $300,000; for survey on Georgian Bay, $100,000; for improvements to Montreal harbor below St. Mary's Current, $60,000; and for improvements at Port Colborne, $60,000.

A number of votes for harbors in Nova Scotia were passed, and at 11.40 p.m. the committee rose and the House adjourned until 11 a.m. on Tuesday.

ALL OVER CANADA DAY IS CELEBRATED

General Holiday To-day and Special Services in Churches Yesterday.

ONE FLAG INCIDENT.

Various Regiments are Visiting Different Towns, and All Canadians Rejoice.

Ottawa, July 2.—The principal Dominion Day event at the Capital is the visit of the 7th Fusiliers' Regiment, of London, Ont., to the city. The soldiers from Western Ontario arrived on Sunday, and will remain till to-night. They are being royally entertained by the local military officers.

Mayor Judd, of London, and the members of the City Council, accompanied the regiment and on Sunday were entertained at dinner by Hon. Charles Hyman, Minister of Public Works.

MESSAGE TO THE WEST.

Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of the Opposition, yesterday, at the request of the Winnipeg Telegram, sent the following Dominion Day message of greeting to the West:—

"The Dominion enters its fortieth year in a season of wonderful prosperity and development, which, although apparent in the older provinces of the East, have their greatest exemplification in the great progress and growth of Canada's western domain. Although separated from our fellow-countrymen in the West by a broad stretch of country, as yet unsettled, we in the East watch, not only with interest, but with intense pride, the splendid progress which is thus being achieved. May this continue and increase, and may every tie which binds the East to the West, strengthen still more that spirit of unity and common purpose, which no less than material prosperity is essential to the true national life of this great country."

THE DAY AT QUEBEC.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Quebec, July 2.—Dominion Day is being celebrated as a public holiday to-day, while yesterday there were references to the Dominion's birthday from the pulpits of most of the city churches. All public offices are closed to-day, and hosts of people left town Saturday to spend the double holiday in the country. The 41st Regiment of Brockville is taking part in the celebration with the Eighth Royal Rifles.

FLAG INCIDENT AT KINGSTON.

Kingston, Ont., July 1.—Union Jacks alone were used in draping the pulpit of Queen Street Methodist Church last night. A hearty patriotic service was held, and may be there was increased zest owing to a morning episode. The pulpit then was covered half and half by a Union Jack and Stars and Stripes. The church folks did not like the display especialy as it was a purely Canadian occasion, the marking of the Dominion's birthday, and they said so.

They were as willing as anybody to show courtesy to neighbors, but the occasion to-day did not call for it as no United States guests were being publicly entertained. At night the Union Jacks were alone in evidence and a strong patriotic sermon on "Our National Heritage," was preached by Rev. W. H. Sparling.

Brantford, Ont., July 2.—The 57th Regiment of Peterboro is taking part in the Dominion Day celebration here.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Seven Buried in Cave-in, and One Killed.

New York, July 1.—Seven men were buried to-night at Firman and Doughty streets, Brooklyn, by the caving in of a huge trench ten feet deep by four feet wide. Six of the men were rescued by the efforts of their mates, but the seventh, Angelo Cousialgova, was dead at the bottom of the great sluice when his body was reached.

JUDGMENTS GIVEN IN EXCHEQUER COURT

Canadian Pacific Loses Case Against the Crown—The McDonald Ballot Box.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, July 2.—Mr. Justice Burbidge in the Exchequer Court delivered judgments on Saturday in the following cases:—

The Canadian Pacific Railway v. The King. This was the case of a claim for subsidy for $264,088 in respect of a branch line of railway constructed from a point on the C. P. R. main line to a point near the Pheasant Hills. The company contended that the Chief Engineer of Railways should have included the cost of the rolling stock and other equipment of the main line for the purpose of computing the amount of subsidy payable per mile. The chief engineer did not include such items in estimating the amount payable per mile, and his report and recommendation to the Minister was adopted by Order in Council. Mr. Justice Burbidge decided that the decision of the Governor in Council was not open to review in the Exchequer Court, and that there was no relief in the court to which as a matter of law the C. P. R. was entitled. Judgment for Crown with costs. Dr. Travers Lewis, for plaintiff; E. L. Newcombe, K.C., for the defendant.

No. 1534. This was a claim by the C. P. R. for compensation for expenses incurred in operating a swing bridge over the Trent Valley Canal near Peterborough, which was built partly at the expense of the Government and partly at the expense of the company, to carry the railway over the canal. The company claim that they had expended the sum of $2,795.34 for such purpose. Judgment for the Crown with costs. F. H. Chrysler and D'Arcy Scott for the suppliants; E. L. Newcombe, K.C., for the Crown.

In re Rev. D. R. McDonald vs. The King. This was a demurrer to suppliant's petition for which he claimed compensation from the Government of Canada for the use of his patented ballot paper in the last Federal elections. The Patents Act, sec. 7, allows the Crown to use a patent upon paying to the patentee such sum as the Commissioner reports to be a reasonable compensation therefor. The Commissioner had not reported any such sum, and the Crown demurred to the petition on the ground that the Commissioner's report was a condition precedent to the right to recover compensation. Judgment allowing demurrer, with costs. F. R. Latchford, K.C., for the suppliant; E. L. Newcombe, K.C., for the Crown.

BIG INCREASE IN CUSTOMS RECEIPTS

An increase of over a million and a half dollars is to be found in the customs' collections of last year over the year before, every month of the past twelve making a better showing than that of the year before. The fiscal year ended Saturday and the amount collected in the port of Montreal totalled up to $13,275,630.17, which amount represented an increase over the corresponding fiscal year of $1,683,970.47.

Below is a comparative statement showing monthly collections of customs' duties at the port during the fiscal years 1904-05, and 1905-06:—

PROROGATION ON SATURDAY NEXT

Militia Order for Guards Given and Invitations have been Issued.

LORD'S DAY AND USURY ACTS

Senate Will Adopt Both. Though There May be Some Discussion on Latter in House.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Ottawa, July 2.—The good headway made with the voting of the estimates by the House on Saturday encourages the idea that prorogation will not be deferred beyond Saturday next.

The usual militia order to make provision for a military escort for the Governor-General on the closing day has been issued, as have also the invitations for those who will have seats in the Senate chamber.

It is not believed that there will be any serious opposition in the Senate to the Lord's Day Act, as amended, or the anti-usury bill. There will be some discussion on the last mentioned measure in the House of Commons, but it will be passed by a large majority.

ARTILLERYMEN BACK FROM ST. ALBANS

The 2nd Regiment of Canadian Artillery returned last night from its long-looked forward to trip to St. Alban's, full of enthusiasm and praise for the good time they had been tendered on the other side of the line. The regiment left here on Saturday afternoon, spending that evening and all day Sunday in the Vermont town, and having one of the finest times in the history of the corps—comparable even to that now famous sojourn in Toronto last year.

On their arrival, the visitors formed up on the main street of the town, where the British colors were saluted by B Company of the National Guard of New York State, the Canadian Regiment returning the compliment by saluting the Stars and Stripes. In the evening, the visiting officers were tendered a dinner by the officers of the National Guard, followed by a ball at the City Hall, where the officers and men had the opportunity of meeting and dancing with all the youth and beauty of the town.

During the dinner to the officers Miss Johnston, the "daughter of the local regiment," was introduced and presented the visitors with a pillow, on which was worked the Artillery coat of arms in the regimental colors, as well as the autograph of each of the officers. On behalf of the Canadian regiment a group photograph of its officers was in return presented to Captain Tillotson and the officers of the Guards.

On Sunday morning the regiment paraded in three divisions—Anglican, Roman Catholic and Congregational—for divine service, patriotic services being held at each of the churches. During the afternoon the officers were taken for a motor drive, while the men had the pleasure of taking a trip on the lake.

Before leaving last evening both of the national emblems were again honored and saluted, and the visiting pulled out of the station for home amidst the cheers of their hosts.

POLICE FIRED ON SUPPOSED ROBBERS

The police of No. 10 station had a hurry-up call about midnight on Saturday.

It appears that a gang of robbers, who have been under the surveillance of the police authorities for some time past, were discovered in a lane in the rear of Dorchester street, near Drummond, trying to enter the house, the residents of which were absent at their country home. When the police ordered the men to surrender, they commenced to run away. He fired on them and an exchange of shots followed. For a moment there was intense excitement, but when the smoke had cleared away it was found that the thieves had made their escape.

WILL CONTROL DAIRY PRODUCTS

New York, July 1.—The Herald yesterday says: Backed by unlimited capital and supported by many of the most prominent financiers of the country, an organization known as the American Farm Products Company has been established for the purpose of taking control of all dairy products, chickens and eggs. It is asserted by those at the head of the company that it will bring about an increased and uniform price to the producer, a diminished price to the consumer, giving him a superior and purer grade of dairy products, and greatly improving present methods of distribution.

Among the eastern capitalists interested in the trust are: Levi P. Morton, Thomas F. Ryan, Harry Payne Whitney, Anthony Grady, E. J. Berwind, Kuhn, Loeb and Company, and several other large banking houses and individual capitalists. The headquarters of the company are at No. 67 Broadway.

At a meeting of the board of directors these officers were elected: President, James R. Morse; first vice-president, Henry D. Cooke; second vice-president, H. L. Wiley; treasurer, Grant Hugh Browne; secretary, Eugene [illegible] mar.

The company has already obtained control and operation of butter making plants with an output of 100,000 lbs. a day, and is now erecting a [illegible] factory in the west which will [illegible] that amount of butter every [illegible] four hours. MONDAY, JULY 2, 1906.

DOMINION DAY.

It is not every nation that is privileged to celebrate the anniversary of its birth. The nations of Europe—great as they are, and heavy with the gathered wealth of the ages—can very seldom point to a day, and say with confidence that it is the anniversary of their building into nationhood. The birthdays of their rulers—the anniversary of glorious battles or of splendid civic achievements—they may honor; but their own birth is lost in the mists of legend and can no more be pointed to with a definite finger than can the sources of some of the mightiest rivers.

The younger nations of this young Continent are more fortunate, however. Our neighbors to the South can lay the tip of the "pointer" on the fourth of July, 1776, and say that on that day precisely they were nationally born. The Dominion of Canada is even more modern—more a later product of greater experience and wisdom—and it can with equal precision point to the first of July, 1867, as its natal day.

From that time to the present, Canada has gone far. Then it was four provinces, all east of Lake Superior. To-day the clamor of its celebration is heard throughout nine provinces spanning the Continent from sea to sea. Then it was a Colonial experiment; to-day, it is a Colonial success and one of the firmest pillars of the Empire. Then London would have felt something like relief had we "cut the painter"; to-day London would feel such a separation as the shock of a serious amputation.

The catalogue of our achievements is a long and familiar one; and our people are possibly a trifle wearied of its repetition on every Dominion Day. But the catalogue of future possibilities has not become so hackneyed; for the very good reason that every new Dominion Day sees immense additions made to it. We can predict with confidence glories for our Canada to-day which we were hardly more than willing to hint at a year or two ago. Every revolving twelve month appears to open to us fresh vistas of dazzling opportunities which were hidden but yesterday. Canada has become the latest favorite of fortune; and new jewels are dropped into her lap with every sunrise.

Who expected Klondike until it came? Then, as if that were not enough, Cobalt emerged from the fastnesses of the far north. A few years ago we could hardly believe that another transcontinental railway was being constructed for us slowly, link by link; but to-day two are racing for honor of sending the first train across the Continent, and a third is promised by one of the master builders of the American Union. It was just the other day that we were wondering what it would feel like to have real troops of our own; and now we have the veterans of the South African War to honor and have replaced the last British garrison on Canadian territory.

The world is moving with us; and we are riding—to borrow a railway figure—on the cow-catcher. There is no other nation on earth to-day which can look so hopefully to the future. We should make more relative progress in the next half century than any other people on earth, be they American, European or Asiatic. It is no figure of speech to claim the twentieth as our century; and those who are here to see Dominion Day celebrated in 1950 will marvel that in their youth they thought the Fourth of July to be a noisy and world-astounding anniversary. It is not that we envy our neighbors. We will [illegible] them the high compliment of follo[illegible] in the way they have shown.

number when one considers the movement of smaller to greater centres of population which has been going on ever since the world began. In 1861, however, a new condition was created. It was then that the real exodus began. With the beginning of that disastrous Civil War, and the obnoxious, but necessary Draft Act, immense numbers of men from the British provinces in North America were induced to cross the border. At home they found themselves obliged to compete with a host of "bounty jumpers," and refugees, who didn't care to bear arms in the war. Many of these people would work for little more than their board to keep themselves until the clouds rolled by. In the United States the provincialists were not liable to conscription, being foreign subjects. They were proverbially steady, frugal, sober and adaptable, and readily took up the tools and machinery dropped by those who had gone to war or fled the country. They were paid higher wages than their predecessors, and this at a time when low wages were paid in the provinces. Many of them, too, enlisted in the Northern Army. No less than 50,000 Canadians fought for the preservation of the Union. Thus we find that in the period between 1860 and 1870 the emigration from this country to the United States was 243,000, or considerably more than double that of the previous decade.

The war lasted longer than was expected and what was intended as temporary employment became permanent. The provincialists had made new homes, new associations, entered upon new modes of life, contracted marriages, and drawn to them relatives and friends. Then, too, it must be admitted that in the majority of cases the emigrants had "done well." Under the exceptional circumstances, their pay was so much better than that of those who remained at home that there is small wonder a veritable rush set in. Since that, as years rolled on, those who were in "the States" were a constant magnet drawing population from us until recently, when the country began to feel the advantage of the vast investment in railway and industrial development and the tide turned in this direction.

Mr. Wickett points out that there were in 1900, 1,181,255 Canadians domiciled in the United States, or 11.4 of the foreign population of that country. Of these 785,958 were "English," and 395,297 French. He goes on to show that with the children born to Canadian parents in the United States, the total loss to Canada has been 2,200,000, of which approximately 1,200,000 were English and 1,000,000 French.

"Every adult costs his native country at least one thousand dollars to nourish and educate. So after making allowance for the one hundred thousand of British birth and education, Canada may be said to have invested in the American Republic living capital assessable at $1,650,000,000—a sufficient drain on a young nation! This enormous loss Canada has withstood, although at the same time it has been steadily carrying on extensive public works. It makes one marvel at the recuperative power of young, fertile countries. . . . There is a contra account, of course, for United States emigration into Canada. The Canadian census of 1901 places their number at 127,899. At one thousand dollars per head this means $128,000,000."

Mr. Wickett goes very fully into the location and occupation of the Canadian-born residents of the Republic, and shows that in 1900 as many as 90.8 per cent. of the English-Canadians and 84 per cent. of the French-Canadians had become naturalized.

As to how they have succeeded in their new homes, it may be noted that 75 per cent. of the "Americans" who have come into Canada in the past five years are repatriated Canadians. That many have had reason to be satisfied, however, is shown by Mr. Wickett, who says: "The railway magnate of the West is a Canadian as was the late Erastus Wiman. America's wizard electrician received his first schooling in telegraphy in Ontario. (His father was a Digby, N.S., man). The inventor of the Bell telephone also lived for a while in the same province, lecturing for two years at Queen's University; and the first Atlantic cable was promoted in the United States by a Nova Scotian. Canadians preside over two of the foremost American universities; while Harvard and many other seats of learning have a goodly array of Canadian talent in their faculties. The distinguished professor who has lately left Baltimore to grace the chair of medicine at Oxford is a Canadian, as is curiously the gentleman who has been invited to succeed him. At least one of the great national banks of the United States has a Canadian president; and a number of prominent banking and financial houses have Canadian vice-presidents, cashiers and other officials. A full list of distinguished Canadians in the United States would indeed have to include also litterateurs, clergymen, actors, members of Congress and even one diplomatic representative of the Republic."

Let us hope that the interchange of population and consequent increasing unity of feeling and community of interests may be as lasting a pledge of amity between the two nations which divide this mighty continent, as Mr. Wickett believes it will.

TRIED TO SLAY FORMER FRIEND

Scotty McDonald Stabbed and Battered John McDonald Near Brampton.

PREMEDITATED REVENGE.

Victim, Though Dying, Walked to a Neigboring Farm—Both Were Scotch.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Brampton, July 2.—Scotty McDonald is under arrest here charged with what may be the murder of John McDonald, a neighbor. This morning Scotty attacked the latter with a hammer and knife, wounding him terribly, and it is not thought he can live 12 hours.

The attack was in revenge for what Scotty McDonald regarded as treachery on the part of his friend.

A month ago the victim was a witness against Scotty, who was tried and finally convicted of assault upon a Brampton barber. His release took place Saturday.

It was largely owing to John McDonald's evidence that he was convicted.

McDonald is wounded upon the head, his lungs are exposed and his intestines perforated. In spite of this he was able to walk two hundred yards to a neighbor's house, and apply for shelter.

The accused is a native of Edinburgh and is about 35 years of age. The victim is a farm laborer on the Oliver farm near Deery West.

AMERICAN EDITORS HERE.

Were Much Impressed with Montreal and Quebec.

About 250 members of the National Editorial Association, who have been touring Canada for the past week, arrived in Montreal at eight o'clock on Saturday evening. A reception was tendered them at the City Hall, where they were welcomed by Ald. Sadler. A drive was then taken around the Mountain, where the formal address of welcome was presented, and responded to by Mr. J. A. Willard. Yesterday morning they were the guests of the Montreal Press Club, and were taken for a trolley ride. The rest of the day was put in visiting the different parts of the city. The party left last night for Ottawa, apparently much impressed with their visit in Montreal.

Mr. J. B. Whitehead, speaking to the Star last night, said that he could voice the sentiments of the whole association in saying that the trip through the province of Quebec, and particularly in Montreal and Quebec city, was a most enjoyable one. Their reception in both cities had been most cordial, and they would take back with them none but the most pleasant recollections of their trip. He could not say too much for the courtesy of the employes o fthe railway companies, who had done all in their power to make the journey as pleasant as possible. The members were much taken up with Montreal, its beautiful residences and its wonderful business facilities, and Mr. Whitehead said that this was not the last time they would visit this city.

A Sensational Street Car Collision.

A street car collision at the corner of Amherst and Ontario streets at 10.45 last night caused quite a little scare, but fortunately no serious damage. An open car from Dominion Park was going west on Ontario street, when, at the corner of Amherst, it was struck by an Amherst street car bound down the hill. A number of people were on the running board of the Ontario street car, and seeing that the collision was inevitable, most of them moved out of the way or jumped. The Amherst car struck the Ontario at the rear end, knocking it off the track and smashing the running board, but only one man was hit, and he was not sufficiently hurt to be taken to the hospital. To add to the excitement of the accident, the Amherst street car's motor fuse burst into flames and burned out. After a time the Amherst car was dragged away, the Ontario car was got back on the track and proceeded in a damaged condition with a load of passengers more frightened than hurt.

Badly Injured by Broken Bottle.

Mr. Dickson, of 1373 Cadieux street, met with a serious accident Friday evening while playing lacrosse on Fletcher's Field. While running, he slipped and fell on a broken bottle, cutting a gash in his leg from his knee to his foot. Dr. Leprohon was called, but found the wound so serious that he had the young man removed to the Royal Victoria Hospital, where his wound was dressed. Mr. Dickson will probably be confined to the house for several weeks, if the results are not still more serious. The residents of Mount Royal avenue are indignant over the affair, and place the blame on the crowd of toughs who hang around drinking, and throw their empty bottles in the park, where they become concealed in the grass, and are a constant danger to those who frequent the parks.

Longshoremen Hold Meeting.

At yesterday afternoon's meeting of the Longshoremen's Association it was decided not to hold a private picnic on Labor Day. Business on the water front was reported as being very active. A large contingent of new members were initiated, and communications were read from Portland, St. John, N.B., Buffalo and other important shipping points.

How Indigestion Is Really Cured.

If you had the opportunity we have of reading the letters which come to these offices from persons who have been cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you would not be long in making up your mind to put this treatment to the test when troubled with derangements of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

When we tell you that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure intestinal indigestion of the most aggravated form we have in mind the thousands of such cures that have been reported to us.

By enlivening the action of the liver and causing a healthful flow of bile into the intestines, this treatment hastens the passage of food along the intestinal canal, insures regular movement of the bowels, and positively removes the cause of such symptoms as headache, dizziness, biliousness, muddy complexion, irritability and bodily pains.

DONNED BROTHER'S ATTIRE FOR DEATH

Young Lady Dresses in Men's Clothing and Throws Herself Into Lake.

TWO OTHER DROWNINGS.

Old Man Committed Suicide, While One of Party Fooling in a Boat Went Down.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Hamilton, Ont., July 1.—The body of Miss Eva May Harris, adopted daughter of William Jarvis, 355 Barton street east, was found floating in Lake Ontario, near the city filtering basin, today, dressed in male clothing. Miss Harris was twenty years old, and frequently talked of suicide. On Friday night she was missed from her home, and in her room her clothing was found, while a suit belonging to a brother was missing. It is supposed that she donned the brother's suit in order to avoid attention in walking to the Beach, and that while temporarily insane she threw herself into the lake. No inquest will be held.

On Thursday afternoon, John McKellar, 11 Barton stret east, was missed from his home, and this morning his body was found in the bay at the foot of John street. He was 74 years old and not strong mentally. As he had been in poor health for some time it is believed that he suicided. A widow and family survive.

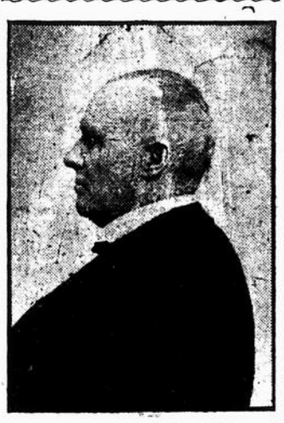

The third drowning in two days occurred here this afternoon when Ernest Wright, of Toronto, a steward on the Turbinia, found a watery grave. The young man, in company with three or four companions, got a small boat and sailed out in the bay. In some way, probably through fooling, the boat was dumped and Wright was drowned, sigking like a stone. The others clung to the upturned craft until rescued. There may be an inquest.

TURKISH TROOPS MUTINY.

Many Slain When Bombarded by Their Loyal Comrades.

Hodeida, Turkish Arabia, July 1.—Another mutiny has broken out among the Turkish army reserves in Yemen Province. Sixteen battalions demanded that they be repatriated and the commander-in-chief, Marshal Feizi Pasha, ordered the forts to open fire on the mutineers, who surrendered after a few hundred of them had been killed.

The rebel Arab forces are advancing on Amran and an important engagement is reported to have been fought, both sides sustaining heavy losses.

The Montrose, of the C.P.R., which was cleared on Friday, and which it was thought would get away on Saturday, will not sail for London and Antwerp until Tuesday morning.

The Lake Erie, of the C. P. R., is expected in port to-day. She reached Quebec Sunday morning, landing her large number of steerage passengers.

The Sardinian, of the Allan line, passed Father Point 1.30 yesterday, and is expected in port this evening.

The Virginian, of the Allan line, came into port on Saturday morning from Liverpool at 9.25. Captain Vipond reports a very disagreeable passage, with heavy winds, sometimes amounting to a gale, since leaving Moville, and there was also considerable fog.

INTER-PROVINCIAL GOLF SOME EXCELLENT PLAY

Ontario Won From Quebec by Five to Four—Match Between Lyon and Reith Was Feature of the Play.

Special Correspondent of the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, July 2.—The Interprovincial golf match on Saturday between Ontario and Quebec resulted, as anticipated, in a win for Ontario, though the margin, 5 to 4, was narrow, and it was only after the last couple arrived at the eighteenth hole that the contest was decided.

There was a good deal of excitement over the result, for the golf played during the afternoon had been of exceptional merit, a greater all-round excellence than has been displayed in previous matches between the provinces, so that the outlook for the amateur championship is exceedingly promising.

It is already evident that this year's champion will have a harder row to hoe than his predecessors have had.

THE GOLF CHAMPIONSHIPS AT OTTAWA.—Mr. Geo. S. Lyon, the present Champion.

The question of the title is a very open one.

George S. Lyon of Toronto, is generally conceded, because of his career, to be the strongest favorite, but there are Fritz Martin, of Hamilton; T. N. Reith, of Beaconsfield; Montreal; H. D. Leveson-Gower, of Ottawa; R. E. MacDougall, of Montreal; H. H. Hansard, of Ottawa, and Percy Taylor, of Montreal, all strong candidates, while some of the other less known men may cause a surprise.

The links of the Ottawa Golf Club are difficult and trying, so that the local men will have some advantage during the first days of the competition. Bogey is 82, but is seldom done.

FRITZ MARTIN DOES WELL.

The best performance of Saturday was accomplished by F. R. Martin, of Hamilton. He is stated to be playing better golf this year than he has ever done, and certainly his first appearance at the championship meeting would justify this. He returned the remarkable score of 82, thus equalling bogey. His driving was moderately long, but always accurate, while on the green his putting was deadly. He said after the game to the Star correspondent that he had never felt better, and would make a strong bid for the championship. His Saturday score, taken with bogey is interesting.

Bogey—
5 4 5 5 5 3 4 4 5 4 3 3 5 5 6 5 5 6—82
F. R. Martin—
2 3 4 5 5 6 4 4 5 4 2 4 5 5 6 6 5 5—82

Leveson-Gower, his opponent, who is comptroller at Government House, and a young player of brilliance, did not return a score. He is somewhat erratic, but if he is on his game when the individual championships begin he will upset some apple carts. He is the picture of an athlete, and full of spirits and vitality.

THE LYON-REITH MATCH.

Despite the fact that Martin was putting up the best golf of the day, the spectators paid no heed to him. All interest centred in the match between George Lyon and T. N. Reith. Reith is a young Scotchman who came to this country last year, and is one of the masters of Montreal High School. In Scotland he had not much time to play, but since his arrival in Canada he has practised faithfully, and is already reckoned one of the finest golfers in the Dominion.

VERY DIFFERENT STYLES.

The difference between the two players was very marked. In style and appearance they made a perfect contrast. Lyon is short and thickset, and might be said to be utterly devoid of style, according to the golfers' hall-mark. But he has nerve and vim, and when he strikes the ball the spectator knows it. Reith, on the other hand, is tall and somewhat slender. He has the easy grace of the natural golfer, and with his long swing does not seem to impart so much force to his stroke. He was at a disadvantage in not having played over the course before.

HOW THE MATCH WAS PLAYED.

Both led off, from the first tee, with good drives, but Reith followed up with one of the loveliest approaches ever seen on a golf links, and, lying better than Lyon, who had played the odd, he holed out in 5, and stood one up. Splendid golf followed this sensation, and the crowd of spectators increased, a circumstance which seemed to make playing beautiful golf, looked as if he was going to make a sad mess of the champion's reputation.

A close struggle followed. Once or twice Lyon might have secured an advantage, and once or twice all Reith had to do, was to tip the ball into the hole, but they both unaccountably failed, and Reith was still 3 up at the turn.

THE SECOND HALF.

The second half of the Ottawa course is much more difficult than the first. There are more hazards and hidden pitfals. Both players had bad luck, but the greater share came Reith's way. Three times he had a short putt for the hole, and missed what a mere novice would have done all right. Lyon made the same mistake twice. In spite of these faults on the part of the players, it was spectacular golf and a battle royal.

LYON PICKS UP.

After the turn Lyon began to make up the leeway. He won the tenth, halved the eleventh, and won the twelfth. Going towards the thirteenth Reith got into an unseen swamp and gave up the hole. The game was then all even. The next two should have gone to the Scotsman, but he spoilt his chances by bad putting. Lyon won the sixteenth and eighteenth and was two up on the match. It was anybody's game right to the end, and it must be admitted that, on the whole, Reith played slightly better golf than Lyon. He was intensely unlucky, and did not know the course at all. The scores in detail are:—

	Ontario.	Quebec.
George S. Lyon.	1
T. N. Reith..		0
F. R. Martin	1
H. D. Leveson-Gower.		0
T. Blackwood	0
Percy Taylor..		0
D. Laird..	1
Gerald Lees		0
W. A. H. Kerr..	0
H. H. Hansard		1
D. Dick	0
R. E. MacDougall		1
A. Z. Balmer, jr	0
T. Morgan..		1
R. H. C. Cassils	0
G. W. MacDougall ..		1
G. Southam....	1
A. Z. Palmer..		0
H. J. Martin	1
H. M. Greevy		0
Total	5	4

George Lyon said after the game that Reith would be sure to have a say in the championship. As to himself he never felt in better form, and would make a big struggle to capture the honor.

Another player who made a brave showing was R. E. MacDougall, of Montreal. He beat his man 3 up and 2 to play. The best performances were accomplished by Fritz Martin, R. E. MacDougall, George Lyon and T. N. Reith, and if Leveson-Gower is included, the quintette ought to provide the Canadian champion for 1906.

HOME RUN HAGGERTY

FINDS NOT ONLY A RUBBER-ARMED SHORTSTOP AND LEATHER-HANDED CATCHER, BUT A LEAGUE OF STEEL-ARMED PITCHERS AND ELASTIC-LEGGED FIELDERS.

(Copyright, 1906, by Geo. W. Daley.)

I never thought we could have done it: Pinch and I clumb out of the window of the big room the Singlelookers had given us to live in the night of the game that Pinch won from them by climbing over the Fourwingers' catcher's head and eluding his four hands and dropping onto the home plate. We had to drop about twenty feet, for the Singlelookers built their winders high up from the ground, bein' big people. But we got away without bein' seen, an' beat it off across the desert toward the railroad.

We had a general idea of the way we wanted to go, and traveled pretty fast, so that if the Singlelookers woke up and concluded they wanted us to give 'em any baseball lessons they wouldn't be able to ketch us. But after traveling through the desert all that night and all the next day we gave up the railroad idea and concluded we were lost.

We tried to sleep on the sand an' the ants te us. We kept on walkin' and the mosquitoes bit us. We'd run an they'd be there when we stopped. We were mighty glad when we seen a light ahead, found it was a house, knocked an' heard somebody say "Come in." We did. A little sunburned man was sitting at one side of a little table and a great man with great big feet and great big hands was sittin' opposite him. They were playin' cards. We told them we were lost an' wanted to know if we could either stay there for the night or be directed to the railroad station.

"Guess you can stay here," said the big fellow. "Sit down till I finish this hand, an' I'll give you somethin' to eat."

So we sit down. Now Pinch hadn't latched the door when he came in, an' it edged open a little. The big fellow saw it, grunted an' says:

"Shut the door. The moskeeters will fill the house."

Now the house was only one room an' that room was a big one, but before Pinch or me could make the slightest move to'rds shuttin' that little dried-up feller just dropped the ace of spades he was about to lead an' reached to'rds the door an' his arm kept on reachin' an' a-reachin' an' a-reachin 'till it hd reached fully fifteen feet an'ketched the door, shut it and hooked the latch. An' then here was a quick snap an' there was his arm back at the table an' leadin' the ace o' spades, just as though nuthin' had ever happened.

I looked at Pinch. His face looked like a map of Surriseville on the pike. As fer me it didn't seem as though I could pump enough wind into my lungs to get up a good gasp.

"Jee-rushy crickets!" Pinch managed to ejaculate. An' then somethin' else happened. Without movin' from his seat the little feller run that arm out again over the big feller's shoulder, down his back and pulled a card out of his belt, where I suppose he had it when we came in.

The big feller laughed, threw his hand on the table an' says, "You win." An' they turned around an' looked at us.

"What you lookin' so scared about?" said the big feller.

"Them arms," said Pinch. "Now tell me that you got leather hands an' the problem will be solved."

"I have," said the big feller, "but what's the problem?"

"Why, the problem of the rubber-armed shortstop and leather-handed ketcher of the All-Star League."

"Why, I'm a leather-handed ketcher," said the big feller, "an' this feller is a rubber-armed shortstop," said he, "but they ain't no problem about it. There are others. Four teams in the Stretchit County League has got men just like it, an' rubber-legged outfielders an' steel-arm pitchers thrown in to boot. But who are you?"

As I said, I didn't have wind enough to say anything. So Pinch had to tell him. An' they'd never heard of us! Think of that! An' they'd never heard of Tuff Finn an' Grabber Cachook, the original leather-handed ketcher an' rubber-armed shortstop. I say original, because they were original with us. Tehese fellers there claimed to be the only rubber-limbed marvels in the country.

"Why, yes," says the big fellow, while him with the elastic arms got us somethin' to eat. They call me Hickory Hank, 'cause my hands were tanned with hickory bark w'ch I claim is better than an yother kind. The other ketchers in the league are Hemlock Harry and Tamarack Tim and Spruce Sam. I got the best arm, but Spruce Sam is better on throwin', because the leather on his hands is more pliable. An' then Reacher Rufe, this shortstop he can reach twenty-three feet, while the shortstops on the other teams are only young fellers, an' not quite got their growth yet, can reach but twenty-two feet.

"Great Heavens," says Pinch. "You fellows are wasting time. Why don't you go an' apply for a job in the American or National League? Think o' the money the New York Giants would give you!"

"I don't know them leagues you speak of. I never heard of them Giants."

"Never heard o' the Giants!" says Pinch. "An' the Reds, an' the Pirates and Chance's Cubs an' the W'ite Stockin's an' the At'letics? Didn't you never hear o' Matty, the premier pitcher?"

Hickory Hank—him with the leather paws—he shakes his head.

"Premier pitcher!" says he. "Can he pitch the gimlet?"

"The what?" says I.

"The gimlet ball. It winds around the batter's head three times before it zips over the pan into the ketcher's hands."

"Never heard of it," says I.

"I guess them Giants ain't much," says Hank. "Kin they throw the goose egg?"

Here was more mystery. "What's the goose egg?" says I.

"Oh, it ain't no curve. But our steel arm pitchers is so strong an' put such pressure on the ball that it goes up to the batter shaped like an egg. It's very hard to hit safe."

Well, we had somethin' to eat, and then Reacher Rufe he sets down an' tells us talk that we can understand.

"This is Strechit County you are in," says he. "Nobody knows what makes it, but its the greatest ball playing place in the world. From earliest youth our little boys who promise quickness an' speed are trained to stretch their arms, while fellers with pluck get their hands tanned into leather an' become ketchers or first basemen, an' the fast runners get their legs made rubbery for speed. Those who can pitch have their arms made into cast iron at ten years of age, cast steel at fifteen, an' Harveyized at twenty, so they're fit for years of fine pitchin' after that, or till they get stiff-fingered.

"I've never heard of the two men you're after. No one in our league ever went out to Arkansaw that I know of."

Pinch an' I couldn't sleep all night, but just talked over the marvelous adventure. What would Josh Hapgood say? What would the Corndroppers' Circuit say when we told them there was a whole league of rubber-armed an' leather-handed an' steel-winged an' rubber-legged marvels in existence. There was to be a game the next day between the Golosh and Gumboat nines in this Stretchit County circuit, and we determined to halt in our rush to the railroad an' see it.

They had a fine ball ground, and the way them rubber-armed fellers passed the balls around would have made the best infield in the world hang their heads. They were everywhere, scooping up drives, pulling down liners fifteen feet in the air without jumping, and if they did muff they could snap their arms back quick and ketch the ball before it hit the ground.

And the steel-armed pitchers! The balls came over the plate so you couldn't see 'em any more than the time Pinch made-believe pitch an' didn't throw any at all, but snapped them up his sleeve.

That score went nuthin' to nuthin' for thirty-two innin's, neither side able to get a man to first base.

In the last half of the thirty-third Hickory Hank comes to me an' says:—

"Do you want to bat for me, an' see what a steel-armed twirler'll do to you?"

"What do you want," says I—"a home run?"

He laughed. "There's been one home run made here in five years," says he, "and that because a ball got lost in a player's shoe. Just hit the ball."

I didn't say anything. I got a bat, went to the plate, and got a strike called on me on the gimlet on the first ball.

Then he threw a goose egg, an' I let it go, for I knew Hickory Hank had told me about not bein' able to hit 'em safe.

That was two strikes.

Then the pitcher, thinkin' I was easy, c'ncluded to put all the force of his steel arm in the ball an' flash one over that I wouldn't see. But I was ready. He hadn't brought his arm down when I started to swing and the ball an' bat met with a crash like a thousand bricks.

Three pairs o' hands on the ends o' elastic arms in that infield shot up in the air, grabbin' at that sphere; three pairs o' elastic legs in that outfield started twenty-threein' back toward the fence. A leather-handed ketcher on first base cussed, an' a steel-armed pitcher looked disgusted, and Hickory Hank and his gang yelled like Indians as I dusted round the bags in that last half of the thirty-third innin' and won the game.

The ball went so far they had to get a search warrant to find it. As we went home with Hickory Hank and Reacher Rufe, I seen Pinch stuffin' rope in his pocket.

"Wot's that for?" says I.

"S-sh!" says he. "That's to bind together two pairs o' hands—one rubber an' the other leather. Then back to the Corndroppers."

"You—ain't — goin' — to — steal — them?" says I, a w'ite light breakin' on me.

"As it were," says Pinch. "The pair we have sought for so long are here. Hick'ry Hank an' Tuff Finn are synonymous; so are Reacher Rufe and Grabber Cachook."

"Si-nonny—what was that last, Pinch?"

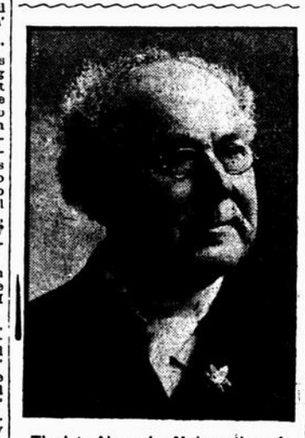

"The same. They stretched in truth like they stretch their arms w'en they said they'd never been in Arkansaw. We carry them back to-night."

As we neared the house I heard Hick'ry Hank (or Tuff Finn) say:

"These fellows are too good, Rufe. We must keep 'em. Better lock 'em in the cyclone cellar."

I told Pinch an' he said a crowded hour was at hand.

A Visit to Dalmatia.

Very interesting to the prospective tourist would be the sketchy impressions of Dalmatia, from the pen of Mr. E. C. Peinoto, in the July Scribner's:—

Dalmatia is a long, thin strip of territory, bordering the east coast of the Adriatic—its northern extremity on a parallel with Genoa, its southernmost point opposite Rome. Like all countries bathed by the Mediterranean, it presents an arid front to the sea. Untouched by the onward march of the past hundred years, it is a country of transition. In it the Occident touches the Orient and almost mingles. Its coast, inclining toward Italy, has imbibed Latin influence, but once over the mountain wall the Orient begins—Turkey, with all its ignorance and superstition. In its marts Italians of the coast—the "Bodoli"—meet Slavs, and Turks, and Servians in turbaned fez and flowing trousers.

Bald mountains lift their heads from the water's edge; bleak islands break the horizon with clear cut silhouettes—with an almost utter lack of verdure, save on the gentler slopes and in the rocky hollows, where pale olives and almond trees shelter their frail branches. Local color is lacking. It is a simple drawing, delicately pencilled as a Da Vinci background. But on this simple drawing Nature plays her choicest color scales. The whitish mountains and pale rock surfaces catch every variation of the atmosphere—every gradation of sun and shadow, of morning and evening, and sensitively pale into silvery opals, then flush with crimson and gold or threateningly lower under heavy thunderclouds.

Only occasionally man's presence is felt in a bit of ruined castle topping an island, or a chapel perched upon a ledge above the sea, and once in a while only, as a surprise, a town sheltered snug in the recess of a tiny harbor comes to greet the traveller.

NO MORE MONEY FOR RUSSIAN BUND

Jewish Socialists Will Hereafter Obtain Funds for Propaganda in the Dominion.

A bitter fight is now being waged between the various factions of the Montreal Anarchistic and Socialistic Party, and as a result of the quarrel many of the members will refuse to contribute another penny toward the support of the widows and orphans of the murdered Jews of Russia.

The Star was told on Saturday afternoon that Dr. Gregory Maxime, who came to Montreal, under the auspices of the Russian Bund, only succeeded in collecting about $100. It was said that Dr. Maxime was not well received by those who are in favor of taking the Jews away from Russia and placing them in Palestine where they would have a country of their own.

Mr. G. Sanders, who has taken a deep interest in social problems, declared that it was useless to send any more money to assist the Russian Jews under the circumstances.

"The Jews have no territory of their own in Russia," said Mr. Sanders, "and they will always be subjected to persecutions in that country. Therefore, a very large section of us are in favor of the Zionist movement. We have decided to fight the Bund, which was responsible for Dr. Gregory Maxime coming to Canada. Maxime was boomed by the organ of the Bund, which announced that he had been the president of the Baltic revolution."

DARKENS MAXIME'S RECORD.

Mr. Sanders states that Dr. Maxime was not the president of the Baltic revolutionist movement, but simply acted as a chairman at a meeting at the time when the revolution was being discussed.

Mr. Sanders further declares that when the Jews entered the revolution it was not because they could see any benefit in it for themselves in particular, but because they were being oppressed, and believed they were justified in breaking the chains of bondage in which the Russian workingmen were being held. The speaker says that the Canadian Jew no longer sympathizes with the Jews who are members of the Russian Bund.

"In future," concluded Mr. Sanders, "we intend to keep our money at home and educate our own Jewish people in Christian socialism. We intend that they shall become loyal citizens of Canada, that they shall be given the franchise and have the right to vote at all elections. This, we are convinced, will do more good than sending our good Canadian coin to the Russian Bund."

Fire Gutted a Billiard Room.

Fire broke out at an early hour today in the billiard and pool room of Arthur Lepine, 1854 East St. Catherine street. The cause of the fire is thought to have been caused by a lighted cigarette or cigar being thrown on the floor shortly before the place was closed. The blaze had a good start before it was discovered, and had burned its way through the floor of the dwelling above when the firemen of No. 13 station arrived and checked it with a couple of streams. Mr. Lepine, the proprietor of the place, is armless, having lost both arms in an accident in the Hochelaga cotton mill ten years ago. The loss is estimated at $500.

Capitals Made a Fine Showing and Managed to Irritate the Shamrocks so Much That They Lost Their Temper with Disastrous Results.

Beaten on aturday but not discouraged, the Shamrocks all this afternoon meet the Saints, champions of Manitoba, for the first time.

When the went into the club rooms after their defeat Paddy Brennan had cut three stitches in his scalp and shook hands with Ralph, of the Capitals him and congratulated him on his team's victory. "It was your own game," said Ralph. "The best of all the criticism that can be passed is the essconched about the match.

"Well we didn't always win," replied Brennan, "and we can't always control our temper, and you boys played a fine game."

He sized the situation up fairly well. The Capitals did play a good game, especially in the last quarter, but there is one man on the team to whom particular credit, if it should be called that, is due, for the Capital victory. That is Fagin.

He is the Capital point, and it was he who broke up the Shamrock team by causing Brennan to lose his head.

Fagin seems to be an aggressive sort of player. At the end of the second quarter he hit Paddy Brennan on the head, and those who saw it thought that Mr. Lally, the referee, was rather dilatory in punishing him, but the explanation of this was that the referee thought he had hit Brennan's stick.

When he found that the Shamrock man was bleeding from a cut on the head and had to go in to have it sewn up, he ran after Fagin and sent him to the fence.

MANY ROUGHED IT.

Fagin was not the only offender, Hennessy and Johnny Brennan and other Shamrocks in the heat of the fight did some ugly checking too, as is shown by the number of them that were ruled off,but it was Fagin jabbing the end of his stick into Paddy Brennan's face, and cutting his lip, that caused the fight which demolished Shamrock's chances of victory.

They had some hard luck, too. McIlwaine, for instance really scored one game for Capitals although officially the credit is given to an Ottawa man.

The ball went over the net, and McIlwaine holding up his stick to catch it, caused it to bound back between the poles. Ralph also came within an ace once of scoring for Shamrocks, but in his case the ball struck the body of Hatton and this saved the situation.

But the Capitals put up a fine spirited game, although the work of their home can be improved upon.

They showed an immense improvement over the work they did in the match against the Nationals here.

But as it is a well known fact that the Shamrocks go slowly at the beginning of a match and then as a rule continue to improve right along, so the Ottawa teams, be they in hockey or lacrosse, nearly always show up weak in practice and play at the beginning of a season and then brace up and make a great finish.

COUNT IN THE CAPITALS.

They certainly will have to be seriously considered in any championship calculations that are being made from now on.

That they are proud of their victory is but natural, for it is not a small thing to beat these Shamrocks in their own dominions.

There was a good crowd in attendance, but nothing like what there would have been if people could have known what a sensational match there was in store for them.

It was a match full of life and incident, with hardly one dull moment—a match to be remembered.

At the beginning it looked as if there was going to be a regular love feast, for when the players gathered to get the referee's instructions green and red mingled indiscriminately and shook hands all around, and the two trainers, McGilton, who has taken Pete Green's place, and the ever-reliable Tom Moore, hardly opened their mouths at any time.

The match started late, but that was, in a way, caused by searching for a judge of play.

At last Mr. Pettigrew, of Montreal, agreed to act. He left most of the decisions to be made to Mr. Lally, however.

CAPITALS GOT THE DRAW.

When the whistle blew, a Capital man got the draw, but he slipped, and Currie captured the ball.

Shamrocks made a great rush on the Capital goals, but did not keep it there long. It went back, and the Capitals shot many times, Eastwood doing the best shooting. Then the tide went in Shamrocks' favor, and the two Brennans did most of the attacking, Paddy Brennan once striking the cross-bar with the ball.

Pringle relieved the Capital defence from the pressure, and gave it to Ashfield, who made a fine run. Then Robinson made a good run, and threw to Munday. It was the latter's first appearance as a senior, he taking the place of O'Reilly, who was not in condition, and he did very well, Captain Pilon, of the Intermediates, following his play with approval.

Munday became hard pressed and threw the ball back to Robinson, who had kept on running. From him it went to Hennessy and the two Brennans, and then its progress was stopped.

It went to the other end of the field, but came back after a few minutes, and Robinson got it again. Starrs trying hard to check him, but being not quite fast enough.

HEAVY CHECKING.

There was some heavy checking all around then for a little while, and Ralph was sent to the fence for tripping.

Starrs made a fine run, and gave the ball to Ashfield. He and Bones Allen missed some fine chances to score.

Robinson made another run, closely followed by Fagin. The Shamrocks then rushed things hard for a while, but the Capital defence was excellent. The attack was so impetuous that Hogan was knocked down in a collision behind the goals.

When the ball went back, Gaul missed a good chance to score.

Currie ran nearly the length of the field and Ashfield after him with his stick shouldered, but he could not catch him.

The Caps' defence was very good all this time, but there was some heavy and rude checking going on near their goals.

Robinson made a long shot, which was too wide, and then Hennessy was ruled off for using Fagin rather roughly.

The Shamrocks kept up a great attack for a while, but the Capital defence was still too strong for them.

Ashfield and Starrs brought the ball down again, and first Allen tried to score, but kept the ball too long, and then Eastwood tried in vain, and the Capital supporters showed themselves disgusted with the failures.

It was a strange thing that the Capitals started out with a rush, and if it had come down to a judgment on the condition of either team, it would have been found probably that they had a little the better of it then.

Johnny Brennan took the ball from them and ran all the way from midfield to the Capital goals with it, where Fagin stopped him, the two coming together with a thud.

Hogan sent in a fine shot which was stopped, and while the Capitals made a run, Howard came on again, after having been ruled off in the previous quarter.

THEN CAME THE FIGHT.

Then came the fight, to the Shamrocks, the fatal fight.

Brennan and Fagin were the offenders, and Hennessy butted in. Sticks and fists flashed, and they all went off.

A minute or so afterwards Johnny Brennan was also put off, but before that Murphy scored, making it five for the Shamrocks to four for the Capitals.

For a while the entire Shamrock team clustered around the goals to protect them, there being not a green shirt visible on three-fourths of the field.

Had they stuck to that policy they might have got through with it, but they got it in their head to practice the old maxium that the best way to defend one's goals is to attack those of the opposing side, and that was their undoing.

THE LAST TIE.

Murphy scored another game, and that made it a tie, five to five.

Play became very furious but nearly all the players were nervous.

Even Starrs lost his head and grabbed a Shamrock man around the neck, kicking him as he held him.

The hundreds of Shamrock supporters sat still with bated breath, hoping for another score by their side, while the small Capital contingent let out piercing screams of joy every little while.

The play was so absorbing that a drunken man clambered over the fence, and made his way with a rolling gait to centre field without any one observing him for some time.

Shortly after Bones Allen scored the last game of the match, making the score six to five in Capitals favor.

After that Kavanagh was put on the home and Harry Smith in goals, but it was no use, the match was lost to the Shamrocks.

QTTAWA WAS DELIGHTED.

People Cheered Themselves Hoarse Around Star Bulletins There.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, July 2.—The news of the great victory of the Capitals was received here with unbounded surprise and delight. It was never anticipated that a win was within the measure of possibility, for those occasions on which the Capitals have defeated the Irishmen in Montreal are exceedingly rare. The betting gives the best idea of the trend of expert opinion. Even money was never taken and as Saturday drew near the best that could be done was 5 to 3 on the Shamrocks. Then it became 2 to 1, and on Friday night there had been so little doing that 10 to 4 was going a-begging. So the Caps left Ottawa with very little belief left behind them that they would return with honors. A rush of eager news gatherers had collected at The Star office here, but these had dispersed when they thought it was all over. There was hardly a soul around the bulletin boards when the news finally came that the Senators had struck a winning streak. The report spread like wildfire, for Ottawa is more or less like a big village, and news travels rapidly, and soon there was a yelling cheering crowd. The summer heart of Ottawa is lacrosse all right, and the evening saw Sparks street crowded more densely than it has been this season. The excitement spread to Parliament Hill, where the Commons was sitting, and scarce a soul in the city was unaware of the great victory. Yesterday the Standard was bought up quickly, and the good folk of Ottawa gloated over the details. The team got an enthusiastic reception on arrival home. Several hundred gathered to welcome them and festivity ran riot.

SATURDAY'S LACROSSE.—A snapshot taken by a Staff Photographer, showing the Shamrocks making an attack on the Capital goals. The players can be easily distinguished. Referee Lally is at the extreme left.

Notes.

Percy Quinn brought the following clipping from a Toronto paper with him:

"No, lacrosse is cleaner and better without the field captain. Anyway, Tom O'Connell was as good as a thirteenth man to the Shamrocks at any time, and given a weak referee, he could always with his winning ways, so work the official that his opponents were generally playing a man short at critical points of the game. But Tom was the greatest field captain of his day. There were no others like him and the other clubs would be foolish to move for his reinstatement. As far as Toronto goes, no team in this end of the league ever had a field captain who was worth the price of his flannel suit."

When it was shown to Alderman O'Connell, he smiled and said:

"The man who wrote that has kissed the blarney stone.

"But I will say this, that if there had been field captains on Saturday, things would have been entirely different."

Tennis Popular at McGill.

The increasingly popular sport, tennis has proved to be a great favorite at McGill this season, and at all hours ladies and gentlemen may be seen on the cinder courts. A series of monthly handicap matches were drawn up and the tournament this month was a most interesting one. All the matches were keenly contested and over thirty ladies and gentlemen competed.

The winners of the ladies' competition was Miss E. Mowat, who played a splendid game in the final with Miss Lyman.

The gentlemen's competition was a very close one, and was won by Mr. Duthie after a hard and fast match with Mr. Campbell.

Outremont's Intermediates Lost.

The C.P.R. Intermediates met the Outremont Intermediates after the senior game on Saturday.

This was a walk-over for the C.P.R., at least, in the first half, the score being 3 to 0.

The Outremont Intermediates picked up in the second half, and scored one.

The C.P.R. also scored and the final totally was 4 to 1 in their favor.

Mr. Brown, of Outremont, acted as referee, and gave good satisfaction.

NATIONALS MADE A GOOD IMPRESSION

They Did Not Win, but Toronto People Liked Their Play—Some Were Badly Used.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, July 2.—Though the Nationals were defeated 8 to 3 by the Tecumsehs at the Island, they were not disgraced. In fact their fast work at times took the spectators by storm. Another circumstance where they had the sympathy of the crowd was in the third quarter, when Davidson deliberately hauled off and hit Lamoureux over the head giving him a nasty wound. It is claimed Lamoureux poked him under the chin with the butt end of his stick, but this did not satisfy the crowd or the referee. The former hissed the player on his way to the bench, and the latter ruled him off for ten minutes, and will report him to the Union. This little incident has caused the Tecumseh stock to go down considerably. Good lacrosse was impossible owing to the rain which fairly poured down at times. This helped the Tecumsehs as their heavy defence got a chance to use their body more freely, the result being that little Gauthier was pretty well battered up. At that he played great lacrosse and had the most speed of any man on the ground.

TECUMSEHS' GOALKEEPER.

Referee W. McIntyre, of Ottawa, and E. C. Waghorne, Toronto, were the officials, and, although they ruled off 17 men between them, they allowed quite a few cross-checks to go. Their work, on the whole, was very much in and out. It might be mentioned the work of Clarke was brilliant and gentlemanly. He was there with his eye and stopped shot after shot. The National home repeatedly ran in on top of him while a player shot, yet not a man was touched by him. A marked contrast to Cozy Hess, or the other goalkeepers who slash at everyone in sight. The stars of Tecumsehs were Clarke, Pickering and Querrie, while for the Nationals, Lamoureux, Gauthier and Bellerose did good work. The ball was faced off in a pouring rain, the Nationals securing the sphere and pressing. The result was in 3.35, Secours drew first blood for the Nationals, beating Clarke with a long throw. It was 10.15 before Tecumsehs tied the score, Adamson doing the turn, Whitehead broke the tie in 1.45, taking the pass and scoring. He duplicated the trick in 2.20, throwing the sphere in by a back hand shot from out in front. The whistle blew Tecumsehs ahead 3 to 1.

from the side, the ball bouncing in front of Bellerose, hitting the top of the net. Tecumsehs pressed again, but Blanchard cleared. Graydon put Gauthier out of business and got five minutes. After 10.30 of even play, Querrie shot the ball over Blanchard's shoulder,scoring, Bellerose not seeing the rubber. It was in this quarter Davidson hit Lamoureux, who had to go off for a few minutes to get repaired. Adamson went off with him. However, Lamoureux was soon fixed up and came on amid the cheers of the spectators, who were in sympathy with the player and greatly admired his grit. The whistle blew for three-quarter time, with Davidson on the fence.

CARRIED OFF THEIR FEET.

The Nationals were out to win the last quarter and for the first ten minutes they went at it with such a vim that the Tecumsehs were completely carried off their feet and Clarke was kept busy stopping shots. The Nationals were trying too much to score, the result being the defence was left open. Tecumsehs took advantage of this and Querrie scored in 11.15. This seemed to break up the Nationals, for in 50 seconds Whitehead found another opening and scored. It was all Tecumsehs after this and it took 4 minutes for Querrie to put in another, making it 8 to 3. This ended all the scoring, but not the playing. Pitcher hit a National man over the solar plexus but as there was only four minutes to play, Referee McIntyre let him remain.

Penalties.—First quarter, Cattaranich, Graydon and Felker each 5 minutes; second quarter, Cattaranich, Laderoute, Whitehead, Bellerose, Falker, Dulude, Graydon, Querrie, Durkin each 5 minutes; third quarter, Graydon, 5; Davidson, 10; fourth quarter, Pitcher, 10; Secours, 10; Decarie, 5 minutes.

The teams lined up as follows:

Tecumsehs.	Nationals.
Clark	goal	Bellrose
Pitcher	point	Valois
Davidson	cover point	Decairie
Graydon	first defence	Clement
Stuart	second defence	Lachapelle
Pickering	third defence	Callarinick
Falker	centre	Secours
Querrie	third home	Pietre
Whitehead	second home	Dulude
Durkin	first home	Gauthier
Adamson	outside home	Lamoureux
Murton	inside home	Laderoute

The officials.—W. McIntyre, Ottawa, referee; F. C. Waghorne, judge of play; W. H. Hall, St. Pere, timekeepers, Barney Collison, Cornwall, penalty timekeeper; "Shiner" White, Montreal, and R. Sheppard, Toronto, goal umpires.

Outremont Seniors Whitewashed.

The C.P.R. team defeated Outremont Saturday at football, by the score of 2 to 0.

The C.P.R. team went into the game to win, and, at the middle of the first half, tallied one goal by a smart play by Walker, the outside left. The game in the first half was a good part of the time one-sided, the C.P.R. showing better form than their opponents. Outremont team made some good rushes, but their lack of combination was a serious drawback to them in scoring. Their opponents, on the contrary, played much better combination, and made some fine attempts to score, which made the Outremont goal tender hustle many times.

The second half was more even. Outremont seeming to want to make up for lost time. This part was more interesting to the spectators, but the result was the same as in the first half. C.P.R. being the only team to score, Reynolds kicking the ball in.

Mr. Rollinson, of Rosemount, was referee.

This match places the C.P.R. at the head of the ladder in the Montreal Football League.

SHOES THAT PINCH.

If your shoes feel too small—if they pinch, gall, chafe and pain you, and make walking a torture, "Foot Elm" will make you happy.

SATURDAY'S LACROSSE.—A snapshot taken by a Staff Photographer, showing Paddy Brennan with the stick in his hand.

SATURDAY'S LACROSSE.—A snapshot taken by a Staff Photographer.—A great tussle to get possession of the ball.

THIS WAS ALL NATIONAL.

The second quarter was all Nationals, the defence staving off the attack of the Tecumseh home, while they scored two. Cattaranich was responsible for the first, coming down with the ball and passing to Lamoureux, who threw back, Cattaranich scoring in 17.53. Lamoureux checking Clarke. The next goal was the prettiest of the day. Lamaureux had the ball, holding it while the Tecumseh defence rushed in and blocked the goal, then he shot right through them just 30 seconds before time was up. Before play was resumed in the last half Referee McIntyre called the teams together and told them how he wanted the game played.

They were off again, and Gauthier goes down, Graydon proves an alibi and McIntyre skidoos after the ball. Nobody goes off. The Nationals were pressing but Pitcher relieved. Querrie secured the ball, running down the field and scoring in 9.30 on a long shot

WESTMOUNT DEFEATED THE POINTS SATURDAY

In a Hard and Fast Match the Westmount Boys Got Their Opponents Going and so Won a Much Coveted Match.

Much interest was taken in the meeting of these two teams, who last season played such close games upon every meeting. There was never more than a goal difference between the scores at the conclusion of any of their games. Bearing this in mind, some three thousand spectators presented themselves at the Beaver Field on Saturday to witness this struggle in the local league. Unfortunately for Point St. Charles, they were without Mr. J. Ross, popularly known as "Stukie," who sailed for Scotland last week, while the Westmount team were even more severely handicapped, having to turn out without either W. Deans, who sailed on the Ionian last Thursday, and W. Houston, who was unable to get off at the last minute. Consequently two intermediate players were put in their places, Betty and MacDonald being the choice.

The intermediate goal-minder, Baird, was given a trial in place of Garden.

Both teams were somewhat late in turning out.

As the teams lined up to the toot of Referee, Mr. Tuck, Houston, Westmount's outside right, arrived, but was too late, and so consented to take a linesman's position.

Capt. Sutherland was successful in the spin of the luker, and chose the west end, with the sun and wind in their favor.

Whiteside kicked off for Westmount against these advantages.

Points pressed for the first few minutes, and Baird saved grandly from Duncan, and May, Westmount's stone wall defence, held the upper hand, H. Payne playing a particularly brilliant game. Westmount had now got up full steam, and got into their stride. Macfarlane, after a nice dribble, missed by inches with a grand attempt. Points made another determined onslaught, and for a few minutes outplayed the Westmount boys, but the defence again rose to the occasion. Neville, Shand and Baird again figured prominently. The game was very fast, both teams having speedy wing men, and this kept both ends being visited in quick succession. The game was clean, and each man was straining every nerve to gain a point for his team. Macfarlane and Mairn got away again from a clever pass from Freeman, who had robbed Wright, and the former passed to Whiteside, who scored, but the goal was not allowed, the referee claiming the ball had been handled. Betty showed up well, and with his great speed was a source of annoyance to Lorimer. MacDonald got away, and when in a good position missed an open goal, which was exceedingly hard luck for Westmounts.

The Points forwards being well fed by Messrs. McKay, Greig and Doran, came again, but offside by May spoilt their chances. From a pass by Whiteside, Nairn raced up the wing, beating the half and tricking Sutherland, put in a magnificent shot from the corner flag that beat Adams, giving the Liverpool boy no earthly chance. The Points being favored with the wind and sun did most of the pressing in the remainder of the first half, but West's were more dangerous in front of goal, and the score was one to nil in favor of the visitors when half-time was called.

Half time: Wests, 1; Points, nil.

The second half gave Westmount the favor of the wind and sun, and they went off with a great dash, Nairn and Betty on their respective wings playing grandly, Lorimer was playing a great game at full back, but for his cool defence, Adams would have had a busier time. The game was hotly contested in midfield, and more than one battle royal took place between Neville and May, theh big Westmount captain generally coming away with the ball. This play was a revelation to the Points, Wright and Duncan were playing a great game, but Freedman stuck to them like a leech, and gave them no quarter. Wests were now getting their second wind, and were pressing and a fine overhead kick by Macfarlane just hit under the crossbar and came out. Adams was beaten by a shot from Neville, but Sutherland seeing the ball going through, caught hold of it and threw it out. For this offence, Referee Tuck promptly awarded the usual penalty kick, which was intrusted to Whiteside, but he failed to convert. After this let off, the Points made strenuous efforts to get level, but Baird had made up his mind to keep the goal intact, and he accomplished his desire, saving finely from Wright, Duncan, May, in quick succession. Time was getting near and every man was playing a determined game, but the victory was to be for Westmounts, and the Points failing to connect before the final toot of the whistle, when Capt. Neville went off the field with his team having gained a popular victory and lowering the Points colors for the first time this season.

The following was thhe line up of the teams:—

Point St. Charles (0).	Westmount (1).
Adams.....Goal.....	Baird
Sutherland....R.F. back..... (captain)	Shand
Lorimer.....L. back.....	H. Payne

Linesmen—Messrs. Anderson and Houston.

LARGE CROWDS SAW SATURDAY'S RACING

Flip Flap Won Advance Stakes at Sheepshead, and Sanfara International Handicap

New York, July 2.—Before a crowd of 25,000 persons and closing with a terrific burst of speed in the final quarter, J. A. Bennett's Flip Flap, an added starter and an outsider in the betting at 30 to 1, won the $15,000 advance stakes at Sheepshead Bay Saturday. T. J. Gaynor's Whimsical, the 2 to 1 favorite, was second, with J. F. Madden's The Quail, 12 to 1, third. Time, 2.17 4-5, was very fast, being within one-fifth of a second of the world's record, held by Irish Lad, and made in this race two years ago. Oran, with Miller in the saddle, and quoted at 15 to 1, defeated a first-class field of two-year-olds in the $25,000 great trial stakes; Water Pearl, second choice, was second with the favorite, Ballot, third. Although carrying top weight, Tyne sent Water Pearl to the front. As the field rounded the bend at the head of the stretch, Oran began to move up and catching Water Pearl in the last furlong, won ridden out by two lengths. Two lengths separated second and third. Summaries:

First, steeplechase, full course, Kernel, won; Phantom, second; Knight of Elway, third. Time, 5.14 2-5.

Second, 6 furlongs, main course, Aeronaut, won; Handsearra, second; Tiptoe, third. Time, 1.15 2-5.

Third, the great trial, 6 furlongs, Futurity course, Oran, won; Water Pearl, second; Ballot, third. Time, 1.12 4-5.

Fourth, the advance stakes, mile and 3 furlongs, Flip Flap, won; Whimsical, second; The Quail, third. Time, 2.17 4-5.

Fifth, selling 5 1-2 furlongs, Futurity course, Gold Lady, won; Bigall, second; Molsey, third. Time, 1.07.

Sixth, selling 5 1-2 furlongs, Futurity course, Magna Stella, won; Knight of Ivanhoe, second; Marriage Banns, third. Time, 1.07 4-5.

Seventh, mile and a sixteenth on turf, Running Water, won; Tradition, second; Pirate Polly, third. Time, 1.47 3-5.

AT KENILWORTH.

Buffalo, N.Y., July 2.—Sanfara, favorite in the betting, won the International handicap at Kenilworth Park Saturday. Massive, an added starter, finished second, a nose behind the winner. Weather, rainy; track, sloppy. Summaries:

First, 6 furlongs, Kits, won; Anna Smith, second; Grace Curtis, third. Time, 1.17.

Second, 5 furlongs, Livius, won, Sweet Kitty, second; Pepper and Salt, third. Time, 2.04 1-5.

Third, mile and 40 yards, Secret, won; Nonsense, second; Ruth W., third. Time, 1.46.

Fourth, International handicap, 3-year-olds and over, Sanfara, won; Massive, second; Martin Doyle, third. Time, 1.16 1-4.

Fifth, 4 furlongs, Ponema, won; Tanbark, second; Floating Star, third. Time, .59 4-5.

Sixth, mile, Tavannes, won; The Borgian, second; Singaway, third. Time, 1.13 3-5.

Minstrel Show at Pointe Claire.

A good performance is promised for next Saturday evening, when the Pointe Claire Boat Club give their minstrel performance. The Academy orchestra will officiate. About twenty-five gentlemen are taking part, and some really good talent is amongst the aggregation. There will be representatives of England, Scotland, Germany, Ireland, China, Italy, Japan, Jerusalem, Africa and Spain, in national songs and costumes.

Part two will be vaudeville, and part three will consist of the comedy "New Brooms Sweep Clean." A gas plant is installed for foot lights, calciums, etc.

Y.M.C.A. WILL PROTEST VALLEYFIELD

They Claim a Goal in Saturday's Match Which Referee Did Not Award Them.

On Saturday afternoon the Y. M. C. A. soccer team went down to defeat before the sturdy players of the town of Valleyfield by a score of 4 to 3, but the boys in red and grey are not satisfied, and intend to protest the decision.

Valleyfield won the toss and played against the sun and with the wind. Y.M.C.A. kicked off and for a few minues kept play in their opponents' territory, but the determined and stubborn defence of Valleyfield's full backs sent the ball back to the Y. M. C. A. territory. Valleyfield on several occasions had hard luck in not scoring. The visitors now took a hand in the game, and after a pretty run up the right wing, Jamieson centred nearly to Steedman who banged the ball through and registered the first goal for the Y. M. C. A. The game thus far had been mostly in favor of Valleyfield. This unexpected success put vim into the Y.M.C.A. attack, and after another few minutes of hard play, Jamieson again centred to Steedman, who ran it through.

This put Valleyfield on their guard. McMeekin finished up a grand piece of work on the left wing by sending in a stinging shot which Freeman had no chance to handle.

The Montreal boys now woke up again, and play continued around centre field for some time, till Jamieson again distinguished himself. Accepting a neat pass from Robinson, he raced down and sent in a high shot from the right, which glanced along the bar, and according to all the Y.M.C.A. players, some of the Valleyfield players, and most of the spectators, went under the bar. According to the referee, however, it went over, and as there were no goal-nets, and no goal umpires, this decision had to stand.

In the second half the visitors seemed disheartened by the decision with regard to the disputed goal, and their combination was poor. The whole team went to pieces long enough for the home team to notch other three goals. Two of these went to Mr McMeekin, who had scored before, and one to H. Wilson.

Y. M. C. A. now made repeated attempts to score. Kinloch at centre half was working like a Trojan, and by means of his energy and spirit soon got his team working together. The team rendering a pretty hot time for the Valleyfield defence. The Y.M.C.A. forwards kept rushing down under the long kicks of the backs, and tried the opposing defence severely; but the Marriott boys succeeded in keeping off all attacks until nearly the finish, when Kinloch rushed up on a rebound from one of the backs, and sent in one which beat the Valleyfield custodian. The score (official) now stood 4 to 3 for the Valleyfield team, and no more goals were scored in the few minutes which elapsed before the close of play.

The teams lined up as follows:—

BISONS AND BANNONITES MADE AN EVEN BREAK

Kissinger Was Too Much For Locals, While in Second Whelan Held Visitors to Two Hits—Two Games To-day.

Royals and Bisons have broken even so far in the series here, and unless there is a decided reversal of form, Bannon's men should send Stallings' herd to the woods to-day. Failure to touch the graceful and sylph-like performer who answers to the name of "Rube" Kissinger, as well as a number of particularly juicy errors, gave the victory to the bunch from Buffalo on Saturday, while at the Shamrock grounds the locals pounded the redoubtable Brockete out of the box in three turns at bat, and Whelan held the heavy hitters in the pay of the aforesaid Stallings down to two hits, one a double and the other a home run.

MONTREAL SHORTHANDED.

Saturday engagement. Connors, Montreal's second catcher, is also out of commission, as he was called away by the death of his sister, and Bill Massey has been loaned to Holyoke. This leaves Dillon to catch both games to-day.

Captain Bannon has evidently decided that there is more to be gained in attending strictly to business than in slinging language at the umpire, and when he forgot that for a moment on the Shamrock grounds, Moran was not slow to advise him to "keep on raving."

The little captain marked his new line of action by one of the most daring plays ever pulled off on this or any other diamond, in the first inning by running right in from third with Brockett's throw, reaching home in safety when Huelsman's wild swipe at the ball caused Wood to drop it. The propensity to talk back cost the locals the game on Saturday, for Huelsman was ejected in disgrace for this offence, and a fly which he, with his great reach, could easily have secured, proved too high for Wiedensaul, and three runs resulted. Besides Frank has proved himself the best pinch-hitter on the team, and there were several occasions when a timely bingle would have meant success.

"Ain't it orful to have to drink water with nothin' else," remarked Hartman.

Buffalo is likely to be minus the services of the effective, if ungainly, Kissinger, for some days as a result of Saturday's game. In trying to repair his wild pitch, in the sixth he ran to the plate to cut off Joyce, and got his right knee so badly twisted that he was forced to retire, and declared last night that it was so sore that he could hardly walk and he would be unable to pitch for some days.

SATURDAY'S DIRE TRAGEDY.

Buffalo drew first blood in the first time up on Saturday, on singles by Gettman and Murray and Hartmann's juggling of a tap from McAllister. Gettman had died easy, Murray fell asleep off second, and Hartmann woke him up by poking him in the ribs with trying to dive in turned a somersault, hitting the back of his neck hard on the plate.

The ball which Keefe had sent over, and Hill was easy second to first.

Joyce opened up by whacking the first ball up for three bags, but when he tried to get home on Wagner's roller to Smith, he was called out at the plate on a close decision, and in a whirl from the fans greeted the elongated first baseman, who answers to the patronymic of McConnell. The bleacherites dubbed him "scissors," however, and when he fanned there was great rejoicing. Wood sent one whizzing past the box out to centre, and Keefe hit Nattress on the muscles of the back, the sphere glancing off and nearly choking Dillon, whose jugular had to be massaged for some time. Kissinger had hit at nothing, and Gettman proved easy. The three Montrealers fanned and Huelsman's objection earned him his dismissal.

The third and fourth were marked by nothing out of the ordinary, but the fifth proved disastrous to the locals. Murray and McAllister singled, and after Smith had filed to George Bannon, Hill hit out what looked safe enough for a man of Huelsman's height to reach. At the very worst it might have proved a single. Wiedy, who had replaced the big right fielder, was not quite far enough out, however, and the ball went careering into the long grass, and before it could be extricated, three runs had crossed the plate. A strike out and two pop flies cleared the locals out in their half.

THE SIXTH INNING.

Kissinger got first in the sixth on Keefe's failure to field a bunt, advanced on Nattress's single and Gettman's out. Then he tried to reach home when Murray drove one at George Bannon. Dillon got the ball when Rube was yards away and chased him back. He threw to Wagner and Rube started back towards the plate. Dillon missed Wagner's easy throw and graceful Rube trotted home. Wagner's unassisted double play closed off Buffalo's further chances, when Nattress tried to get home on McAllister's liner.

Montreal got back two in the sixth when Keefe singled and Joyce walked. Rube drove in a scorcher which hit the ground before it got to the plate and Raub, who was at bat made a mighty swing which diverted Wood for an instant, and the ball went rolling over to the water barrel, near which Magnate Stallings was sunning himself. Rube ran in to get the return from Wood, but Keefe was home some time, and Joyce was at the plate when the ball got there, and Rube in kneeling to make sure of the fast fielder, so hurt his knee that he will be out for some days.

In the eighth Keefe singled, Joyce got first when the pitcher was forced at second, and Captain Bannon singled. Both runners pilfered a bag, and things looked promising, but Wagner was an easy out second to first. A smart double play by George Bannon and Hartmann spoiled Buffalo's chances in the ninth.

The Second Game.

Nearly four thousand fans journeyed out to the Shamrock grounds to witness the second engagement with the Bisons, and it was a well pleased crowd that watched the Bannonites doing things to the men with the "B" emblazoned on their arms. It was Buffalos' turn to blame the umpire for their inability to win out, and "Crab" Nattress was among the most emphatic in his denunciations, but Moran merely looked him over and thought he was too small to pay any attention to him.

The fun began in the first, when, after Buffalo had been retired despite Brother George's error on the first hit out, a wild pitch and a life to McAllister on a dead ball, Wiedensaul opened with a Texas, which Gettman tried hard for, and stole second, but got caught off the bag. Sunny Jim came up and worked the great Brockett for four wide heaves, and got to second on Wagner's single. Then a double steal came in, and as Raub had flied out to Wood, electrified everyone by running in on a pitched ball, while Huelsman made a wild pass at it, and reached home before Wood could recover, while Wagner rested easily on third.

Buffalo went down in one, two, three order in the next two, as did Montreal in the second. Whelan was retired in the third and then the feast began. Wiedy worked Brockett and stole second, Foxy Grandpa ripped out a two-bagger, and Montreal counted one more. Wagner ripped out a cracking single, and the Captain crossed the plate. Wagner purloined first while Raub was striking out, and got third on Huelsman's single, when Huelsman stole second, but Wagner, who had tried to get off for home, had to put back and was caught by Smith's throw to Hill.

McAllister got a single, the first hit for his team, but the other Bisons were easy marks. Milligan replaced Brockett, and worked well for two innings, but in the sixth, with two gone, Huelsman, after sending out a fly to the short fence where McAllister muggled and dropped it, sent one over the high fence, away beyond the press stand and ambled around the circuit. One, two, three was the rule again for the seventh and eighth of the visitors, but Captain James found Milligan in Montreal's half of the eighth, while Wagner followed with a three-bagger which rolled almost into the out of the club-house end of the grounds. A pitch ten feet high sent Wagner home while the next two were easy outs.

In the ninth Murray, first up, sent one over left field high fence for the circuit, and the next three died easy.

NOTES OF THE BALL GAME.

The National secretary has notified Montreal that Leroy must not be played as claims to his services have not been waived.

The first game to-day is fixed for 10.30 a.m. and the afternoon fixture is for 3.30 p.m.

Back talk by players to the bleachers or grand stand is perfectly legitimate when it is witty, humorous or appropriate. When it is merely vulgar or indecent, like McManus's retort on Saturday, the offender should be banished from the game.

Raub should soon wake up and find his batting eye. So far he has not proved nearly as useful as Bill Massey, who has gone to Holyoke.

The fans sympathize with Charlie, better known as "Rube". Kissinger in his misfortune. The big, ungainly fellow is one of the best-natured men in the game, and counts nothing but friends among players and frequenters of the game.

Stallings certainly has the long and the short of it in baseball in McConnell and Nattress. To see Jimmy Bannon cavorting around first bag with the elongated McConnell on it is a study in contrasts.

Toner proved an excellent twirler, but the sound of his name gave the bleachers a great opportunity to imitate the festive "bow-wow."

EASTERN LEAGUE.

Providence, R. I., July 2.—Providence took the first game of the series from Jersey City at Rocky Point, winning a heavy batting contest, full of fast fielding, by a score of 9 to 7. The contest was close up to the seventh inning when Jersey City went in and hit Josslyn for six singles and a double, sending six men over the plate. Providence duplicated the feat in their half, hitting Foxen for three singles, when he was taken out and Mason sent in. Four singles were cancelled from his delivery, six runs crossing the plate.

Lacrosse Player Hurt.

Mr. Dickson, of 1373 Cadieux street, was the victim of a serious accident while playing lacrosse on Mount Royal Ave. He was running on the field when he slipped and fell on a broken bottle, inflicting a severe cut to his leg from the knee to the foot. Dr. Leprohon was called and had the young man removed to the Royal Victoria Hospital, where his wound was dressed.

AT HENLEY.

MONTREAL DEFEATED LEVIS AT BASEBALL

They Played a Splendid All-Round Game—Levis Could do Nothing With Rivet.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Quebec, July 2.—Montreal shattered Levis' running streak in the Canadian Baseball League series yesterday, winning out by a score of 3 to 1. Montreal played an all-around splendid game, Rivet having good control, and al support, Montreal scored the first run in the fourth. With two men out, Gosselin was given his base on balls, stole second and scored on Rivet's hit. The other two runs were scored in the following inning, each of the Montreal players up making hits, although Grannary was caught on the bases. Anctil scored on a bad throw of the Levis third baseman and the other runners advanced, Heffernan finally scoring on Gillen's hit. Levis could do nothing with Rivet's offering and but for the score in the ninth from Aubertin's two-bagger, never once got a man past second and only two or three reached that sack. Pouliot and Payette worked well, but errors by the infield, Miron and Labrecque, particularly were costly. The match was the best contest yet seen in the Canadian League series and over fifteen hundred people were present. Score by innings:

DISPLEASED WITH UMPIRE.

Geo. Phillips & Co.'s Team Withdrew from Field Because of Unfairness.

The Geo. Phillips & Co.'s baseball club and Y. M. C. A. played a friendly game on the Montreal Baseball Park, Saturday evening, resulting in a win for the former by 8 runs to 7.

In the last innings, the decisions of the umpire were considered so unfair that the Geo. Phillips & Co.'s team withdrew from the field.

SWIMMING AT THE ISLAND.

A Large Number Witnessed Opening of Handicap Series.

On Saturday afternoon the first competion in the series of the weekly handicaps was held by the Montreal swimming club at St. Helen's Island. A large number were present and the events were most interesting, especially the greasy pole and the diving competition. Following are the results:

Hundred yard handicap, senior. W. Gathercole, scratch, first; S. Silver, 10 seconds, second; U. Cypriot, 7 seconds, third.

Diving competition, junior — Hugh P. Hamilton, first; K. Forbes, second; Henri Delbois, third.

Greasy pole—S. Silver, first; J. C. Addison, second; A. Morretti, third.

Points Lost in Soccer.

In a football game on Saturday between Westmount and Point St. Charles, the former team was successful by a score of one to nothing.

McGILL, OSBORNE AND POINTS ELEVENS WON

Montreal, Victoria and Ottawa Lost—The Points vs. Victoria Game was the Closest Contested One of the Three.

On Saturday, McGill cricket team defeated Ottawa on the college grounds by a score of 191 to 152. The weather and the condition of the grounds were almost perfect, and the result was that an excellent game was played.

Richards and Winter made the best showing for McGill, as they did some excellent batting. For Ottawa, the fine stand made by Pereira was the feature. Following is the score:

OSBORNE BEAT MONTREAL.

Montreal's Fielding was Very Weak—She Went Down Before Osborne.

Some excellent cricket was seen at the M. A. A. A. grounds on Saturday, when Osborne defeated Montreal by a score of 93 to 63. Montreal was very weak in her fielding and so lost the game. Had better fielding been done victory might have been within her grasp. Great interest was taken in the game by a very respectable crowd of spectators, and they at times fairly forgot themselves in their excitement. Such interest in this game, which by some is considered slow, has seldom been seen in Montreal. The features of the game were the magnificent batting of Messrs. McDermott and Cropper, and the bowling of H. C. McNeil, all of the Osborne team.

Following is the score:

Silver Pig Thank Offering.

In the Cathedral of La Paz, in South America, there is preserved a silver pig, with jewelled eyes, a thank offering made long years ago by a pious Spanish prospector, who had been led to stumble across what proved to be an exceedingly valuable silver mine owing to preliminary investigations that had been carried out by an inquisitive sow.

Lord Strathcona Helps Aberdeen Solve a Hard Problem.

CHANGES ON THE CLYDE.

Glasgow and Its Annexation Troubles —Wee Towns That Will Not Join the City.

Frae Oor Ain Correspondent.

Glasgow, June 29.—Lord Strathcona seems determined that it winna be his fau't if the King's trip to Aberdeen in September lasna a success. His Majesty is jo visit the city in order to help the university to celebrate its quincentenary. That's the big word for it, but sae far as I can make out it means that in September the University o' Aberdeen will be fower hunder years auld. Ony way, the university authority has been askin' notable folk frae a' pairts o' the warl' to come an' help in the celebration an' to mak' it complet'in' o' big additions that has been made to Aberdeen's maist famous college, the Marischal. Lord Strathcona is Chancellor o' the university, an' is takin' a lot to dae wi' the arrangements. An' a good job, too. If Iverena Chancellor, the university micht hae been in a queer fix. For they've invited the special guests to eat in the same room as the King or there will be room. Out o' this awkward fix Lord Strathcona, the Patriot Peer, by arrangin' to hae a special temporary hall put up near the college to haud 2,500 folk sittin' at ae time. Aberdeen is nair indebted to Lord Strathcona than ever, an' thinks there never was a Chancellor like the Chancellor.

Ony body wha left the Clyde—say, five years syne, and comes back to it—say, five years after this,will see a big difference in it as far as respect. There will be few o' the guid, auld paddle steamers, that hae been, for mair than a generation, ane o' the things that made the Clyde different frae ither pairts o' the warl. The Clyde is fleet o' propellers nooadays, the finest in existence. The boats connect wi' the trains at Craigendoran an' Greenock an' Gourock, so that even the bonnie coast toons sae handy for Glasgow that a man can live at the coast in the simmer an' at the same time, keep his business gaun in the city. But the day o' the steamer wi' big side wheels is comin' to an end. The turbine is comin' in mair an' mair like a year, an' soon there will be naethin' ittnin' to Rothesay an' Dunoon, no to speak o' ra' awa' Inveraray an' Campbeltown, but the fast an' quiet slippin' turbine steamer, that look like wee models o' big Atlantic liners. Someway a' steamers that disna gang by the name o' "Queen" or thumpin' paddles disna seem the richt thing on the firth ava yet, but we're gettin' used to the new arrangement. This simmer there are two new turbines, ane for the Caledonian Railway Company, an' ane for the London and South Western Railway Company. Next year there will likely be mair.

Glasgow is beginnin' to lose patience wi' the wee burghs that hae sat on its fringes an' winna come inside wi' them their share o' the responsibilities as well as the benefits o' being a city. Mair than half a dizzen o' them, an', at the very least they get Glasgow gas an' water an' cars, an' a' the mair things forby wadna hae if they werena near a big city; but they winna pay to be a pairt o' Glasgow. Their folk, an' especially their Toon Councils an' officials, ken that since the Glasgow Toon Council pay handsome salaries to its officials, nor thumpin' paddies disna seem the richt thing on the firth ava yet, but we're gettin' used to the new arrangement. This simmer there are two new turbines, ane for the Caledonian Railway Company, an' ane for the London and South Western Railway Company. Next year there will likely be mair.

than if he went by tramway car. Forbye, the companies are to cheapen a' their season tickets for distances within fifty miles o' the city. This means that they are to fight the trams wi' their ain weapons—low fares, and the trams' ain fighting weapon is a low fare, will ne'er be e handy as a street car, let the companies do what they may.

It seems that we are far an' awa' ahead o' the rest o' England an' Ireland in some ways that we didna ken o' oorsel's till lart week. A Government official in Ireland is to an inquiry o' some kind in London, said that while in England only ten per cent o' a certain Government report was cold, in Scotland 60 per cent. o' anither Government report was snapped up by the public. Noo, that is a fine interest in' story. The same, he said, was true o' a' Blue Books. The Scots are bought far mair o' them than the English. This seems a bit queer, for the averag' Blue Book is dry, dry readin', an' interests naebody but them wha tak' a interest in the special subject it d'e's wi'. That we are super-Scots as regards mair o' it than the English or Irish shows that — weel noo, what does it show?

The gypsies frae Germany are wasdrivin' awa' hame again, for a' o' them got to 'knockin' about in Scotland, an' said to ane o' the shippin' companies that they wanted to gang back to whaur they cam' frae. The company took them on an' hame they ...en; but they didna find Scotland ale a ban' o' milk an' honey—no to speak o' copper an' silver—as they expected, an' they left. That's a bad opinion for us as a mean lot wha winna encourage weel-doin' folk when they want to get a 'nin' without working. A' that we want noo is that they may spread their opinion as far as ower Germany, so that nae mair o' them may come ower the North Sea wi' silly ideas in their heads. They micht spread the sympathy that frae folk who enjoy the readin' of Blue Books.

WATTIE.

Mark Twain on Howells.

It is not often that one literary man pays another such a compliment as the following, however, is Mark Twain's opinion of William Dean Howells, which differs from the critics' opinion.

In the matter of verbal exactness Mr. Howells has no superior. I suppose it seems to be almost always able to find the elusive and shifty grain of gold, the right word. Others have to put up with approximations more or less frequently; he has better luck. To me, the others are miners working with the pick-and-shovel, mostly some of the gold washes over and escapes, whereas, in my fancy, he is the quicksilver miner, the ring-and-pan miner of the metal stands much chance of eluding him. A powerful agent is the right word; it lights the way, clears away and makes it plain; a close approximation is a dull one, and much travelling is done in a well-enough fashion by its help, but we do not welcome it and applaud it, and rejoice in it as we do when the right one blazes out on us. Whenever we come upon one of these infinitely rigid words in a book or a newspaper the resulting effect is physical as well as spiritual, and is instantly perceptible; it tingles exquisitely around through the walls of the mouth and tastes as tart and orderly and regal as ripe currant butter that creams the sumac-berry. One has no time to examine the word and vote upon its rank and standing, the automatic recognition of its supremacy is so immediate. There is a plenty of acceptable literature which deals largely in approximations, but it may be likened to a fine landscape seen through the rain; the right word would dismiss the rain, then you would see it better. It doesn't rain when Howells is at work.

OUR IRISH LETTER

The Crop Prospects for 1906 Are Now Very Promising.

STATUE TO LORD DUFFERIN.

Mr. Bryce Discourses on the Four Things Most Needed in Ireland.

From the Special Correspondent of the Montreal Star.

Dublin, June 18. — The Irish crop prospects for 1906 are now very promising, although from the coldness and backwardness of the spring much depended upon the weather during June. Now, however, the bright, warm weather of the last week or so has wrought a wonderful change, and there is every reason to hope that the season will prove a bountiful and generous one. Pastures are getting green with a rush and stock have plenty to feed upon. The potatoes are free from doubtful sea to the prospect of yield, but it is hardly expected that the yield will be a fully average one. The crops are looking well everywhere, and potatoes are beginning to do well also.

The unveiling of the bronze statue of the late Lord Dufferin, the first Marquis of Londonderry was carried out in the presence of a large and fashionable gathering in the grounds of the new City Hall, at Belfast, on Friday last. The memorial is designed in the Italian Renaissance style, freely treated so as to conform to modern requirements. The pedestal is of Portland stone, to harmonize with the material of which the City Hall is built, and on it are two bronze figures representing Canada and India, over both of which Lord Dufferin acted as Governor-General. On the top of the pedestal is a large sized figure of the late nobleman. It is eight feet in height and represents Lord Dufferin in the robes of the Order of St. Patrick. Surmounting the figure of the lordship in a very handsome canopy, supported by Ionic pillars, and over all is a figure of fame, while around the base are carved the names of the many cities in which Lord Dufferin held the interests and delight of the Empire as Ambassador. The total height of the memorial is about 35 feet, and its cost amounted to about £5,400. Lord Londonderry, in the course of his address while unveiling the statue, referred to the immense success which had attended Lord Dufferin's work as Governor-General of Canada, Viceroy of India, and British ambassador at St. Petersburg, Constantinople, Rome, and Paris, and pointed out that his name would go down to posterity as that of a great peace-maker amongst the nations of the world.

It is proposed to arrange for some five hundred or so male and female teachers, engaged in the schools of England, Scotland and Ireland, to take a trip to Canada and the States to study the educational system of those countries. It is thought that the schools of the United Kingdom would profit immensely by this visit, and it is to be hoped that nothing will interfere with the present intention.

The Chief Secretary (Mr. Bryce) visited some of the out-of-the-way districts of Ireland last week. Amongst the places he visited was Trales, from which he went to see Perrit Castle, in which Lord Dufferin was interested. This pile was constructed about 25 years ago, at a cost of £85,000. It is a handsome castle, but more money is now required to be spent on it, and Mr. Bryce was understood to promise that this should be done, according to a vote of thanks at luncheon, the Chief Secretary said there were four things needed in Ireland, the first was the settlement of the Land Question; the second was the health of the people; a third was the improvement of education, and the fourth was better facilities for transportation, by means of cheapness, for importing and exporting goods through harbors and piers. Trales had been made a capital distributing centre, by means of Ferrit, but they wanted better railway communication in the Co. Kerry. "What the Government ought to do now is to give the people facilities to help themselves," Mr. Bryce said, "but owing to the misfortunes, ignorance, and follies of the past, Irishmen were prevented from helping themselves, but the Government was now trying the remedy of giving them a new railway, (Listowel and Tarbert), and endeavoring to send them on a prosperous career."

OUR LONDON LETTER

British Physicians Who Are Coming to Canada This Year.

TRIAL TRIP TO IRELAND.

New Empress Did Herself Credit— Canadian Butter and Its Market.

From Special Correspondent of the Montreal Star Resident in London.

London, June 18.—There has been great curiosity as to the number carrying the eminent physicians who are commanded to be in Canada this autumn in connection with the meeting of the British Medical Association. The Lusitania, the Mauretania, the Allan steamers, the Empress of Britain and the Empress of Ireland, together with the Canadian accommodation afforded by the Allan Line boats, the Virginian and the Victorian, bid fair to make the St. Lawrence a favorite route in these latter days, for the most fastidious ocean voyagers cannot quarrel at the accommodation now available by Canadian boats. One wonders what the Upper Ten of social England will really do this autumn with so many of their favorite medical men away from the country. It should be a great chance for the younger medical spirits, if, as everyone hopes, the King and Queen should find it possible to visit Canada this autumn, His Majesty will be with in the circumstances of having within call in Canada his two favorite physicians, Sir William Broadbent and Sir Thomas Barlow, for both of them are to take a prominent part in the Toronto gathering.

EMPRESS OF IRELAND'S TRIAL.

It was a happy idea to send the Empress of Ireland for her sea trial round the Irish coast in the compliments to the country from which the boat takes her name. Nothing could be better than the comfort of the ship during these open sea tests which lasted two days. It is true that the sea was at no time really rough, but the C.P.R. engineers had the great advantage of running the ship at full speed in the presence of the engineers from the Fairfield Shipbuilding Company, and it is no small thing in England to be able to say the work done in this Clyde ship-building yard that the two days' continuous working should have proved so hitch of any kind whatever. Every one who has seen the Empress for Ireland will be prepared for the statement that the sister ship is a beautiful piece of workmanship. The great Canadian and English shipping and railway experts who were on board were especially delighted with the new system of heating arrangements by which the atmosphere in every room of the ship is changed every ten minutes. The system is called into play admirably and the whole of the ship's arrangements received unstinted applause.

THE ARGONAUTS.

We are all looking forward with the greatest interest to the doings of the Argonauts during the Henley year. The club appears for the third time in eight years, and once more the Belfast crew make an effort to capture the Grand Challenge Cup. As will be remembered, the Belfast crew defeated on more than once very near accomplishing their hopes and the Canadians this year are looking forward to the confirmation of success. English scullers are prepared to find that the Toronto eight will be a formidable one for any. We have been told that they have practised regularly for months past in the Lake of Bays and are sailing to England with the confidence and experience of two previous visits. The question now is, as an English aquatic writer puts it, has England the talent and material in the long run to beat them? Appearances there is no outstanding eight which can be declared as really first class. There have been fewer oarsmen of the first water turned out of the universities during the last few years. R.-B. Etherington Smith (Cambridge), captain of the Leander Club, started with a hard row to hoe to select the crew for graduated oarsmen, so that no college crews should be spoiled by their loss. Nothing is to be said in the Leander boat to a place in the college eight; but Etherington-Smith has apparently found his task an easy one. In fact only a few days ago it was rumored that Leander would not row for the Grand Challenge Cup this year as they could not get a crew that was likely to be able to sustain the best traditions of the club." Cambridge, however, has been warned. Difficulties have been met with and they will. It is thought, be overcome. The Australian Rowing Association, but evidently the army authorities, for the purpose of foreign study, and, after all is said and done, no finer beast could be got than the foreigners.

China's Advance.

"A competent authority on things Chinese states that during the last two years China has made more real advancement than in the previous millennium."

Says Joseph Franklin Griggs in an article entitled "China Awakened," in the July Century "That his judgment is sound is apparent to those who enjoy the widest range of confidence in China. It has long been predicted that changes would be surprising in their rapidity, but the conservative mind has hoped for what is taking place.

"In passing through Pekin the visitor seems to be the most striking phenomenon. Three years ago there seemed to be no change. Dust, filth and other disgusting sights and stenches, would ever give place to anything better. The idea that the government should repair the streets was considered to have an Augean task and was the butt of many jokes. Now the streets are as broad thoroughfares are fast being converted into handsome avenues. The Chinese city is finding out that it pays to look after itself immensely by this visit. Nothing will interfere with the present intention.

CANADIAN BUTTER.

Canadians are very anxious to sell more of their butter in the old country and they have special interest in the curious saying attributed this week to Lord Carrington when the British President of the Board of Agriculture. Lord Carrington has been telling a company in England how delicious it is under foot. to buy for his own household use Northfolk butter in Norfolk and that Yorkshire should keep it in Yorkshire. He went to buy Norfolk butter insists that if the Scots should begin to eat it as well they will never be so foolish as to ask for English butter. "This," said Lord Carrington, "is not just, but something the Government are trying to put down. If Lord Carrington were not a prominent member of the present Cabinet and a perfervid free trader one would imagine that he intended to put up a tariff wall against Canada before entering England as is now put upon Canadian live cattle at Liverpool. It is clear that having given British breeders protection against imported animals the Board of Agriculture would not be adverse from giving them some kind of protective benefit in regard to butter if it could be done by a side wind, and without raising the whole fiscal controversy.

ATLANTIC RATES.

Canada certainly does not want the alien immigrants who flock into London in their thousands and give the Metropolis a character which many low class traders his opportunity. But Canada certainly does want these destitute aliens, the Salvation Army does and every friend of immigration who wishes to see this low grade of alien labor totally eliminated from Canadian immigration will welcome the announcement which Mr. Commissioner Nicol, of the Salvation Army, makes to the effect that these foreign and destitute aliens are to be taken up by the Salvation Army if a scheme now in hand goes through for their better distribution in the Argentine and other parts of South America. The condition which the Army imposes is that these immigrants shall all be non-English-speaking. "We have," says Commissioner Nicol, "a large mass of aliens to select from and we understand that certain foreign countries in South America are ready to take at least 10,000 if we certify that they are physically and morally up to the average. One can only wish every measure of success to this new Salvation Army move.

Philanthropy.

Probably one of the largest benevolent bequests recorded in any country during modern times has fallen to the lot of Hungary by the will of the late Count A. Karolyi. The Count was 78 years of age, and had left no direct descendants. He had also been one of the most enterprising supporters of modern methods of scientific agriculture in Hungary, by his will he bequeathed a sum of £6,000,000 for philanthropic objects.

GIRL'S ODD OCCUPATION.

Miss Winhonah von Ohl, a New Jersey girl 20 years old, is making quite a reputation as a horsebreaker. Five years ago, a slender slip of a girl, she went to South Dakota with her mother, who had been sent thither for a change of climate. Miss Winnonah learned to ride broncbos out there, and on returning East she took to training and breaking horses, in which work she has been remarkably successful. She has never sustained any injury while thus engaged.

ANCIENT RELICS FOUND IN CHURCH

Father Grisar's Unique Discovery in the Lateran Church in Rome.

HIDDEN MANY CENTURIES.

Magnificent Relics Among the Articles Found—Their Interesting History.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Rome, July 1.—Near the Lateran Basilica, "the mother head and queen of all the churches," there is a sanctuary containing the scala santa, or holy steps, and a chapel known as the "Sancta Sanctorum." Both places are familiar to every visitor in Rome. The holy stairs consist of twenty-eight marble steps, which tradition states to have been those of Pilate's palace, and to have been ascended and descended by Jesus Christ. At the head of the holy stairs may be seen, through an iron grating, the chapel called the Sancta Sanctorum, or holy of holies, a private oratory of the popes before 1278, and the only part of the Lateran palace that escaped the great fire of that year. The chapel contains many precious relics placed there by St. Gregory, the Great, in 540, and by Pope Leo III., in 795. It also contains the celebrated picture of the Saviour called the Acheiropita, or "painted not by mortal hand," and tradition has it that it was outlined by St. Luke and completed by angels.

IN THE HOLY OF HOLIES.

On the arch above the altar there is an inscription in Latin reading: "There is not a holier place in all the world." (Non est in toto sanctior orbe locus), hence the name of Sancta Sanctorum, meaning a most holy place. The contents of this chapel, which is also known as the Lateran treasury, have, until quite recently, been almost unknown. Since the year 795 the sanctuary had never been opened or explored, and old manuscripts and other documents only gave a short and incomplete description of the many relics it was supposed to contain. Many historians were of the opinion that the treasury was empty, as its existence being well known, they considered it unlikely that it should have escaped destruction during the many barbaric invasions of Rome.

Pope Pius X. recently authorized the Rev. Father Grisar, S.J., to open the Sancta Sanctorum, and the result has been the compilation of a list describing the collection of precious relics and valuable objects of art, which proved to be more numerous than was expected. Father Grisar is publishing a book, which will not only catalogue and describe the different articles found, but will give historical evidence as to the probable origin of each.

Mr. Blair's Purse With Cheque Found

Ottawa, July 1.—A purse, containing a cheque for $56,000 and $35 in cash, besides several other important documents, some of them negotiable, was found by a carpenter working around the station of the Hull Electric Company. A policeman to whom it was handed, found, on opening it, that it belonged to Hon. A. G. Blair, who was in Montreal. Mrs. Blair identified it as the property of her husband.

Knife Drawn In Washington House.

Washington, July 2.—In an altercation in the House here between Representatives George N. Southwick, of New York, and Charles L. Bartlet, of Georgia, the latter remarked that if the former dared to say that he lied he would cut him, brandishing a knife at him at the same time.

The trouble arose over an attempt of the New Yorker to rush through a resolution increasing the pay of tally clerks.

A Prolific Spanish Playwright.

From a recent visit to the great dramatist, Don Jose Echegaray, at his home in Madrid, some knowledge of his plays has been brought over to this continent. When visited he chatted freely, and spoke of the many plays of which he is the author. When spoken to about his "El Gran Galeotto, the writer said: "If American knows only this play, they have missed sixty-six of my plays, for I have given my native country sixty-seven full fledged dramas of all types and sizes." "We have one fine theatre," continued the playwright, "the Espanol, where Mme. Guerrero is the star (and she plays my pieces), and you can see real plays well acted. I admit, however —I cannot do otherwise, I am sorry to say—that this is not a serious public. I deplore the hourly plays more than you can possibly do. For the real genuine, legitimate drama, Madrid hasn't more than 20,000 patrons. That is the outside figure. The rest of the population demand little flippant entertainments, with litle flippant musical accompaniments, and—and they get it. We have one or two—just one or two playwrights," he went on. "Oh, yes; good ones. I do not write any more. I have finished. You see, my friend, I have sixty-seven plays to my credit, and that is a life-work, isn't it? At present, moreover, we have no actors or actresses. We had two fine actors, capable of playing our classics—our Calderon and Lope de Vega. They both died recently, and at this moment I cannot think of one single Spanish actor capable of doing really classical work—such as you 'Hamlet.' You foreigners reckon every thing by 'Hamlet.' I know that much about you."

Motor Cars for Farm Use.

A new and important development of automobiles is promised on this continent in various inventions designed to fit these machines for farm use. In Europe, especially in England, the employment of motor cars for farm work is already pretty well developed, and it is found that they are not only a vast improvement upon former methods, but they are also much more economical. On level land particularly these farm motors have given complete satisfaction. America, strange to say, has been far behind European countries in the matter of automobiles, although recently great improvements have been made in this country in this respect, and our inventors and manufacturers are rapidly catching up with their foreign rivals. One reason for the European popularity of motor cars is the splendid public highways that abound in those countries, especially in England, France and Germany. The fine country roads radiating in every direction enable the automobiles to compete in speed with railway transportation, and, of course, in the matters of privacy, comfort and independence they are superior. According to a dealer in the machines, the reason so little has been done in this country in farm motors is that such a vehicle is an entirely different type from the passenger motor, requiring a different plant and machinery to make it. All the power and strength of construction in an automobile are designed for rapid motion over a smooth roadbed, while in the farm motor the problem is to get slow but sure and even motion over a rough roadbed. The problem, however, is far from unsolvable, and experts are predicting that within the next few years motor cars will be doing most of the heavy work on the farms.

A New Stadium for Athens.

United States Consul George Horton writes from Athens that the Olympic games, recently held with such success in that city, and in which Canadian and American athletes so successfully competed, have aroused a very general interest among the Greek people. As a result of this, two wealthy Greeks of Egypt, Messrs. Bostovits and Tsanakles, have presented $60,000 to the Government for the erection of a gymnasium at Athens, the building and equipment of which will be personally superintended by Crown Prince Constantine. The Swedish system of gymnastics will be largely followed, and, if present plans are carried out, officers of the Swedish army will be employed as instructors. During the first three years the running expenses will be defrayed by the two founders.

Circulation of the Bible.

The sale of the Bible increases with wonderful rapidity. During the year ending March, 1906, nearly 6,000,000 copies of the Scriptures were circulated by the British and Foreign Bible Society, which exceeded the society's previous highest output by 33,000 copies. This is the more remarkable in the face of the disturbed conditions which have prevailed in Russia, China and Japan, where some of the society's heaviest sales take place. The polyglot nature of the Bible Society's work is instanced in the fact that at Winnipeg for example, the Scriptures were supplied in forty-three different languages, while at Johannesburg versions in fifty-two languages were sold at the depot in that city, and a fifty-third was asked for by a newcomer, who demanded a Bible in Icelandic, which the agent had not in stock. During the past year eleven new languages have been added to the society's list of versions.

"Canned" or "Tinned."

Similar to that difference of verbal habit which makes an American say "canned" and an Englishman "tinned" is the case of "hogs" and "hog." An American, writes a London correspondent, as may have been noticed in connection with the Chicago revelations, constantly says "hogs" where an Englishman would more naturally say "pigs" or "swine." "Hog-tight" is a regular Maryland phrase for a fence strong enough to keep pigs from getting among the crops. "Hog" even appears as an American substitute for "pork," especially in the phrase "hog and hominy," pork and Indian corn. Possibly Bartlett is right in explaining that it was the alliteration that caused this expression to prevail even in parts of the west where ground meal was much more commonly used than hominy. Or has some immigrant taken the Scottish Hogmanay as a portmanteau word, and burst it open?

World Gossip

Discusses Sugar Bounty in Alberta.

Mr. J. P. Sims, of Raymond, Alberta, talking about matters western at the Queen's last night, stated that the sugar industry was of vital importance to the prosperity of southern Alberta.

"The beets grown in that district," said he, "have a very high percentage of saccharine matter, and since the provincial government has granted the bonus to beet growers, it has been a highly profitable industry. Last year the factory at Raymond produced over four and one-half million pounds of sugar.

"Twelve tons of beets can be grown per acre, equal to seventy-five bushels of wheat, which amount it would take two acres to produce. In my opinion there is very little difference between the beet and the cane sugar in quality.

"Considerable discussion is going on as to the distribution of the article. Some people contend that if the manufacturers of beet sugar wish to remove the popular prejudice against their product, they will have to deal directly with the people, while on the other hand it is very apparent that the only business-like way for the manufacturer to distribute his product is through the wholesale houses. However, this is a question which the manufacturers can very well afford to deal with as suits themselves.

"For instance, the factory at Raymond is in no special need of protection or advice, as the product from that source is sold at very little below the combine prices of the Montreal and British Columbia refineries, and it is a well-known fact that these latter sugar industries are paying very high and very regular dividends.

"The sugar from the Alberta beet is of a very superior quality, and this industry will yet be one of the greatest in western Canada.

...issouri's Great Growth.

"The immigration coming into Canada reminds me of the influx into our own State of Missouri," stated Mr. Francis H. Williams, of St. Louis, at the Windsor, yesterday.

"We have formed an immigration society down there for the purpose of bringing the population of the country up to the 5,000,000 mark within ten years, but if the present rate of immigration keeps up, the society will have outlived its usefulness before half that time.

"Our population is increasing by leaps and bounds, and it is no idle boast to say that in the State there are 4,000,000 people where only six years ago there were 3,300,000.

"Those immigrating into the State come from everywhere, and stay in the State. As a consequence we will have probably the most broadly American State in the Union."

Undesirables Dumped Into Jamaica.

"A great deal has been heard lately about the importation of Chinese into south Africa," said Mr. Frank C. Stanley, of Kingston, Jamaica, at the Windsor yesterday, "but I can tell you that Jamaica will be face to face with a serious difficulty, if they allow the increasing importation of Chinese paupers into our island to continue."

"And there is another phase of the question which is more serious still, and that is the large number of sailors and steamship stoke-hole hands who are thrown into our community. As a rule, the fellows who remain on the island are those who have been handed over to justice by the captains of the different vessels, and who have been tried and convicted before the police officials.

"A vast number of steamers arrive at the different Jamaican ports, and leave after a couple of days, probably never to return, or if they do so it is only after a lapse of several months.

"The men who have been imprisoned leave the prisons after the vessels have sailed, and they become a burden on the community, and very often a nuisance, if nothing worse.

"In this way a great number of undesirable foreigners are annually precipitated on the country, and there is practically no opportunity for the repatriation of these undesirables.

"The matter is receiving some attention and will probably result in laws being passed which will compel the captains of vessels, who lay charges against their men at our ports, to deposit a sum of money sufficient to meet the expenses of sending these chaps out of the country after they have served their time in confinement.

"Some such law is very necessary, as there is no reason why Jamaica should be made a dumping ground by steamship captains who find after they have been started on their voyages for a time that they have on board a number who are unfit."

Expect Good Yield Winter Wheat.

Speaking about the crop situation in the Province of Alberta, Mr. P. A. Driscoll, of Calgary, stated at the Queen's last night that from present indications the winter wheat yield will be about 50 per cent. of an average crop on the basis of acreage sown. The acreage of winter wheat being fully double last year's acreage, the total yield for 1906 will be about the same as last year.

"In many places," said Mr. Driscoll, "the crop has been winter killed. In some fields the wheat came through without the loss of a spear, while other fields adjacent were a total loss. The opinion is expressed that much of the loss is due to poor farming, some of the wheat sown in the fall of 1905 being put in very loosely, and a great quantity sown out of season.

"The winter wheat seeded in proper season, that is, between the middle of July and the middle of August, and which has been well and deeply drilled on land properly prepared, is looking splendid and is good for a heavy yield.

"However, the unfortunate part is that a lot of the seed was not sown in the proper season on well prepared land and in many cases, too many altogether, the seed had been merely thrown on top of the ground or drilled in very shallow. This is very unfortunate, as otherwise a bumper crop would have been the order of the day.

"Of course, there are many new settlers out there, who are not familiar with all kinds of farming, but as soon as the people become settled and get into the way of doing things properly in the farming line, Alberta will produce a large and excellent crop of winter wheat every year, with very few exceptions.

"The acreage of spring grain of all kinds has been largely increased and is in first rate condition, and much attention is being paid to the cultivation of barley and flax. These two cereals are rapidaly coming to the front."

CANADA NOT ALONE WITH BANK BOOM

Banks in Mexico Going Ahead Rapidly and the Shares Have Had Big Rise.

EUROPE HAS BEEN A BUYER.

Bank of Montreal Opened Its Branch in a Prosperous Country—The Banco de Yucateco.

The Bank of Montreal made no mistake when it picked upon Mexico as a new field for its operations. Mexico is having great banking prosperity, and during the last year and more at least a dozen well-known banks in Mexico have increased their capitalization materially in order to be prepared to handle the larger business anticipated and which has actually come.

Only recently the Banco de Yucateco added $4,000,000 par value to its capital stock, making the total outstanding issue $12,000,000 par value.

Of the 40,000 shares of new stock 30,000 were taken in Europe, largely in Paris, at 150. The remaining 10,000 shares were subscribed for by the old stockholders.

The proceeds of the new stock, to the extent of $50 a share, will be applied to the reserve fund and to the cancellation of the existing founders' shares.

Apparently European investors, particularly Paris capitalists, regard Mexican bank shares as extremely attractive inasmuch as they have been the largest subscribers to the new stock issued by the Mexican banks during the last year or fifteen months.

Men in this city familiar with conditions in Mexico are confidently of the opinion that Canadian investors would have done well to have subscribed to the Mexican bank issues.

It is worth noting in this connection that the stock of the Banco de Yucateco, which the Paris capitalists took at 150, is now selling in Mexico City at 186, or a profit of $36 a share.

CANNED TOMATOES CHEAPER.

Prices Were Marked Ten Cents per Dozen Down to Stimulate Demand.

A decline in the price of canned tomatoes took place this morning, and prices are now 10 cents per dozen down, at $1.20.

Owing to the large demand for fruit and vegetables, the demand for canned tomatoes has been on the dull side for a short time past, and this has developed into a decline. It is expected that the decreased cost will have a stimulating effect upon business.

Determined Attempts To Burn Church.

Ottawa, July 1.—Several determined attempts have been made recently to burn the Roman Catholic Church at Mathaw, Que., but each time the blaze has been discovered in time. The last attempt resulted in the destruction of an adjoining shed, and Constable Taggart has made several arrests. Several piles of clothing saturated with kerosene have been discovered in and under the building, with a kerosene-soaked rope stretched from pile to pile.

How to Bit Your Saddle Horse.

This bitting is fully as much a matter of the legs and heels as of the hands, and no horse can be made to bend and collect himself unless the seat is good enough to allow of proper leg work and the balance true enough to aid and not to impede the process. A few important hints on the subject are:

In every movement asked of the horse, from yielding the jaw at a stand, action of the legs (or spurs at first) must always precede that of the hands. This is the basic rule of all horsemanship.

The hands must never yield until the jaw and neck have first done so, then instantly.

The snaffle is the harmless medium of the neophyte, the test of skill in the expert.

No horse's head can be properly placed, leaving at the same time a pliant mouth, except with snaffle (or bridoon), in the full bridle.

Nature gave us two hands, and both are needed in equestrianism.

As the first step in attaining balance, the horse must, in all his paces, carry his face perpendicularly.

Lessons should be short not over ten minutes — frequently repeated, twice or more daily, if possible; submission be followed by instant caress to the part addressed.

If a horse turns sulky, revert instantly to first principles, that was the way you learned the multiplication table.

The smaller the arena, etc., the quicker will the pupil bend himself, make his mouth, and come into balance. Even a box-stall will do.

Every horse has two ends, and we must obtain control of both, the "forehand" by our hands, the "backhand" by our legs.

The moment a horse rests upon the hand, tha tmoent he is out of balance.

When the mouth is "making" and alive to address, it is always moist on bars and lip angles.

The bridoon "sets" the head, and gives the signals for turning, etc.; the curb restrains, aids the perpendicular carriage of the head, and so places it that the bridoon may act properly.

The first impulse of the horse is always to yield to the pressure of the hands and of the legs, but this yielding is evanescent (with the mouth at least), and must be instantly rewarded by the yielding hand.

Care must be taken that when the jaw is yielded it simply relaxes, and that the mouth does not open, lest this be interpreted as the object of the tension.

In all bending and suppling of the neck, the horse's head must be straightened by the opposite rein, and he must never be allowed to straighten it of his own volition.

Nothing makes a horse bend himself, come into balance and carry himself light in hand better than backing. —F. M. Ware, in The Outing Magazine for July.

Russia and the Douma.

A powerful pen-picture of the Russian populace on the day when the Douma first convened is that contained in Vance Thompson's article "The Dawn of Russian Liberty," in July Everybody's. He says:

"There are thousands of women, old and young, some of them were pretty in a haggard way. Louder than the men they lifted the cry of liberty—svoboda! svoboda! It became a chant, a menace, a declaration of rights. Svoboda! I saw one girl who leaped in the air and spat full in the face of a trooper. He wiped his beard and did not budge. And the crowd yelled with delight. Oh, liberty had come at last! I began to understand the so

The marriage of Mr. John H. Sargent, of Montreal, to Miss May Burbidge, of Rawdon, Que., took place at Christ Church, Rawdon, last week. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. Davies. The bride, who was given away by her father, Mr. Frederick Burbidge, was gowned in ivory silk, with veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaids were Miss Ada Piggott, of Clarenceville, cousin of the bride, and Miss Sargent, and Miss Maggie Sargent. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Arthur Sargent. The ushers were Messrs. B. Dixon, of Montreal, and Burbidge, of Rawdon. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch and chain, and to the bridesmaids brooches, and to the best man and ushers tie pins. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful presents. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Sargent will reside in Montreal.

The marriage of Miss Alice Maude Williams to Prof. James McGregor Young, took place at St. Thomas' Church, Toronto, on Saturday, the Rev. Canon Cody officiating. The church was decorated with marguerites and streamers of white satin ribbon. The bride, who was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. D. D. Mann, wore a princess gown of Irish lace, over white satin. Her tulle was arranged over a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley, tied with white satin ribbon. She also wore a gold bracelet, studded with turquoise, the gift of the groom. Miss Cameron, the maid of honor, wore white embroidered muslin, with white hat. Miss Ethel Mackenzie and Miss Grace Mackenzie, who were bridesmaids, wore gowns of white muslin over pink silk, with lingerie hats trimmed in pink. The groom's gifts to the maids were gold and turquoise pins, and to the best man, Mr. Cronyn, and the ushers, Mr. Jack Counsel, Mr. R. B. Henderson and Mr. George Cassels, he gave gold tie pins set with turquoise. After the ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mann. Later in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Young left for their honeymoon, which will be spent in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, and the Salmon River, the bride going away in a costume of white linen, with Irish crochet, and lingerie hat trimmed in white roses.

HISTORIC RELICS WERE EXHIBITED

Numismatic and Antiquarian Society Witnesses Indian War Dance at Caughnawaga.

The Numismatic and Antiquarian Society had a very pleasant excursion on Saturday, to Caughnawaga, where they were well received by the Indians. A special train of six cars conveyed the party from Windsor station to their destination. Here they were met by the Chief and most of the population of the village, who were decked out in holiday attire, some in Indian costume and the others in startling colors. Noticeable amongst the group was a little papoose, who was carried by its mother to welcome the visitors.

From the station the whole party proceeded to the mission chapel, and after an address of welcome by the cure, several old and interesting relics were exhibited. Amongst these was the altar presented in 1667 by Louis XIV., and also the bones of one of the Indian saints bound up with white ribbon in a glass receptacle. Interesting oil paintings and historic documents were also shown, after which the party proceeded to the old fort, which had stood as the defence of the community for a long period, though no battle ever actually occured about its walls. This once formidable structure is now in ruins, and the interior, which was once occupied by warriors, is now used as a corn field.

Refreshments were then served, and while they were being enjoyed the chief, in Indian costume, gave the tribe war dance in excellent fashion. This concluded the programme for the day, and the excursionists returned to the city with memories of a day of enjoyment and instruction.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL WAS CELEBRATED

Society of Artisans Canadien Francais Held Annual Religious Service and Banquet.

The Society of the Artisans Canadien Francais held yesterday their 29th annual festival, which was opened by divine service at St. Louis de France Church.

Mgr. Emard, Bishop of Valleyfield, presided, and Rev. Father Descamps acted as assistant priest, while Rev. Fathers J. B. Zenon, Therrien and Victor Therrien held the office of deacons of honor. Rev. Father Belanger, pastor of St. Louis de France, welcomed in a few words the visitors, and Rev. Father Perrier delivered the sermon, which treated on societies in a religious and social standing.

After the service the officers and delegates of sister societies were tendered a banquet in the hall of St. Jean Baptiste school. Rev. Father Lepailleur, pastor of Mile End, presided over the dinner. The room was all decorated with flags and bunting, and the mottoes of the different sections could be seen intermingled with the other decorations. Among the different toasts that were honored were: "The Pope," proposed by Rev. Canon Lepailleur; "Our King," by Ald. Lambert, general president of the society; "Canada," Mr. A. Godin; and "The City of Montreal," by Ald. A. A. Labrecque.

Among the 500 guests that were present were: Messrs. Alex. Prudhomme, Ludger Gravel, D. Parizeau, Jules A. Jacquot, J. A. Benjer, Jos. Lamarche, V. Grenier, J. A. Labelle, J. R. Mainville, L. E. Morin, J. V. Desaulniers, J. H. Blouin, Maine, Vt.; J. A. Mercier, Que.; T. G. Bertrand, Wilfrid Lamarre, Jos. Delisle, Levis; L. B. Gauthier, St. Lin; A. Thibault, E. L. Patenaude, A. H. Comtois, L. E. Marin, Jr.; Alban Germain, A. A. L. Monty, G. Larue, A. Duteau, J. Dorion, M.D.; Dr. J. A. Duhamel, J. O. Bousquet, D. Dentiste, F. Hurtubise, W. Lamarre, T. G. Bertrand.

Lord Haddo And His Fiancee.

MRS. COCKAYNE TND LORD HADDO,

Whose engagement is announced.

The news of the engagement of Lord Haddo, the eldest son of the Earl of Aberdeen, to Mrs. Cockayne, has just been announced. Lord Haddo is heir to one of the greatest of Scottish earldoms, and the present Viceroy of Ireland, and his brilliant wife, have claims to the respect and affection of their fellow-countrymen and countrywomen all the world over. Lord Haddo, who is still in the twenties, is following a new fashion, and marrying a lady some years older than himself. Mrs. Cockayne is well known in Manchester, for her late husband was a distinguished citizen of Cottonopolis. She is herself descended from that great master of English prose, John Bunyan, and, as such ancestry betokens, she is as keenly interested in philanthropic and social problems as is the Countess of Aberdeen herself. Lord Haddo, who is his father's aide-de-camp at Dublin Castle, prefers a country to a town life, and some time ago Lord Aberdeen presented him with a charming Scottish estate not far from Haddo House.

BATISTE WITH LACE.

5228 Child's Night-Gown or Wrapper.

The simple night-gown is always the best one for little girls, and such a model as this is among the most desirable to be found. In the illustration it is made of fine batiste with trimming of Valenciennes lace edging collar and cuffs, and a finish of fancy stitching, but cambric, both cotton and linen, nainsook and all materials used for underwear are appropriate, while again the design can be made available for the wrapper of chaille or light weight flannel that is so desirable to have at hand. There are tucks at both back and front which provide ample fulness below the stitchings, and the sleeves are the simple full ones finished with straight cuffs.

For a child of six will be required 4 yards of material 27, or 3 yards 36 inches wide.

A May Manton pattern, No. 5228, sizes 2 to 8 years, will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents.

OBSEQUIES OF ALEXANDER MUIR

Many Paid the Last Honors to the Dead Composer of "Maple Leaf For Ever."

Toronto, Ont., July 1.—The funeral of the late Alexander Muir, author of "The Maple Leaf," took place yesterday, at 2 o'clock.

At 11 a.m., the remains were taken to Chalmers Presbyterian Church, where they lay in state until 1.30. After a service conducted by Rev. H. A. Macpherson, the funeral proceeded to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The procession included public school pupils, Army and Navy Veterans, Loyal Orange Association, Canadian Order of Foresters, Caledonian Society, St. Andrew's Society, Pioneer Society, Mayor and Corporation, school board, and many citizens on foot and in carriages. There were many floral offerings.

THE CANADIAN PROS DID NOT DO BADLY

Cummings and Barrett, of Toronto, Mentioned In United States Open Golf Tournament.

Lake Forest, Ills., July 2. — Alex. Smith, of Nassau, yesterday, won the open golf handicap of the United States, with 292 strokes for the 72 holes play lowering the record by 4 strokes. With an advantage of 3 strokes over Willie Anderson, his nearest competitor for yesterday's 36 holes' play, Smith yesterday played the morning round in 73 and the afternoon round, part of which was played in a deluge of rain in 75.

Willie Smith, Mexican champion, with two rounds, yesterday, of 74 each, took second honors, with a total of 302 strokes, and James Maiden, of Toledo, and Lawrence Auchterlonie, of Glenview, tied for third honors, with 305 each.

George Cummings, Toronto, made 322, and Percy Parrett, of the same club, 329.

Rev. E. A. W. King, of Windsor Mills, well known in Montreal, has been appointed rector of St. Peter's Church, Quebec, in succession to Archdeacon Balfour.

Latimer's Mother

A Family Love Story.

LATIMER'S MOTHER.
A Family Love Story.

If it were only Maudie Caswell instead of that Miss Slombruger that Latimer was attentive to!"

Mrs. Lane looked appealingly at her pretty brown-haired daughter, a two-months' bride, who, brave in her wedding finery, sat now with a temporary effect in a big arm-chair, watching the clock, at the close of a day spent in her old home.

"Do you suppose I ought to go and call on her, Anna?"

"Oh, mother, no! Of course not!" Young Mrs. Harland Lloyd's tone was final. "It isn't as if anything had been announced; we're not supposed to know about it at all."

"Yes, I know, Anna, but still—" Mrs. Lane was plainly unconvinced. "When everybody is asking me if they are engaged — the Caprons go to all those club-dances in Bridge road and bring back all kinds of reports—when even Mrs. Wagner actually congratulated me, it seems to me very singular that his mother should be expected to take no notice of it whatever. When you read love stories they always make it seem as if there were only the two young people in the world—I dare say they think so themselves — but they're very much mistaken. I think the family has a great deal to go through." Mrs. Lane paused to add uncomfortably: "Slombruger seems such an extraordinary name—and Anemone Slomburger! It doesn't sound quite—ladylike."

"They say it was originally Von Slombruger," interrupted Anna, over whose lovely face little causeless, tremulous blushes had been coming and going, as if, while her mother talked, she herself were holding secret converse with Love. "They say there was a castle on the Rhine—before the father went to Nevada."

"Yes, my dear, so I've heard. But she seems such an unnatural sort of person for my boy to like—Latimer has just the same look in his eyes that he had when he was a baby, and his hair falls over his forehead the same way, for all he is grown up and so broad, and has done so well in business. I can't seem to hear anything about this Miss Slombruger except that she only cares for dancing and is very attractive to men. Now you know yourself, Anna, you can't make a home for a man on that. I wish I had taken more notice of her at your reception—I did see that she was very tall, and white, and thin, and dressed magnificently, but I never thought of her in connection with Latimer; she put me out a little by shaking my hand up by my ear, with that odd, mannish kind of a grip that some girls have. It seems so odd that she should have come on to visit at the Caswells—such nice, comfortable, old-time people—making such a long stay too, and the brother coming out from town so often. He was quite nice looking."

"They say he is devoted to Maudie," interpolated Anna again.

"Yes, so you told me. When Latimer began suddenly going there, I did hope it was for her. She was always such a dear child, and there's something in her manner to me since her mother's death that has always appealed to me—though since they moved to Bridgeroad and that grandmother came to live there, we've sort of lost sight of them. She got along with your father so beautifully at the reception; he was very much pleased with her. Do you know, Anna—you'll laugh at me—but there was something, just a little something in her eyes when she handed Latimer her oyster plate that made me feel as if she cared."

"Miss Slombruger is terribly bad style," said Anna decidedly. "She tried to flirt with Harland at the reception—that placed her at once with me; the brother was very nice to me. But Latimer has had so many affairs, probably this won't amount to anything."

"Oh, my dear. You needn't tell me." Mrs. Lane shook her head with melancholy certainty. "You may think a person is in earnest, but when you see the real thing you know. Why he never has his Sunday dessert any more—not even when it's Nesselrode pudding, and you know how fond he is of that—because he is in such a hurry to catch that two o'clock train that makes connection for Bridgeroad. If dinner isn't on the table at the moment, he goes around with his watch in his hand counting the seconds, and you know how your father hates to have anything hurried. Oh, Latimer isn't like himself at all. He looks so strained and excited."

"Harland's mother invited him to her musicale—she counted on his violin—and he never came, and never sent any word. I was so ashamed," said Mrs. Lloyd. "Of course, Harland wouldn't have minded for himself, but when it was his mother—"

"Well, Harland will have to stand it like anybody else," announced Mrs. Lane stubbornly. "I hardly see Latimer at all—he never comes in before one o'clock at night. The other evening I tried to get a chance to speak to him while he was buttoning his collar, saying people had been asking me about his going so much to Bridgeroad, and he only said, in that emphatic way of his, 'When there's anything to tell you, mother, you may be sure I'll tell it.' Oh, dear me! You don't have to put on your things and go already, do you?"

"Yes, I'd better," said Anna, who had risen and was putting on her hat. The lovely color deepened in her soft cheeks—she looked with starry eyes at her mother. "Harland is so foolish; if he gets home before I do he feels so lonely, he won't even sit down until I come in."

"Yes. Oh, well, he'll get over that," stated Mrs. Lane absently. She returned yearningly to her troubles. "I can't get used to your living out of the house, Anna, and going to Harland's mother's to Sunday nights' tea. Of course it's all right, but I can't say I don't miss you; even Harland couldn't expect me to say that I don't miss you, Anna."

"Now you know you have me every day in the week," returned the daughter in a cheerful tone, stopping in the arrangement of her veil to lean caressingly against the motherly shoulder near her, with a quick little upward, loving glance that took in the tears Mrs. Lane was bravely endeavoring to keep under cover. "I wouldn't worry about Latimer. She is horrid, but something may come to break it off. Didn't you say I was to have some of those biscuits to take home with me?"

Mrs. Lane brightened visibly. "I've got them in a box downstairs for you, dear, and a piece of the chocolate cake. And, Anna, you'll laugh at me, but I put in two of those croquettes; you liked them so much for lunch, dear. Don't let Gunda burn them up when she warms them over."

She would have liked to send around a whole dinner, but Harland mightn't like it. The Lloyds's little dwelling was charming, but Anna, as her mother's helper, and Anna as housekeeper on her own account were two very different things. The meals those two young people sat down to wrung Mrs. Lane's heart. The thought of Latimer, her darling boy, starving with a Miss Slombruger who only cared for dancing, was really too much. Miss Slombruger! In spite of being still young, and in spite of daily association with the present generation, Mrs. Lane had a queer little old-fashioned streak in her that didn't belong in this age—she was, like her bedroom, black walnut to the core. The United States of America consisted of a territory some twenty-five miles square, in which Everybody lived and the capital of which was her home. People who came from otherwhere might be nice, but even then she was relieved when they went back to their strange outlands. She was so very much herself that it was hard for her to put herself in the place of her children, though she yearned unspeakably for some real, living sympathy in her care for the beloved son, her strong young Prince among men, whose future happiness was, alas! in his own inexperienced hands.

"Is Latimer detained to-night?" asked Mr. Lane at dinner, looking at the place opposite James, the younger son. Mr. Lane's high, grey-crowned forehead and Roman nose made anything he said impressive.

"Why, I suppose so," said the wife hurriedly. "It's dreadful the way he is kept at the office. He has hardly been home to dinner a night this week."

"Well, he isn't kept at the office to-night," said James, the care-free. James was a college youth who enjoyed life. "I met him on the train to-night coming out with Maudie Caswell."

"Maudie!" Mrs. Lane's heart gave a glad leap.

"Well, he was with her at first, and then they paired off with that Slombruger crowd—they make me tired. Latimer had on one of my new neckties, too, one I've been saving to wear. Oh, you bet he tried to dodge, but I saw him. When he forgets to send his things to the laundry he just walks in and takes mine. I won't stand it any longer, and I'll tell him so, too, when I get the chance. He acts as crazy as a loon over that girl—he acts crazy!"

"If you will allow me to speak," said Mr. Lane, with dignified displeasure, "I would like you, my dear, to request Latimer to lock the hall door when he comes in so late. Ellen informed me this morning that the key had not been turned in the lock nor the chain put up for two nights."

"I don't see why she told you," murmured Mrs. Lane with a flash of resentment and a quick decision to muzzle Ellen for the future. "Poor Latimer! He's so tired when he comes in these nights after that long journey from Bridgeroad, I suppose he can hardly see to get upstairs."

The father waved an impatient hand. "Latimer is old enough to look after himself. If he is tired, it's his own look-out. I want that door locked."

: Big Discounts : During This Month.

Usually, twice a year, we have discount sales in our furniture, rug, and curtain departments.

One of these sales takes place in February, and the other in July.

During the present month, we intend selling certain articles at discounts ranging from 15 to 33 1-3 p. c.

Most of these articles are odds and ends left over from our spring trade.

It is necessary, however, for us to clear them out to make room for fall goods.

Almost every day during this month, something in our store will be offered at a discount.

It will pay you to follow these announcements closely, as, by doing so, you will save money.

These discounts of 15 to 33 1-3 p. c. will hold good only during the month of July.

Brockville Regiment at Quebec.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Quebec, July 2.—The 41st Brockville Regiment arrived here by boat on Sunday morning, and were met by a detachment of the 8th Royal Rifles. To-day they visit Montmorency Falls, the sergeants being entertained at dinner by the sergeants of the 8th, while the officers are being dined by the local officers.

The band of the regiment performed on Dufferin Terrace last night before an enormous concourse of people.

DOMINION DAY JOYFULLY OBSERVED

Annual National Birthday this Year Approaches Great Week End Holiday.

MANY OFF TO THE COUNTRY.

Military Salutes are Chief Public Recognition of Patriotic Character of the Day.

Although to-day, the 2nd of July, has this year been chosen for the official celebration of the Confederation of the provinces of Canada, many people took advantage of the fine weather of Saturday and yesterday to begin their unofficial celebration of the same patriotic occasion.

In fact, with the exception of the military salutes to-day it is difficult for one to say from merely watching the appearance of the town which day really was Dominion Day. Flags flew all day yesterday and on Saturday afternoon, and numbers of people hurrying to the stations with satchels and grips of various kinds in their hands were also everywhere in evidence. Indeed these crowds of excursionists are almost always the most striking token of the spirit of rejoicing which fills the hearts of all true Canadians on this occasion. The celebration of Dominion Day has always differed from that of the great American holiday which follows it at such a short interval in being not so much a noisy demonstration as a day of quiet outing and pleasure. There is what the ardent American patriot might consider a lamentable lack of color and firecrackers of various noises and sizes and odors are conspicuous by their comparative rareness.

But to make up for the absence of these conventional tokens of patriotic feeling there is throughout the country a current of quiet thankfulness and joy and deep national feeling and pride, which is perhaps all the deeper and stronger for its comparative calmness of expression.

MANY HOLIDAYING IN COUNTRY.

Fortunately, the weather has been all that could be desired, and offered every encouragement to those who wished to take advantage of the two days' holiday to go into the country for an outing. Those who did so were not few. The stations were the centres of the city's activity Saturday and they were thronged with crowds of pleasure-seekers, who, with grip in hand, and in many instances, with paddles and guns and the other paraphernalia of sport invaded the trains for the neighboring summer resorts. They were naturally good-humored, and filled with joy at the prospect of a pleasant holiday, but not to the extent of forgetting the occasion of the outing and its patriotic significance for every loyal Canadian.

One who moved about among the different groups as they stood waiting for their trains would have been surprised at the extent to which the conversation dealt with national topics, and the deep and intelligent interest which was taken in the growth and prospects of the Dominion and in the effect of confederation on the progress and prosperity of the country. Though there was no glare of colored ribbons, and though no voice raised a patriotic anthem, the people were evidently deeply and sincerely inspired by love of country and pride of its greatness, a love and pride too real and earnest to need the aid of any ribbon however gay, or any noise however loud, to express it to the world.

EMPRESS MAKES FAST RUN.

Time from Rimouski to Moville was 5 Days 14 Hours.

The passengers who lunched in Quebec on Saturday of last week and then boarded the SS. Empress of Britain, en route to England, were able to eat their dinner in London Saturday night, the voyage from Quebec to Liverpool occupying a little over six days. Liverpool was reached at 2.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and later a special train conveyed the first and second cabin passengers to London, where they arrived shortly after 6 o'clock. There were 320 first class and 260 second class passengers on board. The "Empress'" time of passage between Rimouski and Moville was 5 days and 14 hours, which constitutes a remarkably fast run.

British Officer Seeks Game.

Major-Gen. Sir Frederick Carrington, K.C.M.G., K.C.B., arrived by the Virginian on Saturday. He goes, it is said, to shoot big game in the Rocky Mountains, and may also go on a hunting trip to Newfoundland before returning to England.

Sir Frederick was educated at Cheltenham College, and joined the 24th Regiment in 1864. He commanded the Light Horse in the Transkei War, 1877-78; commanded Colonial Forces against Lekukuni in the Transvaal, 1878-79; commanded native levies in Zulu Rebellion; commanded the Colonial Forces in Basuto War, 1881; Commandant of Bechuanaland Police in 1893; General Officer Commanding forces in Rhodesia Rebellion; commanded infantry at Gibraltar, 1895-99; Rhodesian Field Force in Boer War. In 1887 he was created K.C.M.G., and in 1897 was created K.C.B.

St. Louis Police Raided House.

On Thursday afternoon the St. Louis police raided a disorderly house kept by Madame Brazier on Mount Royal avenue. She was allowed to go on a suspended sentence on condition that she would leave the town. Two girls found in the place were each fined $50 by Recorder Pelletier yesterday.

Chief Clermont stated that no such places will be tolerated in St. Louis, and that if any more are found they will be severely dealt with.

TICKET COLLECTORS UNDER ARREST

They are Accused of Re-selling Dominion Park Tickets Outside Park.

FRAUD TECHNICAL CHARGE.

When Arrested the Accused Had $75 Worth of Tickets in Their Possession.

Two men who were employed at Dominion Park as ticket collectors were placed under arrest yesterday afternoon on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences.

For some time past the police officials of the park have been on guard against ticket sellers operating outside the park. It is now alleged that the ticket collectors have been putting the tickets in their pockets instead of putting them in the box, and that after they have finished at the park for the night they have handed them over to other parties who sell them at the usual ten-cent rate, and thereby secure the proceeds for themselves.

J. E. Nesbitt and E. Tetreault, two young men employed on the scenic railway, were caught putting tickets in their pockets yesterday afternoon by one of the Thiel Detective Force, who are in charge of the park, and they were put under arrest. When searched there was found to be over $75 worth of tickets for the scenic railway in their possession.

Other employes of the park are now being watched, and it is expected that they will be placed under arrest to-day.

The man who disposes of the tickets for these young sharks is also known to the police, but when he was looked for on Sunday afternoon he could not be found.

The two young men arrested will be arraigned before Judge Lafontaine on Tuesday morning.

As a warning to the general public, the park officials state that all tickets are sold from a strip, and that they are never torn off except in the presence of the purchaser.

BODY FOUND IN RIVER.

Anthime Allard Went to Wedding, Never to Return.

On Wednesday evening Anthime Allard, 19 years of age, dressed at his home, 454 St. Timothee street, and left to attend a wedding, which he had been invited to.

He bade good-bye to his mother and father as he was leaving the house, telling them he would be home as early as possible after the ceremony.

He seemed to be happy and mentioned the fact that he hoped he would have a good time. Since he left his home on Wednesday, he had not been heard of and the police had been notified of his disappearance.

On Saturday evening word was received that a body corresponding to Allard's description, had been found floating in the river at Longue Pointe. Morgue officials and relatives of the deceased went to the scene, and identified the body.

FOLLOWED COW TO DEATH.

Cyrille Thomson Drowned in Tail Race at Point St. Charles.

Fifteen-year-old Cyrille Thomson, of 296 Charlevoix street, met death by drowning on Saturday afternoon in a remarkable manner.

He had been driving a cow home, and had occasion to cross the tail race bridge, a structure built many years ago, but now owned by the city, which spans the overflow from the Point St. Charles waterworks. As he neared the bridge the cow started to run, and Cyrille followed, unmindful of his steps. The timbers of the bridge are rotten in parts, and holes are apparent. As Cyrille crossed the bridge on the run, he fell through one of the holes, and was immediately swept away by the current, which is very strong there.

Called Lord's Day Act Tyranny.

At a meeting of labor men, held in the St. Joseph's Hall on Saturday afternoon, the Lord's Day Bill was denounced as a tyrannical piece of legislation.

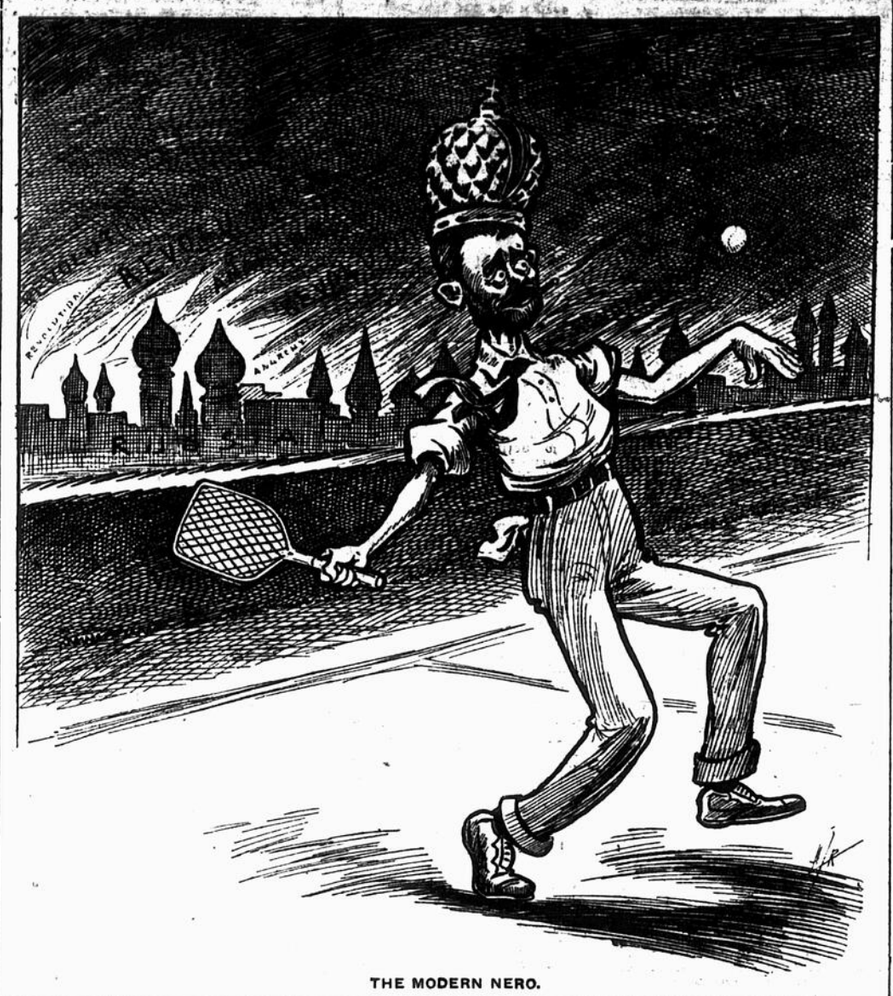

Delegate Joseph Ainey, business agent of the District Council of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, said that if he understood the bill rightly, the clergy wanted to do away with all business on Sunday, except their own. He thought the abolition of innocent amusements on Sunday, or any other day, would be nothing short of a crime.

Labor Leader is Coming.

At Saturday night's meeting of the District Council of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, it was decided to invite Mr. William Huber, of Chicago, general president of the International body, to visit Montreal on Labor Day. The chair was occupied by O. Miron, and Joseph Ainey acted as secretary. It was also decided to raise a defence fund of $15,000 or $20,000. The money will be placed in one of the local banks, and will be at the disposal of the District Council.

River Gives Up Another Dead.

Shortly after 7 o'clock this morning laborers on a wharf found the body of a man floating in the river opposite the spot on which the morgue is located. It was taken from the water, and the morgue ambulance sent for. The body has evidently been in the water since last autumn, and there is not a mark of any kind, even about the clothing to tell whose corpse it is, except a little silver watch found in one of the pockets. It is in an advanced state of decomposition.

THE MODERN NERO.

HOUSE BREAKING IS THE CHARGE

Three Boys Arrested When Preparing for Alleged Vacant House Burglary.

The practice of robbing houses which have been vacated for the summer by their owners has again started, and the detectives are hard at work guarding these places against persons who follow up this practice.

As a result of their close watching three young men, Sydney Coates, Stanley Coates and Morley Day, were brought to police headquarters late Saturday evening by Detectives Viens and P. O'Connors. For the past two weeks complaints have been received by Chief Carpenter that young men were seen loitering around houses, and in some cases they were seen to go up and peep through the windows. Men were put at work and the three young men were seen on Saturday afternoon, and it appeared as if they were preparing a field of action for Saturday evening. The two detectives interrupted and the boys were put under arrest.

They will be held in the cells until to-morrow morning, when they will be arraigned before Judge Lafontaine on a charge of housebreaking.

KNOWN TO THE POLICE.

The two Coates' boys are known to the police, having figured in other schemes.

Stanley Coates was arrested once before for having presented a false cheque upon the Molsons Bank and for having forged the name of a prominent down-town broker to it so that he could procure the money which the cheque called for. For this crime he was sent to gaol for six months.

Another brother, Horace, by name, who is now serving a term in gaol, was arrested for having robbed a house in Westmount, under the pretence that he was an inspector of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company.

Sydney Coates, the youngest of the three boys, also has a mark against his name. He was arrested about two years ago for having broken into a house in much the same style as he was operating, or trying to operate again this summer. For some reason he was allowed to go on suspended sentence, after promising the judge that he would be a better boy. Day and other boys also figured in this case.

The father of the three boys is almost distracted over the conduct of his three sons, and since the sending of Horace to gaol for his act of theft he has been very ill and has for many days been confined to his bed.

Pickpocket Caught in Act.

There was great excitement on a train at Place Viger Station, Saturday, when Chief Detective McCaskill caught a thief named Harry Gilmour, of Toronto, in the act of picking the pocket of Mr. Richard Kough, of Columbia Ave.

The fellow had dexterously taken two five dollar bills from Mr. Kough's pocket, when the chief caught him by the hand. A scene of great excitement followed in the desperate attempt of Gilmour to escape, but Chief McCaskill's grip was too tight and the pickpocket failed to get away.

Two of his chums, who were pointing to the crowd, succeeded in making their escape, despite the chief's cries to men to catch them.

Woman Fainted in Court.

Mrs. Jane Scott created a stir in the Recorder's Court Saturday by taking a fainting spell while a charge of assault was being preferred against her. She was removed from the court room for a brief time, and when brought back pleaded not guilty to having torn the shirt and scratched the breast of Charles Wilson.

Wilson, who caused some amusement by holding up a tattered shirt in full view of everyone, said that the accused had come to his house and without provocation committed the assault stated.

Judge Sicotte fined the prisoner $5 with the alternative of three weeks' imprisonment.

Were Fined for Speeding.

Two convictions of drivers for speeding were registered in the Recorder's Court on Saturday, and will probably put a check on the practice.

Jean Baptiste Perrault and Joseph Gagne were the accused men. A fine of $3 with the alternative of eight days' imprisonment was imposed in each case.

GOLD DISCOVERY IN NEW ONTARIO

Word Has Been Received from the Temiscamingue Region of a Rich Find in that Section.

Word was received this morning from the Canadian Pacific Railway agent at Temiscamingue that a man has just arrived from Home Seal Lake, seventy miles north of Ville Marie, which is a port of call for the Temiscamingue Lake, with a story of gold discovery.

He brought with him to Temiscamingue a large number of gold nuggets, which are regarded as the most wonderful samples of gold discovered in a new district since the famous Yukon find. He says that there is a large vein which is literally covered with free gold.

MR. H. A. ALLAN RETURNS.

Allans are at Present Planning No Speedier Lines.

"Of course, if the Canadian Pacific removes its Empress steamships from the St. Lawrence to the Pacific service and replaces them by speedier vessels, we will naturally meet the competition by building larger and faster vessels than the Virginian and Victorian; but at the present moment we have no intention of laying down any additional steamships beyond that which is now being built in Great Britain for our Atlantic service."

Such was the tenor of the remark made to a Star representative on Saturday by Mr. Hugh A. Allan, of the Allan line, who had just reached Montreal from England, where he has been sojourning for some little time in the hope of bettering his health.

Mr. Allan added that not until he reached Quebec was he aware that a report was in circulation that the Allan line was to build two new palatial vessels of a speedier type than the two turbiners which have been making such a name for themselves on the St. Lawrence route.

"The report is entirely without foundation," he said. "My trip abroad was not a business one in any particular. In fact, I did not even visit the offices in London, therefore, the rumor that I had conferred with the company over the desirability of building two new vessels for our Liverpool-Montreal service is groundless.

"It is true that at present we have a vessel under construction in Great Britain, but she is quite of a different type from the Virginian and Victorian. This is the only vessel we are building for our service at present."

Mr. Allan was then informed of the report that the C.P.R. intended to place the Empresses on the Pacific service and replace them on the St. Lawrence route by speedier vessels.

"Well, if that is done," he said, "the present situation will be changed, and it will be necessary for us to meet the competition. But at present we share the mail contract with the C.P.R., and the best of good feeling prevails between the two lines. The joint contract will continue for six years, and it is scarcely likely in this interval at least that we shall become formidable antagonists.

One of the most interesting pieces of freight removed from the SS. Virginian on Saturday was a handsome motor car, the importation of Mr Allan. It is one of the finest yet seen in this city, and is probably the largest as well. It is a six seated Deimer, complete in every respect, and luxuriously upholstered in the best of leather. The engine is a powerful affair, capable of attaining great speed.

Clerical Changes.

The Rev. Ernest A. Willoughby King, M.A., Church of England missionary, of Windsor Mills and Brompton, and Rural Dean of Sherbrooke, has just been appointed the rector of St. Peter's Church, Quebec, by the Lord Bishop of that Diocese, in succession to the Venerable A. J. Balfour, M.A., recently appointed the Archdeacon of St. Francis. Mr. King is expected to enter upon his new duties about the middle of August. His successor has not yet been named.

EGYPT'S RULER'S TOPAZ MINE

True Treasure Island Yields Great Supplies of Precious Stones—A Topaz Romance.

Alexandria, July 1.—The Khedive's Island of Topazes in the Red Sea would deserve the name of Treasure Island, for its supply of precious stones seems almost inexhaustible. The mining party, consisting of about twenty-five miners and several engineers, who work the mines throughout the winter—in summer the heat is too terrific—have just returned to Egypt on the conclusion of the season's work. They are laden with five cases of stones, mostly topazes of the purest water. It is related that the Khedive two years ago discovered the clue to a theft of Palace jewels by noticing a topaz of peculiar brilliancy in the shop window of a jeweller in the Rue de la Paix, in Paris. He would scarcely ever fail to recognize a stone mined in his island. The jeweller was naturally innocent of fraud himself, but his recollection of the vendor set the police on the track of the thieves. Rumor says that the Khedive, who derives considerable wealth from his island concessions, intends forming it into a mining concession, to be exploited by a limited company, in return for extensive royalties.

ONTARIO VEGETABLE CROPS.

Growth Delayed by Too Much Rain and Growers Fear Results.

Toronto, July 2.—The crop correspondents of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, in their reports, covering the month of June, state that the season this year is from one to two weeks behind last year, owing to the frequent rains and lack of warm weather. This condition prevailed throughout the province. Warm weather is badly needed to bring on the crops, and if it prevails will result in a great improvement. The frequent rains and cloudy weather have resulted in a rank, quick growth of some crops which has done considerable damage. Several of the correspondents fear that grubs and insects are likely to do great damage this year.

SPENT DAY AT QUEBEC.

Lord Grey and Party Heard Sermon on Dominion Day.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Quebec, July 2.—The Governor-General accompanied by Lady Evelyn Grey and Capt. Trotter, A.D.C., arrived in town yesterday from their salmon fishing trip, on their way to Ottawa. They are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Molson Macpherson. Last night they attended divine service in the English Cathedral, where a sermon on Dominion Day and its lessons was preached by Rev. Canon Chambers, of Lachine.

Young Man Shoots Young Lady on Whom He Called.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Winnipeg, Man., July 2.—Miss Banes, a pretty kindergarten teacher, was accidentally shot with a revolver carelessly handled by a young man who was visiting her this afternoon. The visitor took out the weapon to clean it out, discharging the bullet hitting the young woman in the breast. Fortunately the ball hit a rib and was diverted from its course through the lungs, and passed out the left side of the victim, the injury amounting to nothing more than a flesh wound.

Big Liner "Uncontrollable."

London, July 2.—The French line steamer La Savoie, from New York, June 21, for Havre, late yesterday, passed the Scilly Islands with the "uncontrollable" signal hoisted.

NATIONS PASSED BY ON THE OTHER SIDE

Rev. D. J. Neugewirtz so Refers to Persecution of Jews in Russia.

DESTINY OF JEWISH PEOPLE.

When Converted Hebrews will Become Missionaries for the Regeneration of the World.

A protest against the barbarous treatment received by the Jews in Russia, and an appeal for the sympathy and interference of the outside world, was the burden of a discourse delivered by the Rev. S. J. Neugewirtz yesterday morning at St. Martin's Church. The words of Jeremiah, referring to the desolation of Jerusalem and the persecution of Israel in the days of the prophet, were the text:—"Is it nothing to you all, ye who pass by? Behold and see if there be any sorrow like unto my sorrow."

Mr. Neugewirtz made his appeal with the impassioned earnestness of one who has a fellow feeling for the sufferers. Pitiable still was the plight of the Jew in the dispersion. The words of the text were never more true than at present. Everybody knew the horrors of which the newspapers of the time are full, the massacres of Kishineff and Odessa, and of a hundred other Russian cities, in which thousands of Jews perished, and the damage to Jewish property ran into the millions of roubles. Families were starving and homeless, and the means used by the persecutors were worthy of the Spanish Inquisition.

The sympathy of the people of Montreal was assured for the suffering Jews in Russia. The persecuted Jews were the kinsmen of Christ. The Jews were destined when converted, to be the missionaries for the regeneration of the world. It was not, then, too much to ask the Christian world to pray for the salvation of Israel. Mr. Neugewirtz toog the parable of the Good Samaritan as a parallel of the condition of the Jews in Russia. The nations passed resolutions of sympathy, and then "passed by on the other side."

"God cannot be indifferent to the sufferings of his people" said the speaker. "Let the Russian people remember Pharoah and his hosts. The internal troubles in Russia are in large part due to the treatment of the Jews in that country, and those troubles have only but begun."

A large number of Jews were among the congregation.

FOR CONSTRUCTION WORK.

Grand Trunk Pacific Arranging to Send Rolling Stock West.

Arrangements are being completed by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway for the transportation of 289 cars, engines and steam shovels from Montreal to Portage la Prairie, the point at which the construction of the new transcontental line commences. These cars and locomotives form Grand Trunk Pacific rolling stock, and their movement to the West means the inauguration of advanced construction work.

The contract means an outlay of between $18,000 and $20,000 on the part of the Grand Trunk Pacific, so that the company is finding out the cheapest route to send them, whether through Canadian territory all the way or over a United States line, to the border of Manitoba and then northward over a Canadian line. The contract will be let by the beginning of next week, it is announced.

The company, it is also stated, expects to have enough road completed west of Portage la Prairie by next fall to allow the commencement of train service. This will only mean work trains for a while, but operation for commercial purposes will naturally soon follow.

HELLO GIRLS IN PANIC.

False Alarm of Fire Drove Them in Flight from Switchboard.

The fire alarm rang throughout the Bell Telephone Company's building on the corner of Notre Dame and St. John streets on Saturday, and a panic stampede of employes ensued which might easily have ended with disastrous results.

This was how it came about.

A male operator behind the long distance telephone switch board where he was working, heard a bang and saw a flash of fire, shoot out from the board. In perfect good faith he immediately pressed a button which rings the fire alarm in all parts of the building. It is said that a fuse had burned and a switch blown out, but there was no danger of the building catching fire.

As quickly as possible word was passed that no danger existed and the employes returned to their duties, nothing the worse of their experience.

INLAND SHIPPING LARGE.

Record to Date Surpasses Last Season by 426.

Up to the present a substantial increase over last season at this time is registered in regard to inland shipping. The first inland vessel to reach port this season arrived on April 14, two days earlier than the first vessel of the previous season. To date 3,568 craft, mostly barges, have come in and out of the harbor; last year the figure stood at 3,142, or 426 less. A number of vessels have been put out of commission since last year, and a number of new ones are now in operation. A leap is said to have been made in the volume of business done.

Labor Men at Riverside.

A big labor parade took place on Saturday to Riverside Park, from St. Joseph's Hall, under the auspices of Jacques Cartier Typographical Union. The following organizations took part: Bricklayers' Union, Stonemasons' Union, Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Plasterers' Union, Builders' Laborers' Union, Plumbers and Steamfitters, Painters and Decorators, Iron Structural Workers, Trunk and Bag Workers, Boot and Shoe Workers, Printing Pressmen, Bookbinders, Hat and Cap Workers, Garment Workers, and a large number of miscellaneous organizations. Speeches were made by prominent labor men, and a good programme was carried out without a hitch.

Sympathize with Operatives.

A mass meeting of cotton operatives was held on Saturday evening in the Tremblay Hall, St. Catherine street, when resolutions were passed protesting against the alleged action of the officials of the Dominion Textile Company, who, it was stated, had prevented their Magog employes from forming a trade union. Speeches were made by leading members of the Textile Union and resolutions were passed sympathising with the Magog cotton operatives.

¶ Our Vertical Filing keeps all your letters with one correspondent ENTIRELY separate from all other letters, and so closely indexed that you can pick out one folder without handling any others.

Here's the whole correspondence in a separate folder, arranged in order of date:

The folder containing letters is filed VERTICALLY (on edge) in a file-drawer, and is indexed by name, subject, city or province. Nothing could be simpler!

¶ Wouldn't it be a good idea for us to mail you our new Vertical Filing Booklet and a practical illustration of the System?

POLICE ARE INVESTIGATING.

Death of Unknown May Have Been Caused by Violence.

The identification of the body found in the river last Friday has not yet been established. Dr. Duncan MacTaggart, medical examiner, made an autopsy on Saturday afternoon. The cause of death could not be absolutely established owing to the body being in an advanced state of decomposition. Several marks of violence were found, which may have been inflicted after death. The police are at work on the case, and the inquest will not be held for a few days.

FOUND FLOATING IN RIVER.

Unknown Body May be that of the Drowned Marine Engineer.

Last evening the body of an unknown man, apparently about 45 years of age, was found floating in the river, opposite the Bonsecours Market.

When searched at the morgue a silver watch and several pieces of silver were found in his pockets, but there was nothing discovered by which he could be identified. The morgue officials think he is the marine engineer who was drowned a few days ago while trying to save the life of a companion, who fell into the river while attempting to board a steamer. The body of that young man had not yet been recovered. The inquest will be held on Tuesday morning.

"Dry Farming."

What is known as the "Campbell system" of Dry Farming in the West" has an advocate in John L. Cowan in the July Century. Mr. Cowan says:

What Western people have become accustomed to calling the "Campbell system of dry farming" consists simply in the exercise of intelligence care, patience and tireless industry. It differs in details from the "good farming" methods practiced and taught at the various agricultural experiment stations; but the underlying principles are the same.

These principles are two in number. First, to keep the surface of the land under cultivation loose and finely pulverized. This forms a soil mulch that permits the rains and melting snows to percolate readily through to the compacted soil beneath; and that at the same time prevents the moisture stored in the ground from being brought to the surface by capillary attraction, to be absorbed by the hot, dry air. The second is to keep the sub-soil finely pulverized and firmly compacted, increasing its water-holding capacity and its capillary attraction, and placing it in the best possible physical condition for the germination of seed and the development of plant roots. The "dry farmer" thus stores water not in dams and artificial reservoirs, but right where it can be reached by the roots of growing crops.

Through these principles a rainfall of twelve inches can be conserved so effectively that it will produce better results than are usually expected of an annual precipitation of twenty-four inches in humid America. The discoverer and demonstrator of these principles deserves to rank among the greatest of national benefactors. He has not merely made two blades of grass grow where only one grew before, but he has made it possible to cover with wheat and corn, alfalfa and other useful crops, tens of thousands of square miles of fertile land on which nothing but sage bush, cacti, Kansas sunflowers and bunch grass are now found.
