Baptists Award Six Scholarships

Six scholarships have been awarded to students of the Westmount Baptist Church Bible School, it was announced by the superintendent, W. E. Williams. These scholarships were introduced this year for the first time in the history of the Church School and have been made possible by several church members as well as the Staff of the School.

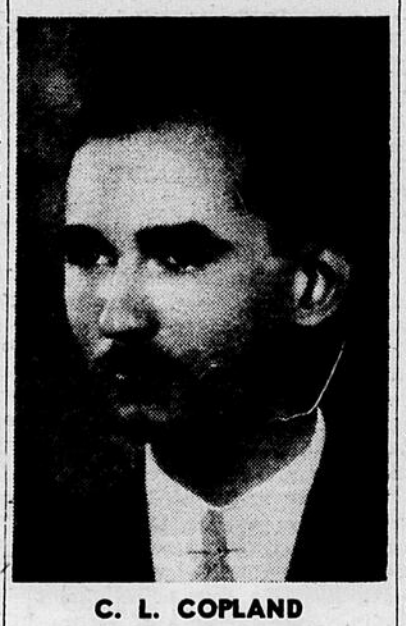

The winners are: Evelyn Saunders, Doris Mooney, Ann Mornan and Harry Nasmith — all of Grade VI; Barbara Mornan, Grade II; and Ralph Temple, Grade IX. Each scholarship takes the form of a two-week holiday at the Montreal Baptist Sunday Schools camp at Dalesville, Que., which is a new venture on the part of the Superintendents' Council in collaboration with Rev. and Mrs. Dennis F. Mildon of the Montreal Children's Mission.

The scholarships were awarded on the basis of the highest attainments during the year on several points including homework, attendance, etc., the eligible candidates also being required to pass a written examination at the conclusion of the term.

Well-Known Pioneer Railroader W. D. Robb Served Sixty Years

William Doig Robb, pioneer Canadian railroader and former vice-president of the Canadian National Railways, died Monday morning in his 90th year at his home, 4700 Western avenue.

One of the few remaining railroad builders trained in the school of hard knocks, he completed 60 years of service with the Grand Trunk and Canadian National Railways before his retirement in 1931.

Mr. Robb was born in 1857 at Longueuil, where his parents had settled upon their arrival from Scotland, and at the age of 14 he began his railway career as mechanical apprentice in the Grand Trunk Railway shops at Hadlow Cove, near Point Levis, Que. Three years later he was transferred to Montreal, where he completed his apprenticeship, and in 1883 he became night locomotive foremen in the Montreal Shops. Transferred to Belleville, and Toronto, he rose steadily, and returned to Montreal in 1901 as acting superintendent of motive power, becoming superintendent the following year.

In 1917, he was appointed vice-president of Motive Power and car departments and in 1918, he became operating vice-president of the Grand Trunk System.

Appointed Vice-President

He was appointed vice-president and general manager in 1922, and in 1923, although he had completed more than 50 years of service, he accepted the invitation of Sir Henry Thornton to remain as vice-president of the recently amalgamated Canadian National Railways with jurisdiction over telegraphs, agriculture, lands, colonization and development, insurance, radio, pension and relief departments of the system. He continued in this capacity until his retirement in June, 1931.

During his career with the railways, Mr. Robb helped locomotives develop from the old wood-burners to the powerful giants of our time. Aided by his practical experience in the shops, he is credited with introducing many innovations which revolutionized shop procedure in the handling of railway locomotive power. He instituted first aid training among railway men, which has been responsible for the saving of many lives, and aided the growth of the modern apprentice system, by which youths are received

HONOUR ROLE

It has been announced that the City of Westmount intends to place the names of all of its citizens who lost their lives in World War II on additional tablets which will be erected at the War Memorial.

In order to have the list as complete as possible, letters will be sent out to all next-of-kin to check the records which the City has compiled from various sources, including the records at Ottawa.

New By-Law Proposed

Consideration is being given, by the Westmount City Council to a new zoning by-law which will concern the erection of various classes of buildings.

Westmount Girl Wins Automobile At Rotary Fair

Westmount Rotary Carnival, held in Westmount Park last week, reached a grand finale on Saturday night when several thousand people crammed the carnival grounds to enjoy themselves and witness the drawing for the new car to be given away.

As the hour for the draw drew near, more and more interested spectators crowded into the grounds. Finally, the mixing box, from which the winning ticket was to be drawn began to turn .

At the appointed hour, Doug. McKean, president of the Westmount Rotary Club, made his way to the platform. The milling crowd stilled. The box stopped turning and was opened. Mr. McKean reached in, and drew forth a ticket, a little piece of paper which meant a new car for some fortunate individual.

In the tense hush that followed, Mr. McKean read off the name of the winner — Miss Helen Ayer, of 810 Upper Lansdowne Avenue, Westmount.

The big moment was over, and the throng slowly dispersed homeward, and the Carnival was over.

Funeral Tuesday For Drowned Boy

A funeral was held on Tuesday morning, from St. Leo's Church, Westmount, for 11-year-old Pierre Loranger, of 235 Kensington avenue, who lost his life in the pool of the Notre Dame des Grace Community Hall late Friday afternoon. An autopsy performed that night showed the cause of death as drowning.

Reports indicate that the boy, a son of Crown Prosecutor Henri Masson Loranger, K.C., and grandson of Mr. Justice J. L. Loranger of the Superior Court, went with his brother Jacques, 13, to the pool, where a large number of boys were enjoying respite from the summer heat. The pool is well-patrolled by Neil Cameron and Theo. Macduff, who are both competent swimming instructors.

It is reported that Mr. Cameron spotted the boy under water, and immediately removed him from the water and commenced artificial respiration. Firemen and members of the Quebec Hydro Emergency Squad were called, as well as Dr. D. D'Avery Bailey, of the Homoeopathic Hospital, and Dr. Samuel Shuster, of 3521 Girouard avenue, who worked on the body without success for an hour and a half.

Mr. Cameron, in his years as a swimming instructor at the Community Hall, has rescued from the water well over 125 individuals who were in serious difficulty.

RATS IN WESTMOUNT

Rats have been reported by Miss Sophie Elliott, of 90 Arlington avenue, who claims that they are growing plentiful in the neighbourhood, and that they have been raiding garbage cans and are getting into homes. Miss Elliott reports that she has heard of similar situations in other Westmount localities, and claims she would rather see dogs on the loose than have to put up with rats.

WESTMOUNT WHIMSIES

By Oliver Towne

Received a complaint from a Westmount resident to the effect that her garbage, when left in the streets to be picked up, is being overrun and scattered around by numerous rats. Not only that, it was stated, the rats do not confine themselves to routing around in the garbage, but spend much of their time finding their way into the houses themselves. The observance was made that it was much better to have dogs running loose around the city than the rats which are on the prowl just now. Maybe the city should investigate this a little more closely

Great indignation has been expressed by a number of residents who own property in the Grosvenor, Victoria Avenue District. No, this is not about the tramways work, but about a proposed lane to be built down the middle of the block, cutting off some "backyard" property of property owners on these two streets. We believe the idea is partly to provide a rear exit for the new theatre on Victoria Avenue.

One citizen stated that he had his lawn and garden all seeded and starting to grow, and now the city wants to expropriate some of his land. Accordingly, there is a strengthening opposition now arising, with all the property owners fighting it.

Overheard at a Westmount restaurant . . . "No wonder we haven't sold any of that spaghetti tonight, we forgot to put it on the menu." We must extend congrats to our genial Sports Editor, ye old George "Buddy" Cochrane, for the magnificent literary effort he is now putting forth, which is known as "The Pillar". Undoubtedly, it will henceforth be a Pillar of Strength on page two.

George was all set this week to start an extensive research programme on that much debated problem of late, "Whether or not girls should kiss with their eyes open or closed." However, due to the urgent pressure of more important matters, George was forced to postpone the starting of the experiments until after next week . . . the line forms to the right, girls!

Congrats to Tom Sparrow, one of our Westmount Boy Scouts, who will be going over to Paris this summer to attend the World Jamboree. He will be going over aboard the "Warrior", a Canadian Aircraft Carrier, and is looking forward to the trip. He is representing the entire District of Montreal.

into the railroad shops, taught their trade, and given educational courses to fit them for their future tasks.

Aided Railway Development

Mr. Robb was deeply interested in the welfare and opportunities for promotion of his men. He created a skilled and loyal staff which advanced with him. He grew with the growth of Canadian railroading, and played a prominent part in its progress, which greatly influenced the phenomenal development of the country. He was a Canadian, born and bred, and never forgot, in his long and active life, that his country and her people had first claim on his loyalty.

Mr. Robb married Catherine Haggart Black, daughter of James Black, of Montreal, in 1881. She died in 1937. Five sons and a daughter survive. They are Joseph D., J. Bruce, W. Clifton, and F. Morse, all of Montreal, and Wallace H., of Kingston, Ont., and Mrs. C. R. Sneed, of Montreal. The funeral service was held at 2 p.m. Wednesday, in St. Andrew's United Church, Westmount, where Rev. D. M. Grant oficiated. Interment was at Mount Royal Cemetery.

Down Hobbylane

By FRANCES GAUTHIER

I'm ready. Won't you join me? Where to? why, down Hobbylane, of course! A land of relaxation, as well as a fascinating new world. Each week we'll go on to a new section of Hobbylane; next week, we'll be visiting collectors' corner. But, so much for that. Did I hear you say that you're . . .

Too busy? No one is too busy to devote a few minutes a week to relaxation. And once you've joined us, you'll want to spend all your days with us, we promise. So come on to singing, sports, arts, crafts, photography, building, and loads of others . . .

Too old? It's never too late to start relaxing and enjoying yourself. Join our housewives in cooking and sewing, join our "retired" gentlemen in crafts, collecting.

Too young? Not if you're old enough to paste pictures in a scrapbook! Gather round us, make that sweet little dress for your doll, or build those swell airplane models.

No, nor are we forgetting teenagers! There'll be more than enough for you to do!

Sportsmen and business men, too, will find it very hard to choose from all the sports we're thinking up!

But that's expensive, you say? That's where you're wrong! Comparatively few hobbies can ever cost you a fortune! Choose a field you like, suited to your pocketbook and time schedule.

But, you object, there's nothing you'd particularly like to do? Come now . . . Think back to the innumerable times you've envied a person with a hobby . . . Remember how you felt when Jim showed you that fine collection? — Perfect miniature reproductions of the world's most famous ships. Or when Mary showed you that wonderful new dress she made? Or when you got a peak into Betty's photos of movie stars? Or again, at the beach this summer, when you saw how Bill could dive! or heard Ed. playing that accordion? . . . These are but a few instances; really, there are countless examples.

If you are among the few who aren't sure of just what they want, then follow us; before we're through, you'll have decided on a definite hobby with an eye toward half-a-dozen others at the same time . . .

So whether you're seven, seventeen, or seventy, the Welcome Mat is out! Join us next week won't you?

F.G.

P.S. Look for our social notes of Westmount teen-agers. And if we slip on something, be sure to let us know, will you?

Plans Laid for 1948 Hobby Show

At the final meeting of the Westmount Boys' and Girls' Hobby Show Committee, reports of the 1947 Show were presented, and a forecast given stressing the following:

A permanent, acting Committee will be set up. This will include more members from the Junior schools than previously, and so build up the quality of the Committee.

Also, it was announced, Indoor Athletics will no longer be included. Instead a Sports Show will be featured by the same Committee probably around January.

Highly stressed, too, was the idea of combining the Pet with the Hobby Show. Plans are also being made for a spelling bee.

Colourful as well as original was the idea of having a bicycle parade to usher in the '48 Hobby Show.

SOCIAL NOTES

All's excitement about the walls of St. Leo's and St. Paul's about now. The cause? Why the grad dance, of course! It will be held on Mon. June 23rd at the Ritz. Tell you all about it next week!

We'll miss you, Sheila! Yep, the incomparable Kennedy family is moving to Rawdon. Let's hope there'll be a lot of "business trips" to Montreal!

He requested that parents take a part in sharing in the program planning of the camp, and that parents feel free to call the Secretary at any time in relation to the progress of their boy. At the conclusion of the meeting films of Kamp Kanawana were shown.

Mr. Holliday, Christian Emphasis Secretary of the Montreal Y.M.C.A. gave a short talk followed by a quiz to boy members of Camp Westmount. Quiz contest was conducted on the Y.M.C.A. A prize of 'cherries' was given to each boy who participated

Scouts & Cubs

BY REG GROOME

Tom Sparrow, fifteen-year-old member of the 2nd Westmount Senior Scout Troop, will be the only representative from the District of Montreal who will attend the International World Jamboree being held at Moisson, France, near Paris, this summer during the month of August. The Canadian delegation, consisting of 35 Scouts and leaders, will be transported to England and back by the Canadian Aircraft Carrier "Warrior". Tom plans to spend three weeks at Scout Camp Tamaracouta in the Laurentians, from June 28th to July 19th and will leave for Halifax on July 26th. Tom attends Westmount Junior High School. He will be sponsored for the Jamboree by the 2nd Westmount Group. It is certainly a great distinction that the only Montreal representative is from the City of Westmount.

Speaking of Tamaracouta, there will be two Westmount Area Troops in camp for the Advance Party Week, starting tomorrow and they will stay for the first period also, July 5th to 19th. These two troops are St. Leo's, under Scoutmaster W. H. Barry, who will camp in Touchwood Hill, and 2nd Westmount, under Scoutmaster Ian Roberts, who will camp in the newly opened camp site on the North Shore of the Lake. For the two weeks comprising the first period, they will be joined by a third Westmount Troop, St. Matthias, under the joint leadership of Assistant Scoutmasters Alf Powis and J. Wallace. They will camp in Fort Churchill. Royal St. Lawrence Sea Scouts, another Westmount unit, will be camped under J. Hamilton in Flying Post.

Approximately two hundred Scouts and Scouters will be in camp for the Advance Party week while close to five hundred will be there for the first period. Nearly two hundred and fifty will be up for the second period, and probably around two hundred for the final period. There will be no Westmount Area Troop in camp for the second period, but Calvary Troop, under T. Alexander, will be camped in Touchwood Hill for the third period. So Westmount will have an adequate representation at camp as Troops, and on the staff, with W. McRudden of 2nd Westmount as Office Assistant and Tom Sparrow at the International Jamboree. We expect Tom will have quite a story for us when he comes back.

Scouters planning to attend Tamaracouta this summer are strongly advised to read carefully all the 1947 literature BEFORE going to camp, that has been issued by Scout Headquarters for there have been many changes from last year. All in all, it looks like a very good camping season.

THE PILLAR

By GEORGE COCHRANE

TUT, TUT, MR. GROOME

It would appear that Reginald Groome, our rather obese Wolf Cub and Boy Scout expert, and also one of the leading lights of our advertising department, is becoming interested in the Girl Guide movement.

A recent despatch from the vast metropolis of New York tells of the formation of an organization whose raison d'être (that's French!) is our Mr. Groome. The name of this happy group is the Wolf Protective Association.

It was formed by an enterprising miss by the name of Betty Grady who is described as a "honey-haired teen-ager." The Wolf Protective Organization claims that nice girls shouldn't:

1. Neck in public.

2. Pick up men.

3. Wear sloppy clothing — especially sweaters.

4. Swoon over crooners.

Miss Grady, doubtless with our Mr. Groome in mind, says that wolves become more repulsive with age but handles them all in the same way. She just flashes her W.P.A. badge.

And I thought that Reginald went down to the U.S.A. to sell advertising!

WINNIPEG REPORT

Wright Balfour, Westmount's ace fictioneer (an appellation which he abhors), is now pounding a typewriter for the British United Press in Winnipeg. From that prairie city he writes as follows:

"There is little to write about from this cow country as very little happens. A couple of weeks ago it snowed and Thursday was the coldest day since 1857 or some such date in the long, long ago.

"Out here in the west a person grows to appreciate the sparseness of Canada's population. There seems to be a sort of vacuum out here. Also it's sort of wild and wooly. The people are narrow-minded, brutish and aggressive. They are loud and singularly ignorant. The women, having been forced to adapt themselves to the type of male in existence, are equally loud, coarse and brutish.

"I have nothing good to say for this city. It isn't really a city at all. It is a small country town.

"Another curious thing I have noticed about this centre is that everybody looks like a westerner. A taxi driver looks like a westerner running a taxi. In Montreal, a taxi driver looks like a taxi driver. Even when he's off work he'll look like a taxi driver. There'd be no mistaking him under whatever circumstances you saw him. And the same thing would apply to a waiter. But out here nobody looks like what they are doing. They all look as if they were playing at what they are doing and that pretty soon they'll be doing something else—possibly going back to the farm or something like that. I gueess the thing that's lacking here is cosmopolitanism.

"I hope that I shall always be a stranger to this city. I certainly wouldn't want to fit in here."

Any Winnipeggers around?

CHOIR TO BROADCAST

The Oratorio Choir, whose president is Aida Denman Girouly, C.C.M., L.C.C.M., will broadcast over radio station CHLP at 10 p.m. on Saturday when it will render excerpts from Pergolesi's "Stabat Mater" in Latin. Joyce Bradley Smith and Katherine McCoy will be soprano soloists; contralto soloists will be Aida Denman Girouly and Charlotte Stewart. Doris Yeary Modler will accompany.

Enforced Vacation

Sir Isaac Newton conceived his idea of the laws of gravitation when only 24 years old. A terrible plague had broken out in England, schools and universities were closed, and Newton had much time to think during the enforced vacation.

Westmount Rotary Club Has Annual Meeting

Wednesday's Westmount Rotary Club luncheon at Victoria Hall marked the end of another Rotary Year, which is completed at the end of June.

The Financial Report, which proved quite satisfactory, was read by Hon. Treasurer D. McL. Brophy, and Hon. Secretary Stan Neilson read the Secretary's Report in which he summed up the year's activities. He also gave an interesting account of what goes into the preparation of the weekly Rotary Review of the Rotary Club of Westmount which he prepares and sends out to the Rotarians, the press and others—approximately 110 copies weekly.

Retiring President

Retiring President Doug McKean completed his year of office by thanking the officers, committees and members for the generous co-operation they have given him during his tenure of office. He said that he had at first accepted his office with some misgivings, but that now, due to the fine support he has received, he somewhat regrets relinquishing his office.

In his final report, based on reports from his various committees, he stated that contrary to usual practice, he was not going to review the past work of all committees, not because of any lack on their part — all deserved praise — but because time was running short.

Special Praise

There was time, however, to give special praise to the Youth's Service Committee, headed by Chairman Bill Moxley. Listing its manifold accomplishments, he said that it was "possibly the biggest and most active committee in the Club," and gave high praise to all of its members. The Crippled Children's, the Public Relations and the Attendance Committees also came in for special praise.

Mr. McKean then relinquished the chair to incoming President Bud Close. Mr. Close spoke briefly. He thanked the Club for the honour in electing him, said he realized the responsibilities his office entailed, and promised to serve to the best of his ability. His first official act was to present the Rotary Button of Past Presidency to retiring President McKean.

To wind up the meeting, Mr. McKean was then presented with a gold wrist watch by A. A. Boire on behalf of the Rotarians.

With the conclusion of the Rotary Year, outgoing members of the Board of Directors are W. G. Moxley, A. A. Boire, J. McKee and D. Kerr.

FOOD PREPARATION

The second of the present series of three Foodhandler's Instructional Lectures will be given at Victoria Hall at 3 p.m. on Monday, under the auspices of the Department of Health.

Food poisoning is an ever-present menace to the health of the individual and the community at large. The method found to be most effective in reducing the risk of such poisoning, both for those who eat at home, and those who eat out, is in its preparation for consumption. They are shown how food becomes contaminated, how bacteria multiply in contaminated foods, how to avoid such contamination, and how to apply the simple application of modern scientific knowledge to the preparation of clean and wholesome foods.

These lectures are open to the public. It would be wise to take advantage of them.

AMERICAN BOY SCOUTS

Shown above are two United States Boy Scouts who will be attending the Montreal District Boy Scout Camp, Tamaracouta, in the Laurentians, with the St. Matthias Scoup Troop from July 5th to 19th. Christy Testone, left, is a Life Scout, while Johnny Carr, right, is a Star Scout. These two boys will be the only American boys attending the Montreal camp, the annual International Exchange with the State of New York having been cancelled. The two boys are members of Scoutmaster Ed Strang's Troop in Derby, Connecticut. The St. Matthias Scout Troop will be under the leadership of Scouters Alf Powis and J. Wallace during their stay in camp.

Y.M.C.A. Youth Conference Will Begin This Week

The Fourth National Y.M.C.A. Youth Conference will convene at Lake Couchiching, Ontario, June 28th to July 6th. Delegates from some fifty Y.M.C.A.'s across Canada will be represented. The theme of the Conference is "Citizens or Subjects?"

UNUSUAL ACCIDENT

A rare accident occured on the evening of June 19, when John W. Forbes, of 3157 Maplewood avenue parked his car in front of 628 Victoria avenue. Shortly afterwards, he was informed that his car had run down the hill and struck the rear of a truck belonging to Rutherford Lumber Co. The car incurred damages to its hood, both front fenders and headlights, radiator, and grille; only the tire rack on the truck was damaged.

The temperature on Neptune is estimated to be about 40 degrees below zero.

PARLIAMENT CAN ONLY HAVE TWO LANGUAGES

A week or so ago Hon. Ian MacKenzie, Minister of Veteran's Affairs, was brought to task by the Speaker for attempting to introduce a third language into our already bilingual House of Commons.

This is the event as recorded in Hansard on Monday, May 26th:

Right Hon. IAN A. MACKENZIE (Minister of Veterans' Affairs): Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of privilege. Last Friday, at page 3433 of Hansard, the authenticity of my interpretation of holy writ was challenged by one of my good friends from Toronto. I was supported by the book, sir, the Bible on which you were brought up. I went home and got my own Gaelic Bible, and I am going to put the quotation on record. I have a precedent for doing this, because John Tolmie—

Mr. MacKINNON: He was my uncle.

Mr. MACKENZIE:—did this about forty years ago, in the Gaelic language as used in that part of the country from which my colleague the Minister of Trade and Commerce (Mr. MacKinnon) comes. This is what it says in Genesis, chapter 27, part of verse 22: :

Is e 'n guth guth Iacoib, ach is iad no lamhan lamhan Esau.

The translation, which I give to a long suffering Hansard, is:

The voice is the voice of Jacob, but the hands are the hands of Esau.

Mr. GRAYDON: Mr. Speaker, does this mean that this house is becoming trilingual?

Mr. MACKENZIE: It should be.

Mr. SPEAKER: According to the rules the right hon. minister should not try to introduce a third language in the house.

close friends and had even visited Ottawa together on two occasions while the conspiracy was active, "there is not a particle of evidence that the appellant was in any way concerned, in any of these visits, in the affairs of the conspiracy."

In view of the quashed conviction another observation of the judgment is of interest and moment. "Naturally," the court pointed out, "there will be much suspicion that there is real substance behind all that appears on the record of this trial, but the court cannot proceed upon suspicion."

In this phase the Appeal Court put a finger on the uneasy fear that has been troubling many Canadians since the espionage trials began. In seeking to protect our liberties against those who from selfish or sinister motives have been whittling them away, have we assured these accused the essential freedom and the even justice that we are striving to protect? Or have we dealt in suspicion and prejudice?

Awhile ago the writer was discussing the espionage trials with an old-time friend who is also a justice of one of the courts of our country. He said: "I may as well admit that, in my fear of the growing aggression of Russia, my personal reaction was one of satisfaction at the convictions for espionage. But with that feeling there was a profound underlying fear that such a personal reaction, shared no doubt by a great many people, might be far more dangerous, in breaking down our belief in a justice beyond fear or revenge, than the work of any number of disloyal citizens."

When we remove the protections of the worst citizens, we have robbed the best citizens of the rights and safeguards that they and their forebears have worked and fought for over countless generations. Let us be slow to substitute any hint of Stars Chamber rule for rue of the courts.

TO FILM LIFE OF EXPLORER

Preparations for the forthcoming film "Scott Of The Antarctic" which producer Michael Balcon is making for Ealing Studios later this year are well under way. Cameraman Osmond Borradaile has spent three months in the frigid Antarctic on location photographing background scenes for this new film. The cast for the film has not yet been announced, but British screen star John Mills is being considered for the title role in this production following his brilliant roles in "Great Expectations" and the unreleased film "The October Man".

Russians believe cartels are the inevitable form of modern economic development. Recent news from Germany stated the Red Army has quietly organized the biggest cartel in history, prepared to do business with western Europe.

Known as the Sowjetische Industrie A.G. (Soviet Industrial Corp., and owned 51% by the Russian State and 49% by German), the enterprise has an official capital of over $800,000,000. Its real value is estimated at twice that sum. It employs nearly 400,000 workers and embraces the choicest 30% of all German industry in the Societ zone including I. G. Farben. Russian reparation seizures and forced nationalization already took care of other large portions.

Anotole France, once called Herbert George Wells, the greatest intellectual force in the English speaking world. Wells a few weeks before his death said he had "one foot in the grave and the other waving about." The London Daily Herald said that more than any other persons, Wells was responsible for Socialist England. He has been described as one who looked like, and was the quintessence of the Common Man and it was as such and through the convictions and aspirations which history made available to common men in his time that he grew to the heights he reached. Some critics believe that his Science of Life (written with his son and Julian Huxley), may come to be recognized as more remarkable than his world famous Outline of History. When 19 he wrote The Past and Future of the Human Race and seldom thereafter took a less ambitious subject. It is said that although he left the evangelistic Protestantism in which he was brought up he always remained the most passionate of Protestants, the most eloquent of evangelists. At the end he realized that his work and hopes were in vain; that he or humans are dreadfully wrong and he blamed it all on the human race. As I read his books I wished he had realized the possibilities of Equitism under which the world would have an equitable medium of exchange for the work individuals do for each other, the only system (some believe) which will be a practical application of the Sermon on the Mount. I should have written him, but felt as I also do that he being a Socialist would not see the importance of a work unit dollar, with mutual banking. I must write his son and send him some Equitist literature.

WEEKLY REVIEW

The Economic Steeplechase

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

It is no laughing matter, but I confess I had a good laugh to myself when I read the following extract from the British Labor Government's White Paper, "Economic Survey, 1947," issued in February last:

"At the present time there is too much money chasing after too few goods. To increase the amount of money in people's pockets does nothing to increase the amount of goods available. On the contrary, it makes the situation worse, since, if there is still more money chasing the same amount of goods, prices must sooner or later be forced up and no one will be any better off than they were before."

After I had recovered from my sudden fit of cachinnation I examined the statement more closely to discover what it was that tickled me. I found that the humor of it was, so to speak, double-barrelled. In the first place, the idea of too much money chasing after too few goods; and then still more money chasing after the same amount of goods, followed by the chasing of prices up the spiral staircase, was in itself a funny motion picture. But the thing that caused the explosion was the childlike simplicity of the concluding passage— "prices must sooner or later be forced up and no one will be any better off than they were before."

It was these last words that touched my funny-bone, for it seemed to me that the idea that 'no one will be any better off' for all this chasing, had struck the writer as an after-thought, as though he had made a unique discovery. It may indeed be a new discovery for some members of the Labor Government who have for years been engaged in promoting this economic steeplechase. They have all along contended that higher and higher wages will give to the workers more and more purchasing power, which would enable them to buy more and more goods, raise their standard of living, and provide full employment for everybody.

Now that they have got into power and have come to close grips with the practical problems of financing, production and marketing, they have discovered the fallacy of their theory of big purchasing power. They have discovered that high wages are not purchasing power at all unless there is an abundance of goods to purchase. The theory might have worked out all right if high wages had been accompanied by higher production, but they put production into reverse with slowdowns and strikes and the reduction of working hours, The logical result was increased production costs, decreased production, shortages, higher prices, and a lowered standard of living. The White Paper understated the situation when it said that "no one will be any better off than they were before," for the British workers are worse off than they ever were before.

It may seem like a callous thing to say, but I believe, from what I saw in Britain, that the workers would be better off with lower wages. This is practically what the White Paper means when it speaks of "too much money chasing after too few goods." This point is doubly emphasized by the further statement that "to increase the amount of money in people's pockets does nothing to increase the amount of goods available. On the contrary, it makes the situation worse."

The average worker in Britain, as in most other countries, does not save his surplus earnings, and if he cannot spend them on the necessaries or the little luxuries for the home he will waste the money, as he is now doing, on gambling and amusements. The chief incentive to work full time is thus destroyed, and the Labor Government is trying to restore that incentive by its "WORK OR WANT" campaign. It is an appeal to the fear of want as the spur to hard work. In its poster appeal to the people, the Government declares: "If we don't (work hard), very soon we will have to go without much that our families take for granted. We're up against it! We WORK or WANT."

That is a very obvious truth which is as old as the human race. The saying, "Money isn't everything," is well exemplified in the present lot of the British workers. It comes down to the simple truth belatedly discovered by a Labor Government: "To increase the amout of money in people's pockets does nothing to increase the amount of goods available." Some labor leaders on this continent have yet to make that discovery.

Red Feather Summer Projects Open for Season

The echo of "school's out" hardly dies from the air when the Red Feather services with special vacation projects get underway. This week, two of the most important summer time activities open the holiday season—the Parks and Playgrounds Association with model playground programs planned for grounds scattered throughout Montreal, and for Red Feather camps and affiliated camps, one of which, Camp Lewis of the Montreal Boy's Association, opened Wednesday of this week with 250 young campers arriving at the camp site in St. Adolphe de Howard.

With the reins of school year discipline loosened and plenty of time on their hands, vacationing youngsters need tactful supervision and a variety of activities to occupy their minds and bodies. To this end, Welfare Federation agencies have aranged special summer programs considering the interests of city children who must be confined to the congested neighborhoods as well as those who will have the thrill of camping in the country.

50-DAY PROGRAM

The playgrounds operated by the Parks and Playgrounds begin their 50-day program this week, with specially trained play leaders to supervise activities from morning until nightfall. Since the playgrounds are centres of neighborhood activity in every district, projects are planned to include all age groups from the sandbox crowd to the older boys and girls who go in for team games and advanced handicrafts. Some of the bigger grounds have horseshoe pitching and checker games to entice parents to drop around.

Another summertime project which is less well known is the Daily Vacation School. Several schools will be opening during the first week in July, marking the 35th year of activity.

VACATION SCHOOL

One might think that the idea of returning to school would have little appeal to youngsters who shout with joy as they leave their classrooms in mid-June. On the contrary, all of the schools were filled to capacity last season, and early enrollments indicate that this year, the same will hold true. Under the supervision of volunteer teachers from the Protestant Board of School Commissioners, a program of summer fun is planned that will hold the interest of the youngsters. Hikes, picnics, inter-school baseball games, and craft work are part of this vacation school curriculum, one that bears no very close relationship to the reading, writing, arithmetic counterpart of September to June. and idle hands find mischievous work to do, these agencies and others at similar work have gone a long stride forward toward planning a resourceful, wholesome summer program for youngsters.

RAMSAY - GILL

Candelabra and standards of gladioli, snapdragon and summer flowers decorated Calvary United Church for the marriage on Saturday afternoon of Marjorie Grace, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gill, Old Orchard Avenue, to Mr. George Thornton Ramsay, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. J M. There was a line of buttons down the back to the waist and the bouffant skirt of silk net over taffeta ended in a short train. A heart-shaped headdress of tulle held her long veil of tulle illusion, and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of Rapture roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Mona Reid was maid of honor, wearing a frock of primrose embroidered organza over taffeta, while the bridesmaids, Miss Helen Norton and Miss Marion Snodgrass, were also in gowns of the same material, the former in aqua and Miss Snodgrass in ice cream pink. The dresses of all three attendants were fashioned on similar lines, with full skirts and fitted bodices, the latter having high round necklines. They wore matching Dutch caps, and carried shower bouquets of variegated sweet peas.

Mr. Malcolm Young was best man for Mr. Ramsay, and the ushers were Mr. R. S. McIntyre and Mr. W. McIlhagga.

Mrs. Gill, mother of the bride, wore a gown of pale blue petal

The Ball Room of the Ritz Carlton was the scene of a most enjoyable event on Monday evening when the 1947 Graduating Classes of St. Leo's and St. Paul's Academies held the Annual Dinner Dance. crepe made with a draped skirt, and she had navy accessories and a corsage of pink Delight roses.

Mrs. Ramsay, mother of the groom, was in midnight blue crepe also fashioned with a draped skirt, and wore navy and pink accessories, with a corsage of Briarcliffe roses.

Pink and white roses were arranged in the Green Room of Victoria Hall for the reception which followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay left later for Plattsburg, N.Y., and New York City, the bride travelling in a blue Las Vegas suit, with a black straw open-crown hat, black and white accessories and a corsage of Sweetheart roses and forget-me-nots.

The newly married couple will reside in Montreal.

Miss May Morrison of Three Rivers, Que., was an out-of-town guest at the wedding.

SIMPSON - GIBSON

Stanley Presbyterian Church was the scene of the marriage on Saturday afternoon at half-past three o'clock of Jean Anne, youngest daughter of the late Duncan Gibson, and of Mrs. Gibson, of N.D.G., to Mr. Peter Cameron Simpson, younger son of the late Ivan Simpson and of Mrs. H. Braidwood, of Montreal. Rev J. D. Wilkie officiated at the ceremony.

Standards of gladioli and palms decorated the church. Miss Doris Killam played the wedding music, and Miss Beryl McKeough sang "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Douglas Gibson, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace fashioned with a high round neckline and mousquetaire sleeves, the draped hipline forming a bustle effect in the back and ending in a circular train. Her veil of tulle illusion fell from a half hat of matching lace, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and gardenias.

As maid of honor Miss Doreen Kinnear was in a frock of bluebell blue Bianchine crepe, modelled on similar lines to that of the bride, but having cap sleeves, as was the gown of the bridesmaid, Miss Marion Hanson, in vintage Bianchine crepe. Both attendants wore matching crepe headdresses and mitts and carried semi-cascade bouquets of sweet peas. Miss Donelyn Reilly, niece of the bride, was flower girl, wearing bluebell blue Bianchine crepe with a keyhole neckline, small bustle and cap sleeves. She wore a matching crepe headdress and carried a Colonial bouquet of sweet peas.

Mr. James W. Simpson was best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Eearnest Mount, Mr. Albert Parker and Mr. Hugh Hicks.

Mrs. Gibson, mother of the bride, wore a dress of dove grey crepe, with a black Italian lace straw hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Mrs. Simpson, the groom's mother, was in a powder blue sheer two-piece gown, with white accessories. She wore a white flowered hat and a corsage of Sweetheart roses.

A reception was held in the Cartier Room of the Berkley Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson left later for a motor trip through the Adirondacks, the bride travelling in a gabardine suit of London smoke grey with a pink straw hat, pink accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

They will reside in N.D.G.

MR. AND MRS. GORDON GREIG HARRISON

The bride and groom are pictured at their wedding reception held in Westmount following their marriage in St. Lambert United Church. Mrs. Gordon Greig Harrison was formerly Miss June Elizabeth Woodward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Woodward, of St. Lambert. Mr. Harrison is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. W. Harrison, of Notre Dame de Grace. The newlyweds left later to spend their honeymoon in the Rockies, at Jasper Park Lodge.

Hayworth's Gown At Ski Fashions

A dashing little number, all gold lame, and form fitting and priced at a modest $85.00 and actually used in a movie by Rita Hayworth, and in a full page colour picture of her which appeared recently in "Pic" is one of the features of the Olympic Ski Fund Fashion Show which will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. at the Alpine Inn, St. Margaret's.

The very sensational suit, which is definitely not for sale, may possibly be raffled as a donation by Miss Rosemarie Reid to the worthy fund which will be entirely devoted to increasing the amount of money made available for sending skiiers to participate in the next Olympic Games.

Miss Rosemarie Reid's name has become a byword in Hollywood with the result that M.G.M., Universal, and United Artists stars have all recently been fitted to suits designed by the young Canadian girl who has scored a sensational success during the last three years in this field of work.

"A dozen suits were flown in from Hollywood specially for the show," said Douglas Potter, "and of course they are not for sale in the province of Quebec, but more a display of the work of a Canadian designer for the movie world."

Other features of the all-Canadian show are included in the work of the noted ski suit designer Irving, and of the sports wear and after ski clothes by Bezz Maxine Samuels, of Betty and Maxine.

Production of the show is being worked out by Buddy Clarke, leader of the orchestra, and Vic Hyde, the feature star, of the Normandie Roof.

HOME EDUCATION

A CHILD'S GRIEF

By MARIE MURRAY HUGHES

Recently a dear friend told me of an experience she had had with her small son, David. It had been a revelation to her, and it proved to me, too, that young children feel grief and have a depth of love that few of us realize. She told me the story with complete sympathetic understanding, for she had just shared her child's first real sorrow.

David, in spite of his mere five years, absolutely adored Jimmie, the nineteen-year-old boy who lived next door. They were as close as brothers could possibly be, for Jimmie loved David, too.

One day Jimmie pointed to a plane high overhead and said, "Look, David, one of these days I'll come flying over your house in a plane and I'll dip my wings—that means 'Hello' from a pilot."

Jimmie left to join the Army Air Force the next day. While David missed him, the idea that he had a personal friend who was a real pilot and who at some time soon would dip his wings in salute just to him colored al lhis days. He thought and talked almost continuously about planes, and all his play centered around them.

On the first Christmas after Jimmie entered the Service his gift to his little friend was a four-foot plane model, and this was later suspended with wires from the ceiling of the boy's room. David constantly pretended that Jimmie was at its controls as he pushed it gently back and forth through the air.

Then came the fateful telegram to Jimmie's family—and the word to David's mother and father that Jimmie had been killed in the service of his country. David's parents both knew that their little son must soon be told, but how?—certainly not too casually. They, also, loved Jimmie very much and felt his loss keenly.

My friend, in telling me the story, said, "It was the hardest thing I ever had to do. His father and I thought it would be best for David to be alone with me when I told him. He never wants anyone to see him cry—not even his daddy. I was sitting on the davenport, apparently reading a book, but really groping for a way and praying for the courage to tell him; he was playing happily near me. Finally I said, "David, our hero has given his life for our country.'

"His little face, usually so rosy, blanched, and he looked at me—silent, scared, and unbelieving.

At last he said, 'Oh, Mother! —Jimmie's dead? That means I'll never see his again, doesn't it?'

"'Yes, darling,' I said, feeling more inadequate than ever before in my life.

"Quickly David climbed up beside me, threw his arms around me and clung tightly. I could feel the sobs slowly rising inside that small body and at the same time a growing determination not to give way to tears before me. Such strong conflicting emotions are more than even an adult can long withstand; they would be devastating to a child. Slowly, I released his arms from around my neck and brought him face to face with me.

"'David,' I said, 'Mother feels just as sad about Jimmie as you do, but I think if we both cry for Jimmie and say a prayer, it will help very much. We shall both feel better.'"

It is a simple little story, but I have not been able to forget the impression it made. The poet tells us: "Grief knits two hearts in closer bonds than happiness ever can, and sufferings shared ars far stronger links than joys."

I think David's mother, by her sympathetic understanding, has caused to be established a love and confidence between her son and herself which can never be shaken or taken away.

W.P.T.B. Removes Some Rent Controls

Following the announcement in the House of Commons last Thursday by Finance Minister Abbott concerning changes in rental regulations, Wartime Prices and Trade Board has issued a statement giving detals of the changes embodied in an order which went into effect immediately.

In the general category of commercial accommodation, the new order removes from control vacant lots used for motor car parking or sales, and gasoline service stations owned by any oil refining company or distributor of petroleum products.

The order also makes clear that all places of public entertainment and halls or rooms used for public meetings are released from control. All new housing accommodation completed after January 1, 1947 is freed from rental ceilings. Any garage let separately from the housing accommodation to which it pertains is also freed from control.

As a means of preventing boarding or rooming house operators from classifying themselves as hotels and thus evading the rental regulations, the order stipulates that no property may be considered a hotel unless the operator previously has filed his maximum rates with the Board or, receives, after application to the regional rentals officer, a certificate designating the property as a hotel.

Kit Is Friend of Career Girl

Completely outfitted cosmetic kit is a handy and efficient refresher for weary career girl at the end of an office day.

A career girl's best friend-in-need is a good grooming kit.

A kit stocked with the essential aids needed for a refurbishing job saves a girl from having to case an office for cosmetics when an unexpected date comes up. Moreover, it offers the wherewithal for making an office drab look fresh and vivid, no matter how wilting the weather or how tough her day.

For such needs, a new kit makes its debut stocked with a complete assortment of aids for a "pickme-up" facial and beguiling make-up job. In addition to cosmetics, there are cleansing tissues, cotton and a nylon comb. All aids are neatly regimented in a box which complete with mirrored lid, fits into a desk drawer.

Family Of Bird Experts Plan Exploration Trip To Africa

Molly Mobley is discovering that an adventure in the African wilds begins with a tremendous amount of patience. Her husband, David L. Mobley, Superintendent of the Santa Catalina Island Bird Park, planned this trip just before the war broke out. Now, since November, one thing and another has delayed the expedition, which includes eight other people, until Mrs. Mobley's excitement has dropped from the boiling point to a plain simmer.

Mrs. Mobley is wise. She hasn't planned a wardrobe for herself or her children, but expects to secure the correct clothes for the climate when she reaches Nairobi.

Mr. Mobley says birds are much like people. "You must first gain their confidence; then never betray it if you expect to remain friends."

"Birds are never alike," said Mr. Mobley. "They have different dispositions just as people have. Some have a sense of humor, others are shy, or quarrelsome, or proud. But they're all smart. You have to understand their ways. Watch their eyes. You may think they look beady and that's the end of it, but look again. You'll see their eyes are full of expression."

Though she likes them all, Mrs. Mobley is particularly fond of troupials—small birds belonging broadly to the oriole and blackbird families. Many are beautiful whistlers, soon tamed, and when in the house fly where they like.

On this expedition the Mobley family will be on the lookout for flamingos, crown cranes, ostriches, storks of many varieties, weavers, and rollers, and other rare specimens.

Games rounded out the evening's program and prizes were awarded the winners.

Bright Ribbon Trim Lifts Blouse From Plain Dud To Gay Creatio

MISS PALMER: Chic

Want to turn a plain, common-garden variety of white blouse into a "designer's creation"? Here's how, with tricks that designers use.

Use black grosgrain ribbon trimmed with picot loops to give dash to a tailored collar. Cut ribbon to make two short tabs of matching length. Use to face the edge of collar at front closings and sew or snap each into place from neckband to tip of collar.

Lilli ("Body and Soul") Palmer, who likes this trick, adds matching ribbon to encircle edge of cuffs and ties each cuff ribbon with a bow.

A snappy bow tie—girl's version of a guy's—is another smart addition to a blouse which designers use and so can you.

So can you add a four-in-hand tie of cotton print. If the tie's material matches a skirt, the effect is smarter.

Same skirt-matching idea can be put across with an added collar of cotton print. Cut one out of a scrap left over from your skirt which exactly duplicates the collar of your white blouse, except for size. Make the print collar—to be used as a "frame" under your white blouse collar—about an inch larger all around. This makes a smart device for repeating the print motif of your skirt and turning blouse and skirt into a smarter ensemble.

Waterproof Coats Suit Rain Or Shine

Raincoats don't give a hang about April showers any more. Instead of waiting for a rainy day so they might come forth and shine in all their gay colors, raincoats in the modern mood take any kind of weather in their stride.

Their right-about-face may be traced directly to the new chemical processes which can be used to make any kind of a fabric durably water-repellent. The ready acceptance, however, stems from the careful styling which has whisked rainwear out of the rut it had been in for years.

The time has passed when a woman's raincoat—or a man's or a child's—hangs much of its life away in the closet because it's too awkward and clumsy to be attractive. Cottons, taffetas, woolens, velveteen—these fabrics when made water-repellent, lend endless variety to coat designs.

More and more frequently, raincoats are designed with the same detailed features which particular people demand in coats. Careful tailoring is featured in yokes, body lines, in various cuff and pocket designs.

FLYING BIRD'S-NEST

A bluebird picked a big PBY patrol bomber at the Atlanta (Georgia), Naval Air Station as a good place to build a nest. When the machinist's mate found it with one egg inside he let it stay there.

When her nest disappeared one day, the bluebird didn't know the bomber had flown to Pensacola, Fla., so she laid another egg. After her nest had gone to Olathe, Kan

Canadian Red Cross Now Independent Body

It is nearly a century since humanitarian ideas for treatment of wounded during battle took form internationally and gave birth to the world-wide organization known as the Red Cross.

And it is almost exactly a half century since the Red Cross was set up in Canada, as a Branch of the British Red Cross Society. The actual, official Act of Canadian Parliament which gave a charter to the Canadian Branch of the Red Cross goes back to the year 1909 —38 years ago.

The Canadian Red Cross continued as a branch of the British Red Cross for a quarter of a century. It grew in stature and extended its good works, particularly in time of war. It was for a service in war-time that the Red Cross of the world was originally created; but it later became an agent of mercy and of public health in peacetime as well.

Twenty years ago—on May 20, 1927—the Canadian Branch of the British Red Cross forwarded to the International Committee of the Red Cross, in Geneva, Switzerland, a formal application asking for recognition as an organization independent of the British Red Cross. Canad has become of age, and the Canadian Red Cross felt Cross. Canada has become of age, The time had come for the Red Cross in Canada to stand on its own feet and decide for itself many of the matters which affected it and Canada only.

Independence

The request was regarded as thoroughly reasonable Six months later, on November 15, 1927, the International Committee in Geneva issued an official circular in which it stated that the British Red Cross had informed the Committee in Geneva that—to quote the circular—"the National Red Cross Societies of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and British India were no longer branches of the British Red Cross".

To quote further from the Geneva circular: "Desiring in particular to accede to the request of the Canadian Red Cross, the International Committee is glad to be able to recognize this (the Canadian) Red Cross as a national society and to accredit it to all the Central Committees."

The proclamation meant that the Canadian Red Cross Society had ceased to be a minor organization under the tutelage of its parent society—the British Red Cross, and had become a major unit, one of the scores of independent Red Cross Societies found in as many nations throughout the world. Incidentally, these different Red Cross societies of the different nations are co-ordinated for international purposes into a League of National Red Cross Societies. In time of war much of their efforts are accomplished through that thoroughly international body which knows no barriers, recognizes no enemy, favors no cause—the International Red Cross, with headquarters in Geneva. It was in Geneva, as you know, that the whole idea of Red Cross took form.

Defence Auxiliary

The Canadian Government now recognizes the Canadian Red Cross Society as an auxiliary of the Department of National Defence in time of War; as the official agency for locating lost persons in conjunction with the Governments and the Red Cross Societies of other nations; and as the official agency for the teaching of arts and crafts to disabled veterans in hospitals throughout Canada. Also, the Canadian Red Cross is recognized as the official organization to create a nation-wide blood bank for civilians who need transfusions; and it is recognized by governments and municipal authorities as the logical agency to respond with emergency relief in case of disasters such as fires, floods, explosions and epidemics.

The act of Dominion Parliament dated 1909 authorizes the Canadian Red Cross to promote public health and humanitariar interests. To quote its motto, the objective is, always: "The improvement of health, the prevention of disease and the mitigation of suffering". Thus the Society has undertaken such work as outpost nursing; a national blood bank; home nursing; first-aid; water safety; mobile medical and dental clinics; and other tasks of the kind in Canada. Thanks to the benevolent collaboration of millions of Canadians, the Red Cross in Canada marches on to bigger and better accomplishments.

Y.M.C.A. Youth

O.B.E., University of Toronto; Prof. C. E. Hendry, University of Toronto.

Three Commission Groups have been set up:

Group 'A'—for delegates from Y.M.C.A. Building Branches from cities whose population is 100,000 or more. (This group will be directed by the Montreal Association.)

Group 'B'—for delegates of Y.M.C.A. Building Branches from cities under 100,000 population (directed by London, Ont.)

Group 'C'—for delegates from community Branches and from towns or cities whose population is under 25,000 (directed by the Lakeshore Community Y.M.C.A.)

Some of the problems that will be discussed in the Conference are:

(a) The problems created for working young people by the rising cost of living.

(b) How can young people manage marriage (and perhaps a family) under persent social-economic and work conditions?

(c) The longer educational and/or training period required before one can earn a living in an occupation today creates many problems of dependency, housing, vocation, etc.

(d) Young people appear to be losing interest in the Church and in Religion. Our whole Western civilization was built and developed on a Christian democracy basis. Is this a problem and should the Y.M.C.A. do anything about it?

(e) The consumption of alcoholic beverages and drunkenness among young people has reached alarming proportions.

(f) The jobs available to many young people provide only a means of livelihood. They require little of their intelligence or their creative energy, and violate many of their intellectual and ethical standards. How does one match his job and his means of earning a living with his intelligence, his philosophy of life?

(g) The large percentage of major crimes committed by young adults (18-24).

(h) What about pre-marital and extra-marital relationships and the related problem of V.D.

These problems will be discussed on the basis of the Canadian Youth Commission findings.

Mr. George N. Baker and Mr. Donald Guess will represent the Westmount Y.M.C.A. at the Conference.

Doubtful Status

The 20,000 natives of Guam, under existing laws, owe allegiance to the United States although they are neither citizens nor aliens, and no provisions exist whereby they can become American citizens.

JUST LOSE IT

Two Scottish miners who had persistently lost money at the "dogs" decided it might be better policy to buy a greyhound.

They did so, but the hound was not filled with the proper spirit of urgency and repeatedly finished last.

Coming home one day, one of the owners said. "I think we'll throw the dog into the Clyde."

"Naw," said his friend, "that's too cruel. We'll tak aff the leash and run away from it."

"Naw," said his friend. "That's too cruel. We'll take off the leash and run away from it."

NOT THE APPENDIX

While the diagnosis of the patient, who had eaten rather generously, was preceeding, the sick man said: "Doctor, do you think the trouble is in the appendix?"

"Oh, no," said the doctor, "not at all. The trouble is with your table of contents."

"Till The Clouds Roll By" Musical Biography Of J. Kern At Snowdon

A glowing tribute to the memory of the late Jerome Kern is offered on the scren of the Snowdon United Theatre, until Friday night, in "Till The Clouds Roll By", star-studded Technicolor musical drama based on incidents in the famed composer's life and career.

Built around Kern's touching friendship with his musical arranger, James Hessler, and the latter's stage-struck daughter, Sally, the story traces the composer's arrival in New York full of hope and ambition, follows his rise to fame both here and abroad, accents the romantic meeting in England with the girl he eventually married, and ends on a dramatic note when Sally, embittered by a quarrel over her career, proves her talent as a singer and is reconciled to Kern whom she has always regarded as a foster-parent.

The role of Kern is brought to life with sympathy and warmth by Robert Walker in one of his finest portrayals to date. Van Heflin is splendid as the loyal and encouraging Hessler, and Lucille Bremer gives verve and spirit to the part of Sally. The girl with whom the composer falls in love after he "borrows" her piano, is delightfully played by Dorothy Patrick.

Punctuating the narrative are song-and-dance filled sequences from some of Kern's greatest successes and it is in these that the picture's dazzling array of headliners are given an opportunity to offer a feast of talent.

There are so many high spots in the musical interludes that it is difficult to pick and choose, but among the memorable moments are Judy Garland, in the role of the great musical-comedy star, Marilyn Miller, singing "Who", "Sunny" and "Look For The Silver Lining"; June Allyson and Ray McDonald singing and dancing in the rain to "Till The Clouds Roll By"; Lucille Bremer's version of "Land Where The Good Songs Go"; still another dance team, composed of Cyd Charisse and Gower Champion, doing "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes"; Kathryn Grayson singing "Long Ago and Far Away", and joining Tony Martin for the wonderful song, "Make Believe", and Dinah Shore's rendition of "They Didn't Believe Me" and "The Last Time I Saw Paris".

Among the songs in the spectacular "Show Boat" sequence are "Ol' Man River", sung by Kaleb Peterson and later by Frank Sinatra; "Life On the Wicked Stage", sung by Virginia O'Brien, and "Can't Help Loving That Man", sung by Lena Horne.

Harry James To The Forum

Arrangements have now been completed, it is definitely announced, whereby Harry James, "America's Number One Trumpeter" and his famous 21-piece orchestra will appear at The Forum for one night dance engagement on Friday, July 11th, next. The 31-year-old Texan, who has in the past few years achieved a tremendously high rating in box-office appeal, record sales and radio popularity, and built up a spectacular motion picture following, is said to have in addition made his trumpet pay off as has no other musician in America. He comes here, as did Charlie Spivak, under the sponsorship of impresario and former war correspondent Maurice Desjardins.

Chopsticks are used by some Chinese for signaling secret codes across a room.

ARNOLD ACQUIRES PIGS

Latest "improvement" on Edward Arnold's ranch is a quartet of young pigs, which the actor now playing in Paramount's "The Ruth" with Joan Caulfield and William Holden, says will eventually make excellent pork chops and hams.

Temptation" With Merle Oberon And George Brent At Seville Soon

Tensely directed, beautifully mounted and artistically enacted, "Temptation", starring Merle Oberon, George Brent, Charles Korvin and Paul Lukas will be seen at the Seville United Theatre starting next Wednesday, July 2nd, for three days only. The film is a skillful portrayal of feminine psychology, romantic duplicity and taut melodrama, with an emotional impact that will haunt the average spectator long after leaving the theatre.

The story, from the classic, "Bella Donna," by Robert Hichens, presents Miss Oberon as a beautiful predatory divorcee. She sets her sight for a rich and idealistic cryptologist, a musician, poet and dreamer, played by George Brent, who falls for her charm. He marries her and takes her to Egypt, where he is head of an expedition exploring the tomb of a Pharaoh sealed for some 3000 years.

Bored by the dull life of Cairo, by incessant talk of a dead past, she turns for excitement to a native blackmailing gigolo, done by Charles Korvin, who woos her into a plot to poison her husband.

Miss Oberon's exotic delicate beauty is an intriguing contrast to the scheming adventuress she essays in the early episodes of the drama, and her eventual reformation is skillfully interpreted without sentimental overtones.

Brent, as the deluded scientist, has never been more convincing nor more happily cast. Paul Lukas is admirable in the important role of Brent's friend and physician. Korwin, as the gigolo, makes the character despicable, as the author intended.

Others in the cast include Lenore Ulric, Arnold Moss and Ludwig Stossel.

Ronald Neame, who is producing Cineguild's screen version of Charles Dicken's "Oliver Twist" at Pinewood Studios, England, announces that the start of the film has been slightly delayed. Applications for the part of Oliver have been reduced to three, but no final decision has been made as to who will play this important role. Production will not start until the choice has been made.

Record Crowds At Belmont Park

After hiding back of the clouds these past few weeks, Old King Sol finally decided to put in an appearance on Saturday to officially welcome the arrival of Summer. So pleased was he with the reception accorded him by the thousands of ardent lovers of the outdoors that he decided to extend his stay. As a result Belmont Park has been catering daily to record - shattering crowds. the throngs found the park a haven from the oppressive heat in the city and at the same time enpoyed themselves on the many and varied 'Rides" etc., along the Midway. They also got a terrific trill watching Les Kimris, sensational French aerial gymnastic stars, execute breath-t-aking stunts on a superstructure containing a rapidly revolving miniature areoplane from which are suspended the trapezes, rings and other mechanisms these dare-devils use without benefit of safety net between them, 100 feet in the air, and the platform on which their contraption rests. Les Kimris are presented daily at 5 and 11 p.m.

In addition to the Thrift Stop-and-Shop Kiddies' Days being currently held daily, with exception of Sundays and Mondays, at Belmont Park until July 11th inclusive, other picnics listed include those being held Today, Thursday, by the Academie du Sacre-Coure, Sorel and the Spirella Co. of Canada Ltd.; on Friday by the Ritz Carlton Hotel; the Guardian Assurance Co. Ltd.; the Guardian Insurance Co. of Canada Ltd.; Murray's Lunch, Ltd., and the Verdun Lions Club. The regular Saturday afternoon of Station CJAD's Club 800 is scheduled for this Saturday at the park.

MOVIE BRIEFS

A spectacular picturization of the famous John Gay musical "The Beggars Opera" has been announced by Michael Balcon, head of the Ealing Studios. The production, will be filmed in Technicolor. Basil Dearden, who established himself, as one of the truly fine directors of the day with "The Captive Heart," will handle the microphone on "The Beggars Opera" with Michael Relph as associate producer. No cast has as yet been selected, but production is slated to start this summer in London.

When she has completed her role of Ophelia in "Hamlet" which Laurence Olivier is producing for Two Cities at Denham Studios, England, Jean Simmons will leave for the Fiji Islands for location shots of "The Blue Lagoon". On her way she will make a personal appearance tour in the U.S. and Canada.

John Mills has gone to Interlaken in the Swiss Alps to begin location shots for his next film, "Scott Of The Antarctic" in which he plays the title role for Ealing Studios, England. Later this month he will return to London to prepare for his visit to New York and Hollywood.

Stewart Granger, co-star with Valerie Hobson in the Technicolor production, "Blanche Fury," at Pinewood Studios, England, has been filming night and day during the past week. In addition he has been to New Brighton, near Liverpool, to judge a Beauty Contest. He left in a specially chartered plane in the afternoon and was flown back to the studios at midnight and he worked all through the night. He went to London Airport straight from the Studios in his "Blanche Fury" dress and changed into evening clothes in the plane.

After playing leading roles in the Two Cities film "Hungry Hill" and the unreleased Gainsborough film "Jassy" opposite Margaret Lockwood, young screen actor, Dermot Walsh, has been cast in a star part for the film "The Mark

"The Razor's Edge", With T. Power, G. Tierney At Westmount

W. Somerset Maugham's "The Razor's Edge", has been transformed into one of the finest motion pictures ever to reach the screen.

The picture, starring Tyrone Power, Gene Tierney, John Payne, Anne Baxter, Clifton Webb and Herbert Marshall, which is now playing at the Westmount United Theatre until Saturday night, provides a rare and wondrous film experience.

As all who have read the book must know, "The Razor's Edge" is a deeply probing and powerful story of one man's passionate search for true peace and inner contentment, search that tore him from all love and sent him plunging into strange places half-way across the world. And, too, it is the story of the woman who loved him, and of her desperate and ruthless plot to save him from himself and for herself.

Tyrone Power gives the finest performance of his career in the role of the sensitive and introspective Larry Darrell. Gene Tierney tops all her previous portrayals in the role of the love-mad and spiteful Isabel. Anne Baxter, winner of the Academy Award for the Best Supporting Actress of the Year for her part in this film, plays the tragic dipsomaniac, Sophie. Each of the other stars is equally superb in the other important roles: John Payne, as Gray Maturin who vies with Larry for Isabel's affections; Clifton Webb as the supercilious sophisticate, Elliott Templeton; and Herbert Marshall as the author Maugham, himself.

Similarly outstanding in important roles are Lucile Watson, Frank Latimore, Elsa Lanchester. Fritz Kortner and an imposing host of other players.

Local All Star Roster Named

Will Play First Game Tuesday

By GEORGE COCHRANE

The names of the wizards of the softball diamond who will represent the Westmount Municipal Senior Softball League in the Cancer Fund benefit round robin tournament were released this week. It's interesting to note that all but three of the larrigans on the local dream team are members of the various teams in the Snowdon Senior Fastball League.

The Westmounters will swing into action against the East End League's best on the Frontenac street diamond next Tuesday afternoon, Dominion Day, at 2.30. At the same time Snowdon and Verdun will be locking horns at the latter's St. Willibrord Park.

Winners of the two games will meet next Saturday at either Macdonald Park or St. Willibrord's, depending upon the outcome of the Snowdon-Verdun tussle.

The Teams

But you want to know the names of the All-Star roster. Here they are:

Catchers: Emmett Millen and Dave Harvie.

Pitchers: George Scully and Logue Macdonald.

First base: Noel Romney.

Second base: Kevin Kennedy.

Third base: Toots Prevost.

Shortstop: Jack McKissock.

Centre field: Ed O'Brien.

Sub: Sonny Prevost.

Chatter

Emett Millen is the short, stocky individual who backstops for the Dodgers and for Hampton in the Snowdon circuit . . . Dave "Chink" Harvie is the Cardinals' number one receveur . . . George Scully, one of the most highly-rated pitchers in the city, twirled in the East End League last summer. This year he's bowling for St. Malachy's in the Snowdon League as well as for Dodgers down this way . . . Logue Macdonald is another Dodger moundsman who was recently added to the staff of St. Augustine's senior nine . . . Noel Romney, the hard-hitting, blonde, lean man, has been playing great ball for the Dodgers. He's now playing for Hampton up Snowdon way after starting the season with Steinberg's . . . Kev Kennedy is another Dodger. He plays for the first-place St. Augustine crew in his spare time . . . Toots Prevost, yet another Dodger, made his Snowdon league debut with Hampton this season. Three weeks ago he was leading the Hamptonites at bat with a healthy .400 average . . . Jack "Slats" McKissock is the sensational 19-year-old shortstop whose fielding and batting have helped the Dodgers considerably. He won the Westmount loop's most valuable player award last summer. This year he's also performing with Hampton . . . Doug Heron, the McGill football and hockey star, is a Cardinal mainstay. He's also a Hampton protege . . . Don Maher, is feared as one of the best hitters in the local league . . . Ed O'Brien, the long man, is an artful Dodger . . . Sonny Prevost is the hustling manager of the far-famed Dodgers . . . So come on out and help the fight against cancer.

Olympic Sports Festival July 4

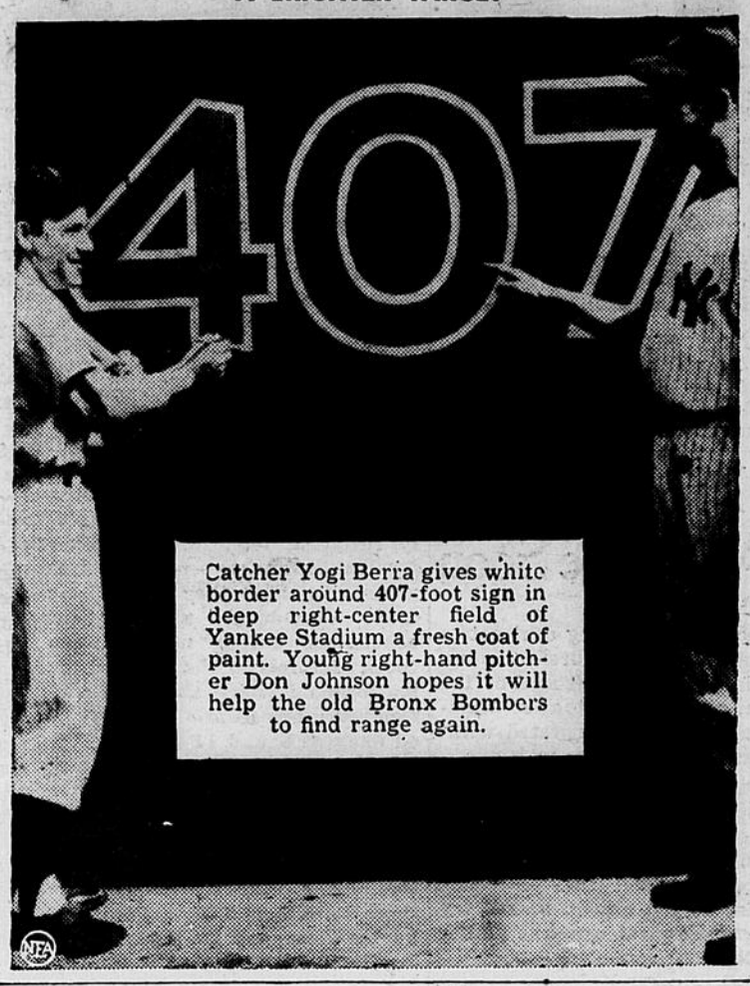

On Friday, July 4th at Molson Stadium, the Montreal Track and Field Club in conjunction with McGill University will sponsor, for the first time, Eastern Canada Track and Field Championships. Preliminaries will be held in the afternoon at 2 o'clock while finals in senior events will be held under the floodlights commencing at 8.45 p.m.

The evening meet— "Olympic Sports Festival"— will be one of the most pretentious amateur sport shows ever staged in Canada. As the Meet is being staged for the benefit of the Canadian Olympic Fund — contributions to which are not ear-marked for any particular sport — the sponsors have invited other amateur sports groups to stage added attractions.

Leading local boxers and wrestlers will be seen in bouts while there will be a special exhibition of sabre fighting by Olympic fencers. In one part of the field Weight-lifters, exceedingly popular with French-Canadian sports fans, will stage the Montreal Weight-lifting Championships. The piece de resistance will be exhibition of high diving by George Athans, McGill's Dominion champion and probable Olympic point-winner. A tank will be erected in mid-field for George's hair-raising dives.

The total area of the earth is about 200,000,000 square miles, and you can fly from where you now stand to any other point on the earth in just 60 hours.

A BRIGHTER TARGET

Senior Softball League Results

Monday evening saw another hard-fought Dodger game at which the Cardinals gave the Dodgers a run for their money. At the end of the 8th inning, when umpire George Gravel called the game, the score was 6 to 6. Alan Dyke, pitching his first game of the season for Cardinals kept the Dodgers to a minimum of hits. Logue MacDonald pitching for Dodgers was just as liberal with his pitching. This game was about the best seen on Westmount diamonds this season.

Another close contest was being played the same evening on No. 2 diamond. Royals and Westmount Police & Fire had a touch and go game. With Royals being the victors by the score of 15 to 12. By all appearances, it seems that the Police & Fire team are starting to flame. They certainly made the Royals work to win what appeared to be an easy game.

Westmount's All-Star team in Red Fisher's Cancer Fund game will be: catchers — Dave Harvie and Emmett Millen; pitchers—Geo. Scully and Logue MacDonald; 1st base — Noel Romney; 2nd base —Kevin Kennedy; shortstop — Jack McKissock; 3rd base — Toots Prevost; right field — Dougie Heron; left field — Ed O'Brien; centre field — D. Maher. Subs — Bobby Lord and Kevin Tolan. Manager — Sonny Prevost.

Westmount will play the East End All-Stars at Harbour and St. Catherine Sts. on Tuesday, at 2.30 p.m. Come and support your team and the Cancer Fund.

When You See A Lawyer 10 Ways Help Your Case

By LYON W. JACOBS, K.C.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lyon W. Jacobs, K.C., B.C.L., prominent lawyer and writer of Montreal and Verdun, and associated in the practice of his profession with his son, Alvin B. Jacobs, B.A., B.C.L., at 276 St. James Street West, has suggested that the following article may be of timely interest and he feels it will be of constructive value to persons who may at times have to consult a legal advisor. Mr. Jacobs states this article was published in the May Issue of the "Journal Of Living" and he thought it so important it was worth reproduction and feels confident that readers will benefit by the very practical suggestions contained therein.

Almost everybody has consulted a doctor at some time or other, but not so many have gone to see a lawyer. Yet there are times when we need more than the well - meaning suggestions of friends and relatives, times when we want to know exactly what we must do to fulfill our obligations or protect our rights.

Under those circumstances, these ten common-sense suggestions will help you find the right lawyer, make it easier to work with him, and improve your chances for satisfaction:

Go to a lawyer who handles your type of case. There are as many specialists in law as in medicine. Besides attorneys in general practice, there are, to mention only a few, immigration lawyers and patent lawyers, those specializing in criminal or civil matters, those whose fields are bankruptcy or domestic relations. Outline just enough of your particular problem to give the lawyer an idea of what sort of help you need. This preliminary talk, even though brief, should give you an indication of the lawyers' personality and interest.

Don't hesitate to ask what expenses are involved. Learn just what, when and where payments are made. Find out which are legal fees or court costs, and which are payments for professional service or advice.

Jot down some notes for your first interview, especially, if you are worried or 'worked up' over your troubles. The notes should help you make a concise outline. From the definite information you give, the lawyer—should you decide to hire him—can decide what papers or data he needs for further study.

When you bring him papers, bills, receipts or whatever documentary evidence you may have about your case, be sure that a careful record is made. This will protect both you and your lawyer.

LYON W. JACOBS, K.C.

A list of what you have, or what he has, will often prevent worry about some paper.

Don't hesitate to "tell all". You can't be given the best possible help with your difficulties if you hold out some evidence. What may seem to you a mere detail, may be an important factor to your lawyer.

Once you have engaged a lawyer, don't do anything about your case without consulting him. For you to interfere is no more fair to your lawyer than it would be fair to your doctor to take extra remedies on the side when he is prescribing especially for you.

Be sure your lawyer knows where to reach you quickly by mail, telegram or telephone. Sometimes worrisome tangles occur that you could straighten out in a minute if you could be reached promptly.

When there are papers for you to sign, or a decision for you to make, read and listen carefully and critically. If there are words or phrases you do not understand, talk up. If the papers you have to sign are not urgent, you may do better by reading at your leisure at home, instead of skimming through them in the lawyer's office.

If you find any errors, no matter how slight, call them to the attention of your lawyer. They may be mere typographical slips, but important to him as well as you. Explaining or discussing often will help you understand better what is being done, or aid him in bringing out an important point.

Last, but not least, remember that its' your lawyer's job to do some of the worrying for you, so relax. Don't keep fretting about your problem. Put it into his hands and follow his advice. He knows, and will tell you, what you can and cannot do about it.

Improved Watches

Nicholas Facio introduced jeweled bearings for watches at the beginning of the 18th century. Diamonds and sapphires were the only stones that could be used.

Men's Provincial

sprints on Saturday. He won both events at the Caledonian Games but should be given sterner competition next Saturday by Reynold Skerrett of Montreal Track & Field Club and Hugh Monroe of McGill. Beaudry is definitely one of Quebec's main hopes in the Eastern Canada Meet. He is an all round athlete of note, is 29 years old and last year won the United States Pentathlon championship. He is entered also in the shot put and discus throw events on Saturday.

Local Hope

A local hope in the Provincial Meet is Leslie Brooks, greatly improved Montreal Track & Field Club army veteran, who was surprise winner of the Caledonian three miles. Les showed splendid form to beat Jack Wahlberg, M.T.F.C., and Lloyd Evans, former champion. Brooks established himself as favourite for the Provincial three mile and a dark horse contender for the Eastern Canada title. Adrien Pronovost of Quebec City A.A., should press Brooks to the limit at the Provincial meet.

Other stars entered in the Provincials include Mac Sanders of Sherbrooke Y.M.C.A., leading middle distance runner; Paul Fenton, McGill favoured to capture both the Provincial and Eastern Canada Miles; Lionel Fournier, another French-Canadian star all-round athlete, who should take both the high and broad jump, next Saturday and Bob Bartlett, McGill, who has been approaching the Canadian native shot put record recently. All the local girl athletes will compete in special events.

McGill Favored

McGill is fovored to retain the William Northey Trophy for the Provincial Team Championship, although Montreal Track and Field Club, Montreal Police A.A.A. and Quebec City A.A. will have strong teams entered.

All concerned are reminded that entries for the Eastern Canada Meet close with Hugh Borsman, 475 Pine Avenue West, Montreal, on Saturday. NONE will be accepted after that date.

Scottish Schools Play For Swinden Trophy

St. John's Golf Club played host to The Scottish Schools Club of Montreal on Sunday last when the first of the two 18-hole medal play matches to decide the winner of the Swinden Trophy - donated by W. W. (Bill) Swinden - was played.

George Hamilton, Schools Club president, got one hand on the trophy, turning in a low net of 63. A. L. (Sandy) Curror came in with a low gross of 79, a very creditable performance in view of course conditions.

J. L. G. Brown, last year's Swinden Trophy winner, had second low net and P. A. G. Clark low gross while John Stroyan admitted to the high gross. T. G. Smith won the sealed hole prize and Dan Gavin the hidden score prize.

Visitors prizes went to Hugh Gavin for low gross and Jack Reekie for low net.

Low 16 on day's play among club members qualified for match competition for the Garth Thomson Trophy.

Child Has Narrow Escape Runs Into Moving Car

Charles Noel, age 4, of 3196 St. Antoine street, narrowly escaped serious injury last Friday, when he ran into a moving car. The child was running across St. Antoine street, just west of Greene avenue, when he ran into the car's front fender, knocking himself down. He sustained a slight bump on his forehead when he struck the road, and was driven to his home otherwise uninjured.

Canuck Open Third Oldest Golf Tourney In World

The Canadian Open Golf Championship for the Seagram Gold Cup, which is being played at the Scarboro Golf and Country Club, Toronto, July 16 to 19, is the third oldest annual open golf tournament in the world, and, in spite of the enormous increase in open golf tournaments in the United States, is still considered the third most important. It has started, too, quite a few of its winners on spectacular careers, notably George Fazio, of Los Angeles, the 1946 winner, a virtual unknown, who ever since has been crowding the leading professionals on the American circuit.

The British Open Golf Championship was started in 1860, the American Open in 1895 and the Canadian Open in 1904. From the standpoint of prestige, most players rank the British Open and American Open on equal terms. The Canadiar Open is the richest of the three. It is a $10,000. event with the winner receiving $2,000, custody o. the Seagram Gold Cup for one year and a gold replica of the cup outright. The American Open is now worth $9,000, and the British Open $4,000. The Seagram Gold Cup first became the championship symbol at St. Andrew's Golf Club, Toronto, in 1936, the winner being Lawson Little with his record score of 271 still standing.

Many Famous Winners

Many winners of the Canadian Open have gone on to increase considerably their very high reputation. Quite a few, too, look upon their Canadian Open victory as the start of their success. Leo Diegel won it four times between 1924 and 1929, and became known all over the North American continent as the perennial Canadian Open Golf champion. His victories attracted a great number of the leading American professionals to our Open. It stamped him as well, as one of the leading players in North America, only exceeded at that time by Bobby Jones, Hagen and Sarazen.

Tommy Armour also benefitted greatly in reputation by his three victories in the Open, a did Sammy Snead in a like number of wins.

Harold McSpaden first came into real prominence with his victory in our 1939 Open at Saint John, N.B., and ever since has been a leading threat on the circuit.

Fazio the Unknown

It was left, however to last year's winner at the Beaconsfield Golf Club, Montreal, George Fazio, an unknown to steal the show. He won the Seagram Cup the hard way after a sensational eighteen hole playoff with Dick Metz, of Arkansas City, Kansas. Since that time, Fazio, who hails from Los Angeles, has been crowding the leading professionals on the American circuit, and was only once out of the money in the matches he played in up to the end of March. Since winning the Open, he has won over $9,000, and at Del Monte, in January, he tied with Ed Furgol, of Pontiac, Mich., for the top professional score and split $3,200. It was the Canadian Open of 1946 that brought Fazio into the limelight and started him off on the golden trail.

Y.M.C.A Briefs

Softball

International 'Y' and the locals played their first game in the 'Y' League and the International boys won an easy decision over the locals by a 19 to 2 decision. Al Morris pitched the winning game and turned a very fine performance. Don Guess started on the mound for Westmount and was relieved by Jim Henderson in the sixth inning.

Westmount play N.D.G. 'Y' in the next league game to be played on the Lower Canada College grounds.

Following the meetings held in the Westmount Park Greenhouse on Wednesday, it now looks hopeful that we will have both an Intermediate and Church Softball League, and the local 'Y' will have a team in each.

The men in the Life Saving Classes are practising regularly Monday nights in preparation for their examination to be held July 10th at the Central Y.M.C. Malcolm Ross will be the senior examiner, assisted by a second man from his examining committee.

Plans are progressing favourably for a regular Wednesday Night Splash Party and Dance to be held in our Y.M.C.A. Swimming will be from 9 to 10 p.m. with dancing to the music of Ted Rooney and his musical men from 9 to 11.30 p.m. Watch for the opening date about the second Wednesday in July.

Don Guess, the official Westmount 'Y' delegate will be leaving Friday night for the Fourth National Y.M.C.A. Youth Conference being held at Lake Couchiching Ont., from June 28th to July 6th. There will be seventeen delegates from the Montreal 'Y' Branches, and a total of 145 delegates are registered from all Y.M.C.A.'s in Canada. These Conferences are held every two years. Their purpose is to give young people an opportunity to meet together and discuss problems of common concern.

The Montreal delegation have been meeting regularly to prepare themselves for their responsibilities in connection with the conference. The Montreal group will be leading the Commission discussing Social Problems affecting Young People. Harry Haunts will be the Commission Chairman with Jim Hall as Secretary. George Barker, the local 'Y' secretary will be attending as Resource Leader to the Commission.

Fish And Wild Life

FEW WERE GOOD

Here is a little story that we picked from an American paper sport page, which relates that few Presidents of America were really good fishermen. The story is as follows:

Herbert Hoover having studied the tendency of Presidents to take up fishing, concludes that occupants of the White House can find privacy only while praying or fishing.

The former President expounded on angling in a radio discussion of Izaak Walton's 300-year-old manual, "The Compleat Angler."

Hoover said that he, Theodore Roosevelt and Grover Cleveland were the only Presidents who enjoyed fishing before entering the White House, and of the last-named "it is recorded that his sea-fishing boatmen were chosen for silence."

"Where President Coolidge fished in his youth is uncertain," Hoover said. "He was a good deal of a fundamentalist in economics, government and fishing, so he naturally preferred angleworms.

"But when fly fishermen of the nation raised their eyebrows in surprise, he took to artificial flies.

"However, his backcast was so much a common danger that even the secret service men kept at a distance until they were summoned to climb trees to retrieve flies."

In examining the "national phenomenon" of Presidential fishing, Hoover said he concluded "that the pneumatic hammering of demands on the President's mind had increased in frequency with the rising tide of economic and international complexity, and he just had to get away somehow, somewhere, and be alone for a few hours once in a while."

The Fish Derby

J. W. Pollock, 7803 Henri Julien street, had proof today that That Big One didn't get away.

Mr. Pollock's proof was a 16-pound, 13-ounce Muskie which he caught Saturday in Lake St. Louis, near Dorion, winning first prize for the biggest "one" in the Big Fish Derby sponsored by Lake St. Louis Anglers Inc.

Approximately 900 enthusiastic sportsmen and women took part in the fishing competition, from Lachine to Dorion on the north side of Lake St. Louis, and from Beauharnois to Chateauguay on the south side.

Aggregate prize event to R. Leduc, 417 de la Salle street, Montreal, while second aggregate prize went to Mr. Pollock. Other main prize-winners were P. A. Labelle, who caught a six-pound 12½-ounce fish off Dixie, to win first prize for dore, and Mrs. I. Walker, 920 St. Antoine street, Lachine, who won first prize for pike with a six-pound six-ouncer.

Provincial Swim List Programme

The City of Verdun will present the 1947 Provincial Swim Championship, under the auspices of the Verdun Swimming Club, to be held at the Verdun Natatorium Wednesday, July 30. The meet is sanctioned by the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association.

The event is open to all registered amateur swimmers in Canada and United States. Entries for the meet will close July 19, at which time they have to be in the hands of Ken M. Palmer, 1096 Allard Ave., Verdun.

As well as the provincial events for junior and senior men, junior and senior women, and diving, there will be events for Verdun residents only. The finals will be held at this time, while heats will be run off a few days ahead July 30.

The events for Verdunites are: Boys, and girls under 11 and 12 years of age, 25 years free style. The senior event will be for men only, a free style, 50 yards.

Junior Men: 220 yards, free style; 150 yards, Back stroke; 100 yards Breast Stroke; 150 yards Medley Swim and 200 yards Free style relay.

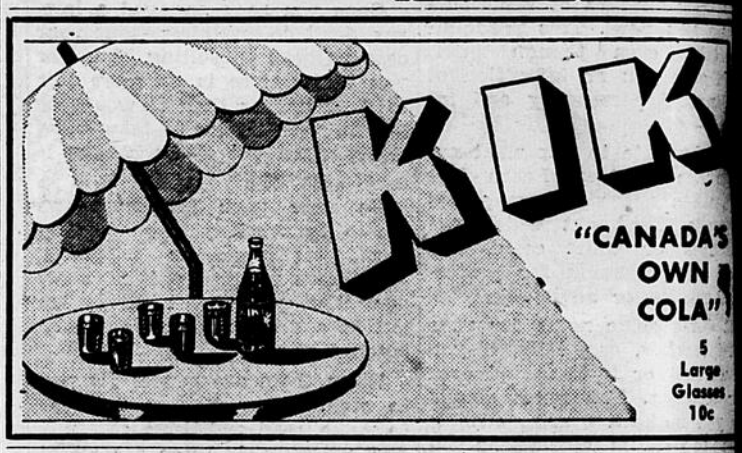

Junior Women: 100 yards, Free Style; Back Stroke and Breast Stroke; 150 yards, Medley and 200 yards, Free Style Relay.

Senior Men: 100 yards Free Style and Back Stroke; 200 yards Breast Stroke; 400 yards Free Style; 150 yards Medley Swim and 3 metre Diving.

Senior Women: 100 yards Free Style, Back Stroke; 200 yards Breast Stroke; 150 yards, Medley Swim and 440 yards Free Style and 3 metre Diving.

Three units traveled a total of 7345 miles on three locations for Paramount's action-crammed drama, "Wild Harvest," starring Alan Ladd, Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston.
