SENTENCED TO 6 LASHES, 2 YEARS FOR ROBBERY

World News In Brief

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 15—(AP)—A vicious hurricane with winds ranging up to 95 miles an hour struck the Georgia Coast today, bowling over trees and smashing windows. There were no early reports of casualties.

The weather bureau said the centre of the storm passed over this historic port city about 7 a.m. EST. A lull followed and citizens were warned to remain indoors as protection against a second blow.

Warned in advance, residents of exposed areas already had been evacuated. The Red Cross reported it was sheltering several thousand persons in schools and churches.

London, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A well-informed source said today that the government "quite likely" would nationalize the gas industry during the coming session of Parliament but postpone public ownership of the iron and steel industry for at least a year.

The Speech from the Throne, in which the decisions will be announced, will be delivered to Parliament Tuesday and the Cabinet now is engaged in making final decisions on what to include in it, the informant said.

A bill already had been prepared for gas nationalization.

Both gas and steel nationalization projects were part of the program of public ownership on which the Labor government was elected to power more than two years ago.

Bucharest, Oct. 15—(AP)—King Michael, opening the second session of Romania's first post-war parliament said today that friendship with the Soviet Union would "remain the foundation of our foreign policy."

He referred to Russia as "the constant defender of peace, democracy and the independence of peoples."

The King, who delivered his address in a flat, expressionless voice, was interrupted by frequent cheers from the Communist benches.

In the international sphere Romania would have "an active role in consolidating the peace by close and sincere cooperation with those nations that respect the independence, sovereignty and liberty of other peoples."

Balboa, Canal Zone, Oct. 15. —(AP)— United States Army Headquarters here said today six persons were believed to be aboard a United States Air Mission transport plane which has been reported missing in the mountains of North Peru since last Friday.

Four Flying Fortresses are participating in the search.

Judge Panneton Hands Down Severe Penalty To Discourage Crime

Two years in penitentiary and six lashes, three to be administered upon entry and three upon his release, was the sentence pronounced today on Marcel St. Cyr, 22-year-old Asbestos youth, arraigned before Judge Dorais Panneton on a charge of theft with violence.

Agreeing with Crown Prosecutor Roland Dugre's request that, in view of the criminal nature of the attack, severe punishment be meted out, Judge Panneton declared that he wished to make an example of the accused, so that such crimes should not become as prevalent in Sherbrooke as they are in the larger centres.

"It is to be hoped," said the Judge, "that after serving your sentence and receiving your just punishment, you will return to a normal life, free of any such criminal tendencies."

St. Cyr's victim was Alfred "Fred" Desrochers, local taxi-cab operator who picked up the former at his taxi-stand near the C.N.R. station and was instructed to drive to a certain number on St. Michel Street.

JUDGE PANNETON

Arriving at the destination, Desrochers was told that they had to wait about half an hour for a woman. After the time had elapsed, Desrochers advised his passenger and, no sooner had he spoken, than he was struck from behind. In a semi-conscious state he heard St. Cyr say "Give me your money or I'll kill you." Desrochers said he was then searched and relieved of his money, approximately sixteen dollars.

It has since been established that St. Cyr had a full bottle of soft drink in his hand, with a cord fastened to the neck of the bottle and tied around his wrist, and that this was the weapon with which he hit Desrochers.

As soon as the taxi driver could recover his senses, he found a telephone and called the police, after which he proceeded to No. 4 Station where first aid treatment was administered to him by Dr. L. Gagnon.

As soon as these details were flashed over the radio, Chief of Police Edouard Moreau and Constable Gerard Martin, who were driving in the chief's radio-equipped car, immediately investigated and learned that a man answering the description of the robber had been seen heading west on King Street.

A driver at the first taxi-stand near the East Sherbrooke Hotel, said that he had driven a man who answered to that description to the Magog House. There St. Cyr was arrested and questioned and, upon appearing in Court this morning pleaded guilty.

Proof Sought On New Ring

Buffalo, Oct. 15.—(AP)—United States authorities today hunted evidence of a possible new ring operating "for immoral purposes" following arrest of five Buffalo (Negro) men and two (white) Montreal women.

United States Attorney R. Norman Kirchgarber said the group arrested yesterday at Niagara Falls, N.Y., "may indicate a revival of the situation we cleaned up in 1939 and again in 1945." A "thorough investigation" was under way.

The men, charged with conspiring to import alien girls for immoral purposes, were identified as James Lipsey, 25, Andm Lucios Johnson, James Epps, Matthew Bushelon and Clarence Clark, all 24.

The girls, identified as Audrey Louise Wells, 18, and Ray Helen Walker, 22, were charged with illegal entry.

Formula By Ontario Is Turned Down

Gainers, Ltd., Workers at Edmonton Walk Out to Boost to 13,000 the Total Packinghouse Workers Out.

By The Canadian Press

An Ontario government formula for aiding settlement of the Canadian meat packers' strike hung in abeyance today after the United Packinghouse Workers (C.I.O.) declared: "Swift Canadian Company's refusal to accept the proposed formula has jeopardized chances for settlement on this basis."

Meanwhile, at Montreal the greatest mass arraignment in the history of that city's courts took place yesterday as injunction-defying picketers rode 136 strong to court in a specially-chartered street car. Bail was fixed mostly from $5 to $25.

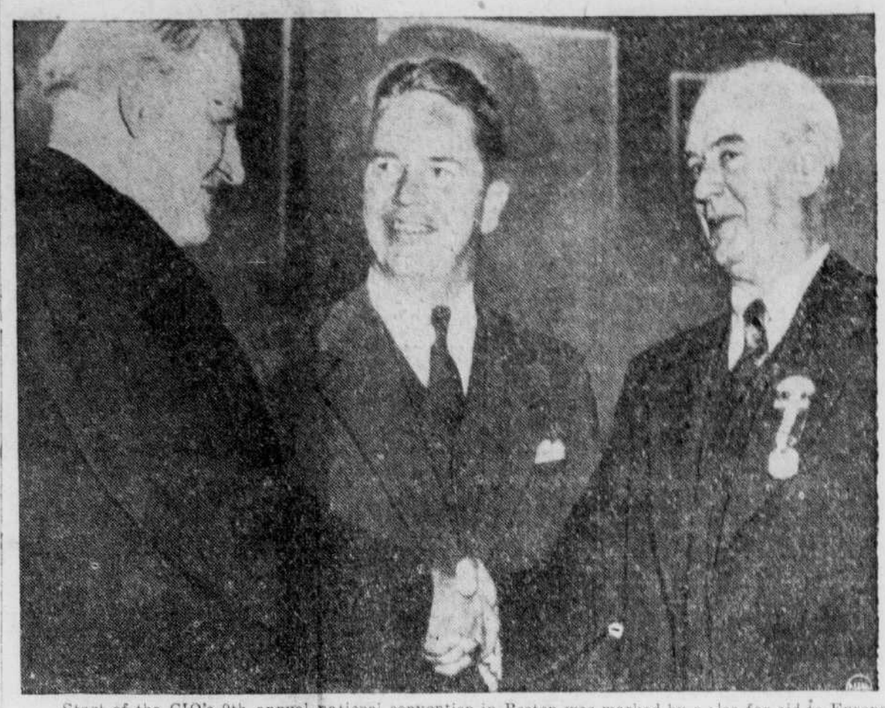

The picketers were arrested at plants of Canada Packers and Wilsil, Ltd., which last week obtained the no-picketing injunction. The union men were charged with obstructing sidewalks or failing to move on when ordered.

In Western Canada 300 workers at Gainers, Ltd., plant walked out to join 1,200 striking employees of Swift's, Canada Packers and Burns and Company at Edmonton. The new walkout swelled the total of striking packinghouse workers across Canada to nearly 13,000.

The Ontario formula was announced by Labor Minister Charles Daley yesterday when he said that Canada Packers and Burns had reached an agreement with the union "on procedure for disposing of the matters in issue." These pre-

Prelude To CIO's Appeal To AFL

Start of the CIO's 9th annual national convention in Boston was marked by a plea for aid to Europe, made by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing (left), shown here as he was greeted by CIO President Philip Murray (right) and Massachusetts Governor Robert F. Bradford. After the Bishop's plea, Murray made one of his own — to the AFL convention in San Francisco to join with the CIO and the Railroad Brotherhoods in a joint program for political action.

Union Officials Arrested For Injunction Violation

Montreal, Oct. 15.—(CP)—In the dark hours of today's early morning police visited five Montreal homes and took into custody five United Packinghouse Workers of America officials, charged with violation of a non-picketing injunction obtained in the month-old packers strike by Canada Packers and Wilsil, Ltd.

The five arrested men were arraigned, released on bail of $25 each and ordered to appear in court during the day to answer contempt of court charges.

The arrests brought to 141 the number taken into custody in Montreal since early Monday in connection with the picketing and the strike for higher wages. But the figure was further swelled with four more arrests when the plants opened at 8 a.m. and police gathered in new would-be pickets.

Arrested shortly after midnight in their homes were:

Charles Larose, president of Local 357; Henry Gosselin, president of Local 358; A. Bisson, secretary of Local 358; T. McEwan, director of Local 357, and Vincent Laurier, director of Local 358.

The police visits to the men's homes—and their subsequent arrests—were unheralded. But this morning's arrests on the picket lines were not unexpected.

The four taken into custody formed a "token" picket line, just as 12 others did yesterday. But, as was the case yesterday, there was little opportunity to picket before police broke up the symbolic demonstration designed by union leaders to underscore their claimed right to picket.

The strikers gave a new twist to their picket attempts when some appeared wearing their armed forces' uniforms.

Yesterday's court appearance of 136 picketers, who received remands either to Oct. 20 or Oct. 22 on charges ranging from intimidation to unlawful assembly was the largest mass appearance in Montreal court history.

Rand-and-file picketers were granted bail ranging from $5 to $25.

Leaking Gas Kills Three

Montreal, Oct. 15. —(CP)— A mother and two of her children were asphyxiated yesterday when the kettle boiled over on their kitchen stove, putting out the flame and filling the house with gas.

The victims: Mrs. Anette Richard, 32; Pauline Richard, nine months; Maurice Richard, five years.

A third child, four-year-old Marcel, is in hospital in serious condition.

The gas-stricken victims were discovered by Mrs. Richard's sister, Mrs. Henri Jodoin, who visited the house during the afternoon.

Mrs. Jodoin said she noticed the odor and found "the mother and children in different parts of the house."

Mrs. Richard and the children

UMW Might Leave A.F.L. With Leader

John L. Lewis Faces Battle at A.F.L. Convention Regarding His Unions in Mine Workers' District 50.

By HAROLD W. WARD

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, stripped of a vice-presidency of the American Federation of Labor after an historic outburst of name-calling among the Federation's top leads, faced still another battle today over his miscallaneous collection of unions in Mine Workers' District 50.

Underneath the current of bitterness which swept the 66th annual convention was the growing threat that Lewis still might walk out with his 600,000 United Mine Workers over the District 50 controversy.

His organizers have caused opposition within the Federation, even since his return to the A.F.L. in January 1946.

But anti-Lewis forces, cheered by the ease with which their overwhelming numbers set down the U.M.W. president yesterday, went on with plans to bring the jurisdictional squabbles with District 50 before a tribunal which he could not control.

The fight was due to come over conflicting resolutions offered by a majority of the resolutions committee headed by a long-time Lewis critic, John P. Frey of the Metal Trades Department, and a minority represented by Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the U.M.W.

Lewis took the gloves off in his first convention speech yesterday, stinging the leadership into fighting mood by calling them "intellectually fat and stately asses," and adding:

"On this issue I don't think the Federation has a head. I think its neck has just grown up and haired over."

The issue he referred to was the signing of non-Communist affidavits. That started the convention floor battle which was perhaps the hottest since Lewis toppled William L. Hutcheson, the carpenters' boss, with one punch at the Atlantic City convention in 1935. Lewis took his miners out of the Federation after that and formed the Congress of Industrial Organizations. He fell out with the C.I.O. after 1940, however, and made his peace again with the Federation six years later.

Yesterday the convention, by standing vote, overwhelmingly decided to amend its constitution and do away with its 13 vice-presidencies.

Lewis would not sign the Taft-Hartley affidavit disavowing Communism, saying it was an insult. He shouted that those who wanted to comply were grovelling "on their bellies."

The convention decided to abolish the office of vice-presidents, so Lewis would no longer be classed as an officer. This would "pro-

Last-Ditch Fight Against Partition Of Palestine Is Carried On By Arab League

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Lake Success, Oct. 15.— (CP) — Member states in the Arab League today waged a last-ditch fight against partition of Palestine, but with little hope of leading off a majority opinion in the United Nations Special Committee considering the plan to establish a Jewish home in the Holy Land.

The Palestine question shared the spotlight with the political committee's current battle over the United States resolution for a continuing committee of the whole General Assembly which Russia yesterday described as a "farce" and a deliberate attempt "to bypass the Security Council."

End of the Palestine issue is scheduled for tomorrow and it is proposed that a sub-committee—two sub-committees if a Canadian proposal is accepted—will be appointed to bring in detailed plans for partition and enforcement by Oct. 27.

Canada's Justice Minister Ilsley yesterday told his committee that his delegation "somewhat reluctantly" supported the partition plan as against the minority recommendation for a federalized state which had been successful, he said, in overcoming Canada's problem of two separate races and cultures.

Dr. Farid Zein Ed-Din, Syrian Minister to Moscow, made a 75-minute speech late yesterday in opposition to partition, heaping most of his criticism on the United States and the Zionists.

He had no criticism of Russia in spite of the fact that the Soviet Union has sided with the majority in support of the partition plan.

Zein Ed-Din declared that "Zionism has formed a bridgehead in Palestine which is being constantly fed by money from abroad."

He said most of this money came from the United States, and commented that there were six times as many Jews in New York as in Palestine. He asked if the United States would agree to the partition of New York to form a separate Jewish state.

Russia's Andrei Vishinsky yesterday poured scorn on the United States proposal for a "little assembly" to be in constant session and urged the delegates to "laugh it off."

It was an obvious attempt of the United States to circumvent the Security Council where the veto prevails, and to mould the U.N. as an instrument of U.S. foreign policy which Vishinsky contended looks toward world domination.

The Security Council again failed yesterday to reach any decision on how to stop hostilities in Indonesia, where its cease-fire order has been unsuccessful, and put off the case until tomorrow.

The Assembly's committee on economics approved the principle of the Marshall plan for economic recovery of Europe in a series of votes which left the Slav states standing alone on the basic issue. The balloting came on a Polish

Canada's Air Past Bulwark For Future

Former Air Minister C. G. Power Says Canada Has Everything for Development of Air Commerce and Industry.

Montreal, Oct. 15—(CP)—Canadian aviation background in peace and war should amply justify faith, high hope and confidence in Canada's future air development," da's future air development," Charles G. Power, wartime Canadian air minister, said today in an address prepared for delivery before an air conference sponsored by Montreal Board of Trade.

"In Canada we have everything which should make for the great and magnificent future development of air commerce and industry," said Mr. Power who is Liberal member of Parliament for Quebec South.

"We have first of all the industry itself with its trained artisans and mechanics, with its engineers and executives who showed themselves more than equal to all the demands made upon them during the war.

"Next," Mr. Power went on, "we have an air-minded people a people accustomed to an immense expanse of territory, to gazing across great distances. . . we have The Land of Opportunity, the last great free open land in the world, not curtained off from civilization by any totalitarian bureaucrat but open to all who wish to strive and to work within its borders."

Mr. Power reviewed the history of aviation in Canada and paying tribute to the work of bush pilots, said: "There would have been no Eldorado, no Canadian U-235, if Leigh Brintnell had not flown Gilbert Labine into Great Bear Lake."

"That Northern frontier would not have been pushed back hundreds of miles towards the Arctic coast if the bush pilots of the 1920s and 1930s had not had their bases along the Northernmost transcontinental tracks waiting to fly men and machinery into the back of beyond."

He gave the facts of Canada's aviation effort during the second world war—"equal to that of any nation of the commonwealth and in proportion to its population equal to that of any of its allies."

Mr. Power asked that in plans for aviation development consideration be given to the war's flying men.

"Procure them positions and places of responsibility on the ground and in the air," said Mr. Power. "They proved their worth in the past, they will not fail you now."

Italian Premier Sees Election Victim

After voting in the Rome municipal elections that became an international issue, Italian Premier Alcide de Gasperi (extreme right) views the body of a political follower who was killed by left-wing party members as he was posting signs for de Gasperi's Christian Democratic Party. Major issues in the local elections were the Marshall Plan and de Gasperi's pro-Western foreign policy. During the elections the Communists and left-wing Socialists got 208,103 votes to the 204,007 gained by Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Christian Democrat Party. The "splinter" parties hold the balance of power.

Military Trucks Rush To Relieve Transport Tie-Up

Paris, Oct. 15.—(CP)—Nearly 1,400 military trucks were speeding to Paris today from French-occupied Germany and all over France to aid the government's improvised transport scheme, as for the second day the strike of almost 30,000 bus and subway workers tied up passenger transportation.

A radio appeal was being launched for volunteer drivers to man the trucks to avoid further chaos in the city.

While strike threats multiplied in other industries, branch officials of the General Confederation of Labor (CGT)—the organizers, were to meet tonight to plan next moves in reply to the assurance by Premier Paul Ramedier, that he would "defend the republic."

The C.G.T. said the government forced the strike "by its policy of broken promises, by its social policy of misery and by its unyielding attitude."

Socialist and Mouvement Republicain Populaire (M.R.P.) newspapers editorially linked the crippling Paris subway and bus strike to new "cominform-style" tactics of the Communists.

The word "cominform" apparently was a reference to the recently organized nine-member International Communist Information Bureau at Belgrade.

The Communist paper l'Humanite attacked Ramadier and headlined its account of the transport walkout: "The whole population supports the strikers."

Ramadier has announced that the wage increase of the strikers would receive no consideration until they go back to work. He has declared that the strike was politically motivated.

Some quarters saw in the transport strike and other pending strike stoppages throughout France just prior to Sunday's municipal elections.

Strike threats or strike votes were pending among building workers in Lyon; maritime workers numbering nearly 40,000; automobile workers in the Renault plant; railwaymen; gas and electric workers, road transport workers and the Paris taxi drivers. Some of these called only for one-day protest strikes in support of the bus and subway workers.

Airliner Sent To Bottom After 69 Persons Rescued

New York, Oct. 15—(CP) — The United States Coast Guard ship Bibb steamed towards Argentia, Nfld., today with the 62 passengers and seven crew members of the downed flying boat Bermuda Sky Queen safely aboard, after sinking the once-proud airliner to prevent it menacing other ships in the North Atlantic.

The last of the 69 persons—including six Canadians—who came down on the turbulent seas 850 miles east of Newfoundland early yesterday were brought aboard the Coast Guard weather ship just after the crew of the Bibb received a "hearty well-done" from Coast Guard authorities for their rescue work.

News of the final rescue was flashed to Coast Guard headquarters here just before 6 a.m. E.S.T., followed by a recommendation that the flying boat, helpless from lack of fuel and unable to take off in high seas, be destroyed. Coast Guard authorities here hastily conferred with the plane's owners, who agreed.

Seventeen men and one woman spent a storm-tossed night as the flying boat bobbed on the waves under the watchful eyes of the Bibb's crew. Rescue operations had been suspended at dusk because of the dangerous nature of the transfer.

So peril-fraught were the rescue operations that at one time yesterday a raft carrying 15 persons overturned. All were safely brought aboard.

The weather moderated before dawn, however, and the last 18 were quickly brought to the Bibb after day broke.

The stricken craft, operated by American International Airways, was forced down when it ran short of fuel on the flight from Shannon, Eire, to Gander, Nfld.

There was some confusion yesterday and last night over the number on board, with reports varying from 62 to 69. Apparent cause of the confusion was the counting in, or failure to do so, of the seven-member crew.

The flying boat was shepherded to safety yesterday by a Trans-Canada Air Lines Trans-Atlantic plane piloted by Capt. Steve Albulet, formerly of Regina. The T.C.A. plane intercepted the Sky Queen's SOS and guided it to the weather ship where the flying boat's pilot, Capt. Charles Martin, former United States navy flier, made a successful landing on the rough sea.

The Canadians on board were listed as Albert E. Ritchie, 30, of Andover, N.B., a United Nations official, his wife and three-year-old son, Gordon; Herbert Bateman-Cooke, 35, Montreal engineer; Kathleen Hayes, 32, Belmont, N.S., nursing sister; and Mrs. Florence Rothery, 41, for whom no address was given.

IN HOLLYWOOD

IT'S A RIOT!—NAH, JUST A PREMIERE

Hollywood, Oct. 15.—Once upon a time, the principal ceremony involved in opening a new movie was the unlocking of the box-office, followed by the establishment of a girl there to sell tickets to anyone who happened to want to see the picture.

Then bushy-haired Hollywood showman Sid Grauman put a stop to all naive opening night restraint and simplicity of this sort, and introduced the Hollywood premiere juggernaut.

By the time a Sid Grauman box-office had been opened on a film for the first time, the accompanying ceremonies were remindful of a dress review of the Coldstream Guards, a riot at Sing Sing, plus a revival staging of Custer's Last Stand in formal evening dress.

Since then, new movies have had their premiere screenings on planes, ships, trains and buses, in the state or city after which a picture was named, at the birthplace of the film's star or in the neighborhood of where the western star's horse first kicked up his heels and felt his oats.

NO POLAR PREMIERE—YET!

Practically any locale can be ballyhooed by Hollywood into a logical film premiere site. How Admiral Byrd's expeditions have been overlooked for this purpose, I shall never know. To my knowledge, submarines haven't yet been used for this purpose, either, but I have implicit faith in the ingenuity and bravery of studio press agents.

But the colossally-colossal Hollywood premiere—the gaudy, resplendent, cacophonous, arc-lighted, star-studded ceremonies held at, in and around a Hollywood theater on the opening night of a major film—still is the old standby, with each trying to top its predecessor in noise and splendor.

But a saturation point of some kind seemed inevitable. The only thing which stalled off his saturation, I guess, was the depression. In 1935, with the depression somewhat depressing itself out, a non-theater contestant entered Hollywood's big league of premiere presentation for the first time.

The new entry was Max Factor, and the occasion was the opening of his resplendent new four-story Hollywood makeup studio. For this fabulous premiere, 3000 invitations were sent out and more than 9000 persons showed up to be wined and caviared.

This still-to-be-topped Max Factor opening night set premieres off on a new tangent, by revealing that they didn't have to be confined to theaters or films. Ever since, there has been a national plague of small-time gala opening night ceremonies, with a couple of arc lights and a three-piece cowboy band, for newly opening vegetable markets, shoe shine parlors and drug stores.

Wienere Premiere

A new low among premieres of this sort was that staged in Hollywood not long ago for a hot dog stand. Dozens of arc lights brightened the skies, several bands were on hand and quite a few stars were there to munch hot dogs daintily and spill mustard down shirt and gown fronts as they wished the hot dog huckster well.

It was a stupendous much-ado-about-nothing premiere, with Hollywood satirizing itself and with everybody concerned reaping a worthwhile degree of amusing publicity.

During the war, there was a dearth of Hollywood premieres for the indisputable reason that it was just not in the cards to have an arc-lighted premiere and a blackout simultaneously. Besides, it wasn't patriotic to show off

LIME RIDGE, P.Q.

I've known Ned Williams since he traded Yale for Broadway about ten years back. Ned hit the street expecting to be another Max Reinhardt. He settled for being one of our better stage managers.

One night last September, Ned asked me to go along with him to an East Side cafe. He told me there was a girl named Helen Wayne singing there, that he was stuck on her, and that he'd like to know what I thought of her chances.

Helen Wayne was sixty-five lovely inches tall and had the kind of equipment that does nice things to an evening gown. She warbled a couple of popular songs and encored with an impression of Ethel Merman.

"What do you think of her?" asked the stage manager.

"Nice gams," I said, "nice pair of pipes, but I didn't see any lightning come out of her ears."

Ned Williams grinned. "That makes it official. For months I've been trying to get up enough nerve to tell her she hasn't got it, but I'm afraid she'd walk out on me. Baby says she wants a ride on the big wheel before she goes down to City Hall with me."

I didn't need a blueprint. Old show business plot. Boy loves girl. Girl loves career.

I bumped into Ned Williams a couple of months later.

"Sharing your cornflakes with Helen yet?" I asked.

He shook his head. "Baby's still in there pitching. I got her a job understudying the blues singer in the show I'm handling. Helen's going on tonight for the first time—the star has a bug in her throat."

"I wouldn't worry," I told him. "Six dollar audiences don't impress easy."

"I am worried," said Williams. "She'll be singing the best torch song that's been around in years—one of those 'Ill-Be-Thinking-of You' ballads that's sure pop. At 10:45 she's alone on the stage, backed up by one of those Caribbean waterfront sets. She plays the part of a native girl whose sailor friend has walked out on her. With that set-up, she couldn't miss if she came out and read the telephone directory."

"Look bad for City Hall," I said. "I suppose her agent has phoned every talent scout east of Pittsburgh."

"East of Flagstaff, Arizona," sighed the stage manager.

"If you're not above a little larceny," I suggested, "why not get the orchestra to switch keys in the middle of her song?"

"She'd know I did it," said Ned.

"Brooding isn't going to solve this," I told him. "You look a little pale. Why don't you stop in at the barber shop and let them hit you with a lamp?"

Ned Williams perked up. "Sure," he smiled. 'That's what I need—an ultra-violet lamp."

I got to the theatre a few minutes before Helen's big number. As she stepped out of the wings, the fiddles got husky. She was wearing a Carib costume and holding a basket of fruit on her head. The lights dimmed and the singer was alone, stage center, in a bluish amber spot. I knew why Ned Williams was worried. The audience was being handed the best combination of song, set and lighting since Fannie Brice did "My Man" in an early Follies.

Helen coasted through the verse and started bearing down as she got to the chorus. "Paging Louis B. Mayer," I said to myself.

Suddenly someone down front snickered. A man in one of the upper boxes pointed. An amused buzz started up in the audience. Helen stopped, grabbed for the song again and missed. When she exited, the applause was something less than deafening.

One of the kid backstage told me Helen ran straight to her dressing room. Ned Williams was waiting for her. Half an hour later, he had her in a car heading in the general direction of Maryland.

I run into the Williamses every so often, and I get the impression both Mr. and Mrs. like sharing their cornflakes.

Naturally, I wonder if the stage manager ever told Helen that he brushed phosphorescent paint on the basket of fruit on her head, and switched on an ultra-violet spotlight so that every banana lit up.

REV. R. BROWN TRACES GROWTH OF ST. PETER'S

Rev. Russel Brown, rector of St. Peter's Church, Sherbrooke, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Eastern Townships Historical Association held Monday evening at St. Charles Seminary.

The president, Canon N. Codere, in welcoming the members, said that "History has no nationality as far as Canada is concerned; it belongs to the French and to the English. That is why we have endeavoured to make this society as bilingual as possible."

Following the reading of the minutes by the secretary, Rev. Father Maurice O'Bready, and the discussion of the correspondence received, the president called upon A. C. Skinner, vice-president of the Association, to present the speaker.

Rev. Mr. Brown read a sketch of the history of St. Peter's Church, in Sherbrooke, which sketch, he said, had as yet to be revised and enlarged, before being sent out for publication.

He stated that the Church is celebrating this year its 125th anniversary and that "any study of the history of the present parish of St. Peter's in Sherbrooke must be prefaced by a brief review of the early settlement of the community, as the story of the growth of this Church, especially in the early days, is the story of the expansion of Sherbrooke as an organized community. The Anglican congregation is the first clearly defined organization to be established in the frontier village. Prior to the formation of the congregation in 1822, the only authority in the district was the rather loose county administration which appears to have been an informal affair, resembling a district forum or debating society, the church preceeding civil authority."

The speaker traced the development of the Anglican Church, which in its pioneer days bore the name of St. Paul and was situated where the Registry Office is today, down through the years to the present building known as St. Peter's, which is erected on a different site.

Rev. Mr. Brown was thanked by the president, after which an informal discussion took place among the members.

BREEDERS OF CHINCHILLAS NOTE GAINS

Over fifty chinchilla owners attended a meeting of the Quebec Branch of the National Chinchilla Breeders of Canada held in the Canadian Legion Memorial Building in Montreal and heard R. E. R. Macdonald, vice-president of the national board of the N.C.B. C. give an acount of thep progress the association has made towards its immediate goal of incorporation under the Federal Livestock Pedigree At.

This incorporation would make chinchilla breeding-stock registrable in the livestock records office of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and Mr. Macdonald left no doubt that optimism in this regard is fully justified. Standards for registration, which will entail inspection of the individual animals, have been set and these, together with the associations constitution and by-laws are presently before the officials of the department for final approval.

To complete the board of the Quebec Branch, two directors were elected; Sherwood A. Mills, of Cowansville; and J. A. Beliveau, of Three Rivers.

It was announced that there are now seven branches of the N.C. B.C., located in strategic centres from British Columbia to Quebec. Recommendations have been made that a branch be established for Eastern Quebec as well as one in the Maritime Provinces. Great satisfaction was expressed on the nation wide organization the N.C. B.C., has become.

JUNGLES OF PACIFIC SHELTER DESERTERS

Sydney, Australia, Oct. 15.—(AP)—There are still a few Allied and Japanese soldiers roaming the Pacific islands who may not be aware that the war is over.

During recent months several of them who had "gone native" during the war have been found, and after interrogation by military authorities have been remanded for courts-martial as deserters, or shipment back to Japan, in the case of the Japanese.

In the wilds of the New Guinea jungles several white men are known to be living with the natives beyond the reach of the military police.

The Australian Army recently shipped six Japanese back to their homeland after they had been living like feudal chiefs for several years among the Solomon Island natives.

They were "so sorry" for the inconvenience caused, saying that they were afraid to give themselves up even though they were well aware that the war was over.

Another Japanese found in New Guinea by a patrol officer of the New Guinea administration police had been with the natives so long that a Japanese interpreter for the army found great difficulty in understanding him. He was surprised to learn hostilities had ceased and frankly disbelieved that Japan had been beaten.

The Dutch in their periodic patrols on the Halmaheras and Morotai still round up the occasional Japanese and put them to work on the island. In the Philippines recently, a half-starved Japanese gave himself up to the Americans saying he could hold out no longer —Emperor willing or not.

Shipment Cancelled

Doris von Knobloch puts on her shirt before climing out of a crate at Frankfurt, Germany, where airline officials discovered the 21-year-old fraulein all packed up and ready for shipment—as air freight—to a man in New York. She might have made it, too, if there hadn't been a pilots' strike and if she hadn't peeked out so somebody at the freight depot saw her (but she might have frozen to death on the way).

SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED TO AIR CADETS

Air-minded boys between the ages of fourteen and a half and eighteen years are reminded of the many advantages offered to them by the Air Cadet League.

There is the Sir James MacBrien Scholarship of $500 which is presented to a cadet selected by the League and is used to defray the expenses of first year aeronautical engineering at the University of Toronto.

Seven Royal Canadian Flying Club Scholarships of $1,000 each are donated to Air Cadets, for a two year course at the RCN-RCAF College, Royal Roads, B.C.

Arrangements are also made by the League to have cadets, who have passed their eighteenth year, transferred to the regular Air Force, if they so desire. Records show that boys pre-trained as Air Cadets succeed exceptionally well in the Air Force.

Exchange visits with the United Kingdom afford the cadets an opportunity to travel, to broaden their outlook and to exchange views with their fellowmen.

Properly supervised summer camps are also organized and during the winter months cadets receive instruction in drill, aircraft recognition, aircraft engines etc.

Any boy who is interested in joining the 67th Air Cadets Squadron, sponsored by the Rotary Club, should report to the William Street Armory at 7.30 on Friday evening, where he will receive any further information required.

RAND DRILL'S LONG SERVICE GROUP MEETS

The regular quarterly meeting of the Circo Long Service Association was held on Tuesday night, October 7th. A large group of Long Service employees were present.

The meeting was presided over by G. M. Dick, president of the Circo Long Service Association and there were also present: John Lapointe, honorary president; Napoleon Audet, first vice-president; George Parsons, second vice-president; Miss Vina Miltimore, secretary, and N. W. Robins, Treasurer.

In his introductory remarks, the president extended a welcome to the members of the Association who were present and was followed by the honorary president, John Lapointe, who spoke in French. Both speakers emphasized the good wishes of the association to the honorary members who were present at the assembly. Honorary members present included: Mrs. E. Wolfe, Alex Johnston, Jim Shaw and H. V. Haight. The following members of the staff were also present as guests: E. T. Harbert, Dudley Coates, A. H. Noble, Earle Sears, Jim Mitchell, Romeo Audet, Leonard Bradley, Francis Gelinas and T. K. Kennedy.

Committee reports presented included the report of the welfare committee which was given by Albert Hedenberg. A resolution of sympathy was passed in connection with the death of Mrs. Walter Carter, wife of one of the members. Mr. Hedenberg also reported that another member, Jack Cook, was at present is a patient in the Ross Memorial Hospital in Montreal.

Musical interludes in the form of recordings were suitably interspersed throughout the program, these items being sponsored by the second vice-president, George Parsons.

The highlight of the evening was an illustrated address by A. W. Saunders, who recently completed his 50 years of service with Canadian Ingersoll-Rand Company and who has just returned from a Dominion-wide trip.

Presentations of Long Service Buttons were made by G. M. Young, the Works Manager.

The president also expressed the pleasure which was experienced by the Association in welcoming those men who this year, by completing 25 years' service, were admitted to membership in the group. Mr. Dick briefly stated the purpose of the Association and enumerated the various principles on which the Association was founded. The following is a list of those who received Long Service Buttons: (40 year group), J. W. Cotterell, A. Caya, H. C. Wilcox; (35 year group), E. Devost, Miss E. Odell, J. B. Pinette, F. Perron, T. Chapman; (30 year group), A. H. Cross R. M. Cutts, A. F. Wright, F. Bosse, U. Middleton, A. Blais; (25 year group), L. L'Heureux, J. Murphy, O. L'Heureux, R. C. Winslade, A. Lefebvre.

Of special interest was the presentation of a 35 Year Service Button to Frank Shepherd, chief metallurgist of Ingersoll-Rand Company, Phillipsburg, N.J. By reason of his 37 years of service with Ingersoll-Rand and his close association in this work, his Canadian conferers welcomed this opportunity to present Mr. Shepherd with a Canadian Service Button.

Some time ago, Harold G. Soper of the Publicity Department, was admitted to honorary membership in the Association because of the valuable assistance which he rendered at each Association meeting in the way of supervising photography, recordings, projection presentations, etc. On behalf of the association, Napoleon Audet, the first vice-president, pinned a badge of office on Mr. Soper and welcomed him officially to the honorary membership of the group.

Moving pictures were then shown illustrating a very interesting and enjoyable excursion which was made by the Circo Ski Club last winter. This picture which had been recorded and prepared by H. G. Soper and his assistants in the publicity department covered a ski club trip to St. Sauveur in the Laurentians.

The concluding item on the program was the presentation of a moving picture illustrating Canadian wild bird life.

The program was climaxed by a social hour during which refreshments were served by the social committee under the joint chairmanship of Don McLean, Joseph Fournier, and Ashley Buzzell, assisted by R. Collins and the Misses Emily Odell and Vina Miltimore.

GOOD NEWS

News that the old Continental Hotel property has been purchased by Col. Leopold Chevalier who intends to convert it into a modern commercial building will be gratefully received by Sherbrooke residents who have long felt that this important property could be put to some useful purpose.

The fire-charred building occupies the chief commercial corner in Sherbrooke but in its present condition instead of being an asset to the business district, it has been dead, serving to depress business in adjoining areas. An eyesore, it has left a poor impression with visitors to Sherbrooke who are greeted with the sight of an ancient structure occupying a position that could serve as an advertisement for the community generally if it contained a proper building.

Col. Chevalier has been the leader of a progressive group of young businessmen who have done much for the betterment of Sherbrooke in recent years, being both a substantial property owner and the senior executive of a business which carries the name of Sherbrooke to the farthest-removed parts of the Dominion.

He deserves the warmest congratulations of the citizens in his latest venture and the hope will be generally expressed that his initiative meets with the material rewards which it deserves.

HALF-A-CENTURY OF SERVICE

The growth and development of the Victorian Order of Nurses from a local group operating in Canada's capital to a nation-wide organization serving every province of the Dominion is vividly reviewed in a new publication by John Murray Gibbon marking the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the Order.

Mr. Gibbon tells of the early attempts at providing nursing care for the sick in their own homes and of the sponsorship of the Victorian Order by Countess Ishbel Aberdeen, wife of the Governor-General of Canada, who launched the organization in 1897. Blessed with the support of the successive chatelaines of Rideau Hall, the V.O.N. has shown a rapid expansion until it has become one of the leading welfare organizations of the country. Its activities are not confined to the home nursing of the residents of the larger centres, but it carries on its operations in isolated areas and is responsible for the conducting of a number of outpost hospitals.

The history contains many interesting sidelights on Canadian life during the half-century, and gives splendid stories of the Yukon gold rush, the Halifax explosion and of many epidemics and calamities in the relieving of which the Victorian Order played a major role.

Profusely-illustrated the history will be on sale shortly at bookstores in Sherbrooke and elsewhere at a price of two dollars.

THE SHERBROOKE WINTER FAIR

The Sherbrooke Winter Fair and Horse show being held this week at the Exhibition Arena is one of the highlights of the fall season, combining attractions for city dwellers and country producers alike. The fat stock show has done much to improve beef cattle raising in this section of Eastern Canada, the demand for the heavy animals produced in the Eastern Townships growing during each of the eighteen years the show and its accompanying sale has been in operation.

The Eastern Townships is essentially a dairy country, but the quality of the animals displayed at this show offers ample proof that high quality beef cattle can be profitably produced in this area, benefiting the farmer and the city merchant alike.

The horse show has done much to preserve and increase the interest in show horses in Sherbrooke and other parts of the Province of Quebec. Attracting some of the best animals in Eastern Canada, the show is a drawing card for districts far removed from Sherbrooke itself.

The winter fair and horse show in addition provides valuable publicity for the City of Sherbrooke, advertising worth far in excess of any monetary cost it might involve.

STATE TRADING AND THE FARMER

One of the chief planks of any totalitarian policy is that the state operate the trading organization for natural resources and that it control all means of credit and many a farmer has been known to actively support this policy despite the fact that when the state does the trading and runs the banks and exchange, the farmer is likely to come out at the short end of the horn.

Recently a Canadian newspaperman visited the Argentine where the Peron regime is setting up a totalitarian state as rapidly as possible. He says that there the farmers receive the equivalent of $1.35 a bushel for wheat and the government is selling it to other countries for as near $5.95 a bushel as it can get. These are the figures for Argentina's currency translated into Canadian funds as closely as possible. As a result, the informant says, the Argentine farmers plan to reduce their wheat sowings by thirteen per cent, having got wise to the fact that the government is juggling with their wheat.

THE ZHDANOV PLAN TO AID EUROPE

The Russian answer to the Truman Doctrine and the Marshall Plan seems to be the new Zhdanov plan. Its author, Gen. Andrei A. Zhdanov—sometimes mentioned as Stalin's successor—is a member of the small political bureau which runs Russia. He was apparently the master mind behind the recreation of the Comintern, or Fourth International, recently formed at Warsaw by the Communist Party leaders of nine countries—Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, Yugoslavia, Italy and France.

Professional alarmists are now screaming dire predictions on what this is going to lead to. They range in severity up to the gloomy prophecy that this means the end of the United Nations and ultimately, if not sooner—war. Maybe they're right. But it takes a lot of reading between the lines to reach this immediate conclusion.

A careful reading of the Warsaw communique, resolution and manifesto are in order. The long manifesto bristles with opposition to the Truman-Marshall plans and to American imperialistic capitalism, which it says is out to subjugate the world.

It is the resolution which tells how the Communists propose to meet the challenge of this tearible opponent. It says they're going to set up an "Information Bureau" in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, to exchange information and experiences. The bureau is going to issue an organ—a bi-weekly magazine published in Russian and French. Later they hope to make it into a weekly and expand into other languages.

OFFER NO REAL, TANGIBLE AID

Is this the Communist answer to the Marshall Plan? Is this the best they can do? Is there anything to be scared of? Does it hurt anybody? Is this what they're going to feed Europe on?

The Truman-Marshall plans and the aid to Europe which Congress has voted are very real things. Under the Truman Doctrine, $250 million in military aid has been given to Greece and Turkey, plus another $150 million to finance Greek reconstruction.

On top of this, the last Congress appropriated $332 million for post-UNRRA aid to war-torn countries co-operating with the United States, $600 million for the occupied countries of Germany, Austria, Japan and Korea, and $73 million for the International Refugee Organization. In all, $1,405,000,000.

Going one step further, the Marshall Plan proposes that the U.S. will help European countries if they will first get together and help themselves. The amount of this new U.S. aid, including an immediate stop-gap program—has yet to be decided by Congress.

Summing it all up, the American plans offers something for the belly, plus some immediate security and material aid so the people of Europe can get back on their feet and become self-supporting.

What does the Zhdanov plan offer to match that? It offers them words. An information bureau. A bi-weekly magazine. Ideologies.

People have been known to die for their ideals. But any country having nothing more substantial than propaganda for breakfast, dinner and supper may darn soon find itself awfully hungry.

MOSCOW LINE FULL OF PROMISES

Of course a major part of the Moscow line is promises. Communists can point—correctly—to the uncertainty and confusion existing in non-Communist countries. They know about this, having helped to build it up. Then assurances are freely given that under a Communist-run three-year or five-year planned economy, everything will be dandy.

The issue which the European countries have to decide is whether they take these empty promises or tangible American aid.

The significance of the Zhdanov plan and the new Comintern manifesto is that it declares ideological warfare—not the 'shootin' kind. If that is the challenge, what it calls for is a stronger counter-propaganda drive—a better Intelligence Service and a bigger Voice of America and Overseas Information program for the U.S. Any day the U.S. can't put out a better bi-weekly magazine than can be published in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, it ought to quit.

And since the U.S. can deliver the goods it offers, instead of empty promises, there should be less uncertainty about the outcome, in the long run. Hungry Europe asks for bread. The Zhdanov plan offers it only the stones of propaganda.

It is a confession that the Marshall Plan can be effective, and that the Communist block has nothing to put up against it but words.

Letters To The Editor

Below is published a further letter from Rev. Mr. Gorman of Coaticook, which, in the editor's point of view, puts forward arguments which are scarcely serious. For instance, even the most ardent Imperialist (and the editor is one) would hardly refer to Canada today as "a British possession." Further, if Mr. Gorman is not aware of the difference between becoming "Anglicized" and "Canadianized" no words of this paper will clear it up for him. But the basic fault with Mr. Gorman's thinking is that he accuses the French-speaking citizens of this country of creating disunity by wishing a Canada of one tongue and one religion, while he does not seem to recognize that in opposing the establishment of French-language radios in Western Canada, and opposing the continued use of French as an official language, he is guilty of exactly the same offence. A wise politician once said it was extremely unwise to get into an argument with a newspaper, as the paper had the means at its disposal always to have the last word. In this case, however, we leave the last word to Mr. Gorman, and herewith present his letter.

EDITOR.

MR. GORMAN PRESENTS HIS CASE

Dear Sir:—I appreciate the fact that you printed my previous letter, but as your second editorial invites further discussion of the subject, I ask the privilege of a further word.

Rather than clearing up anything, your editorial, which terms this matter an "issue," raises further questions. I am interested in your statement that "this paper recognizes the right of the Baptist Church . . . . . to mix in affairs of any kind . . . . . ." I leave your readers to judge the meaning of this sentence in the light of your words in your formal editorial, "The Eastern Association of Baptist Churches . . . . . stepped beyond the realm of church matters . . . . . in the opinion of this paper."

To say "It is mere quibbling on Mr. Gorman's part to say that French is not the official language, equally with English, of this country," settles nothing. The Act quoted does not provide for French being used in any other House of Parliament except at Ottawa and the Quebec Legislature. Hence there is nothing about French being used in eight of the nine Parliaments of this country, nor of it being used in the schools or spoken on the streets anywhere in Canada. Why not publish Section 133 of the British North America Act and let your readers judge?

In regard to the pamphlet which I quoted, I did not imply that it is "dangerous propaganda," but pointed out that it was circulated by those responsible for requesting radio stations giving reasons for the demand. What may be the difference in being "Anglicized" and in being "Canadianized"? What do you mean by "Canadianized"? Can we not best remove the misunderstanding of which you speak by coming together rather than remaining apart as we do when we continue the two language system?

I should like to see more of our French-Compatriots become "Canadianized" and discard their view—held by a minority, perhaps, but nevertheless held—that nothing is Canadian that is not associated with French.

You have introduced the name of Rev. Dr. T. T. Shields, of Toronto, and you suggest he is not an authority. If he is not his enemies have a sure way of silencing him and that is by proving what he says is not true. Senator Bouchard is one standing alone, yet every reformer has been alone in the beginning and still reforms do come, often from within, and we believe it will eventually in this case also.

Now you have compared Quebec with Western Canada. Would it not be very strange if even in one-ninth of this British possession the minority group of English-speaking citizens did not have English radio stations? These, among other things, are to be expected whether we are in the majority or the minority because Canada is a British possession and as long as she is, then even the minority will have freedom in Canada.

You seem to make a great deal out of my statement concerning certain facts and you call them "mysterious" and say, "let them be made public. In my letter I say, "Either you are not aware (not "ignorant of") of the facts in the case or you choose to ignore them." Do you imply, sir, that because I did not publish them that I have not got them and that, therefore, I am not telling the truth? Or do you really want to make an "issue" of this thing? But perhaps you would like to withdraw that implication. Following my reference to the "facts" there are three paragraphs in which a number are set forth and which you have attempted to remove. But they are still there since your arguments do not hold water.

But there are other facts which I have not made public for two reasons. First. They are too voluminous, and secondly, they prove conclusively that this whole matter of the French language is not of race but of religion. This material, translations from French-language papers and articles by the clergy, is in my study where you, or anyone else who cares to, may see it at any time I am at home. To give you just one sample, here is a word written by Canon Labrecque of Quebec: "Let us speak the whole truth: among us, a Catholic language; among them, a Protestant language." If you want more statements of this nature to list among the "mysterious" facts, come and see for yourself, or if you do want to publicize them in your paper I will gladly co-operate.

You say my letter does not show a spirit of Christian brotherhood and you leave it to your readers to judge "whether or not it represents an attitude best calculated to develop understanding and Canadian unity, free of racial hate and misunderstanding." I believe your readers will agree that if racial hate and misunderstanding has been caused it has been by the proponents of the French-language radio in Western Canada in their words, "It," the English-language radio, "is an enemy against which we must fight." I take it that is equivalent to a declaration of war since "fight" means "opposition" and we are to understand the French-language radio is to be the weapon against the English-language radio that is going to "Anglicize" the French, that is, "Canadianize" them.

Still we are told we had better not make a fuss but surrender and submit meekly for the cause of unity and all the time unity is being endangered by the constant division of the inhabitants of this country by a two-language system of education.

Thanking you again for this space,

Sincerely yours,

GEORGE F. GORMAN.

PRESS COMMENTS

Following is an editorial from the Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph, and it is comforting to the editor of the Record to note that his views on the subject of the establishment of French-language radio stations in Western Canada are endorsed and supported by the editor of the only other English-language daily newspaper in the Province of Quebec outside the city of Montreal—particularly as both papers have always tried to concern themselves sincerely and honestly with the rights of all minority groups in Canada.

BARRING BILINGUALISM IS ABUSIVE

Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph

Will it never be possible for the trouble-makers in Canada to "keep their big mouths shut?" Whenever the wounds of racial difference begin to show signs of healing over on the body politic, some fanatic or extremist invariably makes a provocative gesture that re-opens and sets them bleeding anew. As time goes on and as the people of tolerance and good will form an ever larger majority, it is notable that such gestures are meeting with less and less success. Under the circumstances it should be possible to treat them with silent contempt and this would be the most effective as well as the wisest thing to do. Unfortunately, however, the masses on both sides keep a chip of defiance constantly upon their collective shoulders and this is no sooner knocked off by some blundering, blustering fool than they react with truculence and the bickering drags on until it finally wears itself out.

Groups of narrow-minded sectarians in Alberta and Saskatchewan are trying to prevent the licensing of French language radio stations in those Provinces and in the case of Alberta the argument that the French-speaking minority does not constitute more than five per cent of the whole population is at least a legitimate one, for whatever it may be worth. But other arguments to the effect that Canada is not a country with two languages and that bilingualism is barred by statute in both Provinces do not deserve to be considered. If it is possible to bar the French language from Alberta and Saskatchewan, then it is equally possible to bar the English language from Quebec and we protest against the one abuse of power just as vehemently as we would protest against the other, if it were ever thought of, much less attempted.

The cry, "We conquered the country," is as inaccurate as it is out of date. The actual fact is that the British army defeated the French Army in battle, following which the British Government, without attempting the conquest of the country—which would have been a much more serious undertaking, above all at a time when the British Army had a world war on its hands—came to terms with the native Canadian population, among which was provision for the free exercise of their language, their religion and their laws. Those terms have never been rescinded and consequently still remain in force whether anyone likes it or not.

Even if there had ever been any validity to the theory of the right of conquest, this would have ceased to exist when the united Colony of Upper and Lower Canada was created with all citizens, whether French or English, enjoying equal rights. And even its ghost was finally laid when The Dominion of Canada was established with Quebec an equal and locally autonomous partner among the original Provinces of Confederation. The present constitutional situation, in short, is that not only does no one citizen, whether French or English enjoy any superiority over any other, but that absolute security is conceded and guaranteed to minority rights, both French and English. Since the rights which a citizen enjoys in one part of the country can hardly be denied to or taken away from him in another part of it, even under pretext of the exercise of local autonomy, we suggest that a law barring bilingualism is morally, if not legally, ultra vires of the Legislature of either Alberta or Saskatchewan.

Supposing there were no reasonable adequate English radio service on the prairies, then there might be some justification for objecting to the establishment of a number of French stations. But no such plea has been put forward, as far as we are aware, and it is obvious, of course, that no one needs to listen in on a French station who does not care to do so. Accordingly, if there are enough French-speaking citizens in Alberta and Saskatchewan to warrant the establishment of one or more stations that they are prepared to support, in our view those citizens should be allowed to have them as a mater of course: it being understood that the stations will be responsible for serving all-Canadian, as well as purely French-Canadian interests. At the same time, we reiterate the opinion formerly expressed in these columns that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has no right to license additional stations anywhere in Canada while it refuses to recognize the right of the several Provincial Administrations to have official radio stations of their own.

NOT IN GOOD TASTE

From The New York Times

This is not the best possible time for Americans to stage contests to see how much they can eat. It was not the best possible time for Mrs. Edna Lamb of Maurice River, N.J., to win a $100 bond at Atlantic City by eating 186 clams in thirty minutes, as compared with the 144 which was the most her nearest rival, Mr. Issy Weintraub, was able to get down.

This contest was in better taste than if it had been held with beefsteaks. A clam does not eat wheat or corn. Still, such contests, at this time, are not in the very best taste.

More can be said for the oyster-opening contest, in which Mrs. Lamb, a professional oyster-opener, placed third in competition with five men. Sea food is a substitute for land food, and its consumption should be encouraged.

For Mrs. Lamb herself one must have sympathy. Clams are good victuals—on the half shell, steamed, in chowder and, as some of us strongly believe, in stews.

But we don't believe they will seem good to Mrs. Lamb for quite a while. Or to Mr. Weintraub, either. Their exploits on Sunday, while the band played "By the Sea" and a thousand spectators cheered, must have cost them an innocent delight which the rest of us can go on enjoying.

EAT MORE FISH

Vancouver Sun

An echo of Tudor times sounds in the speech of Secretary of the Interior Krug when he advises Americans, faced with an acute meat shortage, to eat more fish.

In the sixteenth century the fisheries of England were much encouraged by a royal edict creating additional fast days, over and above those prescribed by the church.

Actually, Mr. Krug's advice sounds admirably sensible, and one which might be followed with profit by Canadians.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

HOW TO PICK UP VITAL HIGH TRUMP

The highest ranking active tournament player on the Pacific coast today is M. Schleifer, who became a Life Master about a year ago. When the eastern experts meet him at the regional tournament which will be held in Coronado, Calif., Nov. 7 to 11, they will find him one of the country's outstanding card players.

As I have often said before, the Pacific coast does not have its proportionate share of Life Masters, for the reason that the war prevented the coast players from participating in the larger tournaments around the country. But now, with the east and west coasts a few hours apart by plane, there will be more intermingling of eastern and western players at all major tournaments.

Any time that Schleifer enters a tournament, he can be counted upon to finish among the leaders. In today's hand he had to employ a double-trump coup in order to make his contract. The opponents cashed the first three diamond tricks, West winning the third diamond. West returned the six of spades, which was won in dummy with the queen. The queen and jack of hearts were cashed, and on the second round of hearts Schleifer found out that West had originally held four trumps to the king. The question now was, how could he capture the king?

One thing was certain. He must get rid of two excess trumps, so he led a small club from dummy and trumped it, re-entered dummy with a spade and ruffed the eight of clubs. Another spade put him back in dummy and he cashed the ace of clubs, discarding his good nine of diamonds When he led the king of clubs, West was forced to trump, so Schleifer simply over-trumped and cashed the last trick with the high trump.

British Ask If Princess Should 'Obey'

Suffragette Says It's "Appalling" Princess Elizabeth Should Promise to Obey Lieut. Mountbatten.

London, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The question that seems to bothering people in Britain is whether Princess Elizabeth should promise to "obey" Lieut. Philip Mountbatten in their Nov. 20 wedding ceremony.

The ball was started rolling by Miss Marian Reeves, a suffragette to whom it is "appalling" that the Princess should be called upon to do so.

Miss Reeves objected to the use of the word at a Suffragette Fellowship prisoners day dinner Monday and the outburst promoted latters to editors and editorials.

Mrs. P. Davies of Cardiff said in a letter to the London Daily Mail that she "noticed with horror the publicity given "to the inclusion of 'obey' in the ceremony" and asked "isn't it about time Parliament was forced to do away with this man-made idiocy?"

The Daily Mail said it has heard from a "score of like-minded feminine correspondents."

The London Star and the Daily Mail devoted editorial space to the subject and both were of the opinion that the vow of obedience is a relic of the stone age.

The Star said the fact that Princess Elizabeth "will promise to obey" Lieut. Mountbatten in their wedding ceremony is unlikely to arouse any controversy outside of the suffragette fellowship."

The newspaper added that "these heroines of 1910 may seem out of date in 1947 but what is to be said of the fact that the only legal marriage formula in the Church of England dates from 1662?

"Here is another quaint example of a law centuries old yet still strictly enforceable in a civilization which regards it as a complete anachronism. Twenty years ago, in the famous prayer brook debate in the Commons the church assembly's effort to have the 'obey' ommitted from the mariage ceremony was frustrated by backwoods laity among the members of Parliament.

"But of course the people still refused to sue the word," the paper added. "So bishops had to rule that though it still was the secular law of the land its omission would not be regarded as an ecclesiastical offence, thus making the 1662 law look silly."

The Daily Mirror said the wedding ceremony slated for Nov. 20, "threatens to cause a revival of 'militant' suffregetism over the contentious little word in the marriage service" but added that the issue is largely constitutional and concerned with the use of the prayer book as sanctioned by Parliament.

The newspaper added that the "matter seems to us to be of little importance."

"To vow obediance is an archaic survival which for many years has been honored more in the breach than observance and has in fact often led to the marital boot being placed securely on the other foot.

"Doubtless husbands and wives will continue to settle such personal points of their relationship for themselves."

Light Smashing Report Awaited

Hull, Que., Oct. 15.—(CP)—Sgt. Gaston Garceau of the Quebec Highway Police Detachment here said yesterday he was mailing at once a full report to headquarters at Montreal on the smashing of automobile spotlights in the Hull area last Friday night.

The officer said his men smashed the spotlights along the Montreal-Hull highway and the Aylmer road, extending west of the city, because motorists refused to heed warnings to discontinue use of spotlights.

"They've been using spotlights as fog-lamps," he said Saturday. "The practice has caused a number of serious accidents on the Aylmer road and other highways in our territory. Seeing they wouldn't listen to our warnings, we decided to show them the hard way."

chance to get these people off after we can see better," Capt. Paul R. Cronk, master of the Bibb, said in a radio broadcast last night. Members Of Cabinet In By-Election

Fredericton, Oct. 15. —(CP)—With only four more days to go before electors of York-Sunbury choose a representative for the House of Commons, tempo of the three-cornered by-election battle will quicken starting tonight when Labor Minister Mitchell makes his first appearance of the campaign.

He is scheduled to speak at Harvey, and tomorrow night will deliver an address at Nashwaaksis. Another Dominion cabinet member, Defence Minister Claxton, plans to start campaigning tomorrow night at Millville.

The Liberal candidate, Fisheries Minister Gregg, told a Fredericton rally he was glad the Progressive Conservatives had imported outsiders in an attempt to defeat him, because some had been helpful to the Liberal cause.

Premier McNair of New Brunswick commented on remarks by John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, about Mr. McNair becoming campaign manager for the Liberal candidate.

"Since when has it become improper or indecent for a New Brunswicker to concern himself about a New Brunswick election? And what was Mr. Bracken doing down here meddling in our 1944 provincial election?" asked the Premier.

Speaking at Bloomfield Ridge last night, Claire Gillis, C.C.F. Member of Parliament for Cape Breton South, warned the voters "not to be fooled by the tactics used by the Liberals and Tories.

"They are telling the people that a vote for the C.C.F. will be a lost vote. The fight in this election campaign is between the C.C.F. and the Liberals, and if the electors want to defeat the government candidate and protest against the conditions that prevail in the country, they should vote for the C.C.F."

The same tactics had been used in the Halifax by-election last July, when "the Tories ran a poor third." They would also foot the poll in York-Sunbury.

C.C.F. candidate Murray Young declared the only real issue was that of prices.

"If you want to tell Ottawa that you like the high prices and wouldn't object to still higher ones, then you will vote for either of the old party candidates. But if you want to prevent sugar and other items from soaring out of sight, you'll vote C.C.F. as a warning to both the old parties. Remember, both of them worked to get the controls off."

Reds Lose Ground In Italy

By

DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Red drive to communize the harrassed governments of Italy and France—next major objectives in the Bolshevist conquest of Europe—has come a sensational cropper in the Rome municipal elections, which show a loss of Communist strength and a gain for the democratic right.

The broad significance of this is that the voting in the capital is supposed to reflect the political complexion of the rest of the country. That being so, Premier Alcide de Gasperi is entitled to take courage in his uphill battle to hold the fort for democracy under highly complicated circumstances.

Meanwhile in France the Bolshevists are resorting to strong-arm methods almost on the eve of important municipal elections which are to be held throughout the country. The Communist - dominated General Confederation of Labor has precipitated a strike of 3,600 subway and bus operators in the capital, threatening to paralyze Paris and affect some 4,000,000 people there.

Premier Paul Ramadier summed the thing up yesterday in the declaration that the whole position "is shaping up like a political intrigue." He intimated that the strikers were trying to "create difficulties for the republic."

Ramadier could have been more forthright if he wished, because strikes and the turmoil are favorite "political" weapons of Communism. Similar tactics have been under way in Italy for months. We see it in Chile, where officialdom charges the Reds with precipitating the serious strike in the coal mines in an effort to cause the downfall of the Government. Of course all is lost once a Government is dominated by the Reds for, as we have seen in Eastern Europe, there immediately follows suppression of opponents and the passage of measures abolishing personal liberty and inaugurating police rule.

In the Rome election Premier Gasperi's anti-Communist Christian Democratic Party and the Communist-dominated People's Bloc ran neck and neck. Each won 27 of the 80 municipal seats. The rest of the votes went to smaller parties, ranging from leftists to extreme right, plus those who still cling to Mussolini's Fascism and thus are silently anti-Communist.

The point is that while the Christian Democrats and the People's Bloc ran about even, the former almost doubled their previous vote. Had the Reds and fellow-travellers won a victory, Gasperi might have thrown up his hands and returned to a coalition government such as he abandoned last May when he ousted the Communist members of his cabinet. As it is, he may feel encouraged to carry on as he is, hoping that economic rehabilitation of the country under the Marshall plan will enable Italy to withstand Communism.

So as a result of this election there still is time to rescue Italy economically and put the new republic on its feet. The alternative would seem to be a return to the totalitarianism under which the country suffered from the time Mussolini came to power in 1925 until the war's end. This time the dictatorship would be Communistic instead of Fascist, but there would be the same repression of individual rights, and the public again would be looking over its shoulder before speaking, for fear of arrest.

The United States and Britain warned the Soviet bloc that they would continue granting asylum in their military occupation zones to exiles against whom definite evidence of war crimes or treason was lacking. Several Soviet satellites had charged that the two western powers were harboring known criminals and supporting anti-Russian groups.

sumably included the union's basic demand for higher hourly wages.

But, Mr. Daley said, Swift's had refused to accept the formula which was "predicated on an immediate return to work by the employees of the two companies."

Commenting on Mr. Daley's statement, Fred Dowling, Canadian director of the union, said: "I would like to emphasize that the formula . . . was not an agreement for settling the strike, but only a formula which both parties thought would bring about a satisfactory settlement. The union agreed to submit this formula to its members for ratification if the government could get all companies to agree on its provisions."

Swift's reasons for rejecting the proposal was outlined by President J. H. Tapley in a statement: "It called for arbitration of the dispute" and under it "the arbitrator's decision would be final and binding and would impose upon both parties working conditions which one or both of the parties would accept reluctantly and with dissatisfaction."

The statement said "significant progress" was made yesterday in a negotiation meeting between the company and union, both parties making "substantial concessions on the issue in dispute."

However, Mr. Dowling's statement said: "We note Mr. Tapley's statement that the union is still meeting with the company and he has hopes for an early settlement. The company has been making this statement since early in August but we are still as far from agreement as we were on that date."

Russian Foreign

Star, they did not want it to recover under Western aid. They had launched a fierce campaign to put pressure on other peoples to have second thoughts regarding the Marshall Plan and attempt to draw support to their cause.

Mr. Munro said he believed the funds for the Marshall Plan would be passed through Congress.

At the moment, Eastern Europe was lost to the cause of Communism but it remained to keep Western Europe out of the fold. One way to aid in this was to avert a depression for at least the next 15 or 20 years. Keep economy on a level keel and therefore disprove the Marxist principle that capitalism breeds inevitable depressions.

If Western Europe did not recover, countries would fall into the economic gutter one by one and the Communists could "reach down and do as they wish at pleasure."

"I do not believe Communism would stop at the shores of the Atlantic if Western Europe fell," said Mr. Munro. "Next would be North America, possibly Canada, and the situation would be much more serious than it is today."

The Marshall plan was the only solution to the problem and the newspaperman, author of "Gauntlet To Overlord," the story of the Canadian Army, said he had yet to see a prosperous country which had an influential Communist party.

Europe in general was lost before the war. It had let its ideals, morals and general approach to the future slip away.

There would not be a solution to the problem for quite some time yet.

However, in thinking of foreign affairs we should be alert to Red foreign policy and Communist aggression and meet them sanely, not hysterically, with democratic strength and unity.

"Democratic unity and strength is much maligned in certain quarters, but it is still a very potent force in an embarassed world."

He said the statement that Russian was a "classless state" was false. The country had a population of roughtly 190,000,000 but of these only about 6,000,000 were members of the Communist party.

This entitled them to better housing, a serious problem in the Soviet, better rations and access to theatre tickets, a rarity.

Mr. Munro reviewed the various countries he had visited and traced their attempts at recovery.

Germany, he said, was the greatest human problem in Europe with Austria practically on the same level. Belgium, although not pleasant, was one of the more fortunate countries, and France, in sharp contrast, had a discouraged population angry at the lack of recovery. In all countries, no matter what they did for recovery, the lack of United States dollars held them up at a certain point.

He drew a cheer from the guests, including many wives of the members, as last night's meeting was Ladies' Night, when he said "The Sherbrooke Fusiliers was my favorite armored regiment."

John Bassett, Jr., an old friend of Mr. Munro's introduced the newspaperman, and thanks were tendered by Don Johnston.

Seated at the head table with President George B. Murphy and his wife and the speaker were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Watson, Don Johnston, Mrs. Jan Pick, whose husband is on a business trip to Czechoslovakia, and Mr. and Mrs. John Bassett, Jr.

were unconscious but appeared to be breathing, said Mrs. Jodoin, who called police and the Hydro-Quebec emergency squad.

When police arrived they applied artificial respiration to Marcel who, on showing signs of reviving, was rushed to hospital.

Meantime the Hydro crew worked with pulmotors on the other victims but they did not respond to treatment and were pronounced dead about an hour after the bodies were found.

Mrs. Jodoin said it appeared that Mrs. Richard had put a kettle of water on the stove and that it boiled over, extinguishing the flames.

The Doctor Says

HOUSECLEAN YOUR MEDICINE CHEST MONTHLY

By William A. O'Brien, M.D.

The family medicine cabinet should be housecleaned at least once a month. One section should be reserved for cosmetics, and the other for a few simple household remedies.

Dr. O'Brien.

The average home medicine cabinet usually contains a variety of antiseptics, pain killers and partially used boxes and bottles of powders, pills, capsules and liquids prescribed by a physician for some past illness. If anyone took too much of one of these remedies by mistake in the middle of the night or if a child got into the cabinet, disaster could result.

After a patient no longer needs a prescribed remedy, it should be discarded. It is never advisable to throw medicine on the rubbish heap, however, as children may find it there and take it. Liquid medicine should be emptied into a drain and the bottles destroyed or boiled. Unused pills, powders, and capsules and their containers should either be burned or buried.

Every home medicine cabinet should contain absorbent cotton, bandages, gauze, adhesive tape and prepared adhesive bandages.

Aspirin is the strongest pain killer which should be kept in the home medicine cabinet. While excessive doses may be harmful and some people are sensitive to aspirin, the average person can be given aspirin without difficulty. Sleeping tablets, laxatives, purgatives and narcotics have no place in home medicine cabinets.

For minor burns, any commercial burn remedy can be used. Serious burns require the services of a physician, and nothing should be applied on them.

Dentifrices Are Cosmetics

Tooth pastes and tooth powders are classed as cosmetics, because they do not have any medicinal value. Many homemakers do not buy them, as it is more important to have two good tooth brushes with two rows of stiff bristles for each member of the family. Water, salt and soda make a satisfactory dentifrice.

There should be a special cabinet for general nursing equipment, such as a thermometer, heating pad or hot water bottle, icebag, rubber sheeting, emesis basin and bed pan.

THROUGH THE YEARS, neither time, effort nor expense has been spared to give you clearer, better telephone service. Indeed, today's telephones are actually four times as clear and free from noise as those of not so many years ago.

You get more service, too. We're completing unfilled orders — just as fast as we can get the necessary equipment. And as more telephones are added, it means more people whom you can call — more service, clearer service, and always at the lowest possible cost. Altogether, telephone users today get greater value than ever before.

IN offices and public buildings everywhere, linoleum has proved to be the real economy flooring.

Linoleum is amazingly durable. Resilient, too—always quiet to walk on, comfortable under foot. Distinctive floor effects, inlays and motifs can be secured very easily with linoleum's varied colours and patterns. And it keeps its bright, good looks indefinitely at minimum maintenance cost. A swish of a wet mop and an occasional waxing and polishing is all the care needed.

While supplies are still scarce due to a shortage of materials, it would be well to plan those new linoleum floors NOW.

First D. P. Arrives In Derby Line—Polish War Orphan Is Making His Home With Mr. And Mrs. Edwin Earle

(Special To The Record)

Derby Line, Vt., Oct. 15.—Stefan Scewciw, Polish World War II orphan, has arrived to make his home with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Earle, of this village. He is believed to be the first displaced person to be settled in northern Vermont.

Stefan's father was killed in 1939, when the Nazi armies overran Poland, and his mother disappeared in 1942. At the age of eleven, Stefan was picked up by the Nazis and taken to Germany, where he was forced to work in an underground machine shop. When the American's took over in 1945, Stefan was freed from his slavery, and since then has been at the children's centre in Stuttgart, Germany.

Two weeks ago, the youth arrived in New York, brought here by the United States Committee for the care of European children, and has now been taken into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earle.

COLLEGE COLUMN

The past week has been pleasant and easy for most people connected with the College, as the usual Thanksgiving break was lengthened by an extra day's holiday, granted by His Excellency the Governor-General on his recent visit to Stanstead. Most of the students left at noon on Thursday, but those remaining at the College appreciated the few days of freedom and relaxation, and they enjoyed the picnics and musical evenings arranged for their entertainment. The unusually fine weather added greatly to the enjoyment of the week-end. On Thanksgiving Day, students and members of the staff and their families had their annual banquet in the College dining room. The evening was a very happy one for all who attended. Classes were resumed at 2 o'clock on Tuesday.

On Monday, October 6, Stanstead junior girls, captained by Elsie Streep, played softball against a Derby Line team, winning the game 29-7. The boys' soccer team won a 4-0 victory over Derby Line on Wednesday afternoon. Both these games were played on the College campus. The senior football team left Stanstead by car on Friday morning for Montreal, where they played two games. On Friday afternoon they met the Westhill team, and fought a hard game which resulted in a 7-5 victory for Westhill. Lonnie Smith of Montreal scored a touchdown for Stanstead on a forward pass from Don Cooper, captain of the team. The next morning they played Mount Royal High School, losing 27-0. In the afternoon the boys had the opportunity of watching the McGill-Queens game on the McGill University grounds, and those not living in Montreal returned to Stanstead on Saturday evening.

The American Women's Club of Newport invited the Stanstead North Women's Institute to tea at Newport on Wednesday, October 8, when several teachers and students of the Eastern Townships Conservatory of Music took part in the afternoon's musical program. Mrs. Howard Cass of Beebe gave a vocal solo, and was accompanied by Miss Viola Moranville of Beebe. Miss Elsie McFadzen delighted with a piano solo and Mr. Gordon Jones played several violin solos, also accompanying David Cargill of Derby Line, who sang "Ave Maria" and "Drink to me only . . . " The program was arranged by Miss Catherine Mackenzie, of Stanstead, who spoke on "Peace with our neighbors."

On the afternoon of October 3rd, the Literary Society convened for what later turned out to be an interesting meeting. Georgina Streeter, president, ably conducted her first meeting.

This term's editor of the "One-Lung," Alex MacPherson, was appointed at this meeting.

Mr. MacFadyen quoted last year's prices on the Bugbee pins and rings. It is hoped that the cost will not be very much higher this year.

The program featured addresses by five members of the recently elected executive; Georgina Streeter effectively stressed the value of "The Literary Society"; Art. Letovsky aptly dealt with the subject of "Advertising"; Betty Ann Barter gave some pertinent facts concerning the ever-rising "Cost of Living"; George Soonum brought to light facts behind the inception of the "Ball Point Pen"; and Derrice Steele acquainted the members with her homeland by describing enchanting "Trinidad."

This program was both informative and entertaining, and showed that the participants were well informed on their subject matter.

A bit of pleasant news is that Betty Clough will be with us again after the Thanksgiving holiday.

SPORT NEWS AND VIEWS

Beebe Junior Football Team

The first game of soccer under the sponsorship of the Beebe Athletic Association took place at the Stanstead College grounds Oct. 4th at 9 a. m. between Beebe Juniors and Stanstead College Juniors. Beebe Juniors emerged hte winners by a score of 3 to 0.

Both teams played good football and it is a fair indication of the success of the junior series to be played next season.

The Beebe team at the eight minute mark of the game, during a lightning attack by the forward line, scored their first tally of the day on a shot by A. Doucett which the Stanstead goalie Fred Russell could not reach. Stanstead in a strong counter-attack brought the ball back to the Beebe net and J. Cooper in a drive on the goal missed a chance to tie the score. Play was well balanced for the remainder of the first half and Beebe, with only five minutes to go to half time scored again with J. Poulin this time doing the honors for the visitors.

The second half of the game saw the Stanstead boys putting on the pressure to try and tie the score, but the Beebe defense played with equal determination, and the College lads were not able to dent the Beebe net for a score. In the closing minutes of the game J. Poulin added his second score of the game, which made the final score Beebe 3 Stanstead 0.

Line-up: Stanstead College Juniors: Fred Russell goal; L. Smith, B. Thompson, full backs; F. LaFleche, L. Mollot, E. Redden, half backs; J. Cooper, L. Goodsell, C. Papadakis, D. Coburn L. Tilton, forwards. Subs: D. McLaren, R. Holden, C. Perron, K. Jaeggin. Beebe Juniors: D. Henderson, goal; D. Sheppard, R. Lacroix, full backs; J. Anderson, J. Bell, R. Laro, half backs; A. Doucet, J. Drummondville Wins Charity Cup

The Charity cup, emblematic of the championship of the Eastern Townships Football Association finally found its way to Drummondville Sat. Oct. 4th, when the Celanese team defeated the Beebe senior football team by a score of 3 to 0 at the parade grounds in Sherbrooke.

The game was well played and it was a splendid finish to a good post-war season in soccer.

While this loss for our local squad is a dissappointment to them, never-the-less they feel that a good club has the cup in it's keeping till another soccer season rolls around.

Soccer fans in all towns represented in the league are well pleased with the start made by the teams and to them goes the appreciation of all concerned. To the executives we hope this will encourage them for a bigger league in the future. Better luck, next year Beebe-men!

Harold W. Slocum Will Address Community School Group Tonight

Derby Line, Oct. 15.— A letter just received from Harold W. Slocum, who is to be the speaker at the Public Assembly Session of the International Community School tonight, states that he is bringing with him the special film, "One World Or None," with commentary by Raymond Gram Swing. This film is a special one prepared by scientists to give the public a realistic portrayal of the atomic bomb; Raymond Swing is the noted radio commentator, whose voice is familiar to nearly all radio listeners.

Following the presentation of the film, Mr. Slocum will give a short talk regarding the United Nations, presenting especially ideas on how the individual can assist in making this organization more effective. There will be a question and answer period, to allow those present to express their opinions and to secure additional information.

Mr. Slocum is the executive secretary of the Vermont Tuberculosis Association and director of the tuberculosis division of the Vermont Department of Public Health. He was one of the organizers of the Vermont Branch of the United Nations Association, and comes to the Community School strongly recommended by the American Association for the United Nations.

The "Interest Groups" will meet in various classrooms at the College at 7.30 p.m., and it is by no means too late to enroll in any group that interests you. The fee for one evening is 25c.

Building True Canadianism Stressed By President Of Canadian Jr. C. Of C.

Richmond, Oct. 15.—A challenge to build up a true Canadianism was the keynote of an inspiring address by Don MacKay, president of the Canadian Junior Chambers of Commerce, given to the Richmond Junior Chamber of Commerce and their guests, at the Richmond Hotel.

QUEBEC'S ROLE PRAISED

Roger Trudeau introduced the guest speaker, Don MacKay, who described what a revelation he had experienced in his town of Quebec Province. He outlined the plans of how the directorate of the Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce was built up with one director from each province, but owing to the fact that Quebec had given this movement such real support, and had achieved such real success, there were five directors from Quebec Province on the Canadian Executive. He also stressed the importance of the native talents of many French Canadians for oratory and dynamic leadership, and how they had a real place to use their qualities to play a notable role in building up a true broad Canadianism.

In his closing remarks he quoted from the Late Woodrow Wilson to bring out the point that the dynamic forces of human progress come from the ordinary citizens.

Gaston Desmarais and Dr. Jean Smith thanked the speaker.

"An important part of my diet ever since my first bottle has been Crown Brand Corn Syrup. Now, that may be all right for a little character like myself, but let me tell you, these grown-ups sure are lucky what with Mom serving them Crown Brand Corn Syrup with so many of their dishes. And she uses it in her baking, too, as a sweetener. I can hardly wait until I'm old enough to have some hot waffles or pancakes smothered with delicious Crown Brand. If it's as good as it is in my cereal—mmmmm!"

FLOP OR HIT? PREVIEW POLL MAY TELL YOU

By JEAN MEEGAN

Hopewell, N.J., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Much of the risk involved in publishing a book, producing a play or releasing a movie may be removed if Albert E. Sindlinger's testing device demonstrates its worth.

Sindlinger, formerly associated with the Gallup poll, his brother, Walter E. Sindlinger and Mark Hawley are experimenting on an 83-acre farm near here with a panel process designed to find out what is wrong with books and plays before, not after, the public gets a look at them.

The system is partly mental and partly mechanical. First, a half-dozen literary celebrities examine books and play manuscripts and scenarious and send their reatcions to the New Entertainment Workshop, a name Sindlinger chose because it fits the eye-catching initals N. E. W.

If the work appears worth working with, an hour-long synopsis is made, preferably in the author's own words. Hawley, a radio announcer, makes a recording of the prose which is then played for an economic, social and cultural cross-section of the surrounding area. Hopewell, it seems, is geographically ideal for such experiments.

"There is a real cross section of the United States within a stone's throw of the farm" Sindlinger explains. "Agriculture, industry, the coal mines of eastern Pennsylvania, two college towns, small town business—what more could we ask?"

The engineering staff for the N.E.W. has patented a machine which permits the human guinea pigs at the story party to snap a gadget like a light switch held in their laps, which indicates on a tape, synchronized with the story line, their likes and dislikes as the narrative progresses.

Concise Reaction

The tape is perforated along positive or negative lines as the audience gains or loses interest. "This way we get their concise reactions and we transpose them to a graph," the analysts explain, "showing exactly where the story needs to be fixed."

For instance, in the new Sterling North novel "So Dear To My Heart" the test reactions followed a rising graph of approval until the principal character did something inconsistent with the rest of her behavior. Buttons were punched "unsatisfactory" immediately and N. E. W. gave the bad news to the author, who conceded he had been indecisive in that particular situation and would rectify his mistake.

N. E. W. predicts "So Dear To My Heart" will be a "smash." They were more cautious about Gabrielle Roy's "The Tin Flute," under-estimating its sales by nearly one-half.

N. E. W. has done work for publishers Reynal and Hitchcock, Creative Age Press, Doubleday, the People's Book Club, Thomas Y. Crowell, and individual authors. Currently the workship is sampling five Walt Disney Pictures.

Panels are held in hired halls or in Sindlinger's farmhouse. Refreshments are served. Hawley says people lose their self-consciousness in a party-like atmosphere and take their responsibility seriously.

"We find that people think about the stories after they leave," Sindlinger observed. "Several days later we send out a workship interviewer who asks just why a certain part of the story wasn't satisfactory. By the time our interviewers approach them, they know why they didn't like a passage or turn of events."

Our federal penitentiaries, reformations, prison camps, hospitals, and jails now contain approximately 14,750 inmates, the largest number of federal prisoners on record.

YEAR TRUCE FOR BELGIAN THRONE SPAT

Belgium, Oct. 15.—(Reuters)—A 12-month truce seems to be settling on the bitter, mud-slinging debate which raged spasmodically for three years about provisionally exiled King Leopold of Belgium.

The truce, if effective, will be governed by the coming of age, in September next year, of Leopold's eldest son, Crown Prince Baudouin. Under Belgian law, he comes of age at 18.

During the three years since the liberation, Belgium has been governed by a regent, the 46-year-old younger brother of Leopold, while the king himself has, since shortly after his delivery from captivity in Germany, been "frozen" in temporary exile by a vote of the Belgian parliament.

He has so far spent his exile with a small court in a villa on the shore of Lake Geneva, and has from time to time, through the secretariat which he maintains in Brussels made sensational, ineffective irruptions into Belgian politics.

Latest of these was the publication by the king's secretariat of the voluminous findings of a commission of respected Belgians whom he charged to examine his conduct during the war. The king's enemies, comprising the bulk of every political party but the right wing Social Christians, claimed the commission consisted of partisans of the king, and therefore remained unimpressed by its favorable report.

Premier's Compromise

For a little more than two months, the renewed debate dragged its now routine course of charge and counter-charge, centering upon the already remote actions and motives of the summer of 1940, when the Germans invaded Belgium.

Then Socialist Prime Minister Paul Henri Spaak undertook to try to bring political parties into line on some compromise which would restore a monarch to Belgium's throne.

He worked in complete secrecy, and maintained it so long that public interest in the matter flagged. Various parties remain on their positions; the Social Christians, reflecting the solid, Catholic, conservative half of Belgium, demanding the king's return, or at least a referendum of some sort on the question; and the other parties—Socialist, Communist and Liberal—refusing both return and referendum and demanding outright abdication.

Left wing parties hope Leopold will be persuaded to abdicate in order to allow his son to mount the throne immediately. But there has been no hint from the king's side of his readiness to allow the principle, as he sees it, of a king being forced from the throne by political and party pressure. Nor can it at present be seen how such a solution could be accepted by the Social Christain supporters of the king.

There still remains, nevertheless, as one of the most important elements in the situation, the genius for compromise of Spaak.

If he fails to find an entirely new formula and if the king refuses to abdicate in favor of his son, there are only two other possibilities apparent at present:

1. The king's return on general face-saving terms.

2. The exclusion from the throne of the king and his heirs by a vote of an entirely hostile majority in parliament.

The PULP & PAPER WORKER
THE NICKEL WORKER depend on each other

SINCE 1921 when the International Nickel Company's research and development program was begun, millions of booklets, bulletins and brochures have been sent out to the various branches of industry to inform them about new ways of achieving greater efficiency and economy through the use of Nickel. The thousands of tons of paper used in this way have been an important factor in multiplying the sales of Canadian Nickel over and over again.
The pulp and paper industry uses tons of Nickel in valves and other equipment exposed to corrosive substances, Nickel alloys are also used in parts where strength and wear resistance are essential.
The mining, smelting and refining of the Nickel required by the pulp and paper industry create employment in the Nickel industry. The distribution of large quantities of printed matter to increase the use of Nickel creates employment in the pulp and paper industry. Each and every industry in this country creates employment in other industries.
No matter how we earn a living, we are all one family, depending on each other.

SKILL, DARING OF U-BOAT CREW SUNK ROYAL OAK

By JOHN DAUPHINEE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Oct. 15.—(CP)—H. M. S. Royal Oak was sunk in Scapa Flow by a German submarine Oct. 14, 1939. Winston Churchill told the House of Commons it was "a remarkable exploit of professional skill and daring"

Now the "inside story" of the attack has been made public through publication here of an extract from the log of U-47, commanded by Lieut. Prien who was awarded the Knight's Cross.

The operation was planned personally by Admiral Doenitz, then flag officer commanding submarines. A careful survey of Scapa Flow had revealed a weakness in the defences of Holm Sound which was then protected by only three block ships.

Doenitz decided that with careful navigation it would be possible either to pass between the blockships or on either side of them, close to the shore.

Actually Prien passed between two blockships on the way into the sound—so close that U-47 touched a mooring cable—and between a blockship and Lamb Holm Island on the way out.

The battleship Royal Oak was sunk with heavy loss of life. The battle cruiser Repulse was hit with one torpedo but remained afloat.

Bright Northern Lights lit the bay, providing excellent visibility.

Through Oct. 13 U-47 lay submerged in deep water east of the Orkney Islands. After a meal at 5 p. m. preparations were made for the attack.

U-Boat's Log

This is Lieut. Prien's logging of operation:

"Surfaced at 1915 (7:15 p. m). After warm supper for entire crew, set course for Holm Sound. Everything goes according to plan until 2307 (11:07 p. m.), when it is necessary to submerge on sighting a merchant ship just before Rose Ness . . .

"At 2331 (11:31 p. m.), surfaced again and entered Holm Sound. Following tide. On nearer approach, the sunken blockade in Skerry Sound is clearly visible, so that at first I believe myself to be already in Kirk Sound, and prepare for work. But the navigator, by means of dead reckoning, states that the preparations are premature, while I at the same time realize the mistake, for there is only one sunken ship in the straits. By altering course hard to starboard, the imminent danger is averted. A few minutes later, Kirk Sound is clearly visible.

"It is a very eerie sight. On land everything is dark, high in the sky are the flickering Northern Lights, so that the bay, surrounded by highish mountains, is directly lit up from above. The blockships lie in the sound, ghostly as the wings of a theatre.

"I am now repaid for having learned the chart beforehand, for the penetration proceeds with unbelievable speed. In the meantime I had decided to pass the blockships on the northern side. On a course of 270 (degrees) I pass the two-masted schooner, which is lying on a bearing of 315 (degrees), metres to spare.

"In the next moment the boat is turned by the current to starboard. At the same time I recognize the cable of the northern blockship at an angle of 45 degrees ahead. Port engine stopped, starboard engine slow ahead, and rudder hard to port, the boat slowly touches bottom.

Enter Scapa Flow

"The stern still touches the cable, the boat becomes free, it is pulled round to port, and brought on to course again with difficult rapid manoeuvring, but, we are in Scapa Flow.

"0027 (12:27 a. m. Oct. 14)—It is disgustingly light. The whole bay is lit up. To the south of Cava there is nothing. I go farther in. To port, I recognize the Hoxa Sound coastguard, to which in the next few minutes the boat must present itself as a target. In that event all would be lost; at present south of Cava no ships are to be seen, although visibility is extremely good. Hence decisions:-

"0055 (12:55 a. m.)—South of Cava there is no shipping; so before staking everything on success, all possible precautions must be taken. Therefore, turn to port is made. We proceed north by the coast. Two battleships are lying there at anchor, and further inshore, destroyers. Cruisers not visible, therefore attack on the big fellows. Distance apart, 3,000 metres.

"0116 (1:16 a. m.)—Estimated depth, 7.5 metres. Impact firing. One torpedo fixed on the northern ship, two on southern. After a good 3½ minutes, a torpedo detonates on the northern ship (Repulse); of the other two, nothing is to be seen.

"0121 (1:21 a. m.)—About! Torpedo fired from stern; in the bow two tubes are loaded; three torpedoes from the bow. After three tense minutes comes the detonation on the nearer ship (Royal Oak). There is a loud explosion, roar, and rumbling. Then come columns of water, followed by columns of fire, and splinters fly through the air.

Clever Navigation

"The harbor springs to life. Destroyers are lit up, signalling starts on every side, and on land 200 metres away from me cars roar along the roads. A battleship has been sunk, a second damaged, and the other three torpedoes have gone to blazes. All the tubes are empty.

"I decided to withdraw, because: (1) With my periscopes I cannot conduct night attacks while submerged. (2) On a bright night I cannot manoeuvre unobserved in a calm sea. (3) I must assume that I was observed by the driver of a car which stopped opposite us, turned around, and drove off towards Scapa at top speed. (4) Nor can I go further north, for there, well hidden from my sight, lie the destroyers which were previously dimly distinguishable.

"0128 (1:28 a. m.)—At high speed both engines we withdraw. Everything is simple until we reach Skildaenoy Point. Then we have mohe trouble. It is now low tide, the current is against us. Engines at slow and dead slow, I attempt to get away. I must leave by the south through the narrows, because of the depth of the water.

"Things are again difficult. Course, 058, slow-10 knots. I make no progress. At high I pass the southern blockship with nothing to spare. The helmsman does magnificently. High speed ahead both, finally ¾ speed and full ahead all out. Free of the blockships—ahead a mole! Hard over and again about, and at 0215 (2:15 a. m.) we are once more outside.

"A pity that only one was destroyed. The torpedo misses I explain as due to faults of course, speed, and drift. In tube 4, a misfire. The crew behaved splendidly throughout the operation.

"0215 (2:15 a. m.)—"Set S. E. course for base. I still have five torpedoes for possible attacks on merchantmen."

CHAPEL RECALLS UPPER CANADA'S EARLY PIONEERS

Picton, Ont., Oct. 15.—(CP)—Weatherbeaten and sheltered by haw trees, a small 18th century Methodist chapel overlooking the waters of nearby Hay Bay, is being cherished as a shrine to the founding of Methodism in Ontario.

It was built by United Empire Loyalists in 1792 after they sought refuge in Upper Canada from the American Revolution, and it served the growing community until 1860. At that time it was abandoned to use as a horse barn and storage place for barley en route to Oswego breweries and was reconsecrated as a church only in 1911.

Last month the little building, which seats about 250, was the centre of an eastern Ontario pilgrimage which the board of trustees plans as an annual event.

Rev. Whattam of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of the board of trustees and grandson of one of the church's builders described the church as "just the same as when it was built.

"It's never been painted but some years ago the old clapboards were removed, new ones put on and the old ones replaced on top to preserve the original appearance while strengthening the fabric."

Rev. Dr. Jesse H. Arnup, former moderator of the United Church of Canada and principal speaker at the pilgrimage service, said that the shrine fund stood at more than $2,000.

"The proposal is to build a cottage on the large church grounds and have a superannuated minister live there to show people around," he said.

Near MacDonald Home

Over the fence on the west side of the churchyard is a grasscovered hole in the ground which was once the cellar of Sir John A. MacDonald's boyhood home. The Hay Bay pilgrims visited the cairn of cemented fieldstone which commemorates the connection with Canada's first prime minister.

It's unlikely little John A. ever attended the famous church beside his home. He was only 10 when his family moved five miles southwest to the Stone Mills of Glenora and besides he was a Presbyterian.

Others moved away from the community and the noisy shipyard from which schooners went to South America was closed down. The shrine fund has received contributions from descendants of these original settlers from many parts of the continent.

The latest contribution came from "Another Sinner," Dr. Arnup said, and read part of the accompanying letter:

"In the hope that their appreciation, in one way or another, may lead to the permanent preservation of Hay Bay chapel as the great national memorial that it is, I am sending you a small cheque between two pieces of a panel of the church door which a boy kicked in when he was smashing 45 panes of glass and doing other damage.

"The proper applicatio of these items may be (a) to the door; (b) to the place nature provided in the boy for such a purpose; (c) to making a man of him.

"I leave to you to find the more excellent way."

EAGER POLES CLEAR RUINS OF CAPITAL

By JOHN LLOYD

Warsaw, Poland, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Whatever may be in store for them politically, the Poles are digging into their war heritage of grim stark ruins with an obvious will to rebuild and struggle for a future.

On the surface at least, Warsaw bustles with life. Dents are being driven into the appalling mass of wreckage, the restaurants supply abundant and excellent food, there are many small private shops selling on a free market and people make merry in spite of the awful surroundings.

The ruins loom in grotesque attitudes as far as the eye can see. To really understand, one must visit and look for himself. They are awe-inspiring testimonials of human brutality.

But—two years later—one-storey concrete buildings fringe many of the areas of desolation, housing shops that display everything from furs to electrical gadgets and from art work to hams, roast chickens and liquors. Modest brick buildings are cropping out in the residential sections. Stret-cars and buses have glass windows again, traffic cops wear neat white coats and a good proportion of the pedestrians are well dressed.

On one side of the area of greatest destruction run the avenues General Sikorskiego and Jerozolimskie. They form a wide thoroughfare and the side still standing—a relative term since the line of buildings is punctuated liberally with ruins—looks out over a vast zone of complete desolation. On the other side of the street stood one of the world's finest railway stations. It and its surroundings are now rubble.

Spared By Germans

On the Avenue Jerozolimskie, facing the ruins, stands the hotel that was spared by the Germans because they were using it and which now shelters diplomatic personnel, newspaper men and a few visitors. Its accommodations are dingy and inadequate.

In its dining room, however, the waiter himself suggests ham and eggs—and he brings three eggs, not one. It is a far cry from London. In Warsaw the waiter serves thick steaks, abundant vegetables and rich ices topped with heaps of whipped cream.

Prices are shocking, judged by the relation of the zloty to foreign currency and Polish salary levels the average worker could not possibly afford to trade in the free shops or eat in the free restaurants. There are arrangements for the workers to purchase at lower prices under state control, but of course this does not give them the leeway to live as do those with money to spend.

The stores and restaurants are too numerous, however, to keep open on transit trade alone. It follows that a portion of the resident Poles have money to spend. The question whether the privately-operated stores will survive indefinitely is one of considerable debate. Many think they will be forced out of business, gradually at least, by state enterprises

Like everywhere in the ruined cities of Europe, the housing problem in Warsaw is acute. Not just the business district, but large sections of dwelling zones were wiped out.

Sherbrooke Triumphs Over Shawinigan Falls 8-4

Adjutor Cote Notches Five Goals While Locals Roll Along In Fine Style; Bunny Glover Signs Card

Sherbrooke paced by Adjutor Cote, who notched five goals and picked up a pair of assists, triumphed over Shawinigan Falls, Cataracts, 8-4, last night in an exhibition tilt played in Granby.

Yes, Sherbrooke, the town that the senior group likes to raid for hockey players, but never look up too, toppled the Shawinigan Falls aggregation last night in easy fashion. Shawinigan plays in the same league as the Royals.

Coach Ivan Dugre dressed thirteen players last night and his top line was that of Andy Perron, Marcel Gaudreau and Adjutor Cote.

Sherbrooke were playing minus the services of Tony Demers, Armand Bourdon and Gilles Dube. Dube has been suspended, but by the way it looks, if the Montrealers could suspend more they would. It wouldn't be that the Royals were worried, would it?

Bunny Glover Signs

Bunny Glover, 24, 170 lbs. and a solid left winger, who played last year with Senior Commercial at Toronto Varsity joined the club last night.

Bunny, who donned skates for the first time last night in many weeks, teamed up with Herbie Carnegie, flashy pivot man, who displayed fine form last night, and Marcel Bouchard, rugged winger.

While serving in the Army for four years he played with the Army Daggers. In 1941 he played with the Junior Royals' of Montreal who won the Junnior Championship.

The game last night, although an exhibition, was the real thing for both sides and tempers flared frequently.

The tilt was only 1 minute and 26 seconds old when, yes, you guessed it, Adjutor Cote, on a pass from Gaudreau, sent the disc flying past Bishop, the Shawinigan netminder.

Paul Leclerc played brilliantly in the locals nets last night, and in the initial canto was called upon to make some spectacular saves. Cote dented the twine again in the first period, when he accented a pass from Gaudreau and Perron, and backhanded the puck into the net. Thiberge was penalized for roughing, and shortly after Bill Heindl a pillar of strength to the local defense, was sent to the cooler for high sticking. While Heindl was cooling off, Gagnon tallied for the Cataracts, after receiving a pass from Anderson, who was set up by Thiberge.

Cote who returned from the Royals training camp, packs a terrific shot this year and last night he rifled one from the blueline, after being set up on a pretty play by Gaudreau and Perron.

Limoges unassisted, and Gagnon, from Bergeron and Callahan, tallied for the Cats in the second frame.

Cote Scores Three

Cote sent the disc flying into the opposing net three times last night in one period, the second, Bouchard dented the twine on passes from Carnegie and Glover, on the prettiest play of the evening.

In the final frame Gaudreau and Perron, on passes from Cote, were the local marksman while Fillion, who was the outstanding player for the Cats, tallied for the white shirts.

Bishop and Murphy alternated in the Cats net.

Tomorrow night the locals will travel to Shawinigan to take on the Cats on their home ice.

SHERBROOKE HORSE SHOW PROGRAM

The following tentative program will be followed as closely as possible by officials of the Sherbrooke Horse Show, who stress that the extra performance was added to permit a more enjoyable show from the spectators' viewpoint.

Long N.H.L. Schedule Opens Tonight After Greatest Pre-Season Excitement In History Of Major League Hockey

Up to now it's easily been the biggest National Hockey League season yet, and it hasn't even started. Stars have been injured, great teams have been beaten officially and unofficially, players have come and gone. But from tonight it's official: The regular schedule opens with the Chicago Black Hawks at Detroit Red Wings, and it doesn't end until Sunday, March 21. After which, of course, come the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Last spring Montreal Canadiens won the league championship and Toronto Maple Leafs beat Canadiens to win the Stanley Cup.

Experts seem to agree that it's Montreal and Toronto again for the championship contention. But there are four other teams in the league and this corner isn't going to say how the schedule will wind up. It will take a good few scheduled games to give a proper line on the performances of the teams that have been going through heavy training for the last few weeks.

It's Chicago at Detroit tonight, New York Rangers at Canadiens Thursday, Chicago at Canadiens and Detroit at Toronto Saturday. Then on Sunday Toronto is at Detroit, and the Rangers go to Boston. That first week's fray should provide some evidence.

Manager Jack Adams of Detroit chose last night to announce the biggest player deal in many months. The wings traded Billy Taylor, 28-year-old centre star, to Boston Bruins in a straight exchange for Armand (Bep) Guidolin, 21-year-old left winger. Taylor has been in N.H.L. hockey for more than six years, with a total of 83 goals and 164 assists. Guidolin has been in the league four years, for 49 goals and 70 assists.

Adams' explanation: "We're building a young team. Taylor is 28, Guidolin only 21. We are none too strong at left wing. We think the change is a fine one for the Wings."

It was Taylor who was taken by the Wings in a trade with Toronto Maple Leafs who got Harry Watson from Detroit in the off-season before play started a year ago. At that time, Adams said the Wings were happy to get an experienced player. Times change in hockey as in everything else.

Anyway, Detroit will use Guidolin as a reserve left winger tonight against the Hawks. And the Hawks start without Billy Mosienko, fast right winger who suffered a broken ankle in the game at Toronto Monday when the N.H.L. All-Stars defeated Leafs 4-3.

President Bill Tobin of the Hawks said last night that the 34-year-old Mosienko likely will be out of action for six or eight weeks, at least. Tobin was inclined to be philosophical about it. "It could happen, and it's happened in practice," he said.

Apart from Mosienko's injury history seemed to favor the Detroit Wings in their debut tonight. Tommy Ivan starts the new season as coach with a roster of 18 players—two of whom have to be dropped to make the league limit of 16. He's got the top forward line of Abel, Lindsay and Horeck, and the Conacher-McNabb-Couture line. A third forward line likely will consist of Lundy, Jim Conacher and either Howe or Bruneteau.

At Montreal Canadiens methodically went about preparing for their opener against New York tomorrow night, with no one excited about the fact three Canadiens regulars still haven't signed contracts. The hold-outs are Butch Bouchard, Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Bobby Carse. Last year the Rocket waited until an hour before game time before signing.

The Rangers meantime walloped Quebec Aces 4-1 in an exhibition at Quebec last night with grey-haired Neil Colville plunking two of the New York goals.

CHICAGO MEETS RED WINGS IN INITIAL TILT

Detroit, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Detroit Red Wings, who edged into last season's Stanley Cup playoffs, and Chicago Blackhawks, who inhabited the cellar, face off the 1947-48 National Hockey League season tonight.

At the outset of their 60-game schedules, neither team is promised a particularly brilliant future by the experts sizing up championship potentials, but odds favor Detroit to take the opener.

The Wings, who finished last season by defeating Chicago six times without interruption, haven't dropped a debut game in eight years. Moreover, they face a team sadly crippled by the loss of right winger Bill Mosienko, who suffered a leg fracture at Toronto Monday night playing with the N.H.L. All-Stars against the Maple Leafs.

Mosienko was bracketed in the speedy line with Max and Doug Bentley, the only combination that consistently produced scoring dividends for the Hawks.

However, Chicago is expected to unveil one of the most publicized rookies to reach the major league in recent years — Metro Prystai, graduate of Moose Jaw, Sask., amateur ranks.

Detroit will be operating under Coach Tommy Ivan, formerly of Indianapolis in the American League, who was called up for active coaching service by Manager Jack Adams when he decided to shift to the front office last spring.

On the eve of the opener, Adams announced centre Billy Taylor, formerly of Toronto and Debeen traded to Boston Bruins for troit's high scorer last season, had reserve wingman Armand (Bep) Guidonin.

3 CANADIENS FAIL TO SIGN NEW CONTRACTS

Montreal, Oct. 14.—(CP)—With Montreal Canadiens slated to meet New York Rangers in their National Hockey League opener here Thursday night, three Habitant regulars have not yet signed contracts, it was learned last night.

They are defenceman Emile (Butch) Bouchard and right-winger Maurice Richard, both named last year's N.H.L. All-Star team, and left-winger Bobby Carse, a newcomer bought during the off-season from Cleveland Barons of the American League.

For Richard, the circuit's top goal-getter last season, it's nothing new being a holdout. A year ago The Rocket waited until one hour before Canucks' first scheduled game before coming to terms.

Richard was reported to have drawn down a $9,000 salary last season, plus bonuses, and is reported to be asking for $12,000 for the present campaign.

Canadiens' General Manager Frank Selke has repeatedly declined to discuss the holdouts, saying it's "nothing to worry about."

Outstanding Horses And Riders Of Eastern Canada Ready To Compete In Great Show Opening Here Tonight

Tonight's the night! The time: 8 o'clock; the place: Exhibition Arena, and the event, why, of course it's the great 1947 Sherbrooke Horse Show! Canada's Great Eastern Winter Fair and Horse Show officially opens this evening, with a gala program of riding, driving and jumping events that will bring together some of Canada's top-notch horses and riders competing for the many ribbons, stakes and trophies which are offered during the five performances.

Coming from as far away as St. Catharines, Ont., and including the famous string of blue ribbonners owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. J. O'Connell, of Ste. Genevieve des Pierrefonds, the entries of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Lehan, of Richelieu, and Capt. William L. Resseguier of Val d'Or, with many Montreal stables, the exhibitors will understandably be outnumbered by the Eastern Townships entries, which include all the well known Sherbrooke stables, as well as those from North Hatley, Magog, Knowlton, Lennoxville, Rock Forest and Thetford Mines.

Miss Louise Triganne, of Sherbrooke, who last year was a spectator, will this year be a competitor. A Fair Play Riding School pupil, Miss Triganne will compete in the jumping and riding classes, on her mother's entry, "Prince."

Aime Choquette, noted Sherbrooke rider, will have a busy time this week, competing with no less than five jumpers himself, with such favorites of recent shows as Commando, M. T. Stenson's famous jumper, Gamin, owned by H. L. Blais, Hi-Boy, Reg Bishop's spirited horse, Pete Hatley, owned by Jimmie Johnston, of North Hatley, and Fair Play's own Play Along. Choquette will find little time on his hands during the show, for he is also one of the officials, and will compete with Andre Renaud in the saddle class, riding the famous "Clipper," owned by S. M.S. stables, paired with Renaud on "Dufferin Boy," a Desfosses entry.

Dr. L. A. Gendreau will show his famous entry "My King of All" in the saddle class, and Dr. Berube's "Kentucky Gent," another well-known Sherbrooke saddle horse will be ridden by Aime Gagnon.

S.M.S. Stables of Sherbrooke will have their famous duo, "Tommy" and "Domino," ridden by an equally as famous duo, the two Erichs, Marquardt and Schiller. S.M.S. will also show Lady Thrusher, a consistent winner in past shows, and a newcomer to the S.M.S. stables, "King." This last horse will be ridden by Miss Phyllis Anderson, promising young Sherbrooke rider, whose string of ribbons testifies to her splendid riding ability in local and out-of-town shows. Judy Cate, of North Hatley, prominent young Eastern Townships horsewoman, will ride "Lady Thruster" for S.M.S. Mrs. Frank Gravel will ride "Clipper" in the Ladies' Saddle Class, this splendid horse having won the Eastern Townships Championship a year ago.

A. A. Mitson, of Magog, is coming to the show, along with Mr. and Mrs. T. Lizotte with their famous hackneys, and Knowlton will be well-represented with the roadsters owned by Russell and H. E. Call.

Man Leaps From Second Floor to Save Child From Train

WINS DOW AWARD

ALEX CANAVAN
OF SYDNEY MINES, N.S., is hero in quick and daring rescue

The roar of the approaching express could be heard plainly when Mrs. Canavan first noticed 16-month-old Jackie Holec sitting bewildered in the middle of the track. Yelling for assistance, she ran from her home toward the frightened child.

HEARS WIFE'S CRIES

When Alex Canavan heard his wife's cries, he rushed out on the second floor balcony to see what was the matter. Realizing there was not a moment to lose, and that his wife could not possibly reach the child in time, he vaulted over the balcony and leaped two floors to the ground.

IN THE NICK OF TIME

Attracted by the excitement, the child's horror-stricken mother looked on as a race developed between Canavan and the fast-approaching train. The engine was only a few yards from the terrified child when Canavan leaped onto the tracks. Snatching the baby from almost under the wheels, Canavan hurled himself and young Jackie clear. Together they rolled down the embankment — safe!

Such cool courage and quick thinking in an emergency is worthy of the admiration of every Canadian. We are proud to pay tribute to these fine qualities in Alex Canavan of Sydney Mines, N.S., through the presentation of The Dow Award.

It was an emergency that called for immediate action. Alex Canavan leaped from his second floor balcony and raced to the child's rescue.

There was not a moment to spare as he snatched the child from the thundering wheels and plunged to safety.

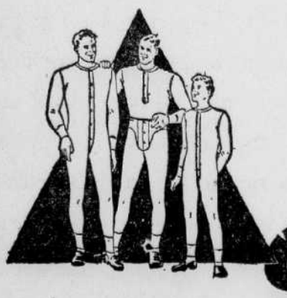

THE DOW AWARD is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Winners are selected by the Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers.
