Tudhope Service Protects You After You Buy

The "EVERITT"—$1450

See the Tudhope-of-Orillia "Everitt" Car at the Show. It is Canada's new car, entirely made here, and made with jigs throughout, giving accuracy, standardization and strength. The Canadian manufacture saves "duty" charges, which amount to about $450 on this car. There is intrinsic value given with every dollar in "Everitt" price, exactly as under U. S. market conditions. The "Everitt" is simplified, multiplicity of parts is avoided; a simple, long-stroke unit-cast motor with high-tension Bosch magnet gives perfect service. Double-drop, wide-web side frames give a low-hung car with high road clearance of 11¼ ins. Large wheels and big brakes save tire wear. Nickel steel non-crossing selective transmission gears and an aluminum clutch save transmission troubles. Wide and roomy tonneaus give carrying capacity. "Special Tudhope" equipment of an extra tire, sight gasoline gauge, etc., is included with each "Everitt," giving unexampled completeness and $1,450 value.
A Two-Years' guarantee substantiates every claim of the makers to care in manufacturing, perfection of material and design, and a desire to give excellent value.

"The Rosary" Begins New Week

There was a fair sized audience at His Majesty's last evening, when "The Rosary" open its second week here.

"The Rosary" is described as being a play of human interest, and the description correctly describes it. Interest is centred on the characters right throughout, tragedy and sentiment being well tempered with the comical side of life. One moment the audience is on the verge of tears and the next it is convulsed with laughter. The scenic effects are very good, especially in the final scene.

Mr. Harrington Reynolds enacts the part of the Reverend Brian Kelly, an Irish priest of large heart. Miss Grace E. Reading plays her dual part with much feeling and expression, and the other members of the cast, including John C. King, Walter S. Jenner and Grace Childs, are heard to advantage.

The Orpheum.

Fun reigns at the Orpheum Theatre this week, the bill comprising an unusual number of comedy acts. It opens with "Travelling a la Carte," presenting a humorous patent medicine peddler and a gypsy fortune teller. The setting is unusual and effective.

"The Little Sunbeam," by Mrs. Gardner Crane and Co., is a one-act play. The scene is the interior of a sleeping coach, and the mix up occurs when an arrest is ordered of Margraff, who travels under an assumed name. He is saved by Trixie Tripp, who recognizes him as her long separated husband.

The dancing number of the eight girls from the "Midnight Sons" Company, is unusual and was warmly applauded.

Characters and songs, presented on a miniature stage, by Fanny Rice were entertaining and amusing to a high degree.

"Monarchs of Melody," keep three pianos playing continuously, and render some good music, with original songs interwoven.

Some pretty costumes are worn by Belle Adair in her singing act which won her many encores.

Of all the mirth provokers of the evening, Hoey and Lee, as Hebrew constables, got the warmest reception, their numerous parodies evolving round after round of applause. They were encored four times.

The programme closes with Julian and Dyer, who do some clever feats and much tumbling in their eccentric athletic act.

John L. at the Royal.

The feature of the attraction at the Theatre Royal this week is the famous John L. Sullivan who has a very good monologue and is also seen in a three half minute round contest with his old rival, Jake Kilrain. The act is very interesting, especially the portion in which John L. tells of his impressions of the Jeffries-Johnson fight. The Rianza Trio of singers introduce an act that is much superior to the average turn in burlesque shows. There are two burlesques in which Tom McRae, who commenced his theatrical career as an usher in the Theatre Royal, figures prominently.

Lyric Hall.

A fine programme is presented this week at the Lyric. Heading the bill is Guy Stone and Kathleen Mackey, who present a sketch entitled "20 Minutes in Ireland," and some beautiful harp solos and songs are rendered in a most artistic way. Eddie Paul, eccentric musician, plays finely on a number of odd instruments.

Among the best pictures shown are "An Irish Honeymoon," a genuine Irish picture depicting the adventures of Lovey and Dovey, at some of the greatest beauty spots in the Emerald Isle, including "The Kissing of the Blarney Stone," Killarney Lakes, trip through Dublin and Cork, Crocker's Castle, etc.

Last evening the hall was crowded to the doors, and among the audience were a large number of ladies to whom was presented a souvenir in the way of a fine lace and drawn work doylie.

SIR W. VAN HORNE REPEATS HIS VIEW ON RECIPROCITY

Says Vested Interests are Terribly Binding on Weaker Party Involved.

Canadian Associated Press.
London, March 21.—Sir William Van Horne repeats in an interview here the sentiment he says he has already expressed in the Canadian papers, in which he says he believes that reciprocity is a shameful thing, against the wishes of four-fifths of Canadians. Vested interests, he added, were found in nations as well as in individuals or corporations, and are terribly binding in the weaker party involved.

WELFARE OF STATES BOUND UP WITH CANADA'S.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 21. — At a banquet last night in connection with the dedicatory exercises of Cleveland's $3,000,000 federal building, U. S. Attorney-General George W. Wickersham was the principal speaker. He strongly endorsed President Taft's plan for reciprocity with Canada. He said:

"The welfare of the States is bound up in that of the Dominion. The days of isolated national life are past. We can no longer look at our next door neighbors as aliens or strangers. Their interests are in large measure bound up with ours.

"In the continued and closer union of the Anglo-Saxon peoples lies the world's best hope for its continued peace and prosperity," said Mr. Wicksham in closing.

NOVA SCOTIA HOUSE WILL DEBATE COMPACT

Halifax, N. S., March 21.— E. H. Armstrong, Liberal member for Yarmouth in the Nova Scotia House of Assembly, has given notice of a reciprocity resolution, which will come up for discussion this week. It runs as follows:—

"Be it resolved that this House do record its sincere appreciation of the efforts through its commissioners, the Hon. W. S. Fielding and the Hon. Wm. Paterson, to bring about this mutual reduction of the tariff, and its belief that the consummation of this trade pact would be in the best interests of Canada, and will redound most advantageously to Nova Scotia and will greatly extend our markets, thus securing incalculable benefits to our trade."

Saskatchewan Opinion.

Toronto, March 21. — W. A. Sheppard, of Borden, Sask., member of the Council of the Consolidated Boards of Trade of Saskatchewan asserts that all the Boards of Trade in that province were opposed to reciprocity and were also a majority of the thinking people.

Mexico Wants Troops Removed

Ambassador at Washington Has Requested This—Senor Limantour Denies Canards.

Special to The Montreal Star.
Washington, March 21.—Mexico, through her Ambassador, Don Francisco Leon De LuBarra, has expressed a strong hope that the 20,000 American troops should leave the immediate neighborhood of the border. President Taft has shown the deepest sympathy with Mexico in her internal trouble, but has also evidenced a strong desire for some information on the Mexican Government as to when the revolution will end and whether to be a menace.

It can be said positively that there will be no invasion of Mexico at the present time, no matter what may occur in the near future, unless it is authorized by Congress.

Congress will be in session within two weeks, and it is not expected that anything will occur between now and then which will compel the President to act on his own responsibility.

DISSOLUTION TALK STILL PREVALENT

But Nothing Definite is Yet Announced From Ottawa.

SUPPLY THE ORDER FOR TO-DAY'S DEBATE.

Members Attach Unusual Interest to Forthcoming Developments—Neither Party Anxious for Election.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Ottawa, March 21.—The Government order in the House to-day is to be Supply, and in view of the talk of possible dissolution interest attaches to what will be said and done.

"There is no question," said one of the more aggressive oppositionists to-day, "that some of our friends outside are strongly counselling a course of obstruction.

"There is a marked difference between obstruction and legitimate criticism along with a demand for details of expenditure. Only twice last week was the House moved into Supply. On the first occasion we voted over a million; on the last nothing was voted, but the discussion was legitimate enough.

"My personal view is that the majority of either side does not wish an election now, but if the Government wants one and takes the initiative, we are fully prepared to meet them half way, and go even further. We have far less to fear from the result than they."

The Redistribution Element.

This was a typical opinion expressed by several of whom enquiries were made. There is a strong feeling here now, as was the case when Congress was in session, that the United States should move first, and consequently it is quite within the range of possibility that Supply may be limited till it is known what the new Congress may decide upon. But whether this possible limitation or the general attitude of the Opposition will do such as to afford the Government the pretext it is seeking can only be speculated upon.

There are diverse views and interests to be considered, and this applies to both parties. What may be the opinions of one section may be diametrically opposed to those of another. The Western Liberal, for instance, talks of inviting an election if an excuse for doing that part of the country out of its representation is forthcoming, but the Government supporter from British Columbia and Ontario and from the East generally shudders at the thought. Surrendering one or two sessional indemnities and inviting the uncertainties of an election does not appeal with any compelling force to many on both sides.

What really will be the stand of the Opposition, however, may depend on whether the Government brings on an interim Supply Bill. It will also be a subject for determination by the caucus.

As previously pointed out, the claim of the West for greater representation is not to be ignored. There can be no redistribution till after the census. Ten years ago it was taken in April and announced in November. This year it will be taken in June, but will be tabulated by November, owing to more expeditious methods and the use of adding machines. In the regular course Parliament would meet in November.

Considering the redistribution element of the situation, Western Liberals aver that the Government cannot dissolve unless there is a protracted hold-up which would place the responsibility on the Opposition.

Mr. Borden is naturally enough silent as to his intentions, but developments to-day and this week will speak for themselves. Meanwhile around the House some talk of an impending election, but the majority do not look for it yet awhile.

Budget Speech Coming.

The Premier was put through some further questioning in regard to the reciprocal agreement and the British Preference yesterday afternoon. On Friday he stated that Mr. E. W. Nesbitt had announced the policy of the Government in stating that there would be no further tariff reductions at present. Mr. W.H. Sharpe, of Lisgar, asked if the Premier's statements applied to the British Preference.

Sir Wilfrid consulted Mr. Fielding a moment and then replied, "I think our policy is well understood," he said, "but it will be further explained when the Budget Speech is made."

Mr. Foster asked when the Budget Speech would be made.

Mr. Fielding replied that a topic akin to the Budget had long been under discussion, and had occupied so much time that the usual attention had not been given to the Budget proper. However, the Budget would be brought down "at an early date."

The proposed Anglo-American arbitration treaty was the subject of an inquiry by Dr. Sproule. "Has the Government had any correspondence with the Imperial Government or with the United States on the subject?" he asked.

"The Government has not received any communication whatever," replied the Premier, "with the Imperial authorities or with the United States on this important subject. I may add that if it were in the power of Canada to help forward such a laudable object, we would be only too glad to do so."

Railways and Coal Mines.

A statement of importance as to the granting of powers to hold coal mines to railway companies to own coal mines was made by the Minister of Railways. With the consent of the promoters, a section giving that power was dropped from the act incorporating the Alberta Electric Railway Company. In this connection Major Sharpe asked the Minister of Railways if the Government had come to a decision on its policy in this regard.

Mr. Graham's reply was that in view of differing conditions it was difficult to adopt a settled policy. However, the owning of coal lands by railways had led to a serious situation in the United States, and therefore, unless good reasons were shown for making an exception, he thought such powers should not be granted.

MONTREAL'S PROTEST

Last night's gathering in Windsor Hall and the "overflow meeting" on Dominion Square uttered a protest against this infamous Annexation plot that—as Hon. T. Chase Casgrain desired—will be heard at Ottawa.

Hon. Clifford Sifton was never in better form; and it is doubtful if he has often had an audience so well suited to the sober, business-like style of appeal for which he is famous. His address did not once remind his hearers of a campaign speech.

In passing rapidly from one phase of the subject to another, he obviously spoke from a full mind which was so closely packed with serious objections to the project up for discussion that the only question was which he should select for presentation in the necessarily limited time at his disposal. His arguments crowded upon each other's heels; and the audience had the feeling voiced later by Mr. Thomas A. Trenholme that Mr. Sifton must be a farmer from the informed manner in which he dealt with the farm side of the subject. But it was equally apparent that he was a statesman from the masterly manner in which he handled the political past, present and future of the Reciprocity propaganda.

* * * * * *

Mr. Sifton is a son of the West. He knows conditions on the prairies as few men can in Canada. His political success has been due to the fact that he interpreted the Western mind correctly; and, as Minister of the Interior, it was his duty to study that country like a specialist. Moreover, as the father of our progressive immigration policy, he ought to know the sort of people whom he has been "pumping" into the the Dominion better than most.

Now, when a man with this inside knowledge of the situation tells us that the farmers stand to lose more by the Agreement than they will gain—taking the commercial view of the proposal alone—we cannot fail to be impressed. Mr. Sifton knows that his words will be reported to his Western constituents; and he would hardly venture to present them to a city audience in Montreal if they sounded absurd to the voters on whose suffrages his seat in Parliament depends.

Moreover, Mr. Sifton went into details and gave some of the reasons for the faith that is in him. Our packing houses are to be massacred by the Chicago Beef Trust. Our barley conditions are changed since the McKinley tariff; and we now grow and feed barley to far better profit than we once sold it to the American brewers. The Americans are large exporters of the very things we raise for export—food stuffs and animal products—and it is not likely that an exporting market will be of much value to our producers of similar goods.

* * * * * *

But it was when Mr. Sifton came to deal with the "dominant issue" that his earnestness flamed up and his audience reached the highest pitch of enthusiasm, and it was felt that he was at grips with the central spirit of the whole movement. When, step by step, he showed how the Americans could easily force their way nearer and nearer to the heart of the national citadel if we once sold them this outer gateway, he was talking to the people in a language which reached their hearts and elicited responses that must have mightily cheered him in his departure from life-long affiliations and his determination to beat back his sudden assault upon our national integrity.

It is as "veiled Annexation" that our people hate this bargain. It is because it menaces our Canadian independence that we have borne down party lines and been stirred to the highest pitch of patriotic fervor in our fighting assault on this enemy which comes to us in so peaceful a guise but which contains so deadly a danger.

It is this which has stirred our indignation against so popular and harmless a personage as Hon. Mr. Paterson, and so meek—if not quite so popular or harmless—an individual as Hon. Mr. Fielding. Commonly we would leave them with their biscuits and with their coal—with their confused recollections of old Reciprocity days and their appeals for the disruption of Confederation which they would fain have us forget—but when they dare on their own motion, without mandate from the people or warning to the country, sell us out to the urgent American Government and then have the effrontery to tell us that our honor is engaged, they must not be surprised if deep public wrath visits them with fury and the anger of a people apprehensive of betrayal expresses itself in rough terms.

The other speakers rightly talked of little but "the dominant issue"; and it was that which carried conviction to and aroused the spirit of the audience. Mr. Lash was most effective in showing that, in reality, he had not left the Liberal party on this question, but that the Liberal party had left him. Mr. Casgrain made an impressive reference to the effect of Annexation upon the French-Canadian and Roman Catholic population of this province. He pointed them to Louisiana as indicating the fate they might expect; and, unless our fellow citizens propose to commit racial and religious suicide, they will do well to consider carefully the warning.

Professor Leacock talked Annexation and only Annexation; the audience cheered him to the echo. That is the one question; and, while that may not be the sole, it is the sufficient reason for kicking this thinly masked proposal out of doors.

* * * * * *

It is amazing that the Government should think of persevering with this policy in the face of so vigorous, so spontaneous, so universal and so earnest a popular movement against it. Everywhere people are gathering to protest against its adoption; nowhere are they assembling to demand that it be carried.

Even the famous Grain Growers deputation from the West were not serious about this. They wanted free agricultural implements which the Government has not given them; they wanted grain inspection which this bargain will render impotent to protect them; they wanted a Hudson Bay Railway which Reciprocity will kill forever.

* * * * * *

Then the Government are persevering after President Taft has utterly failed to carry his own party with him on this issue, and when the Congress for which he then spoke refused to act. To-day, he and this project are in the hands of a party which, at all events, is not composed of hypocrites. When they mean Annexation, they do not hesitate to say so; and when Champ Clark and his Democratic majority endorse this offer, it will be an offer of Annexation on the instalment plan. Yet our Parliament is hurrying to accept a proposal which is yet to be made, and to push Canada into the humiliating position of grabbing eagerly at a "gift" from Washington which Washington may yet refuse.

We are perfectly willing to admit the improbability of such a denouement. Washington wants Annexation as a cat wants a long-watched mouse. If statesmanship can get its way, Washington will make us this offer precisely in the form we are most likely to accept. President Taft will be ready to swallow his Protectionism, and the Democrats will be ready to forego their legitimate advantages as a party newly in a majority and looking forward to the elections of next year. But shrewd statesmanship does not always prevail. Narrow interests and partizan manoeuvring may temporarily get their way. And, in that case, Canada will have thankfully accepted an offer which has not yet been made, and will be left with its foolish hand held out pleading for a "boon" it long ago swore never to seek again.

Thus, the mad hurry of Parliament exposes us to a choice of evils. We will either sup of humiliation or sell our birthright. We are "at the parting of the ways." We will offer of our own choice to take the way to Washington. And either we will be rebuffed or we will be welcomed.

The first will shame us as a people and slay our self-respect. The second will ultimately destroy us as a people and slay our national future.

SIR W. VAN HORNE REPEATS HIS VIEW ON RECIPROCITY

Says Vested Interests are Terribly Binding on Weaker Party Involved.

Canadian Associated Press.

London, March 21.—Sir William Van Horne repeats in an interview here the sentiment he says he has already expressed in the Canadian papers, in which he says he believes that reciprocity is a shameful thing, against the wishes of four-fifths of Canadians. Vested interests, he added, were found in nations as well as in individuals or corporations, and are terribly binding on the weaker party involved.

WELFARE OF STATES BOUND UP WITH CANADA'S.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 21. — At a banquet last nigh: in connection with the dedicatory exercises of Cleveland's $4,000,000 federal building, U. S. Attorney-General George W. Wickersham was the principal speaker. He strongly endorsed President Taft's plan for reciprocity with Canada. He said:

"The welfare of the States is bound up in that of the Dominion. The days of isolated national life are past. We can no longer look at our next door neighbors as aliens or strangers. Their interests are in large measure bound up with ours.

"In the continued and closer union of the Anglo-Saxon peoples lies the world's best hope for its continued peace and prosperity," said Mr. Wickersham in closing.

NOVA SCOTIA HOUSE WILL DEBATE COMPACT

Halifax, N. S., March 21.— E. H. Armstrong, Liberal member for Yarmouth in the Nova Scotia House of Assembly, has given notice of a reciprocity resolution, which will come up for discussion this week. It runs as follows:—

"Be it resolved that this House do record its sincere appreciation of the efforts through its commissioners, the Hon. W. S. Fielding and the Hon. Wm. Paterson, to bring about this mutual reduction of the tariff, and its belief that the consummation of this trade pact would be in the best interests of Canada, and will redound most advantageously to Nova Scotia and will greatly extend our markets, thus securing incalculable benefits to our trade."

Saskatchewan Opinion.

Toronto, March 21. — W. A. Shephard, of Borden, Sask., member of the Council of the Consolidated Boards of Trade of Saskatchewan asserts that all the Boards of Trade in that province were opposed to reciprocity as were also a majority of the thinking people.

Mexico Wants Troops Removed

Her Ambassador at Washington Has Requested This—Senor Limantour Denies Canards.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Washington, March 21.—Mexico, through her Ambassador, Don Francisco Leon De LuBarra, has expressed a strong hope that the 20,000 American troops should leave the immediate neighborhood of the border.

President Taft has shown the deepest sympathy with Mexico in her internal trouble, but has also evidenced a strong desire for some information from the Mexican Government as to when the revolution will end and cease to be a menace.

It can be said positively that there will be no invasion of Mexico at the present time, no matter what may occur in the near future, unless it is authorized by Congress.

Congress will be in session within two weeks, and it is not expected that anything will occur between now and then which will compel the President to act on his own responsibility.

Wants Information.

To the Editor of The Montreal Star:

Sir,— I am an Eastern Townships farmer — one who knows the conditions in New England, and who knows what our home market means under present conditions. I would like to see The Star send a representative through the Eastern border States, report faithfully what he sees and hears respecting the farming situation, view the abandoned farms, listen to the farmers' stories, and set it forth without exaggeration or rhetoric. This course would place before the farmers of Central and Eastern Canada a basis of fact respecting the much-vaunted market of 90,000,000 of people, which will astonish them. Our farmers can no more compete against the American West in the American centres than can the New England farmer.

The evidence may be had. Get it!

He is said to bear with him the Canadian decrees formulated two years ago at Quebec by the Plenary Council and carried to Rome last sping for ratification by the Vatican.

At the pier to meet Monsignor Stagni, was Monsignor Sinnott, of Ottawa who will act as secretary to the Papal Legate.

He accompanied Monsignor Stagni to the pro-cathedral at Brooklyn, where they will probably remain until Thursday afternoon, before leaving for Ottawa.

CHILD'S SCARED SCREAM SAVED WHOLE FAMILY.

Mr. and Mrs. Desmarais, and their two young children, were driven out of their flat by smoke at 2 o'clock this morning. The fire started in the basement of Biondin and Corbeil's restaurant, 1211 St. Catherine street east, and the smoke soon filled the flat overhead. The awakening of one of the children, who screamed, probably saved the family from suffocation. Damage is estimated at $1 000.

DEATH WAS NOT MURDER.

Fugitives From Asylum Did Not Know What They Were Doing.

The inquest into the death of Francois D'Haine, who was killed in trying to prevent the escape of the two inmates of the St. Joseph Benoit asylum, on March 14th, was concluded this morning. Deputy Coroner Bison empaneled a jury at the asylum and investigated the facts. The two men cannot be held responsible for the deed as they are insane and irresponsible.

It was proved that the murder itself must have been committed by the man Panneton.

The secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association, Mr. James Lawler, gave a most interesting address on "Forest Conservation," yesterday afternoon at the Montreal Women's Club meeting.

Touching on the progress of the forestry movement in Canada, Mr. Lawler mentioned the fact that the association started ten years ago with ten members, and there were now twenty-seven hundred; also that the School of Forestry, which had only eight students the first year, now musters fifty-eight.

MR. SHAW CHOSEN FOR SCHOLARSHIP

Will Be McGill's Choice for Coveted Honor Granted In Great Britain.

The committee appointed by McGill University to recommend a scholar for the scholarship offered to the local university this year by the Royal Commission for the Exhibition of 1851, has decided in favor of Mr. A. Norman Shaw, M.Sc.

Mr. Shaw has had a creditable college career. In his first year Arts he took first rank honors in mathematics. In the second year he stood first in his class and also obtained first rank honors and prizes in mathematics and physics. In his third year he obtained the same honor standing and at the end of his fourth year he graduated with first rank honors in physics. He has since his graduation acted as demonstrator, and later lecturer, in physics in the university, carrying on research work in the meantime. His first research work was one on the phenomenon connected with electrical discharge from pointed conductors and another a research on the accuracy and reproducibility of standard cells. In 1909 Mr. Shaw was awarded the King's Research Fellowship of $600 to prosecute a special investigation on the absolute measurement of currents by means of a Weber electro-dynamometer. In 1910 he obtained the degree of M.Sc., and was awarded the Governor-General's medal for research work. His latest paper and the one which shows the most originality is one on a special section of his research in absolute measurements dealing with bifilar suspensions and a report on the whole investigation will be ready for publication before long.

Mr. Shaw received his early education at the Montreal High School. The scholarship is of the annual value of £150 and is tenable for two years.

The other applicant for the scholarship was Mr. W. Buell Meldrum, M.Sc., and so high were his qualifications that the committee had considerable difficulty in deciding between the two.

Mr. Meldrum entered McGill from the Ottawa Collegiate Institute, in 1905. In his first year he obtained first rank honors in mathematics and in his second first rank honors and prize in mathematics and physics. In his third and fourth years he took the honor course in chemistry, which included also physics and Mineralogy, and he obtained first rank honors in both years. In 1910 he obtained the degree of M.Sc.

WHIP WILL BE USED ON GERVAIS

Wife-Beater, Now in Jail, Receives Additional Sentence Including Six Lashes.

Six lashes from a nine-lash whip and twelve months in jail, was the sentence of William Gervais, who was brought before Judge Langelier of Quebec, in the Court of Sessions this morning, charged with cruelty to his young wife.

Last July Gervais married a girl of sixteen and ever since that time, she told the Judge, he has been ill-treating her in the most frightful manner. He is now serving a term of six months in prison for an assault on Constable Bellefeuille on August 12th last.

Mrs. Gervais went to her sister for protection, but her husband went after her and brought her back to his house, where he revenged himself for her departure by abusing her. At the instance of her relatives he was finally arrested and brought to justice.

At the expiration of the present sentence for assault the sentence of twelve months for cruelty will begin to run, the lashes will be given to the condemned on the 21st of April.

Death by Fire Menaced Woman

But Stranger Wrapped His Ulster Round Her and Saved Her Life.

Running down Dorion street with her hair and clothes ablaze, like a torch, Mrs. G. Binnette, aged 44, of 438 Dorion street, was saved from being burned to death by a pedestrian, who threw off his heavy overcoat and wrapped it around her, extinguishing the flames at the expense of his coat.

This act will probably save the woman's life, though at the present time she is in the Notre Dame Hospital, with body, face and hands severely burned.

The accident happened at 5.30 o'clock last night, when Mrs. Binnette was trimming an oil lamp which she kept burning continually before a picture of our Saviour.

DIED IN THE AMBULANCE.

He was taken to the Victoria Hotel by an employe of the Grand Trunk, who stated that he had fainted in a train. He is a middle-aged man, well dressed and was thought to be on the way to Sorel.

NEW QUIBBLE OVER VEXED CLAUSE 15

Feared Change in Translation May Injure City's Interests

CITY ATTORNEY ETHIER CALLED TO QUEBEC.

Tramways' Bill Made Progress in the Assembly Last Night Despite Fresh Attacks Made on It.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Quebec, March 21.—Alderman L. A. Lapointe has telegraphed a call to City Attorney Ethier to come and advise what legal effect there may be through the change in clause fifteen of the reprinted Tramways Bill, which was adopted in the Assembly last night, as compared with the clause as submitted to and approved by the Railways Committee.

The English version of the clause has been correctly adopted in the bill, but in the French translation the phraseology, in one or two instances, it is feared by Alderman Lapointe, may be interpreted to give the clause a different meaning to the one intended.

The question may result in yet another fight over the measure.

Bill in the Assembly.

The bill passed general committee of the Legislative Assembly early this morning, after a stirring sitting. Its third reading will take place this evening. The fight against the measure last night was carried on by Messrs. Tellier and Bourassa, with occasional aid from Mr. Cousineau. The bill's principal backer was Mr. J. L. Perron, and it was his advocacy which provoked some hot exchanges across the floor of the House last night.

Fears Franchise Speculation.

Mr. Bourassa moved to add the following sub-section to clause 13:

"13a. The franchises, rights, powers and privileges granted by the city of Montreal or any other municipality to any whatsoever of the companies above designated, shall not be made the object of a payment in money, shares, bonds or other securities or of any consideration whatever that may affect the capital or the liabilities of the company."

The mover said it was not right there should be an opportunity to exploit any contracts for speculation purposes. He maintained that there was nothing in the bill to prevent the company placing a money value on the franchise, so that when a municipality sought to municipalize the tramway service, it would be charged so much money for the franchise it had itself given to the company.

Mr. Perron replied that Mr. Bourassa would by his motion deprive the four companies named in the bill of the right to sell part of their holdings. There could, he added, be no exploitation of a franchise for speculation purposes, as the city and municipal authorities were protected by the by-laws.

The Bourassa motion was defeated by 31 votes against 8.

Is Board of Control Cut Out?

One of the most seriously debated questions was whether the Board of Control has bee nover-ridden in clause seventeen, which, as adopted, says:

"The Council of the city of Montreal is authorized to do all things necessary to give effect to this act."

Mr. Tellier proposed to delete the words "Council of the," and make the clause read "The City of Montreal is authorized to do all things necessary to give effect to this act."

He said it was a deliberate attempt to cut out the Board of Control.

The Tellier amendment was defeated and the clause adopted without change.

A motion demanding the referendum will be proposed when the bill comes up for third reading to-day.

A section was added providing that the speed of the cars shall not exceed six miles an hour except where a greater speed is authorized by municipal contract. A reservation is also made under which the Public Utilities Commission may allow the company to exceed the six-mile an hour limit in unpopulous places.

DELEGATION WILL RETURN TO QUEBEC.

As a result of Ald. Lapointe's telegram, the Mayor, Controller Wanklyn and others will leave for Quebec this afternoon.

"There was a spirited discussion by the Board of Control to-day, in private session, over the telegram from Ald. Lapointe. The Mayor pointed out that it was likely the Legislature had seen, by opposition which had been recently made in Montreal by certain bodies and by certain aldermen, that there was little use in trying to get the Board of Control and the City Council settle the matter; and in consequence there was now a grave danger that the Tramways Bill, as proposed by the company, would pass.

"It is a pity," said the Mayor, "that there should have been so much opposition in certain quarters at the present time. The cry that has been raised that the city shall municipalize the street railway system is a most impossible one. It has placed the City Council and the Board of Control in a most awkward position. The Legislature gave the city a chance to make a new arrangement with the company, and it is a pity that opposition should now be making this impossible."

The Star's despatches from Quebec, as printed above, do not, however, indicate that the situation is so serious as the Mayor fears.

At yesterday's Council meeting there was further discussion of the Tramways bill, brought on by a resolution to send a fresh delegation to Quebec to appear before the committee of the Legislative Council. The resolution was finally carried, after a number of the aldermen had aired their views, particularly with regard to the attitude of the labor bodies on the tramways question.

Canadien Club Joins "Old" City Ball League--St. Denis And Shamrocks Amalgamate

The Club Athletique Canadien asked for, and was granted, admission into the "Old" City Baseball League last evening, and with that Messrs. Didier, Pitre and Jack Laviolette break into baseball.

The Canadiens entry into the diamond game has been anticipated for some time, but the manner thereof was very vague up till yesterday. Mr. Kennedy, looking over the two city leagues playing semi-pro ball at present in existence, was unable to satisfy himself as to which organization was the better one for his choice, but yesterday he decided, and at a meeting of the City League, at which Joseph Page presided, last evening, the application of the Canadien Club was read and discussed, and the club finally admitted by the unanimous vote of the delegates present. The Canadiens will doubtless greatly add to the strength of Joe Page's organization.

The introduction of the Canadiens into the League is rendered possible by the amalgamation of two of the clubs in the league into one, which leaves the eighth franchise open. The amalgamating clubs are Shamrock and St. Denis, and they will in future be known as the Shamrock club. Their president is Mr. T. Thompson, and Messrs. M. McGoogan and L. Lapointe will manage the team. The Canadiens will take the schedule dates allotted to the St. Denis club.

The matter of grounds also came up for discussion at the meeting last evening, and Mr. Page announced that the league had come to an agreement with the owners of King Edward Park, by which the league has the use of the King Edward Park grounds throughout the season for either one or two games each Sunday, and on very advantageous terms. The league has already contracted for the rental of the Delorimier Park grounds, and it is probable that two games will be played on this ground during the season.

There were many signed contracts handed in, and it is understood that many players who are alleged to have signed up with other leagues, have signed and delivered Old City League contracts.

Delegates present at last evening's meeting were Joseph Page, president; M. Duquette, treasurer; Messrs. T. Thompson, P. Whelan, A. Lafortune, J. Nantel, M. Langlois, P. Kennedy, M. McGoogan, L. Galarneau, and M. Berube.

SPORTING VIEWS AND REVIEWS

Another prince of the turf, the trotting turf this time, is dead. He was better known in the United States than in Canada. This was Frank Work, of New York, who leaves his two daughters $20,000,000 to divide between them. His life story reads like a fairy tale. He ran away from home when nine years old with a five dollar gold piece, which he never changed till his dying day, and thirty cents in change. He was considered a hard man in money matters and relentlessly fought his way to fortune, it is said, crushing all those who happened to be in his way, but no man can be very bad who never sold or destroyed his horses in their old age, but sent them to a beautiful farm he had in Connecticut, where they could finish life in ease and luxury.

With a new British golf expert visiting here, another promise of a British soccer team coming, an intimation that Canada is to be favored with a sojourn of a British cricket eleven, and the expectation of some matches with the British polo players from Hurlingham, sporting matters are beginning to look up for the coming season.

The visit of President Emmett Quinn, of the National Hockey Association of Canada, to the United States, ought to have a good effect in reducing to a more concrete form the thus far somewhat nebulous plans for an International Hockey Association.

JERSEY WIN THE RETURN MATCH

By a score of 2 to 0 the Jersey hockey team defeated the Gaspe boys at the Victoria Rink Monday evening. Over one hundred saw a hard-fought game, with no score up to the last three minutes. This was the second match, and by total scores Gaspe still leads by 2 goals. Le Grand and Parry scored for the winners, both playing a splendid game throughout, while Coffin and Dufeu supported Gaspe's honor. The teams lined up as follows

J. R. ROBERTSON AT HEAD NEW LACROSSE

Special to the Montreal Star.

Toronto, March 21.—Provisional Secretary Ernie Knott announces that the inaugural meeting of the Ontario Lacrosse Association will be held at the Empress Hotel in this city next Saturday afternoon, and a convention will be held later.

A supporter stated last night that the new association was assured at the present time of more playing clubs than the C.L.A. had last year, and he added that the old body had one big surprise coming to it.

A forecast of the officers is as follows:

Hon. president, John Ross Robertson; president, N. L. Patterson (president of the Inter-Association); first vice-president, Blancy McGuire, of Orangeville.

BOWLING TOURNEY STARTS.

Opening Night Sees Close Competition in Singles.

The Montreal Bowling Association's tournament began last evening at the Palace alleys, and, to all appearances, is going to be a marked success. The attendance was good, and the different events were bowled with a seriousness and effort which indicates that only the very best endeavors of the local bowlers will be put forth in this competition. The open singles string, and the police competitions were started yesterday with a long entry list. R. Sutherland was the highest scorer last evening, with totals of 247 and 242 pins. J. D. Pelletier was second with 236, closely followed by L. Viau, with 234.

The doubles will commence to-morrow, and like the singles run for the rest of the week. Wednesday the team competitions commence. Last night's highest scores were as follows

Novice Event — A. Reid, 190, 202, 191; A. Buchanan, 147; John Dubec, 158; H. Brunet, 179; C. Maloney, 176.

Open Single String Competition — J. Sutherland, 247, 242; John D. Pelletier, 236; L. Viau, 234, 207, 205, 214, 213; Harry Quinn, 232, 208; R. Darling, 200, 201, 209; S. H. Gardner 222; Albert Blondeau, 224; H. Villion, 212; R. F. Cockburn, 209.

C.P.R. APPRENTICE PRIZE GIVING

An interesting meeting was held in the apprentice instruction room at Angus last evening. The medals and scholarships won by apprentices during 1910 were presented by Mr. Lacey R. Johnson. Scholarships were won by the following: Hercules Smart, Robert C. Gray, C. J. B. Davis, Chris. Thomas, Ed. Carey, Frank Hallum, Gilbert Kendall, A. Rivet, J. Desrosiers, J. Winder, G. Madden, Wm. Barry, Albert Dunk, J. Hornsby, Wm. White.

Medals were presented to the best man (chosen by the team) in the following sports:

Baseball, L. Lamothe; harriers, Wm. Lawrence; lacrosse, T. McGovern; football, Chris. Thomas.

The football team were also presented with medals won by holding second place in the league donated by Mr. M. Gower, president of the Spalding Junior League. The team was composed of the following: Chris. Thomas (captain), E. Deans, S. Brown, F. Harvey, A. Todd, Wm. Barry, Wm. Pajn, T. Hinds, R. Grant, A. Dunk, C. J. B. Davis, Wm. Crisp.

Very interesting addresses were given by Mr. Lacey R. Johnson (superintendent motive power), and Mr. K. Moodie (assistant superintendent locomotive shops), emphasizing the fact that study was essential, but exercise was necessary to maintain a vigorous constitution, better fitting students for study. The chair was occupied by Hercules Smart, president of Apprentice Association.

PROPOSED CHANGES IN CRICKET RULES

Local cricketers will be interested to hear that at the conclusion of the ordinary business of the annual general meeting of the Marylebone Cricket Club, on May 3, the meeting will be made special in accordance with Rules 19 and 25 for the following, amongst other, purposes:—

To vote on the following proposed alterations to laws 13, 16 and 17, dealing with "no-balls."

Law 13 now reads as follows:—"The ball shall be bowled in overs of six balls, from each wicket alternately. When six balls have been bowled and the ball is finally settled in the bowler's or wicket-keeper's hands the umpire shall call 'Over.' Neither a 'no-ball' nor a 'wide ball' shall be reckoned as one of the over."

The proposal is: to add at the end "but they shall be scored against the bowler."

Law 16 now reads as follows:—"The striker may hit a 'no-ball,' and whatever runs result shall be added to his score but he shall not be out from a 'no-ball' unless he be run out or break laws 26, 27, 29, 30. All runs from a 'no-ball' otherwise than from the bat shall be scored 'No-balls,' and if no runs be made one run shall be added to that score. From a 'wide ball' as many runs as are run shall be added to the score as 'wide balls,' and if no runs be otherwise obtained one run shall be so added."

The proposal is: To omit from "the striker" to "add to that score," and to substitute: "A 'no-ball' becomes dead immediately on its being called. Two runs shall be added to the score under the heading 'No-balls.'"

Law 17 now reads as follows: "If the ball not having been called 'Wide' or 'No-ball,' pass the striker without touching his bat or person, and any runs be obtained, the umpire shall call 'Bye,' but if the ball touch any part of the striker's person (hand excepted), and any runs be obtained, the umpire shall call, 'Leg-bye,' such run to be scored 'byes' and 'leg-byes' respectively."

The proposal is: To omit the words "Or no-ball"."

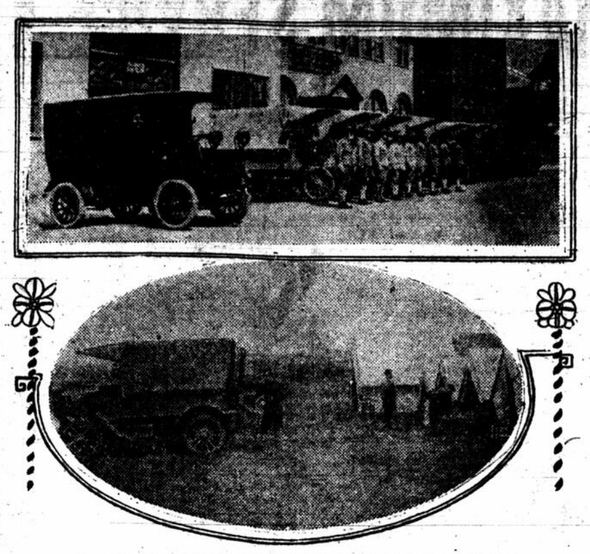
AUTOMOBILES IN WARFARE.



Ready to start from the armories and the camp.

Motor Show at Drill Hall was Crowded Last Night--Feature Nights Have Been Arranged

There was a tremendous crowd at the Auto Show, last night, and they all seemed to enjoy themselves. The band gave a fine programme of music, the military wireless sputtered messages throughout the night, and the flying machines, and Grand-Ducal ice motor were the admiration of hundreds.

Special Feature Nights.

The management announced that the special features for the week would be on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings. To-morrow evening will be University Night, when a large number of students is expected; Thursday evening will be military night, and Col. Roy, O.C.Q., has accepted the invitation of the management on behalf of the militia to attend on that night. A special invitation has been sent to Sir Frederick Borden to be present. Friday evening will be society night.

A feature of last night's programme was the exhibition of pictures illustrating phases of aeronautics and military evolutions with military motor trucks.

Some of the Exhibits.

There is just one electric brougham exhibited at the Motor Show this week, and it is a model of elegance and ease which conveys an instant impression of conservative luxury. It is stationed at the north end of the hall between the Gooderich Tire exhibit and the stand which displays Timetest, the new substitute for air in tires. The car, which is a Baker, is built in the brougham style with which the four color advertisements have familiarized readers of current literature, and is painted a dark blue. The upholstery is light grey, and the car itself looks an ideal vehicle for society use. Its value as a car for medical men is a strong point in its favor.

The Timetest stand which is next to the Baker allotment, attracts attention at once by means of its startling exhibit of an apparently ordinary tire mounted in the usual manner into which several large wire nails have been driven without inflicting any damage. Sectional displays of Timetest, in the raw and in tires, supply the solution to the problem.

Timetest is declared to be the only efficient substitute for air made. It is a composition which looks like Indiarubber mixed with treacle and carries an odor of burnt almonds. It is extremely resilient and the company has some excellent testimonials.

Another one car exhibit is a fifty horse power Pope Hartford, which makes one of the handsomest exhibits of the show. This car has a stand to itself on the west side of the first aisle. It, like the Baker, is painted dark blue, but it is a gigantic affair which conveys an impression of massive solidity which is almost awe-inspiring. The exhibitors, Messrs. Scott and Pease, have wound dark blue ribbon round the car, which adds greatly to its beauty, and lessens somewhat the heavy appearance of the vehicle.

The Gregoire people have an exhibit which arouses considerable interest, as being perhaps the most novel stand in the show. The stripped chassis of a Gregoire car has all the interest for the mechanically inclined which a stripped chassis always has, but the feature which stands next is perhaps the most extraordinary in the show. It is a motor sled similar to that used by the Grand Duke Cyril, in Russia and France, driven by compressed air which is drawn into the motor by a revolving fan which whirls inside a protected drumhead in front of the machine. The whole machine looks something like a fat cigar cut off in the middle. It carries one passenger only, and has been sold to Mr. R. Timberlake of the Ford Company. Mr. Timberlake declares that he intends to use his new purchase for ice runs next winter.

Another feature of the Gregoire is a typical European car, built like a small Victorian cottage in design of windows and panellinf, and painted a vivid yellow trimmed with black. The car is naturally one of the most striking limousine exhibits the show holds and while some divergence of opinion may be found as to its coloring there is no doubt about the luxury of its upholstery and equipment.

The Bosch Magneto Company, have a stand on the first aisle, where they exhibit many different types of sparkers. The operation of the electric flashes is a novelty to the uninitiated, and the stand is a centre of attraction on the first aisle.

N. L. U. MATCHES TO START EARLIER

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, March 21.— The N. L. U. championship season this year will open and close earlier than did last year's. The initial game last year was played May 24, when Montreal met Ottawa. Four days later the second game was played between Nationals and Shamrocks, but it was not until the following Saturday, June 4, that the other teams got into action.

The change in the playing season is President Murphy's own idea. Mr. Murphy's view that the clubs are losing valuable time by not getting into action as soon as they can, and that lacrosse does not appeal to the public when played in football weather.

The N. L. U. schedule meeting will be held in Toronto Saturday, April 8, at the Prince George Hotel. The meeting will be called to order at 2 o'clock. Besides the adoption of the schedule, which will provide for 84 games, the revised rules will come up for consideration.

One will be the demand for a division of the gate receipts on a 60 and 40 per cent. basis. Ottawa and Cornwall will make a big fight for this, but there is no apparent desire on the part of the stronger clubs to come to the assistance of the weaker ones.

CURLING AND WHIST.

Heathers to Wind Up Their Season Friday.

The members of the Heather Curling Club will wind up their social season on Friday evening with a progressive whist party, which, as it is being managed by Mr. W. E. Findlay, ought to be a most enjoyable event.

Mr. Sheppard a Judge.

Toronto, March 21.—The following gentlemen have been invited to act as judges at the Horse Show: Jas. T. Hyde, New York; Clarence H. Moore, Washington, D.C.; Col. C. A. Pratt, Little Rock, Ark.; E. M. Lowry, Pittsburg, Pa.; Julian C. Keith, Warrentotn, Va.; Ed. Sheppard, Montreal; S. B. Fuller, Woodstock, Ont.; Wm. Smith, Columbus; Peter Christie, Manchester, Col. Leeard, Ottawa; Maj.-Gen. Sir F. W. Benson, St. Catharines.

Entries close April 8 with the secretary, W. J. Stark, 12 East Wellington street. The show opens in the Armories on April 25th.

Winnipeg Races.

Winnipeg, March 21.—The programme of events for this year's race meet of the Winnipeg Industrial Exhibition, which is published to-day, shows an aggregate in prize money of $30,550, of which $7,650 is embodied in the purses of the Fort Garry Turf Club. The Blue Ribbon race of the meet is to be the free-for-all for the Winnipeg purse, which totals $2,400. The exhibition opens July 12.

BOWIE WAS MUCH ADMIRED IN NEW YORK

Special to the Montreal Star.

New York, March 21.—The Sun says: There were two features in the hockey game between Ottawas, champions of Canada, and Wanderers last night in the St. Nicholas Skating Rink that stood out prominently. One was the remarkable team work of the Ottawas, which enabled that team to score 7 goals to their opponents' 2 and the other was the refereeing of Russell Bowie. Bowie is said to be the best referee in Canada, and as Canada has the best hockey in the world Bowie must be the best referee obtainable. He knows the game thoroughly, has a remarkably keen eye, and can almost interpret the feelings of the player when he makes a vicious jab.

While the game last night was brilliant and fast many of the spectators were more pleased with the work of Bowie. There were, of course, a few tricks that got by the referee, but he caught the most flagrant ones and as the result the game was clean and fair. Lesueur, the goal minder, of the Ottawa team, was perhaps the bright particular star because his work counted. Time after time Wanderers slammed hard shots at the Ottawa cage, but Leseueur was always on hand and without any apparent effort he stopped the puck and cleared instantly, so that only two shots during the whole evening got by him.

Ottawas attack was like the working of a well adjusted piece of machinery and it seemed, as one spectator remarked, "wherever the puck was there were four Ottawa players to two Wanderers." Shore at cover point was a tower of strength, Darraph, Walsh, Kerr and Ridpath on the line played their positions well. Lake too at point was a great help in the defence.

On Wanderers side Hern was good, but not the equal of Leseureur, and of the others Johnson worked like a Trojan.

Smaill too did well on the left wing; Ross, of whom much was expected, was a disappointment.

The fine-up:

Ottawa.		Wanderers.
Leseueur	goal	Hern
Lake	point	Ross
Shore	cover	Johnson
Darragh	rover	Gardner
Walsh	centre	Russell
Kerr	left	Smaill
Ridpath	right	Hyland

Referee, Russell Bowie, Montreal, Victorias; assistant, William Russell, New York Hockey Club; goal umpires, Britton and Harmon; timekeepers, Croker and Sullivan.

GREAT SOCCER STAR ON HIS WAY HERE

Jack Bell, the famous Scottish International, and one of the finest players that ever toed a ball, left Liverpool a few days ago for Canada. Here he intends to make his future home, and, should he strike the peaceful realms of Montreal Soccerdom, it would well repay some of our local clubs to keep a watchful eye for the great "Jock's" appearance, who, though his playing days may be over, the value of his advice, gained by such a long and honorable career, could not be estimated.

He was in his prime when there was unlimited wages, and rumor hath it that Bell was one of the most highly paid players, but he deserved every penny he got. He was sensible enough to look after himself, and always had an eye to the future. There never was a better footballer than Jack Bell, and his name will live long in the memory of those who saw him in the height of his form. Bell had the distinction of playing in three different positions for Scotland, and appeared equally at home at outside left, centre forward, or on the right wing. He played many brilliant games for Everton, and, in the final of 1897, when Aston Villa beat the Blues, he accomplished some exceedingly smart footwork, and probably worked harder than any member of the side in his effort to gain the verdict. He and Jack Taylor made a fine wing for Everton, and, when he left the Blues, he continued to do well for the great Celtic team of Glasgow, for two seasons, after which he returned to Everton via New Brighton Tower. Jack never failed in an international game, and it may be mentioned that he played outside right, outside left, and centre forward against England. His last club was Preston North End, and he was largely instrumental in lifting the old club into its proper place in the First Division. He was born in Dumbarton, and is a true "Son of the Rock."

The Grand Trunk Soccer Club, at its recent annual meeting, had a large and enthusiastic number of members present.

The secretary's report showed what strenuous work had been gone through, as upwards of 3,000 loads of soil have been dumped on the field for levelling. The team did fairly well, winning the Friedman Cup and taking a good position in the league.

The treasurer's report was also most gratifying and interesting, as it went to show in some small degree what a hold Soccer is gaining on the sport-loving public. The income was $420. Some $250 was spent on improving the ground. Furthermore the club has discharged all outstanding liabilities, and commences the coming season with a balance at the bank of $7.68, this being a most excellent performance for a first year club.

The following officers were elected for the coming season: President, Mr. T. Dalrymple; vice-president, Mr. L. Jehu, Jr.; secretary, Mr. J. Wilson; treasurer, Mr. C. McGregor; executive committee, Messrs. Duffie, Hunter, Morrice, Surgeon, Frazer, Wildgoose, Jehu, Sr., Tees, Brooks, H. Payne; grounds committee, Messrs. Langley, Delight, Hutton, Evenden, Barker, Yule, Jude, Bushell, Ball; selection committee, Messrs. Hewitt, Finlayson, Yule, Senior, Barker, trainer, W. Lawton.

Season tickets are now on sale from the secretary and treasurer. Price $1, juveniles 50c. Any player wishing to become a member of the above club kindly forward his name and address to the secretary Grand Trunk Football Club, Point St. Charles.

ZBYSCO WILL WRESTLE ROLLER HERE NEXT WEEK.

The wrestling contest arranged for Wednesday night at Sohmer Park between Eugene Tremblay and George Bother, of New York, has been declared off, to take place later on in New York City.

Zbysco, the giant Polish wrestler, who is after the heavyweight championship, and who says he can defeat both Gotch and Hackenschmidt, will meet Dr. Roller at Sohmer Park on Wednesday, March 29th, in a finish contest, the best two falls out of three to count. The Pole has improved wonderfully during the past year, and will be at his best when he takes on the clever doctor next week.

$1500 FOR CHARITY.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Winnipeg, Man., March 21.—Undoubtedly the largest amount secured from any Allan Cup series so far for charity is the sum just announced by the trustees as cleared from the recent Kenora-Victoria games at the Auditorium.

Mr. W. Northey, of Montreal, has notified the Vics that the amount clear and above all expenses was $1,500, and asked the Vics to prepare a list of the charitable institutions of Winnipeg most deserving, and worthy of a portion of this splendid purse.

Annual Meeting of the Mount Royal Lawn Tennis Club Showed Great Promise for Future

The club held its fourth annual meeting last night, in the M.A.A.A. Club house. The reports of the secretary and treasurer showed the club to be in a flourishing condition. The membership is practically full, and in order to give increased accommodation the directors have decided to lay out five clay courts this spring. This will give the club 14 courts in all.

A scheme will be started this summer for a new club house, which is greatly needed.

The directors' scheme of reorganization of the management of the running of the club was approved by the shareholders, and it was decided that the original nine directors should form a permanent board of trustees and lease the grounds and fixtures to the playing club which was organized with the same by-laws and constitution as the old club. By this means everyone, members and shareholders alike, has a voice in the club management.

The officers for the club this year were elected as follows:

Hon. president, Jas. L. McCulloch.
President, A. D. Anderson.
Vice-president, R. P. Jellett.
Hon. secretary, Alan C. Dunlop.
Hon. treasurer, A. S. Cassils.
Committee — Graham Drinkwater, Carr, H. Meredith Smith, R. T. Gaunt.

Prospects are good for the biggest season on record. Any information can be had from the secretary, A. C. Guy Dobbin.

AND NOW THE CUBS DESIRE W. MILLER

It is a generally accepted theory that uneasy lies the head that doesn't take off its moronet, or something like that, and lots of people are fond of talking about the immense responsibility of wealth, not but what they'd be willing to take the chance.

That's how S. Lichtenhein feels about Ward Miller, whom the Chicago Cubs are now after. No less.

It is barely three days since F. Lake of Boston was carried from our ice bound coasts clad in several fur coats and a patent heating system, but minus W. Miller, and now there comes word from Chicaga that we can have most anything they have for Ward.

It is understood that the Cubs have offered a half share in the stock yards and Senator Lorimer for Miller, but S. Lichtenhein hardened his heart.

Any clubs which feel that life is not complete without W. Miller should sneak up on a dark evening and swipe him, when S. Lichtenhein is asleep. Otherwise. No chance.

Nationals Feel They Are Not Being Well Treated By Having New Westminster Dates Refused

Mr. A. L. Caron, chairman of the Lacrosse Committee of the National A. A. A., expresses the indignation of the Association at President Murphy's action in refusing the Nationals dates in May for matches with the New Westminster team. Mr. Caron says: "We do not bring them here so much to make money as to show the lovers of lacrosse that, notwithstanding past criticism, Eastern lacrosse is better than Wastern, but that climatic, travelling and ground conditions force Eastern teams to show up much weaker on the coast than they really are."

Following National's acceptance of New Westminster's terms to come here to play two exhibition matchs, the executive wired to President Murphy to reserve thr 24th and the 27th of May, and went ahead with the other necessary arrangements, thinking that the matter of dates would never giv them any trouble. But they got a surprise yesterday, when a telegram was receivd from Toronto, informing them that the dates mentioned would be filled by schedule matches. As it is almost out of the question to bring off the exhibition games earlier than the 24th, this action of the president may mean that these games will have to be called off.

NEW M.A.A.A. CLUBHOUSE.

The building committee of the M.A.A.A. will meet to-morrow evening to further discuss the plans for the new ground club house, and take up the general business of the club in connection with the new rooms. The plans, which were originally prepared for the house, will have to be altered considerably before they conform with the more recently adopted plans, which call for more room, and it will probably be a week or ten days before the new revised plans are ready for inspection of the committee.

The M.A.A.A. swimming handicaps also continue to-morrow evening, and some close finishes are expected.

SOCCER MEETING TO-NIGHT.

The Montreal Junior Soccer League is the first of the Association football organizations to get into active operation for the coming season, meeting this evening at 443 St. James street, for general business.

The meeting is an important one, and several matters of vital interest to the clubs which constitute the league. At least one new club will apply for admission, and some alteration in schedule arrangements may be made.

The Same Apples in the Middle of the Barrel That Appear on Top--Keeping Faith with the Public, in Short—That's What it Means—

There Would NEVER, COULD Never Have Been Otherwise

This 12th Year of DIAMOND TIRES Acknowledged Supremacy

But it means MORE than this! Consider! Analyze! The ONE fact that Diamond Tires were the FIRST MOTOR TIRES MADE IN AMERICA would not have kept them in the FOREMOST RANK BEYOND ONE SINGLE SEASON.

If "Diamond" on a Tire or in our statements does not mean to you "GOOD APPLES ALL THROUGH THE BARREL"—and that TRIFLING WITH YOUR CREDULITY has never been a part of the DIAMOND POLICY, why, then—LOOK UP THE RECORD! Every Automobile tire buyer owes that much to HIMSELF.

TWELVE YEARS OF MANUFACTURING to a greatest mileage standard have meant the establishment of the most complete laboratory in the world devoted to the chemistry of rubber.

And these years have DEVELOPED AN AUTOMOBILE TIRE AND A FACTORY which in production and sales EXCEED THOSE OF ANY OTHER IN THE WORLD.

KEEPING FAITH WITH THE PUBLIC has also meant giving the benefit of reduced prices when crude rubber markets permitted. Notices advising a 10 per cent. reduction on Diamond casings and 15 per cent. on tubes Jan. 9, had been in the mail 48 HOURS when another company discovered this action and wired broadcast a similar notice ALSO CLAIMING THEREIN to be taking the INITIATIVE IN GIVING THE LOWERED PRICE.

BUT THIS MAY ME IMMATERIAL—IT IS SIMPLY AN EXAMPLE OF METHODS—and what we want to HAMMER HOME are the things THAT COUNT—To persuade you to consider what DETERMINES the service you are going to get FOR YOUR MONEY. IT IS THE QUALITY AND QUANTITY OF MATERIALS USED, THE QUALITY OF WORKMANSHIP AND THE KNOWLEDGE AND CHARACTER OF THE MEN BEHIND THE GUNS.

WE HAVE ALREADY TOLD YOU of the respective merits of the clincher type and the straight side or hookless type of tires. WE MAKE BOTH TYPES. Neither of them rim-cuts. This "rim-cutting" talk is putting up a BOGEY MAN TO FRIGHTEN YOU, NOWADAYS, ANYWAY. It is a thing of the DISTANT PAST, excepting only when tires are used on seriously imperfect rims, when ANY tire will be cut.

(In case you have not seen the advertisement referred to, let us mail newspaper proof.)

Ask your own INTELLIGENCE whether scientific development with GREATEST MILEAGE, always the thing to be achieved, means more than NOVELTIES in shapes and treads and "sizes," or any so-called talking points that, no matter how much advertised, have no merit of real efficiency which will bear the analysis of even the EXPERIENCED LAYMAN.

The Diamond straight-side tire IS THE BEST OF ITS KIND, AND ALL DIAMOND TIRES ARE SCIENTIFICALLY CORRECT IN SIZE.

DIAMOND TIRE PROPORTIONS as well as Diamond tire construction, have been determined by engineers who understand the PROBLEMS INVOLVED and whose experience is more extensive than is possessed in any other tire factory in America.

POINTS FOR ADVERTISING purposes are not the basis of any part of Diamond tire construction, nor do they enter into ANY OF THE CALCULATIONS OF OUR ENGINEERS. So-called "oversize" tires give you nothing —nothing, whatever that cost the manufacturer a penny or is of ANY VALUE TO YOU.

WHAT WE WANT YOU TO KNOW with regard to Diamond tires is that they offer you BETTER rubber, MORE RUBBER, THICKER TREADS—TIRES THAT WILL LAST LONGER, PUNCTURE LESS EASILY, STONE-BRUISE RARELY—THINGS THAT COUNT! NOT the immaterial, the advertising novelties, the FALSE AND MISLEADING TALKING POINTS THAT CAN DELIVER YOU NOT A THING IN MILEAGE.

SERVICE—THAT IS WHAT WE ARE SELLING. To assist in supplying it quickly to all, we are opening Service Stations in all sections—54 DIFFERENT CITIES—any of which will give you prompt attention on every enquiry, claim or requirement. Your dealer will be able to get you immediately any size or type of Diamond tire—casing or tube—for pleasure cars or commercial cars.

YOU CAN HAVE GOOD TIRE SERVICE. WE VENTURE TO SAY ALSO THAT WITH THE REDUCED PRICES ON DIAMOND TIRES NOW IN EFFECT, THAT EVEN THE MANUFACTURER OF LOW-PRICED CARS WILL NOT NOW RESIST FURNISHING THEM IF YOU SPECIFY DIAMOND AND STAND FIRM.

SAYS RECIPROCITY WILL RUIN HORSE TRADE IN ONTARIO

Well-Known Dealer Declares it Will Materially Lower Prices and Destroy Demand.

Toronto, March 21.—Mr C. A. Burns, one of the best known horse buyers in Ontario, has addressed a letter to the press in which he declares that reciprocity will ruin the horse business in Ontario. He says in part:

"The large increase in the number of automobiles used and auto-trucks in the United States has put a damper on the horse trade and several of the large sales stables in New York have absolutely closed down, and with a Reciprocity agreement Canada will be an outlet for these horses. And then again, the ranch-bred horses have lived out nine or ten months of the year or the whole year round while our horses are fed five or seven months on hay in the stables. How on earth can we compete with the horses of the United States?—for it costs more to breed horses in Canada.

"The buyers from Western Canada would go to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago, St. Louis, or Texas markets. On the three first-named markets they would get a clean-legged Percheron bred horse for less money than they could buy a Clyde horse of the same class and weight for in Toronto or anywhere in Ontario. The horses from the States of Minnesota, Dakota, Montana and Wisconsin are thoroughly acclimatized and suitable to use in Alberta Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

"The only protection now of the Ontario farmer is the duty. On a $200 horse, the duty is $65, and on a $150 horse there is a $30 duty at the present time. Remove this duty and let American horses come in here, and make it easy for Canadian buyers to go to the U. S. markets, and the Ontario farmer will get fully $40 to $90 per head less than he does now for his horses.

"Some people might think that the western farmer wants Reciprocity, but I am convinced that it is the American element alone that is crying for Reciprocity, and there are a large number of American farmers in the Canadian West. We must preserve Canada for Canadians, and the Ontario farmer will make a big mistake to think that he is going to benefit by Reciprocity."

COMPLAIN OF RESTRICTIONS.

British Association Receives Thousands of Applications.

Canadian Associated Press.

London, March 21.—At the annual meeting of the British Women's Emigration Association regret was expressed that when the need for women in Canada was so great the Government considered it necessary to impose restrictions entirely precluding the sailing of a very useful class.

The Association, it was stated, receives one thousand applications monthly from women eager to emigrate.

COUNTRY BEFORE PARTY KEYNOTE OF THE GREAT ANTI-RECIPROCITY DEMONSTRATION IN MONTREAL

Vast Gathering Filling Windsor Hall and Overflowing Into Dominion Square Unanimously Declares Against the Proposed Trade Deal With the United States.

HON. CLIFFORD SIFTON AND OTHER SPEAKERS CHEERED TO THE ECHO

Liberals and Conservatives Join in Denouncing the Agreement and Call Upon the Government to Stay Its Hand—Declare For An Appeal to the Country as a Last Resort.

That the people of Canada shall be given an opportunity to express individual opinion as to the merits, or otherwise, of the projected reciprocity pact, was the expressed desire of those citizens of Montreal who last night attended the various meetings called to discuss the measure now before the Parliament of the country.

"That policy"—the treaty—"will be destructive of every natural aspiration of the patriotic Canadian," said Hon. Clifford Sifton, and that opinion, judging from the manner in which it was received by the audience crowding Windsor Hall, was concurred in.

"The people should decide for themselves," said Mr. Sifton, a moment later, and there followed an outburst that had never before been heard inside those walls.

"Two men cannot bind the honor of this country," continued the former Minister of the Interior. "This question is so great as to obliterate all party lines." Here again there was a veritable storm of approval.

Again when Professor Stephen Leacock issued a challenge: "Let them come out and fight this question, from East to West, from North to South, and see who will win out," there was a roar and a thunder of applause.

"Shall we seek a beggarly entrance into a foreign Republic one hundred and fifty years after the first invitation?" asked Professor Leacock, and the answer that swept back was an unqualified negative.

As Mr. Sifton pointed out, there were many peculiar positions at the moment. There was he, himself, a long-standing Liberal, a former member of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's cabinet, associated with other Liberals, in turn associated with sturdy Conservatives, to fight this treaty.. That, he considered a curious position of affairs, but, as he pointed out, this mingling of men of various allegiances clearly proved that the question was altogether beyond party politics, and belonged to a wider sphere.

A Wonderful Demonstration.

No such wonderful demonstration has been witnessed in Montreall as that which took place last night. Apart entirely from the extraneous features, and from the enthusiasm of the younger element which added a holiday touch to a serious occasion, there was a solid mass of citizens who came to hear expression of the opinion of experienced men possessing calm judgment.

These men were of various political creeds, of different business interests, of professional and university life, also farmers—one of the latter class indeed arose and seconded the resolution afterwards adopted, which gave concrete expression to the united opinion of the gathering in Windsor Hall.

There was no doubt at all as to the opinion of those who filled Windsor Hall. They were opposed to reciprocity, they were opposed to any measure that endangered the future of Canada, they were opposed to any enactment concerning fiscal measures that was not first placed before the people of the country for their sanction, they were opposed to any measure that threatened the ties that bind the component parts of the Empire.

All this was evident in the approval given to the various speakers and it was expressed with a finality and an outspokenness in the standing vote which approved of the resolutions adopted which clearly and concisely opposed reciprocity between Canada and the United States and demanded that the Government place this question before the people of the country for an expression of opinion. It was a unanimous vote. As the audience rose there was an outburst of cheering, which swelled till the walls rocked. No tally of the vote was required!

Discredit on McGill.

A small minority of the students, led by a rowdy, made a violent attack on the carriage in which Mr. Sifton was seated and ejected him and his friends, then saturating the carriage with coal oil, set it on fire, dragged it through the streets and began a wanton attack on property, smashing windows, tearing down trolley wires and generally acting like a gang of banditti.

It will be remembered that during the American war, twenty men rode from Canada into St. Albans, held up and robbed the banks and terrorized the citizens, decamping with $500,000, for which duel reparation was made by the Dominion.

It will be recalled, too, how two highwaymen have from time immemorial held up stage coaches filled with passengers, who surrendered everything to the bandits.

The rush on Mr. Sifton's carriage was unprovoked, utterly wanton and most inhospitable to a peaceable visitor to our city. McGill owes it to itself to apologize to Mr. Sifton, and the respectable students owe it to themselves to repudiate the rowdyism. At a time when McGill is asking for the support of the public, it cannot very well permit such dastardly conduct to go unpunished. The ringleaders should be compelled to make a public apology, and restitution or be expelled from the University.

Although the batch of ruffians devoid of all argument except violence, have made a hero of Mr. Sifton and done real good to the anti-reciprocity cause they belong to an institution of repute which rowdyism always injures.

In Windsor Hall was a curious gathering. The greater portion of the audience was, of course, men, but there was a surprisingly large number of women.

Those who came early were enabled to look around the hall, view the patriotic decorations and read the various devices, such as:

"The 20th is Canada's Century, hold it!"

"What we Have We'll Hold!"

"Canada First. Wake up Canada!"

"Canada at the Parting of the Ways."

"Canada and the Empire."

"United we Stand, Divided we Fall. In Union There is Strength."

"Why Stem the Rising Tide of Prosperity?"

RESOLUTIONS CALL UPON ALL PATRIOTIC CANADIANS TO UNITE IN OPPOSING RECIPROCITY 'PACT

The resolutions adopted at last night's Anti-Reciprocity meeting in Montreal, declare that a crisis is imminent in the affairs of the Dominion. They call upon all patriotic Canadians to lay aside party prejudices and unite in opposing the ratification of the Reciprocity Agreement upon purely national grounds, going, if need be, to the length of an appeal to the electorate of the country.

The resolutions were proposed by Mr. T. Chase Casgrain, K.C., and seconded by Mr, Thomas A. Trenholme, a life-long Liberal. They were adopted by a mighty shout, in which practically every voice in the audience joined—a shout, as suggested by Mr. Casgrain, that should be heard in Ottawa.

The full text of the resolutions follows:

Resolved, that this meeting unites with Toronto and with Canadians from coast to coast and protests against and condemns the reciprocity agreement now before Parliament, without regard to party politics, for the reasons:

1. Because in the year 1897 the Parliament of Canada repealed the legislation then existing relating to reciprocity, and since such repeal neither the people of Canada nor their Parliament have entrusted the Government with any duty or authority to negotiate with respect to any agreement on the subject.

2. Because the present unexampled prosperity of Canada is the result of a policy which has been pursued in the development of her trade and of her natural resources. Because this has involved the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars upon railways, canals, steamship and other means of transportation between East and West and West and East, and the obligation to incur further great expenditures for the same purpose, and because further development along the same lines would be seriously checked by the proposed reciprocity agreement and the benefits of the expenditures referred to would be to a great extent lost.

3. Because it is essential to the continued national unity and development of Canada that no trade relations with any country should be agreed to by Canada on any basis which would check the growth and development of trade between the various parts of Canada with each other, or between Canada and the various parts of the Empire; and because the proposed reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States of America would seriously check the growth and development of this trade.

4. Because any present benefit to any section of Canada or to any interests or individuals therein which might accrue from the proposed agreement would be more than offset by the loss and injury which would accrue to other sections and interests and individuals, and because the result to Canada as a whole would be greatly injurious.

5. Because as a result of the proposed agreement the freedom of action possessed by Canada with reference to her tariffs and channels of trade would be greatly curtailed, and she would be hampered in developing her own resources in her own way and by her own people.

6. Because after some years of reciprocity under the proposed agreement the channels of Canada's trade would have become so changed that a termination of the agreement and a return by the United States to a protective tariff as against Canada would cause disturbance of trade to an unparalleled extent, and because the risk of this should not be voluntarily undertaken by Canada.

7. Because to avoid such disruption Canada would be forced to extend the scope of the agreement so as to include manufacturies and other things.

8. Because the agreement as proposed would weaken the ties which bind Canada to the Empire, and because the unrestricted reciprocity which would naturally follow would still further weaken those ties and make it more difficult to ever effect political union with the United States.

9. Because the disruption in the channels of Canada's trade which was caused by the termination of the reciprocity treaty of 1854 and the subsequent establishment of a protective tariff by the United States, gave rise to a decided leaning in many minds towards annexation with the United States, and this at a time when Canada was mainly peopled by native-born Canadians and other British subjects, to whom the prospect of annexation was most unwelcome, and because Canada in a comparatively few years will have millions of newcomers, a large percentage of whom will come from foreign countries, and because if Canada should then have to choose between disruption of her channels of trade with the United States or political union with them, the preservation of Canadian autonomy and Canadian nationality would be enormously more difficult.

10.—That in so much as Canadian nationality is now threatened with a more serious blow than any it has hitherto met with, therefore, Canadians who place the interests of Canada before those of any party or section or individuals therein at this time of national crisis should unite and oppose by every legitimate means the ratification of the reciprocity agreement,and, in the event of ratification, oppose reciprocity by appealing to the electorate of our country.

Destruction of National Aspirations, Declares Mr. Sifton

Sir Alexander Lacoste proposed that Mr. Charles Chaput take the chair and the latter having accepted that office the meeting commenced.

Mr. Chaput first of all thanked the women for the active part they had taken in the work of the Anti-Reciprocity League. "I think I may fairly say," remarked the chairman, "that our work will bring us to success. We are sorry that a more spacious hall could not have been secured, but we are only at the beginning of our work and we intend to go on with the fight. On our invitation, you have come to protest against the proposed reciprocity treaty with the United States. We are not opposed to the treaty because it is proposed by the government, nor should we be for it because the Opposition is against it. It stands over and above politics. It must be considered from a national point of view. We have here to-night prominent Liberals who have not hesitated to break from party ties. This proves that the love of their country stands above the love of their party. I offer these gentlemen in the name of our League, my sincere congratulations."

While all the speakers got a splendid hearing and were frequently interrupted by applause, it was Hon. Clifford Sifton that the crowd had come to hear. Mr. Z. A. Lash was the first speaker and opened the speech-making in a way that pleased the dense audience.

Tremendous Ovation To Hon. Mr. Sifton.

Mr. Sifton was given a magnificent reception and his speech was followed closely and punctuated with enthusiastic applause. Following is the complete text of his speech:—

"I have been asked by the Anti-Reciprocity League to come here this evening for the purpose of discussing a great national issue which has arisen in our affairs, and my purpose in coming is to endeavor if I can to contribute something to the intelligent solution of the most important question that has arisen in our public affairs for many years. I hope in doing so that I shall be able to express myself in such a way as not to offend the susceptibilities of any person who may not concur with my views.

"This is a rather curious discussion. It gives rise to very curious circumstances. Among other curious circumstances may be noted the fact that my friend, Mr. Casgrain, and myself are upon the same platform, and that Mr. Lash and myself, both of whom were born Liberals, and bred Liberals, and educated Liberals ,and have been fighting Liberals, myself, perhaps, a little more than Mr. Lash—that we are here to criticise and oppose the action of the Liberal Government. This curious position of affairs has arisen on account of the fact that the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier has, as we allege, suddenly and unwarrantably, reversed the policy upon which it was elected to office. (Loud applause.) Sir Wilfrid Laurier says that he has not reversed the policy upon which he was elected. This is an important point to settle. It is an important point for any member of the Liberal party to settle, whether, in fact, the government which he supported and which he assisted in electing to office, was authorized to enter into the negotiations and make the treaty which is the subject of this discussion.

"Now, the policy of the Liberal party, so far as its fiscal affairs were concerned, was partially settled in 1897 when the tariff which we now have was substantially fixed, just as it is now. There have been changes since then, but they have not been of a serious kind.

"Subsequently to that time, there was an effort made to secure reciprocal trade relations with the United States. In the year 1898, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues spent a considerable time in Washington. They returned without having made any arrangement, and then the Government at Ottawa, of which Sir Wilfrid was prime minister ,settled upon the policy upon which it would appeal to the country in the year 1900. And in the year 1900 a general election was held in which the fiscal policy of the Government was fully and completely discussed from one end of Canada to the other; and after full and complete discussion, it was approved by a very large majority of the people of Canada in almost every province and section of the country. So that policy may be regarded as having been not only adopted by the Government, but approved by the people.

"In the year 1904, the Government again went to the country. It again placed before the people its policy. It was again approved. And again in 1908, the same course was adopted; and at no one of these three general elections was there a syllable breathed in favor of reciprocal trade relations with the United States by any member of the Government or any person who spoke in behalf of the Government.

"I think the policy that was adopted was a fair policy. I do not represent a Montreal constituency or a manufacturing constituency. I have had the honor for twenty-three years of representing in the Legislature of my own province and in the Parliament of Canada, a constituency of Manitoba farmers; and I am told by some people who appear to know more about it than I do myself, that I have represented that constituency for the last time. That is a matter, however, which may be settled later on.

Moderate Policy to Suit Whole of Canada.

"What I desired to say now is that I am speaking to the question of policy as it affects, not particularly Montreal or the constituency I represent, but the people of the whole Dominion. I think we must in this country, if we are to have a country worth having at all, agree to compromise and arrive at a policy which can be moderately acceptable to all sections of the country. That was such a policy as we adopted in 1897. I explained and I defended that policy before my constituents against bitter arguments on the part of former friends and foes, and after a strenuous contest, my electors decided by a large majority that they were in favor of the policy of the Government.

"In so far as that policy was concerned, it has two or three distinctive features. In the first place, it was very noticeable in 1907 that Mr. Fielding's changes in the tariff reductions were made on behalf of the farmers; also, consideration was given to the manufacturers in connection with the duty on raw material. And if you will now make an examination or cause to be made an examination, of the scale of the prices, as they have run in Canada on an average from the year 1890 to 1911, you will find that the prices will show that it has been a fair fiscal policy, in that the farming class has not been exploited for the benefit of the people in the cities and towns and those engaged in manufacturing, because these prices show that the articles which the farmers have to purchase have risen only a trifle; whereas, those articles which the farmer sells have risen from 37 to 40 per cent. all along the line. I am not stopping to give figures on these points; I am only referring briefly to the facts, but the figures will, I think, bear out what I say.

"So, there is no ground at all for the suggestion that the manufacturing population of Canada is exploiting the farming population, but, on the contrary, it would appear as though the farming population was getting the best of it.

"Let me come back to this question of policy—this issue between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his followers, because this is an important point for the members of the Liberal party to settle. There was a time when it was the policy of the Liberal party to favor reciprocity with the United States. Sir Wilfrid Laurier reminded me that there was a plank in the platform of the Liberal party adopted at the convention in 1893, which, in fact, I had mentioned myself, when addressing the House of Commons.

"It was at one time the policy of the Liberal party to secure reciprocity. Leading members of the Liberal party declared that Boston and New York were the legitimate and natural seaports and other leaders of the Liberal party described Canada as a country that would not be a seaport country at all because it would be necessary to fight against geography.

"These were points which had been abandoned, I maintain. And as for myself, I think that if they had not been abandoned, then I should not have been a member of the Liberal party in the House of Commons, and a member of the Liberal Government, and subsequently a supporter of that Liberal Government.

Sir Wilfrid Denounced Reciprocity Four Times.

"Was this policy abandoned?

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier says in Parliament that it was not abandoned. He says that he was not conscious that it was abandoned. He says that it was held, not in abandonment, but in abeyance. (Laughter.)

"When Sir Wilfrid Laurier came from Washington after the abortive attempt to secure reciprocity in 1898, he gave a public statement in the following terms: 'If we know the hearts and minds of our people at present, I think I am not making too wide a statement when I say that the general feeling in Canada is not in favor of reciprocity. There was a time when Canadians would have given many things to obtain the American market. There was a time when the market of the great cities of the Union was the only market we had, but these days are past and over now. We are not dependent on the American market now.'

"This was in 1899, just before the elections of 1900, when he was making a public address, upon which, as the leader of the Liberal party, the Premier established his policy on this all-important point.

"A good many years later, while still in Parliament, and when a member of the Imperial congress in London, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said:

"'There was a time when we were wanting reciprocity with the United States, but our efforts and our offers were put aside. We have said good-bye to that trade and we now put all our hopes upon the British trade.' (Cheers.)

"In 1909 Canada has opened her doors to Great Britain in the hope that she would ultimately receive British preferential treatment from the Mother Country.

"Then when we were called upon to expend large sums of money in connection with transportation—my friend, Mr. Lash, has quoted, I believe, what Sir Wilfrid Laurier said when he brought forward his main reason for the enormous expenditure on the Grand Trunk Pacific; the absolute necessity of rendering ourselves independent of the Americans.

"Therefore, I give you his words—once, twice, three times, four times, the Prime Minister of Canada in these words, deliberately, categorically, stated that he wanted to have nothing to do with the United States, and that reciprocity was at an end. That was the specific, definite statement which comes from his own lips.

"In point of fact there is no distinction whatever in this contention that reciprocity was not abandoned, but held in abeyance. It was abandoned. It was publicly abandoned and the leader of the party made a public proclamation of faith to that effect and I venture to say that there were many tens of thousands of people in the last two elections who would not have supported the Government had they not been clear upon these points. (Cheers.)

"It is for these reasons that I say that it is the Government that is at fault. It is not Mr. Lash and myself that are at fault. We are still supporters of the policy which we advocated before the people of the country from time to time, and we only desire that the Government stick to the policy which it put into effect, and which has been so successful. (Cheers.)

Canada is Prosperous, Why Not Keep Her So?

"Under that policy we have had the most successful results. It is quite safe to say that there is no country in the world that is man for man of its population in so prosperous a position as is the Dominion of Canada at the present time. There is not one branch of our business which is not in a satisfactory condition. Our foreign trade has increased largely, our revenue has jumped from thirty-six million to a hundred million. Pick up a paper from the east, from the west, or from the centre of Canada and you will see nothing but prosperity, everything is going on in the most encouraging way. This is the result of the work which has been done in the past.

"Now then, having arrived in that position and finding ourselves in so enviable a state and in view of the offrits that have been made in past years to bring desirable settlers to our country are now bearing fruit, so that in this respect nothing more is to be desired, what would be the proper policy for the Government to pursue?

"Would it not be natural that the Government should sit down and say everything is going on prosperously, our people are doing splendidly and our business prospects are the brightest? Should we not take stock of our National resources and see if in this Dominion of Canada we can form a Nation which will avoid the mistakes that have been made in other countries and avoid the poverty and the distress which accompanies it and which is so common in other places. This we should be able to accomplish knowing as we do what has happened in other countries. (Applause.)

"We have many serious problems to solve respecting public health, which have not been solved. Problems regarding the housing of the poor, which here in your city of Montreal must be an important problem; the abolition of the slum districts is another important problem, and many others which are too numerous to mention.

"These should be the important problems which the Dominion of Canada must solve and these are questions which are of more importance than the making of a treaty which will drive our resources to the people to the south of the line.

Reciprocity Means Sharing U. S. Panics.

"Our friends of the Government say they have entered into this agreement for the purpose of assisting the prosperity of the people.

"I have no idea that the carrying into effect of this treaty would seri-

CAMORRISTS ATTACK EVIDENCE, CLAIMING IT IS MANUFACTURED

Testimony Indicates That Accused Will Accuse Carabineers of Making a Case.

Viterbo, Italy, March 21.—The Camorrists on trial for the murder of two of their number, are attempting the defence that they are the victims of false evidence manufactured by the Legion of Carabineers of Naples, who, while accomplishing the apprehension of the defendants sought to discredit the police of Naples.

This was the defence set up by Guiseppe Salvi when he was interrogated at the resumption of the case to-day.

To-day Salvi was confronted with a ring, which had belonged to Cuoccolo, and which the authorities had found hidden in the mattress of a bed at the home of a woman known as a friend of the accused. The theory of the police was that this ring was to be sent to Luigi Arena as proof of Cuoccolo's death.

Salvi is a small man, and he called the attention of the court to this fact saying: "The strong and dreaded Camorrists would never think of employing a man of my size to murder an able bodied woman."

As to the finding of the ring, he declared that it had been placed in the bed by the Carabineers in a deliberate effort to make evidence against the Camorrists. This assertion though not unexpected, produced something of a sensation in the court, as it made plain that the Carabineers are to be attacked.

The priest Cirro Vitozzi is suffering from angina pectoris, and it was against the advice of the prison physicians that he went to court to-day. While he was being taken thither the springs of the wagon broke.

At the close of the morning session it developed that one of the jurors had been taken ill, and as a consequence the proceedings were not resumed this afternoon.

Across the Continent in 10 days 15 hours 13 minutes

The ten and a half day-and-night record of the Reo from New York to San Francisco wasn't made just for the fun of beating a six-cylinder car that cost $4000.

Certainly not. We did it because it is the shortest and surest way to prove to you, that the Reo will do everything you can possibly ask of a motor-car.

Reliability. That is the most important part of the proof. Half of the nearly 4000 miles between New York and San Francisco is desert and mountains—the very worst roads in the country: deep wash-outs, that constantly threatened the life of the car; rocks in the road, often no road at all—not to speak of the deep mud of the fertile middle west. And yet the Reo kept to its steady 400 or so miles a day, with not a thing done to the engine the whole trip.

Power. The Rocky and Sierra Mountains and the desert had a lot harder and stiffer climbs than you will ever encounter.

Speed. In spite of bad roads and not too good weather the Reo beat the $4000 six-cylinder car by nearly five days.

Comfort. Human beings could not have endured the strain of that trip, if the car had not the light weight and easy springs which make for extreme comfort.

This record clears away at one stroke all the imaginary disadvantages of a well designed and well-built light car, and leaves the advantages standing out clear and strong.

Economy of first cost and operation

Buoyancy a delightful sensation in motoring

Safety you can control it more perfectly

Comfort easy springs because of light weight

Full use of power The easy springs take up the shocks on rough roads

Buy with both sides of your dollar. Whatever car you get, insist upon proof somewhere near equal to the Reo's. Buy a certainty, not a chance.

ously at the moment interfere with the progress of Canada. Our agricultural production is so great, our natural resources are being developed so rapidly that there is practically nothing short of a catastrophe of some kind that would prevent us from going on, for the present at least, in making great progress.

"What I think will happen is this. We have gone along for the past twelve years without having anything that could be looked upon as hard times. We had in 1907 a falling off in our business to a certain extent, but nothing serious enough to be termed hard times, and this is the real test of our prosperity. During the twelve years, as I have said, we have not had one serious check. On the other side of the line they have had at least three, and one of them resulted in a panic which reached over a very wide district and which was followed by no end of suffering, especially among the poorer classes who were deprived of their labor and who had no other means of providing themselves with the necessaries of life.

"The result of our tying ourselves up with the people to the south of us will be that we will go on enjoying the prosperity we now enjoy until the next panic when we will have the honor and the pleasure of joining them in their financial embarrassment.

"What do they say? They say that this treaty will be followed by great prosperity. So far as the great prosperity is concerned when we have arrived at such a position that we can claim to be about the most prosperous country in the world it is hardly necessary for us to offer any artificial stimulus to that prosperity.

"We are doing magnificently anyway. Why take a chance in wrecking that which it has taken us years to accomplish, and, mark me, when distress does come it never falls upon the people who are well to do, it always comes upon the poor man, the laboring man, the man who is the least able to bear it.

"We are told that in addition to bringing about a more prosperous condition of affairs it will increase American immigration into the Northwest. I know something about that myself, as it was I who sent the first agent to the Western States, and it was I who organized the staff which brought the first farmers from the Western States into the Canadian North-west. I think that the American immigrants who have gone into the North-west have been of the greatest value to Canada. They have come in the proportion of about one in three, British one-third, Continental Europe one-third, and American one-third.

"I have no hesitation in saying that I can conceive nothing worse than that the figures should be reversed with the Americans predominating and controlling the affairs of these provinces.

"This would be most undesirable, and I can only say that this treaty which has been drawn up was unwise and most unstatesmanlike from first to last. (Hear, hear.)

United States Would Run Canada's Business.

"They say to us that they are going to give the farmers ninety millions of people to whom they can sell their products, and in answer we say that these ninety million of people produce more agricultural products themselves than we do. For instance, we find that in the year before last the United States exported over four hundred million dollars worth of food products, bread stuffs, 216 million and animal products 156 millions, both of which products are exported by us and in which exports the United States are our stiffest competitors in the markets of the world.

"And what do we propose to do; we propose to take down the bars and let ninety millions of people, who export two or three times what we do, dominate our markets and go into competition with them

"I do not think any business man would succeed for long if he let a rival firm run his factory. That is what is proposed by this agreement—to allow an opposition firm to come and sit in the office, hold the strings, turn the switches, and run the factory.

I have been in public life for quite a while, although I am not a very old man, and I have seen a good many Government acts brought down to the Legislature of my own province, and later to the House of Commons, but in 33 years I have never seen a Government bring an important proposition to Parliament, and so utterly fail to make good in argument as the Government has done in this case. (Hear, hear).

"I do not say that because I want to say anything unpleasant about the Government. Some members of the Government are my closest personal friends—at least they have been; I dont know whether they will be after this. (Laughter). I have not the slightest desire in the world to cavil at anything they do, or unnecessarily to make a mountain out of a mole hill, but I have watched the debate with great closeness, and on account of the fact that I suffer from an infirmity of hearing, and cannot hear the debate in the House of Commons, I have done what perhaps no human being ever did before, in the case of a five weeks' debate. I have read every line of every debate from cover to cover. I have thus made myself familiar with every argument advanced on either side. And the statement I am prepared to make is this—that the Government has totally failed to put before Parliament or before the people of Canada a fair, comprehensive statement of the statistics which it is necessary to have in order to understand this question.

"When I spoke in the House I suggested that the Government should give us proper information. Members of the Opposition have continually worked over it. They have produced a book which was issued by President Taft's Government and placed before Congress, which book gave members of Congress proper information in order to enable them to decide, but our Government has persistently refused to give anything in the nature of definite information on which we can decide this question. We have, therefore, been compelled to make use of cursory information such as individuals might be able to obtain. However, the digging for this information has been going on for five or six weeks, and about 150 men have been getting it, so that we have pretty nearly enough to enable us to form an opinion. Still, it has not been scientifically done, in the thorough and complete manner that it ought to be.

"The Government has failed to show that the result of this treaty will give the Canadian farmer a better market than he has now. In my own judgment the Canadian farmer gets a better price now than he will if this treaty goes into effect.

Canadian Farmer East And West Would Lose.

"Certain particular instances have been brought up and discussed. For instance, the question of the price of cattle and hogs are two questions which are important for the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. My own judgment is that a comparison of the prices of these products in Canada with the prices in the United States will show that Canadian producers will lose instead of benefiting by the taking down of the barriers between the two countries.

"A good deal has been said on the question of barley, and it is a significant fact that those who discuss it begin to do so just as though there had been no change in this country in the past 20 or 25 years. They say that 20 years ago the farmers of Ontario sold barley to the United States, and that they were then shut out by the McKinley tariff, which left them without a market for their barley! This agreement, it is said ,would place the farmers in the position they were before the McKinley tariff, and would encourage them once more to grow barley for export.

"Now let me tell you what the facts are. In 1890 Ontario produced in round figures 15 million bushels of barley. In 1910 the farmers of that province raised 19 million bushels, and did it from less land.

"So you see the statement that the poor farmer has been poverty stricken and has gone out of raising barley has not the slightest shadow of foundation. Instead of that he is producing more, and is farming his land better than he was when he was exporting to the United States. He finds that the barley for which he would get 85 cents in the United States is worth over a dollar for feeding purposes, and he is therefore retaining it on his farm for feed, as he ought to do under a proper system of agriculture.

"I have not much time to discuss the effect of reciprocity in the West. The essential thing in connection with the north-western wheat is, first, that it should be kept pure and unmixed; second that the control of the transportation of the wheat should be retained; third, that as much of that wheat should be milled in Canada as possible, so that the by-products of the mill should go back to the farm for feeding purposes. There is no country in the world that ever made a practice of continuously shipping raw products of the farm to other countries and at the same time succeeded in retaining its own country in a condition of agricultural prosperity. (Loud cheers.)

"One of the effects of this arrangement the Government has entered into, is that it puts a premium on bad farming by encouraging the shipping of the raw products of Canada to a foreign country, there to be worked up at a profit, while they send us back the finished product at an enhanced price.

"Then there is the clause relating to pulp and paper. We have in the province of Quebec one of the grandest assets which any province could possibly have. The whole question has been studied for years, and everything relating to this splendid asset of pulpwood is now in a satisfactory condition. A policy has been formulated and is being carried out, and the people are united in favor of that policy. This policy would result in transferring the pulp and paper industry to the Province of Quebec, with the greatest possible benefit to the people. It means careers for our young men, a home market for our farmers, and benefit to everybody.

"What does our Government do? The United States want to get our pulp wood. They do not want paper so much as pulp. And they want it in the form of pulp wood. It has been shown in the debates at Quebec that the province gets ten times as much benefit from the manufacture of paper as from the export of the material in the raw form of pulpwood.

Canada's Industries No Chance Against Trusts.

"All other industries are the same. Our policy is, or should be, to work up the raw products of the country and enable these products to contribute to the greatest possible extent to the prosperity of the people.

"But under this treaty the north-west mills of the States will get our hard wheat on the same terms as our own western millers. They have a better market than our mills have for the by-products. They will be able therefore to drive our mills out of the export trade, and compel them to confine their efforts to Canada alone. Talk to any big miller, and he will tell you that he does not make much money out of the export business, but that it is this business which enables him to keep his mill running, when otherwise it would be shut. It is therefore, of the utmost importance that our millers should be able to compete in the export trade.

Then take the Chicago packers. The meat trust is the greatest in the world, except the Standard Oil Trust, and it can produce cheaper than any competitor. It has such an organization ,and such an enormous business, making use of every part of the animal to such advantage that if the Trust were to buy cattle in Spokane, Washington, it could ship them to Chicago, work them up in the packing houses, and ship them back to Spokane and undersell any competitor who bought the cattle on the market there, and butchered it locally.

"Now, what chance do you think the small meat packing establishments of Canada have against that trust? Not the slightest chance. (Applause). The meat trust people may think for diplomatic reasons it is worth while to let a meat establishment live in Canada for a little while, but so far as living in competition with them is concerned we have not the slightest chance.

"Now, let us come to the railways. The railways in Canada spend about 50 per cent. on their labor and material in Canada. This is for the benefit of Canada—they go about it for the purpose of building up their business, of course, but that is the effect. We are going to cut off this. By this treaty, which will carry the trade north and south we are going to take off a large slice of the earnings of the railways, cut down the freight rates to give it to the railroads of a foreign country.

"Take the pulp and paper business. Do you think that our friends to the south of us got that clause about pulp and paper to ornament the agreement and fill so much space? It looks innocent, but it is not so innocent as it looks, and just as surely as this treaty comes into effect, you will find that the Government of Quebec will be put in a difficult position. The government of Quebec will be crowded on every side and by hook or by crook, in some way, these regulations regarding pulp wood will be abrogated and our American friends will get our pulp wood as they want it.

"Why is it that the chairman of the newspaper association of the United States is spending his time and his money to get this agreement passed? Is he doing it for love of us?

Hon. Clifford Sifton addressing the Anti-Reciprocity meeting at the Windsor Hall last night. Behind Mr. Sifton sit the Vice-Presidents of the meeting, comprising half a hundred of Montreal's leading citizens, prominent Liberals and Conservatives. Mr. Z. A. Lash, of Toronto, and Mr. Thomas A. Trenholme, both life-long Liberals, who addressed the meeting, are also shown in the sketch.

The newspaper association of the United States wants to get cheap paper; we are satisfied to let them get cheap paper,but we want the American mills to be located here. (Applause).

"Furthermore, what is the position of our farmers under this agreement? You have a great market in Montreal —three, four, or five hundred thousand people who have to get three meals a day when they can get them, and it is a good thing to know that nearly everybody in this country has three meals a day, and that in Canada we have no such difficulties as in older and less fortunate countries. You have a great market here, and I find that you have actually been buying food stuffs, pork, beef, mutton, eggs and butter, from foreign countries, and to some extent these things have affected prices that our farmers get.

Favored Nation Clause Would Hurt Farmer.

"Under this agreement, which is made for the purpose of giving our farmers better markets, practically the whole world is let into the farmers' market free of duty. That is the effect of the treaty. The United States comes in first of all and in addition to the United States, there are several other countries, including the whole of the British Empire, which come in by reason of what is known as the Favored Nations' Clause, which requires us to give the same terms to these countries as we give to any other country.

"So that when we make an agreement with the United States in regard to butter, eggs, pork and beef, it affects the other countries, notably Austria-Hungary, Switzerland, Denmark, the Argentine Republic, which have the same privileges—so that Denmark, Switzerland, the Argentine, Austria-Hungary, New Zealand will send agricultural products to Canada and compete free of duty. They are doing it now successfully in many respects, and paying the duty. In some particular lines of produce they are competing successfully.

"But when duties are removed, then, I think, the farmer will begin to get a better idea of competition in farm products. The farmer will find that in large lines of these products for which he gets a first rate price, the market will be destroyed and demoralized by large quantities of the produce from foreign countries.

"I think the political results to the gentlemen responsible for this treaty will not be good. They may take a little time to find it out; these things sometimes do not manifest themselves all at once. But, remember, under this treaty that in all these vast lines of agriculture, the countries that produce the same things, wherever there is an unmarketable surplus in that line that can be produced cheaper than the Canadian farmer can produce it, that article can be dumped into Canada in competition with the Canadian farmer. That is the effect under the Favored Nations' Clause.

"I call your attention to the fact that whatever may be said about the manufacturers, there is no country except Denmark, which prospers in agriculture, except its agriculture is protected. The farmers of Germany are prosperous; they are protected to the hilt. The only farmers who are not protected are the farmers of Denmark, and they are educated up to a point which we have not yet attained, and which we cannot hope to attain for some time to come. They are specialists in dairying and nobody can undertake to compete with them, and we cannot undertake to compete with them, so they have not the necessity of protection. But wherever there are farm products of a miscellaneous character, you will find that they are protected to the hilt.

England Paid Fearful Price for Free Trade.

"Look at the conditions of England. England has built up her trade under a free trade policy and unquestionably the best minds of the country believe that free trade is the best policy for the country, but she has paid a fearful price in the total destruction of her agriculture. Her agricultural population is a diminishing quantity. A friend of mine in the public service in this country told me the other day that in a parish of Scotland, there were not at the present time more than forty people for every 150 when he was a boy. That story can be told all through Scotland and Great Britain. The rural population is being destroyed and it cannot possibly be built up under a system of free trade.

"That is the system which our friends desire to import here. But the marvellous thing is that they think they can put the farmer on a free trade basis and that the farmer will continue to pay taxes on his manufactured goods. A more insane proposition could not be imagined. If you protect one part, you must protect the other. You cannot expect the farming population to pay taxes while the other pays none. Therefore, the net result of this must be that if this treaty comes into effect the farming population will rise as they are now beginning to do, if they are not to have protection of our products and will say: 'Take off the duty on the manufactures and let us have the benefit.'

"Who is going to benefit by this agreement? The American trusts, first of all, the American newspaper association, the Chicago beef trust, Mr. Hill's railroad in the northwest. You have five or six great aggregations of American capital, and this treaty is expressly formed to let them get into this country to dominate the business that our American friends want every water power on the international boundary lines. There is not a water power on the international boundary line that an American company is not trying to secure. We had this fight about the Long Sault dam; we have succeeded two years in succession, but it never stops. They will keep on session after session until it wears us down or finds us asleep, and then they will get what they want. They want the water power. They want our market for their manufactures, our pulp wood, our timber. They want our coasting trade. We have magnificent boats built in Canadian shipyards—perhaps some of you do not know this, built on the great lakes within the last few years, but our good friends to the south would like to grasp these for themselves and in this arrangement they will drive our vessels off the water.

Dependence on States Result of Reciprocity.

"Are they going to stop desiring these things, are they going to become purely philanthropic and drop their desires as soon as we make this arrangement?

"What will our position be in five years? We will have lost our foreign market for our farm products; it will go to the United States, with the exception of the surplus of wheat to England. We will become dependent upon the United States. Upon that point a number of curious arguments are presented.

"People say that it is an insult to the loyalty of the Canadian people to say that if they trade more freely with the Americans they will become disloyal. No one suggests that by this reason they will become disloyal, only I say, it does not upset the point. Some people say, and their argument is a little better, that we have been increasing our trade with the United States and that we have not been more disloyal. That looks a little better.

The Reason Why Dependence Follows.

"But here is the reason why: The trade that we have been doing with the United States is not of such a character as to make us in any way dependent upon them. We sell them some goods, but we do not have to sell them the goods. There are a few lines that might suffer—the lumber of the Ottawa valley, for instance, but it is not a serious item for Canada. And as to the goods which we buy from the United States, if we do not buy them there, we would get them nearly as well from other places. The increasing trade with the United States has not put us in a position of dependence. (Cheers.)

"But under this treaty, every item of farm produce from the Atlantic to the Pacific will be in a different position. It will naturally find its market in the nearest place. British Columbia will find its market in the United States, the prairie provinces will find their market in the adjoining States, Ontario and Quebec will find theirs in the adjoining States and the Maritime provinces will find their markets in New England. There can be no doubt about this. It is not supposed to be open to question. That is what the advocates of the treaty say they want to have.

"So far as foreign markets are concerned we become dependent upon the markets of the United States because practically everything is dependent upon the sale of the products of Canadian farms from time to time, so that when the United States comes to us and places the hand on our shoulder, and you can depend that though it be covered by velvet it will be an iron hand, or a hand that represents ninety million of people. They will say, "your arrangements about this matter are not very satisfactory, our people will develop this for you, there is no market for it on the Canadian side."

"What are we going to say? We cannot say that we do not think your people are treating us fairly. Our North-west farmers are shipping a lot of stuff to the Western States, we cannot say that we will not do it. What would the President of the United States say? He would say "I am very sorry, but I am afraid that when Congress meets there will be a lot of dissatisfaction about this, and Congress may see fit to put the duties back." Then we will have to go back to where we were twenty years ago and start all over again and build up our trade as we did twenty years ago." (Cheers.)

Commercial Independence Or Commercial Union.

"There are just two possible policies for the Dominion of Canada. One is commercial independence and the other is commercial union. You must take your choice. Either maintain the position in which we are at the present time as absolutely and completely independent, or when the duty on implements and other manufactured articles, which is sure to come, arrives, then we will have commercial union.

"Then our friends say we will not be politically united to the United States and I shall say that I myself when that time comes will not be very much interested in whether that takes place or not, because by that time everything will have been decided by what has gone before.

"I have spoken a great deal longer than I intended. I have only a word or two more as to the effect of this treaty upon the political relations with the British Empire. I have already made myself pretty clear on this point. Our commerce originates in our mines, in our forests and in the wheat fields of the west and as it goes from one province to the sea it is transported on Canadian Railways, shipped on Canadian or British ships and is transported every foot of the way from the place where it originates by means of our Canadian Transportation facilities or our British vessels and helps to pay the wages of a good many honest people, and keep the roofs over Canadian heads.

"That is the benefit that the traffic is to the people of Canada and it has built up our trade with other portions of the Empire and with the Mother country, and as our ocean traffic increases we are helping to build up the strength of the British Empire.

"Now comes along the President of the United States and tells us we are at the parting of the ways. We ask you to cast in your lot with us and so far as I can see the deal which he has made for us has been accepted, and the policy which has been so honestly followed for the past twenty years has been abandoned.

"It appears to me that we have before us on this occasion the duty of deciding more than a question of whether our people should get two cents a pound more for lamb. We are going to decide a question which is a grave one for the future of Canada. I feel satisfied that this national union is important enough to swell up and drown every political issue in sight. I know that this question goes to the heart of our national life and I ask that the people of Canada should have the right to go to the polls and decide the question for themselves before being committed to the policy which has been set forth for them.

"I say that I will take no stock whatever in the statement of the Government that two men can go to Washington and reverse the policy on which we fought out the last election.

"If there ever was a question which came before the Dominion of Canada on which the people of Canada had a right to vote it is this question.

"What I have to say in conclusion is this. I consider this question the most important that has come before the people of Canada and one which must be settled upon proper lines." (Cheers).

"And if my voice has any weight, or if there is anybody in the Dominion of Canada who has any respect at all for my opinion or my judgment, what I have to say is this: Let the duty of the Canadian people be considered with reference to this question. Let them record their franchise on it, and let them do their duty by burying this proposition so deeply that no Government in Canada will ever make the mistake which our friends in the present Government have done.". (Tremendous applause.)

Preposterous Agreement, Opinion of Mr. Z. A. Lash, K.C.

Mr. Lash, who had preceded Mr. Sifton, spoke as follows:

"I bear from the Association in Toronto a message of good fellowship and co-operation with the Anti-Reciprocity League of Montreal. I am pleased to be here to-night to speak a few words of protest against this preposterous agreement which has been forced before the citizens of this country when we do not want it. I come to say that we are in earnest in Toronto, and we are in earnest in acting in co-operation with the citizens of Montreal and the Province of Quebec, in opposing this agreement, which is the most important in the history of Canada, an agreement which was made in Washington, and of which the people of Canada had practically no information which would enable the country to judge of the efficiency of that agreement so far as the trade interests of Canada were concerned

"They told us both parties were committed to reciprocity, both Liberal and Conservative. Gentlemen, I deny that statement. I deny that the Conservatives in 1911 were committed to the principle of reciprocity with the United States, because Canada twenty years ago was opposed to reciprocity with the United States, and I propose to show you that that is now the case, and as I go along, to show the difference between Canada twenty years ago and Canada to-day.

"We have heard that the treaty of 1854 was beneficial to Canada. Canada in 1854 consisted only of the old provinces, now Quebec and Ontario, and our efforts to create a nation began with the British North America Act of 1867, when the four provinces of Quebec, Ontario, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were united into the Dominion of Canada. One of the clauses of that British North America Act acknowledged the principle which has run through all our legislation, all our public policy, from that day to this; namely, section 154 of that Act, declares that the building of the Intercolonial Railway is essential to the consolidation of the union of British North America, that east and west transportation is essential to the consolidation of British North America.

"When British Columbia was admitted into the union in 1871 it was decided that the Canadian Pacific Railway should be built for the same purpose. Prior to 1871 the Canadian Pacific Railway was being constructed by the Government in sections. According to the phrase which was then used by the Government it was well to make use of our water stretches and not build the road direct from the Coast to Ontario, but when, in 1878, the Conservative party obtained power it was decided to build the road right through for the very reason that lay at the foundation of the British North America Act; that it was essential to the consolidation of Canada as a country that there should be a railway and means of transportation from east to west and from west to east on Canadian soil.

"Accordingly in 1881 the Canadian Pacific Railway was started as a transcontinental road and was finished some six or seven years afterwards. That was the beginning of the nation which we feel sure Canada is well on her way to become.

Liberal Government Repudiates Reciprocity.

"In 1879 we had very few of the resources we now have. We had no British Columbia, we had no North-west, we had nothing that would make us independent, but in this same year negotiations were entered into with the United States, but we were not long in discovering that our friends to the south of us were looking solely after their own interests.

"When we introduced the protective policy we became aware that it was the policy for Canada and that it would give Canada the same independent policy as the United States enjoyed.

"The policy of unrestricted reciprocity was the policy the then Opposition went to the country upon and the country determined that we would have none of it and that we were going to go on in our own way.

"In 1896 the present Government went into power. What did they do? Did they claim that the National policy was bad for Canada, and that we should not have protection for our own industries? In 1897 they began to improve and better the National policy and reappealed the clause relating to reciprocity with the United States.

"Now gentlemen if ever there was evidence that in 1897 the policy of reciprocity to which this country had in early years committed itself, if ever there was evidence that that policy should come to an end it was furnished in the fact that the Liberal Government not only confirmed the National policy, but repudiated what they have now done.

"We took a new start from that time, but did it rest there? No. The policy which the Liberal Government ever since 1896 has pursued with reference to the development of our resources, with reference to the development of our Canadian nationality, was entirely inconsistent with what was their own idea at that time. The construction of the Canadian Northern Railway was commenced. They committed the country to the expenditure of hundreds of millions in the construction of the Transcontinental Railway. What good would it be to have that railway built if we were not going to move our goods east and west, and west and east?

"We were told the new road must be built, it was a national and commercial necessity, to which up to this moment I have heard no dissent. There was no dissent gentlemen to making Canada a nation by having that railway run from east to west, every inch on Canadian soil, but, gentlemen, the trade of Canada must not be deviated to other channels and Canada must not lose the trade which belongs to Canada. (Cheers.)

"These statements made by the Government were grand statements. I agree with every one of them, I agreed with them at the time and as a member of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's party I was proud to hear him explain and state in such patriotic language the policy of the government which he was then leading. Conditions had changed. The National Policy had been approved by the Liberal party; the reciprocity clause had been repealed; all of which inconsistent with reciprocity. I say that the Liberal Government in 1911 had no right to consider reciprocity, but that it should be considered a dead letter. (Cheers.)

"We are told that these resolutions were introduced into the House and that the reason the government acted was that the country was committed to it and that Canada wanted it; that under these circumstances the Liberals had a right to appeal to the people on the issue, an issue which is certainly a very lively one for the country.

"Look at that map (indicating a map showing J. J. Hill's system with its numerous branches running up to the Canadian border). Do you see all these feeders going up to our country? These are all there ready to go over the border, if this agreement comes into force, like a lot of snakes with their mouths open, waiting to devour our trade.

Canadians First, Party Men Afterwards.

"Why do we oppose this agreement—we Liberals, as well as the Conservatives? Because we are Canadians first and party men afterwards. (Cheers). It is not because the price of eggs or butter may be increased or diminished. It is not because some parts of the country and some individuals may make a little money at the expense of other parts and other individuals, but because if this agreement goes into force the whole principle of Confederation is menaced. The whole reason why the Intercolonial, the Canadian Pacific, the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Transcontinental and the Canadian Northern were built, is that we might have our provinces bound together in trade and in common interests, and that our traffic should be with each other, and not with the people to the south of us, and that as part of the great British Empire our traffic should be across the seas to Great Britain and her colonies, and that we might continue to hold the proud position we now hold as part of the British Empire, as the most important element in the British federation, and as the brightest jewel in the British Crown."

He believed, he went on to say, that the great benefits predicted for this agreement by those who introduced and supported it would not materialize. He believed that where one interest would benefit, another would be seriously and greatly injured.

But there was another ground on which this agreement was opposed namely that Canadian nationality and autonomy would be minimized by the checking of the east and west trade that Canada's position in the Empire would be jeopardized, with a tendency ultimately to political union with the United States. (A voice: "Never"). He would not give his own words in support of these contentions, but would quote authorities across the line. For instance, the Hon. W. McCall, who introduced into Congress the bill to make this reciprocity agreement effective, was quoted in the Boston Herald as saying:

"And what tremendous influences there are pulling the two countries together. Once in the entangling web that is woven by reciprocal trade, and the inevitable day will be more quickly reached when the two countries shall be politically one."
(A voice: "No, never").

"Yes, and 'never' let us all say gentlemen, as long as we shall live. That is why I am here to-night. That is why I have left the domestic life that I hoped to lead, and that I have led up to the present time, and have come out into the open to lead if possible others to follow my example, to save our country from what this man says would happen if this entangling web of reciprocal trade were thrown around us. (Loud cheers.) Here is another quotation—this time from the New Work Times:

"The agreement opens the channels of trade northwards and southwards, and practically puts an end to the policy of the British Tories, which aims at blocking these channels and directing trade across the ocean, to the special gain of England."

"Is that not what we are fighting for? (Hear, hear.) Is not that what our Government has been doing for the last fifteen years? And is not that what Canada wants? The paper continues:

"Incidentally our acceptance of the agreement would also destroy the hope of the British Tories to establish a tariff wall about England, with the avowed purpose of reducing American trade. These are results of great and permanent value, which in themselves are enough to decide the thoughts of reasonable members of Congress."

Last Chance of U. S. To Head Off the Empire

Then the New York American says:

"The reciprocity agreement will check the east and west development of Canada, and make that country a business part of the United States, with the lines of traffic running more to the north and south. Reciprocity will really cut Canada into two countries. The section east of Lake Superior will merge with New England and the Eastern States, and the west will become part of the west of the United States."

"Gentlemen, that shall never happen if we can help it. (Cheers).

"The St. Paul Dispatch last week had the following:

"The effectuation of the agreement would practically destroy Great Britain's scheme of Imperial federation, a scheme which not only implies closer bonds politically between Great Britain and her dependencies, but closer relations commercially, and undoubtedly preference in the markets of Great Britain for her dependencies. But if the reciprocity agreement is ratified by both sides, the federation idea will be discouraged, and the scheme of preference be made impossible."

"The Dispatch argued that when Great Britain gave a preference to the products of her dependencies, Canadian wheat would be worth more in the markets of Liverpool and London than American wheat by just the amount of the discrimination made in favor of the Canadian product, and this would apply to all products Canada was capable of producing. It added:

"This is probably our last chance to head off this discrimination against our products in favor of those of Great Britain's dependencies."

"Gentlemen, let it be their last chance, and let them never have it. As Canadians and patriots we oppose this agreement. It is a question far above party. It is not a question of government by Conservatives or by Liberals, but is a question of government of Canadians for Canada and for the Empire."

TIRED, RUN DOWN PEOPLE

A North Carolina Man Suggests A Remedy.

Greensboro, N. C.—"For a long time I was so run down and debilitated that I could hardly drag around. My appetite was poor and I could not sleep nights. I had tried different so-called tonics without benefit. I was advised to try your cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol, and I am so glad I did, for it gave me a hearty appetite, I soon commenced to sleep soundly and I feel strong, well and more active than I have for years. Every run-down or debilitated person should just give Vinol a trial." K. Allsbrook. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

COUNTRY BEFORE PARTY THE KEYNOTE

Resolution is Adopted Condemning Reciprocity 'Pact

Mr. T. Chase Casgrain then rose to propose a resolution denouncing reciprocity, the resolution being the same as the one carried at the recent anti-reciprocity meeting in Toronto. He said that some surprise had been expressed at his appearance on the same platform as Mr. Sifton and Mr. Lash. Far from being ashamed of it, however, he esteemed it an honor.

He rejoiced to see so many women in the audience, for he regarded it as a healthy sign of the times. He only wished that the women of Canada would take the same interest in politics as the women in England, for he was sure it would be better for politics and for their political husbands. He was glad also to see such business men as Sir William Van Horne and Sir Edmund Walker coming out into the open and fighting this Taft-Fielding agreement.

When the Liberal party came into power in 1896 some apprehension was felt as to the manner in which they would administer the affairs of the country. They had preached unrestricted reciprocity and commercial union with the United States. But it was with the greatest satisfaction that they saw the Liberal party adopt the National Policy of the Conservatives and thus preserve Canada for the Canadians. Under this policy rural and urban population alike had prospered.

At the present time there was greater need than ever of the continuance of this policy. The West, which had grown so rapidly, contained a population one-third of which was composed of American immigrants. It had been told that in many places in the Canadian West the Stars and Stripes floated in place of the Union Jack, that the good old British songs were forbidden in the schools, and that the 4th of July was celebrated in place of the King's birthday. (A voice: Shame.) That being so, it was highly important that Canadians should do all in their power to counteract these influences and preserve the national ideal.

One of the greatest obligations that Canadians had to fulfil was to increase the transportation facilities between East and West. They must make the Westerner believe that all the time he was getting nearer and nearer to the eastern cities and the Atlantic ports, and that all the interests and benefits he would derive from living in the west would be by being able to carry his farm products from the west by the cheapest and most direct line to the east. This was what was being done at the present time, and under the present system Canada had already become the most prosperous country in the world.

Ruination of Cities in The Wake of Reciprocity.

"What will be the result of this new policy inaugurated by Sir Wilfrid Laurier," he asked. "We know, what we enjoy now, but this policy makes us take a leap in the dark towards a goal we cannot see. Why should we not leave well alone? We are told that is the principle of the Conservatives, who is firmly convinced that the future welfare of this country is bound up in continuing the present policy. Chinese, if to be decided by the interests of this country is Chinese, and if to believe this country is one of the most prosperous in the world is Chinese, then all I can say is that I am a Chinese with a pigtail.

"But I would rather be such a Chinese with a pigtail than be a mandarin sitting in the seats of the mighty at Ottawa on a coal scuttle or a biscuit box, and holding on as tight as possible, not for the advantage of the people of Canada, but for the empty pleasure of sitting in the seats of the mighty."

He went on to argue that reciprocity in natural products would inevitably be followed by reciprocity in manufactures, and this latter policy would be the ruination of cities like Montreal. He also firmly believed that the ratification of this agreement would be a step towards annexation, especially as the American element was so strong in the West. And if annexation took place, he would like to ask his French-Canadian friends what they would lose by it. Let them take a lesson in the history of Louisiana, in which to-day was not French, and in which no French people had any rights.

Mr. Fielding, he declared, had from the first been in favor of federation with the United States, and to prove this he read a protest which Mr. Fielding filed at an inter-provincial Conference years ago, in which he reserved to Nova Scotia the right to take such measures as might be thought fit to obtain the separation of that province from Canada. Was it surprising, he asked, that the man who put in that protest should go to Washington and make this agreement, which would result in the disruption of the Confederation and the ruination of this country?

At Mr. Mercier's invitation an interprovincial conference of all the Premiers of the different provinces except British Columbia met in Quebec in 1887, for the purpose of suggesting certain amendments to the British North America Act, particularly in reference to provincial subsidies from the Dominion Government. Messrs. Fielding and Longley represented Nova Scotia. Certain resolutions were passed and an official report published in a blue book and distributed to the members of the Legislature in 1888. Mr. Fielding insisted upon inserting the following protest in the minutes:—

"In view of the recent agitation in the Province of Nova Scotia, the representatives of that province desire to note in the minutes that if they join in the representatives of the other provinces in discussing reforms in matters which are of common interest, they do so without prejudice of the right of the Government, of the Legislature, and of the people of Nova Scotia, to adopt such a policy which may in the future commend itself to them, in order to obtain the separation of that province from Canada."

The blue book containing this protest cannot be found at the Government libraries at Ottawa or Quebec.

The British Flag Good Enough for Us.

"The task is already done," said Prof. Leacock "and we have lighted here to-night a torch that will burn through the length and breadth of the Dominion of Canada. The voices that have been heard by you to-night will echo straight to the hearts of our country.

"We are opposed to reciprocity; we deny that two old gentlemen in a hurry may sneak down to the fat orgies of entertainments at Washington and come back to us fellow-citizens with a paper in their hands and say: 'Ta those est faite.' Is this the way our democracy is to be conducted?

"Will they say next that the Maritime provinces are to be sold for Boston novelties? British Columbia to San Francisco?

"We defy them to come out before the electorate. Let them step out before the volume of Canadian public opinion and let them fight this question from one end of our country to the other and let us see who will win out. The very farmer who hopes to pocket two cents per bushel, the men of Prince Edward Island with their potatoes, would have uneasy consciences.

"There is no gain in it, compared to the sacrifices. There is nothing in it except for the magnates who have putthose red lines right up to our borders; there is neither profit nor gain, and behind it is a huge and irreparable ruin.

"I do not wish to speak any evil of the American Republic. The Americans are, let us admit in a great people, but we have settled the question fifty years ago as to what our future was to be. We have decided once and for all that the British flag was good enough for us. (Cheers.)

"We took this country when nobody wanted it; when it was 'quelques arpents de neige.' We have made it our home; and now that we have found it is one of the greatest and noblest heritages, our sturdy American President looks over the wall, hoisted up with the block and tackle of his compatriots, and says: 'Lo, there is a fair land,' and turning back to those who lifted him he says, 'We have made a mistake. This place is well worth having. Hither to me, my brunet of the American oraganizations, and let us begin our onslaught upon the Dominion of Canada. Come hither, you all ye of the Minneapolis Millers' Association, my stalwarts of the paper trust, look here to what is beyond!' (Cheers.) Who have we, then, at Ottawa that is sympathetic to us. Hither down to us, Mr. Fielding; talk with us, and let us devise a means whereby you may sell your potatoes and wheat and sell with it your institutions which you prize.'

Selling Our Country Not Merely Our Wheat.

"What is being sold is not so much the wheat or the forests, but our institutions."

We have a distinctive country, made up of two races in which each race gives to the other the fullest liberty. Two races during 100 years of struggle have learned that neither is supreme.

We have not only found that we have a country that is unique in its geography; we have an east binding on institutions deep-driven into the soil—a west with all the force and fire of a new country.

The worst thing that could be advanced would be a measure enlisting the sympathy of one part and the hostility of the other. If it is supported by all the prairie provinces, it is the most dangerous proposal ever made. It divides the east against the west; it drives a wedge between them; it means the end of all we have loved, the disappearance of all we have spent and the end of everything we have attained. We would see not many years hence, not the flag we have loved, not the institutions of Great Britain, but those of a new and untried form of commonwealth that was spurned by our forefathers, and a turning away from the future that lies before us.

"It is my earnest wish that we can make so loud a protest that entrenched as they are behind the solid support of party allegiance, we can force these people to come out and show fight if they have any in them."

Mr. Thomas Trenholme, who followed, said in part: "Everything that I intended to say to-night has already been said, especially by my friend Mr. Sifton, who is a farmer himself. As to the reciprocity agreement, we farmers have never asked for it. There is not a farmer in Canada who has asked for it. These grain-growers are not farmers, they are miners. They are selling our country. For every ton of wheat that is exported and not ground in this country we are out so many dollars. These men are making our country poorer and poorer.

"Why then does this country go to work and strike a blow at the best industry we have, namely, the milling industry, from which we get our bran and shorts, both of which are an absolute necessity in our dairy business. What have they done? They have said to the millers in Canada, you can not grind a barrel of bran and send it into this country unless you pay us fifty cents a barrel.

"What did Fielding say, if he was quoted right? I read a speech of his at one time favoring unrestricted reciprocity, and in which he pointed to one of the great benefits that was to be derived with the doing away of the French language and the power of the church. I leave it to you to judge which church. There is the man who went down to Washington with the cleverest traders of the world and comes back and says 'There is your bargain for you.'

"We ask 'For God's sake what have you done?'

"These two wise men say, 'We have decided for you, now you know what you want than you know yourselves.'

"Did you ever hear of such a thing?"

Mr. Chaput then asked the meeting to express an opinion of the resolutions that had been presented, and on a standing vote it was declared that they had been adopted unanimously.

The gathering then sang "God Save the King," and followed with three rousing cheers, adding three cheers for the chairman.

Speakers Appeal to Crowd From Strathcona Monument

Long before the last of the eager throng had filed into the Windsor, the first of those who knew that they had no chance to get inside the hall began to take up their positions around the Strathcona statue in readiness for the overflow meeting on Dominion Square.

The thousands who stood under a starry sky were compelled to take their places in the snow, but there was scarcely a murmur in the vast concourse who had come to hear and applaud the speakers.

In advance of the McGill students and the Point St. Charles procession, with fireworks and torches, the multitude bedged themselves in a solid mass till the space surrounding the hotel was filled with cheering humanity. The sight of the student procession escorting the speaker of the evening, was the signal for cheers on behalf of Hon. Clifford Sifton, Canada and the oft-repeated cry of "Down with reciprocity and annexation."

Hundreds of women were in the crowd and joined in the demonstration.

The ubiquitous small boy was in attendance in force, and joining in the popular sentiment of the hour, added his quota to the celebration of the night. Fireworks were sent skywards in abundance, torches pierced the gloom in all directions, and with the skirl of the bagpipes, manipulated by the brawny Highlanders, and the blare of the brass bands playing patriotic tunes, the downtown west night was turned to one resembling rejoicing more than anything else.

In a solid phalanx, the vast body of McGill students outflanked the celebrated square, and the true British aspect of their approach was heralded when the giant Union Jack at the front of the procession came into view.

While the first body of students added to the surging Windsor-ward flow of Montreal's citizens, another smaller contingent had attached themselves to the carriage of Hon. Mr. Sifton, and accompanied the guest to the ladies' entrance of the hotel.

Excited men and women gathered around the entrance, and it was with difficulty, and only after a hundred hearty handshakes, that the man of the night, was allowed to make his way into the hall. The crowd was not satisfied with "Three cheers for Sifton"; they made it three times three and a dozen "tigers."

While the marshalled bands of demonstrators were gaining access to the points of vantage around the South African memorial, the ten-deep files of people on either side of the street were not able to move one way or the other, and the good natured coils of human beings contented themselves with singing patriotic songs and raising cries in favor of the Anti-Reciprocity League.

Reference to Great Britain Rouses Great Cheers.

The improvised platforms, draped in red, white and blue, were not long in being filled, and the anxious thousands made the precincts ring when the chairman of the open air meeting, Mr. W. H. D. Miller, announced the first speaker.

Professor Leacock, of McGill University, soon took his place on the stand and began to address the audience, whose enthusiasm was chilled neither by the snow and icy water under foot, nor the chilliness of the March night air.

The true feeling of the crowd was first shown during Mr. Leacock's stirring address when loud approval, in the form of decidedly livening cheers greeted the speaker when he referred to the reciprocity pact and said:—"This measure doesn't come from us." The intonation of the vocal commendation was again apparent a moment later, when a hearty hurrah added assent to the speaker's idea that Canadians had "kept their British wilderness and their British soul."

Warming to his subject, Professor Leacock laid his hat to one side, and his voice could be heard over all the heads of the far-reaching and assertive audience, as he drove home every point in his discourse.

Across the street in the windows of the Windsor Hotel, guests had opened the windows and as the orator spoke in turn, their sentences were applauded from the high positions of the favored ones, who did not have to brave the cold and damp in which the ever eager throng stood.

Behind the approach in the rear of the platform, the police authorities had their squads of reserve men stationed in case they were needed in an emergency call, but their services were not required.

So that none could miss his meaning, Professor Leacock concluded his speech in French, and brought to an end his forcible arguments amid the popular student cries of "Well done Steve," and long hearty applause of all others present.

The arrival of a band of hearty supporters of the anti-reciprocity sentiment from Point St. Charles was the signal for obsequies of an interesting nature, for, with the formation of a goodly sized ring, a coffin was borne into the centre, and burned along with the inscription on the sides of it:—"Here lies Reciprocity."

Sifton Roused Auditors To the Highest Pitch.

The chairman of the outdoor meeting delivered a speech himself, in which he scored the reciprocity treaty-makers, and then he introduced Messrs. Sutton and Clauson, two of the younger generation of speakers who were given a warm and kindly hearing.

Mr. Alex. McPee was the next orator on the platform. After him followed Mr. Rufus Pope, who added a spice of humor which prepared his hearers for the final open air address of the night by Hon. Clifford Sifton. Mr. Sifton had only been made aware that this outside meeting was being held, and asked forgiveness of the patient listeners present for not having appeared till long after ten o'clock. He dealt very shortly with the question, which he designated as "the greatest national and most important issue which has arisen in Canada," he soon had his audience in a frenzy of delight, which showed itself in the rounds of deep applause, as each sentence sent home some significant point against the proposed treaty, and every sentence rang as a knell to the pact with the United States. He was cheered when he stated that we, in dealing with this question would be settling an issue which would decide the national future of Canada. He spoke of Canada being under the heel of a nation of nearly a hundred millions of people should the treaty go through. Since, he believed that the Government had been led into a trap, he hoped every true Canadian would see to it that the country was preserved to us. His peroration was wildly applauded. Then the spirited gathering loyally ended their part in the demonstration with the lusty singing of "God Save the King."

Enthusiastic Processions Join in the Protest.

Headed by a band, the Point St. Charles anti-reciprocity delegation procession started from the corner of Knox and Hibernia streets at eight o'clock. Two hundred residents of that district had gathered for the purpose. Residents thronged their door steps and wildly applauded the walkers. A large crowd of interested men and women also lined up on the streets.

Transparencies were in evidence with such sentences as:

"Keep off the Annexation Wolves."

"This is the Time for Party Ties."

"This is a Time of National Peril. Stand by Canadians."

"Reciprocity, Annexation, Annihilation."

"No Bartering of our Birthright."

"Why Dismiss Our Progress."

"Build up Canada."

"The 0th Century is Canada's Hold it."

"The People Demand a Mandate for all Great Fiscal Changes."

"Our Hope is Undivided, Canada."

"Keep Canada United from Atlantic to Pacific."

"Canada is too Rich to give away for Nothing."

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall."

"Don't Drive Away British Capital."

"A feature of the displays, however, was a coffin. This was to represent the probable fate of the Reciprocity Agreement. On both sides were pieces of card board, with the following inscription on them: "Here Lies Reciprocity, killed several years ago by the hands of our countrymen, for United Canada."

The procession wended its way to Dominion Square. On their arrival in front of the Windsor, the band played "O, Canada," and the coffin bearers marched into the centre of the square and it was not long before the coffin supposed to represent the fate of Reciprocity was in a mass of flames. When the crowd saw the blaze they joined in with the Point St. Charles delegation, and gave a rousing cheer.

Rowdyism by a Few Students Brings Discredit on McGill

Rude and disorderly was the meeting in the McGill Union at 7.15 last night, which Hon. Clifford Sifton attempted to address, preparatory to the larger meeting in the Windsor Hotel.

Students assembled in the large hall, and when the Hon. Clifford Sifton entered, accompanied by Professor Stephen Leacock and Mr. J. T. Hackett, loud cheers welcomed him.

Almost immediately, however, the proceedings were interrupted. Ensconsed in the gallery at one side of the hall were a number of young men who were very emphatic in their desires to be heard before anyone else.

No sooner had Professor Leacock risen to introduce the speaker of the evening than his words were drowned in the hooting and yelling of this group. To add to the din, a piano in the gallery was tortured by some bright youth.

When the noise subsided a little, Joseph B. Clearihue stated that before, once, whose enthusiasm was chilled neither by the snow and icy water under foot, nor the chilliness of the March night air.

The true feeling of the crowd was first shown during Mr. Leacock's stirring address when loud approval, in the form of decidedly livening cheers greeted the speaker when he referred to the reciprocity pact and said:—"This measure doesn't come from us." Rowdy Students Attack Carriage and Burn It.

The procession to conduct Mr. Sifton down to the Windsor Hotel, then formed up on Sherbrooke street, outside the Union. The horses were taken from his carriage, and accompanied by a band, and the crowd of students, bearing torches, flags and transparent signs, carried their guest down Union avenue.

With a short stop at St. Catherine street, the march was continued down to Cathcart street, and along as far as University.

Finally, through the efforts of the rival party of the students, organized to break up the procession, the carriage bearing Mr. Sifton with Professor Leacock and Mr. Hemming, secretary of the Anti-Reciprocity League, was forced from the road onto a vacant lot on Cathcart street. The struggling students prevented it from making any further progress, and finally Mr. Sifton and his associates climbed out and walking to St. James's Club, procured a cab and continued their way to the Windsor Hotel, without the procession, which followed later, after a few personal differences had been settled.

After some speeches from their own self-appointed leaders in front of the Windsor Hotel, students proceeded along St. Catherine street and up McGill College avenue, with the carriage and torches of the original parade. On McGill College avenue, the carriage, valued by its owner, William Walker, of the Place Viger cab stand, at $900, was heaped around with sticks and oil soaked waste and burned.

The students had now become augmented by many city youths and the crowd started to parade the city, going along St. Catherine street and down the St. Lawrence Boulevard. In spite of the efforts of the police, windows were broken in their course and posters from moving picture theatres carried away.

Proceeding along Craig street, up St. Denis, they returned to McGill College avenue by St. Catherine street, leaving many evidences of their march behind.

The police now tried to restore order in a forcible manner, and drove the students into the McGill grounds. Unable to stand up against the snow-balls and a drenching stream of water from the Y.M.C.A. fire hose, though, the police were finally forced to retire.

Several arrests were made during the whole proceedings of the evening, but only in one case was it a student that fell into the hands of the police. Through knocking up the arm of a policeman wielding his baton in order to protect a comrade, Everett Smith, 23 years old of Tupper street, was arrested and taken to the City Hall avenue station.

UNLESS SIR WILFRID CAN FIND AN EXIT, THERE SEEMS TO BE NO WAY OUT.

A DESERVED HONOR TO SCIENCE.

The Kaiser's fondness for the picturesque is only exceeded by his appreciation of the appropriate. Examples have not been lacking in the past and there is no fear that they will be during the continuance of his reign. For example he has lately organized the "Institute for the Advancement of Science", the members of which are to be culled from those recluses and hermits of mathematics, physics, chemistry and the 'ologies who have devoted their lives to pursuing truth in her most elusive forms through the test-tubes and amongst the measuring machines of the laboratory. The life of your true scientist is generally supposed to be drab, devoid of high lights, and possibly depressing to people who do not appreciate the beauty of absorption in one idea. To remedy this deficiency and to put, say, chemistry on the same plane as infantry tactics as far as popular display goes, the Kaiser has himself designed the uniform which the distinguished members of his Institute of Science must wear. The coat is to be of dark green, richly embroidered in gold and faced with purple; the trousers are of a lighter shade of green, decorated as far as the character of the garment will permit. No mention has been made of the waistcoat, which will, presumably, be allowed to represent the wearer's individual taste in dress, but the president of the order is to wear a chain composed of alternate female heads and forget-me-nots such as no scientist has ever before possessed. With such a reward in prospect, who would not give his life to study?

BRITISH NAVAL GUNNERY.

Although little is heard concerning the actual records made in gun-practice by the British fleet, when an occasional report does give facts and figures, it amply confirms the belief that, in spite of its distaste for publicity, the navy has gunners who are at least the equals of the bedecorated and much advertised gun-crews of some of its competitors. The "Neptune," for example, has just returned to British waters after a gun-practice cruise in the Mediterranean, during which she scored seventy-five per cent. of hits with her twelve inch guns on a target five miles away. As far as records show, this is the best gunnery practice ever made by any battleship. The fact that it was accepted by the Admiralty, if not as a matter of course, at least as an incident calling for no special comment, is an excellent indication that while the British naval authorities may have been a little remiss in taking the general public into their confidence, it is not because the navy is not accomplishing things worth talking about.

ORATORY IN PARLIAMENT.

Is Parliamentary oratory declining? The answer would seem to be in the affirmative as regards both the British and Canadian Parliaments. In the British House, we have it on the authority of "Toby M. P." Mr. Lucy expresses the view that Gladstone was the last of the orators, properly so called, in the British House. The "Grand Old Man" enforced argument by carefully chosen diction and impassioned language, mingled with flowers of rhetoric and frequent quotations from the classic writers of Greece and Rome. He spoke for three, four and five hours, and his usual speech occupied an hour and a half or more. The parliamentary leaders of the present day—Mr. Asquith and Mr. Balfour—can speak with effect; that no one would deny. But their speeches are rather business statements or political arguments than models of rhetoric. Moreover, they are brief. Neither of them often reaches the hour mark.

In the Canadian House of Commons we have only one orator. The Premier is the only man at present in the Green Chamber to whom that title can properly be applied. There are other effective speakers, but only one orator. The Opposition leader seems of late to have been modelling his utterances on the recent British forms. Mr. Borden has been shortening his speeches materially, and they have thereby gained a good deal in terseness and effectiveness. His deliverances on reciprocity have each been under the hour in duration. Mr. Foster remains his old self. He is amusing, sarcastic, bitter, by turns; but he can hardly be called eloquent. He is seldom brief, but when he does add that virtue, he materially heightens the effect of his words. Mr. Fielding is a good debater. Mr. Lemieux occasionally approaches eloquence. Mr. Monk is the best bi-lingualist in the House. The best speech of the reciprocity debate has been Mr. Sifton's, which was longer than the best British models, but was marked by a directness of statement in which the ex-Minister is unrivalled in Canada.

Except Sir Wilfrid Laurier, however, there is no orator, unless it be Sir George W. Ross, in the Upper House. It is by no means certain, nevertheless, that the House or the country is a loser by the coming in of a new style of speaking. It will be well, indeed, if the new style should become more general. One of the great evils of debate in the Canadian Commons is discursiveness. In the past the back-benchers have had excuse in the long speeches of the front-benchers. It will be a great gain, if all the front-benchers should follow the example set by the leader of the Opposition. The country will owe him a debt of gratitude, if he can naturalize the present British custom and make it an unwritten rule of the House that all speeches must come within the hour.

ANARCHY IN PORTUGAL.

One cannot but watch with that melancholy, but none the less intent, interest which is usually reserved for cases where disaster is inevitable, the progress of the Portuguese republic toward the pits of Anarchy which the Republican leaders themselves have digged. Bomb-making may have been, at one time, a political necessity, viewed from the standpoint of Red Republicans; but once the bomb-makers came to power, the desirability of allowing other factions to make bombs, should have suddenly ceased to exist, according to all recognized revolutionary standards. President Braga, however, who is a poet and a philosopher, as well as a patron of the bomb industry, thought differently. He, by inference, gave official recognition to bomb-making as a national industry and to bomb-throwing as a national pastime. Acting on the theory that "Any act committed in the name and for the glory of the Republic becomes in itself not only justifiable but highly meritorious," he encouraged the growth of a crop of irregular heroes who, failing extraneous material, have made practice with local patriots and office-holders. Affairs in Lisbon have, consequently, come to such a pass that the Powers have united in demanding that bombs, bomb-making and bomb-throwing be placed once more in the category of illegitimate amusements and to this the Government has yielded a reluctant and half-hearted consent. If Lisbon becomes the centre of Anarchist activities which menace other European countries, as seems on a fair way to accomplishment, it is safe to predict that the attitude of the Great Powers toward the Braga government will undergo a sudden and drastic change.

THE HEN'S OPPORTUNITY.

According to the data made public in connection with the reciprocity debates, the humble, homely hen has not been receiving that attention and consideration in our midst to which her virtues and abilities amply entitle her. It may be that in our pursuit of prosperity we have passed by what was sound and substantial, from an industrial point of view, for the beautiful unrealities of highly paid imaginations, to the detriment of both individual profits and the best interests of the country. The hen, as an institution, does not, it must be admitted, appeal to the imagination. Viewed statistically, however, and entirely from a mathematical standpoint, it is easy to regard her as an incarnation of modest worth and sterling merit. On this subject, Canada has, during the past five years, lacked both faith and foresight. In 1906, for example, we were able to offer 3,000,000 dozen eggs for export; last year, this dwindled to 82,000, and, in addition to our experiments in importing "bulk" eggs from China and Manchuria, we purchased nearly 1,000,000 dozen from the United States, as against the 40,000 dozen that we sold them when the markets happened to be auspicious. A moderate investment and a reasonable faith in the ability of the Canadian hen to live up to her opportunities ought to be able to change all this.

MOUSTACHES AND WARFARE.

The Army Regulation providing that commissioned officers must not shave their upper lips has a foundation in history as well as in theory. Any expedient which has a tendency to strike terror in the ranks of a foe is legitimate, provided it does not transgress the limits of civilized usage. Poisoning wells or spreading infection along water-courses would rightly be apprehended; raising and wearing moustaches, on the other hand, comes within the provisions of the Geneva Convention. Here in Canada we should welcome the practice with special enthusiasm as a link between our glorious future and our historic past. The noble redmen who for several centuries were in undisputed possession of this country, did not wear moustaches when going on the warpath, but they arrived at the same effect by painting their faces. As long as mediaeval customs ruled in Japan, the warriors of the Mikado went the Redman one better and wore masks which depicted rage, cruelty or unshrinkable determination, just as military moustaches do to-day. In New Guinea, Thibet, Patagonia, and isolated portions of Central Africa, this method of warfare still survives. We trust that, out of consideration for our soldiers as well as for the general non-military public, the authorities will devise some kind of a moustache which can be stern, dignified and peaceful on all ordinary occasions, while capable of being converted into something bellicose and terrifying when the situation requires. There are moustaches which, by a deft twist up or down, can be made to run the whole gamut of human emotions. That is the kind we ought to secure for our soldiers.

If the heir-apparent to the throne of Austria marries the only daughter of the German Kaiser, the peace of Europe will narrow itself down to the question of whether or not the Kaiser will be less stimulating as a father-in-law than he has proved himself to be as a neighbor.

Paraguay has a little revolution on its hands in which three hundred casualties are reported in one battle. Paraguay is probably fortunate in having as neighbors only republics who have no time for "manoeuvres" along her border-line.

It will, naturally, be hard to key the Christian nations up to the point of obeying the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill," as long as they continue to regard the other inhibitions as applying only to individuals.

An Embarrassment of Riches.

Ottawa Evening Journal—Senator Edwards says that Ontario and Quebec are so rich in water power that this power is practically valueless. This is an economic law of undoubted operation, that overproduction cheapens the value of the thing produced. But still it is pleasant to think that we have an embarrassment of riches, even if we can't realize on them.

Unusual Occurrence.

Toronto Daily Star.—The Peterboro Review notes a rather unusual occurrence when it declares that "Dead man walked around a whole day with fractured skull."

Co-operation in Mission Work.

Toronto Mail and Empire:—Co-operation in mission work ought to result in good to the churches taking part in the arrangement. It will prevent undue competition in fields that cannot stand such a strain, and will certainly make for economy and for efficiency. Where churches are similar in polity a modus vivendi of this nature is desirable, and the clergymen who are moving to bring it about are to be congratulated upon the statesmanship they are displaying.

Calgary's Onward March.

Calgary Herald:—Calgary as the fourth city of Canada in building looks good to us.

Lawyers in Parliament.

Guelph Herald:—Hon. Clifford Sifton bemoans the lack of lawyers in Parliament, while, on the other hand, the electors are often heard to say that there are too many there for the country's good.

More About The Spring Exhibition at the Art Gallery

George Moore in his illuminating book on modern Art tells a pathetic story of the French artist Renoir. After twenty years of struggle with himself and with poverty he succeeded in attaining a very distinct and personal expression of his individuality. He succeeded in evolving an art as original as it was beautiful. He began to be appreciated and with money coming in decided to go to Venice and study Tintoretto. He did so and was so overwhelmed with the old master's magnificence that he went back to Paris determined to study for two years in an art school. This he did conscientiously and in that time succeeded in destroying his own beautiful art which it had taken him twenty years to build up. I know of no more tragic story, do you? asks George Moore.

This story recurs to mind on studying the canvases of Miss Emily Coonan. There are five of them in all at the Spring Exhibition, which will remain open until the end of this month. Two of these five are fairly large, the other three quite small. They are all subdued in tone with an occasional gleam of pure color. It has been said by one recently come from Paris, that her colors are too muddy, too lacking in clearness for the last word in art. On the other hand they are marvellously original. Think of a young girl sitting down and spinning the dreams of which her pictures are made. The communicants and the choristers with their red robes flow gently past on the river of imagination. Quaint Japanese children with thin legs and slanting eyes, cats, suggestions of sails on blue water, all, all are the dreams of a child woven into paint. "Pity it is," it has been said, "that she cannot go ahead to study."

And then the story of Renoir comes to mind and one wonders if she did go to Paris, if she would immediately lose her own individuality and begin to paint just like all the other students in Paris.

* * *

Among the younger exhibitors, Miss Coonan is the most interesting. Another young artist is Miss Dorothy Heward who this year sends a large old portrait of a child and a landscape as well as some charcoal drawings. The latter are not so good as previous work that she has done, owing probably to undue haste. The study of a child is pleasing but a trifle too ambitious for her present powers.

Miss de Crevecour has four dainty little pastels of heads of which No. 78 is probably the best.

Mrs. Greenwood's work in pastels is remarkably good. The portrait sketch, No. 20 is from the same model as Miss Williamson's No. 283 and it is of interest to compare them. But Mrs. Greenwood is seen at her best in the landscape. No. 118 which is extremely pleasing and full of a true feeling for the softer side of nature as also her study of a hayfield with a delightful blue sky dotted with fleecy clouds.

Another young lady worthy of mention is, Miss Greta Murray, who exhibits two charming pastels, one the portrait of a little girl, the other a study of hills dipping into the misty sea, which has caught the elusive spirit of the loneliness and majesty of the Lower St. Lawrence.

Miss Kimber has five charming little watercolors of snow scenes in the Adirondacks which are painted with much fineness and delicacy.

* * *

There is one aspect of this question of art which strikes very few persons, namely, the business aspect. A sound art education is of positively money value to a community, to a nation at large. Everything that is made can be of bad design or of good design. If the latter, the value enormously increases with years. Think of saltcellars and drinking cups made three hundred years ago, and selling today for thousands of pounds! Good art! The business side of it which concerns us especially today is that concerning pictures. Men on this side of the Atlantic are too prone to leave all art matters to their wives and daughters. Art is for women, for students, for the few so-called cranks. It is not for the business man. But this is where the business man makes a mistake. An appreciation of good art enables a man to buy pictures for moderate prices, which are a constant pleasure and education in the house, and if he should be forced to sell them he will find that they also provide an excellent investment. Think of the picture now being offered to the English nation for half a million dollars. Not so very many years ago it was bought for five hundred pounds. Think of the wise persons who bought Moreland's pictures for a few pounds when the artist wanted the wherewithal for more drinks. Think of a Raeburn selling for eight pounds, which would now bring eight hundred or more. Instances could be multiplied indefinitely. Another thing to be considered is the return in pleasure for the money expended. At this present exhibition there are many pictures which are offered for sale for the price of a dinner or supper or a few evenings at the theatre. And how much more lasting the pleasure! That many persons are realizing that money expended on pictures is money wisely spent is seen by the way the pictures in the present exhibition are being bought. The cheerful little red ticket is observed on quite a number of them.

Macdonald Manly has three pleasing watercolors, one of which, No. 208 with the light on the water being especially so. Mr. Bell-Smith shows his versatility in his exhibit. There is a large study of sea and sky, No. 22, most excellent, a somewhat conventional landscape and a Rocky Mountain scene. His five small water-b colors are pretty and popular and take the fancy of the visitor.

Mrs. Caldwell's work deserves more notice than it was possible to give it before. A Memory of Japan, No. 46, shows imagination and originality. It would have been more effective on a smaller canvas. As it is, there is too much of it. The same might be said of No. 48, which is not altogether convincing, the light, for one thing, not being well managed. The portrait of the artist contains much excellent work. The coloring is good, it is well balanced, but it lacks the indefinable something. The face itself is disappointing, lacking force and distinction. It could probably be improved by putting a little more crispness into the face.

Another artist sends a self portrait, namely, Mr. St. Charles. Good, in some ways this would be improved, if it were toned down and the background made less insistent.

Mr. Horne Russell's virile portrait of Sir Robert Ashton Lister is much to be admired. It is the only canvas this artist sends.

Mr. Albert H. Robinson exhibits half a dozen canvases of varying merit, the most pleasing of which is No. 252, an early morning scene on the St. Lawrence. Just such a shifting opalescent scene can be enjoyed any morning as the little steamer puffs slowly from wharf to wharf. It is remarkably true to nature and speaks of the discerning eye and poetic soul.

* * *

Miss Harriet Shore, of Toronto, has three pictures, among the most interesting in the exhibition. Her portrait of Miss Phyllis Sanford has been pronounced by many competent to judge one of the best pictures in the exhibition. Clever, too, is the laughing boyish face in No. 264.

Miss Muntz is not quite herself in her two canvases, 224 and 225. They are more of Fantin-Latour than of Muntz, and make us think regretfully of some of her previous exhibits. But such a busy artist cannot always rise to her occasional heights.

St. George Burgoyne has two studies of snow, of which "The Lumber Shanties, Night," is the better. The other is a trifle too hard and definite in outline.

Mr. Henry Carter sends three water colors in his usual manner, and Mr. Chesterton sends one delicate and pleasing water color and two oils, which make one wonder why he wanders away from water colors.

Miss Cleland has one pastel study, not so pleasing as some she has exhibited in previous years. Mr. Adrien Hebert's long and decorative panel on the right hand wall of the old gallery has found a purchaser.

Mr. Delfosse's historical picture below it arouses much interest. Miss May Houghton sends four impressionistic water colors from Paris, two grey ones, and two yellow ones, clever but forced. Mr. Hugh Jones sends five water colors suggestive of decorative panels. His "After the Storm" possesses pleasing color, but the water is somewhat confused and weak, the foam mingling with the clouds until it is impossible to tell which is which. Miss King, of Westmount, has three small water colors which have a certain charm, and Mrs. Pinkerton and her daughter send most pleasing pictures. Miss Macdonnell has some delicate and careful water colors, one in particular of the Monotropa Unifiora, a strange fungus growth.

* * *

A. Y. Jackson exhibits four oils of varying merit, the best being the "Grey Day in March," somewhat sombre and depressing, but very true and realistic. The same might be said of Mr. Simpson's studies of snowy days and snow dumps. More cheerful is his graceful likeness of a young girl, most pleasing in tone.

Other works are worthy of mention, but space forbids. The sculpture while small in quantity is excellent in quality. The china is unusually good and finds many admirers. Taken altogether it is an excellent exhibition and distinctly marks a step forward. It is encouraging to learn that it is being exceedingly well attended, showing that the Montreal public is beginning to enjoy pictures. When the new Art Gallery on Sherbrooke street is completed, a bright vista will open to the eager view of the art lover. In this connection it is to be hoped that by that time the exhibitions will be free on certain days and open on Sundays as well as week days so that those who labor all day may have their chance as well as the rich and partially idle to see and profit by works of art.

THE RECIPROCITY CIRCUS.

The elephant now goes round; the band begins to play—
It's the reciprocity elephant en route to Canaday.
It swings its trunk
And it rolls its eyes,
And it waves its ears
In a manner wise.
But now that we look at it, its structure is displayed—
It's a neat disguise of the donkey that we used to call Free Trade!

The elephant from the front is perfect to the view,
But the tail that wags behind it is a tail that once we knew,
It's the brush-tipped tail
Of the free-trade donk,
That has been fixed up
With a long, false trunk.
The circus is on again, the donkey has been seized,
And because 'tis dressed as an elephant the G. O. P. is pleased.

The elephant will salaam when told to, don't you see,
When Trainer Taft addresses it as "Reciprocitee."
But though it swings its trunk,
And though it rolls its eyes,
Observe it waves its ears
Upright, and donkeywise!
A rose by another name would doubtless be as sweet,
But an elephant never in the world wore mule-shoes on its feet.

This is the elephant's hide; its bones have now become
The shield of our infant industries in some big museum,
Observe the free-trade donk,
Its fly-brush tail, O see;
It wears a wire-pulled trunk
As Reciprocitee!
The elephant now goes round; the band begins to play
And the free-trade donk with a tied-on trunk salaams to Canaday.

FROM THE STAR FILES THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The Duke of Sutherland.

The Duke of Sutherland and his son, the Marquis of Stafford, are expected to leave England on their American tour during the first week in April, and return in August." — From the Montreal Star, Mar. 21, 1881.

THIS WAS the fourth Duke of the name, and succeeded to the title in 1892. He was born in 1851, and had been a lieutenant in the Second Life Guards, and lieutenant - colonel of the Second Volunteer Battalion, Seaforth Highlanders. His Grace is lord-lieutenant of Sutherland, a county alderman for Staffordshire, and hon. colonel of the Staffordshire Yeomanry. He was mayor of Longton in 1895, and sat in the House of Commons as the Liberal member for Sutherland from 1874 to 1886.

It is said that the Harbor Commissioners have voted $40,000 towards building a stone revetment wall east from the Quebec Gate Barracks.—From the Montreal Star, March 21, 1881.

THE starting point at that time was the property now occupied by the Canadian Pacific Railway station.

The City Passenger Railway expect to have their cars running by the 23rd. A gang of men have been set to work to clear the tracks on St. Joseph, Notre Dame and St. James streets.—From the Montreal Star, March 21, 1881.

THIS season of the year was not a happy one for those who thirty years ago were compelled to use the line, for they were obliged to go bumping about in the few 'buses the company had, and this was even worse than being a strapholder. The St. Joseph street mentioned to-day forms the western extension of Notre Dame street.

Chicago, March 21.—Nine hundred Canadian emigrants, filling with their stock and baggage 91 cars, have been snowbound on the outskirts of the city since Saturday night.—From the Montreal Star, March 21, 1881.

THIRTY years ago the only way to reach Manitoba was over the Grand Trunk and its connections, which was a very round-about route. However, an enterprising agent of the company, the late Mr. Taylor, of Ottawa, organized a series of trips, which, starting from Brockville took passengers, stock and effects until Point Edward was reached. The one referred to in the above paragraph was the first attempt, and the accommodation afforded was what comfort the traveller could take out of an old first-class car, the seats of which were not provided with springs, and cooking accommodation was not even dreamed of. The women on the trains used to put tea in a bottle of cold water and shake it until a little color was produced. The agent used to pass through the train about two hours before a dining station was reached to ascertain how many orders he could wire ahead.

Mayor Gaynor on Express Strike.

New York, March 21. —The district attorney ought to take charge of the situation precipitated by the strike of drivers employed by Adams, Wells-Fargo and United States Express companies, is the opinion of Mayor Gaynor expressed in a letter.

Account of the Social Work of the Salvation Army in Great Britain

By H. RIDER HAGGARD

PRICE 75 CENTS.

In the Spring of the present year Mr. Haggard was asked, on behalf of General Booth, to write for publication an account of the Social Work of the Salvation Army in this country.

The plan agreed upon was that he should visit various institutions and record what he actually saw. The result will be seen in this book, which describes many of the Salvation Army Shelters, Paper-Works, 'Elevators,' Training and Maternity Houses and Hospitals, and also its Midnight Rescue and Anti-Suicide Work.

RESOLUTION AT McGILL.

Section of the Students Will Probably Reprobate Conduct of Minority.

There is a movement on foot at McGill to have a meeting of the students and pass a resolution of censure apropos of last night's riotous proceedings. The student leaders allege that the trouble making was done at the instigation of a very few, and was participated in by a hopeless minority of their number. The majority of the students wish to disassociate themselves from the others, and set themselves right before the college authorities and the public, and assist, as much as is reasonable, in bringing about a proper expression of regret, or, failing that deserved punishment.

COUNSEL'S VOICE FAILED IN REVIEWING HOULE CASE.

While reviewing the evidence in the case of William and Aime Houle, on trial for the murder of their brother-in-law, Domina Pelletier, Mr. Legault, counsel for the defense, asked the court to suspend for a few moments as his voice was giving out. He resumed his argument later, but after speaking about twenty minutes longer he requested that the case be adjourned until this morning, which request Justice Lavergne willingly granted. The court room, as well as the adjoining corridors, was crowded.

Issue Call to Dr. Hincks.

The Douglas Methodist Church has issued a unanimous call to Rev. Dr. W. H. Hincks, at present pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle, Toronto. The terms of Rev. Dr. Young, present pastor of Douglas Church, and Dr. Hincks both expire in July, 1913. It is stated that several Toronto churches are anxious to secure Dr. Young.

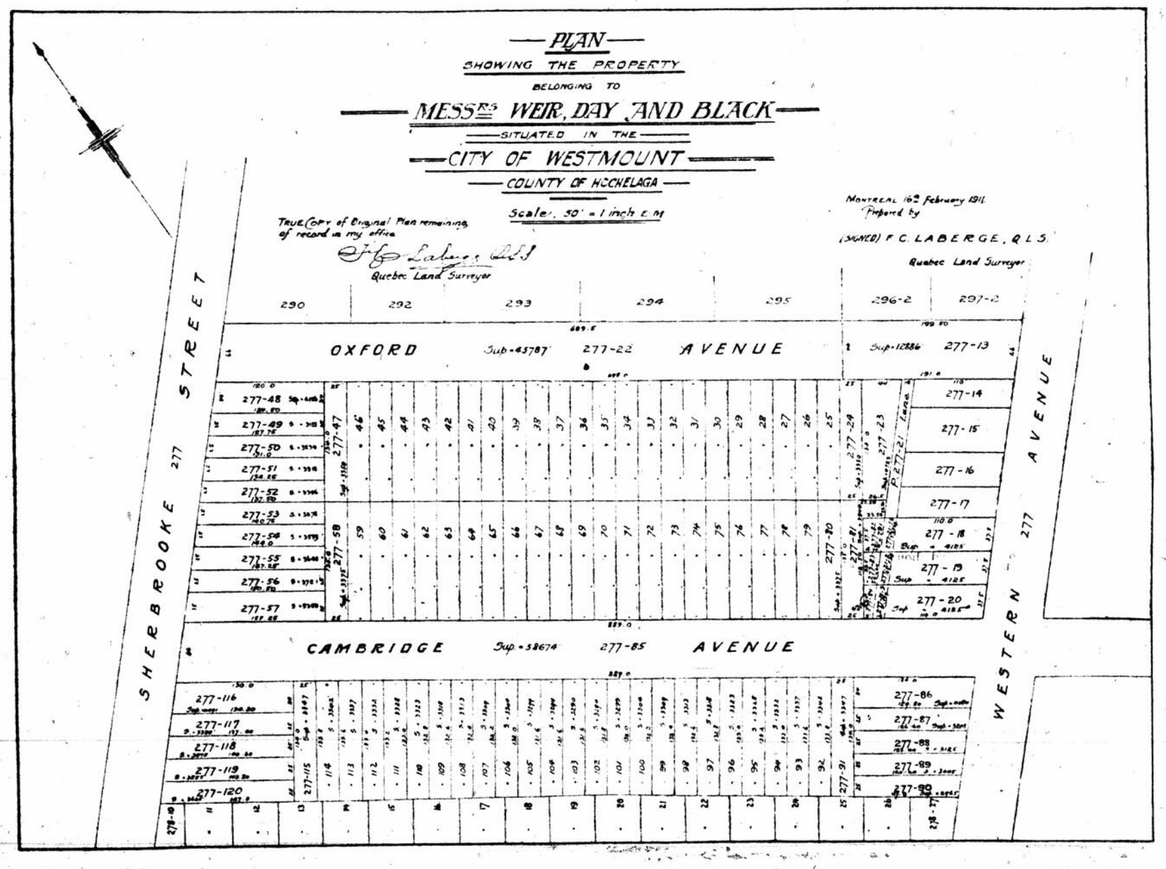
In compliance with the expressed wish of influential citizens of Westmount it has been decided to sell the lots with restrictions against all dwellings except those that are detached or semi-detached.

THE HEART OF WESTMOUNT



So has been described that large area bounded on the North by Sherbrooke Street, on the South by Western Avenue, on the East by Clarke Avenue, on the West by Kensington Avenue.

Recently acquired from the Grey Nuns, it is now available for those who desire commodious semi-urban residences.

Without exaggeration the building lots now put on the market are the most accessible and most attractive that have been offered for many a day.

The prices are exceedingly moderate; they will never be less; they will certainly increase.

SOME FEATURES

Note the convenient proximity to the street cars.

Note the convenient proximity to the Parks.

Note how quickly you may reach home after business, or reach business from home.

Note how convenient for wife and children; how it makes easier the task of securing domestic servants, who will not go far from town.

Note the proximity to Churches and Schools.

Note the roominess of the area, the charming situation and outlook, the restrictions that ensure attractive surroundings.

OTHER FEATURES

These lots will commend themselves to all save the terrace-maker and the exploiter of second or third-class dwellings.

Detached or Semi-detached houses only will be allowed, with a space of seven feet between wall and boundary.

You may buy lots 50 ft. wide or 37½ ft. wide.

The building line is 20 ft. back.

The Avenues are sixty-six feet wide.

The lots are deep, but not too deep for those who love a lawn or a bit of garden and roominess.

TERMS

Mortgages will be accepted for 75 per cent. of the price at 5% for five years, the balance in one or two yearly payments with 5% interest.

Ford Model T

The World's Standard

FORD Model T cars are absolutely standard; because, for four years, there has been no change made in the mechanical construction — there was no improvement to make. They have proven themselves, humanly speaking, perfect. Of course, there have been little refinements added here and there to lend additional comfort, etc., to owners—but changes—NO—except in price.

Over sixty-five thousand Ford cars are now in daily use. Over thirty thousand more FORD Model T cars will be in the hands of American and English owners before 1912 "hits the floor."

The FORD Model T is the car of Vanadium Steel—stronger than cars of double its weight. Vanadium alloy gives to ordinary steel (the kind of steel used in ordinary cars) an increased stress of 85 tons to the square inch. It likewise prevents crystallization—makes the steel tough and elastic—very durable.

There can be no crystallization where Vanadium is used — crystallization in steel is often caused by vibration—crystallized steel is easily broken — very dangerous. FORD Model T cars are the only ones in whose entire steel construction Vanadium is used.

Local Stocks Rise--Packers Booms--R. & O. Deal--Same La Rose Dividend

C.P.R. WAS 219, R&O UP AGAIN, POWER ACTIVE

Stocks were buoyant to-day. C.P.R. crossed 219, Power 152, Richelieu went to 115, Textile to 73⅞, and Shawinigan to 112½.

Perhaps the most satisfactory feature of the day here was the fact that London was a buyer of Power and Shawinigan. For the last few months London has been a seller of stocks in our market, and the fact that buying orders turned up encouraged the brokers to think that the liquidation from the other side was pretty well over.

The buying of Power was quite pronounced, while Shawinigan responded on the strength of the record earnings reported in the next column.

Possibly the strength of Textile was due to the arrival of Mr. Hosmer in London, the "Street" taking the view that he is to some extent interested in the stock.

BUYERS AND SELLERS.

Power buyers—McDougall & Cowans, McCuaig Bros., Mackintosh & Co., Fairbanks Bros., Burnett & Co., Strathy & Co., Craig & Luther, McGibbon & McDougall, Davidson & Co., Barlow & Co., W. P. O'Brien, Nash & Co., Gault & Stephens, Oswald Bros.

Power sellers—McDougall & Cowans, Fairbanks Bros., Davidson & Co., Burnett & Co., McCuaig Bros., Edgar & Co., Fairbanks Bros., Fairell & Co., Forget & Co., Gault & Stephens, Hamilton & Son, Colin McCuaig & Co., J. In Wall Street

A wire said: "Prices opened slightly lower, and then turned strong again, but on all advances a fair amount of stock seemed to be for sale, and before eleven o'clock prices were again down fractionally below last night's close. On the decline, trading almost stopped. Since then it has rallied somewhat, but has remained extremely dull and almost entirely professional. Gas has been an exceptionally strong feature, the tip on the stock being widely distributed. Missouri Pacific advanced sharply on the announcement that Mr. Gould would not be re-elected president."

DIAMONDS IN PORCUPINE AS WELL AS GOLD

Ottawa, March 21.—The news of the discovery of diamonds in British Columbia sent out from the Geological Survey has re-awakened the interest of prospectors in the Porcupine region.

When the Porcupine district was first prospected, it was thought that it would not be long before diamonds would be found, as the rock struck in different places was of the particular kind in which the precious stones are generally found. Formations of rock similar to that of the Olivine Mountains in British Columbia, where Mr. Camsell, of the Geological Survey staff, found diamonds recently, are known to exist in the Porcupine country. It is thought that the British Columbia discovery will induce Porcupine gold-seekers turn their atttention to some extent to the search for the precious stones.

"Nip" Has Cash Assets of Over $1,200,000

The Nipissing Mines Co. yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 5 per cent. and an extra dividend of 2½ per cent., payable April 20. Books close on March 31 and reopen on April 18.

The financial statement as of March 18 shows: Cash in bank or in transit and at smelters, $1,096,391; ore at mines, $260,838; total cash assets, $1,276,289.

Peddler In Bank Demanded $1,000,000.

New York, March 21.—George Shagorre, a Syrian, who sells shoe strings in the financial district, entered the National City Bank late yesterday with the alleged purpose of demanding $1,000,000. Instead of getting it, policemen and clerks seized him and he was driven off to Bellevue Hospital for examination as to his sanity.

NOW CONTROL 8,000 SHARES R & O STOCK

The market can make neither head nor tail of the R. & O. deal.

About all that is known definitely is that it is proposed to put R. & O. and Northern Navigation in at a price, and later bring in the Inland Navigation Co. at a valuation which has not yet been made.

It is presumed that the R. & O. holders will get an optional offer of either stock or cash, but this is merely a conjecture.

The opposition to the proposed merger is not pronounced, although some of the directors are lukewarm, as they dislike the thought of the company going into a deal just when they have got it into first-class shape after a struggle of many years.

It is estimated that the people who propose to pull off the deal have accumulated about 8,000 shares of stock.

At to-days' price, 115, it yields 5.21 per cent., which makes Richelieu relatively higher than Power, Toronto Ry., Bell Telephone, Steel pfd., Ogilvie pfd., and a host of investment issues.

$3,000,000 to Be Capital of Little "Nip"

The plan adopted by the Little Nipissing Mining Company in regard to the wrongful issue of stock is to call in all outstanding stock certificates and to replace them with new stock. This is the plan provided for in the bill now before the legislature.

The preamble of the bill sets forth:—"That certificates in the excess of the said amount of $1,250,000 had been issued without legal authority to the extent of more than $644,244, and it further appeared that owing to the incomplete and mutilated condition of the stock books of the company, it was impossible to determine the exact amount of the over-issue and also impossible to distinguish between certificates of stock issued with authority and those issued without authority."

The bill provides for the increase of the capital from $1,250,000 to $3,000,000.

It also provides that within ninety days from the date of the official advertisement all holders of stock certificates shall transmit them to the secretary of the company and receive new certificates.

Union Pacific Cobalt Goes Into Porcupine

Union Pacific Cobalt mines are entering Porcupine. A group of stockholders are underwriting a block of the treasury shares which enables the company to pay for two claims in Deloro Township. The underwriters propose to guarantee the company sufficient funds to develop these claims and intend to list the new issue on the mining markets the latter part of this week. The directors are arranging to start up the Cobalt properties on which work was stopped last summer.

W. M. Aitken Honored By His Old Town

Special to the Montreal Star.

Newcastle, N. B., March 21.—W. Max Aitken, M.P. for Ashton-Under-Lyne, arrived home this afternoon. He was met at the station by the Mayor, aldermen, Board of Trade and crowds of old friends and acquaintances, accompanied by the Citizens' Band, who escorted him to the opera house, where he was presented by Mayor McMurdo with the freedom of the town. The Hon. Donald Morrison was chairman.

The address testified to Newcastle's pride and interest in Mr. Aitken's onward career from boyhood till his great triumph in British elections. Newcastle felt towards him as a mother to her boy returning honored, decorated and spotless from the field of battle. His various financial success had been marked with honesty, every enterprise being a public boon. His success had been due principally to hard work.

Newcastle knew that his campaign would be a whirlwind one or nothing, and Ashton-Under-Lyne and the Empire would be the better for his presence in Parliament.

The address regretted the absence of Mrs. Aitken, and assured her of its highest regard and best wishes for increasing happiness and triumph.

Addresses congratulatory of Mr. Aitken's financial and political triumphs were made by the Mayor, Ald. Butler and Mr. Morrison, Judge Wilkinson, Rev. S. J. McArthur, Customs Collector Wm. A. Park, Ex-Mayor Miller and F. D. Swim.

Mr. Aitken very appreciatively replied, saying he was overwhelmed with these tokens of respect from his native town.

Mr. H. A. Gwynn, of the London Standard, also spoke. A banquet was given Mr. Aitken at the hotel at Miramichi.

OPINIONS ON THE MARKET.

Laidlaw & Co.: The fact seems to be that an unfavorable issue has been discounted, and fundamental conditions which are now usually strong, are becoming the dominating influence in stock market considerations.

J. S. Bache & Co.: The fundamental situation is growing rapidly better, and we believe the market should be bought anywhere around present levels for a fairly good upturn.

G. W. Farrell & Co.: Dominion Textile—preferred and common; Dominion Iron and Canadian Converters should be bought at present prices.

Charles Head: We believe that good issues should be bought for higher prices, as the trend is upward.

GENTLE ART OF GUESSING FANCY PRICES.

Predicts 250 For Canadian Pacific

STAR MARCH 21, 1906

The gentle pastime of predicting fancy prices for C.P.R. is no new art. The heading reproduced above is from The Star of five years ago to-day. It was a look into the future by Mr. Wassermann.

John D.

(Boston News Bureau.)

I get it very direct that John D. Rockefeller has been a heavy buyer of stocks of late.

TOPICS OF THE STREET

Yesterday Mr. George Caverhill came across a report of the Montreal Street Railway of 1869—42 years ago.

The revenue that year was $100,884, or about the same amount as the road now takes in in nine days.

Speaking of motive power, the report says that "the horses are in very good condition, being larger and of a better kind than last year."

Elsewhere complaint is made that operating expenses have increased owing to "the high price of fodder."

An interesting item in the report is this: "Paid Mr. Villeneuve to withdraw his omnibuses from the Mile End Road, $400."

This was the year that the dividend was increased from 5 to 6 per cent.

Mr. Charles Geddes was president.

Mr. J. H. Mayne Campbell, who presided at the annual meeting of the Bank of British North America, held in London the other day, made a comparison of past profits and said:

"For the period 1895 to 1899 the average yearly profits were £60,180; for 1900 to 1904 they were £85,706, and for 1905 to 1909, £106,440. The profits of 1910, £114,029, are £7,589 better than the latest and highest average of those five-yearly periods."

More clergymen hold Bank of British North America stock than the stock of any other bank in Canada.

Four years ago to-day the stock markets were panicky.

The Bank of France advanced its official rate to 3½ per cent. after maintaining a 3 per cent. rate since the Boer War.

When the Bank of France advances its rate it is a good time to get under cover.

The advance in question preceeded the panic of October, 1907, by seven months.

A boost for Reciprocity is a boost for Jim Hill and the Stars and Stripes.

The Mauretania, on which were Mr. C. R. Hosmer, Mr. Isaac Guggenheim, Mr. L. H. Timmins and others, made 612 knots last Friday, a new high record.

SAY $15 BID FOR CONTROL OF HOLLINGER

The assertion is made by the Boston News Bureau that, after purchasing $50,000 shares of Hollinger "at a low figure," the London interests "endeavored to secure control of the company, offering $15 a share." The News Bureau says:

"The Hollinger will be the first regular producer in the Porcupine camp; $78,000 of ore has already been shipped from development work, and on June 1 its 20-stamp mill, with a capacity of 150 tons daily, will begin operations. Interests associated with the management state that the average value of the ore runs $50 per ton, so that monthly operations should result in a yield of $200,000 or at the rate of $2,400,000 per year. Winnipeg Is Forced To Buy Back Cattle.

Winnipeg, March 21.—When the cattle were being shipped east in such large numbers last fall, it was predicted that some of this beef would have to be brought back again for local consumption. Between Friday and Monday five carloads of beef from Toronto have arrived in the city, and the cost laid down to abattoirs is from $9.75 to $10 per cwt., or one cent under the present market price of carcasses to the wholesale trade.

Other cars are under contract, and as soon as the weather is too warm for frozen meat to be sent through, the live cattle will be sent back.

In addition to this there arrived from St. Paul 422 head of fat wethers to supply the Winnipeg trade.

CHATS ON CHANCE.

"Given some moisture at the proper time this season, and Alberta will have a grain crop of grain that will exceed any crop ever produced in the South," is the statement of General Manager Nasmith, of the Alberta Railway & Irrigation Company. "The fall wheat is looking fine."

Pat Burns, the Alberta cattle king, denies the story that there were heavy losses of cattle in Southern Alberta. He says cattle have come through the winter very well, and the loss will be very small.

NO CHANGE IN DIVIDEND ON LA ROSE YET

Mr. D. Lorne McGibbon, Mr. Shirley Ogilvie, Mr. Alex. Pringle, and Mr. Victor Mitchell attended the La Rose meeting yesterday, when, as contemplated, the regular dividend was declared. This is 2 per cent., payable April 20. Books close March 31 and reopen April 18.

The company has over $1,000,000 of cash and the mines are looking extremely well. The only disappointing feature, in fact, is that the output has been reduced by reason of the break in the Hydraulic Power plant, which has been supplying the mines in the camp.

Hope springs eternal in the human breast, and some are now looking for the expected increase next quarter.

WHEAT BEARS HAD BEST OF MARKET

From the Special correspondent of the Montreal Star on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Chicago, March 21. — Wheat declined again, May selling at 91, off to 90⅜, and up to 90⅝ again; July at 89½ to 89¾, off to 89⅛, and back to 89½. Closings yesterday were 91⅛ and 89½ respectively.

The bears in wheat were a happy lot. They were not encumbered by any marked opposition in the way of a "buying bee" during the days. While May was in liberal offering "from bell to bell," crop news from the South-West was of a more assuring character.

The world's available supply decreased 1,503,000 bushels. There was more or less disappointment because of the weakness at Liverpool, where prices were off ¼d to⅝d; Budapest was off ⅜d, and Antwerp showed a loss of ⅝d.

There was more pressure to sell Plate cargoes and Indian and Argentine offerings are likely to show a heavy increase in the movement.

The European visible supply of wheat increased 620,000 bushels for the past week, compared with 1,118,000 bushels one year ago. Stocks there are now 114,-272,000 bushels, compared with 96,748,000 bushels one year ago.

WINNIPEG WHEAT SHOWED STRENGTH

Winnipeg wheat prices held fairly strong to-day, though the Liverpool cable showed a decline or ¼ to ⅜c.

The export demand is good for the low grades, and Canadian millers want all the one and two northern they can secure. The movement from the country has been comparatively large lately, but this is an extra effort on the part of farmers to get as much grain shipped away as possible before spring work begins.

A wire received here from New York to-day reported a cargo of No. 2 red wheat for export.

Prices up to 1.30 p.m.:

Rev. Canon Scott Celebrates.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Quebec, March 21. — Rev. Canon Scott, Rector of St. Matthew's Church, formerly of Montreal, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to-day by a special Eucharistic service, which was attended by Bishop Farrar, and all the clergy of the district.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

O. I. C."—They are rather speculative

"A. F. M."—Dominion Textile "B" bonds yield 6 per cent., and should meet your requirements. Dom. Steel bonds are also good

"J. P. B."—None of the Cobalt properties you mention have paid dividends, and it is not likely that they ever will. They are all either actual or near-lemons.

"Reader"—You will have to write to C. F. Cement, secretary "Soo" Road, Minneapolis, Minn. 2. Crown Reserve is selling at a fair price. The others are closely held and are apparently too high. Not much stock could be sold at the prices you see quoted, whereas there is a market for Crown Reserve.

"S."—Canada Papar Co. preferred stock is 7 per cent. cumulative. The dividend was discounted some time ago. Mr. Joseph Kilgour, of Toronto, is president.

"Forbes."—No

"E. G."—Power was listed May, 1901. It sold at 100, then down to 93¾, the first month. The first dividend was 4 per cent.

DOMINION SECURITIES CORPORATION LIMITED

The Properties of P. Burns & Company

The well-planned distribution of the properties of this Company ensures two advantages: 1st, a ready outlet for the Company's products and a steady business on them, because the demand being scattered through two provinces does not depend on any single or few cities; 2nd, quickly convertible assets, because these properties, numbering close to a hundred different parcels in good locations, could be quickly sold; where property of equal value but in one parcel would undoubtedly wait long for a buyer.

Therefore, in considering the 20 year 6% Bonds issued by this Company, it is gratifying to note that the business itself is laid out to ensure steady demand and steady earnings; also that the ample assets, should occasion ever require, are of the quick variety.

In addition to over 19,000 acres of choice farm lands in Alberta, on the lines of railroad, P. Burns & Company own abattoirs, packing plants, wharfs, corrals, warehouses, stables, cold storage plants and 76 retail stores.

These properties are distributed in such prosperous towns and cities as Calgary, Edmonton, Wetaskiwin, Lethbridge, Fernie, Kamloops, Revelstoke, Nelson, Vancouver and Victoria.

THE FACTORY AND THE MEN BEHIND THE CARS

Do You Heed the Words of Wisdom or Prefer The Misrepresentations of The Knocker?

Is it not wise to ally yourself with an organization that has the ability and enterprise to invest in Canada the sum of $2,000,000 in plant, garages, and equipment—to further the sales and perfect the construction of the

McLAUGHLIN-BUICK CAR

Every owner of our cars is our ally and is treated as such. The Buick Company who supplies our engines, operates the largest automobile factory in the world and is financially one of the strongest American organizations.

The floor space of our Oshawa factory, shown above, is 14 acres—our branches and garages throughout Canada cover as much again. Our conveniently-located depots for parts and accessories and our experience in manufacturing first class vehicles, pre-eminently fits us to be the recipients of your confidenee. For over forty years, since the inception of our factory, we have rigidly adhered to our principle: "One grade only, and that the best."

Permanent itself, our organization guarantees the permanency of our business. Twenty years will find us still as ready to serve you as we are today and producing the same line of sturdy, reliable cars. Our interest in you does not end when we sell you a car—it only begins there. We are not a transitory organization, here today and gone tomorrow. Next year or even in the next decade we shall be where you can easily reach us—and our centrally located branches all over Canada, furnishing a service the like of which no other motor car organization can offer.

THE WORDS OF WISDOM ARE: "Select the car that has the men, the factory, and the organization behind it." To do this means to take advantage of our Experience, Fair Dealing, and Proven Quality.

The words of the knockers are:—but why repeat them, no doubt you have already heard them, discounted them, and probably forgotten them.

Every knock is a fresh proof that the knocker realizes the strength of our business and the superiority of our cars. "Sticks and stones are often found under the trees bearing the best fruit." It is a significant fact that during the past 40 years, although we have opened the doors of many branches not one has been permanently closed.

Get our catalogue. See our representative. Inspect our cars. Thus and thus only, can you realize the strength of our position and the merit of our product.

Beautiful printed muslins:—We mention them in preference to everything else, because they are 28, 29 and 30 inches wide, because there are over fifty different patterns and color effects, because every pattern and every color is really good and because the price is but, yard ..... .15

We know that they have the quality of reliability. We know that they will not only please you when you see them, but will delight you when you wear them. Why shouldn't we hold them up for your attention?

Small Tailored Hats For Right Now

Right now when New York and Paris are both calling for the small tailored hat, there is in our Salon, a collection of some of the prettiest, most becoming and stylish little hats of the tailored order that feminine eyes could wish to look upon—hats that feature the ospreys, the mounts, the flowers, and the striped ribbons which your American and Parisian sisters are clamoring for.

As for the hats themselves, they are the very newest designs in Milan, Crinoline and taegal, with black easily in the first place of importance.

You really ought to see them even if you don't intend to buy just yet. If you should care to buy the prices are $10.00 and upwards.

A Prettier Waist Than Has Been

A satin duchesse it is—white with touches of black applied in a novel way. The lower part of the round yoke is black (duchesse satin too, of course) and the black trimming down the front is like a long jabot, interlaced with the white, and while the contrast is sharp, the very softness of the duchesse satin smoothes it somewhat to the eye. A final touch of daintiness is given in the tiny black buttons, arranged very, very nicely indeed.

This waist (or its opposite black with white trimmings) will be on exhibit Wednesday, marked at $7.95

Grey suitings if you care to know are selling more rapidly than anything else in our dress goods department and this new shipment comes none too soon to fill up the gaps already made in our earlier consigments.

DOCTOR STEDMAN'S
Worm Powders
For Children and Adults

Worms in the intestines are not only an inconvenience and a nuisance, but in very many cases lead to serious danger. In children convulsive fits may be induced by their presence, and in adults, distresing indisposition. All the different kinds of worms are acted on by this preparation, the tape-worm, the round worm, and the thread-worm. A few doses will never fail to dislodge the enemy and in most cases prevent its reappearance.

Made in 98 different styles

Maybe you think all metal beds are more or less alike in quality, if not in design. But that is not so. You should learn to discriminate before you buy your metal bed. If you choose wisely, it will last you for many years.

Select the design you like from the 98 different styles of "Ideal" Metal Beds—and you can be sure its snowy, glossy finish will never discolor, never flake off, but stay pure white.

You can buy an "Ideal" Metal Bed for $3.00 or more, according to the style you select. There is only one "Ideal" quality—the best we know how to produce.

"The Philosophy of Sleep" is the title of a little book which you would like to read. May we send you a copy, also the name of the dealer in your locality who sells "Ideal" Metal Beds? Ask for Booklet No. 137

Selling Slater Shoes
At Marked Down Prices.

For the first time in your lifetime, and for the first time in the life history of the "Slate" Trade Mark, you can buy Slater Shoes at marked down prices.

Now this means more than an ordinary cut-price sale. Shoes of unknown parentage can be marked up before being marked down; in fact, both prices are often put on by the seller at the same moment. But Slater Shoes have the seal of certainty, and the actual worth price stamped on each pair by the makers. That is the guaranteed worth price. There is no smooth yodelling — no humbugging the public. Every mark and make is a genuine Slater Shoe Bargain.

On petition of 500 Slater Shoe Stores, after the presentation of the new Spring and Summer styles, the Slater Shoe Company issued their permit for this sale.

It is a simultaneous sale in 500 towns and cities, and over $2,000,000 worth of shoes are being rushed out this week to make way for the radical departure from the conventional which mark the new Slater models.

Yet every shoe offered is still in vogue—there are no mossback styles among them. Every size for everybody, in some style.

Gold Dust
Makes Dish-washing easy

The use of a little GOLD DUST in your dish-water will make your dishes whiter, sweeter and cleaner than they ever can be without it. Unlike soap, GOLD DUST does more than clean the surface. It goes deep after germs and hidden food particles, and sterilizes everything it touches.

GOLD DUST does all the hard part of the work without your assistance, because it begins to dissolve and clean the moment it touches the water.

When you have to wash dishes 1095 times a year, the GOLD DUST method of saving half your time and half your labor means something.

GOLD DUST is sold in 50c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

STYLE POINTS IN AEREA SHOES for WOMEN

CONSIDERABLE INTEREST IS BEING MANIFESTED IN HIGH GRADE TAN CALF BOOTS FOR SPRING AND SUMMER WEAR.

Tan Vici Kid Boots, with tops of brown satin are also in favor, and a revival interest is prevalent in the attractive leather black suede. Brown and Blue Velvet will be used for Pumps. Tops will be higher in the boots—Cuban, military, plain French and flaring, concave French heels are used.

Evidence points to increased sale of white canvas—boots being preferred to low cuts—combinations of white and black fabrics and leathers will be prominent.

All these things are of interest to women, but a visit to our Shoe Department will be of interest to both of us.

In both Women's and Men's Shoes, remember that the word "AEREA" means THE BEST QUALITY we handle, and you may be sure that it took a lot of choosing before we decided on qualities whereon we would place our A1 stamp. Aerea Shoes for Men $3 to $5 and Women.. .. ..
