The Golden Staff of Life

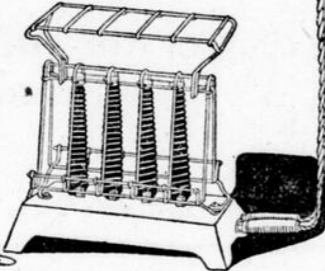

Bread is the staff of life and golden-brown electric toast is its most delicious and healthful form.

There's no use trying to demonstrate or even to imagine that ordinary toast is as good as electric toast. In making ordinary toast it is very difficult to avoid burning the bread, and burnt bread is something very different from the crisp and delicate toast made by the clean electric heat of the

G-E Radiant Toaster

The electric toaster enables you to have perfect toast at any time without the fuss and bother of building fires and smoking up the house. There is nothing more suitable for an Electrical Christmas Gift.

50 new Ladies' Coats to arrive Saturday, Nov. 8th, to be sold at 20 to 40 per cent below regular prices. W. M. Pike & Son.
Do not be disappointed; purchase your tickets at once for the Lady, Minstrels at the Haskell Opera House Friday evening, Nov. 14th at 8 o'clock sharp.
We are reluctantly obliged to lay over some of the correspondence which reached us too late for publication this week.
Centenary Methodist Church. Services on Sunday next at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Morning theme, Traps and Snare; evening theme, The Merciful. The pastor will preach. Sunday school session at the close of the morning service. Visitors welcome at all services.
Rev. A. Lee and Mrs. Holmes are about to leave for Washington, D. C., for the winter. Mr. Holmes is somewhat broken down from an altogether too strenuous summer's work. It is confidently expected, however, that a change and rest will bring renewed vigor in a short time.
"Profitable Farming in New England" is the subject of another article by George French, which appears elsewhere in this paper. Much of what is said concerning New England would apply with equal force to the Eastern Townships, where methods of farming, soil conditions, and climate are much the same.
Mr. Ray E. Ames of Caswell's Mills left today for the Foresters Sanatorium at Rainbow Lake N. Y. Mr. Ames is suffering from a pulmonary disease, and since last spring has perhaps just about held his own. His many friends here hope that the bracing air of the Adirondacks and skilled care of the sanatorium may restore his broken health.
Mr. George Daniels of Rock Island was stricken with hemorrhage of the lungs while at the Union House Tuesday evening. He was assisted to his home in the Pike tenement, where he was seen by Dr. Ross shortly afterwards. The bleeding continued mildly for some time. Although the left lung is affected, presumably by tuberculosis. Dr. Ross says there is no imminent danger and anticipates that the patient will be about again within a few days.
There was an unusual attendance at the meeting of the W. C. T. U. at Carrollcroft, yesterday, some forty-five or fifty ladies being present. Thirteen new members enrolled. Others are coming in the near future. Rev. Mr. Halpenny opened the meeting with prayer, Mrs. H. P. Morrill read an interesting paper, and Mrs. C. A. Searles of Beebe spoke. Mrs. Chas. W. Wells sang one of her sweet songs. Much earnestness was manifested in the progress of temperance. Refreshments were served and much enjoyed.
The Sunday school class formerly conducted by Miss Lea E. Tanner and Miss Amy Young was reorganized at Centenary Methodist Church, Saturday afternoon with the following officers: President, Miss Mildred Ross; vice-president, Miss Edna Smith; secretary-treasurer, Miss Pearl Hillman; conveners of committees, Miss Mary Sharp (membership), Miss Bernice Gibson (social), Miss Ethel Merriman (devotional). Girls between the ages of 12 and 17 years who are not attending elsewhere will be welcome to this class. Meetings after morning service. Teacher, Mrs. T. A. Halpenny. The new organization will be known as the Mizpah class.

COUNCIL DOINGS.

The November meeting of the municipal council of the village of Rock Island was held on Monday evening.
The mayor and secretary-treasurer were authorized to sign a contract with the Sherbrooke Railway & Power Co. for five lights to be placed upon Phelps and Paquette Avenues.
Mr. Charles W. Stevens was present and asked for a copy of the resolution recognizing his roadway, the request being granted. Mr. Stevens again brought up the matter of the proposed municipal building repeating the statement previously made, viz: that a fire proof concrete building could be erected by the hollow wall process at a cost lower than that of brick.
Letters from the post office inspector and railway officials concerning the new mail service were read by the mayor. Neither promised an earlier morning mail service, but the post office inspector promised consideration and it is probable that mails from Montreal arriving at Sherbrooke in the evening will be sent through to this place in closed pouches the same night.
By resolution the opinion is expressed that the height of tower of the Government building should be increased twenty feet in order to show the clock to advantage, and the Government is asked to make such increase.
The jury list was submitted by the secretary-treasurer and approved.
A letter from J. T. Ball, architect, Boston, was accompanied by the estimate of a firm of Boston contractors who offered to build the brick walls of the proposed municipal building for $2,120. In view of this estimate Mr. Ball could not see how Mr. Stevens could effect the saving promised by the use of concrete.
The following bills were homologated: Hospice du Sacre Coeur, Sherbrooke, care of John Kelley, $50 Mary Labonté $40, total $90; C. R. Nettleton one third of $35., cost of repairing wall, $166.66; Lee Farm $6.00 Benjamin Seguin $2.50; Kathan & Hopkins $68.78; B. J. McNaney and two assistants, patrol Halloween $7.50, other items $4.00, total $11.50; E. W. Hovey expenses, Sherbrooke, 1.98; Derby tax $2.25; International Water Co., $229.50; C. H. Howe $46.30, $60.50, total $106.80; Wm. Pike & Son $3.21; E. Phaneuf $2.60.

BASKET-BALL

An exciting basket-ball match took place at the College "gym" Friday evening, the contestants being the Sherbrooke Y. M. C. A. and Stanstead College teams. The game was spirited and interesting throughout, and when the whistle blew the score stood at 25-25. The five minutes following the decision to play off the tie added 13 to the College score and only 2 to the score of the visitors. The College boys showed better training and superior endurance. Final score 38-27. The personnel of the College team was as follows: C. L. Wigg, K. R. Lindsay, (captain), Reginald Dean, William Howard, Harold Mullan.
Following this game was a contest between the Sherbrooke Y. M. C. A. Seconds and Stanstead College Seconds which was easily won by the latter. Score 36-11. The College players were Oliver Giddings, Sidney Ellis, W. Costello, H. Hadlock, C. Adams.

WOMAN'S READING CLUB.

The meeting of Tuesday, held at the home of Mrs. H. F. Pierce, was a well-attended one and proved of fascinating interest. As Miss Grant was out of town and unexpectedly detained there, Miss Ruth Stevens's paper on "Walks in Old Paris" was read at this meeting instead of being given on November 18th and Miss Grant's paper will therefore be given at the coming meeting. Mrs. Colby gave an introductory talk illustrated with a diagram map of the journey, as taken during the fortnight elapsed since the party were left at Gibraltar, after the voyage over.
Roll call was of unusual interest as responses were quite generally given. The music provided a pleasant variety in the shape of a piano duet, by Mrs. B. F. Butterfield and Miss Mabel Pierce, and a song by Mrs. O. F. Caswell, accompanied by Miss Mabel Pierce.
Mrs. Colby read Miss Steven's paper which was full of interest by well-written description and historical allusion. A paper of real worth because written from actual observation of Old Paris. Miss Beck gave an amusing reading from a recent ship's magazine entitled: "Buying a hat in Paris."
Mrs. O. F. Caswell is hostess for the club on November 18th. Roll Call: "Quotations from French authors," to be given in English preferably.

FIRST OF THE SERIES

Hear the Mozart (Ladies) Quartet at the Haskell Opera House to-morrow night, the first number of a series of six entertainments to be given this winter. Read what others think of their work.

"The musical number, by the Mozart (Ladies) Quartet of Boston, was an exceptionally interesting one. It was the opinion of those present that nothing better in quartet work had ever been heard in the City."—Portland Press.

"The selections were most admirably given, their voices blended so perfectly it was a delight to all who were fortunate enough to be present."—Lawrence, Mass.

"The Mozart (Ladies) Quartet won high approval, and was compelled to respond to many encores. The artists all possess voices of more than ordinary volume and sweetness, which blend together harmoniously."—Manchester, N. H.

"The program by the Mozart Quartet was a rare treat. The individual voices of the quartet were of high quality and training. Too much cannot be said of their ensemble and the perfect blending of their voices. Nothing better has been heard in town for a long time."—Sun, Attleboro, Mass.

FITCH BAY.

The event of the season will be a church fair, supper and concert given by the Helping Hand Society of the Congregational Church on the afternoon and evening of Nov. 21st, in Hovey hall. The ladies have a very fine collection of articles to offer for sale, all at very moderate prices; many articles especially designed and made for Christmas gifts. It is unnecessary to mention about supper as this society is already famous for its splendid suppers. The concert will be mostly given by outside talent, and next week we will announce the name of each artist who will take part in giving this treat.

THE UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

Believes in an all
SUCCESSFUL GOD

Who will finally bring every man to Righteousness

SERVICE 10.45 A. M.

He who helps a child helps humanity with a distinctness, with an immediateness which no other stage of their human life can ever give again.—Phillips Brooks.

NORTH HATLEY.

The members of the local W. C. T. U. are to hold a rummage sale in the vestry of the Universalist church, Friday of this week. The sale begins at one o'clock and continues through the afternoon and evening. The funds from the proceeds are to further the worthy work of the temperance union.

Mrs. Elizabeth Knott Adams, wife of Rev. Frank E. Adams of Huntingville, died Wednesday, Oct. 22nd, and funeral services were held in the Universalist church at that place Friday afternoon, Oct. 24th, at one o'clock, Rev. E. E. Margraf of North Hatley officiating.

The North Hatley lecture course opens this evening with the first of the four entertainments that are to be given this winter. The Mozart Ladies Quartet are to be at the village hall Thursday evening. They come under the management of the Eastern Lyceum Bureau of Boston. All lovers of music will have a treat.

The annual meeting of the First Universalist church and parish was held in the church Tuesday evening, Oct. 28th. The meeting was well attended. The reports for the year from the Church, parish, Sunday school, Young People's Society, Home Department, Cradle Roll, and Ladies Aid were most encouraging. They showed the year a most prosperous one. All are encouraged. Officers for the year were elected. Gifts to the church, Sunday school, parish, announced, plans for new work proposed, and all felt the new ecclesiastical year was to be made the best in the history of the church.

The evening meetings of the Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist church are now held at 7 instead of 7.30. Since the change to half an hour earlier, the evening congregations have noticeably increased. Miss Joice Reed has recently reorganized the Y. P. C. U. choir of mixed voices and this choir has the promise of becoming one of the features of the evening services. The choir now has six members besides the organist and it is hoped in the near future to increase the number to ten.

Mr. Lee McKay, the genial and popular clerk of the Jean LeBaron store, left Wednesday afternoon for Detroit, Michigan. He will remain there until after the winter and into the early spring. He has accepted a position in the Ford automobile works.

John Charles Edgar, M. D., and Mrs. Edgar have gone to Greenshields and Wainright, Alberta, to visit the Doctor's son Walter.

A business meeting of the Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist church was held at the home of Mrs. Leslie A. Taylor, Friday evening. Officers were elected for the year. A report of the financial condition of the society was also read.

Mr. Admont C. LeBaron, the motion picture man, has been giving some fine films at the school hall recently. His entertainments are not only interesting and amusing but instructive and elevating. All have passed the approval of the censor.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Taylor, will close their home this winter about the middle of next month and are planning to spend the cold season in Massachusetts. They are to go Lowell and there are to be with other members of the family. We regret the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor from our village.

The new sewer on River St. is progressing finely. It is hoped that the main line will be in by Saturday of this week if weather conditions are at all favorable.

EAST BOLTON.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Juby and family of Lennoxville have moved back to their home here.

Miss Agnes Chamberlain has returned to Oliver after spending the past week with friends here.

Mr. J. A. Channell of Knowlton was the guest of his brother over Sunday.

A reception was given Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ball on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. J. G. Ball. A large company was present and a pleasant evening spent. Many good wishes and congratulations were extended Mr. and Mrs. Ball for the future. Addresses were given by Rev. D. Brill, Rev. I. C. Mills, and Mr. J. F. Bryant, to which Mr. Ball feelingly replied on behalf of himself and bride. Dainty refreshments were served by the ladies after which the party dispersed at a late hour. Mr. and Mrs. Ball expect to reside in Newport.

On Friday evening a surprise party was given Miss Lera Channell at her home. Games, music, accompanied by Halloween sports passed the evening away all too quickly. Refreshments were served by the ladies and a pleasant evening was the out come.

The R. F. D. route from Magog to Channell and Miletta was inaugurated Nov. 1st, Mr. J. H. Pessley, Magog, being the carrier.

Miss Alice Wing is home, after spending a short time with Miss F. Porter, Magog.

Miss M. Scott was a week-end guest at J. M. Bryant's.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Patch, Mr. P. A. Powell, Misses Agnes Chamberlain and Lera Channell were at Newport on Wednesday, going up in a motor boat.

BIG, HEARTY BABY BOY

Mrs. Beck's Fondest Hopes Realized—Health, Happiness and Baby.

Upper Lahave, N. S., Can.,—“I wish to thank you for the benefit I received by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles from which I was a great sufferer, so that I was completely run down in health. Other medicine did not help me, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and strong. I now have a big, hearty baby boy, and praise your medicine for the wonderful lot of good it has done me.”—Mrs. ISRAEL BECK, JR., Upper Lahave, Lunenburg Co., N. S., Canada.

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look forward to a childless and lonely old age.

Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to some derangement of the feminine system, often curable by the proper remedies.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

NO INCREASE IN DRINKING.

The internal revenue report for 1913 has been widely commented upon by the press, its figures being generally accepted as proof of an increase in drinking, “notable,” “alarming,” “shameless,” according to the point of view of the commentator. We do not challenge the accuracy of the report, but we do maintain that the press of the country has given it too hasty consideration, and that the public has too readily accepted the conclusions of the newspapers. The figures given are true as far as they go, but it is not the province of the internal revenue commission to explain those figures. The National W. C. T. U., through its bureau of publicity, sends out the following explanation:

First, with regard to distilled liquors, it is not so generally known as it should be that the figures of the government report are based on the number of gallons withdrawn by wholesalers from the bonded warehouses, and that the amount for any one year may or may not represent the actual consumption for that year. It happens that for the year just closed the amount withdrawn does not represent actual consumption. To the average reader the situation is somewhat confusing, but it is easily explained. Under the law liquor may remain in bond not longer than eight years. At the expiration of that time it must be removed from the government warehouses whether there is demand for it or not. During the year covered by the 1913 report a large amount was, it is stated, thrown upon the market because the bonding period had expired. The fact that such a large quantity remained in bond until forced out by the time limit is sufficient proof that the sale of spirituous liquors has been decreasing.

When the liquor is taken from the bonded warehouses the government tax is paid, and it is then officially recorded as “consumed.” The truth of the matter is that much liquor reported as “consumed” from June 30, 1912, to June 30, 1913, is now stored in private warehouses waiting a demand. Those who understand the state of affairs have expected just such a showing as that now put out by the internal revenue department. They have expected, too, that it would be generally interpreted as meaning a “marked increase in drinking.” They know that while an unusual amount of liquor was withdrawn last year from the bonded warehouses it by no means follows that all of it went down the throats of American citizens.

Second, there is more or less juggling of official figures by liquorists. Desiring (in their effort to discredit the so-called “reform wave”) to make the per capita increase appear large, they have a way of bunching together the figures referring to all kinds of liquors, distilled and malt. And newspapers have a way of repeating without investigation this manifestly unjust estimate. For example, some “wet” authority states that the per capita amount of liquor consumption has risen in twenty years from 15 gallons to 21 gallons (this, of course including all liquor on which tax has been paid), and the misleading statement goes the rounds.

Third, in view of these facts it is clear that there are more total abstinists and more prohibitionists in this country than ever before, and—granting for the sake of argument the increasing consumption—that drinkers are drinking more than ever before. It is one of the characteristics of alcohol to increase the desire for itself, so we may expect the moderate drinker (or his children) to become the excessive drinker and the excessive drinker to become more excessive. It isn't from the number of gallons of liquor consumed that one judges of the nearness of nation-wide prohibition, but from the rapidly growing prohibition sentiment and consequent number of prohibition votes throughout the country.

The liquor interests are trying desperately to hide the fact that theirs is a losing cause. In their journals and in their conventions their utterances are doleful and warningful, and in the stock market there is marked shrinkage in the value of liquor securities. Pessimism in the liquor camp, optimism among the prohibitionists—this, despite the internal revenue report for 1913, is the situation today.

VITAL QUESTION.

There is not, at the present day, any question which so deeply touches the moral, the physical, and the religious welfare of the world as the question of temperance.—Lord Chancellor Cairns.

DRINKERS NOT WANTED.

The United States census bureau reports that nearly every industry is discriminating against the hiring of drinking men. The figures are: Agriculturists 72 per cent. Manufacturers 79 per cent. Trades 88 per cent. Railroads 90 per cent.

SHIFTS RESPONSIBILITY.

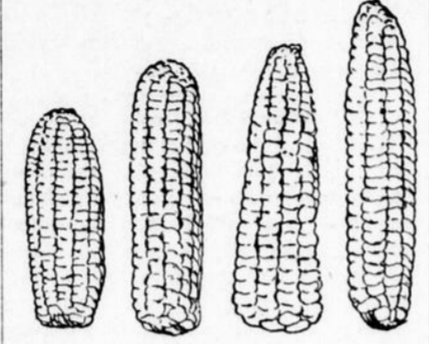

The man who takes the drink never takes the consequences; they are borne by his family, his employer and his grocer.

HOW TO SELECT CORN EARS

Difficult to Distinguish Between Breeds of Same Color—Each Variety Has Characteristic Shape.

The first point in judging a sample of corn is to determine its truthness to the type or breed characteristics. There are breeds of corn, like breeds of cattle which have peculiar colors or forms which distinguish them. It is difficult to distinguish between breeds of corn of the same color, but this may be learned by experience in handling corn of various breeds. In pure corn of any breed there are certain marks which may be easily recognized.

Take the shape of the ear, for example. The ideal ear is cylindrical, not too crooked or too tapering. It is as difficult to find an ear of corn perfect in shape as it is to find cows, horses and sheep with perfect forms. The shape of ears of the different varieties of corn differ as widely as the shape and form of the different pure breeds of cattle. Each class and variety has a characteristic shape peculiar to itself. The most desirable shaped ear is cylindrical from butt to tip. Where ears are inclined to taper, it will be noticed that two or four rows, as a rule, are dropped near the middle of the ear. In judging the corn ear, take into consideration the soil and climatic conditions in which the corn is grown. The shape of a desirable ear for southern or central Illinois would differ in many respects from the most desirable ears for northern Wisconsin. The shorter growing season in the north demands a shallower kernel and a smaller ear to enable the corn to mature.

The ear at the left is too short and thick, although good in other respects, the second is a desirable ear, the third has an enlarged butt and irregular rows, while the fourth, at the right, is too slender.

DISEASE MAY BE PREVENTED

Fatal Malady of Canker Sore Mouth Causes Extensive Loss of Little Pigs Every Year.

The loss of little pigs from this disease annually is extensive, but largely might be prevented by proper care. The cause of the disease is infection of slight scratches of the nose, mouth and gums by what is called bacillus necrophorus. This germ is present normally in the intestines of hogs and may be found wherever voidings have been dropped. The disease, therefore, is most likely to attack pigs kept in insanitary yards and buildings, and the contagion lurks there from year to year.

To prevent the disease, sows and pigs should be provided with clean buildings and yards. Be sure to have the bedding fresh and dry. Pens should be cleaned out often and kept free from filth. Disinfectants and lead plaster should be used in the pens daily. At birth the sharp teeth of each pig should be carefully nipped off with sharp pinchers, but more harm than good may follow if the gums are cut or bruised during the operation. Treat the cankers by scraping each ulcer thoroughly and rubbing it lightly with a lunar caustic pencil. Afterward swab the affected parts twice daily with a five per cent. solution of permanganate of potash.

After one year all boars should have their tusks removed at least twice a year. Use strong nippers or sharp blacksmith's pinchers.

“Breaking” by Kindness.

A long time before the colt gets through sucking it should be petted and handled so it won't be a stranger to its master later, when the time comes to break it to driving. The value of many a promising horse is reduced materially because this job of handling is put off until the colt gets set in his ways, and not only becomes set, but has the strength to have its own way sometimes.

Should Try a Separator.

It will not cost you a cent to try a cream separator for two weeks or even longer. Any dealer will be glad to let you have one on trial, for once used they will sell themselves.

KEEP HUNTERS FROM BIRDS

One Good Thing, and About All, That Can Be Said for the Pestilent Mosquito.

In the north of Canada the mosquito reigns supreme. The swarms that rise from streams, lakes and marshes, as each comes to the surface and emerges, dry, from the skin he wore when a wiggler in the water, cannot be checked or resisted. Though weakly blown aside by the wind or driven off by smoke, they triumph by the force of numbers.

There is compensation for their virtuous annoyance, and even for their transmission of the germs of malaria, compensations more important than the feeding of trout and bass fry. They protect our feathered game during the nesting season and insure immunity to the flocks of migrants that rear their broods in the northern woods. The egg collector, the skin collector and all the inquisitive, curious and destructive who would otherwise invade the woods and marshes during the nesting season, are warned off by that omniscient and persistent hum. It is more effective than all the game-preserving and bird-protecting statutes. It insures safety during that helpless time when the mother bird can only flutter along the ground in paralyzed terror, drawing the invader away from her treasured but helpless offspring. While the mosquito reigns supreme the bird life that ranges the continent will nest unmolested in its varied northern retreats.

SEEK FOR THE “SUNNY SIDE”

To Look Always for the Best is One of the Main Secrets of Life's Happiness.

One who boards a train on a hot day is usually careful to choose a seat on the shady side. If we took as much care to look on the sunny side as we do to sit on the shady side this would be a far more contented and peaceful world.

The best of good habits to cultivate is that of seeing things as a radiant and glorious flood of daylight shows them, not as shapes dimly described in the gloom of a pestilential cavern. Upturn a stone in the field—and on the under side, the side away from the sun, you will find a damp and mouldy foulness, with all manner of crawling, many-legged creatures that run away from the light because they do not love it. How different it is from the beauty of the flowers and the verdure of the greenward living in the open, and looking toward the sky! In life it is like that. We have not ascertained the secret of happiness until we have learned to look, to work, and to live, forever on the sunny side.—Philadelphia Ledger.

To Convert Gypsies.

In a never-ending, restless tide, a million gypsies surge to and fro across Europe. From east to west they migrate at the beginning of summer, and west to east in the fall. Nowhere are they wanted, everywhere are they eyed with suspicion, but still every year they wander, and the authorities of the countries they cross dread their coming and are relieved when they go. There is always trouble at the frontiers. Here the wanderers are stopped, questioned and often imprisoned as vagrants. But there is nothing to do but finally let them go, and they invariably return the next year. An effort to aid and protect these gypsies is being made by a Swiss clergyman, Rev. H. Eucyer. He has organized a society one of the purposes of which is to instruct the gypsies in the Christian religion, for these nomads are all pagans.

Who We Are.

There are many people who think that the term “American embassy” should be changed to “United States embassy” because the latter sounds more dignified and befitting this great country. They do not realize, however, that the “United States” may mean the United States of Colombia or the United States of Brazil. As a matter of fact, we are Americans because we live in the United States of America. In Spain, however “American” means a person who lives in South America. The Spaniards call the people of this country “North Americans” or “Yankees.” The latter term was most popular just before the late disturbance between the United States and Spain—with the addition of “pig.”—Troy Record.

He Knew the Type.

Little Bobby, who had been taken for a Sunday walk in the park, was much interested in watching the swans while a keeper was feeding them. “Papa,” he asked, “is that a papa swan or a mamma swan?” “Which one do you mean, Bobby?” “That tired looking one over there with the feathers all pecked off the top of its head and the one the others won't let get any of the bread.” “That, my son,” replied his father sadly, without even troubling to look, “is the papa swan.”

What a Child Needs Most.

It is not, after all, a smattering of chemistry, or an acquaintance with the habits of bees which will carry our children through life, but a capacity for doing what they do not want to do, if it be a thing which needs to be done. They will have to do many things they do not want to do later on, if their lives are going to be worth the living, and the sooner they learn to stand to their guns the better for them, and for all those whose welfare will lie in their hands.—Bios Repplier in Atlantic Monthly.

DENIED ONE PLEASURE.

HANDICAP THAT IS THE ACCOMPANIMENT OF RICHES.

Possessors of Great Wealth Debarred From Owning Anything That Is Difficult to Acquire—Joy He Is Doomed to Miss.

Great wealth takes away as many things from a man as it brings him, asserts William Frederick Dix in the New York Independent. The man of many millions loses one of the greatest pleasures in life—the zest of ownership, that sense of satisfaction which comes with the possession of something which has been longed for and finally acquired with difficulty.

If something that one possesses can, if lost or broken, be at once replaced without the expenditure of anything that can be missed, it necessarily has no value, because whether it is lost or not is immaterial.

This is a perfectly simple law of human nature working automatically and universally. The value of a possession depends upon the sacrifice required to obtain it and the difficulty of replacing it. The only exceptions to this are the things of no intrinsic worth, such as heirlooms, tokens of love, or souvenirs with sentimental associations. Those are precious but not valuable. The countless tempting, material things of life that lure the unwealthy—clothes, toys, books, furniture, pictures, motors, yachts and so on—cannot bring with them the full joy of possession to the man who has but to stretch out his hand to take them.

The fascination of the jeweler's window are not for him. He can select anything and everything in the shop which he fancies and tuck it into his pocket without pricing it. His secretary will draw a check for the bill. He may fancy these jewels, but he cannot prize them, they have no endowment of charm, because they have been acquired without effort and could be replaced without the slightest inconvenience. The rich boy has never known the ecstasy of owning a pushmobile made out of a soap box. The joy of saving and planning for, and finally selecting a certain long coveted fishing rod, or canoe, or set of books, can never come to him.

One might say that the pleasure of ownership is only one of degree after all—that the poor man finds pleasure in owning his cottage and the rich man in owning his railroad. Poets have for ages sung of the joys of home, the sweetness of the hearthside and the happiness found at the vine clad cottage door, but have any poets ever sung the hallowed delights of owning a chain of rolling mills, or extolled the joys of the financier as he acquires the voting control of a railroad system?

How can a man of many millions conceive of the delights of digging and planting a little suburban garden, planning for it winter evenings with his wife's eager help, buying the seeds and coaxing them during the radiant summer days into fruitage, when the only garden he knows is the vast, formal one on his country estate, planned and built by the landscape architect, cultivated by foreign gardeners and visited by himself for an occasional after dinner promenade?

It is not his, he merely transferred a few thousand for the title to it. The patting lovingly into place of the seeds, the weeding and watering and watching and welcoming of the first shy shoots are not for him. He does not see the timid thrusting out of tender green things in the spring, the dawn of fragrant color as the buds open to the sunshine, and, finally, the full flower and fruit, nor feel the pride of fatherhood, of ownership, of possession as he looks over his garden. Tony or Mike or Sam have attended to all those details! And what a world of joy, of beauty and fragrance, what peace and content, what a feeling of triumph have his millions robbed him of in the unfolding of that garden!

The man of many millions has been given many things, but he has been deprived of a corresponding number of things which count in this world.

Resourceful Cook.

The young housekeeper was troubled. “Oh, dear!” she exclaimed. “That horrid groceryman never sends me what I want.” “What seems to be the trouble now, darling?” asked the fond husband, with tender anxiety. “Well, the Browns are coming to dinner tonight, and I was going to have asparagus vinaigrette. The recipe in my cook book says that the bleached kind of asparagus should be used, and the grocer has sent me this nasty fresh green kind. What shall I do?”

“Can't you telephone to the grocery and have them change the order?” “No, it's too late. Oh, I'll tell you! Run over to the corner drug store and get a bottle of peroxide, and I'll bleach it myself!”

“What a resourceful little wife I have!” he murmured proudly, as he reached for his hat.

Hats First Made by a Swiss.

Hats were first made by a Swiss of Paris in 1404. When Charles VII. of France entered Rouen in triumph in 1449 he wore a hat lined with red velvet, bearing a rich plume of feathers. Henceforth hats and caps, at least in France, began to take the place of chapeaus and hoods. Hats were first manufactured in England by Spaniards in 1610. Very high-crowned hats were worn by Queen Elizabeth's courtiers and were again introduced in 1758.

FROM EDUCATOR'S VIEWPOINT.

Dear Mr. Editor:

I have just read the JOURNAL of yesterday with much interest, but also some uneasiness. Surely at this stage of the game our friends in Beebe are not going to recede from the high principles of so many decades. That hotel argument is an old one, and as bad as it is old. As a teacher, it is the boys I think about. As sure as a saloon is opened, it will be a place for men to come together. The boys will drop in, and many will learn to drink. If they did not, saloons would go out of fashion. Can a few thousand dollars pay for the loss of character in even a few of the boys in the town?

Money made in the sale of liquor will be used to strengthen the financial and political position of the seller, rather than to build up the place. Consequently it is easy to get a saloon, but very difficult to get rid of it. All friends of Beebe would like to see a good hotel in the place, but to bring this good thing, by means of the worst enemy to civilized man, could never be right, nor in the long run, successful. It is true Rock Island and Stanstead seem to have prospered under such conditions, but many of us who live there feel disgraced that our villages are the means of bringing whisky to many Vermont and other homes, and we intend to work and fight in the interest of our boys, knowing that in the end right will conquer.

In the meantime I cannot believe that the city fathers in Beebe are so short-sighted as to allow an influence to induce them to forsake their lifelong principles. I for one have found it easier to believe in God and the ultimate triumph of right, because the voters of Beebe have refused to allow a bar in their town, even though it seemed to mean a direct financial loss.

Often some man in a place stands up for a principle for many years. He receives little encouragement, and may feel like giving up. He little knows that failure in him would knock the courage and hope out of many weaker men, who kept their faith silently because of him. So has it been with towns, and among these Beebe stands out prominently. Should she go back on her principles many of us would be poorer and weaker through her failure. But she will not fail.

Yours very sincerely,
GEO. J. TRUEMAN.

DUFFERIN AVENUE.

The Helping Hand met with Mrs. J. A. Peasley at her hospitable home on Tuesday, Nov. 4th, for the double pleasure of their regular meeting and a celebration of the tenth anniversary of their marriage. The gentlemen joined the party at supper hour and a most delightful and abundant "wedding feast" was enjoyed by about thirty-seven guests. A feature of the evening was the presentation of a gift to Mrs. Peasley by the ladies of the Helping Hand, an original poem by Mrs. W. Abbott and some reminiscences of the wedding which took place in Charlestown, Mass., Nov. 4th, 1903.

NERVOUS PEOPLE

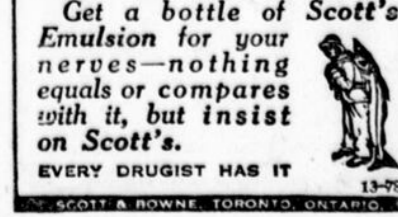

are usually thin and easily worried, sleep does not refresh and the system gradually weakens from insufficient nourishment.

Scott's Emulsion corrects nervousness by its force of concentrated medical nourishment—it restores the healthy action of body cells, enriches the blood, sharpens the appetite, and feeds the nerve centres by distributing energy and power all over the body.

Don't resort to alcoholic mixtures or drug concoctions that stimulate and stupefy.

Get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion for your nerves—nothing equals or compares with it, but insist on Scott's.

EVERY DRUGGIST HAS IT

BEEBE.
Miss Carrie Feltus is spending a few weeks in Boston.
The Book and Thimble Club were pleasantly entertained at their last meeting by Mrs. E. M. Beerworth, and Nov. 11th they are to meet with Mrs. E. M. Campbell. Answer to roll call, odd items from everywhere, the club now has thirty members and much enjoy the pleasure of the meetings, and they are gaining knowledge from the different subjects taken, and from the reading of the Woman's Parliamentary Law.
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ordway of Orleans, were guests of his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Twombly over Sunday.

The Ladies Aid are invited to Mrs. Sidney Pocock's next Saturday from two until five, to sew for the sale.
Mrs. Candish, who formerly lived here, but of late has been living at Rock Island, has bought Will Davio's new house and taken possession.
The ladies of All Saints Church will give an oyster supper in the town hall, Thursday evening, Nov. 11th. Everybody invited.

Will Davio has moved into one of the new houses on Broadlawn.
Mrs. S. B. Norton has returned home after a visit in Montreal.
Mrs. Austiu Bodwell is one of the sick ones in town.
Miss Eva Coburn of Montreal, has been spending a few weeks with her sister, Miss Christine Coburn.
The service in the Advent Church last Sunday morning was quite well attended. Mr. Frank Hallett of Rock Island sang a solo which was much appreciated.

There was a large congregation at the Methodist church Sunday forenoon, and also at the Union meeting at the same place in the evening. Elder J. E. Lary was the speaker.
Mrs. Ozro Cass had the misfortune to get thrown out of a buggy last Tuesday afternoon, while riding with her son-in-law, Ezra Rediker. The horse took fright at the train when near S. B. Norton's driveway and ran on to a bank in such a way as to throw both out of the of the wagon. Mrs. Cass was fortunate enough not to have any bones broken but she was badly bruised, the trouble being mostly in her lower limbs. A doctor was called as soon as one could be obtained. Her daughter Sadie of Rock Island, was sent for, and came on the noon train to help care for her mother. Mrs. Cass was put on to a cot bed and Carlton Twombly carried her home with his express wagon. It speaks well for the neighbors when one notices how many come in to lend a helping hand. Mr. Rediker did not receive any injury. The section men and others were there to help hold the frightened horse and assist in other ways.

Wm. Scrogie has moved into the house formerly owned by Fred Gray. J. G. Elder of the Junction hotel is moving into J. W. Elder's large house on Junction St.
Mr. and Mrs. George Keeler, formerly of this place but now of Lake Park, are rejoicing over the birth of a baby boy, born Nov. 3rd.

On the third page of this paper the license question is discussed from the viewpoint of the farmer.
From another correspondent.
The Camp Fire Girls of Beebe held a very successful social, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 23, when they entertained about one hundred and fifty. The Hall was attractively decorated with evergreens, Jack o'lanterns and other things appropriate to the Halloween season. A delicious "baked bean" supper was served by the girls, under the direction of the Guardian of the Fire. A candy booth, presided over by one of the Camp Fire Girls, made an attractive feature in the hall.
After supper at tables, the young people spent a merry evening in playing games. The proceeds of the supper amounted to something over seventeen dollars. The Ishkudah Camp Fire of Beebe should be congratulated upon the success of their organization. There are at the present time about twenty-five active members. Their meetings are held weekly, every Tuesday evening. For the benefit of those who are not acquainted with the Camp Fire movement, we might say that it is an organization whose aim is to promote among the girls of the rising generation a spirit of domesticity, by awarding honor beads at the meetings for the honors won at the homes by performing various household tasks. In this way the girls compete with one another, and the duties which were before considered an irksome grind are now entered into in the spirit of friendly rivalry, each girl trying to exceed her neighbor in winning the coveted honors. Not only are these honors awarded for housework, but sewing, mending, millinery, and all arts that go to make an all round capable woman, are similarly encouraged. Healthy out of door exercise is also a prominent feature of the movement; helping the girls to train their bodies as well as their minds for the battle of life that is before them. The girls are taught selfreliance, and their team work gives them a broad sense of helpfulness and loyalty to one another. In these days when most of our girls must become self-supporting, as soon as their education permits, business training is apt to supplant the art of home-making, which is in reality a woman's highest attainment, therefore those who are interested in girls will welcome gladly this movement which teaches them in early life to become competent housekeepers.

Services in Methodist Church, Beebe, next Sunday
World's Temperance Sunday will be observed in the Methodist Church, Beebe. Morning service at 10.30. Subject: "The Primitive bludgeon of Prohibition." The Communion at close of service, followed by Sunday school with temperance lesson. Evening service at 7 o'clock. Subject: "The Local aspect of the Temperance question—License or no License." A cordial invitation to all services.
The second meeting of the Quarterly Official Board will be held at Beebe on Monday evening at 8 o'clock sharp.

AN INDUSTRIAL HANDICAP.
Lowering Moral Tone of Community Reduces Industrial Efficiency.

The Editor of the Stanstead Journal.

Dear Sir, Mr. House, in his letter in last week's Journal, in support of a bar-room at Beebe, makes a most unwarranted statement when he says, "The man at the head of our most important industry is opposed to license, not because a license will injure his business but that it is the moral influence he fears." Presuming that he refers to the writer, I would say that I have never made such an absurd statement either to Mr. House or any one else. It requires no student of Social Economics to realize that if the moral tone of a community is lowered its industrial efficiency is lessened. This is simply a matter of common observation wherever the bar-room flourishes.

Mr. House, not very elegantly but certainly very truly, admits that the product of the bar-rooms at Rock Island is only "vomit," and in another paragraph he states that if a license is granted at Beebe more rum will likely be sold as a result, and yet Mr. House claims to be a temperance man and working for the best interests of Beebe. The citizens of Beebe demand a licensed hotel, says Mr. House. Will Mr. House state that there was any agitation beyond a very few interested parties for a licensed hotel? Is it not a fact that the matter was engineered at a private meeting of a select few and the granting of a license practically decided on before it ever came before the council? Is it not a fact that the promoters of license, for weeks were engaged in soliciting names to a petition, praying the council to grant a license, and is it not also a fact that many names were placed there owing to the fact that a $15,000 hotel building was promised and while the question was pending were not plans of such a building exhibited at a council meeting? Supporters of license rejoiced that Beebe was at last to be up-to-date. But what a change has taken place; instead of a $15,000 building, the old Junction House has been purchased and is being given a $15,000 coat of paint; the balance of the $15,000 will probably be expended on the bar-room and its contents. Those who allowed their names to be placed on the petition by the promise of a fine new building have simply been deceived.

The plain fact is that the hotel part of the project is simply an "adjunt." The bar is to be the feature from which the returns are to come. I am credibly informed that the proprietors of the hotel have given assurance that no boarders will be given accommodation in the new palatial hotel. That men from our shops who, in the past have found room and board at the Junction House can go elsewhere for such, they will only be welcomed at the bar-room (when they have the cash) but as for board, why they can take the "Jim Crow cars," like the negroes in the South.
Do the supporters of license imagine for a moment that they are going to attract manufacturers to Beebe by installing a bar-room? They surely must know that, everything else being equal, manufacturers will invariably locate where rum is not sold. The Massey-Harris Co., in Toronto, have for years been trying to buy up a bar-room located near their works so as to close it up, they having found it so detrimental to their men and consequently to their business.

This talk of other towns being prosperous because of licensed bars is the most childish twaddle. I am surprised that any sensible man would mention it, let alone put himself on record as supporting such nonsense. If bar-rooms brought prosperity, what fools our Legislators must be in putting restrictions on the liquor traffic as they are doing in every progressive country in the world at the present time.

In conclusion let me say, that so strongly do I feel that not only will the bar-room be bad morally for Beebe but that it will injure it industrially that no inducement would have led me to rebuild in Beebe two years ago had I thought that there was any possibility of a license being granted, and from various conversations with Mr. House on this subject, he knows this to be a fact and has supported "no-license" in the past. What influence has caused this change?

Mr. James Hamm of Ottawa spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. H. Ham, "Pine Tree Farm," during the past week.
Mrs. B. H. Kezar has recovered sufficiently to take a short automobile ride on Sunday, it being a fine day, yet she is far from well.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Turcott of North Hatley and their children were guests of her mother, Mrs. E. St. Dizier, Sunday last.
Mr. Chas. Sloggett went to Amherst, N. S., and Moncton, N. B., last week Wednesday, returning Monday morning. He went to investigate the fox industry and get more insight into the care of them, with the intention of later going into the business, it may be.

Mrs. E. Whitcomb has lately made over an outbuilding for hogs, with cement walls and floor, enlarging it.
Mrs. E. St. Dizier is having a new wide front piazza on her residence, with summer sleeping porch above, replacing the old piazza, built long ago by her father, the late Luther Abbott. W. A. Hunting & Co. have the work in hand.

Clarence Edson has the measles contracted at the Ayer's Cliff school, which he is attending. Several children here have now been exposed.
Miss Pearl McClary was home from Rock Island over Sunday.
Mr. H. Ayer of Brown's Hill was at "Greenbank" on Tuesday.

"No Fanatical Outburst."
Writing to the editor under date of Nov. 3rd, Rev. Geo. W. Fisher of Beebe says: "Thank you very much for your straightforward utterances on the temperance question. Such editorials are to the point, and cannot but be appreciated by all thoughtful readers; even opponents of the temperance movement must admit the cogency of your arguments. Such editorials are no fanatical outburst."

AYER'S CLIFF.

There was a large attendance at the box social at Mr. McKee's on Thursday evening and a jolly time is reported.

Hallow'een passed off very quietly with the usual number of harmless pranks by the small boys and perhaps a few by older and taller ones.

A good many have been added to the list of measles cases but all seem to be doing fairly well.

It is said a young minister arrived at Mr. Geo. Woodard's on Monday being the new son of Rev. F. Walden and Mrs. Walden (nee Cora Woodard). Congratulations.

Mrs. H. Berry was taken very ill again on Monday night, is slightly better at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Pollard have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. P. E.
Knights of Springfield, Vt. Mr.
Knights is a cousin of Mr. Pollard's whom he had not had the pleasure of meeting for about 40 years.

Mrs. Buck was in Newport Tuesday.
Mrs. Ida Drew and Miss Lillian
Drew were calling on friends here
Wednesday.

The Ladies Aid meeting with Miss Tyler on Tuesday of this week was well attended in spite of a rainy afternoon, and two comforters were tacked. A nice supper was served by the hostess. Proceeds $3.70.

From an occasional correspondent.
As the population of the world increases and competition becomes more keen the man who has the greatest knowledge, not necessarily of the higher studies which are taught only in the colleges and universities, but of the fundamental courses, such as are taught in the model school and the academy, has an advantage over his unlearned brethren. And so Ayer's Cliff may proudly hold its head up with other towns and cities, because this village is doing its share in preparing the way for its children.

Ayer's Cliff is a growing community. The development of the school system of a town points the way the entire town is progressing. The old school, in which many a boy and girl has studied, and in which it is not pleasant to recall, many a boy and girl has not been able to find room, is a thing of the past. In its place we have a modern brick structure, two stories high, above a basement. In every way it is up-to-date; it has the best of lighting, the best of heating, and the plumbing is sanitary in the highest degree. The people of this village should feel a great pride in the structure, and should be very grateful to the commissioners who have done their work so well.

Many of us remember the little red schoolhouse neath the hill. Some of us went to school there. It was a good place in its day; it was plenty large enough when the village was smaller, and it answered every purpose.

But Ayer's Cliff outgrew it and in 1901 a new school was built. It was a big improvement over the old building, but it was never just what was needed. When this village was set off from the municipality of Hatley and our school became a model school our real troubles commenced. The increasing number of children who wanted began to attend to crowd the building and when the academy was added it was simply a question of getting a new building or of spending a lot of money fixing up the old one.

At first it seemed better to enlarge the old building. The town owned the land, the building, and so, had something to start with. To build a new structure meant the purchasing of more land, and that was an expense which it was thought might be omitted. But after a time several decided that the proposition of putting up a new building was really worth considering, and finally, though there was considerable opposition at the time, it was voted to do so. Accordingly the commissioners purchased two acres of land from Mrs. H. G. Ayer last Autumn and the work of digging
the cellar was immediately started.

Dr. C. L. Brown was the chairman of the building committee and he was ably assisted by Mr. L. L. Clough and Mr. A. E. Fish. Mr. C. H. Robinson was foreman of the workmen.

The work went steadily on and when, early in the summer, the building began to look like a schoolhouse,
many of those people who had objected to it changed their minds. They had seen the wisdom of the move.

When the dedicatory exercises were held on the 13th of October the building was crowded with interested men and woman, and if we left unusually happy and proud that evening, were we not justified? We had a school the equal of any school in a village of this size. We had a school the equal of those in many larger places. We had a school that was not only large enough to supply our present needs, elementary, model and academic, but one that would be big enough to house our school children for years to come. Splendidly planned, carefully constructed, our commodious brick school is an ornament to the town. It is a building we may be proud to have our visitors inspect.

There are four class-rooms in the building, well equipped coat rooms teachers rooms, spacious halls; the basement of the building is floored with concrete and will be used as a recreation room by the scholars. What more could we desire in the way of schooling facilities; a library, perhaps, and a bell for the belfry. But both of these are promised. Already a start has been made on the library, and now that the people of the community have seen how splendid it is to have an up-to-date institution it is to be hoped that they will do their utmost to keep it up-to-date.

Some people have an idea that a schoolhouse is for the children to learn in, and that further than that it is of little use. But have you ever figured out how many hours a year a schoolhouse is not being used for school purposes. During those hours, unless the building is put to other uses, it is so much idle capital. Some of the larger cities of the country have realized this and have opened the buildings for public assemblies and entertainments.
Of course this is not a new idea to small towns. But it has not been developed as much as it might. This is our building and it is for our use. Let us make the most of it.

CITIZEN.

GRANITEVILLE.

The Ladies Aid will hold a social in the church basement Thursday evening, Nov. 13th. Farmers' supper 6 to 8. All are cordially invited.

Mr. John Ironside and family left on Wednesday for Montreal from which place they will sail for Scotland on the "Hesperian" of the Allan Line.
Mr. Wm. Branks sails at the same time for Scotland.

Mr. Elmer Taylor moved from Ayer's Cliff on Saturday into the boarding house with his mother, Mrs.
A. G. Taylor.

Mr. Oscar Boulais of St. Angele arrived here on Monday to spend a few weeks with his mother, Mr. J. A.
Boulais.
Dr. Gilfillan performed a very successful operation the first of the week for Mrs. John Vowel by removing a large growth from her right side.
She is doing well at present.

THE "BOOZE" QUESTION AGAIN.

Dear Mr. Editor,—With your permission I would like to ask your correspondents in your issue of Oct. 30th, a few questions, which if they would answer, might enlighten some people.

Are your correspondents, and the traveling public for whom they are anxious to provide good accommodation, so small and niggardly that they are unwilling to pay the cost of good entertainment? So they ask the poor drunkard and "booze hater" to come in and pay part of their bills for them?
If this is not the case why is it necessary to have the "bar" in order to get the hotel?

Has the Mayor of Beebe ever been heard to say, about Beebe, as is the case in Rock Island.—"Women are actually afraid to go to the station to the late train because there are so many drunks around?"

Will your correspondents dare to speak the industrial expansion of Sherbrooke, Magog, Coaticook and Rock Island is due to the saloons?

"Is it not rather, in spite of the fact that these towns are handicapped by the saloons, their water powers, transportation facilities, or geographical location, or all three combined, promote the industrial expansion faster than the saloon retards it?"

Why did Gen. Butterfield, when head of the leading industrial establishment of Rock Island, say to the municipal council, "I will pledge myself and my estate to pay to the municipality the same amount as you receive from liquor licenses so long as you refuse to grant a license," if he had not considered it bad for his business?

He says he made the offer "Because the increased efficiency of my men, if removed from liquor, would pay me
big interest on the investment."

Did he know what he was talking about? Again, are your correspondents willing to point out every drunk on the street and say "There is some of my work?"

Such is the case though if their application for license is granted.

In conclusion, if your correspondents are deluded with the fallacy that a licensed bar is necessary to maintain a good hotel, let them visit Rock Island and Derby Line hotels and they will soon have their fallacy exploded.

Yours truly,
F. L. XELA.

THE TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT.

In an interesting paper read at a meeting of the International W. C. T.
U., at Carrollcroft yesterday, Mrs. H.
P. Morrill told something of the advance of the temperance cause in America, and gave some information concerning the forces behind the movement. The address was optimistic in tone and no doubt an inspiration to all who heard it. The following extracts are gleaned from the paper.

"In the United States to-day 72 per cent of the total area is "dry" territory.
In nine States it is illegal to sell liquor anywhere in the Commonwealth, viz., Georgia, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi,
North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Tennessee and West Virginia.
There are ten other States in which more than 90 per cent are "dry."
These are Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Kentucky, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Utah, Vermont, Wyoming.

It will be seen that the States containing the largest cities are still not brought very near the prohibition goal, but the good work is going on on all sides and the determined forces will soon oblige the enemy to capit-ulate.

How has all this splendid work been accomplished? What forces? What labor? What time and money and power has been expended to bring about this splendid result?

The W. C. T. U. Juvenile Societies,
Christian Endeavor and other Temperance Organizations, have done much to pave the way, but it belonged to the Anti-Saloon League to organize all these scattered forces and make of them the most active and effective political agency in the country.

Yet it is not a political party, it is in fact the church in politics—the modern church militant. And the Holy War in which it is engaged is the Nation wide crusade against the saloon.

The idea of the League had been formulated more than twenty-five years ago, but it was not until 1894
that, at the suggestion of Arch Bishop Ireland of the Roman Catholic Church,
the Rev. A. J. Kennett, Chairman of the Methodist Episcopal Church, worked out a scheme for uniting all the workable forces into a grand campaign.

This Anti-Saloon League was formed at Washington, Dec. 18th, 1895, with all existing Leagues and forty-five other temperance organizations in its membership.

Denominational lines were crossed and party affiliations were held in abeyance, while this solid front swung into line, received its marching orders and took up its work—victory over the Saloon.

Until 1900 there were few results but by that time the machinery was fairly in motion and since then the progress has been little short of marvelous.

Then the liquor interests began to be thoroughly alarmed and started out a belated but futile opposition.

Even the slow moving United States Supreme Court deciding in favor of upholding the twenty-one years prohibition law for the old Indian Territory, now part of Oklahoma.

The years of 1912 and 1913 have been marked by advanced temperance legislation in seventeen states.
Under a ruling of the Interstate Commerce Act, liquors in original packages could be carried into prohibition states. As may at once be seen that was a great detriment to the successful working of the Prohibitory laws.

But one of the greatest victories of the whole campaign was the passage
by Congress of the Webb-Kenyon Law
even over the veto of President Taft.

This Act prohibits the sealed package traffic in Prohibition territory.
The lobby which came to Washington to work for the passage of this law numbered 270 and came from 32 states.
It represented 24 temperance organizations and the governing bodies of fifteen religious denominations.

The same tactics that have won Congress a thousand times were the tactics that lobbied the Webb-Kenyon Bill through.

How is all this work accomplished?
What starting point whence all this mighty machinery receives its impetus?

The "Ward," answering to our "polling division" in Quebec, is the starting point. The "Ward Committee" is composed of representatives from each Church and temperance organization.

Each member has ten voters which he is responsible for and for which he makes reports, on several important points, such as, has he a telephone?
Is he a church member? What is his attitude on the temperance question and local opinion? And this is considered very important—what newspaper does he read?

Even here in Quebec Province we are doing better than we knew for there has been no great flourish of trumpets over our temperance victories. There are 17 Counties in Quebec in which no licenses are issued.

Our Prime Minister said to a delegation of license holders seeking privileges that his Government was
"a partizan of temperance."

In Ontario there are 410 municipalities under prohibition, but 340 are still under license.

In 1912 there were 178 places in which the license party might have brought on repeal votes, but they only dared to bring them on in 15 municipalities and they signally failed in every case to repeat the local option
by-law.

Heart to heart talk to the voter at his home and lobbying in the legislature halls is doing the work in the United States and it is quite possible to put the same tactics in force on this side of the boundary line."

WARNING TO OUR PATRONS

Our business is being hampered by a man named Woods, formerly one of our liberal patrons, who has since betrayed us and is now conducting an opposition which is reducing our patronage and putting money which we should get, into the happiness of families with which we have no concern. Our faithful doctors who thrive from the ailments of our patrons are losing employment because the insurgents become healthy when no longer our patrons. This man, Edward J.
Woods, 534 Sixth Avenue, New York (the very heart of the "Tenderloin" saloon district, too), is ruining our business by sending his book, "Confessions of a Former Alcohol Slave", to every one who writes to him for it. This book tells of the true secret of overcoming the craving for alcohol in any form with or without the drinker's knowledge.
Friends of the Misery Manufacturing Company should do their best to suppress this free book which is reducing our profits. Remember, every one of our agents—every saloon keeper—is your friend as long as you have ten cents in your pocket.

The above is a copy of a circular sent to the editor by a well-known resident of Barnston, who writes: "Go to them with all your strength. We in Barnston are situated similar to those in Beebe, i.e., between two towns which are licensed, and we get a certain amount of the 'vomit' which we dislike, yet we are not going to sacrifice our record as an unlicensed community for this reason—or any other, in fact."

VERMONT ITEMS.

Walter H. Crockett, of Montpelier, has been engaged by the New York publishers to write the history of Vermont. The right job for the right man.

On the second of the Brattleboro Board of Trade's "better acquaintance" trips, about 90 members traveled in 20 automobiles. They visited over six towns.

Upon the arrival of the second at the fort the Tenth will leave by rail for New York and board the transports used by the Second and proceed to Galveston, thence by rail to Fort Huachuca, Ariz.

A Timonah man has just paid about $200 apiece for five registered Holstein cows. This is another fairly good illustration of the way the dairying interests of Rutland county are being highly developed.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Parker, of Lunenburg, observed their golden wedding anniversary October 18, keeping open house all day and receiving congratulations from a large number of their friends.

The Second cavalry, which is to take the place of the Tenth at Fort Ethan Allen, will leave El Paso, Texas about November 1, and proceed to Galveston, where it will board transports for New York, whence it will come to the post by rail.

Prize winners in St. Johnsbury's first "better babies contest" held October 15, have been announced. The highest scoring baby was Claire Elizabeth Jordan, aged six months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Horton, who had 99.5 per cent. The number of babies registered was 112.

The "better babies" contest held at Lyndonville by the Lyndon Union Club proved a great success, 72 children being enrolled. Veda May Colby, the six-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Colby, and Kendrick Earl Blodgett, aged three years, one month, the son of the Rev. and Mrs. F. B. Blodgett, each with a score of 98, were awarded the grand prizes.

The resources of Vermont must needs be exploited if the state is to enjoy an era of industrial progress and the tentative plan of the Greater Vermont Association surely is in line with this campaign of exploitation which ought to be vigorously pushed and which, doubtless, will be under the optimistic and efficient direction of Secretary Taylor.—Rutland Herald.

To attempt to suggest a line of procedure in carrying out the association's project would be, at this time, hardly opportune. But by all means let us have a "Vermont Industries Day" and on that occasion let there be a spirit of cooperation manifested upon the part of every citizen at every board of trade or other business organization to the end that something definite may result.

Peter and Henry Morin and Samuel Williams, the last named colored, all of Nashua, N. H., were found guilty by jury in the United States court at Rutland Friday afternoon of burglarizing the store of George B. Wallace in East Ryegate last August and were sentenced by Judge James L. Martin, of Brattleboro, to serve three years each in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., and pay a fine of $1 each.

War Time Messages Read.

Chamberlain Post, No. 1, G. A. R. St. Johnsbury, heard Tuesday night the report of the recent national encampment at Chattanooga from Mrs. Edwin L. Hovey, widow of a former commander of the post.

Following this report Arthur F. Stone read the series of telegrams received by his grandfather, Gov. Erastus Fairbanks, from Secretary Stanton, calling on Vermont to furnish her quota of volunteers in response to President Lincoln's call. The telegrams shed many interesting sidelights on those stirring days and were all original copies which have been saved for over 50 years in Mr. Stone's family.

Following the remarks Mr. Stone presented the post a framed photograph of the war governor to replace the oil painting he had given some years ago and which was destroyed when the old Grand Army hall was burned.

The engagement of Miss Katherine N. Vail, of Speedwell Farms, Lyndonville, to Arthur A. Marsters, of New York, was announced in New York city recently. Miss Vail is a niece of Theodore N. Vail, and has made her home with her uncle for the past 10 years. Mr. Marsters is secretary of the American Telegraph & Telephone Co., of which Miss Vail's uncle is president.

"Vermont Industries Day"

The Greater Vermont Association, in proposing the establishment of a "Vermont Industries Day" is to be commended for its interest in a most laudable undertaking. As Secretary Taylor of the association says, for many months "the thoughts of the people have been very strongly turned toward agriculture." He urges the citizens of the state to appreciate the fact that in addition to an "agricultural Vermont."

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Larkin, the labor agitator in Dublin who has been leading the strikers in that city for some weeks, was sentenced on Oct. 28th to seven months imprisonment for inciting to riot, and disturbance of the peace.

The epidemic of smallpox in Sydney, Australia, is so severe that it has caused the indefinite postponement of the World's Christian Endeavor Convention which was to have been held in that city in March, 1914.

Aeroplane will be utilized by the Spanish military authorities in their operations against the tribesmen in Morocco. An aeroplane squadron commanded by Alfredo Kindelan and including the Infante Alfonso and thirteen military aviators has left for Algiciras.

Lord Grey and the Earl of Kinton, with an influential committee, have taken over the proposed Anglo-American exhibition, which is to be held in London in 1914, and, having eliminated the commercial element, have made it a part of the centenary peace celebrations, which are to occur on both sides of the Atlantic in that year.

Col. Hughes, Minister of Militia, and his military party returned to Canada on Oct. 25th, much pleased with their outing, having received the greatest courtesies from high officers in the various countries they visited—England, France, Germany and Switzerland. He speaks highly of the cordial feeling of Germany toward England and Canada.

The United States Secretary of the Treasury has in the interest of simplicity ordered that hereafter the practice of using Roman characters in designating the date of erection of public buildings be dropped and the ordinary figures of every-day use be substituted. The Secretary felt that most persons preferred the more common form of lettering on public institutions.

The General Elections which took place in Italy on Sunday, Oct. 26th, passed off much more quietly than was expected, although one man was killed and many wounded in fights. The Government has been sustained, the premier and his Cabinet being re-elected almost unanimously. In some constituencies a fierce fight was waged between Socialists and Clericals, and in these a second ballot was taken on Sunday.

General Huerta, the provisional president of Mexico, has published a decree increasing by fifty percent all import duties. The increase in duties, in addition to the increase of ten percent ordered last July, make as importers figure a total advance of sixty-five percent under the present administration. With foreign exchange ranging from 2.70 to 2.80 pesos for the dollar, gold, business men are in despair.

The Mont D'Or tunnel between France and Switzerland on which boring operations began nearly three years ago was pierced a few days ago, the men engaged on both sides shaking hands as they met. The engineers it was found had calculated the cutting with the greatest nicety. The tunnel, which is 3 1/2 miles long, bores through the Jura Mountains from Frasnè to Vallorbe, obviating a detour of 11 miles by Pontarlier. It is hoped to open the new line early next year.

A hundred and ten convicts who have been serving terms ranging from two to forty years in the Eastern Penitentiary, Pennsylvania, and who were anxious to have a chance to begin life over again, were released on parole on Oct. 16th, members of the Prison Board having previously gone over the list and selected the men to be released. The release of the prisoners is due to the act of Assembly of June 19th of this year, signed by Gov. Tener, which provides for the paroling of all prisoners sentenced before July 1, 1911, when the first parole act of the State went into operation.

The Government of New Zealand decided on Oct. 28th to build a navy of its own on the same lines as that of the Commonwealth of Australia, and to discontinue its subsidy to the Imperial British Navy. The Premier, Mr. Massey, in announcing the reversal of the decision of the government to assume the greater responsibility was due to the inability of the British Admiralty to carry out its agreement of 1909 and station two cruisers of the Bristol type of 4,800 tons displacement in New Zealand waters, the Dominion bearing the cost of their upkeep.

Mr. Lloyd George, in reply to a deputation at Swindon, said he does not despair of a measure giving the parliamentary suffrage to women being carried in a short time, but not during the present parliament. He said that the militant tactics adopted by a section of the women had converted many persons' indifference for the cause of woman suffrage into something like bitter hostility. The militant section of the suffragettes had created a situation which was the worst he had ever seen for women suffrage in Parliament. He said he was glad to see that the spirit of militancy was withering. In conclusion, he told the women to undertake pilgrimages, for "that is how the women have won votes in other countries."

DRUG REQUIRES MUCH WORK

Persians Are Expert in Getting Ready the Juice of the Poppy for Marketing.

Opium juice is sold in large copper vessels by the grower to the merchant, in whose hands it undergoes several processes in order to preserve it from fermentation and decay. On sunny, fine, hot days the Persian caravanciers where opium dealers have their magazines present an interesting picture. The juice is brought out to be prepared into cakes for export, says the Christian Herald.

On large wooden boards, two and a half feet long and one and a half feet broad, the sticky mass is spread out with spatelike tools to permit the water it contains to evaporate. Experienced workers move from board to board, turning over the layers every now and then, that the heat and sun may dry up the exposed surfaces and render the opium fit for making into cakes. In favorable weather this process takes only an hour or so, and the opium is ready for the next manipulation.

It is now scraped off and is rolled into stiff, dough like lumps and handed to a man who divides it into smaller portions weighing one pound each, which he passes on to molders, by whom they are pressed into the wooden forms and then laid on a large board for the final drying process. When this is completed the cakes are rolled up in red paper imported specially from China. One hundred and forty-four are put in tin lined wooden cases with poppy stem chaff as packing. The wooden cases are covered with strong hides and sacking. Two cases form a mule load. The percentage of morphia in Persian opium varies from nine to twelve per cent.

FIRST MILITANTS ON RECORD

Amazons Undoubtedly Were the Original Fighters of Their Sex in Warlike Bands.

The Amazons were fabled tribes or warlike communities of women in Scythia, Asia and Africa. They were said to be descendants of Scythians of Cappadocia, where their husbands, having made incursions, were all slain in ambushes. The women formed a feminine state, declaring matrimony a shameful servitude. They were said to have been conquered by Theseus, about 1231 B. C. According to Homer, they were allies of the Trojans in the siege of Troy, where their queen, Penthesilla, was slain by Achilles. Theseus and Hippolyta, queen of the Amazons, are characters in Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream." The Amazons were constantly at war; and for ease in handling their weapons, their right breasts were destroyed, from which they derived their name. They were supposed to have worshipped the moon. About 330 B. C. their queen, Thalestris, visited Alexander the Great, in Asia, with 300 women in her train.

When Rome Tried Socialism.

The old agrarian law in Rome decreed an equal division among the Roman people of all lands acquired by conquest, limiting the possessions of each person. It was first proposed by the consul Spurius Cassius, 486 B. C., and occasioned his judicial murder when he went out of office in 485. An agrarian law was passed by the tribune Licinius Stolo, 376; and for demanding extensions Tibertus Gracchus, in 133, and his brother Caius, in 121, were murdered. Livius Drusus, a tribune, was murdered for a like cause in 91. Julius Caesar propitiated the plebeians by an agrarian law in 59.

Being Awake.

Moral reform and improvement are the effort to throw off sleep. Why is it that men give so poor an account of their day if they have not been slumbering? If they had not been overcome with drowsiness they would have performed something. The millions are awake enough for physical labor; but only one in a million is awake enough for effective intellectual exertion, only one in a hundred million to a poetic or divine life. To be awake is to be alive. I have never yet met a man who was quite awake. How could I have looked him in the face?—Thoreau.

Make Exemplary Patients.

A piece of bone jammed between the molars of a Bengal tiger made the great cat furious, but when the zoological physicians touched the tormenting object with the forceps she began to "relax completely, and the bone was removed with ridiculous ease." The Bulletin of the Zoological society records the case of several other animals that proved to be far more satisfactory patients than human beings. All the great apes, for example, are perfect patients. But the gentle deer, which are high-strung, nervous creatures, are the most difficult of all to handle when ill.

He and She.

"With a woman, it isn't what a man looks. It's what he says—and does." "A woman doesn't care what a man looks like. They'd rather a man wouldn't be handsome, so he'll think about them instead of about himself. The way to please a woman is to help her to think of nothing but herself." "A serious young woman is never in any circumstances so interesting to a man as a light and gay pretty woman, whatever men may pretend. It is in-born in the male to regard the female as the representative of the lighter side of life."—"George Helm," by DeWid Graham Phillips.

FOR AFTERNOON WEAR

PRETTY GOWNS OF LIGHT WOOLS ARE THE FAVORITE.

Many Materials From Which to Make Choice and Garment is Serviceable in a Great Number of Directions.

Dresses of inexpensive lightweight cloth like cashmere, Henrietta, woolen voile, or marquisette and plain or figured challis are useful and pretty for afternoons at home. There is no end to the wear one can derive from them, for they will be found serviceable as a theater dress to be worn under a long coat through the winter and even into the following spring as street dresses. Today's cut offers an attractive suggestion for making up a figured challis or marquisette. Bordered material is used for the tunic and old blue charmeuse or plain challis for the blouse and remainder of the skirt.

There is first a half-length skirt foundation of messaline or china silk to which the plain blue lower skirt is attached. The tunic skirt is pouched up all around over a hip sash of blue charmeuse that describes a diagonal line from one side to the other and ties at the center back in a draped bow. The portion of the tunic that hangs below this sash is cut in front in a deep V. Two pointed bibs of the bordered material rise above the belt in front and in back with the points tucked up on the blouse.

The blouse has long sleeves open at the ends and trimmed with white chiffon ruffling. A collar and small jacket of the same fill in the V-neck that is formed by the crossing of the blouse fronts. Blue charmeuse is used for the girde, which ties directly in front.

Of course bordered or figured materials need not be used in the design. It should be very pleasing if developed in a plain color and might be made entirely of charmeuse. Taupe color would look well with a girde and hip sash of cerise chiffon.

Chiffon sashes and draperies are to be more used than silk, but they are cut wide that they may be crushed in and so not look too scant and transparent.

POCKETS TO BE RESTORED?

Models for Coming Season Seem to Promise a Return to Sensible Fashion.

Already a few autumn and winter models are on view, but the fashions are tentative only, and one is loath to believe that the forecasts of an authority who says that the skirts are to be tighter than ever this winter will be realized. The re-entry of the pocket, even though it be placed on the hips as on the new costumes of velours and cloth, is a mercy to be thankful for. Plaids and checks will be much worn, and especially as a trimming on the serge, ratine and velour tailor mades, some of the checks being as large as three-quarters of an inch square.

An early model carried out in dove colored ratine has a very distinctive waistcoat of orange and gray check velvet broche, the sleeves being, as the majority will be, of the kimono type. A blue and white check cloth skirt has a plain long coat of blue velours and rose colored vest, while with a black push coat and skirt undyed skunk furs are to be worn.

Hair Ornaments.

Hair ornaments are still worn sticking straight out away from the head. Big and bright-colored feathers are often worn in fantastic fashion, and loops of gold and silver lace are worn in the same way.

APPLE GROVE.

Mr. Berger has a gang of men cutting Christmas trees in the neighborhood. He expects to load about 15 cars of them at Smith's Mills and Beebe. We hope our small trees will make a great many happy next Christmas in the Pennsylvania cities where they are going.

Talk about horseless wagons; it takes the allow'een spirits to make them go, as we learned the other night, and our mail boxes too cannot seem to come, in any other way though we've looked in vain a long time for them, we only fear our box will not be allowed to stay as it is not the pattern of the Canadian Gov, were though we wish it had been.

Mrs. C. White visited her mother recently.

There have been no less than three machines threshing grain in the neighborhood at one time last week, all doing work and making glad the farmers. Every one seems to have a good yield of grain as well as potatoes, this year, and we should be thankful for our harvest.

Miss Bryant, M. A., of Knowlton, Miss E. A. Bryant of Boynton and Mrs. H. Tiehurst of this place took in the teacher convention at Sherbrooke and afterwards spent Thanksgiving with their parents here.

Mrs. Arthur Gothorp, who was quite ill for two weeks with congestion of the liver and one lung, is now able to be about the house again.

GRIFFIN.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Davis of Stantstead were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Drew, Monday, October 27th.

A VOICE FROM THE FARMERS.

Dear Editor,—Having taken much interest in the discussion about a hotel at Beebe which has been going on in the columns of your paper, I would like to say a few words expressing the farmer's view of the case, living as I do on a farm not far from Beebe. In last week's paper I was glad to see Progressive hit the Beebe councilors as he did. I should think the councilors wishing to grant a license, would be so ashamed to have one of their number, who is also one of the strongest financial and business men of the village, I mean Mr. Norton, resign as a councilor, rather than be classed with them as one of the council that in 1913 should grant the first license ever granted in Beebe. I say I should think the other councilors would be too ashamed of this, to grant a license now, and too, after being so discussed in the JOURNAL they will at least see what others think of them. We think they and the people in the village who want liquor sold are more to blame for the damage and evil done than the man who sells it, for he will say, he is only carrying out their wishes, and they said for so much license money, go on and sell and do all the evil you may, we don't care, we want a hotel, and we can't run a temperance one, so we have laid aside our morals in order to accommodate the traveling public, who we care more about than we do about our reputation in the future or what becomes of our own sons. Money does seem to be the root of all evil, or the love of money, when you talk about the whiskey business. But is the council of Beebe so short of funds or so in debt, that they must resort to a little license money to help run their affairs? We in the country always thought that Beebe was a rather wealthy residential place, that has lately progressed somewhat in the manufacturing line; surely their taxes should meet the needs of the councilors, without a little license money; by far better raise the taxes, if there is a deficiency. But as a quiet residential place, look at the farmers, who as they advance in years have sold their farms and moved into the village thinking to spend their last years in a quiet place. We ask would they have done this had there then been a licensed hotel in Beebe? Ask such men as Mr. Aikin, Mr. Peebles, or others, I think they will tell you no. And how changed will be the idea of Beebe in one year with a licensed hotel. Can you form the idea of it then in the minds of the farmers and others outside? It would be something like this I think, a low, dirty, drunken lounging-place.

Mr. Dalziel says Beebe has now all the rum necessary, well if they have, why do they wish for more? They will surely have a good deal more than necessary with a hotel there, and with a hotel so near the station, too, as Mr. Elder's house would be, we would expect to see Mr. Dalziel get all he wants of it and more, too, and we would expect to hear of his resigning his position as station-agent within a year. And as soon as a license is granted the next thing to do would be to purchase the near-by blacksmith shop, for a lock-up, 'twould be so conveniently near-by, just like the one at Rock Island, too, and if they are like Rock Island too, it will be needed quite often for the most of their arrests are now made about their station. And I think a night police, too, would be needed and kept on guard between, lock-up, hotel and station, not only to make arrests but also to escort ladies and children by the hotel in safety, from being accosted or insulted on the station grounds when necessity demands that they must come or go on an evening or night train. And, too, a license to regulate the rum as, Mr. Dalziel says, needs the assistance of a policeman and a lock-up, and I doubt then if it will be regulated. If the people of Beebe wish to make their village attractive to travelers, why don't they make a small park and fill it with prettily arranged flower beds, surrounded by a nice iron fence with nice walks, now used as a base ball court, and if they wish to be progressive, why don't the strongest financial citizens club together and buy Mr. Elder's house and turn it into a village library and reading room? They might also rent one room for an up-to-date ice cream parlor and fruit store in the summer, where travelers might stop in and rest, and look over their library or sit in a pleasant reading-room to wait for their trains. Where also the young people of the village could go and read and spend their evenings, and the working men their Saturday afternoons. This, we think, would be progressive, rather than to place there a constant temptation to all the rich, the poor, the worker and the idler and to the foreigner, and there are many foreigners living in Beebe. Shall they come over to this Christian country to find work and save for their families and then have Beebe place before them the way to poverty, disgrace and ruin?

I hope Mr. Geo. House has not the mistaken idea that it is the bar in Sherbrooke, Magog, Coaticook and Rock Island that has made them progressive. Take the bars out of these places and then you will see them all progress, Mr. House asks, "Is it because the wicked shall flourish?" So he thinks it is a wicked business, yet he wants it carried on in Beebe as they can't have a hotel without it. And I should say it was a wicked business, but are all those in Beebe wishing a license, also wishing to be called wicked men or just men willing to have a wicked business carried on and then be called flourishing and progressive men? For the leading or flourishing men are the same as they make their village to become. Put one man in Beebe to sell liquor, give him a license, tell him to go ahead, and he will, and he will also do more harm than the three ministers can do good, and yet the village wants a licensed hotel, wants evil and wickedness among them, and they own up to it, and they will get it and a plenty of it too, if they get the hotel going. So did Sodom and Gomorrah want evil and wicked works in their midst and they took the consequences of it as well, though they were flourishing towns of their day; they got also a black name in history to this day—Atas for Beebe, though they may never get as bad, the principle is there just the same, so they will have to take the consequences that will follow their doings, and get a name accordingly and never to be forgotten as well. Better tell a few go on to Rock Island and tell the travelers that a temperance hotel cannot be run and they have too much honor to run a licensed one and break the record of the past 50 years, so they have none. Why, I think the travelers would most of them turn back and say, Then show me to some quiet family who would take me in for the night. I'd like to stay in such a model place for at least one night's rest.

Mr. House says, "If the people or the council of our village thought that the granting of a license would injure the business of the village, does any sane person think for one moment that we would consider a license?" No, I should say no sane person would, but that is just what it would do, or why does Mr. McIntosh, together with the proprietors of four of five smaller industries, oppose it so strongly as they do? They are the ones that ought to know, we all know they are sane men, and they do know the detriment to business a licensed hotel would mean, if a working-man is on a booze or just recovering from a booze of the week-end or the night before, can he be expected to be in his place at work or capable of doing his work as it should be done if there? What nonsense, of course it is not to be expected that the working class will not drink when the temptation is placed so near and handy by. Or if farmers come to town to trade and spend their money in drink first will they be expected to then go to the store and pay for what they buy? No, I am sure the merchants of Beebe would have a great many more bad or questionable store debts, not caused by the farmers entirely, either, than they have now, if not a decrease in trade. But is the injury to the business of a village all the village cares about? Do they not care for a good name, a good example to other small villages, and do they not care to keep their village quiet and orderly and their young people temperate? Is not injury to them of as much account as the injury to business? A licensed hotel cannot be carried on without injury and that to a great many, therefore as I said before, we in the country are strongly opposed to Beebe having such a hotel and we hope the agitation now going on will awaken the people and their councilors to their sense of duty and justice in the matter and we hope and pray they will give up the idea of a licensed hotel forever.

HIGH WINES AND POVERTY.

A Shameful Record—Does Beebe Want to Follow?

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 2. To The Editor of the Stanstead Journal.

Dear Sir,—I have been reading with much interest the discussion of granting a booze-shop at Beebe. It seems that Mr. George House is very anxious that Beebe should stand on a level with her sister, village, Rock Island, in dispensing booze to the young men of Beebe and the surrounding country.

Look back over a period of sixty years or more at the men who have brought down their dry goods to Stanstead and exchanged the product for wet goods.

Did Mr. House ever see a saloon-keeper's children staying in the house all winter for want of shoes? I never did.

In your last campaign of Stanstead County it was argued that Canada was paying out $2,000,000 for schools. The speaker nearly wept with grief over such an extravagance, and thought the country was going to smash.

Mr. House speaks of the immensity of the manufacturing of Rock Island under license. About all that I can see being done there is an overall factory making overalls for the poor man, as that is about all he can afford to wear under license, and a suspender factory making suspenders to hold up his pants.

Now, Mr. House, who has supported and paid the bills to run those rum shops in Stanstead for eighty years, who has suffered poverty and misery on account of those rum holes? Is it not the women and children who have paid the bills, and they have paid almighty dear.

can you run a gin mill in Beebe with the old stock that you have on hand now. Where are the new recruits coming from? You must have them or the wheels of the gin mill will stop.

Do you want to supply your part of the boys? If so, work for license for Beebe, get your neighbors to help you, get the business established, bring in the boys, put out the flag, boom the place, try and catch up with Rock Island, destroy as many homes as possible, for if the business is worth doing at all it is worth doing well.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valued space, I am

Sincerely yours, C. F. SMITH. 24 Elm St., Worcester, Mass.

CASSVILLE.

RICHARDSON-SLACK.

A quiet wedding was held at noon Wednesday, Oct. 29th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Slack, Ayer's Cliff, Que., when their youngest daughter, Miss Elizabeth Slack, was united in marriage with Mr. B. B. Richardson, B. S. A., of Abbotsford, Que. Only the immediate relatives of the bride were present.

The bride was dressed in a traveling costume of brown whipcord, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

The bridesmaid was Miss M. MacKay of Montreal, who was also attired in a brown traveling suit and carried roses. The groom was attended by Mr. O. W. Slack, brother of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Churchill Moore of Ayer's Cliff.

After congratulations, and a hearty and appetizing luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Richardson left by the C. P. R. via Magog for Montreal and other places. Upon their return from their wedding trip they will reside at Abbotsford, Quebec.

Among the beautiful wedding gifts may be mentioned cheques from bride's father and brother and a cabinet of silver from Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Dean, brother-in-law and sister of the bride.

The Mexican elections for President and Vice-President took place on Sunday, Oct. 26th, the candidates being for the National Democratic party, Felix Diaz and Jose Luis Requena; for the Clerical party, Federico Gamboa and Eugenio Rascon; for the Liberal party, Manuel Calero and Jesus Florez Magon; and for the Liberal Republican party, David De La Fuente and Andrea Molina Enrique.

Milton J. Bachelder, an old and highly esteemed resident of Hatley, died Sunday morning, November 2nd. Mr. Bachelder had not been in robust health for some time. He became quite feeble a year ago, and it was then thought by some that he would not survive the winter, but he did, and with the coming of warmer weather was able to be about some.

We need not deny that there have been many farms deserted in New England, as every person who rides through any of the states can see for himself that it is true.

"Truth wears such a homely garb that some folks refuse to be seen in its company."

Profitable Farming in New England.

By George French.

There has always been a great deal of fun made of New England on account of its "abandoned farms." The truth is that there have never been abandoned farms in New England in the sense charged by our critics. There are farms in all sections of the country that have been abandoned, just as there are grocery and drug stores that have been abandoned.

Not only is the abandoned farm a myth, in the sense it is used by the critics of the region, but in other and more positively consequential ways the men who are operating the land of New England are rapidly discrediting the reputation given them by people who are, for some unknown reason, jealous of the section.

grants. These little farms are worked by men who are factory hands, and spend their entire eight-hour-day at the looms, the lathe, the foundries, or some other manufacturing proposition. They work their small farms during the early mornings and after their late suppers. These small farms are all prosperous. They are a great element in the economic lives of the new citizens, far more than offsetting all the "abandoned" farms that can be found by the most enthusiastic advocate of the agricultural decadence of the region.

The men who are now demonstrating the extraordinary value of farming lands in New England are practical agriculturists, and usually good business men also. Some of the most valuable demonstrations that have been made during the past dozen years have been made by men who were neither farmers nor agriculturists—just shrewd business men.

Another large element of success for the men who are working New England land, is the agricultural colleges and the state experiment stations, with efficient and highly specialized assistance that the railroad and other big corporations are giving. This phase is worthy of a separate article, though it must go over to another opportunity.

The conditions of market and transportation are favorable for agricultural enterprise in New England, and are getting more favorable each year. I have in mind one enterprise, that has become important and has yielded several good sized fortunes, that owes its very existence to the formulation of a transportation scheme out of conditions that seemed at first wholly impossible, and had been always tacitly reckoned as impossible.

It is now strictly the man who tries to work the land of New England whether or not success follows. The other conditions are all favorable. The price of New England land is ridiculously low, but is slowly mounting. In time a farm in New England, which is immensely more valuable, will cost as much as a farm in the Middle West. Now it does not cost half as much, and in many cases not a quarter as much.

Maritime Telegraph & Telephone Company, Limited

We wish you to compare, if you will, the annual report of the above named Company for the year ending December 31st, 1911, with that of the year ending December 31st, 1912, as given below, and as submitted by the Treasurer, T. N. Goudge.

We think that a careful comparison of the same will convince you, that you should own as an investment, for yourself or your children, at least a small block of the 6% Preferred Stock or 6% First Mortgage Bonds.

The increase in the earnings of the Company for the first six months of this year over the same period last year were sufficient to enable the Directors of the Company to raise the dividend on its Common Stock from a 4% to a 6% basis. The Company has paid a dividend on its common stock for the quarter ending September 30th, 1913, at the rate of 6% per annum.

We have a small block of the 6% First Mortgage Bonds; due July 1st, 1941, in denominations of $100 and $500 at a price to yield about 5.50%.

We also have a small lot of the 6% Prfd. Stock @ $104 to yield about 5.88%. We would advise the early placing of your orders for this stock as the floating supply is getting nearly exhausted.
