

PEACE FEELERS SCORNED

British Plan Lengthy War If Poles Fall

Government Intensifies Naval and Economic Blockade in Struggle Which Cabinet Believes Will Last Three Years—Public Rejects in Advance Reported Plan of Germany to Offer Peace If and When Poland Is Conquered.

London, Sept. 11.—Great Britain intensified naval and economic warfare against Germany today, having lost twelve merchantmen in the first eight days of what the Cabinet regards as a war that will last at least three years.

Public opinion also seemed inclined toward preparations for a long war and scorned what were presumed to be German intentions of offering peace if and when Poland is conquered.

The press almost unanimously backed up the Cabinet's decision to base its policy on the premise of a long war, regarding the announcement as Britain's answer to a "peace feeler" in Field Marshal Hermann Goering's speech Saturday.

Furthermore, dispatches indicated the final blows against Poland were not imminent. War correspondents, whose reports are just beginning to reach England, stressed that Poland's army still is intact, and that withdrawal always has been part of the Polish plans.

The twelfth British ship sent to the bottom was the 8,640-ton Magdapor. The Ministry of Information announced her sinking last night with an undisclosed number of casualties, but did not announce how or where she was sunk.

The 2,766-ton Goodwood was reported by the British Press Association yesterday to have been sunk in the North Sea, and the Information Ministry added the name of the 4,086-ton Rio Claro, sunk Wednesday, to the official list.

A fishing vessel was said to have rescued the crew of the Goodwood, many of whom were reported hurt. The crew of the Rio Claro was said to have been landed in the Azores by a Netherlands vessel.

The Government's answer was two-fold. It swung into an "unrelenting" campaign of "attacks and counter-measures" and, secondly, extended machinery for its "contraband control" through stations in Gibraltar and Alexandria, at both ends of the Mediterranean, and at Ceylon in the Indian Ocean.

No details were given in a communiqué which said "it appears that German submarines are now operating far afield." But the Ministry of Information said the Admiralty had received "numerous reports" of operations against German submarines and "probably some have been successful."

The Admiralty reported the navy is "particularly busy in waters about the British Isles and the Atlantic." It mentioned "possible success" against one submarine minelayer, but no definite results were given for flotillas of destroyers the ministry said are active.

"While we have incurred the loss of various merchant ships through submarine operations," the Admiralty declared, "many more enemy merchantmen have been captured or sunk or driven to take refuge in neutral harbors in many parts of the world."

It added a convoy system soon would be operating "with the result that U-boat sinkings will tend to decrease."

Soviets Believe Further Effective Polish Resistance Very Improbable

Moscow, Sept. 11.—(P)—Further effective resistance by Poland against German forces is regarded by the Soviet press as improbable. This view was expressed by both Izvestia, the Government organ, and Pravda, Communist party publication.

Pravda contended Poland had lost near her entire military economic base. The paper listed as contributing factors Poland's failure to create a sufficient number of fortified areas on its western frontiers; Germany's air superiority and technical equipment of her land forces, especially in quality of tanks and heavy artillery.

An assertion by Pravda that Great Britain and France had failed to give effective aid to Poland followed upon yesterday's Soviet press charge that Britain had violated friendly relations with the Soviet. A statement by Tass, official Soviet news agency, asserted several British firms had cancelled production of lathes and presses ordered by Russia.

"The actions of English firms and British Government organs are blowing up trade between the U.S.S.R. and England," Tass said. Although Russia maintained an outward calm, there were indications the Soviet was getting ready for any emergency. Thousands of reserve troops were moved to the western frontier in connection with what Tass called the "more and more wide and threatening character" of the German-Polish war.

It was understood the Government was requisitioning certain supplies in large quantities, especially sugar. Garrisons on the west were strengthened as the possibility appeared that Germany—with her armies driving eastward in Poland—might establish a common frontier with the Soviet Union.

WAR NEWS BRIEFS

San Francisco, Sept. 11.—(P)—"Attention, waiters—absolutely no war discussion with our patrons" reads a sign in a restaurant on San Francisco's famed fisherman's wharf. "We don't want any war in here—Just shrimps, crabs, fish and people who like to eat 'em" explains Mimmo Ceraghi, head waiter.

Raleigh, N.C., Sept. 11.—(P)—The tobacco belts of the Carolinas began clearing warehouse floors today in preparation for a selling holiday brought on by the European war and subsequent withdrawals of buyers by the Imperial Tobacco Company of Great Britain.

London, Sept. 11.—(P)—A thirty-year-old clerk who created confusion by hurling a suitcase of slogan-inscribed rubber balls into a Downing Street crowd was sentenced today to four weeks at hard labor.

Police said "ardent pacifism" prompted Alfred Hisslam to toss the black rubber balls which the crowd took to be bombs.

The balls carried chalked slogans reading "Peace now" and "Britain must not go to war."

Scores of persons, including many women and children, were knocked to the pavement in the stampede which followed the ball throwing on August 28.

Copenhagen, Sept. 11.—(P)—A military balloon, drifting from the southeast, struck electric wires over the island of Laaland today and was destroyed. Laaland, one of the southernmost islands of Denmark, is seventy-five miles north of Germany's Baltic seacoast.

FORTY KILLED IN MOVIE FIRE
Athens, Sept. 11.—(P)—A fire in a movie theatre killed forty persons, including twenty children, today on the island of Lemnos in the Aegean sea near the Dardanelles. Eighty other persons were injured.

French Continuing Cautious Advance In West To Divert German Drive Toward Warsaw

(By the Canadian Press)

The French army advanced cautiously on the Western Front today while a battle was waged in the East for Warsaw.

The Polish capital, in its fourth day of siege, remained in Polish hands despite the battering German attack. The Polish radio station said some German units had been forced to retreat.

For the first time the German high command admitted "a great battle" was in progress.

Britain, preparing for a long war, was heartened by Canada's declaration of war. Prime Minister Chamberlain sent a message to Prime Minister Mackenzie King declaring Ottawa's action was a "profound encouragement."

In Australia, Prime Minister Robert Menzies commended the Canadian declaration. Budapest dispatches said planes, tanks and artillery were being massed for a drive on Lwow, in southeast Poland, to cut communications to Rumania.

The French reported the Western Front was generally quiet but that they had scored one "local advance." This was on the eastern end of a sector between the Saar river and the Vosges mountains. French troops were said to be holding off German counter-attacks.

The Polish general staff in a communiqué said the Germans were continuing bomb attacks around Warsaw, where 40 air raids were reported yesterday.

Britain intensified her naval and economic warfare against Germany with an "unrelenting" campaign of "attacks and counter-attacks" against U-boats and establishment of three depots to put into effect the "contraband control" system by which she hopes to cut off supplies to Germany.

Paris underwent its fourth air raid last night, but no raiders appeared. Premier Daladier, preparing a war cabinet, conferred with Marshal Henri Petain. There were reports Petain might become War Minister.

THREE NATIONS HOLDING HUGE CASH RESERVES

New York, Sept. 11.—(P)—The Wall Street Journal said today that Great Britain, France and Canada are believed to have a combined total of about $7,000,000,000 in assets which could be turned into dollar balances for purchase of American goods.

It points out the estimated gold holdings of Britain and France, including reported amounts in Central banks, were estimated recently by the Department of Commerce at more than $2,000,000,000. Remaining $500,000,000 is accounted for by estimates of the amount of gold held under "earmark" here for British, French and Canadian account.

In addition, French and British holdings of American securities, plus bank balances, were estimated recently by the Department of Commerce at more than $2,000,000,000. Remaining $500,000,000 is accounted for by estimates of the amount of gold held under "earmark" here for British, French and Canadian account.

Political, Not Military Reasons, Responsible For Air Inaction

By DEVON FRANCIS.
(Associated Press Aviation Editor)

What appears to be a logical answer to the strangely passive "War in the Air" in Western Europe has cropped out in the eight days since France and Great Britain entered the conflict.

On both German and British sides, the reason probably is as much political as it is military. As for the French, the considerations likely are entirely military.

War in the air certainly is going on in Western Europe. Reconnaissance, attack and pursuit planes are aloft and fighting day and night.

But almost without exception, explosive-laden bombers on long-range missions are conspicuous by their absence.

For years, the world has waited for the "next war" to begin with mass bombing raids against "military objectives" in and around great cities—as indeed, the present war did, in Poland. Polish cities are deeply gouged and scarred by warplane bombs.

But it was not Warsaw that men thought of when they pictured the horrors of aerial warfare in a new European conflict. It was London, Berlin and Paris.

WARTIME CANADA

Victoria, Sept. 11.—(P)—To relieve a temporary sugar shortage in British Columbia stores, sugar refineries in the Province have been ordered to distribute 25 per cent more sugar this month than the usual September demand.

Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Agriculture Minister, said he had been advised the increased distribution was ordered by the Wartime and Trade Board as a means of correcting shortage.

Toronto, Sept. 11.—(P)—George O. Everett, United States banking authority, said in an interview last night there is a strong possibility that large United States concerns might send their equipment into Canada and establish plants for the production of war supplies.

Such action might be taken in the near future, he said, unless the United States Neutrality Act were revised and American firms especially munition and airplane factories, were permitted to sell their products to belligerent nations.

St. Benoit, Que., Sept. 11.—(P)—Three children were under observation today for serious colds, believed to be victims of "war jitters" that sent ten families of this village 25 miles west of Montreal into a driving rain storm when they mistook the sound of a backfiring engine for an air raid attack.

Villagers told today of the night scare that came Thursday night during a storm. The rain caused engines being used in road construction work to backfire and the word spread rapidly through the village that there had been an air attack on Ottawa and that bombs were dropping here.

Members of ten families ran into the fields and remained there until informed of the cause of the noise. Doctors said three children were in serious condition, possibly suffering from pneumonia.

Gibraltar, Sept. 11.—(P)—This is a survivor's account of the sinking of the 7,242-ton British freighter Manar off Portugal last Thursday: "We heard a gunshot about 5:30 a.m. and rushed on deck. The wireless aerial had been destroyed, and there were two German submarines on the surface about 500 or 600 yards away on our starboard side.

"Captain Campbell Shaw ordered our gun crew into action, and the aft gun was fired. But the submarines submerged, and the captain ordered us to abandon ship.

"We lowered four boats, and as we rowed away from the Manar one of the submarines loosed a torpedo which hit the vessel amidships.

"Later, another shot was fired from the submarines, and the Manar sank in front of us in less than five minutes."

Declaration By Canadian Parliament Ends Dispute On Position Of Dominion

Formal Declaration of War with Germany Follows Closely Upon Adoption of Throne Speech Reply by Canadian Parliament—Commons Meets Today to Pass Special War Budget to Provide Government with Funds to Finance War.

(By C. R. Blackburn, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—(P)—Canada, exercising her rights and responsibilities as an independent nation, has cast her lot with the British and French against German aggression and has become a self-declared belligerent for the first time in the Dominion's history.

All doubt and speculation on Canada's status in the war ended yesterday when, little more than thirteen hours after Parliament had given almost unanimous approval, a special edition of the Canada Gazette proclaimed a state of war between Canada and the German Reich.

Parliament will go on today with the serious business of providing the sinews of war. The Government is expected to ask for a lump sum to be appropriated for war preparations and to disclose the taxation and other measures by which it hopes to increase revenue. This probably will be in a war-time budget expected to be brought down possibly this afternoon or tonight.

In a rapid sequence of events beginning at 3 p.m., E.D.T., Saturday and ending at 1:10 p.m. yesterday, both the Senate and House of Commons, approved the Government's decision and a proclamation was issued declaring a state of war existed as from September 10 between Canada and Germany.

It was the first time Canada had declared war herself. In 1914 the British proclamation was published in the Canada Gazette, formally making the Dominion a belligerent.

Three Liberal members from Quebec bitterly reproached the Government Saturday, during the debate on the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne, for its failure to keep Canada out of war. J. S. Woods, veteran C.C.F. leader from Winnipeg North Centre, broke with his party to register his opposition to war.

And when the question was put on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, which contained the Government's policy, there were not enough dissenters to make up the necessary quota to demand a recorded vote.

Immediately after the House met Saturday afternoon, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced that adoption of the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne would be accepted by the Government as approval of its determination immediately to proclaim a state of war with Germany.

In the debate which followed eleven spokesmen representing all parties registered their approval of complete participation in the war. But three Liberals, Maxime Raymond (Beauharnois-Laprairie), Liogori Lacombe (Laval-Two Mountains), and Wilfrid Lacroix (Quebec-Montmorency), turned against their party and demanded that Canada restrict all activities to home defence without commitments to Britain.

Mr. Lacombe moved an amendment to the Address regretting that the Government had not advised the Governor-General that Canada could not participate in the war. This Continued on Page 2, Col. 6.

More Bodies Taken From Thetis
London, Sept. 11.—(P)—Eighteen bodies have been taken from the sunken submarine Thetis, in shallow Moelfre Bay off the north coast of Wales, and divers hoped for good weather today to recover the remaining eighty-one.

Sixteen were brought ashore yesterday. When the Thetis sank in a test drive on June 1 only four of her 103 occupants escaped.

Workmen restoring storm damage done in Ontario
Toronto, Sept. 11.—(P)—Workmen repaired power and telephone lines today and cleared away debris—mostly branches of trees—following a storm that swept through the Province and brought the first real taste of autumn.

The storm, made up of a severe wind, rain, hail and electrical disturbances, was felt yesterday throughout London district, the Niagara fruit belt and in the Peterborough and Kingston sections of Eastern Ontario.

German sources said there seemed to be little doubt that remaining Polish forces west of the Vistula River were being mopped up by the German army.

In the south, they said, Polish troops appeared to be fighting gallantly against overwhelming odds. Nothing was said in the communiqué about Lodz, Polish textile center about seventy miles southwest of Warsaw, although a brief special report yesterday announced it had been captured. No explanation was offered for this admission.

After a lull in Baltic Sea operations, the communiqué reported German land and sea forces had been co-operating since yesterday in what appeared to be an attempt to capture Gdynia, Poland's only outlet to the sea.

Although the German high command professed to foresee early collapse of Polish resistance, popular hopes that Germany yet might negotiate with France apparently were doomed by the admission of fighting in the west.

A succession of new dispatches from the eastern front told of swift, methodical successes by German divisions smashing into Poland.

The air force was reported carrying on operations beyond Warsaw, attacking bridges and communication lines.

Canada's decision to enter the war beside Great Britain occasioned no surprise in Berlin. The Nazi News Agency, DNB, reported Canada's decision in a brief dispatch to the German press—"Canada on September 10 formally declared war on Germany."

A communiqué from the western front for the first time reported "skirmishes" between French and German outposts of the Maginot and Siegfried lines. The German report said a French vanguard sustained heavy losses in an unimportant sector, but no mention was made of how the Nazis fared.

While popular attention was riveted on the western front, German objectives in Poland, when and if

French Forces Continuing With Scattered Advances On Reich

New Zone of French Attack Involves Drive into Palatinate Area Between Saar River and Vosges Mountains—Movement Broadening Out to Include Whole Woods, Heights and Villages Instead of Scattered Pillboxes.

Paris, Sept. 11.—The heavily-entrenched French and German armies struck at opposite ends of a 100-mile sector between the Rhine and Moselle rivers today on the Western Front.

The morning communiqué from the French general staff announced the front was generally quiet during the night, but that French troops had succeeded in making a "local advance" under cover of darkness.

Their new zone of attack was on the eastern end of a line from the plateau of Bitch down into Germany's Palatinate area, between the little Saar river and the Vosges mountains.

Earlier German counter-attacks which the French were reported to have turned back with bayonets, were directed against the western end of the line from the Saar basin, where French troops staged their first advance.

Action generally appeared to be gaining in intensity. Identity of the forces involved remained a military secret, but it was understood the French division mentioned in a communiqué on Saturday for a "brilliant attack" was a famous Great War infantry unit.

It was believed that by now the British Expeditionary Force also had had time to take battle positions.

Operations, which were confined largely to contact by advance guards on both sides during the first week of the war, were reported to be involving reinforced bodies of troops as the second week of the campaign was launched.

Movements also were broadening out, with whole woods, heights and villages at stake, where earlier operations were aimed against front line trenches and pill boxes.

Aerial scouts who had been following German movements also brought back reports that German troop movements in the Saar area were "bothered" by French raids on communication lines.

Reports from the Eastern Front said the Polish forces were forming their lines along the middle north of the Vistula River. There, French advances said, "the situation seems less grave."

Premier Daladier proceeded with the formation of a war cabinet but the make-up has not yet been announced.

The report of a new advance added to the elation already brought in by the announcement that Canada had joined Great Britain and France in the war with the Reich.

Parliamentary newspapers greeted news of the Dominion's entry into the war by recalling the part played by Canada's troops at Vimy Ridge in the first Great War and by pointing to the country's mineral and grain resources as a source of supply for the Allied nations.

"Canadians covered themselves with glory on the battlefields of the last war," said the Petit Parisien. "The enormous majority of the country deemed it morally impossible to remain aloof from the present conflict."

"It suffices to evoke the memory of Vimy to recall the depth of Canada's valiancy," Le Journal said. "If necessary the descendants of the British and French pioneers who created a new world will shed their blood to save the old."

Parisians got another taste of war atmosphere when an air raid alarm at 4:10 a.m. (11:10 p.m. E.D.T., Sunday) — the first since the introduction of the new policy of sounding a warning only in "imminent danger of attack" — sent them to the underground refuges for an uneventful 67 minutes.

In the "No Man's Land" between the French Maginot and the German Siegfried lines, German forces were reported staging a strong counter-attack. The brunt of the offensive was at the triangle formed by the junction of the Moselle and Record of Canadian Troops in Last Struggle Recalled by Paris Newspapers in Praising Entry into Conflict.

Paris, Sept. 12.—½ —Canada's entry into the war was welcomed today by Paris newspapers.

"Canada acts out of loyalty to the Sovereign and the Mother Country," said the Petit Parisien, "but also because the liberties of Canadians and democratic institutions are at stake."

"Canadians covered themselves with glory on the battlefields of the last war."

"The enormous majority of the country deemed it morally impossible to remain aloof from the present conflict. The entire British Empire now stands arrayed against Hitler's aggression."

Le Journal said: "It suffices to evoke the memory of Vimy to recall the depth of Canada's valiancy. If necessary the descendants of the British and French pioneers who created a new world will shed their blood to save the old."

"Right now Canada bears still more important support to the common cause. Canada is one of the great wheat producers. She has a flourishing industry which will enable her to multiply airplanes and is a great producer of gold."

"Better still, Canada alone is responsible for ninety per cent of world production of nickel, and the importance of this metal in war manufactures will be realized."

"There is a last feature which is not the least significant. With Canada, it is America which begins to participate in the defence of civilization. Is it forbidden to think that today, as in 1914, it is but the opening of the chapter?"

etted on the reports from the western front, Germany's new relations with Russia engaged far more attention in official quarters. Officials said the welcomed news of the mobilization of Russian reservists, but even greater stress was placed on plans of military leaders for re-suming railway communications between the Reich and the Soviets.

Germany has counted on Russia to supply a considerable share of raw materials with which to carry on the war.

Operations on the Polish front, the Nazi News Agency reported, were inspected yesterday by Fuehrer Hitler who was said to have made an airplane flight over the entire area.

Dispatches said Hitler had moved his headquarters from the Corridor to the army group in Silesia which conducted the offensive against Czechoslovakia, Kielec and Radom.

The following communiqué was issued today by the German high command:

"A great battle in Poland is nearing its climax—namely the destruction of the Polish army west of the Vistula. In southern Poland, on the German side, the Polish army have been pushed back over the San river, and a crossing of the river had been forced in the Jaroslavl sector, in connection where with Radymno and Jaroslavl were captured and Polish troops encircled in various regions began to surrender."

"Efforts on the part of the surrounded divisions to break out were everywhere prevented. After heavy fighting over Polish fortifications along the Narew river, it became possible to form bridgeheads on the southern shore near Nowogrod and Wieszla. Polish artillery of every calibre opened fire from every position. The German army is now pushing back over the Reich's front line."

"The air force repeatedly attacked with success roads and railway lines eastward and southward from Warsaw, as well as in regions around Lwow, Lublin and Chelm. It also destroyed columns and troop transports in these regions. The Vistula railway station at Lwow was destroyed."

"In the west, the Saarbrücken airfield, which previously had been abandoned, was shot at by French artillery. Three French planes were brought down over Reich territory."

FATHER OF BRITISH PROPAGANDIST DIES

London, Sept. 11.—(P)—Admiral Sir George King-Hall, 89, died yesterday.

Sir George was the father of Commander Stephen King-Hall, who last summer dispatched large numbers of mimeographed letters to the German people, predicting the Reich's inevitable defeat at the event of war.

The Admiral entered the navy in 1883 at the age of thirteen. He was commissioner at Wei-Hai-Wei when that Chinese port was transferred to Great Britain in 1898. Later he was Chief of Staff to Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, and for three years prior to his retirement in 1914 was Commander-in-Chief of the Australia station.

Canadian Action Proves Solidarity Of Empire Against Nazi Aggression

Manchester, England, Sept. 11.—Canada's declaration of war was hailed today by the Manchester Guardian.

"Whatever hopes Germany's leaders may have had," said the Guardian, "that a renewal of the terrible ordeal of war would find the British dominions secure in their independence, apathetic about British cause, regardless in their efforts or even completely passive, are finally dispelled by Canada's declaration of war."

"Her House of Commons sat into the early hours of yesterday morning to approve the Address from the Throne on the war issue. The formal declaration of war on Germany followed later in the day."

"The debate gave representatives of all shades of Canadian opinion an opportunity to state their views on the part their country should play in this war. It was a fine example of democracy in action."

"It found all Canadian parties in agreement. Those who spoke for French Canada were as warm as any of their fellows in the determination that the Dominion should defend the ideals of freedom handed down to her."

There will be no conscription. The first step must be to perfect the defence of the Dominion and provide training for the rush of recruits that has overwhelmed the depots. It is significant that M. Lapointe (Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice) should report that applications for foreign service are pouring in."

Polish Government offices were striving to reorganize in scattered towns and villages near the Russian border. The Foreign Office was established in a schoolhouse, while diplomats were quartered in buildings in nearby villages.

GERMANS MASSING FOR MAJOR ATTACK

Budapest, Sept. 11.—(P)—German planes, tanks and big guns were reported massing for a drive on Lwow today in an effort to cut Poland's line of communications with Rumania, its sole avenue for supplies.

The rapid turn of events left the location of the Polish Government in doubt. One report here said headquarters had been moved to Kzemieniec, 250 miles southeast of Warsaw and almost on the border of Russia. Other reports said the Government had gone from Lublin to Lwow (Lemberg), and was moving eastward from there.

As Warsaw dug in for its fourth day of siege by a German force that launched more than forty air raids and countless tank attacks yesterday, the radio station of Lwow, 210 miles to the southeast and capital of the Polish Ukraine, instructed the city's defenders to dig trenches and erect street barricades.

There were indications the German drive already had started. Throughout the broadcast from Lwow, sirens could be heard sounding air raid alarms.

While general headquarters of the Polish army, in a broadcast from Lwow, insisted "Warsaw is ready for a long defence and stressed the action of the Franco-German front 'has now really started,' the Government broadcasting station at Warsaw also issued a warning of the impending attack on Lwow."

Early this morning, Polish Captain Valcav Pilinski, in a broadcast from the capital, said Polish anti-aircraft batteries had brought down the day fifteen German bombers over the city and its suburbs.

"After sunset," he said, "German tanks in droves attacked Warsaw from the suburbs, but were driven back. Two of them were destroyed, and their crews taken prisoners."

Lipinski said the German air raids and tank movements had been supported by a heavy artillery barrage that lasted from dawn to dusk. The combined assault had been going on nineteen hours when the Polish officer came on the air.

Hunger was beginning to hit the population, said a speaker identified as Mayor Starzynski of Warsaw.

Correspondents of several Hungarian newspapers reported today the Polish forces were taking up a new defence line, beginning at Bialystok, about seventy miles northeast of Warsaw; skimming in an arc down to the Vistula river just south of the Capital; following the river for 125 miles, and then swinging southeast toward Rumania.

The war correspondent of one of the Budapest papers pointed out the Poles were following the defence strategy of retreat and consolidation which won Poland its greatest successes in the past. He said Polish losses so far were not great, with few prisoners and little artillery and other equipment captured.

CHIEFS, BEARS STILL TIED IN INTERNATIONAL

Final Sudden-Death Struggle for Fourth and Last Playoff Position Set for Tonight—Schedule Ended Sunday.

Newark and Syracuse meet tonight in a final sudden-death struggle for fourth place in the International Baseball League standing, and not until that is over can the winner and three other clubs go about the play-offs for the Governors' Cup.

The regular season ended Sunday with Jersey City Gladiators on top, where they had been all but one day since June 25. It was Jersey City's first pennant since 1903, but since it was clinched last Thursday, there wasn't much noise made about the windup and only 5,295 fans turned out to see the Little Giants split their last doubleheader with Syracuse.

The final two to nothing after losing the opener five to three.

Newark Bears, 1937 and 1938 champions, couldn't get a couple of extra runs against sixth-place Baltimore to take the fourth and last playoff spot without an argument.

The Bears won the opener seven to six then lost three to two. As a result they tied for fourth with Syracuse and made tonight's playoff necessary.

The winner of this scrap will take on Jersey City in the first round of the playoffs while Rochester, which finished second, will meet third-place Buffalo. Besides taking the Governors' Cup, the ultimate play-off victor will get a $4,000 cash prize and will meet the American Association's play-off winner in the Little World Series. The runner-up in the play-offs will get $2,000.

Buffalo earned third place without an argument yesterday because of those two divided doubleheaders, although the Bisons took a twelve to two drubbing from Rochester.

Montreal Royals slipped past Toronto into seventh place at the finish of another race that didn't end until the last day. The Royals won their first game of a doubleheader five to four and then had to go eleven innings for a twelve to one decision in the second contest.

Declaration By Canadian Parliament Ends Dispute On Position Of Dominion

amendment, if carried, would have meant defeat of the Government.

Mr. Lacroix seconded the amendment but when, late Saturday evening, Speaker Casgrain put the question, first on the amendments, the "ayes" were drowned in a thunder of "noys."

Mr. Lacroix stood up to demand a recorded vote but none stood with him and the House regulations call for five members to support such a request.

Then, when the main motion on the Address was put to question there was a moment of drama as Mr. Woodsworth rose, looked about at his followers and others and observed that "some of us want to vote against the main motion." But not even one of his own followers stood with him.

Armed with this authority, the Prime Minister and his Cabinet colleagues went into session in the Government leader's office on the fourth floor of the Centre Block to prepare the proclamation. It was one of the rare occasions a Cabinet Council has been held elsewhere than in the historic Privy Council Chamber in the East Block.

In the Senate the debate was brief but grave. Mr. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, warned that if the democracies were defeated on the main issue in Europe Canada had little security. The battlefront would shift "from the banks of the Rhine to the banks of the St. Lawrence, the Mississippi and to the Indies."

There was more drama in the Commons, Justice Minister Lapointe, in the face of threats from Quebec groups that he was facing "political death" by his attitude, ridiculed the idea that Canada could remain neutral and yet be a part of the Empire.

Mr. Lapointe, who has been longer in Parliament than any other member, said that neutrality was practically and legally impossible in any form or degree.

But Mr. Lapointe, who said he was speaking for himself and his three Cabinet colleagues from Quebec, said their complete support of the Government in war effort would end if conscription for overseas service was proposed. The Prime Minister has already pledged his administration against conscription.

George Heon, young Conservative member from Argenteuil who has often expressed Nationalist views, declared he had no shame in abandoning them in this instance to support the Government's programme.

Three Social Credit members, Eric Poole, Red Deer; J. C. Lander, Calgary East, and Rene Pelletier, Peace River, supported the Address but declared Canada should go the limit with complete conscription of industry, finance and manpower, to ensure equality of sacrifice.

M. J. Coldwell, (C.C.F., Rosemont-Biggar), had the task of expressing the view of his group, since it could not follow its leader, Mr. Woodsworth, in opposition to war. He was against conscription and against sending an expeditionary force but wanted strict control of supplies and resources to guard against profiteering and stock manipulation.

History was repeated when Pensioners Minister Power introduced a bill to incorporate the Canadian Patriotic Fund to be used in assisting needy dependents of those who

STRIKE END ALLOWS FACTORY REOPENING

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 11.—Approximately 3,000 employees of the Bendix Products Corporation go back to work today after an eleven day strike, thus clearing the way for the resumption of work in several automobile factories in Michigan and Wisconsin. The strike had caused an estimated 15,000 men to be thrown out of work.

The strike ended last night when members of Local No. 9 United Automobile Workers, ratified an agreement with the company. The new contract provided vacations with pay and seniority rights.

QUARTETTE INJURED IN MONTREAL CRASH

Montreal, Sept. 11.—(P)—Four persons were injured last night, three critically, when their automobile crashed into a street car in the north end of the city. The injured were Gilbert Boivert, 33, Marcelle Berthiaume, 29, Alexina Bleau, 35, and Lucien Boivert, 30.

Lucien Boivert escaped with minor injuries, but his brother and the women suffered fractured skulls. Gilbert Boivert, believed to be the driver, also suffered a fractured leg.

serve in the armed forces.

The first Canadian Patriotic Fund was incorporated in 1900 for the South African War. It was revived in 1919 and collected some $48,000 in contributions. The fund was finally closed out in 1937. It is expected this bill will be given second reading today.

UNITED STATES BARS SHIPMENTS OF ARMS

Washington, Sept. 11.—(P)—Arms and airplane factories in the United States were closed as a source of supply for Canada today by a Presidential proclamation involving the arms embargo provision of the country's Neutrality Act, which President Roosevelt hopes will be repealed soon.

Within little more than an hour after Canada had declared a state of war with Germany yesterday, the State Department made public the proclamation banning shipments of arms, ammunition and implements of war to the Dominion.

A few hours later a high authority reported at Hyde Park, N.Y., where Mr. Roosevelt spent the week-end, that the President had decided to issue a call this week for a special session of Congress. The Government wants to limit legislation for the session to revision of the Neutrality Act and, primarily, to elimination of its provision that the President shall forbid arms exports to nations at war.

Critics of the embargo contend that it handicaps Great Britain, France and their Allies in their struggle with Germany. Some argue also that, if it is not repealed, arms and plane factories in Canada will be expanded, taking overseas business that otherwise might come to the United States and, when the war is over, turn to peace-time products in competition with plants in America.

Many persons on both sides agree that Britain and France would benefit chiefly from repeal, contending that, although American arms markets would be opened to all the belligerents, Britain would be able to prevent shipments from reaching Germany.

There is a possibility that Canada will continue placing orders in the United States, with delivery contingent upon the Neutrality Act being changed.

Quebec, Sept. 11.—(P)—International peace, says Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve, can be achieved eventually through revival of "Christian principles" and efforts for the "common good."

Addressing the annual convention of the National Federation of Catholic Workers yesterday, Cardinal Villeneuve told the 300 delegates that international peace is founded on national peace which, in turn, comes with social order. And for social order, he added, there must be Christian principles and movements for the common good.

The Cardinal, speaking at the first session, stressed the need for social organization which would "permit every individual to live." He said: "We need establishment of workers' salaries that will permit life and in that achievement it is not necessary to have revolution nor to ruin all other classes of society."

First item on today's programme is a Memorial Mass for dead members, to be celebrated by the Federation's Chaplain-General, Rev. Georges Cote, in the Chapel of Our Lady of Lourdes.

The delegates heard also yesterday from Hon. William Tremblay, Quebec's Labor Minister, who described Quebec's social legislation as the "most advanced" in Canada. "Labor and capital for years have been too far apart," he said, "but through professional organization industrial relations are becoming better."

Speaking at a night session, President Alfred Charpentier of Montreal said the Federation recognized its duty of "collaborating with the Canadian Government, particularly in the present hour, to avoid any paralysis of industry through a workers' conflict."

Establishment of a Labor Council for Quebec Province was urged by the President, who said it was needed to draft a "modern" labor code in the Province and to handle disputes.

Local Residents Glad To Be Home From War-Torn Europe

Mr. and Mrs. C. Guy Bishop Visited England, Holland, Belgium and France While Trouble Brewed—Found French and English Ready for Any Eventualities—Travelled in France on "Black Out" Train—Mr. Bishop's Voyage Home Nerve-Wracking.

By ALLAN BRYCE

Little did Mr. and Mrs. C. Guy Bishop, of this city, know what lay in store for them when they left this country for England and the continent aboard the Duchess of Bedford on July 28, or with what relief they would set foot on Canadian soil again after hurrying homeward to escape the clouds of war.

Interviewed yesterday at their home, 158 Quebec street, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop related to a Record representative happenings that seem a far cry from this peaceful Dominion of Canada yet which bring home to citizens of Sherbrooke, thousands of miles away from war-torn old Europe, the closeness of events which have shocked the civilized world and have caused peace-loving people to wonder just where this startling train of events will lead.

After landing in Liverpool, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop went to London, where Mr. Bishop, on a trade mission in behalf of the Provincial Government, spent two weeks interviewing business firms in the heart of the Empire. Particularly impressive to the Sherbrooke couple were Hyde Park, Regent Park and other public grounds throughout the city, and the stately old buildings which have stood for hundreds of years side by side with symbols of the new civilization.

While trouble brewed, while heads of governments conferred and while armies marched, activities in London were carried on quietly and steadily. Yet, while Londoners went their ways calmly, on every side were evidences that the city and the whole of England were preparing for something which would not catch them unawares. In London's parks were menacing anti-aircraft guns, under the street were air raid shelters and in the sky were immense balloons and nets designed to ensnare hostile planes in time of conflict.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop visited Mr. Bishop's niece, Mrs. R. W. Wheatley, and Dr. Wheatley, and enjoyed renewing friendship with Rev. Cecil King, formerly curate of St. Peter's Church here.

Journeying to Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop spent four days among the people of The Netherlands and were greatly impressed with the beauty and richness of the country. Residents of Holland were found to be very industrious, keeping their productive farm lands in excellent condition. It was noticed that taxes in Holland were unusually heavy.

After spending a day and a half in Brussels, Belgium, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop moved on to Paris. Here, in the capital of Great Britain's gallant ally, the ominous situation in Europe became all too clear. By this time the Russian-German non-aggression pact had been signed, and France was making feverish preparations for any eventuality that might arise. Canadian and American embassies were advising all citizens of their countries to secure transportation home as quickly as possible.

Reserves were being called to the colors and rushed to the Maginot Line, that mighty barrier stretching across the Western Front opposite Germany's Siegfried line, and with buses being requisitioned to trans-

LOCAL CONCERN EXPECTS LARGE KHAKI ORDERS

Officials of the Paton Manufacturing Company Make Preparation for Prospective Demands for Cloth.

Although no orders have as yet been received from the Federal Government, the officials of the Paton Manufacturing Company are anticipating a call for large supplies of khaki cloth. J. W. Booth, general manager, told a Record representative today.

Mr. Booth said that, with other companies, the Paton firm has submitted tenders at the demand of officials of the Department of National Defence and that word is expected from Ottawa within a very short time. In the meantime large quantities of wool have been ordered and will be delivered in Sherbrooke soon.

If the local textile company receives the orders for khaki it is expected production of cloth for civilian clothes will have to be curtailed, although not to any great extent. This will ultimately result in a higher retail price for men's garments, as other factories throughout the Dominion will follow suit.

Mr. Booth stated he expected the personnel of the Paton plant will have to be increased in number when, and if, manufacture of khaki starts. At present the factory is much busier than it was three months ago but there is still ample room for expansion of activities.

port soldiers to their stations, traffic was tied up and the streets jammed with pedestrians. Here, as in London, soldiers and citizens faced eventualities with a remarkably calm outlook. There was no flag-waving, but rather a fatalistic feeling of readiness and an attitude that if it came, Frenchmen would be ready.

Arranging transportation back to Canada for Mrs. Bishop, the couple travelled in a "black-out" train to Dieppe, and then crossed the channel to New Haven on a boat which, with a normal capacity of two hundred and fifty passengers, was packed with one thousand people. From London they continued to Liverpool, where, on Friday, August 25, Mrs. Bishop embarked on the Montrose for Canada, her husband remaining to attend to several final business matters.

The Montrose reached Scotland Saturday morning and left late in the day. On Tuesday, several hundred miles out at sea, the ship's officers received orders to return to the Old Country, and turning about, the Montrose travelled back toward Scotland for approximately eight hours. New orders were received, however, and the ship was again turned and its course pointed full-speed-ahead for Canada. Port holes were covered for two nights and life boat drills were held frequently.

Mr. Bishop left Southampton on the Empress of Britain Saturday, September 2nd, the day before Great Britain's ultimatum to Germany's power-mad Fuehrer and Chancellor expired and Prime Minister Chamberlain pronounced in the House of Commons the fateful words that plunged his country into war.

Throughout the nerve-wracking voyage the huge liner pursued a zig-zag course across the Atlantic, heading to left and right to throw off its trail any lurking German submarine. Portholes were blackened and passengers were ordered to carry their life belts at all times. Even when the liner entered the Gulf of St. Lawrence passengers were forbidden to discard the life belts.

The seven-day voyage ended when the Empress docked at Quebec on Friday, September 8. Among the passengers were Mrs. George Hume and granddaughter, Nancy, of Sherbrooke.

Needless to say, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are glad to be home.

Mr. Bishop praised the work of Canada's representatives with whom he came in contact, particularly H. English, Trade Commissioner for Canada, in London, Yves Lamontagne, attaché at Brussels, Mr. Langley, attaché at Rotterdam and Col. Barry, of the Canadian Embassy in Paris. He found their help invaluable in connection with his business dealings.

Mayor Outlines Interesting Points Of His Trip Covering 10,000 Miles

Marcus Armitage, who, with his brother, J. H. Armitage, of Montreal, covered a distance of ten thousand miles in thirty days, and gained a fleeting yet interesting insight into rural and urban life in Western Canada and the United States, said today it was a genuine pleasure for him to be back home in Sherbrooke.

Of his trip, which he will always remember as one of his most enjoyable experiences, Mayor Armitage mentioned the highlights to a Record reporter today.

Starting from Montreal on August 11, the Armitage brothers travelled via the Canadian Pacific Railway to Toronto, then journeyed through the Great Lakes to Fort William. At Saskatoon, their first stop on the Prairies, the travellers visited Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Niles, former Sherbrooke residents, and were escorted through the city by Mayor Niederisk, Saskatoon's buildings and parks were found beautiful, but the city was made beautiful by artificial means, Mayor Armitage said, and did not have the natural charm of Sherbrooke.

Mayor Armitage and his brother went on to Edmonton, then to Calgary and Medicine Hat, and in the latter city were guests of their sister, Mrs. H. C. Dixon, and Dr. Dixon. Dr. Dixon took them to his ranch at Maple Creek, where, on 24,000 acres of land, they discarded their dignity and rode bronchos. Expert riders gave them exhibitions of trick riding and herding and lassoing.

Mayor Armitage and his brother were amazed at the progress that has been made in irrigation in Alberta. To offset summer droughts, residents of the Prairie Province have built many artificial lakes where water drawn from rivers in the wet season is stored and then

12-FOOT FALL PROVED FATAL TO ASCOT MAN

Seventy-Two-Year-Old Joseph Biron Died Today from Injuries Received in Accident Friday Afternoon.

Joseph Biron, seventy-two-year-old Ascot resident, died in the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital early today from the injuries received Friday afternoon when he fell from the roof of a barn on which he was working.

No inquest into Biron's death was conducted but Coroner Maurice Deforme ruled the fatality an accident after obtaining the deposition of Lina Biron, daughter of the victim, who was the first to reach to her father's side after he had fallen.

Miss Biron declared that the aged man had been working on the barn most of the afternoon and was applying a coat of tar to the roof. First indication she had of anything wrong was when she heard the ladder which Biron had been standing, rushing out of the kitchen she saw her father stretched out on the ground. Miss Biron testified the victim fell about twelve feet.

Dr. J. A. C. Biron, of Sherbrooke, was called to the Biron home after a cursory examination ordered Biron transported to hospital. An X-ray showed that he had received a fractured skull. Biron remained in a state of semi-consciousness all day Saturday and yesterday and died at about four o'clock this morning.

Condition in the west are better in general than they have been for many years. Mayor Armitage said, and the wheat yield has been above average. Plentiful rain early in the summer raised hopes for an immense crop, and although dry weather in July and August made the yield lower than had been anticipated, it still was larger than in several seasons past.

In Banff, centre of Alberta's tourist paradise, Mayor Armitage found hotel owners and proprietors of stores united in the conviction that it was the best summer since 1929. Travellers were numerous and Banff and beautiful Lake Louise, which the brothers also visited, were benefiting from the improved conditions.

At Vancouver the travellers visited D. D. Munro, brother-in-law of J. H. Armitage, a retired manager of the Sun Life Assurance Company. At the Vancouver Exhibition, which drew 55,000 people the day the brothers visited it, they noted with great interest an exhibit of wheat that had been put on display by farmers of the Peace River district. With proceeds from a sale of miniature samples of wheat, the farmers planned to construct a much-needed road in the Peace River territory independent of Government assistance.

The trip was continued by boat to St. Paul and Victoria and on to Seattle, Wash., progressive city on Puget Sound. San Francisco was the next port of call, and three days were spent travelling over the city and visiting the famous San Francisco Fair, where the many modern exhibits and attractive amusements were found to be highly entertaining.

Mayor Armitage and his brother were in San Francisco when word was flashed to the world that Great Britain and France were at war with Germany. Newspapers rolled up extras and their delivery trucks that war had been declared written on their sides. Talking to the man in the street, the travellers found the average citizen of San Francisco to be one hundred per cent in sympathy with the democracies and even of the opinion that sooner or later the United States would be fighting side by side with the allies.

Stops were made at Salt Lake City and at Denver, Colorado, after which the pair hurried to Chicago on a streamlined train that averaged ninety miles per hour and negotiated the distance of 1,047 miles in a little more than fifteen hours.

A trained nurse was attached to the train to render any services necessary free of charge.

Crossing to Canadian soil again, the brothers went to Toronto, then on to Montreal, where they parted company, and Mayor Armitage continued to Sherbrooke.

LENNOXVILLE

Preaching to a large congregation at the Lennoxville United Church on Sunday morning, Rev. F. R. Matthews, the pastor, gave a fine sermon on the topic, "The Unshakable Kingdom." Gounod's lovely anthem, "Send Out Thy Light," was sung by the choir under the direction of the organist and choir director, Miss Jean Campbell. At the evening service, the subject of Rev. Mr. Matthews' sermon was "A Soul Set Free," and the choir was heard in the anthem, "The Twilight Shadows Fall," by Wood, sung a capella.

The regular Saturday afternoon teas at the Lennoxville Golf Club have ceased for the season, although activities there will still be enjoyed for some time yet. Saturday afternoon the bodies participated in an all-round putting and field hole competition, which was won by Mrs. Donald R. Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. T. McArthur Stewart, of Montreal, were guests of Mr. Stewart's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. L. Stewart, at their residence on Summer street Saturday.

Mr. Frank Jenne and his daughter, Miss Olive Jenne, of St. Albans, Vt., were visiting in Lennoxville on Saturday.

Formal War Declaration Does Not Affect Local Recruiting

Total of Sixty-Three Accepted into Ranks of 35th Battery, R.C.A.—Many French-Canadians Offer Services—Engineers' Unit at Thetford Mines Mobilizing and Seeking Recruits—Battery and Sherbrooke Regiment Await Further Orders.

Canada's formal declaration of war with the German Reich has made no change in the mobilization operations of local military units and recruiting is proceeding along the same lines as last week.

Another Eastern Townships unit, the 5th Army Troops Company, Royal Canadian Engineers, has been called to the colors and is now recruiting for active service. Men of engineering trades interested in enlisting in this branch of the service should communicate with the Thetford Mines Armory. The responses from men in the Thetford district has been very satisfactory and it is expected that the unit will be up to full strength on schedule.

A total of sixty-three men have passed their medical examinations satisfactorily and have been sworn into the ranks of the 35th Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery. About twenty-five per cent of this number are French-Canadians. Recruits are volunteering constantly, many of them coming from various centres in the Eastern Townships, and the mobilization of the unit for active service is proceeding smoothly.

In charge of Major H. D. Bayne and Captain R. L. Dubergier, medical boards meet daily to decide on the physical fitness of applicants.

Commanded by Major C. G. M. Grier, the 35th Battery is awaiting further orders before moving into barracks on the Exhibition Grounds, where a headquarters base has been established.

The Sherbrooke Regiment (M.G.) under the command of Lieut.-Col. Lee M. Watson, is also recruiting and has its headquarters at the Exhibition Grounds. The regiment, like the 35th Battery, is awaiting further orders before going into barracks.

its military programme, confining most communications to naval and aerial operations and civil defence.

The Information Ministry told the nation last night the Polish army had shown "no sign" of crumbling under German pressure in the east. Despite the massing of seventy German divisions against Poland by Goering's own statement, the announcement said, Poland's army "has carried out its withdrawal in an orderly manner and with a steadiness which must excite admiration."

It declared German troops had not succeeded in entering Warsaw, and added:

"It is too soon as yet to talk of what will happen to Warsaw during this early stage of the war. What is certain is that the Polish army is showing qualities which are evoking universal admiration."

The last week-end with unlimited gasoline—rationing starts next Saturday—brought out motorists in such numbers that roads and resorts were crowded.

Crowds thronged also into parks, movies and the Whipsnade zoo, where many of the London zoo's animals have been taken.

CANADA ENTERS THE STRUGGLE

The almost unanimous attitude of the Dominion Parliament in favoring the entry of this country into the fight to preserve democracy offers a sharp contrast to the somewhat evasive stand adopted by the Government on the issue of peace and war. This is especially so in the case of the remarks of the Prime Minister. Whether Mr. Mackenzie King has been misinformed by some of his advisers on the state of public opinion or whether he is really unable to make up his own mind on this important question is uncertain, but in any case he certainly failed to give the country any definite leadership.

From his remarks, the Prime Minister appears hopeful of keeping Canada in the war without taking any serious responsibilities. His demand for essentially home defence is partially understandable, but he appears to forget that one of the best means of defence is to attack, and in this respect, Canada would find it much easier to resist the totalitarian advance by active support of France and Great Britain than it would alone. His determination not to send an expeditionary force will not meet with the general approval of Canadians, as the rush for recruiting offices indicates.

The attitude of the people has not changed since 1914 and the Government would do well to take cognizance of this fact.

GERMANY'S PEACE HOPES

While the Germans are undoubtedly one of the greatest of modern nations in scientific progress, they are woefully weak in one important branch, that of human psychology, especially when it applies to other nations and peoples. This becomes readily apparent in the trial balloon which they have launched designed to ease the way for a quick conquest of Poland and the early restoration of peace, which proposals have been rejected in advance by British and French public opinion, which has become united in the belief that the war will end only with the overthrow of Hitler and the restoration of all Polish lands and rights.

Nazi leaders are basing their policy, and indeed their war strategy, on the belief that if they can overrun Poland they may conclude the conflict by inviting the Allies to accept that situation and promising once again that they will make no further acts of aggression. But in view of the German perjuries of the past few years, it is impossible to stay the immense momentum of the forces which are gathering by any offering of peace which leaves Hitler in power and Poland in chains.

Her unrestricted submarine war also misjudges foreign psychology, being based on the belief that the British Empire and France can be frightened into submission. But as the Admiralty is taking energetic steps to halt this ruthless warfare, the spirit of the people is becoming more and more determined against any compromise. Germany obviously planned her submarine campaign long before the war broke out, and the submarine commanders apparently have been ordered to sink merchantmen on sight without warning, but it is expected the campaign will decline rapidly as a full convoy system is introduced and the German submarines now on the high seas run out of supplies.

But in the meantime, the feeling of British citizens is strengthened rather than weakened by the badly misplayed tactics of the Nazis.

P. C. DUBOYCE

The death of Percy Clare Duboyce, B.A., LL.B., N.P., at his home in Richmond after a comparatively brief illness removes a man, born and brought up in the Eastern Townships, who was ever ready to work for the advancement of his native district, especially in the field of religion and education.

Born in Duboyce's Corner, of pioneer stock, Mr. Duboyce, like so many other now prominent sons of the Eastern Townships, engaged in the teaching profession before studying law, graduating in the latter line in 1902. He established himself as a notary at Cowansville, moving to Richmond in 1912, where he at once took an active part in the affairs of the community.

Outside of his profession, his greatest interest was in the Methodist and later United Churches, and he was considered one of the staunchest lay supporters of these organizations. But he also found time for other activities, playing a prominent part in the field of Protestant education in the Province of Quebec, while he also held various municipal offices and was a supporter of the Wales Home.

An enthusiast in anything he undertook, his support was deemed of inestimable value to any project, as he would leave no stone unturned to ensure the success of anything which he deemed worthy of assistance.

The Eastern Townships in general and Richmond especially has lost a valued friend.

RIGHT HABITS

By Grenville Kleiser.

The habit of inflexible integrity confers many personal advantages. It gives a sense of self-confidence and independence which makes one equal to every circumstance. Truth and duty have been watchwords of the world's greatest men, sustaining them through times of evil and good report.

When men know that your word is as good as your bond, and that nothing can swerve you from the chosen path of duty, you have one of the most valuable of personal assets.

The highest honors are paid to men of sterling principle.

Integrity is not merely honesty of action, but also honesty of intention. It is an innate quality of the mind and heart. It is one of the greatest elements in an eminently successful life.

Learn to relax, to let go, to do things quietly and confidently. Cultivate cool-headedness, prudence, deliberateness, and self-control. Stop abnormal haste and strain. View things in right perspective.

Self-appraisal. Put a proper estimate upon your work and interests, but do not overestimate their value and importance. Do everything with an inner sense of peace and poise.

If you have a fault in your character or method of working, which is retarding your best progress or holding you back from success, resolve at once to examine such fault, to face it fearlessly, and to take special means to eradicate it. Growth in character depends upon intelligent elimination and correction.

Find in others something good to praise. Look for the best, the bright, the beautiful all about you. Make your thoughts constructive and progressive.

Build well and strongly day by day, knowing that multiplied right thoughts yield inevitably right results. The habit of generous and appreciative praise of others will give you a mental uplift.

There is innate satisfaction in looking for the true and noble. Men who are known always to speak well of others are in great favor.

Strict adherence to the rule never to speak ill of anyone will save you from many bitter experiences and regrets. Your silent estimate of others profoundly affects their lives and yours. If you would make men praiseworthy, praise them.

There are times when it is best for you to keep still, and let the solution of your problem disclose itself.

Great achievement does not depend upon ceaseless activity. The time you give to quiet meditation, to play of the imagination, and to mental planning, may vitally contribute to subsequent accomplishment.

Work deliberately. It is highly beneficial to cultivate the habit of getting things done without haste, anxiety, or impulsiveness. The faculties of your mind best discharge their functions when you are in state of quiet confidence.

Experience should bring restraint and repose. When you have a sense of life's values, you will not indulge in hurry, anxiety, restlessness, or fear. The best results come from easy, confident, deliberate effort. The best work is done in poise. Efficiency brings ease, certainty, self-assurance.

Combined experience and efficiency will enable you to achieve results without waste of time or energy. In all departments of human activity, the man of matured judgment and self-control is likely to be master of the situation. The special reward of discipline and diligence is that they give an intelligent view of life's values, and show you how to get the best results without undue strain.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

From the Files of the Sherbrooke Record.

September 11th, 1909.

What is hoped to be an annual event is being staged at East Farnham, the citizens of that community sponsoring a flower and vegetable show.

The Sherbrooke Baseball team captured the Eastern Townships championship by taking Danville nineteen to nine. The Sherbrooke squad composed of Sousa, Larocque, Miller, Chartier, Povey, Lefebvre, Scully, Poole and May.

Dr. Carl Peters, famous German Central African explorer, in a current issue of the German newspaper, Der Tage, declares that a war between Great Britain and Germany is inevitable.

Mr. and Mrs. William Knowles and Miss Laura Knowles, of Pensacola, Florida, summer residents at North Hatley, staged a novel entertainment in the form of a southern barbecue.

A large number of men have been engaged by the wardens of the Anglican Church at Bedford to rebuild and renovate the structure and install new pews.

The Sherbrooke hotelmen and the civic administration are staging another of their perennial arguments on the matter of light rates, the innkeepers demanding that the old flat rate be restored.

The Venerable Archdeacon H. C. Balfour, D.C.L., has vacated the St. Francis district post to accept a similar position covering the Quebec City area.

Only One Way to Settle with Hitler

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

We trust the day will come some time when Heaven will bless the leaders of all nations with enough sense and humanity to settle differences by conference and negotiation. But the events of years have proved that there is only one time to settle with Germany in this way: when a despairing Germany begs for it.

Isn't it a fact that little else has been done for a quarter of a century except try in vain to appease that nation? Just debts have been whittled down repeatedly. Huge loans have been made to her to restore her economic vitality after she destroyed it in the war she forced on the world. She has been treated like a new-born infant, succored, fondled and nursed by the democracies, and this she has repaid by using every possible means, direct or otherwise, to prepare for destruction of the democracies. Democratic peoples have actually helped her speed propaganda absorbing her of responsibility for the Great War and lay the foundation for its continuance now.

We have wept with her over the alleged "injustices" of the Versailles Treaty, almost apologizing for getting in the way of the hordes of goose-stepping Huns who swept through little Belgium, murdering and destroying as they went. We became sickeningly maudlin sentimentalists over the wholesale murderers, forgetting the millions of fine youths they killed and maimed, the generation they destroyed, the thousands of millions in property losses, the misery of the world during the past quarter of a century, all because Germany does not settle by conference and negotiation.

Have we not yet discovered the utter folly of trying to appease a nation fed for generations with the dogma that it exists to enslave others?

We may well weep over the Versailles Treaty, not for what it did, but for what it neglected. Had it established a democratic protectorate over the German people and set out to train them to become good neighbors in a democratic world, not the protectorate of an impossible League of Nations, but say of Britain, France and the United States, Germany and the world would be happier today.

Of course what might have been is futile now when the drums are thumping, the sirens screaming and the goose-steppers are marching again. But have not history and experience shown that while Germany is controlled by a gang of international thugs, under whatever symbol, there is no peace? Can there be any hope of peace while they are at large?

Have we seen enough to prove that making concessions to Hitler and his crew is merely strengthening their position and postponing the inevitable? It is a terrible thought that humanity must sacrifice itself to wipe out the inhuman. But it begins to appear as though only the Almighty can find the alibi for striking the enemies of civilization from the earth before the damage goes further. We believe many people are asking, if the job has to be done by the armies of the democratic nations, whether there will be a better time than the present. God alone knows. Mankind can see far enough to realize that permanent peace is possible only when the aggressors make the plea.

PRESS COMMENTS

NO FRIEND OF DEMOCRACY

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

The fact that Russia has refused to join the Western European democracies in a peace front to halt aggression shows quite clearly that it is no friend of democracy. Canada should not miss the significance of the Russo-German non-aggression pact. This pact clearly reveals that Communism has nothing in common with democracy and would not lift its paw to save it.

When it was thought that efforts to have Russia join with Britain and France in a move to halt Hitler might prove to be successful, there was a disposition on the part of some Canadians to regard Communism as being more friendly to democracy than Fascism has proved itself to be. But events in Moscow have shown that these divergent ideologies are in the same boat. Neither has the slightest concern about preserving the independence of nations when it sets a challenge to realizing its own selfish ambitions. International justice and fair play mean absolutely nothing to either.

Canadians must realize now, if never before, that those Communists in Canada who get their inspiration from Moscow are not democrats at heart, no matter how loudly they may protest to the contrary. They are more concerned about having Communism prevail than they are in preserving democracy. With Stalin, the archpriest of Communism, having thrown in his lot with Hitler, the archfoe of democracy, Communists in this country should be made to feel more than ever before that they are regarded as potential enemies of democracy. And with Russia holding aloof from the battle to save democracy, they should be carefully watched, for should war develop and should occasion arise, they would not hesitate to strike a blow for Communism even if this meant dealing a blow at democracy.

It is quite possible that some patriotic Canadians may have been lured into Communist ranks. These, if they place Canada and democracy first, will be expected to cease to be Communists, now that Russia, the mainpring of Communism as we know it, has abruptly slammed the door in the face of those powers which enlisted its aid in halting aggression and the suppression of free people.

Perhaps, the age of miracles is not past, perhaps those who sit at the feet of Russia may be good Communists and good democrats, but until they can give unmistakable proof that they are they must be regarded with suspicion.

NEAR NUDITY ON THE STREETS OF CITIES

(Sarnia Canadian Observer)

"Take him away. His lack of clothes suits the weather, but that getup does not suit the court." This spoke Judge Wright in a Montreal court when a prisoner was brought in clad only in trousers. The accused was eighteen-year-old Paul Verville, and his shirt had been seized for evidence in a case of theft. It appears that the boy had lifted a pound of butter from a delivery wagon and had concealed it in the front of his shirt during a chase in which the driver of the wagon overtook him and recovered the goods. But some of the butter adhered to the shirt and the police seized the garment as evidence. Eventually a detective in the court loaned the accused a coat and thus attired, he was permitted to make his plea. He was remanded.

This incident is recounted as indicative of the battle which the courts are still putting up to ensure a certain degree of modesty in dress when practically all other institutions have surrendered to the modern trend among human beings, men and women, to discard clothing to the borders of indecency.

The movement toward informality in dress has been much accelerated since the Great War. During that conflict, the dinner jacket gained prestige as a substitute for full formal dress for men. But that was an insignificant gesture as compared with the swing in women's apparel toward short skirts. For a time the abbreviated skirt was a topic for widespread discussion, en-bodying considerable unfavorable criticism. In course of time, the modernistic garment was accepted as a matter of course, its dimensions being subject only to the dictates of its wearer.

At the bathing beaches, the costumes today are just about nudity. Even on the streets, especially among the youthful element, the trend is decide ly in the direction of physical exposure. There was a time when men would not think of appearing anywhere in public in shirt sleeves. Today, during the summer season, men of all classes have discarded coats. Workers in factories and elsewhere often discard their shirts.

It is said that this vogue of undress is an advance to health. Unquestionably, it is more conducive to comfort than were the old modes. There is danger, however, of carrying the idea beyond the bounds of common sense. In many parts of the continent are nudist colonies where men and women wear no clothing at all. That would seem to be carrying a fad to a senseless limit.

MORE RUMBLES FROM

MONGOLIA

(London Truth)

Clashes continue between the Russian and Japanese, however the former may disguise themselves as Outer Mongolians and the latter as soldiers of Manchoukuo. It would be wrong as yet to attribute great importance to what may, after all, be merely a series of local outbreaks, appropriate to the uncivilized neighborhood in which they occur. Bloodshed is no unusual thing in Mongolia, where the form of banditry or of an international incident. It is quite on the cards that the situation may calm down again as quickly as it has risen. Neither Moscow nor Tokyo has thought it necessary to make this affair a pretext for breaking off their always uneasy diplomatic relations. All the same, when one remembers the apparently trivial episodes from which the present war—or rather state of undeclared hostility—between Japan and China arose, it is impossible not to regard events in Mongolia with anxiety. Small beginnings such as these are quite capable of causing a conflagration in which the whole of Asia may go up in flames.

THE ESSENTIALS

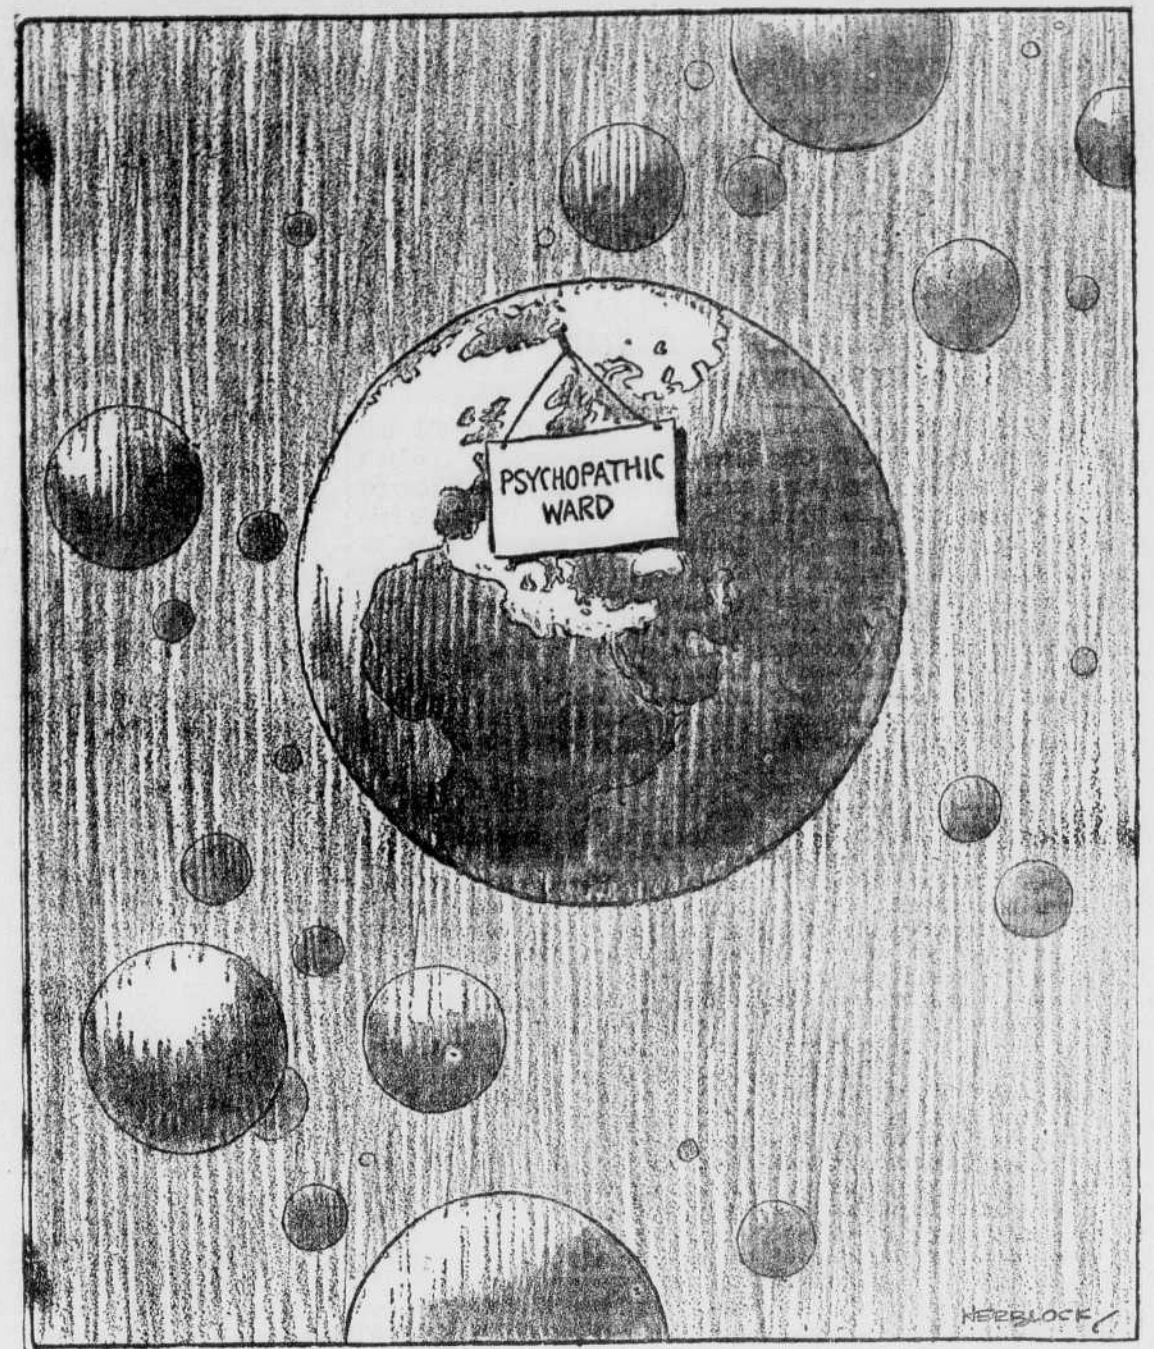

(Manchester Guardian)

The Peace Front is not yet all that it should be. The first essential was to bring in all the countries that are willing to stand with us against the aggression of the Dictatorship, if possible on a basis of mutual support. The second is to strengthen them as our resources permit with money and arms. The third is to concert with their military and other plans so that if, in spite of our efforts, the blow should fall, we shall all of us—not we or France, but all—be as ready with our arms as the Dictator. The fourth essential is to act quickly. It is of no use for Mr. Chamberlain to complain of people being impatient. Here impatience is a virtue. Speed wins a war, and speed may preserve peace. But how much is still to do!

ANOTHER RIVAL FOR WHEAT

(Trinidad Guardian)

Years ago, during the dark Great War days, flour manufactured from sundried bananas was produced fairly commonly in the West Indies; but for one reason or another it vanished as wheatear flour again began to flood our markets at reduced prices at the end of the struggle. Some people feel that the banana should again be taken seriously as a source of food, as well as an export item. Any attempt to make the West Indies as self-sufficient as possible might conceivably take into consideration the possibility of establishing factories for the manufacture of banana products, chief of which would be the production of flour. This would be invaluable in the event of war, but we need not wait for such an eventuality to study the banana and its uses. If living is to be made easier for the local population, the possibility of neglected which, even in a small degree, might help to ameliorate conditions or turn an extra penny for the small cultivator.

BY WM. E. MCKENNEY

PROPER TIMING WINS CONTRACTS; TECHNIQUE DIFFICULT TO MASTER

Difficult hands at bridge are not only those which have complicated squeezes or unusual end plays for their central theme. Actually most squeeze situations are easily recognizable after a study of the fundamentals which underlie them.

The one play perhaps hardest to recognize is that which involves what bridge writers call "timing," which is nothing more than a phrase to indicate the order in which tricks are taken. This hand taken from the recent championship Masters Pair Event at Asbury shows that even the Masters can go wrong.

When I saw the hand played, the diamond was opened, declarer played the 10 from dummy East won with the king and returned a diamond. A low trump was played from dummy, declarer winning with the nine. Declarer then played the ace of spades, followed with a low trump. East won and returned a trump which dummy won.

A low spade was led from dummy and East discarded a diamond. South won and then gave West a spade trick.

A club was returned, won with the ace, but South still had an unestablished spade and thus had to ruff a club and then ruff a losing spade with dummy's last trump. Now East held a trump and the declarer was in the wrong hand.

J. Horace Block, a New York broker, made the hand in the following manner. After winning the

He returned a club, and dummy won with the ace; North led a low trump which East won with the ace, leading back another club. Block ruffed it, picked up East's last trump, then the ace of spades was cashed and a low spade ruffed in dummy to establish the spade suit. Block lost only two trumps and one diamond.

In The Women's Sphere

Bustle Is Star, But Not Whole Style Show

Proving
"Formals"
For Fall
Don't Have To Have Bustles

Here are two new, and very smart, evening gowns from Paris that prove that the bustle isn't the only pebble on the fashion beach this season. The Majory Dunton basque gown at left also demonstrates the vogue for silks heavy enough to "stand alone." It is of black faille, with the modern touch provided by enormous "cabochon" fastenings bright as neon lights. She also created the tunic at right, of pale blue faille, with the corset effect carried out in black velvet ribbon studded with glittering paillette motifs. Notice the upstanding frill decolletage and black silk velvet undershirt.

Paris.—By this time, if you can read, see or hear, you'll be aware of the fact that the star of the current fall styles is the bustle.

One thing to keep in mind, though, is that the bustle is not the entire evening fashion story. As a matter of fact, it is more or less set aside for the very formal, rather severe gown which at the beginning of the century was known as a ball gown. It calls for stiff silks—the stand-alone kind—real jewels and, naturally, lots of dignity and poise.

These "bustles" you hear so much about are treated in a number of ways, more, however, going quite to the length of bulky draping over a wire cage, such as our grandmothers wore.

The new bustle is more or less streamlined and its expressions vary from the merest hint, achieved by pleats, or panels set in, tail-wise, at the back of a skirt, to enormous "puffs" in ribbon or self-fabric nestling just below the waistline or lower. In some cases, bustle effects are combined with skirts attached up at the back, or again a full godet continues the idea of back fullness contrasting often with a perfectly straight front.

More Than Bustle Needed For Fall

For formal evening wear, there are several other lines just as chic and stylish as the bustle. There is the full, hooped skirt which flares out from below the form-fitted (seamed) bodice; next comes the tiered skirt, i.e., rows of frills—anything from three to seven starting somewhere in the region of the knees and often carried in an upward movement to the back of the waistline.

For the little, slim silhouette, the perfect hobble skirt, with emphasis on the hip draperies, and deep slit center front or sides, is indicated. The tunic skirt, featuring anything from one to three tunic flounces—some more or less flared—is another newcomer, while the tied-in sheaf skirt, with all the fullness dragged back and secured somewhere at the back of the knees, is another style full of drama and allure.

Remember that bosom and hips are stressed. The waists are wispier than ever (they are now known as waltz waists) and that boned corsets, laced-up at the back, have made a definite bid for favor. This makes the matter of bodices one of the utmost importance. Mainbocher's sculptured folds over the bosom and just below the hips have set the fashion world agog, almost as much as his corseted "stem" torso. Lelong, on the other hand, while bowing to the dictates of the fitted bodice, works his sheer fabrics in novel, subtle crisscross folds that remind one of the mummified Egyptian beauties. These bodices are often completed by a full godet skirt, or else the fullness is straight and gathered all around the tiny waistline.

Striped fabrics were headlined during the recent fall showings. This evening gown by Jean Dessès shows back treatment to give the bustle effect without actually having one. It is of black taffeta with satin stripes in black, bright blue and white. The bustle effect at the back is continued in the very full godet train, contrasting with the straight front.

While skin-tight bodices are an accepted feature, décolletés vary a great deal. Ultra-formal gowns show either straight or back-sloping, or squared or heart-shaped décollet-

PRE-CHRISTMAS THOUGHT

It's never too early to do Christmas shopping—at least, some of it. A practical idea is to reserve one drawer in the storage chest for holiday remembrances that one sees and buys from time to time as "just the very thing Aunt Martha (or Uncle Tom) would like." Then Christmas comes leisurely, with time for enjoyment.

HERE'S VERY SUCCESSFUL "FORMULA FOR FAILURE"

When they meet a new person, some women follow a Failure Formula that never misses. In half an hour they can make themselves thoroughly disliked.

It's an easy formula to follow—and it always works. First, speak in a whining, dissatisfied or positive tone of voice.

Second, be determined to talk about yourself, your troubles or your triumphs.

Third, when the other person does get a chance to tell you about his vacation or his work, say something that makes him look anything but fortunate. Something on the order of "I'm afraid I can't envy you your cruise. I took one once and that was enough for me. I was never so bored in my life."

Fourth, act a little bored at whatever is going on. Especially if you are a stranger and people expect you to be impressed.

If You Are Still Around Fifth, criticize as many things as you can in as short a time as possible.

Sixth, when others are talking don't look or act interested in anything they have to say.

Seventh, say "I disagree with you" about something. It doesn't matter what.

Eighth, make positive generalities like, "Nobody could possibly like that show." Or "Anyone is silly who thinks so-and-so."

Ninth, if you have travelled more than the people with you, be sure to compare everything here with the way things are in other countries.

Tenth, before you leave be sure to let everyone know what a busy, important person you are—and how much you are in demand.

And that will be one group that will let you strictly alone.

Social and Personal

Mr. Byron Labonte, of Lennoxville, has left for Arundel, Que., where he has accepted a position as teacher.

Mr. Richard Hoyer, of Los Angeles, Calif., is spending a few days at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hoyer.

Mr. Henry J. Crochett, son of Mrs. C. A. Crochett, Bank street, left on Saturday night for Antigonish, N.S., to resume his studies at St. Francis Xavier University.

The engagement has been announced in London, Ontario, of Miss Margaret Alice Kidd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Kidd, of Wainford, Ontario, to Mr. Don Exley Johnston, of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Johnston, of Sherbrooke. The marriage to take place shortly.

Mrs. T. Flaherty and Mr. J. K. Flaherty, Magog street, accompanied by Mr. Dick Ryder, also of Sherbrooke, and by Mrs. E. A. Chadsey, of Bedford, motored to Riviere du Loup over the week-end to attend the christening of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Thomas Flaherty, which took place yesterday afternoon. The child received the names of Thomas Kenny.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Clarke, of Montreal West, announce the engagement of their younger daughter, Elizabeth, to Mr. Cairlan L. Gagnon, youngest son of Rev. and Mrs. G. H. Gagnon, of New Glasgow, Quebec; the wedding to take place quietly on Saturday, October 7th, at Saint Philip's Church, Montreal West. Following the marriage the couple will reside at Beebe, Quebec. Mr. Gagnon is a graduate of the University of Bishop's College, and was on the staff of the Sherbrooke High School for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley McKee were the guests of honor yesterday afternoon at an informal but altogether delightful reception arranged by a group of their friends in Trinity United Church on the occasion of the golden anniversary of their wedding day. The happy event was held at their home on Montreal street, about which were placed a profusion of lovely flowers, a gift from Mr. Charles B. Howard, M.P., and Mrs. Howard, from the gardens at Howardene. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. McKee, the latter carrying a lovely Colonial bouquet made and presented by Miss L. Ranschausen, were the Rev. Fred Williams, Mr. George C. Hale and Miss Minnie Postwell. The latter also ushered the guests to the dining room where tea was served. Mrs. W. E. Loomis, Mrs. F. Williams and Mrs. C. B. Howard, did the honors at the lace-covered table, which was lovely with golden helenium in a crystal bowl and lighted golden candles in matching crystal candlesticks. Assisting in the tea room were Mrs. S. McLean, Mrs. George C. Hall, Mrs. W. E. Hodge and Mrs. M. V. Long. Fitting tribute to the seldom attained anniversary was a golden wedding guest book, especially prepared by Mr. Walter Green, prefaced with a beautifully illuminated address by Mr. J. P. Keough, and also containing the signatures of many friends. This lovely book, expressive of the affectionate esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. McKee are held by their hosts of friends, was later presented to them as a permanent souvenir of the happy gathering given in honor of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. A strange but happy coincidence was revealed during the afternoon when it was announced that Mr. and Mrs. Wright B. LeBaron were celebrating their fifty-fifth anniversary yesterday, and that it was also Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Parker's wedding day.

son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hunter, of Toronto, (formerly of Sherbrooke). The ceremony was held in Deer Park United Church chapel.

Mrs. R. D. Gaffney and her little daughter, Roberta, are again in residence at their home on Wolfe street, after spending the summer at "Camp Sherbrooke," the country home of the former's mother, Mrs. G. T. Armstrong, at Newport, Vt.

Mrs. W. S. Webb has returned to her home on Frontenac street after spending the past three months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Carter, Island street. Her friends will be pleased to hear that Mrs. Webb's health has very much improved during the interim.

Plans for their annual Harvest Home supper were made by members of St. Paul's Guild, who met to organize for the coming season's work at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Oscar Berry, on King George street. At the close of the meeting afternoon tea was served by the hostess, assisted by several members of the Guild.

Mrs. W. E. Pettes and Mrs. Arthur Pice entertained at a surprise party at the former's home on King street west, in honor of Mrs. H. E. Tillbury, on the occasion of her birthday. Bridge was played at two tables, a lovely prize being presented by Mrs. Pettes for the highest score at each table, while the guest of honor was the recipient of a beautiful birthday gift from her friends. Later delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, the table being attractively done with pale yellow and pink flowers in a low crystal bowl and matching yellow candles in silver holders arranged on a yellow cloth. The menu included a birthday cake with lighted candles, its pretty decorations, which continued the same color scheme, being much admired. The hostesses were assisted in serving by Miss Pauline Curley, of Montreal, a cousin of Mrs. Pettes.

Miss F. I. Drummond, president, was in the chair, there being fourteen members and six visitors present.

The formation of a Red Cross unit to be known as the Belvidere unit, was a special feature of the largely attended session.

Miss F. I. Drummond was elected president and Miss D. Gibbs secretary-treasurer.

It was further decided to forward a donation of vegetables to the Sherbrooke Hospital Auxiliary.

Mrs. F. Tarte was named representative to the 1939 session of leadership classes.

Plans were completed for a chicken pie supper to be held on September 27.

The secretary read a letter of thanks and appreciation from Mrs. Farley, to whom flowers had been sent when she was indisposed.

After the meeting had adjourned a delicious salad tea was served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Fred McGee and Miss Margaret Gillis.

Frijoles, or beans, are served at the close of every meal in most upper-class Mexican homes. When dessert is served, beans are served afterward, dessert not being an essential part of the meals.

"Take this Pen and Defend Thyself!"

To protect those they love and even themselves from immediate physical danger, men often rise to the greatest heroism. Is it not strange that the possibility of future disaster should so often leave them undisturbed?

A family left without adequate support—an old age dependent on others—few men are so happily placed that they can disregard these possibilities. Protection against them is justified even at a sacrifice.

Yet the remedy is not even heroic—just a signature on an application for Life Insurance and thereafter a little sensible thrift.

If you have not made adequate provision for your family's and your own future, do not delay. A few strokes of the pen can accomplish so much—bringing the happiness of security to those you love—the certainty of a manly independence to you.

Take this pen and defend thyself!

SAINTS LEAD ATHLETICS BY SINGLE GAME

St. Hyacinthe Wins 7-3 To Slide Nearer Final

Jim Irving's Outfit Can Clinch Semi-Final Series by Victory in Quebec Tonight—Winner Will Oppose Three Rivers for Provincial Baseball League Championship—Pociask Homers for Saints—Quebec's Three Errors Costly.

St. Hyacinthe, Que., Sept. 11.—St. Hyacinthe Saints were off on the right foot today in their battle with Quebec Athletics for the right to meet Three Rivers in the playoff for the Provincial Baseball League title.

The Saints moved a game ahead last night by trouncing Quebec seven-three in the fourth game of their best-of-five semi-final series. The victory gave them a two-one edge in the series, which continues tonight at Quebec. The second game last week ended in a scoreless tie when darkness set in.

The winners will meet Three Rivers, who marched undefeated through their semi-final series with Granby.

Last night's clash saw Quebec open the scoring with a run in the first inning but after that they never were ahead. That counter came on a double by Flood and singles off the bats of Suss and Roland Gladu. McLaughlin's single, Mader's walk, Jones' single and Flood's grounder brought the visitors another run in the second.

But the Saints turned on the heat in their half of the contest, bringing in three runs on Pociask's homer and walk and two singles. The third frame produced another run when Jim Irving singled and took advantage of a wild pitch and Pociask's hit.

St. Hyacinthe pulled further ahead in the next inning with one run on a single by Sheldon, a sacrifice and another single by O'Flaherty. In the seventh, Quebec came up with a run when Lou Lepine singled and Gladu doubled.

Just to make the game safe, St. Hyacinthe produced two more counters in the eighth. The markers came on hits by Murphy and Walker and three errors.

Lou Lepine went the route for the Athletics while Swan was in the box throughout for the homesters. Hitting power was evenly divided, with ten for each side, but Quebec had three miscues to one for St. Hyacinthe.

The line score:

Quebec	110	000	100	—3	10
St. Hyacinthe	031	100	02x	—7	10

Conrad Gregoire Defeats Lionel Desève in Three Sets to Inaugurate City Tennis Tournament—Several Matches Postponed.

Rain competed with tennis here yesterday and the rain won. As a result, only one match was played to inaugurate the City Tournament, Conrad Gregoire defeating Lionel Desève in three sets, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1.

Majella Charest and Marcel Gagnon commenced to play, but the driving downpour chased them to shelter. The Gregoire-Desève encounter was fast and interesting and was featured by long rallies and placements. LOCAL TEAM CARDS EIGHTY-SEVEN

St. Lambert, Que., Sept. 11.—Andrew Morris and his seventeen-year-old son, Alex, of Montreal Beaconsfield Golf Club fired a gross seventy-eight Saturday on the Country Club course in this town across the St. Lawrence river from Montreal to win the Province of Quebec Golf Association's Father and Son Tournament.

The Morris combine, each taking the alternate shot, posted a forty-two going out and a thirty-six coming in to cop the title won last year by A. G. and Ted Fenwick of Montreal Summerlee.

H. A. Peabody and son, Sherman, of Sherbrooke, finished nine strokes behind the new champions with an eighty-seven.

AUSSIE DAVIS CUP STARS IN "ORNER" MOOD

Rumor Has It Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich, Placed in Same Half of Forest Hills Draw, Will Not Play Each Other.

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The word has gotten around, privately, that the two young Australian Davis Cup heroes, Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich, are in a humor to make a mess of the final stages of the United States tennis championships at Forest Hills.

The tournament committee placed the two top foreign stars in the same half of the draw, where one is bound to eliminate the other in the semi-finals, and the Aussies are feeling "ornery" about it. They have threatened not to play the match, but to toss for it and let the winner go on into the final—doubtless against Bobby Riggs of Chicago.

Today the tournament was due to complete the third round of men's play and the second round of women's competition. Half of each round was played here a skimpy crowd yesterday, with Jack Crawford of Australia the only seeded casualty. He fell before Joe Hunt of Annapolis, 6-1, 3-6, 4-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Rock netted the ball after thirty minutes of play, but Referee "Am" Wootton struck the point off, declaring the Three Rivers forward was offside on the play.

Five minutes later Three Rivers went into the lead and the point was well deserved. Play started on the right wing, the ball coming over to Rock. While he was being tackled by the Drummondville defence, Davidson came in from nowhere to smash the ball through Guilbault for the opening goal.

Three Rivers took command of the game from then on, and were always threatening to increase their lead. The finish of the Drummondville forward line was not so much in evidence as in former games they had played here, Ashton was being well held by the Three Rivers right half. Half-time arrived without any further scoring.

On resumption Drummondville went all-out for the equalizer—and began to carry play into the Three

Three Rivers Soccer Squad Snares P.Q.F.A. Trophy, Besting Celanese

In the best game of soccer to be played on the Parade Grounds in many a moon, Three Rivers Saturday afternoon handed Drummondville, champions of the Eastern Townships League, a two-one trimming and carried off the coveted Province of Quebec Football Association Trophy.

The spirited display of the Tri-fluvian eleven against the strong Celanese outfit made for fast and even soccer and provided a good number of fans with bang-up entertainment.

The first forty-five minutes were closely contested and play was a ways exciting. The Three Rivers forward line took up the attack from the start, and fine play by Davidson and Rock early on caught the eye.

Rock, of Three Rivers, was outstanding during this spell and his clever play and passes were always evident. The Three Rivers defence-men were outstanding with Rock, Davidson and the result that play was pretty much in Drummondville's half of the field.

Rock netted the ball after thirty minutes of play, but Referee "Am" Wootton struck the point off, declaring the Three Rivers forward was offside on the play.

BENEDICT IS BUSY LINING UP RECRUITS FOR SHERBROOKE

A letter has been received from Clint Benedict by Michael Stenson, president of the Sherbrooke Hockey Club, asking for contracts to be sent to Ottawa and informing him that five or six players are practically on the line and ready for delivery to the Red Raiders.

According to Benedict, the lads he has under his wing are young, ranging in age from twenty to twenty-three, but have had senior hockey experience with the exception of one promising junior.

Since the players Benedict wants are being eyed favorably by several other senior clubs, he points out that there are several thorns in his path which he feels will be ironed out. Everything should be under control within ten days, he writes.

Nothing less than dynamite could pry from Mr. Stenson the names of the performers who will head this way with Benny, because the Red Raider president is far from desirous of starting a general scramble for the players Sherbrooke wants.

LENNOXVILLE DUO CAPTURES MIXED TITLE

Miss Carolyn Taylor and Harry G. W. Fowles Post Gross of 84 to Edge Out Defending Champs, Mr. and Mrs. Bart Holtham, by One Stroke.

Final tourney sponsored by the Eastern Townships Golf Association, the E.T. Mixed, was run off at the Country Club yesterday in weather conditions that were far from pleasing.

Nineteen combinations took part, Miss Carolyn Taylor and Harry G. W. Fowles, of Lennoxville, winning the championship with a combined gross of eight-four, beating out Mr. and Mrs. Bart Holtham, of Sherbrooke, who held the title for two years in succession, by one solitary stroke.

The teams finished the match in a torrential downpour and four combinations picked up rather than swim around the remaining holes.

Mrs. Ingalls and William Lickfold, of Cowansville, romped away with net honors, posting a seventy-seven, while three teams tied for second net, Miss Marguerite Robins and Norm Welsh, of Sherbrooke, winning a toss from Mrs. J. G. Harley and Bruce Harley, of Windsor Mills, and Miss Smith and A. Michaud, of Richmond. Consolation award went to Miss K. Lockwood and E. E. Lockwood, of Danville.

Pennant Panic Grips National Loop Again

Cincinnati Reds Barely Hang onto Lead, Three Games in Front of St. Louis Cardinals—Phillies Only Club Positively Out of Playoff Picture—Yankees Threatened Only by Red Sox, Who Probably Will Be Eliminated this Week.

Three weeks before major league baseball is ended for 1939, pennant panic has gripped the National League again.

Cincinnati Reds are barely hanging onto their lead, three games in front of St. Louis Cardinals. A lot of people are wondering what difference it makes which team totters into the World Series opposite New York Yankees, who now are seven-and-a-half games in front of their closest pursuers.

At a glance, the pennant races simmer to this:

National League	W.	L.	G.B.L.	T.P.
Cincinnati	78	50	28	26
St. Louis	76	54	3	24
Chicago	72	62	9	20
Brooklyn	69	60	9 1/2	25

American League	W.	L.	G.B.L.	T.P.
New York	96	38	20	20
Boston	78	55	17 1/2	21
Chicago	76	58	20	20

All the clubs below third place in the junior circuit already have been eliminated mathematically. The White Sox are "dormie," needing to win all and the Yanks to lose all for a tie. This leaves the chase up to the Red Sox, who probably will be eliminated this week.

In contrast, the only club positively out of the National League is Philadelphia.

The Cardinals have crept closer by winning eight, losing three and tying one. The Cubs seem to have given up the ghost, losing seven of eleven, but the Dodgers have popped into the picture by winning nine of thirteen—the last six victories in a row.

The Reds beat the Cubs, seven to two yesterday. But even so, St. Louis sidled a half step closer by sweeping a doubleheader from Pittsburgh Pirates, nine to three and eleven to four and the Dodgers moved within a half game of third place on an eight to four victory over New York Giants.

The Phillies were raised out of Boston.

New York Yankees ran their latest winning streak to eight games by beating Washington Senators, four to three, and six to two.

The Red Sox broke a six-game losing string with ten to seven and five to one triumphs over Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland divided a doubleheader with St. Louis Browns, winning the first fifteen to five and dropping the second five to four.
